J. A. McIntosh. 5 00
Nov 13 Bishop Blakeslee. 65 00

1887.
Feb 25 The poor. 13 43
Feb 28 Bishop Blakeslee. 255 02
$500 96

1887.
Mar 1 Balance due church $ 20 00

DES MOINES DISTRICT.
J. S. Roth, Agent.

1886. Receipts.
Mar. 1 Balance due church $ 33 38
Mary C. Hart. 2 10
S. E. Laughlin, t. 6 00
Mar 12 John Walters. 1 00
Sophia Shimel. 5 00
P. H. Shimel. 2 00
M. A. Lyke. 50
H. Lyke. 1 00
M. Davis. 1 00
J. X. Davis. 1 00
Elizabeth Ainley. 1 00
J. Coiner. 25
J. Sayers, t. 2 50
J. C. Reams. 2 50
A. Nirk. 50
N. A. Baker, t. 1 00
Mar 16 Hidy Brothers. 3 10
M. Hughes. 1 00
T. Hull. 1 00
J. P. Knox, t. 3 50
Ellen Clash. 25
Apr 20 J. D. Chopper. 5 00
May 22 Hidy Brothers. 1 65
May 28 Des Moines Branch. 6 00
Jun 1 P. Parks, t. 2 00
A. sister. 2 00
S. R. Barg, t. 5 00
Aug 31 J. X. Davis. 7 00
Mary Davis. 2 00
Aug 27 T. W. Thomas, t. 24 00
Nov 17 P. Parks, t. 3 00
J. C. Reams. 10 00
R. Jemison. 25
Nov 20 P. Parks, t. 2 00
Sep 10 John Sayers, t. 10 00
J. T. Roberts, t. 4 35
W. C. Nirk. 12 00
P. H. Shimel, t. 13 50
C. E. Hand, t. 2 00
C. W. Reed. 5 00
H. Lyke. 3 00
J. Walters. 4 00
H. C. McCleoy. 1 00
Sep 14 S. E. Bouton. 50
F. A. Brown. 1 00
Sep 20 F. Walters. 2 50
I. Walters. 2 50
Dec 1 C. Laughlin, t. 5 00
Dec 4 J. P. Knox, t. 3 00
Mary Davis. 1 00
J. Sayers, t. 5 00
C. E. Hand, t. 20 00
J. C. Reams. 10 00
E. Ainley. 1 00
C. Shimel. 1 00
P. H. Shimel. 4 50
W. N. Ray. 1 00
G. Emsley. 5 00
Emma Young. 5 00
W. Thomson. 50
J. Coiner, t. 50
A. Freel. 5 00
Wm. Parks. 1 00
D. W. Thomas, t. 12 00

1887.
Jan 25 S. E. Laughlin. 4 00
Jan 25 J. S. Roth, A. White's note for $380 at eight per cent. as tithing, due Jan. 25th, 1888. 383 20
$668 53

1886. Expenditures.

Mar 16 R. Etzenhouser. 18 10
Bishop Blakeslee. 50 10
May 28 W. T. Bozarth. 7 65
Jun 23 " 16 25
July 9 " 3 00
Sep 15 " 20 00
Sep 17 Bishop Blakeslee. 40 10
Oct 15 W. T. Bozarth. 1 25
Dec 10 Bishop Blakeslee. 100 10

1887.
Mar 3 G. A. Blakeslee, Bishop, Alfred White's note for $380 at eight per cent. as tithing for J. S. Roth. 383 20
$639 75

1887.
Mar 1 Balance due church. $ 28 78

SOUTHERN NEBRASKA DISTRICT.
J. W. Waldsmith, Agent.

1886. Receipts.

Mar 1 Balance due church. $ 15 36
Reported by R. M. Elvin.
Free-will Offering.

Feb 24 H. Thornton. 1 00
Feb 27 Carrie Malcom. 50
Mar 1 J. Young. 50
M. N. A. Fields. 50
Mar 2 H. Fields, Sr. 20
William Fields. 25
Mar 3 Sarah C. Young. 50
Mar 9 Robert White. 2 00
Wilber Savage. 1 00
Mar 10 Sarah I. White. 50
Mar 11 G. W. Fike. 70
Mar 14 W. L. Broilrier. 1 00
Mar 15 T. L. Rider. 1 00
M. Anthony. 25
Wilber Savage. 25
G. S. Anthony. 10
Levi I. " 10
E. R. Hillman. 2 00
J. F. Anthony. 05
Mar 22 Adaline Graf. 50
A. E. Filton. 5 00
Mar 29 S. A. Rogers. 1 00
Emihy C. Hillman. 1 00

Free-will Offering.

Mar 26 Emma Woolsey. 1 00
Jun 9 C. Myer. 10 00
Jun 23 Ruby C. Elvin. 50
Mary A. Elvin. 50
Vida E. Elvin. 50
Reported by R. M. Elvin.
Carrie Malcom, o. 25
May 9 " 25
May 7 J. Young, o. 15

Free-will Offering.

July 5 C. Blakesley. 25
July 6 J. Young. 1 00
Alex. Young. 25
Hattie " 05
Walter Self. 40
Jul 13 B. W. Dempster. 85
Apr 2 Robert White. 1 00
William Broilrier. 2 00
May 12 " 5 00
Jul 10 A. Woods. 1 00
Jul 17 N. E. Porter. 50
Jul 19 James Ferguson. 50
E. R. Hillman. 1 50
S. C. Grass. 1 00
Aug 23 A. J. Blakesley. 25
Aug 23 A. Campbell. 2 50
Sep 14 A. Klaus. 2 00

Reported by R. M. Elvin.

Free-will Offering.

Jul 10 M. Tucker. 05
Jul 19 E. A. Klaus. 1 00
F. O. Hillman. 1 00
Carrie Malcom. 25
M. Tucker. 25
Jul 20 M. N. A. Fields. 10
H. Fields, Jun. 35
Aug 19 W. Savage. 1 00
Aug 21 Levi I. Anthony. 10
Mariba. 25
Sep 5 D. Broilrier. 1 00
Sarah I. White. 50
Robert. 2 00
Sep 6 W. H. Broilrier. 50
Charles H. Potter. 50
Sep 23 W. H. Frost. 2 00
Sep 25 Robert White. 1 00
Sep 27 Samuel Broilrier. 50
Levi Anthony. 1 00
Sep 29 C. Savage. 1 00

Oct 5 Plattsmouth Branch by Philo E. Knapp. 1 00
Oct 11 Alice Strickland. 75
Mary Bowen. 1 00
Rachel. 25
F. M. Baker. 1 00
A. G. Young. 1 00
D. Broilrier. 1 50
Wilber Savage. 1 00
Isaac Young. 50
Blue River Branch by Robert White. 1 90
Nov 3 Sister I. Moselle. 50
Nov 4 Agnes Campbell. 1 50
Nov 15 Niels Nielson. 1 00
Dec 20 " 10 00

1887.
Jan 8 A. Woods reported by Charles H. Porter. 50
Jan 18 Agnes Campbell. 2 50

Reported by R. M. Elvin.

Free-will Offering.

1886.
Oct 6 Adaline Graf. 2 25
R. S. Coats. 1 00
J. E. Hopper. 10 00
John Young. 1 00
Oct 12 W. H. Broilrier. 1 00
Wilber Savage. 50
Oct 14 J. Everett, Sr., (pig). 2 00
Oct 31 Hetta Knap. 1 00
Wm. B. Smith. 40

Nov 1 James Cazier. 50
Elizabeth Cazier. 25
Nov 11 J. Everett, Sr. 50
Nov 21 A. G. Young. 45
Nov 28 Wilber Savage. 1 00
T. L. Rider. 1 00
Nov 29 D. Broilrier. 50
Sarah Broilrier. 50
Mr. B. Millard. 50
Dec 17 Mr. B. Millard. 50
Dec 20 J. E. Hopper (dry goods). 36 20
Dec 22 Levi Anthony. 1 00
Dec 23 Orpha I. Barkdoll. 50
D. Broilrier. 50

1887.
Jan 4 S. Campbell, Jr. 2 00
Jan 12 J. Ervin. 1 00
O. Ervin. 40
M. Ervin. 1 00
Ruth Kleranger. 50
Feb 14 Sr. A. Campbell. 1 00

Jan 1 A. Woods reported by C. H. Porter. 50
Jan 18 Sr. A. Campbell. 2 50

1886. Tithing.

Mar 24 A. J. Blakesley, t. 1 00
Apr 22 R. M. & E. A. Elvin. 7 60
May 11 " 18 00
Jun 5 A. J. Blakesley. 1 00
Jun 10 William Fields. 11 50
Jun 24 Eliza Slocum. 3 00
Jun 28 Niels Nielson. 5 00
Jul 5 A. J. Blakesley. 1 00
Jul 6 J. Young. 1 00
W. Self. 80
A. Young. 25
H. Young. 05
Jul 13 B. W. Dempster. 3 60
Jul 15 G. Thompson. 10 00
Jul 19 S. C. Young. 1 00
Jul 31 A. J. Blakesley. 2 00
Aug 23 Eliza Slocum. 3 00
Aug 31 A. J. Blakesley. 4 00
Sep 6 J. P. and Mary Clawson (beginning). 113 20
Sep 15 J. W. Waldsmith. 25 00
Sep 16 J. W. Waldsmith. 76 18
Sep 30 G. A. Falden. 2 40
Oct 6 Niels Nielson, t. 5 00
Oct 7 George Clark. 5 00
Oct 11 Levi Anthony. 1 00
Thankful. 10 00
Oct 14 Wm. Broilrier. 10 00
Oct 25 Joseph Dubieze. 20 50
Nov 2 Janet Black. 2 00
Nov 6 A. J. Blakesley. 1 50
Nov 24 Manerva Self. 1 10
Dec 9 A. J. Blakesley. 2 00
Dec 20 Niels Nielson. 1 00
Dec 30 A. J. Blakesley. 1 00

1887.
Jan 1 Thankful (reported by C. H. Porter. 5 00
Feb 21 J. M. Stubbar. 25 00
Feb 25 George Clark. 10 00

$573 64

1886 Expenditures.

Mar 29 R. M. Elvin. 19 80
Jun 8 J. B. Gouldsmith. 5 00
Jun 30 R. M. Elvin. 65
Jul 19 " 2 00
Levi Anthony. 3 00
Sep 8 James Caffall. 3 00
Sep 29 R. M. Elvin. 14 35
Oct 5 R. C. Elvin. 5 00
Oct 11 J. W. Waldsmith. 1 00
J. B. Gouldsmith. 5 40
James Caffall. 5 00
Oct 15 Postage. 1 00
Stationery. 1 50
Oct 25 James Caffall. 3 00
Dec 23 R. M. Elvin. 62 85

1887.
Jan 11 Levi Anthony. 3 00
James Caffall. 5 00
Feb 14 R. M. Elvin. 5 90

1886.
Mar 27 M. H. Forscutt, as due note. 25 00
May 1 do do 25 00
Sep 15 R. M. Elvin. 10 00
Sr. R. J. Anthony. 50 00
Sep 16 R. M. Elvin. 76 18
Sep 20 do 13 82
Nov 12 do 50 00
Dec 13 R. C. Elvin. 50 00
Feb 1 R. M. Elvin. 10 00
Feb 4 D. Matthews family (poor). 4 00
Feb 14 R. M. Elvin. 74 15
Feb 25 do 35 31

$569 91

1887.
Mar 1 Balance due church $ 3 73

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA DISTRICT.
James R. Badham, Agent.

1886. Receipts.

Mar 1 Balance due church $128 85
Mar 14 Esther Rhorer, t. 1 00
Feb 17 M. A. Ames, t. 1 00
Nov 7 E. J. Davidson, t. 15 00
Oct 5 " 15 00

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Table with columns for date, name, and amount. Includes entries for Mar 18 M. E. Page, Mar 19 to Oct 17 F. M. Burton, May 1 N. J. Wison, etc.

Table with columns for date, name, and amount. Includes entries for Mar H. L. Holt, Mar 1 Balance due church, LONDON, ONTARIO DISTRICT, etc.

Table with columns for date, name, and amount. Includes entries for NORTHERN CALIFORNIA DISTRICT, Sr. T. J. Andrews, Agent, 1887. Receipts, etc.

Table with columns for date, name, and amount. Includes entries for NORTHERN ILLINOIS DISTRICT, Thomas Hougas, Agent, 1886. Receipts, etc.

Table with columns for date, name, and amount. Includes entries for Jan 25 L. S. Staley, Feb 7 D. W. Davis, WYOMING VALLEY DISTRICT, etc.

Mar 1 H. Hansen, o. 10 00
J. Carlisle, t. 50 00
L. Fredrickson, o. 1 50
A. Wood, o. 10 00
C. Bradford, t. 25 00
J. P. Carille, t. 50 00
J. " " 1 00
A. T. Williams, o. 5 00
M. N. Christensen, o 3 00
H. N. Hansen, t. 15 25
Mary Pettington, t. 7 50
S. L. Caffall, t. 5 00
R. McKenzie, t. 101 00
Wm. Duell, o. 5 00
Julia E. Hansen, t. 10 00
H. Jones, t. 3 00
A. Anderson, o. 5 00
Peter Wind, o. 15 00
Isaac N. Gore, t. 25 00
Christena Ryan, o. 2 00
D. K. Dodson, t. 5 00
Andrew Hall, t. 3 00

$508 87

1886. Expenditures.
Poor. 5 00
Jun 11 Sr. Jane Caffall. 20 00
Jul 17 " 25 00
Aug 30 " 25 00
Sep 18 " 18 00
Oct 30 " 25 00
Dec 20 " 25 00
1887.
Feb 7 " 40 00
1886.
Aug 30 Bishop Blakeslee. 50 00
Oct 1 Joseph Smith for G. A. Blakeslee. 150 00
Nov 26 Bishop Blakeslee. 50 00
1887.
Feb 28 " 50 00

$483 00

Mar 1 Balance due church $ 25 87

PHILADELPHIA DISTRICT.

A. Cameron, Agent.
1886 Received.
Mar 1 Balance due church $ 2 23
W. H. Harrison. 3 01
Jacob Peters. 1 00
J. Squire. 25 00
M. O. Matthews. 1 50
J. L. " 1 75
E. P. " 40 00
J. P. Fowler. 3 75
J. E. Strawbridge. 1 00
Mary W. Matthews. 1 50
Mary A. Mason. 10 00
Brooklyn Branch. 2 00
Harriet Royal. 5 00
William Street. 1 00
George Baty. 10 25
Joseph Squire, Jr. 50
A. Box. 10
John Potts. 10
James Potts. 60
Alice Potts. 25
Sarah McKenna. 2 00
Edward Potts. 50
J. H. White. 10

$ 73 58

Expenditures.
Wm. H. Kelley. 10 00
Warren E. Peak. 26 00
1887. $ 36 00

Mar 1 Balance due church $ 37 53

CENTRAL MISSOURI DISTRICT.

E. W. Cato, Agent.
1886. Receipts.
Mar 1 Balance due church. $ 9 25
July 3 M. A. Trotter. 50
J. W. Johnson. 50

$ 10 25

1886. Expenditures.
Aug 3 Eliza J. Lloyd. 5 00
1887.
Mar 1 Balance due church $ 5 25

NOVA SCOTIA DISTRICT.

J. W. Dimock, Agent.
1886. Receipts.
Mar 1 Balance due church $ 25 00
Jun 18 John W. Layton, t. 12 50
J. W. Dimock, t. 1 00
Due church. 38 50

STRING PRAIRIE AND NAVOO DISTRICT.

J. H. Lambert, Agent.
1886. Receipts.
Mar 1 Balance due church $ 6 49

Mar 8 Keokuk Branch by B.
F. Durfee. 3 50
Collection Quarterly Conference. 6 90
Montrose Branch by R. H. Turner. 1 80
Burlington Branch.
F. Johnson. 7 00
D. Kestner. 5 00
W. R. Sellon. 1 50
A. S. " 1 50
Farmington Branch.
Jun 1 S. Warnock, t. 2 60
Sarah Pendleton, t. 3 45
J. McKiernan. 1 00
J. McKiernan, Sen. 50
Wm. Warnock. 25
Mary " 25

Jun 8 H. T. Pitt, Adrian. 1 00
Burlington.
F. Johnson. 4 00
H. Kestner. 3 50
D. " 1 00
W. R. Sellon. 1 75
Alma S. Sellon. 1 75

Montrose Branch by R. H. Turner. 1 10
Jun 14 J. Herbert, Sonora. 1 25

Montrose.
Sep 3 M. Omen. 25
R. A. Turner, t. 50
N. Campbell. 25
A. Campbell. 25
S. Thornton, t. 10 00
Sep 4 Sisters Sewing Association, Keokuk. 10 00
Sep 5 Collection at Conference. 3 74
G. P. Lambert. 1 00
H. T. Pitt, Adrian. 1 15
J. H. Lambert, Adrian. 1 15
R. " 1 15
C. Patteu, Bonapart. 3 50
Oct 17 A. Wallace, Elvaston. 1 00
Dec 5 G. P. Lambert, t. 23 85
S. Thornton by R. H. Turner, t. 10 00
Conference collection. 2 50

1887.
Jan 8 J. Herbert, Sonora. 1 00

$128 88

1886 Expenditures.
Mar 8 W. T. Bozarth. 1 00
Telephone by H. C. Bronson. 40
H. C. Bronson. 12 00
Jun 8 Blank for District. 50
Jun 14 J. W. Gillen. 7 08
Jul 15 Balance on Park Bluff's Expenses. 10 15
Aug 27 J. Bowden, Keokuk. 4 00
Sep 6 A. H. Smith. 5 00
J. McKiernan. 2 50
Bishop Blakeslee. 20 00
Sep 25 J. McKiernan. 3 90
Nov 29 " 5 00
Dec 5 J. W. Gillen. 10 00
Feb 25 G. A. Blakeslee. 20 00

1887. $116 45

Mar 1 Balance due church $ 11 93

NORTHERN MICHIGAN DISTRICT.

J. J. Bailey, Agent.
1886. Receipts.
Mar 1 Balance due church. $ 13 13
John Most. 77
S. Geister. 73
G. Smith. 1 66
I. Vanduser. 62
I. Smith. 15
L. Mitchell. 04
Hugh Havey. 36
J. A. Carpenter. 40
C. Watson. 35
J. J. Bailey. 59
C. Watson. 18
S. Bailey. 80
W. Martindale. 25
Thomas Cheeney. 1 26
J. McGeady. 05
M. Most. 10
A. P. Dewolf. 80
A. Carpenter. 23
Joseph Sharrow. 78
Abram Gelster. 15
C. E. Pearson. 85
J. " 1 30
E. Martindale. 50
John Shell. 25
Arthur Watson. 15
Charles Most. 01
C. Kennedy. 04
D. Martindale. 15
Ada Bailey. 20
M. Shell. 25
Estella Shell. 09
Martha Yager. 10
Delia Lavall. 05
A. Dewolf. 10
C. I. Wilson. 1 08
A. Most. 05

Mur. 1 Hattie Most. 10
John Kake. 25
Samuel Voshell, t. 50 00
T. O'Brien. 1 00
William Davis. 1 25
A. O'Brien. 50
H. Kile. 1 25
Eliza A. Davis. 1 50
Eliza Stroud. 25
D. W. Kile. 25
Robert Shier. 4 00
Hugh Armstrong. 25
H. McCay. 10
Sarah Strathen. 25
M. J. Flynn. 1 00
E. Flynn. 1 00
Vassar Branch. 10 00
Oscar H. Frescott, t. 10 00
Thomas Rawson. 50
Neal C. Whitney. 25
Joseph Barrs. 1 00
E. Ledsworth. 50
A. " 25
R. Leighton. 5 00
Wm. Stocks. 1 00
Jane McCary. 05
Eliza Hansen. 10
Aaron Britnell. 25
M. Russell. 10 00
E. B. Bogue. 1 00
John Gulembo. 1 00
E. A. Shelley. 1 00
L. Bushton. 1 00
Andrew Barr. 1 00
Philemon Hike. 70
Wallace L. Smith. 20
E. Conklin. 10
James Gilpin. 50
Mary Gilpin. 50
Nathan Weedmark. 1 00
John Heman. 2 50
S. D. Shippy. 1 00
W. H. Edmunds. 10 00
Robert J. Morrison. 1 00
Phoebe Bringer. 1 00
Silas Wheaton. 25
Bela " 25
J. A. Britnall. 35
A. E. " 10
Joseph " 05
Peter Provost. 25
Richard " 25
Thomas Burgess. 50
Wm. Plain & wife, t. 10 00 do do 50
E. Hinds. 1 00
A. " 1 00
Hermon Diem. 10
Calvin Blake. 1 00
P. W. Surbrook. 1 00
Alfred Wiltse. 50
Elizabeth Hartnell. 65

$169 41

Expenditures.
J. J. Cornish. 90 00
Registering & paper. 39

1887. $ 90 39

Mar 1 Balance due church $ 79 02

ELDERS' REPORTS.

W. H. KELLEY.

1886.
May 26 J. G. Holman. 2 00
F. L. Holman. 1 00
V. J. Nickel. 1 00
Ella J. Holman. 1 00
Jun 10 Collection at Des Moines. 1 65
N. A. Scott. 70
C. Hawley. 25
Jul 10 Sr. P. Haskell. 15
Jul 15 S. Rector Bishop's Agent Southern Ind. 9 90

1887. $ 17 65

Mar 28 By expenses to date $ 17 65

A. J. CATO.

Received from all sources. 134 00
1887.
Mar 1 By expenses to date. 134 00

G. T. CHUTE.

Received during the year just past as aid. 80 00
1887.
Mar 20 By expenses. 80 00

F. M. COOPER.

W. Vickery. 1 25
Piper City Branch. 13 50
Braidwood. 3 00
Streator. 4 00
Q. Thompson. 2 50
John Hoyle. 3 00
I. L. Rogers. 15 09

Frank Crum. 1 75
Sr. Lowe. 1 00
East Delavan Branch Wisconsin. 7 00
C. A. Bass. 5 00
Mission Saints. 11 50
Martin Danielson. 2 50
Hans Hayer. 7 00
G. Schiedaker & wife. 4 00
Courtland Saints. 6 50
Dr. Pomeroy. 2 00
Sr. White. 2 00
Sr. Hawks. 1 00
James Crick. 50
Sr. Osborne. 50
Sr. A. Davis. 12 00

1887. $106 50

Mar 1 By expenses to date $106 50

J. F. BURTON.

Received from all sources per his report. $297 92
By expenses. $297 92

J. A. CURRIE, JR.
From March 1, 1885 to March 1, 1886. 5 50
From March 1, 1886 to March 1, 1887. 26 50

1885.
June Watch and chain. 18 00
Suit of clothes. 50 00

$50 00

1887.
Mar 1 By watch and chain. 18 00
Expenses to date. 32 00

$50 00

T. W. SMITH.

For fiscal year from Dec. 1885 to Jan 1886.
1885.
Dec Tikahau Branch. 3 30
Avatoru " 7 70
Tiputa " 2 30

1886.
Jan Tuuhora " 3 00
Temarie " 3 00
Niau " 16 30
Aputai " 2 00
Maatea " 6 00
Apr " 7 40
May Koukura, Panau and Motura Branches. 15 00
Aputai & Aratua Br. 9 00
Tarona Branch. 2 00
Tarona Branch (flour) 3 50
Niau Br. (flour & rice) 6 00
Motura Branch. 3 60
Panau Branch. 1 60
Niau Branch (flour). 3 50

Nov Temarie, Anaa (flour and rice). 8 60
Matahoa (bread, etc.). 3 30

$107 10

1886.
Feb Poiatu. 1 00
Hiro. 40
Tarua. 40
Matangi. 1 00
Tehau. 1 00
Tuani. 20
Torohia. 40
Tehopea. 1 00
Tom Coffin. 1 00
Taririi. 50
Tehopea. 50
Wairaawa. 73
Wairau. 20
Tefau. 70
Tahoa. 20
Tatora. 15
Tehopea. 40
Tom Coffin. 50
Taririi Vahene. 1 00
Tuani. 40
Metuaoe. 1 00
Roo Vahine. 20
Leipo. 20
Tane Tefaura. 20
Tamana. 20
Tamana Vahine. 20
Torohia Vahine. 20
Tahito. 30
Tarohia. 30
Ganta. 20
Imiga. 20
Tutu. 20
Hiro Vahine. 20
Hiro. 40
Tunaria. 20
Ahuu. 20
Tapiinoa. 20
Faitoa. 10
Tamia. 10
Tehau. 2 00
Taulava. 20
Tefaura. 20
Temauara. 20
Papepare. 40
Tamia. 20

Tamia Vahine. 20
Tatua. 20
Taimana. 50
Torou. 1 40
Pohemiti. 1 40
Paanta. 20
Parua. 20
Heva. 20
Taimara. 20
Poero. 20
Tubou. 50
Manua. 20
Valea. 20
Puata. 20
Puaja. 20
Tatuta. 20
Maruati. 20
Tamai. 20
Tevaia. 40
Napa. 20
Turua. 20
Tetai. 20
Panahau. 20
Ugu. 20
Tepu. 20
Repapa. 20
Teremia. 20
Teharanui. 20
Pavn. 20
Laititi. 20
Uraau. 20
Teanhu. 20
Sara. 20
Poe. 20
Teupoo. 20
Pitaki. 20
Ahuu. 20
Tearatia. 20
Faienau. 20
Paurau. 20
Narou. 20
Tane. 20
Telahaimaui. 40
Papaura. 20
Pua. 20
Tangia. 20
Varia. 50
Varia Vahine. 50
Mitau. 10
Foofa. 20
Tufamua. 20
Tevivi. 20
Poimate. 20
Taura. 20
Tapari. 20
Mika. 20
Tanahitua. 20
Teao. 50
Pofatu. 1 00
Maitava. 1 00
Taitaura. 1 00
Nika. 50
Tevivi. 50
Tepure. 20
Timeo. 20
Pumata. 20
Katupa. 20
Tane. 30
Varou. 20
Horea. 10
Teeni. 40
Tane Tauru. 40
Tamataia. 20
Viriamu. 20
Tufarina. 20
Tekopu. 20
Tukairvu. 20
Poo. 20
Hinauro. 20
Tahio. 20
Teheina. 50
Tahira. 20
Teiva. 20
Tuipa. 20
Tikapu. 10
Tiel. 50
Taroura. 20
Tamia. 20
Tangahia. 20
Turefauna. 20
Tara. 50
Toriki. 20
Tahina. 20
Lapata. 20
Taura. 10
Tiara. 20
Tara. 1 30
Tahia. 60
Paparo. 20
Tuamea. 20
Kakahau. 20
Puniava. 20
Litere. 20
Makuru. 20
Maremam. 20
Taro Vahine. 50
Peteo. 20
Rebeka. 20
Teura. 20
Tere. 20
Tavi. 20
Pakatoro. 20
Takahau. 20
Takiri. 20
Tavavaro. 20
Tappi. 20
Tautua. 20
Parata. 20
Batuarau. 20
Tiapu. 20
Maui. 20
Pini. 20
Tekava. 20

Jun 2

Sep

Oct

Nov

Dec

Jan

Feb

Mar

Apr

May

June

July

Aug

Sep

Oct

Nov

Dec

Jan

Feb

Mar

Apr

May

June

July

Aug

Sep

Oct

Nov

Dec

Jan

Feb

Mar

Apr

May

June

July

Aug

Sep

Oct

Nov

Dec

Nov	Tinini	10
	Anare	10
	Tekara Tamahine	10
	Maiata	20
	Tatararu	40
	Rose	40
	Taimani	20
	Temere	20
	Karopa	20
	Puta	20
	Uatungi	20
	Uaui 20, Havata 10,
	Uanava 20, Roita 10	60
	Addenda, Tuuhora,
	Tubual	3 30
	Tere	2 00
Dec 14	Andrew Richmond	1 00
	Tere	1 00
	Branches	$ 63 60
		$107 10
		$170 70
	By expenses to date	$170 70

J. A. McINTOSH.

1886.

Aug 29	A Howison, Ont.	1 00
Sep 2	A Bryce	1 00
Sep 3	Wm. McMurdo	1 00
	Maggie Campbell	50
	Jas. McLean	1 00
Oct 10	Alex. Sinclair	1 00
Oct 12	do	2 50
	Robert Brown	1 50
	Dan Sinclair	50
	Tom Sinclair	25
	Tom Raney	1 25
Oct 15	Alex. Sinclair	2 00
Oct 17	Collection	1 02
Oct 19	Alex. Sinclair	1 00
Oct 25	Wm. Calvert	1 00
	Jane Campbell	50
Nov 2	J. Batchelor	3 75
Nov 3	Jas. Bryce	1 00
Nov 6	James McLean	50
Nov 29	John Wilson	2 25
Dec 1	Andrew Rodgers	1 00
Dec 15	M. L. Snell	60
Dec 17	John Wilson	1 25
	John Mowatt	1 00
Dec 22	W. J. McLean	2 50
Dec 26	Thomas Johnston	1 00
1887.
Jan 6	Unknown	1 00
Feb 4	Mrs. Snell	2 00
	M. L. Snell	25
Feb 9	Charles King	2 00
Feb 10	John Wilson	25
Feb 16	Wm. Calvert	1 50
Feb 23	Raney	1 25
	Alex. Sinclair	1 55
		$ 41 97
Mar 1	By expenses to date	$ 41 97

R. C. EVANS.

Jun 12	H. Leatherdale	1 00
Jun 17	Bothwell Branch	3 80
Jun 22	Sr. Wm. Pugsley	1 75
Jul 1	Bro. Mortimer	1 00
	Sr. Wm. Pugsley	25
Jul 18	From an infidel	1 00
Jul 31	Sr. Wm. Pugsley	10
Aug 1	Lewis Genow	1 00
Aug 2	Bro. J. Cornish	50
Aug 10	Gertie Green	10
Aug 14	Sr. Brooks	1 00
Aug 22	S. Evison	50
	Sr. Cornish	25
Aug 23	Sr. Evans	50
	Mr. Brooks	1 00
Aug 24	Sr. Pugsley	1 00
Aug 27	Bro. Phillips	25
	Bro. Bentley	25
	Mr. Genow	1 00
	Sr. Evison	25
Sep 2	Mr. Genow	50
	Mrs. McCarley	30
Sep 10	London Branch	75
	Bro. Howlett	25
Sep 17	Mrs. Summer	50
Sep 18	Mr. Knight	1 00
	Bro. Longherst	1 00
	Sr. Longherst	1 00
	Mr. Hill	1 00
Sep 19	Wm. Bannister	75
Sep 20	John Welsh	1 00
Sep 27	James Bannister	1 00
	Sr. Porter	2 25
	A. Leverton	25
Oct 1	James Terrel	15
Oct 10	H. Leatherdale	1 00
	Walter Carless	95
Nov 1	R. Brown	25
	St. Mary's Branch	1 30
	A. Sinclair	25
Nov 10	Sr. Brooks	25
Nov 11	James Bentley	05
Nov 14	Mr. Evans	1 00
Nov 15	Bro. J. Cornish	2 00
Nov 16	Sr. Genow	25
	Sr. Brooks	25
Nov 20	Sr. Henley	05
Nov 23	St. Thomas Branch	2 00
Nov 24	Sr. Ridley	05
Nov 25	Bro. Bentley	10
Dec 19	T. Coots	2 00

Dec 20	Bro. Longherst	1 00
	Sr.	1 00
	J. Bannister	1 00
	John Welsh	1 25
Dec 21	Sr. Brooks	50
Dec 23	E. Evans	2 00
Dec 24	Two sisters	50
1887.
Jan 11	Henry Lively	1 25
Jan 14	Wm. Lively	1 00
Jan 21	A. McKenzie	25
	Bro. Vince	50
Jan 22	Mr. Liddy	50
Jan 23	Wm. Lively	1 00
	Sr. Shaw	50
Jan 25	M. Lively	50
	Mrs. Crakel	50
	T. Miller	25
Jan 26	W. Carlist	2 00
Jan 29	Bro. Siftons	5 00
Jan 30	D. Shaw	1 00
	Bro. Hildreth	50
Jan 31	T. Miller	75
	Chatham Branch	7 00
Feb 2	Bro. Peters	50
	H. Lively	1 00
Feb 3	Sr. Bardwell	2 00
	Geo. Shaw	2 00
Feb 10	E. Evans	40
Feb 12	T. A. Phillips	10
		$ 74 70
Feb 17	By expenses to date	$ 74 70

R. M. ELVIN.

J. P. Carlisle	7 00
Expenses to Mar. 1st,
1887.	7 00

E. A. DAVIS.

J. Morgan	1 00
Mary Morgan	1 50
D. Griffith	2 00
J. Thomas	1 00
Eliza Evans	1 50
M. Harris	1 50
Watkin Jones	25
J. W. Morgan	1 00
By Saints for clothes,
etc.	4 00
	$ 13 75

L. N. ROBERTS.

1886. Receipts.

Jul 10	Samuel R. Hay	50
Aug 9	Jessie W. Currie	2 00
Nov 2	George Gifford	1 50
Nov 25	R. A. Currie	2 00
	John Barber	1 00
	Kate Barber	1 00
Dec 15	Helen Bell	1 00
Dec 23	Lydia Curtis	50
1887.
Jan 2	Sophia Wight	1 00
Jan 9	Jessie Hay	1 00
Jan 14	Virginia Hay	1 00
	Helen Bell	1 00
Jan 16	George Hay	5 00
Jan 17	Alex. Hav	1 00
	William Ballentine	5 00
	Jessie Hay	1 00
	W. H. Davenport	1 00
		$ 26 50

JOHN H. LAKE.

1886. Receipts.

Mar 3	S. Lively and sons	3 00
Mar 17	Montross Branch	2 50
Mar 20	James Herst	1 00
Mar 22	Nella Griffith	1 00
Mar 27	Mary Warnock	1 00
Mar 28	Farrington Branch	5 50
	Wm. Pelitlalan	1 00
May 13	Sr. Falknar	1 00
Jun 8	Joseph Perrin	1 00
Jun 9	Sister Hovey	2 25
Jun 7	Camoron Branch	2 65
Jun 13	Wm. O'Brien	1 00
Jun 18	James W. O'Brien	1 50
	J. J. Perrin	1 50
Jul 26	Abraham Lake	1 00
	Charles Lake	1 00
	Lizzie Bates	2 75
Aug 2	Joseph Perrin	2 00
Aug 4	Elias Hovey	1 00
Sep 19	Sr. Campbell	50
Sep 26	Thomas Johnson	1 00
	Sr. C. Pearson	25
Oct 18	A. McKenzie	2 55
Oct 29	Peter Tosker	25
Nov 11	Anna Bartlett	25
Nov 13	W. and E. Corless	2 00
	Henry Atkinson	2 00
Nov 17	John Dent, Sen.	1 00
	Charles Dent	1 00
	Fred Smart	1 00
	George Dent	50
	John Dent, Jr.	1 00
Nov 20	A. McKenzie	1 00
Dec 5	Fred Smart	1 00

Dec 12	Sr. Vince	50
Dec 16	T. Brown	1 00
Dec 17	Bro. Vince	50
	Wm. Lively	1 00
Dec 21	Sr. Thompson	2 00
Dec 28	John Taylor	1 00
Dec 31	Bro. Hardy	50
1887.
Jan 3	William Hardy	10 00
Jan 19	The Sabbath School
	at London	2 00
	Sr. Rainey	1 00
Feb 9	Sr. Jenroe	1 00
Feb 12	A. Berbridge	50
Feb 13	Lewis Jenroe	50
	Edward Evans	1 00
Feb 14	Sr. Brooks	25
		$ 69 70
1887.
Feb 2	By expenses to date	$ 69 70

GEORGE MONTAGUE.

1886. Receipts.

Mar 17	Aaron Odam	1 00
Mar 27	M. K. Harp	2 00
	J. McPherson	25
May 2	James Harper	1 00
May 6	Sr. Goff	1 00
	H. Robinson	50
	John Porter	30
	Bro. Courtney	50
	John Mizell	50
	F. P. Scarelliff	20
Jun 14	P. B. Seaton	5 00
Jun 15	D. D. Roberts	1 00
Jun 16	C. W. Roberts	1 00
	Wm. Seaton	1 00
		$ 15 25

GEORGE S. HYDE

1887. Receipts.

Mar 1	Expenses to date	$ 15 25
-------	------------------	----------

MYRON H. BOND.

1886. Receipts.

Jul 7	Bro. Ashton	50
	Sr. "	25
Sep 3	E. L. Kelley	25
	Julia Woodward	1 00
Sep 13	Collection at Atchinson	3 00
	Sewing Circle at Jonesport	2 00
	Bro. Watts	50
	Eliza Dobbins	50
	Collection	4 35
	A. Norton	50
	Mary Richardson	50
Nov 6	C. W. Phillips, Brockton	1 00
Nov 13	Isaiah Ames	1 00
	Annie Larson, Plymouth	1 00
	Peter Hansen	50
	R. Nickerson	50
	Minnie Sampson	25
	Unknown	50
1887.
Jan 18	Mr. Fronty	1 00
	Bro. Steffe	1 00
Jan 26	Bro. Phillips	1 00
	A friend	5 00
	Isaiah Ames	2 00
Jan 27	Sister at Fall River	1 00
		$ 29 30

MYRON H. BOND.

1887. Receipts.

Mar 1	Expenses to date	$ 29 30
-------	------------------	----------

J. C. CLAPP.

1886. Receipts.

Nov 2	From a friend	1 30
	H. Rockwell	1 00
	Stranger	1 00
Dec 1	Sr. Ivson	1 00
Dec 8	A. Thorn	1 00
	J. Toombs	1 00
Dec 12	A friend	2 00
Dec 13	John Taylor	5 00
Dec 14	Salt Lake Branch	13 00
Dec 21	John Weaver	3 00
1887.
Feb 20	W. Christofferson	5 00
Feb 21	Sr. Powell	2 00
	E. M. Bowen	5 00
Mar 4	James Thomas	1 00
	Thomas Jenkins	1 00
	Owen Thomas	50
	Malad Branch, about 14 00
	Henry Evans	5 00
		$ 62 50

A. H. PARSONS.

1886. Receipts.

Mar 29	William Hopkins	50
Jun 16	J. F. Jemison	1 50
Jul 3	John Butler	25
Jul 14	E. D. Brownlie	1 00
	Walter Brownlie	1 50
Aug 20	J. D. Bennett	40
Oct 14	J. L. Parsons	1 25
	O. R. "	1 75
	M. A. "	50
	W. Y. "	75
Oct 17	B. D. Warren	1 00
Nov 3	G. W. Lush suit of clothes	25 00
	G. W. Lush	2 45
	H. J. Lush clothes for the wife	14 70
1887.
Feb 26	Renben Gabier	1 00
Feb 13	Deloss Williams	75
	B. D. Warren	1 00
	H. B. Case	1 25
Feb 15	J. P. Riley	25
		$ 56 80

J. W. GILLEN.

1886. Receipts.

Jun 3	E. Griffith	1 00
	Mary Warnock	1 00
	S. Warnock	1 00
	J. Warnock	1 00
	W. Pendleton	1 00
	Wheeler's Grove committee	25 00
	From different individuals	15 00
		$ 45 00

ALEXANDER H. SMITH.

1886. Receipts.

Jul 4	Keokuk Branch	1 40
Aug 8	Wm. Tyner	2 00
	Alfred McCahen	1 00
Aug 27	D. C. Salisbury	1 00
	Margaret Salisbury	50
	Sr. E. Stephenson	50
Sep	J. W. Terry, Buffalo
	Prairie Conference	5 00
	Ezra Bryant	25
	Samuel Adams	1 00
	Madison Duncan	50
	A sister, name not known by me	1 00
Sep 25	John Chisnall	3 50
	J. Chisnall, Kewanee Branch	5 00
	R. Holt, pair of shoes	3 25
	Plano Branch
Oct 8	Thos. Willett	1 00
	Frank Crum	25
	Wm. Crum	25
	George Blakely	25
	Dr. Pomroy	25
	Bro. Madison	25
	W. Vickery	25
	Bro. White	50
	Silas Cook	50
	Wm. Bronson	25
	Sr. M. Lear	05
	H. White	25
	Sr. Williams	50
	Elsie Walker	25
	Plugh	25
	Sr. Arnold	10
	Maggie Hawks	25
	Abbie A. Horton	10
	L. V. Pomroy	25
	Mr. Powell	05
	Annie Willett	1 00
		$ 166 73

ALEXANDER H. SMITH.

1887. Receipts.

Mar 1	Expenses to date	$ 45 00
-------	------------------	----------

Nov	Roderick May	1 00
	Wm. O. Thomas	2 00
Dec	J. Rimley, Springton
	Branch	1 00
	T. P. Green	50
	James Null	50
	J. Ellis	25
	A. Gershbacher	50
	E. Webb, Tunnel Hill Branch	1 00
	R. Y. Smith	1 00
	Frank Webb	50
	C. Bucklom	50
	D. Webb	75
	Sarah Dillam	25
	Wm. Kelley	25
	B. Bradley	25
	I. M. Smith	2 00
	J. R. Kelley, Tunnel Hill Branch	50
	N. Webb	50
	J. H. Kelley	1 50
	J. J. Green, Brush Creek Branch	1 00
	Henry Walker	25
	T. P. Green	50
	Wm. Rosson	1 00
	Nancy Swan	50
	A. Burroughs	1 00
	D. Fisher	25
	G. Vickery	25
	J. A. Bensinger	50
Sep 9	Hulda Blackleach, t.	20 00
		$ 74 30

M. T. SHORT.

1886. Receipts.

Mar 1	Expenses to date	$ 74 30
-------	------------------	----------

M. T. SHORT.

1886. Receipts.

Mar 1	Robert Winning	4 00
	J. Liff	2 00
Mar 3	S. Butler	1 00
	Bro. & Sr. Neidorf	1 00
Mar 13	S. Garland	1 00
Mar 14	Ed. Charlton	50
	Kewanee Branch	3 00
May 8

1886. E. C. BRAND. Receipts. Mar 10 Galland's Grove Sts. 3 75

1887. Crescent City, Iowa. Oct 6 Sr. Jones. 50

1887. J. C. FOSS. H. Hayer. 2 00

1886. J. R. LAMBERT. Receipts. Mar 20 Sr. W. Vincent. 10

1887. LEVI PHELPS. Receipts. Mrs. Dorothy. 55

1887. L. R. DEVORE. Receipts. Apr 26 A. B. Kirkendall. 1 00

1886. F. P. SCARCLIFF. Receipts. Mar 19 Mr. Beal. 1 00

1887. W. W. BLAIR. Receipts. Mar 27 Magnolia, Persia, Gal-

1887. J. C. FOSS. J. H. Hayer. 2 00

1887. HENRY KEMP. Receipts. Mar 1 Keystone branch. 2 00

1887. F. P. SCARCLIFF. Receipts. Mar 19 Mr. Beal. 1 00

1886. F. P. SCARCLIFF. Receipts. Mar 19 Mr. Beal. 1 00

1887. H. H. ROBINSON. Receipts. Dec 9 Bro. May. 1 00

1887. WM. DERRY. Expenses and other. From other sources. 41 30

1887. HEMAN C. SMITH. Receipts. Mar 10 F. C. Warny, Mo. 50

1887. HENRY KEMP. Receipts. Mar 1 Keystone branch. 2 00

1886. F. M. SHEEHY. Receipts. Mar 12 D. S. Seavey. 5 00

1886. F. M. SHEEHY. Receipts. Mar 12 D. S. Seavey. 5 00

1886. F. M. SHEEHY. Receipts. Mar 12 D. S. Seavey. 5 00

1887. U. W. GREENE. Receipts. Jun 30 Boston branch. 1 56

1886. U. W. GREENE. Receipts. Jun 30 Boston branch. 1 56

1887. COLUMBUS SCOTT. Receipts. Mar 2 Saints of St. Joe, Mo.

1887. COLUMBUS SCOTT. Receipts. Mar 2 Saints of St. Joe, Mo.

1887. COLUMBUS SCOTT. Receipts. Mar 2 Saints of St. Joe, Mo.

1887. R. C. ELVIN. Receipts. Aug 8 W. A. Moore, Neb. 10 00

1886. R. C. ELVIN. Receipts. Aug 8 W. A. Moore, Neb. 10 00

1887. JAMES CAFFALL. Received by private donations. $55 50

1887. A. HAWS. Received by donations. $20 70

1887. J. T. DAVIS. Donations received during year. $7 00

1887. PETER ANDERSON. Receipts. Mrs. A. Engberg. 4 00

1887. PETER ANDERSON. Receipts. Mrs. A. Engberg. 4 00

1887. SAMUEL BROWN. Expenses to date. $76 35

1887. J. J. CORNISH. Individual collection 18 00

1887. N. STAMM. Sr. Davis, Newton. 1 00

LEONARD SCOTT.

1886. Receipts.

Sep 19 Columbus Scott.....	50
Methodist Society, Whitestown, Ind.....	4 00
Sep 29 Bro. Burkhardt Ind.....	4 00
Oct 5 Bro. Prettyman.....	2 00
Oct 18 C. Scott.....	40
Nov 19 H. Stroh.....	65
Nov 24 ".....	35
Dec 2 C. Scott.....	25
Dec 6 Bro. Thomas, Christmas offering.....	1 00
Sr. Thomas Christmas offering.....	1 00
Dec 23 O. Wheeler.....	5 00
1887.
Feb 16 Bro. Prettyman.....	1 50
Feb 18 People at Knox.....	7 50
	$ 28 15

1886.

Mar 29 Traveling and incidental expenses.....	28 15
---	-------

W. J. SMITH.

1886. Receipts.

Aug 25 Hiram Smith.....	5 00
David Smith.....	3 00
Henry Smith.....	1 00
Nov 28 Egremont Branch.....	5 00
1887.
Jan 20 Cameron Branch.....	4 50
Clothing.....	8 00
	$ 26 50
Mar 26 Expenses to date.....	18 50
Clothing.....	8 00
	$ 26 50

JAMES MOLER.

1886. Receipts.

Ohio.

A. E. Spann.....	5 00
W. L. Gibson.....	5 00
G. W. Barton.....	1 00
Ella R. Devore.....	50
James Spann.....	5 00
West Virginia.
P. Osner.....	50
T. Hamilton.....	50
Rebecca Hawk.....	50
Rebecca Goer.....	50
J. W. Trout.....	10 00
F. Smith.....	1 00
B. P. Lilly.....	3 85
Mary Huffman.....	25
Ohio.
Feb V. Westfall.....	25
J. Jeffers.....	50
Rachel Bennington.....	25
Charles Hunter.....	25
Samuel Downard.....	50
	$ 35 35

1887.

Mar 1 Expenses to date.....	$ 35 35
-----------------------------	----------

HENRY A. STEBBINS.

Receipts.

Saints at Wirt, Ia.....	2 35
Allendale Mo.....	7 00
Pleasanton, Ia.....	1 00
Centerville.....	3 00
Davis City.....	50
A. S. Cochran, Iowa.....	50
E. Meacher, Iowa.....	1 00
Saints at Burlington.....	4 10
Eliza G. Page Wis.....	20 00
	$ 39 45

Traveling expenses $ 38 04
Incidental..... 1 41
$ 39 45

F. C. WARNKY.

Waconda Branch.....	11 50
Central Mo. District.....	4 25
Ross Grove Branch.....	10 25
Independence Dist.....	5 00
	$ 31 00

1887.

Mar 1 Expenses to date.....	$ 31 00
-----------------------------	----------

A. J. MOORE.

Received.

May 1 J. Anderson.....	1 00
Sr.....	50
Wm. Pendleton.....	1 00
Sr. S. Warnock.....	1 00
Jacob Warnock.....	30
Sr. Keene.....	50
A. A. Haley.....	1 00
Neice Bergue.....	50
Chris Nelson.....	1 50
Ole Madison.....	1 00
Peter.....	1 00
Ole.....	1 00
A. Jensen.....	1 00
A. Jacobsen.....	1 25
	$ 12 55

1887.

Mar 1 Expenses to date.....	$ 12 55
-----------------------------	----------

WARREN PEAK.

Donations in many ways..... 12 75
Clothing..... 9 00
$ 21 75

Expenses and clothing..... $ 21 75

ALFRED WHITE.

Mar 10 R. S. Reynolds.....	50
Expenses to date.....	50

ISAAC N. SMITH.

Receipts.

Springerton Branch.
Joseph Rensley.....	4 00
Sr. Null.....	75
N. Upton.....	25
J. W. Stone.....	25
James Null.....	25
The branch.....	2 50
Brush Creek Branch.
Bro. & Sr. S. Caudle.....	50
Mary Clements.....	3 00
A. Burroughs.....	50
M.....	2 00
Bro. Sparks.....	50
Thomas Ayers.....	1 00
I. A. Morris.....	1 00
James Ayers.....	1 50
C. Jarvis.....	50
George Warren.....	3 00
David Hoover.....	50
Henry Ayers.....	50
Joseph.....	50
Mother.....	50
Nancy Swan.....	50
Lester Burroughs.....	50
Name unknown.....	50
Dry Fork Branch.
J. F. Simms.....	50
H. Walker.....	50
Sr. Walker.....	20
Thomas P. Green.....	50
	$ 49 85

1887.

Mar 22 Expenses to date.....	$ 49 85
------------------------------	----------

W. T. BOZARTH.

Receipts.

I. Lane.....	1 00
John Sayers.....	1 00
L. P. Russel.....	9 65
J. B. Larue.....	2 00
Sister Houter.....	1 00
Sister Russel.....	1 00
Joseph Bradley.....	1 00
Oscar Coiner.....	1 00
Sr. Reams.....	50
Bro. Reams.....	50
Bro. Sr. Walker.....	1 00
John Walker.....	50
Charles Hand.....	50
Sr. Stine.....	1 00
Sr. Green.....	1 00
Sr. Suman.....	50
	$ 23 15

1887.

Mar 25 Expenses to date.....	$ 23 15
------------------------------	----------

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES OF COMMITTEE ON REPAIRS ON KIRTLAND TEMPLE,

Since August 1st, 1886.

RECEIPTS.

Jul 12 Washingtonville Sts.....	6 00
Aug 8 P. Edwards, Mich.....	1 00
Aug 23 Bishop and Committeeman.....	500 00
Sep 7 F. W. Holman Pa.....	1 00
Sep 29 G. A. Blakeslee Com-mitteman.....	100 00
Oct 4 W. D. Kelley, Mont.....	5 00
Oct 23 G. A. Blakeslee, Com.....	50 00
Oct 24 ".....	27 55
Nov 5 ".....	17 65
Nov 10 Frank Criley, Pa.....	1 25
Nov 27 G. A. Blakeslee, Com.....	7 25
Dec 7 ".....	10 00
Dec 11 G. A. Blakeslee, Mich.....	7 00
J. Matthews, Iowa.....	5 00
M. E. Humes, Pa.....	5 00
F. Reese, Pa.....	1 00
F. Criley Pa.....	4 25
Dec 19 W. E. Gooch Idaho.....	1 00
Dec 30 G. A. Blakeslee, Com.....	43 94
R. Ebbeling, W. Va.....	50
L. Thomas.....	50
Mary Gill.....	1 00
J. A. Smith.....	1 00
A. M. Teagarden.....	25
L. D. Ullom.....	1 00
Jan 10 Sr. R. Steffe, Mass.....	1 00
Jan 15 G. A. Blakeslee, Com.....	11 50

Northern Michigan District, Reported by E. L. Kelley.

Jan 19 James Williams.....	50
Peter Surbrook.....	1 00
W. H. Smith.....	25
J. R. Hartnall.....	1 00
H. S. Howell.....	1 00
E. Hartnell.....	50
R. Hartnell.....	1 00
C. Pearson.....	1 00
H. G. Campbell.....	2 00
A. Barr.....	2 00
Charles Wolven.....	50
L. D. Whitford.....	1 00
E. Flynn.....	1 50
Brick and mortar sold to E. L. Kelley.....	9 29
Coal sold J. Gillespie.....	26 00
" E. L. Kelley.....	30 00
F. M. Myers, Col.....	1 00
B. W. Dempster Ia.....	1 00
Feb 11 L. Woodward, Maine.....	2 00
Feb 26 Loaned by F. Criley.....	200 00
West Virginia.
Sr. P. Osner.....	50
Emily Chadwick.....	50
T. Hamilton.....	50
Sophia Osner.....	50
Mary J. Jenkins.....	5 00
May Branch Ladies Society, Maine.....	3 00
Ada L. Kelley Me.....	1 00
Sr. C. B. Kelley, Ohio.....	5 00

Apr 11 W. H. Cook.....	1 00
E. M. Miller.....	2 00
Quorum of Twelve.....	10 15
E. C. Briggs, Iowa.....	5 00
Sale of lime and calcimine to G. Russell.....	2 10
Sale of 281 feet of lumber to E. L. Kelley.....	3 09
A friend Victoria, Ill.....	2 00
Window glass.....	05
W. Bohall.....	2 00
C. E. Metcalf, work.....	75
J. F. Carter, Cal.....	10 00
J. D. Carter, Cal.....	10 00
Putty returned.....	20
Walnut stain returned.....	20
J. R. Eardley, Mont.....	5 00
J. H. Peters, Mich.....	20 00
W. O. Thomas, Mo.....	10 00
J. F. A. Smith, W. Va.....	50
A. A. Smith, W. Va.....	50
Myers, Mo.....	1 00
Sr. W. H. Kelley, O.....	5 00
Apr 12 G. A. Blakeslee, Com.....	46 57
A. Cameron, carpeting (donated).....	60 00
G. L. Matthews, Pa.....	1 00

EXPENDITURES.

1886.
Sep 18 Hauling.....	1 00
Sep 17 Freight.....	1 00
Scaffold poles.....	3 50
Labor.....	3 13
Sep 15 Lime and Cement.....	11 25
Sep 14 Iron rods.....	5 74
Sep 13 Lumber.....	10 50
Sep 9 Brick.....	12 10
Sep 7 Freight.....	1 00
Labor.....	62
Freight.....	1 22
Sep 6 Lime and cement.....	10 53
Sep 20 Lumber.....	17 58
Hauling.....	4 50
Sep 27 Lime and cement.....	12 70
Sep 28 Freight.....	3 09
Sep 29 Hauling.....	5 00
Oct 5 Coal.....	109 39
Oct 7 Hauling Coal.....	13 00
Oct 9 ".....	14 50
Oct 16 G. W. Manly, labor.....	10 00
Sep 21 Lumber.....	8 55
Oct 13 Labor (Burch).....	33 00
Oct 27 F. Parks, labor.....	3 00
Oct 13 Lime and cement.....	12 10
Oct 28 E. Rayer, labor.....	21 93
Wm. Harvey, labor.....	5 00
Brushes.....	20
Oct 18 G. W. Manly, labor.....	5 00
Oct 22 Hauling.....	1 39
Oct 21 Freight.....	1 04

Oct 28 G. W. Manly, labor.....	36 74
Oct 29 Hauling.....	6 00
Oct 23 Wm. Harvey, labor.....	10 00
Oct 27 J. M. Plaisted, labor.....	24 20
Oct 23 G. W. Manly, labor.....	15 00
Nov 1 W. E. Harvey, labor.....	8 43
Blacksmithing, McFarland.....	2 56
Nov 3 Material.....	26 05
Material.....	4 75
Nov 12 Labor, J. Long per Burch's order.....	5 00
Nov 6 E. Roger, labor.....	5 00
Nov 13 J. N. Long per Burch Thompson, hauling.....	3 60
Nov 15 Lumber, McFarland.....	12 25
E. B. Green, labor.....	3 25
Nov 19 E. Rayer, labor pr B.....	5 65
Nov 22 Manly, ".....	3 75
Nov 16 E. Rayer, ".....	7 50
Nov 23 W. E. Harvey, ".....	1 25
Wm. Burch, ".....	20 00
G. Martin, ".....	17 81
G. Manly, ".....	6 00
Wm. Burch, labor.....	10 00
Nov 19 Freight.....	10 00
Nov 26 ".....	54
Dec 1 Lime and cement.....	13 50
Dec 4 G. Martin, labor, on Burch's order.....	5 00
Dec 6 Wm. Burch, labor, per M. E. Salyards.....	1 00
Dec 7 Labor, Wm. Burch, A Call.....	5 93
Dec 8 Labor, Wm. Burch, per Geo. Martin.....	11 25
Dec 10 Labor, W. Burch per E. & J. A. Royer.....	7 00
Dec 22 Freight.....	68
Dec 13 Freight.....	90
Dec 17 Material, R. T. Lyon.....	6 50
Dec 31 ".....	6 88
Dec 10 Freight.....	1 08
Dec 23 ".....	1 01

Jan 6 Hauling coal for Temple.....	3 70
Jan 12 Wm. Burch.....	5 00
Jan 15 W. H. Yaxley, tinning.....	25 00
Jan 17 McFarland, work.....	1 10
1886.
Dec 14 Insurance on Temple.....	15 00
Dec 17 Material, Otis Elevator Co.....	8 03
Dec 21 W. H. Yaxley on furnace, &c.....	75 00
Labor payments per E. L. Kelley (book).....
Sep 18 F. Judd.....	5 25
James Cox.....	4 37
Wm. Burch.....	13 75
Jeff Judd.....	2 25
P. Harvey.....	1 38
F. Judd.....	6 25
Wm. Burch.....	15 00

Sep 25 F. Judd.....	4 06
James Cox.....	6 87
Oct 1 F. Judd.....	6 25
Wm. Burch.....	15 00
Oct 8 F. Judd.....	5 84
Wm. Burch.....	11 87
Oct 12 ".....	30 00
Dec 20 Rubber for Temple door per E. L. Kelley.....	1 50
Dec 15 Wm. Burch.....	5 00
1887.
Jan 22 L. Call, hauling sand.....	1 50
Freight.....	81
".....	81
A. Call, labor.....	19 87
Jan 26 F. Judd, labor.....	2 25
L. Holman, labor.....	6 75
Jan 28 Material, Bell, Cartwright & Co.....	37 32
Jan 31 Freight.....	1 13
Material, Bell, C. & Co.....	2 50
Feb 1 Material, R. T. Lyon.....	15 70
Feb 2 Freight, R. T. Lyon.....	2 07
Feb 3 Freight.....	25
Furnace.....	30 29
Feb 7 ".....	25 95
Feb 8 Material, Bell Cartwright & Co.....	12 00
Feb 9 Freight.....	12 00
Feb 11 Work, C. G. Johnson Labor, cash to Burch.....	2 00
Feb 12 Labor, Wm. Burch.....	5 00
Material, R. T. Lyon.....	17 25
Feb 14 Freight.....	27
Feb 16 W. H. Yaxley, work.....	5 00
Feb 26 Wm. Burch, work.....	2 00
D. L. Marble, Painting.....	5 00
G. Fowler work per Burch.....	6 63
C. C. Johnson work per Burch.....	3 00
J. Cox work pr Burch.....	6 00
G. W. Manly work pr Burch.....	6 25
Mar 6 J. Plaisted work per Burch.....	30 75
J. Cox work pr Burch.....	2 71
G. Fowler work per Burch.....	3 12
do.....	1 00
L. Call work pr Burch.....	25 31
Mar 5 D. L. Marble, painting.....	10 00
C. Fahnstock, do.....	20 00
Mar 7 D. L. Marble, do.....	6 65
Material, McIntosh & Co.....	88
Mar 8 Material, R. T. Lyon.....	11 82
Freight.....	26
Mar 9 ".....	1 62
Mar 12 Painting, G. W. Dille.....	13 50
Mar 15 Tinner's work.....	16 18
Mar 19 Painting, Dille.....	13 50
Jeff Judd, work.....	4 37

Mar 24 J. Cox, work.....	3 45
Mar 25 F. Judd, work.....	5 25
Mar 26 Painting G. W. Dille.....	13 00
" D. L. Marble.....	10 66
Tinner, W. H. Yaxley.....	8 49
Mar 29 G. Fowler, work.....	1 06
Burch order to Markell.....	30 00
Freight on chairs.....	4 20
Paid for lumber at Pleasant Valley Mills.....	6 45
Apr 1 J. F. Wells, glass.....	1 23
Apr 4 D. B. Goodrich, painting.....	25 00
C. C. Cottrell painting.....	12 25
P. H. Barnes.....	12 25
E. Arnstrong.....	9 00
C. M. Loy.....	12 25
D. L. Marble.....	16 06
C. Fahnstock.....	54 25
Mrs. Flyer, cleaning Temple.....	1 00
Furnace.....	64 05
G. W. Dille, painting.....	12 00
W. H. Martin, work.....	3 24
A. Call for Burch.....	8 24
C. M. Kelley, work.....	26 00
Lumber, Morse Bros.....	25 97
W. H. Yaxley, tinner.....	4 43
H. B. Green, carpenter.....	91 00
Apr 1 L. S. Holman.....	84 75
20 weeks board for painters.....	75 00
Apr 12 Wm. Burch, mason.....	171 79
Paints, oils, brushes, glass, labor per book account.....	152 91
Coal for Temple.....	13 88
Donation by work, C. Metcalf.....	75
Donation of carpet, A. Cameron.....	60 00
Jenkins & Co., lumber.....	72 37
C. Metcalf, carpenter.....	38 50
G. W. Manly work pr Burch.....	10 dozen chairs by F. Criley.....	50 00
R. T. Lyon, calcina.....	5 05
Henry Holt, cleaning.....	—
Jeff Judd, cleaning.....	—
F. Judd, cleaning.....	—
Less loan of added.....	200 00

KIRTLAND TEMPLE FUND

Not otherwise reported, as received by the Bishop.

1886.
Apr 15 C. A. Bishop.....	5 00
Jun 11 R. R. Gaither, Kan.....	5 00
Jun 12 Sallie Weiler, Minn.....	3 50
Sister Curtis.....	1 50
Jun 17 M. Windsor, Ill.....	5 00
Jul 1 Sr. E. C.....	10 00
Jul 12 H. E. Adams, Iowa.....	5 00

Aug 16 J. Garner, Cal. .... 5 00	Oct. 25 B. F. Fickumt..... 50	Oct. 25 E. J. French..... 1 00	Nov. 27 Martha Peat..... 25	Jan. 23 F. E. Anderson..... 25
J. Tedro, "..... 50	A. W. Thompson..... 10	J. R. Badham..... 1 00	Charles J. Peat..... 1 00	J. Burdick..... 25
D. Garner, "..... 5 00	Rebecca Penrod..... 50	Alma Whitlock..... 50	N. Ackert..... 25	L. E. Anderson..... 25
Sep 7 G. P. Lambert, Ill. .... 5 00	David L. Harris..... 50	H. W. Patterson..... 1 00	G. Westenholm..... 1 00	M. M. "..... 25
C. Winner, Ill. .... 5 00	J. Farrer..... 1 00	A. B. Wise..... 50	Mary Kyte..... 50	T. Ochsenr..... 50
Sisters Sewing, As- sociation, Keokuk, Ia 5 00	C. Butterfield..... 45	M. P. Conor, friend..... 25	Grace Remington..... 1 00	Ira Burdick..... 05
Sep 13 F. P. Schnell, Cal. .... 5 00	G. W. Stephens..... 50	Hiram Davidson..... 1 00	Emma Burch..... 50	Hope of Zion Branch 4 00
E. Schnell, Cal. .... 5 00	S. A. Hewitt..... 50	James Prothero..... 25	C. Johnson..... 25	Feb 15 Elijah Hind, Mich. 1 00
Eliza Woolcott (non member) Cal. .... 5 00	Peter M. Betts..... 1 00	R. Wixom..... 1 00	Lizzie Mollyneaux..... 25	A. Hind..... 1 00
S. J. Greer, Cal. .... 1 00	Fred. Mills..... 25	L. "..... 50	Hattie Elliot..... 1 00	Mar 22 G. P. Lambert, Ill. 10 00
Wm. Schade, Cal. .... 50	S. Garner..... 25	N. "..... 50	F. Wiley..... 25	Mar 24 J. S. Lawton, Mass. 2 00
Sep 25 J. Hennhett, Neb. .... 5 00	Peter H. Betts..... 50	M. A. Matthews..... 50	California.	1886.
Oct 22 W. A. Penrod, Cal. .... 1 00	A. Wixom..... 25	R. "..... 20	Dec 1 Capt. W. Howland.. 5 00	Reported by Herald Office.
R. M. Dungan Cal. .... 1 00	W. V. Whisler..... 50	H. Little..... 25	Sarah J. Green..... 1 00	Jun 18 S. Bourguoin, Mo... 2 00
R. Dungan, Jr., Cal. .... 50	A. E. Betts..... 50	James Baldwin..... 20	H. Bartlett..... 1 00	Jun 29 F. C. Graham, Mo... 3 00
N. W. Best, Cal. .... 1 00	Mary Betts..... 50	F. W. Burton..... 50	Dec 27 E. A. Burnam, Mo... 1 00	Dec 17 S. Bourguoin..... 1 50
R. M. Pheneagar, Cal. 1 00	C. J. Ames..... 30	N. J. Wixom..... 1 00	1887.	Jan 13 J. Strang, Cal. .... 86
H. J. .... 50	D. Carter..... 4 30	Willie Balby..... 1 00	Jan 5 Mottville branch, Nev 6 00	Feb 8 J. A. Waugaman, Cal 1 00
W. P. Howland, Cal. 1 00	O. Peterson..... 50	H. Adams..... 1 50	C. McIntyre, Cal. .... 5 00	Mar 26 B. Bowman, Nev.... 5 00
J. G. Walker, Cal. .... 50	H. S. Thompson..... 50	C. Westfall..... 1 50	W. H. Ladd, Cal. .... 50	Mar 31 A. Boden, Mo. .... 1 00
E. J. Davidson, Cal. .... 50	H. Hemingway..... 15	P. Willisen..... 50	Minnesota.	Apr 2 J. Shook, Mich. .... 3 00
C. W. Best, Cal. .... 50	R. Penfold..... 50	Fannie, Mary and Frankie Schnell... 5 00	Jan 22 B. B. Anderson..... 50	Apr 7 Wm. Pooler, Cal. .... 1 00
California.	S. "..... 50	Missonri.	J. R. Anderson..... 50	Apr 7 Sr. M. J. Fisher, O. 1 00
N. Vanleet ..... 1 00	Wm. Prothero..... 1 00	Nov 27 Martha Taylor..... 50	J. L. Boyd..... 25	Apr 12 Wm. Anderson, Cal. 5 00
	A. E. Crossen..... 1 00	Belle Mollyneaux.... 50	W. W. Anderson.... 25
	J. W. McQuegg..... 50

GOOD ADVICE TO CONTRIBUTORS.

You gain nothing and lose much by calling on the editor personally with your articles. If he be an editor who amounts to anything, he is always busy in office hours. He has no time to talk with you or to listen to your explanations. He wishes you hadn't called, and he is prejudiced against you and whatever you may have written. He may—probably will—read your article, and if it be of great merit he may accept it, but he is no more likely to than if it had reached him through the mail. In fact, he is not so apt to look favorably upon it, because he reasons that if he does you will call on him again, waste his time and leave another article, and if this should be declined he naturally supposes that you would call for personal explanation. He would rather treat with you by means of the mail. It saves time and annoyance, and you are sure of being used as well.

Remember, also, that the only introduction to an editor that you need is an article which you have written and which he thinks good enough to print. All the friends you have on earth, never mind how powerful they may be, can never put you on such a footing with an editor as this.

Professor Hayden of the Geological Survey says that the geologists, meteorologists and other scientific men believe that the world is on the eve of an important change in climate and other respects. "The earthquakes" said he, "along the seaboard from Washington to Charleston showed that some great change was going on in the center of the earth. Then again, this winter has been remarkable for the worst storms in the west and north-west known to the scientific world. The cause of this I can not tell, but scientific men here and abroad concur in the opinion that we are approaching an extremely interesting period. If the earthquakes continue it will mark the beginning of a change in the physical condition of the earth. It is not improbable that we are entering upon one of the great geological periods, and possibly the beginning of another glacial era."

WORK FOR ALL. Brothers and Sisters, you can make good wages selling our new SPECIALTIES JUST OUT. Samples and terms free to agents. B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Illinois. 26martf

Welsh Hymn Book.

We have on hand about 100 copies of a book, entitled "Llyfr Hymnau at Wasnaeth Eglwys Iesu Grist, Ad-Reddiddig Saint y Dydd Diweddfaf." There are 388 hymns in Welsh and 33 in English. It is published by the church in Wales, and sent here for sale. Sixty cents each, free of postage; bound in full leather, marbled edges.

Money Orders.

Money Orders are much safer than Postal Notes when remitting to this office, and they cost but two cents more. Don't forget this, lest you lose money. D. DANCER, Manager.

AUTUMN LEAVES.

THE MAGAZINE

Which we propose starting for the homes of Zion will be a royal octavo of 64 pages. It will be issued from the Herald Office, Lamoni, Iowa, monthly, and will contain departments adapted to every want of the family.

The choicest scraps of Literature, History, Biography, Poetry; and well selected current events, together with the latest and most reliable events connected with Palestine and the Jews will be among its contents. Everything of a character tending to elevate—to make better men and women of those who are now boys and girls, in the home circle—will be introduced and fostered; while everything of a character contrary to this will be strictly excluded.

THOSE WHO ARE WILLING TO AID

In this enterprise will please send in their names at as early a day as convenient; and when the list shall amount to fifteen hundred we will complete arrangements for its early issue, and promise to furnish yearly nearly 800 pages of choice reading matter, for the moderate sum of $1.25.

WE ASK THE TRAVELING MINISTRY,

And friends of the latter day work generally, to solicit names for us. (Do not accept or remit any money until notified so to do.) We will notify the Herald readers from time to time of the increase in subscription list. We now have quite a number of names, but have as yet made no especial effort.

Terms (strictly cash in advance) $1.25 per year.

M. WALKER.

"A BOOK FOR THE PEOPLE."

CAPTIVATING! USEFUL! Eloquent Discussions, and Diplomatic Papers on the Great Public Questions of the Past and Present, by JAMES G. BLAINE.

Embracing his masterly arguments on the vital issues in the Anti-Slavery Struggle, the All Important Labor Question, Prohibition, Irish Home-Rule, etc., etc. A FORTUNE FOR BOOK CANVASSERS! APPLICATIONS FOR TERRITORY COMING IN WITH A RUSH! THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING CO., NORWICH, CT.

J. H. HANSEN, M. D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Will practice in Lamoni and vicinity; calls made at all hours. Office in Drug Store of Hansen & Walker, Lamoni MIDWIFERY and DISEASES of WOMEN a Specialty.

Residence one block East Teal's Store. 14feblly

Lamoni and Vicinity.

Those wishing to become acquainted with Lamoni and vicinity, will do well to subscribe for

THE LAMONI GAZETTE

A weekly paper, now published by

LAMBERT & HANSEN.

dec11tf

ZION'S HOPE

Is published every Saturday by the Church of Christ, at Lamoni, Iowa. Single copies, per year, 50c; packages of four to ten 40c; packages of over ten 35c.

THE BUILDERS' PORTFOLIOS.

People who intend to build should inquire among our local builders until they find one who has THE SHOPPELL BUILDERS' PORTFOLIOS. Such a builder can show the inquirer an immense number of excellent plans for modern houses, barns, &c.; and also can give correct local prices for building from any of the plans. Builders who have not yet procured The Shoppell Builders' Portfolios should write at once to the Co-operative Building Plan Association, 53 Broadway, New York.

WHEN YOU TRAVEL

Take the Line selected by the United States Government to carry the Fast Mail,—the

As it is the Line running Through Trains to and from the following cities and towns on its own Lines:

- CHICAGO, AURORA, OTTAWA, STREATOR, ROCKFORD, DUBUQUE, LA CROSSE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, MENDOTA, PEORIA, GALESBURG, ST. LOUIS, QUINCY, KEOKUK, BURLINGTON, WASHINGTON, OSKALOOSA, DES MOINES, CHARITON, CRESTON, ST. JOSEPH, ATCHISON, KANSAS CITY, NEBRASKA CITY, OMAHA, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LINCOLN & DENVER,

Making Direct Connections

- TO AND FROM NEW YORK, BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON, CINCINNATI, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON, NEW ORLEANS, LOUISVILLE, SAN FRANCISCO, LOS ANGELES, SALT LAKE CITY, COLORADO AND PACIFIC COAST RESORTS, CITY OF MEXICO, PORTLAND, OREGON, MANITOBA, VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND POINTS.

Good Equipment, Good Service, Good Connection.

For information concerning the Burlington Route, apply to the nearest Ticket Agent of the C., B. & Q. or connecting railroads.

HENRY B. STONE, General Manager, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt., CHICAGO, ILL.

Train Leaves Lamoni, Going East at 1:45 p.m. Do. do. West 2:53 " At Bethany Junction, 3 miles east of Lamoni Trains pass going South at 3:07 a.m. Going East and West, pass at 12:10 a.m.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEarken TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAVE IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.
"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 34.—Whole No. 737.

Lamoni, Iowa, July 2, 1887.

No. 27.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

Business letters and subscriptions must be sent to David Dancer, by P.O. Order, Registered letter or express Entered as second class matter at Lamoni Post Office.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH . . . . . EDITOR.
W. W. BLAIR . . . . . ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, July 2, 1887.

PERSECUTION AND ITS CAUSES.

(Continued from page 307).

WE now call special attention to the instructions of Governor Dunklin to his "aid," Col. J. Thornton quoted in our last paper, in which is the following:

"A more clear and indisputable right does not exist, than that the Mormon people, who were expelled from their homes in Jackson county, to return and live on their lands, and if they can not be persuaded as a matter of POLICY, to give up that right—or, to qualify it—my course, as the chief executive officer of the State is a plain one. The Constitution of the United States declares, that "the citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States!" Then we can not interdict any people who have a political franchise in the United States from emigrating to this State, nor from choosing WHAT PART of the State they will settle in, provided they do not trespass upon the property or rights of others. Our State Constitution declares that the people's 'right to bear arms, in defence of themselves, and of [the] State, can not be questioned.' Then it is their constitutional right to arm themselves. Indeed, our military law makes it the duty of every man, not exempt by law, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, to arm himself with a musket, rifle, or some fire-lock, with a certain quantity of ammunition, &c.; and again, our Constitution says, "that all men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences." I am fully persuaded that the eccentricity of the religious opinions and practices of the Mormons, is at the bottom of the outrages committed against them."

We may confidently believe that the Governor was thoroughly qualified and fully competent to judge of these matters, and that his advice and instructions in the premises were strictly in keeping with the laws of the land. He was painfully aware that the Saints were persecuted because of their religious views and practices, prominent among which were personal, political, and religious freedom for every human being; total abstinence from strong drink as a beverage, and from the use of tobacco in every form, all of which peculiarly distinguished them from the people among whom they were, and made them to be despised, feared, and hated. He knew that the Saints had both the natural and the legal right to emigrate into Missouri, purchase lands, make homes, and bear arms—nay, more; he knew it was "the duty of every man, not exempted by law, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, to arm himself;" and that this included the Saints. He also knew it was his duty, and the duty of the authorities of the State, to protect the Saints in the full enjoyment of their rights, and hence his anxiety and activity in seeking to have their wrongs redressed, and to have them restored to their lands and to all their rights and privileges. He seemed confident that the Saints would soon be restored to their homes in Jackson county from whence they had been ruthlessly driven by the mob, and he repeatedly gave assurances of this to the Saints, as we have hitherto seen. And the Saints, in view of their God-given, natural, and legal rights, moved forward, in harmony with the Constitution and laws of Missouri, (1), some to seek possession of their own homes; (2) others to emigrate into Jackson county, purchase lands and make homes; (3), to "arm themselves," and "bear arms," for self defence, and "for the defence of the State," for this the Constitution and laws of Missouri both permitted and required. In all this they were supporting the law of God which said to them; "Let no man break the laws of the land; for he that keepeth the laws of God hath no need to break the laws of the land; wherefore be subject to the powers that be, until he reigns whose right it is to reign, and subdues all enemies under his feet."—Doc. Cov. 58: 5.

In the midst of these persecutions and afflictions the Lord said to the Saints, (Dec. 16th, 1833), that "they must needs be chastened, and tried, even as Abraham who was commanded to offer up his only son;" (Doc. Cov. 98: 2). And to test the faith and obedience of the Saints, (and evidently to test the laws and prove the authorities of the land, both state and national, that they might be left without excuse), the Lord gave commandments to his Saints (Doc. Cov. 100: 5-7; 102: 1-11) in respect to the redemption of Zion, calling on them to raise men and money and send to Jackson county to aid in this work, (a movement of a somewhat similar kind was carried out successfully afterward by free-state citizens, saving Kansas from slavery and securing for it freedom), not to violate any law, but to act strictly in conformity to law, and in harmony with its administrators. Now the number of the body of men called for "of the strength" of the Lord's house, (presumably of the ministry, whose faith and sincerity the Lord would now try), was limited to anywhere from "five hundred," to "one hundred"—but "one hundred" would answer the purpose. In response to this call, "two hundred and five men, and twenty-five baggage wagons with two or three horses each," constituted the entire outfit." See Times and Seasons, vol. 6, page 1088.

The Governor of Missouri had been officially notified by the Saints, April 24th, 1834, of this company of men coming to aid the Missouri Saints in legally regaining their homes and rights and to locate more lands and families in that vicinity, as we have seen in Herald, page 274, which the reader will do well to examine again.

On the 9th of June Governor Dunklin sent to W. W. Phelps and others an order on "Thomas Pitcher, Lieut. Colonel Commandant of the 23d Regiment," to deliver the arms taken from the Mormons November 5th, previous. And on the 10th of June Judge Ryland wrote to Bro. A. S. Gilbert as follows:

"Sir: Deeply impressed with a desire to do all in my power to settle or allay the disturbances between the 'Mormons' and the citizens of Jackson county, I have concluded that it might have some tendency to effectuate this object by having the 'Mormons' called together at Liberty next Monday, and there explain to them my notions and views of their present situation, and the circumstances attendant. I therefore request you, Sir, to use all your influence with your brethren, to get them to meet me next Monday in Liberty. I much fear and dread the consequences that are yet to ensue, unless I should succeed in my wishes to restore peace. It is the duty of all good men to use all proper and laudable means to restore peace. I expect a deputation of some of the most respectable citizens of Jackson county will meet me on Monday next at Liberty. I call upon you in the name of humanity, therefore, to leave no efforts untried to collect your brethren at Liberty as requested. Should my efforts to make peace, fail of success, there can at least be no wrong, or, Sir, in the attempt, and I shall enjoy the consolation of having done my duty as a man, as well as a Christian.

"I hope, Sir, you will duly appreciate the motive which prompts me to address this letter to you, and will aid me with all your influence with your brethren, in the prosecution of an object so much to be desired by all good men and citizens.

"Yours very respectfully,

"JOHN F. RYLAND."

Times and Seasons, vol. 6, page 1088.

To this the elders replied:

"Near Liberty, 14th June, 1834.

"HON. J. F. RAYLAND, Dear Sir:—Your communication of the 9th inst. from Richmond, was duly received, and at a public meeting of our society this day its contents made known. Our brethren unanimously tender their thanks for the laudable disposition manifested on your part to effect peace between our society and the inhabitants of Jackson county, and as many as conveniently can will be present on Monday next; entertaining some fears that your honor in his zeal for peace, might unwarily recommend a sale of our lands in Jackson county, we have thought it expedient to give seasonable notice that no such proposition could possibly be acceded to by our society.

"We have not heard that it was the intention of your honor to urge any such measure, but our enemies in Jackson county have long been trying to effect this object. In a letter from the Governor to us, he says, 'I have been requested to advise the Mormons to sell out and move away, but believing that it could have no good effect I have withheld my advice.' We give this quotation from the Governor's letter to disprove the statement made in the 'Upper Missouri Enquirer' of last Wednesday, and conclude by adding that 'home is home' and that we want possession of our homes from which we have been wickedly expelled and those rights which belong to us as native free born citizens of the United States.

We are respectfully, your friends and serv'ts

"JOHN CORRILL, Chairman.

"A. S. GILBERT, Secretary.

"The foregoing was enclosed in the following letter to their lawyers:

"Gentlemen: Will you be so good as to read the enclosed, then seal and hand to the Judge. We have given him an early hint fearing that he might be induced by the solicitations of our enemies to propose a sale of our lands, which you well know would be like selling our children into slavery, and the urging of such a measure would avail nothing, unless to produce an excitement against us in this county. As requested last Thursday, we hope you will be present on Monday. Yours friends and servants,

"JOHN CORRILL,
"A. S. GILBERT.

"To Messrs. Doniphan and Atchison."

Times and Seasons, vol. 6, page 1089.

On the 18th of June the Saints' camp of "two hundred and five men" pitched their tents one mile from Richmond, Ray county, Missouri. See Times and Seasons, vol. 6, page 1088.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

LAMONI is having abundant rains since June 7th, and vegetation is growing marvellously; the health of the country is unsurpassed, and the people are hopeful and cheerful.

Bro. David Chambers wrote the 20th of June from Persia, Iowa, saying: "The Lord's Spirit is doing a mighty work here. Twenty-seven have been baptized the past two week, and ten to twenty more I expect will be baptized next Sunday." Bro. Chambers wishes us to say that he keeps the church publications for sale. Persons in his vicinity, therefore, can call on him for them.

We call special attention to "Persecution and its Causes" in this issue, and suggest that the reader examine the revelations of sections 95, 98, 100, and 102, Doctrine and Covenants, in the light of facts set forth in the article.

Bro. O. Baumgartel of Cave Springs, Kansas, says in a late letter that the Saints in that region "are strong in the faith;" and he sends for tracts to distribute.

Bro. C. E. Hand writes from Helena, Iowa, June 15th, that the work is gaining in members and influence in that region, though Satan does rage. Two were baptized at their late two days' meeting, and Brn. Brand, Baker, Nirk, Roth, Shimel and others were doing good work in their several fields.

Bro. George W. Crouse, of Fredrick, Maryland, aged eighty-five years, writes cheerfully of his faith in the church as organized and built up under the presidency of Joseph the Seer, but deplors the harmful conduct of those seeking to mar the reputation of the Seer and destroy his ministerial work. This, Bro. Crouse, is the almost universal sentiment of all Saints.

Bro. W. H. Griffin writes from Fulton, Kentucky, June 16th, saying: "We have opened several new places in Obine county; prospects are brighter; prejudice is giving way; we never felt better in the work than we do at the present."

Bro. John Eames of Cheyenne, Wyoming, writes that he began the use of their new church building in that city the 16th of June. He asks the Saints to pray for his success there, also that good health may be given him. He rejoices in the gospel and expresses ardent love for God and His people, and earnestly exhorts all Saints to shun strong drink and tobacco; he has witnessed great evils arising from their use. Finally, he exhorts the Saints to sincerity, devotion, and to avoid lightmindedness and vanity.

"THE COMING OF CHRIST.

"How many sermons have we heard," says Rev. Dr. Thomas P. Field in the May Andover, 'applying to all that is said of the coming of Christ to the hour of death, which is a perversion of Scripture. And all these great and solemn facts of resurrection and the judgement, and the intermediate state we have not known what to do with, and we have done nothing with them. They have slipped practically out of our theology and out of our preaching, and the souls of men have been consigned at once after death to a heaven or a hell, in which there is no process of moral and spiritual change. All this is plainly contrary to the Scripture. A new and more accurate exegesis appears in the church. The doctrine of the intermediate state is coming into view as the necessary result of just biblical interpretation, and the idea that death is the end of probation for all men has given way to other and more Scriptural views, which are maintained by the ablest and most orthodox commentators and theologians of our times."

Joseph Smith the Seer, hated, maligned, and violently persecuted by the world; distrusted, misunderstood and betrayed "in the house of his friends," had and taught such measures of light upon the above subjects near sixty years ago as but few of the world would receive, but to which many are now carefully feeling their way. "The Spirit and the bride say, Come."

"STAR OF BETHLEHEM.

"It is reported that the famous star of Bethlehem has been re-discovered. Its position is in the northwestern heavens, closely skirting the horizon. It appears about every three hundred years, and the astronomers have been on the lookout for it for several years. Attempts have been made to identify it with the star that guided the wise men of the east to the birthplace of the Savior. In point of fact, its appearance was reported about the time of Christ's birth, and it has appeared five times since. Its orbit is unknown."

That this particular star appeared in the heavens at or about the time of the birth of our Savior there is no occasion to question; but that it was the star which "guided the wise men of the east to the birthplace of the Savior," is more than doubtful, as may be seen by the following:

"Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come worship him. When Herod the king had heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. And when he had gathered all the chief priests and scribes of the people together he demanded of them where Christ should be born. And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judea; for thus it is written by the prophet: And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda; for out of thee shall come a Governor, that shall rule my people Israel. Then Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, inquired of them diligently what time the star appeared. And he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go and search diligently for the young child; and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also. When they had heard the king, they departed; and, lo, the star which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was. When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy." —Matt., 2: 1-10.

From this simple statement it is clear that a divinely luminous body—star—"went before" these wise men "till it came and stood over where the young child was." Note the fact that in its guiding mission it both "came and stood," to indicate, as a heavenly sign, the fact and the person of "he that is born King of the Jews," a work which no star of the planetary heavens could do.

The facts are, it was a supernatural and divine interposition, a special miracle attesting the Messianic character and mission of Jesus as the Savior; and to say otherwise is to pervert the Holy Scriptures and rob them of one from among many marvelous, sustaining and confirming testimonies of the divinity of Christ and his ever blessed gospel of salvation. It is but one of many proofs that genuine religion is based on and builded by miracle.

TOLERATION IN TURKEY—A SIGN OF THE TIMES.

"THERE was a remarkable occurrence at the recent dedication of a church of the American board at Yenije, in the Western Turkey mission. The Turkish governor of the district with members of his council, the judge, and several military officers, in all some twenty Turks, a part of them coming a distance of many miles in order to be present, walked in and took their seats on one side of the pulpit, and after the reading of the scriptures and the prayer of dedication, the governor arose and read a brief address in Turkish, congratulating and commending the Protestant community, and wishing them prosperity as faithful subjects of his majesty, the sultan. A suitable reply having been made, the party of Turks remained to the further services of dedication, and afterward dined with the missionaries and native pastors, and enjoyed an hour of pleasant intercourse."

Truly, God is breaking up the thorny, fallow ground of Mohammedanism, and this is a promise that seed-time and harvest will soon follow there. Herein we see "the work of the Father."

THE Willoughby, Ohio, Independent, contains a letter from Chautauqua Lake, from which we quote:

"The principal topic of conversation on the Lake this spring is the Lakeside School of New Theology, which has secured grounds at Bemus Point, and is preparing for a grand assembly during August. This institution was organized a year ago, by Rev. J. G. Townsend, D.D., who had then lately left the Methodist Church at Buffalo, N. Y., and taken an independent stand at Jamestown, under the name of the New Theology. Dr. Townsend has associated with himself many excellent men in liberal churches, Universalists, Unitarians, Independents and others. The aim of the movement, as stated by its leading men, is to unite the various elements of progressive religious thought, in the interests of a broad and rational theology.

"Among the men who have identified themselves with the movement, and are to address the Assembly this summer, are Thomas Hill, D.D., LL.D., ex-President of Harvard; Rev. A. P. Peabody, D.D., of Cambridge; Rev. A. A. Miner, D.D., of Boston; Rev. E. L. Rexford, D.D., of Detroit; Dr. O. Cone, President of Buchtel College; Dr. H. W. Thomas, of Chicago; Rev. J. T. Sunderland, of Chicago; Rev. E. P. Adams, Dunkirk, besides lecturers on sundry topics other than theological.

"Considering the number of eminent men who have joined forces in the movement, and the fact that the masses of the people, becoming more and more dissatisfied with the old doctrines, are seeking for a more rational and scientific form of theology, the movement seems destined to exert a wide-spread influence. GRAPHO."

We have believed that the theology presented and advocated by Jesus and the apostles was broad enough to afford salvation to all the race of man; and we suggest for the consideration of these men at their conclave the theology of the New Testament as an experiment.

PUNISH TO REFORM.

THE extract below is from the Chicago News, and is worthy of more than passing notice. The nations seem slow to learn that the first purpose of punishment should be the reformation of the culprit; and second, the protection of society. Heaven ordained this kind of punishment for rebellious Israel; (Lev. 26: 14-28); God's punishment purged Jonah of his perversity and qualified him to fill his appointed mission to Nineveh; (Jonah 2: 1-10); the antediluvian sinners were treated in a similar manner; (1 Pet. 3: 18-20, with 4: 5, 6); and the Scriptures teach that such punishment will be meted out to some latter day sinners; (Isa. 24: 21, 22). This doctrine is not new to the Saints; they have believed and taught it for nearly sixty years past, as may be seen from their publications. Here is what the News says:

"House bill No. 774 will, if enacted into law, enable Illinois to make a much-needed improvement in her penal system. It provides for the use of one of the penitentiaries as a reformatory in which such convicts as are susceptible of reformation may be separated from the hardened and incorrigible. It gives courts discretion to commit first offenders, except murderers, to such reformatory upon a general sentence, and authorizes the penitentiary commissioners to terminate such sentence whenever a convict—after having served the minimum term provided by law for his crime—shall have given reasonable ground to believe that he will live without violation of law and without detriment to the welfare of society. At the same time no criminal may be detained beyond the maximum term fixed by the law for his offense.

For nearly twenty years the principle involved in this measure has governed the Elmira reformatory in New York, and it has since been successively adopted in modified degree in several other states. It is the foundation of the prison reform in Great Britain which has so marvelously reduced the prison population and the volume of crime in that country.

"There has been no other single measure presented to this session of the legislature of more vital importance to the citizens of Illinois—not only as tax-payers, but in all their various relations to society. The increase of our prison population is appalling. The old system is directly responsible for the increase. This bill promises a feasible and proved method of reform. The senate should hasten to complete the work of the house on this subject at least."

"THE CHURCH UNREST.

"Instances multiply of the vague feeling of unrest and change that is operative in almost all denominations. Recently a Congregational minister sought the advice of The New York Evangelist as to whether he had not better join the Presbyterians, because the Congregationalists were so loose in matters of faith. And now The Congregationalist, commenting on that fact says: "The comical aspect of the situation from our point of view, however, lies in the fact that we ourselves have lately been approached by a Presbyterian, in good and regular standing, who finds himself in substantially the same difficulty. He says that the nominal and apparent amount of old-fashioned orthodoxy is of course greater with the Presbyterians than with the Congregationalists, because no pastor and no elder can take office among them who does not avow adhesion to the ancient Westminster standards, and this, of course, produces the seeming of a great and satisfying doctrinal uniformity, which surely goes beyond anything which Congregationalists can offer to the public view. But then, he says this is extensively alloyed by the fact that those formulas are avowedly confessed only for substance of doctrine, and that that leaves each man free to determine his own place on the sliding scale of descent toward error. He says, moreover, that in some of the Presbyterian theological seminaries, chairs are held by men whose teachings would be indignantly repudiated by the framers of the Westminster confession; that some such men edit some of their great journals; that Dr. Newman Smyth was a Presbyterian pastor in good and regular standing when chosen abbot professor at Andover; that there is, in point of fact, plenty of Andover theology in the Presbyterian pulpit, while some of the worst latitudinarians who have deteriorated the popular theology were Presbyterian born and bred."

This "unrest" is a healthy indication, and means that the husks of the creeds and catechisms no longer satisfy the soul of the truth-loving worshiper. It means that the gray light of better days for religion has dawned upon longing souls, and that they are somehow conscious that "Old Theology," the offspring of apostate christianity, blended with corrupted Judaism and abominating Paganism is faulty, unauthorized of God, and contrary to correct science, right reason and the revealed word of God. This "church unrest" means also that there is the needed and satisfying light at hand, and that God is stirring up the souls of men to seek it. These conditions of unrest always precede the birth of great and good events, religious, political, scientific and social.

Mothers' Home Column.

EDITED BY SISTER "FRANCES."

"Sometimes glimpses on my sight
Through present wrong, the eternal right;
And, step by step, since time began,
I see the steady gain of man."

"ARE THERE TWO WAYS OF FOLLOWING CHRIST?"

THIS at first, to Latter Day Saints, may appear a strange question, as indeed it is, for there is but one way and that is the narrow one, and it is a straight gate which leads to it; but as the ten virgins had all taken their lamps and gone forth to meet the bridegroom, and all were slumbering contentedly until the cry was heard, "Behold the bridegroom cometh, go ye out to meet him," the way must have been (apparently) the same, even to the time when the foolish ones, finding themselves without oil in their lamps, retraced their steps to buy of those who had to sell. Up to this time we say there could not have been any apparent difference, and yet a difference did exist, and the Savior explains it by his words, "Depart from me, all ye that work iniquity." One of the severest charges ever brought by the Lord against Israel was, "You have caused your children to pass through the fire unto Molech," and if we suffer our children to drink in of all the folly and evil there is in the world, without exercising the restraint of parents upon them, are we doing less than the Israelites did? There is a death which is far more to be avoided than the death of the body which at most is but the separation of the spirit from its mortal tenement. There is a moral and spiritual blight which we may suffer our children to be subjected to, which is infinitely worse than the Ganges or Juggernaut; and it can be done or it has been done by those who fancied they were following the meek and lawly Jesus, who indeed esteemed themselves, in some peculiar sense, favorites of heaven, and rejoiced in the light in which they were walking, who lay down quietly to sleep, awaiting the coming of the bridegroom, and seemed not to understand until they had been refused admittance, that there existed any difference between themselves and the others, who with lamps trimmed and burning had gone into the marriage supper of the Lamb.

There is a completeness, a perfection, a perfect harmony in the gospel of the Son of God, which so entranced many who have been bound down with servile fear to the creeds of men, that when brought into its light and fulness, when their souls are made to rejoice in its power, they become as it were intoxicated with the liberty wherewith Christ hath made them free, and the devil taking advantage of this intoxication, binds them in fetters of another kind, and while they think they are standing fast in the liberty of Christ, they are but his (Satan's) servants, doing his will, and are stumbling blocks in the way of the work they profess to love, (and we truly believe many are honest in this profession). Whi e rejoicing to be free from the creeds of men, they forget that the government of God is perfect, and that Jesus said, "These ought ye to have done and not to leave the other undone." Exulting in liberty, they fail to perceive that there is no liberty given to any one, either in heaven or on earth, to do wrong; and liberty can only come to us as the result of a perfect obedience to a perfect law. They love to talk of the doctrine, because they can so easily defend it by the word of God, but they fail to remember that God is to be glorified by their good works, and how? "Others seeing your good works may glorify your Father who is in heaven."

We know that the people of God are called to be Saints—called to be perfect—commanded to pray, "Thy will be done on earth even as it is in heaven." This state of things can never be attained to by the neglect of any known duty, and because such duties are many times neglected by those professing to be Saints it is often charged against us that we walk very unworthily of the name we profess, and persons who are earnestly seeking the light and truth of the gospel, turn away disheartened when they see that the light we have shines less brightly in our daily walk, than the one we esteem so dim, carried in the hand of our neighbor.

Father Landers upon one occasion told us that one night when in Nauvoo, soon after the Saints first went there, he had just attended one of the meetings of a conference then in session, and after returning to his home and conversing for some time with the brethren who had also been at the meeting, upon the power and glory of God which had been manifested through the presence of his Spirit to the Saints that day, his heart became so full of praise and gratitude to God that he could not retire, but went out to a grove near by, and falling upon his knees begged of the Lord to grant that his people might never be driven again, but that he would suffer them to remain where they now were and sit under their own vine and fig tree. The heart of this man of God was sore when he thought of all the sufferings the people had passed through, and he plead earnestly with God that they might not have to endure any more. While upon his knees, in the stillness of the midnight hour, the voice of the Lord spake to him, bidding his heart be comforted, and told him if his people would keep his law they should never be driven again.

To-day, looking back upon the past we are almost led to say, "Would God that all who had gathered there had been like father Landers," but we pause and check the expression before it is formed even in our heart, for we remember that before Christ could come there had to come a second great falling away—a second apostacy from the truth, and we say, "Father not our will!"

When father Whitehead was with us here in Lamoni a few weeks since, he related a conversation to which he himself was a listener, which occurred a short time before the death of Joseph and Hyrum. They with some others were in the office of Bro. Joseph, when some one put to him these questions: "Bro. Joseph, how long do you think it will be before the Saints will return to Jackson county, and how long before the coming of Christ?" "In answer to your first question brethren," he replied, "I think in about sixty years from the time when the church was first organized, the Saints will begin to gather there; but in regard to your second question I do not know. One thing however I do know, that Christ will never come until there is a people prepared to meet him, if it is not until a thousand years from now."

In this assertion we have unlimited faith; and sisters, it is right in our homes that this preparation must begin. Among the foolish virgins, will the wise ones be found. Among those who have followed the Savior through the waters of baptism and who have taken upon them his name and reproach, will be found those who have not only done this, but have "taken up their cross daily" and followed him. In company with the vessels empty of the oil of his Spirit, will be found those other vessels filled with oil, and with lamps trimmed and burning the wise virgins will go into the marriage supper of the Lamb, for it is written that "His wife shall have made herself ready;" and the fine linen which is granted her to wear is "the righteousness of the Saints." Lift up your heads, ye faithful ones, and let nothing dismay you. Your redemption can not come until the church is purified; and though our hearts may be sad when we see some departing from us, let us take the more diligent heed unto our own steps, to our daily walk and conversation, for if we long for the coming of our Redeemer, we have but to let our lives correspond to the faith we have embraced and the opening heavens will soon reveal him.

Think of trusting our eternal salvation in the hands of God, and then trembling when we see his work and purposes assailed by wicked men. Better we expend all our fears upon ourselves, and "live by every word which proceedeth out of the mouth of God," for if our own salvation were only as well assured unto us as the ultimate triumph of his cause (this very work in which we are now engaged), then might we safely give to the winds of heaven every fear and bestow all our care upon others. May God help each one of us to "Follow with reverent steps the great example

Of him whose holy work was doing good;
So shall the wide earth seem our Father's temple,
Each loving life a psalm of gratitude!"

HOME COLUMN MISSIONARY FUND.

Sr. Catharine Steadman and granddaughter, Lamoni, Iowa.....	61
Sr. Annie.....	00
Sr. Sarah L. McVay, Spickardsville, Mo....	5 00
Sr. Lydia Supry, Lansing, Mich.....	50
Sr. Lilly and Mary Kelly, Lansing, Mich..	50
Sr. M. A. Green, Alila, Cal.....	1 00
Sr. S. C. Dawson, Alila, Cal.....	60
A sister, Centerville, Iowa.....	5 00
Sr. C. Houseman, Fremont, Ind.....	1 00
Little Lottie Gould, Battle Lake, Minn....	05
Josephine, LeRoy and Henry Wood, Dun- lap, Iowa.....	53
Sr. Louisa C. Johnson, Lamoni, Iowa.....	27
Alice and Nettie Preston, Springfield, Neb.	23
Sr. Emma E. Lovell, Davis City, Iowa.....	14
Sr. Laura Fuller, Escanabia, Mich.....	60
LAMONI, Iowa, June 23d.

LAGUNA BEACH, Cal., May 9th.

Dear Sister "Frances:" Though young in years and young in the faith, yet I can not tell you how deeply I sympathize with you in your special work. After reading articles in the Home Column, penned by yourself and other sisters whose hearts are full of the desire to elevate humanity to the standard that God has set for them, I have often yearned to assist as much as I might be permitted to, in carrying forward the slow but sure work. But I have not known how to begin or where. I could think of much that might be said or done, but whether it would come in the right place, should I attempt to write it, I did not know. But the other night a strange desire came to me to write and "tell you all about myself" and circumstances, and then if you could use any of my efforts I should hold myself willing to serve as much as I could.

I was born in New York, but at two years of age moved to Durant, Iowa, twenty-five miles west of Davenport. When twelve years of age I again moved with my parents, this time to California, living on a large farm about seven miles from San Jose. At sixteen, almost against my father's will, but afterwards with his full consent and assistance, I began the course of study at the State Normal School at San Jose, intending to fit myself as a teacher. Here I was led to feel the responsibility a person was under who assumed to teach humanity in the schools, and according to their teaching I was incorrectly led to believe this responsibility extended to all things, both spiritual and temporal. I taught one year after graduating, having "won success," they said; but I wore my body out, and was obliged to rest. My parents had returned to Iowa, but had located at Dow City, in the western part instead of in the eastern part. I resolved to go there, spend some time in recuperating, and then to test the knowledge I had both learned and taught by a period of travel and personal observation throughout the eastern part of the United States.

I had been led to wonder what after all was the end and purpose of existence here, and I hoped by a study of the earth and humanity to find the key which would unlock this mystery. I carried out my resolution, spending three months in constant, studious travel; but I did not find the key. After six months' reflection, on my return home, during which I analyzed to the best of my ability all that I had seen and heard, I gave up in despair. Knowing that no one whom I had interrogated had settled the question, and finding myself unable to do so, I realized for the first time the weakness of unaided humanity, and life and energy seemed to go out from me. For three weeks I was more dead than alive. I knew not what to turn to, for I did not know whether I would be on the right track in any act. The only religion I had was a belief in a Supreme Intelligence ruling and governing all things. I hoped with a faint hope he would also guide all things for those that sought him, and I prayed for some time. I would get up in the night and walk the floor, not daring to lie still for fear my brain would burst, my thoughts came so fast, but I could not yet find out. At last I made one final prayer stating to God I would leave my life in his hands; and if he did not tell me, or direct my life so that I might learn his will, I would bring the fact up at the judgment seat, saying, "Lord, I would have tried to obey, but thou didst not show me the way."

The next day I received a telegram to come to Laguna and take charge of the school here. But meantime peace had come to my spirit, and a faith that I would yet know had been given me. I went on with my school as best I could, but the responsibility forced me to still cry for an answer to my question, and I began to wonder if there really was a God. If so I must have some proof of it.

Throwing down my books in despair one night, I expressed my discontent to some of the family with whom I was boarding. Immediately the sentence was picked up, and discussion followed. I was astonished! Here were people declaring that there is a God, and that he actually does reveal his will to mankind. How hope strengthened within me! And how all things seemed to possess new attractions to me, for now I had a hope that I might understand them. One conversation led to another, and I kept the willing family busy answering questions for about three weeks, when I had an opportunity of having five hours steady conversation with that since most valued friend and able representative of the gospel of Christ, Bro. D. S. Mills. He had come down to Laguna on Saturday, intending to preach in the branch here on Sunday, and on Saturday evening, at my request, he went over the principles of God's salvation and dealings with mankind as fully as he could within the time, from the beginning to the known end; and in my heart, though I watched with the anxiety of a despairing person, I said, "The system is perfect in theory." Then came the question, "Will you obey the requirements and test it?" And after reflecting on the matter that night I said, "I will," and the next day was baptized by brother Mills in the Laguna from which the place takes its name.

But I received no manifestation of the Spirit—nothing from God to positively prove to me that he is, or that he had taken cognizance of my act. The branch that I entered, though zealous in proselyting, were not living to all the commandments of God, and were barren of the gifts, and I had no examples, in the other members, of God's instructing or assuring power to mankind. Oh Father, thou alone knowest the trials our faith was subjected to that first year! A little hope came again, however, when I attended our district conference, where I really felt the presence of the Holy Spirit generally shed abroad. I was also promised by the Spirit of prophecy through Bro. Burton that if I would remain faithful I should surely know the thing I sought, and should be "more than satisfied." At last after looking in vain for more than a year for a manifestation of the Spirit to me, I turned to God's word and began studying the three books as I felt led at different times. They seemed to open up a world of knowledge in themselves, and I began to test myself and others by the words written. I soon saw that it had been wisdom to withhold manifestations from me, for then I had no knowledge as to his purpose, and I also saw how far short our branch came of being worthy of God's gifts and blessings. The delight they had felt in learning such perfect laws as those found in our church, had blinded them to the idea that responsibility comes with knowledge, and though they gladly spread this knowledge, they were not in themselves examples of it. This was a great disappointment to me, and many trials were experienced wherein I over-zealously sought to obey the commandments in my dealings with them. But still, although not used in wisdom, I can see where the heaven has begun to work, and it is now the earnest desire of a few in our branch, not only to thoroughly desire God's commandments, but to make themselves such perfect examples as to be worthy of God's instruction and guidance again. And is not this what all seem to be now working for? Is not purification the present work of the Saints? There is enough in God's written word—taking all of it—to keep us busy for some time in trying to understand and obey, and I pray the Father that he may lead all his Saints to see the practicability of religion, and the close application of it to their every deed and thought.

Since coming here I have been led to see and experience the beauty of God's plan for union in labor; and have now a dear husband, who of all people has been most instrumental in keeping me in the faith, and a darling little baby girl, a constant source of purest joy, as well as an object upon which to exercise that "pure love of God," which should abound in every heart. And now I will close, saying, God aid you in helping just such wives and mothers as I myself am to do their whole duty, according to God's standard, that they may reap the whole reward He has promised to the faithful. And if I can do any thing to assist the work anywhere I shall be glad to give what time I can in making the effort to do so.

Your sister in Christ.

MRS. VINA H. GOFF.

THERE'S ONLY ONE.

There's only One on whose dear arm

We safely lay our cares to rest;
There's only One who knows the depth
Of sorrow in each stricken breast.
There's only One who knows the truth
Amidst this world's deceit and lies;
There's only One who views each care
With just, unselfish, candid eyes.

There's only One who marks the wish
No faltering step severely blames;
There's only One too full of love
To put aside the weakest claims.
There's only One whose pity falls
Like dew upon the wounded heart;
There's only One who never stirs,
Though every enemy and friend depart.

There's only One, when none are by,
To wipe away the falling tear;
There's only One to heal the wound,
And stay the weak one's timid fear.
There's only One who's never harsh,
But tenderness, itself, to all;
There's only One who knows each heart
And listens to its faintest call.

There's only One who understands
And enters into all we feel;
There's only One who views each spring,
And each perplexing wheel in wheel
There's only One who can support,
And who sufficient grace can give
To bear up under every grief,
And spotless in this world to live.

There's only One who will abide
When loved ones in the grave are cold,
There's only One who'll go with me
When this long painful journey's told.
There's only One, I'm sure, will watch
O'er every dear one whom I love;
There's only One can sanctify,
And bring them safe to heaven above.

O, blessed Jesus, Friend of friends!
Come hide us neath thy sheltering arm;
Come down amidst this wicked world,
And keep us from its guilt and harm.
Thou art the One, the only One,
To whom no love too warm can flow,
Thou art the One, the only One,
In whom there's perfect rest below. —Sel.

GREEN'S LANDING, May 3d.

Sister Frances.—I have read the Saints' Herald for some time, and am pleased by reading so many letters from the sisters showing that they are striving to do the Master's will and that they are enjoying his blessed Spirit. Sisters, don't put your hand to the plow and look back, but press your way onward to the mark of the prize of the high calling. It is the one who continues unto the end who shall wear the crown of righteousness.

I joined the church of Latter Day Saints some fifteen years ago, for which I have never been sorry, though sometimes I feel quite cast down and my cross heavy to bear; but I strive to put my trust in God. I know he hears my feeble prayer—thanks to his name that I ever had a willing heart to obey his truth. I have two brothers and sisters out of the ark of safty, and I feel anxious to see the day when they will take up their cross and follow Christ. We have meetings here in the Saint's Chapel every Sabbath afternoon, by Elder G. W. Eaton, who we feel is one of God's chosen ones. Pray for him, dear Saints, that he may do a great work for the Lord. Praying we may never be weary in well doing I will close. Pray for me, for I need the the prayers of all the Saints.

From your sister in Christ,

KATE GREENE.

Correspondence.

WE are permitted to make the following extract from a letter to Bro. H. A. Stebbins from Bro. B. V. Springer, Ray, Indiana.

RAY, Indiana, June 13th.

Bro. Henry.—I spoke twice yesterday (Sunday), once at our church, and once at a school-house two miles south; house full and the best of liberty. I am to speak twice this week at the church, then my next point is Scott township, whence you remember the citizens sent a petition to General Conference for my return. I baptized one of the said petitioners last Monday, at our conference. Our conference of June 4th to 6th was one of the very best I ever attended. Two of those I baptized in Ohio last winter were present, and when they left they said they never before could realize what the day of Pentecost was like. Did I tell you of a dream I had while at Lamoni? I told it to Bro. Blair and others; it was in brief this: I was on the bank of a beautiful lake fishing, and caught four fine pickerel. While fishing I saw a beautiful transparent banner suspended in air, and near the bottom was my name in full, in gold letters; and above the name and on each side was a host of stars glittering like a thousand diamonds. This is the substance of the dream; the sequel. On Saturday I baptized in the beautiful lake a man who had come fifty miles, and on Monday two more arose for baptism. I was a little puzzled because of the number; three instead of four, as in my dream. When we repaired to the lake I waded out to find a better place, and having found it and stuck a stick, I went back to the shore and sat on a grassy bank with my feet in the water while they sang and prayed. I never felt the Spirit in so great a degree in my life; it seemed as though the Father was looking on and approving as when Jesus was baptized of John; the very heavens seemed bathed in smiles above us; and at the close of prayer and song I turned my face to the crowd on the bank and there stood three ready to be baptized; and it does seem now as I think of it, that I never performed the rite with such feelings before; and all agreed that it was so beautifully done; all hearts were glad. There was my dream in number and all complete. To God be all the glory. I expect to go to Ohio next week, to Paulding and Mercer counties. On! On! will be my motto; no time to loiter by the way, and, thank God, no desire to. I feel young, stout and willing to do the little I am capable of doing.

Your brother,
B. V. SPRINGER.

HASTINGS, N. S. W., May 13th.

Dear Herald:—If in my last you thought we must truly have been fatigued with our long coach journey, you will think also that I have taken plenty of time to rest before finishing my story; but the pen is all that has been idle during the interval. We all enjoyed our visit with the Nambucca Saints very much; were made most welcome wherever we went. Had we been a portion of the royal family I don't think they could have shown any more solicitude for our comfort and happiness. I am sure none could be more kind than they were; and I shall ever remember that visit as one of the pleasantest seasons of my life.

The air was clear and very light,—being so high up in the hills—that makes one feel so pleasant and happy. I do not think I ever drank into the spirit of the work more than while there; and many a happy hour was spent in reading the Herald to the sisters, and talking with them concerning the things of the kingdom—that subject that is so dear to us all, and is ever new and interesting. We had many good meetings also, in which all enjoyed the Spirit that both edified and instructed. The children there are interested in the Hope, as will be seen by their effort to help towards having it enlarged. Yes, our stay among that people was indeed very enjoyable. But if it may be thought by some that we women folks ought not to have gone on such an expensive journey, I will say in reply that I believe the good fruits of that visit will remain when expense will be a thing of the past not to be remembered; besides, it was the wish of the Saints, and all joined in bestowing substantial tokens of their love and regard for us.

Our home was at Bro. and Sr. Argent's, but we divided our time between them and Bro. Ballard's family, and visited with them all. We are indebted especially to Bro. George Ballard for much of his time and means used in our behalf. And that reminds me of a miraculous interposition of God's providence, showing that he is the Master, and will stand good for the necessary debts of His ambassadors, which circumstance I will relate farther on. When we were ready to come on our way back, it was just in the hurried season of corn cultivating. Bro. George's corn was sadly in need of attention; the weeds were nearly choking it out. It was necessary that we should be taken two day's journey before we could join the coach. Robbie Argent would take Addie and I in the buggy, but another was needed for Joseph and the luggage. It so happened that no one could go that week but Bro. George, and some thought he ought not to, on account of his corn. But when he saw that we were all anxious to get off that week, nothing could prevent him. He said he would go if he lost his whole crop of corn.

Did he lose it? We shall see. When he was about to leave us at Kempsey, he put a pound note in my hand. I handed it back saying: No, brother, you can not afford this; you have done too much already. But he would not take it, insisted that he could afford it, and that I must keep it. Then I said: "I will receive it, and may the Lord reward you fourfold and more."

At Kempsey we were packed into a large express wagon, in which were a number of iron cases of goods—with only our heads peering above them—galvanized iron beneath us, galvanized in front; galvanized iron behind us, galvanized iron at our side, with the burning sun pouring down on its bright surface, making a perfect furnace of heat. We spread a shawl on those in front to keep from being sunstruck by the reflection. Then our trunk and boxes, and valises for the four passengers besides ourselves were piled high above our heads at the back. Joseph sat on the front tier of boxes with his feet over the side, and another man the same way on the other side, and thus we were to go over those long, high hills. The driver said he had never had such a load before. We had not gone far when I insisted on a more secure lashing of the load at our backs, for they seemed to be settling forward, and if they should take a slide forward in going down one of those long, steep hills, our heads would go with them. So they were made properly secure, and a man stationed at the back to look out for and guard against any accident.

Was the Father's watchful care over us? I do not think we had driven an hour when the sun was obscured by a thick, hazy cloud, and a cool breeze sprang up, nor did the sun break out again during the day. We got into Port Macquarrie between eight and nine in the evening; started again at five in the morning; this time had a covered coach and a good road. Arrived at Taree about four p. m., nearly melted with the heat. Before dark Bro. Sydney Wright rode in town, leading another horse for Joseph to ride back. Immediately after breakfast next morning we made another start for Forster, Joseph going on the horse brought for him, while Addie and I and the luggage were consigned to the care of the parties that took us over that piece of road when we were going. But there was only one conveyance this time. The roads were so bad one of the young men had to be on a horse and ride on ahead often and pick out the way. The little two wheeled spring cart seemed to be in such imminent danger of upsetting on those side-hills that we preferred walking up and down all the bad ones, which was about eight miles of the eighteen. The heat was intense, not a breath of air stirring. We nearly famished for water. There were several miry places at the foot of the hills, but the water was so stagnant we dare not drink it. I hunted a pebble and put in my mouth, but it was hot and not at all satisfying. It was nearly four o'clock when we got to the end of the road and found Bro. Colvin with Bro. Wright's boat waiting for us at the landing.

The woman of the house at the landing made tea and set out some food before us, which was very acceptable indeed, not having had anything to eat or drink since breakfast. As soon as we emerged from the thick woods and came towards the coast, we met a strong breeze, was told that it had been blowing hard all day. There was a little more than we wanted in that small boat, however we got along very well. At dark, as we were rounding a point just back of brother

Wright's house, we were hailed by Bro. Wright and Joseph, who had come to land and pilot us through the bush, a short cut to the house, saw sister Wright coming towards us down the walk with open arms and received us in a kindly embrace. They all welcomed us back, and I felt as if I had got home again after a long journey. How delightful to enjoy the sea breeze, and to see the ocean again and vessels moving about. How very much pleasing sights add to the happiness of life—at least to my life. And here the eye was continually delighted, while every bodily want was supplied by the kindly care of Bro. and Sr. Wright and the Saints. But the most pleasing sight of all was the happy faces of the dear Saints; happy in the light and knowledge they had received. Yet there was a wave of sadness for the loss of our dear sister Leaberg, who was soon transplanted from the church militant to the church triumphant.

We all enjoyed sweet seasons in our meetings; and there also the "word was confirmed by signs following." In some instances the Spirit was manifest in much power. At one, no sooner was the meeting opened than the Spirit seemed to fill the room and rested upon me in such power that I could scarcely keep my seat till my husband was done speaking. As soon as he sat down, I stood upon my feet, my hand was extended towards the stand; but it did not reach far enough and I followed it till it rested on the head of brother Wright. A blessing and a promise was given him in an unknown tongue. Then the hand was raised and pointed upwards while the same language flowed from the lips, and before ceasing the whole body turned towards the congregation, and stepping to the front of the stand both hands went out towards them, and the Spirit spoke words of encouragement to them. The power of the Spirit was felt in every heart, causing them to thrill and tremble with a joy too great for them to express. The interpretation was given to Sr. Wright and one other, (I forget who), but neither of them had the power to rise to their feet and give it. Then it was given through my husband.

Bro. Carter's wife was present for the first time, and wept like a child when she saw and felt the power of God manifest among the people whom she had believed to be wrong. The next afternoon she and her daughter were baptized. In the evening was confirmation, and another season of rejoicing and praising God, many bearing testimony who never had before. We then thought that would be the last evening with them for some time, but as your readers probably know, we did not get off the day we started. As we came back some of the sisters clapped their hands, saying: "O, I am so glad you did not get off; Now we will have another meeting." But the Rev. Thomas, of the Wesleyan persuasion, had come on his quarterly visit, and seeing us board the schooner, considered us safely out of the way, and had a meeting appointed for himself that evening. It must be remembered that his congregation must necessarily be all Latter Day Saints, except the school teacher, for the Romanists never come to hear him.

Since the Saints had been feeding on the real "bread from the Father's house," they had no appetite for husks. But they are a very charitable people, and rather than hurt the young man's feelings most of them went, while some waited for the second bell. Joseph was going to have meeting one hour after his was dismissed. What a pitiable effort he made "wresting the scriptures" to make those people—who had "tasted the good word of God and the powers of the world to come," and whose countenances were still light from the effect of those powers—believe they had received false doctrine. When his meeting was over, he stepped down from the stand and Joseph stepped up, took the same portions of scripture he had used, with the remark that, "when a man preached a sermon it was public property;" and that since the gentleman had spoken against our views, he would show our side, and then proceeded without any further personal reference. But he was not allowed to proceed far unmolested, for Mr. Thomas came suddenly to his feet and found fault with him for "attacking his principles." Joseph answered that they were bible principles that he was speaking of, and consequently as free for one as for another. But Mr. Thomas evidently thought his arguments ought not to be upset, and he used about fifteen minutes of time in making that known. And when at length he concluded to sit down, he sat very light, and sprang up again to call in question whatever did not suit him. At length Joseph said, "I sat quietly during your meetings and heard whatever you had to say; now this is my meeting. Will you have the goodness to sit down and be quiet? You are disturbing the meeting." But he did not feel disposed to sit down, and after a little more talk indignantly took his hat and walked out, after which we had a good meeting. I wondered where he would go, as he always put up at Bro. Wright's, but surely he never intends to go there any more after conducting himself in such an ungentlemanly manner towards Bro. Wright's friend and brother, and all the Latter Day Saints in general. But to our surprise, on entering the sitting-room we found him there on the couch playing with the little children who had been left to keep house. And he must have felt a great respect for Bro. Wright and wife for the kindly manner in which they made him welcome.

He and Joseph kept up the argument till after midnight. The most amusing feature is that he still considers Forster a part of his field, although he has not a solitary member there. But he has been coming and preaching there every four weeks for some time, and has had good pay for it. And even after all but the Romanists had become Latter Day Saints, he still kept on coming, would put his horse in Bro. Wright's barn, eat and sleep at Bro. Wright's house, go over to the hall and preach to a Latter Day Saint congregation against Latter Day Saint doctrine; and then bring around his paper and insist on them paying him for it, and even made the threat that "if they did not pay him he would not come." He fully believes that when that disturber of the clerical peace, and "setter forth of strange doctrines" is out of the way, the people will be as much his as they ever were. I believe there never was but one of his people there, and he is now a deacon of the Forster branch. But the Church of England clergyman understands himself and the people a little better. He has not been back to hold a meeting since the night of the discussion, and the reason he gave was, "because the people would not believe a word he said."

Pardon me for making such a long letter, and

I will quote some from Bro. George Ballard's letter to my husband, and close. He says: "When I returned from Hempsey, I went down to my own place the next day. Well, when I left to go away with you, my corn was very dirty indeed, with weeds almost as thick as they could stand, about six or eight inches high. But when I returned the caterpillars had them eaten down till it looked as bare as the road, only the corn remained untouched. The scene moved me to tears, and I could but kneel and thank my heavenly Father for such a manifestation of his goodness and love. Yes; tell Sister Burton that four times the value of that done for you would not pay for the work done by the caterpillars, and I do not think they harmed a stalk of corn."

SISTER EMMA.

WHEELOCK, Texas, February 8th.

Bro. W. W. Blair:—While I sit in my humble cottage thinking of many things, it occurred to my mind that Isaiah the prophet said in regard to the work of the Lord in the last days, that it would be "a marvelous work and a wonder." And sure enough it is, even in my own case. I was brought up under Baptist influences, and was a member of the Baptist Church about twenty years; preached in said church about sixteen years, and of course I expected to be a Baptist while I lived. I was just as honest and sincere then as now; went and preached to the people through all kinds of weather, and baptized a good number of people both in Texas and Tennessee. I did it in faith, too; and I am confident the good Lord accepted my services inasmuch as I did it in faith, and according to the best knowledge I had. But thanks be to God for the great privilege of hearing the gospel in its fulness, as believed and preached by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. I used to believe the gospel of Christ, but now I know it is the truth. I know it is the power of God unto salvation. Yes; the blessed old gospel; the same that was preached by Jesus Christ and his immediate apostles. It has the same "power" wherever it is preached in its original purity and simplicity by those whom God had sent to preach it. I do thank God that I have lived to hear it as it was first preached, to have the privilege of obeying it, and to realize for myself the blessed effects, having the Holy Ghost to bear witness to the truth of it as believed and taught by the true Latter Day Saints. O, if I only had all of my Baptist brethren of the ministry together so that I could tell them how the good Lord opened my eyes to see wherein I was in error! While I admit that they are honest in their convictions, I know they are in error to a great extent. May God have mercy upon them.

And not only would I love to tell this to the Baptists all over this land and country, but to every other preacher of the various sects. And not only to preachers, but to lay members, too; especially those that are honest in heart and desire to know what the will of the Lord is.

I hope that some honest souls will read this; and may the good Lord bless and sanctify it to their good and his glory is my prayer. While the work of the Lord in these days is "a wonder" to the world, something that they don't understand, I fear that there are many who will continue to wonder who have a knowledge of this glorious gospel as preached in its fulness until it will be too late for them. It seems to me that I have seen some who are convinced of the doctrine which we believe, but who, because it is not popular, will not obey its demands. They are they, I fear, who will "wonder and perish." I have investigated the claims of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints for the last year, and I have had a good many of their books to read, including the debate between Clark Braden, a Campbellite, and Bro. E. L. Kelley, and I must say they have the right ring and are true. My faith continues to increase, thank the Lord. I heartily accept the Bible, Book of Mormon, and Book of Doctrine and Covenants as my rule of faith and practice; for I can find no conflict in their teaching, when understood properly. I pray God's blessing upon his church and people. May Zion continue to flourish, and may there be added unto the church daily such as shall be saved; and may the Lord bless the editors of the Herald.

Yours in Christ Jesus,

E. W. NUNLEY.

GALIEN, Michigan, June 16th.

Bro. Joseph:—Have just returned from the district conference held with Saints of Clear Lake, Indiana, and a season of edification was enjoyed. Indeed it was rather advancing to listen to the glowing reports of "how the gospel wins its way," the renewed vigor and brilliant hopes. Though none of what Paul denominates "the best gifts" were manifested, the conference was characterized by faith, wisdom, knowledge, and peace, endowing all with ardent desires for the onward rolling of the great and good work, demonstrating to the worldly that the accumulation of such graces are subjected to determinate laws, even obedience to "the law of the Spirit of life in Christ." During the sessions Bro. B. V. Springer baptized four persons in the waters of Clear Lake. Attendance good throughout. Coldwater branch was well represented. Saints of Paulding county, Ohio, attended, who are nobly zealous for the work, as also those of Stark county, Indiana. At the last mentioned place we had centralized our labors in the town of Knox, for some time past, and just before conference we baptized four noble persons, one gentleman and three ladies, one head of a family, who we trust will have an influence for good in the kingdom of Christ. A dozen or more are on the verge of uniting with the church at that place.

Since the late General Conference, in Michigan alone, additions to the church have averaged fifty persons per month. Is the work likely to be torn down, and its prestige frittered away at these sweeping strokes? Is not good evolved from evil, occasionally?

Brethren, the land of the "ensign" and "standard" of spiritual Zion is needing labor. The ramparts of error and the battlements of prejudice, through the embrasures of which the artillery of error have directed their deadliest blows, are crumbling, giving evidence of serious decay, preparing the way for the effectual working of the gospel plow. The Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana district is now in a fair condition. Prosperity attends the work all along the line. Grove meetings will be held during the summer, and appointments will be made as early as is practicable, and be announced in Herald. The Coldwater Saints are alive to the cause. Their light may be seen as a "city set on a hill." A firm united band, may that light never grow less. Unity is power. Disunity is weakness—is an element of destruction. A kingdom divided against itself can not stand," is as true now as when uttered by Christ.

May we endeavor to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

LEONARD SCOTT.

PERSIA, IOWA, June 16th.

Bro. Joseph:—Our meetings will continue here over the coming Sunday. Seventeen have been added in this locality by baptism, with three or four promised for Sunday next, and still more expected. The Lord has been with us wonderfully by his Spirit. The young and middle aged who have been baptized during these services have testified of the goodness of God to them. Pray that the Lord may continue to be with us.

Truly, J. C. CRABB.

GALIEN, Mich., June 20th.

BRETHREN JOSEPH SMITH and W. W. BLAIR: Dear Sirs:—On the 4th and 5th inst., I attended a conference in the Northern Michigan district where I met about three hundred and fifty Saints. I seldom ever meet with a more zealous, energetic and spiritual body of Saints than I found there. There have been forty added to the church in that district since our Annual Conference,—twenty by Bro. Cornish, sixteen by Bro. Carpenter, and four during the conference. Brethren Cornish and Carpenter, aided by brethren DeLong and Barr, are doing a noble work in that district. Bro. Carpenter, district secretary, informs me there are between seven and eight hundred in that district.

It was stated there were about seven hundred present during the meetings on Sunday. A greater interest manifested by both those in the church and out, I never met than was exhibited there. Also attended conference on the 11th and 12th at Bleinheim, Ontario, where I met a body of noble Saints; brethren John H. Lake, Mayhew, J. H. McIntosh and Arthur Leverton, are able defenders of the faith; also learned that Bro. Evans was doing a noble work. The work seems to be in a prosperous condition in that mission.

The outlook for the work financially exceeds any previous year during the same period. The Saints appear to take hold with an understanding and determination on their part that this work shall roll on, and elders be left without an excuse.

I am your co-laborer for Christ,

G. A. BLAKESLEE.

KNOX, Indiana, June 14th.

Dear Herald:—You are ever a welcome visitor at our house, furnishing bread to hungry souls. There is no branch here, but we pray there may be in the near future. Elder Leonard Scott has done much good here. There are some nearly persuaded to take up their cross. Others are investigating. We look for his return to finish his work. He is an able speaker and worthy of his calling. I attended the Clear Lake conference and had a most enjoyable time. The Clear Lake branch is a good band of Saints, and are alive in the work. I was more than pleased to meet Bro. and Sr. B. V. Springer. I feel more than ever determined to press onward.

Your sister in the one faith,

MOLLIE PRETTYMAN.

NASHVILLE, IOWA, June 8th.

Dear Herald:—We are neither dead nor sleeping, but busy at the Master's work. The last two conference sessions of this district have been marked by unity, peace, and active measures in the interest of the gospel's spread. After a long season of stagnation, (attributable to various causes), the work is really "looking up." Many friends have been made to the cause, some are investigating with intention to ascertain the truth a few, (seven), have united with us by baptism, the majority concede us respect and courtesy when we deserve it; am sorry to know of reason for a withholding of these tributes from any who bear the name of "Saint," but true it is, the unsaintly walk of some does militate against the fair name of the church in this district. What a comfort it is on making inquiry for Saints in a new field to hear a hearty, "O yes, I know them;" and the volunteered comment, "and nice folks they are too." I tell you, dear Saints, that is a louder sermon than anything spoken from the desk. Nothing so effectually handicaps the adversary as the power of a holy life; against this he has no weapons whose edge does not turn like pewter. Multiply these "turtle forts" in all the borders of Zion, and throughout all her possessions, and the result is sure to be victory for the army of the Lord. Who in all the hosts of Israel does not feel strengthened to know of the evident acceptance of the Reorganization's labors by the good Father, manifest at Kirtland Conference. Although I did not hear the revelation read before the assembly, nor hear any testimony from direct witnesses present, yet on reading the text of same in the Herald the Spirit bore witness, with sensible burning, the genuineness of which I can not doubt. False spirits do not burn, as a prominent spiritualist told me after one of my discourses here. "Feel my hand sir! I am always cold like that when under spirit influence." "He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire," says John of Jesus.

I had the pleasure lately of baptizing two elderly people who have for months been studying the restored plan; one will unite with the earnest, live little band in Davenport, and the other likely with the Batternut Grove branch.

The Rev. (?) M. T. Lamb had been firing "paper wads" at fifty cents each at the Book of Mormon, and manufacturing statistics calculated to militate against the Reorganization, "all a labor of love;" collection taken up and donations solicited to help save the fifty thousand honest but deluded Mormons, and support the Rev. (?) Lamb. He was challenged to debate, but he had heard how C. B. [Clark Braden.—Ed.] had got used up at the hands of E. L. Kelley, and it made him "tired;" he only wanted to debate for "truth's sake" and "gate receipts." Bah! he was afraid of our "Irish Hunters." I read his wonderful "Golden Bible" carefully as prescribed, and—still I am a Mormon. He lectured in Buffalo, sold his books, and people said, "I shouldn't think a Mormon would ever show his head again." One of them did, though, and announced a reply to his attack of the church and the Book of Mormon. In this discourse Professor Dana's Geological works, (late) "Joseph the Seer," the Book of Mormon, Bible, common sense, and the Spirit of God were valuable aids, and I don't think it was entirely egotism to say the truth "came out on top." Those who were officious in their efforts to aid Mr. Lamb in slaughtering the "work" were conspicuous by their absence, although they had special notice and invitation to hear. The Saints there seem determined to stand by the ship as staunchly as ever.

On behalf of the district I venture to say we are glad of the action of General Conference in returning J. S. Roth here; we need him. Three candidates to confirm at this writing. Steady all along the line, shoot low, keep together, obey orders, and the victory will perch on the banners of "the people of the Saints of the most high."

Yours in bonds,

W. T. MAITLAND.

XENIA, Ill., June 13th.

Bro. Joseph: Our conference has just closed; had a pleasant time. Last week Bro. Hilliard and I organized the Parrish branch, in Franklin county, Illinois. James M. Pucket was ordained priest, and Aaron Burleson and Andrew H. Johnson teachers. The branch numbers twenty-five. Seven were baptized during our stay, and many more are believing. Hope to see others obey ere long. Many calls for preaching. I am doing all I can for the work, under my circumstances. My health is poor, but my faith in the gospel is not weakened. Think we are making some progress in this district. The elders seem determined to hold what ground we have gained, and push on to conquer new fields. My heart is in the work, and I long to see it spread to the uttermost parts of the globe. May God bless you.

As ever,

ISAAC M. SMITH.

WHITING, Kan., June 13th.

Bro. Joseph and William:—We wish to call the attention of those having the mission in this country, to the fact that there is a large territory within this district (Central Kansas) thickly inhabited, and school-houses are numerous, and we think it is as an inviting field for mission labor as there is in the country anywhere; the district also needs a visit from the ministry for its revival and to set it in a working order. There has not been for a long time, nor is there now but very little preaching done in the district; we earnestly wish the above will move some brother and bring him here, and we are satisfied that he will not fail to do much good for the district and the spreading of the gospel news in this country. Wishing the prosperity of the church and the salvation of men,

In bonds,

H. GREEN.

MEDINA CITY, Tex., June 11th.

Bro. Blair:—This is a hard place to labor in. Evils practiced here just after the death of the prophet cast a darkness over the truth that never has dispersed. I am doing what I can to get a hearing, and by the help of God and the Saints here I think will ere long prevail. Brother and myself have taught two singing schools near here of late, and I have been solicited to preach, which I shall try to do soon; have appointments out now every Sunday, and expect to preach some during the week. I feel thankful we have the blessed assurance that "a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump." And no matter how discouraging sometimes things appear, we have only to do away with old self, and his opinions, and remember the work is the Lord's. As Bro. E. A. Davis says, there is "a time for sowing, and a time for reaping." This seems a drouthy place, spiritually, to sow, but some seed may fall on good ground. Now I have a work assigned me under Bro. I. N. Roberts, and I ask your prayers. God has blessed me of late with light and liberty in proclaiming his word to the people. I want to be more humble, and have more of the Spirit of God and less of the spirit of self. We are commanded to "love the Lord with all our heart, soul, mind and strength," and present our "bodies a living sacrifice to God." If that leaves any part for self I don't see it. "Heirs of God and joint heirs with the Lord Jesus Christ," means all when rightly considered. I feel to thank God to-night that I am once more at work.

J. A. CURRIE, Jr.

MOORHEAD, Iowa, June 13th.

Dear Herald:—I returned from Persia, Iowa, last Saturday, where I had been in attendance at our quarterly conference, staying over till Friday at eight a. m., to attend the meetings held during the time. We had preaching service each evening and social, spiritual feasts each 2:30, p. m. Brn. Blair, Derry, Crabb, Whiting, Peak and Wight did the preaching. Our social meetings with not a single exception, were feasts indeed, bringing that calm and peaceful influence coming only from the Comforter. From the tottering adult with tears streaming, to the child of thirteen, all seemed to vie with each other in telling of the goodness of God.

A new and peculiar experience was had, and through the promptings of the Spirit we were led to do a new kind of work, the which we trust will bear fruit at no distant day. Five had been baptized and the names of others given. We found the Saints kind and hospitable, and it was with regret that we took the parting hand.

Where on earth beside is found so glorious a work!

J. W. WIGHT.

SWEET HOME, Oregon, June 11th.

Brn. Joseph and Blair:—I am glad to inform you that my health is considerably improved, and that I have just concluded a six nights debate on the question, "Is the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints the Church of God in fact, and accepted with him."

My opponent, Mr. Russell, a young man of more than ordinary talent, dealt with us much fairer than the most of our opposers, for he did not enter into abuse of character, slang, nor vituperation; but confined himself to finding fault with the Book of Mormon, Doctrine and Covenants, and the Inspired Translation, trying to make them contradict each other, and so sought to meet the question. But from the feelings of the people and the interest manifested, at the close it was plain to be seen he had missed his mark. The interest was good throughout, people coming eight and ten miles and filling the house. I never saw as good order and close attention in any debate that I ever attended. And it was plainly manifested, especially on the last night, that we had gained favor and friendship with the people. They showed that they had been happily disappointed, as they had expected a quarrel and a contention as they had seen in other debates. I can safely say that the truth did not lose anything from the debate. I need help, as this is a very large field, and in my enfeebled and crippled condition I can not do as much as should be done here, but will do all I can. I hope some way will be opened to send a man that can stay here some time, as it will take time and example to remove the prejudice that exists here. This field is in close proximity to Utah, and many of the old settlers are from Missouri and Illinois, and they have instilled the old stories and prejudices into their children, and they are harder to remove than with the old people. I have been blessed with good liberty in preaching, and in the debate also, and my faith has been strengthened in the great work before us. Ever praying for the prosperity and redemption of Zion,

Your in gospel bonds,

A. HAWS.

DETROIT, Minn., June 13th.

Dear Herald:—Our district conference is a thing of the past, but the lessons we learned and the blessings received I hope will abide with us. There were about ninety Saints, and friends to make about one hundred and fifty. The best of feelings prevailed, a perfect unity as far as I could discern, and a desire on the part of the Saints to hold up the standard of King Emmanuel. The Holy Spirit was with us, and it warmed our hearts and took away all hardness and bitterness. Our business was carried out in a spirit of harmony and all seemed satisfied with the proceedings. Your humble servant was chosen district president, brother Freeman Anderson vice-president, and Bro. Barnhard clerk.

I feel like thanking the Twelve for defining the duties of district president, for there was a difference of opinion; now it is all plain, and I hope the Saints of this district will unite with their officers and help to build on the one foundation, as God wills. Our preaching meetings were well attended, and the best of attention given. Bro. Mosier preached Saturday evening, and in his peculiar way set forth the truth of the latter day work. It told on all that heard it, for Bro. Mosier has passed through the furnace of affliction and has come out purified.

But what I enjoyed better than all was our sacrament and testimony meeting held Sunday evening. The Spirit of God was there, and spake to us saying, "My children." What could make us feel better than that God was our Father and we his children! Another thing that made us rejoice was the presence of our good Bro. Tabbut, who has been sick for the past two years. Some have seemed to think that the promise of the Spirit that he should preach this gospel would not be in this world, but to the spirits in prison. We thank God that, though brought down to death's door, God has raised him up. He works some every day. He took part in our conference and enjoys God's Spirit. Bro. Foss is doing what he can. One was baptized at conference.

Yours with the love of Christ,

T. J. MARTIN.

MONTOUR, Iowa, June 14th.

Bro. Joseph:—I was baptized eight years ago last May. I am a member of the Sheridan branch; was baptized by Bro. D. C. White. I thank God to-day that he ever sent me the gospel, for I know it is the everlasting gospel. I seldom have a chance of meeting with the Saints as there are none here. My heart was made to rejoice the past week for Brother J. S. Roth was here and filled an appointment. We had a very good audience, and they were very attentive. He preached Saturday evening, and Sunday morning at ten. It was like a glorious shower to the thirsty earth. The power of God was there. People are inquiring, "Where does that man live? we must have him back; he preached more truth than we ever heard before." I feel sure that here is a good opening, and that much good will be done if appointments are kept up. I would be glad to have any elder come and preach to this people. They will find a home at my house.

Yours in the faith,

M. J. KENNEL.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

CYCLONES.

"ONE OF THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES."

WE gather from the newspapers that cyclones are getting to be quite common, and that their destructive power is terribly great, spreading devastation along their route, resulting oftentimes in loss of life in appalling numbers; that nothing can withstand their force, for the stately tree whose top reaches high in air, whose trunk has assumed huge proportions, and whose roots that are of large dimensions sunk deep in the earth, has to succumb to this king of terrors, as also the houses, barns, fences and everything that chances to be in its path—nothing is exempt.

Man's inventive genius is at fault to stop the onward march of one of these monsters; he is powerless as the feather in the hurricane, and their visits are of such frequent occurrence that people begin to fear at the approach of a thunder-storm, and seek their cellars or places (as they think) of safety.

Some would be philosophers have advanced the idea that they lived in such altitudes, or latitudes, that they were out of the line of these spoilers, therefore had no need to fear their visiting them, and before their ink had got fairly dry, lo, and behold, one of these funnel-shaped specimens carried destruction, devastation and ruin in their vicinity.

THE CYCLONE IS OF MODERN DATE.

History does not furnish us with an account of any in this country prior to 1830, that we have ever heard or read of. The Savior in his enumeration of the signs of the times, utters the following language, "Men's hearts shall fail them for fear, and for looking for those things which are coming on the earth." In this quotation "things" only are mentioned, not specific; and the "things" were to come on the earth. Well; the writer thinks that the "thing" which has come the nearest fulfilling that prediction is the cyclone; for it comes on the earth with a vengeance, and causes great fear in the hearts of men, more so than anything that has made its appearance.

There is a noticeable characteristic in the movement of this wind-cloud. All that have attempted to describe its movements say it comes with a whirling motion; and therein, it is thought, is the secret of its great power. This brings us to consider a prophecy uttered by Jeremiah, and also one uttered by the "Palmyra Seer." Jeremiah 30: 23, 24, reads:

"Behold, the whirlwind of the Lord goeth forth with fury, a continuing whirlwind; it shall fall with pain upon the head of the wicked. The fierce anger of the Lord shall not return until he have done it, and until he have performed the intents of his heart; in the latter days ye shall consider it."

We perceive that the prophet declares that "the whirlwind of the Lord goeth forth with fury, a continuing whirlwind."

The hurricane, tornado, or common wind storms does not come with a whirl, that motion is left to the cyclone. And none of the former comes with such fury and spreads such devastation as the latter. And it was to be a continuing whirlwind, and fall with pain upon the head of the wicked. The people of God need not fear.

We think from the continued accounts of the whirlwind's visits in different parts of the land, that it bids fair to be, or may lay claim to be, a continuous visitor; and if we want to know when this whirlwind of the Lord should go forth, the answer is in the last sentence of the quotation, "In the latter days ye shall consider it."

As the people now living upon the earth are considering it, and their hearts fail them, and their faces gather paleness at the mention, much more the actual approach of one of these furies, we conclude that we are living in the latter days, in the days preceeding the coming of the Son of Man, and that this whirlwind, or cyclone, is one of the "things" spoken of as coming on the earth, and is one of the signs of Christ's second coming.

The latter-day prophet says:

"For behold, and lo, vengeance cometh speedily upon the ungodly, as the whirlwind, and who shall escape it? The Lord's scourge shall pass over by night and by day; and the report thereof shall vex all people; yet it shall not be stayed until the Lord come."

We see a striking corroboration in the latter day Seer's prediction and that of Jeremiah. One says "the whirlwind of the Lord goeth forth with fury, a continual whirlwind;" the other says "the Lord's scourge" as "the whirlwind shall pass over by night and by day." One says it shall continue, and be considered, in the latter days; the other says it "shall not be stayed until the Lord come." Both agree as to time; both agree as to the manner this great scourge shall fall upon the ungodly. The Lord revealed to Jeremiah that it should take place at a future time from his day; the Lord revealed to His servant in this day, in the year 1833, these are the latter days, the time of the fulfillment of Jeremiah's prophecy; "for behold it cometh speedily," and the people of the earth can testify to the truth of the declaration that it is being fulfilled; for fear lest it should come on the earth in their vicinity, as it has done in other locations, has taken possession of their hearts. The only safety in the writers opinion, is in keeping to commandments of God. For this scourge is to fall with pain upon the head of the wicked.

E. STAFFORD.

"WHAT THINK YE OF CHRIST?"

I SHALL not pretend to tell all that I think of Christ, in this article, nor to tell what the church may think; but I have a few thoughts that I believe will be profitable to the church to hear, therefore write them for the columns of the Herald.

I. I THINK THAT CHRIST PRE-EXISTED.

I mean that he was a personal being; a conscious entity, before he was born of, or made flesh; before a body was prepared him in the womb of Mary the Virgin. I can not separate the idea of existence, and that of substantiality. An "immaterial substance" that some theologians prate so much about, is simply an impossibility.

Whatever can be seen, heard, tasted, smelled, or felt is substantial. That which can not be seen, or heard, or tasted or smelled, or felt is properly called nothing. All substances are not alike in their constituent elements, or organic qualities, nor in their forms, operations, influences, effects, purposes or uses. Because some people may not comprehend conscious existence, except in a corporeal, physical or gross material form, it does not follow that there may not be real, living, conscious entities, and personal beings, who possess the power to make themselves visible to whomsoever they will, and who can be heard, and who may be personally touched and felt. That there is a class of beings called spirits, the Scriptures plainly declare, but that these spirits are "immaterial, uncompounded, simple essence," neither reason or revelation affirm.

On the contrary, Jesus, whom Paul declares was made a "quickening spirit," was a substantial being composed of "flesh and bones." Now if there was but one kind of flesh, and that of earthly material; then we may argue that a spirit must be earthy, but we learn that the body of Jesus after his resurrection was not earthy but heavenly; and in that respect it differs from the body of Adam, and of Adam's seed. And that as Jesus received a fleshly or Adamic nature from his mother, or that "he took not on him the nature of angels, but he took on him the seed of Abraham," or in other words, the nature of the seed of Abraham, or the nature of Abraham. This nature or flesh must have undergone a change in the resurrection, so that it was no longer earthy and therefore corruptible, but became heavenly and incorruptible, and was a "spiritual body," even a "quickening spirit;" yet was a real, tangible, substantial body, that could eat, and drink, and walk and talk and could be handled. But no more so than so than angels in general could do, and angels are spirits, as Paul declares "And of the angels, he saith, who maketh his angels spirits." "And are they not all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister unto them who shall be heirs of salvation."—Heb. 1: 7, 14.

That angels (who are spirits) could be seen, heard and felt, and could eat, drink, sleep, walk and talk, and thus prove their personality, and substantiality, and tangibility, is seen by the record of the doings of some of them, as for instance in Gen.

19: 1-3, 15, 16. Luke 1: 26-38. Acts 12: 7-10; 27: 23, 24.

That a spirit, or a spiritual body, while possessed of personality, and organs corresponding to those possessed by human beings, can nevertheless perform feats that could not be done by human flesh, is evident from the fact, that Jesus in his resurrected or spiritual body could enter an house, while the doors were shut. John 20: 26. There is no sense in John saying that, unless he meant to convey the idea, that Jesus did not enter in an ordinary way. Millions of people have found doors shut, and have opened them, and have gone inside the house; but the 19th verse implies that the doors were fastened, and not merely shut, because of "fear of the Jews."

The idea that John intended to convey evidently was, that Jesus appearing in their midst, when the doors were fastened was miraculous. Jesus' body was not only begotten by the Holy Spirit, but was resurrected by that Spirit, or in other words, he was born of the spirit through the resurrection, and therefore could do as he said to Nicodemus. John 3: 8.

Now by way of digression for a moment. If our vile bodies—or our earthly bodies, which are fashioned after the body or nature of Adam, are to be changed, and fashioned like unto Christ's "glorious body," so that having borne the image of the first Adam in that we are like him, living souls, and earthy, and mortal; we shall bear the image of the second Adam, and have spiritual bodies, and be heavenly or angelic, and be quickening spirits also; and being born of the Spirit in our bodies, or the outward man as we now are in our spirits, or in the inner man; as the "wind bloweth where it listeth," so may we if we are to be quickening spirits, go where we please. What obstruction prison doors and keepers standing before them, and chains, and stocks, were to angelic spirits may be seen in Acts 5: 18-23; 12: 6-10.

In Daniel 9 we have the record of a prayer uttered by Daniel, which probably occupied him about six or eight minutes, the angel Gabriel appeared to him while he was praying, and told him that at the beginning of his supplication, he was commanded to come to him and enlighten him. The point I wish to make is, that as soon as Daniel began to pray God sent the Angel Gabriel who came from heaven while Daniel was yet praying. If we consider heaven to be only as far away as the nearest star, we can not comprehend the swiftness of the flight of the angel, or the infinitesimal measure of that he took in coming from heaven to earth. Suppose that heaven was but one million of miles away, and that the angel came at the end of the prayer instead of the beginning of it, and it took Daniel one hour to utter the prayer, he would then fly over 166,666 miles in a minute, or over 2777 miles in a second. If this is incredible, what are we going to do with Paul's declaration "we shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye."? Those who were burnt up, and those who the fish and wild beasts have eaten, and those whose dust has been absorbed by worms, and plants, all will be resurrected, and changed from mortality to immortality in "a moment, in the twinkling of an eye."

The Book of Mormon tells us of three of the Nephite apostles who did not die, but received a change, which would enable them to live on, and to show themselves to whom they pleased, and nothing could harm them, and some have seen them, and they have appeared and disappeared in ways that in human judgment were impracticable if not impossible. My object in digressing (or apparently so), from the question of Christ's pre-existence is to sustain the ground that there are personal beings in human form, yet not of mortal or earthly substance, but of a spiritual, heavenly or angelic nature; and who really exist, and are capable of performing acts similar to those that man can do, or in other words who have the form of man, and possess similar faculties, powers, or attributes to man, and can do all that man can do in the exercise of his physical senses, and that they exercise powers which the human or earthly creature can not now, nor ever could exercise.

A spirit is not "an immaterial, uncompounded simple essence," and when Jesus said that "God is a Spirit," he could not mean that he was "without body, parts, or passions," and had "neither weight, space, size or color," and had "neither interior or exterior surface," and that he "could in nowise come in contact with matter," for he well knew that he was in past ages himself a Spirit, and that he would be in his resurrected state, a "quickening Spirit," and that this "quickening Spirit," had a body of "flesh and bones," and could eat and drink, and be handled, which no "immaterial uncompounded, simple essence" could very well do.

But says one, Does not Jesus say that a "Spirit hath not flesh and bones as ye see me have." Yes, but he was a "quickening Spirit," nevertheless. Now the trouble is, that the word "pneuma" commonly rendered spirit, was not the word used, at least so some of the lexicographers affirm, but the Greek word "phantasma," from which our word "phantom" is derived, and which means, "an apparition," or "a ghost," and not a spirit; such as Christ himself was, and as angels are.

They thought that they saw a ghost or phantom.

If any one should argue that Christ's body was not a spiritual body, and was not a glorified body till after he ascended to heaven, I would call their attention to the fact, that Christ was the first of them that slept, and of course, a sample of the harvest, and that Paul says that the body that is sown or planted; is "sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body." "It is sown in corruption, it is raised in incorruption." Again: "The dead shall be raised incorruptible." Now he does not say that it is raised corruptible, or natural, and afterwards changed; but that it is raised a spiritual and incorruptible body, and if that is to be true of the Saints or the church, or body of Christ, it was true of Christ, the head.

So we contend that Christ's resurrected body was a spiritual body, and not a natural or earthly one. All that was corruptible, earthly, or human was eliminated, and he was then a "quickening Spirit," and as "We have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly." And the Lord Jesus "Shall change our vile (earthly, mortal, human) body, that it may be fashioned like unto His glorious body," so said Paul.—1 Cor., 15: 42-52; Phil., 3: 20, 21.

DID CHRIST PRE-EXIST? IF SO HOW?

Yes; as a personal spiritual being. Now I believe that the personage who is called the "Lord God," the "Lord," and the "Angel of the Lord," in the Old Testament was none other than the Son of God, and was not the Father. Believing this, I can understand how that the sayings of Christ, that "No man hath seen God at any time," "Not that any man hath seen the Father," and the word of Paul, that he is the "invisible God," can be reconciled with the teaching of the Old Testament, that Abraham, Jacob, and Moses, and others did see God and talked face to face with him, and that Moses saw his back parts. And who was that in the fiery furnace."—Daniel 3: 25.

Jesus told the Jews that Abraham did not try to kill him, as they did; and that Abraham rejoiced to see his day, and "saw it and was glad." And when they replied that he was not yet fifty years old, and could not therefore have seen Abraham, he said: "Before Abraham was, I am." The God whom those who believed did see in the former days, was the Son who represented the Father.

"No man hath seen God (i. e., the Father) at any time, the only begotten Son which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him."—John 1: 18. That is just it. The Son hath declared or revealed the Father.

Jesus explains the matter still further in John 14: 8, 9. Philip desired the Son to show them the Father; Jesus said, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father."

What had they seen? The Spirit of Christ—the pre-existent Christ? Nay, but the body received from Mary.

Paul says that Jesus was "The brightness of the Father's glory, and the express image of his person."—Heb. 1: 3. Again, he is "The image of the invisible God."—Col., 1: 15. Now as Jesus was sent by the Father to earth to do his will, teach his word, do his works, and reveal his purposes, or to manifest or declare the Father, and was therefore the agent or representative of the Father, and beside being the express image of his person, and in whom the fulness of the God-head dwelt; he that saw the Son, saw the Father, yet for all that he was not the Father personally, for the Father was in heaven at the time as Jesus himself repeatedly declared.

Representatively therefore was he the Father. If any assume that he was truly and personally the Father, then that part which Philip said was the Father, which of course was his body and not his Spirit; yet that body was the Son as all admit, the Only Begotten of the Father.

Now I do not believe that the Spirit was the Father either, for if so, then there was no pre-existent Christ, or Son of God, but the Father only, and that contradicts all the Scriptures which show that the Son of God created the world, and was with the Father before the world was, as we will see further on. I hold therefore that the spiritual and the physical Christ, or the spirit and body were both separately and unitedly the Son of God. And that the Father was in heaven when the Son was on earth, and that all those appearances of God in the past ages were the manifestations of the Son, as the representative of the Father, and that when Jesus declared that "No man hath seen God at any time," and that "Not that any man hath seen the Father," he spoke the truth, and meant what he said. And only those who had sufficient faith ever saw the Son, who is called God; the Lord God; the Lord, &c.

I can not see any trouble in calling the Son, God, or the Almighty, or any other title of the Father. These names are definitive, and descriptive of character, of attributes, of authority, of office, and work. Jesus is the Son of God, and can with propriety be called after the name of his Father, especially if "all power in heaven and on earth" has been given him of the Father. But while he is called God, and is God, yet there is a being who is his Father, and his God.

Witness his own testimony and that of the Father, and of some of the apostles:—John 20: 17; 10: 36; 8: 42; 3: 16, 17, 35. Matt. 3: 17. Luke 9: 35. Eph. 1: 3, 17. 2 Cor. 3. 1 Peter 1: 3. Heb. 1: 5, 8, 9. I understand therefore that the Lord God of the Old Testament was the Son and not the Father, and if so then we have the Son pre-existing, not as the "word" or logos simply, but as a personal entity, and the representative of the Father.

Let us see what is meant in Numbers 12: 6, 7, 8:—"If there be a prophet among you, I, the Lord will make myself known unto him in a vision, and will speak unto him in a dream. My servant Moses is not so, who is faithful in all mine house. With him I will speak mouth to mouth, even apparently, and not in dark speeches; and the similitude of the Lord shall he behold." Who is this "similitude of the Lord?" Clearly, the representative of the Lord, the one who is his "image," even the "express image of his person."

Jesus says Abraham did not seek to kill him, and that Abraham saw his day, and before Abraham he was, as we have already said, so that Abraham must have seen the Son and not the Father. The personage that Abraham saw was called God, the Almighty God, and the Lord. But "no man hath seen God (i. e. the Father) at any time, the only begotten Son, who is in the bosom of the Father he hath declared (i. e. revealed, or manifested) him." Now let us see whether the Father alone was concerned in the creation of the world, and indeed we may ask did the Father create the world, or did he do it by or through his Son? Did God the Father create or did he give the power and authority to the Son to create, as a man who wished an house built would authorize or empower the carpenter and builder to do it? We say that Bro. Blair has built a new nouse, yet Bro. Blair did not do anything personally, but Bro. White built it, i. e., he did the work. It is proper to say that Bro. Blair built the house, and also that Bro. White built it; the former built it through the latter. Now it may happen that we may discover some such an idea in the work of creating the world. Let us see. John in speaking of Christ, says, "All things were made by him, and without him was not anything made that was made." Again, "The world was made by him."—John 1:3, 10. "He is the image of the invisible God; the first born of every creature, for by him were all things created, that are in heaven and in earth. * * * All things were created by him and for him. And he is before all things and by him all things consist." Col. 1:15, 16, 17. "But to us there is but one God, the Father of whom are all things, and we are in him, and one Lord Jesus Christ by whom are all things, and we by him."—1 Cor. 8:6. "God who created all things by Jesus Christ."—Eph. 1:11:9. "Hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds."—Heb. 1:2. From this it appears that the Father created all things by or through his Son, and that he was before all things, and that by him all things consist, and that he was the first born of every creature. Paul calls him the "first begotten." Not only therefore is he the Only Begotten Son, in the matter of a fleshly body, (begotten of God, but conceived and brought forth of woman), but he is also the "first born" or "first begotten," which must have been in the Spirit.

He it was therefore who said, "Let us make man in our image, after our likeness." And it was he who was Adam's creator, and Adam's God. Was not Adam made in the image of God, the Father? Certainly, because while created by the Son in his image, he in turn was "the image of the invisible God." "The express image of his person." Invisible to man, but not to the Son, nor the angels who kept their first estate. God is seen and heard, and made known, and understood through the Son. The angels, who are ministering spirits to those who shall be heirs of salvation, which includes little children, behold the face of their Father in heaven; but at the same time he dwells in the light, "which no man can approach unto, and whom no man hath seen, or can see."—1 Tim. 6:16.

WHAT DOES JESUS HIMSELF SAY OF HIS PRE-EXISTENCE?

He prays the Father thus: "And now O Father, glorify me with thine own self, with the glory which I had with thee before the world was."—John 12:5. "I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world; again I leave the word, and go to the Father."—16:28. "For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of him that sent me."—6:38. "For I proceeded forth and came from God; neither came I of myself, but he sent me."—8:42.

WHAT FURTHER SAY THE APOSTLES CONCERNING CHRIST'S PRE-EXISTENCE?

"Of which salvation the prophets have enquired, and searched diligently, who prophesied of the grace that should come unto you: searching what, or what manner of time the Spirit of Christ which was in them did signify, when it testified beforehand, the sufferings of Christ, and the glory that should follow."—1 Pet. 1:10, 11. Peter says it was the Spirit of Christ that was in the prophets of old. Again he says: "Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, * * * but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb, without blemish and without spot: who verily was foreordained before the foundation of the world, but was manifest in these last days for you."—1:19, 20. "But unto the Son he saith, Thy throne O God is forever and ever, a sceptre of righteousness is the sceptre of thy kingdom. * * * And thou Lord in the beginning laid the foundation of the earth, and the heavens are the works of thine hands."—Heb. 1:8-10. Paul said Moses esteemed "the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures of Egypt." The pre-existence of Christ, and at the same time the pre-existence of others is plainly taught by Paul in Heb. 2:14-16, thus "Behold I and the children thou hast given me. Forasmuch as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himself likewise took part of the same; that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil. * * * For verily he took not on him the nature of angels; but he took on him the seed of Abraham." Now here is the fact presented that some class called "the children" whom the Father had given Christ, had like himself taken on them flesh and blood. We have found that he took on him flesh and blood, by assuming the "body prepared" him, (Heb. 10:5), and if he pre-existed as a spiritual being or a spirit, so also these who are called "the children" pre-existed, and at some time partook of flesh and blood, or assumed fleshly tabernacles, as he also had done. He "likewise" or in like manner partook or took part in a body of flesh.

WHO ARE THESE "CHILDREN"?

Is God the "father of spirits?" Let us see. "And they fell on their faces and said, O, God, the God of the spirits of all flesh, shall one man sin, and wilt thou be wroth with the whole congregation?"—Number 16:22. "Let the Lord, the God of the spirits of all flesh, set a man over the congregation."—27:16. "Shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the Father of spirits and live?"—Heb. 12:9. Now if God is the Father of spirits, then of course the spirits are his children, or in other words the spirits of all flesh are the children of God. Some of these children at least, have partaken of flesh and blood. But if I partake or take part in any transaction or in any work, duty, or pleasure, I must first have a conscious existence. If I am not alive in any sense, I can partake of nothing. Spirits in order to partake of fleshly bodies must first exist as conscious entities.

IS THERE A SPIRIT IN MAN?

"But there is a spirit in man, and the inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding."—Job 32:8. "The spirit of man is the candle of the Lord, searching all the inward parts of the belly."—Prov. 20:27. "And formeth the spirit of man within him."—Zech. 12:1. "And the spirit shall return to God who gave it."—Eccl. 12:7. "For what man knoweth the things of man, save the spirit of man which is in him."—1 Cor. 2:2. This is but a small portion of the evidence to be found on that subject, but it fully answers the question. There is a spirit in man, an intelligent, conscious entity.

DID PAUL HAVE A PRE-EXISTENCE?

If not, what did he mean when he declared that he had a "hope of eternal life which God that can not lie, promised before the world began."—Titus 1:2. To whom did God promise eternal life before the world began? To those who had the hope of it; to Paul for instance. What profit would it be to him, if it was promised to somebody else? It was his hope, because promised to him. It may be said that that was the hope promised through the gospel to Adam, or the hope expressed in the promise that the seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head, but the trouble is the promise alluded to was made before Adam fell, and before he was created, even "before the world began." There would be no necessity or even wisdom of promising eternal life to angels who are immortal, and can not die. No one can hope for anything already in their possession. "That which is seen is not hope" says Paul. The fact of eternal life being promised, and that the promises of God are conditional, conveys the idea to my mind that somebody before the world began, were not in possession of eternal life positively, or absolutely. And that as Jesus Christ "brought life and immortality to light through the gospel" 1 Tim. 1:10, "And this is the record, that God has given to us eternal life and this life is in his Son," 1 John 5:2, it follows that the gospel was understood before the creation of the world. If not so, why was Jesus Christ "foreordained before the foundation of the world" as a lamb slain? In other words, slain in the purpose of God. "The Lamb slain from the foundation of the world."—Rev. 22:8? To my mind the whole plan of salvation was unfolded, and was clearly understood from before the foundation of the world. Suppose forsooth, that idea involves the thought that God knew that Adam would fall, and that misery and death would follow, that idea follows naturally in the track of another, and that is the foreknowledge of God. Foreknowledge can not be denied the Almighty. It is one of his grandest and most essential attributes. God foreknew that Adam would fall, and that the consequences would be sorrow, suffering and death; and he therefore fore-ordained the remedy; the shedding of blood for remission of sins, and fore-ordained his Son to shed that blood, and in order to have blood to shed, he was fore-ordained to be a partaker of flesh and blood, by being "born of woman" as were "the children"—I might say, the other children of God.

If it was necessary that the captain (or author) of our salvation, was made perfect through suffering, was it not essential that the rest of the children should pass through the same ordeal, or be purified like gold tried in the fire? Hear Paul. "For it became him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the captain (author) of their salvation perfect through sufferings." Heb. 11:10. Again: "Looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith, who for the joy set before him, endured the cross, despising the shame, and is now set down at the right hand of the throne of God." "For whom the Lord loveth, he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth. If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as with sons, for what son is he whom the father chasteneth not? But if ye be without chastisement, whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards and not sons. Furthermore, we have had fathers of our flesh which corrected us, and we gave them reverence, shall we not much rather be in subjection to the Father of Spirits and live? For they verily for a few days chastened us, as seemed good to them; but he for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness."—Heb. 12:6-10. "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation (trial), for when he is tried (sufficiently) he shall receive a crown of life, which the Lord has promised to them that love him."—James 1:12. "Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing had happened unto you; but rejoice, inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings; that when his glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy."—1 Pet. 4:12, 13. "It is a faithful saying. For if we be dead with him, we shall also reign with him."—2 Tim. 2:11, 12. "And if children, then heirs, heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ, if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be glorified together. For I reckon, that the sufferings of the present time are not worthy to be compared [or named] with the glory that shall be revealed in us. For the earnest expectation of the creature waiteth for the manifestation of the sons of God." "For we know that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now. And not only they, but ourselves also which have the first fruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption, namely, the redemption of our body." "And we know that all things work together for good to them who love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose."—Rom. 8:17, 18, 19, 20, 22, 23, 28. Now what is going to be the outcome of all this? This, viz: "And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honor, and glory, and power be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb forever, and ever."—Rev. 5:13, also 9, 10. Trial is necessary to the development of character. Angels did not escape in the past. They must have had their day of trial, perhaps on the pre-historic earth, and in the flesh as we are now. But let that be as it may, they had their day of trial, for some of them "fell," and "kept not their first estate." Others of course did not fall, but retained their first estate.

Christ, the only begotten Son of God did not escape trial, for he "was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin." Not only did he suffer physically, but also mentally, and was tried in the spirit likewise. It seems to be the purpose of Jehovah that suffering must precede glory, and that trial must precede reward, and that we are to know good and evil by experience. It is only by the law of comparison and contrast that we can distinguish differences. If light and darkness, truth and error, good and evil, sweet and bitter, life and death, happiness and misery, heaven and hell, were not set before us, we could not choose between them; and we would receive no reward for choosing the better part, nor be punished for preferring the evil part. If man is a mere machine, a nonentity, an irresponsible, irrational creature, and devoid of moral agency, then there could be no use for opposites to be placed before him to select from. Indeed can there be anything relatively good if there is no evil of any kind anywhere? Why is reward offered either here or hereafter by the Lord? Because of obedience to law. But where there is no law there can be neither obedience nor disobedience; and therefore neither righteousness nor sin, for sin is transgression of law, as righteousness is obedience to law. If there is no law to transgress there is none to obey and there can be no inducement offered to obey it, nor punishment threatened for disobedience. And there can be no reward for obeying what does not exist, nor punishment for disobeying, so there would be no reward or punishment either here or hereafter. There would be no sin, and therefore no atonement for sin; so unless God intended to permit sin, and foreknew that there would be sin, why did he foreordain his Son to be slain for remission of sin? I understand the case to be simply this, that an infinitely wise, omniscient, omnipotent, and infinitely beneficent God, has foreordained from before the foundation of this present world the whole plan of human redemption, and that he will work out for his "children," the multitudinous "spirits" of whom he is the Father, "an exceeding, and eternal weight of glory," and ordained that, which, without trial and temptation, and victory, they could never have understood, realized, or appreciated, even immortality, celestial glory, and eternal felicity.

Now as God created the spirits of all men before there were men in the flesh, why should not Paul speak of "the hope of eternal life which God that can not lie promised before the world began?"

God's wonderful love for his children is seen in the fall of man, and its attendant evils, and sorrows, and sufferings, and will be seen in all its glory, and grandeur, and infinitude, and incomparability in the end, when Christ having subdued all enemies under his feet will yield the kingdom to God the Father, and be himself subject to the Father; and God will be all in all; when his will will be done in earth as it is now done in heaven.

The foregoing reflections concern mainly our thought respecting Christ as a pre-existing, personal entity or being, and incidentally the pre-existence of man. What we think of Christ when in the flesh, as a prophet, and now as a priest in heaven, and as a king hereafter, we will leave for another article, providing this is considered interesting and valuable enough for publication.

Christ's work is not done; for God has appointed "That in the ages to come he might shew the exceeding riches of his grace in his kindness toward us through Christ Jesus." Much that has been quoted, and much more that may be, savors of the doctrine of "election." I know; and why not? for that is a scriptural doctrine; that is, there is a scriptural doctrine of "election." But while we may be elected to salvation, and are called of God, yet we are to "make our calling and election sure." A man may be elected president of the United States, yet may fail to occupy the office by reason of death. But it is a pleasant, and comforting thought that it is possible to make "our calling and election sure." And men elect themselves to be damned. If any are lost, it is because they will to be lost; none are lost against their will, neither are any saved except they are willing to be saved.

T. W. SMITH.

December 31st, 1886.

WHO ARE HIS SEED?

"AND now I say unto you, who shall declare his generation, Behold I say unto you, that when his soul has been made an offering for sin, he shall see his seed. And now what say ye? And who shall be his seed? Behold I say unto you, that whosoever has heard the words of the prophets, yea, all the holy prophets who have prophesied concerning the coming of the Lord: I say unto you, that all those who have hearkened unto their words and believed that the Lord would redeem his people, and have looked forward to that day for a remission of their sins; I say unto you that these are his seed, or they are heirs of the kingdom of God: for these are they whose sins he has borne; these are they for whom he has died, to redeem them from their transgressions. And now are they not his seed? Yea, and are not the prophets, every one that has opened his mouth to prophesy, that has not fallen into transgression; I mean all the holy prophets ever since the world began? I say unto you that they are his seed."—Mosiah 8: 5.

PARAPHRASE FOR UTAH.

When the Lord wills to raise up seed unto himself, "he will command his people" to practice plural marriage: "otherwise a man shall have save it be one wife, and concubines he shall have none."—See Jacob, chapter 2, B. of M.

PARAPHRASE FOR ZION.

When the Lord wills to raise up seed unto himself, he "will command his people; otherwise they shall hearken unto these things." For if they shall hearken unto them, it will not be necessary that the Lord shall command them in regard to them. Yet will the Lord command his people, sending his servants to them to warn them from time to time, according as they shall stray from his commandments and ordinances. And thus will he preserve them as his people, that thereby they may be a means in his hands to "raise up seed" unto himself. Jacob, chapter 2.

COROLLARY NO. I.

"But if I will, saith the Lord of hosts:" meaning that all the hosts of men are his, that he is Lord over them all, that they are all his children by creation, and that he has raised them all up "to dwell on all the face of the earth."

COROLLARY NO. II.

But while all are his in a creative sense, all are not his in a covenant sense. In the latter sense the Israelites, Jews and Lamanites are all his people, though ever so rebellious they may be.

COROLLARY NO. III.

But while a people may be the Lord's in a covenant sense, they are not necessarily his "seed" in a spiritual sense. "All are not Israel who are of Israel," and all Jews are not Stephen's. Although King Noah was a Nephite, he was far from being an Abinadi. All Lamanites are not Samuel's; nor is every one a Saint who belongs to the Master's Church.

DIALOGUE.

Zion.—Brother Utah, if the word "seed" as used by Jacob means what your people say it does, what might its meaning be as used by Abinadi before King Noah and his priests.

Utah.—Your people, of course, would like to believe its application identical in the two cases; but it is not. In the one case, as we are bound to notice, the parties meant are only "seed," while in the other they are seed raised up.

Zion.—That may appear all straight to you, brother Utah, but to me it seems strained. Will you please inform us how any one can be the sort of seed referred to by Abinadi, without being raised up to be such?

Utah.—You will have no trouble about that, if you will only remember, that while some are raised up in some general sense to be the Lord's seed, others are raised up to be such in an especial sense.

Zion.—Well, brother Utah! you ought to be surprised at yourself! What about 'all the holy prophets ever since the world began?" What about Enoch and Elijah, John the Baptist and the holy Twelve? What about Jacob and Abinadi, Alma and also that splendid generation of whom the Lord said "Not one of them should be lost!" Who of all these were not raised up in some special sense?

Zion.—The fact is, I don't see much to be surprised at. Take John the Baptist for instance; don't the Scriptures tell us that "The least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he?"

Zion.—The scriptures do say so: but they say more. I will quote the whole verse: "Verily I say unto you, among them that are born of women there hath not arisen a greater than John the Baptist; notwithstanding, the least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he."—Matt. 11: 11.

Utah.—I have no objection to the whole verse being introduced. But letting John's greatness be of whatever degree it may, that, as you must agree, can never annul the fact that "the least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he."

Zion.—True; but if we would know what sort of greatness is meant on the one hand and on the other, would it not be well to consider the whole verse attentively?

Utah.—I can certainly have no objections to that. What sort of greatness do you think was intended? I am willing to listen, though I may not agree with you.

Zion.—The greatness of any one as we may apprehend, will be more or less apparent, according as the duty he is set to perform is more or less momentous in its nature, requiring also more or less courage and precision in its execution. Up to the days of John the Baptist, no duty had ever been imposed on man born of woman, of greater import than the introduction of the only Savior to a sin-stricken world; and to a race especially, of all under the sun at that time, the most ungodly.

Utah.—I like your explanation well enough; and I seem to perceive further that the very fact of his being "a prophet and greater than a prophet," consists in his being the Lord's sole harbinger—an office that could be filled but by one, and only once for all eternity. But yet, how is he less than the least in the kingdom of heaven?

Zion.—You are aware, of course, that in kingly affairs, the seed royal is not often, if ever, outranked by others, no matter what may be their office of trust or deeds of renown—but this only for illustration.

Utah.—But though you were right in that, don't you think the children of the heavenly king in a general way, are his in an adopted sense? Would it not be too strong for these times to even infer real regeneration?

Zion.—The idea of adoption if you will consider the matter attentively, can not for a moment displace our allusion. If we may think of some potentate adopting a son, and personally signing and sealing that adoption, and enforcing it by all legal enactments necessary under his government, and before his people, who shall outrank him that is not of the seed royal?

Utah.—It seems to me I could have no particular objections to your remarks, so long as you seem to allow that the real seed may outrank those that are in a general way only adopted. What I mean is, while some are sons in an especial covenant sense, others are such only in an adopted, or general sense.

Zion.—While what you say may be true in some sense, its being true in your intended sense is a very different matter. I would like, however, to ask you two or more questions, and you can answer or not, as you choose. My first is, was Jacob the father of the twelve patriarchs born of a woman? My second is, If Jacob was born of a woman, was not John the Baptist greater than he? My third is, If the said John was greater than the said Jacob, how many wives did the said John have?

Utah.—The fact is, there are some other matters connected with this subject. You ought to know that Joseph Smith—I know very well that President Young said—. The truth is the scriptures don't tell everything!

Zion.—No, brother Utah, the scriptures do not tell everything; and being so thoroughly steeped in this plural wife business as I suppose you to be, it makes but very little difference with you as to what they do tell, or how often they might teach the doctrine, "That a man shall have save it be one wife, and concubines he shall have none."

A. J. MAPES.

SHALL WE DOCTOR WHEN WE ARE SICK.

THE importance of this subject is seen at once, as it affects materially our life here, and our happiness hereafter. All do not see alike upon the matter. Some seem to think there is no guarantee in the word of God for the use of medicines. I ask to be shown from one or all of the three books where the medical profession is forbidden or condemned. Being mortal we are all subject to maladies, and when disease, like an iron fetter, lays its hand upon us, the law of self-preservation prompts us to seek relief. I deem it the duty of the Saints where elders are accessible and some among them are sick, to do as James directs; that is, to "send for the elders of the church" that they may pray over the sick, anointing them with oil in the name of the Lord; for the promise is "the prayer of faith shall save the sick and the Lord shall raise them up; and if they have committed sins they shall be forgiven them."

However, experience in the work, and a close examination of other scriptures bearing upon the matter in question, forces my belief that in this promise of James God does not guarantee to heal all who are so administered to. Faith that lays hold on the blessing of God is a gift, and if this favor is not bestowed we have not faith to be healed, though we may have shown our reverence for the divine economy and have exhibited our faith in the word by obeying the behest to "send for the elders."

In D. and C. 42: 12, the duty and privilege of the Saints are made quite plain: "And whosoever among you are sick, and have not faith to be healed, but believe, shall be nourished with all tenderness, with herbs and mild food, and that not by the hand of an enemy." How kind and merciful the Lord has been in revealing his will in the matter, for that is just what we want to know, as our theories and speculations may all prove to be vain.

I wish to note the following points in the quotation. 1. Members of the church may be sick, and while they profoundly believe the word of God, yet the distinctive gift to be healed is not given them. 2. Such shall be doctored, or, "nourished with herbs and mild food." But says one, "If the food needs to be 'mild,' surely the herbs should not be strong." I hardly think this reasoning good; for nothing is said as to what kind of herbs are to be used, how strong they may be, or how they should be prepared. We know that when the system is prostrate with disease, the stomach becomes weakened and nauseated so it requires delicate food; but this does not determine fully the character of medicines—"herbs"—to be employed.

Furthermore, shall these herbs be administered in ignorance, without knowledge of their strength, quality, or adaptability to the disease, just as Tom, Dick, Harry, or anyone that comes along may suggest, or is it not permissible for someone to make a speciality of this branch of learning, thus rendering themselves skillful in the use of medicines? Many medicines sold by druggists are extracted from the common plants and herbs that grow spontaneously all over the land. A natural outgrowth of this branch of industry is to evolve improved methods of refining and preserving the medicinal qualities of these plants. Tobacco is not to chew, smoke, nor snuff, but is an herb for bruises and sick cattle. It was not made in vain, though it is often used vainly.

"Well," says a good Saint, "if I doctor, I'll not call for the elders." Why? pray tell us. If the mere fact of trying to help yourself debars you from keeping the command of God, you have no right to pursue this course. But upon what do you base such a conclusion? Not upon the written word, surely, for I don't think it can be shown to be tenable ground.

"If," says another, "you are administered to by the elders, and take medicine too, how can you know just how much each benefited you?" Well, suppose we should not know this mystery, but recover and are enabled to perform the duties of life, have we not therein much to be grateful to God for? With all the powers of our being we should be thankful to God, the author of all good.

Is God an enemy to the rail road? Does He hate the telegraph? Are the ten thousand modern inventions which serve to facilitate husbandry, commerc, travel, etc., subterfuges of the evil one? or are they not rather the results of the dawning of the Sun of Righteousness upon a long benighted world?

With wonderful rapidity the civilized world has been revolutionized in its methods of agriculture and trade. Has the scientific genius of medical tendency lain dormant all these years?

In conclusion, I give it as my opinion that we should tarry oft and long at the throne of grace, seeking to live in the Spirit and crucify the lusts of the flesh; seek for faith to endure to the end, so that in sickness or health we may always have grace to say "Thy will be done."

G. S. HYDE.

Miscellaneous.

CAMP-MEETING.

The Galland's Grove district will hold a camp-meeting on the North Coon, at Benan Salisbury's Grove, near the Kendall bridge, commencing July the 6th, and continuing over the Sunday following. President Joseph Smith and other prominent elders are expected to be in attendance. All who can are requested to come prepared to camp out. All coming by rail will be met at Glidden, on N. W. R. R., on the 5th and 6th, and furnished with conveyance to the grounds free of charge. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

W. W. WHITING, Pres. Dist.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN MISSION.

To the Saints in the Rocky Mountain Mission, Greeting:—Inasmuch as it is the decision of the Presidency, the Twelve, and also the voice of the church, that I should serve you another year as your presiding officer, and in connection with that sacred trust have also been appointed agent by and for the Bishop, G. A. Blakeslee, to receive tithes and offerings to sustain the laborers in the field, I desire to call your attention to the immediate needs and condition of the work.

Every year manifests the importance of sustaining this mission, and by a firm and persistent effort maintain all that has been gained in the past and be prepared to take advantage of developments that may occur in the future. In some parts of the field opportunities are better for the laborer than ever before. In some localities school and other houses may be had now that heretofore have been closed against us. Besides that, a willingness to hear our side of the great questions is apparent. And now that we may be able to sow the seed where the husbandman is preparing the ground, I desire and earnestly request the hearty co-operation of all—officers and members. The most fruitful fields may not be in your immediate vicinity; but because of that, let none fail to raise their voice or slacken their hands to aid the work. Let us labor together with a will and look to the Master for wisdom to direct; and if possible let this be a year fraught with glorious results to His church. All people are looking for important changes in this field in the near future. Brethren, a crisis is near. Let us keep the flag unfurled, and the proclamation of life and peace before the people, that we may turn the erring to the "wisdom of the just." If we all do our duty we can "hold the fort;" and when the time shall fully come to ask for reinforcements, the Lord we serve will send the one to lead us on to the coming victory.

In the past year you sustained the laborers sent to you, by your faith, prayers and means, in tithes and offerings, for all of which you are entitled to the benediction of heaven. That we may be able to meet the demands and labor where we may expect the greatest results, I feel constrained to call upon all for aid in tithes and offerings. Whether much or little, send it on at your earliest convenience. Remember the missionary in the field and his family are making sacrifice, as well as you who have made "covenant by sacrifice" to serve the Master. As the Lord has blessed you, so impart. If it is the "widow's mite" only, send it along. I will be pleased to hear from all parts of the field at once. Let me hear from you, and of the work and the prospects in your vicinity. Send money by Post Office Order or Registered Letter. We need aid now. Send direct to R. J. Anthony, Box 1123, Salt Lake City, Utah. And may God's peace and love abide with you all.

R. J. ANTHONY.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, June 14th.

MARRIED.

SHAW—WHITMORE—By J. F. McDowell, at the residence of the bride's mother, Council Bluffs, Iowa, January 10th, 1887, Mr. Harry Shaw and Sr. Elizabeth Whitmore.

DIED.

DELECATH.—Departed this life June 12th, 1887, Bro. Reuben Delecath, aged 18 years, 5 months and 16 days. He suffered much for the past eight years. The funeral discourse was preached by Elder F. C. Warnky to a large congregation.

RODGERS.—At her home, six miles north of Cameron, Missouri, on the 27th of January, 1887, of quick consumption, Sister Cassie Rodgers, aged 23 years, 10 months and 23 days. She leaves a husband and babe. She was baptized and confirmed by J. M. Terry, July 27th, 1879; was a good wife, a devoted Saint, and died in full faith. Funeral sermon by W. T. Bozarth, May 8th, 1887.

MORGAN.—At Sigel, Michigan, June 4th, 1887, Sr. Elizabeth Jane Morgan, aged 24 years, 6 months and 12 days. She was born in Sullivan, Grey county, Ontario, was baptized by Elder J. J. Cornish, February 1st, 1886, and died in the triumphs of a living faith in Christ. The funeral sermon was preached by Elder Davis.

ATWOOD.—At Charter Oak, Iowa, June 7th, 1887, of convulsions of the stomach, Maria, wife of Bro. Andrew Atwood, aged 53 years, 2 months and 18 days. She was baptized June 21st, 1884. She leaves a husband and four grown children and their families to mourn their loss. Funeral services by Elder J. T. Turner, assisted by Priest William McKim.

HARRISON.—At Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, May 16th, 1887, Frank T., son of Bro. William H. and Sr. Harriet Harrison, aged 2 years and 5 months. Funeral sermon by Bro. E. C. Briggs, from text: "Suffer little children to come unto me." Also on June 11th, 1887, Bertha, aged 9 months. She was a sufferer from her birth. Funeral sermon by Bro. Hosea H. Bacon. "Of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Conference Minutes.

DECATUR.

Conference convened at Allendale, Missouri, on June 4th and 5th, H. A. Stebbins presiding, F. M. Weld secretary. Branch reports: Lamoni 581; 2 baptized, 2 received on certificate of baptism, 7 by letter, 1 by other evidence, 7 removed by letter, 1 died, 2 marriages. Little River 110; 7 received by letter. Davis City 55; 1 removed by letter, 1 died. Lucas 222; 3 received by letter, 1 removed by letter, 1 expelled, 2 died, 1 ordination, 3 marriages. Allendale 42; 1 received by letter. Greenvale and Lone Rock not reported. A. S. Cochran, president of the Lamoni branch and M. H. Gregg, president of the Allendale branch reported, also A. K. Anderson, presiding teacher of Lamoni branch reported. Elders H. A. Stebbins, J. Shippy, S. Ackerly, A. Himes, J. Johnson, J. P. Dillon, Joseph Smith and W. H. Blair, reported in person. Elders E. B. Morgan and E. Lovell and Priest N. Lovell reported by letter. Request of Bro. J. W. Johnson that prayer be offered for his recovery from disease was read. Resolved that two days' meetings be held in August and September, the president of the district to appoint elders to attend to them. As this completed the business of the conference, it still being early the remainder of the afternoon was used in offering prayer and in bearing testimony. The Holy Spirit was present in these exercises and also the gift of tongues and of interpretation were manifested. Preaching on Saturday evening by Bro. John Shippy, assisted by Bro. J. P. Dillon. At 8:30 o'clock on Sunday morning a prayer and testimony meeting was held, in charge of Brn. Stebbins and Ackerly.

Four children were blessed by Brn. Stebbins, Ackerly, Cochran and Shippy. At 11 o'clock Bro. Joseph Smith preached, assisted by Bro. V. White. At 2:30 p. m. preaching by Bro. John Johnston, assisted by Bro. A. S. Cochran. Following it the sacrament was administered. At 8 p. m. Bro. Joseph Smith again preached, assisted by Bro. H. A. Stebbins. Adjourned to meet at Lucas, Iowa, at ten o'clock, October 1st, 1887.

SOUTH EAST ILLINOIS.

Conference in this district convened at Brush Creek, June 11th, 1887, ten o'clock, G. H. Hilliard presiding, I. M. Smith clerk, and J. F. Thomas assistant. Branch reports:—Brush Creek 120, 4 received by baptism, 1 by letter. Dry Fork 33. Tunnel Hill 76, 6 expelled. Alma 10, 1 suspended. Parrish branch, organized June 6th 1887, 25, including 1 priest, and 2 teachers. Elder's reports.—John F. Thomas, John F. Henson baptized 4, I. M. Smith baptized 4, G. H. Hilliard baptized 3, I. A. Morris baptized 1, M. R. Brown, and T. P. Green, High Priest, reported in person. T. C. Kelley and Dana P. Brown by letter. Priests James M. Pucket and Joseph Kurts; teachers Aaron Burleson and Andrew H. Johnson, and deacon David Hoover, reported. Committee appointed by last conference to settle difficulties in Alma branch reported. Report received, adopted, and committee discharged. Missions of Elders. John F. Henson, continued in his mission to Marion county; John F. Thomas and M. R. Brown to Scrub Hill; father Green to labor anywhere in the district; G. H. Hilliard to Franklin county; J. W. Stone to Brush Creek; and I. A. Morris to Crawford county. All other elders, priests, teachers, and deacons, are requested to labor as circumstances permit. Bishop's Agent reported $3.80 due agent last report. Received $31.90. Paid to Bishop $25. Balance on hand $3.10. G. H. Hilliard agent. All the authorities of the church were sustained in righteousness; I. N. Smith as missionary in Southern Illinois, and Alex. H. Smith as in charge. Preaching Saturday night by T. P. Green and John F. Henson; Sunday 11 a. m., by G. H. Hilliard; 3 p. m. by I. M. Smith, and at night by Herbert Beaumont. Peace prevailed, love abounded, and all seemed happy. Adjourned to meet at Saint's Chapel in Tunnel Hill branch, Johnson county, Illinois, September 24th, 1887, at ten o'clock.

DO YOU CELEBRATE?

To enable its patrons to "go somewhere" to celebrate the "4th of July," the C. B. & Q. R. R. will sell round-trip tickets on July 2d, 3d and 4th, 1887, from all stations on its lines, at one fare for the round trip. Tickets good to return up to and including July 5th. For further particulars apply to the C. B. & Q. ticket agent at your station.

AUTUMN LEAVES.

THE MAGAZINE

Which we propose starting for the homes of Zion will be a royal octavo of 64 pages. It will be issued from the Herald Office, Lamoni, Iowa, monthly, and will contain departments adapted to every want of the family.

The choicest scraps of Literature, History, Biography, Poetry; and well selected current events, together with the latest and most reliable events connected with Palestine and the Jews will be among its contents. Everything of a character tending to elevate—to make better men and women of those who are now boys and girls, in the home circle—will be introduced and fostered; while everything of a character contrary to this will be strictly excluded.

THOSE WHO ARE WILLING TO AID

In this enterprise will please send in their names at as early a day as convenient; and when the list shall amount to fifteen hundred we will complete arrangements for its early issue, and promise to furnish yearly nearly 800 pages of choice reading matter, for the moderate sum of $1.25.

WE ASK THE TRAVELING MINISTRY,

And friends of the latter day work generally, to solicit names for us. (Do not accept or remit any money until notified so to do.) We will notify the Herald readers from time to time of the increase in subscription list. We now have quite a number of names, but have as yet made no especial effort.

Terms (strictly cash in advance) $1.25 per year. M. WALKER.

WORK FOR ALL. Brothers and Sisters, you can SPECIALTIES JUST OUT. Samples and terms free to agents. B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Illinois. 26martrf

Lamoni and Vicinity.

Those wishing to become acquainted with Lamoni and vicinity, will do well to subscribe for THE LAMONI GAZETTE

A weekly paper, now published by

LAMBERT & HANSEN.

dec11tf

J. H. HANSEN, M. D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Will practice in Lamoni and vicinity; calls made at all hours. Office in Drug Store of Hansen & Walker, Lamoni

MIDWIFERY and DISEASES of WOMEN a Specialty Residence one block East Teal's Store. 14feb1y

"A BOOK FOR THE PEOPLE."

CAPTIVATING! USEFUL! Eloquent Discussions, and Diplomatic Papers on the Great Public Questions of the Past and Present, by JAMES G. BLAINE.

Embracing his masterly arguments on the vital issues in the Anti-Slavery Struggle, the All Important Labor Question, Prohibition, Irish Home Rule, etc., etc. A FORTUNE FOR BOOK CANVASSERS! APPLICATIONS FOR TERRITORY COMING IN WITH A RUSH! THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING CO., NORWICH, CT

WHEN YOU TRAVEL

Take the Line selected by the United States Government to carry the Fast Mail,—the

As it is the Line running Through Trains to and from the following cities and towns on its own Lines:

- CHICAGO, AURORA, OTTAWA, STREATOR, ROCKFORD, DUBUQUE, LA CROSSE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, MENDOTA, PEORIA, GALESBURG, ST. LOUIS, QUINCY, KEOKUK, BURLINGTON, WASHINGTON, OSKALOOSA, DES MOINES, CHARITON, CRESTON, ST. JOSEPH, ATCHISON, KANSAS CITY, NEBRASKA CITY, OMAHA, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LINCOLN & DENVER,

Making Direct Connections

TO AND FROM

- NEW YORK, BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON, CINCINNATI, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON, NEW ORLEANS, LOUISVILLE, SAN FRANCISCO, LOS ANGELES, SALT LAKE CITY, COLORADO AND PACIFIC COAST RESORTS, CITY OF MEXICO, PORTLAND, OREGON, MANITOBA, VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND POINTS.

Good Equipment, Good Service, Good Connection.

For information concerning the Burlington Route, apply to the nearest Ticket Agent of the C. B. & Q. or connecting railroads.

HENRY B. STONE, General Manager, PAUL MORTON, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt., CHICAGO, ILL.

Train Leaves Lamoni, Going East at 1:45 p. m. Do. do. West 2:53 "

At Bethany Junction, 3 miles east of Lamoni Trains pass going South at 3:07 a. m. Going East and West, pass at 12:10 a. m.

Tracts.

- No. 2.—Truth Made Manifest; 20c. a doz., per 100.....1 50 No. 3.—Voice of the Good Shepherd; 5c. a doz., 100..... 40 No. 4.—Epitome of Faith and Doctrine of the Church and the Kirtland Temple Suit; 5c. per doz., 25c. per 100, 50c. for 250, $1 for 500, per 1,000.....1 75 No. 5.—The Gospel.....price the same as No. 4 No. 6.—The "One Baptism;" its Mode, Subjects, Prerequisites, and Design,—and Who Shall Administer; 16 pages; 25c. per doz., per 100 .....1 75 No. 7.—Who Then Can be Saved; 5c. a doz., 100..... 40 No. 8.—Fulness of the Atonement; 25c. a doz., 100.....1 75 No. 9.—Spiritualism Viewed from a Scriptural Standpoint; 20 pages; 30c. per dozen, 100.....2 25 No. 10.—The Narrow Way; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100 for 1 10 No. 11.—The Plan of Salvation; 30c. a dozen, 100.....2 25 No. 12.—The Bible versus Polygamy; 25c. a dozen, 100.....1 65 No. 14.—Reply to Orson Pratt; 25c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 75 No. 15.—Brightamite Idolatry; 5c. a dozen, per 100..... 40 No. 16.—Polygamy; Was it an Original Tenet of the Church; 20c. a dozen, 100.....1 40 No. 17.—The Successor in the Prophetic Office and Presidency of the Church; 25c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 75 No. 18.—Rejection of the Church; 15c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 10 No. 20.—The "One Body;" or the Church of Christ under the Apostleship and under the Apostasy; 12 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 40 No. 21.—Truth by Three Witnesses; 8c. a doz., 100..... 15 No. 22.—Faith and Repentance; 15c. a dozen, 100.....1 10 No. 23.—Baptism; 10 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 25 No. 24.—The Kingdom of God; 5c. a dozen, 100 for..... 40 No. 25.—Laying on of Hands; 5c. a dozen, 100 for..... 40 No. 26.—Mountain of the Lord's House; 4 pages; 5c. a dozen, per 100.....1 40 No. 27.—The Sabbath Question; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 40 No. 29.—A Vision of the Resurrection, from the Doctrine and Covenants; 5c. a dozen, 100 for..... 40 No. 30.—Origin of the Book of Mormon; 15 cents a dozen, per 100.....1 10 No. 31.—What is Truth? and True Orthodoxy? and an Evangelical Church? Also, the Kirtland Temple Suit. Per dozen 5c., 100 for 25c., 250 for 50c., 500 for $1, 1,000 for.....1 75 No. 32.—Which is the Church? 5c. a dozen, 100..... 46 No. 36.—The Spaulding Story Re-Examined; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 25 A Memorial to Congress; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100.....1 10 Trial of the Witnesses to the Resurrection; 32 pages; 6c. each, per dozen..... 60 Prophecy on the Rebellion; per 100..... 15 An assortment of Tracts, 35 cents. COMPLETE SET OF TRACTS. Bound in Limp Cloth turned in..... 75

Reply to Littlefield.

We have for sale at this office, in pamphlet form, containing 48 pages, the "Reply of President Joseph Smith to L. O. Littlefield in refutation of the doctrine of plural marriage." Price, post paid, single copies 10 cents; 75 cents per dozen to one address.

Forscutt and Shinn Discussion.

J. Shinn affirms "The Bible Teaches the Coming of Christ to Judge the World is now past." M. H. Forscutt affirms "The Bible Teaches the Literal Resurrection of the Body from the Grave." Paper covers, 191 pages..... 25

Visions of Joseph Smith, The Seer.

Discoveries of Ancient American Records and Relics, with the statement of a Converted Jew, and of others; paper covers, 43 pages..... 10

Concordance to Book of Covenants.

An enlarged new edition; paper covers, 32 pages..... 10

Sunday School Supplies.

Sunday School Engineer and Record Book..... 50 Prompt Attendance Tickets.....100 for 15c., 1,000 for 1 00 Good Behavior Tickets.....Same price.

Miscellaneous.

- The Problem of Human Life Here and Hereafter, by A. Wilford Hall; 544 pages, in cloth boards.....1 50 Universalism Against Itself, by A. Wilford Hall; in cloth boards; 336 pages..... 1 00 Josephus, complete in one vol., library leather.....3 50 Gibson's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, cloth boards, 5 vols.....4 00 Mosheim's Church History, cloth boards, 2 vols.....4 00 Baldwin's Ancient American, (illustrated), cloth.....1 80 Rollin's Ancient History, 2 vols. in one, leather.....4 00 The Koran, library leather.....2 00 Gieseler's Ecclesiastical History, from A. D. 1 till 1854, cloth boards, 5 vols.....10 00 The Ecclesiastical History of Eusebius Pamphilus, Bishop of Caesarea, to Palestine, cloth boards.....2 00 Cruden's Complete Concordance of the Bible.....1 75 The Bible Text Book.....1 00 Apocryphal New Testament.....1 65 Brown's Concordance of the Bible..... 60 Emerson's Ready Binder, Herald size..... 85 Emerson's Ready Binder, Hope size..... 90 Emerson's Ready Binder, Advocate size..... 50 Five Quires of Note Paper, 120 sheets..... 50 Five Quires of Note Paper, better quality..... 60

Tracts in German.

Tracts in the German Language may be had of Bro. Ad. Richter, Burlington, Iowa: The Baptism, 6 cents; the Repentance, 5 cents; the Principles of the Gospel, 6 cents; the Epitome of Faith, 2c.; the Sixth Trumpet, a fifty-four page pamphlet, 25c. These prices include postage.

THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board or Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price $2.50 per year. Money may be sent by Post Office Order, Registered Letter, or by Express on Lamoni, addressed DAVID DANCER, Box 422, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa. All matters of business connected with the office should be addressed to DAVID DANCER; communications and articles to the EDITOR.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEARKEN TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAVE IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.
"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 34.—Whole No. 738.

Lamoni, Iowa, July 9, 1887.

No. 28.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

Business letters and subscriptions must be sent to David Dancer, by P. O. Order, Registered letter or express. Entered as second class matter at Lamoni Post Office.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH . . . . . EDITOR.
W. W. BLAIR . . . . . ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, July 9, 1887.

THE UNJUST STEWARD.

SR. R. S. COATES writes that some of her neighbors are anxious to know the meaning of the following scripture:—"Make to yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness; that, when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitations."—Luke 16: 9.

In order to learn just what Jesus intended to teach here, we should first learn who has power to "receive" his disciples "into everlasting habitations." Let Jesus answer:—"In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I do go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there ye may be also."—John 14: 2, 3. "And he that overcometh, and keepeth my works unto the end, to him will I give power over the nations."—Rev. 2: 26. " whatsoever good thing any man doeth, the same shall he receive of the Lord."—Eph. 6: 8.

As further proof that only God and Christ have power to "receive" and "reward" those who work righteousness, we quote the following:—"Who will render to every man according to his deeds; to them who by patient continuance in well doing seek for glory and honor and immortality, eternal life. . . . Glory, honor, and peace, to every man that worketh good."—Rom. 2: 6, 7, 10. "For the Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father with his angels; and then he shall reward every man according to his works."—Matt. 16: 27. Again: "And, behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be."—Rev. 22: 12.

And to conclude on this point, we quote Jesus again:

"Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world: for I was a hungered, and ye gave me meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink; I was a stranger, and ye took me in; naked, and ye clothed me; I was sick, and ye visited me; I was in prison, and ye came unto me. Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee a hungered, and fed thee? or thirsty, and gave thee drink? When saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in? or naked, and clothed thee? or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee? And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."—Matt. 25: 34-40.

From these texts—and scores of similar ones may be cited—we learn, 1, that God and Christ, only, can bestow rewards of an "everlasting," heavenly character; and 2, that this is done for good deeds. It therefore follows, that by righteous deeds "good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them," (Eph. 2: 10), we are to be commended to and of God; and that among them are feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, giving drink to the thirsty, ministering to the sick and afflicted, and doing all manner of good deeds with this world's goods—"the mammon of unrighteousness."

God has given to man the dominion over all earthly wealth, not to consume it upon his lusts, but to use it for all good purposes; and when man is faithful in this trust he secures the blessings of God, both in this world and in the world to come. He thereby makes God and Christ his "friends," and they can and will reward him. In some sense all good deeds the individual does become his "friends," and in this way he makes to himself "friends of the mammon of unrighteousness," or in other words, he lays up "treasure in heaven."

But it must not be supposed that all the good deeds required of men are those only which pertain to the proper use of "the mammon of unrighteousness;" for everything wherein man keeps the commandments of God, of every name and nature, is and will be accounted to him for righteousness.

In conclusion; it must be borne in mind, that while Jesus commends the unjust stewards for providing for future needs he does not thereby endorse the manner in which it is done; for he denounces him as being "unjust." This steward was wise, diligent, "faithful" and provident. All this was "commended" of Jesus. On the other hand Jesus pronounces him unrighteous—"unjust."

The reader should carefully peruse the entire parable in connection with our explanation of the 9th verse, and then we trust he will readily perceive just what Jesus intended to teach.

THE HOLY SPIRIT.

It is painfully apparent that harmful mistakes have been made in respect to the Spirit of God—what it is, how it operates, and what are its fruits. To-day there are many whose reason has been unsettled or entirely dethroned by what is falsely called the operations of the Spirit of God. Horrid murders, suicides, to say nothing of numerous disorderly, irrational, and indecent things said and done, have been committed under the delusion that the Spirit of God is the cause at work. The land is full of this; popular ministers of popular churches encourage and abet it, apparently unconscious of the fact that "God is not the author of confusion, but of peace, as in all churches of the Saints," (1 Cor. 14: 33), and also oblivious to the further fact, that the Spirit which God gives his faithful children is one "of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." (2 Tim. 1: 7). The mission of Christ to earth's troubled children was that of "peace" and "good will;" and this means rational joy and rest and contentment in God's service. It is true the wicked have no peace, for, "they are like the troubled waters that cast up mire and dirt; but of God's children it is said, "Great peace have they that love thy law, and nothing shall offend them." Christ promised that in his disciples should have peace, (John 16: 33). Paul says "The kingdom of God is peace," (Rom. 14: 17), and that to "be spiritually minded is life and peace," (Rom. 8: 6), also that "the fruit of the Spirit is peace;" (Gal. 5: 22); while the apostle James assures us that "the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy," also "the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace." (Jas. 3: 17, 18).

In view to these scriptural truths—and they are the few from among hosts of similar ones—what must we think of that spirit which causes bewildering excitement, confusion, raving, ranting, howling, and boisterous mouthing! And what of that which produces disorder and derangement of mind and body! Is it not blasphemy to impute these to the God of love, and to Christ, "the Prince of Peace!"

All the works of God in nature, and all the works of God in holy writ, testify that "order is heaven's first law." The mighty, but quiet and active forces of the Universe are those which build up and beautify and bless, even as "the still small voice" of the Spirit is powerful in enlightening, edifying and giving "power" to the faithful children of God. That spirit and those methods which cause excitement and disorder should be shunned, whether in matters of religion or anything else; and whatever leads to composure of mind, clearness of thought, with the full free exercise of all the reasoning powers—that should be diligently sought and fostered. God has endowed man with powers to reason, and he demands that they shall exercise those powers. (Isa. 1: 18; 41: 21; Prov. 26: 16; Ezcl. 7: 25). But how can man do this when the brain is confused by the whirlwinds of excitement? He can not; and his only safety and happiness lies in self-control under the peaceful, joyous, hallowing influence of God's "free Spirit."

God's Spirit gives "understanding;" (Isa. 11: 2); it gives "wisdom;" (Ex. 28: 3; Eph. 1: 17) it gives "knowledge;" (1 Cor. 12: 8); it gives "love;" (Col. 1: 8); it justifies; (1 Tim. 3: 16); it sanctifies; (2 Thess. 2: 13); it leads into truth; (John 16: 13); but it never leads into that which is disorderly, unseemly, irrational, nor harmful. All should seek the Spirit of God and resist every spirit that is not in accordance with it.

The Book of Mormon furnishes a beautiful explanation of the peaceful operation of the Spirit of God:—"It was not a voice of thunder; neither was it a voice of a tumultuous noise; but behold, it was a voice of perfect mildness, as if it had been a whisper, and it did pierce even unto the very soul. . . . And behold, the holy Spirit of God did come down from heaven, and did enter into their hearts, and they were filled as if with fire, and they could speak forth marvelous words. And it came to pass that there came a voice unto them, yea a pleasant voice."—Helaman 2: 20, 23, 24. By these facts we discern the operation and fruits of the Spirit of God. And men and women when actuated by the Spirit of God will exhibit these characteristics, even if they are active, energetic, and really enthusiastic.

PAPACY IN PROPHECY.

THE following item is more than "a straw" in indicating how the Papacy is losing its political and temporal support:

"THE POPE'S PATRIMONY.

"ROME, December 23.—The Pope, receiving Christmas congratulations from the College of Cardinals, spoke at some length of the position of the church in Italy. He protested against the anti-clerical movement which is being carried on in the country, and said that the Holy See was now despoiled of the last remnants of its patrimony. The only liberty left to him was that held by the Roman pontiffs in the earliest ages. The Italian government, he declared, had assisted the laity in unduly interfering with the administration of the church, had expelled religious bodies, and had tolerated an organized hostility against the Vatican as the head of the church. He must continue to protest against the position in which he is placed."

And here is something prophecy says of the Papacy in these latter days: "And the ten horns [Kingdoms.—Ed.] which thou sawest upon the beast, these shall hate the whore, and shall make her desolate and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and burn her with fire."—Rev. 17: 16. Italy is one of those "horns."

Daniel put it thus: "And they shall take away his dominion, to consume and to destroy it unto the end."—Dan. 7: 26.

THE Nauvoo Independent of late has the following concerning Pres. Joseph Smith:

YOUNG JOSEPH.

"Joseph Smith, the present leader of the Re-organized Church of Latter Day Saints, who conducted the great Kirtland conference, was Justice of the Peace of Nauvoo during the period of 1864 to 1868. The old German settlers hereabout who are well acquainted with him speak highly of his integrity, honesty and ability. They speak of him as 'Young Joseph,' and as being one of the finest men they ever knew."—Cor. Keokuk Democrat.

The facts are Mr. Smith was Justice of the Peace in Nauvoo from 1858 to 1866, a period of nearly seven years and a half.

"BRIGHAM AND THE BATTALION."

WHEN in Santa Ana, California, in March, 1884, I was conversing with Bro. John Garner, Sen., respecting the enlistment of the Mormon Battalion. And when I incidentally mentioned that Brigham Young and others applied through Col. J. C. Little to the United States government for the privilege of enlisting one thousand Mormon men for the army to go to California, Bro. Garner exclaimed, "Is it possible Brigham made such application!" On being told that such was the recorded fact, he replied that Brigham told the Mormons at Council Bluffs, in a large, public assembly, that the Government demanded that the Mormons furnish five hundred men for the army, and he said, "It is a trick of the devil to bring to pass our destruction, because the Government does not think we will, in our poverty, enlist the men, and then they will send an army and destroy us on the plains. It is our only salvation now to turn out the men."

Bro. Garner said that upon another occasion, when Brigham had received the "bounty money" paid on account of "the Battalion boys," he, (Brigham), in a public meeting, held up in sight of the people a bank bill, saying: "I will tell you what I want to do with this bounty money; and when I tell you what I want to do, I tell you what I will do with it—that is, to send it to St. Louis and buy goods and sell to this people." Brigham went on further and said the people might as well buy goods from him as from "old Sarpy," and that it was just as well for him to have the profits as for Sarpy to have them; ignoring the fact, however, that in this matter he was using largely, if not altogether, moneys which did not belong to him, but to the "Battalion boys" and their families.

Bro. Garner's statement agrees, in substance, with what we have heard from Bro. Alexander McCord and wife, He was in the Battalion, while his wife and family remained at "Winter Quarters."

Others have reported similarly of that Battalion affair, and it is well that the testimonies of these participants and eyewitnesses in that deceptive affair should be preserved. Such conduct as that of Brigham Young has driven thousands into infidelity and Spiritualism, and those responsible for such results should be known and placed on record. All men must be judged by their own deeds.

THE wise man has said:—"The righteousness of the upright shall deliver them; but transgressors shall be taken in their own naughtiness." If any one doubts this let them read the following from the Salt Lake Herald:

HOW THEY FEEL.

Elder William Palmer, who recently served a term in the Utah penitentiary for acknowledging and supporting his wives and children, said while addressing a congregation about a week ago in the Logan Tabernacle, as reported by the Journal:

There were, when he left the penitentiary, ninety-six members of that branch. There were eight bishops. A number of the prisoners for conscience sake were over seventy years of age. The youngest one was about twenty-nine. There isn't a Mormon in the penitentiary that feels cast down. They all feel that they are there on a mission for conscience. There is not one that fears that he will be called an ex-convict when he comes out. There is one thing that their enemies can not do, and that is blind the soul.

When a Mormon is there looking through prison bars he realizes that he is there for the purpose of being true to his religion and working for his salvation in the future. When he took a view of the class in the penitentiary who are there for real crimes, he saw a dark picture. There are ten murderers; six for lynching. There are some there imprisoned for life.

There is not a crime in the catalogue but what some one is there for it. But they do not bother the Mormons very much. The speaker wondered what the government expected to make out of imprisoning old men. He could not understand. He did not care about going again very soon.

BRO. JAMES W. JOHNSON, of McFall, Gentry county, Missouri, sends us an Albany, Weekly Ledger, for June 17th, containing a somewhat extended statement concerning the town of McFall, and the advantages of the country round it; from all of which we gather that it is rather a desirable place for settlers. We quote the following:

"James W. Johnson, a native of Missouri, keeps fifty stands of bees worth three hundred and fifty dollars, which yield fifty pounds of honey each worth fifteen cents per pound, keeps the Italian bees, and will furnish queens with instructions for raising and handling bees to those who desire them."

"Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints meets when it gets enough of its members together to hold meeting. Rev. J. W. Johnson, Elder."

"John M. Shultz, native Missourian, lawyer, notary public, collection and real estate agency, owns seven hundred dollars real estate in town."

The presentation closes with the following pithy statement, which shows a condition of things very commendable indeed.

"Our people are cosmopolitan; they want the Eastern states men here, they want the men from the Middle states here, they want the Southerner here, they want Democrats, Republicans, Greenbackers and Mugwumps; they want Methodists, Presbyterians, Baptists, Campbellites, Episcopalians, Congregationalists, all sects and religionists, except Anarchists. They want men who labor and men who give employment to labor, men who labor to develop a country, and men who study and work in that direction. To all such we say, come and see, and you will not go away, for when you come you will hear words spoken that will sound like you had just called on a neighbor at home, or maybe a relative; possibly you will meet a relative or an old time friend that you had lost track of years ago, for here you hear language used by the down Easter, the New Yorker, the Pennsylvania Dutchman, the Southerner, the Irishman, Englishman, Scotchman, German, Frenchman, Italian, and Switzer, and they all keep the latch string hanging out to the stranger in their midst, and want you to come and join their boom at McFall, Gentry county, Missouri."

BELOW we give a clipping sent us of late, redolent with the spirit and genius of the "Holy Inquisition." The heart revolts at the thought that such sentiments as it utters are held and taught in these times, and feels rather to relegate them to the dismal, horrid past, when the lash, the rack, the thumbscrew, the faggot and the gibbet were the potent arguments by which Christianity (?) was propagated and maintained. O, Christ, how art thou betrayed in the name of religion!

THE WILD BULL OF PAPACY.

"A Roman Catholic journal called the Rambler has this to say concerning religious liberty:

"Religious liberty, in the sense of a liberty possessed by every man to choose his religion, is one of the most wicked delusions ever foisted upon this age by the father of all deceit. The very name of liberty—except in the sense of a permission to do certain definite acts—ought to be banished from the domain of religion. * * * It is neither more nor less than falsehood. No man has a right to choose his religion. * * * None but an Atheist can uphold the principles of religious liberty. * * * Shall I therefore fall in with this abominable delusion? Shall I foster that damnable doctrine that Socinianism, and Calvinism, and Anglicanism, and Judaism, are not every one of them mortal sins, like murder and adultery? Shall I hold out hopes to my erring Protestant brother that I will not meddle with his creed if he will not meddle with mine? Shall I tempt him to forget that he has no more right to his religious views than he has to my purse, to my house, or to my life-blood? No; Catholicism is the most intolerant of creeds. It is intolerance itself. We might as rationally maintain that a sane man has a right to believe that two and two do not make four as this theory of religious liberty. Its impiety is only equalled by its absurdity."

"BEARING FALSE WITNESS.

"Misrepresentation is one of the great destructive forces in human society. Confidence is a necessity of our life. If that be destroyed, the foundation for happily living together is destroyed. Misrepresentation has done its deadly work as sure as it has undermined confidence. And it is so easy to misrepresent—sometimes so difficult not to misrepresent, so much love and good-will is needed to explain conduct and relations, so easy it may be to misread motive and to misplace events,—that this peril hangs, we may almost say, over every man's head, over the peace of every family, or neighborhood, or church. Somebody with a wrenched feeling or a twisted conscience, or a disordered fancy or an evil mind may almost unconsciously cut the cord and let the danger fall at any moment. We have, therefore, a great duty in this matter, or several great duties. We ought to keep ourselves from misrepresentation; we ought to check it when it comes to our knowledge; we ought to educate ourselves in watchfulness against this class of perils; we ought to pray daily to be saved from the sour or malicious dispositions in which these perils are born and nursed into strength. And if it comes to pass, at any time in our days, that the air is filled with rumors which discredit anybody or any cause hitherto in good fame, let us steady ourselves and hold our tongues until the entire truth discloses itself, or the rumors die for lack of tongues to give them life. Half our work—we hope it is not making it too large—is just the undoing of the effects of misrepresentation. Good men are balked in good work; churches are snarled and broken down; distrust and suspicion wreck the harmony of communities. There is too little realization of the vast power for mischief which resides in bearing false-witness. We are all of us too negligent in the duty of suppressing lies and maintaining confidence. One sinner destroyeth much good, because we are so careless as to suffer his work to go on unchecked."—Chicago Times.

We heartily commend the above to our readers, and especially to that class (which we hope is very small) who are ever too ready to look on the dark side of matters and paint them just as black as their darkened minds can conceive. Some persons will look through their colored goggles of prejudice and perverted judgment, and then fret and foam and revile because others do not see as they do nor accept their misrepresentations and self-delusions. Persons should never bear testimony of what they do not clearly conceive and fully know, lest they be found misrepresenting facts and thereby harm their fellowmen. Conjectures, surmisings, and unsupported personal opinion, when offered as testimony in a matter, should be at once rejected; otherwise harm may result from misrepresentation. One genuine fact is worth more than thousands of mere fancies.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

WE call attention the letter of Bro. T. R. White, of Lowry, Missouri, and suggest that it offers an opening to some one of the brethren, already in the same line of business in some locality where trade is overdone, or to some one wishing to change his residence and occupation. We believe that Bro. White's representations concerning the place, business and surroundings, may be relied upon. His object is certainly a good one. His brother, I. N., is an excellent worker in the gospel field, and if he can be retained it would be well.

Saints and subscribers to the HERALD will please take notice that Lamoni, Decatur county, Iowa, is now an International Money Order Office, and those receiving the HERALD may now remit money by Money Order from Ontario, Australia, Victoria, Wales, England, and other foreign lands having a money order system with the United States, direct; which will save both trouble and expense. Please remember this. All remittances may be made by Money Order on Lamoni, from any foreign office having money order connection with the United States.

By letter from Bro. E. T. and Sr. M. E. Dawson, of Ione, California, of late date, we learn they are joyful in the goodness of God and the comfort of his Spirit. All will be who serve him faithfully in his appointed way.

Bro. Odin Jacobs, of Leland, Illinois, has returned to his home from a trip into Iowa. He spoke twice at Clinton, Iowa. He also spoke at Red Cliff in a school-house twice, and twice at Eagle Grove, to the Norwegians. He does not report seeing any fruit of his labors, but no gospel seed sown in humility is ever lost; it will be seen after many days. The branch at Leland is about wasted in numbers, though some are still faithful.

Bro. J. J. Cornish wrote us June 23d that he will be in Sanilac and Huron counties by the middle of July. He has many calls and will fill all he can as soon as he can.

By letter from Bro. James Moler, Limerick, Ohio, we learn that he has lately been laboring in Vinton county, where the next district conference is to be held. We are invited to be with them at the session which is to be held in the latter part of August, but which invitation we were under necessity to decline. Bro. Moler finds some who are moved by Elder D. Whitmer's Address, and he advised them that they examine the replies before acting hastily. It would seem to be becoming to those called to be Saints to be wary of the "Lo here" and "Lo there's," which are to assail the ears of the believers in these last days.

Bro. A. H. Parsons baptized two at Cuba, Kansas, June 23d; a blessed confirmation meeting while confirming them.

Mr. Remsburg, a noted Infidel lecturer lately refused to meet Mr. Clark Braden in debate upon the subject of Christianity, at Leon, Kansas, assigning as his reasons that Mr. Braden was abusive, and had maligned the character of R. G. Ingersoll; and traduced the character of innocent men and women in public; and further stated that unless Mr. Braden would make public acknowledgement of these wrongs complained of, and pledge amendment he would have nothing to do with him. Mr. Braden was secured by the Christian, or Campbellite order to defend against Remsburg's attack upon Christianity.

A late Cheyenne (Wyoming) Sun says this of Bro. Eames: "John Eames preached the first sermon in the church of Jesus Christ on Sunday. The congregation consists of about forty people. The tenets of the doctrine of Mr. Eames, who styles himself an instructor, are those of the reformed Mormon faith."

Bro. G. R. Scogin writes, June the 24th, quite encouragingly of the branches in Florida. He thinks the work is reviving very much of late, and that prospects are good for building up the interests of the church in that region. Previous to going to Florida he labored with fair success in the Alabama district, baptized eleven and opened new places for preaching. The Saints in those district feel that conference slighted them in not sending laborers there.

Bro. Wm. Chandler, of Cambridge, Iowa, is anxious to have further preaching there. Considerable interest is manifest when the elders labor in that region.

ERRATUM.—Bishop's report, on page 414, first column, June 12th, for "R. M. Elvin," read R. C.

Bro. A. H. Parsons wrote to Bro. D. Dancer from Cuba, Kansas, June 24th: "Send a variety of tracts, also some copies of the revelation of last April 11th. There are some who don't take the Herald, and that revelation would do them good to read it. It is having a telling effect on many. I have been laboring in new fields with good effect. Baptized two yesterday, and more to follow soon."

Bro. E. Carlton, of Petrolia, Ontario, hopes some of the faithful ministry will call and labor there at an early time, for he thinks now is an opportune time to get a full free hearing of the gospel in that place.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Bro. David Chambers, of Persia, Iowa, fairly bubbles over with rejoicing because of the way the Spirit is helping the work in his neighborhood; he writes June 22d.

"The Lord is doing a marvelous work in this place, twenty-seven have been added by baptism since the 4th inst; four more have given their names for baptism—and more coming. The Spirit of God is over the people in power, and the spirit of investigation is truly wonderful. Those who have just been baptized are strong in testimony, and they are so happy. O, what a spiritual feast! God be praised. All glory be given the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. Those of the members that have held bitterness against one another for years are reconciled and coming to meetings, and the spirit of meekness, humility, and brotherly kindness, beams in their eyes and in the hand-shaking, and their fervent God bless you—O how grand."

We do not wonder that Bro. Chambers feels well and is moved to hallelujah to God and the Lamb. Let the good work go on.

Bro. J. H. Peters, of East Lake, Michigan, writes us:

"The work seems to be more and more encouraging."

Yes; that is the tidings reaching us from all quarters where the ministry are faithfully laboring for the Master.

Bro. James G. Scott sends us good tidings under date of June 25th. He had been among the branches, setting them in order, and says:

"The work is getting in good shape in Southern Indiana. We have baptized two lately in Eden branch, which is now in a better condition than ever; affairs here are turning in our favor."

JEFFERSON'S RELIGION.

THE Book of Mormon teaches that "the Spirit of God" wrought upon Columbus to discover America; also that "it wrought upon other Gentiles" to come and settle therein; and Nephi further says; "I beheld the Spirit of the Lord, that it was upon the Gentiles, that they did prosper and obtain the land for their inheritance." And further; "I, Nephi, beheld that the Gentiles who had gone forth out of captivity, did humble themselves before the Lord; and the power of the Lord was with them; and I beheld that their mother Gentiles were gathered together upon the waters, and upon the land also, to battle against them; and I beheld that the power of God was with them, and also that the wrath of God was upon all those that were gathered together against them to battle. And I, Nephi, beheld that the Gentiles that had gone out of captivity, were delivered by the power of God out of the hands of all other nations."—1 Nephi 3: 35-38.

From this we learn, prophetically, the dealings of God in regard to the discovery, and settlement of America, also of its war of Independence, and that the people who effected this did so under the guidance of God, and that they had "the Spirit of God" to inspire, enlighten, lead and prosper them.

It was of this stock that Thomas Jefferson, third president of the United States; was born, April 2d, 1743, and among whom he was reared and fitted for the active duties of a most honorable, eventful, and useful life; and yet he was not a member of any church, but was commonly reckoned to be skeptical in respect to Christianity, especially in its then existing forms. This is not at all surprising to well instructed Latter Day Saints, for the Book of Mormon explains the fact that, "the great and abominable church," apostate Christianity, had so "perverted the right ways of the Lord," and had taken away from the Scriptures so "many parts which are plain and most precious," * * * "also many covenants," that "an exceeding great many do stumble."—1 Nephi 3: 39, 40.

Mr. Jefferson seems to have been of this stumbling class, and yet he had great respect for the Scriptures, and especially for the teachings of Jesus.

In the "Lives of the Presidents," page 142, he is made to say in a letter dated March 21st, 1819, written to Dr. Vine Utley, "I never go to bed without an hour or half an hour's previous reading of something moral whereon to ruminate in the intervals of sleep." And in another letter to a friend we discover what he esteemed to be of first importance in this line, for of a book he made up a collection of passages from "the evangelists," of the teachings of Jesus, he says: "A more beautiful or precious morsel of ethics I have never seen: it is a document in proof that I am a real Christian; that is to say, a disciple of the doctrines of Jesus."

Of this collection our author further writes: "This book Mr. Jefferson prepared evidently with great care. It is a very full compend of the teachings of our Savior. It was entitled "The Philosophy of Jesus of Nazareth." The author further says: "He also prepared a second volume, which he had bound in Morocco, in a handsome octavo volume, and which he labeled on the back, 'Morals of Jesus.'"

From these and other similar facts we learn, that while Mr. Jefferson was non-christian when measured by the conflicting creeds of christendom, he was nevertheless "a real christian" as "a disciple of the doctrines of Jesus" contained in the evangelists.

But Mr. Jefferson grievously offended, it seems, when he opposed the teaching of "any religious faith whatever" in the university at Charlottesville. Of this our author says: "He devoted much attention to the establishment of the university at Charlottesville. Having no religious faith which he was willing to avow, he was not willing that any religious faith whatever should be taught in the university as a part of its course of instruction. This establishment, in a christian land, of an institution for the education of youth, where the relation existing between man and his Maker was entirely ignored, raised a general cry of disapproval throughout the whole country. It left a stigma upon the reputation of Mr. Jefferson in the minds of christian people, which can never be effaced. He endeavored to abate the censure by suggesting that the various [and, it might be said varying.—Ed.] denominations of christians might establish schools, if they wished, in the vicinity of the university; and the students, if they wished, could attend their religious instructions."—Ibid.

Summed up, the matter stands about thus: Mr. Jefferson was "a real Christian;" that is to say, a disciple of the doctrines of Jesus;" but yet he neither accepted nor endorsed any of "the various denominations of Christians." Nevertheless, aided by the Spirit of God, the fertile brain of Thomas Jefferson conceived, and his facile pen drafted the immortal "Declaration of Independence," a document precious to every true American heart, the inspiring hope of struggling humanity, the political Pharos of the world, and the fear of the despot and the oppressor. That same "Spirit of God" which led and enlightened Columbus in the discovery of America, the Pilgrims, Puritans and others in its settlement, also inspired the soul of Jefferson and others in founding our great nation and securing its free and liberal institutions. Herein is a wondrous and invaluable lesson, which all should profit by; for it teaches that the tender mercies of God are over all his works, that God looks "upon the heart" of men and gives them according to their worthy works and righteous desires." It broadens the view in respect to the Fatherhood of God, his love and care for the race, and fills the heart with reverential love for Him and His creatures.

The revelations of the "Choice Seer" inform us that God inspired the minds of our patriot fathers, and especially those who formulated and secured for us that great charter of human rights, the Constitution of our United States. One of them says: "Importune for redress and redemption by the hands of those who are placed as rulers, and are in authority over you, according to the laws and constitution of the people which I have suffered to be established, and should be maintained for the rights and protection of all flesh, according to just and holy principles, that every man may act in doctrine and principle pertaining to futurity according to the moral agency which I have given unto them, that every man may be accountable for his own sins in the day of judgment. Therefore it is not right that any man should be in bondage one to another. And for this purpose have I established the Constitution of this land by the hands of wise men whom I raised up unto this very purpose, and redeemed the land by the shedding of blood."—Doc. Cov. 98: 10.

It is not at all strange to us that Thomas Jefferson, largely enlightened by the Spirit of God, thoroughly learned in and ardently loving the teachings of Jesus, should refuse to endorse and adopt any of the forms of "the various denominations of Christians" of his times. The Christianity of Christ found in the Scriptures differs widely from that found in the creeds of those times, and he was well aware of it.

His grandson, Thomas Jefferson Randolph, who was most intimate with him says: "I never heard from him the expression of one thought, feeling, or sentiment, inconsistent with the highest moral standard, or the purest Christian charity in the largest sense. His moral character was of the highest order, founded upon the purest and sternest models of antiquity, softened, chastened, and developed by the all-pervading benevolence of the doctrines of Christ, which he had intensely and admirably studied."

"In his contemplative moments, his mind turned to religion, which he studied thoroughly. He had seen and read much of the abuses and perversions of Christianity; he abhorred those abuses and their authors, and denounced them without reserve. He was regular in his attendance on church, taking his prayer-book with him."

But in his dying moments Mr. Jefferson objected to seeing the Episcopal minister except "as a kind and good neighbor." Such was the religion of Thomas Jefferson.

BRO. SCHNELL, of Los Angeles, California, sends us the following slip from a New York paper, republished in the Los Angeles Tribune, of May 20th:

MOUND BUILDERS OR WHO?

Oneonta (N. Y.) Herald, April 28th:—A very remarkable discovery was brought to light last week upon the well known Slade flats at the junction of the Charlotte with the Susquehanna, on the south side of the latter stream, at a point some two miles above this village. During the recent high water a broad current was in some way diverted from the main channel across a bench of alluvial land rising two or three feet above the general level of the neighboring bank. The field having been plowed last fall and the soil to the depth of two feet or more consisting mainly of a fine alluvium, a gully two or three rods wide and as many feet deep to the clay sub-soil, was cut clear across the field for some rods—to a "binnacle" or overflow putting out from the main stream at some distance below. The current does not appear to have been very swift, and in consequence objects of some weight contained in the soil were left behind as the latter filtered away.

For ten days, or a fortnight the plowed section was under water. When the flood subsided Mr. Slade and his son paid a visit to the place to ascertain the extent of the damage, when what was their surprise to note in the bottom of the new-made channel many fragments of rude pottery mingled with flint chips, arrow and spear-points, and similar remains. They gathered many, and the news of the discovery spreading, the spot has since been visited by several persons. The site laid bare by the flood is unquestionably that of an aboriginal village. Altogether some two thousand fragments of pottery have been taken from a few square rods of surface exposed, together with one hundred spear and arrow points—many of them of unusual form—several flint drills, many "sharpening stones," two small granite axes, numerous "sinkers," etc. Several ancient fireplaces, of river cobbles, bedded together, were disclosed, from one of which a peck of charcoal fragments was exhumed. The pottery, several pieces of which show an exterior surface of three or four square inches, is both plain and ornamented, the latter in most intricate design. One fragment shows a human face, but straight lines variously combined and curious punctured patterns are the prevailing type. Rims and edges, being the thickest and least perishable portions, abound in the collections made. The plain pottery is remarkably hard and well preserved, and in both plain and ornamental the inside surface is in most cases of a black color, in strong contrast with the brick-red or chocolate hue of the exterior.

The top soil in the neighborhood abounds in Indian relics, arrow and spear heads, "hammer stones," and the like, but it contains no sign of this pottery. Tradition runs that there was an Indian village in the locality. But it might well have existed two feet above the level laid bare by the flood. For there is nothing to prove that the soil had before been disturbed for ages. If indeed this be the site of the old Indian village, then it is to be said that there can hardly exist that difference between the Indians and the mysterious mound builders which has been commonly supposed, for the pottery obtained on the Slade flats last week is precisely the same as the pottery exhumed in western mounds.

It may be remarked in connection with this subject that a so-called "Indian mound" exists on Walling's Island not far below this ancient village site; that there is another near the mouth of the Otesgo creek, a third at Sidney, and a fourth in the Unadilla Valley.

THE Book of Mormon was first published in 1829-30. Since that time it has been republished in the English language in Cincinnati and Nauvoo by the old organization; in New York, by Russell Huntley; in Plano, Illinois, and Lamoni, Iowa, by the Reorganized Church; and in Liverpool, England, and Salt Lake City, Utah, by the Utah Church.

In a pamphlet issued by John Jacques, and published by Deseret News Company, Utah, he states: "The Book of Mormon was published in England in 1841; in Danish in 1851; in Welsh, French, German and Italian in 1852, in Hawaiian in 1855; in Swedish in 1878. Several years ago it was translated into Hindoostanee and into Dutch. In 1876 portions of it were published in Spanish, and the whole is now prepared for publication in that language. It is said that it was published in Russian in New York, in 1872, by a gentleman not in the church."

Bro. R. M. Elvin suggests that it would be well that the Library had a copy of each English edition of the Book of Mormon and all the issues in different languages. This is a good suggestion. We have the French, Italian and German editions; the Palmyra, Nauvoo, Cincinnati, one European, or Liverpool edition, the Huntley, or New York edition; and of course the Plano and Lamoni already. We will pay a reasonable price for editions in other languages.

THE following will show what is the common opinion of men in position to know respecting the liquor business in Iowa.

SOME RESULTS OF PROHIBITION.

MESSRS. STOOKEY & JOHNSON:

Gentlemen:—I have been requested to make a statement showing the number of persons sent to the penitentiary from this district since I have been on the bench. I took my seat on the 1st day of January, 1883, and the following shows the number of persons sent to the penitentiary during each year:

During 1883.....	31
" 1884.....	23
" 1885.....	20
" 1886.....	14
" first six months of 1887.....	3
Total .....	91

Of this number only three were females, 10 were colored, 66 unmarried and 25 married, 22 under 21 years old and only six past 40 years old; thus showing that most of the crimes are committed by persons who are comparatively young.

During these four years and a half the counties of the district are represented as follows, to-wit:

Decatur .....	9
Ringgold .....	6
Taylor .....	8
Page .....	11
Montgomery .....	28
Adams.....	2
Union .....	20
Clarke .....	6
Wayne.....	1

Wayne has only been in the district since the 1st of January, 1887.

I am frequently asked what is the cause of this decrease in crime during the last four years. My answer is, the enforcement of the prohibitory law. And it seems to me that the above figures prove this beyond a doubt. The first year I was on the bench the saloons were running; the second and third years they were running in some localities; but the fourth year, I do not believe there was a saloon in the district. I am satisfied that there was not an open saloon. Red Oak, in Montgomery county, and Creston, in Union county, were the last places in the district to give up the saloons, and the record from these two counties show the result. The result from these two counties is not because they have a larger population than the other counties of the district. Page has a much larger population than either of these counties. In the counties where the law has been best enforced, there has been the least crime. During the last year it has not been an uncommon thing—as in this county at the last term—for the grand jury to adjourn without the finding of an indictment.

At first, under the present pharmacy law, some of the druggists were disposed to take advantage and abuse the trust imposed in them, but a number of convictions and fines and the revocation of a number of pharmacy permits by the pharmacy board, has had a wholesome effect, and I believe that a great majority of the druggists in the district are now disposed to obey the law.

JOHN W. HARVEY.

D. WHITMER'S CRITICS.

WE are receiving many letters and articles arraigning, controverting, or in some way criticising David Whitmer's "Address" and pamphlet, which we do not think proper to publish. Chief among our reasons for not publishing them is the fact that we are reviewing his work in the light of Scriptural and historical facts with the purpose of getting at the truth of matters in controversy, and are determined that we will in no way encourage or allow what appears bitter, harsh, or vindictive to enter into this discussion.

Our design is to seek for truth and present it plainly and fairly, free from everything that seems in the least to be irritating, persecutive or personal.

By this we must not be understood as saying that these articles and letters, in whole or in part, exhibit improper spirit or unfair methods; but to publish them, or any part of them, especially while we have the same matter in hand, may easily be construed into overcrowding, injustice, or lack of charity. This must be avoided; therefore those who have written us as above indicated will understand why we have not published their views in the case.

An extract from one letter may suffice to show the general tenor of others: "We out here think that David Whitmer and clique, (a small one at that), are getting more than they bargained for when they sent their 'Address' and pamphlets broadcast throughout the land. The writer thanks God that David Whitmer sent his claims forth, for the same reason that he thanks Him that Spaulding's Romance has been found. God will make the wrath of man to praise Him."

Yes; it is clear that God is over-ruling, that important recorded facts found in the authentic records of his church and in its sacred books shall be brought forth in such manner, and displayed in such plainness and definiteness, that none need lack information as to the truth and the right in respect to the work of God committed to his Saints. They who oppose God's work will expose their own weakness and folly.

Mothers' Home Column.

EDITED BY SISTER "FRANCES."

"WHAT is really momentous and all-important with us is the present, by which the future is shaped and colored."

"FAITHFUL OVER A FEW THINGS."

It gives us great pleasure to announce to the sisters, and brothers also, who have contributed to the Home Column Missionary Fund, that last week we forwarded to Bishop Blakeslee, an additional check for $215.94, the amount received up to June 16th, 1887. This, while it falls somewhat short of what we had hoped to do, is still encouraging, and we believe that when Autumn comes in with the abundance in her lap which the summer now promises, it will be greatly increased, enough so that we will be enabled to contribute $100 per month through the year, towards spreading the glad news of salvation. Don't forget your birthdays as they come, but send a thank offering to the Lord for years prolonged, in which he is trying you to know whether you will be "faithful over a few things," in order that he may make you "ruler over many things." Let us count up our blessings, if indeed we be able to number them, and consider what that must be which is in store for us, if all which we receive while here is esteemed but as a few things, when compared with what we shall receive if we are only faithful to our trust while God has us upon trial here. One would suppose that the very fact that all we have is a free gift from God, would be enough to move our hearts with love and gratitude so deep that we could not find in our hearts the least desire to withhold anything from him which he called upon us for, but when we add to this the much weightier fact, that he gives us these blessings in order to prove us that he may know whether we are worthy to be made rulers over the many things which he has prepared for us, does not self love, self interest even, point out to us the folly of tearing down our barns and building larger that we may have place to bestow the perishable things of this world, while we neglect entirely to secure the treasure which can not be corrupted, which needs not lock and key to keep it from thieves who break through and steal, neither cedar chest to guard it from the ravages of moths which destroy?

There is another light in which faithfulness is to be regarded, and that is the light of spending. A sister, in sending in a liberal contribution, says: "Since I sent in my last mite, the Lord has blessed me five fold. I promised that if he would grant unto me this amount, I would do with less finery and present it to his cause for the spreading of his truth, and, believe me, this happy privilege gives me great joy. We, sisters, however, would feel very much disheartened indeed to have our hard earned pennies go, unnecessarily, to the 'Rail road kings.' In the report of one of our elders we see 3407 miles travelled, and in that distance 143 sermons preached. We do not know who furnished this means, neither do we wish to find fault, but it does take money to travel."

"He that is faithful in that which is least, is faithful also in much."

THE RIGHT PLACE.

I READ a little article this morning from the pen of Bishop Simpson, called "Each in our right place." He illustrates it by telling of the beautiful mosaic paintings made in other countries of tiny pieces of various colored glass or marble. Each piece is small and insignificant looking in itself, yet when all are put in their proper places they make a lovely picture, which lasts for ages to give pleasure to all beholders, and reflect praise on the master artist who wrought it out. And the writer adds, "So God is making a great picture out of society—making it out of seemingly insignificant materials, but putting each one where he should be"—making it for all eternity—and we ought to be pleased with whatever place in it he puts us. If we could only feel this always, what a great help it would be toward making us contented with our lot in life! But oh! how hard it is to feel so, and often we will not even believe it. We think we are in the wrong place, and long to be in a different one. We are sure there is other work which we are much better fitted for than this, which is so distasteful, or, at any rate, work which we would rather do. And we do not take it kindly that the Great Artist has used His own judgment in preference and put us in this particular spot. The busy mother, tired at times with all her household care and tending of the little ones, may envy the woman who, with no family of her own to keep her employed, is working for public charities or holding positions of trust and responsibility in societies that are laboring for the good of others. She thinks, "If I were not tied down so closely at home, I, too, could do some good in helping others." While perhaps the other woman, weary with the responsibilities resting upon her and the constant tax on mind and brain necessary to carry on all her duties rightly, thinks, "If I only had my own home and little ones to work for, as that blessed mother has, how much happier I would be!"

Now, it may be that she would not be fitted for such a position at all, and could not care for the children with half the patience and management which the one who is their mother does; yet she is fitted for the position she holds and fills it nobly, while the young mother could not carry out such work in a satisfactory manner.

The man high in public position and honors, whose business it is to command and superintend others, sometimes turns wearily away from the cares consequent on such a life, and, looking at the humble workingman moving on in his quiet, even way, doing the work appointed him, and receiving regularly the compensation for it, thinks, "What a comfort it would be to have no more care or responsibility than that!" And this very laboring man perhaps thinks, "If I were in that great man's place, what an easy, luxurious life I might have!"

The work which appears to some as if it made them insignificant plodders, is often just the work needed to make home pleasant and comfortable for the dwellers therein; and if the mother, wife, or daughter whose work is apportioned there should neglect it to seek some other place—some other field of labor which looks more congenial—how disastrous are the results.

A friend, who is an active, energetic housewife, said to me the other day: "I had been growing so dissatisfied with my lot during the last year or two! I wanted to do something beside dull, dry housework; I was tired of its hum-drum monotony, all to do over and over again every day and week and so little to show for it afterward. Then that tedious spell of illness came on me last spring, when I could do nothing for so long, but lie and suffer and think, and oh! how gladly would I have gotten up and worked all day long, contented with the toil that was so much better than this forced rest. I thought of invalids condemned to years of helpless imprisonment, never able to work for themselves or others, and felt how much more blessed my lot was than theirs, and resolved that hereafter I would be satisfied with it—that I was in the right place."

Then again, the invalid, worn with long suffering of body and mind, tired of the confinement of the sick-room and the lassitude and languor of weakness, when there is no actual pain, looks at those who can go about where they will and longs for their privilege of working with active hands and feet once more. Repining thoughts often come. She feels herself a useless burden and thinks her life worthless, forgetting that this place has been given her to fill and if she does it cheerfully and submissively such service is just as acceptable to the Master, who appoints each one his portion, as that of the busiest worker.

Many of us have read—though some perhaps have not—the beautiful story of “The Changed Cross,” where the weary repiner thought her cross heavier than those borne by others and too hard to carry any longer. It was granted her, in a vision, to choose from the many crosses she saw around her—some richly set with jewels or adorned with flowers. She lifted one and another, but all were heavier than her own, or thorns were hidden among the flowers, which pierced her too sharply, and she laid them down despairingly at last, while her Guide whispered gently: “No cross, no crown!” At last she raised her heart to Him imploringly, and He bade her trust in Him and He would show her His perfect love. So she followed eagerly, until He showed her a plain-looking cross, with only some words of love inscribed on it. Thankfully she raised it and soon joyfully acknowledged it to be the best she had found—the easiest to bear. Then a heavenly light shone upon it and she recognized her own old cross; but, oh! how different it felt since trying all the others and finding them weightier. Thenceforth she felt it was best He should choose for her and she could trust to His judgment and love.

Thus should we all endeavor to trust, and be willing to accept, the place given us, even if it is not a pleasant one, remembering that if we could change about at our own desire we might step into the wrong places unknowingly and defeat the ends which our all-wise Father would have us accomplish for Him.—SEL.

WANTED.

Wanted—in places of folly and sin
 Courage, these wayward souls to win,
 Voices to tell them of Jesus' love;
 Faith that points to the rest above.

Wanted—yes in the homes of the poor
 Christian love to open the door;
 Gentle hearts to soothe the pain
 That to the needy comes oft and again.

Wanted—in the business hours of man
 The golden rule, in each trade to plan;
 In all that we say, whatever we do,
 That the love of God may shine all through.

Wanted—grace to bear each loss;
 Trials, to burn the gold from the dross;
 Will to bow in obedience mild
 To the will of Christ as a little child.

Wanted—wisdom, peaceable, pure,
 To know the soul's deep sin, and cure,
 Perfect trust in a loving God,
 Walking the path our Savior trod.

Wanted—to be kept from evil here
 To live in his love without a fear
 Nothing to know but his will divine
 And that I am his and he is mine.

Selected by E. B. FARRAR.

SISTER LIZZIE, Centralia, Kansas, writes: “I have received such advice as has been referred to in the Column for taking the life of my unborn children. Various plausible reasons have been assigned to justify the act; but how they vanish like mist before the sun when the light of truth shines on them. What will be the feelings of that mother who has suffered herself to be so overcome, when she shall stand face to face with the child she has murdered. In a medical work I have been reading I find the following: ‘What thinks Christ of your killing his little lambs? Let Christian civilization (?) take lessons of Chinese heathenism, which suffers the child to be born, then strangles and casts it into the street to be devoured or picked up by morning scavengers. That destroys only the child, but this destroys mother and child.’ Why have we been asleep so long? Let us awaken as a band of united sisters, and rear our little ones in love and in the true faith of God, that we may have a wise and good generation to proclaim the word of life when we have passed away.”

SISTER ALICE MARTIN, writes from Davis City, Iowa: “I am trying to live as near right as I can. I want to live to raise my children and I ask an interest in the prayers of the mothers, for my health is poor.”

SR. M. M. KENT writes from Big Rapids, Mich.: “The letters in the Herald are of much value to me, and if it were not for encouragements which come through it, I fear I would not be able to stand when the cares and trials of life press me so heavily. We would be very glad to have any elder who might be coming this way stop and preach for us. Inquire for A. L. Kent's photograph gallery.”

SISTER JOSEPHINE writes: “I have made up my mind to do without tea and coffee, and use the money it costs to indulge in them, for the good of the cause of Christ.”

“A SISTER,” writing on the 18th of June, says: “The Herald is my only preacher, and I have been blessed many times while reading letters in the Home Column, and have been enlightened on many subjects.”

SISTER MARY PRETTYMAN writes from Knox, Indiana: “I rejoice this morning because of the influence of the Spirit of God within my heart; and the earnest desire of my soul is to see the little stone cut out of the mountain without hands roll on until all the designs of God be accomplished, even until He shall reign whose right it is to reign.”

SR. M. A. GREEN writes from Ahila, California: “We have but a small branch here, but we are all striving to be true Saints. Brn. J. R. Cook and H. Holt, who are earnest workers for the cause, have been laboring here and have left a good impression. My prayer is that every father and mother will strive to set a good example before their children and also before the world, because we are a people from whom much is expected, for we bear a testimony which no other people can, and our faith and works ought to agree.”

SR. MARY A. JENKINS writes from Manteno, Iowa: “I am firm in the latter day work, notwithstanding the attempts made by the enemies of God to destroy it. I know that Joseph the martyr was a true prophet of God, and in common with thousands of others know that he did a great work, and I also know that his son Joseph is also a true prophet of God, and that the Reorganized Church is accepted of God, and that the more it is opposed the more it will prosper. I wish I could do more to help roll on this work of saving souls, but will try to be content with doing little and not allowing a single opportunity to pass unimproved. I obtained ten copies of Voice of Warning from Bro. Peters last winter, and have them all out. One lady said she believed every word of it and wanted the Book of Mormon to read. Her wants were supplied, and now I have a few names for “Autumn Leaves.”

[We thank sister Jenkins for the names sent, six in all; and we can not refrain from saying that if each one who loves the work would labor as faithfully for it as she does, it would not be long before the stone would smite the feet of the image, and the people who must be prepared to meet Christ at his coming would be prepared, and the opening heavens would reveal him. Though feeble in health and living in an isolated locality, Sr. Jenkins sold twenty-five of the “Witnesses,” for helping to enlarge the Hope, and now she is helping to spread those powerful little preachers sent out by Bro. Peters. May God bless every effort made by his handmaidens (and there are many being made), for the spreading abroad of light and truth].

SISTER M. M. DICE writes from Stewartville, Missouri: “The Saints of this place have stood by us nobly, and have done everything they could do to aid and comfort us during the long sickness of my husband, who has been sick for nearly three years, and for the past six months confined to his bed. We pray God's blessings to rest upon each one of them, and also upon our many kind neighbors who are not of our faith, and for whom we pray that they may yet see the light and walk therein. In the midst of many trials hard to bear and afflictions which seem severe, we have much, very much, to be thankful for. The comforting influence of the Holy Spirit has been given us many times. I have not only felt its influence, but by its power was blessed with a beautiful vision, wherein I saw the Spirit of God poured out like a stream proceeding from God, and as far as I could see I saw the light and glory of it. May we all be prepared to meet our Savior at his coming.”

SISTER CLARA CRAIG writes from Columbus: “I have received great strength and much comfort from reading the “Home Column,” and regret that we did not have such a guide when I was raising my family. I have had many severe trials, but out of all of them the Lord has brought me, and spared my life to still rejoice in this latter day work. When I have felt that I was being tried in the crucible of affliction and almost forsaken of God and man, then has Christ come to me in answer to prayer, like a light shining in a dark place, and brought the healing balm by which I was comforted, and my faith and strength has been increased, and I have been enabled to stand firm in the faith. I desire the Saints to pray for me, that I may hold out faithful to the end.”

SR. M. A. ANDERSON writes from Forster, N. S. W.: “The Herald is a welcome visitor, bringing us good news from afar. My heart has often been made to leap for joy that we ever heard the gospel in its purity, and have witnessed its power. May God help us as a branch to try and live nearer to him! May the Spirit of that God who delivered Daniel from the jaws of the lions, be with the mothers in this latter day work, and help us to realize the great responsibility resting upon us, to so train our children that they may grow up to love and serve him and keep all his commandments.”

HOME COLUMN MISSIONARY FUND.

Sr. Charlotte Pierson, Beech Lane, Ont. ....	20
Sr. Naomi, Ohio. ....	1 00
Sr. Ada S. Kelley, Indian River, Me. ....	50
Sr. Mary L. Coster, Scranton, Miss. ....	70
Sr. Mary E. Scarcliff, Scranton, Miss. ....	30
Sr. Lou Berry, Marshalltown, Iowa. ....	1 00
Sr. Jannatte Harris, Reese Creek, Mont. ....	1 00
Sr. J. Welsh, Vanessa, Ont. ....	1 00
Sr. Anne Rasmussen, Forest City, Mo. ....	1 00
Sr. Anne M. Stokes, Forest City, Mo. ....	1 00
Sr. M. Burke, Farwell, Mich. ....	25

LAMONT, Iowa, June 29th.

No Credit for moneys received on subscription will appear on the Colored Address Label of the Herald for this issue, as no changes have been made, except in case of persons desiring a change in P.O. address.

Correspondence.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 23d.

Bro. Blair:—On account of my wife's poor health I expect to make my future home at Los Angeles, or vicinity. I went to California in 1875 for her health, and she got well. But Sacramento gave us the malaria, and result was ague. Then the loss of our boy, being killed by a horse, and our property here being in a bad fix, we thought it best to return in 1881. Since then we have got property in shape to handle, but wife is back into the old rut of ill-health, and I have concluded to go to a country favorable to a person that is troubled with hay-fever, bronchitis and lung trouble. The "doctor" (a nice thing for a Latter Day Saint to say) says this climate is not suited to her constitution, and advised my removal to California.

As to doctors, I have but little confidence in them, yet there are circumstances that require experienced persons to attend in time of need; and I know there is virtue in medicine, as I have a medicine chest and treat my own family, as well as some of my neighbors. If there is no virtue in the medicine, then God must see fit to bless the administration under the weak circumstances of man's condition. And it is but natural for man, under these circumstances, to give credit to medicine. But yet God is the cause and giver of all that is good. I don't always go to the Lord; do all I know, then go, and we have often been blessed. One time our little girl lay sick with fever; wife came to me, and as I am susceptible to influences, I got the whole load—it was too heavy for me to carry. So we knelt right down by the bedside of the child and did cast our burdens on Him who careth for all; (not a few); when we got up the fever was broken, the child had broken out in a sweat and got well speedily. Another instance: Our child was very bad; wife cast the burden upon me; we got right out of bed and laid our case before the Lord as we would before any earthly help, asking him to give us a testimony that our prayer was heard and answered. We went to sleep; the child wakened us up in the night calling our names, after we answered she said she was better, and got well right away. These, with many other instances, makes me know God hears and heals independent of medicine.

In making the change I hope our lot will be cast in the society of earthy vessels that will be an assistance in the highway of holiness rather than a hindrance. Bro. Joseph said in one of his sermons, "Those who push, in their hurry, and crowd off of the platform, are not saviors." I am weak, therefore hope the Lord will bless me that I may be able to walk among men and evil spirits, in wisdom. But as I am extremely susceptible to influences, when a wrong is manifested my dislike for evil is taken advantage of by a spirit not of God, before I am aware of it. I can freely say, When I would do good, evil is present with me. Therefore I feel the necessity of going slow; keeping away from everything I feel not able to endure, until such times as I am blest so that I can walk in the midst of disorder and confusion, never adding fuel to the flame, but helping poor, fallen humanity when and where I can. I hope to agree with my adversary while I am in the way with him, lest he deliver me to the officers, judge and prison. It is written, "If he sues for thy coat, give him thy cloak also." Nothing is gained by arguing the point, the longer you do it the more it will cost.

Will leave here July 5th, 1887, for Los Angeles.

Respectfully yours in hope,

GEO. L. MATTHEWS.

LEON, Kan., June 19th.

Bro. Joseph and Blair:—Our town has been the scene of quite an excitement between the infidels and Campbellites. An infidel lecturer, Mr. Remsburg, came to our town last spring and lectured a few times against Christianity in general. The Campbellites talked fight a little then, but were not quite ready at that time; so the infidel told them to get their man ready, any man they were of a mind to, except Clark Braden, and him he would not debate with. So they made arrangements with the Rev. Dr. Lucas, of Campbellite fame. A few days before the debate was to begin the doctor was taken sick, so they sent right off for Braden, and when the infidel came he refused to join with Braden; and gave as his reasons that Mr. Braden was so abusive to his opponent and had maligned the character of R. G. Ingersoll and the Liberals of Liberal, Missouri; and published such brazen falsehoods upon the characters of innocent men and women that he would not have any thing to do with him unless he would make public acknowledgements and pledge himself to do better in the future. So the fun began; Braden took the church and Remsburg the opera hall, and they are fighting it out at long range.

I write this by request of Mr. Remsburg as he requested that his refusal be sent by the audience for publication in every Christian paper throughout the land.

S. J. HINKLE.

LOWRY CITY, Mo., June 23d.

Bro. Joseph:—Do you know of any parties in the church that would desire to embark in mercantile business. Please inform them that I have a store at Lowry City, Missouri, and a good paying one too, with a "booming" trade for the capital invested, (about $3,000), which I desire to sell at once, or at an early date. Lowry City is on the K. C. C. and also K. C. and S. R. R's. and of about five hundred inhabitants; good school, and about twenty-five Latter Day Saints live in the vicinity in good branch capacity (Clinton Branch). A very little prejudice against us here in way of trade. Any one desiring to buy could hire a good man (Bro. B. Freel) who has been in the store for near three years and understands the trade just excellent. Bro. Freel resides here and is of high standing with my customers.

It will be asked why I want to sell. The reason is, I have conferred with Brn. I. N. and D. C. of Clinton, in regard to business and the ministry. The business is such with the brethren there, that some one is forced to take Bro. I. N.'s place, or he go out of the active ministry. And rather than the latter should occur, I am willing to make the sacrifice of a sale of business here. This whole country seems moved to a spirit of investigation under the care that Bro. I. N. has given to it. I have never seen a more golden time for the advance of the work than is in this district now. The way it is now, my brother is overrun with cares of life, having a large family, and in the ministry nearly every day, with the care of a large district as its presiding officer and a number of excellent laborers; such as Brn. Crum, Curtis, Robinson, A. White, &c., under his directing care; all of these men are doing a noble work. Brn. Curtis and Crum just left here for other parts, and Bro. Robinson just closed a series of meetings in Hickory county, where he baptized two, and great interest is manifested; it being an entire new point. Parties can correspond with me, and I will give information as to business.

Yours in the work,

T. R. WHITE.

OLNEYVILLE, R. I., June 21st.

Bro. Blair:—It is with pleasure that I can uphold the latter day gospel once more. Having for the past two years fed on the husks of the world, and knowing that there was bread enough and to spare in my Father's house, like the prodigal son I said, "I will return home." I was met with open arms and the blessings of the Holy Spirit.

No man or set of men has taught me this gospel, the Holy Spirit has been my teacher and guide; and I do rejoice that the gospel has been restored to the earth, and that I am able to be a participant of the same. I mean to stand and fight the battle like a true Latter Day Saint.

I was baptized Sunday, June 19th, by Bro. Emory F. Vickers, of the Cranston Branch, and was confirmed by Bro. H. H. Thompson. Pray for me.

I remain your brother in gospel bonds,

W. H. W. MARSLAND.

[We make the following extract from a private letter written by Bro. D. S. Mills, from Ruby Valley, Nevada, June 20th].

"The Elko papers say I am a Mormon preacher stirring up sinners in these parts, etc. Well, I am still busy, have baptized thirteen adults, and confirmed them; have ordained one elder, also a priest, teacher and deacon, and organized a good branch of fifteen members, with others soon to join with them. Have administered to several with the marked blessing of God sealing the ordinance; have organized a good Sunday School of thirty scholars, raised $12 now to send for Hopes, tune book and Inspired Translation, besides getting several Herald subscribers and more money will be raised. Every family wants "Autumn Leaves," and I will send a list of names as soon as I get all. I baptized here the first white child ever born in Salt Lake City—Leonard Covert, born November 27th, 1848; and have ordained him a priest. He is an excellent man and will yet do good work for the Master. I have satisfied an infidel (a young lady school teacher) who says I must baptize her in a few days; have removed much prejudice, made many friends and also some enemies, a few of whom have talked of ancient eggs, etc., but now I hear they are talking of giving me a suit, (of what do you think?) of tar and feathers. But as barking dogs seldom bite, and as I am in no need of a suit at present I shall hardly accept their generous offer, for tar is dear and feathers scarce and dearer.

Now comes a call from Fort Halleck, twenty-five miles west of here, to go and organize a Sunday School and talk to them. None are members of the church. I am to go next week to the Humboldt Wells to speak by invitation. This is a good field and needs continuous labor. I am glad I came here, and shall remain as long as I can consistently with calls from my other fields of labor, which are growing louder and louder. My dear, good wife takes my absence all patiently as a matter of fact. All are well at home, for which I am thankful to God, as well as for my own health and strength, and especially for his Spirit which I feel while I declare the word and have most excellent liberty. The Spirit, from our late conference, has gone forth, and I hear good reports from all along our lines. Every prisoner we take becomes a volunteer in the fast growing army of the Lord. No rest till every foe is either captured or driven from the field dragging their black ensign of death and misery with them! From the housetops, and in the streets, we will "tell it in Gath and publish it in Askelon!" Let the hills and valleys echo the sound, 'till we rejoice in the redemption of Zion 'mid the defensive cloud and pillar by day and by night, upon Zion and upon her assemblies!"

BLAKELY, Neb., June 19th.

Dear Herald:—I am much strengthened in reading the many good and encouraging letters from the various parts of God's vineyard. I think that the church never stood on a surer foundation than now, as it has been tested to the bottom; it stands as firm as a rock. My faith has been strengthened in the latter day work in seeing the weak arguments brought against it. I received divine testimony concerning this work years ago, and I have watched its progress. I was surprised at the weak position of Elder Whitmer. I think the Home Column of the Herald excellent. Our little branch (the Deer Creek) still exists, but a large number of its members are scattered to various parts; those that remain live so far apart it is difficult to meet as often as we should; but we have been encouraged by the labors of Brn. Caffall and Rumel. They held a two days' meeting June 4th and 5th in Bro. Jackson's Grove, at the Yellow Banks. There was quite a large attendance on Sunday. June the 12th they appointed meetings in my grove on Deer Creek, but it rained during the time appointed which broke the arrangement. Bro. Caffall preached to a large crowd which had gathered in my house during the rain; he had good liberty. They are holding a two days' meeting in the Clearwater branch thirty-five miles away.

Yours in bonds,

C. N. HUTCHINS.

Dow City, Iowa, June 20th.

Bro. Joseph:—I arrived in Persia, in the Little Sioux district, with Bro. D. Chambers on the 16th of April. By request continued there preaching for eleven evenings, having good liberty and attention. One young man was baptized, and several others were nigh the door. During those meetings I spoke on Sunday in the Salem branch at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m., and at Portsmouth at night. The next Sunday I was at the Salem branch again at 11 a. m., and Portsmouth at night, and continued in the latter place for six evenings, occupying the Methodist church. Since then I have labored in Galland's Grove, Deloit, and Dow City branches. Made one new opening at Defiance; spoke there for six evenings, and think some good was done. I have done all I am able to do since I have been here, but find more work than I can do. I have had splendid liberty in presenting the word, and feel encouraged in this work. Since the 17th of April I have preached fifty-one times, having larger congregations than I expected in such busy times and hot weather. During my stay in Deloit, where I preached thirteen sermons, 9 were baptized, all being children of the Saints except one, a young woman. The conference of the Little Sioux district was held at Persia, June 4th, and the conference of this district convened the next Friday at the Salem branch, about two miles from Persia. I assisted the Saints in holding meetings at Persia till the Galland's Grove district conference convened, which was a grand success, for the Spirit of our Master was enjoyed, and all seemed to rejoice in this glorious work. Fifteen were baptized during the conference; the Saints are kind, faithful and willing to aid in carrying the work on to success by example as well as by precept. Success and prosperity are bound to follow such efforts.

I remain your brother in Christ,

WARREN E. PEAK.

PERSIA, Iowa, June 27th.

Bro. David Dancer:—The work of the Lord is on the "boom" here; four more were baptized yesterday, and one more gave name for baptism. This makes thirty-one baptized here since the 5th of June. Tracts are helping us wonderfully. I have two little sisters, Nannie Seddon and Nettie Pelton, who with myself distribute them. We take the names of all we give tracts to. These sisters will report their labors at the end of three months, and it will be a grand report indeed. We take good care of the tracts; they are nice to introduce us to strangers, and if distributed systematically they will bring in good returns in winning souls to Christ. We go to the houses with the tracts and leave one or more, if they promise to read them, and we tell them we will come again, and give them others in a few days; and if they have any objections against them to offer, we hear them when we go back again, and have lots of talk about the gospel. In this way we get to pray with them and exhort them, and bear our testimonies to them. Some think it is wonderful, and some such have been baptized, while many more will be.

Yours in hope,

D. CHAMBERS.

TILBURY CENTER, Ont., June 25th.

Bro. Joseph:—We came to labor at this place, May 18th. Have had some opposition but have continued to date, and expect to the rest of this week; then will go to Chatham for a few weeks, or during harvest, as the people will be very busy and will not come out for preaching; as we hold forth nearly every night. It will be different in the city. We have been blessed while presenting the word. On June 5th baptized one, on the 18th baptized three; one old lady over seventy years of age; several others seem to be interested and enquiring. There has been but few out to hear, but good has been done. We expect to return here again when the people have more leisure so they will come out to hear. The conference held at Blenheim recommended the holding of Grove Meetings in the different parts of the district; so we expect to occupy when we can, where good can be done. We can not get houses to preach in as freely as in Missouri, so we have to do the best we can. The Salvation Army is in full blast here. They will not permit any of their soldiers to go to any other church without a pass; so the only way we can get at them is out on the picket lines, when the captain is not in sight. My address will be Chatham, Ontario.

Yours,

J. H. MERIAM.

SUTTON, Kan., June 11th.

Bro. Dancer:—Inclosed find two dollars and a half to pay for Herald, as I feel I can not longer do without it. In August, 1886, I packed my traps and wended my way westward, pitching my tent here in Lane county, about September first. We often feel lonely here, isolated from the Saints; but we rejoice to know that the Spirit of the Master is present in our sod shanties when we do humbly pray. We are all alone here, but by the help of the Master we feel determined to hold on to the rod of iron. We sometimes feel comforted and strengthened when we are permitted to visit with the Saints in the neighborhood of Bro. Wm. Goreham's. We are well pleased with this country and believe there are many of the Saints that could do well to come here. If any desire information, and will write me, I will give all the information I can.

Ever praying for the welfare of God's people, and the advancement of his cause, I am yours in gospel bonds,

J. E. STALEY.

MAINE, Minn., June 26th.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—I am still in the front of the battle; the people are looking into the perfect law of liberty, and some have made up their minds they must obey. The 5th of this month I baptized one, the 19th one, the 20th three, and to-day one more. Others will obey soon. I met with Sr. Mary E. Gaylord, of Basset, Chickasaw county, Iowa, to-day. She was baptized when fifteen years old, in the old church; she said she lived in Nauvoo, and knew all the heads of the church. I said to her, "Of course you knew Joseph's wives?" She smiled, and said she never knew of his having but one wife, and she was personally acquainted with him and his family. And she knew nothing of any having more than one wife until after Joseph was shot, when Heber C. Kimball, sent word to her to leave her husband, and become his second wife, and go with him to Salt Lake. She expects to visit Lamoni before long. My health is very much improved, and now I can speak twice on Sunday, and some of week nights. My address is Battle Lake, Minnesota, until the first of August.

Yours truly,

J. C. FOSS.

DEER LODGE, Mont., June 23d.

Bro. Dancer:—I reached home to-day from a four months tour in Utah and Idaho. I shall labor in this county for two months and then launch out into new fields. Last Sunday and Monday nights I spoke in the Mormon meeting house at Montpelier, Idaho, to good and attentive audiences. On Sunday I witnessed the baptism of four souls into the faith of Jesus, our worthy brother, Peter Anderson, acting the part of Apollos. A most excellent brother, A. J. Layland and his family, live at Montpelier. He formerly lived in Independence, Missouri. I see nothing to discourage us in our work.

J. C. CLAPP.

ALILA, Cal., June 5th.

Editors Herald:—On the 23d of April last, Bro. H. L. Holt came to our part of the country, and a few days later Bro. J. R. Cook came; they opened meeting in several places, and much prejudice has been removed. I am not aware that any were added to our number, but Bro. Cook has promised to renew the effort this fall or winter, and then I expect to see some returns for their labor. I have done what seemed to me to be the wisest, trusting that God would bless every might put forth for good. I hear that Brn. Holt and Cook have gone on their way toward the San Benito. I pray God to bless them with many sheaves, and every needed blessing. We shall look anxiously for the return of the elders to water that which has been planted, for we are confident that God has some people in this country, who, when they realize that the Master's voice is speaking to them, will heed and obey. This will give great joy to me to see some obey about where I have lived, labored and prayed so much.

I am as ever, yours in gospel bonds,
WM N. DAWSON.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

A GENERATION.

PERHAPS every elder who has stood for the truth as restored, has in public discussion been compelled to refute the charge of false revelation, as applied to the word of the Lord to the church, dated September 22d and 23d, 1832, which says, "Verily, this is the word of the Lord, that the city New Jerusalem shall be built by the gathering of the Saints, beginning at this place, even the place of the temple, which temple shall be reared in this generation; for verily, this generation shall not all pass away until an house shall be built unto the Lord, and a cloud shall rest upon it, which cloud shall be even the glory of the Lord, which shall fill the house."—Doc. Cov. 83:2.

Because the church has not yet accomplished building this temple, many suppose it never will be built. Rev. D. R. Dungan, in April, 1880, publicly stated that this temple had not been built, and never could be, for the reason that the Saints were drove away from Independence by a mob, and that the people would not permit one to live in the city or the vicinity thereof, and that there was not enough of the generation of 1832 left to accomplish such a gigantic work. He held that it was those who had arrived to manhood in 1832 that had to do the work. My reply was, that now there was a church or branch of the Reorganization located there and were then engaged in erecting a house of worship, and that as evidence that we still had time to fill the promise, I cited—"My Spirit shall not always strive with man, for that he also is flesh: yet his days shall be a hundred and twenty years."—Gen. 6:3. I argued from this, that in the time of Noah a generation consisted of "one hundred and twenty years," and that by reason of sin and wickedness, the duration of a generation was abridged and cut short by the following, "The days of our years are three score years and ten; and if by reason of strength they be four-score years, yet is their strength labour and sorrow; for it is soon cut off, and we fly away."—Ps. 90:10. Here we have the limit of a generation set at seventy or eighty, and if we make an equal division of the marginal ten years, it would give us, as a generation, seventy-five years, and by adding seventy-five years to 1832, it would give us at the least till September, 1907, to accomplish the work. It would be well, however, while using these evidences, that it be observed that the conclusion arrived at, that a generation was either the years stated to Noah or sang by David, are but inferential, and therefore subject to enquiry and modification by other rules of interpretation and evidence.

Rev. N. M. Allen, M. D., in assailing this revelation held it as untrue, and that there was now no possibility of the church building a temple in the time specified, for Webster said that a generation was thirty-three and one third years; and that as the revelation was dated in 1832, the time for its fulfillment expired with the year 1865. I called for the reading of the proof. The next evening I laid upon the stand a copy of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary and challenged the reverend to read therefrom a generation was "thirty-three and one third years," or stand before that people convicted of misrepresenting Mr. Webster. Suffice it to say, he neither read nor did he attempt to read that statement.

The statement made to Abram, in relation to the duration of time that his posterity would be in bondage in Egypt, gives a clear and authoritative definition as to the length of a generation.

"And he said unto Abraham, Know of a surety that thy seed shall be a stranger in a land that is not theirs, and shall serve them; and they shall afflict them four hundred years; and also that nation, whom they shall serve, will I judge: and afterward shall they come out with great substance. And thou shalt go to thy fathers in peace; thou shalt be buried in a good old age. But in the fourth generation they shall come hither again; for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full.—Gen. 15:13-16.

Here four hundred years and four generations are equal; and I am inclined to the opinion that this is the most direct and positive definition of the length of a generation furnished us in the Bible. The Rev. Edward E. Atwater, in his history and significance of the Sacred Tabernacle of the Hebrews arrives at this conclusion as to the length of a generation.—"It had been announced to Abraham that his posterity would be enslaved in a strange land, and after serving their oppressors four centuries, or generations, would experience a great deliverance, and return to Canaan."—p. 376.

There are some who will suffer great disappointment, and trial of their faith, should the Savior fail to make his second advent during 1894. For myself, I have been inclined to the period from 1902 to 1907, as the time for that great event to take place. But perhaps a desire to have it so had more to do in fixing this date as the favorite one than the evidence. However, until the time shall arrive it is my imperative duty to be faithfully working, preparing, that all things shall be ready when the appointed time shall come. My firm conviction from study, revelation, experience and observation is, that the preaching of the gospel unto every nation, kindred, tongue and people, to gather in men and means to accomplish building the great latter day temple, is the all important auxilliary work to engage our time and talent, and then should 1894 come and go without revealing the glory of the Lord upon a completed and God-accepted temple, we shall have more faith, a much better understanding, and occupy vantage ground to continue the conflict against sin, and seek to advance and increase righteousness until 1907, or the time of the end, ere that we lay down the weapons of our warfare at the summons of death; for the period of our service is during the war, and we should have no time for setting stakes or limiting the Lord's work. One thing that cheers us is the fact that no well informed person can successfully deny that during the last fifty years there has been a marked increase in longevity, and whereas we are lead to believe that all that was lost unto the race by transgression shall, in the restoration of the gospel in its fullness, be restored unto the race. Therefore, no violation of the inductive philosophy will ensue if we conclude that whatever a generation was originally, will at some time in the future be the same, else Peter was misinformed when he declared a "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all His holy prophets since the world began." In the ages to come we should not deny the faith, if over our resting place should appear such an inscription as this: (1) "And Moses was a hundred and twenty years old when he died." (2) "And these are the days of the years of Abraham's life which he lived, a hundred threescore and fifteen years." (3) "And all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years." (4) "And all the days of Noah were nine hundred and fifty years." (5) "And all the days of Methuselah were nine hundred sixty and nine years." (6) "They shall not build, and another inhabit; they shall not plant, and another eat; for as the days of a tree are the days of my people, and mine elect shall long enjoy the work of their hands."

This would be my choice, could I live and be useful and abide as the ancient trees of the forest, with such a cheering promise upon my head, as the following; "The righteous shall flourish like the palm tree; he shall grow like a cedar in Lebanon." And still more grand and to be desired, could we be prepared to obtain the promise, "Behold, I shew you a mystery; we shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye."

In conclusion, I believe the best and wisest policy is, that we live and labor, not only for the temple made with stone, but also for the one built with the saved of all nations and people, and that our lives be so devoted that we may be found worthy to work for, and abide in both. So mote it be.

R. M. ELVIN.

REASONING.

I HAVE heard or read of a saying thus: "Man reasons, but God never reasons." But somewhere in the Bible we are informed of God saying to man "Come and let us reason together." Christ we learn was God manifest in the flesh. The Holy Ghost makes known that Jesus is the Lord. Reasoning, we understand, is to compare, examine, and inquire into, meditate, and talk of any thing or principle that is good to air or investigate.

In the New Testament it is stated that the Savior reasoned with his disciples and with his apostles at different times by parables, similitudes, questions, etc. Then why any should think that reasoning is ungodly I fail to see. The idea is infidel to sacred writ and contrary to true philosophy. Whatever is truth, or that accords with truth, is reasonable, and good for intelligent beings, to aid in the channel of understanding, belief, wisdom and knowledge.

The thinking faculties or mind is called by some the reason, a precious gift of God, which all have to some degree, if it is small. It is well to cultivate it for it is a help to learn the will of God, and the better we learn duty the more capable are we to do duty. "The path of duty is the path of safety."

Reasoning, it seems, is a help to learn from what we are taught, what we read, meditate, etc. When we reason about or compare the present condition of the world, and earth to that which is to be, which God through prophets have foretold, is beneficial and encouraging, hence profitable and strengthening, and a help to meekness and lowliness and finally rest to our souls.

W. C. LANYON.

PROBLEMS OF LABOR.

THERE was a time when it was the boast of the American people that we had no beggars—but now an army of tramps walk through the land—when they said that we had no labor conflicts, that all is peace and good will in our land of freedom. Now there is no end to labor troubles, and there is a labor party that threatens to become a power in the land; and the people are divided into sects and classes, combinations and secret orders, while communism, socialism, anarchism, and other kindred vices are prevailing to such an extent that men's hearts are failing them for fear.

Now there must be a cause for such a change, for truly it is a great change. Men see the evils that are coming upon them, and are giving all kinds of theories as to the cause, and proposing many different plans to relieve and end the troubles. Some tell us that if free trade had rule there would be better times for working men; others say, Give us a strong protection for all our industries; while others say that hoarding of money and the lack of it in circulation cripples the merchant and manufacturers to the oppression of workmen. Others raise a cry of over-production, that the poor we have had always, and that in the inevitable state of things we must submit one and all to our lot, such as it is. Again, we are told it is the lack of thrift, the spendthrift habits and the many vices of idling, drinking and gambling that is the reason of all the strife and trouble. When we take into consideration those theories, we can see how far they are from aid or comfort to workmen.

Let us look at free trade England, and we learn that the wages of workmen have steadily decreased for years. It is the same with protected America. Yearly, workmen are asked to work for less. Neither is money hoarding the true reason, for money is abundant. True, there may be some truth therein, as the rates of interest are oftentimes an extortion that the needs of the hour are forced to pay; and as all payments must come from the producer, the workman has to pay all interests. As for the cry of over-production, it is an insult to the great Allwise Creator and every hard-handed son of toil on this fair land, for the full and over-flowing granaries proclaim the ever watchful care of a bounteous heavenly Father; and the storehouses with the abundance of goods for the welfare and comfort of mankind tell that the laborers are every ready and willing to perform their part. There may be some idlers and drones among workmen, but let him who wishes to investigate seek to learn, and he will soon know that workmen in general are not of the class who spend their times in riotous living and drinking. Nay, the reason, the true reason must be sought elsewhere, and is a question of a much deeper and serious character than the most of men, even working men themselves, will like to admit.

This is said to be an age of wonderful progress in art, science, and labor saving inventions; but yet, with all the progress and labor saving machinery the man who labors has received no benefits, but has often suffered loss, as he has always had a hard day's labor to perform, and oftentimes been forced to compete with labor saving machines, to his great disadvantage, and oftentimes been forced to abandon his occupation, or work hard at ruinous wages. Capitalists, ever ready to take advantage, have used all such to increase their riches, and it is not the rule to pay labor what is just and right, but what they will stand, or what they are forced through necessity to accept. Not the least consideration is there as to who is hungry or able to perform the task imposed, for is not this a land of freedom, and all is fair that is successful. And in a contest between capital and labor it needs no prophet to foretell who succeeds, even if labor attempts a strike. Then we hear the cry that it is a free country,—you need not work for that price unless it pleases you, they well knowing that such a cry is derisive hypocrisy, that there is no such thing unless it be freedom of choice as to whom they will serve; for a fair day's wage for a fair day's work is fast disappearing, and has already disappeared from many classes of labor. And whenever there is a desire for a reduction in the wages of those who labor by piece or task, the employer always holds up the wages of the strong in the prime of manhood, as the rule of rates; thus the ordinary, old, and infirm who can not come up to that standard suffer most, though they must live, and also those who may have to depend on them for support. It is a fact that can not be denied, that workmen who labor by piece or task have their wages based on just such false standards, which represents them to be earning more than they really are. In fact there is nothing left unsaid or undone by employers to wring from the workmen their hard earnings, to add to their stores of wealth. And thus do men oppress their fellows for the gold that glitters, and, to our shame be it said, in a Christian land where men do preach and pray.

Now why are such things done. Is it not because men have lost the sense of justice? If not, what then is the reason, for there are many well meaning men who do believe they deal justly, and would resent such an accusation. Then let us illustrate the idea by a simple story. Mr. A. has a man to work for him; he pays him fifteen dollars a month, with board, and the workman gives satisfaction in every way. Another workman comes to Mr. A. and offers to do the same work that his workman is now doing, for ten dollars a month. Mr. A. sees here a saving of five dollars a month, so workman number one is dismissed and number two is given his place. Still another workman offers his service to Mr. A. for five dollars a month, so another five dollars a month is saved, and another workman is dismissed. Now Mr. A. considers this is right; one man is as good as another in this land of freedom and equal rights, and he is not his brother's keeper, and when a man offers to work for so much and he gets his price, that is a fair transaction, and no one is injured. But why did these men underbid each other? Simply because there were more laborers than employers; for at times competition for place is such that men have been known to offer to serve without wages. Yes, good, able-bodied men, willing and able to work, have offered to work for just what would keep them, and the employer's reply was that he would get them for cheaper than that. It is a fact that many workmen are to-day working hard for less than would keep them in comfort as the laborer should be kept.

Thus we see it in all the business transactions of men; in all their dealings one with the other it is not what is just, but how they can take advantage of the needs of each other so that they may make what is called a good trade. Then it ever has been so that the poor and needy, whether in labor or produce, have had to give way to him with the long purse. He can wait; he also knows they can not; and thus they are forced through necessity to trade at a sacrifice, the one rejoicing exultantly, the other sorrowing and lamenting. Thus mankind do cheat themselves and call it justice; and so far have men lost the sense of justice that in a trade, exchange, or otherwise, as the case may be, if one succeeds through misrepresentation in deceiving the other and gets the advantage, the one who so succeeds is considered a smart man, good at a bargain, and the other the simpleton, though it often happens that as to righteousness and truth the simpleton is the better man of the two. And thus it is with employer and employed, with servant and workman, men with their fellows; they one and all are striving for the gains of this world, no matter how, the end justifies the means.

We have no lords, dukes or princes in this land of equal rights; no, there are no titled nobility nor privileged classes. Pray tell us where is the difference, and where are the equal rights. Think of it. There are many men who can count their wealth by the millions, who are railroad kings, merchant princes, lords of manufactory and coal, barons in everything but the title. They have their own special cars, special hotels, their own resorts, their fine mansions and pleasure yachts; and some of those yachts are maintained at an expense of from sixty thousand to one hundred thousand dollars a year. Then we have the well-to-do in comfortable circumstances; then there are the poor, the miserable poor, the tramps, and those things in human form called dudes.

Now why comes it that there should be such a state of affairs as this to-day in existence among us, for the records tell us that this state of things has taken place in this generation, and such being the case it must be that justice has been set aside and the good old rules of truth and righteousness forgotten. If this is not so, pray tell us, ye rich men, whence came your riches. Did you really earn them by honest means, or could you by any means that are just and right obtain what you daily spend as your own. Remember that we are living in a christian land of much religion and many churches, a land of boasted liberty, a home for the oppressed, and if such is true in reality, we have a right to ask how can such things be.

Where are they that remember the golden rule to say and do it, or that next and best, that the fathers framed in the Constitution, of equal rights to life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness. Nay, we don't even remember the sayings and admonitions of the sages, that whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are amiable or of good report, if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, have these in your mind, and let your thoughts run on these. It is only when we hold such things up in contrast to the ways, professions, and acts of men that we can see how far they have strayed from the paths of truth and justice, and learn to our sorrow that we as a Nation are but worshipping God with our lips, and that our hearts are far from him. For are not all these admonitions forgotten in the thirst for gold, and the race to be a millionaire. And the one great aim of life is to get wealth, by any means, if it only so be that we can be counted among the rich ones of this so-called great Nation. Yet after all the toils and struggles, how many of our fellow men have confessed that their wealth has made them slaves, and that they have seen but few moments of happiness. Yes, the confession is that there is no true happiness to be found in the wealth of this world; and it is plainly evident that men must begin anew to think and to live, for if happiness is to be found it must be in the truths of heaven,—in a life of truth and justice. Pray tell who does not desire to be happy, yes, really, truly happy. Then arise, ye rich and wealthy, ye wise and learned, yea, even all you children of men, in whatever condition of life you may be placed: yes, arise and learn the simplicities of life; yes, learn that ye, one and all, have been permitted to come to earth, and that we one and all are simply stewards, and that to God we each and all must render an account of our stewardships in that great day when he brings everything to judgment. Then why not return and obey the sayings of the sages, heed the declaration of the fathers, and seek in reality to practice the golden rule in word and deed. Is this not the true solution, not only to the labor problems, but also to all the other ills of life. Yes, this is the true foundation that the truly wise will build upon, for to them this world with all its boasted pride and so-called greatness is as a thing of nought in comparison to the things that have been revealed from heaven. How true it is that there is nothing true but heaven, and that the proud king on his throne has as frail a hold on life as the despised beggar by the wayside, for neither one knows the moment he may be called to give an account of his stewardship.

WILLIAM CAIRNS.

SUNDAY.

How LIKE the name is the day it represents! A day of sunshine and spiritual radiance to the people of God. What holy influences seem to hover near upon this sacred day of rest! The Lord has sanctified it, and set it apart as a season of sacred devotion, a time for prayerful and calm reflection, and of mutual association at the house of God. One day in seven appointed for the cessation of arduous toil, to lay aside the cares and anxieties that perplex and weary the mind, and oftentimes sadden the heart. A day graciously given upon which the soul is to be fed, the spirit renewed, and hope revived. Not a day of merry or careless revelry, nor yet of uncomfortable restraint; but of suitable relaxation of mind and body from the ordinary routine of duty. Intended as a blessing, not a curse; a day of spiritual freedom, not bondage. It was made for man, "not man for the Sabbath." If we honor the day it will serve our best interests, and promote our most exalted conception of God and godliness. Its proper observance will make us better, wiser, more discreet, and far happier. If we dishonor the Sabbath, we dishonor ourselves. If we rightly appreciate and celebrate this memorable day upon which the dear Redeemer rose, we evidence our love to God and fidelity to his cause, and purchase for ourselves a goodly reward. Happy is the man that doeth good upon the Sabbath day.

G. S. HYDE.

THE POWER OF LOVE.

LOVE is one of the greatest blessings enjoyed by mankind. It is the foundation of all true happiness. If love reigns supreme, it will soften the heart making it susceptible of the purest, tenderest and holiest emotions. God's dealings with his erring children from the dawn of creation exemplifies the purest and holiest love. Though they have been rebellious, treating lightly his counsel and disobeying his commandments, illtreating or killing those sent to warn them, yet he was willing to send his Son to suffer and die to redeem and save them. What wonderful love is this! How forcible the saying, "God is love."—1 John 4:8.

Where is the person who is willing to lay down his life for one who has wronged him. But Christ has done it for us! Where love is, all feelings of bitterness vanish away as the dew before the summer sun, and a feeling of peace and joy will take their place. "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren."—1 John 3:14.

With the pure love of God in the heart, how bright and happy every thing appears! The world with all its fulness seems then to speak of the goodness of the Creator. No wonder the poet sang,

"Then let us be pure as the lilies,
And joyous and glad as the rose,
So when Jesus selected his jewels,
In Zion we'll find our repose."

God designed that love should be the ruling power in man; and in order that it might be incorporated into his very being he said: "It is not good that man should be alone; I will make him a help meet for him. Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife; and they shall be one flesh."—Gen. 2:18, 24. And Paul said: "Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it. For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife, and they two shall be one flesh. Nevertheless, let every one of you in particular so love his wife, even as himself, and the wife see that she reverence her husband."—Eph. 5:25, 31, 33.

And Christ said: "What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder."—Matthew 19:6.

The Lord said to the church through the Palmyra Seer, "Thou shalt love thy wife with all thy heart, and shall cleave unto her and none else."—D. C. 42:7.

Many similar statements might be found, all showing that it is the duty of every man to love his own wife better than anything else except God and Christ. One reason why this is so is that their children might have that divine principle stamped upon their very nature by both father and mother, that mankind might be filled with the love of God. How can this be the case if their love is divided, or where there is continual contention? It can not. Unless true love is a characteristic of the father and mother it is not likely to be of the children. The proper place then to commence the work of turning "the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the hearts of the children to their fathers," (Mal. 4:6), is for the husband to love his wife and do all in his power to make her happy, and for the wife to dwell with her husband cheerfully and affectionately. If both labor together in love, they can make home pleasant for their children; and if proper care is taken to teach them the true principle of love by kind words and acts, as well as from the word of God, they will have loving and obedient children which will make their home a heaven indeed upon earth. From home that love will spread to the church, thereby creating love and peace; and thus from heart to heart love will spread until the world itself is filled with the love of God.

The love of Christ is the greatest moral power in the universe. "For by him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible or invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities or powers; all things were created by Him and for Him."—Col., 1: 16. Men may talk of the power of nations, or of their armies and mighty men, of their power to desolate and destroy, yet their work sinks into oblivion compared with the glorious work of Christ for the redemption of lost and fallen man.

All the good that has been done in the name of religion is, as it were, but a spark of the divine love. And just so far as those who have stood as teachers for him have let love rule their thoughts, words, and deeds, they have accomplished a work that all the powers of man or of Satan himself can not destroy. The essence of the whole subject is contained in the following:

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets."—Matt. 22: 37-40.

"Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor, and hate thine enemy. But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them which despitefully use you, and persecute you: that ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven; for he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust."—Matt., 5: 43-45.

A compliance with the foregoing will enable us to do all that God requires of us, and we shall be enabled to say, when it pleaseth him to call us from this sphere of action, like the apostle of old:

"I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing."—2 Timothy 4: 6-8.

Nor do we expect to lose that power of divine love even then, for we read, "charity is the pure love of Christ." (Book of Mormon, page 539). And Paul and Moroni both say, that, "Charity [love] never faileth."—1 Cor., 13: 8; Moroni, 7: 4. Therefore it will be a characteristic of the children of God throughout the endless ages of eternity.

CHARLES E. BUTTERWORTH.

Selections.

INVESTIGATING SPIRITUALISM.

AFTER an extended and painstaking investigation, a commission appointed by the University of Pennsylvania, to see what there was in "modern spiritualism," have concluded their labors. They find that it is made up of equal parts of humbug and jugglery, calculated to deceive only the credulous or feeble minded. The appointment of this commission, it will be remembered, is the result of a codicil to the will of the late Henry Seybert, of Philadelphia, whereby the sum of $60,000 was left to found a chair of philosophy in the university, on the condition that it should lend its name to the inquiry. In his later years Mr. Seybert fell a prey to the wiles of a coterie of slate writers, spirit-form projectors, and banjo players, and he believed that such an investigation would prove spiritualism to belong to the sciences, rather than, as now, to the arts.

The committee appointed by the university was composed as follows: Dr. Joseph Léidy, professor of anatomy and a well known naturalist; George A. Koenig, professor of chemistry; the Rev. George S. Fullerton, professor of moral and intellectual philosophy; Coleman Sellers, civil engineer; Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, the neurologist; Dr. William Pepper, provost of the university; Prof. Robert E. Thompson; Dr. Horace Howard Furness, one of the trustees of the university.

In their summing up they say they did not, in all their investigations, discover a single novel fact, and are "forced to the conclusion that spiritualism, as far, at least, as it has been shown before them, presents the melancholy spectacle of gross fraud, perpetrated upon an uncritical portion of the community."

This is a broad and sweeping statement, and to the minds of many who do not believe in supernatural manifestation, but, nevertheless, have been mystified by certain phenomena, oft recurring, and more or less related to the subject, it is not likely to prove altogether satisfactory. Even if Slade and the other "mediums" examined were unable, as the commission say, to do anything that could not be equally well done by an acknowledged and skillful juggler, like Heller, whom they were so fortunate as to have with them, it remains that there are certain phenomena that, from the time of Emanuel Swedenborg down to the present, have never been satisfactorily explained; and it would seem, since so many have been and are puzzled to account for them, not beneath the dignity of science to separate them from the mass of humbug by which they are surrounded, and enter upon their explanation.

Among these phenomena may be classed "table tipping and walking," the curious and well authenticated "knocking," and above all, what is known as "clairvoyance." Is the Seybert commission prepared to say that these manifestations are necessarily fraudulent?

If so, they should have their attention called to the findings of an equally reliable commission, formed some years ago, of Heidelberg professors, who, after the same careful investigation, recorded the contrary opinion; one of their number, Herr Heineemann, professor of physics in Heidelberg University, writing an interesting and instructive little treatise on the result of his investigations, where, under the title of "The Fourth Dimension of Space," he attempts to formulate a theory to account for their existence. He does not find in them any supernatural attributes; but, on the contrary, regards them as the expression of a natural force, the characteristics of which he attempts to explain, while admitting ignorance as to its origin.

Wholly outside the circle of professional spiritualists and jugglers, there are those who possess, unconsciously, strange powers. Witnesses testify that tables follow them about a room, and other phenomena, unasked, as they are uncanny, come at unexpected moments. Intelligent and incredulous persons have been astounded by the revelations made them by certain so-called "clairvoyants" as to circumstances and happenings in their earlier lives; things of little consequence, of which even their intimate friends were never apprised, and of which it seems incredible that these "clairvoyants" could have any means of informing themselves in advance.

In his "Transcendental Philosophy," that eminent physicist, Baron Karl von Reichenbach, attempts an explanation of similar phenomena, which he attributes to a force which he calls "odic," or the force of "od." "Od," says an expounder of his theory, "pervades all nature, and is akin to the great physical forces of electricity, magnetism, chemical affinity, heat, light, etc., and always accompanies them, so that wherever they are in action, od is developed, and the strength of its most active development is often in proportion to the energy of their action. As in electricity and magnetism there is a polar dualism, so also there is in od. It has two poles, the positive and negative, which keep company respectively with the electric and magnetic positive and negative poles. The human body is od-positive on the left side and od-negative on the right. This gradation of amorphous bodies from od-negative to od-positive is called the od-chemical order, and is found to correspond with the electro-chemical order established by Berzelius. The odic radiation can be felt and seen by certain persons called 'sensitives,' who have a peculiar nervous susceptibility; while the majority of mankind, called 'non-sensitives,' are entirely insensible to the odic influences and impressions. Odic sensitiveness has many symptoms, among which are liability to somnambulism, capability of being magnetized, inability to sleep on the left side, in the northern hemisphere, dislike of strong yellow colors, fondness for blue as opposed to yellow, dislike of crowds and close rooms and dislike of fatty and fondness for sourish victuals. The causes of many singular phenomena not hitherto understood are explained by the odic theory."

Immanuel Kant, the great metaphysician, recognized the existence of physical manifestations, and so classified them that they might be completely separated from the knowable; and, though he was unwilling to admit the conclusions of Fichte as expressed in the latter's "Revelations," he virtually admitted that he was not altogether prepared to deny the truth of what related to the phenomena. The spirit of the age tends toward investigation. Supposing "spiritualism" is a fraud, as this committee says it is, and innumerable other investigations have shown it to be, may there not be something in the so-called "second sight" and other physical phenomena? May they not be the expression of a natural force, not any more related to the supernatural than are electricity and magnetism?—Scientific American.

THE BADLY MIXED HEATHEN.

DISHEARTENED missionary, returning to his field after years of absence: "Oh, unhappy man, you have lapsed into error and darkness and paganism again!" Chief heathen, apologetically: "Well, you see, after you went away a Catholic missionary came along and told us the bad place was full of Methodists, and so he scared us into his communion; then he went away and a Presbyterian came along and waked us up on regeneration, adoption and election and we joined his church; then an Episcopalian came and we burned our Westminster's, and stocked up on prayer books; then he left and a Baptist landed and walked us into the water and baptized us right, and we'd just about got settled when a New Congregationalist came over and told us that so long as we were heathens we had a dead sure thing of going to heaven; but if we became Christians we had to walk mighty straight or go to the everlasting bonfire. So we ate him up, burned our Bibles and resumed business at the old stand. Boys, put the parson in the cage and fat him up for Thanksgiving Day."—Bob Burdette.

PLAIN LIVING.

A LAWYER by profession, but a judge in one of the highest courts in New York for twenty-three years, is noted for methodical habits, legal acumen and perfect integrity. Long past sixty, erect and vigorous as a man of forty, he can not count a day lost by sickness in a quarter of a century. At his post as regularly as the sun rises, after adjournment he writes out the opinions of the court which already fill several large volumes. No man in the city is more worthy of the universal regard which he long since secured.

Having long known Judge Blank, I once asked him the secret of his power.

"Plain living," he replied "has been my salvation. I was a nervous youth, high strung and excitable. I smoked, drank occasionally, and was given to rich food. Shortly after being admitted to the bar, I became a victim of dyspepsia. I began to study my habits and their influence on mind and body. I experimented with food, drink and exercise. The result was in fixing a rule of life which I have followed inflexibly. After a plain but substantial breakfast I loiter about for an hour or two and then walk to the court-house, or a distance equal to three miles or more. Having previously had the room well ventilated, I stay in the building occupied, except an hour at noon, with my judicial duties. The other judges eat a hearty lunch; I eat nothing. At 5 o'clock I am through for the day, and walk up town again. Rain or shine, cold or not, finds me swinging my arms and plodding along in the same gait. All legal work is dismissed as utterly from my mind as if I never knew Coke and Blackstone. I eat a hearty dinner, take no made dishes, no Worcestershire sauce or inflaming condiments, no pudding, pie, ice-cream or custard, and drink no wine. I have a sense of comfort, but not repletion, feel no desire for intoxicating liquors, and make it a business to thoroughly digest my food eaten twice a day—no more. I am frequently compelled to attend dinners, banquets and festivals of every kind. But neither entreaty nor ridicule can induce me to change my habits. Even a dish of ice-cream can not tempt me."—Good Housekeeping.

Conference Minutes.

FREMONT.

The above conference convened at the Saints' chapel at Elm Creek branch, Mills county, Iowa, ten o'clock, June 4th, 1887, Bro. H. Kemp in the chair, W. C. Mathews secretary. Visiting members were invited to take part in conference. The forenoon was spent in social meeting, awaiting further arrivals. At 2 p. m. minutes of last conference were read and corrected by striking out a preamble introduced by W. C. Mathews, it being found to conflict with a resolution of the General Conference in respect to dropping names of scattered members from records. Branch reports: Shenandoah 84, including 1 high priest, 4 elders, 1 priest, 1 teacher, 1 received by letter, 21 scattered; S. S. Wilcox president, W. C. Mathews clerk. Farm Creek 33, including 1 elder, 1 teacher, 7 scattered; D. Hougas president, T. A. Hougas clerk. Elm Creek 35, 3 elders, 1 priest, 2 teachers, 1 deacon; H. Hershey president, Samuel Orton clerk. Keystone 59, 2 elders, 1 priest, 1 teacher, 1 deacon; E. S. Weed president, T. B. Knight clerk. Plum Creek 87, 9 elders, 2 priests, 3 teachers, 1 deacon, 1 received by letter, 1 died; W. Leeka president, M. W. Gaylord clerk. W. Leeka, Bishop's Agent, reports $140 received since last report, and $119 05 disbursed. Balance on hand $22 15 as per itemized bill now on file. W. C. Mathews reports as district secretary 354 members in district, of which 91 are out of the jurisdiction of the district, leaving a net membership in district of only 263; total number of deaths on record 61, total number of marriages on record 44, total number of children blessed 113. Elders reports: W. Leeka, D. Hougas, H. Hershey, S. S. Wilcox, W. M. Gaylord, M. W. Gaylord, J. Goode, G. Kemp, H. Kemp, S. Dike. Bro. H. Kemp reported the district in good condition, having visited all the branches; baptized two; attended General Conference, and felt encouraged in the work. J. B. Cline and A. Hills, teachers, reported. Priest W. Dempster reported by letter. D. Hougas, W. Leeka and H. Kemp were made a committee to procure a tent for the reunion at Plum Hollow. The ministry were requested to labor as best they can under the direction of the president of the district. Bro. H. Kemp was sustained as president of district, W. C. Mathews secretary, and W. Leeka Bishop's Agent. Resolved that we sustain all the spiritual authorities of the church in righteousness. Officials present: W. W. Blair, of first presidency, S. S. Wilcox, high priest, W. Leeka, seventy and Bishop's Agent, W. C. Mathews, district secretary, H. Kemp, president of district; elders 7, priests 4, teachers 3. A two days' meeting was appointed at Farm Creek, June 25th and 26th, 1887. At early candle light Bro. Blair spoke to a full house. Sunday morning at 9, social meeting, and at 11 a. m. preaching by Bro. Blair. Social meeting in the afternoon. Preaching at night by Bro. Blair, which ended a very enjoyable conference, all feeling that the Spirit of God had been with us. Adjourned to meet at Keystone, October 1st, 1887.

FLORIDA.

Conference convened June 4th, 1887, at Pleasant View branch, at 10 o'clock, Bro. Scogin in the chair; S. Dixon clerk. Reports of branches: Pleasant View 18 members; 3 added, 1 died; J. Calhoun, president. Highnote 19 members; T. Sanders, president. Elders Reports: J. N. Hawkins; G. R. Scogin, had been in all the branches and found the district in good condition; had held two days' meetings in Pleasant View, Cold Water and Highnote branches which were well attended. Bro. Scogin had received as contribution and as support for the first quarter $22.45 Bro. B. L. West offered his resignation and was relieved as Bishop's Agent. The authorities of the church were sustained; and Bro. Scogin sustained as president of the Florida district, and Bro. Bebee as clerk. At seven p. m. remarks were made by Bro. G. R. Scogin on the financial matters, followed by B. T. West. It was then resolved that there be sixty dollars raised from the different branches for the support of Bro. Scogin and family, for the next three months. It was then resolved that the chair appoint a committee of three to test the strength of the different branches, and that each branch should pay its pro rata share. Bro. S. Dixon, J. N. Hawkins and B. L. West were appointed. It was then resolved that there be a committee appointed for arrangement for meetings. S. Dixon, W. Dixon and J. Ellis were appointed. Preaching Sunday at nine a. m. by Bro. J. Hawkins, and at 11 a. m. by Bro. Scogin; and at two p. m. by Bro. Scogin. There will be a two days' meeting in Pleasant View branch, Saturday before the first Sunday in August; and in Santa Rosa branch, the Saturday before the fourth Sunday in August, 1887. Adjourned to meet at the Highnote branch, Saturday before the first Sunday in September, at 11 o'clock a. m.

Miscellaneous.

NORTH-WEST KANSAS.

A few thoughts for the consideration of the Saints of North-west Kansas district:—

Shall we sustain this work or not? This question should be asked and answered individually, in the affirmative. And why? Because we know it is the work of God, and our salvation depends on our sustaining the work. "But," says one, "how shall I do anything for this work. I know I would like to see the gospel preached in all the world. I want my neighbors to embrace it; but then I can not get one of our ministers to come and preach for us. Here is brother so and so, who could come if he would—he is a farmer; and that other brother is a carpenter, and they say they are too busy—can't leave their work. I know they put in two or three months in winter, but then we want preaching now."

Hold on, brother. How badly do you want preaching? Do you want it as directed in the law? If you do, then there is a chance for it. You may ask how is that. We read in Matthew 19th chapter and 20th verse: "Sell what thou hast and give." Doctrine and Covenants, section 101, paragraph 2, page 280, last clause, would indicate the method of that giving, "according to the law of my gospel." Remember, Christ said unto the young man: "If thou wilt be perfect." How is perfection to be obtained? Is it not in observance of the teachings of Christ. Read section 102, page 285, Doctrine and Covenants, and with the teachings of the Bishop, which have been so explicit and plain, I have thought that every Saint should be able to understand, and not find rest till they had come under the law of tithing.

If you can not raise but ten cents, and do it with that love for God and his work, as consecration or tithing, do you not feel as though it was your duty? If you do not, then don't do it.

Now a few facts as they exist in our district. Up to one year ago your agent (Bishop's agent) books made a showing of $200 and over, a year. The last year our finance run down to about $60. Do you think I can take care of the poor and sustain your missionary's family who is sent to you to break the bread of life to your neighbors. Think of it, dear Saints. Can not you see the reason why our ministers can not do more for you in the way of preaching. You say it takes you all of the time to make a living, and can hardly make it then. How is it with your brethren (ministry). Think of it, and pray over it. See if you can't do something. My address is Blue Rapids, Marshall county, Kansas. And in view of your recommend you gave me to the Bishop and his appointment, will you now assist me in performing my duty. I can not do it in a financial point without your co-operation. As there has been so much in the Herald on this subject, I close, trusting to have a speedy response from all parts of the district.

I shall from this time devote all my time in the ministry, visiting all the branches, opening new places, and preaching in any and all places where people want to hear the word, hoping the Saints will remember the Bishop's success in prosecuting the work depends upon your liberality. May God bless the Saints.

Your co-laborer in Christ,
G. W. SHUTE, Bishop's Agent.

EPISTOLARY.

To Saints of North-west Kansas district:—At the conference of June 4th, the tent question was discontinued and the moneys paid in were left at the disposal of those donating them; you will therefore please inform Bishop's agent, treasurer of the committee, whether you want the moneys transferred to his book to your credit, or returned to you. Drop a card to G. W. Shute, Blue Rapids, Kansas, when you read this.

Our next conference convenes September 3d, at ten a. m., in Phillips county, with the Deer Creek branch, seven miles east of Prairie View. All who come on Burlington and Missouri R. R., will want to get off at Long Island, seven miles north of conference grounds. Those coming on the Missouri Pacific R. R. want to stop off at Logan, fourteen miles south of conference grounds. Those coming had better write to Bro. Walter Brownlee, Prairie View, Phillips county, Kansas, so they can be met with conveyance. The conference will be held in a grove, a nice place for such purposes. We hope Bro. James Caffal, president of mission, will be with us. We extend a cordial invitation to all who can and will come. Come brethren, let us hear from all, either in person or by letter. If you knew what good it does those who meet together to hear from those who can not come, you would never let a conference pass by without reporting your condition and labors. We would like to know just what our strength is in the district.

There are Saints coming from every part of the east and locating in north-western Kansas who ought to be numbered with us in the next General Conference report of 1888, at Independence, Missouri. Therefore, that the clerk may be able to make that report, let every Latter Day Saint who is not numbered with us report to W. D. Jemison, Osborne City, Kansas, clerk of the district. We will want to be reported, and will be glad to have a chance to make one when Christ comes to make up his jewels; so let our voice be heard now, and we won't be ashamed to speak when Christ does come.

All reports should be sent to clerk one week before conference, if possible, so that no failures may occur as has in the past. The work is onward in this district; the calls are many—come and preach for us.

I can not say that the branches are just what they ought to be as a whole. While some are up and doing, others are not. A few who will not do anything themselves, nor want anybody else to do anything, are chronic grumblers. They are few, thank God for it. I would love to see a deeper interest awakened in the hearts of each Latter Day Saint in the district for the salvation of their own souls; and of their neighbors'. Brethren and sisters, how can we escape if we neglect to let our light shine. What a great responsibility and sacred covenant we made with God in the waters of baptism. Let us strive to become more like Christ from day to day.

Praying God to bless each officer in the branches, that they may be able to discharge their duties. Feed the sheep; don't beat them. Feed the lambs; don't fleece them. Christ tells those who are called to teach and preside over the flock just what they must do. We ought to study to be able to feed the flock, and never let a spirit take hold of us to beat them. That is not right. We can fleece the lambs of what good desires they have for the work by improper talk and conduct. How necessary it is for elders, priests, teachers, and all Saints to walk uprightly. We have an influence for good or bad; what shall it be, brothers. God help us that it may be for good. I am your co-laborer in Christ,

A. H. PARSONS, Dist. Pres.

HARLAN REUNION.

The above meeting will convene on the Fair Grounds, near Harlan, on Saturday, September 24th, 1887, at half-past two o'clock p. m. At that hour the chairman of the committee will call the assembled Saints to order, and the necessary work incident to organization and the completion of other arrangements for the meeting will be attended to. It is expected that it will be continued over two Sundays and adjourn about Monday, October 2d. The grounds are situated about one half mile from the Rock Island depot, and seven miles from Kirkman, on the Chicago and North-western Railway. Conveyances will be provided to carry passengers from both depots at reasonable rates. The committee think they have one of the best selections of grounds ever made, both for the accommodation of those coming by train, or overland. The large tent will of course be in use. Further particulars will be announced in due time.

THE COMMITTEE.

MARRIED.

BACUS—SMITH.—At Saints' Hall, St. Joseph, Missouri, at close of Wednesday evening service, June 15th, 1887, Bro. Charles A. Bacus and Sr. Thurza A. Smith, both of St. Joseph; Elder E. T. Dobson officiating. Bro. Bacus is a trusted employee of the popular queensware house of George Cooke & Co., is a faithful young man, and has secured an estimable companion. May joy attend them.

COPE—LIGHT.—Friday, June 3d, 1887, at Cardiff, Wales, by elder Thomas Gould, Elder Geo. A. B. Cope, to sister Alice Light.

To cope with sorrows of this life,
May heavenly Light their path adorn;
United thus may man and wife
Await the resurrection morn.

DIED.

BLACK.—At the home of her husband, Robert Black, near Indian Creek, Nebraska, May 25th, 1887, of old age and spinal derangement, Sister Janet Black, aged 74 years, 5 months and 24 days. Sr. Black was baptized in 1844, and renewed her covenant July 9th, 1877, at Plano, Illinois, under the administration of Pres. Joseph Smith. She remained a member of Bro. Smith's family until the spring of 1885, when she joined her family in Nebraska, where she remained until her death. She was a member of the Blue River branch; was a conscientious and upright woman; an uncomplaining sufferer and endeared to all who knew her for her cheerfulness, patient resignation and grand hope. She leaves a husband and neices to mourn her departure; her husband being long past eighty years of age.

TOWNSEND.—At Jonesport, Maine, June 15th, 1887, Prof. Townsend, of Millbridge, husband of the adopted daughter of Wellington and Sr. Susie E. Whitney, of Jonesboro; age not known. Services conducted by S. O. Foss. May God bless the little woman to bear her grief.

SHAW.—At the city of London, Ontario, June 18th, 1887, by the hand of an assassin, Bro. Ralph Shaw. Bro. Shaw was a member of the Chatham branch; he was the eldest son of Bro. George and Sr. Ann Shaw; was born September 8th, 1863, which made him in his twenty-fourth year. He belonged to Company No. 1, Chatham Volunteers, and at the time of his death was in London with his company, serving sixteen days camp drill. While returning to camp on the evening of the eighteenth he was stabbed by a man with a butcher knife, which caused his death inside of ten minutes. After the inquest the body was forwarded to Chatham, where it remained in his father's house until the next day; and was then conveyed to the cemetery followed by a large concourse of people, buried with military honors. Funeral services by A. Leverton, assisted by J. A. McIntosh.

HUGHES.—In loving memory of James, the eldest son of brother Thomas and Catherine Hughes; aged 41 years. Died January 31st, 1887, and was interred at Bradford Cemetery, Manchester, England. He leaves a wife and daughter to mourn their loss.

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

The conference of the South-Eastern Ohio and West Virginia district will convene August 27th and 28th, at Vale's Mills, Vinton county, Ohio. Brethren W. H. Kelley and G. A. Blakeslee are expected, and as many others as can come.

T. J. BEATTY, Dist. Pres.

NOTICE.

Alonzo D. Clark and Arabelle Moler are hereby notified to appear and answer to the charge of improper conduct. If not heard from, and charges are sustained, their names will be dropped from the record.

By order of North-west Kansas district conference.

A. H. PARSONS, pres.,
W. D. JEMISON, clerk.

FOR SALE,

A new stock of Clothing, cheap for cash, or good terms on time; also Store for rent. Good location, lively city, low rent, and good business established. For particulars, address

C. W. Conat, Manistee, Michigan.

"Eight thousand troops will guard Queen Victoria on the occasion of the jubilee services. It takes a hundred thousand troops to guard the Czar of Russia. President Cleveland skips out and goes fishing without any guard except a newspaper reporter to tell lies about the number of fish caught."

BISMARCK is six feet four inches tall, and very powerful. In the great trinity of famous Germans he is called "the baby," as he is only seventy-two years old, while the Emperor is ninety, and Von Moltke eighty-seven.

AUTUMN LEAVES.

THE MAGAZINE

Which we propose starting for the homes of Zion will be a royal octavo of 64 pages. It will be issued from the Herald Office, Lamoni, Iowa, monthly, and will contain departments adapted to every want of the family. The choicest scraps of Literature, History, Biography, Poetry; and well selected current events, together with the latest and most reliable events connected with Palestine and the Jews will be among its contents. Everything of a character tending to elevate—to make better men and women of those who are now boys and girls, in the home circle—will be introduced and fostered; while everything of a character contrary to this will be strictly excluded.

THOSE WHO ARE WILLING TO AID

In this enterprise will please send in their names at as early a day as convenient; and when the list shall amount to fifteen hundred we will complete arrangements for its early issue, and promise to furnish yearly nearly 800 pages of choice reading matter, for the moderate sum of $1.25.

WE ASK THE TRAVELING MINISTRY,

And friends of the latter day work generally, to solicit names for us. (Do not accept or remit any money until notified so to do.) We will notify the Herald readers from time to time of the increase in subscription list. We now have quite a number of names, but have as yet made no especial effort.

Terms (strictly cash in advance) $1.25 per year.

M. WALKER,

WORK FOR ALL. Brothers and Sisters, you can make good wages selling our new SPECIALTIES JUST OUT. Samples and terms free to agents. B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Illinois. 2-martf

Lamoni and Vicinity.

Those wishing to become acquainted with Lamoni and vicinity, will do well to subscribe for

THE LAMONI GAZETTE

A weekly paper, now published by

LAMBERT & HANSEN.

dec11tf

J. H. HANSEN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Will practice in Lamoni and vicinity; calls made at all hours. Office in Drug Store of Hansen & Walker, Lamoni

MIDWIFERY and DISEASES of WOMEN a Specialty

Residence one block East Teal's Store. 14feb1y

"A BOOK FOR THE PEOPLE."

CAPTIVATING! USEFUL! Eloquent Discussions, and Diplomatic Papers on the Great Public Questions of the Past and Present, by JAMES G. BLAINE.

Embracing his masterly arguments on the vital issues in the Anti-Slavery Struggle, the All Important Labor Question, Prohibition, Irish Home-Rule, etc., etc. A FORTUNE FOR BOOK CANVASSERS! APPLICATIONS FOR TERRITORY COMING IN WITH A RUSH! THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING CO., NORWICH, CT.

WHEN YOU TRAVEL

Take the Line selected by the United States Government to carry the Fast Mail,—the

As it is the Line running Through Trains to and from the following cities and towns on its own Lines:

- CHICAGO,
- AURORA, OTTAWA,
- STREATOR, ROCKFORD, DUBUQUE,
- LA CROSSE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS,
- MENDOTA, PEORIA, GALESBURG, ST. LOUIS,
- QUINCY, KEOKUK, BURLINGTON, WASHINGTON,
- OSKALOOSA, DES MOINES, CHARITON,
- CRESTON, ST. JOSEPH, ATCHISON,
- KANSAS CITY, NEBRASKA CITY,
- OMAHA, OMAHA BLUFFS,
- LINCOLN & DENVER,

Making Direct Connections

TO AND FROM

- NEW YORK,
- BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON,
- CINCINNATI, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON,
- NEW ORLEANS, LOUISVILLE, SAN FRANCISCO,
- LOS ANGELES, SALT LAKE CITY, COLORADO AND PACIFIC COAST RESORTS, CITY OF MEXICO,
- PORTLAND, OREGON, MANITOBA,
- VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND PORTS.

Good Equipment,
Good Service,
Good Connection.

For information concerning the Burlington Route, apply to the nearest Ticket Agent of the C., B. & Q. or connecting railroads.

HENRY B. STONE, General Manager, CHICAGO, ILL.
PAUL MORTON, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt., CHICAGO, ILL.

Train Leaves Lamoni, Going East at 1:45 p.m.
Do. do. West 2:53 "

At Bethany Junction, 3 miles east of Lamoni
Trains pass going South at 3:07 a.m. Going East and West, pass at 12:10 a.m.

PUBLICATIONS ISSUED AND FOR SALE

BY THE Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church, at their Publishing House in LAMONI, DECATUR CO., IOWA, And sent Free of Postage at prices named.

Holy Scriptures.
Inspired Translation by Joseph Smith the Prophet.
Sheep or Library binding.....1 50
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....2 00
Full Morocco, gilt edges.....2 50
New Testament, inspired edition.....75

Book of Mormon.
Roan, sprinkled edges.....1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....1 50
Full Morocco, gilt edges.....1 75

Doctrine and Covenants.
Sprinkled Sheep, or Library.....1 25
Imitation Morocco.....1 50

The Saints' Harp—Hymn Book.
Imitation Morocco, marble edges.....1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....1 50

Life of Joseph the Prophet, and History of the Reorganized Church, and Autobiography of Joseph Smith.
In Cloth, full gilt finished, very handsome.....2 25
This book contains 827 pages of large, clear reading matter; also, three very fine Steel Engravings, and a fac simile of the Autograph of Joseph the Prophet and Emma, and of Joseph Smith; also, Steel Engraving of Hy um Smith. A complete history of the Church up to 1880.

Joseph Smith the Prophet, and His Progenitors.
Muslin Boards, 312 pages, by Lucy Smith.....75
Leather Binding.....1 00

Hesperis.
Poems by David H. Smith, 202 pages, fancy cloth, gilt edges.....1 50

Rules of Order and Debate.
For all Deliberative Assemblies of the Church; also, a Chapter on Branch Rules, and one on Reports of Branches and Districts; 128 pages, limp cloth.....40

Joseph the Seer.
His Prophetic Mission Vindicated, and the Divine Origin of the Book of Mormon Defended and Maintained. Paper covers 200 pages.....35
This is a reply by Elder W. W. Blair to Elder William Sheldon of the Second Advent Society, and is an important work to be in the hands of the ministry of the Church, especially; and it is a most excellent one to be circulated both in the Church and among those without, abounding in proofs never before presented in defense of Joseph Smith and the Book of Mormon.

Voice of Warning.
And Instruction to all People, on the Doctrine and History of the Latter Day work; 128 pages
In Paper Covers, twelve for $1.....each 10
Limp Cloth Covers, each.....25

Prophetic Truth.
Confirmed in the appearing of the Book of Mormon an Israelitish Record of a Fallen People; paper covers; five for $1.....each 25
This is the Subject of an Evening's Conversation Respecting its Origin, its Divinity Proved by the Scriptures and Collateral Evidence. Prefaced with a Brief Sketch of the Life of the Prophet, showing the way and manner of his becoming possessed of the Record.

Branch Records.
Leather backs and corners, muslin sides; printed headings, and ruled for Record of Names, Blessing of Children, and for Marriages.....2 00

District Records.
Printed and bound similar to Branch Records.....3 00

Licenses, Notices, &c.
Elders, Priests, Teachers, and Deacons Licenses, each per dozen.....12
Blank Preaching Notices, per hundred, 40c. and.....60
Baptism and Confirmation Certificate books, with blank stub, 35 for.....25

Certificates and Reports.
Branch Statistical Reports, per dozen.....40
Annual Statistical Reports, two for.....10
Certificate of Baptism and Membership, per dozen.....12
Certificate of Removal, per dozen.....12
Marriage Certificates, per dozen.....25

"Manuscript Found."
We have for sale at this office the notorious "Manuscript Found," written by Rev. Solomon Spaulding, about which so much has been said in connection with the theory that it furnished Joseph Smith and Sidney Rigdon the chief ground work and material from which to write the Book of Mormon. Has 144 pages 8 mo.; single copies, in cloth, 25 cents; 10 copies or more to one address, 20 cents each; in paper, single copies 15 cents; 10 copies or more, to one address, 13 cents each.

Tracts.

- No. 2.—Truth Made Manifest; 20c. a doz., per 100.....1 50
- No. 3.—Voice of the Good Shepherd; 5c. a doz., 100.....40
- No. 4.—Epitome of Faith and Doctrine of the Church and the Kirtland Temple Suit; 5c. per doz., 25c. per 100, 50c. for 250, $1 for 500, per 1,000.....1 75
- No. 5.—The Gospel.....price the same as No. 4
- No. 6.—The "One Baptism;" its Mode, Subjects, Prerequisite, and Design,—and Who Shall Administer; 16 pages; 25c. per doz., per 100.....1 75
- No. 7.—Who Then Can be Saved; 5c. a doz., 100.....40
- No. 8.—Fulness of the Atonement; 25c. a doz., 100.....1 75
- No. 9.—Spiritualism Viewed from a Scriptural Standpoint; 20 pages; 30c. per dozen, 100.....2 25
- No. 10.—The Narrow Way; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100 for 1 10
- No. 11.—The Plan of Salvation; 30c. a dozen, 100.....2 25
- No. 12.—The Bible versus Polygamy; 25c. a dozen, 100.....1 65
- No. 14.—Reply to Orson Pratt; 25c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 75
- No. 15.—Brighamite Idolatry; 5c. a dozen, per 100.....40
- No. 16.—Polygamy; Was it an Original Tenet of the Church; 20c. a dozen, 100.....1 40
- No. 17.—The Successor in the Prophetic Office and Presidency of the Church; 25c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 75
- No. 18.—Rejection of the Church; 15c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 10
- No. 20.—The "One Body;" or the Church of Christ under the Apostleship and under the Apostasy; 12 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 40
- No. 21.—Truth by Three Witnesses; 8c. a doz., 100.....15
- No. 22.—Faith and Repentance; 15c. a dozen, 100.....1 10
- No. 23.—Baptism; 10 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 25
- No. 24.—The Kingdom of God; 5c. a dozen, 100 for.....40
- No. 25.—Laying on of Hands; 5c. a dozen, 100 for.....40
- No. 26.—Mountain of the Lord's House; 4 pages; 5c. a dozen, per 100.....40
- No. 27.—The Sabbath Question; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 40
- No. 29.—A Vision of the Resurrection, from the Doctrine and Covenants; 5c. a dozen, 100 for.....40
- No. 30.—Origin of the Book of Mormon; 15 cents a dozen, per 100.....1 10
- No. 31.—What is Truth? and True Orthodoxy? and an Evangelical Church? Also, the Kirtland Temple Suit. Per dozen 5c., 100 for 25c. 250 for 50c., 500 for $1, 1,000 for.....1 75
- No. 32.—Which is the Church? 5c. a dozen, 100.....40
- No. 36.—The Spaulding Story Re-Examined; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 25
- A Memorial to Congress; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100.....1 10
- Trial of the Witnesses to the Resurrection; 32 pages; 6c. each, per dozen.....60
- Prophecy on the Rebellion; per 100.....15
- An assortment of Tracts, 35 cents.
- COMPLETE SET OF TRACTS. Bound in Limp Cloth turned in.....75

Reply to Littlefield.

We have for sale at this office, in pamphlet form, containing 48 pages, the "Reply of President Joseph Smith to L. O. Littlefield in refutation of the doctrine of plural marriage." Price, post paid, single copies 10 cents; 75 cents per dozen to one address.

Forscutt and Shinn Discussion.

J. Shinn affirms "The Bible Teaches the Coming of Christ to Judge the World is now past." M. H. Forscutt affirms "The Bible Teaches the Literal Resurrection of the Body from the Grave." Paper covers, 191 pages.....25

Visions of Joseph Smith, The Seer.

Discoveries of Ancient American Records and Relics, with the statement of a Converted Jew, and of others; paper covers, 43 pages.....10

Concordance to Book of Covenants.

An enlarged new edition; paper covers, 32 pages.....10

Sunday School Supplies.

Sunday School Engineer and Record Book.....50
Prompt Attendance Tickets.....100 for 15c., 1,000 for 1 00
Good Behavior Tickets.....Same price.

Miscellaneous.

- The Problem of Human Life Here and Hereafter, by A. Wilford Hall; 544 pages, in cloth boards.....1 50
- Universalism Against Itself, by A. Wilford Hall; in cloth boards; 336 pages.....1 00
- Josephus, complete in one vol., library leather.....3 50
- Gibson's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, cloth boards, 5 vols.....4 00
- Mosheim's Church History, cloth boards, 2 vols.....4 00
- Baldwin's Ancient American, (illustrated), cloth.....1 80
- Rollin's Ancient History, 2 vols. in one, leather.....4 00
- The Koran, library leather.....2 00
- Gieseler's Ecclesiastical History, from A. D. 1 till 1854, cloth boards, 5 vols.....10 00
- The Ecclesiastical History of Eusebius Pamphilus, Bishop of Caesarea, to Palestine, cloth boards.....2 00
- Cruden's Complete Concordance of the Bible.....1 75
- The Bible Text Book.....1 00
- Apocryphal New Testament.....1 65
- Brown's Concordance of the Bible.....60
- Emerson's Ready Binder, Herald size.....85
- Emerson's Ready Binder, Hope size.....90
- Emerson's Ready Binder, Advocate size.....50
- Five Quires of Note Paper, 120 sheets.....50
- Five Quires of Note Paper, better quality.....60

Tracts in German.

Tracts in the German Language may be had of Bro. Ad. Richter, Burlington, Iowa:—The Baptism, 6 cents; the Repentance, 5 cents; the Principles of the Gospel, 6 cents; the Epitome of Faith, 2c.; the Sixth Trumpet, a fifty-four page pamphlet, 25c. These prices include postage.

THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price $2.50 per year. Money may be sent by Post Office Order, Registered Letter, or by Express on Lamoni, addressed DAVID DANCER, Box 822, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa. All orders of business connected with the office should be addressed to DAVID DANCER; communications and articles to the EDITOR.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEARKEN TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAVE IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.

"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 34.—Whole No. 739.

Lamoni, Iowa, July 16, 1887.

No. 29.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,

Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

Business letters and subscriptions must be sent to David Dancer, by P.O. Order, Registered letter or express Entered as second class matter at Lamoni Post Office.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH . . . . . EDITOR.
W. W. BLAIR . . . . . ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, July 16, 1887.

HOW READEST THOU.

THE CHOICE SEER.

DAVID WHITMER in beginning his chapter on the subject of the Choice Seer states:

"But prophecy is another matter outside of the gospel or doctrine of Christ; it can only be interpreted correctly by the enlightenment of the Holy Ghost."

In proceeding he refers to the "day star," spoken of by Peter 2: 19, and he states that

"The day star means the Holy Ghost, by which prophecy can only be rightly understood."—Address pages 67, 68.

In attempting an examination of the position assumed by David Whitmer, that Joseph Smith was not the Choice Seer, we do not desire to be understood as saying, or urging that it is in any way essential to salvation that a man shall believe that he was; or that it disqualifies a man for salvation to believe that he was not. Elder Whitmer himself removes the question from the domain of doctrine, and places it in the line of prophecy; hence, the error of the Reorganized Church, and all others who may believe that Joseph Smith was the choice seer, is not a false doctrine or practice if it be proved to be an error; and all the point that David Whitmer has possibly made, if he should have sustained his position, is that those who so interpret the prophecy did not have the "enlightenment of the Holy Ghost," by which prophecy is interpreted. If this is correct, is not the opposite equally true, that if David Whitmer misunderstands and misinterprets the prophecy, is it not because he has not that "enlightenment of the Holy Ghost."

In pursuance of his claim that Joseph Smith is not the choice seer, he says:

"The 'choice seer,' spoken of in the Book of Mormon is not brother Joseph." "He is to come from the Lamanites." "He is to come from the fruit of the loins of Joseph (of Egypt), that seed being the 'branch' which was to be broken off" at Jerusalem, to whom this land was consecrated for their inheritance forever—being Lehi and his seed; Lehi's seed being little Joseph, who received this blessing from his father Lehi, that his seed should not be utterly destroyed; for out of his seed which should not all be destroyed (the Indians) should come to this (choice seer)." "This is the interpretation of this chapter." "This choice seer" will be of that seed." "May God help you brethren to understand this chapter, for it can only be understood by the enlightening power of the Holy Ghost." "It is very plain to me."—Address pages 26, 27.

JOSEPH PREACHED TO LAMANITES.

In the Herald article Elder Whitmer stated positively that Joseph Smith never preached a sermon to the Lamanites in his life; but after we published the statements of brethren Moore and Page that they heard Joseph Smith preach to the Indians, Elder Whitmer modifies his statement in the Address and adds the words "to my knowledge." David Whitmer knows just as little whether Joseph Smith convinced, or failed to convince any of the Lamanites, as he does that he did, or did not preach to any of them. His testimony on this point is not good, because he speaks without knowledge.

INSPIRED INTERPRETER (?)

In what we have quoted from page 27 of the "Address," we can not mistake that David Whitmer claims to have interpreted 2 Nephi, second chapter, by the Holy Ghost, for he says that no one can understand it but by the "enlightening power" of that Spirit, and then says: "It is very plain to me."

The second chapter of Second Nephi is not lengthy and we insert it in full.

LEHI RECITES JOSEPH'S PROMISE.

"1. And now I speak unto you, Joseph, my last born. Thou wast born in the wilderness of mine afflictions; yea, in the days of my greatest sorrow did thy mother bear thee. And may the Lord consecrate also unto thee this land, which is a most precious land, for thine inheritance and the inheritance of thy seed with thy brethren, for thy security forever, if it so be that ye shall keep the commandments of the Holy One of Israel. And now, Joseph, my last born, whom I have brought out of the wilderness of mine afflictions, may the Lord bless thee forever, for thy seed shall not utterly be destroyed. For behold, thou art the fruit of my loins; and I am a descendant of Joseph who was carried captive into Egypt. And great were the covenants of the Lord, which he made unto Joseph; wherefore, Joseph truly saw our day. And he obtained a promise of the Lord, that out of the fruit of his loins, the Lord God would raise up a righteous branch unto the house of Israel; not the Messiah, but a branch which was to be broken off; nevertheless, to be remembered in the covenants of the Lord, that the Messiah should be made manifest unto them in the latter days, in the spirit of power, unto the bringing of them out of darkness unto light; yea, out of hidden darkness and out of captivity unto freedom.

"2. For Joseph truly testified, saying: A seer shall the Lord my God raise up, who shall be a choice seer unto the fruit of my loins. Yea, Joseph truly said, thus saith the Lord unto me:

A choice seer will I raise up out of the fruit of thy loins; and he shall be esteemed highly among the fruit of thy loins. And unto him will I give commandment, that he shall do a work for the fruit of thy loins, his brethren, which shall be of great worth unto them, even to the bringing of them to the knowledge of the covenants which I have made with thy fathers. And I will give unto him a commandment, that he shall do none other work save the work which I shall command him. And I will make him great in mine eyes: for he shall do my work. And he shall be great like unto Moses, whom I have said I would raise up unto you, to deliver my people, O house of Israel. And Moses will I raise up, to deliver thy people out of the land of Egypt. But a seer will I raise up out of the fruit of thy loins; and unto him will I give power to bring forth my word unto the seed of thy loins; and not to the bringing forth my word only, saith the Lord, but to the convincing them of my word, which shall have already gone forth among them. Wherefore, the fruit of thy loins shall write; and the fruit of the loins of Judah shall write; and that which shall be written by the fruit of thy loins, and also that which shall be written by the fruit of the loins of Judah, shall grow together, unto the confounding of false doctrines, and laying down of contentions, and establishing peace among the fruit of thy loins, and bringing them to the knowledge of their fathers in the latter days; and also to the knowledge of my covenants, saith the Lord. And out of weakness he shall be made strong, in that day when my work shall commence among all my people, unto the restoring thee, O house of Israel, saith the Lord.

"3. And thus prophesied Joseph, saying: Behold, that seer will the Lord bless; and they that seek to destroy him, shall be confounded: for this promise, of which I have obtained of the Lord, of the fruit of thy loins, shall be fulfilled. Behold I am sure of the fulfilling of this promise. And his name shall be called after me; and it shall be after the name of his father. And he shall be like unto me; for the thing which the Lord shall bring forth by his hand, by the power of the Lord shall bring my people unto salvation; yea, thus prophesied Joseph, I am sure of this thing, even as I am sure of the promise of Moses; for the Lord hath said unto me, I will preserve thy seed forever. And the Lord hath said, I will raise up a Moses; and I will give power unto him in a rod; and I will give judgment unto him in writing. Yet I will not loose his tongue, that he shall speak much: for I will not make him mighty in speaking. But I will write unto him my law, by the finger of mine own hand; and I will make a spokesman for him. And the Lord said unto me also, I will raise up unto the fruit of thy loins; and I will make for him a spokesman. And I, behold, I will give unto him, that he shall write the writing of the fruit of thy loins, unto the fruit of thy loins; and the spokesman of thy loins shall declare it. And the words which he shall write, shall be the words which are expedient in my wisdom, should go forth unto the fruit of thy loins. And it shall be as if the fruit of thy loins had cried unto them from the dust; for I know their faith. And they shall cry from the dust; yea, even repentance unto their brethren, even after many generations have gone by them. And it shall come to pass that their cry shall go, even according to the simplicity of their words. Because of their faith, their words shall proceed forth out of my mouth unto their brethren, who are the fruit of thy loins; and the weakness of their words will I make strong in their faith, unto the remembering of my covenant which I made unto thy fathers.

"4. And now, behold, my son Joseph, after this manner did my father of old prophesy. Wherefore, because of this covenant thou art blessed: for thy seed shall not be destroyed, for they shall hearken unto the words of the book. And there shall raise up one mighty among them, who shall do much good, both in word and in deed, being an instrument in the hands of God, with exceeding faith, to work mighty wonders, and do that thing which is great in the sight of God, unto the bringing to pass much restoration unto the house of Israel, and unto the seed of thy brethren. And now, blessed art thou, Joseph. Behold, thou art little; wherefore, hearken unto the words of thy brother, Nephi, and it shall be done unto thee, even according to the words which I have spoken. Remember the words of thy dying father. Amen.'

So far as any one reading this chapter with a view to discover what the meaning of it may be untrammelled by a set purpose to make it to mean this, or that, it appears to be a recital of special prophetic blessings pronounced by Lehi upon his sons, and their children present, or remote. The chapter is a statement to Joseph the youngest of Lehi's sons, and there are but two of the sections addressed directly to that son, the first and the fourth. The second and third sections contain the statements concerning promises made to Joseph of Egypt, in the fulfillment of which Little Joseph, the son of Lehi, was to take comfort because that the things stated should come unto his seed.

David Whitmer, in order to make the chapter fit the conclusion he seeks to draw that Joseph Smith is not the Choice Seer, states that the blessing proposed to be conferred upon "little Joseph," is "seen in the first part of the chapter, the blessing being this: that little Joseph's seed should not all be destroyed, for out of his seed should arise one mighty, who should be a Choice Seer." Address, page 68.

It so happens that the first part of this chapter has not a word in it concerning a choice seer, or any other seer. The only blessing or promise in it which appertains to "little Joseph" at all is contained in these few words, "for thy seed shall not utterly be destroyed."

A RIGHTEOUS BRANCH.

But David Whitmer, to whom this whole chapter is so very, very clear, construes the words "a righteous branch unto the house of Israel," whom the Lord had covenanted with "Joseph of Egypt," and not "little Joseph," that he would raise up out of the fruit of his loins, to mean "one mighty who should be a Choice Seer."

We of the Herald Office may be blind by reason of our "wisdom and learning;" but we certainly have common sense enough left to know that the promise to Joseph of Egypt that God would raise up "a righteous branch unto the house of Israel" out of the fruit of his loins does not mean "one mighty, a Choice Seer" to be raised up out of the fruit of the loins of "little Joseph" the son of Lehi; when in the very same sentence of the first part of the chapter and without a break in the connection one of the conditions of the promise was that this same "righteous branch" which was to be thus raised up should "be remembered in the covenants of the Lord, that the Messiah should be manifest unto them in the latter days, in the spirit of power, unto the bringing of them out of darkness unto light; yea, out of hidden darkness and out of captivity unto freedom."

Now, readers of the Book of Mormon, believers unto whom David Whitmer states so confidently that this chapter can not be understood except by the "enlightenment of the Holy Ghost," please read this closing sentence of the first paragraph of 2 Nephi, 2, in the light of the interpretation given of it by David Whitmer and see what you have. We put the interpretations in their places in parentheses to emphasize them.

"And he obtained a promise (blessing) of the Lord, that out of the fruit of his loins, (little Joseph), the Lord God would raise up a righteous branch ("one mighty"—"this same Choice Seer"—"this same blessing") unto the house of Israel; not the Messiah, but a branch (one mighty, a choice Seer) which was to be broken off; nevertheless, to be remembered in the covenants of the Lord, that the Messiah should be made manifest unto them (one mighty, a Choice Seer) in the latter days, in the spirit of power, unto the bringing of them (one mighty, a Choice Seer) out of darkness unto light; yea, out of hidden darkness and out of captivity unto freedom."—See Address, p. 69.

This is the plain application of David Whitmer's interpretation of the first part of 2 Nephi 2. Contrast it with the statement found in Book of Jacob, 2 chapter, middle part of paragraph 6. "Wherefore, thus saith the Lord, I have led this people forth out of the land of Jerusalem, by the power of mine arm, that I might raise up unto me a righteous branch from the fruit of the loins of Joseph." In this statement the Lord calls the people the "righteous branch," whereas David Whitmer calls that same branch "one mighty," the "Choice Seer."

That we do not mistake the words of David Whitmer in this rendition, we further quote from the 69th page of the "Address."

"This whole chapter treats of the one matter; a blessing is pronounced upon little Joseph, because a Great Seer is to be of his seed, that should not all be destroyed. That seed being 'a branch which was to be broken off' at Jerusalem, to whom this land was consecrated for their inheritance. He tells them that this Great Seer was not the Messiah, but that he was to come from a branch of the house of Israel that was to be broken off' &c. "Can you not see from this that the Choice Seer is to come from the Lamanites? They are the people here referred to."

To this we answer, no; we can not see that this "righteous branch," which the Lord God would raise up out of the fruit of the loins of Joseph of Egypt "unto the house of Israel," are the dwindled, peeled, broken fragments of the righteous Nephites and wicked Lamanites which David Whitmer now conglomerates in one as the seed of "little Joseph," the Lamanites.

D. WHITMER CHANGES GOD'S WORD.

To make the chapter fit his preconceived notion that Joseph Smith is not the Choice Seer, Elder Whitmer doctors the fourth paragraph in his characteristic way. After reciting the promises made to Joseph of Egypt, Lehi turns to his son, "little Joseph," and says, "and now, behold my son Joseph, after this manner did my father of old propohesy. Wherefore, because of this covenant thou art blessed; for thy seed shall not be destroyed, for they shall hearken unto the words of the book. And there shall raise up one mighty among them, who shall do much good, both in word and in deed, being an instrument in the hands of God, with exceeding faith, to work mighty wonders, and do that thing which is great in the sight of God, unto the bringing to pass much restoration unto the house of Israel, and unto the seed of thy brethren."

This did not suit the purpose of Elder Whitmer as it stands, and so he writes: "This passage means the same as if the word for instead of the word and was there, as follows; wherefore, because of this covenant thou art blessed; for thy seed shall not be destroyed, for they shall hearken unto the words of the book; for there shall raise up one mighty among them, who shall do much good," &c.

In the Palmyra edition of Book of Mormon as well as in the one we are using, there are seven sentences in the paragraph. The one David Whitmer proposes to doctor to make it fit his theory begins with the word "And," after a full stop. He proposes to close up the sentence with the one going before and connect the two with the word "for" after a semicolon. If the teachings of the Book of Mormon are so very plain, why does not the sentence convey the meaning intended by the use of the word And, just as it is placed. The inference is that the word "for" permits the conclusion that the personages referred to in the promise to Joseph of Egypt and the prophecy made by Lehi to his son, little Joseph, are one and the same; whereas the word, "And" at the beginning of a new sentence permits the conclusion that the personages referred to are two distinct and separate ones to come from different branches of the same common root, Joseph of Egypt.

David Whitmer has devoted a chapter to the errors of Joseph Smith and others in changing, as he alleges, the revelations of God by taking out words, and inserting words which it is claimed were not originally in the text. If this was a grave error in Joseph Smith, is it any less a grave error in David Whitmer. By what authority does David Whitmer change this text in the Book of Mormon, which he so devotedly declares God gave as he intended to give it, and gave it plain, that no one could mistake it. And why should he now state concerning this chapter under controversy that no one can understand it except by the enlightenment of the Holy Ghost, and then interpret it by means of introducing a word that changes the meaning materially.

"HE SHALL DO MY WORK."

David Whitmer in order to maintain his statement that Joseph Smith was not the Choice Seer referred to in this second chapter of Nephi, makes some statements regarding the Choice Seer spoken of that the word itself does not warrant, and in doing this manages to throw discredit upon Joseph Smith in what we believe to be a very unjustifiable manner; he writes thus:

"Again, it says this Choice Seer will do only according to the commands of God. He will be faithful and break none of God's commandments. This alone proves that brother Joseph was not the Choice Seer."—Address, page 69.

He then cites the revelation of 1828 in which Joseph Smith was charged with having before that time, (1828), broken commands of God and having gone on in the persuasions of men, as proof that Joseph Smith's character was incompatible with the calling of the Choice Seer referred to. To show how unfortunate these statements of David Whitmer's are, it is only necessary to call attention to what is a serious fact under the circumstance in which David Whitmer claims to be writing that there is not a line in the whole chapter which affirms that the Choice Seer referred to shall "do only according to God's commands;" or that he will be "faithful and break none of God's commandments." This is manufactured by David Whitmer out of the desire of his heart to convict Joseph Smith of doing wrong, and those who believe him to have been the Choice Seer of being in error. He writes: "it says;" that is, it, the second chapter of 2d Nephi, says; the description of the Choice Seer says so; when there is nothing in the chapter that can be read to say any such thing. That which David Whitmer so cruelly misreads to the injury of the text and the attempted disparagement of the character of Joseph Smith are these words:

"And I will give unto him a commandment, that he shall do none other work save the work which I shall command him. And I will make him great in mine eyes; for he shall do my work.

All that is here stated, is simply that God would command this Choice Seer to do no work other than as he was commanded, but there is no affirmation as to what he will do. Here is a positive statement that the Choice Seer should do the work of God, but not a word about his not breaking any, or all of the commandments of God. What is there in the chapter, or in the history of the latter day work that could possibly have so misled the revered witness to the Book of Mormon to put such a forced construction upon this reading. It fails to show that he is correct in the position that Joseph Smith is not the Choice Seer; because if it were a true reading, the translating of the Book of Mormon was completed after the revelation of 1828 was given; and no matter what may have been the nature of Joseph Smith's transgressions before that time (the date of the revelation) they could not attach to him as the Choice Seer, if the bringing the Book of Mormon to light as the word of God, was a part of the work of that person; because that he still went on with that work being forgiven of his transgressions; which was beyond question within the province of the Lord, to say, I forgive thee, go on with thy work.

IS THE "CHOICE SEER" A LAMANITE?

David Whitmer essays again to prove that Joseph Smith is not the Choice Seer, by stating that he, the Great Seer, is "to come from the seed that shall write the word of the Lord; and this is the Nephite seed. It says, 'But a Seer will I raise up out of the fruit of thy loins; * * * wherefore, the fruit of thy loins (from which this Seer is to be raised up) shall write; (the Nephite records), and the fruit of the loins of Judah shall write.' So we see again that the Choice Seer is to come from the Nephite or Lamanite seed." Address, pages 69, 70. The words in parentheses are the introduction of David Whitmer, and give the construction he places upon the words of the text.

We have now followed David Whitmer until he has placed the Choice Seer in both the Nephite and the Lamanite branches of the house of Lehi. But it so happens that these branches are never fully blended in one, in such amicable relations that they form one seed, from which the Seer could come. The Lamanite, or wicked branch overcame the Nephite and destroyed it, as a nation; until it can only be presumed that a few individuals of the Nephite branch survived by assimilation with the Lamanite as the predominating race. Both were from Lehi, who was a descendant of Manasseh; and David Whitmer in his interpretation of the prophecy made to Joseph of Egypt, as it was reproduced by Lehi to Joseph his son has utterly ignored the other and dominating branch of Joseph's house named in Ephraim. Indeed, from his rendition of this 2d Nephi, 2d chapter, if one knew nothing to the contrary one would suppose that all the traces of the house of Joseph of Egypt, of which David Whitmer had any knowledge, so far as the work of the last days was concerned, was of the descendants of Lehi, the Lamanites. The promises made in this chapter to the seed of Joseph of Egypt, are to be realized unto the seed of little Joseph through the "words of the book;" which book should contain the words which should be expedient to go forth unto the fruit of the loins of Joseph of Egypt, and written by the fruit of his loins. The very language of the text which David Whitmer uses in proof that the Seer was to be of the Lamanite seed, is evidence that the one referred to was to be of the issue of the loins of Joseph of Egypt, but not of the Lamanite, or Nephite branch his brethren.

COVENANT TO JOSEPH IN EGYPT.

We now inquire what covenant is meant in the words of Lehi to "little Joseph," "because of this covenant thou art blessed." The answer must be that it is the covenant referred to in the closing words of the preceding paragraph in which the Lord stated to Joseph of Egypt that he would make certain words strong in the faith of a certain people, "unto the remembering of my covenant which I made unto thy fathers." Unfortunately for the position of David Whitmer that the whole chapter refers to the one choice Seer, and he a Lamanite, these fathers here referred to are the fathers of Joseph of Egypt, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; and the covenant the one made unto them. In tracing this covenant we ascertain first that when Jacob, whom God had surnamed Israel, was preparing himself for departure from earth he essayed to bless, prophetically, his children. In doing this Joseph, Jacob's first born of Rachel his legal wife, presented himself with his two sons Ephraim and Manasseh. The blessing of Joseph is clear and emphatic:

"The blessings of thy father have prevailed above the blessings of my progenitors unto the utmost bound of the everlasting hills: they shall be on the head of Joseph, and on the crown of the head of him that was separate from his brethren."—Gen. 49: 26.

Tracing further back, we read:

"And Jacob said unto Joseph, God Almighty appeared unto me at Luz in the land of Canaan, and blessed me, and said unto me, Behold I will make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, and I will make of thee a multitude of people; and will give this land to thy seed after thee for an everlasting possession."—Gen. 48: 3, 4.

This occurred in Egypt whither Jacob had gone upon invitation of Joseph, and where he spent the closing years of his life; hence the land referred to was not the land of Egypt; but was the land of Canaan.

Further back still, at the changing of his name to Israel:

"I am God Almighty: be fruitful and multiply; a nation and a company of nations shall be of thee, and kings shall come out of thy loins; and the land which I gave Abraham and Isaac, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed after thee will I give the land."—Gen. 35: 11, 12.

In Genesis 26, is found the promise to Isaac, and in Genesis 12, the character of the promise of God to Abraham. All subsequent ones after the promise to Abraham are dominated by that, in him should "all the families of the earth be blessed." And the charge to Abraham made in Genesis 17, recognized the promise as a covenant:

"And I will establish my covenant between me and thee and thy seed after thee in their generations, for an everlasting covenant, to be a God unto thee and to thy seed after thee. And I will give unto thee, and to thy seed after thee, the land wherein thou art a stranger, all the land of Canaan, for an everlasting possession."—Gen. 17: 7, 8.

Jeremiah recognized this promise and this covenant, of both which he wrote in his 31st chapter, 31 to 34 verses inclusive. Paul also recognized it, see Hebrews 8: 8-13. How was the covenant to be kept? This we discover in preparatory prophetic announcements in the blessings pronounced by Jacob upon Joseph and his sons Ephraim and Manasseh. Jacob after repeating what the Lord told him at Luz, said:

EPHRAIM IS PRE-EMINENT.

"And now thy two sons, Ephraim and Manasseh, which were born unto thee in the land of Egypt, before I came unto thee in Egypt, are mine; as Reuben and Simeon they shall be mine."

Reuben and Simeon were displaced by this and Ephraim and Manasseh instated in their places. And that there may be no mistake in what we shall hereafter present in reference to these men, in regard to who shall be regarded as the fathers referred to in the close of the third paragraph of 2 Nephi 2, we quote:

"And he blessed Joseph, and said, God, before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac did walk, the God which fed me all my life long unto this day, the angel which redeemed me from all evil, bless the lads; and let my name be named on them, and the name of my fathers Abraham and Isaac, and let them grow into a multitude in the midst of the earth."—Gen. 48:15, 16.

In pronouncing this blessing Israel had put the right hand upon Ephraim's head, his left upon Manasseh, the latter being the first born. Joseph sought to correct this, which he thought to have been a mistake upon Israel's part, but the latter said:

"I know it, my son, I know it; he also shall become a people, and he also shall be great; but truly his younger brother shall be greater than he, and his seed shall become a multitude of nations. And he blessed them that day, saying, In thee shall Israel bless, saying, God make thee as Ephraim and Manasseh; and he set Ephraim before Manasseh."—Gen. 48:19, 20.

EPHRAIM FIRST IN GOD'S LATTER DAY MINISTRY.

This whole transaction is indicative that when the culmination of time brings about the undertaking of any work in keeping with the covenant made unto Joseph's fathers, the head and front of that work should begin with Ephraim, and not with Manasseh. Moses wrote:

"His glory is like the firstling of his bullock, and his horns are like the horns of unicorns: with them he shall push the people together to the ends of the earth: and they are the ten thousands of Ephraim, and they are the thousands of Manasseh."—Deut. 33:17.

Jacob declared that Joseph's blessing was greater than those which had descended from his own progenitors; and should prevail "unto the utmost bound of the everlasting hills;" and Moses recalls this chiefest good in shadowing forth the ministerial work to be done by the "horns" of Joseph, these "horns" being the "tens of thousands of Ephraim" and the "thousands of Manasseh" by whom the people were to be pushed together unto the "ends of the earth."

David, the Psalmist, recognized that the work of salvation that was to be done in its time was to come even to Israel through the channels chosen of God and predicted by the prophets:

"Give ear, O Shepherd of Israel, thou that leadest Joseph like a flock; thou that dwellest between the cherubim, shine forth. Before Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasseh stir up thy strength, and come and save us."—Ps. 80:1, 2. "Ephraim is the strength of mine head."—Ps. 108:8.

The Lord remembering the covenant made unto Israel moved upon Jeremiah who said:

"The Lord hath appeared of old unto me, saying, Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love."—Jer. 31:3.

An "everlasting love" required an everlasting covenant, an "everlasting gospel" that would compass an everlasting salvation reaching to "the utmost bound of the everlasting hills." Promising the recovery of Israel he further stated:

"I will cause them to walk by the rivers of waters in a straight way, wherein they shall not stumble: for I am a father to Israel, and Ephraim is my first born."—Jer. 31:9.

Surely if the Lord can not forget Israel and the work that is to be done for his recovery, and for the fulfilling of the covenant named in Jeremiah 31:31-34, he will not forget the instrumentalities through which that work was to be accomplished. These are to be remembered; and Isaiah, writing concerning the culmination of the event places Ephraim again in the lead:

"And he shall set up an ensign for the nations, and shall assemble the outcasts of Israel, and gather together the dispersed of Judah from the four corners of the earth. The envy also of Ephraim shall depart, and the adversaries of Judah shall be cut off; Ephraim shall not envy Judah, and Judah shall not vex Ephraim."—Isa. 11:12, 13.

STICK OF JOSEPH FIRST IN HAND OF EPHRAIM.

In continued confirmation of the work assigned to Ephraim, Ezekiel writing of certain records commands that when the children of the people of Israel shall ask what the sticks of Joseph and Judah may mean the answer shall be:

"Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I will take the stick of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel his fellows, and will put them with him, even with the stick of Judah, and make them one stick, and they shall be one in mine hand."—Ezek. 37:19. (See also Zech. 10:6, 7).

EPHRAIM AMONG THE GENTILES.

Ephraim, for reasons best known to their God, became scattered among the nations, so far as direct descendants are concerned, and their identity as a nation in lineal descent and succession became lost, and mingled with the Gentile nations. This is proved by direct prophecy of Isaiah:

"For the head of Syria is Damascus, and the head of Damascus is Rezin; and within three score and five years shall Ephraim be broken that it be not a people."—Isa. 7:8. (See also 17 verse of same chapter).

Jeremiah wrote of it as of a thing accomplished; for he makes the Lord to say, concerning Judah:

"And I will cast you out of my sight, as I have cast out all your brethren, even the whole seed of Ephraim."—Jer. 7:15.

Hosea bears record of it and its cause, Hosea 5:3 to 9, and distinctly affirms in 7:8, "Ephraim, he hath mixed himself among the people; Ephraim is a cake not turned." "My God will cast them away, because they did not hearken unto him; and they shall be wanderers among the nations."—Hos. 9:17.

"And I will strengthen the house of Judah, and I will save the house of Joseph, and I will bring them again to place them." * * "And they of Ephraim shall be like a mighty man, and their heart shall rejoice as through wine: yea, their children shall see it, and be glad; their heart shall rejoice in the Lord." "And I will sow them among the people, and they shall remember me in far countries; and they shall live with their children, and turn again."—Zech. 10:6-9. See also whole chapter.

BOOK OF MORMON IDENTIFIED.

David Whitmer states that the man of 2 Nephi 11:18 is "Brother Joseph," so that we need have no misunderstanding about that. "Address," pp. 26 and 68. David Whitmer also identifies the Book of Mormon as being the book of Isaiah 29th chapter; and says: "Read Isa. 29, whole chapter, which is a prophecy concerning the way in which the Book of Mormon was to come forth. Out of the ground; "Out of the dust;" from "the words of a Book (plates) that is sealed;" &c.—"Address" p. 7. He also identifies the Book of Mormon as being at least a part of the Record of Joseph, and quotes from Ezek. 37:16-21. Part of this we have already given, but David Whitmer has put the whole in italics, and we quote:

"Moreover, thou son of man, take thee one stick, and write upon it, for Judah, and for the children of Israel his companions: then take another stick, and write upon it, for Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and for all the house of Israel his companions; and join them one to another in one stick; and they shall become one in thine hand."

David Whitmer says: "The children of Israel are to be gathered by the Record of Judah (the Bible); and the record of Joseph; (of which record the Book of Mormon is only a part.)"

This so far as David Whitmer is concerned identifies the Book of Mormon as the Record of Joseph, or all of that record that we have. In explaining further what the Book of Mormon is David Whitmer writes:

"The characters I speak of are the engravings on the golden plates from which the book was translated. They were engraved thereon by a holy prophet of God whose name was Mormon, who lived upon this land four hundred years after Christ. Mormon's son, Moroni, after witnessing the destruction of his brethren, the Nephites, who were a white race—they being destroyed by the Lamanites (Indians)—deposited the golden plates in the ground, according to a command of God. An angel of the Lord directed brother Joseph to them."—Address, page 12.

The words in parenthesis are David Whitmer's, not ours.

David Whitmer further identifies the Book of Mormon as that which was to come; as follows:

"For it, (THE BOOK OF MORMON) shall be brought out of darkness unto light, according to the Word of God; yea, it shall be brought out of the earth, and it shall shine forth out of darkness, and come unto the knowledge of the people: and it shall be done by the power of God. * * * It shall come in a day when the power of God shall be denied (2 Tim. 3:5), and churches become defiled, and shall be lifted up in the pride of their hearts; yea, even in a day when leaders of churches, and teachers, in the pride of their hearts, even to the envying of them who belong to their churches; yea, it shall come in a day when there shall be heard of fires, and tempests, and vapors of smoke in foreign lands; and there shall also be heard of wars and rumors of wars, and earthquakes in divers places."—B. of M., chap. 4, par. 2, 3. Address, page 16.

"For thus it behoved the Father that it [the Book of Mormon] should come forth from the Gentiles, that he may show forth his power unto the Gentiles, for this cause, that the Gentiles, if they will not harden their hearts, that they may repent and come unto me, and be baptized in my name, and know of the true points of my doctrine."—Nephi 8:9, and 9:11. Address page 17.

We propose that there is no doubt but what David Whitmer, as well as other professed believers in the Book of Mormon, is concluded in the position stated by himself as to what the Book of Mormon is; for he writes of it:

"The angel who declared unto us that the Book of Mormon was true, also declared unto us that the Bible was true. They are both the Word of God, and as it is prophesied, they shall both be one."

It is not needful that further identification of the Book of Mormon be had, it being sufficient to learn that it is that portion of the Record engraved upon plates, hidden by Moroni, to come forth in time, and to contain the gospel doctrine of Christ unto salvation to them who shall believe. That it was revealed as David Whitmer states by an angel, and that Joseph Smith was the instrument through whom it was discovered as a book, translated from the plates of gold, written and published to the world. That as a book, and so far as it goes it is the Record of Joseph and was to become one in testimony and in effect with the Record of Judah, the Bible. That it was to be written for Ephraim and the house of Israel his companions, and was to be first "in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel his fellows." That it was to come forth in the last day, by the way of the Gentiles, or from the Gentiles, and be unto both branches of Israel a medium of instruction in bringing them to a knowledge of the Savior, the Redeemer.

By an examination of several "points," in connection with the work to be done by the "words of the book," which "words" we find to be the Book of Mormon, leaving the Book to be the Plates, both the sealed and the unsealed, or translated portion, thus simplifying the inquiry, we may be able to see more clearly where to look for the subject of our inquiry, the Choice Seer.

Moroni says:

"I am the son of Mormon, and my father was a descendant of Nephi; and I am the same that hideth up this record unto the Lord; the plates thereof are of no worth, because of the commandment of the Lord. For he truly saith, that no one shall have them to get gain; but the record thereof is of great worth; and whoso shall bring it to light, him will the Lord bless." . . . "And blessed be him that shall bring this thing to light." . . . "And behold, their prayers were also in behalf of him that the Lord should suffer to bring these things forth. And no one need say, that they shall not come, for they surely shall, for the Lord hath spoken it; for out of the earth shall they come, by the hand of the Lord, and none can stay it; and it shall come in a day when it shall be said that miracles are done away; and it shall come even as if one should speak from the dead." . . . "Search the prophesy of Isaiah. Behold I can not write them. Yea, behold I say unto you, that those Saints who have gone before me, who have possessed this land, shall cry; yea, even from the dust will they cry unto the Lord; and as the Lord liveth, he will remember the covenant he hath made with them. . . . And he kneweth their faith."—Book of Mormon 4: 2.

David Whitmer quoted a part of this chapter, but left out what we have here presented. And from 2 Nephi 2, we quote corresponding texts:

And thus prophesied Joseph, saying: Behold, that Seer will the Lord bless."—2 Nephi 2: 2. "And unto him will I give commandment that he shall do a work for the fruit of thy loins, his brethren, which shall be of great worth unto them."—2 Nephi 2: 2.

"And it shall be as if the fruit of thy loins had cried unto them from the dust; for I know their faith. And they shall cry from the dust."—2 Nephi 2: 3.

The work of bringing forth the record hid up by Moroni, was to be governed by the prophecies of Isaiah, or be in accord with them. It was to be of worth, and to be in the power of God.

"For none can have power to bring it to light, save it be given him of God; for God will that it shall be done with an eye single to his glory, or the welfare of the ancient and long dispersed covenant people of the Lord." . . . "Yea it shall be brought out of the earth."—Book of Mormon, 4: 2.

THE CHAPTER 2 OF 2 NEPHI,

the one under examination comes to us upon the authority of Nephi, and we quote from what is called his prophecy. He states that the prophecies of Isaiah shall be of worth to the children of men. 2 Nephi 11:2. That many generations after the Messiah God would "proceed to do a marvelous work, and a wonder among the children of men."—2 Nephi 11:3. That God "Shall bring forth his words unto them, which words shall judge them at the last day; for they shall be given them for the purpose of convincing them of the true Messiah."—2 Nephi 11:4. That after his seed should have dwindled in unbelief and been smitten and brought low in the dust, "the words of the righteous shall be written, and the prayers of the faithful shall be heard, and all those who have dwindled in unbelief, shall not be forgotten; for those who shall be destroyed shall speak unto them out of the ground, and their speech shall be low out of the dust, and their voice shall be as one that hath a familiar spirit; for the Lord God will give unto HIM power, that he may whisper concerning them, even as it were out of the ground; and their speech shall whisper out of the dust. For thus saith the Lord God: They shall write the things which shall be done among them, and they shall be written and sealed up in a book, and those who have dwindled in unbelief, shall not have them, for they seek to destroy the things of God."—2 Nephi 11:13.

Writing still further on, Nephi addressing himself to a people who were drunken, not with wine, &c., says to them:

"And it shall come to pass that the Lord God shall bring forth unto you, the words of a book, and they shall be the words of them which have slumbered."—2 Nephi 11:16, 17.

Then follows the relation of the events admitted by David Whitmer to apply to Joseph Smith, about the book, the words of the book, and the learned and unlearned man.

THE "UNLEARNED" MAN IS THE "CHOICE SEER."

In his statement that Joseph Smith was not the Choice Seer of 2 Nephi 2, and his admission that he was the one referred to in Isaiah 29 and 2 Nephi 11:18, David Whitmer has forgotten the almost continuous passages of the Book of Mormon which identify the Choice Seer of the 2d chapter with the man referred to in the 11th chapter, in the nature of the work done in bringing the words of the book, (the plates), the words of the Book of Mormon, to light. Neither of the men could do anything except by the command of God. "The Lord God will proceed to bring forth the words of the book."—2 Nephi 11:17, near close of paragraph. "But a seer will I raise up out of the fruit of thy loins; and unto him will I give power to bring forth my word unto the seed of thy loins."—2 Nephi 2:2. "For none can have power to bring it to light, save it be given him of God."—Book of Mormon 4:2. The man of 2 Nephi 11:18 was to be a man "not learned;" the Seer was to have a spokesman. David Whitmer says that the Seer could not be Joseph, for he was not like Moses who was slow of speech, but was a good speaker. But the text does not state that the seer was to be slow of speech, or like Moses in that respect, for he was to be

LIKE JOSEPH OF EGYPT,

And was to receive power to do God's work so far as assigned him; in this the man "not learned" and the "Choice Seer," are alike. The things brought forth, "the words of the book," were in both instances to be the writings of those who had dwelt upon this land. The work to be done by that which was brought forth, as stated in each instance, was of a similar nature:

"For they shall be given them for the purpose of convincing them of the true Messiah."—2 Nephi 11:4.

"But to the convincing them of my word, which shall have already gone forth among them."—2 Nephi 2:2.

We believe this word to be the Bible. See 2 Nephi 12:6. The words which were to be brought forth were in both instances to be the records, or a part of the record of the seed of Joseph, through Lehi—the Nephites; the fruit of the loins of Joseph on this land. In the one case the "deaf" were "to hear the words of the book, and the eyes of the blind" were to "see out of obscurity and out of darkness."—2 Nephi 11:19. In the other, men were to be brought "out of darkness unto light; yea, out of hidden darkness and out of captivity unto freedom."—2 Nephi 2:1. In the one case, Nephi says:

"And the words which I have written in weakness, will be made strong unto them; for it persuadeth them to do good; it maketh known unto them of their fathers."—2 Nephi 15:1.

In the other he says of the work of the Choice Seer it shall be of "great worth unto them, even to the bringing of them to the knowledge of the covenants which I have made with thy fathers."—2 Nephi 2:2.

"And the weakness of their words will I make strong in their faith, unto the remembering of my covenant which I made unto thy fathers."—2 Nephi 2:3.

In the one case Nephi says: "And now, my beloved brethren, all those who are of the house of Israel, and all ye ends of the earth, I speak unto you, as the voice of one crying from the dust." 2 Nephi 15:3. "And they shall be the words of them which have slumbered." 2 Nephi 11:16. In the other: "And it shall be as if the fruit of thy loins had cried unto them from the dust. * * * And they shall cry from the dust."—2 Nephi 2:3.

These are all strong points of identity between the works to be done by these two personages indicating that they are one and the same work and the persons one. Besides these, it is admitted by David Whitmer that the record, the Book of Mormon, is a part of the record of Joseph; and this record of Joseph is to be one with the Record of Judah, thus fulfilling the prophecy of Ezekiel so often referred to. The Record of Joseph was

IN THE HAND OF EPHRAIM;

And for this reason, perhaps, David Whitmer, after deciding that the choice Seer must be a Lamanite, concluded that Joseph Smith was not that seer. But the identity of the two works will be seen to be complete when we quote:

"Wherefore, the fruit of thy loins shall write; and the fruit of the loins of Judah shall write; and that which shall be written by the fruit of thy loins, and also that which shall be written by the fruit of the loins of Judah, shall grow together, unto the confounding of false doctrines, and laying down of contentions, and establishing peace among the fruit of thy loins, and bringing them to the knowledge of their fathers in the latter days; and also to the knowledge of my covenants, saith the Lord." 2 Nephi 2:2.

"Ephraim shall no longer envy Judah, nor Judah vex Ephraim."—Isa. 11:13.

THE STICK OF JOSEPH.

It does not now matter whether the rest of the record shall be brought forth as the stick of Joseph in the hand of Ephraim, or not; the part that we already have is identified; and it is also identified as the work of the choice Seer, spoken of by Nephi in the chapter under consideration. Whether Joseph Smith was the one, or not, the work done by him as the man "not learned" corresponds with the work of that Seer. And the correspondence is strengthened further by the identification already discovered and that existing between the one spoken of in the following two passages:

"For the Lord God will give unto him power that he may whisper concerning them."—2 Nephi 11:13.

"And out of weakness he shall be made strong, in that day when my work shall commence among all my people, unto the restoring thee, O house of Israel, saith the Lord."—2 Nephi 2:2.

But, says David Whitmer, Joseph Smith was not the choice Seer, because that choice Seer is to come from the seed of Lehi—Joseph Smith is not of that seed. The choice Seer was to convince the Lamanites in person,—Joseph Smith did not convince them. The tongue of the choice Seer will not be "loosed much;" Joseph Smith was a good speaker. Those who sought to destroy the choice Seer should be confounded; Joseph Smith was destroyed; those who destroyed him were not confounded. The choice Seer would be faithful and do strictly according to the commands of God. Joseph Smith broke the commands of God from the beginning. These five statements are found as the summing up of David Whitmer's objections to Joseph Smith being the Choice Seer.—Address, page 70.

Of these we notice:

1. The Choice Seer was to be of the seed

OF JOSEPH OF EGYPT.

To be this it is by no means necessary that he should be the seed of Lehi as David Whitmer states; for Lehi was of Manasseh, and Ephraim received the controlling, predominating blessing, as we have shown. The work done in bringing forth the record of Joseph, as we have shown, agrees with and is identified as the one done by the Choice Seer, and as that record was to be

IN THE HAND OF EPHRAIM,

the Choice Seer was of that branch of Joseph's seed; Joseph Smith is the one who brought that record the Book of Mormon forth; and he must therefore be the Choice Seer and of Ephraim.

2. The text does not warrant David Whitmer's statement that the Choice Seer is to "convince the Lamanites in person." The text is:

"And not to the bringing forth my word only, saith the Lord, but to the convincing them of my word, which shall have already gone forth among them."—2 Nephi 2:2.

Reference is here made, undoubtedly, to the word of God called "the record of the Jew," or of Judah, already had by Ephraim scattered and sown among all nations, and notably among the Gentiles who should come in upon this land as is related in 1 Nephi 3:36 to 53 paragraphs. Ephraim and Manasseh, other than the branch of Lehi, as well as the half tribe of Benjamin are sown, mixed and intertwined among the Gentile nations, to be remembered in connection with the seed of Joseph through Lehi upon this land; and if Joseph Smith, either in person, or in association with other missionaries of Ephraim, in promulgating the doctrine of Christ as set forth in the Book of Mormon, convinced any of them he filled the measure of this statement.

D. WHITMER MIXES LINEAGE.

Besides this, David Whitmer has, in our opinion, confounded the seed of Joseph in Lehi with the fruit of the loins of Joseph in other branches of the house, as all of Lehi,—winding them all up in the Lamanites. He makes this mistake, as we believe, in rendering the promise made to little Joseph; "for thy seed shall not all be destroyed, for they shall hearken unto the words of the book." "The fruit of thy loins," from whom the Seer was to be raised up may well be of the Ephraim line; and the "fruit of thy loins, his brethren," may well be the seed of Joseph through Lehi, both of Little Joseph, Laman and others. All are of one great root, Joseph of Egypt; but it is presumptuous to state that only the Lamanites are the ones referred to, and from them is to come this great Seer.

THE "CHOICE SEER" IS OF EPHRAIM.

If he comes from Ephraim, the harmony of the prophecies respecting Ephraim is preserved; that of Isaiah and of Ezekiel grow together; the blessing of Joseph upon the heads of the two, Ephraim and Manasseh is preserved unbroken; but by narrowing the rendition of it to Lehi's branch alone, the whole symmetry of the word is destroyed. The latter course has led David Whitmer, who claims to understand the chapter by the enlightening power of the Holy Ghost, to affirm; First, that the Choice Seer is to come from the Lamanites. Address, pages 68, 69. These Lamanites, David Whitmer states, are the "Indians." Address, pages 12, 68. Second, that this Choice Seer is to come from the Nephite seed. Address, p. 70. This Nephite race, or seed, David Whitmer affirms to be a "white race" which was "destroyed by the Lamanites (Indians)."—Address, page 12.

RECORDS NEPHITE AND NOT LAMANITE

It is true that David Whitmer in saying that the Choice Seer was of the Nephite race, says "the Nephite, or Lamanite seed;" but says it in connection with the records which are Nephite, and not Lamanite in any sense. He does this in order to avoid the evident conclusion of the investigator that the writing of the fruit of the loins of Joseph, referred to in 2 Nephi 2:2, marks the Seer as being identical with the man "not learned" of the 11th of the same book of Nephi. One thing is certain; the choice Seer can not be of the Nephite, a white race, and a Lamanite, an Indian, a red man of a red race, at the same time. Nor can the Seer be a Lamanite in direct descent and be the seed of little Joseph, the latter and Laman being two different sons of Lehi. The attempt of David Whitmer in this objection fails signally.

THE LAMANITES.

It will be now seen that in all this controversy Laman, as an individual, has not been considered. By turning to 2 Nephi 3:1, it will be seen that after Lehi had finished the statement to Joseph his son, he called the children of Laman and gave them the statement concerning their future. The blessing is short and is simply: "Wherefore, because of my blessing, the Lord God will not suffer that ye shall perish; wherefore, he will be merciful unto you, and unto your seed forever." Not a word here that promises that the Choice Seer shall be of this family, or lineage; not a word that shows that it was to be the cherished thought of this line, thoughtless, quarrelsome and wicked as they had been and continued to be, unto the final destruction of their brethren, there should come the great Seer promised to Joseph of Egypt. To now assert that the blessing promised to Joseph and Ephraim culminated through that line, is to throw respect to righteousness and uprightness of life to the winds and put a reward upon disrespect to God and disobedience to his commands. That "the Choice Seer is of the Nephite, or Lamanite seed," has a very uncertain sound, and for the reasons above stated the objection of David Whitmer is without support in truth.

"His tongue will not be loosed that he can speak much."—Address p. 70.

David Whitmer says that the Choice Seer is to be "great and mighty like unto Moses."—Address p. 68.

THE CHOICE SEER LIKE JOSEPH.

The text says that he shall be "great like unto Moses;" but the word mighty is not found in the text; and in describing what he shall be like, Joseph of Egypt, said:

"And he shall be like unto me, for the thing which the Lord shall bring forth by his hand, by the power of the Lord, shall bring my people unto salvation." "And his name shall be called after me; and it shall be after the name of his father."—2 Nephi 2:3.

DAVID WHITMER MISREADS

The text, for it says that it was Moses, and not the Seer, who was not to have his tongue loosed that he should speak much. Nothing is said about the nature of the speech of the Seer. If Joseph of Egypt could tell what he knew so as to be understood, then the Seer could; if he was a man of ready speech, then the Seer could be also, and still fill the unity of the promise. But the identity seems sharpened up when it is seen that his name was to be Joseph, after Joseph of Egypt, and his father's name was also to be Joseph; a most extraordinary coincidence filled exactly by Joseph Smith, who was called Joseph and whose father's name was also called Joseph. David Whitmer to make this objection wrests the words of the book itself and thus defeats his own object. Joseph Smith was not a ready speaker in public, only on topics connected with the work he was doing; and then when helped by the Spirit it is said he was mighty indeed. God made him what he was, if over the average man in this regard.

THE "CHOICE SEER," JOSEPH, NOT DESTROYED.

4. "Those who seek to destroy this seer will be confounded," Joseph "was destroyed." Address, p. 70. This is cruel, and we shall treat it in that light.

"Behold, that Seer will the Lord bless; and they that seek to destroy him, shall be confounded; for this promise, of which I have obtained of the Lord, of the fruit of thy loins, shall be fulfilled."—2 Nephi 2:3.

The promise here is simply that the work of the Seer shall be done; that those who seek to destroy him to frustrate that work shall be confounded. Was that work frustrated? No. Has the work ever been confounded? No. The devil sought to keep Joseph Smith from successfully bringing forth the record referred to; did he succeed? David Whitmer testifies before angels and men that he did not; that the work was done. David Whitmer relied upon the promise that the seed of Joseph should not be destroyed, yet he states that the Lamanites destroyed them. Joseph Smith was killed, his life taken; but was he destroyed? No. Let us see. David Whitmer blames us with disbelieving that Joseph Smith was led away, &c., because God said that he was. We wonder if the same sort of evidence will convince David Whitmer—it ought to.

God spoke to Joseph and Martin in March, 1829, and the promise was made to him that he should be firm in keeping the commandments; "and if he doeth this, behold I grant unto him eternal life, even if he should be slain." The possibility that Joseph Smith should be slain while doing the work is plainly stated; and he was commanded to stop the work of translating for a season, which he did. He resumed again when permitted in accordance with the further promise in the same revelation:

"And I will provide means whereby thou mayest accomplish the thing which I have commanded thee; and if thou art faithful in keeping my commandments, thou shalt be lifted up at the last day. Amen."—Book of Commandments, chap. 4, pages 10 to 13.

Now, if Joseph Smith accomplished the work of bringing forth that part of the record of the Nephites, the Book of Mormon, of the record of Joseph, containing the word that was to "grow together" with the record of Judah, he lived long enough to do, and did the work referred to in the text quoted, and was neither confounded nor destroyed. The killing of the body did not destroy him. The New Testament abounds with illustrations: "He that believeth on me shall not perish, but shall have eternal life;" "though he be dead, yet shall he live." No matter how much Joseph Smith afterward erred, if he did his work in bringing the Book of Mormon forth, as David Whitmer testifies that he did; then may he be the Choice Seer and in accord with 2 Nephi 2.

JOSEPH SMITH DID THE WORK OF THE CHOICE SEER.

Again; Joseph Smith was instrumental in fulfilling the promise to be accomplished by the Choice Seer in this; "for the thing which the Lord shall bring forth by his hand, by the power of the Lord shall bring my people unto salvation." This the Book of Mormon is claimed to be; even David Whitmer testifies to the fact that it contains the fulness of the gospel unto the salvation of both Jew and Gentile. Nor is the promise here made that it shall be by the power of the Choice Seer that he shall personally bring any of them to a knowledge of the work, but it shall be done by the power of God. Surely the object sought to be accomplished in killing Joseph Smith was defeated, and those who sought to destroy him were confounded indeed; as we believe every one who seeks to frustrate that work will be also. David Whitmer himself being judge, Joseph Smith did the work designed to be done in bringing the Book of Mormon unto the people, by the way of Gentile, and not by the way of Lamanite; he did all that was promised in the word that those who should seek to destroy him that was to be the Seer should be confounded. If after having done the work commanded him in regard to bringing the expedient words of God forth, Joseph Smith essayed to do something else, not contemplated in the command, it does in no sense vitiate the word of God, or the facts concerning that work which was commanded. This is David Whitmer's own argument in regard to the claim of the Book of Mormon; for he says:

"Joseph Smith drifting into errors after translating the Book of Mormon, is a stumbling-block to many, but only those of very weak faith would stumble on this account."—Address, p. 4.

It was as a Seer that God would bless the Seer; it was as an instrument to do a specific work; and if God blessed Joseph Smith to do the work assigned the Seer, there is no justice in this objection of David Whitmer's.

D. WHITMER'S OPINION—INTERPRETATION.

5. "The Choice Seer will be faithful and do strictly according to the command of God; Bro. Joseph broke the commands of God from the beginning."—Address, page 70.

Unfortunately for the writer of this statement, there is not a line of 2 Nephi 2, that affirms this. It is the conclusion of a man determined that his construction of the Scripture is correct. There is no promise, nor affirmation that the Seer will be any more faithful than any other servant chosen of God. David was a man after God's own heart; yet as a king he did foolishly and brought trouble upon Israel. Moses was a meek man, and if the Seer was meek he was in this sense like Moses, though there is no promise that there should be any likeness between them except that the Seer should "be great." It is decidedly to the disparagement of David Whitmer's opinion that Joseph Smith is not the Choice Seer, that in every instance, almost, he either innocently, or purposely misreads the Scripture and makes applications that the text does not warrant. Faith is not mentioned in the 1, 2, and 3 paragraphs, except as an attribute attaching to those whose words and deeds should "come forth" to their brethren, occurring near the close of 3 paragraph. The only other place where the word occurs is in the 4th paragraph, and here it refers to the one who was to raise up among the direct seed of little Joseph, who may possibly be one of those assimilated with, and called a Lamanite; and who is by a fair and candid rendition of the word a different individual from the one referred to in the promise to Joseph of Egypt.

D. WHITMER TAKES OUT AND ADDS WORDS OF SCRIPTURE.

David Whitmer attempting to make the language apply to the one referred to as the Choice Seer, misplaces the word "and," and introduces the word "for," as we have heretofore shown, thus violating the text and distorting its meaning—wresting the Scriptures—and it is elsewhere stated that he who does this does it to his shame.

Again; David Whitmer makes the wholesale charge that Joseph Smith "broke the commands of God from the beginning." In no instance has David Whitmer proved this by citing the command and the manner of its breaking, except possibly the revelation of 1828, which certainly neither he, nor any one else should plead, from the fact that God forgave him in word, and verified that forgiveness by restoring to him the power and the command to do the work assigned him, to which fact David Whitmer bears witness. This ought to be sufficient to exonerate Joseph Smith from blame in any charge based on the wrong so signally rebuked by God himself. As for any other charges of breaking God's law David Whitmer offers no proof, and we confess that we do not choose to place so much confidence and "trust in man" as to accept even the word of David Whitmer without proof. Those who choose will do this, of course, but we prefer not.

"OTHER BOOKS."

In his effort against the Doctrine and Covenants, David Whitmer states that the "other books" which the prophet Nephi saw among the Gentiles, as stated in 1 Nephi 42, are the Book of Mormon and one other which is to come forth from the Nephite records "which are yet hid up and sealed." "It is to come to the Gentiles, and they will carry it and the Book of Mormon to the Lamanites, to the convincing of the Gentiles, the Lamanites and the Jews."—Address, page 52.

We do not here interpose an objection to the coming forth of the sealed portion of the Book; let that part come when it shall please God, and by whom he may choose; we shall say, Amen, to it, and welcome its life cherishing words. But we do object seriously to David Whitmer in his attack on Joseph Smith and his work, to destroy our faith in them, misreading, misquoting and misrepresenting the Book of Mormon to which he calls our attention with vehemence about it being the plain adviser of our belief. Take this instance of his attack upon the Book of Covenants. There are two records, only, named in paragraph 42 of 1 Nephi, and these are the "records of the prophets and of the twelve apostles of the Lamb." David Whitmer surely does not wish us to understand that the records of the prophets here named are Nephite records; or that the records of the twelve apostles of the Lamb are Nephite records. These two are evidently the Old Testament, "records of the prophets;" and New Testament, "records of the apostles of the Lamb." The "other books," referred to in this 42d paragraph, "came forth from the Gentiles" unto the remnant of Nephi's seed, and the effect of their coming forth was to convince the Gentiles, "the remnant of the seed of my brethren, and also the Jews, that the records of the prophets and of the twelve apostles of the Lamb are true." From what follows in the 43d paragraph there is reason to believe that in addition to the Book of Mormon, and the sealed part of the book that was hid up, which will be known as the Nephite records proper, there will be among the Gentiles many other books, brought forth by virtue of the supervising care of Christ and the Father, the general tenor and design of which shall be the confirming of the truth of the Mosaic relation concerning the creation and the history of God's dealing with man from Moses down, and the convincing of all men, Jew, Gentile, Nephite and Lamanite that Jesus is the Christ. "Other books" does not necessarily mean the Book of Mormon and the sealed record, only, and may mean many, many books, all having the same general end in view. This is decidedly our opinion; and the Book of Commandments, Doctrine and Covenants, Inspired Translation; all books of discovery of hidden records, on the old and new continents; the history and genealogies of tribes and nations; all books of every sort that tend to establish the truths of God, we believe the prophet saw, and it certainly is not to the discredit of the record. There are only the two books called records, considering them as books, named in the 42d and 43d paragraphs; and these are the Jewish Bible and the Book of Mormon; the rest are books, and may or may not be records; and David Whitmer's assertion that they are to come "from sealed records which are yet hid up" is not borne out by the plain reading of the word. Those other books, whatever they may be, are to come from the Gentiles, and not from the Lamanites. Please remember that in your reading.

THE SEALED RECORDS.

There are some reasons for believing that the matters contained in the sealed portion of the records will not be revealed while the people remain in a state of wickedness, and in the practice of abominations; (see 2 Nephi 11:17); therefore, that they will not go to unconverted people, whether Lamanite, Jew or Gentile; and that they will not go forth until the people shall first have received the Book of Mormon; (Book of Nephi 12:1); and that they will not go forth except to those converted to God, and are holy and faithful. Ether 1:11. For these reasons we think the "other books," of this paragraph 42, do not mean those records only.

We did not undertake this task because we wished it. It was forced upon us. We have found some pleasure in its prosecution, and have simply to write in conclusion that we have dealt with the principles and facts involved, and leave the result with time and the Master.

UTAH STATEHOOD.

The following we take from the Salt Lake, Utah weekly Herald, for June 25th, 1887, and present for the thoughtful, careful perusal and consideration of all readers.

"We believe it to be generally understood that the Mormons have had pretty strong inducements to give up their plural marriage system, and we believe it to be conceded that they have not seen fit to do so.

"If the Mormons adopt a Constitution prohibiting polygamy, and we are unable to see how they can avoid it if they look for success in this State movement, or see fit to disfranchise polygamists, or engraft any such provision upon the Constitution, it will not be an entirely agreeable step; it will be in recognition of a determined opposition which seems to be widespread and which has phrased itself in restrictive laws.

"The situation is this—with a populous and wealthy Territory, a law-abiding and thrifty population, a small proportion of polygamists, is it not possible for Mormons, realizing the energy of the opposition, to frame a charter that shall be sufficiently anti-polygamous to suit the mind of Congress? It will not be a spontaneous desire, but a somewhat disagreeable alternative. The effort is worth the trying and should and may succeed.

"It is to get an instrument that will be more likely to be satisfactory here and in Congress that all classes of the people are desired to join. Come all, and disagreeable as you fancy your suggestions may be to the Mormon people, make them known and they may find an echo in the Constitution. The fact is that the situation has become so disagreeable to all Mormons, that the polygamous part are willing to accept an anti-polygamous charter, and the monogamous part willing to urge it, in order that certain other important rights that bid fair to perish may be preserved. As to taxing mines, it is hard to criticize the Legislature of the State of Utah as yet. It is true it was once proposed here, but what of that? If it were unwise, other surrounding commonwealths have also been unwise? It was but a short time since that the Governor of Colorado recommended such a measure to the Legislature of that State.

"Let Jew and Gentile join with the Mormon in the effort to secure a settled and therefore prosperous state of affairs."

We believe that the common sense of a long suffering people will at last assert itself; and if there is any way out of the environments which beset them, they will take that way. That portion of Utah Mormons that have not been in the practice of plural marriage, have been the silent, passive and sometimes criminally blind fosterers of the evil that has enshrouded them morally, socially, religiously and politically. We of the Reorganized Church have so long, so patiently and persistently held the mirror to the gaze of those essaying the practice of polygamy by virtue of its claimed development from primitive Mormonism, that we do not add a feather to the weight of the condemnation of the violent and unrepentant among them upon us, by giving expression to a few thoughts possibly bearing upon the situation; and we may perchance aid the humble and repentant to assert the moral courage, more or less latent in all men, and rise from their condition of servitude to sin, into freedom therefrom.

It is certain that there is nothing in the constitution of that church organized April 6th, 1830, if it has such a thing as an institutional constitution, which in any way demands an antagonism against the political laws of the United States, or requires a practice that interferes with, or outrages the genius of the institutions of the states in which Mormonism has flourished. The only possible exception to this statement that can be cited, is that the religion of the Saints was such that slavery was incompatible with it; and this permitted an excuse for the persecutions in Missouri, to a great extent. This, however, could not be a possible barrier in any but slave states; and the understanding was clearly had within the church that slavery as an American institution would sooner or later be abandoned.

The church from 1830 to 1844 pursued its evangelizing way unrestricted by either open, or covert antagonism to the laws; except as evil disposed individuals violated them in spite of their religious obligations to behave as good citizens; or as persons were overtaken by faults, in weakness, and transgressed in moments of temptation. But neither of these resulted as a sequence to the promulgation of the faith. It was not until after the death of Joseph and Hyrum Smith that there was anything introduced into the beliefs of those who survived the expulsion from Illinois, as a church tenet, a dogma, a belief, a command, that advocated and carried into practice involved direct conflict with the laws, and a disregard for the social institutions of the country. Now, after thirty-five years of occupation of a territory of the United States out of harmony with the genius of the social institutions in those states, twenty-five years of which have been spent in open and active defiance of and disregard for special enactments of the Congress of the United States, some of the people upon whom that practice was fastened are calling a convention of the people to take steps to secure if possible admission into the sisterhood of states; and ostensibly offer an abandonment of the obnoxious feature, if that is required to obtain such admission.

We see no reason why this abandonment of polygamy may not, and should not be done. We think it would be eminently proper that it should be abandoned, at once and completely by the Utah Church. The great majority of the people are not in its practice. The very conditions of the people confine its practice to the minority of the men of the church; and we see no reason why that minority should insist upon putting the interests, good will and political success and prosperity of the whole into jeopardy by continuing the antagonism so long maintained upon so frail and insecure a basis. Of course we look at it from a different point of observation than does the Salt Lake Herald; for to us polygamy has been always unlawful, both in the law of God and the law of the land; hence its abandonment is but a return to obedience to God and as such we hope it will be done.

In reference to this movement for statehood the Deseret News, the official organ of the church in Utah, has in its issue for June 28th the report of a meeting held for the purpose of appointing delegates to the convention, from which we give the following:

"Hon. John T. Caine, of the committee on nominations, submitted the following report:

"SALT LAKE CITY, June 25th, 1887.

"Hon. James Sharp, President of Mass Convention: Your committee on nominations for delegates to represent Salt Lake County in the Constitutional Convention to be held in the City Hall on Thursday, the 30th current, after full consideration, respectfully submit the following names: James Sharp, Wm. W. Riter, John T. Caine, Samuel P. Teasdel, Franklin S. Richards, Le Grande Young, Elias A. Smith, Richard Howe, L. S. Hills, John Clark, Samuel Bennion, Andrew Jensen, Francis Armstrong, Feramor Little, Junius F. Wells, John R. Winder.

"Your committee also suggest the following alternates, to act in the event of a failure of any of the principals: James H. Moyle, John C. Cutler, O. F. Whitney, Thomas W. Jennings.

"Yours respectfully,

"JOHN T. CAINE.

"On motion, the report of the committee was adopted, there being but one vote in the negative.

Of the movement the same paper says:

"Let it be borne in mind that when it comes to votes, the most influential of the older citizens and the ecclesiastical leaders are out of the question. It is one for the registered voters to decide. It devolves upon the electors of Utah to determine the question of Statehood so far as it can be locally settled. It is not a church movement. Religion or irreligion is not involved. It is a matter of politics. It affects all classes of the people as citizens. Any attempt to launch the thunderbolts of anti-"Mormon" fury against it is pitiful and ludicrous as well as despicable. They who indulge in that kind of invective exhibit the inherent weakness of their cause and the insincerity of their opposition. It is entirely a political matter and must be met, it at all, on that ground.

"We wish the movement in its present stage success, because we recognize the right of citizens to assemble and plead for their political liberties. And any step of that character should be taken with vigor and enthusiasm. It should also be a united effort of all classes. As to what may be done in the Constitutional Convention we reserve our right to endorse or object. That is a matter undeveloped. Now the people are called upon to meet and choose delegates to represent them. If every class is not represented, that will be no fault of the majority. If conservative men of the parties not connected with the majority do not participate, we think they will show that they are not wise."

One conclusion will be drawn by those outside the territory from the foregoing statement, whether intended by the writer or not, that is, that this movement for statehood is made and intended to be independently of the ecclesiasticism which it is claimed has heretofore directed and dominated the politics of the territory—the admixture of church in the affairs of state—so much decried. And if this is a correct understanding, one that it was intended should be obtained from the statement, it must follow in the minds of all fair-minded readers, that should Utah present to the Congress of the United States a petition asking for admission to the Union of States accompanied by the draft of a Constitution in which polygamy; alias, "plural wifery," and "celestial marriage," shall be forbidden, it is done in good faith with the people of the Union, and intended to be a promise made in candor and fairness that upon the condition that the request for admission is granted, all the future intercourse of the new state of Utah with the sisterhood of states shall be in harmony with the constitution so presented. If this understanding of the movement is a correct one, we most heartily commend it, and shall wish it success. If, however, it is intended to be of that Jesuitical character which has so often marked other political movements made by ecclesiasticisms, and admission to statehood is to be followed by legislative evasion of the provision of the constitution upon which such admission was granted; or by subsequent action by which it is ignored, or reversed, then we most certainly regard the movement with disfavor, and shall be disappointed if it succeeds.

The church in Utah has so long held one face to the public and another to the people of the church itself, that now when the issue is so serious and so sharply defined, the interests pending so important, it seems to us to be imperative that there should be no more subterfuges, no more double dealing, no more Jesuitical practices; but fair honest words should be used and then if compact is made it should be observed according to the obvious import of honest words expressing honest intention. "Honesty" is not only the best "policy," but it is the only policy that can be commended by good men or be successful in God's sight.

We may be told, as we most probably shall be by the News and its co-workers, that it is none of our business. But if the News is so injudicious as to write in that view, we trust that the good genius that watches over the interests of the good, the true, the loyal and the deceived among those who should be in fact, as in name, the people of God, will remind the writer that we as private individuals, as members of the church organized in 1830, as public teachers, and as citizens of one of the States of the sisterhood into which Utah asks to be admitted, and as citizens of the United States, units in the Nation, (with a big N), we are interested in the matter; and so far as any of these relationships may be affected by the admission of Utah as a State into the Union of States it is our business, and we are sure of what we affirm.

The majority, the great majority of Utah's citizens, Young Utah, should now see that the golden hour and opportunity for successful self assertion has come, and there should be such an awakening, that wide open eyes should see that nothing but straight and honest work will do; anything deceitful and dishonest will be political "hari-kari."

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

IN the letter department will be found letters from Brn. I. N. White, E. Curtis, and S. Crum, relating a vicious attack on elders Curtis and Crum at the Keck School house, not far from Clinton, Missouri. We shall be sorry to learn on final examination that professors of religion were in any way connected with it, yet we fear the attack was prompted by sectarian malice. At any rate, it is an exhibition of that kind of civilization which maligned, whipped, robbed, burned, murdered, and drove the Saints located in Missouri, from 1833 to 1838-9, and which sought by stratagem and violence to force the free state people from Kansas in 1854 to 1860. Thank heaven that kind of civilization is dying—though it lingers long.

Sr. Betty Bardsley, living on the Pigeon a few miles south west of Union Grove, Iowa, requests that the elders visit and preach in that vicinity. That was once a fruitful field and it is probable would prove such again if rightly managed. The ministry in charge in that region should look after it when practicable.

Bro. A. H. Wiltzie wrote the 2d inst. from Whittemore, Michigan, and states that the work of the Lord in that region gains steadily, though opposed some. Bro. E. Delong had held a successful discussion in defense of the church, its doctrines, ordinances, organization and spiritual gifts, and had baptized some of late.

Bro. James Burtch reports that he and Bro. E. Delong failed to get a hall in Tawas City, Michigan; but preached in Bro. Brown's house, just out of the city, for a week; baptized one, a young man, Oscar McDonald. Bro. Delong and he separated, Bro. Delong going to Prescott, and Bro. Burtch to Oscoda, where he found Bro. George H. Graves and a small band of Saints. They hired the hall of the Knights of Pythias, and notwithstanding the newspapers warned the people not to go and hear, and warned Bro. Burtch that the sooner he got out of town the better, he occupied the hall Saturday evening and twice on Sunday, the 25th and 26th of June, congregations small. We suppose that Bro. Burtch wrote from Reese, but he failed to note the fact.

Bro. I. N. Roberts wrote from Cook's Point, Texas, June 28th, saying: "We have good crops this year." He was soon going to Elkhart.

We are out of hymn books, but expect to have plenty soon. Send on your orders.

Bro. J. J. Cornish writes us the 1st inst. very encouragingly of the work and its prospects in northern Michigan.

Sr. Maggie Evans writes of late, that six have been baptized in the Crescent, Iowa, branch of late, and that they have a nice Sunday School and good meetings.

Bro. R. Coburn reports an excellent conference at Blenheim, Ontario, June 11th and 12th, and says: "The spirit of love and unity prevailed."

Bro. J. H. Peters requests us to state that his stock of Voice of Warning is exhausted. He had ordered a new supply which are being rapidly pushed forward, and will be on hand before long. Do not order any more until notice is given in HERALD that he has received them.

Under the title of "Village Types," Julian Hawthorne will present, in The American Magazine for August, sketches of the more noted characters that are usually to be found in our small rural communities.

We have received specimen copies of the Daily and Weekly Springfield (Mass.), Republican for June 24th, in which are lengthy presentation of the semi-centennial exercises of Mt. Holyoke Seminary, located at South Hadley. The general make up of the Republican is excellent, and we shall be glad to have it on our exchange list.

We welcome Good Cheer, a monthly paper published at Greenfield, Massachusetts, and devoted to the interests of the home and family. The June number is excellent.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

WE are pleased to have it to say that our Nation's birth-day for 1887 was celebrated in a most appropriate and delightful manner at Lamoni, and that it is the unanimous sentiment of all classes that as a whole it stands unsurpassed. The weather was propitious, the fine promise for good crops inspired the people with cheer and good hope, and early in the day every road leading into town was alive with wagons, carriages, horsemen, and people on foot, intent on having "a good time," exhibiting their hearty patriotism, and their zeal for the Nation's honor and renown. An immense crowd assembled, and all seemed united, orderly and happy. Not a thing transpired to mar the enjoyment of the occasion. Drunkenness and rowdyism, which in the past have so often disturbed and disgraced such occasions was unknown and unheard of. No liquors, neither wine, beer, nor drinks containing either were exhibited, and if anything of the kind was used in the town or near by, it was on the sly.

The exercises at the stand were exceptionally good. Prayer was offered by Rev. Dix. The oration by Hon. J. W. Burrows, of Cainsville, Missouri, was thoroughly suited to the occasion in its subject matter, and was delivered with fine spirit, fluently, and with touching eloquence.

We have not space to give details of all the commendable features of the celebration, and therefore conclude by saying that the citizens of Lamoni and its vicinity, with their numerous visitors, did honor to the occasion and themselves when celebrating the one hundred and eleventh anniversary of our nation's independence.

President Joseph Smith on invitation, delivered the oration on the Fourth at Allendale, Worth county, Missouri, to a large and orderly assemblage in Mr. Calvin Tilton's Grove. Everybody seemed pleased. Rev. White introduced the exercises with an appropriate prayer. In the afternoon speeches were made by Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Wooster. The day there passed off with no drunkenness, profanity or vulgarity. The goddess of Liberty, "Uncle Sam," also an attractive representation of the several states by young ladies appropriately attired, a flag brigade and coming soldiers corps, were presented in a very entertaining manner. All in all the exercises there were pronounced most creditable and enjoyable. This is as it should be. Every American citizen should reverently guard and exalt the Nation's honor, and seek to perpetuate its heaven-born institutions for the enlightenment and benefit of the race for all coming time, proving themselves worthy inheritors of the priceless legacy bequeathed by our patriot sires.

ERRATA.

THE following corrections are to be made in the Bishop's Report, by his order. In the statement of James Kemp, agent for Colorado, please read:

Total amount on hand and received.....	$35 30
Paid out.....	28 90

Balance due church.....	$6 40
-------------------------	--------

Instead of:

Oct. 20th, James Caffall.....	$15 00
Nov. 20th, " ".....	13 00
Miscellaneous.....	9 00

Total.....	$37 00
------------	---------

Leaving a balance due agent, which is incorrect.

In N. Stamm's statement, instead of "from Saints of Lamoni, it should be from the Saints at Lucas, Iowa, $7.

In Bishop Blakeslee's letter in HERALD, instead of "Mayhew," please read Marion.

FROM what appears below, taken from the Chicago Times for July 5th, the Fourth was observed in an excellent spirit at Salt Lake City.

"For the first time in many years there was a harmonious celebration of the Fourth, Mormons and Gentiles, federal officials and Mormon city, county, and territorial officers joining hands together in the procession, acting as if at last we were really united. The procession was an immense affair, representative of the industries of the country and participated in by social and civic societies. The ceremonies were held at Liberty Park, where many thousands assembled, the immense gathering being made up of all classes of the community, rabid anti-Mormons mingling with fanatic Saints. It was a remarkable spectacle, considering the intensity of hate and the bitterness hitherto existing. Governor West, orator of the day, delivered a patriotic address. Speeches were also made by Chief Justice Zane and J. H. Moyle, a young Mormon lawyer. All were enthusiastically cheered.

"The State Constitutional Convention met at nine o'clock, and immediately adjourned to take part in the celebration. The members in carriages formed a prominent feature of the procession. The best of feeling prevails generally, and the almost universal hope is that to-day's harmonious celebration of the nation's anniversary is the beginning of the end of the long and bitter social and political strife in this city.

"Advices from other parts of the Territory say similar celebrations occurred throughout Utah."

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Bro. J. Morris, lately moved from Chicago, Illinois, to Los Angeles, California, wrote from the latter place June 28th, and says:

"We are doing first-class in business. We had a good day last Sunday; Bro. Badham baptized three—mother, daughter and son. I am doing my best for the cause."

Bro. Joseph C. Clapp wrote from Deer Lodge Valley, June 28th, from which we extract:

"I am back again in this county, with plenty of gospel work to do, with good prospects, and with a settled determination to work while I am permitted to tarry."

In letter just received from Elder Thomas Taylor, Birmingham, England, he says:

"I am pleased to say that the work in this mission is still onward, and the prospects for the future are bright and very encouraging."

Bro. M. R. Scott wrote June 28th, from Galena, Indiana:

"The prospects for the spread of gospel truths were never better than now since the work was first introduced into southern Indiana, and there are more calls for preaching than preachers to fill them."

Bro. I. N. Delong wrote us from Maud, Kansas, June 27th, and says:

"We are having fine rains at present; everything planted looks well. We have a fine looking country, and I think it is good. There is a good chance for getting homes here."

Bro. E. C. Brand, writing from Colo, Iowa, July 1st, says:

"No rain; bugs eating all the wheat. My standing address is Dr. E. C. Brand, over 420 West Walnut street, Des Moines, Iowa."

Bro. J. A. McIntosh, in a late letter from Merlin, Ontario, says:

"I am in a new field and have good interest with large attendance, and am enjoying excellent liberty. . . . Baptized two at Pardo's Mills. Had the beautiful waters of Lake Erie to baptize in. My address till next October will be Blenheim, Ontario."

Mother's Home Column.

EDITED BY SISTER "FRANCES."

"Unto him who stands afar,
Nature's marvels greatest are,
Who the mountain purple seeks,
Must not climb the higher peaks."

Dear Sr. Frances:—I have been reading in the Songs of Solomon to-night, and a part of the 2d verse of the 5th chapter speaks of the dew as "the drops of night." And may be I can write something that will be as the drops of night are to the plants of earth, to some soul that is awary with the cares of life, as I oft have been. Heart speaks to heart, and I find most of us have had dark days, and it is to those that are having dark days on account of their own weakness and sin, that I would speak of "the drops of night;"

and perhaps I can speak better in the language of another, although the author's name I can not give. The piece is entitled:

THE DEWS OF NIGHT.

Amid the vault of heaven serene,
When starry orbs are shining bright,
And darkness clouds the earthly scene,
Then fall in dew—"the drops of night."

When sleep the weary world embraces,
And dies away the evening light,
And sweet oblivion sorrow chases,
Then fall in dew—"the drops of night."

And so in far off olden days,
When men lay chained in error's night,
Words that foretold a Savior's praise,
Fell down like dew—"the drops of night."

So, too, 'mid gloom the soul maintains,
With grief and sin unequal fight,
Till 'mid the struggle she obtains
Aid from on high—"the drops of night."

And as the world's refreshing shower
Falls when no radiance cheers the sight,
Tidings of love and grace and power,
Fall 'mid the gloom—"the drops of night."

Selected by sister JANE.

VIOLA, Iowa, May 15th.

Dear Sister Frances:—The greatest desire of my heart is to see this glorious work prosper, and to do all that I can to help it along; for I realize more and more every day that indeed the "harvest is plenteous but the laborers are few." It is a grand and noble cause and one that I hope every sister in this broad and beautiful land will respond to. I for one feel it a duty, as well as a sweet privilege, though my means are limited, yet what I give is given with a free and cheerful heart; well knowing that "the Lord loveth a cheerful giver." This morning my heart is hungering and thirsting for the bread of life which is being spread without stint to the more favored ones. I being one of the isolated ones have not the privilege of sitting under the droppings of the sanctuary and being fed with the pure milk of the word. O, I almost envy you that are so privileged; you that have never been so situated know not how to sympathize with us who are.

We have no branch here, being only four of us, and only have preaching occasionally. Bro. Ruby was here and preached one sermon on February 4th, and Bro. Maitland came and delivered two discourses, March 24th and 25th. We have had no preaching since, but we are looking for Bro. Roth in June. How I love the Home Column! Some of the letters are a great comfort and help to me in many ways. How thankful I feel that there are those that can and will use their influence in trying to crush out that terrible evil, the destruction of human life. When I read Aunt Patience's letter of April 23d, I felt to thank God that his Spirit had moved her to write so plainly and so forcibly; and we, dear sisters, who have not the ability to wield the pen effectually, let us with fervent hearts take it to God in prayer, and if we live faithful and humble before him he will hear and answer our petitions.

Ever desiring the prayers of the Saints that I may live faithful to this glorious work, which I know by God's Spirit to be true; and ever praying for Zion's welfare, I am your sister in the true faith,
MARY C. HART.

We want to suggest to those sisters, who like Sr. Hart are situated where there are but a few of like faith, that they meet together for prayer and the diligent study of the word of God upon the Sabbath day. The great Teacher will surely meet with you and you will be prepared to break the bread of life to other hungering souls. "Where two or three are assembled together in my name," is the promise. Try it, and see if it will not be verified.—Ed.

WE GET ALONG.

The good wife bustled about the house,
Her face still bright with a pleasant smile,
As broken snatches of happy song
Strengthened her hand and heart the while.
The good man sat in the chimney nook;
Some troublesome thoughts compressing his lips,
And all he'd made and all he'd lost,
Ready and clear on his finger tips.

Good wife; I've just been thinking a bit,
Nothing has done very well this year.
Money is bound to be hard to get—
Every thing bound to be very dear.
How the cattle are going to be fed,
How we're to keep the boys at school,
Is a kind of debt and credit sum
I can't make balance by any rule.

She turned her round from the baking bread,
And she faced him with a cheerful laugh.
Why, husband dear, one would surely think
That the good rich wheat were only chaff,
And what if the wheat were only chaff,
As long as we both are well and strong,
I'm not the woman to worry a bit,
Somehow or other, we get along.

Into all lives some rain must fall;
Over all lands the storm must beat;
But when the rain and storms are over,
The after sunshine is twice as sweet.
Though we have found a rugged road,
In every grief we've found a song;
We've had to bear and had to wait,
But somehow or other, we get along.

For thirty years we have loved each other,
Stood by each other whatever befell;
Six boys have called us father and mother,
And all of them live and are doing well;
We owe no man a penny, my dear,
We're both of us living, and well and strong;
Good man, I wish you would smile again,
And think how well we are getting along.

He turned his frown to a pleasant laugh.
He kissed his wife with a tender pride.
He said: I'll do as you tell me, love;
I'll just count up on the other side.
She left him then with his better thought,
And lifted her work with a low, sweet song—
Song that followed me many a year—
Somehow or other, we get along.

Selected by Sr. S. A. KENT.

STEWARTSVILLE, Missouri.

Dear Sr. Frances:—I have been greatly blessed since I came into this church. I have many times been healed when it was thought that I could not recover; but through the mercy of God health was restored, and I do feel to thank and praise his holy name for the light and knowledge I have of this latter day work. I want to spend the remainder of my life in doing all the good I can. I think the Home Column is just what we need, and my prayer shall be that we may profit by it.

From your sister,
ANN SUMMERFIELD.

LIMA, Missouri,

Dear Sr. Frances:—My heart has been made to rejoice while reading the "Mother's Home Column," for it makes me glad to know there are so many noble sisters on the Lord's side. They are all strangers to me in the flesh, but I feel to rejoice and look forward to that day when we shall all see eye to eye and our faces shall be like His. Oh, what a glorious company when Saints and angels join. Dear sisters, if we are faithful, tongue can not tell, neither hath it entered into the heart of man to conceive what God has in store for us. Let us keep our lamps burning, for the Bridegroom is preparing to come. That we may be ready, is my prayer. Dear sisters I have not seen a Saint for over two years, and ask your prayers that I may be kept humble and faithful at the feet of Jesus.

Your sister in the one faith,
MARY WHITE.

WIRT, Indiana.

Sr. Frances:—As I have not seen anything from our little branch for a long time, I feel this morning like helping to fill up your "Column." It has been a great comfort to me when dark clouds have gathered and I have been cast down and many times felt like my trials were greater than others; but when I read of others being scattered where there are no Latter Day Saints near them to speak to concerning their faith, I would feel that I had no need to be discouraged, that I was only looking on the dark side of the picture.

I love this latter day work, and it pains my heart to see Saints reckless and bringing reproach on the work. We can all do some good by our careful every day walk and conversation.

Our branch is small, but we meet every Sabbath when the weather is fit, and I hope we will all be faithful.

I was baptized by Bro. W. H. Kelley, and I look back to that day with a thankful heart, that the gospel was brought to me; and I wish to honor God's cause and ever be found faithful to the end. I hope to see more of our sisters sending in their mites; they are like drops of rain; when all collected together they make a shower. Although it looks like a small thing it will not be so. If given from the heart many a soul will be made to rejoice from the effort.

Your sister,
M. A. FORD.

BRUSH CREEK, Illinois.

Sister Frances:—"Let thy garments be plain and their beauty the work of thine own hands." Though the idea that there is any necessity to dress plain may seem absurd to some, yet how can any Saint read the above statement, and yet conscientiously keep up with all the fashions of the day. There is more than one reason why the Saints should adopt a plain mode of dress. 1st. Because God has commanded it, and we can not believe that he would give a commandment to his children that was not necessary. 2d. Because such things will go hand in hand with vanity, for how seldom do we find a meek and humble spirit in those who have a love for dress. And how often do we see the well dressed seek the company of those of equal standing in life, while they give but slight notice to those who, because of their poverty, are obliged to dress much plainer. 3d. Because we should give all we can to the work of the ministry. O, sisters, just think of it! We can go nicely dressed to our regular meetings—preaching, prayer and fellowship meetings and Sunday Schools, and enjoy so many blessings, that many of us do not appreciate, while so many Saints are scattered here and there, with no preacher except the dear Herald to bring cheer and gladness into their lives, when by a little sacrifice on our part many of the Saints now scattered might hear the word preached. Would it not repay us?

I think too that by adopting a simple mode of dress we will find it much easier to pay tithing—a debt we owe to the Lord and one that should be paid promptly, for by so doing the gospel may be spread much faster, for then many of our ministers could go and preach who can not now leave their families.

Dear sisters, I am young and have not been engaged in this work very long, but my heart is in the work and I desire to do all I can for the advancement of the cause I once despised but now love. Wishing to understand and comply with the whole law of God,

I remain your sister in Christ,
M. E. BURROUGHS.

PARISH, Illinois.

Sisters:—From my observation in the matter, I have long believed that half the untruths told by grown people, come from their training when small. Some parents will whip and scold for almost every thing which happens among their children. This will cause the children to lie in order to avoid being punished. Does not such government (or misgovernment) tend to degrade them in their own estimation? I have seen well governed families that were neither whipped or scolded. The mother would take the children aside when they had done wrong, and explain to them the nature of what they had done, sometimes even with tears, and the child would get a lesson in that way that would last for weeks.

MELVINA BURLISON.

HOME COLUMN MISSIONARY FUND.

Sr. Lizzie M. Saunderson, West Surrey, Me.	35
Sr. A. K. Anderson, Lamoni, Iowa	55
Grandma H., St. Joseph, Mo.	1 00
Sr. Susie E. Coombs, Plainville, Mass.	25
Sr. L. A. Hartwell, Quick, Iowa	1 00
Br N R Nickerson, North Plymouth, Mass.	25

LAMONI, IOWA, July 7th.

Correspondence.

CLINTON, Mo., June 30th.

Bro. Joseph:—Please find enclosed letters from Brn. Crum and Curtis containing an account of the cowardly conduct of a few religious bigots. The affair no doubt will get an advertisement from Dan to Beersheba. We propose to watch our interest in this, as well as in the maintenance of the integrity of our cause in this land where it was once put to shame. I assisted in opening the work at Keck School-house, and am well conversant with the fact that the brethren acted in all righteousness, using more caution than is commonly exercised, by reason of presentiments that the devil was on the alert. The brethren have done a noble work there, baptizing six of the leading citizens of the neighborhood; two of these were among the most prominent of the Baptist Church. We have been assailed by both Campbellites and Baptists, so much so that they have taken us to the papers. Their elders acted so presumptuously, and made such unmanly charges against our cause, that I have submitted questions for debate and propose to have them meet the music where the thinking public can decide as to the merits of their "strong reasoning(?)" They sent me word that they would meet me upon "Joe Smith," but would not upon a Bible question! We gave them to understand that we had a few pounds of "sand" left, and as long as they had made such a fuss over "the Bible, and the Bible alone," that we did not want anything better than that book to prove the divinity of our work. And we asked them to meet us upon the following question, they to so affirm their church as we do ours, or acknowledge their inability to stand by the divinity of their church—if it ever had any.

Question: Resolved, That the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints was organized by the express command of God, in fulfillment of Bible prophecy, and is the only true and veritable church organization on earth at this time; that it is in complete harmony with the Bible in church organization, gifts, blessings and doctrine.

I have never seen a time when there were so many calls for preaching as now. I am flooded with calls, so much so that at times I am forced to make special enquiry of God which ones I shall respond to. I desire to reap the ripened harvest first. All the brethren who have attempted to labor are doing good work. I returned on the 27th from Taberville, where I made a new opening, and one of some note. All acknowledge that they were never blessed more while presenting the word of life.

Your last article—"And Found Wanting"—was a giant. It has removed every fear that the "Address" could work any harm to the great cause we jointly represent. I can see good coming out of it. The weak ones are made stronger. Your last article was the "cap-sheaf" to the whole concern. I can plainly see the "coming to pass" of my vision given in 1880. While I see God on our every side, I have no fear.

When I was at Taberville I was accused of being an emissary from Utah, and with having received a draft of $500 from there, and that I had it cashed a day or two after I met Elder Blacklock in debate at Schell City! I made answer to this lying allegation, and while studying over it with the many things we have to meet by reason of the "flood of iniquity" in the west, I was wrapped in open vision, and saw a wide valley extending from west to east, with a narrow ditch running the whole length of the valley. Presently I saw a dark, murky water commence running down the narrow ditch, filling it, and spreading over the valley, contaminating every thing that it touched. I gazed upon it as it rolled down the valley, commencing first in the west and going towards the east. I said to those around me, "This is polygamy;" and warned the people against its abominable influence. As the dark flood was reaching the eastern shore, the vision in a moment passed from before me. I am glad to note the further fact, that the Reorganized Church stood on the north of the valley and looked upon the influence of polygamy as a thing to be hated. I really rejoiced in spirit that I was in a work that had taken the lead in crushing the effects of that abominable doctrine—polygamy. We are fast coming to the front as the alert enemy of polygamy and all of its kindred doctrines.

So might it be.

I. N. WHITE.

KECK SCHOOL HOUSE, June 24th.

Well, Bro. White, I wish you had been here night before last so you could have got your share of eggs, for we got them from both windows at once. I am satisfied there were nearly a half bushel. It raised a big excitement. The house was full of people. I had good liberty, and had spoken about thirty minutes. Everybody raised up at once when the eggs came, and blocked the aisle, hence no one could get out. It lasted about one minute, then we got the people quieted down and went ahead with the subject. The next morning we found a cocked revolver and one egg lying together. The brethren and friends are hunting for evidence to convict the mob. They broke seven window lights. Some are pretty well satisfied as to who were in the mob. There were about fifteen or twenty, all blacked, mostly Baptists. We have had good liberty all the time. The devil is raging, but we expect to stand to the front, if the Lord will be with us. We have announced meetings for the Union School-house for over next week. Some over there have threatened to tar and feather us. Several of the Saints were over from Eldorado Springs.

Yours,
E. CURTIS.

KECK SCHOOL HOUSE, June 24th.

Dear Bro. White:—I had a dream before I left home that hastened me back here, and it was a good thing that I did get here the night I did, for we got a shower of eggs the same night while Bro. Curtis was preaching. He was nearly through when the eggs began to come in through the windows near the stand. There were between fifteen and twenty blackened men in the mob, supposed to be Baptists. Some are known. As soon as there is sufficient evidence and more known of them, they will be put through. The people are very angry on account of such work. It has made us friends. The good citizens give us credit for our manly conduct in the trying times. The people and Saints were very sorry for us, and some cried to think people would treat us so when we had done nothing worthy of such treatment. I don't know whether this is the end or not. Satan is rolled. I think the victory will be ours if we are faithful. Monday night we preach at the Center School-house. Threats are made. We will go anyway, trusting in God.

Yours in love,
S. CRUM.

GREENVILLE, Pa., July 4th.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—With the exception of a short time spent at home, Bro. R. S. Salyards and I have been striving to sound the gospel trumpet, and the more I preach the gospel in its plenitude the better I love it. The Lord has graciously blessed our labors. We have baptized nine or ten. The work in this district is growing more rapidly than some of the Saints therein are aware. There have been over twenty-five persons baptized since General Conference, and the prospects for a great work being done during the ensuing year were never brighter. The incessant efforts of Bro. E. C. Briggs in the city of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, resulted in much good to the cause, and the Saints there are anxiously awaiting his return. Bro. James Brown is doing a splendid work in the state of West Virginia. Brn. W. H. Garrett and David Strachan have been busily preaching and baptizing in their respective vicinities, so the good work is onward in spite of the constant opposition waged against it everywhere.

I truly admire the able and manly way in which you have shown the fallacy of Whitmerism. I fail to see wherein you have left a stone unturned in your examination of his "Address." How true is the saying "Truth will prevail, who can stay it." May God continue to bless you and your associate with the wisdom and qualifications that are necessary to enable you to guide the old ship of Zion safely to the "haven of rest."

I am greatly pleased with the urgent efforts which Sister Walker is putting forth to have a magazine published for the good of the young people, and am confident that such a noble work will be efficacious for good. I have implicit faith in the sister's ability to edit the same, and from the manner in which she has acquitted herself in the past, I am sure she will make it very interesting.

The Saints of New Philadelphia, Ohio, have concluded to erect a house of worship. They have been compelled through circumstances over which they have had no control, to hold services in their respective houses the past two years. The religious "powers that be" in that particular locality have closed all public buildings against them, hence it was absolutely necessary that the Saints of that place did something in order to carry on the work already begun and to keep the cause prominently before the people. New Philadelphia is the county seat of Tuscarawas county and is a very enterprising town well known throughout Ohio. It must not be thought that because the Saints are shut out from public buildings that they have no friends; on the contrary, they have friends who have aided them liberally with means. The future prospects for the church there are grand, and a goodly number are on the verge of uniting with us. In their behalf I respectfully solicit the aid of all who are able and willing to contribute towards the completion of the edifice in question. Remember in helping those poor Saints you are assisting to build up the kingdom of God, if you can not impart but small amounts send them in to Bro. C. E. Warner, chairman of committee, New Philadelphia, Tuscarawas county, Ohio. I hope that the Spirit that has characterized the ministerial labors of Bro Salyards and myself so far may continue so that we will have good reports to make. Truly the interest is increasing and the Lord is blessing the work of his servants abundantly. Bro. Salyards is making rapid advancement in the ministry and it is obvious to my mind that if he continues faithful and prayerful, he will be a power for good in this mission.

It is to be hoped that the Saints of the Pittsburgh and Kirtland district will ever bear in mind that we have a Bishop's Agent by the name of F. Criley, number 33 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and that we have five or six ministers appointed to labor in this field who are determined by the blessing of God to push on the work, hence it will require considerable means to keep the camp-fire burning. I was made glad and felt to praise our heavenly Father when I read in Herald for July 2d our worthy Bishop's letter, in which he states that the Saints have done nobly this year, financially, and if they continue to put forth their efforts in that direction, the elders will be left without an excuse.

Dear Saints, the system of tithing as taught by the Reorganized Church is not oppressive as some suppose, though obedience thereto on our part may be a trial of our faith, but when we stop to consider that tithing is one of the grand means that God in his infinite wisdom has adopted for the spread of his glorious truth, also that the sick, the orphans, the widows, and the poor are to be cared for by the means thus obtained, it convinces me that the God whom we worship is a wise, kind and loving Being, and that He has amply provided for the wants of all His creatures, While it is cheering and encouraging to know that so many of the Saints are doing their duty in temporal matters, I do hope and pray that those who have been negligent in this regard will try and do their part in the near future; so that the hands of all the ministry may be loosed, and that all the honest in heart throughout the world may be made acquainted with the gospel message and thereby be gathered into the fold of Christ, and thus the great latter day work be soon consummated, that Jesus, the son of the Highest may come quickly, and make his abode with His saints.

Weather is very warm, and we expect to return home as soon as we are through here; we can not labor effectually during the warm season, but shall take the field again about the middle of August and continue until April conference. Brn. W. H. and E. L. Kelley are looking after the interests of the work at Kirtland, at present. Kind regards to you and all the co-laborers in Christ.

Yours hopefully,

G. T. GRIFFITHS.

CANAAN, Ind., June 28th.

Brn. Joseph and William:—The Saints, as a rule, are firm in Southern Indiana, but the work here is standing still. The one great need is laborers. I enjoy great pleasantness of spirit while dispensing the gospel to the people here.

In gospel bonds,

C. SCOTT.

HELENA, IOWA, June 27th.

Editors Herald:—In Herald of June 25th much is said about blue denim overalls and such like, and the brother asks a reconsideration of a few propositions relative to an article in Herald, June 4th on pride. I have considered and reconsidered them, and the more I read the firmer I am that pride does not belong to the people of God. If the brother will read his Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants carefully, he will be compelled to come to the conclusion that this pride is seen in all unnecessary appendages, costly array, costly apparel, the putting on of that which does us no good, and is designed only to attract attention. Why the proud grind the face of the poor is because they pay out money for that which does no good, and money that ought to be paid into the Lord's store-house or given to the poor as the Lord has said.

The brother says coming out of the world is gathering to Zion. But the Book of Mormon says, page 220, par. 8, "Come ye out from the wicked, be ye separate, and touch not their unclean things." What are the "unclean things?" Certainly the pride of the world is one thing, for pride is an abomination in the sight of the Lord, for so says the standard books of the church.

John says: "Love not the world, neither the things of the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all in the world that is of the lusts of the flesh and the lusts of the eyes and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world."—1 John 2: 15, 16, Inspired Translation. Read 1 Timothy 2: 8, 9; 2 Cor. 6: 14-18; Book of Mormon, page 207. There are many scriptural proofs that pride has reference to dress as well as acts. The coat of many colors spoken of is not any proof that we are justified in following the prevailing fashions. If we would follow all the examples of some of the old prophets we would follow some bad ones.

I have failed to find that Christ wore white linen except when he was laid in the tomb. The linen clean and white spoken of in the Bible is the righteousness of Saints. "And to her was granted that she should be arrayed in fine linen, clean and white; for the fine linen is the righteousness of Saints."—Rev. 19:8.

I agree with the brother that we should have good and respectable clothing, neat and clean. But we should not go beyond our means. If overalls is all we need and can afford, and pay our tithing and just dues, that is acceptable to the Lord, whether it is to man or not. We should by all means try to please God. No difference how poorly clad we may be, if we are clean. If the brother will read again the article, June 4th, he will see it is said there that we should have good, durable, respectable clothes. Of course if they are good they are respectable. As for dressing to please man, I prefer to try to please God, and to do his will in all things. We all are frail beings, and are prone to wander from God. The brother said Solomon wanted to outshine all others in splendor. So it is with the world today—and some Saints. Every one wants to outdo his neighbor without even stopping to think of the sin attached to this splendor, fine clothes, buildings, etc., as the case may be.

I will give you a part of a vision a sister had soon after she came in the church. She too was very high spirited and liked to dress as well as anybody. She thought she was in a Saints' meeting, and that a personage like the Son of Man came in, wearing a white robe and having a girdle about his loins. He went around to certain ones to shake hands. This sister saw she was dressed in the finest style, and thought he would come to her sure, because she was dressed so nice. There were two sisters present who were clad very common. He went to the poorly clad, and did not notice her at all. This satisfied her that we should not look down on those that are poorly clad, for they may be the accepted of the Lord after all. This agrees with Christ's teachings, if I understand them.

If we have started to serve the Lord, and as we claim to have the true church or kingdom, and if we believe that Joseph Smith was a prophet of God and brought forth this work that we have engaged in, certainly the record he brought forth and gave to the world is true, and we should live in keeping with it, and with the covenants and commandments also. We should give heed to their teachings, and their teachings are very plain and pointed against pride and covetousness. We find in the book of Mormon that pride is one of the greatest evils spoken of. We should have cheerful countenances, but not be given to much laughter or foolish jesting. Paul exhorted the Saints to put away foolish jesting, and the Doctrine and Covenants says, page 181, "and inasmuch as ye do these things with thanksgiving, with cheerful hearts and countenances, not with much laughter, for this is sin." God's people should be sober, quiet, and set good examples.

before the world. Please read section 119: 2, 3, in the revelation given April 11th, 1887.

I thank the Lord that I have united with this people called the Latter Day Saints. And, God being my helper, I expect to stand by the church and its standard works to try to live up to them; namely, the Bible, (Inspired Translation), Book of Mormon, and Doctrine and Covenants. We should always be found at our post, and always be on "the golden mean."

Yours for truth,

C. E. HAND.

PARIS, Tenn., June 27th.

Bro. Blair:—Bro. W. H. Griffin and myself are still laboring in the interest of the Master, trying to build up the gospel cause in this part of the vineyard. We have been holding services once a month for three months at a new place, near Boydsville, Weekly county, and have found some warm friends. Some are investigating the doctrine. By invitation we go to a new place over on the Kentucky side, the third Sabbath in next month, to hold services with them for a time. We go the first Sabbath in July to a point near Mayfield, Kentucky, to administer the rite of baptism to a man and his wife who previously gave their names, and we learn somewhat through rumor that there are others in the district who desire to obey the gospel. To all such we would say, if they will confer with us by card or letter we will come and administer the rites of the gospel and also impart the word of truth to them. The Voice of Warning we procured from Bro. Peters we think are doing great good in opening up the way for preaching and causing desire to further investigate the doctrine.

Yours,

P. B. SEATON.

SHIOCTON, Wis., June 25th.

Bro. David Dancer:—The Herald is doing good here. We have lent some of them to different ones, and they say they are good reading. So I thought I would send for the back numbers, if you have got them. I think that if some of the elders should come out here, we might build up a branch. My father is very old, and has no learning. He talks to some of the people around here and does what he can. I keep house for him. He is seventy-eight years old. My health is very poor. I was healed once by the administration of elders, and I know I can be again.

MATTIE DORN.

PLUM HOLLOW, Iowa, July 5th.

Bro. W. W. Blair:—We had Bro. Joseph Luff with us from Saturday evening until Monday. We parted with him at Tabor, Monday the 4th, at three p. m., where he made a short address to the people who were gathered to celebrate the anniversary of our National Independence.

He filled the appointment at the Ross School-house on the 3d inst., where a fair congregation assembled in the grove. We think our views as a people were sufficiently set forth during the day on the subject of spiritual gifts and the operation of the Holy Ghost, to leave a lasting impression on the minds of those who had a desire to hear. Rev. W. F. Smith was present, and by permission being granted, occupied a few minutes both in the forenoon and in the afternoon in an attempt at refutation of the position taken by Bro. Luff. But it was soon made apparent that, although we believe him a gentleman of good promise, and of honest conviction, he was unable to meet the forcible arguments brought forth by Bro. Luff in support of the theory that the signs promised by the Savior in Mark 16 should follow the believer in this age.

We were assured that Bro. Luff was aided by the Spirit during his effort in presenting the word on this occasion, and that good will result for the Master's cause.

In the hope that truth will ultimately triumph, I remain yours in gospel bonds.

WM. LEEKA.

EMERSON, Iowa, July 1st.

Bro. Blair: After you left us at our conference, Bro. William Leeka and myself thought we would try and get along with Elder Smith ourselves, as we thought we would rather hold you in reserve for the two days' meeting to be held in this place. The Saints of Farm Creek sent for Elder Joseph Luff to attend their two days' meeting, and I have prevailed on him to go with me to Plum Hollow and review Elder Smith. We have also prevailed on Bro. Luff to be here for our two days' meeting, and shall be extremely happy to have you here as well, if you can possibly attend. Our meeting at Farm Creek was a success indeed. Bro. Luff spoke five times at the school-house to large audiences, who were very attentive; and twice in the Christian Church at Henderson. The people listen to the word with intense interest in all places where we preach.

Since you were here I visited the people below Sidney, in the Richard's settlement. Had good congregations, and promised to return and hold a protracted meeting. The demands for preaching are increasing continually; we are unable to fill one half of the calls, but will do the best we can. It seems to make no difference whether warm or cold, evenings short or long, the people are bound to turn out to hear preaching.

Bro. Luff sends respects. Yours for truth,

HENRY KEMP.

FARWELL, Mich., June 26th.

Bro. Joseph:—I never joined any denomination before I obeyed the gospel. I felt a spirit of bitterness against the churches. Two years after my wife's death I was living alone, and occasionally it would come in my mind that I was not living right; but I thought I could not find a home in any of the churches. On a Saturday night this came suddenly to my mind, Did you ever ask the Lord in prayer? I went to my bedroom, knelt down, and asked the Lord that I might find a home among Christian people. I then lay down upon my bed before retiring to rest, and what seemed more like a vision than a dream passed before me. I thought I went into a small room off the street. There I saw as it were doves all around the room. One was sitting nearly opposite the door. It came to me with a sheet of note paper in its bill, written on both sides, and said, "See if you can receive any light." I then awoke, and found it was about twenty minutes I had been lying on my bed.

On Sunday morning I pondered as to what the meaning of the vision was. I then saw a man I had but a short acquaintance with, and I was invited to go to a prayer meeting. I did not know that there was such a people as the Latter Day Saints in Bay City or anywhere else. I went to the prayer meeting, and it was a meeting of Latter Day Saints. After the meeting, Bro. Cornish brought me the Voice of Warning and two leaflets. He asked me to take them and see if I could receive any light. I went to hear him preach several times, and every time I received greater light, till I was fully convinced of the truth of the gospel. I was baptized and joined the church.

Shortly after, I read the Book of Mormon, and was reading the Life of Joseph, when doubts came into my mind whether he was a prophet of God. It troubled me a good deal, but I was satisfied the gospel was right. Twice I asked the Lord in prayer to make it known to me in some way, and the third night I was laying upon my bed when another vision passed before me. It seemed as if I had not gone to bed, and that the door was standing partly open. I went to the door and looked out. It was very dark. I undertook to shut the door to go to bed, and there came such a pressure against it that I could not shut it. Then the form of a man came in and stood by my side. For a moment or two I felt quite afraid. It seemed my mother was in the house with me, and I called to her three times, but she did not answer. I turned to the person and saw the bodily form of a man, up to his shoulders. Around the bottom of his vest was a fringe of gold. He looked very bright, but I had not power to look up in his face. I then said, "It is God himself." And immediately there was thrown around me a circle of four large balls, about four or five inches apart. They were balls of light, connected together with little chains. Then I awoke.

The next morning all feelings of doubt and prejudice were taken away, and about five days afterwards it came into my mind that the vision signified the four books in connection that I had read, the Book of Mormon, Doctrine and Covenants, Inspired Translation, and Life of Joseph Smith the Seer.

Your brother in the gospel,

CHARLES BURKE.

CHESTER, Illinois, July 3d.

Dear Herald:—You are getting better all the time, and are valiant for the truth. We watch eagerly for your weekly appearance. Our little branch is still trying to hold up the banner of light, and are scattering the Voice of Warning and papers among the people. We hope they will be like "bread upon the waters."

Yours,

J. M. TOUSLEY.

Communications.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

A conference of the above district met at the house of Bro. Dinehart, June 4th and 5th, 1887. John C. Foss was chosen to preside. Branch reports: Monitor Falls 12, Oak Lake 44, Silver Lake 25, Luce 7, Hope of Zion 53, total membership of District 141. Elders reports.—J. C. Foss, G. Gould, B. B. Anderson, T. J. Martin, A. Tabbut, J. R. Anderson, W. Barnhard, F. E. Anderson, C. G. Gould and H. Way. Priests reports.—C. Pierce, R. B. Anderson, W. W. McLeod, F. Oman, B. Mosier, W. W. Anderson, J. Dinehart, T. J. Martin. Deacon F. E. Anderson reported. Bishop's agent's report: On hand last report $12.80, received since $105, total $117.80; paid out $51.70, balance due church $66.10. Preaching in the evening by B. Mosier, assisted by W. Barnhard. June 5th, Preaching in the forenoon by J. C. Foss, assisted by H. Way. Preaching in the afternoon by T. J. Martin, assisted by J. R. Anderson. One baptized during conference by J. C. Foss. Prayer and testimony meeting, in which many good testimonies were given, the Lord confirming the same by his Spirit. Thus one of the best of meetings passed off without a jar. Adjourned to meet December 25th and 26th, 1887, at the Saints' Chapel, Girard, Ottertail Co., Minnesota, at ten o'clock. The following were chosen district officers until our next conference: T. J. Martin was chosen president, F. E. Anderson vice-president, and W. Barnhard secretary.

KENT AND ELGIN.

Conference was held in the Blenheim branch, June 11th and 12th, 1887, at 10:30 a. m., John H. Lake president, and R. Coburn clerk. The forenoon was spent in prayer and testimony meeting. At 1:30 p. m. the minutes of last conference were read and approved. Branch reports.—Lindsley 24, 10 baptized, 1 elder, 1 priest, and 1 deacon. Ridgetown no changes; 1 priest, 1 teacher. Badertown 23, 2 elders, 2 baptized, 2 received by letter. Blenheim 33, 1 elder, 1 priest, 2 teachers, 3 baptized, 1 removed by letter, 3 expelled, 2 died. Tilbury, organized November 3d, 1886, J. H. Lake with 12 members, 6 baptized since organization. Zone 40, 2 elders, 3 priests, 1 baptized, 1 re-instated, 3 removed by letter, 1 died. Petrolia 34, 1 elder, 1 priest, 1 teacher, 1 deacon, 2 ordinations. Chatham 39, 1 elder, 1 priest, 1 teacher, 1 deacon, 18 baptized. Bishop's Agent, R. Coburn, reported, and his report was referred to a committee to audit his books, composed of J. A. McIntosh and J. H. Meriam, who reported balance on hand last report $32.75, received since $209.77, paid out $100.60, balance on hand June 10th, 1887, $141.92. The report was received, adopted, and committee discharged. Elders' reports.—Archibald McKenzie reported by letter from Merlin, had baptized 3, confirmed 1, and assisted in confirming others. Arthur Leverton had preached in Chatham, Petrolia, and other places, baptized 5, and ordained 2. J. H. Lake had labored some in this part since the General Conference. Asa Vickery had confirmed 5. R. Coburn baptized 2 and confirmed 3. J. A. McIntosh had labored some in Blenheim and Chatham. J. H. Meriam had since the General Conference labored some in Chatham and Tilbury, and baptized 1. Bro. James Robb reported. Priests J. H. Tyrrell, John Taylor and Peter M. McBrayne (baptized 1) reported. Resolved, That any representative of the church in this district associating with hotel society, and indulging in the use of intoxicating drinks, swearing, and card playing, it being a reproach to the church, shall invalidate their right to preach, and shall upon being reported to the proper authorities be silenced until they make satisfactory restitution. All the spiritual authorities of the church were sustained in righteousness, including the Bishopric of the church, J. H. Lake as president of the Canada Mission, Arthur Leverton as president of this district, and R. Coburn as secretary and Bishop's Agent. A committee was appointed by the chair to examine the correspondence of Bro. A. Leverton with Rev. D. Pomroy, said committee to ascertain the cost of publishing it in pamphlet form; and that said committee be empowered to have said matter printed, providing this committee spend but twenty-five dollars doing so. Brn. A. Leverton, J. A. McIntosh and J. H. Meriam were appointed said committee. Resolved, That a subscription paper be circulated here, and if there is not enough means thus obtained, that the secretary of the district forward a list to the different branches and instruct them to solicit and send the means obtained by them to Bro. A. Leverton. Resolved, That inasmuch as the name of Sr. Margaret Quintence appears on both Chatham and Lindsley reports, that the Chatham branch give her a letter of removal. At 8 p. m. Bro. G. A. Blakeslee addressed the Saints on the law of tithing, and on their duties in regard to the temporal affairs of the church. Sunday morning 8:30 a. m., prayer and testimony in charge of Bro. J. H. Lake; at 9:30 the sacrament was administered by Brn. Blakeslee and Leverton; at 10:30 preaching by J. H. Meriam; at 2:30 p. m., three were confirmed by Brn. Blakeslee and Leverton, then preaching by J. A. McIntosh. After preaching services conference sustained the missionaries sent here by the General Conference. Brn. McIntosh, Leverton and Meriam were appointed a committee to take into consideration the advisability of restoring to Bro. B. Blackmore his license, and report to the next conference. Preaching at 7 p. m. by Bro. Arthur Leverton. Adjourned to meet in Chatham on the 2d Saturday and Sunday in October.

WYOMING.

Conference convened at Plymouth, Pa., May 28th and 29th, 1887. Bro. Wm. H. Kelley president, and Sr. Maggie Gill clerk. Branch reports: Hyde Park 35, including 4 elders, 3 priests, 1 teacher, 1 deacon, received by vote 11. The Taylorville branch was declared disorganized. Elders David Griffiths, Louis Thomas, J. Baldwin, and J. J. Morgan reported. Bishop's Agent, H. S. Gill's report was read and accepted. I was moved and carried that Bro. W. H. Kelley have the right to appoint a president for the district providing he finds one suitable, and that Sr. Maggie Gill be district clerk. Bro. H. S. Gill was sustained Bishop's agent. Preaching by Bro. Kelley Sunday, at 2 p. m., and at 7 p. m. The authorities of the church were sustained in righteousness, and brethren W. H. Kelley, E. C. Briggs, and G. T. Griffiths missionaries in charge. Adjourned to meet in Hyde Park, Pa., August 27th, 1887.

Miscellaneous.

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

A conference of the South Nebraska district, also a Camp meeting, will be held at McCaig's Grove, Cass county, Nebraska, commencing July 21st. All are cordially invited, especially elders from North Platte and Iowa. One of the First Presidency may be in attendance.

LEVI ANTHONY, Dist. Pres.

West Tennessee and Kentucky conference will convene at the Saints' Chapel, near Farmington, Graves county, Kentucky, on the 6th and 7th days of August. The Saints will please take notice and be in attendance, that we may have a time of rejoicing.

P. B. SEATON, Dist. Pres.

Central Missouri conference will convene at the Neet's School-house, near Wakenda station, Carroll county, Missouri, July 30th, at ten o'clock. The elders are expected to report in person.

DAVID FRAMPTON, Dist. Pres.

MARRIED.

BRIGG—ARMSTRONG.—On the evening of June 30th, 1887, a large number of friends met at the residence of Bro. Joshua Armstrong, one mile west of Nebraska City, Nebraska, to witness the marriage of his daughter Alice to Bro. E. Briggs, Elder J. W. Waldsmith officiating. The occasion was one long to be remembered, being a delightful social affair, and marking, as it did, the union of two such estimable young people. A large collection of valuable presents were presented to the contracting parties. May they live long on the earth to enjoy a life of peace, prosperity, and happiness.

DIED.

CONKLIN.—At Armstrong, Kansas, June 16th, 1887, Abert E., son of Neri and Rosetta Conklin, aged 1 year, 3 months and 16 days. Funeral services conducted by Elder George Hicklin, and sermon by Elder E. Harrington, from Job, chapter seven.

"Now he's gone, we'd not recall him,
From a Paradise of bliss,
Where no evil can befall him,
To a changing world like this."

LEE.—Of blood clot in the heart, Perry C. Lee, June the 1st, 1887, aged 68 years, 5 months and 4 days. Bro. Lee was born in Shelby, Jefferson county, Indiana, December 25th, 1818. He was a member of the close communion Baptist Church for a number of years; but after an investigation of the restored gospel was baptized into the church by Elder C. Scott, April 16th, 1877. He died in the faith, on the farm adjoining the one he was born on. He rests in hope.

Funeral sermon by C. Scott, June 26th, in the presence of a large audience of Saints and friends, from the words found in Job 14: 10-16; and 19: 23-27.

TAYLOR.—At Bothwell, Ontario, February 7th, 1887, Myrtle Elizabeth Melissa, infant daughter of Bro. William and Sr. Mary Taylor, aged one year, one month and ten days.

Darling Myrtle, we hope to meet thee,
When this faltering race is run;
And with joy we long to greet thee,
And be numbered with that throng:
For 'tis written in the volume
Of God's holy, blessed word,
That our darling little children
Are of the kingdom of the Lord.

FOWLER.—At the residence of her son Thomas Fowler, Doland, Dakota, March 26th, 1887, sister Elizabeth Fowler, in her 76th year. She was born in the town of Mellor, county of Derbyshire, England, May 10th, 1811; was baptized at Tintwistle, Derbyshire, by Elder Henry Shaw, in October, 1841; moved to this country in 1846, and was received into fellowship with the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, July 20th, 1884, at the Henderson Grove branch, Illinois, and moved from Galesburg, Illinois, about one year ago. Her faith in the latter day work was unswerving, and it is the consolation of the writer, that if faithful to his trust, he will meet her in the first resurrection, if not before in the paradise of God.

Her nephew, E. STAFFORD.

POPULAR PREACHER'S VACATION SHAMS.

OF course you will not understand me as believing that vacation is in itself a sham, or as thinking that a man should not take a holiday whenever he can consistently do so. I only mean that some of the developments and suggestions of the subject are strongly flavored with humbug.

I heard a lady talking the other day about the withdrawal of her pastor from his pulpit for recreative purposes. What she said impressed me, because I thought it presented the whole subject of growing ministerial infirmity and the recurring necessity for periods of rest.

"Yes," said she, "he is going away for three or four months. To be sure, there are business men who will remain in town almost the whole of the summer and work hard to help to pay his salary along with their other expenses. But then, of course, you know they are not expected to 'break down.' They haven't time for that. There are in our church men now growing old who never had more than two weeks' vacation in all their lives. When I was young many people thought themselves very fortunate to get even that. What is there in the constitution of a preacher that makes it necessary for him to suspend his occupation for the good part of the year?"

I did not answer her because, among other reasons, I thought she had already answered herself to her own satisfaction.

No doubt you have heard of the clergyman—perhaps this is a chestnut, though it is not the less apt on that account—who had succumbed to periodical prostration and gone to the Adirondacks. His congregation had not only given him leave of absence and hired somebody to do his work, but had also furnished him with a sum of money for expenses. I believe that is considered good form in such cases. One day after his arrival at the north woods the Rev. Mr. — was politely requested to ask a blessing at the table.

"Excuse me," was the reply. "I promised my people that I would perform no labor while away."

The tender ecclesiastical plant was only an extreme type of a well ascertained class. The engines of a war vessel built by private contract for the debilitated navy of the United States do not get out of order with more punctuality, nor the ship more regularly go into the dry dock, than does the gifted and greatly beloved divine feel himself "generally run down" and find it necessary to lie up for repairs.

Lying up for repairs usually consists in going off somewhere and having a good time. He must lie up at least two months of the twelve, and every few years he is compelled to double the recess in order to thoroughly have a time adequately good. The period consumed in putting in a new intellectual boiler and patching up the physical seams and leakages, so that he may come back to "go in and out" and to "teach" with more "acceptance" than ever, has been gradually expanding for years.

I believe several of the highest priced preachers of New York pass several months of every year on the other side of the Atlantic.

It is conclusive evidence on the subject that in the earlier time minister's vacations were unheard of. Will anybody venture to assert that their labors were less severe than those of their successors? The hard headed old preachers used to deliver three discourses on a Sunday, every one of them twice or thrice as long as the thirty or forty minutes' essay which is now customary. There was, in addition to this, church work for them which would stagger a contemporaneous parson who "loafs and invites his soul" on the sands or among the hills. Many of them, too, were glad to teach or turn their hands to anything which promised to eke out a slender living.

In fact, they were too busy to "break down" or to yield to "nervous prostration" or to entertain "a bronchial affection"—or to take a vacation. To say that the easy going pulpiteer of to-day is harder worked and really requires more frequent rest and repairs is, of course, absurd on the face of things.

Now and then a clergyman takes honest ground on the matter. He frankly says: "I am quite able to preach still—all summer if necessary. But my parishioners for the most part go out of town during the hot weather. Why should I stay when they are away? Is it worth while for me to get up every Sunday and address 'a beggarly account of empty' pews, even if my church is not closed, as my trustees always order it to be?"

This position is at least intelligible, although it invites some queer reflections. I don't object to this hypothetical divine's taking a vacation. I don't object to anybody's taking one whenever he can reasonably get a chance. Only let us treat the matter sincerely and without indulging in cant.

It is only fair to say that the rest and recreation humbug is not peculiar to the popular preacher and his admirers. Times have changed elsewhere than in the pulpit.

A vast deal of nonsense is printed and spoken about cutting down the period of toil, about eight hour laws and about an increased number of legal holidays. There is nothing to show that men and women were any worse off, intellectually, physically and morally, half a century ago, when they thought far less of these things.—Brooklyn Eagle.

For Sale.

Store Property, Store Building, Warehouse, Dwelling, Barn, and about one acre land. General Merchandise Business. Good location and best Store property in town. Write for particulars. GEO. DAMON, Administrator, etc. Kirtland, Lake co., Ohio. 16jul3t

THE GOLDEN SIDE.

"There is many a rose in the path of life,
If we would but stop to take it;
And many a tone from the better land,
If the querulous heart would make it.
To the sunny soul that is full of hope,
And whose beautiful trust ne'er faileth,
The grass is green and the flowers bright,
Though the wirtter storm prevaileth.
Better to hope, though clouds hang low,
And to keep the eyes still lifted,
For the sweet, blue sky will soon peep through,
When the ominous clouds are rifted.
There never is night, without a day,
Nor an evening, without a morning,
And the darkest hour (so the proverb goes)
Is the hour before the dawning.
There is many a gem in the path of life,
Which we pass, in our idle pleasure,
That is richer, by far, than the jeweled crown,
Or the miser's gilded treasure.
It may be the love of a little child,
Or a mother's prayer to heaven,
Or only a beggar's grateful thanks,
For a cup of water given.
'Tis better to weave in the web of life
A bright and golden filling,
And to do God's work with a ready heart,
And hands that are prompt and willing,
Than to snap the delicate, minute threads
Of our curious lives asunder,
And then blame heaven for the tangled ends,
And sit, and grieve, and wonder."

Selected.

AUTUMN LEAVES.

THE MAGAZINE

Which we propose starting for the homes of Zion will be a royal octavo of 64 pages. It will be issued from the Herald Office, Lamoni, Iowa, monthly, and will contain departments adapted to every want of the family. The choicest scraps of Literature, History, Biography, Poetry; and well selected current events, together with the latest and most reliable events connected with Palestine and the Jews will be among its contents. Everything of a character tending to elevate—to make better men and women of those who are now boys and girls, in the home circle—will be introduced and fostered; while everything of a character contrary to this will be strictly excluded.

THOSE WHO ARE WILLING TO AID

In this enterprise will please send in their names at as early a day as convenient; and when the list shall amount to fifteen hundred we will complete arrangements for its early issue, and promise to furnish yearly nearly 800 pages of choice reading matter, for the moderate sum of $1.25.

WE ASK THE TRAVELING MINISTRY,

And friends of the latter day work generally, to solicit names for us. (Do not accept or remit any money until notified so to do.) We will notify the Herald readers from time to time of the increase in subscription list. We now have quite a number of names, but have as yet made no special effort.

Terms (strictly cash in advance) $1.25 per year. M. WALKER.

TO HOPE SUBSCRIBERS.

On and after January 1st, 1887, the Hope will be sent to subscribers as follows:
Single copies, per year..... 50c.
Over 4 copies and under 10, to one address, each..... 40c.
Ten copies and over, to one address, each... 35c.
Subscriptions to be paid in advance unless otherwise arranged for by subscribers.

Welsh Hymn Book.

We have on hand about 100 copies of a book, entitled "Llyfr Hymnau at Wasanaeth Eglwys Iesu Grist, Ad-Reddiddig Saint y Dydd Diweddaf." There are 393 hymns in Welsh and 33 in English. It is published by the church in Wales, and sent here for sale. Sixty cents each, free of postage; bound in full leather, marbled edges.

Money Orders.

Money Orders are much safer than Postal Notes when remitting to this office, and they cost but two cents more. Don't forget this, lest you lose money. D. DANCER, Manager

ZION'S HOPE

Is published every Saturday by the Church of Christ, at Lamoni, Iowa. Single copies, per year, 50c; packages of four to ten 40c; packages of over ten 35c.

WORK FOR ALL. Brothers and Sisters, you can make good wages selling our new SPECIALTIES JUST OUT. Samples and term free to agents. B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Illinois. 2nd mart

Lamoni and Vicinity.

Those wishing to become acquainted with Lamoni and vicinity, will do well to subscribe for

THE LAMONI GAZETTE

A weekly paper, now published by

LAMBERT & HANSEN.

dec11tf

J. H. HANSEN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Will practice in Lamoni and vicinity; calls made at all hours. Office in Drug Store of Hansen & Walker, Lamoni
MIDWIFERY and DISEASES of WOMEN a Specialty
Residence one block East Teal's Store. 14feb1y

"A BOOK FOR THE PEOPLE."

CAPTIVATING! USEFUL! Eloquent Discussions, and Diplomatic Papers on the Great Public Questions of the Past and Present, by JAMES G. BLAINE.

Embracing his masterly arguments on the vital issues in the Anti-Slavery Struggle, the All Important Labor Question, Prohibition, Irish Home-Rule, etc., etc. A FORTUNE FOR BOOK CANVASSERS! APPLICATIONS FOR TERRITORY COMING IN WITH A RUSH! THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING CO., Norwich, Ct.

WHEN YOU TRAVEL

Take the Line selected by the United States Government to carry the Fast Mail,—the

As it is the Line running Through Trains to add from the following cities and towns on its own Lines:

- CHICAGO,
- AURORA, OTTAWA,
- STREATOR, ROCKFORD, DUBUQUE,
- LA CROSSE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS,
- MENDOTA, PEORIA, GALESBURG, ST. LOUIS,
- QUINCY, KEOKUK, BURLINGTON, WASHINGTON,
- OSKALOOSA, DES MOINES, CHARITON,
- CRESTON, ST. JOSEPH, ATCHISON,
- KANSAS CITY, NEBRASKA CITY,
- OMAHA, COUNCIL BLUFFS,
- LINCOLN & DENVER,

Making Direct Connections

TO AND FROM

- NEW YORK,
- BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON,
- CINCINNATI, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON,
- NEW ORLEANS, LOUISVILLE, SAN FRANCISCO,
- LOS ANGELES, SALT LAKE CITY, COLORADO AND
- PACIFIC COAST RESORTS, CITY OF MEXICO,
- PORTLAND, OREGON, MANITOBA,
- VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND POINTS.

Good Equipment, Good Service, Good Connection.

For information concerning the Burlington Route, apply to the nearest Ticket Agent of the C., B. & Q. or connecting railroads.

HENRY B. STONE, PAUL MORTON,
General Manager, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Train Leaves Lamoni, Going East at 1:45 p.m.
Do. do. West 2:53 "

At Bethany Junction, 3 miles east of Lamoni
Trains pass going South at 3:07 a.m. Going East and West, pass at 12:10 a.m.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEARKEN TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAVE IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.
"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 34.—Whole No. 740.

Lamoni, Iowa, July 23, 1887.

No. 30.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,

Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

Business letters and subscriptions must be sent to David Dancer, by P.O. Order, Registered letter or express Entered as second class matter at Lamoni Post Office.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - - - EDITOR.
W. W. BLAIR - - - - - ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, July 23, 1887.

FORBIDDING POLYGAMY.

As was confidently expected the Constitutional Convention has met the problem of polygamy squarely, and if it shall adopt the provision which has been formulated in committee and been accepted in caucus, will deal with the matter as sternly and effectively as the anti-polygamists could desire. The proposed clause in the Constitution considers bigamy and polygamy incompatible with a republican form of government, forbids their practice and declares them to be misdemeanors. Severe penalties are prescribed, the clause is made operative without legislation, and the prosecution of offenders shall not be barred within three years from the commission of the offense. The provision was evidently drawn with the honest purpose to suppress the practice, for in addition to the penalties provided, the power to pardon is denied except upon the approval of the President of the United States, and the clause is made perpetual in every particular, changes, amendments and revisions being impossible unless the Congress of the United States shall approve and ratify the same and the President shall proclaim the approval and ratification.

In proposing the provision the Convention has recognized a fact with which everybody is familiar—that fact being that laws are in the books for punishing polygamists and suppressing polygamy. Those laws having been passed upon by the highest judicial tribunal in the land, and declared to be in harmony with the national Constitution, the Convention, by its present action, expresses its desire to bring the Utah community into accord with the sentiment and laws of the republic as to this matter of plural marriage. Whatever may be said of the clause, it must be conceded that its insertion in the Constitution is an evidence of political wisdom on the part of the delegates and we believe it will be so regarded and accepted by the voters of the Territory. Without some such provision any effort for Statehood would be worse than futile.

It will be alleged by the enemies to Utah that this is a weakening and surrender by the Mormon Church; that it is going back on one of its doctrines and a yielding of a part of its religion to the popular clamor from the outside. This charge has already been made, but it is groundless, as are so many of the accusations against the saints. If we understand this matter correctly, the Mormon Church as a religious organization has nothing whatever to do with the Convention or what the latter shall do. The Statehood is a political movement, and politics, not religion, is the moving influence. There is an absolute and unmistakable separation of church and State in this business, and politics is the ruling inspiration and power, as the State dominates the church in American commonwealths everywhere.

If the Convention shall adopt the proposed clause it will remain to be seen if the citizens generally will approve and ratify their action; we believe a majority of them will, and give their hearty support to a Constitution which recognizes existing facts and condition.—Salt Lake Herald.

But suppose Utah attains statehood under the above constitution, and that the large majority of her people remain members of the Utah Mormon Church, that church holding, as we are left to believe, polygamy to be a divine institution commanded of God, and teaching her members to "live their religion" and "keep their covenants;" and suppose that such majority elects the officers from the governor and judges down and consequently has entire control of the government machinery, from the highest to the lowest officer, what likelihood would there be that members of that majority living up to their privileges and duties as faithful Mormons—teaching and practicing polygamy—would ever be punished or even arrested? All past history proves that an unpopular law is seldom if ever enforced by those who disfavor it. May we then expect the Utah Mormons to enforce an unpopular human law against those who are living what these same Mormons believe to be a divine law? What is needed is to "first make clean the inside of the platter."

THE following is what the Republican of St. Louis, Missouri, a leading Democratic paper, in its issue of July 10th has to say of Utah statehood. It has no confidence in either the honesty or wisdom of those who have that matter in hand. And familiar as that journal is with the base deceit of Brigham Young and his fellows in the enlistment of the Mormon Battalion, Brigham claiming it was done by the Mormons to appease the wrath and allay the vengeance of the nation, who they said was seeking to destroy them, but which history shows was done on the part of the nation as generous relief to the suffering Mormons; familiar also with the threatenings and resistance offered to the authorities of the nation by Brigham and others of the leaders from 1856 and onward, and familiar with the evasions of the law, the seditious sermons, and the general inharmony existing between the Utah Mormons and the national government up to the present time; familiar with all these and similar evils, it is not surprising that such leading journals resist Utah's proposed statehood. Utah will have a hard road to travel getting into the Union of States until she can put forward as leading men those whom the nation can trust by reason of worthy antecedents, and until she cuts loose forever from those who have misled and made her odious and untrustworthy in the estimation of the people. Until these conditions are secured, Utah has no chance of securing statehood, however perfect her proposed constitution may be.

Brigham Young's crafty, illegal, corrupt leadership is bearing its bitter fruit, and the people whom he deceived and oppressed suffer sorely from it. Will the masses in Utah "learn obedience by what they suffer"? We shall see.

One thing is certain, if that people would turn and keep faithfully the instructions found in the three sacred books of the church endorsed up to 1844, their troubles would vanish at once. But so long as they follow men who lead them contrary to those books their troubles will continue, for it is said, "they shall remain under this condemnation until they repent and remember the new covenant, even the Book of Mormon and the former commandments which I have given them, not only to say, but to do according to that which I have written."—Revelation, September 22 and 23d, Doc. and Cov., 83: 8. There is their remedy, and their only remedy for the evil they bewail.

MUST STAY OUT.

WITHOUT a shadow of evidence and in spite of evidence to the contrary certain Republican newspapers are claiming that the action of the Mormon constitutional convention was instigated by Democratic leaders as a part of a plan for the admission of the state into the Union. To see the absurdity of such assertions, it is only necessary to remember that the convention proposes to surrender local self-government in the matter of bigamy and polygamy to the federal government. Its constitutional changes are to be made subject to the action of the federal congress; the pardoning power of its own executive is surrendered to the federal executive. It makes clauses in its constitution unalterable statutes, penal in their character, operating without legislation, and in other ways shows a spirit of servility as un-American and un-Democratic as possible. Democrats are bound by their party principles and party record from the beginning to vote against the admission of Utah on such a constitution. Admission under it would not make Utah a state, but a federal province, and it would be a measure of centralization even more odious than any that was taken by the Republican party during the reconstruction period. In making the proposition the Mormons show that they are not fit to be trusted with the conduct of a state of the American Union. They offer to surrender the rights without which the scheme of federal government would change from a Democratic union to a centralized empire. It is Mormonism, not Americanism, which dictated the offer, and it is Mormonism in a form more despicable than ever. Until this spirit vanishes, until they can apply for statehood as free Americans, fully in harmony with American institutions and resolved to maintain them, their admission should not be thought of. As long as they hold to their idea of government by a hierarchy, openly or secretly, their admission would be a national danger. The federal constitution pledges the federal government to maintain a Republican government in the states: If Utah were admitted as a state, the Mormons in their present frame of mind would subordinate the state to their church and invite federal interference. The Democratic party will not lend itself to anything that makes the reconstruction of a state probable or even possible. Utah must stay out.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Ques.—Were the Twelve, whom Jesus chose, (Luke 6: 13), really and in fact apostles before the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ? And if so, how is it that some say that no one could or can be an apostle of Jesus Christ except he personally knew Jesus and witnessed his suffering, death, and resurrection?

Ans.—1. Yes; they were apostles just so soon as Jesus chose them and named them such. The word signifies "messengers sent;" and as applied to the Twelve signified those selected and sent of Jesus as His authorized teachers and ambassadors to act in His name and stead, and to be His special witnesses of the gospel of salvation and of His kingdom.

2. No one can be an apostle of Jesus except he is specially called and sent of Him; and unless he has knowledge of Him and His doctrine he can not fulfill that calling. The more the apostles knew of and served Him in all respects, the better they were qualified to fill, worthily, the calling of apostles. Therefore, when the "Twelve" knew of the sufferings, death, resurrection, and ascension of Christ, and had received "the promise of the Father," on the day of Pentecost, they were better qualified to act as "apostles;" but they were nevertheless Christ's apostles from the time He called and sent them. Matt. 10: 2; Mark 6: 30; Luke 6: 13; 9: 10. Their experiences in the service of Christ increased their fitness and qualifications as apostles, but did not necessarily give nor increase their official calling and authority.

Paul and Barnabas were apostles; (Acts 14: 14); so were Silvanus and Timothy; (1 Thess. 1: 1, with 2: 6); so were Andronicus and Junia; (Rom. 16: 7); and it is not probable that any of these, personally "knew" Christ except as He in some manner revealed Himself to them. The highest and most perfect knowledge man ever had or can have of Christ, is that given by and through the revelation of the Holy Ghost. See 1 Cor. 12: 3; Matt. 11: 27; 16: 17; Acts 5: 32; Heb. 10: 15; 1 John 5: 7; John 14: 26; 1 Pet. 1: 11; John 7: 16, 17; 1 Cor. 2: 7-16, etc., etc. It therefore follows, that they who wilfully, persistently sin against the Holy Ghost are inexcusable and without pardon: Matt. 12: 31, 32; Heb. 6: 4-6; Doc. Cov. 76: 4. Read and ponder well.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Bro. N. N. Cooke of St. Louis, Mo., wrote July 11th:

"Bro. J. W. Gillen is here laboring for the Master. Our late conference was a time of peace, a good spirit prevailing; and like at the General Conference no yeas and nays were called for; on the improve I think. Hope to continue. We have purchased a lot upon which to build church house."

Bro. Robert Oehring wrote from Newark, Marshall county, Dakota, July 4th, from which we extract:

"Two weeks ago I opened a new place for preaching. I will go there again in two weeks; it is about fifteen miles from here. We have meeting every two weeks in the branch; some are investigating."

Bro. J. J. Cornish wrote from Bay City, Michigan, July 11th saying:

"Four more were baptized here yesterday; a few others are believing. One was baptized on the 8th in Farwell. I preached there on the 7th. I start for Bay Port in the morning."

His card of the 12th inst., from Bay Port says:

"One more was baptized yesterday, and one today, in Bay City.

And on the 13th he says:

"There were three more baptized here (Bay Port) to-day."

Bro. John Hawley, writing from Dow City, Crawford county, Iowa, July 12th, says:

"The chinch bugs are doing their work of destruction; pretty much all the wheat and barley has been eaten by them in our county."

The "country that never fails" catches it this time it appears.

Bro. Hawley says in relation to the Camp Meeting at Glidden, "All our meetings were attended by the Spirit of the Lord." That is a good report.

The following from Bro. Joseph F. Burton, Queen's Ferry, Victoria, June 11th is suggestive of good:

"I baptized a man and his wife yesterday—excellent people. The work is accumulating so fast that I need help very much,—many sheaves are ungathered. I am anxiously waiting for Bro. T. W. Smith, he is much needed here."

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

THE city of Atchison, Kansas, lately closed her saloons, shutting of a revenue of $13,000 annually. To offset this, the receipts of the Police Court, have fallen from $9,000 to $4,000, which is directly traced to the closing of the saloons. Any one can easily see that while the city may have gained some revenue by her saloons, her police regulations involved the expenditure of nearly as much; for the patrons of the saloons paid into court $5,000 of the amount in fines and costs; saying nothing of resultant expenses in extra police service and the general devilment of the drink.

The report adds: "The police force has been reduced, but it is a fact that since the saloons were closed the city has been remarkably quiet and orderly."

Bro. Francis Earl, of Hegewisch, Illinois, sent us a late copy of the Hegewisch Journal, in which he had secured a half column article in explanation and defence of the work done in quite an able manner. Bro. Earl also sent us a copy of Carl Pretzel's paper, containing a rehash of the Rev. Smith—Spaulding nonsense; the same that appeared shortly after the Kirtland Conference, in which the grandson of his grand-father had no doubt &c,—very convincing.

Sr. N. V. Pearson wishes some of the elders to visit them when convenient. Herself, daughter, and son-in-law, Abner Vandyke, reside ten miles south of Gonzalez City, on Finch Creek, Texas. Their post office is Haman, Gonzalez Co., Texas.

Mr. N. A. Boyd writes from Hill City, Kansas, subscribes for the HERALD, says he is deeply interested in the doctrine of the Saints, and desires to unite with them the first proper opportunity. The ministry in that region will please take notice and look after the matter at an early time. He says others to whom he has loaned it, are pleased with the HERALD. He resides one mile west and near three miles north of Hill City.

Bro. C. Scott, we hear, is having large congregations of deeply interested hearers in Southern Indiana. We are pleased to learn from his friends here that his health is excellent again.

Bro. A. J. Blakesley of Afton, Iowa, is anxious Bro. H. A. Stebbins shall come there and labor, and offers to aid in that work what he can.

Bro. G. W. Carter, living near Richmond, Mo., is anxious and hoping that Brn. W. T. Bozarth and J. T. Kinnamon will soon visit that region and preach the word of life. They are expected about the 16th of July.

Bro. Thomas E. Jenkins, wrote us from Dowlais, Wales, June 21st, stating that he had translated the revelation of April 11th into the Welsh, of which he sent a copy, stating that it would be a favor to many of the Welsh Saints if we would print it in the HERALD; this we do in compliance with the request, with thanks to Bro. Jenkins for his kindness and suggestion.

Bro. I. A. Wedlock wrote from Rolfe, Iowa, July 2d. He had preached in school houses in that region, and met with fair success. Many seem desirous of investigating the doctrine of the Saints.

The associate editor went to St. Joseph, Missouri, July the 9th, preached there twice on the 10th, and returned Monday, the 11th. He reports meeting fair congregations, notwithstanding the extreme hot weather.

Bro. David Chambers reports an excellent time had at the Camp Creek meetings held in Salisbury's grove, ten miles north of Glidden, Iowa.

Every mail brings us good tidings in respect to the spread of the Lord's work and the manner in which he confirms and comforts the hearts of his people.

The Herald, Fairfield, Nebraska, vol. 6, No 32, a clean cut Temperance journal lies upon our table, having the name of our Bro. John E. Hopper, as editor, C. A. Lewis associate editor. We give brother Hopper our hand—and our heart in his temperance work.

Sr. Elizabeth Jackson wishes us to explain Revelations, chapter 13. To do this would require more time and space than we can spare at this time, for it would involve a careful analysis of a great deal of history, ecclesiastical and profane.

Bro. Geo. M. Jamison writes from Ford, Iowa, that a grove meeting will be held at Swan, in that district, July 30th and 31st, and that on Sunday a basket dinner will be served. Brn. Brand and Nirk will be in charge of the meeting. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Bro. C. W. Phillips of Bockton, Mass., assures us that himself and wife have great joy in having united with the church, (April, 1886), for the Lord has given them great peace and comfort and inspired them with joyful hopes for this life and the world to come.

Bro. John Scott, the Herald Office foreman, laid on our table, July 15th, stalks of millet nearly four feet long, bearing heads of near six inches in length. He has about eight acres of it, and hopes to get therefrom about forty tons of feed. The corn crop all through this region is very promising, but rain is now beginning to be much needed for pastures and gardens, and corn will suffer if rains do not come soon. We hope for the best.

THE following will give the HERALD readers an idea of where and why men derive their right to pensions from the United States Government.

WHERE PENSIONS COME IN.

A LIST OF WARS AND FIGHTS PURSUED BY THE UNITED STATES.

E. W. Ayers in Kansas City Times.

Besides the better known war of the revolution there is that with France in 1798; that of 1812 with Great Britain, and the Mexican war of 1846. Here are records of the Wyoming Valley war, 1782-87; Shay's rebellion, 1786; the whiskey insurrection, Pennsylvania, 1794; Northwestern Indian war, 1790-95; Tripoli, African coast, 1801-5; Burr's insurrection, 1806; Chesapeake war (naval, British), 1807; Northwestern Indian war, Indiana, 1811; the President ship engagement with the British sloop Little Belt, 1811; Florida Seminole war, 1812; Peoria Indian, 1813; Creek Indian, 1813-14; Lafitte's pirates, 1814; with Barbary, north coast of Africa, 1815; Seminole Indian, 1817-18; and Lafitte's pirates again, 1821.

Then came the Rickaree, Indian, 1823; Fevre River, Indian, 1827; Winnebago, Indian, 1827; Sac and Fox, Indian, 1831; Black Hawk, Indian, 1832; Toledo war, boundary line between Ohio and Michigan, 1833; Texas wars, previous to annexation, 1835-6; Indian Stream war, boundary line between New Hampshire and Canada, 1835-6; Creek, Indian, 1836-7; Florida, Seminole, 1835-42; Sabine, Indian, 1836-7; Cherokee, Indian, 1836-8; Osage, Indian, 1837; "Patriot war" rebellion in Canada against the mother Government, and troops called out to prevent invasion of the United States territory, 1838-9; the Heatherly disturbance," Indian, 1836; Mormon war, Missouri, 1836; Aroostook war, Maine, territory line trouble, United States and Canada, 1839; Dorr's rebellion, Rhode Island, 1842; Mormon war, Illinois, 1844; Cayuse, Indian, Oregon, 1847-8; Cuban troubles, preventing expeditions, 1849-51; Texas and New Mexico, Indian, 1849-55; California, Indian, 1851-2; Utah, Indian, 1850-3; Rogue River, Indian, 1851, 1853 and 1856; the Japan naval expedition. 1853-4; China, naval engagement, 1854; Oregon, Indian, 1854; Nicaragua troubles, suppressing Walker's and other expeditions, 1854-8; Kansas troubles, 1854-9, Cuban troubles, 1849-51, 1854, 1867 and 1878; Yakma, Indian, 1855; Klamath and Salmon River, Indian, 1855; Florida, Indian, 1855-8; John Brown's Virginia raid, October, 1859; Sioux, Indian, 1862-3; Cheyenne, Indian, 1861-4; Oregon, Idaho and California, Indian, 1865-8; Fenian invasion of Canada, May and June, 1866; Indian Territory and Kansas, Indian, 1867-9; Modoc, Indian, 1872-3; Apache, Arizona, Indian, 1873; Arkansas rebellion (state government), 1874; Indian troubles in Kansas, Colorado, Texas, Indian Territory and New Mexico, 1874-5; Louisiana rebellion (State government), 1874; Cheyenne and Sioux, Indian, 1876-7; Pennsylvania and Maryland railroad strike, 1877; Nez Perce, Indian, 1877; Bannock, Indian, 1878; Cheyenne, Indian, 1878-9, and White River Utes, 1879.

These were not all "wars," but United States troops were called out, served and "somebody got hurt" by lead, arrow or miasma, and about two tons of cases claiming or receiving pensions crowd the shelves and drawers of the two rooms occupied by the old war and navy. Aside from these, every division representing claims from different sections of the Union has hundreds of pounds of papers showing that a man suffered somewhere and at some period for Uncle Sam. Hence, Uncle Sam, as an appreciative friend, takes care of his protectors to the tune of millions of money.

FAITH in prayer seems not to be altogether destroyed if we note the following:

"ROCK ISLAND, Ill., June 30th.—Farmers in all this section of country are in desperate straits for lack of rain, and at Cambridge, thirty miles south-east of here, Tuesday morning special services were held in the Congregational Church for the purpose of offering up prayers for rain. The town and county for miles around were billed with small orange-colored posters reading.

"PRAYER FOR RAIN.—Special service will be held in the Congregational Church, Tuesday June 28th, at ten a. m. It is hoped that the members of the different churches, the farmers of the district and the business men of our town will devote the above hour to pleading with heaven for rain to save our crops from ruin.

"CAMBRIDGE, Ill., June 28th, 1887.

"Unless relief comes shortly this meeting at Cambridge will stand simply as the first of a large series of prayer meetings for rain, not only in north-western Illinois but throughout the State and large areas of neighboring States."

The date accompanying your name on the small colored label on each paper shows the time to which your subscription has been paid. When payments are made the date is changed, which answers for a receipt.

Mothers' Home Column.

EDITED BY SISTER "FRANCES."

"The home-pressed question of the age can find
No answer in the catch-words of the blind
Leaders of the blind. Solution there is none
Save in the Golden Rule of Christ alone."

"COME YE OUT FROM AMONG THEM AND BE YE SEPARATE."

FROM the first day and hour of our coming to a knowledge of the truth as it is in Christ, we have always held to the belief that no trammels of an earthly nature should bind the soldier of Christ. That with the different organizations of the world, we have or should have no affinity, but that all our allegiance belongs to the blood stained banner of King Emanuel. This is our individual belief to-day, and for the purpose of showing to Saints who may think otherwise, that in regard to one such organization at least, we have made no mistake, we give our readers below the copy of a letter sent by Mrs. Clara Hoffman, President of the Missouri W. C. T. U. to sister J. H. Merriam, of Stewartville, Missouri. This letter was in reply to a request for her official signature to a paper sent her, stating the Christian character of Sr. Merriam to be above reproach, that she was a zealous temperance worker, and peculiarly fitted for evangelical work. This paper was signed not only by the head of the W. C. T. U. in Stewartville, Missouri, (Mrs. D. J. Ireland) but by every minister in Stewartville.

WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION,
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Mar. 3d, 1887.

MRS. J. H. MERIAM, Dear Madam.—I have considered your request for official endorsement by the Missouri W. C. T. U., and am sorry to withhold it, but I assure you I can not get consent of my conscience nor judgement to do otherwise. I would not draw any sectarian lines through the W. C. T. U. It is, and I pray always may be, altogether undenominational, but you know how inconsiderate the unthinking masses are. The majority of them consider "Latter Day Saints," "Mormons" and "polygamists," as one and the same. The W. C. T. U. at large would be accused of flagrant inconsistency in denouncing so called "Mormonism" as it unequivocally does, and at the same time ordaining to so important a ministry as that of the evangelistic department one who is called by that name. We believe that among the non-polygamous Mormons are many who are saints in deed. We feel that we have Christian fellowship with them, while we abhor the system enthroned in Utah. But we do not think it right to bring this charge of inconsistency upon our organization. Were there time to bring the matter before the State Union assembled in convention we would do so, and learn if the membership of the State be ready to endorse and share in the reproach of a member of the sect which, in so far as we know, has no fault in itself—unless it be that it allows itself to be called by the same name as the polygamists, and so disobeys the divine command: "Come out from among them and be ye separate." I am using many words, but I want in some way to make you know that it is not from any other motive than just this of saving our beloved W. C. T. U. from reproach that I withhold my signature from this paper. It is not from cowardice, but because this society must avoid the appearance of evil. Believe me my duty is painful, and the keen pain is that I wound one to whom I would gladly give the right hand of fellowship. I pray that the guiding Spirit we all invoke may show you the consistency, and the necessity of my position, and that we may all come into the knowledge of the truth,

Yours sincerely,

CLARA HOFFMAN.

Let the Saints who read this letter bear in mind, that while Mrs. Hoffman admits that she is rejecting the services of one whom Christ has accepted, she arrogates to herself the right to do so, screening her action behind the flimsy pretext of "You know how inconsiderate the unthinking masses are," and lest these masses should in some way charge inconsistency upon us. "I do this from no other motive than just this of saving our beloved W. C. T. U. from reproach."

Memory carries us back a few hundred years in the history of the world and we see one arraigned before an officer of the Roman government. After the most careful examination the officer calls together the chief priests and the rulers and the people and announces to them three separate times, "I have found no cause of death in him."

"If thou let this man go, thou art not Cesar's friend," cried the multitude (the unthinking masses) in his ears." And so Pilate, willing to content the people, released Barabbas unto them, and delivered Jesus, when he had scourged him, to be crucified." Upon this act of Pilate we find in our Bible Dictionary the following comment:

"Pilate saw in Jesus an innocent victim of Jewish malice, and desired to save him. But he had not the firmness of character, the deep-rooted principle of justice and the consciousness of rectitude, necessary to carry him through; and after repeated efforts he at length gave way and sacrificed a righteous man rather than to provoke complaints against his administration. His washing of his hands and his inscription upon the cross, only condemned himself."

Mrs. Hoffman says, "Believe me, my duty is painful, and the keen pain is that I wound one to whom I would gladly give the right hand of fellowship." Should this expression associate itself in our mind with Pilate's inscription and washing of hands, we trust we will be pardoned, for the analogy is striking, not in this only, but the circumstances attending the entire transaction, save it be that she assumed the entire control of the matter without waiting the convening of the state membership and ascertaining whether or no they were "ready to endorse and share in the reproach of a member of the sect which, in so far as we know, has no fault in itself—unless it be that it allows itself to be called by the same name as the polygamists."

We must confess ourselves as having some curiosity to know what the action of the body would have been had the matter been brought before them, and find ourselves wondering if it would have been able to bear the reproach of one Latter Day Saint! Has it never occurred to you, Mrs. Hoffman, that hating polygamy as you do, you were a little unfortunate in the selection of your battle cry, "The sword of the Lord and of Gideon." We doubt if Brigham Young himself ever had as many wives as Gideon, and yet we learn from history (as witness your battle cry) that the Lord was not above using his sword and his right arm in slaying the enemies of his people. Neither must you suppose that polygamy was less a sin in that day than it is in ours, for we beg you to remember that God is unchangeable, and in the morning of creation he set his seal and sanction to monogamy in these words: "Therefore, shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave unto his wife, and they shall be one flesh." But our polygamous friends in Utah will adduce many apparently fair arguments to prove to you and to the world, that God sanctioned their pet institution; and though you have rejected our services in the temperance cause, should you ever be closely pressed by them upon that subject (as many good Presbyterians and Methodists have been before now) just call upon some of the elders of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, and they will gladly come to your rescue, showing both to yourself and the world that polygamy is in open violation of every principle of our faith as a people; and that it was never practiced, neither ever can be practiced, by any one, without incurring the Divine displeasure, be he humble and unknown as was Gideon, or be he famous and of world-wide reputation, as David, the sweet singer of Israel, or Solomon whose wisdom drew to his royal court, "the uttermost parts of the earth."

To Sister Meriam we have expressed our regret that she should ever have placed herself in working line with any association who hold truth and justice subservient to expediency, and we trust that she, with all others of the household of faith, will be the wiser for this drawing aside of the veil, by which the fact stands clearly revealed that the wound if taken by either, must be taken by Christ (in the person of one of his followers) and not by our beloved W. C. T. U.; that must be saved from reproach. Our God is a God of truth and justice, and these principles must be maintained by his Saints, and let us never forget that he who can sacrifice to expediency one single commandment of the Master, is partaking of the same sin which gave him over to the cruel death of the Roman Cross. Let us be valiant soldiers for the truth, realizing, as Whittier has most beautifully expressed it:

"A little while the world may run
Its own mad way, with needle-gun
And iron-clad; but truth at last shall reign;
The cradle-song of Christ was never sung in vain."

Bro. Joseph (as many of you know) is an enthusiastic advocate of temperance, and has been sent for, hundreds of miles, to lecture for the same; yet his work is done under the gospel banner, and without the sanction of any institution or society organized by man. Thus let our temperance work be done. Because God has given us, as his people, a direct commandment: "Avoid the use of tobacco, and be not addicted to strong drink in any form," let us therefore persuade the young that they never form the habit, and the older ones that they cease therefrom, entreating them, as we have the right to do, and let us labor in the organization for good among the Lord's people; for to them the promise is: "Behold, if my servants and my handmaidens of the different organizations for good among my people shall continue in righteousness, they shall be blessed even as they bless others of the household of faith." Let us not be weary in well doing, nor be frightened by the name God has chosen to give his people. "It is enough for the disciple that he be as his master and the servant as his lord. If they have called the master of the house Beelzebub, how much more shall they call them of his household." Broad as God's universe is the field before us. "Into all the world," was the parting command, and though God never elected woman into the ranks of his ministry, yet as helpers in the sphere in which he has placed us, there is no bound or limit to the good we may do.

"Whatever in love's name is truly done
To free the bound and lift the fallen one,
Is done to Christ. Whoso in deed and word
Is not against him, labors for our Lord."

HOME COLUMN MISSIONARY FUND.

Sr. Annie Flower, Pickneyville, Ill.....	36
Sr. Lizzie Hutchins, Rogers City, Mich....	25
Birtie and Lottie Hartnell, Rogers City....	13
Clara A. Mader, Lamoni, Iowa.....	14
Sr. E. Blackleach, Sacramento, Cal.....	50
Sr. Purl Bachtol, Fremont, Ind.....	10
Sr. S. J. Green, Los Angeles, Cal.....	2 00
Sr. C. E. Cunningham, Tenants Harbor, Me.	30
A sister, Iowa.....	1 00
LAMONI, Iowa, July 14th.

TO THE YOUNG SISTERS IN CHRIST.

Dear Young Friends: Sister Frances has invited you to write to the "Home Column," but so far I have noticed but one or two of the young unmarried sisters who have complied with the invitation. I hope that no feeling of diffidence will prevent you doing so, and stating your trials and perplexities that others who have been longer on the way may have opportunity to counsel and direct you, through the wisdom gained in their own experience.

It is made the duty of the elder sisters to exhort and instruct the younger; but they can not well do their duty in this respect unless the younger make known their needs, and after they have received wise directions, try to obey them. This is largely the work that the Spirit had in view when the Column was started. Now, dear young friends, here is your opportunity. Think of the lives rich in the wisdom, faith, knowledge, and experience that comes by long years of travel in the heavenward way, how much your own lives might be enriched and perfected by the light from theirs. Soon these aged ones will pass away from our midst, and the opportunity to profit by their wisdom be forever gone. Though not very old myself, in years or in the gospel, I have been younger in both, and my life has been very full of experience which I would like to impart for your benefit, and will improve the present by urging upon your attention some of the things that obstruct spiritual progress.

Whatever in our youth hinders our growth and physical development causes disease, early decay and death; so it is in the spiritual life, for that, too, is a growth, and we must keep on growing in grace and in knowledge, until we grow up to the measure of the fullness of the stature of Christ. Not only must the church as a body do this, but every individual member likewise; else while the body grows, the arms, hand or foot remains dwarfed and disproportioned, hindering the symmetry of the whole. Remember that it is perfected beings, like himself, who will come forth in the first resurrection, and compose the church of the first-born, which is called "the bride, the Lamb's wife." She is said to be without spot or blemish; in other words, fully developed spiritual beings, capable of sharing with Jesus his exalted glory and joy. Have you ever taken notice of that language of our Savior, when speaking of offences, he advises us to part with an offending hand or foot, for it is better to enter halt, into life, than having two feet, to be cast into hell. Mark the language, enter halt into life; without doubt he is speaking of the future life, and the effect that evil associations in this life may have upon our well-being then; for though we may part with them, cast them from us, they leave us in a crippled state, spiritually; for just as in this life some are born blind, lame or deformed, so there are some who, out of God's abundant mercy, are saved from eternal death after having spent the time of preparation in idleness and folly. Saved as a brand from the burning. What a contrast their crippled, deformed condition, from those perfected and glorified ones who shall stand with Christ upon Mount Zion.

How it touches a young girl's pride to be possessed of deformed features or limbs; how an impure complexion, or freckled face even, worries her; and why? Is it not because she thinks the possession of a perfect form and face renders her attractive and lovable to her friends.

Now it is evident that she Savior expects perfection of his people, for he said: "Be ye perfect, as your Father in heaven is perfect." Yet how few concern or worry themselves over their spiritual defects, to remove or rectify them. How different, and what rapid progress we should witness, did all show the same discontent of spiritual and moral ugliness, that they do of a misfit garment, or freckles on the face. How often we hear it said: "I know I am not perfect," yet they seem satisfied to make no attempt to become so. The tortures of a surgical operation would not deter them from acquiring a beautiful form or features, were they assured of the possibilities. But when spiritual life and health demand the giving up of worldly companions, pleasures and practices, which they know hinder their spiritual growth, mar and disfigure their spiritual nature, they count the way to God's favor a hard way.

"But," says one, "we can not be perfect in this life!"

Who tells you so? Not Christ. He has set that as the prize of your high calling. His holy apostles admonish us to "be perfect and entire, wanting nothing."—James 1: 4. "That we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus."—Col. 1: 28. It is true that the fullness of perfection in the measure of Christ, will not be attained until we awake in his likeness in the resurrection; but we can grow in grace and in knowledge, go on to perfection, and become perfect in every good work.

Certainly it is better to enter into life halt, than that our whole bodies should perish; but as the sun surpasses the stars in glory, so do they who are perfected and glorified in Christ Jesus.

Now, dear girls, we are told that "no man lives to himself nor dieth to himself." What a solemn thought; and were it otherwise there might be fewer cripples in the spiritual life; but living or dying, we leave our impress for good or evil on all with whom we come in contact. Did it even cease there, it might not be so bad; but through them, others, still, are influenced, like the pebble dropped in the water, "and the waves circle round with the shock," till none can discern the limit of the outermost circle. Remembering that this can be equally true of good as of evil, who can not feel their awful responsibility to take heed to their ways?

"Having therefore these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God."—2 Cor. 7: 1.

In gospel bonds,

LAMONI, IOWA.

ELEANOR.

CHATHAM, Ont., June 28th.

Dear Sister Walker:—If I could write as I can talk I would give you an account of some of our travels, and describe to you some of the beautiful places we have visited since we left home, but as it is, I must be content with telling you that which most interests the Saints, namely, the dealings of God with his children. For four years I have had neuralgia in my head, and the doctors could do nothing for me, as it had gone to my heart. I was in hopes that I would get better when we came here, but I grew worse all the time, and could not walk one block without I went very slowly, and then I would be prostrate for the day. I never gave up hope, although I had been administered to so many times with no apparent benefit; yet God had said by his Spirit at different times that my work was not done, and exhorted me to be faithful and I should receive my health; and when I would be so bad and my friends would think I could not live, I still clung to the word spoken to me. Two weeks ago I went to the conference, and at the Saints' meeting asked them to pray for me. Bishop Blakeslee, inspired by the Spirit, knelt and prayed. I received a blessing in part, but did not tell my husband, only said to him, "Will you ask Bro. Blakeslee to come and administer to me?" He spoke to Bro. Lake about it, but Bro. Blakeslee did not get the word. I was administered to, but was no better. Night came and my husband dissuaded me from going to meeting, as I was so weak, but after they had all gone, except the sister of the house, I said, "If you will go with me I will go to meeting." She said, "You had better not;" but I felt as if I must go and say good by to the Bishop; and at the close of the meeting I went and said, "Good by brother Blakeslee, I want you to pray for me that I may receive my health." He said, "I will." I then turned to go, and while standing talking to others he came to me and said, "Sister Meriam I believe there is a blessing for you; I was led to pray for you. I had told Bro. Leverton how I had been blessed during the prayer." I then asked the Bishop to administer to me and he said, "Certainly." During the administration he spoke in tongues, and the word to me was that I should receive my health, that I was a chosen vessel unto the Lord; that he had watched over me and would still continue to watch over me. "Only be faithful and I the Lord will bless you."

Sr. Frances, I have been well from that time! To our God be all the glory forever. This work is all in all to me, and my constant prayer to God is, Help me to do some good.

Yours in bonds,

SR. J. H. MERIAM.

For Sale.

Store Property, Store Building, Warehouse, Dwelling, Barn, and about one acre land. General Merchandise Business. Good location and best Store property in town. Write for particulars. GEO. DAMON, Administrator, etc. Kirtland, Lake co., Ohio. 16jul3t

The printed name on the colored label on your paper gives the date to which your subscription has been paid. If it shows you are in arrears, please renew.

Correspondence.

RAY, Ind., July 9th.

Bro. David:—Have just returned from Ohio. Was there eight days, held nine good meetings, baptized and confirmed two, blessed several children. Prospects are flattering for quite an ingathering in that section. Here is where the great Lincoln, the Methodistic gun from Utah, gave us such a terrible send off last winter. Some of the old pharisees were so jubilant over his effort they boasted that Mormonism was effectually squelched there, and that "Old Springer" would never show his face there again. But, alas! for human caulation, he did put in an appearance and found a better interest manifest than before that Utah gun exploded. So it goes; "truth is mighty and will prevail." I expect soon to go to St. Joseph county, Michigan, an entire new place. Tell Asa I am making those tracts do duty all along the line. They are a potent power for good.

As ever, in bonds,

B. V. SPRINGER.

MAGNOLIA, Iowa, July 7th.

Dear Herald: While reading the good news in your pages from all quarters, I feel it my duty to contribute something for the comfort of the Saints. It appears that a great outpouring of the Holy Spirit is manifest everywhere, not only upon the elders and Saints, but upon many who have hitherto been indifferent to the "marvelous work and a wonder," which God is doing among the nations. Our prayers for the General Conference were answered, and we give glory to God.

For some time past my time had been occupied as president of the Magnolia branch, preaching around in the vicinity and visiting the Saints; and while I enjoyed the work of visiting and trying to strengthen them and preaching to them in their assemblies, I felt that the compass was too narrow for me; and that it was necessary that I should stretch out, and break the bread of life to the world. So I tendered my resignation as branch president, and then struck out into the wider field. I attended our quarterly conference at Persia. A good feeling prevailed for the Spirit of the Lord was with us; Elder Peak had been preaching there, and the branch and conference authorities wisely thought to "strike the iron while hot;" so we held a series of meetings under the direction of Elder Crabb, various elders taking part in them as reported in the Herald. Elder Blair's smiling face was seen in the stand, on Thursday evening June the 9th, and although he was wearied with labors in other parts, yet the Lord enabled him to do good work in warning sinners and comforting Saints. The next day we attended the conference of the Galland's Grove district at the Salem Branch, and although some heavy rains came, there was fair attendance, fair interest, and four were baptized living in that district. On the Sunday evening we returned to Persia, and president Blair again preached with good effect. He left on Monday, but the meetings were continued, prayer service being held every afternoon, and preaching at night. A request from Unionburg having been made to the conference at Persia that a branch be organized at Unionburg, president Crabb authorized the writer to go there, and if thought wisdom, to organize a branch there.

It will be remembered that the first branch of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints on this western slope of Iowa was organized at Union Grove, now called Unionburg, more than twenty-six years ago. But, sad to relate, they permitted the enemy to get in among them, and they dwindled down into disorganization, but retained their membership. Destitute of the means of grace until they were famishing for the bread of life, and craving for it, in answer to their desire I left Persia on the 16th of June, Elders Crabb and Chambers however keeping up the good work there, and a rich harvest has been gathered into the church. I do not know the exact number but it must be about thirty. [Thirty-eight.—Ed.] I must tell you that hitherto Persia seemed bound up. We could get good meetings as far as attendance and preaching were concerned, but there was a difficulty in the way; some of the brethren had become widely separated from each other in feeling and sentiment, and this had troubled the whole district. They were not willing to meet each other half way; and this blocked up the way to success in winning souls to God, for the world had taken sides. Well, one party to the trouble, a good man, felt moved by the Spirit to go more than his half of the distance to meet his estranged brother, and proposed that the matter be made a subject of prayer. Brethren were selected to visit the other party, while solemn, earnest prayer was made that every barrier might be broken down, and love, peace and union prevail. God accepted the brother's attempt at reconciliation, heard our prayers, and reconciliation free and full was made. The offended one came into our midst humble as a child, was received into full fellowship, and great rejoicing was in that portion of our Father's house. Then came the outpouring of God's Spirit and the great ingathering of souls into his kingdom. My brethren, one of the great evidences I have of this being God's church is the fact that God's love softens the hearts, melts down the greatest barriers, and unites in purest love those who have allowed themselves to become estranged from each other, and to view each other as the bitterest foes. Truly, God's love worketh wonders. May it dwell more richly in every heart.

But to return to Unionburg. Bro. T. Thomas kindly took me there, and I visited among the brethren some, held meetings in brother Samuel Wood's hall, which was kindly given for the purpose. I was astonished to see such large audiences, of all kinds of people. God gave me good liberty, and great interest seemed to be manifest among outsiders as well as among the Saints. I preached six sermons altogether, and on Sunday reorganized the Unionburg branch with Thomas Thomas presiding elder, Elder P. C. Kemish as priest and secretary, Elder W. W. Wood teacher, and Elder Samuel Diggle as deacon. It is but fair to say that Sr. Sarah Diggle offered her services as deaconess, and will act for her father in that duty. She is one of God's noble women.

The interest increased with every meeting, and when I closed, several outsiders expressed their sorrow at my departure. I promised to return

July 29th and hold a series of meetings there. Bro. Thomas kindly took me to Logan the 22d of June, where my family met me and took me home. I was wearied, and therefore rested until the 25th, when I went and held a two days' meeting at Willow Valley branch, where I preached in a grove at Mrs. Purcell's. Attendance was large, attention good, and good liberty was given me. Three were baptized, one of whom was the lady, owner of the grove—sister Ella Ann Purcell—also a Mr. Fisher and his wife from Neola. They were confirmed the same day. From there I went to Olympus with priest John Harper and preached three evenings to good attentive audiences. Returned to my home on Saturday, and on the Sabbath preached twice more in the Willow Valley. On Monday I delivered a brief Fourth of July oration at Mr. Freely Myer's, in which I kept before the people the fact that "righteousness exalteth a nation."

There seems to be an increasing interest, and I feel to do all I can to "preach the gospel of the kingdom of God." I crave an earnest interest in the prayers of all Saints that I may be able to fill my mission to earth.

Yours for truth,

CHARLES DERRY.

SHELBOURNE, Ont., July 7th.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—We attended the gathering in Egremont, met with a number of fine, true-hearted Saints from different parts, some of whom we there met for the first time. We had a time long to be remembered. The Spirit of the Master was with us in a marked degree, and we were encouraged and edified while listening to the able discourses of Brn. J. H. Lake, W. J. Smith and S. Brown. May they all be spared to unfurl the blood stained banner of King Emmanuel for many years to come.

During our sojourn there we had five sermons, two prayer meetings, and one business meeting, all of which we hope have been productive of good. Three were baptized. I left in company with the Masonville Saints for these parts. We preached a number of times to audiences of from seventy-five to one hundred and fifty people, when Brn. J. H. Lake and W. J. Smith came up to our help. We thought when they arrived "the boy" would have a rest. But not so; for we have all been engaged every day and evening up to date, keeping the camp-fires blazing in the different neighborhoods. As a result we baptized one last Saturday, two on Sunday, one on Monday, two on Tuesday, and three Wednesday. This is Thursday morning, and we expect more will be baptized before the end of the week. So goes Zion's ship.

Bro. Willard Smith left us on Tuesday for River View, where there is great demand for preaching. He and J. A. McIntosh have labored hard and been successful in these parts. God has blessed their labors. We feel glad that there are such men to represent the work; may their zeal and usefulness never be impaired till the last battle is fought and victory won. Bro. Lake, at present writing, is a few miles away, doing some fireside preaching, for which he seems to be especially adapted. For none ever weary when listening to his counsel and instruction. His words are fitly spoken, and there is a depth of meaning with them that seems to indelibly stamp them on the tablets of one's memory. We had the pleasure of baptizing an old lady last Saturday, who would never before go to hear the elders preach. But when the "wee boy" came she thought she would go just for once; and after preaching service we had a talk with her. She said every word said was pure gospel; that she did not now believe we were such bad people after all. She promised us to ask God if this church was accepted of him; and God in his great mercy showed her in open vision that the Reorganization was the accepted church with him. She sent for us at once, and we baptized her. She is over eighty-seven years of age, eighty-seven last May. Another had a revelation telling him to be baptized, as this is the church of God. We baptized him and his two sons yesterday. Truly God has been true to the promise made to his Saints in the past when he said, "I will hasten my work in its time." Methinks that time has come. When Christ is at the helm we can laugh at the storm.

Your brother, as ever,

RICHARD C. EVANS.

BIG RAPIDS, Mich., July 12th.

Dear brethren and sisters, I feel like praising my heavenly Father this morning for his blessings to me for hearing and answering my prayer. Yesterday my companion and I and our two children drove down to the Hersey meeting, a distance of fourteen miles. We had preaching by Bro. Cleveland. After meeting we gathered to the river, where my companion was baptized by Bro. Cleveland. At the house we had confirmation and prayer meeting: all feeling blest and strengthened. It was a great pleasure for me, for we do not have the opportunity of meeting with the Saints very often.

Ours is quite a large town with but few Saints, none but ourselves that we know of. If some elder would come here we would be pleased, and will do what we can to aid him. I think this would be a good field for one.

I remain your sister in the true faith,

MARY KENT.

15 Broad St., DOWLAIS, Wales,

June 20th.

Bro. Joseph:—Since my arrival, in all parts wherever I have been, whenever an opening became apparent I have not been slow in declaring, in my simple way, the counsels of Christ Jesus contained in the gospel. When among my own kindred, who are many, I have not done any public preaching with them, simply because their false dignity would not allow them to attend. But during fireside social chat I flatter myself that I not only placed the nail in the right spot, but by the help of the mallet of God's Spirit drove it effectually. What the result finally may be the near future will unfold.

I have labored considerably among the branches, preaching, teaching, exhorting, visiting the faint-hearted, weary, wounded by the wayside, endeavoring to pour into their afflicted hearts the balm of consolation, brother-like, requesting them to up and try again. I am, as oft times before, confronted with this saying, by many upon the background: Yes; it was Bro. A, B, or C, as the case may be, that was the cause of me giving up the old ship Zion. Conversing with such I feel sorry for them for putting their trust in puny man, in the place of laying all, yes, all their trouble and sorrow before the Lord. It is and he only that is and will be the Saints' support. Those supposed to be standing at their posts of duty should be wise in their treatment of the weak and feeble ones. Far better is it to err on the side of mercy than justice. How limited we are in understanding to do good, which is indeed the mission of all of us that claim to be in favor with the Master, Jesus. I have preached some in the open air, but nothing what I intend doing, the good Spirit supporting me, enabling me to talk "to" the people and not "at" them. To-morrow I am off to Morrision, Omore and Llanelly, Carmarthenshire, and will write again, as I know that all my brethren delight to learn of Zion's weal in all parts of the Lord's vineyard.

Yours,
JOHN D. JONES.

FORSTER, N. S. W., June 11th.

Editors Herald:—It is the greatest pleasure for me to speak of the goodness of God, and to do his will. At times it may seem hard for us to keep the commandments of the Lord, but when we look back and think how much he has done for us in offering his Only Begotten Son, we should strive to do that which would please our Master. To those who are faithful it is promised they shall reap the reward of eternal life. Oh, how thankful ought we to be for the privilege of understanding the truth. And what riches it is for us, what cheer and comfort to our souls in the hour of pain and distress. I would at all times be thankful for the many blessings bestowed upon me. But we are like the Dead Sea, it drinks in the river Jordan and is never the sweeter; or like the ocean, all rivers run into it, but it is never the fresher. So we are apt to receive daily mercies from God and still remain insensible to them, and unthankful for them.

We are blest with a good shepherd over this branch, and the Saints are very attentive. Bro. Burton has done much good here. Since Bro. Burton left, the other ministers have left as well. Probably they understand that we know they don't preach the gospel of Christ. One said: "It is no good to preach to unbelievers." Others say: "The Latter Day Saints want to go to heaven by works;" and another says, "Can we not join anything else but the Mormons?" and quotes Luke 19: 9, as a strong proof that baptism is not necessary for salvation. But I thank God for sending his servant here. My prayer is for all God's people that we may live worthy of his Spirit, and that peace may dwell in each home and heart. When Zion shall be redeemed, I hope to have my name among yours. I have the earnest desire to stand firm in the great latter day work.

Your brother,

LAURITS ANDERSON.

DEFIANCE, Iowa, July 10th.

Dear Herald:—It gives me the greatest comfort to read your pages, as that is nearly all the preaching we get. Bro. Short has been here twice, and last March Bro. Brand preached four times. Some liked him well, others not on account of his mode of baptism. The first of June Bro. Warren E. Peak preached here one week, but on account of the warm weather and busy times people did not turn out to hear. Those that did come thought that he was a smart young man, but they can not like the doctrine. If they would not say anything about Joseph Smith it would do. The Campbellites locked the school-house against us, but we procured consent from the school trustees, and demanded the keys, and had no further trouble. It made friends for us and enemies for them. Some are anxious for Bro. Peak to return, and he said he would this fall.

My faith grows stronger in the latter day work. I am thankful that I was spared to see and know what I do. Although it has not been my privilege to see the manifestations of God's Holy Spirit that I have heard others testify of, but I never doubt in the least. My daily prayer is that this glorious work will roll on until all come to the unity of the faith. We were not permitted to know of this blessed work and train our children in it, but they now have all obeyed the gospel and I trust are trying to keep the faith once delivered to the Saints. Galland's Grove is the nearest place for us to attend meetings. Last fall at the Reunion I bought twelve copies of the Voice of Warning and have spread them through the town. Some are greatly interested in them.

Yours,

M. GUNSOLLY.

PHILADELPHIA, Pennsylvania.

Dear Herald:—I have read part of the Braden and Kelley debate that came to hand. I think Bro. Kelley a good Christian lawyer, debater, and defender of the cause we all should love. The other fellow is one of those whom the angel told Joseph Smith should speak evil of him; for I think he is one of the worst villifiers and slanderers I ever read of, if I must judge by the language he utters. Truth will always rise and triumph, and if a person will not accept it in debate he must take his defeat in mortification. Had Braden been a seeker for truth, he would have had cause to rejoice.

I have heard Chaplin McCabe lecture and exhort before an audience of 1,000 or 1,500 and sing some of his original songs to influence the Methodists to get beyond the million dollar line for missions. And I heard the same speaker say that there was not a man in America who knew where the red man of the west came from. They sang the missionary hymn,—and I thank God from my heart that I could sing it "with the Spirit and with the understanding also."

"In vain with lavish kindness
The gifts of God are strown:
The heathen in his blindness
Bows down to wood and stone."

And they always say there is nobody so blind but those who won't see. But when there is a million dollars at stake, it makes all the difference. I feel strong and active in the work, in my own sphere of course, for I never held the priesthood. I am sorry to see a sign seeking generation; for I believe this is one. But as Bro. Gurley said, "It is not unto salvation." Half of the people's troubles come from fixing their thoughts so much upon self and self-interest. Blessed and happy is the man who follows Christ in self-forgetfulness, thinking how much good he can do unto others. Begin and end each day with that aim and purpose. Do not think whether you are getting your fair share of honor or not. Live for others, and your life will be happy, and your hearts pure and strong.

We are having nice weather here. The quicksilver was up in the nineties for a few days; but since the sun crossed the equinoctial line the rain has descended in torrents, and the "cloud bursts" have given the city a bright, clear, well washed air. The freshness of virgin foliage and the luxuriant wealth of wild flowers, vegetation, and fruits, give us a charm at this season of the year that no part can duplicate. Why don't all the people sing "All hail the power of Jesus' name?"

Respectfully yours in gospel bonds,

WM. STREET.

OSBORNE, Kansas, July 9th.

Dear Herald:—The Fourth of July celebration passed off lovely after a small shower of rain in the morning, all trying to cheer themselves, for the country here, of about ten miles square, has had no rain to speak of for about eight months. Wheat is almost a total failure. I never saw the chinch bugs so thick. Some pieces of corn are taken entirely by them. Other patches are not very badly damaged.

On the fifth of July while I was at Osborne City a hail storm came up from the north-west with a very heavy wind which lasted about thirty minutes. The people nearly perished trying to keep their teams quiet in the streets. The stores facing the north had almost every glass broken out. As soon as the storm was over, while coming home, I discovered that the corn which was left by the chinch bugs was entirely stripped of leaves. The hale drifted up in some hollows two feet deep. Mr. Perry, my neighbor, had his granary torn to pieces and parts were carried a distance of three hundred yards. May God be merciful unto his people. But the just must share with the unjust.

My mind reflected upon the following words of our Savior:

"And again the Lord shall utter his voice out of heaven, saying: Hearken, O ye nations of the earth, and hear the words of that God who made you. O, ye nations of the earth, how often would I have gathered you together as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, but ye would not? How oft have I called upon you by the mouth of my servants, and by the ministering of angels, and by mine own voice, and by the voice of thunders, and by the voice of lightnings, and by the voice of tempests, and by the voice of earthquakes, and great hailstorms, and by the voice of famines and pestilence of every kind, and by the great sound of a trumpet, and by the voice of judgment, and by the voice of mercy all the day long, and by the voice of glory and honor, and the riches of eternal life, and would have saved you with an everlasting salvation, but ye would not? Behold, the day has come, when the cup of the wrath of mine indignation is full."—Doc. and Cov. 43: 6.

Take this with Revelations 14: 6, 7, the angel flying through the midst of heaven with the gospel, and proclaiming, judgments, and we find that God has preached to the people since 1830, with the gospel and with lightnings, hail-storms, tempest. Their visits are of frequent occurrence, and we oftentimes hear old, grey headed men say, "I never saw the like before."

Your brother in Christ,

HENRY J. JEMISON.

ESSEX CENTER, Ont., July 11th.

Mr. Dancer; Dear Brother:—Will you kindly send me some more tracts, as I have none left of those you sent me before. I have gone around the town on Sundays and told the people that I had some Latter Day Saint tracts; and in some cases I have been invited inside and have had quite a talk and have told them about the healing of my foot and leg. Now, dear brother, will you tell me if I am right in going to the doors to give them away? I am so anxious that every one in the place where I live shall not stand up to condemn me at the last great day and tell me I never warned them. Some that will not believe in the church say they admire my zeal, and say I am too good for the church I belong to, and that God in his mercy will not let me be led astray very long; that he has something better for me. But I tell them I have seen and felt too much of the power of God in this church to ever receive anything else. Oh, no; Bro. Dancer; a thousand times no. Sooner let my tongue wither than ever deny this glorious latter day work. I do wish an elder would come, for I have nearly all the town waiting for some one to preach; and every time they see me they want to know if I have had word that some one is coming, and I have always to say, No; no. Sometimes I feel discouraged about it, but then I think the time is not yet come. I asked the question in my last, what the words "Come out from among them, and be ye separate," meant, but got no answer. But I think I have had an answer plain enough from God, for since that I have been led to other places of worship, and have had a chance to talk with people that I never should if I had not gone. I find the more I mix with people, and the more pleasant I make myself, the more chance there is for doing good. A strange lady came to my place this morning to get a tract to send in a letter to some friends. She wanted one of No. 3, so will you kindly send some of them. She also requested me to ask you to explain how we shall reign a thousand years with Christ. Please send me what tracts you think best, but please send a few of Nos. 8 and 10.

Yours, M. M. BROOKS.

[It is proper to give tracts to people at their homes, if accepted willingly.—Ed].

ELKO, Nevada, July 8th.

Brn. Joseph and Blair:—I have finally met Bro. D. S. Mills. I love him. He has baptized thirteen in Elko county. I think one more will obey to-morrow. He will soon go on to Carson. If an elder could stay here, much good could be done. May the Lord direct. If an elder ever comes here, he will find a home with us. With love. Your brother, E. PENROD.

BUTTERMILK AS A DRINK.

A GREAT physician once said that if everyone knew the value of buttermilk as a drink it would be more freely partaken of by persons who drink excessively of other beverages, and further compared its effects on the system to the cleaning out of a cook stove that has been clogged up with ashes that have sifted through, filling every crevice and crack, saying that the human system is like the stove, and collects and gathers refuse matter that can in no way be exterminated from the system so effectually as by drinking buttermilk. It is also a remedy for indigestion, soothes and quiets the nerves and is very somnolent to those who are troubled with sleeplessness. Its medicinal properties can not be overrated, and it should be freely used by all who can get it. Every one who values good health should drink buttermilk every day in warm weather and let tea, coffee and water alone. For the benefit of those who are not already aware of it, the first process of digestion is gone through, making it one of the easiest and quickest of all things to digest. It makes gastric juice, and contains properties that readily assimilate with it, with every little wear upon the digestive organs.—Sel.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

LEAST AND GREATEST.

HAVING heard many explanations of the language found in Luke 7:28, none of which seems wholly consistent with the tenor of the word; and having sought for light on this subject I submit the following thoughts, hoping it is not all chaff.

Jesus said: "Among those that are born of women there is not a greater prophet than John the Baptist, but he that is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he." Let us look at some of the interpretations given to this text; and while combatting some of their inconsistencies we may stumble upon the truth. The principal one I remember now is, that John's mission and heraldship made him the peer of any, or all the prophets, and perhaps their superior, while any ordinary citizen in the kingdom of God was his superior in point of privilege, knowledge, power, &c., because John the Baptist was not in the kingdom. Let us examine: Jesus said, "Whoso breaketh one of the least of these commandments, and teacheth men so to do shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven." (Common version). Is a teacher of false doctrine, a garbler of the "perfect law," greater than "my messenger," "a man sent of God?" Was Jesus in the kingdom? O yes! How did he obtain entrance! He came through the door of baptism, admitted by the "porter," John. Did he have authority, or was he yet but an alien? The most rabid of the Jews did not question John's authority, although some of "the Pharisees and lawyers rejected the counsel of God against themselves, not being baptized of him." (Luke 7:29). Jesus' authority being called in question he propounded to the quibblers this query: "The baptism of John, whence was it, of heaven or of men," stopping the cavilers' mouths thereby; for they recognized John as having authority, and he testified of the Messiah.

Did you ever know an officer to officiate legally in any government office while himself was an alien. John's and Jesus' baptism was identical, as witness the Inspired Translation: "He shall baptize you not only with water but with fire and with the Holy Ghost." And if it was the fulfilling of all righteousness in the case of Jesus, it was equally as efficacious in all instances, for it is never questioned, never repeated, nor in any wise disparaged in the least degree in the whole history of the primitive church, (New Testament). Does any Saint in latter days desire to take up the cudgel at this late date?

The present king, quorum of Twelve and quorum of Seventies, certainly constituted an organization, a kingdom the coming of which Jesus and John had been some time announcing. For proof that the organization had power. Hear the delighted officials on returning from the field report that the very devils are subject unto us through thy name. He certainly delegated power to those officers which was recognized by the Satanic hosts as authoritative.

Greatness to the people of that age, as to most of this, was the synonym of place, wealth, authority, carnal pomp and circumstance, and the term "least" the opposite. Such greatness the disciples sought and expected; but here, as elsewhere in God's work, it is made manifest that "my thoughts are not as thy thoughts." When His disciples disputed concerning their relative positions and circumstances under the reign of the Prince of Peace, He, knowing their thoughts gave some, to them, novel counsel to attain greatness, "Whosoever will be greatest among you, let him be the servant of all," said he. Now, find who won the title to superior greatness by this divine rule.

In John 13 we read that Jesus, after supper, girded himself with a towel, took water and washed the disciples feet. Although acknowledging himself both Lord and Master he ministered to, served even the meanest, making himself still less. Thus Jesus became least by service humility, and loving ministry, humanly considered, a menial; yet a king, high priest and prophet the only one greater than John. The term "least" expresses little in the superlative degree and can mean but one, Jesus proves himself that one by serving the lowest; find one lower than the one of whom Jesus says, "one of you is a devil."

John says Jesus is that one. "He that cometh after me the same is preferred before me," "is mightier than I." "He must increase but I must decrease." John (Elias in Spirit) ministered to Jesus on the Mount, &c. This to me, is in consonance with the word, and the genius of the gospel as I have been taught by Christ's ministry in the latter days. If others have greater light let it shine, "speak right out in meetin."

W. T. MAITLAND.

In looking over the Times and Seasons not long since, we came upon a communication reproduced from the Boston Bee, and dated March 24th, 1843, and written from Nauvoo, Illinois. The writer recites his visit to Nauvoo, and closes with the following account of hearing the Martyr, Joseph Smith, preach:

"After naming his text, the prophet remarked, that some one had asked him the meaning of the expression of Jesus,— 'Among those born of woman there has not arisen a greater than John,' and said he had promised to answer it in public, and he would do it then. 'It could not have been on account of the miracles John performed, for he did no miracles, but it was,

First, Because he was trusted with a divine mission, of preparing the way before the face of the Lord. Who was trusted with such a mission, before or since? No man.

Second, He was trusted, and it was required at his hand, to baptize the Son of Man. Who ever did that? Who ever had so great a privilege or glory? Who ever led the Son of God into the waters of baptism, beholding the Holy Ghost descend upon him in the sign of the dove? No man.

Third, John at that time, was the only legal administrator, holding the keys of power, then on earth. The keys, the kingdom, the power the glory, had departed from the Jews; and John, the son of Zachariah, by the holy anointing, and decree of heaven, held the keys of power at that time."

We thought this might be interesting to some and so add it to Bro. Maitland's article.—Ed.

"SHALL WE DOCTOR WHEN WE ARE SICK?"

THE above is the title of an article in the Herald for July 2d. In answer I say, emphatically, No. Why? Because the scripture, as I understand it, and my own experience with the testimony of others teaches me, that Latter Day Saints should be, if they are not, above the customs and practices of the world, which we are following when we send for the doctor; for there are but few of the M. D's. that have embraced the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ, and those that are of the world are for the world. As for us that have embraced the true gospel, we have come up higher and have the promise of a more excellent way. In all my reading of the scriptures I fail to find one instance where Christ or his apostles made use of the M. D's in their day. But there are numerous instances where they made use of the gift of faith in behalf of the sick and afflicted. In his command to his disciples when sending them out to convert the world Christ gave them power against unclean spirits, to cast them out; and to heal all manner of sickness and all manner of disease. "Heal the sick, cleanse the leper, raise the dead," etc. "Freely ye have received, freely give," the only cost of which to us is the obeying of the commands of God; which is our reasonable service. (Matt. 28: 20). "Teaching them to observe all things I have commanded you, and lo I am with you always even to the end of the world." Among the things to be observed was faith in healing the sick. Also, "These signs shall follow them that believe." If they do not follow, if the blessing is not received, where does the blame lie?

I fail to find any blessing promised in following the customs of the world. We are to be a peculiar people. Peculiar in that that we have received better things, and that we have special blessings that the world can not receive. "Come out of her my people, and be ye separate from her, and be not partakers of her sins; and I will be your God and ye shall be my people."

We teach the world that the Lord is unchangeable. Surely what was for former day Saints is for Latter Day Saints; and I hardly think Bro. H. will admit that God's power is less than formerly.

The quotation from Doctrine and Covenants, section 42, par. 12, only strengthens my position, for the Lord says: "if they have not faith to be healed, they may be nourished with mild food and herbs; and not by the hand of an enemy, and the elders two or more shall be called and shall pray for and lay their hands upon them in my name," etc. The person referred to in the above is to my mind one that is stricken down with disease and reduced in body and mind; so that they are not in condition to receive faith sufficient to be healed. In a case of this kind they may be nourished with mild food, etc., by the hand of friends and brethren, but those brethren must not neglect to call for the elders, for the book plainly says they shall be called.

Again: Those that are not for us are against us. How many of the M. D's. of the day are for us? not many, surely. I have generally found them opposed to the ordinances of God's house, as we believe them. In answer to the question whether the food and herbs shall be administered by Tom, Dick and Harry; we will ask, how many of the doctors of to-day are master of their profession, and fit to prescribe for humanity. How often are they baffled and have no control over disease. Many of the medical colleges can turn out doctors in a very short time, if the necessary amount of money is forthcoming. Is it not more reasonable that the God who first formed man is better acquainted with the human system, and is far better qualified to prescribe for the ills that flesh is heir to, than poor, short-sighted man. I think so, and when he has given us so simple a plan whereby we may obtain the desired blessing, it seems it is as little as we can do to obey.

The brother thinks it does not make any difference whether we know where the help comes from, whether from God or man. I think it is very necessary that we know; for the power to heal the sick is one of the testimonies by which we know we are the children of God; and I think if we are living as Saints should live, the faith will not be lacking in the priesthood, or among the members to call down the blessings that we need; and that the Father is more than willing to bestow on us if we do his will and keep his commandments. That we may be able to so live as to be worthy of these blessings promised, and not have to go outside for something that we are not certain of receiving, is my prayer in Christ's name.

E. F. SHUPE.

COMMON STOCK VS. LAW.

IN the first place I understand the practice of all things common to be allowed by the apostles, but not a doctrine of Christ. It is true the apostles allowed all things common, but how long did they "serve tables?" The Bible history, as I understand, informs us that the practice of the people in selling their possessions and laying all at the feet of the apostles, the apostles saw was an evil. This was about the year A. D. 33. And when the apostles saw that serving tables belonged to the Bishoprick, they laid their hands on seven men selected for that purpose, and they, the apostles, devoted all their time to the ministry, as Jesus had commanded. The objector may say these seven men thus set apart by the apostles were deacons. But we see Phillip baptized the eunuch, and he was one of the seven. I am a believer in the law of Christ which says a deacon has not the right to baptize. Therefore we feel justified in calling these seven men bishops. Not only this, but we have it recorded that it is the duty of a bishop, instead of the apostles, to look after the poor. For while the apostles were doing their duties, the widows complained of not being cared for. If the laying all at the apostles' feet had been a doctrine of Christ, there would have been no change. This change of the looking after the poor, being given to these bishops, ought, we think, to satisfy all that the laying all at the apostles' feet, was not a doctrine of Christ.

Some refer us to the death of Ananias and his wife for lying, while under the order of "all things common," as proof that the doctrine was of God.

But it only proved at most, that they had lied unto the Holy Ghost. Again we say the change, if the apostles' allowing all things common, was of God? Lyman Wight, in Texas, taught us that Peter the apostle killed Annanias and his wife with his sword. I do not so understand the scriptures.

Now for the Book of Mormon evidence on "all things common." In looking over the doctrine of Christ the people had on this land, and the teachings of Christ when he visited them, I see nothing that would lead to a belief in all things common. For they had the words of Melchisedec, and he was a High Priest and took tithes for the poor, and they say that Abraham paid to this King of Salem one-tenth of all he had. They held the High Priesthood before Christ's visit to them, and when with them he taught the same gospel that Melchisedec did. And in the gospel when preached by these men, and in Christ's own words, we find incorporated the law of tithing, that the poor and needy may be provided with food and raiment. See how particular Christ was while with the Nephites to reveal unto them the Scriptures. They did not have the words he had spoken to others. He said it was necessary that that people should have what he had spoken to Malachi. And in these words were great blessings promised to the Saints if they would observe the law of tithing.

Jesus on the eastern continent told the hypocritical Pharisees who paid tithes of mint, anise, rue and cummin. This, he says, ought you to do. But they did not do enough, for they left undone "mercy and truth." And the apostles on this continent may have overreached the mark by allowing all things common, as did the apostles on the other continent.

Now we will refer the reader to the history of the church as to all things common. When the gospel found Lyman Wight and some others they were having "all things common." But when they believed the gospel, they abandoned that way of living. And here is the history of it by Joseph the Seer:—"The branch of the church in this part of the Lord's vineyard, [Kirtland], which had increased to nearly one hundred members [January, 1831], were striving to do the will of God, so far as they knew it; though some strange notions had crept in among them. With a little caution and some wisdom I soon assisted the brethren and sisters to overcome them. The plan of 'common stock,' which had existed in what was called 'the family,' whose members generally had embraced the everlasting gospel, was readily abandoned for the more perfect law of the Lord; and the false spirits were easily discerned and rejected by the light of revelation."—Times and Seasons, vol. 4, page 368.

The principles of the order of "common stock" were utterly abandoned "for the more perfect law of the Lord." So much for "common stock," or "all things common." What little experience I have had in "all things common" taught me I had nothing; and that if I should leave the institution I must do so with nothing but what was on my back. This was the covenant entered into. But I am now a steward, and have to account for my stewardship every year. JOHN HAWLEY.

THE MYSTERY OF LIFE.

* [Sent us by a friend].

THE great mystery to mankind is life! It is a mystery to the Christian as well as the deist. Life necessarily must begin somewhere, therefore we say that all life emanates from God, who is the great reservoir of action and the only true cause of all phenomena. Those who would reason of God must go to the Book of Nature which is ever open to view and for profound thought. Let us reflect upon the seas, mountains, plains, air, and beasts, all show one homogeneous plan of creation—shows that whatsoever the cause might be, it was a cause infinite, intelligent, and divine.

That we live and move and have our being can not be denied. Our eyes are for seeing, our ears for hearing, our nose for smelling, our lungs to receive air, and our heart to send the life-blood through our system with its mighty throb; in fact every function of our body is for use, and still those would be of no use to us if they were not made to act and corroborate with the exterior law of nature. Say for instance hearing; if it was not for the sound wave, the organ of hearing would be a useless thing hanging on the side of a man's head. The great question then arises, What is sound? The term sound is used in two senses; subjective, which has reference to our mind, and objective, which has reference to the things in nature that produce the sensation which reaches the ear and makes subjective sound. Sound is the sensations produced by the organ of hearing by vibrations in matter. In this use there can be no sound where there is no ear to catch the vibrations. An oak falls in the forest, and if there is no ear to hear there is no noise, and the old tree drops quietly to its resting place. The Niagra waters pour over its precipice for ages, but fall silently to its rocky bed. There were the vibrations of earth and air, but there was no ear to receive them and translate them into sound. When the first foot trod the primeval solitude and the ear felt the pulsations from the torrent, then the roaring cataract found a voice to break its lasting silence and echo forth the mighty works of God.

A trumpet does not sound, it only carves the air into waves; tympanum is the beach on which these break into sound. We do not claim that God is chance, for he had no beginning; what has a beginning has an ending, for that which is eternal could not have any chance. Time was not made by chance, it always was. Imagine back as far as you can, until you have billions and myriads of years before the first star shot out its morning light; and still billions and billions of years before until your mind is wearied in its backward flight, and you can call that the dawn of creation, yet the myriads of years before the remotest period you can mention. And yet we know that when we are laid in the dust and mould and forgotten by man, and the sun gets tired in her revolutions round the world, the earth and stars rolled up as a scroll yet eternity shall roll on and on, never ending in one eternal round. The same with space! It has kept pace side by side with time. There was always time and space—you could soar and soar through eternal space until your mind sickened and revolted at its flight and yet you would be no nearer the end of space than where you started.

God is the same, the everlasting, the infinite, the eternal cause of energy. Energy is something that we can not comprehend only in the abstract, it is vague at best; consequently we take effect and try to find out cause. That the earth points to God and the firmaments are his handiwork can not be successfully denied, all things point back to God the creator. As we said before all things are made on a plan of intelligence. Who can look upon man and say there is not intelligence in his structure; his head, that great and oval mass of brains, show a design. It was made on a system, atic and as we call it, a scientific plan. Any one knows that an oval form will sustain a greater shock with less injury than any other form. Suppose his head was made square; in that condition anything coming in contact with his head would not glance off, and thus he would be injured more or less. Its exterior is covered with what is called the scalp,—a soft substance; if this was bone or glass anything striking it would be liable to crack it. The brain is a very fine machine, and made to sustain a great amount of injury; if it were not so there would be more crazy than there is. How the brain conveys sense to man is more than we know. We can picture the frame, but we can not picture mind. We may imitate the brain and make all its functions, but it will not emit reason. We know the substance of which an acorn is formed yet no man can make one that will ever grow. The energy of which I have spoken is not there and consequently the artificial acorn lays in the ground and rots, the law of nature brings it not forth. The death of anything is not so remarkable as its birth. Life is the result of growth, while death is the result of decay. But the Deist says: Who made God? Is there not design in his structure, and wisdom in his make up? We say, Yes! There is mystery and we mortal men stand in the universe and say, All life is a mystery, each and every separate life that comes into the world is a mystery equal to that of God. Show me how man first partook of life; how he, each and every man, really got the life he now possesses. If we say that every life that comes into the world is a being of chance, we involve ourselves in difficulty. We not only make one God but myriads and myriads of Gods. I can prove beyond the shadow of doubt there is some acting energy, some life yet beyond and back of the law of nature unaccountable.

If by chance, why does not man come that way now? If we find a babe in the streets it would be good enough to say you found a little child, but older people know by the law of nature it must have had parentage. If chance once produced them it will produce them now. If the same laws and forces that once produced man were brought to bear, it certainly would produce him again. By a law of nature the sun is made to appear every twenty-four hours. That law of nature is still in operation and always will be until the same cause that made the law of nature says it is at an end. It is a law of nature that like causes produce like effect.

Does the Deist claim that cause produced man ages ago and that cause period of life is past? If that is the case then we will prove that there is something behind that law of nature. If the period of the cause of life is past then the period for making worlds is past, there was then a time when the heavens swaying loose in one eternal space was a perfect vacuum, void of the laws of nature. How then did the laws of nature begin? The beginning of the laws of nature is as hard to conceive and explain, as God. Two molecules did not meet to form matter without some acting cause or energy, and that acting was of intelligence. And again I say that the eye would not have been made if there was no object to see, the ear would not have been made if there was no sound wave and nothing to hear, the nose would not have been made if there was no odor to smell, the sensation of feeling would not have been made if there was no substance to feel, the stomach would not have been made was there no food to eat, thirst would not have been created had there been no water or anything to satisfy it. A man says, I am dry, yet he is told there is nothing in the universe that will allay that thirst. He hunts and finds water and is filled; he tells the other man that it is a fact that he found water and it satisfied him, yet do you suppose that man would disbelieve him because he did not see the water just then. I say, No. If I say, There is a God, for I have that organ which plainly speaks of Him, would I have that organ if there was no God? Invariably no! There would be no organ for loving or cherishing the other sex if there was no woman on earth. But stimulated hopes drive him onward to happiness and bliss. We frequently say the organ of worship would not be placed in man if there was no God to adore! I claim there is a cure for every ill if man could only find it out. There is a satisfying power in the universe if man will only seek God, and if I have sought God in faith believing, and find him an unchangable being, I have hope and know the dark and silent grave is but an opening into the pearly gates and can drink of the water of life freely. Upon the face of the Saints of God is written the smiles of hope; upon the infidel endless despair.

LETTER FROM ELDER T. W. SMITH.

WE are still here in the South seas; and expect to remain till we hear from the General Conference at least. The mission is in as good condition as can be expected of a people who are but civilized and not enlightened, and in intellect are but little more than children. Indeed the mental faculties of children of enlightened nations, at ten to twelve years of age, are as fully developed and are as vigorous as adults here. There are exceptions of course, just as some children of the age named are in advance of other children in point of intelligence. It is therefore unreasonable to expect more of these people than could be expected of children, and I doubt if they are any more responsible in the sight of God. Yet as parents become vexed, and their patience is tried to the utmost sometimes with unruly, disobedient, and perverse children, so we have been tried with some in every place here. This Island, called Tahiti, and improperly Otaheite, was opened to missionary labor, by missionaries sent out by the London Missionary Society in 1796, and who landed in the district of Matavai, about twenty miles from here, in March, 1797. The missionaries were Rev's James F. Cover, and wife and child; John Eyre and wife, John Jefferson and Thomas Lewis. They came out in the mission ship Duff. There has been a number of other missionaries sent to these and the Society Islands since then, among them the father of Mr. Richard Barff, who has done so much for us in the matter of translating the Tahitian into the English language.

The first missionaries sent out by our church were sent in 1843, and were Addison Pratt, Benjamin F. Grouard, William Hanks, and Noah Rogers. Hanks died on the way, and was buried at sea. On the way out they became acquainted with a Baptist minister named S. Lincoln, and after much argument on the subject of the latter day work, he became satisfied with the doctrine, and on arrival here he and his wife were baptized; they were the father and mother of Elder George S. Lincoln of San Francisco, who I am informed, was born in Papeete.

Addison Pratt located on Tahiti, Noah Rogers on Tubuai, and B. F. Grouard on Anaa. The first baptisms on Anaa, according to the records, were performed in 1845. Among the early converts to the faith in Tahiti was Bro. John Hawkins, a young Englishman from Maidstone, whom I rebaptized last October at Koukura. Grouard traveled among the Paumotus, or low coral isles, and established branches on a number of islands. As far as I can learn, Pratt remained on Tahiti most if not all the time, it being the seat or the capital of the whole country governed by Pomare, the native king. The inhabitants were nearly all Protestants, both in Tahiti and Anaa and the Paumotus.

About 1848 Brigham Young's church sent several missionaries here. These men were Jacobs, Hanks, (brother of the one that died on the way out), Brown and Simpson. Some were baptized by Brown on Anaa, and a number at Taroa and Tapoto by Hanks and Jacobs. At Tapoto I baptized about all who professed the latter day work. At Taroa there is a class who still claim Grouard to their father, but who were in fact baptized by the Brighamite elders. I refuse to receive them upon that baptism, and so they stay out, but we have a branch there however.

About 1852, after the French got possession of these islands, and while under the flag of the Empire, through the influence of Jesuit priests quite a persecution raged against our people, and the labors of the missionaries were brought to a close. Bro. Hawkins was allowed to remain on condition of taking a pledge to keep quiet about the doctrine of the church. The rest went away to America. Bro. Hawkins soon went into the business of a trader, and soon became careless about his duties and fell into various evil ways, until last October, when he concluded to renew his covenant and was ordained an elder at the conference. He might do quite a work here, but he is troubled with a rupture which prevents him from going away from home any distance. I hope the church at home will pray for him. He talks the Tahitian as well as a native. He is located on a small island called Aratua, about one hundred and eighty miles north-east of here, where he has some little property.

In 1875 brethren Gaud Roger and C. W. Wandell called here for about fifteen days, while the ship they were on was being repaired. They baptized some fifty-six, I believe, of the natives; some of them belonging to Maatea, Tikahau, Rairoa, Koukura and other islands, for nearly all the time there are some here from other islands on business or on visits to relatives or fetid. They ordained a number of elders, among them a very able man, (for a native), named Tere, who is buried at Koukura. He seemed to be able to grasp the faith fully, and as far as I can learn would have had the whole country awakened had he lived.

Tehopea seems to be considered by the natives as about the ablest man among them now, although Metuaoa, Tapuni and Tehu are considered smart men, and there are some good speakers, and quite intelligent men on other islands, such as Butuarau, Tehina, Laruta, Petero and Putaa on Anaa; and Pohemiti and Tevea on Niau; Tane Tarau of Tapota; Mahihu of Taroa; Teahi, Tane, Tufariva of Manihi; Putoa and Taiarea of Moturaa; Paiti, Teari, Mutaetaria, and others of Panau; Poiatu of Aputai; Tere of Aratua; Tamaru, Tehau, Taruia, Torohia and others of Avatoru; Taimana of Tiputa; Tutarahia, Marere and Tuturere of Tikahau; Wairarua, Tuu, Tara and Metua of Maatea.

Davy Brown can explain the Scriptures quite well. These men have quite a good understanding of the doctrine of the church. There are a number of other elders who comprehend the faith quite well but are not much as speakers. Bro. Herman Jonsen, a Swede, is quite well informed, and can explain the Scriptures very well. I have sent him about six hundred miles east to the islands of Hao, Amanu, and Tauere. Vaiarea of Moturaa had been there, about a year ago, and had baptized over five hundred people, but I afterward learned that there were some things that was not altogether straight about his course, so I sent Marau of Panau, and afterward Herman Jonsen. I have not heard from Jonsen since he left Taroa; he may not have reached there yet, as it is not often a vessel goes there. And when once there it is difficult to get away, or I should have gone there myself. In 1880 William Nelson came here and staid about six months and returned to California, and then came back here. The first time he could not get permission from the authorities to labor, but afterward did obtain liberty, and visited some of the Paumotus. He was recalled by Bro. Joseph, and Davy Brown was appointed in charge of the mission. We all supposed that Brown was an Englishman, and could read our books and papers, but when I came here I found that he was a Spaniard, born on the Isle of Manilla, and that he could not read a word of English, and could not understand nor talk it but very imperfectly.

If I had nor come when I did the church here would have been divided into scores of fragments. No one liked Brown's rulings or teachings, and the church was in rebellion to his authority everywhere; and there were certainly scores of native elders better qualified to take charge of the mission. The church was in better condition without any missionary for thirty years, than it was when I came here. A year or two more and it would have been destroyed. I can not explain here the influence at work, but one, and that is the persistent efforts of Jesuitical priests to take advantage of the divisions among the people, to present the picture of the unity, peace, and prosperity of the church of Rome, and by bribery, persuasion, and threats where they would work, they had drawn a number away. But I am confident that I came opportunely, and none too soon.

Some have thought that my coming away from America was contrary to the revelation of 1882. But we did not think so, for not only was the condition of the church different to what it was in 1882, but my coming did not prevent the quorum of the Twelve from acting as a quorum. If several had been sent away, so that there would not have been enough left in America to transact business, it would have been a different matter altogether. But Bro. Joseph did not understand that it was contrary to the revelation, or I should not have come.

I have organized branches of the church in the following places. (Where there are two names together, the first is the settlement or village and the last is the name of the island.) I will name them in the order of their organization, or as in cases their re-organization:—Taronā (at Papeete), Tahiti; Maatea; Tikahau; Avatoru, Rairoa; Tiputa, Rairoa; Panau, Koukura, Moturaa, Koukura; Aputai; Manihi; Taroa; Tapoto; Matativa, Anaa; Tuuhora, Anaa, Temarie, Anaa, Rotoava, Tarava; Neau; Ziona, Tahiti, Tieri, Tahiti, Aratua; in all nineteen, organized under my direction. At Tanga, Marekau, Roroia, and Makemo, branches were formed by Teahi of Manihi, whom I sent there; and at Hao, Amanu, and Tauere, by Vaiarea, or seven more. At Tubuai there are two branches which recognize us, but they need reconstructing. I have appointed Tehopea and Metuaoere to go there, which they will do after I leave here. There are several other islands where they claim to believe Grouard's teachings and call themselves the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; but through the influence of a malcontent named Maihea, a headstrong, ignorant, yet ambitious fellow, they refuse to come in with us. But they will discover his lies and lack of authority some day, and repudiate him. From what I have seen of them I do not feel like wasting any time in trying to influence them to come over to us.

I wrote to Benjamin F. Grouard three or four times and urged him to write a few lines and tell the people what he knows is true, that what he taught and that which we teach is the same thing, and is of the same church; but he does not seem to have interest enough in the people, or in matters pertaining to his original faith to write, although it might cause all the rebellious ones to come into union with us.

There is, however, about twenty-six branches which can be claimed to belong to the Reorganization, beside Tubuai. When I came there were but three branches that I could consider worthy of being recognized as ours, for all the rest were believing and practicing different things which we could not endorse. There are now five districts organized:—1. Tahiti and Maatea; 2. Tikahau and Rairoa; 3. Aputai, Aratua, Koukura and Niau; 4. Manihi, Taroa and Tapoto; 5. Anaa and Farava. Makemo, Marehau, Roroia and Tanga, have not been organized; nor Hao, Amaee, and Tauere. Each district has a conference on January and July 6th, and there are two general conferences—April and October 6th. The last one was held at Temarie, Anaa; the next is appointed at Manihi. There is a general secretary for the mission, D. M. Pohemite of Niau; assistant secretary, Tehu of Papeete. Each district has a president and secretary. The president of each district is re-elected at the conference in January, or a new one chosen, as the district may desire. Each branch in the district is required to help bear the burden of the conference, or the expenses of the branch where the conference is held. The meetings of the branches are as follows: on Sunday at seven a. m., preaching. At ten a. m. and three p. m., prayer and exhortation meetings, and on Tuesday and Friday evenings. Preaching on Wednesday morning at seven. Sister's meeting on Thursday afternoons. On Tahiti the Tuesday and Friday meetings are held at night—on all islands about four p. m.

The circumstances of the churches here are different to what they are on the Paumotus. Here the brethren and sisters have to work during the day, and can not get to meetings before night. On the Paumotus their time is their own, and they can go to meeting when they please. The people are passionately fond of singing, and they will sing hymn after hymn for five or six hours without intermission. At daybreak, whether on land or on the sea, they will be heard praying aloud. And at night they pray in their families. The spiritual gifts are not enjoyed by them, except the gift of healing and vision. They would not make wise use of prophecy, or tongues, or miracles, or discerning of spirits. Such is their childish natures that if one had the gift of prophecy, they would desire to prophesy continually, and the adversary would take advantage of it, and they would be tempted to prophesy out of their own hearts. And beside that every one would be envious, and rather than any one should get ahead of them, they would all desire the gift, and if not given, they would soon try to find fault with one that had it, and would seek to pick flaws at every opportunity. I have no desire to see them receive anything but faith, wisdom, knowledge, dreams and visions. The chief fault that these people have, and it is almost if not fully universal, and that is deceitfulness, or untruthfulness. Their promises can not be relied on at all. If it was occasionally, only when under great fear, or to escape punishment, or gain some important pecuniary advantage, it would not be so bad, but even then it would be sinful of course. But it seems as natural for them to lie as it is to eat, and that is saying a good deal, for eating and sleeping are the principal objects of their lives.

It is very discouraging in dealing with a people, when one feels that he can not place implicit confidence in anything they say. They have no conception of sin, as sin per se. They know, of course, right from wrong; but to comprehend the nature of sin, and to feel an abhorrence of it, and to abstain from it because it displeases the Father, is something apparently beyond their mental capacity. The preaching of an actual lake of fire and brimstone into which their spirits may be cast on account of sin, will have no effect whatever, for they believe that it is so far off that they have ample time for repentance. The certainty of immediate punishment by the government will have a hundred fold more effect than the fear of future punishment. To preach the love of God as an incentive to right doing, or the preaching of the sacrifice that Christ has made for them as an example for them to follow, has no effect; for strange as it may appear, these people seem insensible to the emotion or principle called gratitude. Do what you may for them, give your time, talents, means, health, and even life, for their benefit, and they can only see that you are doing your duty, or what they have a right to demand. All the edge is taken off the pleasure one would otherwise feel in laboring for their benefit, by that consciousness, or when it is realized that gratitude is an unknown emotion with them.

They are very fond of making feasts for visiting friends, but if the feast is not returned in full when they should return the visit, they would not make another for the other party. When one party makes a feast for visitors, and afterward go to the island or settlement where the visitors came from, the latter would be sure in some way to out do the other, either in killing large hogs, or more in number, or have something that the others had not provided. On the other hand, should they repeat the first visit, the other party would try to excel them. And often they will go into debt beyond their ability to pay, in order to be ahead. It is not hospitality, but pure selfishness, first and last, and love of pre-eminence. They are hospitable only because it is policy; and they give not as Jesus said, hoping for nothing again; but because they do hope, i. e., desire and expect to receive as much again, or more. I have seen hundreds of instances in proof that they are not hospitable from natural, generous impulses, but from custom merely, and that based on selfishness. But while that is so, I repeat what I have always said, that a half dozen elders, could be duly supported here; for each branch would give so to not be outdone by another, and also to keep the favor of the missionary. To illustrate my point; a year ago I started to collect donations for the aid of translating the Book of Mormon, Tekahau branch gave $6.80, then Avatoru branch gave me $7.20. I went to Niau where they gave me $9. Manihi would not be behind that, so gave $9.20. Tikahau collected enough more to make $9.40. Avatoru seeing this, raised theirs to $10.40. Niau hearing of this, afterward sent me $3.40 making $12.40. Avatoru does not know of this yet, nor does Tikahau know that Avatoru was ahead of them, and Manihi has not heard that Tikahau was a franc ahead of them. As they can afford it, I do not care how much one branch will out do another in helping a good cause. As there are some interested in the mission, I write this for their benefit.

T. W. SMITH.

PAPETE, Tahiti, May 6th.

Arthur B. Pierce, Box 500, North Attleboro, Mass.

Selections.

TWO GRAND MYSTERIES.

THERE are two grand mysteries confronting us in this world. One is the Jewish nation, which from the time of Abraham to the birth of Christ, held its position among the nations of the earth; the only people on the globe which lifted aloft the torch of divine revelation, and bore testimony concerning the one true God, in the presence of a debased, apostate, and idolatrous race. For successive ages, this little nation, insignificant in numbers, inhabiting a territory on the borders of the Mediterranean not as large as the state of Massachusetts, stood forth as a light-bearer in a world of darkness; and, notwithstanding their apostacies, rebellions, chastisements, defeats, and captivities, yet fulfilled their mission, and accomplished the divine purpose concerning them.

But, marvelous as was the ancient history of that little nation, which maintained its existence in the presence of great empires which rose and fell on every hand; unabsorbed by them in their prosperity, unentangled in the crash of their downfall, and ever coming to the surface when their oppressors had sunk into oblivion,—the subsequent history of that people has been still more marvelous. Without a king, without a prince, without a priest, without a temple; without a land, a province, or a city on the globe which they could call their own; persecuted, scattered, peeled, robbed, exiled, tortured, spoiled, oppressed, hated, despised, and dispersed through all nations, tribes, and lands,—yet still, notwithstanding all their defeats, captivities, and afflictions, which they themselves recognize as the chastisements of God, inflicted upon them for their disobedience and rebellion, this scattered nation lives, and thrives, and multiplies. Until the present day this people, without country, without government, without a ruler or head, and mingled among all the inhabitants of the globe, yet preserve their identity, their laws, their customs, their faith, their genius, and their power; and not only survive the downfall of their oppressors, and the overthrow of the cities and nations that have robbed and wronged them, but in the world's competitions, in the ranks of art, music, literature, science, finance, and business, they show themselves the peers of any, and the superiors of most, of those around them. And notwithstanding the brand of reproach, which has never been effaced from them, they still stand in the presence of friends and foes, the same unchanged, unconquerable, mysterious race.

Skepticism has never been able to solve the mystery that enwraps the Jewish nation. If the record of the origin and early history of that people be rejected, as too marvellous for belief, shall we not for the same reason reject their later history for the last eighteen hundred years, and deny the indisputable facts concerning them which meet us on every hand?

There is also another mystery for the skeptic to explain, and that is, the existence of the church of Christ on earth, to-day. Its origin is not lost in the misty ages of a remote antiquity; the whole period of its existence is covered by the records of authentic history, and its origin belongs to the domain of assured fact. Christianity, if we are to credit the testimony of skeptics, sprang from a Jewish impostor and enthusiast, who was despised and spurned and hated by the Jews as heartily as they have been despised and hated by others; and it was, according to skeptical ideas, built upon false teachings and baseless pretensions, ratified by miracles which never were wrought, and crowned and completed by the resurrection of a man who was not dead, or who, if dead, never rose from the grave. And so this whole superstructure was built upon a mere quagmire of uncertainty, imposition, and falsehood. This is the opinion of the infidel of the present time; it was the opinion of the world eighteen hundred years ago. Saul of Tarsus held this same view, and he showed his zeal by persecuting and slaughtering those who believed in Christ. But strangely enough, Saul the persecutor, turned one day to be Paul the apostle, and became the mightiest teacher the world has ever seen, of a doctrine which only brought him shame, reproach, persecution, and martyrdom. The Jews and Romans were sure that Christianity was a short-lived imposture, which would speedily die of itself; but after Jews, Romans, heathens, and infidels have toiled for eighteen centuries to destroy and uproot it, infidelity finds to-day that Christianity is stronger, and that Christians are more numerous than at any period in the history of the world.

The church of Christ arose in an age noted for proficiency in art, science, and literature, yet it had its origin among the humble people of a despised and insignificant province. The world at large hated and spurned it as a Jewish superstition, while the Jews fought against it as a false religion, which broke down the barriers of exclusiveness that had been built about them. Its birth was in the anguish and travail of fiery trials, and it was driven from its native soil by the red hand of persecution; and yet its fugitives went everywhere, proclaiming the word which they had learned to believe; and by this foolishness of preaching, this constant repetition of a story which infidelity has pronounced false, absurd, and impossible, it held its onward course through Asia Minor, Egypt, Greece, and Rome, everywhere opposed, everywhere persecuted, everywhere hated, and everywhere victorious; everywhere encountering the sophistries of the philosophic, the superstitions of the idolatrous, and the persecution of the civil powers; but yet cleaving its way through every obstacle, meeting sophistry by argument, superstition by testimony, and persecution by passive endurance and invincible love. Ever aggressive, unconquered, and unconquerable, in four centuries it had permeated the civilized world, worked its way through armies and governments, mounted to imperial thrones, spread beyond the farthest province ever ruled by Rome, subdued tribes and nations over which the banners of the Cæsars had never waved, and had laid its hand upon the genius, the art, the learning, and the literature of the world, and existed as the most magnificent force that ever operated upon the minds of men.

And when earth's mightiest empire was overwhelmed by the influx of barbarous tribes, Christianity conquered and subdued them; outlived the ages of gloom and darkness; sprang up afresh in the restoration of literature; lived through generations of skepticism, research, and inquiry; and still lives, to-day, holding the field of research and logic, commanding the assent of the mightiest minds, and refuting every opposing argument, except the sneers of scoffers who speak evil of the things they know not of, and the empty mockeries of men in whose eyes established facts are lighter than vanity, and ribald jokes more convincing than the strongest evidences.

And so, to-day, Christianity stands forth, in spite of external opposition and internal corruption, the grand source of modern civilization, learning, light, humanity, and freedom. Based, as infidels claim, upon utter falsehood, yet inculcating "whatever things are true;" itself a sham and imposture, a delusion and a snare, and yet the source of all that is truest and best in humanity; a mere tissue of superstitions and absurdities, and yet holding in its sway the mightiest and most polished intellects, and sharing the high seats where art and science are enthroned; existing in spite of all the hindrances and difficulties which have assailed it, it still lives as the one unconquered power which, more than all things else, sways the world, and influences it for good.

We submit these two problems for the consideration of the skeptics of the present day. And we ask them to account for the existence of the Jewish nation, dispersed through all the world, and the gospel of Christ, proclaimed among all nations; and account for their existence without admitting the cardinal facts related in the Book of God. The skeptics of our time have shown wonderful research in accounting for their own existence, tracing their pedigree back through long lines of apes and monkeys, to their ancestral mollusk in his primeval mud. Let them now exercise similar ingenuity on these two historic problems of the age: the Jewish nation, which has outlived all who have sought its overthrow, and has survived its conquerors and persecutors; and the church of Christ, which for eighteen hundred years has maintained its existence, not only against the malice and fury of its enemies, but in spite of the more fatal folly of its professed defenders and friends.

Here are the Jews before us, scattered among all nations, while their city and their land is trodden under foot of the Gentiles; and here is the church, preaching the gospel in all the world, and planting its standards on every shore, in spite of the world's idolatry, philosophy, and power, which have been combined to resist its progress. Why has not the Jewish nation been disintegrated, absorbed, and forgotten, like its ancient cotemporaries? Why has not the religion of Christ perished out of existence, like the idolatries which it assailed and the heathenism which it overturned? Why can not the Jews be blotted out of the list of nations? Can it be because God, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, still lives and watches over his wayward people, waiting to be gracious unto them? Why can not the church of Christ be swept from the face of the earth? Can it be because Christ has so built his church upon a rock, that the gates of hell can not prevail against it?—The Armory.

Conference Minutes.

NORTH-WEST KANSAS.

Conference convened at Cuba, Kansas, June 4th and 5th, 1887; Pres. Parsons in chair, H. R. Harder clerk. Branch Reports:—Goshen 50, no change. Twin Creek 41, 4 removed by letter, 1 died. Elmira 34. Deer Creek 11. Prairie Home 20. Official Report:—Elders Geo. W. Shute, G. W. Brownlee, Alma Kent, G. W. Beebe, H. R. Harder, A. H. Parsons, (baptized 1), J. D. Bennett; Priest E. M. Reynolds; Teachers E. D. Brownlee and Daniel Bergher reported. Bishop's Agent's report:—Balance due agent last report $3 36; received since $16. 50; Balance on hand $13.14. Motion concerning tent, tabled last conference was taken up and carried. Motion that the president instruct the brethren in the south-west, that they may organize. Moved by A. Kent that the officers of the branches be authorized to visit the members of their respective branches, inquire into their standing and desire to remain members of the church, and such as do not signify a desire to retain their membership, that their names be dropped from the record. Carried. The St. Mary's branch was disorganized, and the president and clerk authorized to issue letters of membership to such as are worthy. A. H. Parsons as elected president, and W. D. Jamison clerk. Adjourned to meet with the Deer Creek Branch, in Phillips county, September 3d, 1887.

SPRING RIVER.

Conference of above district was held at Mound Valley branch, Kansas, May 6th, 7th, and 8th, at Angola School-house, J. M. Richards secretary pro tem. Preaching by Bro. E. A. Davis Saturday morning. Mound Valley, Keighly, Webb City and Columbus branches reported. Moved by Bro. J. T. Davis that a committee of five be appointed to take into consideration the legality of the last conference at Webb City. Carried. W. S. Taylor, Bro. Francis, J. M. Richards, M. Turpin, and W. E. Westervelt, were appointed as said committee. At the afternoon session the committee reported the following: "We your committee find upon an examination of the evidence in the case of the last Webb City conference, that the action taken at that conference was illegal for the following reasons: First, Ignoring the advice of the district president postponing conference on account of reported sickness among the Saints. Second, From a lack of a proper representation as based upon pages 291 and 272 of Doctrine and Covenants. Nevertheless, we believe the three brethren in this district acted conscientiously in the matter, and we recommend that they be exonerated from all blame." Report of committee adopted and committee discharged. The following elders reported: J. T. Davis, Richard Davis, Benj. Davis, E. A. Davis, Orville Barmour, E. E. Wheeler, E. E. Bradley, O. Southerland, Jos. Hart, Wm. France, W. S. Taylor, J. M. Richards, Wm. Pender, Ole Olson, A. J. Hinkle, Moses Turpin, Martin Turpin, C. Severeen, Thos. Hayton. Teachers reported: E. Llewellyn, P. Simpson, R. Bird, Wm. Martin. Bishop's Agent's report read and accepted. E. E.

Wheeler, and Wm. Pender were appointed a committee to examine Agent's books and report at next conference. Bishop's Agent's report: Balance on hand at last report $5 20, received since $20.30, paid out to Evan Davis $14.30. Moved and carried that the brethren of the Keighly branch ordain to the office of an elder Bro. E. Keeler. Moved and carried that the report of committee concerning Sr. Llewellyn be accepted and committee discharged. Moved and carried that Bro. E. A. Davis be our president for the next three months, and Bro. W. Pender as district secretary. J. M. Richards preached Saturday evening; J. T. Davis Sunday morning, and E. A. Davis Sunday evening. Adjourned to meet in Columbus branch, on the first Friday in September.

CENTRAL MISSOURI.

District conference convened with the Alma branch, Saturday, June 4th, 1887, at ten o'clock, David Frampton presiding. The report of adjudicating committee was received and committee discharged. The committee appointed to visit the Carrollton branch reported their visit there, and committee was discharged. The following elders reported: P. P. Powell, G. W. Carter, J. Westwood, F. M. Miller, David Frampton, W. L. Booker and M. A. Trotter. Bro. David Powell, absent, reported by letter. Branch reports: Missouri River 19, 2 baptized; 1 teacher. Alma 32, 1 baptized. At 2 p. m. Elders W. T. Bozarth, from Far West district, J. B. Belcher and E. W. Cato, also priests Wm. Nuckles and Dravenstoit, and 2 teachers reported. The Bishop's Agent made the following report: On hand last report $5.35; received since $5; on hand $10.35. Bro. David Frampton was chosen president of the district for the next term, and M. A. Trotter clerk. Adjourned on Sunday night to meet on due notice by president of district.

NORTHERN ILLINOIS.

District conference convened with the Plano branch, June 4th, 1887, Bro. M. T. Short in the chair, by request of the district president, F. M. Cooper, W. Vickery secretary. Bro. Short then spoke to the Saints at some length about different things of great value to them. Plano 205, including 1 high priest, 8 elders, 6 priests, 3 teachers, 2 deacons, 4 received by certificate of baptism, 1 by letter; W. Vickery president, Geo. Blakely clerk. Burlington 32, including 3 elders, 1 priest, 3 baptized; Henry Southwick president, Sarah Askin clerk. Streator 27, including 2 elders, 1 priest, 1 teacher, 2 deacons, 2 baptized; A. Tarling president, Jacob Stanley clerk. Mission 113, including 2 elders, 1 priest, 1 teacher; T. Hougas president, Austin Hayer clerk. Courtland 17, including 2 elders; W. E. Cherry president, Fidelia Calhoun clerk. Braidwood 18, including 1 elder, 1 priest, 1 teacher, 2 received by vote, 3 by baptism; John S. Kier president. Sandwich, condition reported by James Woolams. No report from Amboy, Leland, Pecatonica, Janesville, Boone county, Marengo, Batavia, Piper City and First Chicago. Bishop's Agent, T. Hougas, reported on hand March 1st, 1887, $133.80; received since $5; paid out $100, leaving on hand a balance of $38.80. Bro. W. Vickery, Jacob Stanley and W. R. Calhoun were appointed a committee to audit Bishop's Agent's book. M. T. Short, seventy, reported; had baptized 2, blessed 2 children, preached 42 times since General Conference, distributed tracts, and sold four and a half dozens Voice of Warning. At two o'clock district president, F. M. Cooper, took the chair. Elder F. M. Cooper had baptized 3, solemnized 1 marriage, assisted in confirmation, and officiated in other duties; had preached twenty-nine times, including one funeral sermon, and attended twelve prayer and testimony meetings. Jacob Stanley, T. Hougas, J. S. Kier, W. Vickery, W. E. Cherry and S. H. Whitaker, reported; A. Delap, by letter, had preached turn about in the branch with Bro. Southwick; Francis J. Earl, also by letter, was endeavoring to make an opening at Hegewisch, Cook county, Illinois. Priests A. Tarling, H. J. Warby, S. H. Whitaker, acting priest of Plano branch, and teachers A. R. Wilcox and Walter Griffin reported. Delegate to General Conference, F. M. Cooper, reported having received $50 to defray his expenses to Conference and expended $26.60, leaving a balance of $23.40 to be returned to the district. The district secretary not having a book in which to record conference minutes, it was moved by T. Hougas, seconded by J. Stanley that sufficient of this fund be applied for the purchase of a book to keep minutes in, which motion prevailed. Moved by Bro. M. T. Short and H. J. Warby that the balance of this fund be turned over to Bishop's Agent. Bro. Vickery and Stanley offered as a substitute that there be a district treasury created and this money be retained in it for the future needs of the district. Substitute prevailed. Matter deferred concerning members of the former Braidwood branch, was called up, but it was thought best to let it drop. On motion W. Vickery was appointed district treasurer. Committee appointed to audit Bishop's Agent's book reported Agent's book not being at hand we ask to be continued until next conference; report accepted and committee continued. On motion Bro. F. M. Cooper was sustained as president of the district for the next four months, and W. Vickery secretary for the same time. On motion the authorities of the church were sustained in righteousness. Bishop's book from the Sandwich branch having been delivered to the district secretary, he was requested to keep it until the branch is reorganized and then return it. Preaching in the evening at eight o'clock by C. D. Carter. Sunday morning one was baptized by Bro. Cooper. At half past ten preaching by Bro. F. M. Cooper to a full house. At half past two sacrament and fellowship meeting in charge of Bro. J. S. Kier and T. Hougas; seven were administered to, six bottles of oil were consecrated; twenty-eight bore testimony, and the Saints were made glad by the testimony of the Spirit. At half past seven Bro. M. T. Short gave a stirring sermon on the authority given through the laying on of hands, at the conclusion of which the delegate further reported having turned over to the district treasurer $23.40. Adjourned to meet with the Mission branch, the time to be set by the district president.

WALES.

Conference met Sunday, June 12th, 1887, in usual place of worship, Aberaman, at 10. a. m., Bro. Wm. Morris in the chair, John D. Jones secretary pro tem. Bro. Thos. E. Jenkins very pointedly urged the importance of those in authority being slow in ordaining persons to God's holy priesthood—Melchisedec and Aaronic—unless having the witness of the holy Spirit that such an act is by God required. He also urged not only the acceptance of the late revelation, given at Kirtland, but better than all, reduce it to practice. Bro. Jenkins having translated it into the Welsh language, thereby enabling the Welsh race or nation in understanding the Lord's onward requirements of his people. Minutes of last conference were read and finally accepted after slight correction. Branch Reports:—Aberaman, Cardiff, Rhondda, Merthyr, and Ogmere. Resolved, that no officer be permitted hereafter to ordain any one to the priesthood without the consent or sanction of this district when in conference session. Preaching during the summer in the open air was wisely requested and urged. Resolved, that J. D. Jones, Wm. Morris and John Lewis be a committee to visit certain slothful elders and reclaim them if possible, and report at next conference. Number of officers present: 1 seventy, 9 elders, 3 priests. The meeting at 2, p. m., was given for testimony, singing, prayer and manifestations of God's Spirit. Twelve bore testimony to the truth of the work; two prophesied; two spoke in unknown tongues, giving their interpretation, warning all to continue faithful, as very serious things were about to transpire on the earth, yes, and in this place. All the spiritual and temporal authorities of the church general without naming were sustained, and especially those appointed in our own province, Wales, Thos. E. Jenkins, president of this mission; J. D. Jones, traveling missionary; Wm. Morris president of this district, including all the presiding elders of their respective branches. At five p. m., on the wayside, in the open air, J. Jenkins and J. D. Jones spoke to a fair assembly of listeners, while the interest seemed to increase as the crowd continued flocking. At sister Evans' at 6:30, p. m., J. O. Evans and J. Jones were the speakers—one in Welsh, the other in English, which is customary among this people, giving the two nations the same privilege of hearing the word. This day has been a time of refreshing from the Lord, there being not even the slightest jar in all our deliberations, peace and pure love of our God, renewing each, we trust, to true works of gospel activity. Adjourned to meet the second Sunday in September in the working mens' Coffee Tavern, Merthyr, at ten a.m.

INDEPENDENCE.

This district conference met in the Saints' Chapel, Independence, Missouri, June 4th, at ten a.m. I. N. White in the chair, T. W. Chatburn clerk. Branch reports: Armstrong 109; 1 marriage. Independence 503; 3 died, 2 marriages. First Kansas City 28; 1 died. Clinton 36, no change. Holden 19. Eldorado Springs 38. Reports: Elders F. C. Warnky, E. Curtis baptized 14, organized one branch of 19 members and a Sabbath School, S. O. Waddell, S. Hogue, J. Curtis, B. Myers, J. W. Brackenbury baptized 1, W. S. Loar, F. G. Pitt, J. H. Lee, S. Crum, J. H. Robinson, J. Luff, W. Newton baptized 12, I. N. White baptized 8, J. Emmett and T. W. Chatburn; Priests R. May, D. F. Winn and J. Tankard. Bro. S. Hogue having lost his elder's license, the clerk was authorized to issue one to him. I. N. and D. C. White were authorized to dispose of the chairs belonging to the district, now at Clinton, and report to next conference. Pres. White spoke very feelingly to the conference, giving in detail the growth of the work, and in consequence the marked change in public opinion; the many openings; the glorious outlook for the future; urged the elders to buckle on the armor and work while the day lasts. Under a suspension of rules Bro. I. N. White was elected president by acclamation for the next six months, and T. W. Chatburn clerk. Preaching Saturday evening by W. Newton; Sunday morning by J. Luff, and evening by E. Curtis and I. N. White. Adjourned to meet at Independence, September 3d, 1887, at ten o'clock.

Miscellaneous.

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

The conference of the North-East Missouri district will convene August 27th and 28th, at Bevier. All are cordially invited to attend. Bro. Joseph R. Lambert is expected.

JOHN TAYLOR, Pres.

MARRIED.

LAWRENCE—KENDALL.—At Hay Springs, Nebraska, May the 5th, 1887, Mr. M. F. Lawrence to Sr. S. E. Kendall—Judge Engbert officiating.

DIED.

REESE.—At Pleasanton, Decatur county, Iowa, July 6th, 1887, of cholera infantum, Evelyn, infant daughter of Bro. Windsor and Sr. Jessie Reese. Little Evelyn was born January 5th, 1887; was blessed Sunday, June 5th, by elder James Whitehead, of Alton, Illinois. Funeral services conducted by Duncan Campbell.

COOKE.—At St. Louis, Missouri, April 30th, 1887, of old age, Fanny Warden Cooke. She was born March 31st, 1810, and at her death was 77 years, 1 month old. She was baptized in England, February 3d, 1841; united with the Reorganization in the spring of 1864, and remained true to her covenant. Service at the grave by Elder W. O. Thomas.

JONES.—Near Malad City, Idaho, June 11th, 1887, sister Margaret Jones, of Deer Lodge City, Montana, in the 47th year of her age. Sister Jones was on a visit to her mother when she was stricken down by the hand of death. She was a native of south Wales; came to Utah in 1857, but found nothing there to reward her for the toil and deprivation she suffered to get there.

She was among the first that received the Reorganization in Malad valley in 1865, receiving the ordinances at the hands of Elder William L. Jones. She leaves a husband and four grown children to mourn her departure. She will be held in honorable remembrance by many elders that have partaken of her hospitality. Her sleep must needs be peaceful, her rest glorious.

LANYON.—In Little Sioux, Iowa, at the residence of Mrs. Butts, her daughter, Mrs. Sophia Lanyon, of flux and old age, aged 77 years, 2 months and 21 days. She united with the Reorganized Church in 1861, and ever remained a faithful member. The funeral services were conducted by Elder J. F. McDowell.

BURNHAM.—James Matson Burnham was born in Escambia county, Alabama, June 23d, 1865, and died May 2d, 1887. He was the oldest son of James A. and Caroline Burnham. He joined the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ in the summer of 1875, and was baptized and confirmed by Elder John T. Phillips. He was in his right mind through all his sickness to the last breath. He saw the heavens open and saw his mother, and said he was going to her, and was prepared to meet his God in peace: said that he would see us all again in the first resurrection. Elder A. H. Smith preached the funeral discourse on the second Sunday in June.

FISHER.—At the residence of F. M. Courters, his son-in-law, near Eight Mile, Morrow county, Oregon, June 30th, 1887. Andrew Fisher departed this life, aged 74 years and 10 months. He was a member of Union branch in Southern Indiana, where he embraced the gospel in June 1873. Singing and remarks at the grave by S. J. Gerking, a Christian speaker.

ELLEN FISHER.

DATGUDDIAD.

A RHODDWDYD YN KIRTLAND, OHIO,
EBRILL YR 11EG, 1887.

AT HENURIAID YR EGLWYS.

Fel hyn y dywed yr Yspryd:

1. Nid oes anghenrhaidd ei gorwm y deuddeg gael ei lanw; er hyny, neillduwch fy ngweision, James W. Gillen, Heman C. Smith, Joseph Luff, a Gomer T. Griffiths, I'r swydd o Apostolion, fel y byddo y corwm fod yn fwy perffaith i weithredu ger fy mron. Y mae genyf ddyinion eraill yn fy eglwys a gânt eu nodi allan yn eu hamser os parhant yn ffyddlan i mi yn y gwaith ac y maent yn nawr wedi eu galw.

2. Y mae gwaith mawr i'w wneud gan fy henuriaid, ac fel y byddont yn addas i wneud y gwaith yma a'i gwblhad beidio gael ei rwystro, y mae yn ddyledus arnynt i fod, nid yn unig yn garuaid o galon ac yn isel o yspryd, fel y byddo eu doethineb yn ddoethineb yr Arglwydd, a'u nerth yn nerth yr Yspryd, ond hefyd y maent i rhoddi heibio ymadroddion ysgafn a dullwedd ysgafn pan yn sefyll i gyhoeddi y gair, ac ymdrechu gwneud eu gweiniogaeth yn gymeradwy gan y bobl trwy araeth deg a dullwedd hawddgar, fel megis gweiniogion yr efengyl y gallant enill eneidiau at Grist.

3. Yr henuriaid a phobl yr eglwys ddylent fod o galon a gwynebryd hawddgar yn eu plith eu hunain, ac yn eu ymwneud a'u cymydogion a phobl y byd, er hyny yn ddifeus mewn gair a gweithred. Gan hyny, nid yw yn weddus iddynt ymarfer ag ymadroddi yn uchel a bloeddgar, neu mewn adrodd chwedlau amhur a difoes, neu y rhaf y mae enwau Duw a'u Gwarderw yn cael eu cablu. Dynion Duw, y rhaf sydd yn dwyn llestri yr Arglwydd, byddwch yn lanwedd yn eich cyrph ac yn eich gwisgach; bydded eich dillad o ddullwedd sylm, yn rhydd o addurniadau eithafol. Gochelwch ymarfer a dybacco, ac na fyddwch yn chwanoch i ddiodydd cryfion yn unrhyw ffurf, fel y byddo eich cyngor i fod yn dymherus ac yn ddylanwadol drwy eich esiamp.

4. Fel y byddo y waith, yr adferiad i ba un y mae pobl fy eglwys yn edrych ymlaen, gael ei brysuro yn ei amser, rhaid i'r henuriaid beidio bod yn rhy ofalus yngylch dychwellaidd y rhaf a fuont yn y ffydd ond a orchfygwyd yn y dydd cymylog a thywyll, rhag ofn iddynt ddwyn i mewn gyffellionnadau dirgelaid i ddadymchwelyd y gwaith; canys, yn wir, y mae rhaf ag sydd yn llestri dewisol i wneud daioni, pa rhaf a ddeithrwyd trwy faglau rwystrawl ag sydd yn y byd, pa rhaf a dychwelant mewn amser priodol at yr Arglwydd, ac na rwystrir hwynt gan bobl yr eglwys. Yr Yspryd a ddywed "deuwch;" na fydded i weision Crist rwystro eu dyfodiad.

5. Yr yspryd a ddywed ymhellach: Ymryson-au ydynt yn anweddaiidd; gan hyny, peidiwch ymryson yngylch y sacrament a'r amser i'w gweinyddu, canys pa un a'i ar ddydd cyntaf yr Arglwydd o bob mis, neu ar ddydd yr Arglwydd o bob wythnos, os caiff ei gweinyddu gan swyddogion yr eglwys o galon ddiwyll a bwriad pur, a'i gymeryd er cofadwriaeth am Iesu Grist, ac yn wirfoddol gymeryd ei enw Ef arnynt hwy a gyfranogant, y mae yn gymeradwy gyda Duw. I atal anrhefn bydded i'r hwn sydd yn llywyddu cwrdd y cymun, a rhaf a weinyddant, beri fod yr elfenau wedi eu parotol i llestri glan i'r bara, a llestri glan i'r gwin, neu ar ddydd fel byddo yr anghen; ac fe all y swyddog dori y bara cyn ei fendithio, a thywallt y gwin cyn ei fendithio; neu fe all, os felly y caiff ei arwain, fendithio y bara cyn ei dori, a'r gwin cyn ei dywallt; er hyny, dylai y bara a'r gwin gael eu didoi pan yn cael eu gosod ger bron er gofyn bendith arnynt. Y mae yn well i'r bara a'r gwin i gael eu gweinyddu yn gynar yn y cyfarfod cyn y flinder neu anrhefn gymeryd lle. Bydded i'r hwn sydd yn ymatal, a'r hwn sydd yn cyfranogi, beidio ymryson a'i frawd, fel y byddo y nail a'r llall gael llehad pan yn bwyta ar frwdd yr Arglwydd.

6. Y gwasanaeth o ganu yn nhy yr Arglwydd mewn gostyngeddrwydd a undeb yr yspryd ynddynt hwy sydd yn canu a rhaf sydd yn gwranddo sydd fendithiol a chymeradwy gyda Duw; ond canu a thristwch gofidus yn y rhaf sydd canu, a chwerwedd yspryd yn y rhaf sy'n gwranddo, nid yw yn foddhaol i Dduw. Gan hyny, yn holl gynulleidfaeodd pobl Dduw, bydded i gynenhau ac ymryson yngylch canu derfynu; ac fel y byddo addoliad yn nhy yr Arglwydd fod yn gyflawn a derbynol, bydded i'r rhaf a duedd i'r dymuniad a rhodd i ganu gymeryd arnynt y baich a gofal y gwasanaeth, gan arfer offerwr cerdd y chwibanogel a'r tanau, a'u ddeddf bres mewn cynulleidfaeodd mawrion, fel y bydded doethineb a dewisiad yn cyfarwyddo. Bydded i'r gwir ieuainge a'r gwryfion feithryn y talentau o gerddoriaeth a chanu; ac na fydded i canol oed a'r hen anghofo llawenydd eu ieuengtyd, a bydded iddynt gynorthwyo mor bell a byddo amgylchiadau yn caniatáu, a chofio fod saint i fod yn llawen yn eu milwriaeth, fel y gallant orfoleddu yn eu goruchafiaeth. Er hyny, bydded i'r organ a'r offernyau o bres a'r tanau fod yn ddystaw pan fyddo y saint yn gynulliedig i weddjo a thystiolaethu, fel na byddo i deimladau y tyner a'r blinderus gael ei ormesu. I feithryn undeb yn y gwasanaeth o ganu yn yr eglwys, y rhaf yr ymddiredwyd iddynt parotol llyfr canu, gallant frysio eu gwaith yn eu hamser.

7. Yr Yspryd a ddywed yn mhellach: Yn gymaint a bod llawer o ddadeu wedi bod yn y gorphenol yngylch Sabbath yr Arglwydd, yr eglwys a rhybuddi'r mai hyd y derbyniont ddat-guddiad pellach, neu y gorwmau yr eglwys ymgasglu ynghyd i benderfynu yngylch y gyfraith yn reolau yr eglwys a'r cyfammodau, y saint ydynt i gadw y cyntaf o'r wythnos, a elwir yn gyffredin dydd yr Arglwydd, yn ddydd orphwys, yn ddydd i addoli, megys y rhoddydd yn y cyfamodau a'r gorchymynion. Ac ar y dydd hwn y maent i ymatal oddiwrth waith dianghenrhaidd; er hyny, ni ddylai dim gael ei adael i fyned i ddystryw ar y dydd hwn, na gwaith anghenrheidiol ei esgeulso. Na fyddwch yn llym yn eich barn, ond yn drugarog yn hyn, fel yn mhob peth arall. Na fyddwch rhagrithwyr nag o'r rhaf sydd yn gwneyd dyn yn droseddwr am air.

8. Ewch yn mlaen a'r gwaith cenhadol, yn y wlad yma a thramor mor bell ag äng ag y galloch. Pawb sydd wedi eu galw, yn nol doniau Duw iddynt, ac fel y byddo i bawb weithio ynghyd, bydded i'r hwn sy'n llafurio yn y weiniogaeth, a'r hwn sydd yn trafferthu yng ngalwadigaethau dynion ac mewn gwaith, lafurio ynghyd gyda Duw er cyflawni y gwaith a ymddiriedwyd i bawb.

9. Byddwch lanwedd, byddwch gynil, rhoddydd heibio achwyn am boen ac afiechyd a blinder y corph; cysgwch yn yr oriau mae Duw wedi ei drefnu er adnerthu a chryfhau y corph a'r meddwl; canys y mae rhai yn nawr, hyd yn oed yn mhlith yr henuriaid ac sydd yn dyoddef mewn meddwl a corph, o herwydd diystyru cynghor yr Yspryd, i fyned i orphwys yn gynar a chodi yn foreu, fel y byddai i egni meddwl a corph gael ei gadw. Dygwch feichiau y corph, pa rhai nad yw Yspryd iachael oddiwrth yr Arglwydd mewn ffydd, neu drwy gymmeryd yr hyn mai doethineb yn gyfarwyddo, yn rhyddhau neu eu symud, ac mewn modd hawddgar gwnewch yr hyn y caniateir i chwi wneud fel y byddo y fendith o heddwch fod ar bawb. Amen.

HOLINESS.

MEN pray for holiness as if it were something apart from their every day life; something that had nothing at all to do with their domestic, social and business relations. They sing, "Nearer, my God, to Thee," with glowing fervor but never think that the prayer can be answered only by the uplifting of their own lives to the plane of God's requirements. Holiness is not mere sentiment; not a vague vision of glory hanging over us like a heavenly cloud; not a rapture nor an ecstasy; not something that God sends down to wrap around us like a garment in its radiant folds.

If being holy means anything at all it means being true, honest, upright, pure, gentle, patient, kind and unselfish. We really have no more religion than we get into our every day practice. Wherein our devotion is higher than our living it counts for nothing.—Christian Standard.

The Sisters' Aid Society of Independence branch have for sale for the benefit of the new church, two Cabinet Photographs: one of the THREE WITNESSES, with views of the WILL CUMORAH and the WINDMILL on the PLACES; the other of the OLD CHURCH as it now stands, for 25 cts each. Those desiring to purchase can address Mrs. B. C. Smith, box 61, Independence, Missouri. 23jul3m

AUTUMN LEAVES.

THE MAGAZINE

Which we propose starting for the homes of Zion will be a royal octavo of 64 pages. It will be issued from the Herald Office, Lamoni, Iowa, monthly, and will contain departments adapted to every want of the family. The choicest scraps of Literature, History, Biography, Poetry; and well selected current events, together with the latest and most reliable events connected with Palestine and the Jews will be among its contents. Everything of a character tending to elevate—to make better men and women of those who are now boys and girls, in the home circle—will be introduced and fostered; while everything of a character contrary to this will be strictly excluded.

THOSE WHO ARE WILLING TO AID

In this enterprise will please send in their names at as early a day as convenient; and when the list shall amount to fifteen hundred we will complete arrangements for its early issue, and promise to furnish yearly nearly 800 pages of choice reading matter, for the moderate sum of $1.25.

WE ASK THE TRAVELING MINISTRY,

And friends of the latter day work generally, to solicit names for us. (Do not accept or remit any money until notified so to do.) We will notify the Herald readers from time to time of the increase in subscription list. We now have quite a number of names, but have as yet made no especial effort.

☞ Terms (strictly cash in advance) $1.25 per year. M. WALKER.

TO HOPE SUBSCRIBERS.

On and after January 1st, 1887, the Hope will be sent to subscribers as follows:

Single copies, per year.....50c.
Over 4 copies and under 10, to one address, each.....40c.
Ten copies and over, to one address, each...35c.

Subscriptions to be paid in advance unless otherwise arranged for by subscribers.

ZION'S HOPE

Is published every Saturday by the Church of Christ, at Lamoni, Iowa. Single copies, per year, 50c; packages of four to ten 40c; packages of over ten 35c.

PUBLICATIONS ISSUED AND FOR SALE

—) BY THE (—
Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church,
at their Publishing House in
LAMONI, DECATUR CO., IOWA,
And sent Free of Postage at prices named.

Holy Scriptures.

Inspired Translation by Joseph Smith the Prophet.
Sheep or Library binding.....1 50
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....2 00
Full Morocco, gilt edges.....2 50
New Testament, inspired edition..... 75

Book of Mormon.

Roan, sprinkled edges.....1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....1 50
Full Morocco, gilt edges.....1 75

Doctrine and Covenants.

Sprinkled Sheep, or Library.....1 25
Imitation Morocco.....1 50

The Saints' Harp—Hymn Book.

Imitation Morocco, marbled edges.....1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....1 50

Life of Joseph the Prophet, History of the Reorganized Church, and Autobiography of Joseph Smith.

In Cloth, full gilt finished, very handsome.....2 25
This book contains 827 pages of large, clear reading matter; also, three very fine Steel Engravings, and a fac simile of the Autograph of Joseph the Prophet and Emma, and of Joseph Smith; also, Steel Engraving of Hyrum Smith. A complete history of the Church up to 1880.

Joseph Smith the Prophet, and His Progenitors.

Muslin Boards, 312 pages, by Lucy Smith..... 75
Leather Binding.....1 00

Hesperis.

Poems by David H. Smith, 202 pages, fancy cloth, gilt edges.....1 50

Rules of Order and Debate.

For all Deliberative Assemblies of the Church; also, a Chapter on Branch Rules, and one on Reports of Branches and Districts; 128 pages, limp cloth..... 40

Joseph the Seer.

His Prophetic Mission Vindicated, and the Divine Origin of the Book of Mormon Defended and Maintained. Paper covers 200 pages..... 35
☞ This is a reply by Elder W. W. Blair to Elder William Sheldon of the Second Advent Society, and is an important work to be in the hands of the ministry of the Church, especially; and it is a most excellent one to be circulated both in the Church and among those without, abounding in proofs ever before presented in defense of Joseph Smith and the Book of Mormon.

Voice of Warning.

And Instruction to all People, on the Doctrine and History of the Latter Day work; 128 pages
In Paper Covers, twelve for $1.....each 10
Limp Cloth Covers, each..... 25

Prophetic Truth.

Confirmed in the appearing of the Book of Mormon an Israelitish Record of a Fallen People; paper covers; five for $1.....each 25
☞ Being the Subject of an Evening's Conversation Respecting its Origin. Its Divinity Proved by the Scriptures and Collateral Evidence. Prefaced with a Brief Sketch of the Life of the Prophet, showing the way and manner of his becoming possessed of the Record.

Branch Records.

Leather backs and corners, muslin sides; printed headings, and ruled for Record of Names, Blessing of Children, and for Marriages.....2 00

District Records.

Printed and bound similar to Branch Records.....3 00

Licences, Notices, &c.

Elders, Priests, Teachers, and Deacons Licences, each per dozen..... 12
Blank Preaching Notices, per hundred, 40c. and..... 50
Baptism and Confirmation Certificate books, with blank stub, 35 for..... 25

Certificates and Reports.

Branch Statistical Reports, per dozen..... 40
Annual Statistical Reports, two for..... 10
Certificate of Baptism and Membership, per dozen..... 12
Certificate of Removal, per dozen..... 12
Marriage Certificates, per dozen..... 25

"Manuscript Found."

We have for sale at this office the notorious "Manuscript Found," written by Rev. Solomon Spaulding, about which so much has been said in connection with the theory that it furnished Joseph Smith and S. dney Rigdon the chief ground work and material from which to write the Book of Mormon. Has 144 pages 8 mo.; single copies, in cloth, 25 cents; 10 copies or more to one address, 20 cents each; in paper, single copies 15 cents; 10 copies or more, to one address, 13 cents each.

Lamoni and Vicinity.

Those wishing to become acquainted with Lamoni and vicinity, will do well to subscribe for

THE LAMONI GAZETTE

A weekly paper, now published by
LAMBERT & HANSEN.

decl11f

J. H. HANSEN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Will practice in Lamoni and vicinity; calls made at all hours. Office in Drug Store of Hansen & Walker, Lamoni
MIDWIFERY and DISEASES of WOMEN a Specialty
☞ Residence one block East Teal's Store. 14feb1y

WORK FOR ALL. Brothers and Sisters, you can make good wages selling our new SPECIALTIES JUST OUT. Samples and term free to agents. B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Illinois. 2ymartf

"A BOOK FOR THE PEOPLE."

CAPTIVATING! USEFUL! Eloquent Discussions, and Diplomatic Papers on the Great Public Questions of the Past and Present, by JAMES G. BLAINE.

Embracing his masterly arguments on the vital issues in the Anti-Slavery Struggle, the All Important Labor Question, Prohibition, Irish Home-Rule, etc., etc. ☞ A FORTUNE FOR BOOK CANVASSERS! APPLICATIONS FOR TERRITORY COMING IN WITH A RUSH! THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING CO., NORWICH, CT.

WHEN YOU TRAVEL

Take the
Line selected by the United States Government to carry the Fast Mail,—the

As it is the Line running through Towns to and from the following cities and towns on its own Lines:

- CHICAGO,
- AURORA, OTTAWA,
- STREATOR, ROCKFORD, DUBUQUE,
- LA GROSSE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS,
- MENDOTA, PEORIA, GALESBURG, ST. LOUIS,
- QUINCY, KEOKUK, BURLINGTON, WASHINGTON,
- OSKAHOOSA, DES MOINES, CHARITON,
- GRESTON, ST. JOSEPH, ATCHISON,
- KANSAS CITY, NEBRASKA CITY,
- OMAHA, COUNCIL BLUFFS,
- LINCOLN & DENVER,

Making Direct Connections

- TO AND FROM
- NEW YORK,
  - BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON,
  - CINCINNATI, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON,
  - NEW ORLEANS, LOUISVILLE, SAN FRANCISCO,
  - LOS ANGELES, SALT LAKE CITY, COLORADO AND
  - PACIFIC COAST RESORTS, CITY OF MEXICO,
  - PORTLAND, OREGON, MANITOBA,
  - VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND POINTS.

Good Equipment,
Good Service,
Good Connection.

For information concerning the Burlington Route, apply to the nearest Ticket Agent of the C., B. & Q. or connecting railroads.

HENRY B. STONE, PAUL MORTON,
General Manager, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Train Leaves Lamoni, Going East at 1:45 p.m.
Do. do. West 2:53 "

At Bethany Junction, 3 miles east of Lamoni
Trains pass going South at 3:07 a.m. Going East and West, pass at 12:10 a.m.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEarken TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAVE IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.
"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 34.—Whole No. 741.

Lamoni, Iowa, July 30, 1887.

No. 31.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

Business letters and subscriptions must be sent to David Dancer, by P.O. Order, Registered letter or express Entered as second class matter at Lamoni Post Office.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH . . . . . EDITOR.
W. W. BLAIR . . . . . ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, July 30, 1887.

"CENT PER CENTUM."

"THIS rule of 'cent per centum,' returns for 'dollars' and 'dimes' invested, has become so prevalent a principle in the mercantile world, that it would seem that 'barter and sale' had corrupted every fountain from which flow the streams of intercourse among the children of men.

"There should be (and there is supposed to be) commercial honesty existing among men. But whether this honesty should, by moral equity, be carried beyond the strict pale that guards commercial circles, is questionable; so far, at least, as the actions of business men declare in their religious association.

"The question, 'is he honest as well as capable,' is asked by the merchant when essaying to find a clerk to serve him in the condition of salesman, or book keeper; while the main question upon change respecting this same merchant is, 'is he sound?' That is to say, 'will he pay.'

"The standard value then, of the business man is the 'dollar' or 'cent per centum' which he carries in his pocket.

"It would sadly startle, as well as confound and pain, the pious reformers who are the putative fathers of several forms of orthodox (?) worship and church government, to observe the now very great, but rapidly getting to be greater, difference between the requisite characteristics necessary to fill the early and the later pulpit.

"The tinselled embellishments which are now thrown round the popular pulpit, and its incumbent, are of such a character, that, like the Georgian slave exposed to the gaze of bidders in the open mart, the points of promise, the already matured form for service, or charms for lust, are the subjects for discussion, and the mercantile axiom, 'cent per centum,' is the standard for 'barter and sale.'

"Men of modern theories of political and theological government, cry out bitterly, inveighing fiercely against the principle of slavery which exposes a man for sale to bodily bondage; but with well weighed measure of worldly wisdom gathered from the school in which they are taught, these same men do not hesitate to bid for man exposed to public sale to mental and moral servitude; holding to the principle that in this, as in all other business transactions, man, like all things exposed in the mart for sale 'is worth just what he will bring in the market.'

"To buy, by 'lobby' (the third house in our legislature) effort, our senators and representatives, in the State or the National legislature, is regarded as successful financiering; and while the man known to have been bought is denounced, as traitorous to his constituency, and a disgrace to his compeers, the commercial value of the successful manipulator is enhanced by the amount of 'cent per centum' returned by the operation.

"There used to be two houses in the early modern orthodox (?) churches, the servants and the served. The served were the people who feared God and desired to worship him. The servant was one who also feared God and tried to serve him. In his character as a servant of the people, he preached the tenets of church faith and dogmas of church government, with direct reference to the good of the people, and the approbation of God. To be accounted successful he must be honest, not in the character of dollars and cents merely, but honest in his convictions, devout in his soul, and devoted to his work; having no fear of the people, but hurling the thunder of the law against transgressors WITHIN, as well as those without the church.

"The chief boast of such men was, that they were not for sale. No consideration of salary moved them to bow the knee to man, or withhold the meed of virtue or the gage of crime. Their principles were theirs by right of gift from God; and to ask them to swerve from the declaration of truth as held by them, was to call up the blush of shame, and start from their quiver the ever ready arrows of indignant remonstrance.

"The Master to whom these men looked for their pay, was He whom they feared; their hire, 'the souls of men;' their employer, Christ, the Lord.

"Now, (in these modern times), there is the third house—the Trustees of the church, (building), and this third house—for shame, how man has fallen—like the third in National councils, buy and sell 'cent per centum,' the ministers of God.

"No longer is the question potent for his hire: 'Is he honest; honest in principle, honest in thought?' 'Will he swerve from duty, or hide a truth?' But in the place of these, 'Will it pay?' 'Is he smart?' 'Will he take with the people?' 'What is his salary, and how much can we afford to pay?'

"Doctors of Divinity that will draw like a Jew David's plaster; tickle a laugh, or compel a tear; one whose qualifications command a price on the ecclesiastical board of trade; one who preaches up to and for his salary; one who is paid by the people, and can put money into the church coffers by reason of superior talent at church begging, command high prices in the mart, and are for sale, 'cent per centum,' and are "worth what they will bring in the market," for 'the money will bring the man.'

"These, for adequate compensation in money, are ready, like recreant senators, to sell out their sense of right, their light and intelligence to please a people; whose breath of praise, or censure, is poisoned by the miasma of pride, folly, fashion, love of display and personal vanity; and is as fickle and fluctuating as the price of national currency, bearing the unmistakable mark of 'cent per centum,' 'barter and sale.'

"Thank God for a gospel taught by a man, who, when sold, was sold to his death that we might live.

"Thank God for men that dare to tell the truth. Men whose salaries are paid by the Master on presentation of integrity unsullied, principles unsold; a life never disgraced by a barter and sale; a moral rectitude not offered in the market to be bidden for as a thing for purchase; a manhood, that in the panoply of virtue, can afford to preach the 'power of God' 'to the poor,' without money and without price; a soul that in the things of 'the life to come' is above 'cent per centum.'"

March, 1869.

CONTROVERSY SOMETIMES NECESSARY.

A BROTHER writes: "I regret, very much, the controversies that have been waging in the HERALD, and I know they have deterred some from taking the HERALD, and have done harm."

No one more earnestly deploras controversy in the HERALD than do we; and we would be greatly obliged to him who would point out to us either a cure or preventive.

It is suggested that the Presidency should settle, authoritatively, questions upon which there seems to be radical differences. Or that the Editors should, using their prerogative, refuse to print matters either originating or continuing controversy. The effect of the latter course, in the past, has been to involve the editors in a personal controversy with some, as to the reasons why an article was refused, and protesting against exclusion upon the ground that it was unjust and improper, the HERALD being the organ of all, and not the editors' alone. The first named course is open to the objection that it is in the nature of priesthood domination and will not be submitted to, unless the reasons shall be given and shall be found good upon examination before the bar of the public opinion of the church; thus involving controversy—of a different nature truly, but equally bitter, possibly worse in its tendency than that which is complained of.

It is commonly supposed that one of the duties imposed upon an Editor is the correcting of wrong sentiment so far as his knowledge permits; and in the case of a religious organ, like the HERALD, to maintain the faith of the body for which the organ is published, from invasion by its avowed opponents of different beliefs, and from misrepresentation from members of the same body; to set misapprehension right and to prevent the devotees from being misled in any direction by "every wind of doctrine." Of course, what else are editors for? Surely.

We are constantly affirming, as well as hearing others affirm, "Contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints." This is urged as sufficient reason for presenting and advocating persistently the gospel, and all other things connected with it, by every one who has a conception of what the gospel is. Is it understood by this that we are to "contend." Was it ever known that any one contended, unless he contended with, or against some body, or thing; and if he contended was he not contentious. How can a man contend unless he is contentious. But, it may be affirmed that it is right to contend for the truth, the gospel; but it is wrong to contend for opinion's sake. Admit this to be true, and does it help us. Who is there sufficiently informed to affirm with absolute certainty every part and portion of the gospel of Christ, its "points," theories, objects, facts, history, doctrines, ordinances and practices—a wide field of knowledge. Much of what is affirmed in the examination of many subjects of more or less interest and importance to men, is opinion formulated into declaration as of fact; when really he who states it means that it is his opinion, the reasons for which may be given. Whoever thinks differently affirms his opinion in a similar way. Each one has the same desire to conserve the interest of truth and the well being of man, and all other things being equal each has the same right. Which one shall be taken as the only correct one; whose statement be to those who read or hear the only truth.

"Prove all things." To prove anything requires examination, comparison, usage, adaptation. Adaptation requires design; usage requires conditions; comparison indicates standards; and examination signifies methods of determination. All these are permissible, or the command is not valid.

One object in the giving of the Holy Ghost is that it shall "guide into all truth."

If all truth was known at once by one man or several, and they oracles, then the office of the Holy Ghost as a guide would be a sinecure—for there would be no work. That men are to be guided into truth concedes the following after the guiding hand that leads, and this means from the accession of one truth, in whatever grand chain of truths the seeker is guided, unto another; nor is it believed that the second truth is to dislodge, avoid or deny the first; the correct teaching of the Spirit makes them one, and links them with all others, links in one completed whole truth when the end is reached. Shall we be guided? And how?

Contention for mastery, either to show skill, or to gratify pride in being thought in the right, is not wise; and whoever contends in this spirit will hardly succeed, for he will contend in his own strength. But he who is convinced that he has a truth, and that the discovery of other truths either by himself, or by other men, will in no wise detract from the truth which he holds; or if holding what he holds to be a truth, a man enters into an examination of it in comparison with what others hold to be truths of apparently an opposite nature, with an earnest desire to ascertain what is the truth, he will hardly fail to be benefited by such examination. Is it permissible.

It is expected that we shall maintain the faith of the Reorganization, including the positions taken by it upon subjects incident to the institution of the church, its history and all other things connected, or in any wise related therewith. If in doing this we have been harsh, or have exhibited a spirit of one determined to have his own will and way despite the truth, we shall deplore it when discovered and will make the necessary amends. We are not now conscious of having so done. We believe the Reorganized Church to be in the main correct; and what is out of place will in its time to be affected for good to the whole design. We shall patiently wait the processes of development, and strive to be ready for the good when it cometh.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Ques.—Have we any record of Christ or the apostles putting people out while they administered to the sick? Or has it been practiced in the church? Should Acts 9: 40, and Mark 5: 40, where they put the people forth (or out) while they raised the dead; be taken as an example in cases of administering to the sick?

Ans.—1. We are not informed of any record. 2. It has not been practiced in the church. 3. We think not. Administering to the sick is a rite of the church, specially commanded, and should be attended with solemnity and earnest prayer. We see no reason why, circumstances being favorable, those usually attendant upon the sick should not remain present when the rite is administered. It is God who gives the healing power, and it is he who withholds if it is not granted. We have no reason to be ashamed of the rite whatever the issue of its administration. Wisdom and circumstances should direct.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Bro. H. C. Bronson wrote from Kingstons, Missouri, July 17th:

"Bro. Kinnaman and myself are here in the interest of the cause. I have preached every night since one week ago yesterday. Last night the Methodist minister made an onslaught on the Book of Mormon; which I had not mentioned yet. I am now called upon to defend it. The Kinnaman Choir came down last Saturday and sang for us at night and over Sunday; and astonished the natives. A wonderful interest is manifested and quite an excitement. We feel satisfied a lasting good is being done; some are near the church. We shall continue this week at least."

Bro. J. R. Badham wrote from Los Angeles, California, July 15th:

"I baptized three grown persons two weeks since; others are interested. Our branch now numbers near seventy members, although it is hard battling against the enemy, sin, in a city like this; yet we will not complain, when we feel that we have done our duty."

Bro. Morris T. Short, writing from Galesburg, Illinois, July 16:

"I baptized three last Sunday into the Henderson Grove branch, and will doubtless induct more into the church there to-morrow. I am battling away from the stand each evening, amid the hurry and heat of harvest, nor do I look for much of a vacation till paradise I gain or perish in the conflict. My soul doth magnify the name of the Most High, for all his benefits, which I do so very richly enjoy while at my post."

A brief note from Bro. Jos. C. Clapp, Deer Lodge, Montana, July 13th, says:

"I am off for Blackfoot, to-morrow. Never felt better in gospel work than now. Never felt a stronger assurance of final triumph."

He further relates that Elder Harvey Green stated to him in the early part of their ministry in California, concerning the scene at the ordaining of high priests by Joseph, in the early church:

"At the opening of the meeting Joseph told them that they must be on their guard; for the power of God and the power of the Devil were to be manifested that day in a remarkable manner. When the Evil One began, first one brother imagined himself Christ and began to show the nail marks in his hands. Joseph said: 'That is the spirit of the Evil One,' and told Hyrum to rebuke it, which he did. Then the power took hold of H. G. Whitlock, and drew his mouth to one side so he could not speak. Joseph told Hyrum to rebuke that spirit, and Hyrum seemed to doubt his ability to do so, when Joseph stepped forward and laid his right hand on Whitlock's head and said: 'Bro. Harvey, do you believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God?' But Whitlock could not speak. Joseph then rebuked the spirit, and then put the same question again, when Whitlock said: 'Yes, I do.' And then, for about five minutes, Whitlock spoke such words of power and wisdom as he (Green) had never heard before."

Bro. F. C. Warnky of Independence, Missouri, says:

"We are all well, and everything is harmonious and lovely with us. The basement of the church is nearly complete; it looks splendid. Yesterday I preached in Kansas City; next Sunday I go to Lee Summit."

Bro. J. S. Roth, missionary in eastern Iowa, wrote July 13th:

"Send me twenty-four Voice of Warning. They are doing a fine work. I sold twelve at one meeting."

That speaks well, both for Bro. Roth, the Voice of Warning, and the disposition of the people to investigate. Who will emulate Bro. Roth. Does the good word say anything about brethren being emulous of each others good deeds. If the brethren ren keep it up there is no good reason why the Voice of Warning may not be sold in paper covers for five cents a copy in another year.

THE BOOK OF MORMON.

A PURITAN MINISTER PARTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR ITS PRODUCTION.

How a Congregational Clergyman in New England Elaborated His Theories Regarding the Lost Tribes of Israel in a Book Which was never Published, and Eventually Found Its Way Into the Hands of Solomon Spaulding — Rev. Ethan Smith's Semi-Historical Romance Identical With the Story as Told in the Book of Mormon.

[Cleveland Plain-Dealer, April 24th.]

THE recent conference of the Josephites or monogamous Mormons at Kirtland, Ohio, and the extended reports of their proceedings in the Plain Dealer has renewed public interest in the peculiar faith to which members of this church subscribe. The origin of the Book of Mormon has never been clearly established. The Latter Day Saints, of course, accept the statements of Joe Smith and believe it to be an inspired work. The general public, however, are hardly as credulous and regard the alleged Bible as a fraud—the work of some clever romancist rather than the translation of hieroglyphics on golden plates by a nineteenth century prophet. The Spaulding theory, with which everyone at all acquainted with the subject is familiar, has the most advocates. They hold that Spaulding's manuscript of his romance "The Manuscript Found," fell into the hands of Joe Smith, Sidney Rigdon and others, and from that fanciful work was constructed the Book of Mormon.

If this theory be true it will astonish orthodox church people to learn that a Congregational divine, one of the foremost of his time in New England, is responsible for the introduction of the "twin relic of barbarism"—as the Utah church has been called—in this country. Rev. Ethan Smith, who died at an advanced age in the early "forties," was one of the lights of the Congregational church in New England. A man of deep learning, he was at once a preacher, author and philosopher, holding to many ideas far in advance of his time. One of his pet hobbies was the belief that the North American Indians were descended from the lost tribes of Israel, who came over to this continent several hundred years before Christ, built great cities and reached a very high state of civilization. Rev. Dr. Smith wrote a book on this subject, which, after completion, he decided not to publish, fearing that it might injure his reputation as a theological writer. This book was an elaboration of the theory Dr. Smith had so long maintained. Taking as its foundation the migration of the lost tribes of Israel to the western continent, it described the hegira from Palestine, the establishment of the Jews in what is now Central America and Mexico, the founding of a great empire and its gradual decline and fall. It told of magnificent cities inhabited by an enlightened and Christian people. The author claimed for them a civilization equal to that of Egypt or Jerusalem.

Hundreds of years passed and the history of the eastern Jews was repeated on the western continent. Quarrels between the various tribes sprang up, bloody wars were waged and the process of disintegration began. Gradually the people were scattered, their cities destroyed and all semblance to a nation was lost. Thousands perished by pestilence and the sword and the remnants of a once mighty nation relapsed into a state of barbarism. Their descendants, Dr. Smith claimed, were the Indians of North America and the Aztecs of Mexico. This is almost exactly similar to the story told in the Book of Mormon.

Solomon Spaulding was a warm admirer of Dr. Smith and when a young man studied under his tuition. He became interested in his theories regarding the settlement of America, and in return Dr. Smith took the young student into his confidence and granted him a perusal of his unpublished book. Spaulding was deeply impressed with the truth of this theory and pursued his investigations even farther than Dr. Smith had ventured. Taking the latter's views as expressed in his book Spaulding some years later wrote his famous "Manuscript Found," which afterward fell into the hands of Joe Smith and was reconstructed into the Book of Mormon. Indeed, it is not at all unlikely that Dr. Smith's original manuscript, which it is said Spaulding had in his possession, suffered a similar fate. At any rate it has never been seen since.

These facts are told the Plain Dealer by a grandson of Dr. Smith, now residing in this city. He states that the Book of Mormon differs very slightly as far as its general outline is concerned, from the historical romance written by his grandfather sixty or seventy years ago, and he is quite certain that the Mormon faith is founded on the production of that worthy pastor's fertile imagination.

SPAULDING-SMITH STORY.

IT is perhaps unnecessary to apologize for placing any further edition of the Spaulding Manuscript Story as the origin of the Book of Mormon before the readers of the HERALD; but as that remarkable story has been endowed with so great tenacity of life, (or lives, for its name is legion), we deem it almost indispensable that the elders of the church should be in possession of all—the whole variety of stories, from the one told by Dr. Hurlbut at the beginning of attack on the book to the latest from the Cleveland Plain Dealer, that the objector to the Book of Mormon may select which of them he chooses to rest his objection upon, and thus leave the rest free to be used in rebuttal.

There seems to have been a Smith in the original tale at last, and he is now ingeniously found in the ranks of the Congregationalists. There is some show of fitness in this; for, as the "Andover heresy," that there is a probation after death for those who learn not the Lord's will while on earth, is making lodgment in that same Congregational fold, it would be hedging to some advantage to discover that Joseph Smith, or Sidney Rigdon were indebted to the Rev. Dr. Smith, a Congregationalist, for the tenet taught by them upon their projecting the Book of Mormon upon the world. It must be so, for Dr. Smith's grand-son told the Plain Dealer so; and he is "quite certain that the Mormon faith is founded upon the production of" his grandfather's "fertile imagination." It strikes us that the "fertile imagination" is "sixty or seventy years" this side of his grandfather's brain.

It seems to us that the following ought to be remembered by those who write upon the Spaulding Story theory of the origin of the Book of Mormon.

1. That the first knowledge the world has that Solomon Spaulding wrote any manuscript of the character alleged, a historical romance concerning the origin of the American Indians, is the statement of Dr. Philastus Hurlbut, at one time a member of the Church of Latter Day Saints and disfellowshipped by it for gross immorality.

2. That no manuscript was produced as the one claimed to have been written by Mr. Spaulding, that a comparison of the Book of Mormon with it might be made.

3. That without attempting to show where the manuscript story from which it was alleged the Book of Mormon was plagiarized was at the time Mr. Hurlbut wrote his work; the statement of persons who said that they had heard some of Mr. Spaulding's stories read, are introduced alleging a remembrance of a similarity in names, &c., and this is done after a lapse of over twenty years after such reading is said to have taken place.

4. That Sidney Rigdon was claimed to have been the originator of the fraud, Joseph Smith the tool used by him to make it a success.

5. That no connection, or collusion between those two is shown until after the Book of Mormon was printed.

6. That the statements of Mrs. Spaulding, afterward Mrs. Davison, the wife and widow, and Mrs. McKinstry, the daughter of Solomon Spaulding, show that the manuscript of the story, "Manuscript Found," was in the actual, or constructive possession of Mr. Spaulding, or his legal representatives from the time it was written until 1843; being at no time out of the actual possession of the family more than two months; and then at Pittsburg, and then a supposition only.

7. That the manuscript was sent to Mr. Jerome Clark, Monson, Massachusetts, for safe keeping, by Mrs. Davison, from her possession at the house of her brother, Mr. Sabine; Mrs. McKinstry stating positively, that the said manuscript was in the trunk in which it had always been kept and was sent to Mr. Clark in that identical trunk.

8. That Mr. Hurlbut went with Mr. Sabine, a relative of Mrs. Spaulding authorized with an order to Jerome Clark from Mrs. Davison to deliver the manuscript to Mr. Hurlbut; and that Mr. Clark did deliver to Mr. Hurlbut the only manuscript found in the trunk.

9. That Mr. Hurlbut turned this manuscript over to Mr. E. D. Howe, of Painesville, Ohio.

10. That Mr. Howe sold a printing office and material, including a miscellaneous lot of manuscript writings, articles, pamphlets, etc., to L. L. Rice, formerly of Ravenna, Ohio, afterwards of Honolulu, Hawaii.

11. That Mr. Rice found a manuscript among those bought of E. D. Howe, which was in the hand writing of Solomon Spaulding, and certified to by three men whose names—Aaron Wight, Oliver Johnson, and John N. Miller—figure in Howe's "Expose of Mormonism," attached to affidavits affirming what they had heard read from a manuscript written by Solomon Spaulding; and this further certified to by the signature of D. P. Hurlbut, himself.

12. That the manuscript was given to President J. H. Fairchild, of Oberlin College, Ohio, by Mr. Rice in whose possession it was it was found in 1885, and was by him lodged in the archives of that college at Oberlin, where it now remains.

13. That a copy of it was procured by consent of President Fairchild, by Elder E. L. Kelley, of Kirtland, Ohio; and was published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, at Lamoni, Iowa, and is now on sale by them at their place of business in said town.

14. That D. P. Hurlbut, nor E. D. Howe, ever returned the manuscript obtained from Clark by Hurlbut to Mrs. Davison, or Mrs. McKinstry; though the return of it was frequently asked for of Dr. Hurlbut, even as late as 1844.

15. That no proof has ever been presented to show that the manuscript, or any manuscript written by Solomon Spaulding was ever in the hands of Joseph Smith, Sidney Rigdon, or any other Mormon, or Latter Day Saint, and that the statement that such manuscript was ever had in possession by the men named, or of any person in their behalf, rests solely upon conjecture, supposition, and presumption of those inimical to the Latter Day Saints.

16. That there is not a particle of evidence to prove that the Mormons, or any one in their behalf ever bought, or offered to buy of D. P. Hurlbut, E. D. Howe, or any other person, dead or living, the "Manuscript Found," "Manuscript Story," or any other manuscript story, or writing of Rev. Solomon Spaulding; at any time, or in any place, or for any sum whatever.

17. That there are good and valid reasons for believing that the "manuscript story," found by L. L. Rice, of Honolulu, Hawaii, among the papers and other properties purchased by him in 1839-40, of E. D. Howe, of Painesville, Ohio, is the identical "Manuscript Found," so long and so persistently claimed by pulpit and press as being the origin of the Book of Mormon, under the skillful management of Sidney Rigdon and Joseph Smith, and that such manuscript was not and could not have been used by either of those men as such origin; Mr. Rice being correct when he states that he would as soon think the Book of Revelations to have been founded in the tale of Don Quixotte, as that the manuscript found by Mr. Rice should have been used as the foundation of the Book of Mormon.

Error may have many a rood the start of slow footed Truth; but the latter marches steadily, all times and seasons are hers and all lands her home; she will in due course overtake her nimble predecessor, and when she does exposure is sure and complete. The truth of Mormonism has waited long for vindication against this Spaulding error; and it is within the pales of the law of compensation that such vindication should come in the regions whence the falsehood had birth, and from evidences found almost in the hands of the men who at first traduced such truth.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

Bro. W. W. Blair left the sanctum, July 19th, for Nebraska City and the adjacent district, for a ten days' gospel preaching tour, upon the invitation of the officers in charge of district and branch; a two days' meeting at McCaig's Grove to open the series.

Mothers' Home Column.

EDITED BY SISTER "FRANCES."

"Lo! in the midst, with the same look he wore,
Healing and blessing on Genesaret's shore,
Folding together, with the all tender might
Of his great love, the dark hands and the white,
Stands the Consoler soothing every pain,
Making all burdens light, and breaking every chain."

We give space in the "Column" this week to a lengthy article from sister Burton, feeling assured that it will bring with it a blessing to the heart of every one who reads it carefully and meditates upon it with a prayerful spirit. We pray that while those of us who have never been called upon to make renunciations of their own plans and homes for the sake of carrying the gospel to their fellow beings read this heart-experience of sister Emma's, we may be enabled to fully realize that home and kindred are as near and dear to those who have given them up at the Master's bidding as they are to us; but especially do we ask the Father that he will enable us to realize that he is just and as we sow so shall we also reap.

"If any man will be my disciple let him deny himself, take up his cross daily and follow me," is written over the entrance way and he who thinks to avoid it, thinks to follow the Master through flowery paths of self-love and self-indulgence, will discover too late, that somewhere a terrible mistake has been made.

FORSTER, N. S. W.

Sister Frances.—There are some experiences in the life of nearly every person, I suppose, that seem almost too sacred to be rehearsed; and yet, who of us is there, when permitted to follow another, while they draw aside the screen, and allow us to look for a few minutes at their inner life, that does not come away a better person, and feel that by communing with the souls of others, ourselves have been brought nearer to God; and with fresh courage take up again our own cross, which we perhaps had become weary of carrying and laid down thinking another would be much easier to bear.

This evening while I sit here alone, and my thoughts wander back over the past, I feel like telling you, sister Frances, some of my experiences. And if any who read these few pages, find strength or help in any way to bear the burdens and trials that are common to all in this life, my aim will be accomplished; for I do not count myself alone in such experience. And if I felt the trial to be great it was because my strength was so small. The outward circumstances may not warrant such exercise of feeling. But it has been wisely said, "What is a trial to one is no trial at all to another." There is sometimes a peculiar element mixed up with the outward cause that make some trials which look small to others, particularly trying. We see the Savior, for instance, wrestling in prayer, and in great heaviness sweating drops of blood, just prior to His crucifixion; praying the father, "If it be possible, let the cup pass." We might ask, why this great exhibition of feeling, when hundreds of martyrs have met a more cruel death calmly. And hundreds too, have met death calmly who scarcely had a hope beyond the grave, while He had power to lay down His life and power to take it up again. And if it was because He must meet and conquer the adversary in his own dominions, that caused the great anguish, one might think that the faith He had in His father should have been sufficient to give Him a knowledge that He would conquer and return victorious; for mark His prayer: "Father glorify me with the glory I had with thee before the world was;" and again, that the disciples might be with Him in His glory. But the powers of darkness were waging their war against him, and the Father had withdrawn His strengthening influence, and he was left to himself to bear the trial with His own strength.

When we come to Australia no doubt many looked upon the appointment as one to be desired, being fraught with so much that would be pleasant to enjoy, especially to lovers of travel; but to me it was a trial such as I never met before. If there was pleasure or enjoyment, it had yet to come. The only soothing balm I could discern was, Surely the Lord is leading us, and if I only have sufficient strength to follow, in His own due time all will be well. It is not simply to tell of the trial through which I passed that I write, but of the almost visible presence of God dealing with me, which this circumstance brought about.

For some years my husband and I had been under the impression that the time would come when he would be sent to Australia. In my heart I was trying to prepare for such an event; but when we would talk of it I always took refuge in the argument, that since he was an elder only, it would not be required of him to take a foreign mission; and so we kept putting it away in the future. But when the time came when we were forced to regard it as a reality, and one that must be taken into immediate consideration, it was then I found that all my efforts to prepare myself and be ready to receive it, availed me nothing. When the news fell upon my ear, it left me stunned and trembling; then a burst of passionate grief, followed by a calm indifference for a few days, and then commenced the conflict: Should I leave my children again, and go with my husband? You will remember we were on our return from a two years' mission, and I had been anticipating the pleasure of home and children—or being separated from him and remain with my children. It was a hard position to choose between, and it seemed at times as if my heart was really being drawn asunder. I could not bear the thought of such a long separation from my husband. The light of earthly life would be gone, and my darkness would overshadow the young lives of my children, and they too would be unhappy; (I thought of those who had endured such separation and could only say, God pity them). On the other hand, parental duty as well as love forbade the thought of leaving them, especially the girls; they were just the age when they most needed a mother's care, and were already so weary of being separated from us. "Oh mother," they said, "you promised us you would not leave us again." "Neither will I," I answered, but knew not what the conclusion would be; and now in looking back, I thank God that the means was not in the treasury to send the missionaries off at once; and I had the benefit of a few months' respite.'

But as time moved around and the money was coming in we were forced to decide on some course. My husband proposed that I should accompany him; take the two daughters and leave our son, he being of age and not depending upon us for support, though he felt the separation as keenly as if he was much younger. To do this we must needs sell our home, and use a portion of it to defray the expences of the children. Oh, I thought, is not this trial enough without making such a sacrifice? But it was the only way open to us unless he went alone or gave up the mission. I do not think such a thought as that ever entered his mind; but I had questioned much in my own mind whether we would not be justified in so doing.

When our proposition was made known, a worthy young man put in his appearance and claimed our eldest daughter. Then there were two to leave and one to take. It was a comfort to know that in her new happiness she would find a compensation for her loss; but hard to take the one daughter away from her sister and brother, and witness the grief and sorrow it caused them. The one to leave home and friends and go across the great deep that was a dread and a terror to her, to be among strangers in a strange land, and harder still to leave the other to battle with the world alone, no home to go to when he was sick or weary, no father to counsel him, no mother to guard him by her love and care, or do for him the many acts of kindness that a mother loves to do to make her children happy; no sister to cheer him with her companionship! The one that was to remain would be such a distance from him he could scarcely ever see her; and it seemed so like turning him adrift in the world. The very thought wrung my heart.

Mothers, you who have an only son who has been all to you that a son could be, one that has known very little of home comfort, but was always looking forward to when he could be at home, can sympathize with my weakness, if such it was.

These questions were continually revolving in my mind. Is it right for us thus to take from him every safeguard against temptation and the snares of the adversary? Suppose to divert his loneliness he should be drawn into evil company; and oh, what a dreadful thought it would be if in our zeal to save others we neglected and lost our own; and is it right to sell our little home, now when we are getting on the shadowy side of life? If we were spared to fulfil the mission and return again, what then? I called to mind the experience of some others who in their old age found themselves without a home. I know the elder's family is provided for while the elder is in active service, but I never knew of any one laying up anything, since they are only to receive what is needful for the present time, and therefore have no chance for making any provisions for the future. I knew too, what our experience had been in the past; we had been drawing from our own property every year till there was nothing but the house and place left, and could I reasonably expect the future would be very different from the past?

I do not think it was a lack of faith in the promise, "Seek first to establish the kingdom and all these things shall be added." I have unbounded faith in God to provide for temporal as well as spiritual needs, if we have been wise stewards over what he has given, for he requires his people to exercise wisdom, and when they do not they usually have to suffer the consequence. So if we had a home and unwisely let it slip from us, could I reasonably expect Him to provide us with another?

The way was hedged upon every side and looked very dark. Oh, how I prayed for the Lord to lead me right, and not permit me to go wrong; and at the same time, without knowing it, I was refusing to be led; for the buyer had come twice since the first verbal agreement, to get my free consent; but after a few words I broke down each time. I could not say Yes, and dared not say No, lest that too would be wrong; and so remained harrassed and undecided, sometimes almost persuaded myself it was not the Lord's will for us to go. Oh, how I wished I could "see by faith;" but my faith remained dormant. I had seen once by faith that we would come here, but that seeing did not give the help I then wanted. I will pass over those sorrowful days when whatever I did or looked upon seemed to be for the last time. I tried to be cheerful before the children, but could hardly trust myself to look up at my son's portrait, for at that time I felt as if our going away was to bid him a final good bye; and when night came on a gloom would settle over me, and night after night I would bathe my pillow in tears, especially if I was alone and did not seek to suppress my feelings.

As I said before my faith had all left me. I could not feel that Spirit and power that bouys one up sometimes in the deepest distress, and nerves them to bear any trials. No; I was left to my own strength and that was weakness! One memorable night, being alone, I was weeping the bitterest tears of my life, and fairly clutching the bed clothes for support, as though I should sink if I did not hold to something. I cried out in my distress, "O God help me!" Then subsiding a little, murmured, What is there that can compensate for all this trouble? When the voiceless words came to me with a startling clearness: "Eternal life;" and at the same time I felt a presence, as one does when they know just where another is sitting though the room is dark and they can not see them. So I felt that the Lord was there; not in the brightness of his glory, nor the power of his Spirit, but as a Father, and seemed to be looking calmly on me in my petty sorrow just as a gentle, but unswerving parent while dealing with a rebellious child, quietly waits for it to sob out its grief and passion and accept the proffered terms of reconciliation. And I learned that night what many another child has learned, and what very many have yet to learn, that no amount of tears or prayers will induce the Father to swerve one iota from the already given terms.

"Eternal life?" my thoughts echoed; and oh, how dark my soul must have been, for I really thought for a moment that it was little enough. But, repenting of my ingratitude, I said, Yes, it is a great deal, but hundreds will receive that also, who are never called upon to make any sacrifice. They can live at home with their children and their friends, have every comfort around them, and to give a few dollars now and then seems to be all that is required of them. They know nothing of the trial of faith which those were subject to, who had often to pray in reality, "Give us this day our daily bread;" and yet they were good Saints and would be saved in the kingdom of God; while to do my duty I must give up all, and suffer so much in consequence, and have to endure so many things that were galling to my nature. Why was there such a difference? Then came the silent answer: "That is their portion to enjoy in this life; have you no joys which they have not? Are you seeking nothing more than salvation?"

What have I that they have not? Quick as thought memory swept back a little. I saw and heard what I had once before: A dear good sister sat in her comfortable chair in her pretty little home, surrounded with many luxuries. I had been relating a night vision in which the Lord Jesus appeared and talked with me. She thought my blessings greater than hers, and said: "If we are all the Lord's children, why don't He serve us all alike; why can not I have a testimony like that?" Ah! sister, I thought, You would not like to be in my place now. To this the spirit answer was, "All things are bought with a price." I could only groan, "Lord help me to bear the price. These light afflictions work a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory. Light affliction?" I repeated, and a "weight of glory." What indeed must the glory be that is called a weight, when those afflictions which are termed light are sometimes all one can bear? The promise was away beyond me, I could not grapple with it; but thought of the sufferings of the apostle Paul, for the gospel's sake; and also the other apostles and of many others in all ages of the world, as well as those of our own day, till my own appeared as but a drop in a bucket; and yet that little was hard for me to endure. Ah, thought I how very necessary must be the saving of souls. Hundreds must suffer; families must be broken up; husbands and wives, parents, children must be separated, perhaps never more to be united; and still the work must go on. Yes, it must go on. But is all this trouble necessary? Is not one soul as precious in the sight of the Lord as another? Why need we go away off among strangers who know nothing of us, and in whom we have no interest, when thousands are perishing in our own land? Why not remain and save souls here? O, Father, can we not do thy will as acceptably to remain and be spared this great trial of leaving our home and friends and children? And this brought back again the thought of leaving my children, and all my grief burst forth afresh. When that subsided a little and the "still small voice," could be heard, it was, "Where would you have been, had not Christ left his Father's glory, and come to this world to seek and to save those who knew Him not."

Then I seemed to see "the man of sorrow and acquainted with grief," homeless and sorrowful, traveling wearily to and fro upon the earth, with a sad and heavy countenance, indicating mental suffering; and the words rang in my ears, "All who follow Him must suffer in like manner."

Lord give me strength and I will follow. But oh, my son! my only son! How hard it is to leave him so alone, subject to the evils of the world!

"I freely gave my Son, to suffer and to die."

"Forgive me Father, I will do right." But I wondered why, in this my need, I did not receive that power and influence of the Spirit that would be so comforting. It seemed to me the Father was still there just beyond the window; but not offering any farther help; and I learned from some influence, that to follow Christ I must decide in my own strength as He did. My thoughts turned to the garden of Gethsemane, and in fancy saw the "Man of Sorrows," wrestling in prayer; and thought I knew better than before the cause of His great sufferings. The crisis had come, and the Father had withdrawn His Spirit that he might decide in his own strength whether he would "drink of the cup" or not. And here we can discern a little of the human nature. He was fully intent on doing his Father's will, but, could it not be done as acceptably in some easier way? is visible in the request, "Father if thou be willing remove this cup from me."

And as in thought I saw him struggling with his trial between duty and inclination, with all that involved on both sides, made as poignant as the powers of darkness was capable of making it, I could see a similitude of His night of agony in that of mine; when the sentiment of both hearts, was, "Father if it be possible"—consistent with thy will—let the cup pass. And I felt to follow Christ was more a reality than I had heretofore been aware of; and found comfort in the knowledge that I was in very deed following Christ; for if we suffer with Him we shall also reign with Him. All night my cry had been: "Let the cup pass." But when I arose in the morning, after a few hours sleep, it was with the solemn feeling, "Thy will be done. It is useless to try to deceive myself, I must do right."

Then the preparations went on more swiftly and easily, and soon there came words of cheer and comfort; from "one mighty and strong." Surely the Spirit of the Lord directed in the wording of that letter. Then I was ready to leave all and go forth cheerfully, even though the fears of some should be realized, and we lost our lives; what better, than to yield them up in the cause of Christ. And while talking with a brother, after prayer meeting one evening, he said, "How glad I am to see you so cheerful, I almost dreaded to meet you, thinking you would be so sorrowful as the time drew near."

No, I answered, that is all past, I am not only ready and willing, but anxious to go, and am in a hurry to be off.

A few days before our departure, we were at Laguna Canyon, having a few good-bye meetings, all who were present will remember those meetings. In one of those Bro. D. S. Mills put his hands upon my head and said: "Dear sister, in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, I seal thee up to eternal life," and then spoke for some time as he was directed. Was it simply a form of words? To me it was far more. It was as though an holy unction had been poured over my head and coursed through my whole body, and I felt to be on a higher plane, and in a clearer light than ever before. Every one who has been baptized in faith for the remission of sins knows how clear and light and good they felt when they came out of the water. I did; but here was a greater change even than that which was produced by baptism; and it was that which enabled me to bid a cheerful good-bye to my almost heart broken son and sorrowing friends. True, my own tears flowed with theirs, but it was because of their sorrow more than my own. Our departure was too hasty to permit us to see, and bid our eldest daughter good-bye, but we trust we shall all be spared to meet again in joy on our return.

And now, if any one should be thinking, "They surely will receive a great reward for such a sacrifice, I wish to disabuse their minds. True, I thought it a sacrifice at the time, but I have long since ceased to regard it in that light. Since I have been going among the Saints they have been so kind to us all, and given us such welcome homes, that it is a real pleasure to be with them; and I feel that we are receiving our reward as we go, and will not be entitled to any hereafter. May God bless them all.

SISTER EMMA.

HOME COLUMN MISSIONARY FUND.

Sr. Mary B. Chapman, Utica, Neb. ....	50
Sr. Lucinda Woodward, Little Sioux, Iowa. ....	40
Sr. Ann Leonard, Amboy, Ill. (sale of tidy) ..	75
A sister, Lamoni, Iowa .....	58
Lois Walker, Lamoni, Iowa .....	13
Sisters Amanda, Mary, Flora and Caroline Wayt, Glen Easton, W. Va. ....	1 00
Sr. Mary Laughlin, Independence, Mo. ....	4 00
Sr. Clara Steele, Addison Point, Me. ....	1 00
Sr. Ella Anderson, Lucas, Iowa .....	2 50
Sr. Lizzie Marchington, Attleboro, Mass. ....	1 00
Sr. E. Burton, Australia ...	87
Sr. E. J. Moore, Lincoln, Neb. ....	50
LAMONI, IOWA, July 21st.

NOTICE—"AUTUMN LEAVES."

WITH the issue of the HERALD for August 13th, we purpose sending out as a supplement thereto, a prospectus sheet of "AUTUMN LEAVES," showing the size of page and type intended to be used therein, also the object for which the magazine is gotten up, and the various departments which we shall endeavor to sustain. We ask the Saints, especially the parents, to give to the sermon of Dr. Talmage a careful reading, and when to this warning (which comes in thunder tones) we add the fact that the Spirit of God is moving upon the hearts of the Saints, to see, feel and contend against this deadly maelstrom which is yearly engulfing its thousands; we believe the need for and the entire ability of the church to sustain a publication for the youths of Zion, will be fully realized and acted upon.

M. WALKER.

Foreign Money Orders.

Bear in mind the fact that the post office at Lamoni is now a Foreign Money Order Office. Therefore, those in foreign countries sending moneys to this office should draw them on Lamoni, Iowa, U. S. A.

To Saints in England.

I have sold a machine and outfit for making my Bed Springs and other specialties to Bro. Henry Tabbins, Hanley, England, and he wishes me to have a notice put in Herald, to inform English Saints of the fact.

ORDWAY & CO., Peoria, Illinois, U. S. A.

The printed name on the colored label on your paper gives the date to which your subscription has been paid. If it shows you are in arrears, please renew.

Correspondence.

UPLAND, Neb., July 13th.

Bro. Joseph:—Your of May 31st received. But previous appointments held me in Central Nebraska district, with Bro. Wm. Rumel, until June 23d, when it was deemed advisable to separate, Bro. Rumel to remain in the above district, I to attend a conference at Fremont, in the North Nebraska district. This was not so largely attended as expected; but a peaceful and profitable time was had. Two adults were baptized. On the first I reached Hartwell, about thirty miles west of Hastings, Nebraska, Bro. P. Moldrup met and conveyed me ten miles south to his residence, a pleasant resting place, which was most acceptable.

In Kearney and Franklin counties I find a large scope in which no ministerial labor has been done. Prejudice runs high, for the people west and northwest from Missouri River are less informed as to the history and doings of the Reorganized church; therefore less susceptible, and more ready to suspect imposition in claiming the existence of two organizations, or one, having no affinity with Utah Mormons than the people farther east. In view of this it needs more persistent and patient labor to attract attention and create an interest in the Western wilds. I find eight or nine members in Kearney, and probably two or three in Franklin county. I preached twice in the Gillman School-house, Kearney county, on the 3d; attendance small. The Danish element predominates in this district; and what are not Ludermans are anti-prohibitionists.

On Wednesday Bro. B. Gaston came from Franklin county for me to fill an appointment in a sod school-house, one and a half miles south of Upland, a small town just sprung up through a rail road passing through. The United brethren waived their prayer meeting, so I held meetings Wednesday and Thursday evenings with fair attendance, and apparent interest. Being promised, through the trustees the use of the Congregational church in Upland, Friday evening, we so announced and arranged. We anticipated a large gathering which indications seem to justify. But alas, it was about noon on Friday, when the Rev. W. H. Houston rode to Bro. B. Gaston's, and in a dignified manner, informed him that we could not have the house; "for," said the Rev. gentleman, "the constitution of the Congregational church makes the Pastor responsible for what is done in the church; and though you don't teach, yet you practice polygamy. And I came to tell you, that you may make other arrangements."

Decency required Bro. Gaston to keep silent, while this so called Rev. had delivered himself of his hypocritical speech, and getting a good ready to reply. But with a "Git," and a lash of the whip to the horse, he was out of hearing. Perhaps it was as well, for Bro. Gaston is wont to talk positive to reverends, when an opportunity offers; especially in such an aggravating case. Depending on the promise of trustees our word was out, when the pious preacher came within a few hours of the time, to tell us to make other arrangements. Of course the Rev. divine had heard of, and saw the little furore of excitement through anticipating the presence of a Mormon Elder in their church and town; and, feeling somewhat alarmed, perhaps, thought within himself to prevent the anticipated big gathering by resorting to a little orthodox strategy. Hence his maneuvering in which he sought to justify himself by a false accusation; for it can not be presumed that he was ignorant of our practice. But if he was, that would not mend the matter, as no rule of justice or courtesy known among civilized people, would justify one in accusing another of what he did not positively know to be founded in fact. So, while the gentleman seemed to realize that some excuse was necessary, his pious cant about coming at that time that we might make other arrangements was like adding insult to injury. What an evidence of unfair dealing. Yet we are told we must speak soft and mild words to such pious frauds.

On Friday evening we drove to Upland, and having enquired of a Justice of the Peace if to make a speech in the street would be a violation of any, to him, known rule, or order, and being answered negatively, at half past eight I mounted the wagon and informed all that came within hearing distance why we failed to fill our appointment in the church. I had a respectful hearing. Several teams came to town, and we learned many of the citizens, were expecting to attend. Bro. Gaston was informed on Saturday that several teams came after we left and stated there was the largest gathering ever known in the small town of Upland. He was also informed that a gentleman offered a liberal supply of eggs, if any one would assume the responsibility of egging the preacher. But being informed by another gentleman that he could command a liberal supply of eggs too, and if they inaugurated the movement that the eggers would be egged, the first gentleman backed down and so we escaped an egging.

We obtained access to a school house about one and a half miles from Upland, and preached twice, Sunday roth, to small audiences, but some few attentive listeners. We lead one lady into the water, the Lord willing, on Thursday; but have to travel eight or ten miles to water; for parts of Kearney and Franklin counties are suffering from drouth. Small grain near a failure, the corn is drooping and will soon die, unless the good Lord shall allow the heavens to pour forth its reviving rain.

On the 5th, with Bro. K. Sorensen, I went to Midden. Sought for the use of an old school house, which had been superceded by a new and more commodious one, and to which other societies had access; but were refused. The gentleman said he did not know there were other than Utah Mormons, and when we affirmed there was, he did not believe us. Bro. Sorensen had gauged a Presbyterian pastor, and decided him liberal, and thought he would grant us his church to preach in; but this unsophisticated young brother assumed considerable gravity when the pious preacher said, "O no, you are not evangelical." This is the orthodox method of calling you a liar; and when an effort is made to defend, etc., will say, "I have no time to discuss; and if I had it would be the same." That is to say that we should still be liars. Now whether these Reverends know they are deceiving the people and think we of course must do the same, I know not. But it is the height of impudence, when I declare a belief in Christ, for any man to look me in the face and tell me I am not Evangelical; which from their standpoint means that evangelical or orthodox church members are Christians, and that those not evangelical, etc., are not Christians. Yet these immaculate beings do all this, and sometimes more with impunity. We next enquired the price of a commodious hall and found it to be ten dollars per night; but for preaching would reduce it half, did not care who preached for the consideration of five dollars a night,—the gentleman had an eye to business. Midden has a population of twelve hundred, and is the county seat of Kearney county. These railroad towns are generally made up of people whose conception of style and popularity is pretty lofty, but very limited in religion, other than that comprised in going to church and galloping through some respectable form of religion which is brief and fascinating, and the pleasure found in social gatherings, etc. Hence, have neither time nor disposition to halt to hear, and consider the teaching which savors of primitiveness. Yet the gospel must be preached. Two elders strongly endowed with will power, who would not mind losing the polish off their boots, or getting their coats covered with dust occasionally, and would make their way from point to point on railway, in lumber wagons, on horse-back, or on foot, just as the way would open, and patiently meet and endure all the changes incident to a traveling elder—without scheming or too much croaking to evade, or shirk stern and trying duties, might by dint of perseverance and persistent labor, in the course of a year do a good work in Kearney and Franklin counties. Spasmodic efforts will do but little. Who can come?

Wickedness, deception, and apostasy are increasing in the land, and unbelief correspondingly. The gospel economy being God's only method to save; therefore, all who do not love that but love something else better, will hate it; which makes the necessity for keeping it before the people very urgent. The success of the work makes an increase of diligence, and wise procedure doubly necessary. No member, or official has time to fold arms and stand at ease in Zion. The diligence of wives and mothers to fill their God appointed positions as is evinced in the Home Column, and inducing others to follow is inspiring. What of Autumn Leaves? It can not be that our people are halting, or in doubt about embarking in such an enterprise! Surely no discerning Latter Day Saint is blind to the evil that light literature is causing in the land. It is appalling! Latter Day Saints don't wish to raise their children in ignorance of all topics but those found in the standard books; but require other matter which can help to intellectual development to be presented in a way that will assist, and not prevent their spiritual growth. And who can not see that Autumn Leaves will meet this demand? The patronage for the Hope ought to be such as to justify its enlargement; Autumn Leaves ought to receive such patronage in its inception, as to assure success, and leave no fear in the mind of the proprietors as to support. We can't afford to let such a golden opportunity slip. Strike off the Youth's Companion if needs be. Autumn Leaves will give you a fit and better substitute. This guarantee, all ought to see. Every additional copy of the Herald, Hope, and Sanhedens Banner, is so much to strengthen the grand Latter Day cause. Autumn Leaves will be such an auxiliary that if we believe in the practice of sprinkling, we shall see the time, if it receives the requisite support, we shall want to christen the child and name it "Co-laborer." But having no desire to run after strange gods, without such a silly practice we shall be ready to recognize and accord to it all the respect, encouragement and help, due a natural born child. The depraved are cunning and industrious, we must seek to substitute heaven's wisdom in lieu of their cunning, but be no less industrious. The day is too far spent to encourage indifference, work, work, work, must be the watchword. All must work, or perish. Work as we please? O, yes, if we please to work right. But the taking on airs and assuming to do as we please, without regard to law or order, and only stopping to review, when we can get no further; then showing penitence, because we can do no better, is far from exhibiting the spirit and genius of the latter day work; but savors, rather, of a debasing policy and a fall from the dizzy heights of principle's plane—if we had ever thus ascended.

There is no reason to think that the gospel economy is an experiment with God, or that He will palliate, modify, or change his decrees to humor or encourage our fastidiousness. I do not exult at the exigencies justifying the defence against the very peculiar attack of Elder Whitmer and company. But, for as much as it came without our seeking, I am glad for the defence. And if there has ever been a time when the Reorganization has sailed on a smooth sea, and under a cloudless sky, the event passed unobserved and unappreciated by the writer. Nor would I forget the sorrow our own folly has brought; but God be praised, our flag still flies, and the grand old ship of Zion is as staunch as ever, and destined, whether her passengers abide or not, to run into harbor with flying colors. Who shall join in the cry of victory, and the grand, grand shout of "Harvest home!" Who?

In bonds,

JAMES C. WALKER.

JUNIATA, Mch., July 16th.

Bro. Joseph.—I moved to this village a year ago last September and as soon as possible began to present the gospel to this people. I have been assisted in this by J. J. Cornish, E. Delong, J. Burtch and R. Hartnell. I have been informed by those that have lived here for several years that we have a larger attendance than any other denomination that have held meetings here. There are only nine Saints here, so we with those of other faiths have organized a Union Sunday School; however by our enemies it is called the Mormon school. For several months after I came it was impossible to get an opening out side of our village, but prejudice is giving way and there are now two places where I have held meetings with a good attendance. I have only baptized one here but I find that there are several that believe.

My wife and I were invited by a Baptist friend to spend the evening of the twelfth at his place; so we went and there met about fifty friends. After spending some time in a social way, we were led into the dining room and found the table well loaded with good things to eat. After supper, I was presented with money to buy me a suit of clothes; my wife also received, a few presents. This surprise was instituted by our friends; the Saints being invited to take part in it; which they did in a liberal manner. After enduring what we have in the past it seems pleasant to dwell among such friends. My brethren here are much respected by their neighbors. I am doing what preaching I can on Sundays and hope that the time will come when I will be able to do more; for I know that this is the true gospel that we have embraced.

Yours for truth,
LEVI PHELPS.

LLANELLY, Wales, July 9th.

Bro. Joseph:—Since the last April Conference held at Kirtland, Ohio, I consider myself more fully a servant of the church than before. Since last writing from Dowlals, I have not only renewed my diligence, but have gone into the work in the spirit of the Master, secured through faith in prayer, and constantly walking (as Nephi said) in the low valley and the plain road, thus helping my fellow officers to reprove some breaches of great and little note, destructive as well as preventive in their character—so foolishly perpretated by unwise, impulsive brethren. There are thousands of honest hearts in these, as well as other lands, that will yet rejoice with us in the Holy One of Israel. O may the Lord nerve all in the conflict to work while it is day, for the night (death) will soon be upon us, yes, many of poor Zion's old veterans. We have gone out into the streets and lanes of this part of old spiritual Babylon, to try and persuade all that will, to come into the gospel ark. It did my soul good to see the immense crowds flocking to listen to the word preached in Aberaman, Penydarren; but especially in Morrision, Lansamlet and Llanelly; where I have been toiling in company with such noble brethren as Gibbs, Lewis, and Williams, since the 21st of June.

One fault I find in addition here,—generally speaking the feeling is to bring into the church the deceived Brighamites, and nurse and care for them; this is good, so far; but there are in the world men that have never bowed to their ungodly shrine, hence are not tainted with their leaven, and when led to see the gospel in its true light, will from the heart obey, and help to the desired end—"to be preached to all nations as a witness." May the Lord speed it, say I. Prejudice seems almost a thing of the past, that is, in some parts; and we make it a duty in our preaching, that we claim no brotherhood or affinity with Salt Lake philosophy, and that many years ago they taught as we teach; but now, alas, they have fallen: yes fallen, and the once seemingly pure gold is become dim. There are several of that class of apostates here, some having come on a visit to see their relations and friends, others by Utah appointment, to gather their dupes from Babylon to the secret chambers of Israel—Zion, the pure in heart. "Bosh!" As I tell them: "out of the frying pan into the fire." I am anticipating that when I meet some of them there will be a Josephite and Brighamite locking of horns. What is desired is to enlighten their minds that the Reorganization is indeed and of a truth their only true friend, providing they make proper use of the prescription we offer them as a remedy: "Fear God and give glory to him who made the heavens, the earth, the sea and the fountain of waters." Not "Adam," who could not save himself without Christ's everlasting gospel.

It would be pleasing to me if I had a comrade to travel with while I stay in these lands, to counsel and work with unitedly for the good of the cause; but God helping I will do my best continually. Just got a letter from Bro. Jenkins, he is gone to the sea-side (bathing places) for his health. I wish we had some English tracts, as well as Welsh, as the people are calling for the written word, when we are through preaching. The prophecy is having its literal fulfillment—"Gaining favor in the eyes of the people." Love to all Zion's toilers; especially those in the Kewanee district. O pray for us, that the prosperity of heaven may attend us, and all in righteousness.

Toil for treasures far surpassing
Changing diadems of earth;
Life eternal, everlasting,
Through the Lamb who banished death.
For truth, JOHN D. JONES.

SHEFFIELD, England, July 2d.

Dear Herald:—It is now eight months since I joined the one church, and I have not regretted it. I have realized in my short experience, that there are many hills to climb, and that we need to be watchful and prayerful, and that we need all the encouragement that we can give each other. Last week I had the pleasure of seeing three more baptized into the fold.

As a branch we have had dark clouds hanging over us, and trials to pass through, but God has been our helper; and we have many things to be thankful for. When I joined the church, we met in a room that was too small for us, in an obscure part of the town; we are now in possession of a well furnished, and well lighted room, built especially for mission work, situated in one of the main thoroughfares, and we have not yet lacked means to maintain it. I have not yet received any striking testimony myself, but I have seen the spirit manifested in the gifts of healing, prophecy tongues and interpretation of tongues; and I feel that these are enough to encourage me to press on until by my own faithfulness I may be recipient of some personal confirming blessing. My desire is to strive to live so that no regrets shall rise to gather round my future years.

SAMUEL PLATTS.

DOW CITY, Iowa, July 13th.

Bro. Blair:—Bro. Peak baptized six at this place the 26th ult.; one a young married lady, and the other five, ranging from ten to fifteen years of age. It does one good to see the young enlist in the service of Christ. Bro. Peak is well liked in this district, and we shall be glad when he returns from visiting his parents near Kansas City. There is room in the Galland's Grove district for a good many more elders than we now have, though all should labor diligently. Our home ministers are making a greater effort to present the word this summer, than usual.

The camp-meeting held on the North Coon, from the 6th to the 10th inst., was a good one; the congregation gradually increasing until Sunday, when there were about one thousand persons present. There was some disappointment at President Joseph Smith not being present; yet the elders enjoyed good liberty throughout in presenting the word. The people seemed to be much interested; a spirit of investigation being manifested on the part of a number. Several hundred tracts were distributed by brethren J. T.

Turner and David Chambers. The Saints were refreshed, and went home rejoicing. The hearts of those taking the train at Glidden were made sad by a telegram to Bro. J. C. Crabb, stating that brother G. S. Hyde was dying. Yet in harmony with the sentiment expressed by the poet when he said:

"Saints should be joyful in their king,
E'en on a dying bed;
And like the souls in glory sing,
For God shall raise the dead."

A few hymns were sang, cheering the Saints and interesting and amusing the crowd that had gathered at the station.

We have a good Sunday school at Dow City which is doing a grand work, the officers and teachers being very energetic. On the 18th of June they had a Sunday School picnic in Mr. S. E. Dow's grove, near the town, which was quite largely attended, a good-number of the Methodist and Baptist people meeting with us, including their ministers. A long table was in readiness, upon which an abundance of good things were spread of which all partook with gladness, lemonade being furnished by the school. The forenoon was spent by singing and speaking, and after dinner the young people amused themselves with swings, while the older ones passed away the time in visiting and chatting with each other. A general good time was had.

Yours in bonds,
C. E. BUTTERWORTH.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., July 15th.

Dear Brethren:—Brother Curtis and myself did not get the tar and feathers, as promised at the Union School House. You locate Keck School House near Clinton. It is in Vernon county, about fifteen miles east from Nevada, where we got the eggs. I learn since that brethren and others have the names about fifteen of the mob. They are badly scared, and follow our brethren to town to see if they are going to do anything with them. Finding out that the eggs would not drive us, there was a notice put on the school-house door making threats of what they would do, which would not look well in print. The eggng happened on Wednesday evening, 9: 30, p. m., June 23d, we continued until over Sunday, preaching. The Lord raised up friends to us that are looking after the mob. The next step was to close the school-house against us, and that failed also. The Baptists' made their brags that they were going to hold the fort while they had it. Then to clap the climax, they moved their meetings out of the neighborhood, and warned their members not to take us home with them. Now the Methodists and Campbelites are making fun of the Baptists and say that the Mormons have taken the fort; and the Baptists retort and say "The Mormons are going to take the country." (I think the sooner the better). Since then I have been with Brn. I. N. White and H. H. Robinson, in St. Clair and Cedar counties. We baptized six on the 12th instant. We have got the Dunkards after us now. The little stone cut out of the mountain is rolling. There are calls in every direction for preaching. I came very near forgetting to assign any reason for getting our eggs raw. We preach "too much Bible; too much Bible," so say the Baptists.

When we see how the people are blinded we don't have any time to idle away. We have everything to encourage us, seeing how the Spirit is working with the people.

I had the pleasure of meeting with the ElDorado branch last month. They are a noble lot of Saints; and enjoyed one of the best meetings I have ever witnessed in the church. Several of the gifts were manifest which were encouraging. The Saints manifest a good degree of the Spirit. I also met with the Clinton Branch of late. They are mostly young in the cause, but zealous and humble, enjoying themselves in the Spirit. If we have some trials, they are overbalanced when we see the Lord granting his Spirit to his children in confirmation, while his servants hands are yet on their heads.

Your brother in Christ,
S. CRUM.

HASTINGS, Victoria, Australia,
June 11th.

Editors Herald:—I am glad to see there is a probability in the near future, of having among the church publications some reading matter adapted to the needs and taste of the young people of the church. This need has been felt in a greater or less degree by all. I find there are many young people of the church who are firm in the faith, that is, they are perfectly convinced that the gospel is true, and could never be satisfied in any other church, still not alive to the work, or interested enough in it, or, I might say, not sobered down enough to be interested in the deep reading matter of the Herald, and the Hope is too small. They are passing over the dazzling and slippery paths of youth, and need a guiding hand that, while keeping pace with them, can steady and direct them.

In a productive soil the only way to keep the weeds down is to sow seeds of something that will grow faster. It is labor in vain to dig out the weeds if the ground is left empty. We want something to take the place of, and crowd out the numerous periodicals of trashy reading that are continually being placed before the young. They must read something, and will read those if they have nothing better.

It is true good books can be sought, but when those are read through they are done. The mind partakes of the spirit of the age, wants something new continually coming. Through this medium (the magazine, "AUTUMN LEAVES") it will be the aim of the writers to cultivate in the rising generation a taste for a higher class of reading than many indulge in to day. Many are living in remote and secluded places, their books and magazines being their only diversion. At such places—and they are predominant with the Australia Saints—a book-store is not found, consequently neither the young people nor their parents have any opportunity to make a selection of reading matter if they would. But agents for useless stuff, such as the "Bulletin," will find their way to all such places, and people will pay their money away for what is only fit to light the fire with.

I might say much more, but this is sufficient to convey the thoughts I wish to express on the subject. I sincerely hope the church at large will take hold of this enterprise and make it work a reformation among our grown up young folks, not only in the way of subscriptions (although that will be the first step), but also in contributing nice, interesting articles—the brethren as well as the sisters, for I suppose its pages will be open to all who write appropriate articles—not necessarily to be always religious instruction; neither irreligious, but something that always contains purity of thought and motive—good morals. Where is Uncle Jehn now-a-days? We never hear from him. I have no idea who he is, but would like to see more such stories as "What is it worth," and "Why not now?"

I realize it requires a sacrifice, and mental concentration, to sit down amid our daily duties and cares, or to throw them off, and write for hours at a time. But the writer is benefited by the sacrifice as well as the reader.

SISTER EMMA.

STOUC CITY, Ia., July, 16th.

Dear Herald:—I came to this place from Decatur, Nebraska, where I baptized four. Visited the mayor yesterday to get the use of the park, but he thought it would not do to make special of it. We are trying to get the use of a grove near Bro. Berg's, and if we do will commence services to-morrow. The Saints have been very kind where I have been.

In bonds, J. W. WIGHT.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

NOTES BY THE WAY.—No. II.

ON May 28th Bro. and Sr. Stauts and Sr. Penrod kindly procured a team and took me to Secret and Ruby Valleys, some forty miles distant, in a south-easterly direction from Elko. Our route lay for the most part over an uninviting sage brush, rabbit range, with a few sage hens and blue grouse to comfort "Poor Lo," in his sorrowful wanderings. Extensive, precipitous, rocky, snow-clad mountains, on either side afford a safe retreat for the wily mountain sheep. En route we took in old Fort Halleck, recently abandoned as a military station. As a silent sentry it stands alone, with its imposing, gaunt, spectral looking hospital, with the surrounding cottages and long low barracks, looking dreary enough to remind one of Byron's Thanatopsis, or voice of death, while the adjacent graves of soldiers are opened and their remains borne away to Washington to rest and await the note of the archangel's trump.

This is quite a romantic and picturesque spot, at the base of a mountain, by the little babbling brook, as it leaps forth from its pretty cottonwood shade, and from which an ample supply of ice cold water can be drawn to irrigate the large farm or Government reservation thereto belonging. It is all to be sold, I am informed, and Madam Rumor has it there is a favorite in the ring some where. I wonder if the old lady has quite forgotten this is a purely Democratic administration, no more rings, grindstones or axes—at least I saw none here. But worse than all that our road is all of a sudden blockaded by six barbed wires, tightly drawn and stretching away miles in the distance on either side. We ordered a halt and called a council of war, and after taking an observation found it was nearly night. We had about fifteen miles further to go and were not prepared for camping. To turn back was out of the question. President Cleveland was away in the Adirondacks, little dreaming what a fix we were in. It was finally moved, seconded and carried, that we proceed immediately, and that that fence be and is hereby declared a compound public nuisance, to be temporarily abated—which was done. We ordered the wires down as an actual necessity, and as they let go of two posts our combined averdupois was just sufficient while standing on them, and lifting on the post, to hold them down as one sister drove over; then up they rose again, and we had a good open road to proceed over, not expecting to find other lines yet up in our way, but in a few miles, sure enough, we struck it again, and again we ordered it down, enforcing our orders in the same way. And methinks had an unsophisticated Philistine, or a telescope-eyed dude come along and gazed upon those wagon tracks, it might all have been swallowed as a Mormon miracle—a sure sign that faith and works will prevail. On, on we wend our way, and stayed that night at the hospitable and genial home of Mr. (now brother) Leonard Covert, in Secret Valley,—with whom we spent a pleasant and profitable season, although we found his wife suffering severely with chronic rheumatism, being very lame, and oft compelled to use crutches. It was exceedingly painful to see her even cross the room. She said she had tried all kinds of remedies and received no benefit from them; so that night and next day I took the case before our Father, the Great Physician, and after consulting with Him upon it, applied His remedy—anointing with oil and laying on of hands, as his legally authorized servant in the name of Jesus rebuked the affliction and blessed her as an officer in the Church of Jesus Christ; and again, thank God, he sealed the rebuke and the blessing in a complete and most unmistakable manner. The lameness left her and has not since returned. She is rejoicing in the blessing, and testifies with others of the wonderful power of God. The clouds of witnesses are continually increasing—"Jehovah speaks! let earth give ear."

It is written that "in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word shall be established." Nowhere does he say in the mouth of one witness only. Now show me a man who is testifying to mankind that this church is not the divinely organized, commissioned, officered, and heaven-accepted church of the Son of God, even of that Christ that said unto Saul: "I am Jesus of Nazareth whom thou persecutest," (Acts 22: 8), and I will show you a man weak enough to say Christ did not know his own name; and if the name of Jesus is obnoxious to any now, it shows such are not intelligent members of his body. I earnestly pray all such may speedily repent of such nonsense, become converted and saved by obedience to the gospel of Jesus Christ. For the Master hath said to us, "Whoso rejecteth you and your testimony, the same rejecteth me, and rejecteth him that sent me." etc. While this Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ, composed of Latter Day Saints, is fast building up "the waste places of Zion," as God has so long advertised shall be done, and while contending earnestly for the faith once delivered to the Saints, some kinds of professors must rise up and contend against it. But while we toil, and watch, and pray, and plant and water, God is giving the increase, and everywhere "confirming the word with signs following them that believe" and obey this heaven sent message, in this "the hour of his judgment." To him be the glory forever. Amen.

Ruby is the largest valley I have seen in this region, being some seventy miles long, and three to ten wide, looking like an oasis in a desert, while from every point of the compass come bounding the snow fed mountain streams all centering, after much irrigation, in a lake near the center of the valley, the waters of which sink. This is a good stock country, producing some grain and much hay. Frosts occur nearly every month in the year, the weather changes to extremes suddenly, everything brought in via rail and team is fabulously high. This, with its surrounding vallies, is dotted with log houses generally built, with here and there an old dug out, by families years ago who scattered out from Utah, to thus isolate themselves from tyranny, oppression, and the soul blighting curse of apostasy in all its worst phases. Disappointment marred each visage, recklessness branded the steps of many, but not all; some maintained their integrity all through the long years of that dark night which ought to and might have been their noon-tide of day. I have seen and conversed with many time-scarred veterans, also young and middle aged. Every one has the sad story of bitter past experience to tell, mid tears oft falling fast as they recount their wrongs and compare them with their first experiences of joy in the work in the days of the martyr—prop<sup>et</sup>. I am often led to exclaim, "How the Saints loved that man! And why do they still hold his memory so dear? It was because God loved him; and His Spirit bore witness with their spirits of his worth in the sight of heaven. Nothing, I find, so stirs up the fountain depths of their souls as to read or hear anything against the life or character of Joseph Smith the martyr. Wherever I find the faintest spark, even of the love of truth or hope of immortality in the breast of these old-timers, I find every one testifying of the power and integrity of Joseph and Hyrum. And I have yet to find the first one who does not thus testify of them. Yes, and more; the Spirit of God bears record to the truth of their statements. And notwithstanding they in their best days with Joseph were most violently treated, mobbed, plundered, robbed and suffered all but death, far beyond anything since experienced by them under the Brighamite rule, still in the face of all this they love the first leader God sent, and abhor and detest the memory of the apostate Brigham. To my mind such testimonies weigh in God's balances of truth; and it does my very soul good to see such brethren return to the old paths and remember their former covenants, "not only to say, but to do according to that which is written" in the three books, realizing that it is written there is joy in heaven over them, as I see them again receive and enjoy the same Spirit and "seal" of the covenant they made with Jesus Christ more than forty years ago. None but a wilfully blind, petrified mummy would be expected to stand and deny the light of the God of day in his meridian splendor; but "thrice dead and plucked up by the roots" must be that "whited sepulchre" who will arise and hypocritically contend against those whom "God has set in the church, as it pleased Him," and whose labors the heavens reward and approve daily. The good work will go on, for God has spoken it. The stone kingdom is growing, and it "shall not be left to other people; but it shall be given to the people of the Saints of the Most High." In that kingdom, with the Saints, I am well pleased even now; and I ever expect to be fully satisfied in it and not outside of it. This, too, is the revived faith of these returning pilgrim Saints, who are made to rejoice 'mid the surrounding gloom of prejudice, bigotry and false doctrine, with all of its "lo, here, and lo, there," ever to be found on either hand, just outside of "the straight and narrow path," in which path there are no stumbling blocks, as brother Joseph so beautifully explained to us at the Park's Mill conference in September, 1873, and which was so indelibly impressed upon my mind, as it was upon many others, as an eternal truth.

Everywhere I go among these old-timers I find some who, for years, had trembled between fear and hope, as they struggled on with tearful eyes, gazing upon their families growing up to go forth and meet the false theories of men, with no apparent opportunity of being armed with a knowledge of the truth. Thus has the happiness of many lives been blasted and withered. Surely, there must be recompense for its authors when the witnesses are all brought in, for it is written: "shall not the judge of all the earth do right?"

I have been told by well informed adults here, who were raised and educated in the Utah church that they there had never heard a sermon, but had always been harangued on irrigation, fence making, compound tithing, consecration, polygamy, obey counsel, and to keep their eye on "the bag" for the next "cat to be let out," etc., all marked and branded to pass by the angels and the gods into Brigham's celestial heaven, etc.

Here at the hospitable house of a well known old-timer of Nauvoo fame, William Fausett, who by the way, is a brother-in-law of our time-honored brother, Elder John Brush, of Newport, California, with whom I spent many hours in discussing the past as well as the present and future, holding good meetings there, as well as in an adjacent school-house. His eldest son and good wife were the first to demand baptism, and on that memorable 2d day of June, as I led down brother Alfred and sister Mary into the chilly waters of Pole canyon while our sweet singers of Israel, brother and sister Hays, bore well their part in solemn song. The heavens were propitious, the Spirit of the Master meet for such an occasion was felt, as many glistening, tear-dimmed eyes on the bank testified. And as I called for more volunteers for the army of the Lord, no little stir was noticed as out stepped four noble young men—William and Leonard Covert, John M. Fausett their uncle, and another nephew William E. Cassaday—making six to follow Christ. That evening at the confirmation meeting there were joyful tears shed as old brother and sister Fausett exclaimed, "Thank God? Our prayers of many years are being answered this day, for salvation has come to our house."

Having established a good Sunday school, both the young and the old seem quite interested and studious; quite a change is apparent in the neighborhood; the spirit of truth is working. Continuing meetings till the 18th of June, again the waters were troubled by baptizing seven more precious souls, including old brother and sister Fausett, their son William, then Leonard Covert, he being the first white child born in Salt Lake City, (November 27th, 1848), then followed his two daughters, Julia and Maud. On starting away we met Bro. Hays' son, Clarence, and returned and baptized him. All these are promising young men for the cause of Zion. Held a good confirmation meeting in the evening; spoke an hour on the laying on of hands, and felt that God approved the labor and blessed it. Next day we again met in the school house, preached the word to a goodly congregation. We organized the North Ruby branch with fifteen members, brother A. Hays presiding elder, A. A. Fausett priest, Leonard Covert priest and teacher, Wm. Fausett deacon.

There are many good souls here that are believing; and others say they will obey soon. It needs an able, active elder here that can visit the entire surrounding region and raise the standard of Zion. There are a few hostiles—as might be expected. Such are generally "willingly ignorant" of our faith, and talk wildly of us, while the general tone of the people is quite respectful toward us. The good sisters here, as in other places, are not found wanting in feasts, basket-lunches, etc. They know how to manage those things to make all feel at home.

Here in our Sunday school arose the anxious question, "What kind of tune books shall we buy? When will our own be ready, and how few can we get along with till we get our own collection?"

When I told them of the Sunday School work and workers at Lamoni, nearly all expressed an earnest wish to be there and enjoy the feast. And here permit me to say that in every place I have visited the earnest want and desire for the coming "Autumn Leaves" of sister M. Walker is daily expressed. The time has come that its great want is felt; and with that is coupled a strong confidence that it can and will be supplied. Its worth is being considered and weighed in nearly every household of Saints, and some others also look for it with much desire. And I have got to find the first Saint to say a word against its publication. Even the usual chronic growler does not oppose it.

Our noble Herald and Hope are highly esteemed, as they should be, wherever I find them; and while their dear pages are radiant with heavenly truth, yet they can not contain all of the condensed valuable matter—soul food—which the “Autumn Leaves” will bring. In every house where the Herald and Hope is read I find various other publications, even the best of which have to be analyzed. Columns of worthless advertisements are never read, many light, trashy articles are turned from with contempt, and so from the great mass of their contents very few gems can be gathered; so they are read and destroyed, not considered worth preserving. But in such a publication as this magazine promises to be, its worth will cause its files to be kept for reference. Again, its cost per year will give far more valuable reading matter than the four or five dollars in publications so often found to cull from. None ever discontinue the Herald or Hope, that I am aware of, to take outside publications and get the little of worth they contain. Neither will they do so with “Autumn Leaves.” The mass of our people are readers, and many are profound thinkers. And while the cry comes from Zion’s children, and we have God-given talent ready, waiting to wield the mighty pen that shall both instruct, edify, comfort, counsel, and build up the many, old and young, languishing, worried, weary, sad and overtaxed mothers in Israel, giving hope, infusing new life, lifting heavy burthens, showing them how their life-work and its harvest shall bless themselves and their dear ones more than before, also helping the fair daughters of Zion to mold and fashion their channels of thought aright, enabling to wisely think out their work and then understandingly work out their thought, so they shall not be disappointed at the harvest. For with these advantages of the experience of old and wise heads they are enabled to rightly start in real life work, where otherwise they might have to leave off, as millions have done before. Tell me, O ye careless ones, is it not a most laudable and inspirational work! And shall we be found guiltless, I ask, if we withhold our timely aid? Let it start with two thousand names, and there is no failure about it. Now will every branch president take it in hand and make a list of names of all wishing it within their reach, and send on to Sr. Walker without delay. And should there be one who either could not or would not do it, let an active sister in the branch take it in hand and it will be done.

I would also suggest a printed form for subscription list, to be furnished every branch. It would greatly facilitate the work. Let me here quote Paul’s words to the Philippians, 4: 3: “And I entreat thee, also, true yoke fellow, help those women which labored with me in the gospel, with Clement also, and with other my fellow laborers, whose names are in the book of life.” Yes; let “Autumn Leaves” go forth in early autumn, too.

As I sit writing I hear the far reaching peals and booms of heaven’s artillery reverberating through the mountain crags. O, that it, too, might be used to bear on its swelling chorus the message of eternal truth in its loudest voice. Let the lightning flash it! Let all nature tell it!

The faces of the Saints in this region are all turned Zionward, and some are preparing to go east with their stock at an early day to locate. The brethren are very kind and carry an elder wherever he wishes to go, which is no little thing. I just went over to Clover Valley with Bro. Hays and family; but the heat was too much for me with climate changes. Quite a severe attack of mountain fever kept me still a few days; and although gaining I am still weak. I am hardly strong enough for this field, much as I like it, and feel sorry to leave it so soon. But it is necessary I should, and again the adieus are said feelingly, and in sadness we part. I go to Elko with brother Hays’ family, bearing tokens of brotherly love from this branch of our Father’s family with whom we have had the short but agreeable acquaintance of five or six weeks. May we, with others who are just ready to enter the door, meet again in Zion. If my prayer will avail, they shall ever be blessed. More anon

RUBY NALLEY, Nev., July 6th.

D. S. MILLS.

GOD’S CHILDREN.

ON Sunday, July 3d Bro. W. W. Blair preached an excellent sermon in Lamoni, in which he asserted, and conclusively proved from the scriptures that man is “the offspring of God,” hence the children of God when created. In meditating about it some thoughts occurred like this:

We as God’s children are apt to require of some more than they are able to do. We also are prone to find fault with each other. But God, our Father never requires more of any one of us than we are able to do. He never finds fault with any of his children when they do what they are able to do.

They who obey the gospel, “the perfect law of liberty,” are privileged to attain to celestial glory if they are willing and able to live for the same. If they fail, they have other chances, or provision is made for something else. In Doctrine and Covenants, 85: 5, is one of the evidences of God’s goodness to his children:

“They who are not sanctified through the law which I have given unto you, even the law of Christ, must inherit another kingdom, even that of a terrestrial kingdom, or that of a telestial kingdom. For he who is not able to abide the celestial kingdom, can not abide the celestial glory; and he who can not abide a terrestrial kingdom, can not abide a terrestrial glory; he who can not abide the law of a telestial kingdom can not abide a telestial glory; . . . therefore he must abide a kingdom which is not a kingdom of glory.”

This is in harmony with the vision in section 86, which, I think, manifests the goodness of God to his believing children. None will be condemned for not doing what they can not do. If any are not able to abide or keep a celestial law, they may be heirs of terrestrial or telestial glory and have inheritance on earth in the “great millennial,” though in the great finale some of the inhabitants of the telestial world will be those who failed entirely to be meek; hence lost the privilege to reign, or dwell, or serve under Christ on earth.

W. C. LANYON.

THE EFFICACY OF GOD’S WORD.

[THE following purports to have been an actual occurrence.—ED.]:

Rev. Geo. T. Street, Baptist Minister:—“Well, Will; I called at Kirtland as I was coming here from Caro, Tuscola county, Michigan, to see the Mormon temple and those plates that Joe Smith had. I asked the janitor if he knew. Do you know?”

Bro. Street:—“Certainly, I know where history says they are, and that is enough. They were given in charge of an angel.”

Rev. G. T. S.—“It seems strange that the janitor didn’t know, and you do. He asked me to preach and showed me through. It looks like an old mill or an old barn, or farm building. Do you believe Joe Smith saw the plates, or an angel, Will? Is it a reality or a fraud?”

Bro. S.—“I not only believe, but I am sure. And as for its being a reality, many thousand people have been deceived if it is. But how is it all you ministers say ‘Joe Smith,’ instead of Joseph? In a court of justice the law would demand manners, and fair play. Does going to college, and a theological seminary for seven years teach you to talk disrespectfully of some one you never knew, or perhaps never will?”

Rev. G. T. S.—“It is very easy for many people to be deceived. Look at the Catholics, Spiritualists, Mohammetans and thousands of other ‘Isms,’ being deceived every day! And all the books and newspapers call him Joe.”

Bro. S.—“So you put your trust in books and newspapers do you? But let us come to facts. Did God call Martin Luther, John Knox, John Wesley, John Calvin, Whitfield, or any other of the reformers, by direct revelation?”

Rev. G. T. S.—“No; I think not.”

Bro. S.—“Don’t the Scriptures inform us that ‘no man taketh the honor (of priesthood) upon himself, only those that are called of God as was Aaron?’ And you know how he was called. Who authorized you to preach? Did God call you?”

Rev. G. T. S.—“No; the faculty of the college and those who ordained me and confirmed me, authorized me to preach. Man did it.”

Bro. S.—“Can’t you see that according to the Scriptures your system is wrong? Here you are on a vacation preaching for a salary per week. And if some parish offered you more than you now get, you would go, and Christian papers would have it that you were called of God to another place, thus preaching "for hire," deceiving and being deceived; pastors and their flocks in a restless condition, driven to and fro. I thank God that I know the fulness of the everlasting gospel in its simplicity, and that the signs follow the believer as they did of old. Many thousand people have had a testimony for themselves, and every one who obeys the ordinances and keeps the law of Christ can have one also. I am satisfied I have one that the world can not impeach."

Rev. G. T. S.—"Will, you seem to have something I have not got, with all my seven years' learning at college.

WM. STREET.

W. P. BROWN'S TRACT.

Editors Herald:—In a recent issue of the Herald I noticed an editorial calling attention to a pamphlet published by W. P. Brown, of Newton, Kansas. And as I held a discussion with him at Cameron, Ontario, last fall, I was quite anxious to obtain his tract. However, I did not see it until at our conference of the London district, just passed, Bro. J. H. Lake gave me one. In looking it over I find it claims to be a report of the Cameron debate. But in many instances Mr. Brown has changed his arguments so that they appear in his tract quite different than he presented them at Cameron. For instance, Mr. Brown says on page twenty-seven of his tract, and gives it as his argument at Cameron: "But I must first notice some remarks made by my opponent last night. * * * He took you to Matt. 17th chapter to prove that spirits and men can converse together without being changed." Now this is false! I did no such thing. This you have doctored, Mr. Brown, since the debate. The term, "without being changed," formed no part of your argument at Cameron. But as you saw how signally you were defeated there you have therefore gone to work, patched up, and put in print your nonsensical arguments at Cameron, adding to, and striking out here and there to suit your convenience. The truth of this assertion will appear to the reader of your tract, as you say on page six: "I now intend to write on the four subjects that I discussed at Cameron with Elder Smith, and give the substance as taken from the notes in my possession, and such other thoughts as may come to my mind." Why do you now have to insert "such other thoughts" as may come to your mind? Evidently because, in looking over your quibbling statements, you saw how futile had been your efforts, and that they needed doctoring. The fact of your publishing the matter, with "such other thoughts" added as came to your mind, shows clearly you were not satisfied with your efforts there, and hence you gather up your notes of that debate, and by fixing and doctoring with your "other thoughts," hand it to the public as the substance of that debate. This answers for the reason why you did not publish the other side of the discussion, better than your deceptive whine—"On the account of the vulgar language I don't think it fit to be put into print." This is too transparent, Mr.

Brown, as is proved by the contemptible way you turned your slanderous tongue on the elders of the Reorganization while you were endeavoring to defend your hopeless cause. No, sir! had my arguments been inconsistent and clothed with vulgarity, you would only have been too glad to have then made them public and tried to use them against the Reorganization. But because facts were submitted there that overturned your little barque, you now, in your despairing and whining way cry out, His arguments were vulgar,—not fit to be printed!

I also notice that Mr. Brown thinks it was a terrible affair for Bro. Luff and me to tell him of his falsehoods. Undoubtedly the pious Jews thought the same of Christ when he told them they were liars. (John 8:55). The criminal on the gallows thinks it unbecoming a gentleman to put the halter around his neck, but nevertheless the laws of the land may authorize it. And so may the laws of God authorize me to tell a man of his falsehoods when proper. And that the Herald readers may see that I have reasons to say you told falsehoods, I call attention to your tract, page 2. You there say: "It could not be expected that Smith would do any better than he did, for he was sent from Independence, Missouri, for that purpose." Now whoever will take the pains to look up the appointment of missions for the year 1886, will see I was appointed by General Conference to labor in Canada. I left Missouri August 22d, 1886, and the debate did not take place at Cameron until December 6th. I was not sent from anywhere to meet you, Mr. Brown. Elder J. H. Lake appointed that I should go to Cameron before there was even a hint of your coming there; hence, in this you have spoken falsely. And the only reason I can assign for your trying to make out that I was sent all the way from Missouri to meet you was to carry the idea with those who did not know better, that the Reorganized Church considered you of such importance that they had nothing in Canada to meet you, hence had to send a man from the States! But so far from this, Mr. Brown, the Reorganization considers almost any of her lay members fully competent to cope with your theological (?) powers; and we would therefore suggest that before you start on your mission of "waking up" the Latter Day Saints, that you become a little more given to telling the truth.

On page three of your pamphlet you say: "I had to rise and request the people to remain quiet while he [Smith] was speaking. He even asked me to intercede for him so that he could speak." I would suggest for your benefit, Mr. Brown, that you read the 8th verse of the 21st chapter of Revelation, for you know you have told a wilful falsehood here. You also say, on same page: "At Cameron there were about twenty-four Latter Day Saints, and half of them were convinced that I was the right man in the right place. I had already baptized seven of them." Now there was then a branch of over sixty members at Cameron instead of twenty-four. And if half of the "twenty-four" you mention thought you to be the "right man in the right place," why did they not show it by accepting of the ordinances at your hand? But the facts are to the contrary, as is evinced by four persons uniting with the Reorganization, as a result of that discussion. And when you say you had already baptized seven of the Latter Day Saints, you state falsely again, for one of the seven you baptized had been cut off the church, hence did not belong to the Latter Day Saints.

Mr. Editors, I might go through Mr. Brown's entire pamphlet and show false statements in various other instances, but I consider it folly and a waste of time to bother with a matter so inconsiderable as Mr. Brown's work. His arguments carry upon their face their own refutation and inconsistencies. I will just notice one argument, however, to show Mr. Brown his inconsistency. On page 9, where Mr. Brown is discussing the name of the church he says: "But in 1834 they changed the name to Church of Latter Day Saints, leaving out the name of both Jesus and Christ. Here the bride divorces the bridegroom and puts the church in her own name." Again, on page 11 he says: "I tell you, that when the church changed its name the first time and put it all in their own name, and put both Jesus and Christ out of it, darkness covered the whole church." And further on page 28: "Now if Christ had not taken David Whitmer out of that body so that the authority might be preserved, an angel would have been obliged to come down again with the authority."

Now, if these matters are as Mr. Brown says, then the church has had no authority since 1834, and if the church in changing the corporate name divorced the bridegroom—Christ—then she, the church, formed no part of the body of Christ after that act. If this was a legal divorce, then Christ would no longer acknowledge that body as his bride, but rejected her; and as David Whitmer was a part of that body up to April 1838, was he not rejected also, seeing that Mr. Brown tells us "darkness covered the whole church!" But Mr. Brown may say, "No; David Whitmer was not rejected. It was only the majority that was rejected." But this is only mere assertion, and every individual belonging to the church at that time might make a private claim, and where then is the authority of discrimination to accept of one and reject the other! No, sir; if the church was rejected in 1834, then David Whitmer was rejected with it; and the idea of David Whitmer continuing to remain for four years with what is alleged to be a corrupt and rejected "bride," committing adultery with her in the sense of administering her corrupt doctrine, and then this unholy, unchaste, corrupt, and adulterous bride to rise up and cut David Whitmer from fellowship after he had associated with her for four years after she became the divorced bride, does not speak very well for the pure stream of authority claimed for David Whitmer—and yet it equals his authority derived from the apostate, false revelator, W. E. McLellan.

How is it that Christ allowed David Whitmer to remain with what he alleges to be an unholy, and rejected bride, administer her doctrines and partake of her sacramental cup until she had arisen and severed him from her connection before he "called him out to hold the authority!" Mr. Brown will please pardon us if we don't take his nonsense all down. Mr. Brown when you say, on page 29, "If the stream is filthy we must go above the point where the filth has come in, in order to get where the stream is pure," then we wish to remind you, that according to your own argument, that David Whitmer's hands being laid on your head conferred nothing by way of authority to administer in the things of the kingdom of God, for he had none to give.

We might elucidate this matter farther, but we forbear, seeing that David Whitmer claims are being fully punctured by the Herald, reminding us of the sayings of Jesus, "Whosoever falleth upon this stone shall be broken; but on whomsoever it shall fall it will grind him to powder."

Praying that God will have mercy on those who are out of the way, I am as ever,
W. J. SMITH.

HOLSTEIN, Ont., June 24th, 1887.

HEED THE WARNING.

"HE that is warned, let him warn his neighbor." The Lord is visiting destructions upon the earth, and we are notified that they will come thicker and faster, till ultimately all who will not repent shall be destroyed from the face of the earth. But before the Lord destroys a city or nation, he warns them that they may repent and be saved if they will.

And whom does he send the warning through? The wicked? No; for they will not even hear the word of the Lord. And if the warning is given through those who will hear, is it not their duty to make known that which the Lord has spoken through his servants and handmaidens concerning a place, that the people may repent if they will? And also that their garments may be clean of the blood of that people? Reading Bro. J. W. Dimmock's letter in the Herald, and also a private letter from him to my husband, has stirred up those thoughts in my mind concerning Nova Scotia, and I feel so strongly impressed to write that I have laid aside the much desired new Herald to do so.

I shall now relate a few circumstances in connection with the subject. During the early part of our mission in Nova Scotia, while Bro. George N. Davison was alive, and at the time of which I write was at the house of one of his brothers who had recently been baptized, and from the very day he made known that he, with his wife and sister and brother-in-law were going to leave the Baptist Church, in which they all were leading members, and join the Church of Jesus Christ, the whole neighborhood was in an uproar. Some of the women who had been considered the most pious christians of the Baptist Church came to him and with tears and prayers entreated him to desist, saying if he left the church the blood of those who were looking to him as an example, would be upon his head. And when he would not be persuaded, they went to father's house, endeavoring to work upon my mother's feelings, troubling father because his children were becoming heretics to the church in which they were brought up, endeavoring to turn him against the instruments of their new conversion, and urging mother to do all she could to keep them from being baptized. At the close of the morning meeting in the Baptist Church, my brother announced that there would be baptism in the afternoon by Elder Burton. Then what a wild scene ensued! One woman rushed out of her pew and went leaping and screaming at the top of her voice all the way down the aisle, saying, "I will not have it, I will not have it!"

As soon as the congregation was outside they crowded around mother, who was naturally emotional, and not being fully decided who was in the right, she became nearly crazed by the wild entreaties and denunciations of the people. Five or six women were crying and talking all at once, with some throwing their arms wildly, it was a scene that would unnerve any one who did not know it was all a trick of the adversary. At baptism there was a large audience—about two hundred—most of whom came out of curiosity, while others intended to ridicule, and to break up the meeting. But the power of the Spirit was sufficient to keep them quiet during the excellent discourse before confirmation; and those who had come to mock and ridicule, hung their heads in shamefaced silence. Christ could not do many mighty works in his own country because of unbelief on the part of the people, and was it anything strange if in that assembly of unbelievers and evil designing people there was no further outward manifestation of His power than prophecy at the confirmation. But because there was not, there came the "Aha, I told you so; they have no more power than any one else; it is all a base fraud."

Those who obeyed knew it was not, and yet they looked for something more. The conflict had been so great with my brother, that when the reaction came, and all his former friends turned their backs on him, his bodily strength gave way, and all that evening he lay on the couch as weak as though he had had a heavy sickness. Having followed Jesus in the waters of baptism he now followed him into the wilderness, spiritually, and was sorely tried and tempted. Since the people had not succeeded in preventing them from obeying, it seemed they agreed to oppress, worry, and torment them till they would be, as one woman said, forced to come back to their old church again for refuge. And if that place was not the abode of devils for a time, then such beings never were upon the earth.

I shall not take the time to give all the connecting links; suffice it to say, that one morning while this brother was at work in the barn floor, his mind being in a state of great agitation, the devil caught him up and tossed him over a four foot wall into the bay, (a place for hay), throwing him on his back on the log flooring, where there was but a slight covering of hay, causing him to utter the most unearthly yells that a human being ever uttered. Bro. George Davison was in the house, a little distance from the barn, and hearing the yells, knew the cause, and although feeble in body was strong in faith; and knowing that he alone in that place (Joseph had gone to Rawdon) held the authority to command the evil power in the name of Jesus Christ to depart, he arose immediately and went to the barn, praying as he went. For one moment he thought of his physical weakness, and faltered with fear. But it was only for a moment, for the thought came, "There is no one else; I must." But what a sight to meet! There lay our brother writhing, apparently in agony; his features distorted; his eyes glistening like a wild beast, and he frothing at the mouth. When he saw George his desire was to strike at him, but he was in a manner bound. George made his way cautiously around him, got his hands on his head, rebuked the devil in the name of Jesus Christ, and commanded it to depart. With a hideous yell he departed, and our brother rose up so light and happy he said he could scarcely stay on the ground, and felt as though he would leave the ground and stand in the air.

Such a victory over the powers of darkness almost overwhelmed brother George with joy. And our brother testified that while he (George) stood and prophesied in the name of the Lord concerning the three woes that were to come upon that place, his face shone like the face of an angel.

And again; my sister Sophia, who is now in the paradise of God, bore testimony that as she awoke one morning quite early, she heard the words pronounced in a most melancholy strain, "Woe, woe, woe to this place, if the inhabitants repent not." Again; in a testimony meeting at Bro. Robert Newcomb's, while the writer was speaking in an unknown tongue, with such a spirit of lamentation as never came upon me before or since, my sister Eliza, (who had only attended one meeting prior to that evening) saw in vision the interpretation just as my husband gave it in words a few minutes afterwards; but she was so overcome by its terrible nature that she could not tell it till after meeting. She wanted no further proof that the power of the ancient gospel was again on earth, and forthwith obeyed. Again; while at Queen's Ferry it was shown to me, as I have already written. Two of these testators are dead, therefore their testimony is in force. But Bro. Dimock, when you hear of cattle dying strangely, or of barn burnings, do not think the woes have already come. Should you visit a place that you once visited with us, and see the earth torn and thrown up, the sea coming in where it ought not, and the whole face of the country so changed that you would scarcely recognize it, then you might say that was one woe. Or if the country should be devastated by war, perhaps that would be one. Or, if the deadly sickness should pass through the land taking whole families away, perhaps that might also be one. Let those who are Saints of God "stand in holy places" and prove themselves to be Saints indeed, and it shall not come nigh unto them. May God give each one of us grace and faith to stand in the day of trial, that by keeping all of his commandments the destroyer may have no power over us.

Your sister in the covenant,

EMMA.

HASTINGS, N. S. W., May 16th, 1887.

THE BENEFITS OF RELIGION.

MANY are clamorous in demanding proof of the claims of the gospel of Christ; yet equally as many, perhaps, are blind to the force of such proof when presented.

When a system is inaugurated for the accomplishment of certain specified ends, the evidence of its merit is its adaptation and fitness to the work to be accomplished.

Who can become a follower of Christ represented in the Bible without becoming better than he was before?

Will infidelity dare to maintain that virtue does not merit reward? And if there is a hereafter, a future life, the possibility of which most of the infidel school admit, I believe, who stands the better chance of receiving what no soul can help but desire, the infidel who ignores a definite expression of God's will, or the Christian who accepts the highest type of intellectual and moral life as the standard of their lives?

Proof, indeed! What do the opposers of religion grant us in support of their assumptions? Ah! they attack the weak places in the line of Christian effort. They fain would make christianity, propet, responsible for the vices and mistakes of every professor. This is unfair, and evidences either a willful blindness as to causes and effects, or unpardonable ignorance of important matters upon which they dare to speak

We might turn the telescope and single out examples of infidelity where the moral character of men and women is so low that infidelity itself, if it has any conscience, would shudder at the baneful sight. There is no real parity existing between Christianity and infidelity. The former is based upon certain well defined principles. It gives expression to the highest laws of which the human mind can conceive. It is definite in all its parts. Infidelity is not so; it is vague, indefinite, illy defined and undefinable; breathes no certain hope; makes no demands; recognizes no responsibility to the higher power. It is simply a negation of everything in the way of revelation from heaven, a denial of the utility of the Christian's hope, a plunderer in the realm of spiritual thought and desire. Men of sceptical tendency I can and do respect with proper deference; but the creature of infidelity itself I deplore and abhor. It should not be respected, because it is not respectable. It is not what sinful and suffering humanity need. Men are prone enough to evil when the restraint of future judgment is before them. Infidelity practically throws down every barrier to sin and disrobes men of the needful shields of faith, hope, and trust, thus proving itself an enemy to the race. While men of high culture, excellent talent, and fine sensibilities, have been sceptics, yet I believe that infidelity finds its grossest expression in the lowest characters found among men.

It does not require a moral character to give rank in the files of infidelity and atheism. No, indeed. Any body can be an infidel. There is no climbing upward, no aspiration to virtue and holiness, no desire to be purer and better, and no promise of these things either, in infidelity. No; it is a moral descent, a degeneracy of thought, a subversion of purpose, the crucifying of inherent hope. It is the ruthless hand of violence laid upon the delicate creature of conscience.

The gospel is what the people need. It immediately turns the eye heavenward. It points out a life of holiness, of consecration to a just and merciful Father. It does what its opponent does not—it demands reform; of the sinner it demands a proper development of character as the only means of fitness for future happiness. It brings heaven almost in view, and truly gives a foretaste of heavenly joys. It tells us of a Savior's love, of a tender compassion perfected by a life of trial as is ours. It places the affection on things above, and awakens the finest sentiments of the soul. Who would have infidelity when Christianity costs no more and is infinitely better!

GEO. S. HYDE.

Conference Minutes.

NORTHERN INDIANA AND SOUTHERN MICHIGAN.

Conference convened at Saints' Chapel in the Clear Lake branch, June 4th, 1887, at 10:30 a.m. The forenoon was spent in prayer and testimony meeting, in which much of the Spirit was enjoyed and the Saints strengthened and edified. At 2:30 p.m. Bro. C. Scott was chosen president, and D. B. Teeters, secretary, with L. Fay assistant. Minutes of last conference read and approved. Reports of elders: B. V. Springer, B. Corless and C. Scott, present, had labored in their respective fields with good results. Bro. Springer had baptized 16, Bro. Scott had baptized a number in the district and some outside. Elder W. H. Kelley by letter, gave a good report of the work. Priests George Corless, Jonathan Emrich, Leonard Scott and Kiefer were present and gave encouraging reports. Branch Reports: Webberville 21, including 1 elder, 5 baptized, 2 dropped. Galien 78, including 1 high priest and Bishop, 1 seventy, 2 elders, 1 priest, 1 teacher, 4 baptized, 1 died. Marcellus 13, including 1 elder, 1 priest, 1 marriage, 1 ordination. Coldwater 65, including 2 elders, 1 priest, 1 teacher, 5 baptized, 1 received on certificate of baptism, 2 died. Clear Lake 73, including 2 priests, 1 teacher, 5 baptized, 2 died. Bishop's Agent's report: On hand last report $1143; received $8906; paid out $10200; balance due agent $1.51. Conference authorized officers of the district to issue license to Brn. J. Shook and — Kiefer as elders. Preaching in the evening by Leonard Scott to a full house. Sunday, June 5th, preaching by C. Scott to a large audience. At 2:30 p.m., preaching by Bro. Leonard Scott. At 7:45 p.m. preaching by Bro. B. V. Springer. At 9 a.m. the Bishop's Agent's report was accepted. Two days' meetings were left to be appointed by the president with the consent of the branch officers at Clear Lake, Coldwater and Marcellus. Bro. C. Scott was sustained president of district, D. B. Teeters secretary, and Wm. Lockerby Bishop's Agent. A vote of thanks was tendered the Saints and friends of Clear Lake for their kindness and hospitality. Four were baptized by B. V. Springer during conference. The attendance was large and the services good throughout the session, thus making one of the best conferences ever held in the district. Adjourned to meet with the Galien branch on call of the president of the district.

MASSACHUSETTS.

The above district conference convened at Brockton, Massachusetts, May 29th, 1887, at 2:30 p.m. Bro. E. C. Briggs was chosen to preside, with Bro. John Smith as assistant, with F. M. Sheehy clerk, with Bro. F. A. Potter to assist; John H. Ames as chorister; Isa B. Ames organist; George W. Ames usher, he to select his assistants. Elder's reports: John Smith, F. M. Sheehy, F. A. Potter, M. H. Bond, H. H. Thompson, C. A. Coombs, W. Barse, N. C. Eldredge, E. N. Webster, C. E. Brown, E. C. Briggs, and J. Woodward by proxy. Priest's reports: U. W. Green, I. B. Ames, F. Seers. Teacher's reports: G. W. Robley, G. W. Ames. Deacon A. B. Pearse reported. Elder J. Chester and Deacon A. E. Nelson reported by letter. The chair, by order, appointed a committee on branch reports, consisting of U. W. Green, R. Bullard and C. E. Brown. The following reports were received and referred to the committee: Cranston, North Plymouth, Plainville, Dennisport, Boston and Brockton. Brethren George W. Gates and R. Bullard were appointed auditors. Bro. Smith's reports as district treasurer, also as Bishop's agent, was referred to the auditors. Remarks on finance were made by agent Smith, commending the district for their success, and giving encouragement in that department. In the evening session the minutes of last conference having arrived they were read, and after some correction were approved. Elders J. B. Pierce, Thos. Whiting and A. N. Hoxie; and Priests T. Andrews, T. W. B. Shaw, with F. Steffe, and Teachers W. Moore and D. T. Shaw, reported. A report from Priest S. W. Ashton was read and referred to the Elders committee. Report of committee on case of S. W. Ashton was read and referred to the Elders committee. A request from Little Compton for a two days' meeting to be held there the last of June was read and granted. A communication from the Plainville branch recommending Bro. U. W. Green for ordination to the office of elder was referred to the Elders committee. The following decision on an appeal to the First Presidency was endorsed by vote of conference: "Office of the Presidency, Lamon, Iowa, May 19th, 1887. In a matter in appeal from the Massachusetts district. F. A. Potter vs. A. A. Chase. Charge of slander. It appears that the matter was pending before the district conference for settlement; that a disagreement in the elders court resulted; that a new court was at once appointed by the district president; that at the time of the first trial, and the appointment of the new court, the defendant had waived the labor of church officers, and plead to the jurisdiction of the district; and did by her counsel consent to the appointment of the new court by an agreement to meet the court when notified of the time of its meeting. 2. We therefore decide that this waiver is a continuous one for the purposes of the trial of this charge; that the plea to the jurisdiction should have been made at the time of the first trial, or at the time of the appointment of the new court, and before the agreement to meet the new court. 3d. For these reasons we decide that this appeal should not lie. 4. That the Massachusetts district has jurisdiction, and the parties hereto should govern themselves in accordance therewith. Joseph Smith, W. W. Blair." The report of district president as having visited A. A. Chase as per request of conference, together with a letter sent to conference by A. A. Chase, was referred to the Elders committee. The remainder of the evening was spent in listening to remarks by Bro. E. C. Briggs of the Twelve. Sunday prayer and sacrament meeting began at eight a.m., in charge of Elders Chase and Webster, and continued until noon, when we adjourned; after which three were immersed by Elder M. H. Bond. In the afternoon Elder E. C. Briggs preached to a crowded house. Previous to this those that had been baptized were confirmed by Elders Bond and Sheehy, also a child was blessed and some sick persons administered to. In the evening Bro. F. M. Sheehy preached to a large audience. Monday morning, Saints met at eight a. m. for prayer meeting, which continued until 10:50, when business was resumed. Committee on branch reports reported all correct. The authorities of the church were sustained in righteousness. Resolved that a vote of thanks be tendered the Brockton folks for entertainment during conference. Bro. John Smith was sustained president of the district, and Bro. T. Whiting clerk. Priest A. W. Glover reported. Report of the Elders committee: 1. We recommend the printing of twenty thousand Epitomes from the district plate, and that the district treasurer be authorized to appropriate ten dollars for that purpose. 2. We recommend the adoption of the committee report on the case of Bro. S. W. Ashton, and the discharge of the committee. 3. That the document annexed to the report, together with the letter and report of S. W. Ashton be referred to Bro. Briggs of the Twelve. 4. That the letter of A. A. Chase be referred to Brother Briggs. 5. That we endorse the recommendation from the Plainville branch for the ordination of Bro. U. W. Green to the office of an elder. Adjourned to meet in Providence, Rhode Island, the last Saturday in September, at 2:30 p. m. The conference was one of interest and encouragement to the Saints; the pleasure of the Master being signally manifested during the sessions of conference.

WESTERN MAINE.

Conference convened at the Cunningham School-house, West Surrey, Maine, June 11th and 12th, 1887, F. M. Sheehy president, U. W. Greene clerk, pro tem. Minutes of last conference read and approved. Elders S. S. Eaton, G. W. Eaton, W. G. Pert, F. M. Sheehy; Priests F. C. Grey, U. W. Greene, and Deacon J. H. Eaton reported. Branch reports: Green's Landing, Bray's Mountain, and Brooksville reported. Deer Isle and Saco not reported. Bishop's Agent reported: On hand last report $944; received $2055; total 2999. Paid out $1012; on hand $1987. An auditing committee reported agent's books correct. Resolved that the order of the meetings during conference be left with the president. A two days' meeting for July 2d and 3d, at Little Deer Isle, was appointed, and friends at West Surrey were invited. A vote of thanks was extended to the friends at West Surrey for kind hospitality. The time and place of the next conference was left with the president of district. In the evening at 6:30 speaking by all the elders. Sunday morning at eight o'clock had prayer and testimony; at ten preaching by F. M. Sheehy; at two p. m. preaching by U. W. Greene, after which four were baptized. At seven p. m., preaching by F. M. Sheehy.

Miscellaneous.

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

Those wishing to attend the conference of the South Eastern Ohio and West Virginia district, which will be held at Vale's Mills, Ohio, August 27th and 28th, will please write me timely so I can make arrangements to meet them at the train. Parties coming via K. & O. Railway will get off at Carpenters; those coming via Columbus and Hocking Valley and Toledo will get off at Radcliffs Station. S. J. Jeffers, Branch Pres't. Vale's Mills, Vinton Co., Ohio.

The Central Kansas district conference will convene August 6th and 7th, at Fanning, Doniphan county, Kansas. Bro. Blair has made the promise to be there. Will the Saints throughout the district make an effort to be there, especially are the brethren in the ministry invited and desired to be present. Come, brethren, and let us one and all feel and realize our responsibilities as ministers of the gospel, and the preaching of the word in the district rests largely on the ministry of the district.

H. GREEN, Dist. Sec.

Conference of the Eastern Maine and Nova Scotia district will convene with the Saints in the Olive branch, at Jonesport, July 23d and 24th. We shall expect Bro. F. M. Sheehy, and it is possible that Bro. E. C. Briggs will be here.
S. O. Foss, Pres. of Dist.

TWO DAYS MEETINGS.

Two Days Meetings will be held in the Michigan and Northern Indiana District as follows: Clear Lake, Steuben county, Indiana, August 27th and 28th; Marcellus, Cass county, Michigan, September 3d and 4th; Coldwater, Branch county, Michigan, September 10th and 11th; Knox, Stark county, Indiana, September 24th and 25th, 1887. The Saints of the district desire that as many of the missionaries as can possibly attend these meetings to be present, including those in charge of mission.

In behalf of district, C. SCOTT.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORT.

Report of London (Ont), Sunday School for five months ending July 10th, 1887. There were 25 sessions; total attendance 535, average attendance 25. Total collections $9.33, average 44 cents; on hand last report $10.14, grand total $19.47; paid out $4.63; balance in treasurer's hands $14.84. No. of Hopes taken 30. The school is doing well under the guidance of our heavenly Father and the teaching of six teachers.

SR. QUICK, Supt.
Bro. HARDY, Sec. and Treas.

MARRIED.

At Deer Lodge City, Montana, July 8th, 1887, J. C. Clapp officiating, father and mother Hansen, parents of Sr. Andrew Christopherson, celebrated their golden wedding. After fifty years of domestic peace and distress, joy and sorrow, this aged pair renewed their marital vows amid the peaceful scenes of the new world, and with children and grandchildren in happiness and the enjoyment of love and the respect of all.

DIED.

MYRERS.—At Deloit, Crawford county, Iowa, July 13th, 1887, child of Bro. George and Sister Myers, aged 15th months, 14 days. Funeral discourse by Elder J. T. Turner.

REALS.—At Nebraska City, Nebraska, July 16th, 1887, of brain fever, Albert Charles, son of Edward E. and Margaret N. Reals, aged 1 year, 2 months and 22 days. Funeral sermon by Elder Robt. M. Elvin: text John 12:32.

DEUEL.—At Garden City, Kansas, May 11th, 1887, of measles, Mary E. A. (Nellie), only daughter of Bro. and Sr. G. E. Deuel, aged 3 years, 3 months and 16 days. She was a bright, winsome child, very dear to her parents, who mourn their great loss, only consoled by the promises of Jesus: "I am the way, the resurrection and the life."

STEVENS.—At Independence, Missouri, July 13th, 1887, of summer complaint, George A., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Stevens, aged four months and one day. Funeral services at the residence by Elder F. C. Warnky. Thus the little buds of promise are taken by death and carried by the angels into the sweet fields of Eden, beckoning us to come.

For Sale.

Store Property, Store Building, Warehouse, Dwelling, Barn, and about one acre land. General Merchandise Business. Good location and best Store property in town. Write for particulars. GEO. DAMON, Administrator, etc. Kirtland, Lake co., Ohio. 16jul3t

Welsh Hymn Book.

We have on hand about 100 copies of a book, entitled "Llyfr Hymnau at Wasanaeth Eglwys Iesu Grist. Ad-Reddiedig Sant y Dydd Diweddaf." There are 393 hymns in English and 33 in English. It is published by the church in Wales, and sent here for sale. Sixty cents each, free of postage; bound in full leather, marbled edges.

GOOD BUSINESS MAXIMS.

1. Attend carefully to the details of your business.
2. Be prompt in all things.
3. Consider well, then decide positively.
4. Dare to do right; fear to do wrong.
5. Endure trials patiently.
6. Fight life's battles bravely, manfully.
7. Go not in the society of the vicious.
8. Hold integrity sacred.
9. Injure not another's reputation in business.
10. Join hands only with the virtuous.
11. Keep your mind from evil thoughts.
12. Lie not for any consideration.
13. Make few acquaintances.
14. Never try to appear what you are not.
15. Observe good manners.
16. Pay your debts promptly.
17. Question not the veracity of a friend.
18. Respect the counsel of your parents.
19. Sacrifice money rather than principle.
20. Take care of the pence and the pounds will take care of themselves.
21. Use your leisure time for improvement.
22. Venture not upon the threshold of wrong.
23. Watch carefully over your passions.
24. Xtend to every one a kindly salutation.
25. Yield not to discouragement.
26. Zealously labor for the right.

The Sisters' Aid Society of Independence branch have for sale for the benefit of the new church, two Cabinet Photographs: one of the THREE WITNESSES, with views of the HILL CUMORAH and the ANGEL delivering the PLATES; the other of the OLD LIBERTY JAIL as it now stands, for 25 cts each. Those desiring to purchase can address Mrs. B. C. Smith, box 61, Independence, Missouri. 23jul3m

AUTUMN LEAVES.

THE MAGAZINE

Which we propose starting for the homes of Zion will be a royal octavo of 64 pages. It will be issued from the Herald Office, Lamoni, Iowa, monthly, and will contain departments adapted to every want of the family. The choicest scraps of Literature, History, Biography, Poetry; and well selected current events, together with the latest and most reliable events connected with Palestine and the Jews will be among its contents. Everything of a character tending to elevate—to make better men and women of those who are now boys and girls, in the home circle—will be introduced and fostered; while everything of a character contrary to this will be strictly excluded.

THOSE WHO ARE WILLING TO AID

In this enterprise will please send in their names at as early a day as convenient; and when the list shall amount to fifteen hundred we will complete arrangements for its early issue, and promise to furnish yearly nearly 800 pages of choice reading matter, for the moderate sum of $1.25.

WE ASK THE TRAVELING MINISTRY,

And friends of the latter day work generally, to solicit names for us. (Do not accept or remit any money until notified so to do.) We will notify the Herald readers from time to time of the increase in subscription list. We now have quite a number of names, but have as yet made no especial effort.

Terms (strictly cash in advance) $1.25 per year.

M. WALKER.

TO HOPE SUBSCRIBERS.

On and after January 1st, 1887, the Hope will be sent to subscribers as follows:
Single copies, per year ..... 50c.
Over 4 copies and under 10, to one address, each ..... 40c.
Ten copies and over, to one address, each ... 35c.
Subscriptions to be paid in advance unless otherwise arranged for by subscribers.

ZION'S HOPE

Is published every Saturday by the Church of Christ, at Lamoni, Iowa. Single copies, per year, 50c; packages of four to ten 40c; packages of over ten 35c.

Lamoni and Vicinity.

Those wishing to become acquainted with Lamoni and vicinity, will do well to subscribe for

THE LAMONI GAZETTE

A weekly paper, now published by

LAMBERT & HANSEN.

dec11tf

J. H. HANSEN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Will practice in Lamoni and vicinity; calls made at all hours. Office in Drug Store of Hansen & Walker, Lamoni

MIDWIFERY and DISEASES of WOMEN a Specialty

Residence one block East Teal's Store. 14feby

Money Orders.

Money Orders are much safer than Postal Notes when remitting to this office, and they cost but two cents more. Don't forget this, lest you lose money.

D. DANCER, Manager

"A BOOK FOR THE PEOPLE."

CAPTIVATING! USEFUL! Eloquent Discussions, and Diplomatic Papers on the Great Public Questions of the Past and Present, by JAMES G. BLAINE.

Embracing his masterly arguments on the vital issues in the Anti-Slavery Struggle, the All Important Labor Question, Prohibition, Irish Home-Rule, etc., etc. A FORTUNE FOR BOOK CANVASSERS! APPLICATIONS FOR TERRITORY COMING IN WITH A RUSH! THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING CO., NORWICH, CT.

WHEN YOU TRAVEL

Take the

Line selected by the United States Government to carry the Fast Mail,—the

As it is the Line running Through Trains to and from the following cities and towns on its own Lines:

- CHICAGO,
- AURORA, OTTAWA,
- STREATOR, ROCKFORD, DUBUQUE,
- LA CROSSE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS,
- MENDOTA, PEORIA, GALESBURG, ST. LOUIS,
- QUINCY, KEOKUK, BURLINGTON, WASHINGTON,
- OSKALOOSA, DES MOINES, CHARITON,
- GRESTON, ST. JOSEPH, ATGHISSON,
- KANSAS CITY, NEBRASKA CITY,
- OMAHA, COUNCIL BLUFFS,
- LINCOLN & DENVER,

Making Direct Connections

TO AND FROM

- NEW YORK,
- BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON,
- CINCINNATI, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON,
- NEW ORLEANS, LOUISVILLE, SAN FRANCISCO,
- LGS ANGELES, SALT LAKE CITY, COLORADO AND PACIFIC COAST RESORTS, CITY OF MEXICO,
- PORTLAND, OREGON, MANITOBA,
- VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND POINTS.

Good Equipment, Good Service, Good Connection.

For information concerning the Burlington Route, apply to the nearest Ticket Agent of the C., B. & Q. or connecting railroads.

HENRY B. STONE, PAUL MORTON,
General Manager, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt., CHICAGO, ILL.

Train Leaves Lamoni, Going East at 1:45 p.m.
Do. do. West 2:53 "

At Bethany Junction, 3 miles east of Lamoni
Trains pass going South at 3:07 a.m. Going East and West, pass at 12:10 a.m.

PUBLICATIONS ISSUED AND FOR SALE

—) BY THE (—)

Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church, at their Publishing House in LAMONI, DECATUR CO., IOWA, And sent Free of Postage at prices named.

Holy Scriptures.

Inspired Translation by Joseph Smith the Prophet.
Sheep or Library binding.....1 50
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....2 00
Full Morocco, gilt edges.....2 50
New Testament, inspired edition.....75

Book of Mormon.

Roan, sprinkled edges.....1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....1 50
Full Morocco, gilt edges.....1 75

Doctrine and Covenants.

Sprinkled Sheep, or Library.....1 25
Imitation Morocco.....1 50

The Saints' Harp—Hymn Book.

Imitation Morocco, marbled edges.....1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....1 50

Life of Joseph the Prophet, History of the Reorganized Church, and Autobiography of Joseph Smith.

In Cloth, full gilt finished, very handsome.....2 25
This book contains 827 pages of large, clear reading matter; also, three very fine Steel Engravings, and a fac simile of the Autograph of Joseph the Prophet and Emma, and of Joseph Smith; also, Steel Engraving of Hy-um Smith. A complete history of the Church up to 1880.

Joseph Smith the Prophet, and His Progenitors.

Muslin Boards, 312 pages, by Lucy Smith.....75
Leather Binding.....1 00

Hesperis.

Poems by David H. Smith, 202 pages, fancy cloth, gilt edges.....1 50

Rules of Order and Debate.

For all Deliberative Assemblies of the Church; also, a Chapter on Branch Rules, and one on Reports of Branches and Districts; 128 pages, limp cloth.....40

Joseph the Seer.

His Prophetic Mission Vindicated, and the Divine Origin of the Book of Mormon Defended and Maintained. Paper covers 200 pages.....35
This is a reply by Elder W. W. Bair to Elder William Sheldon of the Second Advent Society, and is an important work to be in the hands of the ministry of the Church, especially; and it is a most excellent one to be circulated both in the Church and among those without, abounding in proofs never before presented in defense of Joseph Smith and the Book of Mormon.

Voice of Warning.

And Instruction to all People, on the Doctrine and History of the Latter Day work; 128 pages
In Paper Covers, twelve for $1.....each 10
Limp Cloth Covers, each.....25

Prophetic Truth.

Confirmed in the appearing of the Book of Mormon an Israelitish Record of a Fallen People; paper covers; five for $1.....each 25
Being the Subject of an Evening's Conversation Respecting its Origin. Its Divinity Proved by the Scriptures and Collateral Evidence. Prefaced with a Brief Sketch of the Life of the Prophet, showing the way and manner of his becoming possessed of the Record.

Branch Records.

Leather backs and corners, muslin sides; printed headings, and ruled for Record of Names, Blessing of Children, and for Marriages.....2 00

District Records.

Printed and bound similar to Branch Records.....3 00

Licences, Notices, &c.

Elders, Priests, Teachers, and Deacons Licenses, each per dozen.....12
Blank Preaching Notices, per hundred, 40c, and.....50
Baptism and Confirmation Certificate books, with blank stub, 35 for.....25

Certificates and Reports.

Branch Statistical Reports, per dozen.....40
Annual Statistical Reports, two for.....10
Certificate of Baptism and Membership, per dozen.....12
Certificate of Removal, per dozen.....12
Marriage Certificates, per dozen.....25

"Manuscript Found."

We have for sale at this office the notorious "Manuscript Found," written by Rev. Solomon Spaulding, about which so much has been said in connection with the theory that it furnished Joseph Smith and Sidney Rigdon the chief ground work and material from which to write the Book of Mormon. Has 144 pages 8 mo.; single copies, in cloth, 25 cents; 10 copies or more to one address, 20 cents each; in paper, single copies 15 cents; 10 copies or more, to one address, 13 cents each.

Tracts.

- No. 2.—Truth Made Manifest; 20c. a doz., per 100.....1 50
- No. 3.—Voice of the Good Shepherd; 5c. a doz., 100.....40
- No. 4.—Epitome of Faith and Doctrine of the Church and the Kirtland Temple Suit; 5c. per doz., 25c. per 100, 50c. for 250, $1 for 500, per 1,000.....1 75
- No. 5.—The Gospel.....price the same as No. 4
- No. 6.—The "One Baptism;" Its Mode, Subjects, Prerequisite sites, and Design,—and Who Shall Administer; 16 pages; 25c. per doz., per 100.....1 75
- No. 7.—Who Then Can be Saved; 6c. a doz., 100.....40
- No. 8.—Fulness of the Atonement; 25c. a doz., 100.....1 75
- No. 9.—Spiritualism Viewed from a Scriptural Standpoint; 20 pages; 30c. per dozen, 100.....2 25
- No. 10.—The Narrow Way; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100 for 1 10
- No. 11.—The Plan of Salvation; 30c. a dozen, 100.....2 25
- No. 12.—The Bible versus Polygamy; 25c. a dozen, 100.....1 65
- No. 14.—Reply to Orson Pratt; 25c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 75
- No. 15.—Brighamite Idolatry; 5c. a dozen, per 100.....40
- No. 16.—Polygamy; Was it an Original Tenet of the Church; 20c. a dozen, 100.....1 40
- No. 17.—The Successor in the Prophetic Office and Presidency of the Church; 25c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 75
- No. 18.—Rejection of the Church; 15c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 10
- No. 20.—The "One Body;" or the Church of Christ under the Apostleship and under the Apostasy; 12 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 40
- No. 21.—Truth by Three Witnesses; 8c. a doz., 100.....15
- No. 22.—Faith and Repentance; 15c. a dozen, 100.....1 10
- No. 23.—Baptism; 10 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 25
- No. 24.—The Kingdom of God; 5c. a dozen, 100 for.....40
- No. 25.—Laying on of Hands; 5c. a dozen, 100 for.....40
- No. 26.—Mountain of the Lord's House; 4 pages; 6c. a dozen, per 100.....40
- No. 27.—The Sabbath Question; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 40
- No. 29.—A Vision of the Resurrection, from the Doctrine and Covenants; 5c. a dozen, 100 for.....40
- No. 30.—Origin of the Book of Mormon; 15 cents a dozen, per 100.....1 10
- No. 31.—What is Truth? and True Orthodoxy? and an Evangelical Church? Also, the Kirtland Temple Suit. Per dozen 6c., 100 for 25c., 250 for 50c., 500 for $1, 1,000 for.....1 75
- No. 32.—Which is the Church? 5c. a dozen, 100.....46
- No. 38.—The Spaulding Story Re-Examined; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 25
- A Memorial to Congress; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100.....1 10
- Trial of the Witnesses to the Resurrection; 32 pages; 6c. each, per dozen.....60
- Prophecy on the Rebellion; per 100.....15
- An assortment of Tracts, 35 cents.

COMPLETE SET OF TRACTS.

Bound in Limp Cloth turned in.....75

Reply to Littlefield.

We have for sale at this office, in pamphlet form, containing 48 pages, the "Reply of President Joseph Smith to L. O. Littlefield in refutation of the doctrine of plural marriage." Price, post paid, single copies 10 cents; 75 cents per dozen to one address.

Forscutt and Shinn Discussion.

J. Shinn affirms "The Bible Teaches the Coming of Christ to Judge the World is now past." M. H. Forscutt affirms "The Bible Teaches the Literal Resurrection of the Body from the Grave." Paper covers, 191 pages.....25

Visions of Joseph Smith, The Seer.

Discoveries of Ancient American Records and Relics, with the statement of a Converted Jew, and of others; paper covers, 43 pages.....10

Concordance to Book of Covenants.

An enlarged new edition; paper covers, 32 pages.....10

Sunday School Supplies.

Sunday School Engineer and Record Book.....50
Prompt Attendance Tickets.....100 for 15c., 1,000 for 1 00
Good Behavior Tickets.....Same price.

Miscellaneous.

- The Problem of Human Life Here and Hereafter, by A. Wilford Hall; 644 pages, in cloth boards.....1 50
- Universalism Against Itself, by A. Wilford Hall; in cloth boards; 336 pages.....1 00
- Josephus, complete in one vol., library leather.....3 50
- Gibson's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, cloth boards, 5 vols.....4 00
- Moshelm's Church History, cloth boards, 2 vols.....4 00
- Baldwin's Ancient American, (illustrated), cloth.....1 80
- Rollin's Ancient History, 2 vols. in one, leather.....4 00
- The Koran, library leather.....2 00
- Gieseler's Ecclesiastical History, from A. D. 1 till 1854, cloth boards, 5 vols.....10 00
- The Ecclesiastical History of Eusebius Pamphilus, Bishop of Caesarea, to Palestine, cloth boards.....2 00
- Cruden's Complete Concordance of the Bible.....1 75
- The Bible Text Book.....1 00
- Apocryphal New Testament.....1 65
- Brown's Concordance of the Bible.....60
- Emerson's Ready Binder, Herald size.....85
- Emerson's Ready Binder, Hope size.....90
- Emerson's Ready Binder, Advocate size.....50
- Five Quires of Note Paper, 120 sheets.....50
- Five Quires of Note Paper, better quality.....60

Tracts in German.

Tracts in the German Language may be had of Bro. Ad. Richter, Burlington, Iowa: The Baptism, 6 cents; the Repentance, 5 cents; the Principles of the Gospel, 6 cents; the Epitome of Faith, 2c.; the Sixth Trumpet, a fifty-four page pamphlet, 25c. These prices include postage.

THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board or Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price $2.50 per year. Money may be sent by Post Office Order, Registered Letter, or by Express on Lamoni, addressed DAVID DANCER, Box 832, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa. All matters of business connected with the office should be addressed to DAVID DANCER; communications and articles to the Editor.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEarken TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAve IT BE ONE WIFE- AND CONcUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.

"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 34.—Whole No. 742.

Lamoni, Iowa, August 6, 1887.

No. 32.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

Business letters and subscriptions must be sent to David Dancer, by P. O. Order, Registered letter or express Entered as second class matter at Lamoni Post Office.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - - - EDITOR.
W. W. BLAIR - - - - - ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, August 6, 1887.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

It is with great regret that we learn by letter from Little Sioux, to sister Amos Chase and family, of Lamoni, that Bro. George S. Hyde has joined the host beyond the grave. Bro. Hyde was one of the best and ablest contributors to the HERALD; and we ask the Saints to read his last article, "Co-operation," as if it was his last testimony to the gospel of the Lord. It is full of good instruction, and encouragement to the Saints. We have no particulars concerning his death, but will give them when received.

The Daily Globe, Boston, Massachusetts, for July 18th, has reached us from kind hands, and in it is a digest of a sermon by Bro. E. C. Briggs, on Sunday, the 17th, and an account of an interview by the reporter after the sermon; both good. So that in Boston and in Cheyenne the faith is expounded.

Bro. John Eames, of Cheyenne, advertised his services for Sunday, July 17th, morning and evening; subject, Mark 1:5. He believes in letting his light shine.

Bro. James Coop, of Downs, Osborne county, Kansas, sends us a slip from the Battle Creek Weekly Journal, and asks us to correct it through HERALD. It is not worth replying to in any sense, being a partly true and partly false statement of affairs about Kirtland, Ohio, but really amounting to nothing. Bro. Coop says that their crops are failing badly, dry weather the cause. He says, also, that they need an elder there; which we believe.

Bro. Francis Earl, of Hegewisch, Illinois, informs us that we wrongly credited his article to the Hegewisch Journal; it should have been credited to Carl Pretzel's paper. It was our mistake, some one having misplaced the two papers after they were laid on our table. We ask pardon for the mistake.

Bro. E. T. Dobson, of St. Joseph, Missouri, sent us a copy of the New York Daily Graphic for July 20th, containing a cartoon illustrative of the peace of Europe at the present time. It is a display of the rulers of European nations, with bodies covered with bayonets, like porcupines, facing each other in threatening attitudes. Bro. Dobson's comment is "Significant."

Bro. J. W. Waldsmith, of Nebraska City, sent us a copy of the Nebraska Press, for July 24th, with an account of a lynching, in which Lee Shelleberger was hung for the supposed murder of Maggie Shelleberger.

Bro. Wentworth Vickery, of Plano writes us on a late date, that the drouth is very severe in Kendall county. Thirty-six acres of land yielded two loads of hay. Sixty of oats give 1,200 bushels. No potatoes and not much corn at present prospects.

Bro. H. J. Hudson of Columbus, Nebraska, sends a Columbus Democrat, for July 15th in which is the account of a visit to Utah, by a Gentile, who thinks that all the younger generation of Mormons are certain to be monogamous in practice, whatever may be their religious belief.

A preacher is wanted at McCann, Cherry county, Nebraska. So writes Bro. W. F. D. Brandon, July 20th. Will some one of the local brethren of the vicinity hear and answer this call.

Bro. R. R. Dana sends us a clipping from the Cincinnati, Ohio, Gazette, of July 2d, giving an account of a new sect, originating with Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Miller, formerly members of the Walnut Hill M. E. Church, Cincinnati, who are styled Perfectionists. They have a counterpart at Cleveland, Ohio, and perhaps other places. About all that is stated in the account is that perfection and the millennium may be wrought out in this life, by righteousness and self-sacrifice—not a bad creed by any means. Mesdames Martin and Brooke claim to be the Two "Witnesses."

Bro. Henry A. Stebbins has been at Allendale, Worth county, Missouri, ten days, preaching nights and Sundays. When it was known that he would be there the brethren of the dominant church there sent for an elder and began meetings, ostensibly to keep folks away from Bro. Stebbins' services. However, it failed, the congregations being fair. Bro. Stebbins baptized three, and is to return on Saturday the 30th, for further efforts, when it is expected others will obey. Bro. Stebbins expects that Bro. Charles H. Jones will be with him to help him on his return to Allendale.

Bro. Joseph R. Lambert has been holding meetings at Flagler, Iowa, with a fair interest manifest. There was talk of discussion before he reached Flagler, but none upon his arrival. He thinks that with proper effort there may be a good work done there. The heat and excitement caused him to return home for a few days recuperation.

What a marvel it is, this latter day work. On every hand there is a fair disposition to hear, after an elder once gets a hearing; and in many localities the people are anxiously asking for preachers. These are not to be had—the laborers are few indeed. What means this famine for the word of God?

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Bro. J. J. Cornish wrote from Bay Port, Michigan, July 20th:

"Every thing is moving on grand here. Seven more, heads of families, have been baptized in this place. The Saints are enjoying much of the Spirit. We look for more to obey soon. I start for Sanilac county to-day. Brn. Carpenter, Burch and Delong, are reporting to me very favorably. I feel pleased to tell you that we are about to build a church at Bay Port. This district seems to be getting along well."

Bro. E. N. Webster, of Boston Highlands, wrote Bro. Blair July 21st:

"I have been visiting the different branches in the district. I find the Saints on the whole strong in the faith and hope of the gospel. They are the best people I ever knew. I am treated very kindly by all. I still maintain my interest in the Boston branch, who are doing very well, having excellent meetings. Bro. E. C. Briggs is now with them. He is liked much in the district."

Bro. A. H. Parsons wrote from Chase, Kansas:

"I am laboring in the ministry to the best of my ability. Came here to Chase, Rice county, the 20th. We are having fair attendance. Bro. Shute is with me now. He has just entered the field but a short time ago; expects to continue the rest of his days as a missionary. I have been blest in my labors and rejoice in the gospel work."

Bro. W. W. Blair wrote from Nebraska City, Nebraska:

"We had some fine meetings at McCaig's Grove from 21st to 25th, but press of farm work kept many from them till Sunday, when we had excellent attendance and attention. Faithful work there will win a goodly number to the church. Brethren J. Caffall and R. M. Elvin of the missionary list were there, and in fine spirits."

Bro. Albert Haws wrote from Corvallis, Benton county, Oregon, July 20th. He was visiting from house to house, telling the gospel story to whoever would listen; the harvest season preventing other missionary work. He was to go to Seattle by request, to baptize one who had written for him to come. He says:

"My faith has not slackened in the great work that is before us; for as I advance the way marks are accumulating and growing brighter and brighter on one side, while on the other they grow darker and darker; the evidences becoming more and more satisfactory. So by the grace of God I want to continue to the end."

Bro. E. C. Brand writes from Des Moines, Iowa, July 22d, 1887:

"I am opening up a new place here (Van Meter) nineteen miles west of Des Moines. Had good congregations. Bro. James Allen, from Coalville, and his family are my choir, with a 'wooden brother.'"

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Ques.—I would also ask you to give your view of paragraph seven of revelation given April 11th. I learn some of the brethren understand and teach that at some future time some other day than first of the week will become the Sabbath for the church to observe. Are they right?

Ans.—The evident object intended to be served by the giving of the paragraph referred to was to put a stop to teaching and counter teaching respecting the Sabbath. Until such time as further instruction is authoritatively given the church will observe Sunday, the first day of the week, as a day of rest, a day for religious services, a day in which the Saints should abstain from unnecessary labor, and attend divine worship, pay their oblations and seek for spiritual intelligence and comfort. No one is authorized to teach differently from this. There is nothing in the revelation that warrants any speculation about it. Bro. Brown, of the Expositor, well says, "Now let us have a rest on the Sabbath question."

DEATH OF JOHN TAYLOR.

JOHN TAYLOR, the successor of Brigham Young in the presidency of the Utah Mormon Church, is dead. The Chicago Times of July 27th has the following telegraphic notice of the event:

"SALT LAKE, Utah, July 26th.—John Taylor, president of the Mormon Church, died last evening. The funeral will be held at noon, Friday next, at the tabernacle. The body will lie in state in that building from 7 to 11:30 a. m.

"John Taylor was born at Milnthorpe, Westmoreland county, England, November 1st, 1808; joined the Methodist Church in England, emigrated to Canada in 1832, following his parents, who went two years before; got in conflict with the Methodists in Toronto when Parley P. Pratt visited that city. In 1836 Taylor and others were baptized in the Mormon church by Hill, and in 1837 they gathered at Kirtland, Ohio. In 1838 Joseph Smith had a 'revelation,' naming Taylor and others for members of the quorum of twelve apostles to fill vacancies. He did much missionary work for the church for twenty years in the Isle of Man, England, Scotland, Ireland, and France, and he was also editor of various church papers. He was with Joseph Smith in the Carthage jail, and received four shots when the assailants opened fire. Another bullet lodged in his watch, which saved his life. He published the Book of Mormon in French, and issued a paper in New York City in 1854, called The Mormon. He was president of the twelve apostles when Brigham Young died, in 1877, and as such remained at the head of the church till 1880, when he organized the first presidency anew, taking the chief place himself, which he held till his death.

"After the passage of the Edmunds law of 1882 he pretended to give up his wives, but constantly preached that no Mormon could do this, and nobody believed that he had done it. He was indicted early in 1885. He last appeared in public February 1st, 1885. Since then he has been in hiding from the officers of the law. Taylor was one of the earliest and firmest adherents to polygamy, yet after adopting it he took occasion to deny that such a practice prevailed among the Mormons.

"George Q. Cannon published a long and violent announcement of the death in Deseret News this evening, charging Taylor's death to the cruelty of the officers of the law in not permitting him to come out and have his usual exercise. Cannon says Taylor 'occupies the place of a double martyr—has been killed by the cruelty of officers, who have in this territory misrepresented the government of the United States.' Again: 'His blood stains the clothes of those men who, with insensate hate, offered rewards for his arrest and have hounded him to his grave. History will yet call their deeds by their right names, but one greater than the combined voices of all historians will yet pronounce their dreadful sentence.'"

WE have information from a reliable source that both Sidney Rigdon and his wife remained steadfastly in the faith, believing that Joseph Smith was a prophet, and obtained the plates and translated the Book of Mormon, substantially as related in the history of the church. Our informant states that he visited Salt Lake City in 1863, had a number of conversations with Pres. B. Young and others, who seemed to desire to convert him to the polygamic dogma. That on returning east he took occasion to visit Elder Sidney Rigdon, and questioned him closely as to his knowledge of the Book of Mormon. His statement was, "I know nothing of its origin only what Joseph Smith, Martin Harris, and David Whitmer stated in regard to it. I believe that the book was found as Joseph Smith stated. Joseph Smith was a prophet, and this world will find it out some day."

Our informant is reliable and knows whereof he writes. This is another nail in the coffin of that Spaulding Romance lie, about the Book of Mormon.

THE Cincinnati Price Current, for March 17th, '87 has the following which will be of interest to our readers:

BOYCOTTING ILLEGAL.

Probably no intelligent person who has given due consideration to the practice of boycotting has had any doubt of its pernicious tendency, but in the absence of any statute law against it he may not have fully appreciated the enormity of the offense. A recent decision of Judge Brown, of the United States Circuit Court at New York, is so clear and explicit that no one can mistake the legal aspects of the case. The Old Dominion Steam Ship Company sued a committee of workmen for $20,000 damages alleged to have been sustained through an attempt to injure their business during the recent strike of the 'longshoremen, and the matter came before Judge Brown on a motion to vacate the order of arrest. In giving his reasons for denying the motion the Judge says that an association has no more right than an individual to inflict injury upon others, and that all associations and combinations designed to cause workmen to become members, or to interfere with, obstruct, vex or annoy them in working because they are not members, or to interfere with the perfect freedom of employers in the proper management of their business, or to dictate terms upon which their business shall be conducted by threats of injury or loss by interference with their property or traffic, &c., are illegal combinations, and all acts done in furtherance of such intentions and accompanied by damage are actionable. And further that "the acts mentioned are not only illegal, rendering the defendants liable in damages, but also misdemeanors at common law."

This covers the whole ground, and means that the courts will enforce the great unwritten law of custom, whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, or the right possessed by every individual to labor when and where he will for such compensation as he may agree to accept, or conduct his business without let or hindrance, and enjoy his property free from molestation of individuals or associations. Other than this would be an abridgement of the liberties of the people and subversive of the very foundation of our Government. This principle ought to be written in letters of gold and printed upon pictures of silver.

FROM the Jasper, Indiana Courier, July 22d, we clip the following, which explains itself. A similar report appeared in the Louisville Commercial, for July 20th:

"Rev. Vardeman Baggerly, of the Latter Day Saints, was in town on the 18th, and preached at the Wright School-house on the 17th. Mr. Baggerly is a highly respected citizen, of Crawford county, and as an old acquaintance, we can say that his friends are justly proud of him."

"At the meeting of Elder V. D. Baggerly, of the Latter Day Saints, and Rev. John Connor, Christian Order, on the 16th and 17th, the former was treated very ungentlemanly by the latter. Although the former had the appointment, and his congregation had met to hear a sermon, Mr. Connor pushed himself in and asked a discussion of their different tenets. Mr. Baggerly refused, pleading previous engagement, but Mr. Connor called for a vote and was voted down by the congregation. Mr. Baggerly when he finished speaking on Saturday night, allowed the other to follow with a half hour's reply, but when he spoke again the next morning and was followed after noon by Connor, with eighty minutes blustering abuse, he denied Baggerly five minutes which he requested that he might make a reply. Surely he ought to have more confidence in himself and faith. Mr. Baggerly claims to be of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, reorganized in 1860, at Amboy, Illinois, by Joseph Smith, Jr., son of the prophet, and that he is an anti-polygamist.

"It is proposed to have a debate—the question some future date, but the time is not appointed."

"Eckerty, Ind., July 18.—Vardeman Baggerly, an elder of what he calls 'The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ, of Latter Day Saints, reorganized in 1860, at Amboy, Illinois, by Joseph Smith, Jr., son of the Prophet," had an appointment to preach to his congregation at the Wright School-house, a short distance south of here in this county, on the 16th and 17th.

"From parties who were at the place we learn that the Rev. John Connor, of Mentor, put in his appearance on Saturday evening, claiming to have had an appointment at that time and place. After some discussion Mr. Connor, who is a preacher of the Christian denomination, asked to leave it to a vote as to who should have the day. This was done, and he was voted down. Then Mr. Baggerly offered to divide the time with him, and when Baggerly closed Connor preached. The next morning the same scene was repeated, Connor claiming to have had the appointment, and if they were both to speak Baggerly should when he (Connor) was done. Again it was voted that the Mormon should have the house till he was done, having had the earlier appointment.

"Baggerly consequently preached in the forenoon on the 18th and Connor the afternoon, each being present at the other's discourse. Connor complained that the Mormon in preaching 'trampled on his toes too much,' meaning that he was attacking the Christian or Campbellite doctrine, and to get even he delivered an eighty-minute lecture which the other characterizes an abusive harangue, and when Baggerly requested five minutes in which to make a defensive reply, Connor would not permit it. Much ill will has been generated in consequence of the day's doings."

Mothers' Home Column.

EDITED BY SISTER "FRANCES."

"Not on one favored forehead fell
Of old the fire-tongued miracle,
But flamed o'er all the thronging host
The baptism of the Holy Ghost;
Heart answers heart; in one desire
The blending lines of prayer aspire."

SHALL WE PAY IT?

WHILE preparing the Home Column this week, there sweeps over our soul a great wave of thankfulness to almighty God for the plan of salvation as revealed in the gospel of his Son, and the thoughts come forcibly to us, How great are our blessings as a people, and yet how far greater they might be if we only lived in such a way that God could send the showers of his grace upon us! Take up again your last Herald and turn to and re-read that most wonderful bit of life experience from the heart and pen of Sister Burton. It is like the unveiling of the sanctuary of the soul to our eyes; and where in all the literature of the age, is anything so sacredly beautiful to be found? Where?

And yet this does not stand alone. See in our columns this week yet another testimony (and what Herald comes to you without them) of one who when knowing that her feet were going down into deep waters, is made to rejoice and praise God, by news from afar that God had revealed unto one of his faithful servants the danger of his handmaiden, and had also assured him, "I have given my angels charge concerning her."

"All things are bought with a price," was the Spirit's answer to Sister Burton. "Bought with a price;" and yet, having the wherewith to pay, we grasp it in our hands, content with the hollow, unsatisfying things of this world, and say to the grieved Spirit, "Go thy way, at a more convenient season I may perhaps be ready to look at the priceless treasures you offer, but not now. Let others make sacrifices who feel that that they are called upon to do so, but as for me I will bide my time," and we turn to our self-made plans and schemes, and the Spirit, grieved like a slighted friend, turns sorrowfully away, while angels wonder at our blindness and folly.

Go on ye faithful ones, faint not and fear not, for the living God shall be a very wall of fire about you, and it is the Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom. Aye, saith the Spirit, "All things are bought with a price and the price of salvation is perfect obedience even unto the end." Shall we pay it?

HOME COLUMN MISSIONARY FUND.

Sr. Clara Smith, Marathon, Ia. ....	1 00
Sr. Effie Wight, Comfort, Texas. ....	15
Miss Jessie Dancer, Wilton Center, Ill. ....	2 00
Sr. Caroline Hidy, Collins, Ia. ....	29
Sr. C. E. Carpenter, Amherst, Ohio. ....	38
Sr. Leota Bennett, Buttsville, Mo. ....	15
Sr. H. B. Gilbert, Riverside, Cal. ....	4 00
Sr. M. P. Matthews, Belfast, Ia. ....	52
Sr. Annie Holt, Pawtucket, R. I. ....	4 00
Sr. Amanda Yohe, Shelbyville, Ill. ....	40
Sr. Nellie Yohe, Shelbyville, Ill. ....	10
Sr. Matilda Robinson, Wanship, Utah. ....	75
Sr. M. A. Simmons, Canton, Ill. ....	1 00

LAMONI, Iowa, July 25th.

THE CHURCH.

All hail the re-appearance, fair bride of the First-born,
In robes of beauty clothed, which priceless gifts adorn;
Behold our lovely queen, so soon the king to wed,
Who'll place the royal diadem on her devoted head.

O hear the ancient prophet, Isaiah's voice proclaim,
The Lord, thy God shalt give thee another, a new name;
No more forsaken shalt thou be, fair and beloved one,
All nations shall be gathered, and unto thee shall come.

Yea, Jews and Gentiles, all, thy glory shall behold;
The Lord is thy foundation; his arm will thee uphold.
Ye servants of the king, prepare the "marriage feast;"
Go bear the invitations to North, South, West and East.

O, warn them of the troubles of those who make delay,
And close their ears, lest, hearing the summons, they obey,
And those who sleep in Zion, awake, their lamps to trim,
That they and you be ready, with Christ to enter in.

KATE CURRY

SENIOR, Texas.

H O M E.

AMID all the cares and trials of life what brings to the heart a sweeter and happier feeling than the peaceful quiet of home? We may be tossed to and fro with the burdens and perplexities surrounding us, the heavy hand of misfortune may lay its cruel weight upon our shoulders, but how many times has that load been made lighter and the earth made to appear a more desirable place because of the joys of home.

The brother whose heart is filled with anguish as he bids farewell to his dear ones, and to the comforts of home, to travel among strangers and carry the gospel of peace to those who sit in darkness, cherishes the hope that ere long the happy day will dawn when parting will not be known. The scenes of home leave a lasting impression upon the memory of the pilgrim which can never be erased.

May our home be the center of unity, purity and love. Let no rude shock mar its joyous hours, no contention or strife be heard within its walls. Let self be the seat of government and our strongest efforts be given to bring into subjection the evil passions of our own nature; for children are more apt to follow example than precept. Remember an angry word is like a dagger to the heart, and inflicts wounds which are hard to heal; kindles hatred, sorrow and grief; sows seed which sometimes grow into a mighty tree, extending its branches until the width and breadth thereof become unsearchable. "A soft answer turns away wrath."

Is there any thing which gladdens the heart, increases love, or makes home more attractive and pleasant than the little ones whom Jesus loves? When he appeared unto a multitude on this continent he took their little children one by one; prayed, and blessed them, then wept and said unto the multitude: "Behold your little ones!" As they looked they saw the heavens open, and angels descending out of heaven as it were in the midst of fire. They came down; encircled those little ones, and the angels ministered unto them while the multitude saw and heard and bore record.

What think you if Christ should come and visit some homes to-day, and ask for the children that he might bless them? Would his soul not be filled with grief, his eyes with tears, as he heard the sad reply, "We have none!" "Did not my Father give you a commandment to multiply and replenish the earth? "Yes, long ago, and with some exceptions, common people keep it to-day, but we have arrived at a higher state of civilization, and can not spend our lives in raising a family of children." Would he not be likely to say as he said to the Pharisees, "You make clean the outside of the cup and the platter, but your inward parts are full of ravening and wickedness."

"There is nothing covered which shall not be revealed, neither hid which shall not be known." Could mortals but picture those innocent creatures who are around the throne always beholding the Father's face, it would far surpass all earthly scenes, for of such is the kingdom of heaven. If we have the love of the Father within our hearts we will sincerely love those whom he loves and all things which are pure and good, and will not shrink to fill the measure of our creation. It is honorable in the sight of heaven, and in olden times esteemed as one of the greatest blessings. Lonesome indeed that home must be where none need watch the giddy steps, or hear the prattling tongues of the little ones, and as time moves on, when our hair gains its silvery hue and our feet are trembling on the verge of the grave, cold and gloomy it must appear not hearing one word of cheer or comfort from a loving son or daughter; and so, too, when death is about to give the fatal blow, not a kiss to be felt upon the cheek, not a tender grasp of the loving hand nor a look which speaks louder than words a long and last good bye. Sad indeed must the thought be that our life has been spent in seeking the pleasures and vanity of the world and failed to keep the higher law given by the great I AM.

C. ACKERLY.

HASTINGS, Victoria, June 12th.

Sister Frances.—While reading "Aunt Patience's" letter in Herald, April 23d I thought, the Lord truly is giving knowledge, and increasing the understanding of those who really set about to know, and to do good; revealing unto them the cause of much sin that is now prevalent in the land. I too, believe the leading characteristics of a child are formed before it is born, and often their destiny shaped by the acts of their parents, whether to do good or to do evil.

My mother told me, a few years ago, that she dedicated me to the Lord by prayer before I was born, to be a missionary. But when I was born, and not a "man-child," she felt disappointed; but one day, while thinking it over, she knelt down by my cradle where I was asleep and prayed over me, that I might be a missionary's wife, and do good in that way. Without any knowledge of this, I can remember when I was only a little tot, fancying myself a missionary's wife, and being away among the heathen, teaching them how to be good; and how I would suffer and endure, just as I used to hear of the missionaries in India. But in fancy, I endured with a great deal better grace than I would in reality. My mother waited long for the answer to her prayers; and it was somewhat strange that our first mission was to my father's house, and the gospel truth that we bore was rejected by him.

SISTER EMMA.

BATTLE LAKE, Minn., June 12th.

Dear Home Column:—I desire to bear my testimony, through your pages, of the truth of this latter day work; and would say to any that may be troubled with doubts and fears, to fear not for the work is of God's own planting, and consequently can not be overthrown." I have belonged to the Reorganized Church for a number of years and never yet have regretted the fact, but have often been made to rejoice, and have received many testimonies of the truth of the work and the divine calling of the present Joseph; and I never doubted the work that the martyred prophet established, and believe he died an acknowledged servant of God.

Our June conference is just passed, and we did truly have a time of refreshing, and were greatly blessed with the Holy Spirit, which none but the true believers do enjoy. We were delighted and instructed by the good advice and kind words of our aged sister Tabbut. She is truly a mother in Zion, and I hope all the mothers that were there and heard her words will profit by them.

We that are mothers have a great responsibility resting upon us to bring up the children that have been given us. I never realized this so forcibly as I have of late. Do we ever think that we are raising up sons and daughters to be servants and handmaidens of God, to help bear off the kingdom, and to build up Zion and prepare a place for our blessed Savior to come to? Oh, if we could always feel the weight of this, as we do at times when we are meditating upon these things and have a portion of the Holy Spirit, how easy it would be to do our duty in this matter; but we must be tempted and tried, or we would not be as the gold tried in the fire. We must have the bitter as well as the sweet.

I love this latter day work, and I do truly appreciate the many good letters in the Herald, and especially in the Mothers' Home Column. I, too, am a mother, and often feel that I am not competent to do the work allotted me, but I do know that the weakest can be made strong if they seek God for strength. I heartily endorse Aunt Patience's views and hope every sister will carefully read and profit by the same. I am also glad the sisters begin to see the folly, and I believe wrong, in following the fashions of the world, for I do not believe it is pleasing to our heavenly Father to do this; but at the same time I do not think it right to go to extremes the other way, so that we would be as speckled birds in society; but I think we can have our dress comparatively plain and yet have it neat and tasty, without these costly trimmings and useless ornaments. I for one have no desire for such things, but at the same time when the Saints meet together to worship God I think they should be dressed neat and clean, and their garments tastefully made, and as the book says, "their beauty the work of your own hands," not of costly ornaments or costly material. I hope that we shall soon see eye to eye in these things, and also that we mothers may feel the necessity of being firm yet kind with our children; for the world is getting more wicked every year.

As mothers let us try to lead our sons in the path that leads to the tree of life that they may not enter in the broad road that so many young men are traveling to-day; and let us try to teach our daughters the principles of virtue, meekness and true holiness, that they may not be among the many that are daily being ensnared in the vices of the present time; and let us, as Latter Day Saints, be as a city set upon a hill; and not hide our light under a bushel, but let it so shine that those around us may see our good works and be led to say truly they have been with God and have learned of him. This, dear sisters, is my desire; yet I feel that I come far short of it; but earnestly requesting all of your prayers that I may conquer at last, I subscribe myself your sister in the covenant of Christ,

ELEEN D. GOULD.

Dear Saints:—While I am as yet upon my bed, recovering from a recent severe trial and illness, I wish to send a word of hope and testimony to the weaker ones of the household of faith. I am among that number of believing Saints who have not yet found courage and faith sufficient to go to the Lord when in need of knowledge and guidance, and receive for themselves direct answers to their humble petitions. But I do believe on his promises; and with my faith increasing day by day, I earnestly pray that the time may not be long when I too can say, "I know the Lord because he has revealed himself unto me." But he has been very merciful and gracious unto me, notwithstanding my weakness, and I wish to give His name the praise.

Three years ago, before I was married, one of God's true servants, who brought me the gospel and who seems as a father to me, received a vision concerning myself, which was afterwards told to me, and which has since been of the utmost comfort and help as a guide. It, and it alone, has carried me over many a wave of doubt and despondency, and has enabled me to face the responsibility of motherhood with a faith that did not diminish through months of inability and weakness afterwards. And again, when anticipating a second maternal responsibility, although weak I had faith that all would be well, because in the same vision there was a promise to that effect. But when, one morning, I knew that too soon, for the welfare of both mother and child, the ordeal of birth was to be passed through, I could only look to the Lord for strength and courage and faith. I was administered to, and knew that my trial was to be severe, for the elders could only ask for strength to be given for what might come upon me. But that night, strange to say, came a letter from the same servant of God who had received the vision, and who was now hundreds of miles away, bearing the most precious promises to me. He had been apprised by the Spirit, of a need for help on my part and had administered to me, though absent, and while administering had seen angels hovering near, with smiling faces, and received the assurance that God had given his angels watch-care over me, and that all would be well. Two days after that we laid away a little dead babe, having the knowledge then that God had been with us, or my life would not have been spared. And truly I do want to praise Him, for in every moment of that trial I can see his loving guidance and care.

And now, dear sisters, let us look to God for our help, not despising even the weakest testimony concerning His love and power that may come through others, for we will find often times they are mountains of strength unto ourselves. Realizing that through the bonds of Christ comes all good, I shall ever remain

A LOVING SISTER.

BELFAST, Iowa, July 23d.

Dear Sister Frances:—While reading the letter written to Sister Meriam, in the Herald, to-day, my own experience was brought vividly to my mind, and I thought I would write to you. Some four years ago I was living in the town of Salem, Iowa. There are a great many Quakers living there, consequently a great many temperance workers. They came to me and were very desirous that I should join them, (they of course did not know what church I belonged to as I had not been there long) and as I am a great temperance advocate, I thought strongly of giving them my name and help; but I was not sure whether it was what the Lord desired me to do or not, so I went before him in earnest prayer; and while lying on my bed after prayer, there seemed to be a holy calm around me, and the words came to me in a soft, mild whisper: "Be steadfast in the calling whereunto ye have been called." I was satisfied then that I had been already called to a work, and if I would be steadfast in that I would be blessed. That was sufficient, and from that day to this I have had no desire to join the Woman's Christian Temperance Union; but I am trying to live humble and prayerful, trying to find out from time to time what the Lord requires me to do, and feel that I have been blessed more abundantly than I could possibly have been under false colors; and, dear sister, I most heartily endorse your editorial in same Herald, "Come ye out from among them and be ye separate."

Your sister in gospel bonds,

M. P. MATTHEWS."

UNRULY TONGUES.

A GENTLEMAN who had been living in Europe for a long time, on his return was present at one of President Arthur's receptions, and recognized an old acquaintance in one of the most beautiful women in the room.

"Mrs. Blank," he said to a friend, "is no doubt a leader in your society. She has beauty, high position, great wealth, and more wit than many woman can claim."

"That is true. But nevertheless she is probably the most unpopular woman in Washington."

"Why so?"

"She is a busybody. People are charmed with her the first time they meet her, they are alarmed the second,—and the third time they fly from her as if she had the plague.”

The fate of the tattler who retails ugly gossip has been the same in all ages, no matter what her rank or race. One of the proudest women in history was Cicely, duchess of York, the mother of Edward IV. of England. So supreme was her beauty and her power that she built a throne room in her castle at Fotheringay, and maintained the state of a queen. But her disposition to interfere in the affairs of others gave her the sobriquet of “Meddling Cis,” while she lived; and the taint has clung to her name through all the ages that have passed since then.

Miriam, the sister of Moses, although her sisterly love and magnificent song of triumph have come down to us through three thousand years, still bears the disgrace of having been an ill-tempered gossip, for which offense she was sternly driven without the camp.

Every circle of society, every school, has its busybody,—some woman or young girl, often bright, pretty and attentive, who buzzes here and there, prying into the private affairs of every one, and carrying mischief and trouble wherever she goes.

The latest theory with regard to the dissemination of certain virulent diseases is that the poison is carried by flies—the seemingly innocent, friendly flies who penetrate into the most secret recesses of the household. Be this as it may, it is certain that there is a human fly, who carries the germs of moral disease into every house. She is more to be pitied than are her victims, for no matter what her merits, she is always friendless in the world; feared, but never loved.

Correspondence.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., July 27th.

Dear Herald:—I have just returned from the meetings and conference, held at McCaig's Grove. We were blessed with fine weather, and for the busy season, there was fair congregations. The sermons of brethren Caffall and Blair, gave good satisfaction, and I am of the opinion that good of a lasting character was accomplished. The all important necessity to produce a healthy increase in this part of the Lord's vineyard, is more active laborers. Bro. Blair is here, and I suppose will report the cause as it shall be manifest to him.

Last Friday was the first hanging under the authority of law in this county. The man was David Hoffman, the train wrecker, there were but few that had sympathy for him in his departure from life. The city was thrown into a state of intense excitement at an early hour on last Sabbath morning, by a well organized mob, who very quietly took a man from the jail and hung him to a tree in the court yard. He had been tried and convicted of the crime of murdering his own little daughter, and was sentenced to hang last March, he took an appeal to the State Supreme Court, which appeal has not yet been heard. If the future should reveal that this man was not guilty as charged, it will be a sad reflection for those who took him from the custody of the law, and murdered him without authority. For one I have ever opposed mobbing, and it seems to me that the Saint who either by word or act endorses or condones the action of mobs, is without the Spirit manifested by the Savior, when he prayed: “Father forgive them, they know not what they do.” The Lord keep me from the stain of blood by endorsing the violation of law. The prophecies of ancient times are having their fulfillment in such plain manner that none can successfully deny them. When we avoid wrong doing, live and labor in harmony with appointments of God, we shall receive grace sufficient unto eternal life.

In gospel bonds,

ROBERT M. ELVIN.

KNOX, Indiana, July, 19th.

Editors Saints' Herald:—I came to this place on the 16th inst. A discussion is in progress here between us and the Advents, on the Spirit conscious question. Mr. Finnimore represents the Adventists friends, and Bro. Leonard Scott is conducting our side of the debate; but the time agreed upon is too short to allow us to present the evidence in the case which we desire. Mr. Finnimore refuses to discuss longer than three evenings. The debate closes with this evening. The court house has been filled with hearers at each session so far; the interest is at high tide. The Saints here are alive to the interest of the work, and this vicinity is an “open door for the preaching of the word, and many seem willing to hear. But the laborers are few. The continued dry and excessively hot weather is cutting the corn and potatoe crops short in some parts of the district.

Yours,

C. SCOTT.

BROWN CITY, Mich., July 26th.

Editors Herald:—I have been laboring in La-peer county with good success; have baptized eight; held three debates; one with a Disciple minister from Ontario, on the following propositions. 1. Was Joseph Smith a true prophet of God, and the Book of Mormon of divine origin. 2. Did Christ teach two baptisms, one of water and one of Spirit. I affirmed both propositions. The debate continued for nine nights, of two hours each; we came off with a glorious victory, for which I thank God. I held another with a man from Ohio; he is the editor of a paper called the Stumbling Stone. He came for the purpose to debate. One of his brother ministers whom I had met before sent for him. When he came I was in the other debate. I told him that just as soon as I got through I would meet him; so we finally agreed to meet in October, but he was quite anxious to commence that day. He said he would like to debate one point that day. I told him as we had had meeting for two hours the people were tired, but still if the people were agreed we would debate two hours on the subject of baptism, so we put it to vote and they decided that we should go ahead. I affirmed that baptism was essential to salvation, and we commenced. When we got through of course I came out victorious, God being my helper. Then Mr. Johnson, for that was the minister's name, said, “It would be no use of debating here, for I see the public sentiment is against me.” I told him I would go twenty miles from there, either way, and debate with him, if he thought the people there were partial. He finally concluded he would not meet me. One week after that I met another man on July 16th to debate. We debated three hours and he gave up. The debates worked up a great interest in that part of the country and I feel that great good will be the result. I hope to continue faithful in the work.

Yours in bonds,

J. A. CARPENTER.

BLLENHEIM, Ont., July 20th.

Bro. J. Smith:—There is a mistake in the reading of one resolution of the conference minutes of this district. It is the one in regard to representatives using strong drink, etc. It should read: “Resolved, That any representative of the church in this district associating with hotel society, and indulging in the use of intoxicating drinks, using tobacco, swearing and card playing, until it becomes a reproach to the church, shall invalidate their right to preach, and upon being reported to the proper authorities, shall be silenced until they make satisfactory restitution.” I might have made a mistake in writing them for the office. Saints all in fair health. Very warm and dry weather here.

Your brother in Christ,

R. COBURN.

ELKHART, Texas, July 18th.

Dear Herald: Our conference closed at Hearne, July 3d; we had a very pleasant session. The meeting was continued until the 13th inst. One was baptized on the 10th; others are near the kingdom. I came to this place on the 14th; began meeting on the 16th. The work here has suffered for want of labor. It will take wise and faithful steps to ever get things in shape here. It makes my heart ache to see the children of God wandering so far from the fold. The demand for investigating our claims is increasing, and calls are coming from every direction to hear the gospel sound. We have some elders here able to fill many of these calls, but they are sleeping upon their rights. My dear brethren, I again appeal to you for help in this great work of the Master. Whisky and its kindred evils are the worst we have to contend with here; such as dancing, fighting, horse-racing, &c. I hope that on the fourth day of August, we will see the monster (whisky) voted out of our country. During our meeting at Hearne, a little boy of sister Hartman's came running into the church crying that he was snake bit. On examination it proved to be true. I immediately anointed the wound and asked God to bless it, and it was so. To God be the glory is my humble prayer. O, dear Saints, live up to your religion, and the blessings of our God will be ours to enjoy at all times.

In hope of eternal life,

I. N. ROBERTS.

EMERSON, Iowa, July 18th, 1887.

Bro. W. W. Blair:—The two days' meeting appointed at this place for July 9th and 10th was well attended. Bro. Joseph Luff did most of the preaching and he did it well. Bro. H. Kemp remained during the week preaching and visiting among the Saints; and on Sunday he gave us three sermons. In the afternoon he baptized two. Monday night confirmation meeting was held at Sr. Graham's house; God verified his promise in meeting with us, and confirmed the word by signs following; prophecy, tongues and interpretation. Our hearts were made to rejoice in Jesus our Lord.

J. B. CLINE.

George A. Blakeslee, Presiding Bishop, Gallien, Berrien county, Michigan.

The printed name on the colored label on your paper gives the date to which your subscription has been paid. If it shows you are in arrears, please renew.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

CO-OPERATION.

"NO MAN can come to me except the Father which hath sent me draw him."—Christ.

It was and is manifestly the mission of the Savior to redeem mankind from their lost and fallen condition. Means were improvised and made known to the sons of men through which redemption might be effected. In the life and work of Christ is reflected the plan of salvation, presenting the distinct features of God's co-operative work with man on earth, and exhibiting clearly the basis of this co-operation. A specific work was given for Jesus to begin and to finish agreeably to his Father's will. Though born of immaculate conception he took not upon himself the nature of angels, but the seed of Abraham (Heb. 2: 16)—mortality, human weakness, physical decay, a condition which subjects to temptation, manifesting the absolute necessity for the intervention of a divine power to save. His dependence in common with all men, is clearly signified by His own statement. "I can of mine own self do nothing; as I hear I judge, and my judgment is just, because I seek not mine own will but the will of the Father which hath sent me." (Jno. 5: 30). His success, then, was attributable, not to natural ability or wisdom, but to the communion held with his Father, this being a result of his observance of duty prescribed in his Father's will.

It is thus shown that intercourse with the Divine Mind is made possible by a conformation to God's will. The prophets forecast the character of Jesus. Isaiah, one of Israel's prophetic bards, gives this beautiful delineation of his princely virtues. "And there shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse and a branch shall grow out of his roots; and the Spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the Lord; and shall make him of quick understanding in the fear of the Lord; and he shall not judge after the sight of his eyes, neither reprove after the hearing of his ears; but with righteousness shall he judge the poor, and reprove with equity for the meek of the earth; and he shall smite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked. And righteousness shall be the girdle of his loins, and faithfulness the girdle of his reins."—Isiah, 11: 1-5.

How profound! First we notice that "the Spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him," by which there is an impartation of wisdom, understanding, knowledge and might, also the rich adornment of the "fear of the Lord." And by the power of God thus delegated, he was enabled to judge righteously; not by the sight of the eye or hearing of the ear; these may be deceptive or defective. Revelation was his chief light. Says he: "As I hear [not by the ear], I judge, and my judgment is just." This heavenly Teacher made "righteousness the girdle of his loins, and faithfulness the girdle of his reins," and was "anointed with the oil of gladness above his fellows" as a result of his dutiful servitude to a loving Father.

The divinity and power of Jesus' work are attributable, first, to his legal appointment, second, to his diligence. At the closing of his probationary life he was enabled to say, "Father I have finished the work thou gavest me to do." He was not sent to explore the unknown regions of human depravity to ascertain what methods might be adopted to redeem men from the thralldom of sin. No. He came to make known the predetermined counsel of God by which men were and are to be redeemed. He knew that his Father's command was "life everlasting" to those who would observe it as he had done. John taught an authoritative baptism to which Jesus gave heed, immediately after which the Spirit and power of God rested upon him. He spake advised by them when he said:—"I know that his commandment is life everlasting."—Jno., 12: 50.

The basis of co-operation between God and man is thus shown to be a constant economy. God, in the infinitude of his wisdom, mercy, and power, reveals his will, to which man is to respond with gladness, "having respect unto the recompense of reward," which follows as inevitably as results succeed a cause. In other words, the creature accepts the intervention of a divine power and the guidance of a divine hand, and as a result of his faith, is led into the evergreen pastures of truth, peace and happiness.

It is a very meager recognition of God's superiority to say that he knows best what "I must do to be saved." Said Peter:—"The Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptations, and to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be punished; but chiefly them that walk after the flesh in the lust of uncleanness and despise government." Indisposition to abide government is a dangerous element. Christ, the High Priest of the Christian profession, exhibited his love for government, and advised to render to God and to "Cesar" the "things" (obedience) which belong to them. Paul signified his regard for law and order in the declaration that "The law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus, hath made me free from the law of sin and death." Promiscuity subverts the principles of government, and anarchy follows as a result.

The gospel was to be "preached to all nations beginning at Jerusalem." By whom? The proverbial "Tom, Dick, and Harry?" No, indeed. Men chosen of God, instructed and qualified to bear the unequivocal message of life to the sons and daughters of men. No man ever taught the fulness of the gospel without the inspiration of God—nor can it be done.

Paul and his compeers were "ministers of the Spirit" and not of the letter only; When "the world by wisdom [ordinarily acquired] knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching [inspired preaching] to save them that believe."—1 Cor., 1: 21. "Preaching" in a gospel sense is a mental and physical exercise in which is realized the co-operative genius of God's Spirit. Jesus admonishes the impetuous Peter to "Feed my sheep," to which he nobly responded upon Pentecost day, having been commissioned with others to preach the gospel to all nations beginning at that place. "No man taketh this honor unto himself, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron."—Heb. 5: 4. Men are constituted preachers of righteousness by the delegation of authority and power from God. Even "Christ glorified not himself to be made a high priest; but he that said unto him, Thou art my Son, to-day have I begotten thee."—5th verse.

By the authority vested in him he chose and ordained men to dispense the word of life with whom he promised to co-operate upon the same conditions governing his relationship with the Father. Jesus taught the people as the Father commanded him. These chosen messengers were to "teach the people" as Christ had "commanded" them, their observance of which was to them the guarantee of the co-operative aid and confirmation of God's Spirit, and going forth preaching with convincing power, the Lord was "with him confirming the word with signs following."—Mark 16: 20. These apostles were men who had brought themselves into covenant relationship with God and Christ by obedience to the gospel as taught by John the Baptist, in which was promised, upon conditions of faith, repentance and baptism, the impartation of the Holy Spirit, thus rendering themselves legitimately the recipients of divine favor and power. They were those whom the Father had given Jesus, and, having "kept his word," they knew in whom they trusted.—John 17: 8. The imperative necessity of "teaching the people to observe all things" that the Savior had commanded them was made, as before stated, the condition upon which co-efficiency was pledged. Optional privileges were neither taught nor suggested, nor had they the right to compromise the gospel. The apostle, "born out of due time," at the close of his illustrious life, realized the blissful assurance of a future "habitation" "eternal in the heavens" because he had "fought the good fight," having "kept the faith" not shrinking from the duty of declaring the "whole counsel of God." It was God's counsel that men, all men, who should hear the gospel message, should be baptized for the remission of sin, for all are guilty. "There was a man sent from God, whose name was John. The same came for a witness, to bear witness of the light, that all men through him might believe." This harbinger of the "light" "prepared the way of the Lord," and made "his paths straight," by the introduction of means by which men might identify themselves with the light, and receive the promised adoption as sons of God. Baptism of the Holy Ghost and fire, was to follow as the lawful result of faith, repentance, and baptism for the remission of sin. "And all the people that heard him, and the publicans, justified God, being baptized with the baptism of John. But the Pharisees and lawyers rejected the counsel of God against themselves, being not baptized of him."—Luke 7: 29, 30. If it is not the counsel of God for men to be baptized, why did Jesus command his disciples to baptize the "nations?" Was this a usurpation of authority in which some non-essential was taught? Did Jesus transcend the limits of his Father's will? Thousands of tons of Bibles are distributed in our land, but the counsel of God is oft treated with disdain and contempt. Many are willing to be saved, but seemingly prefer to stipulate the conditions themselves by which they shall enter into life. That faith, repentance and baptism are commanded, none can well deny. All professing Christians admit the imperative necessity of the two former, but many think the latter to be a redundancy.

The renowned and sage, with the utmost gravity assert that it is not necessary. Commanded, but non-essential! O man, from whence is thy wisdom? and shalt thou counsel the Almighty? The burden of proof for this negative, is the "experience" of professionals. The truths of the everlasting gospel and the commands of God are to be disbelieved and held in contempt, because of a claim to conversion and salvation by some other method than the one authorized by divine right. The Spirit, when received, and the written word, will and must agree, else where is our security against deception, and our guarantee of the final realization of hopes generated by "the hearing of faith?"

The Savior, who set a worthy example for our following, by adhering to that which was "written," is authority for the statement that many shall vainly knock for entrance saying "Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works?" These importunities clearly signify a previous profession and a sanguinary hope—a hope, the ideal of which is never to be attained, because the "experience" upon which it is founded is fallacious. O, what a lesson, what a premonition and warning to the sanguinary who dare to trust their emotions, spirit impressions, and religious experiences wholly as a guide to heaven and assurance of acceptance with God!

"It is written" is the only safeguard to Saint or would-be Christian, and by this criterion every revelation may be tested. God never changes in purpose, neither doth he vary from that which he has said. The favor of God shown to some who have never heard and obeyed the gospel in fullness, is not here called in question, but it is believed that the tendency of such manifestation of the Divine will, will be to lead the recipient to a proper observance of the written word, when its imperative demands shall be made known to them by the preaching of the authoritative gospel. And shall we be blameless if God's word stands against us at the time and place of judgment, whatever our religious experiences may have been?

Just how far, or to what degree, God is the author of the various movements in which is sought the evangelization of the world, remains for omniscience to reveal; this much, however, I know; the promise of acceptance to sonship in the family of God is made upon clearly stipulated conditions, requiring unqualified obedience upon our part to the revealed will of God. "For we are laborers together with God," says Paul, not separate and distinct from him and his word. We need his co-operation in all that we do, because "if God be for us, who can be against us" with any degree of success? Those who are truly "on the Lord's side" are in a very great majority, even if comparatively alone in this world of sin and unbelief. The necessity of the co-operative power and testimony of God's Spirit in conjunction with ministerial work is evidenced in the rebaptism and confirmation of twelve disciples by Paul at Ephesus. These had formed a church relationship, having obeyed some form of doctrine which they supposed to have been the gospel as taught by John, but which, if having any connection whatever with the administration of John, must have been a degenerate offshoot or side issue, as often occurs when a dispensation of the gospel is authorized. I opine, however, that no intentional deceiver preceded Paul in the education and baptism of these men.

"God works in a mysterious way,
His wonders to perform."

And we see that the finality of the matter connected with these disciples was their induction into God's kingdom. Circumstantial evidence is strong to prove that Apollos reflected the light they had followed, as a narration of his work at Ephesus is context to the statements relative to Paul's ministry at that place. We will give it in full. "And a certain Jew named Apollos, born at Alexandria, an eloquent man, and mighty in the scriptures, came to Ephesus. This man was instructed in the way of the Lord; and being fervent in spirit, he spoke and taught diligently the things of the Lord, knowing only the baptism of John. And he began to speak boldly in the synagogue; whom when Aquilla and Priscilla had heard, they took him unto them and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly. And when he was disposed to pass into Achaia, the brethren wrote exhorting the disciples to receive him; who when he was come helped them much which had believed through grace; for he mightily convinced the Jews, and that publicly, showing by the scriptures that Jesus was Christ."

He is next spoken of as being at Corinth, which is in the province of Achaia, or Greece, and simultaneously Paul goes to Ephesus. So I conclude that the knowledge of John's baptism went out far and wide among the people, receiving credence, especially among the Jews, and while the authority to administer was not conferred except within the limits of the church, yet the belief generated by John and the doctrines taught by him, as a tidal wave, moved out among the masses. Over fifty years after the decease of John, Apollos rises from the city of Alexandria, a man of influence "being mighty in the Scriptures" but "knowing only the baptism of John."

It is evident that many who acknowledged the authority of John, rejected Christ. Said Jesus to the Jews, "he [John] was a burning and a shining light; and ye were willing for a season to rejoice in this light. But I have greater witness than that of John, for the works which the father hath given me to finish, the same works that I do bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me. * * * And ye have not his word abiding in you; for whom he hath sent, him ye believe not."—Jno. 5: 35-38. That credence to John's mission was more general than was given to that of Christ, is further evidenced in the following:—"Then went out to him [John] Jerusalem, and all Judea, and all the region round about Jordan, and were baptized of him in Jordan confessing their sins."—Matt. 3: 5-6. But Jesus "came unto his own, and his own received him not," which is qualified to represent that a small minority received him to whom "he gave power to become the sons of God," while the masses rejected his authority and counsel. This was a repetition, to some extent, of Israel's sin in Moses' day, when the people could not, or would not abide the light and powers that pertain to the Melchisedec priesthood, which, as a consequence, was taken away; the Aaronic remaining, which was the same, I suppose, that John held, the limits of its power being "the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins." Israel might have entered into rest but "they could not because of unbelief."

In conclusion let me say that the Bible is authority for one kind of revival meetings, and one kind only, the character of which may be seen by reference to Acts of the Apostles 2d chapter, where it is represented that God co-operated with the church for the salvation of souls. The people of God who were made such by their obedience to the gospel, were assembled waiting for the baptism of the Holy Spirit, which came according to the promise of John and Jesus. Under the influence of this revival meeting, friends of the devotees were converted—"pricked in their hearts," and were led to make the enquiry, "men and brethren, what shall we do?" The answer was "Repent and be baptized every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins." If this was gospel revelistic teaching, and suitable to adorn the sanctuary then, would it be altogether out of place now? If this was the fruits of being "laborers together with God" as his "husbandry," then should not the same tree bear similar fruit now? Mark, that following this command, was extended the promise of the Holy Ghost. Peter could not fulfill this promise, but the word of Christ was pledged to honor the teaching and administration of those whom he had commissioned to preach the word of life. They were "ministers of the Spirit" and their "sufficiency was of God" in whom they trusted.

Query. Is it possible that the economy of God is so far changed, that the "minister of the sanctuary" to-day, can teach in the name and with the sanction of Christ to ignore and shun the counsel of God by Peter to those penitents on Pentecost day? For fifty years the Saints have insisted upon the necessity of preaching, believing, and obeying, this doctrine enunciated by Peter, believing it to be the word of the Lord upon the matter of salvation. Mr. Moody and many more, whose popularity is not questioned, disdain to dampen a thread of their garment in the humiliating scene of being "buried with Christ by baptism," nor do they deem it necessary to be "planted together in the likeness of his death," yet, doubtless, they hope to be "in the likeness of his resurrection."

Unlike the respectable and highly popular religionists of the age, Philip with his humble candidate "went down both into the water, both Philip and the eunuch, and he baptized him." Now, neither the priest nor the people are willing to do this, but the more convenient, if not the more respectable way, of "bringing up" the water, has taken place of the old fashioned antiquated form, which has been ruled out by the "respectability" (?) of the good people. "To be sure, Jesus was baptized in the river Jordan, but—that was a long time ago, and—well, my father and mother received baptism by sprinkling, and I know they were Christians if any body ever was, and so I'll take my chances that way any how." Does not this voice the sentiment of some? To such I would offer that children are not responsible for what their parents have done or believed, but they are responsible for the manner in which they treat the truth when they hear it. Those who are favored with opportunity, will do well to follow the advice of Ananias to Saul: "And now why tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." G. S. HYDE.

SECTARIANISM.

BEFORE I ever saw the Book of Mormon I had become convinced that sectarianism was anti-gospel. But I was surprised when I heard the gospel preached by a Latter Day Saint; and I wondered why it was that none of the sects had preached the same gospel that the apostles preached. Therefore, I embraced the truth and joined the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, being firm in the faith of but "one God, one faith, and one baptism." By the Bible alone I had become well convinced of this truth; but after reading the Book of Mormon where the angel of God told Nephi to look, and he looked and he beheld "save two churches only."—Page 28, B. M. This testimony corresponded so perfectly with what the angel of God showed to John on the "Isle of Patmos" concerning those two women, one of which rode on a "scarlet colored beast, full of names of blasphemy," my faith was confirmed in both of those sacred books.

I had thought to bid an everlasting farewell to every part of the old anti-Christ when I joined the "only one" church of the Lamb of God, which the angel said were the "saints," whose numbers were few; scattered all over the world, because of the persecutions of that great and abominable church which is the "mother of abominations; but lo, to my surprise, I have recently learned, or read the strange idea advanced that the Lord had showed to one Latter Day Saint "another Church of Christ" beside. Beside what, and which, I enquire? O! Beside the other two grand divisions, namely, that body over which John Taylor presides as successor to Brigham Young, and the other church is that over which Joseph Smith presides as the successor of his father. Oh! what a doleful picture. Is this any part of the old anti-Christ; or is it the last point of some other?

I confess this to be a strange idea for one who believes the word of God, which says plainly, "There are save two churches only. Then what but sectarians are all the rest save one only?"

J. S. COMSTOCK.

SR. WOOLEY'S LETTER TO HER BROTHER.

Dear Willia:—I was glad that you answered my letter. In the first place, I must answer the middle part of your letter. 1. As to whether I was right before I joined the Church of Jesus Christ. I was as much in earnest then as now, and had been for years. I was acting up to all the light I had, and so no more would be required from me. I then had never heard the gospel in its fulness, and therefore was not responsible for what I did not know. 2. "Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the heart. And then shall every man have praise of God." 3. Can I expect any one to believe me now. I ask them to believe the word—not me. 4. No, the word does not say a man shall be lost; but it says, "except a man is born of water and of the Spirit, he can not enter into the kingdom of heaven." 5. I was not deceived; I was searching after truth. I know you believe in baptism, and always did; but you do not think it essential to salvation. In the last of Matthew Jesus included "teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you, and lo, I am with you always." In Revelations 19: 10, "For the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy;" and in Peter, "No prophecy of the scripture is of any private interpretation," and it is written, "No man can say that Jesus is the Lord but by the Holy Ghost." Then Hebrews 5: 12, "For when for the time ye ought to be teachers, ye have need that one teach you again which be the first principles of the oracles of God;" and Hebrews 6, "Therefore leaving the principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto perfection, not laying again the foundation of repentance from dead works, and of faith towards God, of the doctrine of baptisms, and of laying on of hands, and of resurrection of the dead and of eternal judgment." Paul, in Galatians 1: 11, 12, said: "I certify you, brethren, that the gospel which was preached of me is not after man, for I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it but by the revelation of Jesus Christ." These principles then are the gospel of Jesus Christ—the foundation, Paul calls them. He also says, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is good for doctrine, reproof, correction, for instruction in righteousness." They often speak about the day of Pentecost when the apostles were "filled with the Holy Ghost;" but they had previously obeyed Christ's gospel, and the Holy Ghost fell on them, and they had a sign from God visible to the human eye, for "there appeared cloven tongues as of fire, and it sat upon each of them."

In the case of Cornelius, an angel was sent to him who said, "Send men to Joppa, to Peter, who shall tell thee words whereby thou and all thy house shall be saved." And Peter said of this: "As I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them." There had to be some visible token to the Jews that the Gentiles, being the wild olive tree, were grafted into the true vine, or they would not have received them into the church. Although Cornelius was "a devout man, and one that feared God, with all his house, who gave much alms to the people, and prayed to God always," yet he yielded obedience to the gospel. The apostles and others had "cloven tongues;" Cornelius had "an angel." That is no excuse for disobeying the doctrine of Christ.

In answer to your verses on faith: What is faith? It proceeds from God. Faith is the moving power all through the life of a true follower of Jesus. By faith we believe that Jesus is the Son of God. By faith we repent of our sins and confess them. By faith we are "buried with Christ in baptism." By faith we receive the laying on of hands, knowing that which he has promised (the Holy Ghost) he will perform. By faith we through obedience receive "the gift of the Holy Ghost." By faith we rise up out of the water "in likeness of his resurrection." By faith we believe our eternal judgment is past, as "there is therefore no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus. Saints of former days "through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises, quenched the violence of fire, stopped the mouths of lions, escaped the edge of the sword, received their dead to life again, waxed valiant in fight, and put to flight the armies of the aliens;" in a word, there was nothing impossible with those that had faith. This evening this idea on faith was revealed to me like a flash from heaven. I felt like calling on all that was within me to praise and magnify God's holy name; and I did praise the Lord God immortal, invisible, eternal, to whom be glory forever and ever.

You also say faith alone saves us. But James in chapter 2 says: "For as the body without the Spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also." He further say;

"The devils also believe and tremble. But wilt thou know, oh vain man, that faith without works is dead?" We can not get the meaning of the word by picking out isolated passages. We must, as the word says, "compare spiritual things with spiritual." In Gal. 3: 26, 27, it reads: "For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus; for as many of you as have been baptized into Christ, have put on Christ. For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall also be in the likeness of his resurrection." We are to be "buried with him by baptism" unto death. Can you tell me of any other way by the word of being in Christ Jesus? Baptism is included in the gospel, and therefore ought to be preached as the third in "the principles of the doctrine of Christ;" for without it the gospel is not preached in its fulness.

If any man preached and left out faith, what would it be? We would have to contend for faith. Jesus thought baptism was necessary, or he would not have mentioned it in his gospel, and the apostles also teach it as one of "the principles of the doctrine." Paul was sent to preach the gospel to us, the Gentiles, and he speaks in Romans 16: 26 about "the obedience of faith." And Jesus said to those Jews that believed on him, "If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed, and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Nicodemus said, "We know thou art a teacher sent from God," yet Jesus told him he had to "be born of water and of the Spirit" before he could "enter the kingdom." Peter said: "And we are witnesses of these things, and so is also the Holy Ghost, whom God hath given to those that obey him."—Acts 5: 32.

Now what does Jesus say the signs following are? "In my name they shall speak with new tongues, they shall take up serpents, and if they drink any deadly thing it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick." On the day of Pentecost the apostles and Saints spoke in about sixteen different languages. They did not spiritualize and say when a man was praising God he spoke in tongues, but called it praising God.

Paul in 1 Corinthians 12 said he would not have the Saints ignorant of spiritual gifts; and in the seventh verse says: "For the manifestations of the Spirit is given to every man [in the body] to profit withal; for to one is given the word of wisdom, to another knowledge, to another faith, to another healing, to another the working of miracles, to another prophecy, to another the discerning of spirits;" [some say this gift is delusive]; "to another divers kinds of tongues, to another the interpretation of tongues." If they spoke tongues as you say, what need of an interpreter? You ask if we have these in our church. I answer, Yes! and can prove it by witnesses. I have heard them prophecy in tongues and another by the Spirit stand up and interpret it. I am healed, as every one can testify. My baby, John, was tongue tied; I anointed it with oil consecrated by prayer, as I could not call the elders together, when his tongue was loosed. It seemed as if the glory of the Lord was in the room. My children have ailments peculiar to children, and when I anoint with oil and exercise faith they are healed. James had a bad hand. I tried for days with cold water, and after that poulticed it. It got worse, and no signs of breaking. I said to Ashton, "Anoint it with oil, and let us ask God our Father for Christ's sake to heal it. He did so, and it got better. Discerning of spirits we have both had. One night I could not sleep, and a spirit appeared to me clothed with a form. It had on a robe with a girdle round the waist; and he said to me, "I am God thy Father." The glory that was revealed to me that night I can not describe, I lay for hours enrapt in an ecstasy. Another time, when coming home from Hastings one night, the moon went down before I had got half way; and the Spirit said, "You shall have moonlight." I wondered as I went along the road, and when I came to the place where the trees were, there was a beautiful light around us and in front of us, as long as we wanted it. Bertie and Agnes were with me; so that "in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word shall be established." Another time the Spirit told me that there was nothing hidden that would not be revealed. And I have a knowledge in God's word I never had before. Another time Agnes saw my head encircled with a ball of light, I never before heard of such a thing. Do you think I am deceived? I often pray for more of it. You know when you was here Ashton stood up just as we were going to have dinner he quoted, "And I, when I am lifted up, will draw all men unto me," and he saw a being lifted up and it said, "You must preach the gospel." I noticed how white he turned, and to one side I said to him, you are exciting yourself. He did not tell me that day for he thought it might be imagination. The next day he was working on the beach and he asked God his Father was it true, what he saw; and a being appeared to him again.

It looked like the picture of Jesus, with a robe on, down to the feet. He looked at it till he was quite satisfied it was no delusion and came up and told me. Then you know how Malcolm stood up and proposed Ashton to be priest of the branch, and Elder Burton said, If you remember, "That is according to revelation." As we went home that night we met Elder Burton. Ashton asked him if they saw any spirits in the Church of Jesus Christ. He replied, "If we did not, it would not be the Church of Jesus Christ." Ashton said, "I have seen one." Then Elder Burton said, "If you did, it was about noon; on New Year's day." He was on Settlement Point, and it was revealed to him that Ashton would be called to the ministry. He said Ashton had the keys in his office to unlock the mysteries of the word. It is perfectly true. He understands more about the word than me. They ask him all sorts of questions in Hastings, out of the Bible, and he can answer them all. If you wish you can try him. Wherever does an unlearned man like him get his knowledge from, if not by the gift of the Holy Ghost? If you had my experience this twelvemonth you would believe in revelation, and it is according to the truth. I have given you the plain unvarnished truth. I don't expect you to understand it. I did not believe it till I had a testimony from my Father, who gave it to me for Jesus sake. I can not receive anything but the truth, and what God reveals to me. If you are in earnest in wishing to investigate, search the word, asking God for light. Ask for a testimony from the Father for Jesus' sake. He may grant your request.

Jesus said in John 7: 17:—"If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine whether it be of God." If you do not believe me, believe the truth. If you obey, you shall know for yourself. When Jesus asked Peter, "Whom think ye that I am?" he said: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." And he said: "Blessed art thou Simon Barjona; flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven. Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church." It was revealed to Peter by God the Father, who after this spoke "from the most excellent glory," "this is my beloved son; hear ye him." Jesus had said: "Upon this rock will I build my church"—not upon Peter, but upon revelation. The church of Jesus Christ is founded on revelation. Jesus gave the keys of the kingdom to Peter and said:—"Whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven; whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven." And then after that when he said, "tarry ye at Jerusalem till ye be endued with power from on high;" and then when that power came down, Peter told the Jews they had crucified the Lord of glory, they were pricked to the heart by the sword of the Spirit, and said, "What shall we do?" He said, "Repent and be baptized for the remission of sins and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." He then used "the keys of the kingdom" that Jesus gave him, and they that gladly heard his word were baptized." Do you mean to say that anyone that has the gift of the Holy Ghost can rest on water baptism? It is a God-dishonoring thought. He has but received that which will lead him out to all truth. They show they are not called of God who teach contrary. Such dare not stand up like Peter and say, If you obey you shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. You ask any of them, and will they say, when baptizing, "Having been commissioned by Jesus Christ;" and then lay on hands and say, "In the name of Jesus receive ye the Holy Ghost" Remember, in Acts 19, what befel the seven sons of a priest. No one should dare to do it without being called of God. Are you afraid when you speak, to speak all the words of the Lord? Try it. Isaiah said when he was prophesying about Jesus, "seal up the law, and bind up the testimony among my disciples." And he also said: "To the law and to the testimony. If they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them." He spoke of "the law of the gospel" that your father spoke so much about, and of the testimony of Jesus. So that if they do not preach according to the truth, it is because they are not called of God.

You say you think any believer can preach and baptize. What does the word say in Hebrews 5: 5, 4, "And no man taketh this honor to himself, but he that is called of God as was Aaron. So also Christ glorified not himself to be made an high priest, but he that said, Thou art my Son; this day have I begotten thee;" and said also; "Thou art a priest forever, after the order of Melchisedec." Jesus was baptized by John, who was of the Aaronic priesthood, as it descended by lineage from his father Zacharias; Jesus ordained the apostles to preach and baptize. But all persons could not lay on hands as will be seen by reading Acts, chapter eight. Philip could baptize, and he had the gifts of healing, signs and miracles, and yet they had to send down Peter and John to lay on hands for the gift of the Holy Ghost. Paul said, 1 Tim. 4: 14: "Neglect not the gift which is given thee by prophecy, by the laying on of the hands of the presbytery." Again in 2 Tim. 1: 6, "Wherefore I put thee in remembrance that thou stir up the gift of God which is in thee by the putting on of my hands." In 1 Cor. 7: 17; "As the Lord has called every one, and so ordain I in all churches." To Titus he said; "Ordain elders in every city." I could quote more, but I think this is enough to show the divine order instituted by our Lord Jesus Christ; and I find the same order in the church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. By the laying on of hands I have seen the signs following, and the manifestations of the Spirit. When they deny these things they deny the word. But it is done in ignorance. If you read Acts chapter 19 you will see that twelve men that had been baptized professedly unto John's baptism, but by some one who had no authority, for they had not heard of the Holy Ghost. These were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus, and Paul laid his hands on them.

About "the hidden mystery," you will find in Col. 1: 26, Eph. 6: 19, Rom. 11: 25, 1 Cor. 2: 7. And on revelation, Gal. 1: 12, Eph. 3: 3, Peter 1: 13; Eph. 1: 17.

It seems impressed on my mind that the Lord has a great and glorious work for you to do. I feel impelled to tell you, and I believe it is by the Spirit, that if you were baptized into the body of Jesus Christ, or his church, you would be called of God to go throughout this land and preach the glorious gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, and the signs would follow you. I have been searching after this for many years. Henceforth, "for me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." I think God has honored me. Like Moses, I esteem the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures in Egypt.

Dear brother; I do not venture to counsel you. I have given you my experience; and every step of the way God has borne me witness with the truth. It is quite a natural thing in me to desire that you all may be partakers of these things; and not only you, but all men. The Spirit and the bride say, Come. The work here seems insignificant to outsiders, but I can see the greatness of it. In the course of a few years you will hear the Church of Jesus Christ spoken of throughout all Australia. If you and I are spared you will see if this does not come to pass. But it is a silent work. "The kingdom of heaven cometh not with observation." I saw a gentleman at Dromana, he had heard all about me. I was talking to him for hours. His face was white with emotion, and his eyes filled with tears as he praised God for what he heard. I asked God to bless him with more light; and last Sunday in the Wesleyan Church he preached on the spiritual gifts, through obedience. So he must have been thinking and searching the word. He has also promised his hall for Elder Burton to preach in when he comes from Sydney. We also expect T. W. Smith, one of the apostles from Tahiti. Brother Graydon gets on splendid; his knowledge is wonderful, and he leads a consistent life. At first he went to a dance; but he has not gone since. I suppose he will be called to the Melchisedec priesthood, it was prophesied he would. He speaks to all that will listen to him. A person said one day on the jetty to him, "You will die preaching." He replied, "Amen. I hope I will"—a good wish.

Things have altered this twelve month. While the sects are lamenting the deadness, I rejoice to see people more favorable to the truth. You always were reasonable about religion; surely you will see something in this. Perhaps God will reveal something to you as you read this letter. Rather that I had not been born, if I teach anything contrary to "the law of the Spirit of life." God forbid! I go from house to house in Hastings and speak to some one every week. I get some hard knocks, but I rise above everything through Jesus who strengthens me.

Your affectionate sister,

CECILIA WOOLLEY.

HASTINGS, Australia, June, 1887.

PRIDE.

THERE exists in the nature of man an inherent desire to stand above, or occupy an eminence with reference to his fellows. This desire, or reaching above his level, we call pride.

In the different races of mankind we find pride, or self-love, manifested according to the circumstances of its possessor, and all pointing to one common origin, namely, man's fallen nature.

From the grand Tycoon of Japan before whom the servile knee is bent, to the lowest vassal in his empire, we find the same element existing, modified only by the circumstances surrounding the individual. One having pride overrates himself, and underrates his equals.

The most palpable effects of pride are seen in the character of one whose name and acts are mentioned in sacred history. Nebuchadnezzar reigned over Chaldea, whose capital was Babylon. This prince had married Amytius, the daughter of the king of Media; and Chaldea being a flat, monotonous country, she pined for the forests and hills of her native Media. To please this lady, the king planned and executed the hanging gardens, so famed in history; and by means of hydraulic engines he raised water as high as the walls of Babylon to irrigate them. "Here art strove to rival nature," and although it was not a perfect copy of the land it was made to represent, it was a close imitation, and reminded Amytius at once of her husband's love and of her native country. It was on his return from a walk in those gardens that this king, being flushed with pride and lifted up in heart at the success of his genius, broke out in terms of self laudation: "Is not this great Babylon that I have built for the house of the kingdom by the might of my power, and for the honor of my majesty?"

Before those impious words were finished, the mandate of heaven went forth, and the haughty king was deposed; not only his kingly power was taken, but his reason also, and he was driven from the abodes of men, and his dwelling place was with the beasts of the field; and his hair grew like eagle's feathers, and his nails like the claws of birds, until seven years were accomplished, when the Lord saw fit to restore his reason, having thoroughly humbled him.

The rich make costly dinners, and invite for their guests those that will invite them in return, while "the unfed beggar is driven from their door." And to-day the foot of the oppressor is on the necks of the poor while cries in distress ascend unto the ears of the God of Sabaoth.

The language of the inspired word reads: "Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle? who shall dwell in thy holy hill of Zion? He that walketh uprightly and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart."

Where shall we go to find this favored class among the rich and great. There is a class of people who fill this measure; they are the followers of the lowly Nazarene. In every household we enter, if we see a similarity of feature, we call this a family resemblance. So in the family of Christ. Its distinguishing features are humility, meekness, love, charity, patience, etc. Reversing this order, we have pride, hatred, anger, envy, jealousy, malice, scorn, and contempt—the very things which enter into and form the character of the wicked one.

Pride, holding the most prominent place in the character of Satan, if any one permits it to enter his abode, or gives it standing room, under some circumstances it will open the door of that house and admit the whole train of evils. Then the strong man armed will bind that one and his goods are spoiled. In the world pride holds its seat of empire, where it reigns without a rival, and is worshiped as the goddess of fashion.

In the word of God it is written: "High looks, and a proud heart, are an abomination in the sight of God." And again it is written, "And all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be as stubble; and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch."

Who, then, among the Latter Day Saints, having pride in the heart, can claim the promises of God to His people? The Holy One saith: "Thou shalt have no other gods but me."

Now then, with this commandment before us, if we follow the fashions of the world and bow down to that fickle goddess, are we following the meek and lowly Jesus? Are we keeping sacred the vows that we made when we entered into covenant with Jehovah that we would serve Him and no other?

O, sisters! let us lay down our pride once and forever. It is but a small sacrifice compared to that which the Prince of Life has made in leaving the glory of the celestial kingdom that he might purchase our spiritual freedom.

When the Lord shall come down on Idumea, and the besom of destruction goes sweeping through the land, where will be our safeguard if we continue to be ruled by pride? "Let us come out of this little narrow self and up to breathe a higher purer atmosphere."

Let us hold up the hands of brother Joseph, through whom the Lord is lifting an ensign to the nations, even the banner of truth. Let us help to lift that banner high. Let us who claim to be the daughter of Zion present a solid front against pride, like the Macedonian phalanx that withstood the onset of the invading foe. Let Satan be content with the world for the field of his conquests. The heritage of God must be kept sacred from his unholy footsteps. Let us, in love and unity, help in the work of God to which all are invited to take a part, and remember that whatever sacrifice we make to aid this great work, we are adding to the crown of our rejoicing in the day when the Holy One shall come to reward the faithful in Zion. This is a day of sacrifice, of trial, and of rejoicing. And happy are they who are admonished of these things, for they shall rejoice with the church of the First-born, and their joy shall be full, saith the spirit. Amen.

EMILY B. FARRAR.

SANTA ANA, Cal., June 14th, 1887.

TESTIMONY.

EVERYTHING proves that we are in the "way of truth." The opposing efforts of Satan to hinder and discourage is testimony that we are engaged in the work of the Lord, on the side of eternal truth in the great conflict that will only end at death. And that "the latter days have come," the times of the restitution has commenced. Saints of God let us bear on in the glorious warfare, trusting him who will give all needed help. He created the beautiful birds and flowers "to comfort man, to brighten hope," and "he who careth 'for these' will much more care for us." Friends of the Lord and of truth you believe, why don't you obey? Take warning now and don't delay. The Lord wants you now for "he delights to bless all who obey him, and serve him true to the end." We invite all—both friend and foe, believers and unbelievers, to come to Christ; have faith in God, believe his word as he interprets it, and do what you see is your duty and eternal will be your gain.

W. C. L.

Selections.

THE MODERN STYLE OF PERSECUTION.

[From Hamerton's "Human Intercourse."]

HUMAN intercourse, on equal terms, is difficult or impossible for those who do not belong to that religion which is dominant in the country where they live. The tendency has always been either to exclude such persons from human intercourse altogether (a fate so hard to bear during a whole lifetime that they have often compromised the matter by outward conformity), or else to maintain some degree of intercourse with them in placing them at a social disadvantage. In barbarous times such persons, when obstinate, are removed by taking away their lives; or if somewhat less obstinate, they are effectually deterred from the profession of heretical opinions by threats of the most pitiless punishments. In semi-barbarous times they are paralyzed, so far as public action is concerned, by political disabilities expressly created for their inconvenience. In times which pride themselves on having completely emerged from barbarism, political disabilities are almost entirely removed, but certain class exclusions still persist, by which it is arranged (whilst avoiding all appearance of persecution) that although heretics are no longer banished from their native land, they may be excluded from their native class, and either deprived of human intercourse altogether, or left to seek it in classes inferior to their own.

The religious obstacle differs from all other obstacles in one remarkable characteristic: it is maintained only against honest and truth-speaking persons. Exemption from its operation has always been, and is still, uniformly pronounced in favor of all heretics who will consent to lie. The honorable unbeliever has always been treated harshly; the unbeliever who has no sense of honor has been freely permitted, in every age, to make the best use of his abilities for his own advancement. For him the religious obstacle is simply non-existent. He has exactly the same chances of preferment as the most orthodox Christian. In Pagan times, when public religious functions were a part of the rank of great laymen, unbelief in the gods of Olympus did not hinder them from seeking and exercising those functions. Since the establishment of Christianity as a state religion, the most stringently framed oaths have never prevented an unscrupulous infidel from attaining any position that lay within reach of his wits and his opportunities. He has sat in the most orthodox Parliaments, he has been admitted to Cabinet councils, he has worn royal crowns, he has even received the mitre, the cardinal's hat, and the papal tiara.

We can never sufficiently admire the beautiful order of society by which heretic-plus-liar is so graciously admitted everywhere, and heretic-plus-honest man is so cautiously and ingeniously kept out. It is, indeed, even more advantageous to the dishonest unbeliever than at first sight appears; for not only does it open to him all positions accessible to the orthodox, but it even gives him a noteworthy advantage over honest orthodoxy itself by training him daily and hourly in dissimulation. To be kept constantly in the habit of dissimulation on one subject is an excellent discipline in the most serviceable of all social arts. An atheist who reads prayers with a pious intonation, and is exemplary in his attendance at church, and who never betrays his real opinions by an unguarded word or look, though always preserving the appearance of the simplest candor, the most perfect openness, is, we may be sure, a much more formidable person to contend with in the affairs of this world than an honest Christian who has never had occasion to train himself in habitual imposture. Yet good Christians willingly admit these dangerous, unscrupulous rivals, and timidly exclude those truthful heretics who are only honest, simple people like themselves.

After religious liberty has been nominally established in a country by its law-givers, its enemies do not consider themselves defeated, but try to recover, through the unwritten law of social customs and observances, the ground they have lost in formal legislation. Hence we are never sure that religious liberty will exist within the confines of a class even when it is loudly proclaimed in a nation as one of the most glorious conquests of the age. It is often enjoyed very imperfectly, or at a great cost of social and even pecuniary sacrifice. In its perfection it is the liberty to profess openly, and in their full force, those opinions on religious subjects which a man holds in his own conscience, and without incurring any kind of punishment or privation on account of them, legal or social. * * * True liberty is not that which is attainable at some cost, some sacrifice, but that which we can enjoy without being made to suffer for it in any way. It is always enjoyed to the full by every one whose sincere convictions are heartily in the side of authority.

Every hardship is softened, at least in some measure, by a compensation; and when in modern times a man is so situated that he has no outward religious liberty, it is perfectly understood that his conformity is official, like that of a soldier who is ordered to give the Host a military salute without regard for his private opinion. . . . The hardest cases are those in which there is every appearance of liberty, whilst some subtle secret force compels the slave to acts that have the appearance of the most voluntary submission. There are many positions of this kind in the world. They abound in countries where the right of private judgment is loudly proclaimed, where a man is told that he may act in religious matters quite freely according to the dictates of his conscience, whilst he well knows at the same time that unless his conscience happens to be in unison with the opinions of the majority, he will incur some kind of disability, some social paralysis, for having obeyed it.

The greatest hardship of all is to be compelled to perform acts of conformity with all the appearance of free choice. The tradesman who must go to mass to have customers is in a harder position than the soldier. For this reason, it is better for the moral health of a nation, when there is to be compulsion of some kind, that it should be boldly and openly tyrannical; that its work should be done in the face of day; that it should be outspoken, uncompromising, complete. To tyranny of that kind a man may give way without any loss of self-respect,—he yields to force majeure; but to that viler and meaner kind of tyranny which keeps a man in constant alarm about the means of earning his living, about the maintenance of some wretched little peddling position in society, he yields with a sense of far deeper humiliation, with a feeling of contempt for the social power that uses such miserable means, and of contempt for himself also.

TOBACCO AND ITS EFFECTS.

TOBACCO is an aromatic plant and leaf, and probably its sweetness and slight acrid taste, its stimulus and its power to appease hunger, had at first more to do with its use than any other cause. It has been variously claimed to be a food, a tonic, a condiment, a stimulant, a nervine, and an intoxicant. It is when we turn to a Materia Medica, or to some work on toxicology, that we find the fullest account of it. Its first free use generally causes giddiness, trembling of the limbs, faintness, depression, sickness of the stomach, and cold sweats. The pulse is weak and quivering, the breathing hurried or embarrassed, and the vision impaired. In toxic doses, the action is on the central nervous system, producing failure of respiration. If the chewing or smoking has not been very excessive, the ordinary symptoms soon pass off. If its use is much less, or if a toleration of it is acquired, it acts as a pleasant sedative. Whatever may be the ultimate accommodation of the system thereto, as with alcohol, a class of symptoms very different from those from the use of milk or meat or cereals or fruits tells us that it rightly finds its classification among articles unfriendly to the best health or to the nourishment of vital forces. Its most decided effects is upon the functions of organs rather than upon their structure. As a rule, it is not near so apt to make change of structure as is alcohol. Yet permanent changes, especially to blood-vessels and the nervous system, result therefrom. Woodman and Tidy, in their volume on "Forensic Medicine and Toxicology," speak thus: "Excessive smoking has proved fatal, as in the case recorded by Gmelin, when two men smoked seventeen and eighteen pipes respectively. Sheffield, records two cases of paralysis of the portadura directly caused by hard smoking." There is a general testimony that dyspepsia, heart palpitation and nervous symptoms often result therefrom. Its evil effect upon young persons has been accurately set forth by Dr. Decaisne, and Dr. A. C. Gorgas, Medical Inspector, U. S. N. This testimony is the more significant because there was a return to the use of tobacco on the part of the students of the Naval Academy, but the contrasted facts caused a subsequent renewal of the order to desist from its use. The evidence has been such from other sources that a prohibitory law applicable to youths has been enacted in Germany. While during the growing period of life all are more susceptible to the evil effects of tobacco, those of full age are affected in a milder degree. There is a constant tendency of the habit to increase.

Even among those who have the belief that the moderate use of tobacco does not injure all persons, there is such agreement as to its effect upon the young, that most of them favor laws which make it a punishable offense for those under age to use tobacco in any form.

There is reason to believe that our young population is being greatly injured thereby, and also that the use of tobacco has become so general, and often so excessive among adults as to be traceable in special injurious effects upon them and their descendants. Tobacco smoking increases pulse rate. Both in chewing and smoking there is an unnatural stimulus of the salivary glands. Their office as aids to the first process of digestion is interfered with. While it is true that the evil effects of very occasional smoking are transitory to many, it is equally true that the excess in the habit which generally occurs, makes in time a permanent impression upon the nervous system.

Its effect in checking growth is unmistakable. So far as the young are concerned, it is doing more harm to bodily health than alcohol. A substance which will produce such profound impression as it does when first used, and which has caused death when applied for a long time to the raw surface of the body and which has by its irritation induced cancer, surely ought not to be in ordinary use among mankind.

The cigarette has been found to be even more harmful than the other forms of smoking. Besides many evils which its use involves, not the least is one already noted as to alcohol. It not only becomes a habit that it is hard to abandon, but the very failure which so many make in their efforts to quit its use shows too plainly that it undermines the power of self-control, and so is a weakening of that vigor of trained will, of that mastery of self, which is a part of the physical as well as of the intellectual welfare and prowess of manhood. As an interest both of the individual and the state, the use of tobacco in any form by children should be prohibited under proper penalties. As a matter of public and personal health, and in the interests of the vigor of the coming generation, this restraint is demanded.

Some of the states have already passed laws prohibiting the sale of tobacco to those under sixteen years of age.

There seems to be good evidence that modern modes of life, and the pressure of excessive business, incline many to indulge in that class of substances which produce a slight exhilarating effect, followed by a calm such as occurs in the first stages of narcotism. There is great occasion for the young to guard themselves against all plausible excuses for any of these indulgences. We have never known any one to regret abstinence from them, and have known very many, in the moderate use of some of the milder forms of excitants and sedatives, to be earnest in advising against the acquirement of such habits.—Independent.

THE PREMILLENNIALISTS.

[Chicago Tribune, Nov. 18th, 1886.]

THE morning session of the Premillennialists was opened in the presence of about five hundred men and women. Letters expressing sympathy with the objects of the conference were read from the Rev. Dr. Andrew A. Bonar, the celebrated composer of Glasgow, Scotland; the Rev. Dr. Archibald G. Brown of London; and the Rev. D. L. Moody. Mr. Moody's letter, written from Wheeling, West Virginia, mentions that the pressure of work and binding engagements will prevent him from attending the conference. He expressed the hope that it would result in a spiritual quickening in all the churches. "The coming of the Lord," the letter continues, "is to me a most precious truth and constant inspiration to work." His prayer was that the conference would result in sending every minister out to evangelistic work this winter.

The Rev. J. M. Orrock of Boston spoke on "Objections to Christ's Premillennial Advent." It was a part of a precious belief to him to look for the second coming of Christ.

The Rev. Dr. Dinwiddie of Virginia, the Rev. Dr. Frost of Sacramento, the Rev. Mr. Brown, and the Rev. Dr. F. W. Beadaker, a Russian evangelist, gave their experiences.

At the afternoon session Prof. Henry Lummis of Appleton, Wisconsin, delivered an address on "Christ's Predictions and Their Interpretations." It was sometimes asked if the prophecies were difficult to comprehend, and the question was answered by a dogmatic "Yes." If this was true the Bible was largely a sealed book, but he did not admit the statement. He believed the language of the New Testament was as easy of comprehension as the histories of Xenophon, and the prophetic utterances of Christ were as plain as the evangelist's statements. It was true there was much figurative language employed, but it was astonishing that some plain statements had been twisted to mean anything. He protested against this treatment of the language of the Savior. Replying to the claim that literal interpretations resulted often in the ludicrous, he said the opposite was true. The canon of the definite language in fulfilled prophecy and with figurative language with unfulfilled prophecy was radically wrong and utterly foolish, without a recognized principle. The fancy that any one can save the Scriptures by any such course is as dangerous as it is foolish.

The Secretary then announced that no more collections would be taken, as it was expected the balance of the expenses of the conference, amounting to fifteen hundred dollars would be borne by benevolent gentlemen in the conference.

The Rev. Dr. George S. Bishop, of Orange, New Jersey, then spoke of "The Times of the Gentiles." To sustain his position he spoke at great length of the wickedness of the times, and stated that the world was growing worse. The theory he advanced from an extended review of the prophecies of Daniel was the coming of the anti-Christ and the final destruction. "The moment we admit these things," said the preacher, referring to the prophecies of Daniel, "the moment that we concede a drift that leads towards anti-Christ that moment must we deny the world's improvement." The natural man grows worse and worse. He may flesh up, wear better clothes, make a more handsome figure, climb to a superior place, but all the while he is growing worse inside, like a worm-eaten apple, more brilliant and ripe than its companions.

The attendance at the evening session did not appear to suffer from the weather. The Rev. E. S. Erdman of Boston read a paper on the "Fullness of the Gentiles," as used in St. Paul's Epistles to the Romans. After discussing the different views of the various commentators upon the wording of the prophecy in Romans from which the subject was taken, the speaker reached the conclusion that there could not possibly be any redemption save by the blood of atonement, and not by power. Further, that this "Fullness of the Gentiles" meant a personal salvation and not the Christianizing of the nations. Paul always taught the doctrine of a called-out and separated people of God. Christopher Columbus declared that his mission was to open up a new continent to Christianity, in order that the Kingdom of God might sooner come, and he believed that in 130 years the end would come. The prophecies throughout carry the idea of the fullness of persons and not of the nations. There was a church-consciousness in the apostolic age which has been lost in modern times, and this led to the peculiar unscriptural language.

The Rev. A. J. Gordon, D. D., of Boston read a paper on "Modern Delusions." His subject held him to the sombre aspect of the age, but he was not to be understood as thinking that was the most prominent feature of our time. There has been no time when the Church of Jesus Christ, the light of the world, has shone more brightly than at present. The revival of the church's early hope of the second coming of Christ was also a sure indication of the progress of Christianity. Christian England and America were raising one hundred heathens while missionaries saved one, and Satan was ready with a match for each marvel of God. Infidelity is not so marked as in the last half of the last century. Infidelity was not in Satan's line. The Scriptures predicted that false prophets and miracles by demons were to be the manifestations of the last days. The delusions of to-day were spiritualism from the pit, ritualism from the Papacy, and theosophy from Paganism. The incredulity of this age was its weakness, and Satan masqueraded through the medium as the demonstrator of the faith in the immortality of the soul. I have no doubt that the spirits supposed to be the departed friends are foul demons sent to deceive. Ritualism ought not to be mentioned in the same breath with Spiritualism, for it is only an ecclesiastical eccentricity, but the highest saintship is too often found close to the grossest superstition. Both the turning to the east and the sign of the cross are relics of pagan idolatry, as are also the wafer, the candles, and the confessional. The altars and incense were borrowed from the Jews, but they were done away with by Christ. When they came into the church they brought transubstantiation and baptismal regeneration, both Satanic errors. The ritualists had not fallen into the cooking-stove apostasy, the turning of churches into places of feasting, nor attempted to amuse the unchurched masses into obedience to God. These were delusions of the devil assailing the church on another line. Theosophy is the result of modern unbelief seeking relief from the ennui of denial. It could hardly be better described than Buddhism seeking converts among Christians. It was a worship of demons, without belief in a personal devil or the forgiveness of sin. It is simply another phase of Satanic delusion. All these delusions clearly pointed to prophetic irruption of evil spirits preceding the second coming of Christ.

SELF-CURE.

THE body, to a large extent, is a machine which, when disarranged, repairs itself. Physicians tell us of the vis medica, rix naturæ—the power to heal inherent in nature. It is natural to get well. The body's recuperative resources are not equal to every need, but they are very great. It is because of this even that the well man tends to keep well, if he conforms to nature's laws, for the system is ever full of poison from its own waste, the disposal of which nature has provided for, better than any city has for the disposal of its deadly sewerage.

Take the case of an ordinary wound. It needs only to have its disrupted parts brought together and nature does the healing; and even in many cases where the parts are not brought together nature fills up the space with new flesh. So nature will mend a broken bone, on the simple condition that the adjusted parts be allowed the requisite rest.

Dyspepsia, whether induced by improper eating, the neglect of exercise, brain overwork, or care, worry and fret, will in time wholly disappear on removal of the cause and compliance with the laws of nature.

The best physicians now freely admit that typhoid patients, in the great majority of cases, would recover without a drop of medicine; that they need medicine mainly to promote ease and comfort, and that pure air is better for them than all drugs. The same is true of some other diseases. More and more is it being admitted that in no case drugs have any curative powers, but only aid nature, as the surgeon aids in the case of a badly broken limb, by removing irritating bits, spiculæ, etc., and securing the proper adjustment and fixation of the parts.

The old-time doctors greatly over-dosed people—in multitudes of cases literally dosed people to death. Within less than twenty years a personal friend, called to watch with a neighbor far gone in consumption, was shown eleven different medicines, each of which she was to administer during the night, according to the varying symptoms.

It can not be too strongly emphasized that those who observe the laws of their physical nature are likely to keep well—and even infectious diseases have little power over such persons, and would wholly disappear if all observed these laws.—Ex.

FROM JERUSALEM.

"IT seems there were five Afghan gentlemen visiting Jerusalem last week, an event which has never occurred before; at least, if it has, it is not known. They say they are Jews, or Israelites, of the tribe of Benjamin; that their tribe has been in Afghanistan twenty-five hundred years; that they were made proselytes to Mohamedanism at the point of the sword when the Turks came into power, and have been obliged to observe an outside religion, but have never at heart been Moslems. They have always taught their children in the Hebrew scriptures and observed in secret the Hebrew rites. They also manage to keep in their possession many Hebrew books secretly.

"They are splendid specimens of mankind physically, and the most of them are very rich. They were on their way home from Mecca, and came here to visit the Mosk of Omar, and the Jewish Rabbis, and gave money to their cause. They told the Rabbis that their people in Afghanistan were expecting and praying that Russia would invade that country and free them from Mohammedan rule. This we must admit is one of the signs of the times.

"I have been told by those who know, that there are Hebrew books here in Jerusalem which gives an account of a tribe of Israelites, leaving Palestine in the time of Benjamin's war, and that it is known they went to England, while other Israelites settled in Spain. I am glad to know this, for I have for a long time believed that my ancestors were Israelites. It is pretty evident that none but Israelites will engage heartily in this Israelitish cause."

[Yes, Gentiles, to whom Israelites have been servants, will serve Israel. This the scriptures plainly declare; and they will be happy in doing it. What Gentiles would not rejoice to be permitted to serve the apostle, John, or Peter, or Paul? or any other of God's ministers.—ED]—The Age to Come.

Conference Minutes.

WELSH MISSION.

Conference was held at Island Street Chapel, Llanelly, April 23d and 24th, 1887. T. E. Jenkins, president, D. Lewis, clerk. First session convened at 7:30 p. m.; a hymn was sung, and prayer was offered. The minutes of last conference were read and approved. Eastern district was reported:—Seventies 1, elders 20, priests 5, members 50, total 76; baptized 6, expelled 1, removed by letter 1; Wm. Morris, president, T. E. Jenkins, clerk. Western district was reported:—elders 11, priests 4, deacons 2, members 52, total 69; baptized 3. D. Lewis, president. North Wales was reported:—Elders 1, priests 1, members 5, total 7. J. E. Hughes, president. Book account was reported from October 31st, 1886, to April 23d, 1887. In hand when last reported 8£, 6s 3d, received since for Heralds from D. Williams 10s 5d, B. Davies 10s 5d, T. E. Jenkins 10s, 5d J. R. Gibbs 5s 2½d, 10£, 2s, 8½d. Paid out for postage 1s 1d; on hand 10£ 1s 7½d. Bishop's Agent's account was reported from October 31st, 1886, to April 23d, 1887. Received for J. E. Hughes from Cardiff branch 5s, Llansamlet branch 1£, Aberaman branch 2s 6d, T. E. Jenkins 5s, Llanelly branch 4s; total for above 1£, 16s 6d. Aberaman branch 4s, Aberaman branch 5s, T. E. Jenkins 10s, Carnarvon branch 10s, 4s, 5s 6d. Paid to J. E. Hughes 1£ 12s 6d, paid to J. E. Hughes 4s, Wm. Morris 8s, J. D. Jones 5s, J. D. Jones 6s, in hand 10s, total 13 5s 7d. Address by the president, prayer by T. Gould. April 24th at 10:30, a. m. a chapter was read by the president, a hymn was sung, prayer by the president. Preaching by G. E. Cope, in English, and by J. R. Gibbs, in Welsh. At 2 p. m. a hymn was sung, prayer by Gwilym Davies. The authorities of the church were sustained by our faith and prayers:—Joseph Smith as President, W. W. Blair his counselor. Quorum of the twelve, quorum of the seventy, and all the officers of the church in America. T. E. Jenkins as president of the Welsh mission, J. R. Gibbs his assistant. Wm. Morris president of the eastern district. D. Lewis president of the western district. J. E. Hughes for North Wales, and all the officers and members of the church. Preaching by D. Lewis (Dewi Chwefror) in Welsh, and by T. Gould in English. Prayer by the president. At 6 p. m. prayer by G. E. Cope. Preaching by Wm. Morris in Welsh, and by T. Gould in English, and by T. E. Jenkins in Welsh. The attendance was mixed with persons from different denominations. Able sermons were preached throughout the day to attentive hearers. Adjourned to meet at Aberaman, the last Sunday in October, 1887.

FAR WEST.

The above district conference convened with the Center Prairie branch, June 4th and 5th, 1887. J. T. Kinneman, president; D. R. Baldwin, clerk, pro tem. Appropriate remarks were offered by the president. Branch reports:—Stewartsville, last report 93; present number 91. Far West, last report 34; present 31. DeKalb, last report 70; present 69. Delano, last report 87; present 79. German Stewartsville, no change. Center Prairie, last report 28, present 32. Pleasant Grove, last report 52; present 50. St. Joseph report referred back to the branch for correction. The president appointed Brn. Drown, Ware and Seely, committee on credentials. Elders reports:—J. T. Kinneman has labored at Clarksdale, McCartney's cross roads, where a good interest is manifested; and at German Stewartsville branch; solemnized one marriage. Bro. R. Ware preached at Center Prairie, and Williams School house; also in Central Missouri district, where he baptized one. Bro. A. J. Seely has charge of Far West branch. Bro. J. D. Craven has labored as president of the Center Prairie branch. Bro. James Drown is willing to do all he can. Bro. John M. Terry reports by letter, he has the watchcare of the Scewartsville branch; also the Sunday school, preached one funeral sermon; solemnized one marriage. Wm. Lewis has labored in the several branches as Bishop's agent. H. C. Bronson, baptized one; Jacob Snider; R. Phillips; Henry Hinderks. Priests:—Bro. Bryant, D. R. Baldwin, J. C. Elvert, Walter Head and Chas. P. Faul, reported. Committee on order of business, for use in our conference were continued. Motion that thereafter clerks of branches composing the Far West district, be, and are hereby instructed to place upon the certificate to the delegate to conference the total membership of his branch, carried. A committee of three, consisting of Brn. Kinneman, Bronson and Henry Hinderks were appointed for the purpose of making arrangements for a reunion in the vicinity of Clarksdale, Mo. Committee on credentials reported and were continued. The following officers were elected, by the yeas and nays, for the coming three months: J. T. Kinneman, president; Wm. Lewis, vice president; Chas. P. Faul, secretary; Wm. Lewis was sustained as Bishop's agent. Bro. J. T. Kinneman preached on Saturday evening at 8 p. m.; prayer meeting Sunday morning at 9 a. m. Bro. H. C. Bronson preached on Sunday morning at 11 a. m., and Sunday evening at 8 p. m. Social meeting at 2:30, p. m. Adjourned to meet on the last Saturday and Sunday in August, 27th and 28th, 1887, with the German Stewartsville Branch.

KEWANEE DISTRICT.

Conference convened at Henderson Grove, July 2d, 1887, Elder James W. Terry presiding, John Chisnall clerk. Conference was called to order at 10 a. m. The following branches reported: Kewanee 70; J. Chisnall president. Buffalo Prairie 60; E. T. Bryant president, J. W. Hutchins clerk. Henderson Grove 40; Lewis Tryon presiding priest, Nellie Williams clerk. Millersburg 42; J. W. Terry president, J. L. Terry clerk. The following elders reported in person: M. T. Short, J. W. Terry, T. F. Stafford, John A. Robinson, E. T. Bryant, James Lord, John Chisnall; Priest L. Tryon, and Teacher H. Williams reported. The usual routine conference business was transacted. The fellowship meetings were attended with the hallowed influence of God's Spirit; while the preaching of the word by Elders Robinson, Short and Stafford left nothing to be desired in that line. Elders Terry, Short and Stafford had done some preaching before conference convened, while Elder Short stayed in the neighborhood to continue the effort. A good, kindly feeling was manifested by the neighbors and friends of the Saints. All seemed to vie with each other in tendering hospitalities to the visiting Saints. The meetings were well attended considering the heavy, though welcome rains that fell during conference. The Saints, both local and visitant seemed to mutually enjoy a renewal of old experiences, while strangers stood and wondered if these things are so. The conference adjourned to meet at Buffalo Prairie, September 10th, at ten a. m.

ALABAMA.

Conference of the above district convened at New Hope branch, Monroe county, Alabama, July 9th and 10th, 1887. G. T. Chute, president; L. G. Parker, secretary, being absent, Bro. McKinly was chosen to act as secretary pro tem. Branch report:—Lone Star, no change. Butler branch, present membership 33; 1 had been expelled (Jane Sims) for apostasy. Bro. J. M. Pickins had been released from the office of teacher. Elders reports:—F. Vickrey, had not labored outside the branch, was superintendent of the Butler Branch Sunday School, of which he spoke very encouragingly. W. J. Booker had not attended conference in some time, but had been doing some preaching. G. R. Scogin, had been acting president of the Florida district. G. T. Chute had not been idle. Priest M. K. Harp, was acting president of the Lone Star branch, and was conducting a Sunday School there. Committee appointed to investigate some matters in the Butler branch reported. The report was accepted and the committee discharged. On motion James M. Pickins was released from the office of teacher in the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Bro. Maning

K. Harp's name was presented to the conference for ordination to the office of an elder, which was unanimously adopted. He was ordained under the hands of elders G. T. Chute, W. J. Booker, and F. Vickrey. On separate motions, the following brethren were sustained. G. T. Chute, president; L. G. Parker, secretary; and J. G. Vickrey, Bishop's Agent for the Alabama district. The general authorities were sustained. Preaching at night by Bro. G. R. Scogin, assisted by W. J. Booker. At 11 a. m. Sunday morning, preaching by G. T. Chute, assisted by J. G. Vickrey, from the text "My doctrine is not mine but his that sent me," John 7:16, to a very large and attentive congregation. Preaching at night by W. J. Booker assisted by F. Vickrey, upon the subject of rewards and punishments. Notwithstanding that there was a heavy rain in the morning and again in the afternoon, it cleared away each time in time for meeting and the turnout was most excellent, all that could be wished for and we hope that good was done. The Saints at New Hope speak very highly of the neighbors in helping to sustain the conference and caring for the visiting Saints. Adjourned to meet at Pleasant Hill branch, Butler county, Alabama, on the Saturday before the first Sunday in October, at ten a. m. 1887.

Miscellaneous.

BORN.

DAWSON.—July 15th, 1887, to Bro. Edwin T. and sister Marv E. Dawson, of Ione, Amador county, California, a daughter; named Rosella Nettie. Wife and child doing well.

ERVIN.—At Elmwood, Nebraska, December 7th, 1886, to Bro. James and Sr. Anna Ervin, a son. Blessed by Elder Robt. M. Elvin, at McCaig's Grove, Nebraska, July 24th, 1887, and named John Claudius.

HAINS.—Angeline Weighty, the youngest daughter of Bro. Henry and Sr. Mary C. Hains; was born February 12th, 1883 at Arcadia, Kansas, and blessed January 23d, 1887, by brethren Ezra W. Depue and Samuel H. Hinkle, at Harper, McDonald county, Missouri.

FULKS.—Mary Lucinda, daughter of Bro. Charles M. and Sr. Mary C. Fulks, born at Arcadia, Crawford county, Kansas, December 24th, 1885, and blessed January 23d, 1887, at Harper, McDonald county, Missouri, by brethren Samuel H. Hinkle and Ezra W. Depue. All are well and hopeful.

MARRIED.

KELLEY—SWARTHOUT.—At San Bernardino, California, July 18th, 1887, Mr. Stephen F. Kelley and Sr. Charity Swarthout, both of San Bernardino; Elder Heman C. Smith officiating.

DIED.

JOHNSON.—Mr. Andrew, husband of sister Christena Johnson, of Plano, Illinois, was born in Sweden, June 11th, 1837; died in the town of Fox, Kendall county, Illinois, June 12th, 1887, so was just fifty years of age. He had hired a livery rig and started south across Fox River, and was to all appearance as well as usual when one of the brethren left him one mile south of town, at about nine o'clock in the forenoon. At eleven o'clock he was found dead in the buggy, the horse still going on the road, about one mile south of Fox Station, on the Fox River Road. He leaves a wife, one son and one daughter, all belonging to the church, (though he did not), also two grandchildren. Funeral services were held at the Saints' Chapel in Plano, June 14th, 1887, the sermon was by Elder W. Vickrey.

LASURE.—At Plano, Illinois, June 30th, 1887, Viola Blanche, daughter of Bro. William and Sr. Mary Lasure, aged 2 years, 3 months and 3 days. Blanche had been a sufferer for a long time and at different times until called to the arms of him who loved little children here. Funeral services were held at Saints' Chapel, July 2d. Buried in Plano cemetery; W. Vickrey officiating.

TERRY.—At Crescent, Iowa, July 17th, 1887, Lottie, adopted daughter of Mr. and Sr. H. A. Terry, aged 9 months and 13 days. "Forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

CURTIS.—At his residence near Medina City, Texas, Friday, 3 o'clock a. m. June 3d, 1887, Bro. Macham Curtis; aged 70 years, 3 months, and 20 days. He was baptized and confirmed, February, 1833, Oakland county, Michigan, by Elder Samuel Bent. He came to Texas soon after the Martyr's death; was one of the number at the organization of the Medina City branch, December 30th, 1886. Leaves a number of friends and relatives to mourn their loss. The elder, orphan, and needy always found a welcome at "grandpa's." A brother from California whom he had not met for twenty-nine years, was on a visit and ready to return home when deceased was taken. May God give strength to those left to mourn, and especially his aged companion who survives him. Funeral services by J. A. Currie, jr.

A little while and you shall meet
Your loved one once again;
'Twas grief to part, but O, how sweet!
To believe he's free from pain.
Then do not mourn as those who have
No hope to meet again;
But live to meet beyond the grave,
When Jesus comes to reign.

CLIFT.—At Davenport, Iowa, August 14th, 1886, sister Margaret Clift, in the 74th year of her age. Sister Clift united with the church first in England, and with the Reorganization here in America, being baptized by Elder Richard Rowley at Davenport, in the year 1867. A son-in-law and daughter—Bro. Hiram and Sr. Ellen Stowe—survive her.

BRIGGS.—At Davenport, Iowa, July 8th, 1887, of cholera infantum, Harry Eugene, infant son of Bro. H. E. and Sr. Eva Briggs. Little Harry was born on the 17th of May, 1887. Funeral from the family residence—Harrison street, Davenport. Service by Elder Jerome Ruby.

Little Harry, God had given
Pledge of our affection here:
Given? No. He did but lend him—
We will still His name revere.
Jesus, loving Savior, help us,
Teach us like a child to be,
That when comes the resurrection
We our darling babe may see.

CARSTENSEN.—Near Crescent, Iowa, June 26th, 1887, of diphtheria, Agnes, daughter of Bro. and Sr. C. Carstensen, aged 2 years and 2 days.

COWARD.—At Birkenhead, Cheshire, England, April 24th, 1887, Elder John William Coward. Deceased was born at Carcroft, York, England, December 14th, 1815, and died as above stated, with a sure promise of a part in the first resurrection. Elder Coward became connected with the Utah church at an early period; emigrated to Utah; remained there for some time; eventually returning to England under mission appointment from that church, but withdrew from fellowship shortly after he commenced his ministerial labors. He afterwards became acquainted with the work of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, and being satisfied with her claims was received into communion with her by baptism, administered by Elder John Seville, at Liverpool, June 19th, 1871; was confirmed and ordained an elder of the church the same day, under the hands of Elders John Seville and Thomas Taylor of Birmingham. Bro. Coward has proved himself a man of integrity, having labored faithfully in the interests of God and the church, and his work will ever be held in grateful remembrance by those who knew and shared his labors of love.

J. DEWSNUP.

LUVELL.—Frankie, son of Mr. and Sr. Luvell, and grandson of Bro. William Hart, July 20th, 1887, of cholera infantum, aged 9 months, and 1 day. Funeral services were held at the Greenfield School house, sermon by W. Vickery. So the buds of promise are taken; but it is their gain.

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

The conference of the Des Moines district will convene September 3d and 4th, 1887, at 10 a. m. at the Callwell School-house, in the Valley branch, near Adelphi and Rumels Station, on the branch of the Wabash, running south-east from Des Moines; about twelve miles from the city south-east. All are cordially invited to attend. Let the branches that have not been visited by the Bishop's Agent, bring their offering, we expect our Agent to be with us. Come, bring the Spirit of our Master with you.

WM. C. NIREK, Pres.

This is to notify the Saints of the Pottawattamie district that the conference appointed to convene at Council Bluffs, September 24th, will be postponed. Future notice will be given of the time of convening. This is done after consulting some of the brethren, and for the reason that it would come at the very time appointed for the Reunion to be held at Harlan. In the mean time let those who can labor for the good of the cause improve all opportunities; those choosing may write me at Weston, Pottawattamie county, Iowa.

H. N. HANSEN, Pres. of Dist.

TWO DAYS MEETINGS.

There will be a Two Days' Meeting held at Five Lakes, August 13th and 14th, 1887. We cordially invite all Saints to attend. All that come by rail come to King's Mills station, on the P. O. & P. A. Come on Friday the 12th, and there will be conveyances to carry them to the place of meeting.

R. HUGILL.

QUORUM OF SEVENTY.

Dear Brethren:—We are preparing a Circular Letter to send to each Seventy, and propose printing on one side of this letter the name and address of each member of the quorum. Will you kindly aid us by sending us a card by return mail; either to my address or to Bro. R. S. Sal-yards, Kirtland, Ohio, the secretary of the quorum; giving your full name and post-office address, name of post-office, county, and state.

E. C. BRAND, President.

Box 39, TABOR, FREMONT CO., IOWA.

"OCCUPY TILL I COME."

THIS command is addressed to you, my reader. Whoever you may be—young or old, rich or poor, robust or infirm—you have a work to do for your Master. Whether it be the silent testimony of sufferings meekly and patiently borne, because it is His will to send them; or the influence of a holy life in a limited home circle, or the more active service of ministry to His children; you have your own little mission, which no one but yourself can fulfill; and if you neglect it, it is left undone.

Look around you. Can you find nothing to do for Him who did so much for you? Not even a cup of cold water to give in His name to one of His children? Not a deed of Christian kindness to perform to a sick or needy "neighbor?" Not a word to speak of your Savior's wondrous love to the perishing thousands around you? Is it indeed so?

When you are summoned to give an account of your stewardship, will conscience whisper of no duties neglected, no claims unfulfilled? Can you really love your Savior and yet fold your hands idly, and leave the work He has given you to do undone? Oh! arouse thee from thy lethargy ere it be too late. Arise and labor in that corner of His vineyard in which He has seen best to place thee! It may be a lone, hidden nook, and the vines stunted and few; and as you look longingly at the sunny, bright hills far away, where the vines grow luxuriant and thick, with perchance few to tend them, you may say. Oh! that He had placed me there! I will arise and leave this barren spot, and go where I can do so much more for Him.

At thy peril. No! Here thy Master has placed thee, here remain. Occupy thy own little corner; for that alone hast thou to give account. Here shall His blessing rest upon thee; here let Him find thee when He cometh; and though the fruit thou hast to offer Him be small, not so shall be His reward: "Thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."—Selected.

HOT WATER REMEDIES.

THERE is no remedy of such general application, and none so easily attainable, as water, and yet nine persons out of ten will pass by it in an emergency to seek for something of far less efficiency. There are few cases of illness where water should not occupy the highest place as a remedial agent. A strip of flannel or napkin folded lengthwise and dipped in hot water and wrung out, and then applied around the neck of a child that has the croup, will usually bring relief in ten minutes. A towel folded several times and dipped in hot water and quickly wrung and applied over the toothache or neuralgia will generally afford prompt relief. This treatment in colic works like magic. I have seen cases that have resisted all other treatment for hours yield to this in ten minutes. There is nothing that so promptly cuts short a congestion of the lungs, sore throat or rheumatism as hot water when applied promptly and thoroughly. Tepid water acts promptly as an emetic, and hot water taken freely half an hour before bed-time is the best cathartic possible in the case of constipation, while it has a most soothing effect upon the stomach and bowels. This treatment continued a few months with proper attention to diet, will cure any curable case of dyspepsia. Headache almost always yielded to the simultaneous application of hot water to the feet and the back of the neck.—Sel.

TO PREVENT DIVORCES.

Marry in your own religion.
Never both be angry at once.
Never taunt with a past mistake.
Let a kiss be the prelude of a rebuke.
Never allow a request to be repeated.
Let self abnegation be the habit of both.
A good wife is the greatest earthly blessing.
"I forgot" is never an acceptable excuse.
If you must criticize, let it be done lovingly.
Make a marriage a matter of moral judgment.
Marry into a family which you have long known.
Never make a remark at the expense of the other.
Never talk at one another, either alone or in company.
Give your warmest sympathies for each other's trials.
If one is angry, let the other part the lips only for a kiss.
Neglect the whole world beside, rather than one another.
Never speak loud to one another unless the house is on fire.
Let each strive to yield oftenest to the wishes of the other.
Always leave home with loving words, for they may be the last.
Marry into different blood and temperament from your own.
Never deceive; for the heart, once misled, can never trust wholly again.
It is the mother who moulds the character and fixes the destiny of the child.
Never find fault unless it is perfectly certain a fault has been committed; even then don't scold.
Do not herald the sacrifices you make to each other's tastes, habits, or preferences.
Let all your mutual accommodations be spontaneous, whole-souled and free as air.
The very felicity is in the mutual cultivation of usefulness.
Consult one another in all that comes within the experience, observation, or sphere of the other.
A hesitating or grum yielding to the wishes of the other always grates upon a loving heart.
Never reflect on a past action which was done with a good motive, and with the best judgment at the time.
The beautiful in heart is a million times of more avail, as securing domestic happiness, than the beautiful in person.

GROWTH OF SCIENCE.

THE growth of science, not merely of physical science, but of all science, means the demonstration of order and natural causation among phenomena which had not previously been brought under those conceptions. Nobody who is acquainted with the progress of scientific thinking in every department of human knowledge, in the course of the last two centuries, will be disposed to deny that immense provinces have been added to the realm of science, or to doubt that the next two centuries will be witnesses of a vastly greater annexation. More particularly in the region of the physiology of the nervous system is it justifiable to conclude from the progress that has been made in analyzing the relations between material and psychical phenomena that vast further advances will be made, and that sooner or later all the so-called spontaneous operations of the mind will have, not only their relations to one another, but their relations to physical phenomena, connected in natural series of causes and effects, strictly defined. In other words, while at present we know only the nearer moiety of the chain of causes and effects by which the phenomena we call material give rise to those which we call mental, hereafter we shall get to the further end of the series.—Huxley, in Fortnightly Review.

NOTICE—"AUTUMN LEAVES."

WITH the issue of the HERALD for August 13th, we purpose sending out as a supplement thereto, a prospectus sheet of "AUTUMN LEAVES," showing the size of page and type intended to be used therein, also the object for which the magazine is gotten up, and the various departments which we shall endeavor to sustain. We ask the Saints, especially the parents, to give to the sermon of Dr. Talmage a careful reading, and when to this warning (which comes in thunder tones) we add the fact that the Spirit of God is moving upon the hearts of the Saints, to see, feel and contend against this deadly maelstrom which is yearly engulfing its thousands; we believe the need for and the entire ability of the church to sustain a publication for the youths of Zion, will be fully realized and acted upon.

M. WALKER.

LADIES or Gents, Girls or Boys, wanted in Europe and America, to sell our Folding Bustles, Portable Bed-springs, Tidy Holders, Sewing Machine Kiefer Springs, &c. For terms, address Bro. B. F. Ordway, Peoria, U.S.A.; or Bro. Henry Tabbner, 2 Grafton-st., Hanley, England. 6aug

The Sisters' Aid Society of Independence branch have for sale for the benefit of the new church, two Cabinet Photographs: one of the THREE WITNESSES, with views of the HILL CUMORAH and the ANGEL delivering the PLATES; the other of the OLD LIBERTY JAIL as it now stands, for 25 cts each. Those desiring to purchase can address Mrs. B. C. Smith, box 61, Independence, Missouri. 23jul13m

TO HOPE SUBSCRIBERS.

On and after January 1st, 1887, the Hope will be sent to subscribers as follows:
Single copies, per year..... 50c.
Over 4 copies and under 10, to one address, each..... 40c.
Ten copies and over, to one address, each... 35c.
Subscriptions to be paid in advance unless otherwise arranged for by subscribers.

Foreign Money Orders.

Bear in mind the fact that the post office at Lamoni is now a Foreign Money Order Office. Therefore, those in foreign countries sending moneys to this office should draw them on Lamoni, Iowa, U. S. A.

ZION'S HOPE

Is published every Saturday by the Church of Christ, at Lamoni, Iowa. Single copies, per year, 50c; packages of four to ten 40c; packages of over ten 35c.

PUBLICATIONS ISSUED AND FOR SALE

—) BY THE (—
Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church,
at their Publishing House in
LAMONI, DECATUR CO., IOWA,
And sent Free of Postage at prices named.

Holy Scriptures.

Inspired Translation by Joseph Smith the Prophet.
Sheep or Library binding..... 1 50
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges..... 2 00
Full Morocco, gilt edges..... 2 50
New Testament, inspired edition..... 75

Book of Mormon.

Roan, sprinkled edges..... 1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges..... 1 50
Full Morocco, gilt edges..... 1 75

Doctrine and Covenants.

Sprinkled Sheep, or Library..... 1 25
Imitation Morocco..... 1 50

The Saints' Harp—Hymn Book.

Imitation Morocco, marbled edges..... 1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges..... 1 50

Life of Joseph the Prophet, History of the Reorganized Church, and Autobiography of Joseph Smith.

In Cloth, full gilt finished, very handsome..... 2 25
This book contains 827 pages of large, clear reading matter; also, three very fine Steel Engravings, and a fac simile of the Autograph of Joseph the Prophet and Emma, and of Joseph Smith; also, Steel Engraving of Hy. um Smith. A complete history of the Church up to 1830.

Joseph Smith the Prophet, and His Progenitors.

Muslin Boards, 312 pages, by Lucy Smith..... 75
Leather Binding..... 1 00

Hesperis.

Poems by David H. Smith, 202 pages, fancy cloth, gilt edges..... 1 50

Rules of Order and Debate.

For all Deliberative Assemblies of the Church; also, a Chapter on Branch Rules, and one on Reports of Branches and Districts; 128 pages, limp cloth..... 40

Joseph the Seer.

His Prophetic Mission Vindicated, and the Divine Origin of the Book of Mormon Defended and Maintained. Paper covers 200 pages..... 35
This is a reply by Elder W. W. Blair to Elder William Sheldon of the Second Advent Society, and is an important work to be in the hands of the ministry of the Church, especially; and it is a most excellent one to be circulated both in the Church and among those without, abounding in proofs never before presented in defense of Joseph Smith and the Book of Mormon.

Voice of Warning.

And Instruction to all People, on the Doctrine and History of the Latter Day work; 128 pages
In Paper Covers, twelve for $1..... each 10
Limp Cloth Covers, each..... 25

Prophetic Truth.

Confirmed in the appearing of the Book of Mormon an Israelitish Record of a Fallen People; paper covers; five for $1..... each 25
Being the Subject of an Evening's Conversation Respecting its Origin. Its Divinity Proved by the Scriptures and Collateral Evidence. Prefaced with a Brief Sketch of the Life of the Prophet, showing the way and manner of his becoming possessed of the Record.

Branch Records.

Leather backs and corners, muslin sides; printed headings, and ruled for Record of Names, Blessing of Children, and for Marriages..... 2 00

District Records.

Printed and bound similar to Branch Records..... 3 00

Licences, Notices, &amp;c.

Elders, Priests, Teachers, and Deacons Licenses, each per dozen..... 12
Blank Preaching Notices, per hundred, 40c. and..... 50
Baptism and Confirmation Certificate books, with blank stub, 35 for..... 25

Certificates and Reports.

Branch Statistical Reports, per dozen..... 40
Annual Statistical Reports, two for..... 10
Certificate of Baptism and Membership, per dozen..... 12
Certificate of Removal, per dozen..... 12
Marriage Certificates, per dozen..... 25

"Manuscript Found."

We have for sale at this office the notorious "Manuscript Found," written by Rev. Solomon Spaulding, about which so much has been said in connection with the theory that it furnished Joseph Smith and Sidney Rigdon the chief ground work and material from which to write the Book of Mormon. Has 144 pages 8 mo.; single copies, in cloth, 25 cents; 10 copies or more to one address, 20 cents each; in paper, single copies 15 cents; 10 copies or more, to one address, 13 cents each.

Lamoni and Vicinity.

Those wishing to become acquainted with Lamoni and vicinity, will do well to subscribe for

THE LAMONI GAZETTE

A weekly paper, now published by

LAMBERT & HANSEN.

dec11ft

J. H. HANSEN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Will practice in Lamoni and vicinity; calls made at all hours. Office in Drug Store of Hansen & Walker, Lamoni

MIDWIFERY and DISEASES of WOMEN a Specialty

Residence one block East Teal's Store. 14febly

Money Orders.

Money Orders are much safer than Postal Notes when remitting to this office, and they cost but two cents more. Don't forget this, lest you lose money.

D. DANCER, Manager

"A BOOK FOR THE PEOPLE."

CAPTIVATING! USEFUL! Eloquent Discussions, and Diplomatic Papers on the Great Public Questions of the Past and Present, by JAMES G. BLAINE.

Embracing his masterly arguments on the vital issues in the Anti-Slavery Struggle, the All Important Labor Question, Prohibition, Irish Home-Rule, etc., etc. A FORTUNE FOR BOOK CANVASSERS! APPLICATIONS FOR TERRITORY COMING IN WITH A RUSH! THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING CO., NORWICH, CT.

WHEN YOU TRAVEL

Take the Line selected by the United States Government to carry the Fast Mail,—the

As it is the Line running Through Trains to and from the following cities and towns on its own Lines:

CHICAGO,
AURORA, OTTAWA,
STREATOR, ROCKFORD, DUBUQUE,
LA CROSSE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS,
MENDOTA, PEORIA, GALESBURG, ST. LOUIS,
QUINCY, KEOKUK, BURLINGTON, WASHINGTON,
OSKALOOSA, DES MOINES, CHARITON,
CRESTON, ST. JOSEPH, ATCHISON,
KANSAS CITY, NEBRASKA CITY,
OMAHA, COUNCIL BLUFFS,
LINCOLN & DENVER,

Making Direct Connections

TO AND FROM

NEW YORK,
BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON,
CINCINNATI, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON,
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISVILLE, SAN FRANCISCO,
LOS ANGELES, SALT LAKE CITY, COLORADO AND
PACIFIC COAST RESORTS, CITY OF MEXICO,
PORTLAND, OREGON, MANITOBA,
VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND
POINTS.

Good Equipment,
Good Service,
Good Connection.

For information concerning the Burlington Route, apply to the nearest Ticket Agent of the C., B. & Q. or connecting railroads.

HENRY B. STONE, PAUL MORTON,
General Manager, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Train Leaves Lamoni, Going East at 1:45 p.m.
Do. do. West 2:53 "

At Bethany Junction, 3 miles east of Lamoni
Trains pass going South at 3:07 a.m. Going
East and West, pass at 12:10 a.m.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEarken to the word of the Lord: for there shall not any man among you have save it be one wife, and concubines he shall have none."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.

"We believe that one man should have one wife, and one woman but one husband: except in case of death, when either is at liberty to marry again."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 34.—Whole No. 743.

Lamoni, Iowa, August 13, 1887.

No. 33.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,

Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

Business letters and subscriptions must be sent to David Dancer, by P.O. Order, Registered letter or express Entered as second class matter at Lamoni Post Office.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - - - EDITOR.
W. W. BLAIR - - - - - ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, August 13, 1887.

WHO WILL SUCCEED JOHN TAYLOR.

AS HAS been noticed in HERALD, John Taylor, the successor of Brigham Young in the presidency of the Mormon Church in Utah, is dead; the places which have known him upon earth will know him no more; his life, courses and character, acts and their motives, are now in the past; but his teaching and acts, and the consequences of both precept and example remain. And, while no one will be at war with John Taylor dead; the contest waged against the principles of which he was an advocate and defender, begun while he was living will not cease because he is dead—men die, principles for either good, or evil live. "The good which men do" may live after they die; so also does the evil which men originate or foster live after they die.

That the death of John Taylor will affect the conditions of the church over which he has presided for the past seven years, must be apparent. But how that church may be affected remains to be developed. The death of Joseph and Hyrum Smith affected the Church of Christ to a great and marked extent. So did the death of Brigham Young. We are of the opinion that as the change from Joseph and Hyrum to Brigham was disastrous, the change from Brigham Young to John Taylor was for the better; and if proper measures follow the death of John Taylor the change to the rule of his successor will be for the better still.

The HERALD has no disposition to deride the constancy of the people as a church, with which they cling to their faith, whatever that faith may be; nor will we deny the meed of praise for the devotion, self-sacrifice, earnestness and faithful industry with which the pioneers of the people in the valleys of Utah and their immediate successors have exhibited—these are almost beyond praise; but for the errors and wrong doing which have accompanied the work accomplished we have no fellowship, and can offer no condonement. These we have always complained of, and so far as Pres. John Taylor was responsible for those errors and the wrong doing that followed, so far will the consequences to his memory and those he left behind him continue.

One of the works of his ministerial career quoted to his credit is the fact that while conducting his mission to France, he held a discussion, with some clergymen at Boulonge-Sen-Mer, in which he substantially denied the existence of polygamy in the church in Utah; when at the same time he not only knew that it existed, but also knew himself to be in the actual practice of it. One of the things for which men revere the Almighty is that he can not lie. If men are to become like God or godlike, they also will not lie. No matter now what sophistry may attempt to make of this statement of John Taylor, at Boulonge, France, it was made with the intention to deceive those who heard it and did just what was intended by it.

Plural marriage, or polygamy was an error so grave and fatal that it has imposed untold wrong upon thousands in the church in Utah, and thousands more who are not there, some who have been and some who have never been there. It was fraudulently engrafted upon the church polity, was conceived in deceit and has been perpetuated by deceit. John Taylor lent himself and his influence to fasten it upon the people, and its consequences must lie partially at his door. It is now stated that one of his sons has said that John Taylor did not know that there had been action by the statehood convention, by which action a clause denouncing plural marriage as a misdemeanor, and prohibiting it, had been put into the proposed constitution; the inference being clear that his father would not have consented to such action had he known it. Whether this is correct or not, it is now stated that Mr. Taylor did conform to the letter of the Edmunds Act, putting the wives which he illegally held away, that as the leader of the church he might not be an occasion of offense to the government, thus endangering the peace and quiet of his people. Will his successor be as mindful of what is due in the character of the leader of a great people as this appears to make Mr. Taylor.

The Deseret News of June 29th contains as a leader a communication from George Q. Cannon and Joseph F. Smith, who were during John Taylor's presidency his counsellors, announcing his death. In this document occurs the following:

"By the miraculous power of God, President Taylor escaped the death which the assassins of Carthage Jail designed for him. His blood was then mingled with the blood of the martyred Prophet and Patriarch. He has stood since then as a living martyr for the truth. But to-day he occupies the place of a double martyr. PRESIDENT JOHN TAYLOR has been killed by the cruelty of officials who have, in this Territory, misrepresented the Government of the United States. There is no room to doubt that if he had been permitted to enjoy the comforts of home, the ministrations of his family, the exercise to which he had been accustomed, but of which he was deprived, he might have lived for many years yet. His blood stains the clothes of the men, who with insensate hate have offered rewards for his arrest and have hounded him to his grave. History will yet call their deeds by their right names; but One greater than the combined voices of all historians will yet pronounce their dreadful sentence."

Whatever others may think of this statement, to us it seems unfortunate that such intemperate language should have been written by the remaining counsellors to the dead president. The men who killed Joseph and Hyrum Smith at Carthage, July 27th, 1844, sought the life of Joseph Smith only; the killing of Hyrum Smith and the wounding of John Taylor were incidental and not designed. This is evidenced by the fact that as soon as it was known that Joseph was dead, the mob at once dispersed; no search was made in the jail to see who was hurt, or who left. Hyrum Smith was killed and John Taylor wounded because they were there and in the way at the time as obstacles preventing the killing of the man whose life was sought. Willard Richards a larger man than either of the others escaped without a wound; had he been in the way he would have been wounded, possibly killed. No shot was fired into the jail after Joseph fell from the window and was recognized, when those in the building at once left it to join with those outside, which shows that however providential John Taylor's escape may have been, it was not from a death designed for him, but for Joseph Smith alone.

With Utah seeking admission into the Union upon a so-called popular movement, in which polygamy, or plural marriage is declared to be a misdemeanor, George Q. Cannon and Joseph F. Smith presume to charge the death of John Taylor upon officers of the Government who were charged with the duty to see that offenders against United States law were brought to trial and punishment, because they essayed to discharge that duty. If Mr. Taylor had conformed to the law, there was no reason to fear punishment under it. It would have been as easy to have shown compliance with the act of Congress by which living in plural marriage was made a misdemeanor, by legitimate evidence to the satisfaction of the court, as it is now to confirm by the same evidence the statement made by others that he had lived in conformity with that act. The statement made by Messrs. Cannon and Smith charging Mr. Taylor's death upon United States officers who were in the ostensible discharge of the duties of their office, will place the applicants for statehood in a disadvantage for it will be hard to explain away. The Deseret News, and other Utah papers have italicised the charge, making it as emphatic, and designedly so. Had it been intended for Mormon readers alone, no such expression was needed; but, it was evidently written for the whole public and was marked purposely. It would have been much more to the credit of those men if the statement had been simply that the seclusion he had chosen had hastened his demise, by depriving him of the comforts and exercise he had been accustomed to. Pres. John Taylor, if a transgressor of the law, should no more be allowed to escape without punishment than any other man—indeed, propriety demands that the leaders of men should be examples to their flock in keeping the law.

Who will succeed him as president of the church in Utah? According to the precedent established by themselves, in choosing Brigham Young, and after him John Taylor, Wilford Woodruff is the next in succession, he being acting president of the Twelve at the death of John Taylor. But Mr. Woodruff is as old, or nearly so, as John Taylor, is by age incapacitated from assuming the office of president. This may be cured in the following way. Pres. Brigham Young before his death reorganized the then existing Quorum of Twelve, deposed Orson Hyde and installed John Taylor as president. Following this indication, Messrs. Cannon and Smith are stated now to be apostles, making thirteen in that body. It will be an easy matter to reorganize by deposing Wilford Woodruff and installing G. Q. Cannon, or Joseph F. Smith as president of the Twelve with a view to the presidency and the thing is done. Whether this will be done or not, who shall say; but either of the last named men is much better qualified, so far as appears, than is Wilford Woodruff, and perhaps has as good a claim to the popular will. Whatever may be determined upon, there are lions in the way, and the measures to be adopted will find opposition, more or less determined.

If the statement that young Mr. Taylor made that his father was ignorant of the movement for statehood is indicative that the church authorities were not cognizant of, nor favorable to that movement; except as Messrs. Cannon and Smith may have personally endorsed it, then there is a conflict between the political element and the ecclesiastical which may not be soon reconciled and may result favorably to the main good of the mass in the full abandonment of polygamy.

LAMONI—

WHY MADE THE BUSINESS CENTER OF THE CHURCH.

THE Reorganized Church from the first has desired that all might know of the Saints' doctrine and see their faith demonstrated by their works when living in strict conformity with that doctrine as set forth in their sacred books. The Saints knew their doctrine was pure and ennobling, a blessing to those who lived up to it, and through them a blessing to all others with whom they were in any way associated or connected. They wished to let their light shine in such way that others might be led to God the fountain of light, and therefore the minds of the leading elders were deeply moved as to how this end could be best attained. The name of Latter Day Saint was a reproach and a byword by reason of the repeated transgressions of many who bore that sacred title, and they longed to see that reproach removed as the Lord had promised them. Besides this, they were anxious that the individual members should have the best opportunities for securing their natural rights and blessings pertaining to this world—"life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." These and other church interests were urgent.

About 1868 much was being said by the first elders of the church in respect to locating a permanent business center for the church, and that, too, in some locality where lands were cheap, so as to give those who wished, the opportunity of settling there conveniently and on easy terms. At the fall conference of 1868, held at Galland's Grove, Iowa, President Joseph Smith said to the Bishop, I. L. Rogers, that he hoped the Lord would give him no rest till he had effected such location. From that time the Bishop, in connection with others, began investigating as to the best means by which to accomplish this end and to aid the worthy poor in procuring employment and in securing homes. It was finally decided that this could best be reached by organizing a joint stock company.

In the discussion of the ways and means to be used, also the various objections arising and likely to arise, President Joseph Smith presented the chief and various views touching the matter in the columns of the HERALD, March 1st and 15th, 1870, to which we invite the readers consideration. In closing his article he said: "Shall we suffer a golden opportunity to pass unimproved while we cavil about the title that we shall employ for the effort which we make? Shall we lose the substance by which we may grow, in vain contemplation of the shadow which our perfected growth shall cast? As we have before stated, we have no money to invest in the movement, nor do we anticipate taking any active personal part in its management, nor do we advise any man to impoverish himself to take stock in it; but we do anticipate that honest men—good men—true men, who love the cause of God on earth, who love the Saints, who love to see good done in every direction, will take hold of the matter, and employing their surplus money, property and energy, will combine themselves together for the mutual good of the church and themselves, under some name, and that it will be but one of many, until the land shall be full of them, and a city like Enoch's seen of old shall be but the central one of many, all rich in a happy, contented, energetic and peaceful population of Saints of our God and his Christ."

Preliminary meetings were held in 1870, and an organization known as "The First United Order of Enoch" was effected as one of the means by which these ends were to be reached, and its organization more fully perfected in the fall of 1870. In view of this, Bishop Rogers and others, in the HERALD for May 15th, 1870, gave notice to all concerned of what was contemplated, and said: "When the [seven] Commissioners shall be selected, a committee will be appointed to locate and purchase [lands]. When this is done the church will be made acquainted through the HERALD with what has been done. We feel assured that the committee will be directed in the search for a location by that Spirit which has charge of the affairs of God's people, and for this the prayers and the exercise of the faith of the Saints are desired."

At the first meeting of the stockholders, at Council Bluffs, Iowa, September 19th, 1870, a board of directors was chosen composed of Elijah Banta, Israel L. Rogers, David Dancer, David M. Gamet, Alexander McCord, Calvin A. Beebe and Phineas Cadwell. Elijah Banta was chosen president, D. Dancer vice-president, I. L. Rogers treasurer, and H. A. Stebbins secretary. E. Banta, D. Dancer, I. L. Rogers and P. Cadwell were appointed a committee to seek a suitable location for the purchase of lands for said company.

At a meeting of the board of directors held at the house of I. L. Rogers, near Sandwich, Illinois, April 4th, 1871, the committee on location reported through its chairman, E. Banta, that, after examining various parts of eastern Kansas, north-western Missouri and south-western Iowa, the town of Fayette, in the south-western corner of Decatur county, Iowa, was selected, and lands purchased there.

Brethren Rogers, Banta, and Dancer state that when they went into Kansas to examine and select lands, at Topeka they were provided with passes out to Abilene and the Turkey creek country, where they thought it probable they might locate. Feeling their need of divine guidance they sought it by secret, earnest prayer while at Junction City, which resulted in their minds being entirely changed, they being given to understand that they should not locate in Kansas. In this view all and each of them perfectly agreed. Brother Banta then remembered and related what Bro. E. Robinson told him some time previously, that when in Washington, D. C., he had an open vision, saw a large gathering of the Saints in the vicinity of the Iowa and Missouri line in the south-western part of Decatur county, Iowa, and in that region, and heard them singing the familiar hymn,

"Give us room that we may dwell!"
 Zion's children cry aloud:
 See their numbers—how they swell!
 How they gather, like a cloud!
 O how bright the morning seems!
 Brighter from so dark a night:
 Zion is like one that dreams,
 Filled with wonder and delight.
 Lo! thy sun goes down no more,
 God himself will be thy light:
 All that caused thee grief before,
 Buried lies in endless night.
 Zion, now arise and shine!
 Lo! thy light from heaven is come!
 These that crowd from far are thine;
 Give thy sons and daughters room."

—Saints' Harp, hymn 939.

After consulting freely over the fact of the marvellous and sudden change wrought upon their minds in answer to prayer, and also in regard to the vision of Bro. Robinson, they, after going out to see the country they had started for, returned and went to Nebraska City, Nebraska, stopped with Bro. R. C. Elvin, and attended Wednesday night prayer meeting. During this meeting Bro. Henry Kemp, with whom they then had little or no acquaintance, spoke in tongues and gave the interpretation thereof, the first part of which related to the soon coming of Christ, and then turning to these three strange brethren said in substance, as nearly as now remembered by Elders Banta, Rogers and Dancer, "Verily, thus saith the Lord unto you my servants, your prayers have been heard and answered, and if faithful you shall accomplish the desires of your hearts." These brethren state that, so far as they knew, Bro. Kemp knew nothing of the business they then had in hand. Of this circumstance Bro. Kemp wrote us of late:

"I will now give you, as near as I can, what the Spirit said to Brn. Rogers, Dancer, and Banta, at a branch prayer meeting held in the house of Bro. Nelson, Nebraska City. While singing hymn 1028, and coming to the latter clause of the second verse, which reads as follows:

"Let us should die when we behold him,
 For his glory's brighter than the sun;"

"the Spirit came upon me in mighty power and I sang the remainder of the hymn through in tongues. At the close of the singing I arose and spoke in tongues, and part of the interpretation was to those three brethren, telling them to be of good cheer, for notwithstanding their faith and patience had been severely tried, God would be with them, his almighty arm would protect them, and his holy Spirit would lead them to a place where his holy angels would work with them to the accomplishment of the desires of their hearts in righteousness and as a preparation to the bringing to pass the purposes and designs of God as spoken by the mouths of all the holy prophets since the world began relative to the building up and establishing of His Zion in the latter days; and that they (these brethren) should see the literal fulfillment of these words to their joy and full satisfaction.

I had never seen these brethren before that time, that I knew of, and I was almost, if not entirely ignorant of the work they had on hand.

"Yours in bonds,

"HENRY KEMP."

These brethren then proceeded on to Council Bluffs, and after this their mission began to be talked of some in public.

Hitherto it had been kept comparatively quiet. To further illustrate the kind of men this locating committee were, and to show they were faithful and that they sought God when they lacked wisdom, we mention this occurrence: At the fall conference of 1870, Elder Banta said to Bishop Rogers that he feared President Joseph Smith would call on him to preach on Sunday, and he did not wish to, and asked the Bishop to join him in prayer that he might not be called. To this the Bishop assented. At the close of the Sunday exercises President Smith remarked to the Bishop, apologizingly and regretfully, that he put Elder Banta down on his list to preach, but that the matter had entirely slipped his attention. The Bishop then explained what had occurred between Elder Banta and himself. After hearing this President Smith remarked, "It is all right."

The Order of Enoch proceeded to improve their lands, furnishing steady employment and homes to a goodly number. October 19th, 1874, a council composed of Presidents Joseph Smith and W. W. Blair, Bishop I. L. Rogers, President J. W. Briggs of the Twelve, and Elder E. Banta, President of the Order of Enoch, met at the house of Bro. I. L. Rogers, near Sandwich, Illinois. At this time it was unanimously resolved: "That the time is fully come for the gathering of the Saints into a more centralized condition; that the spiritual condition of the church is favorable to such gathering; also that we do now proceed to take active steps to effect such gathering and centralization."

It was further resolved: "That southern Iowa and northern Missouri be the region, more particularly, in which the Saints should be located; also that this contemplates the centralizing of the chief authorities of the church as early as practicable, in order to the more effectual work of the ministry and building up of the church of Christ; also that there is a necessity for a special site, and that it be located; and, that the southwestern part of Decatur county, Iowa, is the most suitable point, if subsequent events prove favorable; also that it is advisable that the press and publication establishment be located at the site above indicated as early as practicable; and further, that Bishop I. L. Rogers, D. Dancer and E. Banta be a committee to procure funds and locate said site."

In due time the town of Lamoni was located as said site, and in October, 1881, the Board of Publication removed the Herald Office to that place, where it now remains. As to the wisdom of the location, it will be time to judge by and by. Many unfriendly criticisms have been made upon it, and some surmises and statements uttered which have thrown suspicion and discredit on those engaged in making the location, both as to their motives and business sagacity, hindering or delaying the objects had in view. This is to be regretted and forgiven, though not so easily forgotten; for those who have been chief in effecting said location have in many ways proved their entire devotion to the Church of God, some of them giving largely and cheerfully of their substance, not only in securing the location, but in building it up, in aiding the poor in many ways, and in contributing to the church treasury and kindred laudable objects. Of these facts the HERALD editors have been cognizant all the way along and they feel to render "honor to whom honor is due," and at the same time do what is just to relieve these worthy workers from any supposed blame in the premises, and also relieve others from any fear or surmise that Lamoni was founded and made the business center of the church through impure motives or unworthy designs.

Lamoni is a quiet, healthful, pleasant town, situated in the midst of a rich farming country, settled by peaceable, intelligent, industrious inhabitants. It is a good place from whence to send the word of life through the press to all the world, and where the leading ministry are free, and can remain free from the excitement, friction, and entanglements of politics and industrial complications, etc., etc.

We hope to yet see Lamoni prominent in educational matters also.

GOOD BOOKS TO READ.

As a people we are enjoined to read good books, and we should improve every opportunity to secure and retain knowledge to be gained from reading.

There is laid upon our table a work written by Elder Samuel Fry Walker, entitled, "The Ruins Revisited—The World Story Retold," which we have perused with much pleasure. It is what its name purports, a revisiting of the ruins, and a gleaning from them of the wonderful dealings of God with man. It is written in an attractive style and is very readable and instructive. We commend it to the Saints, especially to the elders to whom it will furnish in compact form the digests of science respecting the world, in such a characteristic grouping as offers a strong vantage ground to the believer in revelation and God's "marvelous work and a wonder." It is a work about the size of the Huntley edition of Book of Mormon, or O. Pratt's work, and is sold for $1.25 per copy, postage prepaid. It will pay for itself in one reading. Address S. F. Walker, Lamoni, Iowa.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

THOSE elders intending to visit Nova Scotia soon should read Bro. J. W. Layton's letter in this issue.

Sister Maggie Archibald wishes us to announce that should any of the Saints be in attendance at the Soldiers re-union at Centerville, on September 14th and 15th, they can find the Saints by calling at Bro. George Angell's variety store, north side square. Any who may be pleased to call will be welcome.

The associate editor returned August 2d from a two week's trip to Nebraska City and McCaig's Grove, Nebraska. The extreme heat and busy times harvesting and haying prevented large attendance at the McCaig's grove meetings, but in Nebraska City the hot weather (some days 100° to 108° in the shade) did not prevent fair sized congregations at the nine meetings held there. The Saints felt enthusiastic—so also did the speaker—and profitable seasons were had.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Bro. George S. Greenwood writes from 41, North Street, Stafford, England, July 17th.

"The work of the Lord is moving forward in this country slowly; but, we believe surely. We are laboring for the triumph of truth, the removal of error, the establishment of the Church of Christ—and the glory of God. We think these worthy objects to be attained and hope to be successful. We are pleased with the tidings of prosperity on the land of America, and we always sustain our brethren of the ministry in our prayers, that God will bless the word to the salvation of the honest ones among men. Brethren pray for us. What grand advice, may we follow it, and receive answers of peace and joy."

Bro. J. H. Wight wrote at a late date: "Three baptized at Kingsley, Thursday, making seven this month." (July.)

Bro. James Whitehead, of Alton, Illinois, wrote Bro. D. Dancer, July 31st, that he was fast recovering from a spell of sickness. He had attended the late conference at St. Louis, Missouri, and says it was a profitable meeting. Bro. Whitehead says further:

"We are engaged in a great and glorious work. * * * There are stirring times ahead; but God will take care of his faithful children. I hope to visit Lamoni again, if it be the Father's will. * * * O my Father in heaven; let thy Spirit of light, truth and love rest upon thy children in Lamoni and fill their hearts with heavenly hope and joy for Jesus' sake who died for us. Amen."

Bro. A. Z. Rudd of Kingsley, Iowa, wrote July 31st:

"Bro. J. W. Wight has been with us and preached ten times to attentive congregations. On last Thursday he baptized three. Others are investigating, and one told me last night she was ready for baptism. I think there will be more soon."

Bro. M. T. Short wrote from Galesburg, Illinois, August 1st:

"I begin on new ground this eve in a Campbellite Chapel, seven miles due west of here. I baptized three fifteen miles east of here, in Truro branch, and left several at the door. I preached last evening in a school-house where last winter they turned the key on me. I killed the neighborhood with kindness, and they became disgusted with their own folly."

THE Times, of Chicago, Illinois, has the following concerning the funeral of John Taylor in the Tabernacle, at Salt Lake City:

"FUNERAL OF JOHN TAYLOR.

"Salt Lake, Utah, July 29th.—John Taylor was buried to-day. There was no excitement and the city was quiet. Large numbers viewed the corpse as it lay in the tabernacle, open to the public sight. The coffin was of pine, polished dress and fittings as Taylor had left directions. The speakers dwelt mainly on the certainty that Mormonism is God's work, bound to prevail and fill the earth in spite of the opposition of man. There was no apparent feeling in the remarks. Many people quit the building before the speaking finished. A son of Taylor's tried to tell the audience how his father had been deceived in the constitutional convention and did not know of the adoption of anti-polygamy; but the management of the programme declined to be interrupted, and the young man was forced to quit. The speaking lasted over two and a half hours. The procession was composed of about eighty-five vehicles, many being buggies and farm wagons. Not nearly so many attended nor was there so imposing a following to the cemetery as there was at the funeral of Brigham Young. Taylor was buried on the highest spot of the cemetery, beside a wife who died last winter, but both will be transferred to a granite vault to be built on the spot."

BRO. JOHN A. ROBINSON, of Peoria, Illinois, sends a Post Dispatch, St. Louis, for July 27th, containing the despatch from Salt Lake, announcing Pres. Taylor's death, a sketch of his life, and a correspondent's recollections of Apostle Taylor, while in Paris, translating the Book of Mormon, along with Elder Curtis E. Bolton, who was a French scholar. From the last name we quote the following, as corroborative of Mr. Taylor's denial of polygamy in 1850. The correspondent's name does not appear in the article.

"I was in their room where the work of translating was going on, a great deal, and it may be there I caught a hint of the polygamy feature in the Mormon religion. Wherever it was, that hint was the first intimation I had of it. This feature was kept out of sight and only the high ideal of the religion was preached. The missionaries painted glowing pictures of Utah—a land flowing with milk and honey—and of their communistic system of government. It seemed the Utopia we had dreamed of and the words 'brotherly love' were perpetually on the preachers' tongues. That made the religion very fascinating to those who were not securely tied to any other system. Among the Catholics of France the Mormons have never been able to make any headway, but among the liberals they made many converts. It was the idea of the manager of Propaganda to have me remain in France spreading their gospel. So I had been carefully guarded from knowing anything of the plurality of wives doctrine. They knew that was something which could not be preached. But when I got the hint I took it to Bolton. Is it true, I asked, that the church holds such a doctrine? He dallied with the question a while and then answered, 'No more infamous lie ever issued from the caverns of the damned.' I believed him, and my doubts were over for the time. Taylor came near spoiling me as a convert however."

NOTICE—"AUTUMN LEAVES."

WITH the issue of the HERALD for August 13th, we purpose sending out as a supplement thereto, a prospectus sheet of "AUTUMN LEAVES," showing the size of page and type intended to be used therein, also the object for which the magazine is gotten up, and the various departments which we shall endeavor to sustain. We ask the Saints, especially the parents, to give to the sermon of Dr. Talmage a careful reading, and when to this warning (which comes in thunder tones) we add the fact that the Spirit of God is moving upon the hearts of the Saints, to see, feel and contend against this deadly maelstrom which is yearly engulfing its thousands; we believe the need for and the entire ability of the church to sustain a publication for the youths of Zion, will be fully realized and acted upon.

M. WALKER.

Mothers' Home Column.

EDITED BY SISTER "FRANCES."

"Nothing fails of its end. Out of sight sinks the stone,
In the deep sea of time, but the circles sweep on,
Till the low-rippled murmurs along the shores run,
And the dark and dead waters leap glad in the sun."

THE GOSPEL ECHO.

True faith, producing love to God and man,
Say, Echo, is not this the gospel plan?

ECHO.—Gospel plan.

Must I my faith in Jesus constant show,
By doing good to all, both friend and foe?

ECHO.—Both friend and foe!

When men conspire to hate and treat me ill,
Must I return them good, and love them still?

ECHO.—Love them still.

If they my failings carelessly reveal,
Must I their faults as carefully conceal?

ECHO.—Carefully conceal.

But if my name and character they tear,
And cruel malice too, too plain appear;
And when I sorrow and affliction know,
They smile, and add unto my cup of woe;

Say, Echo, say, in such peculiar case,
Must I continue still to love and bless?

ECHO.—Still to love and bless!

Why, Echo, how is this? Thou'rt sure a dove:
Thy voice will leave me nothing else but love.

ECHO.—Nothing else but love!

Amen, with all my heart, then be it so;
And now to practice, I'll directly go.

ECHO.—Directly go!

This path be mine; and let who will reject,
My gracious God will surely me protect.

ECHO.—Surely me protect!

Henceforth on him I'll cast my every care,
And friends and foes, embrace them all in prayer.

ECHO.—Embrace them all in prayer.

Sel. by Sister S. A. Rose.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Sister Martha Burke, Farwell, Mich., writes:—"I am glad to know that God has revealed his will again to his Saints, giving them instructions, admonitions and warnings; and my determination is by the help of God to conform my life closer to the teachings of the gospel, for I realize it is high time to awake and arouse every faculty, as the great day draws near. I take this way of returning thanks to sister Eliza Dingle for late copies of the Herald, which I very much appreciate and pray God to recompense her kindness. I should be pleased to have her address."

Sister S. E. Bouton, Bouton, Iowa, writes:—"Brethren Ross and Thompson were here in May and preached three sermons on the first principles of the gospel. Sunday evening the school-house could not hold all that came. Quite a number of Catholics were present, and their priest having heard of the meeting, drove over from Perry, a distance of five miles, and sitting in his carriage outside, heard most of the sermon. It would be interesting to know how he dealt with his members. I have eight copies of the Voice of Warning loaned out most of the time, and have sold two. The longer I live the stronger my faith becomes in this work, and the dearer it is to me. Praise the Lord for his mercy and goodness!"

Sister Sarah J. Green, Los Angeles, Cal., writes:—"I am sorry to see the names lessen on the missionary list. I wish I could send dollars instead of pennies, for I feel it a privilege as well as a duty to help the missionary work to the extent of our ability. I wish I could see more names from California."

Sister Mary Pooler, Merced, Cal., writes:—"There is no branch of the church nearer than eighty-five miles of us. Myself, husband, and one little girl are all of our faith near here. I have four little ones, and it is my desire to so instruct them that they will love and serve their heavenly Father. I, with the rest of you, appreciate the Mother's Column, and shall be glad to see our Magazine started, and want to be among the first to get it."

Sister Ada S. Kelley, Indian River, Me. writes: "I am in full sympathy with you in the work you are doing. I am always thankful to God that I was blessed with a mother who taught me both by precept and example that motherhood was a great blessing, while it also brought grave responsibilities. One thought has been with me through all my life, that should I live to be a mother, never should a child of mine have reason to blush on account of any truthful accusation brought against me. Thus far I have been enabled by the help of God to live as I resolved I would and God has blessed me with four children. One he saw fit to take in infancy, the rest he has spared me. I am glad to see the church awaking to the wants of the youth, for we are much in need of wholesome reading. Please add my name to your list for "Autumn Leaves."

Sister Caroline Hidy, Collins, Iowa, writes:—"I find in the Home Column some of the best reading I have ever had. I am striving to be a saint indeed and to bring my children up to love God and his truth."

Sr. Clara J. Steele, Addison Point, Me. writes: "I was much pleased with an article in the "Column" entitled "Children in the Home." I have never been blessed with children of my own, but I have adopted a little boy and girl. They are a great comfort to me, and I pray God for grace and strength to bring them up in his fear. I wish my means were not so limited, I would help with all my heart to roll on God's work."

"Dollars and cents," dear sister, are a very small part of the help God requires at our hands, and when we do not have them to give, God will bless us for the intention, if we are honest before him, just as much as for the gift. Have you thought of this? Again, have you thought that if you faithfully and prayerfully train those little ones you have taken into your charge, that you are doing a work dollars and cents could never do. It is wrong, and a very grave mistake into which we are apt to fall, when we estimate the value of our services by the amount of means, (counted in dollars and cents), God has loaned us with which to serve him. We are not our own, but are bought with a price. This brings us under certain obligations to God, and has no reference whatever to houses or lands, silver or gold; but we are bound to glorify him in our bodies and our spirits which are his. Let it not grieve the heart of any Saint, poor in this world's goods, that they have not money to give, for it is the willing heart God requires. He does not need our money, but he will prove those who have it, that they may manifest before witnesses (in heaven if not on earth) whether they love God better than they love the perishable things he has loaned to them. Lift up your hearts ye poor and toiling ones of this earth. Unto you our heavenly Father has entrusted the carrying on of his work and his kingdom, just as much (if not more) than to those we call rich. The light which you are commanded to let shine, is intended to lead men to glorify your heavenly Father. Jesus said to the Jews, "God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham;" how much more then has he the ability to provide means for rolling forth his work. For a time he will prove men, but not always; for there is a limit even to God's patience.

Sister Sue J. Nelson, Nottingham, Pa., writes: "Until last October I was an unbeliever, if not an infidel. Many of my friends and relatives were professing Christians, but though they sought to influence me to go with them, their very inconsistencies drove me farther away, and I began to question whether there was any truth in religion. About this time Bro. Matthews came to visit us, and his conversation being mostly of the church and the gospel restored, both myself and husband became interested, studied, and were finally led to obey and rejoice in the gospel of the Son of God. Since we united with the church, three more have been baptized, and we are now five in number. After I united with the church I was sorely afflicted in my eyes, and for two months confined to a dark room, fearing that I should lose my sight entirely, but through the administration of the ordinance of God's house I was healed. God has greatly blessed me, and I feel that I can never thank him enough for his loving kindness to me. I praise him daily for sparing my life until I was brought to see the true and only way to Christ."

PROTON, Ont., July 16th.

Dear Sisters in Christ:—Some time ago there was a work spoken of in the Home Column, in bringing about the redemption of Zion, and in preparing for the second coming of Christ, that those who were now boys and girls in the church would do. When I read it the Spirit of God rested upon me so strongly that I burst into tears and praised God. In thinking of it afterwards these thoughts passed through my mind. If there is a work to be done in our day, and we are to be the instruments in the hand of God of helping it along, how shall we do so? Shall we go blindly on seeking what satisfies us for the passing moments, or shall we rather be prepared beforehand, that we may be enabled to stand the trials that shall try every child of God, and stand firm in our duty in the darkest hour? for with such service God is well pleased, and not with lukewarmness. For such as are lukewarm he has declared he will spew out of his mouth; therefore we must perform our present duty, for we shall never have anything but present duty. Our minds must be stored with useful knowledge and wisdom, yielding obedience to those having authority over us; for if we love not our parents, whom we have seen, how can we love God whom we have not seen? and if we love them we will keep their "commands." Vanity and pride must be subdued, for the word says, "Pride goeth before destruction and a haughty spirit before a fall." We desire to rise higher and not to be abased; then let us try the recipe which Jesus gave—humility.

In speaking of vanity, I would ask a question that each must answer for herself, whether we or our mothers are the most prone to wander in the giddy vanities of fashion and style? I think we are. If so, how can we expect to improve on those who have gone before us if we make such a bad start. Surely if God had to instruct the elders at the late conference, to "let their garments be of a sober character, and free from excess of ornamentation," how much more would the sisters need such counsel, especially we younger ones. I hope none will think I am clearing myself of this, for I am sorry to say my vanity often gets ahead of my reason. I believe if we would try for one year to do without all unnecessary trimmings, &c., and give the money that would be thus spent for the spread of the gospel, we would be more thoughtful on this subject in the future, and would experience more pleasure in doing so than in wearing finery.

This spring I wanted to subscribe for the "Autumn Leaves," and, not wishing to impose on good nature, I did not ask mother for the money but determined to save it off my clothes. Since then I have saved three dollars and forty-four cents from cloth, trimming, and dressmaking. This shall go for gospel work, and I expect to have pleasure in wearing my plain dress, knowing that the extras have gone for a better purpose. Some may say, "We would be laughed at." By whom? Probably by those who laughed when we got baptized, and if they do laugh it is to their own shame, not to ours.

Is there a Saint in whose bosom does not arise a desire to live till Christ comes? And who does not feel to say, "Is there no way to prolong my days?" I think there is. On page two hundred and forty-five, Doctrine and Covenants, God says in speaking of the Word of Wisdom: "And all Saints who remember to keep and do these sayings, walking in obedience to the commandments shall receive health * * * and shall find wisdom and great treasures of knowledge; even hidden treasures, and shall run and not be weary, and shall walk and not faint; and I, the Lord, give unto them a promise that the destroying angel shall pass by them, as the children of Israel, and not slay them." Is there not a promise of lengthened life here, on condition that we keep the Word of Wisdom and the commandments of God. And we know if we be spared long enough we shall "be alive and remain" when Jesus comes. Is it not worth trying?

Praying that God may bless you all, and hoping in weakness to be made strong, I remain your sister in Christ,

MAGGIE CAMPBELL.

CLARKSDALE, Mo.

Dear Sister France:—Since last writing to the "Column," I have been trying to labor faithfully in the Master's cause; feeding "the lambs" entrusted to my care; toiling with my hands for their comfort and needs, often finding myself "careful and cumbered about many things," then striving not to forget, "the better part." I have been blessed with many precious blessings from the hand of our heavenly Father.

The "Column" is still dear to me. I derive much comfort and good instruction therefrom. May God bless every one that labors in its interest, is my prayer, that it may be one of "the helps" in the church. At no time since coming into "the fold" have I rejoiced in the work so much as I have in the last six months, and have likewise felt the great necessity of laboring. Yes, dear sisters and mothers, we should ever strive by example and teaching, to prove worthy of the high calling whereunto we are called. We, as Saints, have much to encourage and strengthen us. The news from the late conference is soul cheering. Methinks the elders who have gone upon their missions are rejoicing in spirit, and will come in "richly laden with sheaves." Happy are those giving heed to the instructions and council of the Master as given through our beloved president and prophet, and are profited thereby, for we should not be "hearers only of the word, but doers of the same."

When last I wrote you, sister Frances, we had closed our Sunday school for the winter. I am happy to inform you now, that we have organized it again with a greater degree of interest; and now every Sunday morning, the Lord willing, 9:30 o'clock, will find me there with a sweet infant of five months old, on my lap, and ten or twelve older ones sitting in front of me, teaching them "the plan of salvation," striving to beget within them that love for the Father and Son that they will keep their commandments.

Dear sisters, there is a work for us all to perform. We can not afford to be idle now, in this time, especially when the coming of our Savior is at the door. By the giving in of our tithes, offerings, and mites, and in numerous other ways can we help to forward the cause we love. Right here permit me to say, Sisters, let us be just stewards over what God has blessed us with; let us not rob Him, but try Him. We have always found Him faithful to His promise in all other respects, why should we doubt Him in this.

Lest I should weary your patience in reading this long letter, I now bid you a kindly adieu, hoping to visit you again, that by so doing, I may cheer some lonely one, or impart some thought that will draw even one nearer to God. In this I shall be content with having done even the least particle of good.

Your sister in the bonds of the gospel,
MARGARET J. HEAD.

LOGAN, IOWA, June 3d.

Dear Sisters of the Home Column.—Seeing the reference in sister H's letter to the saint-like, manner of the nuns of St. John's Convent, reminds me of some of the Catholic, Methodist and Quaker saints whom I have known, whose works do testify that they have the love of God and humanity shed abroad in their hearts, and whose lives show that they have lived up to the light they have received, and that they are more worthy of the name of saint perhaps than some of us who have taken the name upon us. I pray God to help me to accept and emulate whatsoever is good and true, wherever found and amongst people of whatsoever name or nation. Although I have not for these Christians "tried and true, the feeling of kinship which I have for my brothers and sisters of the one faith." Still I must ever love them, and I have always believed there is a sure reward waiting for them where the many mansions are. This subject was made more plain to me recently than ever before, through hearing a sermon preached by a brother on the subject of the judgment; "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of one of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

Dear sisters, let me ask you to teach the little children to be kind to animals. I believe we will be held responsible for our treatment of the poor dumb animals, many of whom have been taken by man from a state of freedom, removed from their native country, and reared in "durance vile" for many generations. They thus depend for food and drink and everything needful for their comfort upon their owners, and to my mind nothing is a surer index to evil in the "true inwardness" of the heart, than cruelty to these creatures of God's own handiwork.

There seems to be quite a feeling among the sisters on the subject of dress, and I would like to hear more express their opinions. Of course it is the pride and envy, and not the dress that does the real harm; and I fancy that these may be exhibited in calico and cheap ribbons as well in velvet and silks. However, this matter of dress must be settled by wiser heads than mine. But as long as I can wear my plain, cheap clothing, and not be envious of my more richly dressed sister, and not be snubbed by her, I shall be content; while if she can wear her "purple and fine linen" and still feel that we are sisters indeed, of one household, I shall not think her sin unpardonable.

Take the dear children out into the wild woods, and show them the beautiful ferns and wild flowers, and the many forms of loveliness and grace that adorn our forests at this season of the year, and thus teach them to love nature and nature's God, for he who careth for the flowers will much more care for us.

Dear sisters, pray for me, that I may have grace given me, day by day, to meet the every-day duties and to conquer the every-day difficulties, for this is what I need sorely.

From your unworthy sister,
R. YOCOM.

HOME COLUMN MISSIONARY FUND.

Sr. L. M. Judson, Lamoni, Iowa.....	30
Sr. Sarah Hanson, Glen'ale, Oregon ...	35
Sr. G. Warnsley, Dayton, Nevada.....	1 00
Sr. Naomi, Ohio.....	1 00
Sr. Maggie, San Run, Ohio.....	1 00
Sr. M. A. Mathews, San Bernardino, Cal. .	1 00
A sister, Lamoni, Iowa.....	42
Sr. Maggie Archibald, Centerville, Iowa...	25
Sr. L. L. Thomas, Des Moines, Iowa.....	44
Sr. Eliza J. Mantle, Linn, Missouri.....	50
Sr. A. Agenstine, Omaha, Nebraska.....	1 00
Sr. E. Agenstine, Omaha, Nebraska.....	1 00

ERRATA.—In Home Column of Herald, July 23d, money credited to Sr. Cora Cunningham, Tenants Harbor, Maine, should have been credited to Sr. Cora E. Cunningham, West Surrey, Maine.

LAMONI, IOWA, August 4th.

Correspondence.

KIRTLAND, O., July 30th.

Editors of the Herald.—The usual quiet and good will prevails with us here. Excellent crops and a general outlook of plenty brings cheer and contentment to industrious hands. Some feign, at least, to be thankful; others are reckless. There is enough of the strange and new to break the monotony of life and cause occasionally the turning over of a new picture leaf to attract and absorb the attention, making life not only tolerable, but a pleasure even in this village stake of Zion. Human nature has not changed greatly, however, since Paul preached to the strangers and natives of Athens where each delighted "to tell, or hear some new thing." Neither are people prone to follow in the old devotional paths more than then.

The usual summer travel from the city, by the opulent, to and from watering places and cool and airy heights, in quest of wholesome air, shade, scenery and comfort, are renewed, and frequent calls are made at the Temple by both the curious and the thoughtful in order to gather some item of the habits and faith of the Saints; hence the distribution of tracts and free talks are among first duties just now. Yesterday a good audience greeted us at the Temple, and brother R. S. Salyards entertained them with the apostacy and restoration in a striking good way. But that which bid fair to be the great sensation of the season, not to say a very important and breezy affair, was the visit of the Rev. Mr. M. T. Lamb, of Salt Lake City, to our village to lecture in the Baptist Church against the Book of Mormon. He had been so lionized by the press in some quarters that we scarcely expected to see an ordinary mortal, but something, to say the least, akin to the giant tribe in some of his developments. Suddenly, and all at once as if by magic he appeared in our village unheralded, and with scarcely a note of warning he popped into our business department and introduced himself to the writer. Not a fortnight before, his great analysis of the Book of Mormon and expose of the faith of the Saints, chanced to fall into our hands, and we had just done giving it a hurried reading; so that nothing could have been more gratifying just then than to have the Rev. Lamb present himself in person. We were favored! He received a friendly greeting; and when seated and his large hat removed which he wears perpendicularly erect in line with his spinal column, and the veritable Lamb was before us sitting cross legged in all of his formidableness. Gratifying! and not a cent to pay!! He is of small form, habilitated in black, has dark hair and darkish brown whiskers, greenish gray eyes which dance and twitch and twinkle as if in doubt as to whether the battle would be for, or against him. He carries with him a kind of ministerial impressiveness and consequential mien that indicate that he is quite persuaded that he has either struck luck or is about to do so. He has a plump little forehead that shows something of the theological drill, is large in the regions of acquisitiveness and secretiveness and in expression and type is a Baptist preacher. Is one by profession, also. For a sample to illustrate, in type and temperament he resembles more than any other that I can now recall, Elder James Brighthouse of Salt Lake City and Chicago fame, though not so large a form. His adaptability and native cunning will allow him to wear an air of great earnestness and affected piety, while his acquisitiveness is keenly excited all the time and he means gain and mischief. One of his admirers, "J. Walker Jackson, D. D." says "He is tremendously in earnest and knows what he is about and how to accomplish it." But this "tremendous" character is cowardly and is afraid to undertake to defend what he says. He stays out of harm's way until safely ensconced behind some illiberal pulpit where groans and assents are the order—and then dapper-like darts at his prey—shoots his little dirty wads, largely prepared by others—at the Saints and then skips. Such is the "tremendous" character put forth by a host of backers, whose names sparkle with high sounding titles of distinction, to undermine and destroy the faith of the Saints in the Book of Mormon. He talks flippantly. Said that he was "frank of speech and greatly in earnest." "My heart," said he, (which by the way can not be very large), is in it."

We answered that we were pleased to meet men of that stamp; that we were a plain and frank people, advocates of what we believe to be right. Believing in a free pulpit we would do what we could to get him an audience. That this was the old historic ground of the Saints, where doubtful questions and opinions were settled, and it would be necessary if he attacked our faith here to stand by what he said. "I never debate," said he. "I never held a debate in my life. I offered to debate once with the Bishop of Ogden, but it did not go off." We repeated that if he attacked the Book of Mormon here it would be necessary for him to defend his position. He replied, "I have been challenged two or three times by your people, but I did not accept it. A Mr. Roth, out in Iowa, followed me around to a number of my lectures (here he laughed) so that he could have known it about as well as I did, as I delivered the same lecture wherever I went. Have you read my book. All I know is in my book. I could not say more in debate. I want them to answer my book." He seems to have great faith that his book can not be answered. The truth is the Rev. Mr. Lamb seems to be more of an echo, or stool pigeon, pushed to the front and operated by a galaxy of colossal spirits in the background, who furnished thought, criticism and material for his book, and are lying back to catch the chestnuts as they roll out of the fire, but who don't care to risk their reputations out to the front where the defenders of the faith may have a chance to show them up other than as backers to his book.

Read page fourteen of his book and there are enough Doctors, Doctors of Divinity and Reverends, with an ex-Governor, to daze a man at first sight who is not accustomed to such a display of artillery; and this is all arrayed against the faith of the Saints. It reminds one of the old Jewish Sanhedrin, fulminating decrees and stirring up the people against Christ. They feign great candor and manifest so great a concern for the well being of the Saints, are so clever, and sweet, and good, and so much interested in their conversion and deliverance from delusion (?) that one is forcibly reminded of the scene in the wilderness, the devil contending with Christ with flatteries and falsehood in order to seduce him from the truth. It takes but a breath to blow this sheep's coat aside, when the long hair of the opposing old goat appears, revealing the true inwardness of all this gush, sweetness, and martyr-like spirit exhibited towards the Saints, in order to decoy them from the faith. They are not content at correcting the evils of Utah—polygamy and opposition to the Government—and the making of the Mormons an orderly, virtuous and law-abiding people, but they must strike at the foundation of the faith of a loyal and virtuous people,—the Book of Mormon. The methods of the infidel's attack on the Bible is employed with avidity, the aim seeming to be, anything to beat the Book of Mormon. They owe it an old grudge. It has stood for years in the way of their cupidity, and a rebuke to their creeds and unbelief, and it will continue to stand.

The Rev. Lamb is the first and only person, whom we remember, that pretended to know anything of proprieties, who did not remove his hat on entering the principal rooms when being shown through the temple. But this immaculate

Lamb stalked about like an untutored and irreverent savage, and could not deign to remove that "stupendous" paper box out of respect to the sanctuary of God. No, it is where other people worship, is not a Baptist shrine; hence unworthy of respect. I wonder how long it will be before the Rev. Lamb will preach "There are Christians in all denominations. Doctrine and minor points avail nothing. If you are sincere and have Christ in the heart you are on the way way to glory. It won't be asked in the final day what denomination do you belong to, but is your wheat good."

In the evening he addressed a small audience (mostly Saints) in the Baptist Church. He introduced by saying that he did not expect to lecture when he came over to Kirtland; that he came to "see the place" and see what he could "pick up," &c. He forgot that he told a member during the day that he sent word over by Rev. Buel (another Baptist preacher) that he would lecture that evening. But little deflections like that are nothing with one who is the incarnation of "candor and piety," and whose very soul groans and agonizes when contemplating the absurdities and fables (?) upon which the Saints' faith rests. His lecture was a rehash of what is in his book; nothing added. Here are some of the leading points. "Two years ago I announced a lecture in Salt Lake City, on the Book of Mormon, and invited my Mormon friends to attend. I told them that I would treat them fairly. When the time arrived the house was packed with people to hear. I gave four lectures. I expected they would be the last I would deliver. My friend, Governor Murray, and others, requested their publication. I have gone into this investigation, I believe, honestly. I read the Book of Mormon with the intention of believing it if true. When Mr. Smith found the plates he found with them the Urim and Thummim, and found a seer stone otherwise. When he used the seer stone he put it in his hat. The translation is not Mr. Smith's, but the angel's. There can be no fault in the translation of the Book of Mormon, as there is in the Bible, as it was translated by fallible man. It is a high claim. Mr. Smith's peculiarities can not appear in the book as the translation appeared miraculously. But I found on reading the Book of Mormon that it is full of mistakes. It contradicts itself—for gets itself." All of this as a basis upon which to predicate a criticism. Here he plumed himself with the, "I have been a student of the Bible ever since I was a boy. God impresses himself on all that he does. When he writes history it receives his impression—is concise and consistent. God put more in one page in the Bible than a man can put in ten pages. I defy any writer to put in ten pages what Paul put in one." Big Injun!

"I began to study the Book of Mormon to see if these peculiarities and characteristics were in it; but the Book of Mormon is full of circumlocution and verbosity in its statements. The Book of Mormon says the Lord Jesus appeared upon this continent after his crucifixion at Jerusalem and remained forty days. He is made to say a great many things originally here. You compare what he said here with what he said at Jerusalem, and there is a wonderful difference. The Book of Mormon says his name was 'Christ,' but it was Jesus." There! where is our "Christian Church" now? "The Book of Mormon is full of ridiculous statements; it contains ridiculous miracles. Four or five miracles put together in order to beat the Bible. All of its prophecies are put in the language of their fulfillment and taken from King James' translation of the Bible. The manner of building the barges and the ridiculous plight in which it placed the Lord is what struck me. The length thereof and the height thereof—imagine an angel reciting that!"

Mr. Lamb is wondrously sweet on the Bible. It is all perfection in language and sentiment with this cunning and captious critic of the Book of Mormon. Let him try a little of his own medicine and he will be better able to see himself as others see him. Exodus 25: 23. "Thou shalt also make a table of shittim-wood: two cubits shall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the length thereof." Verse 29:—"And thou shalt make the dishes thereof, and the spoons thereof, and covers thereof, and bowls thereof." Imagine the Almighty reciting this, just as a set off. In the light of this comparison, to a bible believer, what becomes of the Rev. Lamb's criticism on the Book of Mormon that "struck" him so hard! It sounds more like "gush" and "flapdoodle" than a sensible criticism from a conscientious man. But it reveals the inwardness of the plot to blacken the Book of Mormon. Yet Mr. Lamb poses before the world as the personification of candor and piety, agonizing and weeping over the "fables," as he calls them, in the Book of Mormon, and the absurdities of the Saints' religion. But he goes on, "The Lord forgot ventilation and light until the brother of Jared told him about it." "Why did he not tell it all to him at once?" If an avowed infidel had made the criticism, there might have been some palliation for it, but for a professed Bible believer to make it is rather pharisaical. Does not God know all of the wants of men? and yet he will be enquired after. "I will give you line upon line." "Ask and you shall receive." When the brother of Jared had done or completed the barges he stated it to the Lord and presented the fact before Him that there was no provision made for air or light. Was this extraordinary? One of the most familiar statements to be found in the Bible is, "The Lord said unto Moses." God did not tell it all to him at once, but as He deemed it wise; and Moses was frequently left to make mention and urge the necessities of the case before the Lord. Out of scores of samples that might be cited take Exodus 19: 20, 32. In the first instance Moses is made to go up unto God and return His message to the people repeatedly; not all of once, but a part at a time. Moses went as far as to tell the Lord, "The people can not come up to Mount Sinai." I wonder if the Lord did not know it? In chapter thirty-two the Lord said to Moses, "Let me alone." He proposed to "consume" the "stiffnecked" Israelites. But Moses did not let him alone; but went on and told the Lord what great things He had done in bringing them out of Egypt; what the Egyptians would say if He "consumed" them; refreshed His memory about what He had said to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and his speech had a palliating effect upon the Lord, and the Lord changed his mind and did not "consume" them. Did not the Lord know what the Egyptians would say, what miracles He had done and what He had said to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, before Moses told him? Did he, Mr. Lamb? If he did, then what become of your smart criticism on the Book of Mormon. You turn one face to the Bible and another to the Book of Mormon in order to pick flaws.

Again, Numbers 14th: "And the Lord said unto Moses, How long will this people provoke me?" Did not the Lord know? The Lord was provoked, and he proposed to send a "pestilence" upon them and "disinherit them;" but Moses reminded the Lord again that the Egyptians would "hear it," that they would "tell it," and that it would be said it is "because the Lord is not able to bring this people into the land which he swore unto them." Upon hearing this the Lord changed his purpose and proposed a new expedient:—All of the old Israelites' "carcasses" shall fall "in the wilderness." What a feast the Rev. Lamb et al would have had did the above references occur in the Book of Mormon instead of in the Bible!

But he continues: "How did the Jaredites manage for water while crossing the ocean? Who pushed the barges from the shore when they were ready to start?"

Note; the men who make these criticisms pretend to believe in God, miracles, and the Bible. They self pose before us as men of "candor" and "fairness." Who, we ask, shut the door when Noah entered the ark? Who furnished water for the inmates? Mr. Lamb would answer "God." "Miracle!" Could not that same God start the barges from the shore out upon the water?

But I did not intend to reply to this lecture at this writing, but simply to give some of the main items presented, and the bent of this "tremendous" person who has set out to demolish the Book of Mormon. His book will be answered at another time, and of course the points presented in his lecture here.

He exhibited a fac simile of some of the characters taken by Martin Harris to Professor Anthon in contrast with those photographed by Catherwood and Stephens from ancient ruins in central America. "They don't resemble," said Mr. Lamb. But who said they did? He went on: "There is a figure 4 with a little addition. A "modern † fell down." "There is one that resembles a modern rake," &c., &c. He went on: "The Nephites could not have had the domestic animals they claim. The horse was destroyed in the glacial period. The people of this continent knew nothing of iron. Modern research in Babylon, Egypt and Palestine confirms the Bible, but nothing confirms the Book of Mormon. It is a fiction."

Done, and he dismissed the audience before even sitting down. By permission we obtained the floor, but could not chafe him into a disposition to undertake to stand by what he had said. Said that a contribution had been made and he was going to distribute fifteen hundred of his books in Utah. Of course had much to do! His book is well written, and has in it method and purpose. Arch cunning and acuteness are exhibited upon every page. The writer wearing a Christian garb and plying an infidel knife. Written, revised, and doctored by men of skill and acumen, the Rev. G. W. Hervy, D. D., giving to it the "cockspin," it is a formidable enemy to the truth. Where facts fail them, ingenious turn and dogmatic assertion are adroitly used with effect. It will impress favorably the casual reader. Prejudiced persons and haters of the faith will adhere to it as a sweet morsel. Those who think and sift matters in search for truth, and who look on all sides will discover its weakness and will be disappointed and disgusted the more they read and glean out the real facts from the rubbish. It is the intrepid master stroke of a phalanx of erudites to dethrone the Book of Mormon. But they will fail.

WM. H. KELLEY.

PORT GREVILLE, Nova Scotia, July 24th.

Bro. Dancer:—We would be very lonely down here without the Herald as it brings to us such joyful news of the gospel's renewing power; and our hearts often beat faster when we read of the work being done for the Master in so many places, and we long to do something to advance his cause and kingdom in this part of his vineyard. We are watching every Herald to see if there is any word in them of the whereabouts of the elders that are coming to visit Nova Scotia this summer. We hope they are on the way now, as this time of the year is the pleasantest here. We are doing all we can in the way of distributing books and papers, and occasionally talk some, and are in hopes by this means to have a good hearing for the elders when they come.

Yours for the truth,

JOHN W. LAYTON.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., July 25th.

Brother W. W. Blair:—We announced to the people of this place, through the medium of the press and otherwise, that we would hold a public prayer, testimony and song service in the G. A. R. Hall which we fulfilled last evening, with over fifty persons present, including the Saints. Brother C. A. Coombs and myself had the meeting in charge and we tried to be directed by the ever blessed Spirit of God. A number that had never attended our services before, expressed themselves pleased with what they saw and heard, and I trust it was to our Father's honor and our edification. The Saints here were encouraged by the presence of Saints from Providence, R. I., they assisting us by their prayers and testimonies.

A lady from Pawtucket (Mrs. Alice Kay) has been convinced of the truth and power of the gospel while on a visit here to friends and members of the church. She is a lady of fine character and I commend her to the favorable notice of all the Saints that she may chance to meet.

Brother John Smith, of New Bedford, preached to us the 17th inst., and his words were as those "fitly spoken," and we shall try to treasure them up in our minds for present and future use.

The same thing that was true, according to Paul's testimony, to the Roman Saints, is true of the people of the Lord here; they are "given to hospitality." Some of them have obeyed the law of tithing and others will; they have generously provided money and food to the traveling ministry. This I know by experience, having myself enjoyed their deeds of kindness, for which the Lord will repay, if we can not.

The recent two days meeting at Little Compton, R. I., was well attended and was a source of spiritual profit to many. Elders E. C. Briggs, M. H. Bond, and John Gilbert, all preached interesting discourses. The sail to and from Compton, via. Seacounnet River was delightful, and the beautiful landscape scenery added to the pleasure of trip and visit. The reports that come through the Herald of this glorious work everywhere are of an extremely encouraging nature and the prospect of the work here in Attleboro is brighter, and may it ever be thus.

ARTHUR B. PIERCE.

WEIR, Kansas, July 28th.

Bro. Blair:—Since last I wrote we have still continued the warfare in this part of the vineyard. It has been fought over so often that it is a hard battle ground. If I could leave home, I would much rather go into new fields in order to obtain converts; however, eight have been baptized here this summer and many others are interested. Here every inch of the ground is contested.

The 16th inst. I began a debate in Webb City, Missouri, upon the Sabbath question, the gentleman wanting me to stay at least a week in order to establish his cause. The fourth evening he thought it unwise to remain longer, pulled down tent and left the next day. I preached some there afterwards. I think some good will result. Last Sunday had a day from eleven a. m. until six p. m., with assistance of Bro. Jasper Richards, with a Disciple minister. It was brought on by me going to hear him preach before that, and taking his place by his request he following me, and being worsted, announcing a continuance of the subject, "The One Baptism." I think many saw the truth. He is to be there next Sunday to show from books about the Mormons—I shall try to be there. I went Sunday night by special request, to hear a great Baptist set up the kingdom, from Daniel 2:44, and prove its continuance as the Baptist Church from Matt. 16:18; inviting friendly discussion. When, by permission, I endeavored to reconcile the apparent incongruity of his texts with Dan. 2:44; 7:21, and Rev. 12th and 13th, he became very angry, talked about "Joe Smith, &c. I have sent him propositions for his consideration that his friends may know if he is a man of his word or not. I take up the same subject there in two weeks. The young brethren are assisting manfully; Brn. Evan Davis and Ed. Wheeler holding the fort at Maplewood, where I first went, west of Cherokee, in the Christian stronghold; having crowded houses. The saying is, "Old Crawley has come back to trouble us again. And that is not the worst of it, he has brought a lot of his boys and they are so well trained that they are worse than he." They go there again next Sunday. Bro. Warren Peak has gone to Galesburgh and Webb City, Missouri; when he returns he will go west with us; also, young John A. Davis. Bro. John T. has been out west for some time amongst the Bickertonites, as you will hear from him no doubt. I have accepted a challenge from the presiding elder of the Disciples in this part to discuss from propositions, at the Jones school house, three miles north-east of Cherokee, beginning August 23d nine a. m. 1st. Spiritual gifts. 2d. Laying on of hands. 3d. Setting up the kingdom, Dan. 2:44. 4th. Book of Mormon. I began an eight evenings' debate with the same man ten years ago and he quit the third evening. I think he will pursue Braden's course in the last proposition.

Since reading of your large millet, near Lamoni, when walking through mine meeting above my head, I brought a bunch and measured it, the longest being seven feet, ten and a half inches length of longest head, eight inches in circumference. A great many of them weighing a pound,—that is collectively. The bunch now hangs on the front gate post attracting much attention. Prospect for corn very good.

Have loaned out all my Voice of Warning, and distributed all the tracts sent me and many more wanting to read. Truly, as I told our Baptist minister, the "little stone" is on the aggressive movement. May our kind Father speed its progress, is the prayer of your co-laborer in gospel bonds.
D. S. CRAWLEY.

CLITHERALL, Minn., July 24th.

Bro. Joseph:—Myself and wife came into the church about one month ago, and I testify that I never enjoyed the Spirit of the Lord so much in my life as I have since I joined the Reorganized church. My wife says the same. We were once members in Alpheus Cutler's church, but we have been at a stand still for years; until at last we began to see the necessity of doing something to save ourselves, as well as to try and help save our children; for they are quite large now, some of them and not inclined to be very religious as yet. I had a dream soon after coming into the church. I dreamed that we were at Battle Lake, (a little town a short distance from here), holding a meeting, and Bro. J. C. Foss was preaching. I thought there were quite a number of the Latter Day Saints there as well as a number of outsiders. All at once a Norwegian man said that he had had a vision and wished to unite with the church; he then fell to the floor. Bro. Foss said, we will test his vision, and see whether it be of God or not. Bro. Foss then called upon Bro. J. R. Anderson to anoint the man's breast with oil, and he did so and prayed to know in regard to the matter. Bro. Foss then said, It is not a true vision. This man has sought to deceive the church. The dream then changed, and it seemed that we were here in the meeting house at Old Clitherall. There were a good number of the Latter Day Saints there, and the most of the people of Old Clitherall. I don't remember as we were talking about anything in particular, but all at once Bro. Joseph appeared in the room, and I thought I knew him as soon as he entered the room. Some of the Clitherall people knew him and some did not. I thought Joseph said: "You perceive that I am not finely dressed, and I am very footsore and weary." He had a very pleasant smile on his countenance. He said: "I am on my way home from a mission north. I did not intend to come here, but the Spirit said, Come, there were honest souls here that would yet be gathered out." He then spoke and said, "I perceive some of you do not know me." I then noticed that he had a cap on his head and upon the right side were three letters in gold and they were to represent the words, "Hear ye Him." He then passed out of the room and I followed him, and we went on to a little rise of ground and seemed to be standing alone. Bro. Joseph then put his hand upon my shoulder and said, "Bro. Alonzo, the time has now come for you to behold an angel." I said, "I am not worthy." He turned me around and told me to look to the east. I looked and beheld nothing; but felt a change coming over my body. He then turned me around so that I looked to the west and it seemed at this time that all sin was leaving me; the change still kept coming over me, and as I still looked I could see the messenger coming in the distance. His robe seemed to be of the very lightest pink hue. The thought then came to me that I would try and discern whether it was an angel of light or not. My hands and face were becoming as white as though there was no blood in them, and I was turned to the east again as also was the messenger. He came right up to me and his face and hands were as white as the driven snow, and he took hold of me and had a smile on his face, and said: "The people of Clitherall think you have done a great wrong in joining the Reorganized Church; but now you behold you have done right." That was all he said to me and disappeared. I can not begin to explain the joy and happiness that filled my soul at seeing that messenger, and hearing his words. I then noticed Bro. Joseph again. He said, "Follow me." We went back to the door of the meeting house. He did not enter but said to me, "You go in and do what you can for that people." I then went in, some were starting to go out, and some had got out when I got to the farther end of the house; and I feeling so overjoyed at what I had seen and heard that I was a little slow in beginning to speak. I looked towards the door and saw that all that had gone out and those that had started were all coming back again. I then commenced to speak and the Spirit of God was upon me. I did not speak long, and then I started to go out and the rest all followed me, each going to his own home. I started to go to my home also, and Hyrum Murdock and my brother Lurett Whiting, both members of Alpheus Cutler's Church, walked along one on each side of me. I spoke and said "I am so sorry that we have ever said anything hard about the Reorganized Church. For I have beheld an angel, and I know they are right." Hyrum said, "Well, I don't know but they are." I was so overcome that I awoke.

Yours in gospel bonds,

ALONZO WHITING.

CORMORANT, Minn., July 28th.

Bro. Joseph and Willam:—I have just returned from Otter Tail county. We had a good time, left many believing. I shall preach in this county until the 14th of August, and then go home to Independence, Missouri, and labor in Missouri till spring session. I would stay longer up here, but when the people go to harvesting and threshing I can do but little preaching until they get through and that will be late in the fall. I have not seen such a good feeling among the Saints up here as there is now, and we have very many friends that stand by us. A new school-house has been built at Scambler; a meeting was held, and it was voted by a few present to hold meetings in it, and to let all parties in but Latter Day Saints. This was soon noised around the district, and those that were not at the meeting gave notice that there would be a meeting on the next Saturday night, to reconsider the matter. Teams were furnished, and a free ride to the new house offered; and there the fun commenced. A few voted to keep Foss out, while a large majority voted in our favor. A Catholic woman raged so hard against us that Mr. Scambler told her he would give seventy five cents toward getting enough to get the priest there and bless the well of water, and then we could all have holy water to go on. Another said Foss had left the Methodist church. As far as I could learn, I guess it was "scissors, will you cut?" I preach there on Sunday next. The Lord is working with his people. Brother Andrew Tabbut baptized two last Sunday. I have been greatly blessed in the Spirit of late in preaching the word.

Yours truly,

J. C. FOSS.

GALENA, Ind., July 30th.

Bro. Blair:—We are trying to hold the old forts and take others. I have been holding forth at a new place called Cook's Mills, with fair audience. On last Sunday week I spoke there when the mercury pointed to 104° at 2 p. m., and for one hour and twenty minutes the people paid the best of attention and seemed interested. I distributed quite a number of tracts. This is but the sowing of the seed; what shall the harvest be? May the blessings of God attend. To the brethren that stood the shower of eggs in Missouri: be encouraged, brethren, and thank God that this great work has both the internal and external evidences of its divinity; and of course the enemy will use his best argument. I sympathize with my brethren, though I do not court persecution, nor do I try to shun it. Several times I have been shut out of meeting houses, and once when I spoke there was a bunch of switches at the door held in waiting for me. God only knows why I have run clear this long. My experience is this, in such extremes as those I have enjoyed more of the divine grace.

M. R. SCOTT.

FLORA VISTA, New Mex., July 26th.

Brethren Joseph and Blair:—We are anxiously waiting for a minister to come and preach the gospel to us. I think there can be a great work done here. There are many persons anxious to know more of the work. I have never seen or heard an elder of the Reorganized Church preach. But my husband and I have been reading the Book of Mormon, Doctrine and Covenants, and other of the church books. We read the Herald and Expositor, and enjoy them so much. If you know of an elder of poor health, send him here; this is a healthy country, and we will do the best we can for him, and the climate will help him too.

Yours in the faith,

MRS. MOLLIE SHIPPY.

THE RESORTS OF COLORADO.

Colorado has become famous for its marvelous gold and silver production, for its picturesque scenery, and its delightful climate. Its mining towns and camps, its massive mountains, with their beautiful green-verdured valleys, lofty snow-capped peaks and awe-inspiring canyons, together with its hot and cold mineral springs and baths, and its healthful climate, are attracting, in greater numbers each year, tourists, invalids, pleasure and business seekers from all parts of the world.

The journey from Chicago, Peoria, or St. Louis and other Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R. stations to Denver, (the great distributing point for Colorado), if made over the Burlington Route (C., B. & Q. R. R.), will be as pleasant and gratifying as it is possible for a railroad trip to be. At all principal ticket offices will be found on sale, during the tourist season, round-trip tickets, via this popular route, at low rates to Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, Colorado. When ready to start, call on your nearest ticket agent, or address Paul Morton, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago, Ill.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

CREATION.

A CONDENSED sketch of the first chapter of Genesis, to which I will make no preface, but be as brief as I can.

"In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth."—V. 1. "And the earth was without form [shape] and void [empty] and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters."—V. 2.

There have been many speculations, interpretations, since men were upon the face of this earth about this creation; i.e. how it was done? and how long it was while the work was being performed? and who the master architect that completed the work was. Most of the sects called christians (?) will tell us that the word "create" means to bring out something out of nothing; and therefore that the word in this text is a proof that God made this and all the stars and worlds out of nothing. But it is not true that the word create, or created, is intended to lead us to the understanding that God made this, or any other world out of nothing. Paul calls it "framed" (Heb. 11:3). Nothing produced nothing. Now the first as well as the second verse in Genesis first chapter, is only the preface and not the history, as it says that it was God who created, or made, or framed the worlds "in the beginning," and to show that there once was a beginning; not the beginning of this our world only, but of the whole planetary system; i.e. all the stars, suns and moons, &c. And we must understand that they are all worlds like our earth, and of the same element. And, we have reason to believe that they have moving creatures upon as well as we; yes, perhaps even men in the image of their creator, God. I ask, Why have we not reason to believe this? Does not the first verse in second chapter say, "thus the heavens;" not the heaven, but "the heavens," which is in the plural form; that is, all the heavens and the earths were created in these six days. Of what were they created? Of nothing? No! Matter can not be annihilated; and if not annihilated, then of course it has ever had existence. "The indestructibility of matter can be demonstrated," says the Scientific American, "by preparing a couple of glass tubes of equal weight, each being filled with pure oxygen and containing a few particles of carbon, free from appreciable amount of ash; that prepared from fine loaf sugar gives very good results. The tubes are of an equal weight and hermetically sealed. By heating one of them the charcoal is used to burn and will disappear; the tubes and contents however, are of course, found still to balance the other tube which has not been heated, being of precisely the same weight as the other."

The question may be asked, Where did it go to? I answer, It went back to its primitive conditions by expansion, and so became invisible, or in other words, every atom parted, one from another, and therefore can not be seen by our eyes. And as the second verse says, "the earth was;" that is, it had an existence, but was without form, i.e. had no shape; "and void," or empty; "and darkness was upon the face of the deep." This is the whole universal deep, or space. "And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the water." The waters was the cause of the darkness, as it filled the whole space, or "deep," as a fog or mist; while God's Spirit had an existence then, and also the waters, wherefrom all matter of which this, as well as all other earths or worlds were framed, or formed—created. But as soon as the fog, or watery fog came together and formed the globules, like the rain drops, the dry substances of matter began to part from the waters, which condensed into elements of what we see all around us, in varieties called earth, rock, stone, metal, trees, plants, verdure, fish, birds, animals and men, &c., &c. All that we see came out from the watery element on which God's Spirit was moving before the beginning.

We will leave these two verses, which are only the preface, and turn to the third, which is the beginning of the history of the creation.

"And God said, Let there be light; and there was light."—V. 3.

We will try to find out what this light is, and show that it is not the sunlight which shines out before us every day. Nor has it anything to do with our earth's formation, nor of our solar system, in the manner our wise men think it has, but for the boundless fields of space. These words were pronounced by the God of the universe when his Spirit moved on the waters of yonder deep, when there were no sun, no moon, nor stars, but a mist of darkness; then the Lord God made the declaration:

"LET THERE BE LIGHT."

What is this light? Answer.—John said, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God." What word? Why Jesus Christ is this word, for "he was in the beginning with God. And the world and all things were made by him and for him. In him was life; and the life was the light of men. The light shineth in darkness; and the darkness comprehended it not."—John 1:15.

"But," says one, "this darkness was the ignorance of the Jews when Christ came to them." That is true as far as that goes; but not altogether so. Paul spoke of this light thus: "For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined into our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."—2 Cor. 4:6. Hence, it is the light of the beginning, and that our Lord Jesus is that light as he is also called the "first born," and as he "was in the bosom of the Father." (John 1:18). "And the world was made by him." (V. 3, 10; Heb. 1:2, 10; Col. 1:16). And the Lord told himself that he was "the first of the creation of God." (Rev 3:14).

And that he was the light, (John 8:12), compare John 1:10. And that this light is his glory. John 17:5, 24; Rev. 21:23; Ps. 60:19, 20, &c. It was this glorious light that was commanded to shine out of darkness before any of the worlds were framed or created. And as he is the beginning of his Father's creation, (Rev. 3:14), then the light is he which was commanded to shine out of the darkness. And as all God's children are commanded to walk in the light of Christ, it can be understood therefore that his light is knowledge and wisdom.

"The Lord possessed me (wisdom) in the beginning of his way, before his works of old. I was set up from everlasting, from the beginning or ever the earth was. Before the mountains were settled, before the hills was I brought forth: While as yet he had not made the earth, nor the fields, nor the highest part of the dust of the world. When he prepared the heavens, I was there: When he set a compass upon the face of the depth: when he established the clouds above: when he strengthened the fountains of the deep: when he gave to the sea his decree, that the waters should not pass his commandment: when he appointed the foundations of the earth. Then I was by him, as one brought up with him: and I was daily his delight, rejoicing in the habitable part of his earth."—Pro. 8:22-31.

"And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided the light from the darkness. And God called the light day, and the darkness he called night. And the evening and the morning were the first day."—Gen. 1:4, 5.

As we have learned that this light is wisdom it proves the darkness to be ignorance. "What fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness? and what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel?"—2 Cor. 6:14, 15.

And as in Job.—"We can not order our speech by reason of darkness." Hence darkness is ignorance while light is knowledge and wisdom. It is therefore called the first day when the two opposing elements were divided. Not the first day of this earth, but that of the universe, as these days were also called generations in chapter two, verse four. It reads thus: "These are the generations of the heavens and of the earth, in the day that the Lord God made the earth and the heavens." They therefore represent the age of the world, the six generations or six dispensations.

We shall now come to the second day, (v. 6), "And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters." (v. 7), "And God made the firmament and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were above the firmament and it was so."

The word "firmament" is Hebrew and means the distance between the earth and the stars, or the open space, sometimes the empty sky; but as there were no stars then as yet, God had to divide the waters into clouds, which became the stars, or earths. So the Lord God made the firmament in the midst of the watery mist of which the universal "deep" was full. We shall not dwell on this point but haste on to verse 9, which is the third day.

"And God said 'Let the waters under the firmament be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear, and it was so.'" (v. 10).

"And God called the dry land (substance) earth, and the gathering together of the waters called he seas; and God saw that it was good."

This is the third day and must be divided into two parts—the 9th and 10th verses which show how God divided the waters into clouds, and then forming them into globes, stars, earths, or balls, by the concentric force. Those globes were all composed of only waters, and no other elements in all space. But as soon as the water was gathered into seas, or globes which we call stars, or earths, the dry elements begin to part from the waters, and as soon as the dry lands were out from the waters it was called 'earth.' To prove that the word "sea," or "seas" are worlds, see Dan. 7: 2, 17, "So the four winds of heaven strove on the great sea." That is on the earth, and in verse 3: "Four great beasts came up from the sea." Verse 17: "These great beasts * * * shall arise out of the earth," (sea). Hence, the seas are worlds, stars, &c.

The second part, verses 11, 12, 13 show that as soon as the dry elements appeared out of the waters which was called earth, (I mean all the stars in all the universal space) it began to bring forth grass, &c. Verse 11: "The herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself upon the earth, for it was so." The 12th verse repeats the same, while the 13th verse says that this "was the third day."

I will now bring a witness to prove what Genesis says of the creation to be true; namely, that all dry substance came from the watery elements, and that every star, or planet is of the same substance with our earth, and that there were no fire in those clouds or nebuleous mists which were or which are yet floating in the universal deep, or in all space. The flame of a fire is composed of particles in rapid motion; the more rapid the motion and the more substance there is to feed the fire, the hotter is the flame of the fire. At the sitting of the French Academy of sciences a few years ago, a very remarkable communication was read by M. Dumas Norman Lockyer "which, should his views be true, it would entirely overthrow all the theory of chemistry at present accepted." Says the London News: "In a series of investigations extending over some years, into the nature of the spectra of the sun, and other stars and bodies, and the artificial spectra of differential simple bodies at various degrees of temperature. Mr. Lockyer has arrived at the conclusion that all the elemental bodies recognized by chemists, are neither more nor less than hydrogen at various degrees of condensation. The great anxiety was expressed to be made acquainted with the nature of the experiment which had led the learned into such conclusions. The startling nature of the announcement is sufficient to excite great astonishment, as it is utterly opposed to all our notions of the chemistry of the universe." Some time after the above, the following additional statements are found in the same news; "In the presence of a small party of scientific men, Mr. Lockyer, by the aid of a powerful voltaic current volatized copper within a glass tube, dissolved it in the tube in hydrochloric acid, and then showed by means of the spectra-scope that the solution contained no longer copper, but another metal. Calcium, the base or ordinary lime. The next experiment was with other metals. Nickel was changed into cobalt and calcium into strontium."

"All these bodies have always been regarded as elementary. That is—incapable of changing into other elements than their own."

This will do for the present as a proof that Moses was a better astronomer than our modern wise men. Moses discerned the world and all therein. Not as the wise men of to-day, but by the Spirit of God.

"And he beheld many lands (worlds) and each land was called earth, (world), and there were inhabitants on the face thereof." * * * "Here is wisdom and it remained in me," said the Lord to Moses, "and by the word of my power have I created them, which is mine only Begotten Son, which is full of grace and truth. And worlds without number have I created; and I also created them for mine own purpose, and by the son I created them, which is mine Only Begotten, and the first man of all men have I called Adam, which is many. But only an account of this earth and the inhabitants thereof, give I unto you. For behold there are many worlds which have passed away by the words of my power, and there are many which now stand, and innumerable are they unto men; but all things are numbered unto me, for they are mine and I know them."—D. and C. 22: 6, 7.

Such things were shown to Moses and also to the prophet of these last days. By the holy spiritual telescope did he see them, while there is no astronomer, geologist or philosopher on earth that can contradict him, and here we will end the third day.

"And God said, Let there be light in the firmament or heaven, to divide the day from the night, and let them be for signs and seasons and for days and years. Let them be for lights in the firmament or heaven to give light upon the earth."—Gen. 1: 14, 15.

The text says, "In the firmament of heaven," which is not correct, as the word firmament is Hebrew, and heaven English. Therefore it should read as I have it, i. e., "In the firmament, or heaven." Verses 16-18 say that "God made two great lights." The greater one was to rule the day and the lesser one the night, and the stars also were to rule the night with the moon. The words, "He made," in verse sixteen, in connection with the stars, are not in the Hebrew text; but are added by the translators, as they understood its meaning, but as I understand it different I have therefore so written, which is, that the lesser lights to rule the night with the stars, i. e., the moon and the stars, but the great light to rule the day; which is the sun.

THE SUN.

Our philosophers of all classes say, "The sun is a globe of fire," and that it "is older than any of the other planets in our solar system." That is not true. According to the holy books, the sun as well as the moon is younger than the earth and the stars. Nor is the sun a "ball of fire." But hear what Mr. M. Faye, a French astronomer says about the sun. He says that "the earth and all the planets of our system are older than the sun which was a nebular mass far outside their orbits, and subsequently it passed over to the center of the planetary system and consolidated itself as the controlling power."

He agrees with Genesis, that the earth was created before the sun gave light. But is the sun a ball of fire? I answer No! But how do I know it. The sun is not a fiery ball, it might be of electricity. Read the following story: "The Scott's Bar correspondent of the Yreka, Journal, writes that about eight o'clock on the night of the 10th, (this is from a newspaper of which I forgot to take the date and year), "The night watchman at that place while going his rounds discovered a meteor, or ball of fire passing over head in a north-westerly direction. About the same time of the night Myron Thomas who was escorting a lady from Scotts Bar to John O'Neil, on the Klamoth river, when one mile below Hamburg Bar, was struck, and himself and horse thrown, or rather pressed to the earth by a meteor, or a fire ball, exploding directly in front of them." Mr. Thompson says: The main body of the meteor was about two feet in diameter with several smaller ones surrounding it. He says he did not come in contact with any solid substance, but seemed to be pressed down by some powerful element that he could not account for. The lady rider was about two feet behind him, and was terribly frightened, and says that Mr. Thomas and his horse appeared to be completely enveloped in a flame of fire. On examination next morning no meteor, or hard substance could be found, which causes the impression that the fire ball was purely electrical."

Now as the sun is one million four hundred thousand earths in size, (1,400,000) and if all these be of purely electric light, no wonder then that it can shine! But I will give another theory about the sun: Get a large fly wheel of glass or polished metal which can be driven by a man a degree of rapidity—more rapid the better. Perhaps a machine may be attached to the fly wheel to obtain the rapid power of motion, in a dark room, and you will need no candle, lamp or gas, to give you light.

We suppose then that if the sun is a ball of some substance or all other stars are with our planet, or earth, revolving on its axis in the center of our system would be the cause to give off light. To those who may not understand why a fly wheel gives off light when revolving, I say that the atmosphere is a pressure on the sides of the wheel, fifteen pounds to the square inch, which answers as a rubber when the wheel moves round, and so will make the atmosphere to shine. This might be the case with the sun, but I believe the former interpretation, i. e., the electrical substance. Other theories could be given but as I have no space here, I will leave this, "The fourth day," and turn again to the waters.

"And God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creatures that hath life, and fowl that may fly above the earth in the open firmament, or heaven."—V. 20.

"And God created great whales, and every living creature that moved, which the waters brought forth abundantly after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind, and God saw that it was good."—V. 21.

The 22d verse says that God blessed them, that they should "be fruitful and multiply and fill the waters in the seas," or in the stars. (Every star is a sea). Every star or planet is as a drop of water in the universe, or space of God's empire, while every drop of water, in turn, is as a world with its inhabitants, when we go to the microscope.

"A DROP OF WATER."

"Having placed under my microscope a drop of dark infusion which had been standing for weeks exposed to the air and full of the debris of dead leaves, it was with mingled wonder and pleasure I watched the movement of all those busy animalcules as they glided to and fro by means of their peculiar zigzag motion, ever and anon rotating upon themselves as a center and twirling rapidly round and round; hence the name, "Rotatiferas." But though these most numerous are only one of many varieties met with in an hour's search, now of spindle shape, they go darting about, now changing shape, contracting and becoming large at one end, they hesitate a moment and then resolving themselves into a round ball, twirl rapidly round, only to resume their order of motion afresh. Their bodies are translucent and granular in appearance and of pale greenish hue, a single cell, and the lowest form of animal organization."

And like all other animals on the earth, they do not come into their being without reproduction. It has been positively asserted by assiduous observers that they have seen the egg laid, watched its development, with the escape of the young animal, its subsequent growth, and in turn its own deposition of eggs. Thus has man followed the reproduction to the fifth and sixth generations. There is another curious mode of reproduction, as in the case of the "hydra," a species of fresh water "polyps." For here it can be seen if the animal be divided each part becomes again perfect; if he be split vertically each part likewise takes the form of completeness. "O Lord, how many things are in thy works! In wisdom hast thou made them all. The earth is full of thy riches."—David.

So is this great and wide sea, our ball, wherein are things creeping innumerable, both small and great beasts. The microscope makes a drop of water a world, a grain of sand a mountain with various kinds of animals in their cavities; each leaf a colony with animals grazing on its fields like cows on a meadow.

We will now leave the fifth day and see what is in the sixth. Verse 24. In the forenoon of this day God made the animals on the earth, of different shape and forms, all living creatures after their kind, cattle and creeping things, and beasts of the earth in their orders. In the afternoon the Lord God said:

"Let us make man in our image, after our likeness, and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth."

"So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him male and female created he them."

Here is an animal created in the same form, shape, or image as his creator. He is called "man," which means "man and female." Two persons in one flesh. (Chapter 2: 23, 24).

Did I say an animal? Yes. He is an animal as far as his body of flesh and bones is concerned, but every animal is not a man, as man's body of flesh and bones were from the dust, of the ground like all other animals. (See 1: 24; 2: 7). And not animals only, but all things; grass, herbs, fruits, trees, &c. (v. 11, 12). And every thing that we see all around us is of the same element as the body of a man. "But," says one, "then God must also be an animal, as man was made into an image of God." I answer, God is a spirit—(but every Spirit is not God)—God's body is not of dust, but of a spiritual element. "Man was created in an image of God;" that is, in the same shape, or form as God, but not of the same substance or element. And as man is two persons in one flesh, he is therefore a dual being like God. God is dual; the Father and the Son. The Holy Ghost is their minds. And as a man is commanded to love his wife and she him as their own bodies; if they do, they will be as one flesh, in this way they will be as God and his Son, one in substance and one in mind. This way they represent God's image on the earth. Hence man was to have dominion over the fish, fowl, and all animals and living things that are moving on the earth, in the sea, or upon the air. And every beast was sent to Adam, the man, who gave names to them, "And whatsoever he called them that is the name of each of them all." And their food was all vegetable and fruit. And the Lord God blessed them and told them that they should have dominion over all the earth and subdue it to themselves. Then the Lord God, beholding it all, and said it was all very good. "And the evening and the morning were the sixth day."

Here is a man exalted in dignity and power and authority, having dominion over all the vast earth's beings as a ruler and a king, clothed with peace and joy, wealth, fish, fowl, and beast, all in a perfect, harmless state of existence with each other. No groans, nor sighing, nor death, nor sorrow, nor tears, nor weeping; no sickness, nor any kind of pain, nor bloodshed, nor wars to be heard nor seen anywhere. O, what a joy and happiness. What a blessedness for the man. King of all this great dominion of the earth. Songs of birds; songs of angels all around him, on every side; while he sits as a sovereign on the throne in the garden most beautiful,

But there was for all this authority and power he had from his maker a condition. He was to observe a law; He was not a law maker, nor the ruler of the universe, but only to rule this earth. In the garden (a) where he was seated, the Lord God had planted two trees. One was the tree of life, the other the tree of knowledge of good and evil; of which God commanded that he should not eat, and told him that in that day in which he ate of the fruit he would die.

Now many think that he did not die in that day, because he died 930 years after that day in which he did eat of the fruit. That was a temporal death, but he did die spiritually that day. What is meant by the word 'die?' My answer is—it means to change from one constitution unto another. From one nature into another nature.

Paul says—"I die daily." He was changing every day. He was dying from this world's nature, but Adam was dying to the nature of this world. Hence, we can die both ways. That is, man can change each way. No matter which way he changes, or dies, he dies or changes all the same. The dyer (deir) dys (dies) colors; that is the dyer changes the colors. So did Adam, the first man and woman change their nature from a happy life into a life of sorrow and tears, and pain, weeping and sickness; and with his sweat of his face he was to eat his bread, and then return to dust again, wherefrom his body was taken. And not the man only, but the whole earth was changed with him. The earth begins to bring forth thorns and thistles. It was all for the man's sake. (3: 1-19).

We will now turn to the 2: 1. After the six days' work, Moses says:—"Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them." From these we might understand that the history is not of this earth only but of the whole universal 'deep' as I have been telling. The words "all the host of them" does not mean one earth and one heaven, as these words are plural. After these declarations he said, that "God rested on the seventh day" as he had ended his work. He therefore blessed and sanctified that day; for that day was made for man's rest day, and was a sign of man's future rest; and that all these six and seven days are not literal days but types of ages and generations. We will read the fourth verse of chapter two—"These are the generations of the heavens and of the earth when they were created, in the day that the Lord God made the heavens and the earth."

These are the generations, meaning the six days of the first chapter. Each day stands for a generation, and then the words: "In the day," is as if he had made all in but one day. The next point is the sun and moon were not made to divide days until the fourth day, i. e., the first, second and third days had no sun, nor moon to part the night from the day. And again: "The evening and the morning" in the end of each day. Now a proper daylight begins in the morning and not in the evening. If it should read in the morning and the evening, then we could understand it as a literal day, but as it is the night between the evening and morning, it is not therefore literal days. The word "morning," means a beginning of an age, or of a generation, etc., while the word "evening," is for the end of a day, or age, a generation, and the like.

(a) GARDEN—Paradeisos—Paradeisos.—Is a Persian word adopted into Greek, and expressed in Hebrew by Parades or Pardees. It signifies a park, a forest or preserve, a garden of trees of various kinds, a delightful grove, &c.

"The Lord spoke unto Moses saying command the children of Israel that they bring unto thee the pure oil olives beaten for the light, to cause the lamps to burn continually without the veil of the testimony in the tabernacle of the congregation. Aaron shall order it from the evening unto the morning before the Lord."—Lev. 24: 1-3. Ex. 29: 20, 21.

There were seven lamps. Ex. 25: 37. They were to burn only in the night. Ex. 30: 7, 8. The candlestick had six branches, three on each side. Ex. 25: 31, 42; 37: 17, 18. And it was to be set over against the tabernacle on the south side. Ex. 26: 35. The seven lamps set on it, we suppose, therefore, one on each branch (six branches) the seventh on the top of the candlestick. The tabernacle represents the earth. The candlestick the sun in the south (at noon) while the sun in turn represent the Sun of Righteousness. In Rev. 4: 5. The seven lamps are called the "seven spirits of God." And also "seven stars," and "lamps."—See 3: 1: 12, 16; 2: 1. Now then, these texts, with many others will show that the six days of Genesis, first chapter, means six generations (or dispensation) which is the sixth dispensation of the world's age. The seventh which is Sabbath, or rest. The six are the six nights of darkness. When Adam fell, he fell into darkness. We are therefore in need of a lamp—a candlestick—or a star which are the spirits of God to guide us in this dark night until the Sabbath day comes when the true lamp of God shall give us the true light.

We might by this time understand what Moses was inspired for, by God's Spirit to write the history of the creation in this typical manner. And might we also be inspired to understand all that is our duty to understand, is the prayer of your humble servant,

J. A. STROMBERG.

ERUDITION.

SINCE the eventful time that "Adam gave names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beast of the field," the few or the many have sought after learning. The field of knowledge is both extensive and interesting, upon nearly every branch of education with all the subdivisions thereof. Many books have been published. The obtaining of learning as a general rule, is a slow and wearisome task, like the climbing of a very high mountain; if we ever reach the top thereof our ascent will be not only slow, but tedious, and it may be perilous; so will it be in climbing up the hill of knowledge, with this exception; by patience, perseverance and endurance our feet may stand on the summit of earth's loftiest mountain; whereas, with knowledge in time and eternity, for aught that I know, we may be employed in gathering gems of truth. For the reason, one of the best of books contains this statement from one of the ablest of teachers: "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our Spirit that we are the children of God: And if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together." There is another similarity between ascending the mountain and the obtaining of learning. When we first begin going up an elevation we are fresh and strong, and may progress almost as rapidly as if walking upon a level plain, but as we go higher, our strength is the greater taxed, and the air becoming lighter our progress becomes retarded, and we may be under the necessity of halting for rest. Our journey may have commenced amidst flowers, fruits and the earth clothed in robes of living green, the atmosphere balmy and warm; but as we ascend the products of the soil are more limited and the atmosphere cooler; another stage higher and vegetation has about ceased to assert itself in our pathway, while our face may be kissed by storm and cold; thus we continue, until the crest with its white crown of snow and frost are under our feet.

Of the teeming millions of humanity of farm, village, or city, few ever are permitted to thus stand amid the clouds, with their feet upon the everlasting snow at the apex of some world famed mountain. The child on its entering the threshold of learning is under the necessity of accepting the simple, or primitive lessons; thus when the alphabet must be first committed for future use, and, let it be remembered that the alphabet forms the cabalistic chain by which we shall be able to rise the slopes of knowledge, while the buoyancy of youth remains we may dash along the highway of learning at quite a rapid gait. Even then vacations are helpful and thankfully received and enjoyed. When experience deepens, widens and expands, our tasks become more severe and complicated and our responsibilities constantly upon the increase. Then it is that we find that the acquiring of knowledge is a slow and tiresome undertaking, for with the burden of life and its cares, the mental power becomes divided, and therefore loses, to a degree, its retentiveness; and this makes the duty of gaining knowledge so much more irksome. I once heard a teacher make the statement that the average person did not use to exceed five hundred different words in the transaction of the ordinary business of every day life. Professional men, however, use many more.

I have strayed somewhat from the original intent of this article, but will try and find myself without the posting of a legal notice. There are some scriptural reference, advice and instruction concerning the obtaining of knowledge, that I wish to introduce. As to the fulfillment of a certain prophecy Isaiah has this to say: "Seek ye out of the way of the Lord, and read: no one of these shall fail." It would have been well for Israel to have not only complied with the injunction to "seek" the things written in the "Book of the Lord," but to have likewise understood what had been foretold; and if the instruction was good and timely, and old Israel made an egregious mistake by their not hearkening unto the divine voice, then surely latter day Israel may profit by avoiding the errors made by their ancient predecessors. The importance of giving heed to what was written aforetime by the prophets of God is made clear in the answer of Abraham to the rich man: "They have Moses and the prophets: let them hear them." No matter who the teacher may be, nor yet whence he came, nor yet his claim or powers, if there is a disregard to the recorded truth, sure disappointment and inevitable destruction await those who do not seek unto the "Book of the Lord," not to say, but to do according to that which is written therein. Some seek unto and put their whole dependence in the departed dead; while some seek to excuse themselves from the performance of labor and duty, on account of the supposed mistakes or errors of the departed. Both of these parties surely can not be correct; and for me, I am of the opinion that both are in the fog, and as far from the tree of life as was Dives, who asked that Lazarus be sent from Abraham's bosom to his five wicked brothers, who, like himself, failed to read and understand heaven's requirements of man. In the first dispute that the Savior had after his baptism, both he and the arch deceiver made reference to that which is "written." If the chief enemy of our souls can so flippantly quote the word of God, be assured all his satellites will be sure to adopt a like line of warfare, and this demonstrates beyond a doubt the necessity of our possessing knowledge and understanding, two of God's gifts by the Holy Spirit. This is the education essential for every true warrior saint, as a panoply that they may go forth in the conflict against sin and evil, with the assurance of protection and final triumph; no time for rest either from labor or seeking God's word and light.

Paul passed a high eulogium upon certain persons, because they were diligent in the study of the truth, "These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so." The household of faith could not be better employed than searching the scriptures daily, to see if these things be true. The Master gave this instruction, "Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life; and they are they which testify of me." We can not afford to disregard this last divine injunction; for if the church of God stood in "perilous times," now undoubtedly is the period predicted, and for that very reason we should not only read and be able, but be willing to give a reason for the hope we have obtained by an acceptance of the gospel of grace.

There are some revelations of a later date, that for perspicuity, thoroughness and harmony have no superior upon record in any language. This has direct application to every individual member of the church.

"Also I give unto you a commandment, that ye shall continue in prayer and fasting from this time forth. And I give unto you a commandment, that you shall teach one another the doctrine of the kingdom; teach ye diligently and my grace shall attend you, that you may be instructed more perfectly in theory, in principle, in doctrine, in the law of the gospel, in all things that pertain unto the kingdom of God, that is expedient for you to understand; of things both in heaven, and in earth, and under the earth; things which have been; things which are; things which must shortly come to pass; things which are at home; things which are abroad; the wars and the perplexities of the nations; and the judgments which are on the land; and a knowledge also of countries, and of kingdoms, that ye may be prepared in all things when I shall send you again, to magnify the calling whereunto I have called you, and the mission with which I have commissioned you."

No more comprehensive paragraph than this, setting forth the scope of the studies that should engage our attention, can be found. Not one single item is omitted from the list, but all the vocations of life are included. As life is too short for us to master in theory and practice all of agriculture, horticulture, commercial, mechanical, astronomical, geological, zoological, architecture, arboriculture, art, law, not only of the gospel, but of nation's history, both of nations, peoples and countries and religious, and everything else, and all else not herein enumerated, that is for the benefit and happiness of mankind, to advance civilization, and "pure religion and undefiled," there certainly is ample opportunity for the most aspiring mind to make full development of all its ability and powers, and no necessity of jostling against our neighbor in the pursuit of knowledge. A wise policy for each one to adopt, would be to make choice of some branch of learning, and seek to master that ere another is undertaken; and this will prevent our receiving a diploma of "a jack of all trades, and master of none;" that is a poor diploma for a minister of the better covenant to travel on; no necessity for such will be found if the word of God is kept.

"Therefore, verily I say unto you, my friends, call your solemn assembly, as I have commanded you; and as all have not faith, seek ye diligently and teach one another words of wisdom; yea, seek ye out of the best books, words of wisdom; seek learning even by study, and also by faith. Organize yourselves; prepare every needful thing, and establish a house, even a house of prayer, a house of fasting, a house of faith, a house of learning, a house of glory, a house of order, a house of God; that your incomings may be in the name of the Lord; that your outgoings may be in the name of the Lord; that your salutations may be in the name of the Lord, with uplifted hands unto the Most High. Therefore cease from all your light speeches, from all laughter, from all your lustful desires, from all your pride and light-mindedness, and from all your wicked doings. Appoint among yourselves a teacher, and let not all be spokesmen at once, but let one speak at a time, and let all listen unto his sayings, that when all have spoken, that all may be edified of all, and that every man may have an equal privilege. See that ye love one another; cease to be covetous; learn to impart one to another as the gospel requires; cease to be idle; cease to be unclean; cease to find fault one with another; cease to sleep longer than is needful; retire to thy bed early, that ye may not be weary; arise early, that your bodies and your minds may be invigorated; and above all things, clothe yourselves with the bonds of charity, as with a mantle, which is the bond of perfectness and peace; pray always that you may not faint until I come; behold, and lo, I will come quickly, and receive you unto myself."

This is so full of wholesome and comforting words, that any attempt at a critical commentary, would be but to impoverish the warmth, light and life that the Holy Spirit impresses in all its parts. We all earnestly desire to worship in the house of the Lord and to be blest as the accepted children and servants of the living God. Can we gain this laudable and much desired condition, or is it the Utopian thought of some feverish brain; that like some butterfly will ever elude our grasp, and doom us at last to sad and bitter disappointment. No! Ten thousand times no. We have but to adopt the measures God has appointed and we shall obtain if we faint not. As the Saints of the "last days," made so, by accepting the restored gospel in its fulness, we anxiously expect that a "House of God," will be builded and we receive a Pentecostal endowment, and that this may be real and satisfactory, there will of necessity have to be the mutual and approved meeting of the owner of the house (God) and those to be blest, (the Saints). The house will have to be built by the people of God, as God shall appoint and direct. But other preparation, than the erection of a house will have to be made. God said by the mouth of Jeremiah, concerning the people, "I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts." This brings quite forcibly to our notice some of the preparation that must take place. The distance between God and the Saints, seems to be "prayer," "fasting," "faith," "learning," "glory," and "order." These are not the characteristics of the house, but the qualifications of the Saints who meet in the house; and it will be late to gain all these after we get to the house, for it may require a long time for some of us to be perfect in all these habilaments of heart and mind. Pardon one reference, but it is in point, and no personality intended. There are such a cloud of living witnesses to the illustration, that we believe it will be better understood and will therefore be more likely to be productive of greater good. The grave importance and responsibility of the late general conference was felt by many, the aid of divine direction was sought for, and to that end a resolution, obtained setting apart Sabbath, April 11th, as a day of "prayer" and "fasting." This was understood by many to mean, the abstaining from all nourishment; but to our astonishment, when noon-tide arrived, those who made an effort to carry out the resolution in good faith, and continue in "prayer" and "fasting," in the house of the Lord at Lamoni, were disturbed and annoyed by an equal number, or a greater number, who were feasting in the basement story. As an individual I am not predisposed to fasting; but when the church, or God shall so appoint, I am ready and willing to make the sacrifice, and not have the recording angel write upon my page in the "Lamb's book of life" for that day, "whose end is destruction, whose God is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things." Well might Paul of old weep for wayward and neglectful Saints and no wonder that Joseph weeps, his head is white and his face bears the marks of care, for on him rests much; and many would be willing to have him carry all the burden. But be not deceived; those who neglect to become willing, faithful and proficient in "prayer," "fasting," "faith," "learning," "glory," and "order," may read with profit "The House of the Lord as seen in vision," Life of Joseph the Prophet, page 730. Many, many times have I read this, and cried unto God, O, Father of heaven and earth, the hope of all Saints, will those bright swords dispute my entrance into thy house, and the Spirit has ever answered, not if you comply with my commandments, and abstain from those things that are forbidden. I have no desire to learn wisdom by the things that I suffer, but rather as a cheerful student at the feet of Jesus would I be found. Let the voice of God be obeyed, and the Saints separate themselves from "pride," "light speeches," "laughter," "lustful desires," "light-mindedness," "wicked doings," and cease to be "covetous," "idle," "unclean" or to "find fault," or to waste time in "sleep," or to inconvenience the house-keeper by remaining in bed late of mornings.

By the pages of the Herald, I learn that some of those who were in attendance at conference, found fault and complained of a lack of spiritual blessings. I will venture to guess that those who were the freest with their fault finding, were of the host that "feasted" instead of "fasting."

"And now, verily I say unto you, I give unto you a commandment, that you continue in the ministry and presidency, and when you have finished the translation of the prophets you shall from henceforth preside over the affairs of the church and the school; and from time to time, as shall be manifest by the Comforter, receive revelations to unfold the mysteries of the kingdom, and set in order the churches, and study and learn, and become acquainted with all good books, and with languages, tongues and people. And this shall be your business and mission, in all your lives to preside in council and set in order all the affairs of this church and kingdom. Be not ashamed, neither confounded; but be admonished in all your highmindedness and pride, for it bringeth a snare upon your souls. Set in order your houses; keep slothfulness and uncleanness far from you."

The Lord truly is a plain talker, and the only thing that surprises me is that we have not received an admonition. Perhaps the long-suffering of the Lord is granting unto us space to learn from "all good books," the revelations of the past, and our immediate predecessors in gospel work, that we may shape our lives aright "let us therefore fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it."

We are told that like cause will produce a like effect, under like circumstances and conditions. That being a truism, there appears to be a sufficient cause to arouse us to action that we not only shall remove the stigma of shame from the fair name of the church, but overcome all the temptations of the evil one, outride the storm and anchor at last in the haven of rest and eternal security. No time to loiter by the way and toy with the vain frivolities of fashionable society, that has no higher aim than eye and time service. Once more let us hear the voice of inspiration, urging to obtain knowledge and learning.

"And verily I say unto you, that it is my will that you should hasten to translate my scriptures, and to obtain a knowledge of history, and of countries, and of kingdoms, of laws of God and man, and all this for the salvation of Zion."

Let no one excuse himself, that the revelations we have cited were given to some one else and not to us, we can not afford to be ignorant; neither will it do for us in the light of the evidence now before us, to rely upon the threadbare hobby of "open your mouth and the Lord will fill it." The voice of the history of the church is against laziness and in favor of hard, active study. Let me give you a few of the thoughts on books, by acknowledged scholars.

Socrates.—"Prefer knowledge to wealth: for the one is transitory, the other perpetual."

Gibbon.—"A taste for books is the pleasure and glory of my life. I would not exchange it for the glory of the Indies."

Carlyle.—"Of the things which man can do or make here below, by far the most momentous, wonderful, and worthy, are the things we call books."

Fenelon.—"If the crowns of all the kingdoms of the empire were laid down at my feet in exchange for my books, and my love of reading, I would spurn them all."

Luther.—"All who would study with advantage, in any art whatever, ought to betake himself to the reading of some sure and certain books oftentimes over; for to read many books produceth confusion, rather than learning, like as those who dwell everywhere are not anywhere at home."

Milton.—"For books are not absolutely dead things, but do contain a progeny of life in them as active as that soul whose progeny they are; nay, they do preserve, as in a vial, the purest efficacy and extraction of that living intellect that bred them. He who destroys a good book kills reason itself, kills the image of God, as it were, in the eye."

Many people, and more especially Saints, have asked me, what books I thought best to read, and my answer has been uniform, Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants. The first is our weapon to establish the doctrine among the people, while the second confirms our faith in the divinity of the work; and the third is for the government of the church. By a close examination these three books are found to be a unit in doctrine and church policy; this makes Saints strong, and disconcerts our opposers. My first advice to all is that they read the books and publications of the church; after that let each one exercise the volition of his own fancy in selecting from the many good books that are for sale upon the market. However, we should discriminate between those books that would be a benefit and the trashy, sensational stuff that floods the world; we should be firm and inflexible in favor of that which is for the best good of the greatest number, but never pander to the whims and foibles of a sin loving, fun seeking society. When those meet who shall be permitted to assemble in the house of the Lord at the annual gathering of 1887, may they do so with uplifted hands unto the Lord, with pure hearts and clean hands, that as individuals and an assembly the God of all consolation may lift up the light of His countenance upon them, and that they may be richly blessed and take with them thence to their homes and fields of labor an influence for good. The past may have taught us much, but the future is big with knowledge for those who are wise and will improve upon the opportunities. Prophecy and foretelling was the work of the past, but fulfillment and realization are the promises of the near future. Our hands upon the "iron rod," is to study and keep the law revealed in the three books. "Be ye therefore wise servants, and harmless as doves." So mote it be.

June, 1886.

R. M. ELVIN.

Miscellaneous.

MARRIED.

HARKNELL-BAXTER.—Brother William Harknell, of Juniata, to Miss Polly Baxter of the same place, were united in marriage on the 4th of July, 1887, at the residence of brother and sister Terango, of Bay City, Michigan, James Burch, of Vassar, officiating.

Sweet their union, pure their pleasure,
Heart with hand to each they give;
Each ones heart the others treasure,
May they thus forever live."

DIED.

BENNETT.—Near Lamoni, Iowa, July 28th, 1887, of cholera morbus, Mr. David W. Bennett, husband of Sr. Mary A. Bennett; aged 64 years and 11 months. He was the father of nine children, six of whom are living. The funeral sermon was preached by Bro. H. A. Stebbins.

HYDE.—At Little Sioux, Iowa, July 22d, 1887, Elder George S. Hyde, aged 33 years, 7 months and 11 days. He was born in Fondulac county, Wisconsin, December 11th, 1853. United with the Church of Christ at Little Sioux, Iowa, March 24th, 1878, Elder D. M. Gamet baptizing him. Brother Hyde was ordained to the office of seventy at Galland's Grove, Iowa, September 30th, 1879, Elder J. C. Crabb being spokesman. He died from scrofulous affection of the throat. While doing work for the Master in Texas, a few years since, he was attacked with dengue fever; this so invaded his physical system that he never recovered from its ill effects, and is believed to have earlier developed the disease from which he died, it existing by heredity. Bro. Hyde was an exemplary man, kind, loving, and a model of patience. He was devotedly attached to his family, consisting of wife and four children. He was an earnest advocate of the faith he loved and taught, and was anxious for the prosperity of the church. About ten days before death he told the writer, when asked how he felt, "I am exceedingly happy, a perfect peace is mine." He was confined to bed for two weeks, and although his suffering was severe, never a murmur escaped his lips! Strangulation was feared, and his wife requested prayer that his pain be relieved and that he die easily. We prayed so mentally, and asked that the Lord grant this last request of his dear wife, and to take him now; and shortly afterward he breathed easier, and passed away as if in a quiet sleep. The funeral was largely attended, for he had many friends. Elders J. C. Crabb and J. F. McDowell officiating, the former pronouncing the sermon.

GULEMBO.—At Sherman, Mason county, Michigan, July 22d, 1887, in the 39th year of her age, sister Etta, wife of Bro. John Gulembo. She leaves a large circle of friends and relatives to mourn.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT.

Those whom it may concern will please take notice that Elders Thomas Daley, Hiram L. Holt, William Gibson, and David L. Harris, are appointed to labor as missionaries in the Pacific Slope Mission, as directed by the missionary in charge. The Saints where they may labor will please receive them as authorized ministers, and render them such assistance as they may be willing and able to do.

Respectfully,

HEMAN C. SMITH,

President Pacific Slope Mission.

SANTA ANA, Cal., July 22d, 1887.

Approved by the Bishop and the Presidency.

G. A. BLAKESLEE, Bishop.

JOSEPH SMITH, } Presidency.
W. W. BLAIR, }

CAMP MEETING.

The Fremont and adjoining districts will hold a Camp Meeting near the residence of John Leeka, at Plum Hollow, Fremont county, Iowa, commencing August 26th, 1887, and will continue from six to ten days. President Joseph Smith and other prominent elders are expected to be in attendance. All who can are requested to come prepared to camp out. Those coming by rail will be met at the depot at McPaul, on the K. C. & C. B. R. R., on the 25th, 26th and 27th of August, and furnished with conveyance to the camp grounds, free of charge. A cordial invitation is extended to all. By order of committee.

WILLIAM LEEKA.

HOW TO SEND MONEY.

Remit by Post Office Order, or by Express Order, on Lamoni, Iowa. Or by Bank Drafts on Chicago or New York only; personal checks on banks in any other cities can not be used at par. Money Orders from Foreign countries should be made payable at Lamoni, Decatur county, Iowa.

Conference Minutes.

BIRMINGHAM DISTRICT.

Conference was held at the Sommerfield branch, Birmingham, England, April 9th and 10th, 1887. Elder C. H. Caton, president; Elder G. S. Greenwood, secretary. The letter convening conference was read. Minutes of last conference read, confirmed and signed. The president then explained the reason for the postponement of the conference for one month. Resolved that we approve of the course taken by the district president in regard to the place and date of holding the present conference. Elder C. H. Caton then addressed the conference. He rejoiced greatly in being present in conference again with his brethren and sisters. He assured the brethren that there was a very great responsibility resting upon us, i. e., the spread and progress of the work of God. And in gatherings of this sort he believed we became brighter and stronger, and better prepared for the furtherance of the work of God. He hoped in moving our proposals we should have our minds on this great object, the glory of God and the salvation of those by whom we are surrounded. He believed it was better to do a little business and do it well, rather than a great deal imperfectly. Delegates to conference: The names of those appointed delegates were then read, viz.: Temple Row branch, C. Walton; Hanley, John Healy; Stafford, J. R. Greenwood. Burton-on-Trent, W. H. Saunders; Sommerfield, A. Crump; Clay Cross no delegates; Nottingham, W. Ecclestone. Resolved that we suspend the rules to admit of new business and notice of questions. Financial report: The president, C. H. Caton, gave a financial report which showed money received for six months along with balance from last conference. Received with balance £5. 5s 5½d. Expended £2. 18s 8½d, leaving in hand £2. 6s 9d. Resolved that we appoint a committee to audit the account. Brn. J. Richards, J. R. Greenwood and W. H. Saunders were appointed to report to this conference. Notice of several questions which would be brought before the conference were then given in. Branch reports: Birmingham, Temple Row last report 94 members, present 98; including 4 elders, 2 priests, 2 teachers, 2 deacons; 4 baptized. Hanley, last report 50, present 25; including 3 elders, 2 priests, 1 teacher, 1 deacon; 1 baptized, 1 died, 2 expelled, 24 scattered. This report was referred back to branch for explanation as to the 24 members dropped from branch record. Stafford, last report 17, present 19; including 2 elders, 1 priest, 1 teacher, 1 deacon; 3 baptized, 1 removed. Burton-on-Trent, last report 9, present 9; including 1 elder, 1 priest, 1 teacher, 1 deacon; no change. Sommerfield, last report 27, present 27; including 2 elders, 1 priest, 1 teacher, 1 deacon; no change. Clay Cross 10; including 2 elders, 1 teacher, 1 deacon; 1 expelled. I think this report imperfect.—D. S. Nottingham, last report 12, present 21; including 2 elders, 2 priests; 8 baptized, 1 received by letter. Resolved that the Hanley branch report be referred back to branch; the district president to give them instructions concerning the same. A question was asked by several brethren concerning the meaning of scattered members, and in what condition they could be so called. The president answered that he could not understand members of branches being reckoned as scattered members. And he had sent for an explanation from the general church recorder; and he was in favor of the conference waiting for Bro. Henry A. Stebbins' reply in the Saints' Herald. Bro. J. Matthews asked why only three of the four officers of Burton branch were recommended for endorsement of license. The president said, The Burton brethren and sisters had reasons for withholding their confidence from their deacon, and therefore were justified in not recommending him. And he wished the branches would all do the same with refractory officers. Sunday morning session, April 10th. Meeting opened by singing and prayer. Ministry reports.—Elders reported by letter, Thomas Taylor, Charles Taylor, John Hill, J. D. Davis, W. Potts and H. Pearce. The following reported in person; Elders G. S. Greenwood, J. R. Greenwood, E. A. Webb, Joseph Matthews and C. H. Caton in person. Elder Caton also reported for Bro. J. Seville, he being of great age and too feeble to be present to report in person. Resolved that we accept the report of our aged brother, J. Seville, as given in by Bro. C. H. Caton, and that we hereby express our entire satisfaction with his zealous labors as an elder in the past, and express our sympathy with him in his illness. Priests, C. Hicklin and John Dyche reported by letter, and John Kirtland, John Healy, W. Ecclestone, J. E. Meredith and A. Crump in person. Teachers, H. Tabbiner, and W. H. Saunders reported by letter, and James Brown, James Richards, T. Anderton, C. Walton in person. Deacons, H. Tyler reported by letter, and E. Matthews, G. Ecclestone, F. Edwards in person. The following brethren not holding office were asked by the president to express their feelings in the work of the Lord: T. Dunn, T. Trevers, W. Silvester and T. Hollins. Resolved that the licenses sent in to this conference be endorsed. Afternoon session, three p. m. Elder Caton read Psalm 145, and made some good remarks on the testimony meetings. The meeting was then given up for testimony when a grand time was had, joy filling each heart and the Spirit moving upon the Saints as in days of old, with tongues and interpretation, praise and prayer. Evening session, 6:30 p. m. Meeting opened in the usual way, after which the president called upon four young brethren, James Richards, John Healy, W. Ecclestone, J. R.

Greenwood. These brethren had good liberty and spoke well and to the point, on the gospel principles of life and salvation. The meeting room is of good size and was not only filled but packed with eager listeners to the words of life. A collection was taken up at the close of the meeting to help the brethren and sisters of the Sommerfield branch in the expenses of conference; the amount being 11s 2d. Elder John Seville was administered to, and singing of "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," brought the evening meeting to a close. Later business session. Opened business by receiving the report of auditing committee on finance. They reported having audited the financial report of the president and found it correct. The report was received and the committee discharged. Report of committee on reorganizing the Hanley branch; The committee which consisted of the president and secretary of the district, reported. The report was read by Elder C. H. Caton, was lengthy and given in full, also the correspondence which had passed between the committee and the Hanley brethren. Elder G. S. Greenwood spoke upon the report. Resolved that we accept and approve of the report and that it be spread upon the minutes. New business. Resolved that the minutes of this conference be prepared by the secretary and sent to the Saints' Herald for publication. Resolved that we approve of the principle of out door preaching and advise its prosecution in this district. Resolved that we do appoint Elder G. S. Greenwood as delegate to the annual mission conference of the English Mission. Resolved that we entertain the recommendations of the Nottingham branch to ordain Bro. W. Ecclestone to the office of an elder. This motion was much opposed by the brethren in conference, and resulted in the matter being left in the hands of the district president to act as wisdom may direct. Authorities of the church in England and America were sustained in all righteousness. Resolved that the ministry of this district labor as circumstances permit and report to the next conference. Resolved that we do give a hearty vote of thanks to the brethren and sisters of the Sommerfield branch for their kindness to all who have visited this conference. Resolved that we do now adjourn to meet again at Hanley branch on the 3d and 4th of September, 1887. Thus closed a most happy conference.

LADIES or Gents, Girls or Boys, wanted in Europe and America, to sell our Folding Busties, Portable Bed-springs, Tidy Holders, Sewing Machine Relief Springs, &c. For terms, address Bro. B. F. Ordway, Peoria, U. S. A.; or Bro. Henry Tabbiner, 2 Grafton-st., Hanley, England. 6aug

The Sisters' Aid Society of Independence branch have for sale for the benefit of the new church, two Cabinet Photographs: one of the THREE WITNESSES, with views of the HILL CUMORAH and the ANGEL delivering the PLATES; the other of the OLD LIBERTY JAIL as it now stands, for 25 cts each. Those desiring to purchase can address Mrs. B. C. Smith, box 61, Independence, Missouri. 23jul3m

TO HOPE SUBSCRIBERS.

On and after January 1st, 1887, the Hope will be sent to subscribers as follows:
Single copies, per year ..... 50c.
Over 4 copies and under 10, to one address, each ..... 40c.
Ten copies and over, to one address, each ... 35c.
Subscriptions to be paid in advance unless otherwise arranged for by subscribers.

Foreign Money Orders.

Bear in mind the fact that the post office at Lamoni is now a Foreign Money Order Office. Therefore, those in foreign countries sending moneys to this office should draw them on Lamoni, Iowa, U. S. A.

ZION'S HOPE

Is published every Saturday by the Church of Christ, at Lamoni, Iowa. Single copies, per year, 50c; packages of four to ten 40c; packages of over ten 35c.

Welsh Hymn Book.

We have on hand about 100 copies of a book, entitled "Llyfr Hymnau at Wasaneth Eglwys Iesu Grist. Ad-Roleiddedig Sant y Dydd Diweddaf." There are 393 hymns in Welsh and 33 in English. It is published by the church in Wales, and sent here for sale. Sixty cents each, free of postage; bound in full leather, marbled edges.

Lamoni and Vicinity.

Those wishing to become acquainted with Lamoni and vicinity, will do well to subscribe for

THE LAMONI GAZETTE

A weekly paper, now published by

LAMBERT & HANSEN.

dec11t

J. H. HANSEN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Will practice in Lamoni and vicinity; calls made at all hours. Office in Drug Store of Hansen & Walker, Lamoni

MIDWIFERY and DISEASES of WOMEN a Specialty

Residence one block East Teal's Store. 14feb1y

Money Orders.

Money Orders are much safer than Postal Notes when remitting to this office, and they cost but two cents more. Don't forget this, lest you lose money.

D. DANCER, Manager

"A BOOK FOR THE PEOPLE."

CAPTIVATING! USEFUL! Eloquent Discussions, and Diplomatic Papers on the Great Public Questions of the Past and Present, by JAMES G. BLAINE.

Embracing his masterly arguments on the vital issues in the Anti-Slavery Struggle, the All Important Labor Question, Prohibition, Irish Home-Rule, etc., etc. A FORTUNE FOR BOOK CANVASSERS! APPLICATIONS FOR TERRITORY COMING IN WITH A RUSH! THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING CO., NORWICH, CT

WHEN YOU TRAVEL

Take the Line selected by the United States Government to carry the Fast Mail,—the

As it is the Line running Through Trains to and from the following cities and towns on its own Lines:

CHICAGO, AURORA, OTTAWA, STREATOR, ROCKFORD, DUBUQUE, LA GROSSE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, MENDOTA, PEORIA, GALESBURG, ST. LOUIS, QUINCY, KEOKUK, BURLINGTON, WASHINGTON, OSKALOOSA, DES MOINES, CHARITON, CRESTON, ST. JOSEPH, ATCHISON, KANSAS CITY, NEBRASKA CITY, OMAHA, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LINCOLN & DENVER,

Making Direct Connections

TO AND FROM NEW YORK, BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON, CINCINNATI, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON, NEW ORLEANS, LOUISVILLE, SAN FRANCISCO, LOS ANGELES, SALT LAKE CITY, COLORADO AND PACIFIC COAST RESORTS, CITY OF MEXICO, PORTLAND, OREGON, MANITOBA, VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND POINTS.

Good Equipment, Good Service, Good Connection.

For information concerning the Burlington Route, apply to the nearest Ticket Agent of the C., B. & Q. or connecting railroads.

HENRY B. STONE, PAUL MORTON, General Manager, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt., CHICAGO, ILL.

Train Leaves Lamoni, Going East at 1:45 p. m. Do. do. West 2:53 " At Bethany Junction, 3 miles east of Lamoni Trains pass going South at 3:07 a. m. Going East and West, pass at 12:10 a. m.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEARKEN TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAVE IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.
"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 34.—Whole No. 744.

Lamoni, Iowa, August 20, 1887.

No. 34.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

Business letters and subscriptions must be sent to David Dancer, by P. O. Order, Registered letter or express Entered as second class matter at Lamoni Post Office.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH . . . . . EDITOR.
W. W. BLAIR . . . . . ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, August 20, 1887.

"A NOTABLE MORMON DEAD.

"JOHN TAYLOR, president of the Mormon Church, died at Salt Lake City, July 25th, aged seventy-eight years. He appears to have been a fugitive from justice, being under indictment for polygamous practices, and his death was not generally known until the 27th.

"Taylor's career as a Mormon dignitary commenced in Hancock county. For several years before the exodus he was a member of the council of the Twelve, and one of Joseph Smith's trusted friends and advisers. He was one of the four persons in the old county jail when the Smiths were killed, June 27th, 1844. Himself and Willard Richards were companions of the Smith in jail. In the assault of the mob on the jail the two Smiths were killed, and Taylor received a shot which smashed a large old-fashion English watch, wounding him slightly. He then crawled under a bed and escaped further injury. He then crawled under a bed and escaped further injury. Richards hid behind the door when it was forced open, and escaped injury.

"Taylor left Nauvoo in 1846, and soon thereafter became identified with the Mormon occupation of Salt Lake City. On Brigham Young's death, some eight or nine years ago, he was elected president of the church. It is not likely his successor will be elected for some months. Joseph F. Smith, a son of Hyrum, is prominently mentioned for the succession, but the Mormon church would take a wise step in settling the social and religious status of their order by electing Joseph Smith, the oldest son of the prophet, to the presidency. He is a man of commanding presence and ability, is opposed to polygamy, is conservative and moderate, yet having the zeal and force of character of a man who believes the doctrines he teaches and has the courage of his convictions. There are many thousands of Mormons scattered about over the world who firmly believe that Joseph Smith is the rightful successor to the apostleship of his father the prophet."

The foregoing is from the Carthage,

Hancock county, Illinois, Republican, J. M. Davidson, editor, of August 3d. The Republican has such information as enables it to know that there are two Joseph Smiths in the Mormon problem; one the son of Hyrum Smith, who would be a resident of Salt Lake City, if he was at home, and who is a practical polygamist and radical in its advocacy, and whose name is Joseph Fielding Smith; the other, is the son of Joseph Smith, the putative founder of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, who resides at Lamoni, Decatur county, Iowa, and who is anti-polygamist, and presides over the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, which is monogamous in its doctrine, theory and practice of the marriage relation. This information some of the papers are not in possession of; as witness the following from the New York Weekly Graphic of August 2d:

"The next head of the Mormon Church will probably not be, as predicted, Joseph F. Smith, son of the founder of the church. Joseph, if we mistake not, is opposed to polygamy, and without polygamy the church would die."

In a town fifty miles, or so, from Lamoni, there was a meeting or convention called in the interest of the Temperance cause. In discussing the needs and work of a little place some eight miles from the place where the convention sat, the name of a lady living there with her husband, and both moving in good society and accounted good, honorable citizens, was proposed as a good Temperance worker, and one suitable to be appointed to engage in the cause in the village where they lived. After the proposition was heard a lady rose and said in reference to this appointment: "I hear that she is a Mormon." Another rose and said: "No, she is not a Mormon, but she associates with the Mormons and attends their meetings." The lady admitted this to be true, and added, "They are the best people we have got in our town."

The moral of this colloquy is that this woman, though a good advocate for temperance and a worker, and a citizen of good repute, her husband a business man of that place and known to many, was unfit to receive the appointment from this band of temperance people—because she associated with Latter Day Saints, and attended the meetings, she being not a member of the church.

If there ever was an exhibition of religious bigotry and snobbery this is one. The idea that the question of religious inclination or belief, should be raised in a convention of temperance workers and among those whose very organization demands that they shall "lift up the fallen, care for the dying;" lay hold upon the degraded and aid them to resist evil and do good, is strongly tinged with pharisaical Puritanism and self-righteousness. It is beyond the pale of a decent regard for common courtesy and kindness; to say nothing of the Christian virtues.

It is currently reported that a late camp-meeting orator, in one of his exhortations of professed Christians, declared that "you might take fifty acres of the professed Christians of the present day, and when they were simmered down to those who were real, true Christians, there would not be five feet square left of the whole lot."

We wonder if that is true. If so, is it because of the methods men like himself employ to make men professors of religion. If so, does not the fault lie primarily at the door of their religious teachers? Are the "overseers" of such flocks of the same sort as the members of the congregations to which they minister?

The same preacher is credited with uttering the following: "Commercial honesty is damnable roguery." As this preacher was himself under pay, and constant appeals were made to the congregation "to stay, and pray, and pay," it is a question to the looker on whether the effort of the camp-meeting was not a sort of mercantile affair, and what measure of "commercial honesty" might be mixed up in this process of saving souls. If such processes make fifty acres of professed Christians, only five feet square of whom are real Christians, one might be tempted to ask; Does not such ministerial salvation result in wholesale damnation. This was undoubtedly suggested to many who heard these statements.

FROM one of our exchanges, the Sandwich, Illinois, Gazette, August 5th, we clip the following:

"Earlville seems to be growing weary of the old ecclesiastical organizations and is making a movement to organize a people's church after the style of Dr. Thomas' of Chicago."

Earlville is a fast little town on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railway, some seventy miles west from Chicago; and doubtless is anxious to ape the airs of the renowned village by the lake.

"After the style of Dr. Thomas," would be to secure some minister who had been dismissed from his denomination for preaching doctrines contrary to the creeds, and who when thus expelled decided to preach his own views, rather than be controlled by the elders of his church. But it will puzzle the people of Earlville to find a man like Dr. Thomas; for if there was ever a man expelled from the church of his choice needlessly, Dr. Thomas is one. Of him one of his fellow church-man said, "It is a pity there is no room in our church for so Christ-like a man as Dr. Thomas." We can not commend the Earlville ambition; but we sincerely hope that they may secure for the leading spirit of their new departure, if they make it, just such a man as Dr. Thomas.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

THE Saints at Lamoni have been cheered and blessed by a visit from Bro. Joseph Luff, of Independence, who staid a week preaching in the Saints' meeting-house on the morning of August 7th. His effort was an excellent one and was received by all. Bro. Luff is soliciting aid for the church building at Independence, which he reports to be progressing well.

Bro. Henry A. Stebbins returned home from Allendale, Missouri, where he has been holding meetings for the last two weeks, closing August 10th. He held sixteen meetings, with the aid of Brn. C. H. Jones and John Johnston, having good audiences and good liberty. He baptized seven, and reports the interest still good. Among those baptized are prominent citizens of the place. A great awakening is taking place among the people; the opposers of the truth are busy, and religious bigotry is doing all it can to prevent the elders from securing the attention of the people. But in this case at Allendale, the unwise zeal of some who oppose the work has resulted in making friends to them who bear the message of truth, thus defeating the attempt to keep people from obeying. The cry, "Great is Diana," may do sometimes; but where patient truth takes up the cudgels in earnest, it is sure to "win its winding way" against all such efforts of sectarian bigotry and folly.

Brn. James and William Anderson, of Pleasanton, gave the HERALD Office and the Saints a short visit, August 10th and 11th.

Bro. Blair reports a good time at Fanning Kansas, August 6th, 7th, and the baptism of three. He went to Scranton.

Bro. Eri B. Mullen desires us to state that there will be a meeting held in a grove near his home, Georgiaville, Ray county, Missouri, commencing August 20th. Brethren J. Luff, F. C. Warnky, H. C. Bronson and others are expected to be present. Brethren Joseph Smith and W. W. Blair are invited to come. All parties are desired to come prepared to hold an old time camp-meeting for a week. Bro. J. T. Kinnaman and his band of singers are invited, and will be cared for while in attendance. All are invited.

Bro. Isaac Hogaboom wrote from Bloomington, Dakota, August 1st, that he had been preaching the best he could; there was some inquiry, and he thinks a large branch could be built up there if an elder should come in and spend the requisite time.

Bro. J. C. Clapp wrote lately, "I baptized four on Friday, July 29th, more expected." He writes from Deer Lodge V. d'ley, Montana.

Bro. J. Armstrong, writing from Nebraska City, Nebraska, states that they had a good conference at their last session; but is of the opinion that if the local elders had a little more encouragement from the ministry in charge, they would do more and better labor than they do now.

Some one has sent us a copy of The Register, published at Cave-in-Rock, Illinois, for July 29th. There is a notice marked in which Rudolph Seigris informs the people that he began a revival at Wesley chapel, July 25th; would preach at Pauper Springs at eleven a. m. Sunday; and in the Christian church at Cave-in-Rock Sunday night, August 14th. We are not informed who Rudolph Seigris is, though some of the HERALD readers may be.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat, has a special correspondent at Salt Lake City, who is of the opinion that the call for the late statehood convention was a hasty, ill advised and illegal procedure; and that it can only be followed by defeat.

Two were baptized at Lexington, Michigan, July 31st, so note from Bro. J. J. Cornish states.

Bro. J. A. McIntosh reports by card on business, that five more had been baptized at Louisville, Ontario.

We acknowledge the receipt of two copies of the San Francisco, California Chronicle, July 28th, and August 1st containing notices of the work in San Francisco, Bro. George S. Lincoln, presiding elder. The issue for the 28th contains an interview with Bro. Lincoln in regard to John Taylor, and his successor; August 1st has a notice of a discourse by Bro. C. E. Parkin, in Lincoln Hall, July 29th, giving a respectful statement in regard to the services.

There was brought into the Herald Office, August 10th, from the farm of Bro. Winthrop H. Blair, four and a half miles south-west from Lamoni, a bunch of Millet, the stalks of which measured over six feet seven inches in length, with fair heads. The millet was cut by a machine, hence the length of the stubble would make the actual growth nearly if not quite seven feet.

Bro. M. H. Bond's address is No. 46, Waverly street, Providence, Rhode Island. Please take notice.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Bro. Charles Derry, of Magnolia, Iowa, wrote August 9th:

"I revisited Unionburgh on the 29th ult., pursuant to appointment. Held five meetings in open air, aided by Elder J. Seddon during Saturday and Sunday; besides one in Bro. Wood's Hall on the Friday evening; continued until the next Thursday night, making ten discourses, and one glorious prayer meeting. Four were baptized by Bro. Samuel Diggle, all adults; and the indications are that they will be useful members in the church. I am pledged to return there on the 27th of this month at the latest. We have just closed a splendid two days' meeting in the Salem branch; Elder Sweet in charge, and Elder C. Butterworth and myself doing the preaching. None baptized but there were very large audiences and splendid attention; and Bro. Butterworth was aided by God's Spirit to do good work. Two young Brighamite elders were present while I showed the antiquity and immutability of the gospel; that it exalted to eternal life and no polygamy in it. They were silent. Saints treated them kindly."

Bro. James A. McIntosh, writing from Detroit, Michigan, August 9th, says:

"The farmers will soon be at liberty to turn out better to evening meetings. I have no complaints, however, as I have always had a congregation to preach to; although sometimes small, yet invariably the best of attention. Several have signified their intention soon to obey and receive the rite of baptism. Several have been baptized of late. I know of between forty and fifty baptized in Canada, since June conference. The laboring staff is J. H. Lake, W. J. Smith, R. C. Evans, J. H. Merriam and self. Of brethren Lake and Evans I know not of their success, and but little of where they are at present, but busy I am sure. I learn that Bro. S. Brown is in the field, and I hope winning souls and being blessed of the Master."

Bro. John Pett, writing from Dow City, Iowa, August 1st, says:

"We are now thrashing: wheat is yielding about seven bushels to the acre; quality poor, owing to chinch bugs. Oats yielding about thirty-five bushels; quality good. Corn is doing well, considering the very dry weather; but pastures are about dried up, and hay will be a light crop."

Bro. J. A. McIntosh, by card of July 3d, states:

"All well. Baptized six. Bro. J. H. Merriam has also baptized six; and I know of eight more who desire it, in the Kent and Elgin district."

FROM the news summary columns of the Springfield, Massachusetts, Republican, for July 29th, we clip the following bit of good news to all liberty loving people:

"Slavery in Brazil promises soon to be a thing of the past. The Parliament of the empire is now considering a bill providing for the final stages of emancipation, and it will pass. It declares all slaves registered under the act of 1871 to be free. But they must serve their masters two years more, being paid, however, and being cared for. Moreover, they can redeem themselves for about two hundred dollars each. Slaves fifty years old or more need not thus serve their masters, and if one of a married couple happens in some way to free himself, the other also becomes free. The registered number of slaves now in the empire is about one million two hundred thousand."

WE commend the reading of the following; it contains a deal of good sense:

"EAT BEFORE YOU DRINK."

"A large proportion of intemperance in the use of stimulants," philosophized a physician, "may be laid to the light breakfasts eaten by most people. Breakfast is the most important meal of the day and sufficient importance is not attached to it in the majority of households. After the long fast enforced between supper or late dinner and seven or eight in the morning, a person in good health should feel hungry; and it is at this hour of the day that the heartiest meal may be eaten with the least probability of bad results. The man who starts out in the morning after having eaten a hearty breakfast will seldom, unless suffering from chronic indigestion, experience any of the discomforts which might follow a similar meal at any other time of day. The chances are he will also enjoy a happy frame of mind all day; whatever be his custom, he will find himself with an excellent appetite. Eating creates appetite. The very opposite results will follow the other course in this matter, and the man who has not had a good breakfast will not enjoy a good dinner. I have treated a good many cases of habitual drunkenness, and in a great many of them I have found that the evil practice of tipping was begun to satisfy a gnawing, faint sensation in the stomach in the morning, which was nothing more or less than disguised hunger."—Buffalo Express.

Mothers' Home Column.

EDITED BY SISTER "FRANCES."

"Still linger in our noon of time
And on our Saxon tongue
The echoes of the heaven-born hymns
The Ayrton mothers sung,
And childhood had its litanies
In every age and clime;
The earliest cradles of the race
Were rocked to poet's rhyme."

Dear Sisters:—I ask your kind attention while I present again the subject of reading for the young. We hope every mother in the church will consider the vital importance of that subject, for it is one that must force a consideration, sooner or later. Among the home influences which helped to mould the morals and tastes of our childhood we count the American Agriculturist, a journal whose integrity of character as well as practical usefulness inspired in us a respect and confidence that grew with us to our womanhood. Remembering its influence for good and the zest with which it was always received in our father's household, and wishing to give my boy a share in our own youthful delights, I made him a present of two years subscription to it. He received along with the journal a history of the United States, published by the Agriculturist Publishing Company, and distributed as a premium to subscribers to their paper. On examination of the history I found on page three hundred and eighty-seven the following statement regarding the faith of our church as established by Joseph Smith. "One of the tenets of the church of Latter Day Saints teaches the doctrine of polygamy." This unfounded statement was given as a historical fact, and sent out to thousands of young readers in this and foreign countries from one of our oldest and most reliable publishing houses. There is now scarcely a publication for the young in which such false statements are not constantly made to the church or its founder. It thus becomes instilled as facts in their minds; they do not see them contradicted, and so these impressions remain to poison and prejudice their minds. It is painful to know that there are few, even among the youth of the church, who are well enough informed in the history of the church and its doctrines to know better.

When the large papers make false statements regarding the work and faith, the Herald is always at hand to note and refute such, but the books and papers read by the young seldom come under the notice of the Herald, and when they do its refutations and corrections do not meet the eyes of the young, as the Herald is seldom read even by the youth who are brought up in the church. It is not strange, therefore, that the Spaulding story and other kindred falsehoods, live and linger so long, while the young grow up with these ideas and impressions of what they honestly conceive are historical facts.

We have seen in the Herald the wonder expressed how it is that when those lies are refuted and exposed over and over again, that they continue to be repeated and believed in the same as ever. They forget that new actors are constantly coming on the stage of life who have been slyly educated in those lies from their youth. We have been so busy fighting those old veterans in front that we failed to notice how the new recruits were constantly being drilled to fill the place of those who fall; so we hack away and wonder that the old hydra is so tenacious of life. Probably few of those who meet our elders in debate are aware how they obtained their impressions concerning Latter Day Saints, or how they became possessed of the idea that we are the awful bad people that they imagine. They always thought so, and few will think to trace it to statements like that quoted from the American Agriculturist's history; yet it is undoubtedly in just such way that the present generation have gained their prejudice against the gospel. It seems as though Satan takes advantage of our destitution in respect to youthful literature, to make offensive weapons of that which he finds in the world.

I do hope that our people are awakening to the importance of this matter, and that soon we shall have a literature that will meet the needs of this class of readers, to disseminate the truths of the faith, and the facts of history, and help to gain for the church the recognition due her as teaching by precept and practice the highest standard of morality, and the purest Bible christianity. Sister Frances ought to meet the most cordial support in her endeavors to establish such a literature; otherwise it would seem vain to pray for the triumphs of truth. I earnestly hope that all mothers who desire the welfare of their children as well as the prosperity of Zion, will enter into the full spirit of this work. There is much that the poorest of us can do without, better than this. Let the names come in for "Autumn Leaves." "They shall prosper who love Zion." If we, mothers, never do anything else for the cause than to establish a pure literature for our children, the influence of which shall reach outward to the children of the world, instead of the vile trash that now reaches inward to the church, we will do a work the good of which can never be estimated. Think earnestly of it.

Yours in love and truth,

ELEANOR.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Dear Sister Walker:—The Herald is very welcome to me in my loneliness, bringing as it does so much to cheer and comfort me. I often spend several hours on Sabbath reading over old Heralds; it is like renewing old friendships, and I never get tired of it. Speaking of the Sabbath calls to my mind a conversation once had with a dear sister, on the manner of spending that day; and how much we wished the Herald would give a few words of counsel on that matter. Among some few of the Saints it had been a custom to visit and have what they called a good time on that day. Somehow I can not help feeling that we should be very strict in keeping holy the Sabbath day, and I have thought that if we are not very careful in regard to this matter we may be instruments in the hands of the adversary to lead astray even our own children. Says one mother: "Oh the boys must have some amusement, and Sunday is the only day they have; and I don't see any harm in a game of croquet or cards, even if it is Sunday. Then they want to run around and see their friends; and one ought not to be too strait-laced with the girls, they need some recreation, and they like to dress like other folks, and I want my girls to have what fun they can while they are young." I have often thought that a mother can not be too careful of the company her daughters keep, and I think that often times if mothers could hear the conversation of the young men who go to dances and play cards, they would see to it that their daughters did not keep their company. And let me hope that every mother who has been given a son will pledge herself to the good Father that, so far as lies in her power by clean speech and a consistent Christian life, she will so raise that son that she can give to society a man of whom it shall be said, "I am not afraid to trust my daughter in his company."

I read to-day in the Hope "A word to girls," and how much I thank the writer. How well I remember with what severity my dear mother rebuked any one who in her presence began a "They say" story, and how carefully she taught us girls (seven of us) when very young, that we must never, even among ourselves, speak of anything evil, or repeat any tales we might hear that had the least tendency to stain the name of any one. She early taught us that talebearers and gossips were of all creatures the most despicable, and that a person of pure heart and refined feeling would scorn to speak of another's failings. I am glad to see counsel given in the Hope on this matter; and I trust that the many mothers who read the Hope will read it to their little ones.

I am glad to see a letter in the "Column" from dear old sister Mathers. It has been many years since I met her. I often think of a remark so common to her: "Let us thank the Lord for his mercies and goodness to us. He has been so good to us, and if we praise him for all his mercies we shall have no time for any grumbling." And I am sure she was right. May the Lord give her many days of peace.

The Herald comes to-day laden with good words, and the letters are cheering. Sisters, let us have more letters. Sister Martha Elvin, where are you? I used to listen to you on the gospel work, in the happy long ago, with great interest, and I know your letters would be interesting. Sisters, all, let us each strive daily to make our work in our home circle acceptable to the Master.

In good will to all, I am your sister,

ANTIONETTE.

COOK'S POINT, Texas, June 16th.

Dear Sisters of the Home Column: I will try to write a few lines of encouragement, thinking you would like to know how I am enjoying myself in this warm climate. My health is better here than it was in Stewartsville. That climate did not agree with me; but I can not give this country all the credit, for the reason that I know the prayers of God's people have been lifted up for me. Since I came here many have written to me that they do remember me, and for this I am truly thankful. My faith, since I came into this work, is constantly increasing. While we were living in Dickinson county, Kansas, close by Bro. and Sr. Vanfleet's, we had many happy hours in prayer and testimony meetings; but the scarlet fever came in the neighborhood, and many of the Saints' families were sick, and some died. One of my children took the fever when I was all alone and no one to help me. My husband was in Smith county, Kansas. I sent for the elders, who administered to my child, but she did not get any relief until I wrote for my husband. When he got my letter he took it to the Lord in prayer, and while in prayer he saw the child well, and he did not come home. Then I sent for other elders, and they prayed for my child, and the fever left her, and she was soon well.

Dear sisters, my thoughts about raising a family are as "Aunt Patience's." I am the mother of seven children, but only three are living; and since the death of the last one, which was one year ago, I have studied more about the hereafter; and in a dream I thought I was at the last child's grave, and the coffin was open, and the dear little child sat up in the coffin, and her hands were as crystal, and her whole body was transparent, clear, and fresh as a rose, and she was singing the sweetest song I ever heard. I was trying to join in singing the chorus, and that chorus was this:

"Glory to God in the highest;
Peace on earth, good will to men."

This was so sweet that I could not forget it, and it is yet fresh in my mind. I will close by saying, this is the Lord's work, and it can not fail.

Your sister,

LUVENIA ROBERTS.

CALIFORNIA.

Dear Sr. Frances: I realize that every step taken by the church is onward and upward, and if the mothers and sisters take the same interest in the new magazine they have in the Home Column, it will do good and be a success. I often look back to the time when I was one of the flock. There was no Sunday School and no Sunday School, and no Zion's Hope for the little ones to read. That was forty-six years ago, in London, England. At that time it was the intense longing of my heart to see Joseph the martyr, and to be with the Saints in America; but it was ten years later when I landed on the shores of America, and nine years later (in 1859) we crossed the plains for California—my husband, myself and one child. We went to Sacramento in the fall of 1863, and there we heard of the Reorganization of the church, and I was baptized by Bro. E. H. Webb, in 1863.

May God bless you and all with you in the effort to do good.

AUNT SARAH.

SHE HATH DONE WHAT SHE COULD.

SISTER FRANCES:—The question came to my mind this morning as I read the 14th chapter of Mark, Have I done what I could? When I look back over my life I can see that the hand of the Lord has been over me for good, all my days; and this morning my heart swells with gratitude to my heavenly Father for his loving kindness and tender mercies, for out of deep affliction the Lord has lifted me and put joy and gladness in my heart and home. Now, while I have tried to do my duty, the question comes, Have I done all I could? Solemn thought!

I think the Mothers' Home Column will be a great blessing to the church; and may our heavenly Father bless you with wisdom and grace to perform your part.

There is a great responsibility resting upon the Saints in training their children. In the first place we must live pure, truthful, prayerful lives before them; for if we don't they won't have any faith in us or our religion when they grow older. We should teach them to be thankful to God, because he is the giver of every good and perfect gift. Teach them about his love and care over us; of the beautiful city made without hands, and the mansions prepared for those that love God and keep his commandments. We must try to instil love for Christ in their hearts; show them how we may all live forever with our Savior, through his resurrection. Indeed, dear Saints, we are commanded to teach our children diligently. Deut. 6: 6, 7. Then let us endeavor to be faithful in keeping the commandments of God; for where much is given much will be required. It will be sad indeed to those who have neglected known duty to hear the command given, "Depart, ye know me not;" but on the other hand how happy those will be who hear the welcome plaudit, "Well done good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord!" Then let us do what we can. Praying God will enable us all to do our duty, I am your sister in Christ,

ANNIE FLOWER.

HOME COLUMN MISSIONARY FUND.

A Brother, Flintville, Wisconsin.....	1 00
Sr. Nancy P. Gamet, Mondamin, Iowa....	1 00
Annie and Mary Danielson, Leland, Illinois	67
Bro. John S. Lawton, Boston, Massachusetts,	1 00
Sr. Mary Hawley, Greenwich, California..	2 00
Sr. A. S. Sellon, Burlington, Iowa.....	75
Sr. Annie Locke, Coldwater, Michigan....	1 00
A Sister, Dow City, Iowa.....	1 00
A. J. and C. C. Blakesley, Afton, Iowa....	1 50

LAMONT, Iowa, August 11th.

Correspondence.

SANTA ANA, Cal., July 28th.

Dear Herald: During the early part of the year circumstances were such that I could not get far from home; consequently my labors were confined to San Bernardino, where I preached as often as convenient, counseled the local authorities as seemed good, kept myself in communication with my co-laborers in different parts of the mission, suggesting and directing according to the wisdom given me.

On June 7th I had the privilege of baptizing Sr. Givens (an old-time Saint) and Bro. James Baldwin's little boy. On the 12th I met with the Saints of Los Angeles and spoke morning and evening. Found Bro. J. R. Badham still at his post with his wonted zeal, trying to cheer the Saints and keep the work moving. I remained with the Los Angeles branch two weeks, visiting, preaching and looking after the church interests. While there Bro. Badham baptized three adults: one of them from the Advent church, the other two having been non-professors.

The 26th, in company with Bro. J. A. Anthony, went to Downey, where we were made welcome at the house of our worthy brother, Nelson Vanfleet, under whose roof I had rested near Abilene, Kansas. It is good to meet the tried and the true. I preached at Bro. Vanfleet's several times, and found a few interested. On the 30th, I had the pleasure of baptizing Bro. Vanfleet's two daughters and son.

July 1st found me at Santa Ana, where I have been ever since, with the exception of a visit to San Bernardino and one to Laguna. Have preached here several times with from fair to good liberty.

Bro. Mills has arrived, having been hurried home from Nevada by failing health. He is not in good health yet, but in excellent spirits—gives a glowing account of the conference and his visits by the way. If all who attended the conference carried away as much encouragement and good cheer as did Bro. Mills, good results will follow.

I rejoice to hear of the great success attending the labors of many of the elders in the east. God be praised. We are not without encouragement here, yet our advancement is slow, I fear, compared with others. The great drawback here, to our work, is the "boom" in real estate. The minds of the people are full of speculation. You can engage their attention upon no other subject. Saints, many of them, are carried away with the excitement. We can only raise a warning voice amidst this tumult and confusion, and leave the result with God, and wait to see what the end will be. It "bodes" no good for the Saints of God if in their prosperity they forget their Benefactor. Upon the other hand, if they make a proper use of that placed in their hands, keep themselves humble and devoted to duty, good will come to them. We shall see how many will come out of the fire refined and purified.

Individually, I have scarcely ever felt the influence of contending powers so sensibly as in the last few weeks. Sometimes I feel like a tempest driven bark: at one moment riding the crest of the wave, with the grandeur of the universe open to my admiring view, and the next threatened to be engulfed by the waves, which rise mountain high around me. But my faith in the great latter day work, including that of the Reorganization, becomes more firmly fixed by every conflict through which I pass.

Hoping that the time to favor Zion is near, I am in bonds of gospel love,

HEMAN C. SMITH.

TARLETON, Tenn., Aug. 1st.

Bro. W. W. Blair:—I am in the middle division of Tennessee, where I was raised. I enjoy the visit very much. I am preaching to my old neighbors, friends, and kinfolks. I have large congregations and good attention. The people here seem to be honest and are anxious to learn our doctrine, or the doctrine we believe, "yea know." My stay will be short here. I would be glad to have an opportunity to fully explain all our claims as they seem to be anxious to know; but I will have to go back to my home in Texas and look after the flock that I have the oversight of there. I was re-elected president of the Central Texas district at the last session, which was held near Hearne; had a good time at conference. Our next conference will be held at Cook's Point in Burleson county, at the call of the president. Hope to meet a good number of the membership.

The good work seems to go on in spite of all the opposition it has. I find when the people in some places find that they can not set aside our claims by the Bible they cry out "Mormonism," it seems for the purpose of gratifying their hatred and to prevent others from investigating for themselves. But, however, the truth does and will prevail sooner or later. I am so glad that it is so. I will go home in about two weeks and then the brethren of the different branches in our district may expect me around to see them, and report as to my success in Tennessee. I again ask the brethren and sisters to pray that I may be able to earnestly contend for the faith once delivered to the Saints, my prayer is that the good Lord may continue to prosper Zion. May he continue to bless us all in our several station.

Yours in gospel bonds.

E. W. NUMLEY.

LAMONI, Iowa, August 2d.

Editors Herald:—Since the Kirtland Conference I have not done much preaching; though I have not been idle when able to work. May 24th, I went to St. Joseph, Missouri, on church business, leaving on the 26th for Spickardsville, Missouri, via Clarksdale, stopping over one night with Bro. A. W. Head and family. I remained at Spickardsville, and vicinity, till the 14th of June. On my arrival, I found that the Methodist and Christian churches, both of which were open to us last summer, had been closed against us. For two succeeding Sundays I spoke in the grove, with good liberty, to interested, but not large congregations. I spoke twice on each Sunday. I am satisfied that good was done, but O, how much depends upon the conduct of the Saints where we labor, and of the people to whom we present the word of life! We can not compel any to receive the truth, none to honor it in their lives, after having received it, and we would not if we could. Nor should we permit any false inducement to influence any one in obeying the gospel. If the love of the truth and a desire for salvation are not sufficient inducements, so far as I am concerned, if I know it, they must stay without, where they properly belong, to receive that for which they live.

On the evenings of May 31st, June 1st, 2d, 4th and 9th I spoke in the West Fair View school-house; also on Sunday, the 12th, at 11 a. m. June 7th and 8th, spoke in the Arnick school-house, in another direction from town, where we had good attention and interest. Some expressed themselves very favorably to the faith and doctrine of Christ. I found kind friends, in town and in the country, who willingly did what they could to alleviate those things which are so common to my life. Spickardsville and vicinity, like many, many other places, need the whole time of one "good elder." Yes, good elder, for they are the only kind in demand wherever we go.

After the churches had been closed against us in town, Rev. Isaac Chivington, of the M. E. Church, made a cunning and desperate effort to sustain the old doctrine of the creeds (but not of the Bible) viz: "The canon of scripture is full; the Bible contains all that God intended for man in all ages of the world." After hearing two discourses on this subject, and after taking in the situation as best we could, I sent him (the minister) the following note:

"SPICKARDSVILLE, Mo., June 7th.

"Rev. Isaac Chivington, Dear Sir:—It has been my privilege to listen to two discourses delivered by you, in which an attempt was made to bring into disrepute the doctrine of "continued revelation," as taught and believed by the people I have the honor to represent. Your attempt was a vigorous one, and, in my judgment, somewhat bitter and unfair; but as you called the attention of the people to the grand teachings of the Bible, and the danger of allowing them to be subverted by anything else, (all of which we most fully believe), there is a good and acknowledged basis from which we, as professed ministers for Christ, may properly labor to bring the people to a unity of belief.

"In your effort, you claimed that the Bible contains all the revelation that God intended for his people in all ages of the world. We believe that this proposition is not, and can not be sustained by Bible proof. Are you willing to affirm it in a friendly, religious discussion, for the benefit of the people of Spickardsville? We are willing to negative this proposition, using King James translation of the Bible (which you say you prefer) as the standard of evidence. Truth does not shun a fair and full investigation; nor are its honest and intelligent devotees, anxious that error should be securely imprisoned, before they dare to defend its claims. Please let me hear from you at your earliest convenience, as I may leave the town in a few days.

"Yours for truth and right,

"JOSEPH R. LAMBERT."

I have not heard from him up to date.

On the 15th inst. I went to Flaglers, a small mining town twenty-eight miles from Albia and forty miles from Des Moines. There are about eight members of the church living in this town, including Brn. Thomas R. Williams and Abram Jones, both of whom hold the office of priest. These brethren had been holding prayer and preaching services for some months, assisted and sustained in their work by Saints and friends. When they commenced these meetings, so I was informed, there was no religious services conducted, publicly, in the town; but in a short time after these brethren began to expound to the people "the faith once delivered to the Saints," the Methodist people commenced work in their line and in their way. They found a minister in the country, held a series of meetings and made some converts, and have been very active ever since. Mr. Bunting, Justice of the Peace, delivered a lecture a short time before my arrival there in which he denounced us in strong terms, affirming that we are one with the Brighamites, are a set of "cut-throats and adulterers," etc., etc. This man who was so anxious that the people be not deceived (?) did not attend any of our meetings while I was there. I sent him a kind and special invitation to come and listen to the other side, but he did not come. Why should a shepherd flee when "the wolf cometh?"

I remained in Flaglers till the evening of the 25th, spoke nine times to fair sized congregations, as a rule, some of whom seemed to be deeply interested. I am satisfied that good can be done at this place, as it can at many other places, if the proper amount of the right kind of labor is bestowed.

It seems to be necessary for me to say, though I regret the necessity, that I shall be able to do but little till there is a change for the better in my physical condition. I think I never felt a deeper interest in the work, nor stronger assurances of its ultimate triumph. I call the special attention of "all the missionaries in this field," Iowa and Missouri, to the request of the missionary in charge, as published in Herald for May 21st, 1887, page 334. A respectable number have promptly responded, while quite a large number, for reasons best known to themselves, have failed to do so. Please do not allow September 15th, the time for the second report, to pass by with this necessary duty unperformed.

I am receiving good news from some parts of my field, while some others are suffering from the need of ministerial labor, and the follies of those who are called Saints.

Your in bonds,

JOSEPH R. LAMBERT.

GLENWOOD, Iowa, August 2d.

Bro. Joseph:—Our two days meeting held at Emerson on the 9th and 10th of July, was well attended. The Saints from Farm Creek, as well as from Key Stone, were in attendance, and with the few that live at Emerson and vicinity, we had a very enjoyable time. Elder Luff was with us and preached the gospel straight, in his usual logical manner. He was greatly helped by the Spirit, the word came with power and urgency, to the joy and satisfaction of the Saints, and to the gladdening of the hearts of many who knew not the truth. Our Methodist friends kindly gave us the use of their church when not in use by themselves. We occupied it Sunday afternoon and Saturday night, Bro. D. Hougas preaching Sunday afternoon to a fair audience. I remained over the next week and Sabbath, held two meetings during the week, and three on Sunday and had more in attendance of those not in the church than on the previous Sabbath. I had the pleasure of baptizing two, Bro. Graham and wife; both full and strong believers in the doctrine of Christ. On Monday night held confirmation meeting at the house of Sr. Graham, mother of Bro. Graham, and in that place God truly met with us in power and in much assurance. After attending to the confirmation we had prayer and testimony, and the hearts of all were made to rejoice in the God and rock of their salvation; the gifts of the gospel were manifested, and God spoke peace to our souls; his holy Spirit hallowed every mind and filled each soul with his love, until all hearts were melted down to tears of joy and gratitude to God. From there I went to Wheeler's Grove and held meetings, and spent two Sabbaths. The first Sunday Bro. D. Hougas was with us and preached in the afternoon; his sermon was applicable and timely, and appreciated by all present. The following week was spent in practicing and making preparations for a Sunday School concert to be held on the following Sunday afternoon. On Saturday night we presented the word and on Sunday morning with excellent liberty. After which we enjoyed a very agreeable picnic dinner, provided by Saints and friends for the occasion. At half past two our concert commenced, the songs and declamations being arranged suitably for the occasion, and valuable aid obtained from members of other churches, two hours were very profitably and agreeably spent. The house was seated to its utmost capacity, and a large crowd outside who were unable to get in. At night we preached to a full house. Thus ended our labors in that place for the present. Members of other churches expressed themselves well satisfied. I must say in behalf of the Saints of Wheeler's Grove: they have the ability, being numbered among the sweet singers of Israel, as well as the vim and stamina to make anything of this kind a success. I shall stay in this place a night or two, and then work my way down to the Rees School-house for next Sunday. The officers and Saints of the district have done nobly in making our two days meeting successful; may the blessing of God attend the faithful labors of his Saints and servants is my continual prayer.

Our Reunion Meeting to be held in the grove of Bro. William Leeka, four miles north of McPaul, located on the Kansas City and St. Joseph Railroad, commences on the 26th of August, 1887. We expect to hold over two Sundays. We earnestly hope all the Saints in the district that possibly can, will attend, and we cordially invite Saints from other districts to meet with us. We expect one of the First Presidency, Elders Lambert and Luff, with others, to attend. Come one, and come all. Teams will be at the depot at McPaul to carry passengers to the meeting free of charge, on the 26th and 27th. May the blessing of God attend all is the prayer of your brother in bonds,

HENRY KEMP.

NORTH PLYMOUTH, Mass., July 31st.

Bro. Joseph:—The Spirit seems to move upon me to write for the Herald. Its teachings give me comfort and relief; especially when I peruse the experiences of others, the sacrifices they have been called to make, and the blessings they have received afterwards. How true our Savior's words, "The spirit is willing but the flesh is weak." Also, when he was wrestling in prayer: "If it is possible let this cup pass from me; but if not, thy will be done." This was the principle he acted upon.

I baptized three Sunday the 17th. There was quite a number to attend, the Spirit was with us in peace. It seemed solemn to all that were there, to see those young children so firm and determined to do the Master's will. Some witnessed the scene with tears. Those baptized did not exceed fourteen years. It seemed that when I was in the water the heavens witnessed unto it, for there was a circle around me, and the Spirit attended the confirmation, and throughout the day. We heard them bear witness to the work; and so our dear Savior works with his children. May the good work go on until the honest in heart are gathered in, is my prayer. We have had Brn. E. C. Briggs and M. H. Bond to pay us a visit. The former was never here before; he is a grand representative of the work. I am so glad that God has chosen such men. The latter is not afraid to present the truth. I know that he is seeking eternal life in the kingdom of our God, and not for the praises of men. May God bless him, and you, Bro. Joseph, and all the helpers in the gospel. Your brother in Christ,

N. R. NICKERSON.

ELLINGTON, Minn., Aug. 1st.

Bro. Joseph: I have just returned from Brownsdale, where I went to baptize Bro. W. J. Graves, whose name appeared in the Herald some time ago, requesting that some one be sent there for that purpose. I spoke once while there in the Christian Church to a fair congregation, and was blessed with the Spirit of the Master in presenting the word. I think Brownsdale would be a very hard place to open up the work. Prejudice is very strong there. Bro. Graves in posting notices for preaching, posted one in a hotel of the place, and the landlord's wife tore it down, and said that they did not want any of that there; but the man came out to hear me, and thought that we believed about as they did. I left Bro. Graves feeling well and satisfied that he had done right. Since his letter appeared in the Herald he has received three packages of papers and pamphlets from David Whitmer; but Bro. Graves is satisfied with the truth, therefore, has no use for them. I have two appointments out here to fill, and think that in time some will be gathered out. I have been blessed with the Spirit of the Master, when standing before the people to show the way of life, and have thus received a fulfillment of the promise that if I would walk humbly, that the Spirit should be with me. Thus my faith is strengthened in the work of God, for it is surely his work, and will abide though men and devils may assail it. Having put the gospel harness on, I expect to wear it until it shall be said that my work is done. Yours for the truth,

E. A. STEDMAN.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., May 19th.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—I write this to inform you that I have renewed my covenant. I have made promise to the Lord that, by his assisting power, I will try to serve him to the end. I have not taken any part in the church for about five years, being led astray by the enemy of all good, so I became discouraged. Some of the officers visited me, but to no good. I told them not to bother me. I also said perhaps the Lord would feel after me, and if so I was willing that he should use me; so they let me alone as I desired, and after many days the good Father has truly stirred up my heart and mind insomuch that I did promise him if he only would forgive me I would try to serve him to the end, and his promise is sure. Now I offer my confession to the church in hopes of their prayers for me. Wherein I have done wrong or offended any, I humbly ask their forgiveness. I desire good.

I remain, WM. S. McMULLIN.

AKRON, Iowa, August 6th.

Dear Herald:—From Sioux City we went to Kingsley, where we secured the school-house in Quorn, the old town, and preached ten discourses to small but attentive audiences. The director here was so kind as to light up, and ring the bell for us. On Thursday, July 28th, our heart was made glad in our being permitted to lead three candidates into the waters, two being the granddaughters of "Uncle William" Jordan, the other, a young man of twenty. On account of previous appointment we were obliged to close here the evening of the 28th. Since leaving, we learn there is another candidate for baptism. We proceeded from here to Sioux City by stage, through rain and mud, arriving at 11:30 p. m. Bro. Berg had given notice of our meetings to the three leading journals, which they kindly published. On Saturday I billed the main streets with preaching notices; but found on our arrival at the grove, Sunday, very few out. However, they were very attentive, and at the close of the 2:30 p. m. discourse, an engineer of the I. C. R. R. expressed himself as highly pleased, and at departure extended unto us the hearty grasp of the hand, offering the hope that we might meet again. We concluded here Monday evening, and on Tuesday came to this place where we secured the use of the Christian Church for three evenings, closed last night. We were greeted the first evening with about thirty persons. The second, the rain prevented the presence of all but ten. Last night some seventy-five were present, and during our fifty-five minutes discourse marked attention was paid. If the minister fails to come we will probably occupy the church longer. We wish that some of our people could see the energy of some of those sisters that called forth Bro. Derry's poetical expression some years ago, and who are still living here. These noble sisters have aided me in every way possible.

The Saints generally have been very kind, and the time will come when they will get their reward.

In bonds,

J. W. WIGHT.

KENTON, Tenn., Aug. 6th.

Dear Editors: Will you permit a few words of a sinner in the pages of the Herald. I am a sinner because I have never been adopted unto the Lord. I am not permitted to draw near unto him as his child, although my heart may be "sprinkled from an evil conscience," yet my body is not "washed with pure water," and this is the only way I find written in the New Testament that a man can come unto him and please him. The second birth must needs be, or we can not enter into the kingdom; and not only enter into, but Christ says (John 3:3) "Verily, verily I say unto you, Except a man be born again he can not see the kingdom of God; and he then tells us how we must be born into righteousness. Again he says there is but one way, and that "he that enters any other way is a thief and a robber."

And now I wish to say a few words to the heirs of Christ whom he has chosen to feed his sheep. Are you going to stall feed and fatten a few of your chosen ones, while others that can not be in your chosen fold do hunger for even the leavings and waste blades? Will you not gather up a few of the waste blades of the stall fed fold and carry them to the lost sheep in the wilderness that are starving for them? We heard in the spring that the Henry county elders were coming here this summer, but we have not heard any more from them. May our God select his own due time, and send laborers into his harvest before the heat has burned the straws until they have fallen to the ground and the precious wheat be lost.

GEORGE H. BRUSH.

CABOOL, Mo., July 29th.

Brother Blair:—Have just returned from the Pinery, sixty miles east of here, where I have been engaged at carpenter work. The Great Ruler has favored me with health and business, and I have tried to do something in the interest of the great latter day work. At the head of Pike Creek, in Shannon county, I got permission to lecture on church history from a Bible standpoint. I took for a subject: "If judgment begin at the throne of God, where shall the sinner and the ungodly appear." I had to tell what kind of a house the house of God is, give its organization in the the days of Moses, show how judgment began at it, and how Father worked with it, and identified it as His church. I hear I gave good satisfaction to many present. I have introduced and advocated the gospel in four counties where it was unknown five years ago. Wright, Texas, Howell, and Shannon counties. I have to make good use of labor days to secure food and raiment. I think Whitmer should be ashamed of his pamphlet.

Yours in bonds,

B. A. ATWELL.

KNOX, Ind., July 30th.

Bro. Joseph:—The debate between Bro. Leonard Scott, of our faith, and Rev. Fennamore, of the Adventist, closed with a grand success to our cause. Although Bro. Scott had an able opponent, (said to be the ablest in their ranks), yet the Lord blessed us with the victory, and the impression generally is, that the "boy" was too much for him. Indeed, Bro. Scott's arguments based on the "capabilities" of the mind of man, "volition" &c., were left entirely unnoticed by his opponent, and most of the scriptural arguments presented in favor of our position, were met by sophistry. 'Tis also evident that the reverend gentleman had enough by his decline of further investigation, when pressed by Bro. Scott. It is to be regretted that the debate did not continue longer than three evenings. There was a splendid representation out each evening, including the "officials of town," and notwithstanding the M. E's. and Free Methodists voted their members out of attendance, it gave room for those somewhat above religion's insanity. We believe a great deal of good will result therefrom, although it was brief. We trust for the fruit to be manifested in due season. We are feeling strong in the work. Pray for its success and glorification.

Yours in the faith,

J. B. PRETTYMAN.

COLDWATER, Mich., July.

Mr. Editors:—Is it the duty of the elders of this church to reply to every blackguard that yelps against the Book of Mormon? It has been proved by good witnesses to be of divine origin time and again. This idea of replying to every bark or yelp of the dogs looks like the defendant in court who rakes all the saloons and doggeries to get witnesses to defend his case, when three good witnesses will do just as well.

If the Plain-Dealer cares to know facts, and let his readers know those facts relating to the origin and coming forth of the Book of Mormon, why not cite him to the history of it as given by the translator and the church years ago. If that will do him no good, replying to the slang and lies of Puritan ministers will not. The longer such liars are noticed, the longer the people may be bothered with theories, romances, &c. It may be food for some, but I question its edifying the well read Latter Day Saint. If elders wish to have the public enlightened on the Book of Mormon, tell them to read their Bibles, as explained by Joseph Smith the Martyr, and burn up the manuscripts of all from E. D. Howe, of Painesville, Ohio, down to Ethan Smith, of New England.

If our elders say anything by way of reply to these scamps, let them say; "Take our standard works and the facts which we have collected to give all that love truth." Let them come to us and not run after our foes to get at the facts pertaining to that book. Are we not as capable of finding the facts; and are we not as willing the world should have them as these hirelings who divine for money. Are the elders a set of cat's paws to be set up and down by these policy men. If the elders of this church are not as reliable and competent to find out when, and where, the Book of Mormon came from, pray tell us who is. As a body there is no class of ministers more studious, nor better posted on the history of church, state and general principles.

We have the works of Luther, Calvin, Wesley,

Scott, Fox, Campbell, Miller and a host of others, why don't the press question the works of these men. Mr. Smith gave the date, place, and the names of men who assisted him in preparing the work for the public. Thousands upon thousands have investigated the work from the foundation to the present date, and find no discrepancy, nor contradictions. Why is it then the priests and editors will set aside all these evidences and take the rotten yarns of fools and knaves.

The Book of Mormon has been in the hands of its friends and foes fifty years, and it has stood the test of criticism. The priest at his altar, the statesman in the Senate, kings and queens have had it, and at their command has been the best talent of the nation, yet they have failed to detect it as a fraud; and it stands as a witness against them, as did the writings of the prophets against the Jews when the Son of Man came to Judea.

I would say in conclusion, if the Plain-Dealer is what his name calls for, let him publish what Mr. Smith told the world about the first and last of finding the plates, translating, &c. Then will he and his readers be wiser on many things pertaining to this and the next life.

L. D. HICKEY.

CLINTON, Mo., August 7th.

Editor of the Saints' Herald: Some few months ago some of our citizens made arrangements with an Eastern Drilling Company to drill for gas. After the machinery had arrived and a location was selected about one mile and a quarter southwest of Clinton, on the banks of Town Creek, the men were soon at work sending the drill down through sandstone and flint rock, making an eight inch hole. At the depth of about 350 feet, a large flow of pure sulphur water, clear as crystal, came gushing out at the top—a wonder to behold! Hundreds soon flocked to the place to see and drink of the flowing fountain, as it ran roaring down twenty-five yards, or more, over the bank into the little creek. This was not enough. The drill was soon set to work again, making a five inch hole, with an iron pipe inserted to exclude the flow of water, so not to interfere with the drilling. So on down through flint and sandstone the drill went, and when about 800 feet deep, up came rushing through the five inch pipe another large flow of pure, soft water, clear as glass. This added such strength to the flow of water, many soon became anxious to know how high the water would raise; so an eight inch pipe was attached, extending about twenty-five to thirty feet high, and the water continued to flow out at the top at the rate of three to four hundred thousand gallons per day. There has been some days (as estimated) from five to seven thousand people to see it.

It would be hard for me to tell the grandeur of the sight. Surely the "regions round about," or "Zion and her borders," is the land spoken of in Deut. 23: 13 to 16—"Blessed of the Lord be his land, for the precious things of heaven, for the dew, and for the deep that coucheth beneath, and for the precious fruits brought forth by the sun, and for the precious things put forth by the moon, and for the chief things of the ancient mountains, and for the precious things of the lasting hills, and for the precious things of the earth and the fulness thereof."

When I see such things brought to light I feel to thank God, the giver of all good, that not only is this a land of "milk and honey;" but milk, honey, water, wood, hay, coal and iron, rocks and river; yes, "cattle on a thousand hills," with fields of flowers and fruit trees. Who would not live in a land of "pears and peaches, and a fountain of pure, flowing water for a "hundred and forty-four thousand strong?" I feel splendid in this latter day work; and that it is like the mighty rock—unmovable.

Yours in the gospel of Christ,

D. C. WHITE.

CORMORANT, Minn., Aug. 8th.

Bro. Joseph:—Yesterday was a blessed day to the people at Scambler. It being my last sermon there, I spoke on the fall and rise of the Church of Christ. The house was well filled with attentive listeners. At the close of the service I baptized two, Charles Morse and wife, a very intelligent man, and one that will make his mark for good in the kingdom of God. The Rev. Mr. Hewitt appeared before the people at Scambler, last evening; and with the tongue of a slanderer, speaking all manner of evil against Joseph Smith and his people.

I was granted a few minutes to reply; but a storm coming up, and the people very uneasy and leaving the house made it a little bad for me to speak. My reply was so close a rub for the Reverend, himself, he had to groan out; for when I informed the people that the gentleman had four wives himself; I thought he was a first class Mormon; and indeed the wrong man to fight Mormonism. It made friends to our cause. One, a very well read and intelligent man, came forward and said, "I am more and better satisfied that the Latter Day Saints are right, and I am going to be baptized." I expect to lead him into the water, and it may be others on Tuesday evening. Thus we see the work in its onward march in the land. Brethren Martin, Way, and McLeod are in the best of spirits and will hold the fort. After harvest and threshing is over they will put in good time for preaching. I leave for Independence, Missouri, next Sunday night.

Yours truly,

J. C. FOSS.

SWEET HOME, Mo., August 5th.

Bro. Blair: The work here I believe is on the move. As a rule we have fair attendance wherever we go. The people seem to be willing to hear, but the divines of the day roar and threaten us with their patched up systems and man-made theories, until my nerves have become quited and my belief made sure that they haven't got any lever that is sufficiently strong (with all their boasting and assertions) to move the foundation off from the Rock. We have been holding meetings in Nodaway, Holt, and adjoining counties. We obtained the Christian church at Alanthus, last Sunday, with the understanding that when we were through that we invite others to speak. We were there on time, and Bro. Thomas called their attention to the text: "Seek first the kingdom of God." All listened attentively. We followed in the afternoon, showing that there were fundamental principles, and in order to get into the church we must observe them; also, that we have the right to state what we believe, &c.

Of course the ministers were there, and when the invitation was given to speak, no one replied. After meeting was dismissed, then some declared it was true, others saying it was false, &c.

We expect to start for Holt county, about the 16th instant; will hold meetings by the way; will reach Ross Grove by the last of the month, if all goes well. The Saints here feel well in the work. We will respond to all the calis we can reach.

In bonds,

A. J. MOORE.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Aug 9th.

Dear Herald:—Bro. W. W. Blair came here on the 26th inst. He occupied our pulpit acceptably each evening during the week and twice on the Sabbath. At the close of his last sermon he was invited by a unanimous vote of the large congregation to return. The people turned out well considering the intense heat.

We are suffering in this immediate vicinity for rain. It is now too late for the corn to be saved by rain. The apples are being injured; they cook upon upon the trees, and thus are prevented from developing, which causes a great many to fall, as "untimely fruit." I can not remember, during my long residence in this state of such a continued unbroken drouth.

The first instant, with my family, I went into the vicinity of the Moroni branch, and commenced meetings in Jones' grove. For more than a year this branch has been in an unhealthy condition, by reason of misunderstanding, unwise, and harsh words; and an unyielding and unforgiving spirit have worked, and may still work to the hurt of Christ's cause with some. However, I pray in the all prevailing name of the Savior, that the healing power of the Holy Spirit may fill each heart, and that unseemly strife shall have no place. There is a golden opportunity for the few Saints in that region to achieve a good and lasting work for the Master, and I opine that God will hold all his people responsible for the gifts and privileges extended. It was with some misgivings therefore that I undertook the task of holding meetings; but willing to labor, and leave the result with God, I went trusting to the Father and not in man. It was astonishing to see the people flock out to hear the gospel story told. The word has been preached in that neighborhood during the past fifteen years; never was there so much interest manifested or so large numbers come to hear, and they were so very eager for the tracts. I was refreshed and cheered to be treated kindly, and see in the audience from time to time some who, when I first went there to preach, talked of mobbing me. What a change for good? Surely the Spirit of our God is moving upon the hearts of the people to hear favorably the message of eternal life.

During my stay Bro. N. Trook was stricken with sickness, and for a time it appeared he would never see the light of day again. We called upon God in humble prayer after the manner directed by Saint James, and praise be to Him that "giveth every good and perfect gift," all pain and distress left at once. What a glorious blessing that we are permitted to have part in gospel work, that is so rich and full of good to those who have faith and confidence therein.

I preached each evening during the week and three times on the Sabbath, and on this day I spoke fully five hours, and at the last meeting for more than two hours, and to over four hundred people, among whom were doctors and ministers, one of the latter aiding me on the stand, and some wondered why I quit so soon. They said, "We could listen to that kind of preaching all night." God blessed me with his Spirit; to him be all the praise. The work is his, therefore be the honor his.

ROBERT M. ELVIN.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

PROPHETIC GLEAMS.—No. I.

BY LEONARD SCOTT.

"IN the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed; and the kingdom shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms and it shall stand forever."—Dan. 2: 44.

Far back in the twilight dawn of antiquity it pleased the governor of nations to unfold to Nebuchadnezzar the mighty monarchies and empires that should arise in succession, each on the ruin of its predecessor; signally displayed by the selection of appropriate symbols, suitable to the nature and condition of the king, under the cruel sway of idolatry, of which (according to Chaldean religion) he was a conspicuous factor. A splendid metallic image is reared in his presence, symbolical of a succession of imperial dynasties in chronological order. Its composition decreasing in worth and brilliancy on the principle descending to its feet. "This image's head was of fine gold, his breast and arms of silver, his belly and his thighs of brass, his legs of iron, his feet part of iron and part of clay."—Dan. 2: 32, 33. This wonderful representation was entirely unknown to the necromancers, astrologers and wise men of Babylon's court. Daniel, a captive of Judah on whose youthful brow divine inspiration nestled, alone, could unfold to the king the proper interpretation. "There is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets and maketh known to the king . . . what shall be in the latter days."—Dan. 3: 28. The complete failure of the scientists of the king's court to present him a solution of the metallic problem, was a tacit acknowledgment that revelation from God was not received by them, and failures will forever result where God's ways and means are ignored.

But by the inspiration of God, the eternal kingdom and the sublimities of the age to come were set before the vision of mortals. The unfoldings—the evolutions of the future were vast. The sections of the image, which are four, symbolize four earthly kingdoms, not as existing contemporaneously, but successively, to be also universal in extent. For the prophetic interpretation declares "Thou art this head of gold." Wheresoever the children of men dwell the beasts of the field, the fowls of the heaven, hath he given into thine hand and hath made thee ruler over them all." Hence we perceive that Nebuchadnezzar was ruler of this "head of gold,"—and in character and extent a universal government. The golden kingdom of a golden age. Its metropolis was Babylon, the ancient and renowned city, so pleasantly situated on the plains of Shinar; a city fifteen miles square and surrounded by three walls, wide on top as a large church house, seventy-five feet higher than the highest church steeple in America—sixty miles in circumference—fifty streets crossing each other at right angles; twenty-five gates of brass and bars of iron. This olden city was furnished with towers, temples, palaces and pleasure gardens, structures exhibiting the most splendid specimen of architecture—of colossal dimension, emblazoned with varied artistic decorations. The center of pride, of riches, of power, of glory, it dazzled the world, the capitol of the Babylonian or Assyrian Monarchy. In the midst of this city sat Nebuchadnezzar, vigorous, youthful and bold, enthroned in splendor and magnificence, swaying a scepter over all the kingdoms of the world. This monarchy was founded by Belesus who was the Baladin of scripture, near 2,222 years B. C., and by various civil dissensions and rebellions had changed hands until given under power to this head of gold.

Having obtained universal supremacy and glory B. C. 681, it declined and was conquered B. C. 538 by a union of nationalities, symbolized by the section whose composition is silver. Thus the glory of kingdoms, "the beauty of Chaldea's excellency"—the head of gold is lying prostrate at the feet of that power which Daniel says in inferior to thee.

History presents the fact that Media and Persia being consolidated under one rule succeeded Babylon as the second world-wide kingdom. But does the Bible confirm the claim? While the last king of Babylon sat upon his throne, a mysterious hand appeared upon the wall of his palace and inscribed a thrilling declaration, part of which Daniel interpreted as follows:—"Thy kingdom [Babylon] is divided and given to the Medes and Persians;" and it is added, "In the night," (of this remarkable occurrence) "Darius the Median took the kingdom."—Daniel, 28-31.

Another fact historically presented is that the Silver kingdom held in subjection all the kingdoms and provinces of the world. Does the Bible confirm this statement? Only two years after "Darius the Median took the kingdom" of Babylon, during which time Cyrus reigned in consort with Darius, Cyrus became sole ruler of the kingdom, and "in the first year" of his independent reign, "The Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus, the king of Persia that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, and put it also in writing, saying: Thus saith Cyrus, king of Persia, the God of heaven hath given me all the kingdoms of the earth," &c.—Ez. 1: 1, 2. Here there is testimony that the second kingdom represented in the image was a universal one, for the Lord did not stir up the spirit of Cyrus to utter a falsehood. The silver kingdom attained supremacy and glory B. C. 491. Being subjugated by the succeeding brazen kingdom, it ceased to exist B. C. 331.

History is still replete with evidence of this character, and informs us that the brazen section of the great metallic image symbolizes Grecia, that it was also a universal government. Will sacred story corroborate this testimony?

"The third kingdom shall bear rule over all the earth."—Dan 2: 39. Hence we have in that military chieftain "Alexander" ridiculously called "the Great," a verification of prophetic items. Alexander subdued the world and with all the kingdoms and provinces of the known world prostrate at his feet he wept because there were no more for him to satiate his thirst for power, wealth, glory blood and combat. Attained universal supremacy B. C. 331. Dissolution and decline B. C. 281. The fourth section in this image is that of iron, symbolic of inflexible power. "The fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron," says Daniel. Authentic annals inform us that the Roman Empire succeeded the Grecian, and conquered the whole world. It is not only symbolized by the "legs of iron," but Daniel in a series of parallel symbols, views it as a huge "beast coming up from the sea, as being dreadful, having great iron teeth, nails of brass; and it devoured and broke in pieces and stamped the residue with his feet."—Dan. 7: 7, 19.

IT HAD TEN HORNS.

The interpretation given to Daniel was as follows:—"The fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom upon earth which shall be diverse from all kingdoms and shall devour the whole earth, and shall tear it down and break it in pieces."—Dan. 7: 28. This presents something like a universal rule. No mistake. The fourth section and fourth beast symbolize the strong iron, Roman power. It arose about B. C. 28, attained to glory and splendor near B. C. 31. To these legs of iron were feet of both iron and clay, and to these feet are attached toes, symbolic also of kingdoms, as is evident from the following:—"In the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom," etc. There seems to be a unity in the symbols, to the legs were attached ten toes; "the beast had ten horns." Here is a peculiar political development, which will be noticed by and bye.

We have noticed that the four great Empires are accurately defined. Prophecy depicts the existence, to such an extent, and veritable history is such exponent, that the funeral song of infidelity is almost audible. The "golden" yields to the "silver;" the silver yields to the brazen, or Macedonian dynasty; the brazen yields to the iron; the iron is broken up into ten kingdoms of which the toes are symbolical.

The fifth revolution in the kingly sphere is the introduction of a kingdom that shall never yield; one that should ultimately obtain the universal empire of the world; and that it should break and bruise to atoms every particle of the governments of this world and "stand forever." It would not be an earthly political government, but a divine form, symbolized by a "little stone cut out without hands, to begin without human origin, introduced by "the God of heaven.

This is the prominent thought of this article, and we shall try to bring it out of the theological spinning factory, and present in the light of truth, scripture and reason. The established government of God is a superlatively grand theme. One on which inspiration has thrown its shafts, in prophetic ecstasy. David wrapt in the poetic effusion, sang of it, Isaiah's hallowed lips foretold it. Most all the holy men of old breathed a tone that casts sweet cadence to the chime, all in language more perspicuous and sublime than mortals filled with enthusiastic ardor, dare utter. The statement at the head of this writing gives us an idea as to the time of its inception—its inauguration. "In the days of these kings." Please observe the prophet uses the distributive adjective which modifies plural nouns. He does not declare, "in the days of this king," singular. Hence from the construction of the sentences we conclude that the time is in the days of a plurality of specified kings, existing coterminously which will prove fatal to the theory of its fulfillment in the days when the star above Bethlehem's plains guided the wise men to the manger, or when angelic melody rang in the Christ eighteen centuries ago. Well, queries one, did not the Christ set up his claims at that time, and those claims were called the "kingdom of God?" And did not Daniel's prophecy receive its accomplishment in those claims? This is the very question the sequel must develop. As we have seen the fourth "section of the image was the power that succeeded the third, (Grecia). All of these political empires were universal (not divided) finally, and Rome is no exception to the rule. Hence in Rome we must see a consolidation.

The iron power crucified Christ and persecuted his followers. We have seen that the "stone" kingdom was to be set up in the days of a plurality of kings. Query: Was there a plurality of kings existing at the time Christ organized his church? "There went out a decree from Caesar Augustus (the iron ruler) that all the world should be taxed."—Luke 21: 1. Would his excellency, the president of the United States issue such a proclamation, imposing a tax on the whole world, unless the whole world were subject to his jurisdiction? This was under the administration of the Roman Caesar. The world was at peace. Caesar had fought his last battle, conquered his last enemy; and never had Satan's kingdom attained so gigantic a height in point of power, wealth, learning, political economy. It seemed as though all the monarchies were but so many workshops in which materials were formed out of which to build Rome.

Rome was a unity and remained so for 476 years. Rome was the world. What started with the Roman influence, reached the boundaries of the vast empire. A nod from the Roman throne made the world tremble. When therefore the Apostle Paul was brought before the tribunal; when his eloquence was made to plead in the palaces of the Caesars, and his puissant arm to wield the sword of the Spirit amid the powers of darkness, he struck a blow that vibrated through every nerve of that vast body politic. The historian (Gibbon) testifies also to the fact that when Christ was among men eighteen hundred years ago, the Roman empire "filled the world." "The arms of Rome as a republic, never vanquished in battle, always victorious in war, advanced with rapid steps to the Danube, the Rhine, and the ocean." (I quote from memory). Hence the "mistress of nations" under whose benign auspices the Prince of Peace was born, grew in power and territory until near 476 A. D., at which time she was disraptured into ten comparatively petty sovereignties, and lost her unity. Consequently the "stone kingdom" could not have been erected in the ushering in of the administration of favor in the meridian of time. Is it not somewhat peculiar that Christ did not refer to this prophecy, or substantiate his claims relative to the government he was founding, by reference to Dan. 2: 44? If his mission then on earth was in view of this prophecy, why did he not make Daniel's an important testimony to the fact? The same may be asked of Paul and Peter and all the ambassadors of Christ.

Heretofore it had been such that one empire or kingdom arising superior to another in military prowess and political skill, could attach one after another to its chariot wheels, till all were consolidated into one vast realm, and one man seated on the dominant throne, could send forth his will as law to all nations. When Rome fell, such possibilities forever ceased. Crushed beneath the weight of its own vast proportions, it lay nourishing the elements that composed ten petty sovereignties, symbolized by the "ten toes" and "ten horns." Further, it was to be the last of earth's universal kingdoms, till "the kingdoms of this world became the kingdom of our Lord and his Christ. From the time of Canute, until recently, it has been the policy of reigning monarchs to again consolidate them, but one verse of prophecy is stronger than all their hosts; "Partly strong and partly broken," is the inspired statement. There have been some gigantic attempts to unite them. Charlamagne tried it. The nearest approach was that made by Napoleon Bonaparte. In 1813 he controlled the temporal destinies of sixty-four millions of human beings, but what was this compared with the population of three fourths of our globe. He sought to gain by alliance what he could not gain by force, and proved his destruction in the troops of Blucher on the battlefield of Waterloo. Divided, says prophecy. Divided, says history. These ten kingdoms into which Rome was divided, though passing through varied changes still exist. The stone that smote the image upon his feet and ruined the whole superstructure is interpreted as per caption of article, "In the days of these kings," &c. What kings are meant? The kings that are represented by that part of the image that the stone smites,— "feet" and "toes"— which section represents that the fourth universal kingdom shall be divided, or indicates as in a parallel symbol that ten kings shall arise out of the fourth kingdom. Dan. 7: 23. Then in the days of these divisions of Rome or "these kings," "shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom." So let this kingdom be literal or spiritual in its nature, its establishment is subsequent to the divided state of the fourth universal kingdom.

The advocates of a spiritual kingdom who claim that it was set up at the first advent of Christ in humility, tell us that "these kings" in whose days the kingdom of God should be established, simply mean the four universal kingdoms; forgetting that the "stone" which symbolized the kingdom of God, did not strike either of the four sections of the image which were given to represent the four kingdoms, but it smote the fifth section, which represented the "divided" state of the fourth kingdom. Beside this, even if it were true that Christ did set up a spiritual kingdom at his first advent, it would not be true that it was set up in the days of these kings; even if reference were made to the four instead of the ten, for more than one of the kings or kingdoms referred to must be in existence at the time this kingdom is set up, to agree with the statement, "In the days of these kings." Only one of the four successive kings, or kingdoms existed at the time of the first advent. Rome gained its supremacy near sixty years before the ministry of Christ commenced. Therefore these kings can not signify the four instead of the ten. And had Christ set up forty kingdoms then, it could not have fulfilled this prophecy, for it would not have taken place either "in the days of the [four] kings" or "in the days of these [ten] kings." Indeed it would have been an utter impossibility to have set up a kingdom "in the days of these four kings" or kingdoms, seeing they did not exist as cotemporary but successive kingdoms, unless it began to be set up hundreds of years before the first advent, and this would destroy the theory referred to, as well as clash with the fact that the symbol of the kingdom did not smite the image till the existence of its divided state represented by the "feet and toes." The object of the establishing of the government of Christ eighteen hundred years ago was to convert the nations peacefully to the mild sceptre of Christ, and as far as an invisible structure is concerned, we aver, that that superstructure known as the "kingdom of heaven" was delivered by Christ to his disciples in parables, afterward developed in visible, tangible, literal and organic structure, "as a city set on a hill whose light can not be hid." So much for the idea of a spiritual kingdom exclusively.

Now the object of the smiting of the little stone is not to convert the image, but to destroy it so completely that it should "become like the chaff of the summer's threshing floor," and be carried away by such an irresistible tornado of divine vengeance that "no place could be found for them." The stone was not to smite the image for the purpose of absorbing it and making it a component part of itself, but to hurl it into oblivion and take its place and fill the whole earth. The above will not occur, till Christ is revealed in clouds "taking vengeance on them that know not

God and obey not the gospel." But the beauty of it is, that the kingdom is set up just previous to his return, it is symbolized by a "little stone. How appropos the emblem. It rolls, it magnifies, it expands, speed increases, velocity becomes irresistible, becomes a "great mountain" and "fills the whole earth." Please observe, that it is a stone when it smites, and had been rolling some time previous to its smiting, i. e. coming of Christ. For no one will propose that it will smite this side of the second coming of Christ, when the "Kingdoms of this world have become the kingdoms of our Lord and his Christ." But before we analyse the theory of its "establishment at the second personal coming of Christ, we desire to ventilate this theory of its establishing at the first coming of Christ. As the prophecy states, "It shall never be destroyed." It shall not be left to other people. Now it can be affirmed of the kingdom in the days of Christ that bye and bye it "suffered violence and the violent (persons) take it BY FORCE." This language though it convey an idea of past and present, will be understood in the light of prophecy, as relating to the future from the time it was declared, when God's order of things, relating to the sanctification and redemption of man, should be superseded by human institutions and the traditions of uninspired men. "This question is so easy of demonstration, even by a superficial observation of existing institutions, that is, those of a religious character, and that is corroborated by historic, veritable historic evidence, both sacred and secular, that it would appear useless to try to make demonstration more clear. Yet to supply the necessary links in the chain, we will present briefly some evidence of both characters. We have seen that beautiful superstructure denominated by our Savior "The kingdom of heaven," pass into the hands of the "violent."—Matt. 11: 12.

In harmony with the idea presented by the above quotation, we invite attention to the following words of Christ: "Another parable put he forth unto them saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man, which sowed good seed in his field: but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat and went his way."—Matt. 13: 25, 26.

Please note, there was a period when men slept, and this spiritual stupidity and drowsiness was the "evil one's" opportunity in disseminating broadcast the "tares" in the field, (world), the territory of the divine government. This seems to be prophetic of the introduction of false doctrines and the consequent display of Satanic power and influence in the disappearance of the church of Christ from the earth, the intercommuning and gradual assimilation of the people of God to the customs of the world; the commingling in sentiment and spirit of the pure precepts of the Savior, with the heathen mythologies, all brought about by the "violent," were the instrumentalities that contributed to break down her power with God, and to depress her to the sphere of sensuality and the realm of apostasy. How connective and harmonious then is the language of the Savior in another instance to the Jews; "I must work the works of him that sent me while it is day, the night cometh when no man can work."—John 9: 3. Observe, "the night cometh, and no man can work, that is the "works of God," for by acts of rebellion and disloyalty, the means and power by which such works were wrought, were to be superseded by the order represented by the "tares" which the "evil one" scatters. The works of God is the ministration of the "laws of righteousness," which is the power of God unto, not only the eternal and spiritual salvation, but is not so powerless but that it includes the lesser, or temporal salvation, through God's appointed means.

Again, the government of Christ is a realm of light and purity, and as a city (something visible and also a collection of people, subordinate to a unity of laws) set on a hill whose light can not be hid. The means of light, or spiritual illumination is the indwelling of Christ by his "holy Spirit." "In whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto a holy temple in the Lord; in whom ye also are builded together for a foundation of God through the Spirit."—Eph., 2: 21, 22.

Light is the life of men. Christ the light, therefore the life. But who has discovered that light or life ever exists independent of organization? If Christ, as life and light, inhabit the church by his Spirit, the church must be an organism; if the church is representatively his body, it must possess his members; and his Spirit must dwell in it, for "the body without the Spirit is dead"—is a corpse, and must be burned—or else the church is not builded for a "habitation of God through the Spirit." Now the members, or the body of Christ organically considered, are apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, bishops, priests, teachers, and deacons—the means of special illumination. This category of supernatural endowment existed when the Savior was dwelling in it by his Spirit, and that period to the church was called day; but bye and bye "the violent" began to take it by force, and this special media of light was violently wrested from its heaven given position, and God withdrew the merciful superintendence away, for by indulging in a self confident spirit, they disconnected themselves from the great "head," even Christ; and by acts of their own legislation destroyed the legitimate connection, and finally joined affinity with the governments of the world; and in consequence of this union with the civil power, the Bridegroom denies any relationship subsisting, and presents her with a very dingy appellation.—Rev. 17: 5. Yes, the gloom draws on a pace, the firmament of God's kingdom once so brilliantly studded with the glittering orbs of day, by whose emissions, the shafts of inspiration played through every chamber of divine construction; and by which the power and light of truth were flashed athwart the minions of darkness and cheerlessness, are now overcast with the sable wings of night. The eclipse was gradual. Notice in apocalyptic vision, a view of this dark inception,

"And there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, (emblem of superlative brilliancy—celestial origin and subordination to the great center), and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars. . . . And the woman fled into the wilderness (darkness) where she hath a place prepared of God, that they [not he, God] should feed her there a thousand two hundred and three score days." That this beautiful metaphor represents the church, is evident from the seventeenth verse of same chapter. "And the dragon was wrath with the woman and went to make war, with the remnant of her seed which keep the commandments of God, and have the testimony of Jesus Christ." The rapid flight into heathenism and dismal gloom, is confirmed by the statement in the fourteenth verse. "And to the woman were given two wings of a great eagle, that she might fly into the wilderness, into her place," &c. This wilderness—this departure to her place, is suggestive of her cast off condition; her alienation from the divine code of laws designed for her approximate relationship to her head, Christ.

But this is not the worse stage, as will be seen by reference to the seventh chapter of revelations. The lonely ambassador of Jesus is transported by the Spirit into the wilderness, and is given a view of the woman, (church), as joined to political government. The "scarlet-colored beast," (human political policies) is now the power by which she is wafted along. "Beast," is symbolical of human, or political institutions; as may be demonstrated by reference to Daniel, 8: 17. "Woman," is symbolical of the divine arrangement; as has been demonstrated, and also inferred by the halo of celestial radiance with which she is encompassed. Hence in the close relationship of the "woman" and "beast," we have a combination of elements religious and political, church and state; an institution that staggered the world; one whose miasmatic breath has been forced into the lungs of pallid millions, "for all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her lewdness;" no wonder the inspired writer marvelled when he saw this huge institution like a mighty colossus bestriding the nations, a politico-ecclesiasticism.

We will now notice the tracings of inspiration relative to the political element. In the eight chapter of Daniel there is the rise of a certain power, which we believe will constitute a potent factor in the extinguishment of the light of Christianity, its exit, and the consequent bewilderment of society religiously.

The fourth beast, as we have heretofore had reference, symbolizes the Roman power, whose clanging sent fear and dread into the heart of all other provinces, and is parallel with the "legs of iron" as is presented in the metallic image. The ten horns are also the forfeited unity of the once universal empire. But there is another, or the eleventh horn, diverse from all the others; "And he shall speak great words against the Most High and shall wear out the saints of the Most High, and they shall be given into his hands a time, times, and dividing of times. What power did this; except the kingdom of the papacy. John says, "And there was given unto him a mouth speaking great things, and blasphemies, and power was given unto him to continue forty and two months."—Rev. 13: 5. Those "great words" and "blasphemies," evidently are, "His Holiness Lord God the Pope," "Vicegerent of the Son of God on earth," "Infallibility." St. Nicholas of the fourth Latene said to the Pope: "The sight of thy divine majesty does not a little terrify me, for I am not ignorant, that in thee, the prophecy is fulfilled—Thou shalt dash them in pieces as a potter's vessel—though art the bright and morning star." As Napoleon was evolved, or grew out of the revolutions of the French Republic; so did this mystic personage grow out of the metropolitan hierarchies and councils that sprang from the defection of the ancient church. He it was that plucked the golden miter from the patriarchs of Alexandria, Antioch and Constantinople, who assumed the government of the realm of purgatory; the disposal of the crowns of the heirs of Pagan Rome, who by miracles of deception gained the confidence of the traitorous church, and consolidated it into a politico-ecclesiastical empire—"Babylon the great." From this period, the church was loaded with honors, wealth, and power. "The chief dignitaries of the empire could scarcely do less than imitate their master; and Christianity soon became a necessary qualification for public offices."—Whelpseys' Compend.

The church no longer appeared in her ancient simplicity and purity. Lords and princes were among her converts, and she was dressed in robes of State. Constantine as the representative of state, sought her hand in wedlock. She had become so powerful, her ceremonies were increased, her forms of worship were loaded with pomp and splendor, her doctrines were intermingled with the senseless jargon of a philosophy, equally absurd and vain, that the way seemed paved not only for the rapid decay of doctrine and morality, but of every science which distinguishes civilization from savage nations. Truly the "tares" were taking deep root, and crowding the pure principles of the doctrine of Christ out of the moral soil.

Note, how the lights of heaven were placed under the bushel of these unwarrantable measures until a long and dreary night of apostasy and superstition besotted the world, making mysteries out of plain facts, paralyzing the energies of the Christian spirit, inundating the world with false systems and powerless gospels, plucking God's stars of apostles, prophets, &c., from their orbits. The movement is like a revolution of our globe from light to dark; and, as we shall present, from dark to light again. The first movement, as if the earth were suddenly whirled round from the splendors of noon into the shades of midnight, or as if the silvery starrage of the material heaven were chased by a celestial tempest from the sapphire sky into the great eastern infinite, and made to reappear in the western sky with unusual brilliancy. In prophetic vision Isaiah's ecstasies float to the plaintive. He glides from the "glories" of the dawning of the latter days, and God's stupendous work inaugurated; the peace and bliss with Christ in Zion's mansions; he looks to the condition of the world in general spiritually, and breaks forth in the declaration—"For behold, the darkness shall cover the earth, and gross darkness the people, but the Lord shall arise upon thee (Zion) and his glory shall be seen upon thee."—Isa. 60: 2.

(Concluded next week.)

"SHALL WE DOCTOR WHEN WE ARE SICK?"

UNDER this caption there appears an article in Herald for July 2d, 1887, which we desire to notice. The writer's effort is to answer the question in the affirmative, but I shall give a few reasons why I can not in the faith of Jesus Christ accept the unqualified statements set forth therein.

He says, "Some seem to think there is no guarantee in the word of God for the use of medicine. I ask to be shown from one of the three books where the medical profession is forbidden or condemned." A queer way to prove the scriptures acceptance of the medical profession by asking to be shown where it is forbidden or condemned. By this same parity of reasoning I might say sprinkling for the remission of sins is the correct mode of baptism, and I ask to be shown from one or all of three books where it is forbidden or condemned.

Again he says, "I deem it the duty of the Saints where elders are accessible and some among them are sick, to do as James directs; that is, to 'send for the elders of the church,' that they may pray over the sick, anointing them with oil in the name of the Lord; for the promise is 'the prayer of faith shall save the sick and the Lord shall raise them up; and if they have committed sins they shall be forgiven them.'"

"However, experience in the work, and a clear examination of other scriptures bearing upon the matter in question, forces my belief that in this promise of James, God does not guarantee to heal all who are so administered to." Strange interpretation this, of God's holy and just law unto his people with its conditions suited to every Saint. "Is any sick among you?" Will the writer be kind enough to inform us of those "other scriptures" that force such a belief, and where God makes such distinction between his people, as that a certain class has recourse to the promises in the law of cure, and the others have no recourse in the law or hope in God's assisting power, but are left to themselves in their trials of sickness to do as best they may as a sufficient and certainty for a cure. The gift to be healed does not relieve the possessor of the obligation of sending for the elders of the church in case of sickness, and to those who possess not this gift to them the assurance is, "And the prayer of faith shall save the sick," "they shall lay hands on the sick and they shall recover." Mark, 16: 18.

Again: "And it shall come to pass that he that hath faith in me to be healed [and is not appointed unto death] shall be healed."—D. C. 42: 13.

"And whosoever among you are sick and have not faith to be healed, but believe, shall be nourished with all tenderness, with herbs and mild food, and that not by the hand of an enemy." Why did not the writer quote the remainder of this clause which says: "And the elders of the church, two or more shall be called, and pray for, and lay their hands upon them in my name; and if they die, they shall die unto me, and if they live, they shall live unto me."

But says the writer, "I wish to note the following points in the quotation, (1) Members of the church may be sick, and while they profoundly believe the word of God, yet the distinctive gift to be healed is not given them. (2) Such shall be doctored, or nourished with herbs and mild food." "But this does not determine fully the character of the medicine—herbs—to be employed." Again, will this writer be kind enough to point in the passage quoted where there are any such language as doctored in connection with nourished, and medicine in connection with herbs. Do you find such an intimation as doctoring with medicine in the sacred word, much less in the quotation that you have cited us to. Just such interpolation and misapplication is calculated to bring darkness over the minds of the Saints. Therefore, I challenge the writer to produce the quotation where the words doctoring is intended for nourishing, and herbs for medicine; or than any such inference can be drawn from the revelation referred to, or in any of the teachings of Jesus Christ. Again, the revelations do determine fully what kind of herbs are to be used. (D. C. 86: 2). "And again verily I say unto you, all wholesome herbs God hath ordained for the constitution, nature and use of man." Wholesome herbs (healthful) herbs are ordained (appointed) for the constitution (formation) nature and use of man.

"Furthermore, shall these herbs be administered in ignorance, without knowledge of their strength, quality, or adaptability to the disease, just as Tom, Dick, Harry, or any one that comes along may suggest." No, the revelation says in tenderness [softness, delicateness, kindness], and not by the hand of an enemy." A doctor or any one who administers medicine (as all medicines are poison) is an enemy to God's work; but those who can prepare herbs (wholesome) and mild food and administer them in tenderness, that the sick may be nourished in order that they may send for the elders to administer unto them that they may be healed, are the true and faithful of God.

"Is it not permissible for some one to make a specialty of this branch of learning, thus rendering themselves skillful in the use of medicine?" We answer no; as God's word does not warrant it, neither the wisdom of man, for after the closest application to the study of medicine as a curative agent for the diseases of man, from the writings of the wise and proficient, and extensive experimental knowledge upon confiding humanity in their various trials of disease and sickness, at a cost of the lives of millions of human beings the science (falsely so called) of medicine has proved an entire failure.

Common sense should convince us that something must be wrong.

Other branches of science such as surgery and dentistry, etc., have achieved wonderful results, while medicine remains a blind experiment, and physicians can not ensure a cure of the most simple ailments common to man, such as dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles &c.

Thinking people ask why all these deleterious drugs? Why all these large doctor bills and no cure? These statements being true, what hope could you have of your educated physicians being any more successful in their practice of medicine than thousands of the brightest intellects the world has produced.

Five thousand years with every encouragement and advantage, surrounded with the most favorable opportunities to develop the science and as yet no panacea has been discovered, or compound formulated by which a common headache can be cured. What faith, hope, or confidence can Latter Day Saints have that poison medicine can cure any disease.

It is an evident fact God has never revealed to man the medicinal curative qualities of any mineral, plant, or root, did they possess them, neither has he delegated to man the power to heal. The devil, the enemy of God and man, has tried to counterfeit God's plan of cure. He possesses the power to afflict with disease and can perform some cures it seems. The advocates of the adversary's system of cure are numerous, and the facilities offered for advertising are so extensive, that the glaring accounts of the wonderful cures performed are sure in some way to excite the notice of all; and Saints are bewildered with the false statements, and often we find them forsaking their God and trusting their lives in the feeble arm of flesh. In no condition of life has the universal departure from nature been attended with such terrible punishment as that of taking of poison, in which the life of man is placed in the hands of a doctor to be experimented upon. The laws of health have been neglected and drug poison is the craze of the ignorant and unthinking. If the theory and practice of medicine, viz, that it takes poison to kill poison was understood by the populace, not one in ten who now offer themselves as a sacrifice on the altar of materia medica would be foolish enough to imperil their lives simply because it is the rage to swallow poison for every little ailment in the hope of a cure. The enlightened thought of our age looks with suspicion upon all kinds of educated quackery and are turning their attention to the building up of tissue in order to combat disease, instead of administering poison to destroy tissue.

The science of medicine is based upon the hypothesis that medicine acts upon the human system, and moves it, hence the greater power vitality is acted upon and moved by dead inert inorganic matter, a principle false in theory and philosophy.

Did space permit, and evidence avail, we could furnish the testimonies of hundreds, both ancient and modern, of the learned and most noted physicians of the world, stating that the theory and practice of medicine is not a true science, and the theory has nothing certain to commend it. Why can not the Saints grasp some of these truths. Trust God in all things and all will be well.

WM. ANDERSON.

PERFECT LAW.

PSALM 19: 7, James 1: 25. What is this law spoken of here by these servants of God? We would say, the gospel. Rom. 1: 16; Mark 1: 14 15; or grace. Eph. 2: 8. (synonymous terms) Words used presenting God's truth, his commandments, by which we may be saved by doing these commandments. Rev. 22: 14, John 12: 49, 50. Who revealed this truth to the children of men in the meridian of time, as the representative, Christ, as he himself and John the baptist and so all of the other apostles and prophets testified. Then if Christ was the perfect example and continued by the apostles by which we may become perfect; then we can understand what Christ said in John 17: 8, 18. That they, the apostles, and all God sent ministers, should preach just what his Father had given him. And we find that law perfect; we want to keep that in view; designated by principles; first, faith; second, repentance, spoken of by Christ and taught by all of the apostles. Next in the gospel order is baptism, by immersion in water, for the remission of sins. Fourth, and not the least of these principles is the laying on of hands. The question to be settled was that (these principles) the commandments Christ speaks of in John 12: 49, 50. He says there he knows his commandments are life everlasting. What think ye brethren? Could there be an especial departure from the regular order of gospel principles. O, no; says every Latter Day Saint. But what shall we do with Cornelius and his household? They received the Holy Ghost without the laying on of hands. Who said so, and where is it recorded? It fell on them as on us in the beginning. The question is, when was the beginning with the apostles; can you tell me? I read in Matthew, 10th chapter: Here he (Christ) sends the forth. Was this before they received the Spirit? Read the 20th verse of the same chapter:—"For it is not ye that speak but the spirit of your father which speaketh in you." Was that the Holy Ghost? Remember the day of Pentecost occurred about the year 33 or 34, when they were baptized with the Holy Ghost. The apostles had been enlisted about two years and a half, at least, in the Lord's work; but had not received the abiding comforter until Pentecost. Did not they enjoy a portion of the Spirit, or Holy Ghost? If we were to introduce especial cases, where would it stop. Every one would want an especial change from gospel order for their own case. The result would be that the gospel would become imperfect. I believe they (Cornelius) received the Holy Ghost just as Peter said, as they did at the beginning; but not the abiding comforter as was given on Pentecost day. This took place about eight years after Pentecost, in 33. Do you think God would permit, or make a change in that perfect system that was fully established on the day of Pentecost. If God would deviate eight years after, would he not now, or on any other occasion? I think so. Some may say that this was an especial occasion to open the gospel up to the Gentiles. Had not Christ given the apostles a right? Yes, and power too to preach the gospel to all nations. Read Mark, 16: 15, and also Luke's testimony, 1: 8.

They were commanded to tarry at Jerusalem for the abiding comforter. Then they were fully equipped to preach the perfect law, (gospel). If they should allow one change, and God sanctioned it, where would we stop with these especial occasions.

I would love to have some one write on this subject, and present the other side (if there is one) for information for myself at least. Yours for truth,
L. D. S.

RIGHTEOUSNESS.

I WAS at a social meeting lately and did not realize the use of taking any part till near the close. The thoughts that seemed to encourage were like these, We are all dependent on God for goodness. God only is entirely good. God is the Father, Son and Holy Ghost. These three are one in knowledge, power, love, righteousness. In the gospel is the righteousness of God revealed. Righteousness is goodness, goodness is love, and perfect love casteth out all fear, and enables to live without sin. The righteousness revealed in the gospel is the righteousness of the Father, the righteousness of the Son, and the righteousness of the Holy Ghost. The Holy Ghost, the Spirit of God, compared to fire that burns out and separates the dross from the mind, heart, and spirit of man. The inspiration of the Almighty that giveth understanding, faith, knowledge, and power to live right, and to do good works, the dross being the evil thoughts, selfish designs and ungodly deeds, or "works of the flesh." The righteousness of the Saints is compared to "pure linen, clean and white." Such is the righteousness of God, for it is pure and perfect.

The righteousness of man is as unclean rags, for it is self-righteousness. The Father himself has promised good to all who hear his Son. God has promised, his Son being mouth: "Blessed are they who hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled with this spirit which is a part of God; if filled with God we become heirs of God and joint heirs with Jesus Christ, through the holy Spirit, hence the Bride the Lamb's wife. The Father, Son, Holy Ghost—God and the Son's wife—celestially.

W. C. LANYON.

"ALL HAIL THE POWER OF JESUS' NAME."

EDWARD PERRONET the author of the above hymn was the second son of Vincent Perronet, the reverend vicar of Shoreham in Kent. He was one of the only two that survived him; the other being Elizabeth, the youngest daughter. Edward was the best son of this pious clergyman. He was born on the 2d of August, 1721. He was converted under the influence of Charles Wesley, and became attached to the hymnologist of Methodism. The hymn first appeared in "The Gospel Magazine," without signature in 1780, and it has attained a celebrity which is world-wide almost. Edward sided with John Wesley in the separation of the Established Church, although Charles was strongly in favor with conforming with the church of England. It is said that Lady Huntingdon employed Edward after the separation, he becoming pastor of a dissenting congregation. He was married but had no children, and died at Canterbury in 1792. His dying words were:

"Glory to God in the height of his divinity,
Glory to God in the depth of his humanity,
Glory to God in his all sufficiency, and Into his hands I commend my spirit."

He was one of those eleven preachers, who, with John and Charles Wesley, signed the following interesting agreement which it would do well for a great many in and outside the churches to make a note of it.

"1st. That we will not listen or willingly inquire after any ill concerning each other. 2d. That if we do hear of any ill of each other, we will not be forward to believe it. 3d. That, as soon as possible, we will communicate what we hear by speaking or writing to the person concerned. 4th. That until we have done this, we will not write or speak a syllable of it to any person whatever. 5th. That neither will we mention it, after we have done this, to any other person. 6th. That we will not make any exception to any of these rules unless we think ourselves absolutely obliged in conscience so to do."

Like a good many hymns it has received various alterations and revisions in the course of its republications. The original is in the British Museum Library, and is as follows:

"All hail the power of Jesus name,
Let angels prostrate fall;
Bring forth the royal diadem
To crown Him Lord of all!
Let high-born seraphs tune the lyre,
And as they tune it fall
Before His face who tunes their choir,
And crown Him Lord of all!
Crown Him, ye morning stars of light,
Who fixed this floating ball;
Now hail the strength of Israel's might,
And crown Him Lord of all!
Ye seed of Israel's chosen race,
Ye ransomed of the fall;
Hail Him who saves you by His grace,
And crown Him Lord of all!
Hail Him, ye heirs of David's line,
Whom David's Lord did call;
The God incarnate, man divine,
And crown Him Lord of all!
Sinners whose love can ne'er forget
The wormwood and the gall,
Go spread your trophies at His feet,
And crown Him Lord of all!
Let every tribe and every tongue,
That bound creation's call,
Now shout in universal song,
The crowned Lord of all!"

WM. STREET.

FRIENDSHIP.

HOW DREARY life would be without the companionship of friends. Health, wealth and station, with their attendant blessings, are to be desired; but the possession of these without the fellowship of kindred and friends would leave life incomplete and shorn of its chiefest pleasure. The worth of a true friend is incalculable. I think it a good proverb that "he who would have a friend, should himself be a friend to others." The Psalmist David, in the sunset of his eventful life exclaimed, "Once I was young, but now I am old, yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken nor his seed begging bread." Jesus said, "with what measure ye meet, the same shall be measured to you again." To Him also is attributed the saying, "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Why? Evidently because the deed is recognized in heaven, and a just reward held in store for the self-sacrificing and merciful.

The highest expression of friendship is exhibited in the voluntary sufferings of Jesus Christ to redeem a world of mankind. God and Christ are our friends. In prosperity or adversity we may go to them and prove their friendship. This excellent virtue best proves itself in times of sorrow and distress, or when poverty casts its sable gloom. Then, like the Sun of Righteousness, it rises with healing in its beams.

GEORGE S. HYDE.

THE REORGANIZED CHURCH

versus

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

THE scripture abounds with prophetic predictions concerning the temporal, as well as the spiritual conditions of men and nations in the last days. The church which it is our pleasure to represent, believes in, and has witnessed the fulfillment of many of these prophecies. It proclaims to the world the restoration of the pure, unadulterated gospel in its fulness; which proclamation I have proved true by experience. The Reorganization believes, practices and teaches the doctrines of Christ, and is in its organization and work like the church before the great Roman apostacy in the fourth century of the present era; it is also opposed to the latter day apostacy of the nineteenth century, which started under Brigham Young. The members of the Reorganization, by following its law, which law is founded on New Testament teachings, become better citizens of town, county and state, than they could under any other system that the writer has investigated. Our aims are of the highest intent and origin; our people live temperate and industrious lives, as can be proved by a visit to the communities where we live.

But it seems necessary that something more should be done for him who toils for his daily bread, (and all ought to work), than any church has, or can do under the presiding circumstances. I think the ideal, when properly understood, may be found in the Knights of Labor, although many of their representatives have made serious mistakes in the "strike system."

Those that have acquainted themselves with the principles and true aims of the Knights of Labor must admit of their practicability and grandeur; they must see, if put in force by honest men they will result in great good to the American people. This order has come to stay as a general organization, to do its grand work, and when it is accomplished, like all things else, it will die or change and go higher.

Who would have thought that in this age, when men trust so much in gold, not God nor goodness, that an organization so universal as the above should have for its initial object and first principle the following: "To make industrial and moral worth, not wealth, the true standard of individual and National goodness."

Whatever will change the unjust or impure sentiment of man, or nation ought to be commendable. If men by organized labor can better their condition socially, morally and financially, it would certainly be better for the Church of Christ when it finds them.

The Saints' Herald for May 24th, 1884, says editorially: "We believe in organized labor, and the employment of capital in co-operative ways." The sooner "all come to a knowledge" of their duty to God and man the better will society be, and the sooner we can dispense with labor and all other agitations and be at peace with all men.

ARTHUR B. PIERCE.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., July 26th.

Conference Minutes.

GALLAND'S GROVE.

This conference convened at the Salem branch, Shelby county, Iowa, June 10th, 11th, and 12th, 1887. W. W. Whiting, president, C. E. Butterworth, assistant president, John Pett and C. E. Butterworth, secretaries. Friday 10th, 3 p. m.:—After the usual opening services, and some miscellaneous business being disposed of, the following branches reported:—Galland's Grove, 265, including 1 high priest, 4 seventies, 12 elders, 7 priests, 6 teachers, 3 deacons. Mason's Grove, 130, including 9 elders, 2 priests, 2 teachers, 1 deacon, 9 baptized, 2 received by vote, 5 removed, 1 died. Salem, 78, including 1 high priest, 2 elders, 3 priests, 2 teachers, 1 deacon, removed 4. North Coon, 24, including 2 elders, 1 teacher, 1 deacon, 1 removed. Elders John Hawley, Beuan Salisbury, Jno. A. McIntosh, (baptized 1), Alfred Jackson, Warren E. Peak, (baptized 2), Charles E. Butterworth, (baptized 1), and W. W. Whiting reported. Saturday morning Elders George Sweet, John Pett, Joseph Seddon, reported. Priests Jonathan Bullard, Wm. Bullard, James Pearsall, Chauncy Williamson, and David Brewster, reported. Teachers Thomas Bell and Chas. J. Hunt, by letter. Deacon Geo. L. Sweet, reported. All had labored what they could, and all expressed a desire and willingness to do so, because of the great joy they experienced and the help afforded them by the Lord. Bishop's Agent's report:—Cash on hand and received since last report, $264 05, paid out $70, balance on hand $194 05, John Pett, agent. The report on the Galland's Grove branch difficulty was accepted and adopted and the committee discharged. The Earling branch was on motion declared disorganized, all the members but two having moved away. Brother Charles E. Butterworth requested to be released from either of one of the two offices, that of assistant district president or that of assistant secretary. The consideration of the request was on motion laid over till the next conference. The consideration of the resolution on district delegate representation was on motion indefinitely postponed. Questions were asked in regard to dealing with members who habitually absent themselves from meetings on the Sabbath day, whereupon the following preamble and resolution was unanimously adopted. Whereas the word of God teaches that none should forsake the assembling themselves together at the appointed times and places for holding religious services in their respective branches, therefore be it resolved, that if any shall persistently refuse to so assemble when it is practicable for them to do so, that the officers having jurisdiction shall proceed to deal with them as wisdom, love, and the law of the Lord shall direct. A question was asked in regard to dropping the names of members whose whereabouts and standing were not known. President Blair made a statement that the church had taken action in regard to the dropping of names from the record, that injury had been done to members and loss sustained by the church, and it had been decided that no name should be dropped except for cause, or until something definite was known in regard to members. The president presented the need of a wider and more effectual missionary effort being made in the district, and proposed that some system be adopted by which such effort could be successfully carried out whereupon president Blair suggested the holding of priesthood meetings in the branches, and in those meetings appoint men to labor in the different school-houses and churches that are best adapted to the different localities and changes made from time to time as wisdom and circumstances required. Bro. C. Derry spoke of the earnestness and zeal manifested in the old church by the ministry in spreading the gospel in the different towns and villages, and the effort made by the sisters in distributing tracts, &c., and of the thousands that were brought into the church by the humble instruments God used, whereupon the following was presented by Bro. J. C. Crabb, seconded by Bro. Charles E. Butterworth. Resolved, that the elders and priests of each branch not otherwise laboring, be organized under the direction of the presidency of the district by and with the consent of the presidents of the branches, so that the word may be preached in the region of said branches. Bro. W. W. Whiting was sustained as president of the district, with Bro. C. E. Butterworth as his assistant. Bro. Jno. Pett and C. E. Butterworth were sustained as secretaries of the district. The spiritual and temporal authorities of the church were sustained in their office and calling. Sunday forenoon, after the usual opening services, confirmation was administered to one baptized yesterday, by Bro. Derry and Crabb. It was announced that baptism would be administered to those who had desired it after the close of the service. Bro. Blair preached using for a text Rom. 8: 1. Sunday afternoon, confirmation was administered to those who had been baptized during the intermission, by Bro. Derry and Crabb, after which Bro. Derry preached. Peace prevailed throughout, and all felt encouraged. Adjourned to meet at Galland's Grove on Friday, October 28th, at 2: 30, p. m.

ST. LOUIS.

The St. Louis district conference convened in the Saints' Hall, 1447 North Broadway, St. Louis, Missouri, on Saturday afternoon, July 2d. On the invitation of district president William Jaques, Elder J. W. Gillen acted as chairman. John S. Parrish was called to act as secretary. Branch reports.—St. Louis 179 members; 2 received, 2 removed, 2 died. Belleville 67 members; 8 received, 1 removed, 2 expelled. Cheltenham 35 members; 1 received, 2 removed. The reports of the Birkner and Chester branches were returned for correction. The other branches in this district failed to report. Delegate reports.—J. W. Gillen and W. O. Thomas, the delegates from the St. Louis district to the late General Conference, reported having worked there for the interests of the district. On motion their reports were accepted, and the delegates discharged. Bishop's agent, Noah N. Cooke, reported: balance on hand March 31st, 1887, $32 40, received since $53.15, total $85 55; expended $61.50, balance on hand $24.05. The above report was audited by a committee of three and found correct. On motion, the rule standing on the district records making it necessary for the elders to hand in their reports in writing was repealed. On motion, the secretary was instructed to purchase a few blank branch reports, and send them to each branch in this district. A collection of $1.70 was taken up for that purpose. On motion it was resolved that the collections taken up in the meetings to-morrow afternoon and evening be turned over to the St. Louis Meeting-House building committee. The following officers were then elected to serve in the district for one year: president of the district, Wm. Jaques; vice president, Frank Izatt; secretary, John G. Smith. Sunday, July 3d, 1887.—Morning session, preaching by Elder James Whitehead, of Alton, Illinois. Afternoon session, sacrament and testimony; a good time was enjoyed. Officers present, 1 apostle, 1 high priest, 6 elders, 2 priests, 3 teachers, and 1 deacon. On motion, all the spiritual and temporal authorities of the church were sustained in righteousness. Evening session: preaching by elder J. W. Gillen. Adjourned to meet in St. Louis, Missouri, on Saturday afternoon, October 1st, and on Sunday October 2d, 1887.

Miscellaneous.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA.

To the Saints of Northern California District, Greeting:—I am credibly informed that there exists dissatisfaction with some of you in regard to the disbursement of tithing there collected, and that you think that you have not had the share of ministerial labor which your needs demand. Therefore I wish to inform you that the Bishop has signified his willingness to sustain laborers there so far as he can do so consistently.

Now if there are any elders among you who are ready to devote their time to the ministry, let them write me at once, at San Bernardino, California, stating the probable amount their families will need for support, and if arrangements can be made with the Bishop, and wisdom so direct, they will be promptly put in the field.

Let the Saints pay their tithes and offerings into the hands of Sr. T. J. Andrews, 436 Brannan street, San Francisco, who now acts for the Bishop, that these missionaries may be properly sustained, and you will have no cause for complaint.

Praying that God may give you wisdom and peace according to your needs,

I am your fellow-servant,

HEMAN C. SMITH,

President Pacific Slope Mission.

SANTA ANA, Cal., July 28th.

DECATUR DISTRICT.

By the action of the June conference I was authorized to appoint two-day meetings in the various branches of the district, and the elders to attend to the same, the series to begin the last of August. Therefore, notice is hereby given that the first of these meetings will be held at Pleasanton, on August 20th and 21st. Elders Joseph Smith and John Shipley have promised to be present, and I trust that others will be also. Meetings on Saturday will be at 2: 30 and 7: 30 o'clock, and on Sunday at 10: 30 o'clock and afterwards as may be arranged.

H. A. STEBBINS, Dist. Pres.

BORN.

EVERETT.—At Liberty, Nebraska, August 2d, 1886, to Bro. John and Sr. Rachel R. Everett, a daughter. Blessed at the house of Bro. Nicholas Trook, by Elder Robert M. Elvin, and named Lucy Ann.

DIED.

LEWIS.—Little Willie, son of Bro. William and Sr. Mary Lewis, of St. Joseph, Missouri, July 26th, 1887. Funeral services were held at the Saints' Church at Stewartsville, on the 28th; sermon by Elder H. C. Bronson, assisted by Elder J. M. Terry. Little Willie was 2 years, 10 months, and 25 days old. He was a bright and sweet little child, he rests in the paradise of God until the morn of the resurrection.

McFARLANE.—At Pine Bluff, Arkansas, June 9th, 1887, of pleural bronchitis, Caroline Matilda, youngest daughter of Bro. John and Christina McFarlane, Jr.; aged 2 years, 3 months, and 27 days. She was a bright, winsome child, dear to her parents who mourn their great loss, only consoled by the promises of Jesus, "I am the way, the resurrection and the life."

Fare thee well thou fondly cherished;
Dear, dear spirit, fare thee well;
He who lent thee hath recalled thee
Back with him, and his to dwell.
Where then, art thou? With the Savior.
Blest, forever blest to be.
Mid the sinless little children
Who have heard his, "Come to me."

CLOSSON.—July 30th, 1887, at the home of Bro V. White, Lamoni, Iowa, Hazel Vivian, infant daughter of Bro. Andrew and Sr. Mamie A. Closson, aged 3 weeks and 2 days. Prayer service at the house by Elder A. S. Cochran.

POTTS.—At Fall River, Massachusetts, Tuesday morning, July 26th, 1887, of apoplexy, Elder John Potts. Bro. Potts was born in Stockport, Cheshire, England, October 21st, 1846; he came to America in 1867; was for some time president of the Fall River branch. Funeral service conducted by Elder M. H. Bond. A large attendance of Saints and citizens testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held; the floral presentations were numerous and beautiful. Bro. Potts left a widow and five children to mourn the loss of a kind and faithful husband and father.

A MYSTERIOUS STONE FORT.

THERE is nothing in Tennessee, or in the south, whose antiquity is so mysterious and entirely beyond the domain of decent speculation as the old stone fort, which is about a mile and a half below the town of Manchester. The two prongs of Durk river comes within, say two hundred yards of each other, and then widen out, making a territory of perhaps one thousand acres in the forks of the river, and below the Narrows. At the Narrows the fort commences by a stone wall, now covered with earth, running from one river to the other, and the walls are built along the banks of both rivers down to a point where a canal had been cut from one river to the other. There a wall is made from one river to the other, perhaps a quarter of a mile. On the outside of this wall is a hollow, and in this hollow is the sign of the canal or cut, evidently intended to protect the fort by both the wall and the canal. From the upper to the lower wall at places there are high bluffs on both rivers. Wherever this bluff—precipitous—is found there is no wall, but wherever there is no natural barrier the wall is built. The entrance to the fort was at the upper end, and the gateways show that the builders were doing their work intelligently. The entrance is by a narrow passway, with walls on either side and offsets so as to prevent the enemy on the outside from having a direct entrance for themselves, and so as to protect those on the inside from missiles from the outside. The fort contains forty-seven acres, and is, or was when the writer first saw it, heavily timbered, many of the trees of large size growing on the top of the walls.

Col. Sam Murray, who settled there about 1808, cut one of the trees from the top of the wall and found it to be five hundred years old. One mile up the river from the fort is an immense mound,—the largest one perhaps in the country,—making it probable that the fort was built by the mound-builders. Beyond this nobody knows anything about it. Col. Murray, who was a man of high intelligence, claimed to have conferred with the Indians of different tribes, but none of them could give him any account of it, either by tradition or otherwise. This fort is one of the many evidences that in this country, at some remote period, there was a race of people of more stability and intelligence than the roving Indians which the first settlers found.—Nashville American

TOBACCO CATECHISM.

Question.—What advice do the slaves of tobacco always give to the young, when asked?

Answer.—Never use or touch the unclean, unhealthy, and expensive thing.

Q.—Is it then almost as bad for a boy to use tobacco as it is to drink?

A.—Nearly, because they are twin evils; one vice is rarely seen without the other. They go hand in hand; it is scarcely possible to separate them.

Q.—But some good men smoke who do not drink; why is this?

A.—Some good men use tobacco, and though not strong enough to give up its use, they are able to resist beginning to drink. But it is an exception to see men smoke without drinking.

Q.—What can truly be said of the use of tobacco by Christians?

A.—Tobacco is doing more harm to-day in the churches than spirituous liquors, because Christians who think it wrong to drink, often use tobacco freely, to their own harm.

Q.—Does tobacco, like rum, affect the soul and body?

A.—Yes; it bring many evils and maladies upon the body, and it deadens the moral faculties, thus periling the soul.

Q.—How should we advise young people in regard to using tobacco?

A.—Keep your lips free and pure from contact with tobacco in every form, whether it seems enticing or vulgar. And do the best you can to prevent your brothers and friends from forming or continuing the practice.

Q.—What is the most sensible thing Christians and tobacco-users generally can do?

A.—Make a grand bonfire of their pipes, meerschaums, snuff-boxes, tobacco, snuff, cigarettes, and cigars. It would be more sensible than to burn tobacco by degrees all their lives, using their mouths for chimneys, and their systems as receptacles for poisonous nicotine.

SIGNS OF SPIRITUAL DECLINE.

1. When you are averse to religious conversation or the company of heavenly minded Christians.
2. When, without necessity, you absent yourself from religious services.
3. When you are more concerned about pacifying conscience than of honoring Christ in performing duty.
4. When you are more afraid of being counted over-strict than of dishonoring Christ.
5. When you trifle with temptation or think lightly of sin.
6. When the faults of others are more a matter of censorious conversation than secret grief and prayer.
7. When you are impatient and unforgiving to others.
8. When you confess but do not forsake sin, and when you acknowledge but still neglect duty.
9. When your cheerfulness has more of the levity of the unregenerate than the holy joy of the children of God.
10. When you shrink from self-examination.
11. When the sorrows and cares of the world follow you further into the Sabbath than the Savior of the Sabbath follows you into the week.
12. When you are easily prevailed upon to let your duty as a Christian yield to your worldly interests or the opinions of your neighbors.
13. When you associate with men of the world without solicitude of doing good or fear of having your own spiritual life injured.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.—The Christian natives of the South Sea Islands prepare their Sunday food on Saturday. Not a fire is lighted, neither flesh nor food is baked, nor a tree is climbed, nor a canoe seen on the water, nor a journey by land undertaken on God's holy day.

The Austrian ministry has confirmed the decision made by the police director declaring that the American missionaries have no right to worship in halls or chapels as such, but are limited strictly to "house worship."

ADVICE TO A BOY.

GET away from the crowd a little while every day, my boy. Stand one side and let the world run by while you get acquainted with yourself; and see what kind of a fellow you are. Ask yourself hard questions about yourself. Find out all you can about yourself. Ascertain from original sources if you are really the man people say you are; find out if you are always honest; if you always tell the square perfect truth in business deals; if your life is as good and upright at eleven o'clock at night as it is at noon; if you are as sound a temperance man on a fishing expedition as you are at a Sunday School picnic; if you are as good a boy when you go to Chicago as you are at home; if in short, you really are the sort of a young man your father hopes you are, your mother says you are and your sweetheart believes you are. Get on intimate terms with yourself, my boy, and believe me, every time you come out from one of those private interviews, you will be a stronger, better, purer man. Don't forget this, Telemachus, and it will do you good.—Burdette.

150 TOWN LOTS.

I am prepared to furnish any one wanting a lot, either Business or Residence, in

LAMONI,

at low prices and very easy terms. Some fine acre pieces also. Call on or address

J. W. DENOON, M. D., Lamoni.

20aug3m

LADIES or Gents, Girls or Boys, wanted in Europe and America, to sell our Folding Bustles, Portable Bed-springs, Tidy Holders, Sewing Machine Relief Springs, &c. For terms, address Bro. B. F. Ordway, Peoria, U.S.A.; or Bro. Henry Tabbner, 2 Grafton-st., Hanley, England. 6aug

The Sisters' Aid Society of Independence branch have for sale for the benefit of the new church, two Cabinet Photographs: one of the THREE WITNESSES, with views of the HILL CUMORAH and the ANGEL delivering the PLATES; the other of the OLD LIBERTY JAIL as it now stands, for 25 cts each. Those desiring to purchase can address Mrs. B. C. Smith, box 61, Independence, Missouri. 23jul3m

TO HOPE SUBSCRIBERS.

On and after January 1st, 1887, the Hope will be sent to subscribers as follows:

- Single copies, per year . . . . . 50c.
  - Over 4 copies and under 10, to one address, each . . . . . 40c.
  - Ten copies and over, to one address, each . . . 35c.
- Subscriptions to be paid in advance unless otherwise arranged for by subscribers.

Foreign Money Orders.

Bear in mind the fact that the post office at Lamoni is now a Foreign Money Order Office. Therefore, those in foreign countries sending moneys to this office should draw them on Lamoni, Iowa, U. S. A.

ZION'S HOPE

Is published every Saturday by the Church of Christ, at Lamoni, Iowa. Single copies, per year, 50c; packages of four to ten 40c; packages of over ten 35c.

Welsh Hymn Book.

We have on hand about 100 copies of a book, entitled "Llyfr Hymnau at Wasanaeth Eglwys Iesu Grist, Ad-Roleiddedig Saint y Dydd Diweddaf." There are 393 hymns in Welsh and 33 in English. It is published by the church in Wales, and sent here for sale. Sixty cents each, free of postage; bound in full leather, marbled edges.

HOW TO SEND MONEY.

Remit by Post Office Order, or by Express Order, on Lamoni, Iowa. Or by Bank Drafts on Chicago or New York only; personal checks on banks in any other cities can not be used at par. Money Orders from Foreign countries should be made payable at Lamoni, Decatur county, Iowa.

Lamoni and Vicinity.

Those wishing to become acquainted with Lamoni and vicinity, will do well to subscribe for

THE LAMONI GAZETTE

A weekly paper, now published by

LAMBERT & HANSEN.

dec11tf

J. H. HANSEN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Will practice in Lamoni and vicinity; calls made at all hours. Office in Drug Store of Hansen & Walker, Lamoni

MIDWIFERY and DISEASES of WOMEN a Specialty
Residence one block East Teal's Store. 14feby

Money Orders.

Money Orders are much safer than Postal Notes when remitting to this office, and they cost but two cents more. Don't forget this, lest you lose money.
D. DANCER, Manager

"A BOOK FOR THE PEOPLE."

CAPTIVATING! USEFUL! Eloquent Discussions, and Diplomatic Papers on the Great Public Questions of the Past and Present, by JAMES G. BLAINE.

Embracing his masterly arguments on the vital issues in the Anti-Slavery Struggle, the All Important Labor Question, Prohibition, Irish Home Rule, etc., etc. 137 PAGES FOR BUCK CANTASSERS! APPLICATIONS FOR TERRITORY COMING IN WITH A RUSH!
THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING CO., NORWICH, CT

WHEN YOU TRAVEL

Take the Line selected by the United States Government to carry the Fast Mail,—the

As it is the Line running Through Trains to and from the following cities and towns on its own Lines:

- CHICAGO,
- AURORA, OTTAWA,
- STREATOR, ROCKFORD, DUBUQUE,
- LA CROSSE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS,
- MENDOTA, PEORIA, GALESBURG, ST. LOUIS,
- QUINCY, KEOKUK, BURLINGTON, WASHINGTON,
- OSKALOOSA, DES MOINES, CHARITON,
- GRESTON, ST. JOSEPH, ATCHISON,
- KANSAS CITY, NEBRASKA CITY,
- OMAHA, COUNCIL BLUFFS,
- LINCOLN & DENVER,

Making Direct Connections

TO AND FROM

- NEW YORK,
- BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON,
- CINCINNATI, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON,
- NEW ORLEANS, LOUISVILLE, SAN FRANCISCO,
- LOS ANGELES, SALT LAKE CITY, COLORADO AND PACIFIC COAST RESORTS, CITY OF MEXICO,
- PORTLAND, OREGON, MANITOBA,
- VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND POINTS.

Good Equipment, Good Service, Good Connection.

For information concerning the Burlington Route, apply to the nearest Ticket Agent of the C., B. & Q. or connecting railroads.

HENRY B. STONE, PAUL MORTON,
General Manager, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Train Leaves Lamoni, Going East at 1:45 p.m.
Do. do. West 2:53 "

At Bethany Junction, 3 miles east of Lamoni
Trains pass going South at 3:07 a.m. Going East and West, pass at 12:10 a.m.

PUBLICATIONS ISSUED AND FOR SALE

BY THE

Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church,
at their Publishing House in
LAMONI, DECATUR CO., IOWA,
And sent Free of Postage at prices named.

Holy Scriptures.

- Inspired Translation by Joseph Smith the Prophet.
- Sheep or Library binding.....1 50
- Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....2 00
- Full Morocco, gilt edges.....2 50
- New Testament, inspired edition.....75

Book of Mormon.

- Roan, sprinkled edges.....1 25
- Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....1 50
- Full Morocco, gilt edges.....1 75

Doctrine and Covenants.

- Sprinkled Sheep, or Library.....1 25
- Imitation Morocco.....1 50

The Saints' Harp—Hymn Book.

- Imitation Morocco, marbled edges.....1 25
- Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....1 50

Life of Joseph the Prophet, History of the Reorganized Church, and Autobiography of Joseph Smith.

In Cloth, full gilt finished, very handsome.....2 25
This book contains 827 pages of large, clear reading matter; also, three very fine Steel Engravings, and a fac simile of the Autograph of Joseph the Prophet and Emma, and of Joseph Smith; also, Steel Engraving of Hy. um Smith. A complete history of the Church up to 1880.

Joseph Smith the Prophet, and His Progenitors.

- Muslin Boards, 312 pages, by Lucy Smith.....75
- Leather Binding.....1 00

Hesperis.

- Poems by David H. Smith, 202 pages, fancy cloth, gilt edges.....1 50

Rules of Order and Debate.

For all Deliberative Assemblies of the Church; also, a Chapter on Branch Rules, and one on Reports of Branches and Districts; 128 pages, limp cloth.....40

Joseph the Seer.

His Prophetic Mission Vindicated, and the Divine Origin of the Book of Mormon Defended and Maintained. Paper covers 200 pages.....35
This is a reply by Elder W. W. Blair to Elder William Sheldon of the Second Advent Society, and is an important work to be in the hands of the ministry of the Church, especially; and it is a most excellent one to be circulated both in the Church and among those without, abounding in proofs never before presented in defense of Joseph Smith and the Book of Mormon.

Voice of Warning.

And Instruction to all People, on the Doctrine and History of the Latter Day work; 128 pages
In Paper Covers, twelve for $1.....each 10
Limp Cloth Covers, each.....25

Prophetic Truth.

Confirmed in the appearing of the Book of Mormon an Israelitish Record of a Fallen People; paper covers; five for $1.....each 25
Being the Subject of an Evening's Conversation Respecting its Origin. Its Divinity Proved by the Scriptures and Collateral Evidence. Prefaced with a Brief Sketch of the Life of the Prophet, showing the way and manner of his becoming possessed of the Record.

Branch Records.

Leather backs and corners, muslin sides; printed headings, and ruled for Record of Names, Blessing of Children, and for Marriages.....2 00

District Records.

Printed and bound similar to Branch Records.....3 00

Licences, Notices, &c.

- Elders, Priests, Teachers, and Deacons Licenses, each per dozen.....12
- Blank Preaching Notices, per hundred, 40c. and.....50
- Baptism and Confirmation Certificate books, with blank stub, 35 for.....25

Certificates and Reports.

- Branch Statistical Reports, per dozen.....40
- Annual Statistical Reports, two for.....10
- Certificate of Baptism and Membership, per dozen.....12
- Certificate of Removal, per dozen.....12
- Marriage Certificates, per dozen.....25

"Manuscript Found."

We have for sale at this office the notorious "Manuscript Found," written by Rev. Solomon Spaulding, about which so much has been said in connection with the theory that it furnished Joseph Smith and Sidney Rigdon the chief ground work and material from which to write the Book of Mormon. Has 144 pages 8 mo.; single copies, in cloth, 25 cents; 10 copies or more to one address, 20 cents each; in paper, single copies 15 cents; 10 copies or more, to one address, 13 cents each.

Tracts.

- No. 2.—Truth Made Manifest; 20c. a doz., per 100.....1 50
- No. 3.—Voice of the Good Shepherd; 5c. a doz., 100.....40
- No. 4.—Epitome of Faith and Doctrine of the Church and the Kirtland Temple Suit; 5c. per doz., 25c. per 100, 50c. for 250, $1 for 500, per 1,000.....1 75
- No. 5.—The Gospel.....price the same as No. 4
- No. 6.—The "One Baptism;" its Mode, Subjects, Prerequisite, and Design,—and Who Shall Administer; 16 pages; 25c. per doz., per 100.....1 75
- No. 7.—Who Then Can be Saved; 5c. a doz., 100.....40
- No. 8.—Fulness of the Atonement; 25c. a doz., 100.....1 75
- No. 9.—Spiritualism Viewed from a Scriptural Standpoint; 20 pages; 30c. per dozen, 100.....2 25
- No. 10.—The Narrow Way; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100 for 1 10
- No. 11.—The Plan of Salvation; 30c. a dozen, 100.....2 25
- No. 12.—The Bible versus Polygamy; 25c. a dozen, 100.....1 65
- No. 14.—Reply to Orson Pratt; 25c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 75
- No. 15.—Brighamite Idolatry; 5c. a dozen, per 100.....40
- No. 16.—Polygamy; Was it an Original Tenet of the Church; 20c. a dozen, 100.....1 40
- No. 17.—The Successor in the Prophetic Office and Presidency of the Church; 25c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 75
- No. 18.—Rejection of the Church; 15c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 10
- No. 20.—The "One Body;" or the Church of Christ under the Apostleship and under the Apostasy; 12 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 40
- No. 21.—Truth by Three Witnesses; 3c. a doz., 100.....15
- No. 22.—Faith and Repentance; 15c. a dozen, 100.....1 10
- No. 23.—Baptism; 10 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 25
- No. 24.—The Kingdom of God; 5c. a dozen, 100 for.....40
- No. 25.—Laying on of Hands; 5c. a dozen, 100 for.....40
- No. 26.—Mountain of the Lord's House; 4 pages; 5c. a dozen, per 100.....40
- No. 27.—The Sabbath Question; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 40
- No. 29.—A Vision of the Resurrection, from the Doctrine and Covenants; 5c. a dozen, 100 for.....40
- No. 30.—Origin of the Book of Mormon; 15 cents a dozen, per 100.....1 10
- No. 31.—What is Truth? and True Orthodoxy? and an Evangelical Church? Also, the Kirtland Temple Suit. Per dozen 5c., 100 for 25c., 250 for 50c., 500 for $1, 1,000 for.....1 75
- No. 32.—Which is the Church? 5c. a dozen, 100.....40
- No. 38.—The Spaulding Story Re-Examined; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 25
- A Memorial to Congress; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100.....1 10
- Trial of the Witnesses to the Resurrection; 32 pages; 6c. each, per dozen.....60
- Prophecy on the Rebellion; per 100.....15
- An assortment of Tracts, 35 cents.
- COMPLETE SET OF TRACTS.
- Bound in Limp Cloth turned in.....75

Reply to Littlefield.

We have for sale at this office, in pamphlet form, containing 48 pages, the "Reply of President Joseph Smith to L. O. Littlefield in refutation of the doctrine of plural-marriage." Price, post paid, single copies 10 cents; 75 cents per dozen to one address.

Forscutt and Shinn Discussion.

J. Shinn affirms "The Bible Teaches the Coming of Christ to Judge the World is now past." M. H. Forscutt affirms "The Bible Teaches the Literal Resurrection of the Body from the Grave." Paper covers, 194 pages.....25

Visions of Joseph Smith, The Seer.

Discoveries of Ancient American Records and Relics, with the statement of a Converted Jew, and of others: paper covers, 43 pages.....10

Concordance to Book of Covenants.

An enlarged new edition; paper covers, 32 pages.....10

Sunday School Supplies.

- Sunday School Engineer and Record Book.....50
- Prompt Attendance Tickets.....100 for 15c., 1,000 for $1 00
- Good Behavior Tickets.....Same price.

Miscellaneous.

- The Problem of Human Life Here and Hereafter, by A. Wilford Hall; 544 pages, in cloth boards.....1 50
- Universalism Against Itself, by A. Wilford Hall; in cloth boards; 336 pages.....1 00
- Josephus, complete in one vol., library leather.....3 50
- Gibson's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, cloth boards, 5 vols.....4 00
- Mosheim's Church History, cloth boards, 2 vols.....4 00
- Baldwin's Ancient American, (illustrated), cloth.....1 80
- Rollin's Ancient History, 2 vols. in one, leather.....4 00
- The Koran, library leather.....2 00
- Gieseler's Ecclesiastical History, from A. D. 1 till 1854, cloth boards, 5 vols.....10 00
- The Ecclesiastical History of Eusebius Pamphilus, Bishop of Casarea, to Palestine, cloth boards.....2 00
- Cruden's Complete Concordance of the Bible.....1 75
- The Bible Text Book.....1 00
- Apocryphal New Testament.....1 65
- Brown's Concordance of the Bible.....80
- Emerson's Ready Binder, Herald size.....85
- Emerson's Ready Binder, Hope size.....90
- Emerson's Ready Binder, Advocate size.....50
- Five Quires of Note Paper, 120 sheets.....50
- Five Quires of Note Paper, better quality.....60

Tracts in German.

Tracts in the German Language may be had of Bro. Ad. Richter, Burlington, Iowa: The Baptism, 6 cents; the Repentance, 5 cents; the Principles of the Gospel, 6 cents; the Epitome of Faith, 2c.; the Sixth Trumpet, a fifty-four page pamphlet, 25c. These prices include postage.

THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price $2.50 per year. Money may be sent by Post Office Order, Registered Letter, or by Express on Lamoni, addressed DAVID DANCER, Box 52, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa. All matters of business connected with the office should be addressed to DAVID DANCER; communications and articles to the Editor.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEARKEN TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAVE IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.

"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 34.—Whole No. 745.

Lamoni, Iowa, August 27, 1887.

No. 35.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,

Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

Business letters and subscriptions must be sent to David Dancer, by P.O. Order, Registered letter or express. Entered as second class matter at Lamoni Post Office.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - - - EDITOR.
W. W. BLAIR - - - - - ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, August 27, 1887.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

THE associate editor returned the 15th instant from a ten days' trip to Fanning and Scranton, Kansas, and reports prospects in church affairs in both places, proportionate to labors bestowed. The weather during that time was extremely dry and hot, people were busy with their work, yet meetings were well attended, especially on Sundays. It is evident many additions will be made in these places if wise, faithful, patient efforts are made in teaching the words of life. The Saints are anxious that elders Caffall, Luff, Warnky, Davis, or other spiritual, competent elders, should visit them in a few weeks and labor for the Master. At Scranton they will find a good home with brother and sister Robert Smith, and others; and at Fanning brother and sister Wm. Gurwell, also others will take pleasure in caring for them. We hope those in charge will see to these places and supply the calls, for souls are ready to be gathered into the fold of Christ, both there and in their vicinities.

One Selah Brown, miscalled Reverend, delivered a lecture before the society of Chataquans at Los Angeles, California, as appears in the Los Angeles Times for July 29th, in which he manages to get in quite a list of misstatements respecting Mormonism, the Book of Mormon, and the people who believe in the latter day work. To this, Bro. G. L. Matthews, gets a most excellent reply in the same paper in its issue for August 3d.

We give elsewhere a quaint but timely article from the pen of Hon. Daniel F. Miller, of Keokuk, Iowa, which will be of interest to the Saints. In conversation once with Mr. Miller, he was asked in our hearing, whether the treaty thus singularly made and attested was ever violated. His answer was that so far as he knew, the terms of it had been observed upon the part of both contracting parties. He stated further that he held himself under obligation to appear at the bar of the Great Judge to certify, as a witness, to the agreement thus made. He added, jokingly, "If I once get in, I expect to stay in." It would give us undivided pleasure to see Hon. Daniel F. Miller, invested with the gospel right to enter in and abide in the realms of the blessed, through obedience to Christ, that not only "as a witness," but as an heir he might have right to the Tree of Life.

Bro. James Caffall has an article in defence of the church on the question of polygamy, in the Kearney county Democrat, published at Minden, Neb. He addresses his article in such a way that we infer that some pious preacher, or preachers have been misrepresenting us without giving Bro. James a chance to set the matter right; unless in this way.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, of August 4th has a column and a half of an interview with the senior editor, and closing with an epitome of the faith. The writer is Col. Heaston, of Bethany, Missouri, who visited us at the direction of the Globe-Democrat, in view of the death of Pres. John Taylor, of Salt Lake City, Utah. It is a very fair and well written article, for which we thank both Col. Heaston and the paper.

The Elizabeth, Illinois, Independent, for July 7th and 14th, have been sent us, containing notices of Elder Rudolph Seigrist's efforts at Peters Creek and Central in Illinois. Elder Seigrist is from Maine, and has been on a visit to Illinois and has preached as the opportunity served.

MIXING THE SMITHS.

BELOW will be found a clipping from the Keokuk, Iowa, Gate City, of August 11th, in which Joseph Smith, President of the Reorganized Church, is confounded with Joseph F. Smith, one of the counsellors of the late President John Taylor, of the Utah Mormon Church. Joseph is the son of Joseph the founder, under God, of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints organized April 6th, 1830; while Joseph F. is the son of Hyrum, the Patriarch of that church up to June 27th, 1844, when he with his brother Joseph was murdered by a mob in Carthage Jail, Illinois. The church of which Joseph F. is a member and minister was organized by Brigham Young and his fellows in December, 1847, and after, as may be seen in Millennium Star and Life of Brigham Young. The church of which Joseph Smith is President has from 1830 to the present been strictly monogamic and loyal, its sacred books, the Bible, Book of Mormon, and Doctrine and Covenants enjoining monogamy, the two latter teaching most clearly and emphatically that, "There shall not any man among you have save it be one wife; and concubines he shall have none;" and, "Thou shalt love thy wife with all thy heart, and cleave unto her and none else; and he that looketh upon a woman to lust after her, shall deny the faith, and shall not have the Spirit." The Utah leaders violated these commandments, taught and practiced polygamy, lost the Spirit, denied "the faith," and organized a church, without divine authority, in harmony with their perverse and corrupt doctrines and practices.

Here is what the Gate City says:

"JOSEPH F. SMITH.

"The vacant Mormon presidency which was caused by the death of the late President Taylor, is being laid claim to by Joseph F. Smith a near relative of Joseph Smith, the original founder and starter of the Mormon Church. It is reported that he will go to Salt Lake and present his claim for the presidency of the Mormon Church in Utah. Joseph Smith is a man of letters, of wide culture and distinguished character and great renown in his own district; his gifts and accomplishments are everywhere recognized and honored, and as president of the Mormon Church at Lamoni, where he has been stationed he has met with success which his perseverance and adherence to the cause has merited. Now that the Mormon Church is so firmly established, for the time being it is not necessarily essential for Joseph Smith to be the victim of mania or superstition with which his relative was so abundantly supplied, and sight-seeing is not the necessary attribute of all the prophets and apostles of the Mormon Church, yet notwithstanding this Joseph Smith also feels that he is "the anointed of God and his especial prophet" and accordingly his claims should be true and just."

GENERAL BEN PRENTISS.

In a letter dated St. John, Kansas, August, 8th, Bro. Oscar L. Ferguson writes:—"General B. M. Prentiss was here about one week ago and gave an excellent lecture on the battle of Shiloh, to a large audience. Something was said about the Mormons here while he was at the hotel, and he said, in the presence of several that whatever might be thought of this people, there was no better community in the world than those at Lamoni, Iowa, and that President Joseph Smith was a perfect gentleman."

General Prentiss has known President Joseph Smith since 1845. At that time and after the General was somewhat intimately acquainted with the affairs of the Saints at Nauvoo, including the family of Joseph the Seer. He has also some knowledge of the Saints in this region of country and elsewhere, and his words of commendation are those of a brave, independent, unprejudiced, noble-hearted man, who speaks of our people as he knows them.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Bro. E. L. Kelley writing from Kirtland, Ohio, August 9th, furnishes the following very suggestive matter:

"Not a few enquire after the minister [Pres. Joseph Smith] who preached in the Tabernacle in Cleveland in the Spring, and express themselves heartily as commending the favorable expression of the picture in the Temple register room, and also universally grant that 'no one can say ought against the character of the present Joseph Smith.' Well, verily, the world moves. At this comes my time, and it is very easy to enquire, 'Could they truthfully against Joseph Smith the founder of the church?' With five years experience here in meeting and talking with these visitors from all parts of the country, not one have I found who could assert, with any knowledge, a single thing against the Seer. This, in time, will come home to the people. This 'young man,' (but whom the masses have only known by the title of 'Old Joe'), when his real character becomes known, is so unlike the person that the people have been taught to hate, that they become interested in him. 'Why,' says a gifted lady from San Jose, Cal., lately, on seeing his picture, 'his face is that of a frank-hearted boy!' And another: 'I always thought he was an old man; he don't look bad, either.' And so the public are informed as to the real, active, stirring youth, who perhaps did more in twenty years' time than any man of his age and circumstance the world has ever known. 1. His translation of the Book of Mormon, and this was a great work; he being the actual translator by and through the gifts of God to him. He was not a mere machine, as some would fain have it, that required simply to register what he saw; but he was a 'translator.' 2. His continuous public ministerial efforts for fourteen years, being the chief spokesman to his brethren and critic of his enemies. 3. The translation of the Bible, which is indeed the second wonderful and extraordinary work of the age; and a work that has taken others fifty years to accomplish. 4. The Book of Doctrine and Covenants through the divine gift. 5. The history of his work and the church as published till the time of his death. 6. Maintaining himself and family by the labor of his hands during a part of this time. 7. Passing through the trials, perils, and persecutions incident to his labor, by enemies and false brethren. Indeed, after carefully looking the ground over and considering all the circumstances, under which Joseph Smith wrought, I am unable to find a character in the history of the 19th century that was his equal; and history must yet so record him."

Bro. Henry Broadway, Hamilton, Australia, wrote July 1st:

"The work is moving steadily along in Australia. I had letters from Bro. and Sr. Burton, dated at Hastings, Victoria. He is doing a good work there. We are expecting Bro. T. W. Smith every day now, and surely we need him. Prejudice is disappearing and the people are enquiring."

Bro. G. T. Griffiths wrote from Kirtland, O., Aug. 11th:

"Since I wrote you last, I have been to New Philadelphia, Wheeling and Easton; found the Saints strong in the faith, with the exception of two or three persons. Not much work being done at present on account of the intense heat."

Bro. John Moore writes from Sweet Home, Missouri, of late, and says:

"The work is looking up here. Three were baptized here Sunday, August 7th, and many are believing. The Christian people have been threatening us, saying we were afraid to discuss with them. But when they saw they couldn't run us, then their preacher said it would not do to discuss with us, that Christ did not stop to discuss with the devil, but told him to get behind him. Of course we told the people Christ appealed to the written word. We are holding our own, and I was never blessed more in preaching."

Bro. I. L. Rogers wrote us of late from Sandwich, Illinois, saying:

"I have seen and felt too much of the power of the Holy Spirit to give up the Master's work. I feel sometimes to just give up the world with all its cares and give my whole attention to my Master's work. But what can I do, weak creature that I am?"

The field is wide, Bro. Rogers, and the opportunities many and pressing. Work for Christ while your day lasts.

Bro. H. C. Bronson is at Kingston, Missouri, holding meetings, (August 15th), with what result time will show. He says:

"Every effort has been and is being made to prevent our preaching, and keep the people from hearing; but all to no avail."

Bro. Willard J. Smith of Alliston, Ontario, says under date of July 30th:

"I have had lively times in the township of Amaranth of late. On the 24th inst. baptized ten. Others are investigating."

Brother Smith is anxious to see the Cowdery letters printed in tract form. This will probably be done at an early time.

Sr. Maggie Archibald of Centerville, Iowa, writes August 3d:

"There are no elders here, and only a few Saints. But we meet every Sabbath for prayer and testimony meeting, also for Sabbath School, in which we study the lessons in the Hope. We feel much better in so doing than before we commenced our meetings and school. Father and Bro. Knowles have distributed quite a number of tracts, and no doubt 'the silent little preachers' have done much good. Time will tell."

BRIGHAM YOUNG'S SON.

JOHN WILLARD YOUNG is the youngest son of the first wife of Brigham Young, and he is the vice president of an intelligence office of a peculiar nature, which combines banking and topography, statistics and general information. Having known Mr. Young somewhat years ago, I took the opportunity of rediscovering him to ask some leading questions about the issues in Utah.

He is, I think, about forty-three years old, and has, if I am correctly informed, ten sons and ten daughters. He was born at Nauvoo near the time Joseph Smith was murdered in the Carthage jail. Few men are more presentable and fascinating. There is an undertone or religious affection in his nature quite removed from cant or Phariseism.

"Where did your mother come from in the first place?" I asked.

"From Rhode Island, at no great distance from Providence. My father was a native of Vermont. My mother went out to Kirtland, Ohio, in pursuit of information about this new religion which Joseph Smith had introduced. There she became a member of the church, and in course of time married my father, being his first wife."

"Are you aware, Mr. Young, that President Garfield lived close by Kirtland and was acquainted with Joseph Smith?"

"Yes; Garfield talked to me frequently on that subject. He told me that there was not the least doubt that Joseph Smith had the power to perform miracles, and related that he cast a devil out of a man. Garfield explained it on the ground that Smith was a man of great magnetism. Some of the neighbors claim that Garfield had serious intentions of joining the Mormon faith in his youth. He was a Campbellite preacher. After he had taken so much interest in our people and was sincerely liked by them, we felt it hard that that he should have yielded to the intolerance of his official circle, and have given us little more chance than any of the other presidents."

What Mr. Young relates about Garfield was true. He told me with considerable animation that once in Kirtland a person seemed possessed with a devil and had some kind of lunacy. Joseph Smith, Garfield said, was a splendid looking man, young and hale and strong, and he commanded this evil spirit to leave the person. Garfield said that there was almost a visible issuing of the demon from the man. He, however, put the whole thing on the ground of a strong will.—"Gath" in Cincinnati Enquirer.

DEATH OF GEN. DONIPHAN.

"GENERAL A. W. DONIPHAN, of Richmond, Missouri is dead."

This is the announcement in the St. Joseph, Missouri, Daily Gazette, for August 9th; and is of interest to Latter Day Saints from the fact that General Doniphan is the man through whose action and influence, it is almost certain, Joseph and Hyrum Smith, Caleb Baldwin, Alexander McRay and others were not slaughtered on the morning after the court martial was held by Generals Lucas and Clarke, which determined that the prisoners should be marched to the public square at eight o'clock in the morning and there be publicly shot to death. Then and there General Doniphan said to that court martial: "If that order is to be carried out my command marches at daylight. My men are soldiers, not butchers. I will have nothing to do with such work."

Under the then existing circumstances, the strong and bitter feeling existing against the Saints, the influence and character of the men in command of the troops, this was a brave thing to do. And when the editor of the HERALD with his brother Alexander waited upon General Doniphan at his hotel in Richmond, to thank him for the noble stand he then took, in answer to the question, "How came you to do so brave a thing as that was, under the circumstances?" He said modestly: "I did not think anything about whether it was brave or not. I came of a long lived stock, and was young, and thought that I could not afford to go through what might be a long life with my hands stained with the blood of my fellow men." It was a fitting reply to such a question, and we were impressed with the modesty of the man, and thought we saw the reason why the bloody order was not carried out. The men who would have done the deed would have been met by the denunciation of General Doniphan, and they did not dare to venture. How characteristic this act to that of the Spanish cavalier whom King Philip Second II because he spared from murder the inhabitants of a captured town. Surely the blood of that distant progenitor of the now dead General bore excellent fruitage when it rose in rebellion when the descendant was called upon to sanction a murder similar to that slaughter of captured people. General Doniphan died at Richmond, Ray county, Missouri, at 9:45, August 8th, 1887. We take from the St. Joseph Gazette, the following as published in the obituary notice of his death:

BIOGRAPHICAL.

Gen. Doniphan was born in Mason county, Kentucky, July 9th, 1808. His father was a descendant of a Spanish cavalier who was banished during the Moorish wars by King Philip II for sparing the inhabitants of a captured town. He escaped to Scotland and married a Highland heiress. His children were loyal to Charles the First and escaped in 1650, coming to America and settling in Virginia. After the restoration of Charles II they were rewarded with a grant of land in Virginia and one of their sons named Smith was appointed county judge in 1687.

On his mother's side he was descended from Sir Sydney Smith who came to Virginia in 1706. He was a cousin to the late Governor Smith of Virginia who died on the 18th of May last in his 90th year. General Doniphan graduated from Augusta College, Kentucky, at the age of eighteen and began the study of law soon after in the office of Martin P. Marshall. Two years later he was admitted to practice in the Supreme court of the State of Ohio.

General Doniphan was married in December, 1837, to Jane Thornton, a daughter of Col. John Thornton, of Clay county, and a sister of Mrs. John Doniphan and Mrs. O. P. Moss of this city, and of Mrs. R. W. Donnell and Mrs. L. M. Lawson of New York. Two children were the result of the union, but both of them met with unnatural deaths. In 1862 one of the boys was drowned while at college, in Bethany, W. Va., and the other was accidentally poisoned when at home, having mistaken a dose of corrosive sublimate for epsom salts. Mrs. Doniphan fell dead in New York, in 1873, while visiting her sister.

He came to Missouri in March, 1830, and in April, 1830, settled at Lexington, where he began his long, successful and brilliant forensic career. He was licensed to practice by the Missouri Supreme court in 1830, and while only twenty-two years of age was placed in contact with such men as Abiel Leonard, Robert W. Wells, Peyton R. Hayden, and other gentlemen of eminence and ability.

His maiden speech was made at the bar in 1830, in defense of a man charged with murder. In this connection it may be well to state that he has never had a client incur the death penalty. In 1838 he removed to Liberty, Missouri, where he resided for thirty years. His experience at Lexington had been preparatory, but at Liberty his reputation attained its zenith.

In 1836, 1840 and 1854, he represented Clay county in the legislature. In 1838 he was sent out with a brigade to aid in capturing the Mormons, who were entrenched at Far West. Having reached the town in the evening he demanded a surrender when they announced that they would fight to the death. He prepared to make an assault at daylight, but during the night the Mormon leader, Jo Smith, learning that Generals Lewis and Clark were advancing with large bodies of excited troops, determined to surrender to General Doniphan for protection, which was done.

In 1846 he was elected colonel of the First Missouri Mounted Volunteers, and entered the Mexican war serving with great gallantry. He fought his first battle at Brazetos on Christmas day, 1846.

At the battle of Sacramento, Col., Doniphan, with his volunteers numbering 924 men and six pieces of artillery, met and fought 4,000 Mexicans under General Heredia, who was posted with ten pieces of artillery. The Mexicans were defeated with a loss of 300 killed and forty prisoners, and all their artillery and baggage taken. The American loss was one killed and eight wounded.

The New York Post of July, 1847, in comparing Colonel Doniphan's expedition with that made by Xenophno in olden times, said:

"The Greeks were lead from near Babylon through Arminia to the Black Sea, thence to Chrysopolis, 3,465 English miles. It was accomplished in fifteen months, and a large part of it through a mountainous and an unknown hostile country, the Greeks losing everything except their lives and arms.

"Doniphan and the Missourians traveled over 6,000 miles in twelve months, neither receiving supplies nor money, but living exclusively on the country through which they passed, and supplying themselves with powder and balls by capturing them from the enemy, and victorious in all the engagements against greatly superior forces, numerically. These are the two most remarkable expeditions that have ever occurred."

In 1861 he was a member of the celebrated peace conference which convened for the purpose of settling the existing difficulty between the North and South.

His name was mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination for the presidency in 1876, Gen. Bela M. Hughes being a strong advocate in his favor. He has not engaged in the practice of law since 1875; his last speech at the bar being in this city, where he was counsel in the celebrated Roberts will case.

He lived in an atmosphere inaccessible to temptation. Plain, earnest, constant and devoted, he possessed a soul so dignified and magnanimous that in the ordering of his life neither entreaty, temptation nor ambition ever held an instant's sway. In 1850 he refused a seat in the United States Senate, because affixed to its acceptance was a demand that he pledge himself to sustain what are known to history as the Jackson resolutions.

He refused to go to Jefferson City and Henry S. Geyer, a whig was elected. In 1854 when Berton, Atchison, and Doniphan were balloted for over sixty times, he was told by leading men of each opposing party that if he would pledge himself to vote for or against the extension of slavery in the territories he would be elected. His reply was that if he went to the Senate he would esteem it a great honor, but he would not creep in by intrigue. That if elected he must be free to obey the instructions of the people of his State.

In his death a great man has been removed from earth. Perhaps the best estimate of him was the contemporaries, who are all men of note. Gov. Hall often said he esteemed Gen Doniphan as the ablest man he had ever met on the rostrum.

Gen. Atchison, a political opponent, often said of him that, he had presided for many years in the Senate and had heard all of the great men of America, and in his opinion General Doniphan was the peer of any man he had ever seen or heard. Gen. Bela M. Hughes presenting his name for the Presidency in 1876, described him as the purest and grandest of American statesmen. Gov. Silas Woodson, in an address to the members of the St. Joseph bar, delivered in this city in 1878, said: "There is another name that I can not pass over in silence; one that has been heard both in the field and in the forum, but whose home is at the bar; there he was more completely the master of the situation than any man I ever saw. I allude to Alexander W. Doniphan. He still lives among us in the enjoyment of a well-earned name. The fire of youth mellowed by time but good, I hope, for many years yet to pass. I have heard Marshall, Clay, Breckenridge and, indeed, most of the great orators in this country, yet I declare to you here, in all candor, that for power of concentration or pathetic, passionate and magnetic eloquence before a jury, that Gen. Doniphan is the peer of all the men I have ever seen."

The interment of the remains took place at Liberty, on Thursday, August 11th, at eleven o'clock. A special train was run from St. Joseph, meeting the regular train at Lathrop at nine o'clock.

THE "Daily Sentinel," of Independence, Missouri, for August 9th, has this to say of the new church being built there by the Saints:

"The foundations for the new church of Latter Day Saints of Jesus Christ, on West Lexington street, is nearing completion. It is one of the best foundations we have seen in the city, and will cost, when finished, about three thousand dollars. The brick work will be begun in a few weeks. The building, when completed, will be one of the handsomest in the city."

HERE is a graphic description of the effect of the hot and dry winds of this season.

CAMP LAKE, Wis., Aug. 5.—Unless the prevailing drouth comes to a very speedy end the indications are that a very considerable portion of Southern Wisconsin will be a black desert before many days. The present dry spell has eclipsed anything ever known, and bush and prairie fires are reported from a score of directions. Every bit of moisture and sap has been burnt out of the grass, bushes and all kinds of vegetation, and the earth is so dry that the roots of the stubble in recently mowed fields are burning over hundreds upon hundreds of acres. It is reported that unless there is a let-up in the dry weather, the Illinois Central will take off trains, as the water supply for their engines is getting very low. Artesian wells make it easier for the other roads out of Chicago.

A new industry has sprung up in the neighborhood of Montrose, on the Northwestern road. The artesian well there is pouring out its water in an undiminished stream and parties have rigged up a portable tank containing 600 gallons. They fill this at the well in about four minutes, and sell the tank full to the owners of wells in the neighborhood which have gone dry at $3 the tankful. Scores of wells fed by springs have gone dry, and the farmers in many instances are compelled to go miles to the lakes for water for household purposes.

In many cases the farmers have plowed wide ridges around their homes and haystacks in order to prevent the crossing of the flames, but even this precaution has in many instances proven futile. Cattle are suffering terribly, and the milk supply has been reduced to a minimum. Morning after morning the farmers look anxiously in hope of rain, but the sky is cloudless, and the hot blasts of wind sweeping over the burning fields are a perpetual reminder of the Sahara desert.

Mothers' Home Column.

EDITED BY SISTER "FRANCES."

"For lo! in the human hearts unseen
The Healer dwelleth still,
And they who makes His temples clean
The best subserve His will.
The holiest task by heaven decreed,
An errand all divine,
The burden of our common need
To render less is thine."

"BEAR YE ONE ANOTHER'S BURDENS, AND SO FULFILL THE PERFECT LAW."

THE dawning light of the Sabbath morning steals in at our window while we write, and the peaceful calm of the day of rest is like the dew of heaven upon all the earth; both animate and inanimate nature seems to reverence the command: "The seventh is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God." Soon the sweetly pealing bell will call us away to Sunday School, to be refreshed and cheered upon our way by the bright, eager faces of the young and their glad hymns of praise, but before we go we wish to commit to paper a few of the many thoughts which have occupied our mind of late and which have been brought home to us recently by many circumstances which have come to our knowledge.

There is a perfect law and they who walk in perfect obedience to that perfect law, will inherit a perfect salvation, and none others shall, worlds without end. We, as Latter Day Saints, fully believed and endorsed this sentiment when we went down into the waters of baptism and covenanted to walk in newness of life with him even to the end. The past tells us that the holiest task ever decreed by heaven has been committed to us, that the burden which we bear in common with the rest of mankind, we should strive to render less, and Paul expresses the same thought, in the form of a commandment to the Gallatian Saints: "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the perfect law." It would naturally be expected of those who embraced this law, that they would be, of all people upon the face of the earth, the most careful and diligent; that having entered into covenant to walk in the light, to obey this perfect law, they would strive with all diligence "to make their calling and election sure." But facts are stubborn things, and in this case they neither warrant, nor will they bear us out in coming to the conclusion that such a state of things exists.

We have been looking for, and praying earnestly that God would send one mighty and strong to set his house in order. One "mighty and strong" is indeed needed, if ever he be able to bear that which he will have to contend with in the accomplishment of this task, for the burden laid upon him no human shoulders will ever have strength sufficient to bear. Moses discovered this in his day, and the "man like unto Moses" has not been wanting in a like experience. Oh, the infinite patience, long-suffering and forbearance of our heavenly Father! Well may men and angels wonder thereat and take lessons therefrom which shall make them strong in their efforts for good, though opposed by all the combined powers of earth and hell.

"Bear ye one another's burdens!" When does our brother or sister need this help? When they are clothed with righteousness and sustained by the consciousness of perfect rectitude; when the Spirit of God sheds love and peace abroad in their souls, and they can lift up their hands in purity of thought and intent to heaven saying, Abba Father? Is it then? When the woman brought to Christ her weight of sin and guilt, while each bitter tear of penitence as it fell upon his dusty, tired feet rolled from her soul the crushing weight of remembered sins, was it then she needed his help and love; or was it away back yonder in the sweet spring time of her life, when the world was to her a Garden of Eden in which lurked no serpents or aught that could molest, and she opened her heart to the unfolding dreams of life and love as the flower opens to the sunshine, unfolding its beauties to the light of heaven? Was it then, we ask, that she needed the tender sympathy of the great heart of Jesus; or was it when she had been betrayed, deceived by the serpent in the form of a man, and having tasted the bitterness of death seven times augmented, she gathered up her weary limbs and poured out her soul in tears of supplication, while her heart laid hold by faith upon the offer of mercy and pardon? When, we ask, did she need the loving services, the sustaining help of a friend—a Christian friend; then or now?

Do we hear some Simon answer, "This man, if he were a prophet would have known who or what manner of woman this is, who touched him; for she is a sinner?" Doubtless; for many Simons are in our midst to-day—many who having invited the Savior to sup with them, show less respect to their heavenly guest, than they show to the sinful world. They are afraid to obey the commandments of Christ lest the world censure them and they lose the standing they so much covet. What shall we say of such? Are they indeed those who have more respect to the honor which comes from the world than the honor which comes from God; and of whom the Savior says, How can ye believe who seek honor one of another? Why then, we ask, "Did they invite the Savior to sup with them?—Why?"

"Bear ye one another's burdens." Our brother is struggling amid the waves of adversity. The waters are deep and cold. Once, twice he sinks beneath the waves engulfing him, but each time stretches forth imploring hands to us for help. Shall we make the effort to reach him? Our boat is riding at her moorings; shall we man the oars and push out into the stream? Wait until he comes up for the last time, and then if no one shows a plank to him, perhaps we will make an effort. He may not be drowning after all, and should have kept out of the water. Thus we look coldly on and reason, until our brother worn out with buffeting the cruel waves, sinks beneath them never to rise again; and the opportunity of proving ourselves akin to the great Redeemer of the world has passed forever. Perhaps we feel a momentary spasm of regret; we see for a time the imploring, outstretched hands, the pallid despairing face of our brother, as it sank beneath the waves; then we turn to the busy scenes of life again, and because we have asked the Savior to sup with us, we fancy ourselves his followers, until in some moment of regretful penitence we hear the familiar voice of the Spirit whispering, "Simon I have somewhat to say unto thee," and the Lord shows us our sinful neglect and teaches us that the "publicans and harlots go into the kingdom of God before us."

Continued.

HOME COLUMN MISSIONARY FUND.

Sr. J. Gault, Reno, Nevada.....	1 00
Sr. Maria Thompson, Santa Ana, California.....	67
Sr. Ella, Eagle Grove, Iowa.....	50
Sr. Ellen Albertson, Frazee, Minnesota.....	26
Sr. S. J. Mortimer, Roxbury, Massachusetts.....	1 00
Sr. Minerva Hiscock, Mattawan, Michigan..	50
Grandma Hiscock, Mattawan, Michigan...	85
Sr. Mary D. Welch, Mattawan, Michigan..	65
Sr. Sarah E. Bouton, Bouton, Iowa.....	40

LAMONT, IOWA, August 18th.

THE HOLY GHOST.

Not long ago we eagerly listened to the testimony of a brother whose spirit once left the body, during which time a number of the ancient prophets and apostles laid their hands upon his head and blessed him; and at the conclusion of each blessing they said, "This is to fit and prepare you for that which is to come." To some are given special blessings, as they are called, to perform more important duties, and have greater responsibilities upon them, which might probably have been the case with this brother. As our mind dwelt upon the words, we thought of that inestimable blessing which is given to every one who enters into covenant with the Father in humility and sincerity, even the gift of the Holy Ghost, which will most assuredly prepare them for that which is to come. Clouds may gather around us, the hand of persecution may be raised against us, the bitter hatred of our own household may be sorely felt, those who were friends may prove enemies, but who or what can conquer the power of the Holy Spirit? If it is in us and abide, it is a mighty shield, a strong wall against the cunning crafts of the fiery serpent. It will help us to bring into subjection everything that is evil in our nature, and comfort our hearts and whisper peace to our troubled souls. The rays from its refulgence will enlighten our minds, quicken our understanding, take of the things of the Father and reveal them unto us, (both past, present and future), lead and guide us into all truth, and prepare us for that which is to come. Shall we ask what is to come? The resurrection day, and after that the judgment. Without the spirit of light we can never, no, never, become perfect, or be prepared for the resurrection of the just. By its power we must be quickened, and raised triumphant from the tomb, and caught up to meet the Lord, who will ere long rend the clouds and return to earth to receive his own. Let each one ask himself, "Shall I be able to stand in his presence?" This reminds me of a night vision I once had, which I will relate. After retiring to rest the door of the bedroom opened and a substance very bright in appearance came in, something like a large ball of fire, lighting up the whole room. It moved about and came by my bed-side. I saw no person, but I heard a voice distinctly say, "This is the glory of the Lord." Then it ascended above my head, and its brightness became exceedingly great and powerful, and was gradually descending, until I felt I could endure no more or I would sink. Drawing the sheet over my face I said, "Oh, Lord, take this from me or I shall die." It immediately disappeared.

My heart rejoices and is filled with thanksgiving as I contemplate the wondrous workings of the Holy Ghost, and its unlimited power. It brings to light hidden treasures; confounds the wisdom of the world; makes the weakest of earth's children great and noble; lifts them up when brought low in the time of trial and sorrow; strengthens the feeble; encourages the strong; comprehends the things of the kingdom, and draws poor mortals closer to their Maker. It is that loving chord which entwines the hearts by which his children can truly say, Abba, Father." Oh, precious gift of priceless worth! in thy dove-like form may thy wings encircle the church and protect her from all evil, and through thy power may she become as white and pure as thou art, prepared and adorned for the bridegroom, with all the gifts and graces necessary for her reception. Then the holy angels will raise their voices in songs of gladness; their harps will be tuned with sweet notes of praise; and with their Redeemer they will descend to earth and join in the feast of the Lamb. Happy thought! blessed hope! may it buoy us up under every trying scene, and may the Holy Ghost be our guiding star while life shall last; then when done with the cares of earth and earthly scenes, we shall be prepared for that which is to come.

C. ACKERLY.

FORSTER, Australia, June 10th.

Dear Sister Frances:—We are strangers to each other, but not in the Spirit. I have been thinking some time past of writing to the Home Column, for I feel so pleased to read and hear of the Lord's blessing his children, that I can not refrain longer. I can testify that the Church of Christ is the only true one. I am also happy to be a member of it. Yes; I am proud of being one! May the Lord keep me always firm in the faith of his word. My husband and I were baptized into the church August 8th, 1886, by Bro. Burton. I had been a constant attendant of the Church of England, but I reaped no benefit at all from it. I have received more enlightenment of the true gospel of Christ since I have joined this church, than I ever knew before; and I thank the Lord for sending us such an able elder for our souls' salvation as he has in Bro. Burton. Oh how good he was to think of us, poor outcasts and aliens (as it were) from the true gospel. I hope I shall live with earnest sincerity, and keep in truthfulness his faith. I pray God to keep me firm in his most blessed word. The evil one is daily around my path, but I must not be tempted. I will endeavor to conquer his wicked designs, that I may not be led in his worldly ways, but live for my dear Redeemer's sake, who reigneth supreme over all. I fail to always keep God's commandments, but will pray to him to give me more strength in the future. I will strive to be more earnest in my prayers.

We sisters here have weekly afternoon prayer meetings, and we derive much benefit from them. I think the Heralds are so edifying, I could not do without them. I pray I may have the true Spirit abiding in me always. Oh, when I look back and think of the years that have been spent in a mere form of religion, attending church from Sabbath to Sabbath, and knowing no more of God's ways when I came out than when I went in! The true gospel was never inspired in my mind, and never was I so enlightened as I have been since I have taken on myself the name of Christ, and become his. The Lord has sorely afflicted me in days past, but as he chastens those whom he loves I will not murmur, for his judgments are searching and his ways past finding out. Since I have become his, his works are much clearer to me. I know now that he has taken my dear little children from me, that as I loved them while here on earth, I should prepare myself and walk in his footsteps and keep his laws and commandments, so that when my time comes, and God calls me, that I shall be able to meet my dear ones in his kingdom never to part from them again; for the Lord giveth and taketh away—blessed be his holy name; and again, I think those words of our dear Savior, where he says, "suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven," are most sublime. We have prayer and testimony meetings once a week. The Spirit is with us. Our church is scorned and scoffed at, but let us not heed this, but have faith and true wisdom from above in all our ways and God will be ever mindful of us.

May God keep us all ever firm in his cause, is my prayer.

EMMA COLVIN.

LAMONI, Iowa.

Dear Sister Frances:—Should the Latter Day Saints ever adopt a distinctive dress and each Saint insists on incorporating into it some whim of her own, the conglomeration of absurdities would so astonish the world that our enemies would cease assailing our doctrines and attack our fashion of apparel. One sister admires the sombre clothing of nuns; and though I do not, I found no fault with her taste, because her reasons were worthy, namely, the association of the garb in her memory with the piety and saintly deportment of its wearers. But now a brother professes to dispense with neckties, on the ground of their uselessness and cost; I had to exclaim, like a good old German woman said of another, "He haf no artist soul in him!" Not for dispensing with neckties, or collars if he chooses, but if we discard everything that comes under the heads of useless and costly, where will we draw the line, and who shall judge? For things of no use to some are real necessities to others. What is the use of flowers, of pictures, or the prints and dyes of our clothing, and of thousands of other things which cost time and money? Should we, therefore, strip our homes of all those beautiful, refining attractions, and apply ourselves simply to money getting and saving, even with the laudable purpose of putting it in the Lord's treasury? We must bring up our children, meantime, in the way they should go; and how shall we teach them to cherish love and gratitude to God, and yet stifle all feelings of appreciation for the beautiful and harmonious things which he has created? Does God require this? His command is, "Let your garments be plain, and the beauty of them the work of your own hands." The failure to understand it is thus stated, "How shall we limit the beauty that our hands may make and be plain?" Whatever the difference of opinion about it, we can all recognize modest apparel, (1 Tim. 2:9), and I think that it is the true explanation. Let modesty characterize our costumes, whether adorned or not; but while teaching our children to observe modesty and chastity as necessary accompaniments of Christianity, let us beware how we make Christianity—especially our faith—hateful to them, by laying down extreme and rigid rules beyond what God, himself, requires.

We should allow age and individual taste to dictate modes and color of garments, taking, in all cases, modesty for a guide. Let those who admire black wear it, and as plain as they desire it; but if our sweet young daughters admire pink or blue, shall we try to win heavens approval by crushing their love for brightness and beauty while forcing on them our sombre hues and opinions? And should they fasten a knot of ribbon at the throat, let us not be too ready to cry vanity! because we don't think it necessary to wear a neck tie.

Many people acquire their fullest comprehension of spiritual truths through their appreciations of the beautiful, whether in art or nature, and to stifle such regard in them is to deprive them of food and dwarf their spiritual natures.

I believe this truth was in the mind of God when he created the diversified beauties of nature; and Christ frequently directs attention to it: "Why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin, yet I say unto you that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." Did our Great Teacher mean that the purple and gold of Solomon's royal attire could not equal the coloring of the lily? I think not, but rather that the natural modesty and humility of which the lily is a fitting emblem are the innate qualities of his religion; and the glory of such divine approval was incomparably greater than all the pomp and glitter for which the Gentiles seek. Then why do we take thought for raiment? Whether those thoughts are given to following prevailing styles or rigid plainness, why take thought? The true characteristics of the Christian mind are unstudied, unthought modesty and naturalness. "How they grow;" they do not toil, but grow into the beauty and sweetness of real earnest Christian life, spending and being spent to bless the world. Such are truly Christ-like.

"As Christ, in the Syrian lilies,
The vision of God he saw."

Such a Saint has neither time nor inclination for the world's vain show; and equally inconsistent is it to waste her thoughts in planing some system of dress whereby the world shall know her for a Latter Day Saint. There is a surer criterion by which shall be judged her worthiness of the name.

In the love and fellowship of the gospel,

ELEANOR.

Correspondence.

LIMERICK, Ohio, Aug. 8th.

Bro. Joseph:—With few exceptions, I think the Saints are trying to honor the work. Although there has not been much ingathering in this district in the last six months, there is a desire and a willingness to hear; they are not as ready to obey as they were in the past, and there are reasons for this. David Whitmer's writings unsettled some for a while, but with very little exceptions they are restored. To me it was no cause of stumbling; especially after hearing it examined in the noble manner that it was. May God continue to bless those at the head. On the 22d of July I left home to open up the work at Hope, a place four miles north east of Zaleski, in Vinton county; on my way I was overtaken by a messenger that turned me aside to Creola, in a case of sickness. On Saturday made my way to Bro. Jeffers, who was waiting to convey me a distance of fifteen miles to the new opening. We arrived in the community late in the evening and were cared for by a Mr. Scott, of the Methodist faith. All kinds of rumors had preceded us. Some were expecting to see us with five, or six wives a piece, they said. Some had talked of treating us with eggs; but, after hearing us six times they said that we had preached the word of God to them, and they had nothing more to say in opposition. We had large congregations and the best of interest. They requested me to come back which I promised to do. They said they would pay my expence of travel. I think there will be an ingathering there soon. Sister Eva McLaughlin and Bro. Jeffers daughter Myrtia, accompanied us and aided the service greatly by singing the songs in the Harp, which made it very pleasant. I next visited the Vinton branch, at Vale's Mills. I spoke to them upon the duties of Saints. I next called at the Milton branch, and labored with them Sunday and Sunday night. Bro. Samuel Downard conveyed me from there to Hamden, where he secured Stanton's Opera Hall for me to preach three discourses in, beginning Saturday night, August 13th. This is also a new place; some are anxious to hear. I have enjoyed great liberty in speaking the word, for which I give God the praise. My confidence is strong in this work. I am getting my affairs arranged that I think I will soon be able to take the field most of my time. My God bless you, and all his family is my prayer.

JAMES MOLER.

HASTINGS, Victoria, Australia, July 7th.

Bro. Joseph:—The Australian Saints have been anxiously awaiting the coming of Bro. T. W. Smith, but as yet we have not heard anything definite about his coming only that Bro. Ellis, the Bishop's Agent for the colonies, has written him that he would forward to Auckland, tickets for him and Sr. Helen; so I suppose we may soon look for them. We all shall be glad to see them.

There was quite a stir in this vicinity a few days ago. A Rev. J. B. Sharp, of the Church of England delivered a lecture, "Among the Mormons," purporting to be what he saw during a visit in Salt Lake City. He spoke about ten minutes, or less, from notes in his diary; then for one and three quarters of an hour retailed the usual fables, slanders and scandal. I was present, took notes and gave notice of reply for the next evening, although they tried to hinder me from doing so. We had no difficulty at all in replying as nothing new was presented, only the old inuendoes and exaggerations. After his lecture I penned and sent the following:

"Rev. J. Barley Sharp; Sir:—Enclosed please find Epitome of the faith of the church which I represent here. Also two propositions for debate which will explain themselves. If you or Mr. Nicholson (the resident clergyman) choose to entertain these propositions, you may communicate with Mr. Evan Jones, or myself in reference to arrangements as to time and place, etc.

Respectfully, J. F. Burton.

The propositions were: 1st. The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is the true Church of Christ in organization, faith and doctrine and practice. J. F. Burton affirms,

2d. The Established Church of England is the true Church of Christ in organization, faith and doctrine and practice. J. F. Burton denies. The authorized scriptures, known as King James' version shall be the standard of evidence. To which I received the following reply a few minutes before I started to the hall to deliver my reply to his lecture.

"Hastings, July 2d, 1887.

Rev. J. F. Burton; My Dear Sir:—I beg leave to thank you for your courteous note of the 1st inst. In reply permit me to state that I have no desire to enter upon a controversy with any section of Christians. As years go on I feel more and more convinced of the necessity of living peaceably with all men, especially with those of the "household of faith," and instead of christians fighting one with another, they should join hands one with another in fighting the common enemy of mankind—sin,—sin in ourselves and then the sin in our neighbors.

"I have examined the 'Epitome' which you kindly enclosed, and if the doctrines held by the Latter Day Saints are these, no more nor less, there appears to be nothing of such peculiar import as to demand a special discussion.

"In these busy days, the small differences between sectarians must be tolerated, and only the detestible enormities and abuses introduced under the cloak of christianity need to be exposed, condemned, and if possible obliterated. Sober christians instead of dividing and attacking one another will do well to unite in condemning the abuses to which the faith once delivered once for all is subjected.

"In conclusion I may state, that had I time and inclination for such a discussion as you suggest I could not do justice to either side, for 1st, I knew nothing of the Church of Latter Day Saints until I received your letter this morning. 2d, I do not hold the belief of your second proposition, as I acknowledge the Church of England to be only a true branch of the holy Catholic Church, which is founded upon the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone. 3d, I could not accept the 'King James Bible' as a standard of evidence in such a discussion, for with all its advantages it is, at the best, only a high class translation, and on vital points it inadequately expresses the meaning of the original.

"I remain yours sincerely,

J. Barley Sharp.

"P.S.—You are at liberty to make any use of this letter as a whole, but as it is merely a private communication between ourselves, I reserve the right of using only parts of it for public purposes."

There had been the usual strong statements here and in this vicinity for six weeks, that this man or some one else was coming to entirely obliterate what they were pleased to call Mormonism. If their statements were made true, the work in Victoria would now have been a thing of the past, never more to be heard of here; but the lecture was only a tirade of abusive, slanderous falsehoods, that have been concocted and reiterated by reverend(?) clergymen for the last fifty years, gathered from Beadle's, Stenhouse's, and such trash; full of inuendoes, slurs and filth. I really felt sorry for the man as he mouthed his vile calumnies—exciting the neighbors against an innocent people, living among them as law-abiding as any in the colonies.

Before we started for our reply a number of the brethren had gathered to our rooms, and we together invoked our God for his Spirit that evening, that we might be so Christ-like as when reviled not to revile. We had an excellent spirit with us as we felt clear in defending the innocent and strong in maintaining the truth. The neighborhood after Mr. Sharp's lecture was like a flock of sheep frightened by wolves; after the reply, they were as quiet as though no wolf had been seen. The lecture was Friday evening, the reply Saturday evening, and Sunday morning we baptized three persons who were confirmed same day; and now this evening we are to lecture on the divine authenticity of the Book of Mormon. The work was helped on by these means rather than hindered.

I expect to go to Geelong and vicinity next week, with Bro. A. Woolley. I have been this week to Three Chains Road and Somerville with Bro. E. McGurk; Melbourne with Bro. Carmichael; holding meetings and in conversation removing obstacles; and this Saturday evening have my Book of Mormon lecture in the hall here. The work is all alive in this district, and calls from every quarter for the word. We want about fifty elders, at once, in Australia; everything is working on for the great consummation of all things, as fast as possible. We are quite well.

Yours in bonds of faith,

JOSEPH F. BURTON.

532 E. Second South Street,

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 9th.

Bro. W. W. Blair:—Of late I fancied you would like to hear from this place, how the times have progressed, and what the future outlook appears to be, as I know that you are much interested in the work of the mission in Utah. You must think that there has been some material changes since you were here. The labor that has been done has had its effect, and the loosening of the bands are perceptible, but there's power yet to hold the people that they dare not assert their freedom. Formally, the leaders they have acceded much which will eventually win for the people and cause a spirit of division which can not be healed over. Let the elders of the Reorganization be ready and watching, for the time is imminent; for as the Deseret News has it, the Josephite elders are avenging wolves seeking whom they can devour among the sheep. Since President Joseph Smith left this mission we have had as good and powerful preaching as is possible, by Elders Anthony and Clapp, while your humble servant has held the fort; still the people keep away for fear, and some listen outside the house.

We notice a softening in the sentiments of the common people, notably since the death of John Taylor. In the epistle of Elder Wilford Woodruff he asserts his authority to take command, but concedes the point of safety in his claims for the priesthood, how he will reconcile the discordant elements, we shall see. The epistle releases George Q. Cannon and Joseph F. Smith, and places them in the Quorum of High Priests. As it happens, W. Woodruff is the last remaining member of the Twelve which existed at the death of the Seer. The remaining members of the present Twelve have been chosen since; and by what authority? is a question asked. * * * On the 11th of July, in our School Trustee election, the Liberals secured a Trustee in the 7th, 10th, 12th, 13th, and 14th school districts; and when too late they saw that they could have done more. Five members of the Legislature were elected in this district. We elected a member of both the House of Representatives and Council. The Liberals feel encouraged. You are aware of the doings of our Constitutional Convention, and the manner it was sprung upon the community. The results we shall yet see. We hope by the blessing of God to continue to progress. We hope to see one of the Presidency out here yet this fall.

May peace and blessings attend you and yours.

ETHAN BARROWS.

42 York Street, Cheetham,
MANCHESTER, England,

August 3d, 1887.

Dear Herald:—Your weekly record of the success of the work of God, in the various parts of the earth has a stimulating effect upon us and increases our desire to pattern after so laudable an example. If we are not keeping pace numerically with our brethren and sisters who are laboring upon the continents and isles of the sea, we are striving to keep abreast with them spiritually, and hope to be found but little, if any in the rear. Eyes front! attention! quick march! are the orders of the day here. We have been gathering in the wounded and the stragglers so far as they would permit us, and we are now closing up our ranks, preparing to renew the fray against sin and self, those arch enemies of the church of God and the souls of his people. The warfare will, with God's help, be continuous until the foes be conquered and the victory gained.

The field is wide enough to satisfy the aspiration of the most ambitious worker; the calls for laborers are on the increase, while the vital, softening influence of the Spirit of God, obtainable through the gospel, is winning its way to the hearts of honest men and women, though difficulties have to be met and surmounted, here as elsewhere.

The apostasy of the Utah church has not smoothed our pathway here any more than it has done in other places; for people will insist on classifying us with that people. They seem to think that the name Latter Day Saint is a term synonymous with polygamy and lust. Yet in one sense I do not regret this; for it, with the poverty of the church, has been the barrier against worldly ambition and lust, and has enabled our ministry to show a purer record, a higher church standard, than our opponents have given us credit for. Many of those who attack us believe us to be ignorant, fanatical and corrupt, and are confounded when we present to them the gospel as we are authorized to teach it; and the reaction is sometimes so great as to convert them from opponents into advocates, deeply sympathizing with the truth. To all such the church gives a welcome; but she has neither place nor powers at her disposal wherewith to excite the cupidity of the worldling or buy the consciences of her membership. It is "the cross of Christ she offers for present discipline—the crown is the reward of the future. In this life she makes us the disciples of the "Man of sorrows," the followers of "Him who bore our shame" and died through very love of us, that we might be freed from sin. Yet she leaves us not comfortless, for our Redeemer is her husband, the Holy Ghost the comforter and helper of her children who are striving to show her affectionate service by walk and work, with godly conversation.

The work in Manchester, Sheffield, and Leeds, is in a flourishing condition. A few have been baptized since I last wrote you, while many now stand upon the water's brink nearly ready to pass from carnal to spiritual life, whereby the sins of the past will be blotted out and the possibilities of the future made clear to the understanding.

The Farnworth and Wigan branches are about to unite together. The future of the Farnworth branch is more hopeful than I have seen it for some time past, and already the signs show me that the labors of the ministry have not all been in vain—a harvest of souls will yet be gathered from this portion of the Lord's vineyard, for we have the sweet assurance that if we labor faithfully, "the wrath of man shall praise the Lord, and the residue he will restrain."

During the past two or three months the Spirit of the Lord has freely indicated unto us that, with continued faithfulness in our labors, the Lord would bless and acknowledge us by His power to an extent beyond our anticipations. And already the verification of the promise has begun.

At our fellowship meeting on Sunday the 10th ult., held in the Saints Chapel at Manchester, the Lord spoke to us in tongues through his handmaiden sister Caton, of the Birmingham branch. The interpretation was given to several, but expressed by my own dear wife, who then for the first time in her life received the gift, to her immeasurable comfort, consolation, and confirmation in the faith. The interpretation re-affirmed the promise already given of great increase to the church in this neighborhood, if her ministry and membership would continue in faithfulness. During the same meeting the Lord gave unto two of the brethren, Elder Wm. R. Armstrong and Priest Wm. Towers, Jr., an open vision, whereby they affirm that they saw standing upon the platform by the side of Elder Thomas Taylor (the president of the mission) the outlined form of an angelic being. Both of these brethren are faithful laborers in God's church, and I have reason to believe are men of pure and irreproachable lives, and not likely to be the victims of a disordered imagination. The foregoing episode has greatly encouraged the Saints, who are now able to comprehend more fully the sentiment of the poet:

"The visions and blessing of old are returning;
The angels are coming to visit the earth."

I am pleased to say that the branch has begun to extend her borders. A mission house has been opened for alternate Sunday evening services, and so far has been well attended. The interest appears to be increasing, and already one or more reputable persons have offered themselves for baptism. The credit of the work done in this particular neighborhood is largely due to the labors and faithfulness of two young sisters, (Ann and Mary Jane Baty), who have by both precept and example, prepared the minds of their associates and neighbors to hear the word spoken by the elders; and they tell me that one of the sources—and that not the least—from which they have learned their duty and received encouragement, has been the "Home Column," edited by sister "Frances." Thus the fruits of the labor of our dear sister, your colleague, is like the bread cast upon the waters, appearing again after many days.

The Sunday School, and "Band of Hope" temperance society, in connection with the branch, are in a very flourishing condition, and bid fair to become valuable auxiliaries in the permanent establishment of the church in this city. The Zion's Hope has a free circulation among them, and is unquestionably exercising an influence for good. Quite a number of the children belong to parents who are not of our faith, but whose sympathies are leaning, more and more, in our direction, due in a great measure to the influence radiating from the Sabbath School. The labor in connection with these movements—to be successful—must be a labor of love, in which self abnegation must play an active and important part. Experience has taught me this, and with this understanding I desire to commend such organizations to the authorities of the church wherever branches of the Church of Christ have been established, and circumstances will permit.

In closing I can not refrain from mentioning a very pleasant visit paid recently to brother and sister Lloyd and their sons, brothers Robert and William, also to Elder John Elias Hughes. I found them well in health, and strong spiritually, with their hearts overflowing with love towards the whole household of faith. They desire to be remembered to all the Saints in every land and clime.

I have been informed by letter from Elder John Austin, president of the Sheffield branch, that one head of a family was baptized there last week, and the prospects of the work there are glorious. I have also been informed that several more have signified their intention of uniting by baptism with the church in Manchester.

Trusting, dear Herald, that you will excuse the almost unpardonable length of my letter, (for I know your space is limited), and accept me as your humble co-laborer in the gospel of Christ.

JOSEPH DEWSNUP, SEN.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 12th.

Bro. Joseph:—In May Bro. T. J. Beatty accompanied me in visiting the young Saints in Highland county, Ohio. Our visit was timely, for the enemy had been at work in our absence and had almost overthrown the faith of some. We held several meetings, in which the Saints seemed comforted; two adults were added by baptism, Bro. Beatty officiating. We effected a new opening or two in that region and aroused some inquiry. From there we moved on into Scioto county where Sr. Taylor lives, and held meetings over two Sabbaths in three different places; had a respectful hearing and were requested to return. It is a new field altogether, and we found considerable prejudice. Owing to a combination of circumstances we concluded to return home for a while. I labored through harvest in order to liquidate a debt incurred by my attendance at the April Conference. I feel thankful that I was favored to attend that session, and to witness manifestations which evidenced to me that the Reorganization is acknowledged of God. I can add a hearty "Amen" to the decision of the twelve. I feel the work is safe in the hands of such men who have no apology to offer for the law revealed. My experience thus far has been, that the circumstances relative to the adjustment of difficulties seldom warrant the saying, "necessity knows no law," although I will not affirm that there never was, nor never will be.

I reached this place on the 8th inst., and am sorry to record that the present condition of the branch is lamentable, meetings having been altogether neglected for some time. Confidence with some is shaken, even where it should be the most steadfast. I can not venture a prediction what the result will be, but it is discouraging when we reflect over the amount of labor bestowed, time and again, and so few in the short time seem to "abide." I feel to weep over their condition. "Perilous times" are upon us; such a variety of worldly attractions are brought before the people that they lose sight of all that pertains unto the truth. The Salvationists have begun operations here for the first time; a camp-meeting of the colored race is in session; and to exceed all for attraction, Dr. Monroe, with his attendant Lamanite troup, gives nightly exhibitions free, in order to sell the renowned medicines, "Modoc Oil" and "Ka-ton-ka." It will take an appalling earthquake or cyclone to turn this people God-ward. Surely, the end is near. I have appointments for Sabbath, and in the mean time have been visiting and will continue to visit the members and try to arouse them once more. I feel the need of more faith, more patience to fill my office and calling acceptably before our Father.

From here we expect to go to Thornton, where Bro. and Sr. Baker live,—comparatively a new opening—where a door is open for us. Bro. D. L. Shinn will assist what he can. I shall endeavor to do what I can henceforth under the circumstances, but delicate health and other obstacles may impede some. We have waited long, are waiting still for the Bishop and other authorities to come and bestow labor, not transient, but continue for a time. Pray for us that wisdom may be given, and the Spirit direct aright. Your brother in bonds,

L. R. DEVORE.

COURTLAND, Illinois, Aug. 13th.

Bro. Joseph:—My love for the cause of Christ was never greater than to-day, nor the evidence of the divinity of the Book of Mormon, and of the truthfulness of our position than at the present time. As for the contention that has been admitted into the columns of the Herald, in analyzing the claims of those whose chief aim is to tear down and to weaken or destroy our faith, rather than to build up any permanent, reliable church or institution. If the writer ever had any doubts about the correctness of the position of the Reorganized Church, those articles in the Herald, "Weighed in the Balance" and "Still Found Wanting," have entirely removed them, and left the evidences in favor of the above named church as clear and as bright as the sun at noon day. I have no fears concerning the work proving a failure; none whatever. The only fear I have is that we may not all prove faithful; may not endure to the end. My testimony is the same now that it has been for many years. I know that the cause that we are engaged in is of God, and that if we are faithful and endure unto the end, it will land us safely in the celestial kingdom of God. I know that we shall have a part in the first resurrection, and in that great millennial reign with our Redeemer; and with him become a joint heir to an heavenly inheritance that is incorruptible, and better still, it will be undefiled, and will not pass nor fade away; but it will be ours to hold and enjoy throughout the ceaseless ages of eternity.

Why do I know these things? Simply because He who spake as never man spake, promised me and you, beloved Saints, that if we would do the will of his Father that we should know of the truth of the doctrine; and I know he told the truth. I know it because that God who can not lie has made a covenant with you and me, that if we would abide by his laws we should have right unto the tree of life, and also eternal life, which Moroni (I think it was) said was the greatest of all the gifts of God. O, what inducements for us to live good Christian lives, to be Saints in very deed. Then brothers and sisters in the gospel of Christ, let us arise in the strength our Redeemer and put on the whole armor of Christ, and war as becometh Saints of the most high God, the warfare of the gospel of Christ, that when the day of reckoning with us shall come we may hear the Master say, "Well done! well done! Enter into the joys of thy Lord." That this may be our happy lot is the constant desire and prayers of your brother in the gospel of Christ.

W. R. CALHOON.

VERMILLION, N. Y., Aug. 11th.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—I am still stopping here. Since last writing to you of the death and funeral of Bro. E. T. Whitehead, I was away about two weeks in Jefferson county. Was at the home of Bro. Isom L. Thompson, at Adams. His mother, sister Alsina Thompson was buried the day before my arriving. Her sickness which had been for considerable time of duration previous to her death, was borne with patience to the closing scene of life, and her faith and confidence in her Redeemer were unwavering. She was in her seventy-sixth year; and Bro. Isom A. Thompson, her husband who survives her, is in his eighty-first year. He is feeble in health and does not expect to tarry very long this side the veil, but he is patiently waiting his time when he shall be called to join his companion in life (who has preceded him) in the better world beyond. Their fifty years of married life were celebrated at their house last winter. They were both members of the Saints in the early days of the church, being baptized by one Elder Brown, in the year 1843.

From Bro. Thompson's I went up to Bro. J. W. Parks, at Carthage, which is about thirty miles farther north in the same county. Bro. Parks and family were converted and baptized by the labors of Bro. McIntosh when they were living in Canada. He is alive in the work and zealous for Zion's welfare, and has made good progress and advancement, in obtaining a knowledge by books and other church publications. He has to work hard for the support of his household and family, being employed mostly at lathing buildings, though he is an excellent wood-turner by trade, and he writes me he is about to get into a job of that kind of work soon. I preached at his house on the evening of July 1st. There was only a few present. However, I had a pleasant time and very good liberty in speaking to the few. I was there over the Fourth and attended the celebration which they held at Carthage. Left there the 8th, called at Adams again over night.

Bro. Isom L. Thompson has a carriage and wagon shop in Adams, which he is carrying on there, though his home is out a mile and a half away. Bro. Isom has fresh in his memory, and loves to relate and speak of the excellent time with many of the brethren and Saints he met in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York, a few years ago when on a visit there. He speaks of his reception and entertainment by them in the highest of terms and good feeling, and would like to meet with them again under such favorable conditions and circumstances.

I have a little cheerful news to communicate at this writing. That on the evening of August 3d, I solemnized the marriage service for young brother George B. Minthorne, of Orleans county, New York, to sister Alice Whitehead, of Mexico, New York. After the service, which was held at the home of the bride, in the town of Mexico, Oswego county, New York, we joyously sat down at the feast of good things, prepared and beautifully arranged and set in order for the occasion, and partook with relish and thankful hearts to God for the rich bounties of the good things of earth, and for the very pleasant time enjoyed by all present. Sister Alice and her husband, brother George B. Minthorne, left yesterday for their home in Orleans county, New York, which is a little over a hundred miles west of this.

Brother George A. and Jay S. Whitehead are the only ones of our late brother E. T. Whitehead's family left here now; with the exception of brother George's wife and their little son, a promising little boy of about eight months old. We were all at the depot yesterday to give the parting greeting to the joyous bride and groom, praying the Lord's blessing to ever attend them throughout the succeeding journey of life.

We have had very warm and hot weather for most of the time for the past two months. Are needing rain now very much. We had a good rain here about two weeks ago, but the weather being so exceeding hot and dry since, more is very much wanted now, as some of the pastures are very short for feed.

Brothers George A., and Jay S. Whitehead are striving to live the faith of the Saints and observe their devotions and worship around the family altar each morning and also at other occasions likewise. Yours in bonds,

C. G. LANPHEAR.

HALLECK, Cal., July 21st.

Editors Herald:—Myself and family have recently united with the San Bernardino branch. My youngest daughter and I attended services there on Sunday the 3d inst., and also the following Sunday. Brethren A. E. Jones and D. L. Harris occupied the pulpit the morning of the 3d, and they and your correspondent in the evening. But I am sure my calling (if I have any) is not to preach to the Saints, but to labor among the deceived ones of the latter day apostasy. It is there I would like to labor, for among that class I experience a feeling of light and freedom that I don't feel anywhere else. And with the present hopeful state of affairs in Utah, (as clippings from Salt Lake Herald and Deseret News, published in Saints Herald of 16th ult., indicate), I feel anxious to work in that direction. And if my affairs during the next month or six weeks shape themselves as I have reasons to believe they will, then I expect to visit Arizona again, and am much in hopes that Bro. D. L. Harris will be ready to go along with me, for he was told through the gifts to get himself down into Arizona and labor among the deceive ones and the Lord would help him greatly—or words to that effect.

On the evening of July 10th, Bro. Heman C. Smith preached a very excellent discourse in San Bernardino, and admonished the Saints to be more mindful of spiritual matters, and not let the present financial boom, (by which many of the members there are becoming suddenly rich), occupy too much of their attention or cause them to neglect the greater, or spiritual duties and blessings. His remarks were well-timed and gentle, being softened by a goodly portion of that divine grace which is promised to the servants of God when in the discharge of their duties. The admonition should be heeded, for the Savior said, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world, and lose his own soul; or what will a man give in exchange for his soul." Saints—brothers and sisters of the San Bernardino branch—think of these sayings of our blessed Master; and while the Lord has permitted the accumulation and centralization of capital within your midst or around your very doors, thereby enriching you in temporal things, remember that "the earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof;" and also that "the Lord giveth, and the Lord taketh away." Use lawfully the means which he is now putting into your hands, and in the manner prescribed in his law, and then you will surely receive the promised blessings; while if you do not so use it, it will canker your souls, prove your destruction spiritually, and you thereby will lose your reward of eternal life. Praying for the welfare of Zion, I am yours in hope,

R. R. DANA.

CHURCH HILL, Ohio, July 30th.

Brothers Joseph and William.—Our branch is gaining in numbers and also in the gifts and blessings of God as promised in his word to the faithful. We have the town hall of this place rented, and meet there every Sunday except the last one in every month. Then we meet in Hubbard, five miles from here, and hold meetings in brother Andrew Richard's house, which is ever open to the ministry. Four of that place and two of Church Hill, were baptized by your humble servant on the 15th of last month, and others are very near the door. The same day that those six were baptized, six more joined our branch by letter, making twelve new members. We were thirteen before, and we number now twenty-five in all. And so we rejoice together in the bonds of the gospel.

There is no paper like the Herald to me. It is a source of instruction and I can not do without it.

Your brother,

DAVID M. STRACHAN.

SPEAK SOFTLY.

CHARITY of speech is as divine a thing as charity of action. The tongue that speaketh no evil is as lovely as the hand which giveth alms. To judge no one harshly, to misconceive no man's motives, to believe things are what they seem to be until they are proved otherwise, to temper judgment with mercy, surely is quite as good as as to build up churches, establish asylums, and to found colleges.

Do not be a news-carrier or tale-bearer; they are the pests of society, and among the most odious of all characters. Shun them as you would shun a pestilence. Remember the adage, "The receiver is as bad as the thief."

ADDRESSES.

George A. Blakeslee, Presiding Bishop, Gallien, Berrien county, Michigan.

Arthur B. Pierce, Box 500, North Attleboro, Mass.

A CURIOUS AGREEMENT.

Hon. D. F. Miller, Sr., of Lee county, Iowa, has been a lawyer in law practice over fifty-two years; and though between seventy and eighty years old, continues in the active practice of the law. He resided in Iowa in its territorial days, and was a member of the Iowa Territorial Legislature forty-seven years ago, and a Representative in Congress some forty years ago. At the instance of numerous friends, he, six years ago, wrote a history of the leading events of Iowa in its Territorial days; writing it in versification style. A friend at Keokuk, Iowa, has been permitted to transcribe and send us a copy of so much of Mr. Miller's work, as relates to the Mormon exodus from Missouri, and advent into Iowa, in 1838 and 1839, and which is as follows:

MORMON WAR.

In year of eighteen thirty-eight,
The Mormons of Missouri State,
Were scourged and driven far away
By hate of sect and mobite sway.

The mob took house, and farm, and all,
Without regard to great or small;—
Drove every one from home and door,
Without regard to rich or poor;
And many were in cold blood slain,
The mob's rude power to maintain.

A portion fled to Iowa,
As nearest point to get away,
And safety find where law was rule,
And freedom was for church and school.
And in their flight avoiding road,
To 'scape pursuit from mobite horde;
With women, children, old and young,
In sudden groups o'er prairie strung,
Moving along as best they could,
With garments torn, and scant of food,
And sleeping on the cold, bare ground,
Wherever night their footsteps found.

It was indeed a piteous sight,
Those Mormon wanderers in their flight;
For what one might their church faith call,
They yet were human beings all.

Arrived on soil of Iowa,
They came to work and not to play,
Nor make of martyr-griefs display;—
Showed common sense and business tact,
By settling on the Half Breed Tract;
And cabins built, and good farms made,
And started various sorts of trade.

That Tract was noted for good land,
Which once was held by Indian band,—
The Sacs and Foxes by name,
Whose lives were spent in hunting game,
Or making war on other tribes,
Or foot race runs, or horse back rides.
And they by treaty made with whites,
In form, display, and Indian rites,
Preserved that Tract in trust and good,
For Half Breeds of their race and blood,
Who dwelt within that neighborhood.

But persecution yet pursued
The Mormons in their new abode,
And ere they had there settled long,
There was an opposition strong
From Settlers there of older date,
Imbued with anti-Mormon hate;
Who vow'd in wrath and sovereign fury,
Without regard to court, or jury,
They would unite in conclave force,
And drive out Mormons,—man and horse.

But Mormons sad and in dismay,
Yet with good pluck resolv'd to stay,
And let strong arms decide the fray,
And danger was of civil war,
The fame of Half Breed Tract to mar.

And while both sides prepared for fight,
And women shed tears with affright,
Then David Kilbourne upwards rose,
The honored most of all Montrose,
And with kind heart and gentle way,

Which gave him much of public sway,
Set quick his wits to stop the fray.

He kindly spoke to friend and foe,
And made them all to feel and know,
That on the soil of Iowa,
None should engage in civil fray;
And such as should the peace embroil,
The law should punish, one and all
And some by threats and language bold,
And some by coax and half way scold,
He got the rival chiefs to meet,
And with kind words each other greet,
And there on treaty terms agree,
That all should thenceforth neighbors be,
At least so far in neighborhood,
To not do harm, if not do good.

And each pledged each in hearty will,
The terms of treaty to fulfill;
And to give moral strength to pledge,
That neither side should from it hedge,
They call'd a friend the pledge to hear,
And summoned him sure to appear
At Judgment Day at Heaven's call,
Before the hosts of Heaven—all,
And witness true there to declare,
If either side had been unfair,—
If either side had treaty broke,
Or ill deeds done war to provoke. *

And henceforth gentle peace prevailed
On Half Breed Tract, and never failed
Till "war of rails" in "forty-four,"
When fuss and fury threatened gore,
Yet like a harmless storm pass'd o'er;
Where Gentile men, not Mormons fought,
Yet neither's life with courage sought,
Which will be shown in after date
In line of history to relate.

* The circumstances and terms of that treaty constitute a historical curiosity. For the consummation of the treaty and its terms, David W. Kilbourne, Esq., of Montrose, Iowa, (since deceased), was deputed to represent the anti-Mormon party, and John Smith, a venerable old man, and uncle of Joseph Smith, the Mormon prophet, represented the Mormons. When they met, Mr. Kilbourne, proposed to put the terms of the treaty into writing; but Mr. Smith objected, on the ground that at the time of the conflagration of the earth, or sooner, the writing would be burnt, or otherwise destroyed; and he wished an impartial man to be the witness, so he could give testimony in the other world. Thereupon, Mr. Kilbourne agreed to the proposition of Mr. Smith, and suggested the name of D. F. Miller, Esq., then a resident of Fort Madison, Iowa, as a proper witness, and to which suggestion Mr. Smith consented. A few days afterwards on the request of Mr. Kilbourne, Mr. Miller met the contracting parties in an upper room over a store kept in the town of Montrose, by Edward Kilbourne a brother of D. W. Kilbourne. The only parties in the room were the witness, Mr. Miller, D. W. Kilbourne, and John Smith, and two Mormon bishops as comrades of Smith. When the treaty of peace had been agreed upon, and settled upon the terms as stated in the poem, Mr. Miller was called upon specially to witness the same, and Smith and Kilbourne shook hands in affirmation of the treaty. The treaty finished, Mr. Smith turned his grave and venerable aspect towards Mr. Miller, and looking him earnestly in the face, said to him: "Mr. Miller, I now summon you as a witness to the Judgment Day of the World to come at the Court of Heaven; and if the Mormons violate the treaty, you will there testify against us; and if the anti-Mormons violate it, I will there call upon you to testify against them." They then all mutually shook hands with each other and separated. That was in 1842.

PRAYER-MEETING RESOLUTIONS.

1. I will make it a matter of conscience to attend—"Not forsaking the assembling of yourselves together."
2. I will endeavor to bring others—"Come thou with us, and we will do thee good."
3. As I enter the room I will ask the Savior's presence—"We would see Jesus."
4. I will not choose a back seat—"How pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."
5. I will not so seat myself as to keep others from the same pew—"Be courteous."
6. I will fix my attention upon worship and the Word—"This people draweth nigh unto Me with their mouth, but their hearts are far from Me."

7. I will lead in prayer—"Ye also helping together by prayer for us."

8. I will otherwise take part—"Teaching and admonishing one another;" "Confess your faults one to another."

9. I will avoid critical thoughts of others who take part—"Judge not."

10. After the meeting I will greet as many as I courteously can—"Salute one another;" "Be kindly affectionate."

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

THE CHURCH AND PROHIBITION.

THE church is supposed to be the conservator of good morals. If she be not, she is not a benefactor of the world. Morality is the basis of a Christian profession; spirituality the apex. The life intervening shall be so developed and guarded as to properly blend with the "beginning and ending" of that profession. "Sound doctrine" partakes of a wider range of thought and instruction than may be found in "first principles." First, implies beginning, commencement. It equally suggests continuation, and limits at a possible end. "First principles" are initiatory—and the law by which we are inducted is not the law that shall afterward govern the "born of God." Here then exists the necessity for an examination of some things relative to the church membership. It must be understood that the word "church" implies organization—and this means form, law, rules, regulations, executors, and the governed. Those who enter the church do so, in all probability, with an understanding that the moral, social, and spiritual laws of that organization shall be the ones by which they shall thereafter be governed; otherwise, rebellion exists. God says in Doctrine and Covenants, sec. 43, par 4: "Ye shall bind yourselves to act in all holiness before me." The moral law of the Latter Day Saints is very plain and good. See Doctrine and Covenants sec. 42: 6, 20; 21, 22, 23; 58: 5, 59: 2, 3, 63: 5, 69: 5, also the late revelation to the church. I quote from Doctrine and Covenants because it is specially the discipline of the church. "The church is not legislative, but executive;" this is very true. Herein lies her great responsibility! And to execute her God-given laws in righteousness is very important indeed.

Has the church any definite idea regarding the question of "prohibition?" Shall she be the supporter of all good laws that seek the eradication of all evils? Has "the body" any compromise to present? If the command has been given—"Let no man break the laws of the land," &c., should any one advocate any thing contrary to the actual, existing laws of his own state? Prohibition was not a political question—some party had to do the legislating. It should not be found grovelling amidst political clashing, or be deposed from the high position properly belonging to it. All law is prohibitory. "Thou shalt not," and "thou shalt," permeates every part of God's laws! We are most absolutely told in some respects what we shall eat and drink, and when! See sec. 86: "Inasmuch as any man drinketh wine or strong drink among you, behold it is not good, neither meet [seemly] in the sight of your Father, only in assembling yourselves together, to offer up your sacraments before him." If "it is not good," then it must be evil—if evil, decidedly wrong; men's opinions to the contrary, notwithstanding. This last April God spoke very plain indeed. And I was heartily glad of it. The astounding evils of the liquor traffic, public and private are most alarming, and can not be gazed upon with any degree of listlessness.

Its proportions are immense! Its power almost limitless! It is a hydra-headed monster! It is misleading; a bold, yet whining beast. It is destructive to every interest of mankind. It is blinding in its forces, yet feigning far-sightedness. It yields no fruitage but crime; and gives no return to the consumer but poverty. Its gilded saloons are furnished from the laborers' homes. The drinker's gutter makes the saloon man's carriage. His paneless windows furnish mirrors for the barkeeper. His empty cupboard furnishes decanters and glasses! His rags make the barkeeper's broadcloth! His roofless home gives the barkeeper the slated mansard! Reader, I presume you've heard all this before; but I want to know what is your position on this question? If you favor not "prohibition," you favor high-license; if so, you of course favor the existence of the saloon; then all necessary (?) attendant evils! For remember, their existence generates theft, murder, suicide, anarchy, treason, and every other unlawful deed! Every keg and barrel for its service is what I call a "devil's egg" that hatches horrible things!

When we speak of "prohibition" we mention it upon its own grand merits, not the lack of its enforcement. Its enforcement is practical, if all but thought so. We as a church shall have to take a decided stand, I believe, upon the question for this reason: The world will desire to know where we stand. We must be found—and that not "astride the fence." Our line of action must be well, and most clearly defined. That defining must be rendered in perfect accord with God's word to us! And I seriously believe that we know now what it is on this important question. The church must always be found when sought for, and should be ready to give an unswerving answer both to God and mankind when asked her position on all leading questions! Her moral status must be pure and high. Her moral forces strong, no leaning allowed. This aids in forming her bulwarks—and they must be well built. God can not be trifled with, and the church shall not trifle with the world, nor allow of the introduction of the iniquities within her sacred precincts.

When every one knows just what the liquor traffice extorts from its devotees, how can we as a people of such high profession be found taking any middle or lower ground. We must make every possible, laudable effort to stand as high in all things as our profession claims for us, otherwise we lower our standard. And I assure you, dear reader, that God occupies high ground upon all questions that relate to moral and spiritual development. We all know that the saloon business degrades. There are no elevating tendencies to it, nor in it. And that which debases is not the thing the church, or any part of her shall be found advocating. Should she do so she would manifest a peculiar weakness that has no right to attach to her, nor be exhibited by her. Her standard shall be that of life, and strength. He efforts to exalt, refine, and purify. Her banner must be immaculate, and her motto upward and onward. No retrogressive steps should mark her efforts; but steadiness of purpose, purity of motive, and uplifting her struggles.

Is it not a rather strange spectacle to see at a quarterly conference a resolution presented to the effect: "That no elder should be found frequenting saloons, or bar-rooms, and that we discountenance such as unchristian, and believe it should be made a test of fellowship;" vote called for and defeated. Supposing any such thing has or should occur, could any one be rightfully supported in such strange procedure.

I am of the firm conviction that when a person identifies himself with the Church of Christ, God recognizes no pet tastes of the intoxicating kind. Our likes and dislikes in that direction should be brought strongly into conformity with existing law and fact that now govern us as a people. A lamentable sight indeed is it to see or know of elders in such strange condition of mind as to be unfit for ministerial duties, constantly violating the church laws. And while they know their weakness, as well as members who so indulge, they are heard raising their voice against prohibition! See the following texts: Prov. 23:30, 2; 4:17; 31:4, 5; 1 Cor. 10:21; Lev. 10:9; Isa. 5:11, 12; 28:7, 8; Eph. 5:18; Luke 21:34; Deut. 21:20, 21; Jer. 13:12-14; Rom. 13:13; Gal. 5:21; Hab. 2:15.

In the last named text God pronounces a curse upon him "who putteth the bottle to his neighbor's lips." This can be done either directly, or by our vote, favoring license for the existence of an illegitimate business. Illegitimate, from the fact that naught but the greatest harm accrues therefrom, every time, everywhere, and alway! Some quote: "Let your moderation be known to all men." That is—drink a little! Very well; we will not abuse, but use. Let us carry this into other matters.

We can, I think, with the same propriety (?) swear a little, steal a little, lie a little for convenience, defraud just a little, prostitute somewhat, cheat a little. Now apply your text: "let your moderation be known." Exactly! And I know of instances where many of these moderations are used—and it is accounted as smart! Can these things tend to a development of spiritual and moral powers? Is it in place or keeping with the language, "provide things honest?" "Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouths?" Indeed! All these evils are attendant ones upon the liquor traffic and its consumers. I introduce the moral phase of our discipline in this connection because wine, beer and ale, rum, alcohol and whisky bibbling produce a perversion of our mental faculties. And the person who closes his eyes to facts, sees fancies. Those who see not the real, see the ideal. And their fancy and ideal are always of a low class. A person near-sighted or with blurred vision, can not see afar, nor clearly. And I venture the assertion that those who desire strong drink are not anxious to see the prohibitory side of this question. Every one of us who is a member of the church, in a sense represents the church, and if any go to the saloon and drink that act misrepresents the law of the church, and gives a wrong impression as regards the probable position of the church to the observer. Every man, woman and youth should ask themselves the questions: "How do I represent the church? Am I true to her holy demands upon me?" If we are not true, then are we false, and in danger of the darkness of error.

It is a deplorable condition, that can not be too deeply regretted, that any one who may have once named the name of Christ should so far forget as to become addicted to drunkenness, lying, profanity, obscenity, vulgarity, prostitution, dishonesty! The church suffers reproach, the erring disgrace and sometimes damn themselves, under the banefulness of their awful doings. Souls that might have been white, become black. The light is turned into darkness, truth into error, righteousness to sin! God save the people from these things!

One thing among others found lacking amongst some of the church is prayer. Never were truer words penned than these: "Without prayer you can not maintain a good conscience; without prayer you can not keep before your mind the principles or the facts of the gospel, which have relieved you; without prayer the spirit of adoption will evaporate as morning dew; without prayer the joints and sinews of your moral and religious character will relax and fail. You never can realize as your Father the God you are reluctant to commune with." So wrote the eminent Dr. Phillips. The "joints and sinews of your moral and religious character" need to be looked after, attended to. Relaxation of these produces a nimbleness in sin most wonderful to behold.

There are those who deem a temperance pledge unnecessary—that the gospel vow is sufficient. Very true; and it should be. But there are instances where the two combined will not over-rule the heart's stubborn desire. How strange! The baptismal vow to follow Christ so weakened by temptation. How strong the vow should be we know. The importance of the step is not always realized. Its paramount demands not always understood. Its binding provisions not clearly defined. Dabbling in sin is dangerous business; disregard for purity, unsafe ground to occupy; deafness to entreaty, painful; we need stimulating means—but not intoxicants. Stimulate by prayer, determination, faithful performance of duty, all the high inclinations of the soul.

"The heart's neglected duty Brings sorrow to its cost."

If we follow where Christ would lead us, we will never enter saloons, gambling places, nor run greedily after any other evil. His sacred footsteps lead not thither.

J. F. McDOWELL.

PROPHETIC GLEAMS.—No. II.

BY LEONARD SCOTT.

TRULY the nations slept. As before shown, not only "Christian doctrine and morality" were giving evidence of serious decay, but the arts and sciences were undeveloped, and general retrogression was seizing the banner and dragging it into abject ignorance and the kennel of Barbarism; virtue was subjected to a severe test. The leaders threw its honor in the dust, the masses strove to follow them, hence, "And it shall be as with the people so with the priest." Isa. 24:2. The moulding rule of these times was "Do as you are bid asking no questions." Investigation crushed. The precepts of men became the iron rule—the scepter of the reign of despotism, thus entrapped in the old stereotyped boundaries, it had become an heretical crime for one to think for himself beyond the withering ideas of his predecessors. Isaiah by prophecy, while wrapt in the visions of inspiration peers down the ages, and his words ring out the divinity and attest the inspiration, presenting the cause of the withdrawal of light, and the envelopment of the inhabitants of earth in the mists of error, despotism and gloom—the hiding of the resplendent sun of righteousness by the turbulent billows of tradition, superstition and the blinding fogs that obscured the glory and effulgence of the Church of Christ: "The earth also is defiled under the inhabitants thereof; because they [the inhabitants] have transgressed the laws, changed the ordinance and broken the everlasting covenant. Therefore hath the curse devoured the earth, and they that dwell therein are desolate; therefore the inhabitants of the earth are burned and few men left."—Isa. 24:5, 6.

Reader, has this prophecy received its accomplishment? Now the covenant ratified by Christ's blood upon the Calvarian cross,—the covenant given to the inhabitants of earth and accepted by a few, and those few called "the church," collectively, and individually disciples or branches—was broken at the time church and state were united; whereas, Paul wrote the church, that he had "espoused it to one husband, even Christ," and being espoused to Christ involved obedience to the gospel law of "faith, repentance, baptism, laying on of hands," &c. Yet the disciples of Christ, as a church, sundered the vows of her wedlock, and she was united with State; thus enthroned in popularity, power, and influence, as a transgressor of "the laws" of the kingdom of God, alienated from God by a breakage of the gospel covenant. Do you marvel then at the spiritual languishing and yoke of cruel bondage? What is to be understood says one, by union of Church and State, or breaking the covenant? We cite you for an answer, to the following:

"For by an edict which he (Justinian, the Roman emperor) issued to unite all men in one faith whether Jews, Gentiles or Christians, such as did not in the term of three months embrace and profess the Catholic faith, were declared to be infamous, and as such excluded from all employment both civil and military, rendered incapable of leaving anything by will, and their estates confiscated whether real or personal. * * * But many however withstood them, and against such as did the imperial edict was executed with the utmost rigor. Great numbers were driven from their homes with their wives and children stripped and naked. Many were inhumanly massacred by the Catholic peasantry and soldiery who guarded the passes."—Bowers History of Popes, vol. 1, page 324.

"In the creed of Justinian the guilt of murder could not be applied to the slaughter of unbelievers, and he piously labored to establish with fire and sword, the unity of the Christian faith."—Gibbon, vol. 3, page 265.

Is there not here a gleam of light referring to the "horn" power of Daniel, who should, as the prophecy declared literally "wear out the Saints of the Most High." This is a historic description of nationalizing faith, an union of church with state,—abjuring their allegiance to the government of Christ, as the faith and worship of the Catholic Church became a law in the empire, under the penalty of death, no union between church and state could possibly be more complete. This union must result in a "war with the Saints," from the fact that the union must result in establishing a "creed" or faith of the apostate church as a law; otherwise she could not have been drunken with their blood. When we reflect on the cruel warfare waged against the Christian church, the institution of horrors, and the supernatural power and patience with which they bore such excruciating torture as attributed to them; and all, for the "testimony of Jesus" which they held, we begin to see the propriety of Jesus' words, "In your patience, possess ye your souls." This edict being incorporated in the Justinian Code, was in force for 1260 years, or as the prophecy states, "times, time and a half time."

But the decree had gone forth that the power of the empire of despotism should be broken—"They shall take away his dominion to consume and destroy it unto the end." A class of bold thinkers arose to the laudable effort of freeing mind from the trammels of slavery, error and superstitious chains; who, guilty of questioning the claims of a haughty, arrogant and avaricious priesthood, quailed not before the thunders of the Vatican to investigate maxims, or doctrines because venerated for their antiquity, nor recoiled to enter the great arena of investigation, nor disdained truth because presented in simplicity with colors of novelty. Just 1260 years from the inception of this tyrannical institution, its temporal power was crushed. Berthier, (one of Napoleon's French generals) in 1798 penetrated Rome and took the Pope prisoner. This knocked the last prop from under that institution that supplanted the true worship, and "made all nations drink of her wine and are drunken." But she is to continue in some form till the coming of Christ in power and great glory. See 2 Thess. 2d chap. Now, bear in mind, that the kingdom of Christ eighteen centuries past "suffered violence." "The violent took it by force." It became the soil adapted to the production of "tares." That tares choked out the "seed of the kingdom," as the woman went into the "wilderness." As an organization it ceased to be the Church of Christ and became the empire of Satan. It was warred against and overcame. Its official structure was abrogated. The vital principles were extracted, its constitutional basis exchanged, its source of sustenance earthly, sensual, and murderous; in fine, its complete overthrow and destruction. Dr. Buck testifies: "The apostles being dead everything came to pass as was foretold. The entire Christian system underwent a miserable change; also under the operating influences Christianity was maintained, though under gradual decay." All of this, and more, can be affirmed of the kingdom set up when Christ came as the "Lamb of Calvary," and utterly routes the application of Daniel's prophecy to that work.

We see the Christian organization defaced and degraded by abominations that distanced the enormities of mythology. The world everywhere sank in the most degrading mental vassalage, and under the withering control of a most seductive and yet appalling despotism. Ignorance and stupidity, fraud and cunning were canonized. The apostle John saw this stupendous imposture, and the battlements of anti-Christ, and the entrenchments of his vassal millions, one after another.

The conclusion is, therefore, the prophecy is fulfilled in the work of re-establishing the government and restoring the "true worship" that has been supplanted by an idolatrous system previous to the revelation of Jesus the second time, without sin unto salvation, as "the Lion of the tribe of Judah." The ten kingdoms yet exist, and will till their power and prestige are frittered by the assumption of the reins of government by the "King of kings and Lord of lords." The kingdom was to be organized before the coming of Christ. "The Son of Man shall send forth his angels and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity."—Matt. 13: 41. This presents two propositions at least. First, the kingdom will exist on the earth before He comes. Second, that iniquitous and offensive persons will be in it. Further, no one will offer the position that this has reference to, "thy kingdom come," in the celestial world of radiance; for in heaven nothing does iniquity or offends.

Again, Jesus tells us to "seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness" and temporal blessings should be added; and he would not have us seek for something that does not exist. Daniel states, "I saw in the night visions and behold one like the the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of Days, and they brought Him near before him. And there was given him dominion, and glory and a kingdom that all people, nations and languages should serve him, his dominion is an everlasting dominion, . . . and his kingdom that which shall not pass away."—Dan. 7: 13, 14. This establishes the idea that the kingdom exists prior to its reception by Jesus, the Christ. "There was given to him a kingdom," hence its preorganization. Again it is symbolized by a little stone, and it (the kingdom of God) smote the image, etc. "In the days of these kings," does not signify that those kings have passed away by any means; for an event transpiring in the days of Cleveland's administration does not take place after his term of office expires. As before remarked, its primary or inception is that of a stone; its secondary is that of a stone smiting; its expansive and comprehensive is, that "the stone became a great mountain and filled the whole earth." Three principle stages of the government of God. The work is called by inspiration, "The day of preparation." I believe that if we gain an approximate of the "day of his preparation," it will be simultaneous with the setting up of the stone kingdom, aye, one and the same occurrence. The prophet Nahum, in second chapter, third and fourth paragraphs:—"The shield of his mighty men is made red, the valiant men are in scarlet; the chariots shall be with flaming torches in the day of his preparation, and the fir trees shall be terribly shaken." This is a graphic, a grand prophetic description of the locomotives as they welter in the byways. "In the day of his preparation," then, the "Iron horse" with his bowels of fire, carrying in his wake, with the velocity of winged messengers, a number to constitute the world's convention or congress of nations, should be "with flaming torches," in a day when the mind of man would be on the stretch after mechanical inventions and improvements to furnish the already fledged wings of science, accelerated flight in the developing wonders of the scientific world.

When was the first locomotive constructed? Answer: "The first locomotive was constructed and placed upon a track connecting the granite stone quarries with the Newport River, in the year 1827," (Encyclopedia Britannica), the very year that the constitutional law of the kingdom was restored by angelic ministrations to Joseph Smith. The kingdom as an organization is the legitimate outgrowth of the principles of the "gospel of the kingdom," officially considered, the same as found in Ephesians, fourth chapter, and 1 Corinthians, twelfth chapter. That the above prophecy applies to the means of transit introduced, we quote the fourth verse, "The chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle [jostle] one against another in the broadways; they shall seem like torches, they shall run like the lightnings." Comment is unnecessary. The "marvelous work and a wonder," the "strange act," lifting up of the standard of adjudication, the "ensign," the "hand of the Lord" made manifest the "second time," "laborers," called into the vineyard in the "eleventh hour," "time of the harvest." Restoration of the "everlasting gospel," by angelic administration, and the setting up the little "stone" kingdom, is God's work "in the day of his preparation." Ascertaining that the period called "the day of his preparation," (1827 and onward), includes the rolling, and enlargement of the kingdom, let us inquire, where was it to be "cut out"? where inaugurated? Not on the eastern soil, for that was not adapted for the establishment of the kingdom of God in its inception.

As we have observed, ecclesiastical dominations had so monopolized and trampled down religious liberty, that no fair hopes remained of it obtaining any considerable maturity. The old world had ceased to be an arena of freedom. The nations of the Orient, locked in the the stupor of the cold embrace of intellectual bondage; and please remember that the principles of charity flourish only in the atmosphere of political freedom and religious tolerance. Civil liberty is the advance-guard of Christian principles. Hence we must look for more congenial climes for the planting of the "good seed of the kingdom." We now cite Isaiah eighteenth chapter: Woe to the land shadowing with wings, which is beyond the rivers of Ethiopia: That sendeth ambassadors by the sea, even in vessels of bulrushes [or rushing vessels] upon the waters, saying, Go ye swift messengers to a nation scattered and peeled, to a people terrible from their beginning hitherto; a nation meted out and trodden down, whose land the rivers have spoiled."—verses one and two. Now, should we stand in Egypt, where Isiah delivered this prophecy, we find that Ethiopia includes the Southern portion of Africa, and is but partially explored, and not at all civilized, and that its rivers all flow in a southeasterly direction into the Atlantic Ocean, and beyond those rivers is the continent of America mapped out like the extending wings of a bird—North and South America, connected by the small Isthmus of Darien.

This land then "sends" ambassadors, mark you, and evidently they are for Christ, are gospel advocates. She does not receive them, but sends them out upon rushing vessels. It demonstrates that the nucleus of her power, the center of the operations of the kingdom of God, should be here. Should we enquire if their trumpets are to give an uncertain sound, or if they run without tidings? The third verse will answer, as follows: "All ye inhabitants of the world and dwellers on the earth, see ye when he lifteth up an ensign on the mountains: and when he bloweth a trumpet hear ye." And this "afore the harvest, when the bud is perfect, and the sour grape is ripening." Again, "And he will lift up an ensign to the nations from afar, and will hiss unto them from the end of the earth," &c., Isa. 5: 26. All this, says the prophet, is to transpire on "the land shadowing with wings." Now the gospel "ensign," reared by Christ and his ambassadors by their personal ministrations eighteen hundred years since, was lifted up close by, in the land of Palestine. But evidently anticipating the billowy vapors of gloom intervening between that event and "seeing the King in his beauty," he exclaims, "And he will lift up an ensign to the nations from afar," just afore the harvest, preceding the "gathering together" of his dispersed from the four corners of the earth; just afore the return of Israel from his long dispersion and captivity, afore the land of Palestine is wrenched from Mohammedan grasp and reverts to its legal inheritors. When in the evolutions of time the period had arrived when God would enlarge the boundaries of geographical knowledge, he had reserved a vast, magnificent and secluded continent, on which he had reared his loftiest mountains, channeled his deepest rivers, stretched out his broadest plains, (prairies), with their inexhaustible riches of mineral production. He caused a spirit of bold adventure to move upon the dark and stagnant waters of Europe, unlocked the hidden mysteries of the distant west, when a "new world" leaped out to the gaze of the wondering nations of the east. America is a land of prophecy, and upon which is to be developed new principles, new forms of government, a new social condition, new territory for civilization, a practical solution of the problem of popular sovereignty, free government based on the principles of "inalienable rights" and equality, a purer church than was practicable in the old world, a land on which the genius of liberty may soar aloft and bathe his golden plumage in the glowing radiance of the rising sun of liberty, civilization, life, and light. 'Tis here the kingdom of God may flourish in its dignity and proud attire, where a constitution, whose peaceful folds shield from the usurpation of dominion over the consciences of mankind. Where eternal peace seemed to have selected her quiet dwelling place, destined as the empire of liberty, the metropolis of civilization. Here God is solving certain great problems. With political freedom in the advance, he prepares the way and means for their solution. The nations of the Orient, hitherto so strongly barricaded within the double walls of a politico-ecclesiastical, repulsive despotism, have been invaded by the light of reason, and its lamp has illumined the path of national intelligence. The system of life as taught by Christ is breaking loose from the crumbling walls of sectarian priestcraft and scholastic divinity. From the fair form of truth the veil of darkness is falling. Investigation becomes free, discussion untrammelled. Hence arose that brilliant galaxy—that bright constellation that displayed its glory in the west, the grand republic of America. Can we not perceive a providential arrangement in this? In harmony with the thought of rearing the ensign on this highly favored "land shadowing with wings," we wish to cite another of the many evidences that could be adduced supportive of divine interposition.

"And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation and kindred and tongue and people. Saying with a loud voice" &c.—Rev. 14:6.

This prophecy can receive its accomplishment in one of two ways only: First, that an angel flies and preaches it personally, a position for which there isn't a shade of proof. If angels were commissioned to preach the gospel, a splendid opportunity was given to the one that appeared to Cornelius to tell him to send for Peter who should tell him words of salvation. Paul evidently knew that God did not authorize angels to preach the gospel personally; hence, he, in view of its restoration by an angel from the courts of glory, declares: "Though we or an angel from heaven preach any other gospel * * * let him be accursed." Second, that the angel delegates the administrative authority, through heaven's appointed way, by ordaining one or more who in turn will ordain others and thus by mutual co-operation the gospel is to be preached to every kindred, &c.

This would be in unison with a number of prophecies, such as, "Many shall run to and fro and knowledge shall be increased."—Dan. 12:4. "Behold I will send for many fishers, saith the Lord, and they shall fish them: and after I will send for many hunters and they shall hunt them from every mountain, and from every hill, and out of the holes of the rocks."—Jer. 16:16. "His [Joseph's] glory is like the firstling of his bullock, and his horns are like the horns of unicorns; with them he shall push the people together to the ends of the earth: and they are the ten thousands of Ephraim, and they are the thousands of Manasseh."—Deut. 33:17.

Thus by an angel flying in the midst of heaven, amid the tremendous darkness of this dread hour, and restoring the constitutional Law of the kingdom, the "little stone" is given velocity, for the organization of the kingdom is the outgrowth of the laws of the kingdom. The constitutional law is supreme, and calls for the official structure. By this, authority is given to ordain the "ten thousands of Ephraim and the thousands of Manasseh." And also the fulfillment of other prophecies too numerous to cite. But they can not receive their accomplishment by many running to and fro to proselyte without being sent, without having authority from the source of all divine authority. The blessed Savior, in answering the three-fold question propounded by his disciples relative to the signs of his coming and the end of the world, informs them of the consequent condition of the Jews, the demolition of the temple with all the tremendous adjuncts of that national catastrophe, mentions as one of the most prominent signs, "and this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nation, and then shall the end come."—Matt. 24:14.

Now any person who will investigate or superficially observe, will conclude that all of the extolled efforts and popular systems that have been thrown into the arms of the public, bear no similarity to "this gospel of the kingdom," since it was so deeply imbedded in the rubbish of the dark ages; since the kingdom was overthrown and remodeled—organically, its doctrines amalgamated with heathen mythology and allegory.

Jesus the Christ is the central radiating idea of the kingdom, is emphatically styled "the stone which the builders rejected." "On whomsoever this stone shall fall it will grind him to powder." "And the stone smote the image" and carried it away. The smiting of the stone will take place then at the second coming of that stone which the builders rejected, when Christ will be king over all the earth. He has not assumed kingly authority as yet, but is a "mediator," one who mediates between two parties,—God, the monarch who saves or condemns and the party to be saved or condemned, and a mediator as such does not reign. The words of the angel to his mother before his birth was, "And the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David; and he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever, and of his kingdom there shall be no end."—Luke 1:32, 33. He did not do this when here as the "Lamb of Calvary." He did not enter the sacred precincts of Mt. Zion, never sat on the throne where David and Solomon sat. Did not erect the house of Jacob into kingdom and begin his reign of peace. Instead of gathering that house together and reigning over it, he says, "Your house is left unto you desolate." "How oft would I have gathered you, but ye would not."—Luke 13. Hence this work of Messiah refers to the future, even "when the Son of man shall come in his glory, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory."—Matt. 25. Christ will sit upon the throne as "king" when he comes. One more evidence supportive of this view and we will dismiss it. "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me on my throne; even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne."—Rev. 3:21. When our Savior comes the righteous dead will be resurrected, and the righteous living will be translated. This will also introduce the happy era that prophets have looked to with anxiety, when the tempted, the true, and the tried, will follow the Lamb. One mortal has been permitted to see the organization and triumphant march of that grand army. "I saw heaven opened, and behold a white horse, and he that sat upon him was called Faithful and True, and in righteousness he doth judge and make war. * * * And the armies in heaven followed him upon white horses clothed in fine linen, white and clean, and out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword that with it he should smite the nations, and he shall rule them with a rod of iron. * * * And he hath on his vesture and on his thigh a name written, King of kings and Lord of Lords."—Rev. 19. Then the restitution will assume a physical form, for "every valley shall be exalted and every mountain and hill shall be made low; and the crooked shall be made straight and the rough places plain, and the glory of the Lord shall be revealed and all flesh shall see it together."—Isa. 40:4, 5. The earth as the territory of the kingdom under the whole heaven will have passed through the crucible, the divine laboratory, and the dross removed; and be restored to its pristine excellency and paradisaical condition. This brings us to the culminating point. Directs the eye to the zenith of that glory to be revealed at the resurrection of the just when "the meek shall inherit the earth."—Matt. 5: 5. Heavenly attractions cluster around this momentous scene, as the "little stone becomes a great mountain and fills the whole earth." Glance at the world's history and find the masses subservient to the aggrandizement of the few; might exalted against right, the earth strewn with bloodshed and carnage, crimsoned with human gore; the meek and lowly ones oppressed. Will Land Lordism, Nihilism, Socialism, Communism, Ostracism and Anarchism always riot full-fledged? "Peace, be still," has gone forth that the winds of commotion shall be hushed, the jarring elements revert to their primeval order, and discordant principles to their original harmony. What adds grandeur to the scene, is the beauty and glory that adorn the place, "the knowledge of the Lord covers the earth, as the waters do the channel of the rolling flood. "Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." There will be no embattled legions marshalled upon the field of fatal strife, "no hostile chief to furious combat run." The earth will no longer be enshrouded in the sable drapery of mourning. Pestilence shall never raise her scepter throughout that fair domain, for the bloom of eternal health will be imprinted on every cheek. That Mount Zion and Jerusalem will become the Queen cities of the world, the residences of the Lord Jesus Christ, the metropolii and head quarters of the millennial kingdom, whose dominion will extend to the uttermost bounds of the globe, is evident from the following prophetic ecstasy: "Then the moon shall be confounded and the sun ashamed, when the Lord of hosts reigns in Mount Zion and in Jerusalem, and before his ancients gloriously."—Isa. 24: 23.

Again: "At that time they shall call Jerusalem the throne of the Lord, and all the nations shall be gathered unto it to the name of the Lord, to Jerusalem; neither shall they walk any more after the imagination of their evil heart."—Jer. 3: 14.

Again: "So shall ye know that I am the Lord your God dwelling in Zion, my holy mountain; then shall Jerusalem be holy, and there shall no strangers pass through her any more."—Joel 3: 17.

Hence, David, the tuneful bard of Israel, sang: "Ask of me [says the Father to the Son] and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession. Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron. Thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel."—Psalms 2: 8, 9.

And to be "joint heirs with Christ," is to be heir to the earth. No marvel then that the four and twenty elders prostrated themselves before the throne and sang—"And hast made us unto our God kings and priests, and we shall reign on the earth."—Rev. 5: 10.

But prior to this "sabbatic era," we shall expect a "time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation," even to that same time, and at that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book."—Dan. 12: 1.

If we were told that at a given period there was a time of trouble, such as never was since the institution of a bank, we would readily understand it was connected with the currency, implying a pressure on the money markets. It is not said such as never was from the beginning of creation, or the beginning of a world, since there was a nation; or in other words, since the organization of a national government. It alludes therefore, I apprehend, to those notional turmoils and upheavings of the political institutions that our day is peculiarly characteristic of; such as the great eastern question, or problem, which involves the Jew as a material factor in the solution of the same. It is not our province to discuss the political issue, but all can see that the nerves of those orientals are drawn to the highest tension. We view it as providential, in the light of prophecy, for the advancement of the members of the Jewish race to the highest honors and most commanding positions in statesmanship, legislation, power, diplomacy, freedom from civil disabilities, political proscription, and the social ostracism of ages past.

The wheel of time rolls on toward the reinstatement of the poor Jew in his own land, and the restoration of seats to the "judges and councillors" of Israel. It was Benjamin Disraeli, a Jew, who filled the first position in the eyes of mankind, as Prime Minister of the first empire in the world, that of Victoria, Queen of England and Empress of India. In France it was a Jew, Gambetta, who wields the widest influence in shaping the policy and destiny of the most active and aggressive of all the continental powers of Europe. It is a Jewish house, the Rothschilds, that with almost endless ramifications throughout the world, fixes the money values and holds the purse strings of the nations of earth. It was a Jew, General Todleben, whose fame dates back to the memorable siege of Sebastopol, and who stands at the head of the military engineers of the world, and as commander-in-chief of the armies of the almost boundless Russian Empire holds in check the military movements, not of the Ottoman Empire alone, but in a great degree of all eastern Europe. It was a Jew, Sir Moses Montefiore, (recently deceased), whose services and sacrifices in successfully stimulating and organizing Jewish immigration and colonization in Palestine, have made his name illustrious, died in the ninety-eighth year of his age, (and like his great name-sake, the Jewish law-giver), "his eye not dimmed, nor his natural force abated."

You will perceive that these wonderful people have been, and are daily coming to the front and filling positions of trust and honor, heretofore unknown to Gentile annals,—Neander, the historian, Mendelssohn and Wagner, the greatest composers in music, men of science, learned professors and scientists, doctors in law and philosophy—all members of the lately proscribed race—have come to the front in the unusual conduct of Gentile affairs in the broad arena of mankind, extending to both hemispheres of our globe.

Truly the future is enlarged with portentous developments. The blasted fig-tree of Jewish nationality that has been waste and fruitless for so many years, is budding and putting forth its leaves, and shall bloom and flourish under the rule of King Messiah; for he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever. The land of Palestine is now in the hands of the Jew. The mortgage has been foreclosed. Disraeli (Lord Beaconsfield) like Daniel (an exile from his fatherland and an alien in blood and race from the British people) represented his sovereign in the congress at Berlin, and like his countryman, Daniel, seemed interested with the mission of achieving by the overthrow and destruction of their Moslem oppressions through the Gentile powers of the world, the rescue and redemption of his captive race from the cruel bondage of their enemies, and thus in the end effecting their restoration in great wealth, fame and prosperity to the land and home of their fathers, to Jerusalem, the golden, yet to be the "city" of the Great King. But Christ reigns not only over the Jews, but all the meek ones from Adam down to the end of time. The house of Israel gathered, the kingdom restored to them, the little stone becoming a mountain, or in other words a universal kingdom, ushers us into the possibilities of the "world to come," when "the lion shall eat straw like the ox; the cow and the bear feed together; the wolf dwell with the lamb; the child play upon the den" of the serpent. Then Peter's quotation of Joel's prophecy will ultimately be fulfilled, "I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh." What but the Spirit of God would cause these beasts to disrobe themselves of their ferocious disposition and don the robes and disposition of docility and gentleness. We would, but rather leave it for the present, for others to expatiate on the glories of the millennial era. Thought, language and images all fail us. The grandeur of nature and the glory of art, the dreams of fancy, and the creations of poetry, all fade in the vision. Admiration no longer hovers o'er the Elysian fields of Virgil. Homer's sparkling rills of nectar, streaming from the gods, woo our thirst no more. The bright Blandusian fountains and the magnificent vale of far-famed Cashmere lose their splendor. Even the paradise of Milton, with its trees and its rivers, its fruits and its flowers, its hymns and its harps,—a living landscape with its vernal diadem and voiced with melody—dwindles into sterility! But let the infirmity be eloquent of its praise; for who can sustain himself when every thought bends with the burden of its own meaning. Let us keep pace with the grand march of events as they thicken, betokening the approach of the period when the little stone becomes a mountain. With what prominence then do these prophecies, as uttered by the royal seer in the courts of Babylon upwards of twenty-four hundred years ago, stand out on the pages of history. Let us live to enter the thousand years reign, enjoy the blessings and share the ripened powers of immortality.

KNOX, Ind., July 25th, 1887.

PRIDE.

Editors Herald:—In speaking of pride and what we should, and should not wear, we beg leave to say a word or two, if it be not asking too much. The brother from Helena is certainly looking up the wrong tree for his game, if he for a moment suspects me of upholding pride in any form, for we repeat again, that pride does not consist in wearing good clothes, nor even fine clothes, but it is in the person. We know persons, even in the Saints' church, who pride themselves on wearing the coarsest garments to Saints' meeting, (and not too clean at that), simply to have others think they are not proud, and who could afford much better and cleaner. Yes, I will go farther. I have seen members of our church in Iowa who were hardly decent; members too, who own fine farms and plenty of stock, and we don't know their motive for it, unless it be pride in their hearts that they dare go more slovenly than the poorer members. It is a fact, and more the rule than the exception, that members who have but little of this world's goods go to meeting clean and neat, and choose to dress decent. It looks to us as though these poorer members are the ones who are not so avaricious and ready to skimp themselves and family in the way of wearing apparel, simply to bring others down to the same rule who can, and do wear decent raiment without pride in their hearts. I fully coincide with the brother in this: if he can not wear a fine suit of clothes without having his mind on them all the time he has them on, he had better continue in his way, but not dictate to others who choose to dress decently. Now as we are all aware, the world looks on us as being the most ignorant and lowest class of people at best, and if we do not dress decently (without thinking of our clothes all the time) they will have good reasons for speaking of us as being a slovenly and degraded class of people.

The brother cites us the Book of Mormon, page 207, &c. He omitted a good share of what is on that holy page. It speaks also of their flocks and herds, abundance of gold and silver, precious things, silk and fine twined linen. Does the brother think they made all these things to look at, and feast their eyes upon? Or does he think they were made to tempt others, or for their own personal use? Possibly though they made use of them when they went to sectarian meeting, and when they had Saints' meeting, they donned their old blouses and overalls, for fear people would think they had pride in their hearts.

He says further, (and I agree with him), that "where your treasures are, there will your hearts be." That is all true; and if our hearts are on gaining more land, raising fine herds of cattle, hogs, &c., there our hearts will be also; and if our treasure be in dressing more oddly, and more awkwardly than our neighbors, or brethren, simply because we are not afraid to, there will our hearts be also.

J. W. DUMBAULD.

Miscellaneous.

SCATTERING MEMBERS.

As Bro. C. H. Caton, secretary of the English Mission, desires of me an answer through the Herald, as to who are considered as scattering members of the Church, I reply so far as I am concerned and according to my understanding, as follows:

All members who hold Certificates of Baptism or Letters of Removal and have not united with any branch on such Certificate or Letter, are properly called "scattering members," those uncounted among the members of branches, hence unreported at district conferences. But district clerks, as I view it, should hunt out and record all such members who live within the bounds of organized districts. In this work the presidents of districts and others of the ministry can greatly aid the clerks by making a memorandum of names and items of birth and baptism as they find members who are not enrolled in any branch. The names and items should then be entered on the district records and also be reported to me so that I may record them to the credit of each state.

Members absent from branches without Letters of Removal should not be designated as scattering members, but should be spoken of in reports, and otherwise, as absent members, those still members of the branch, but away from it.

It has been the expressed wish of the General Conference that all members unite with the branches nearest them and that no names be dropped from branch records because the persons are absent and their places unknown, but the rule is disregarded, so that I have prepared a record book for the purpose of entering all such names by States as dropped from record or as reported from present residences.

H. A. STEBBINS,
Gen. Church Sec'y and Recorder.

GROVE MEETING.

A general invitation is hereby extended to all to attend a grove meeting to be held near Clarksdale, Missouri, in the Far West district, commencing August 28th, and continuing one week. Clarksdale is situated on the C., R. I. & P. R. R., about twenty-two miles east of St. Joseph. A good time is anticipated, and all who come will be made welcome. Bro. Joseph Smith and Bro. Joseph Luff have been invited to be present, also Bro. Joseph R. Lambert; and we look for a favorable answer from them. Provisions will be made to care for all who come. This is a good field for labor, and large congregations, if the weather is favorable, will be present. Then let all who can come and let us have a good time.

J. T. KINNAMAN, }
H. C. BRONSON, } Com.
H. HENDERKS, }

FOUR DAYS' MEETING.

There will be a four days' meeting held in the Nauvoo School-house, near Glen Easton, West Virginia, on the 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th of September, 1887. A number of the brethren will be present to attend to the preaching of the word. Let all of the Saints in that part of the district try and be in attendance.

G. T. GRIFFITHS.

HARVEST EXCURSIONS.

The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R., will sell, on August 30th, September 20th, and October 11th, Harvest Excursion Tickets at one fare for the round trip to principal points in Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota and Dakota. Limit, thirty days. For tickets and further information concerning these excursions, call on the nearest C. B. & Q. Ticket Agent.

MARRIED.

HIDY—BEAR.—At Independence, Missouri, August 7th, 1887, Bro. John C. Hidy, of Collins, Story county, Iowa, and Sr. Anna A. Bear, of Independence, Missouri; Elder Alfred White officiating.

DIED.

BRONSON.—At Princeville, Peoria county, Illinois, April 12th, 1887, Bro. Hiel Bronson, aged 83 years and 11 days. Bro. Bronson was born at Farmington, Hartford county, Connecticut, April 1st, 1804; was baptized into the Church of Christ in October, 1833, by Col. Ambrose Palmer, at New Portage, Ohio; was ordained an elder by William Phelps; was baptized in the Reorganized Church by Elder George Rarick, in Peoria county, Illinois, in 1862; ordained an elder by George Rarick in February, 1862. April 9th, 1866, Bro. Hiel Bronson was ordained at Plano, Illinois, under the hands of J. W. Briggs, Josiah Ells and James Blakeslee, to the office of high priest, which office he held at the time of his death. Coming into the church in an early day, only three years after its organization, Bro. Hiel Bronson had a good opportunity to become acquainted with Joseph Smith, the prophet, as well as Joseph Smith, sr., father of the prophet, and under whose hands as the first patriarch of the church he received a patriarchal blessing at New Portage, Ohio, May 15th, 1836; which blessing had almost a literal fulfillment in his subsequent life. Bro. Bronson saw the rise and fall of the first church; noted the apostasy, and was wise enough to foresee the consequences of the apostasy of the leaders of the church after the death of Joseph the prophet. He never believed in, nor followed B. Young; but always held fast to the first principles of the church; repudiated the assumed authority of the Twelve after the death of the prophet, and stood aloof from all the assumed leaders, and from all factions of the church until 1862, when he united with the Reorganization, under the leadership of the present Joseph. Bro. Bronson always repudiated the doctrine of polygamy and other evils, as taught and practiced by B. Young & Co., and always affirmed in the most positive terms, that the prophet Joseph, or the church under him, did not teach nor practice polygamy up to the time of the death of the prophet in 1844. It is likely that no one who joined the first church in the early days had a better opportunity of knowing the facts than did brother Hiel Bronson. He always was of keen observation and sharp comprehension, so much so as to be able to foreknow the terrible results of the apostasy of the church, and kept out of it. And if any such doctrine as polygamy and other tenets as taught by the church in Utah had been taught or practiced by Joseph, the prophet, or his counselors, Bro. Bronson would have known it. This adds another testimony against the false statements of B. Young and others that this doctrine was taught by the early church. Bro. Hiel Bronson and Mary Nesmith were united in marriage February 8th, 1827, and lived happily together up to the time of his death, a little more than sixty years. Grandmother Bronson still survives him. Thus passed away an old-time Saint, who was faithful through trouble, trial and persecution; saw the church fall and rise again, and was happy in his religion both in life and death, and will stand on Zion's hill among the redeemed of earth in the last day. Funeral services conducted by Elder Thomas Stafford of Lewiston, Illinois.

McCord.—Alexander McCord was born in the city of New York, N. Y., January 10th, 1811, and died at his residence on the Nishna Botna, near Harlan, Shelby county, Iowa, June 15th, 1887, aged 76 years, 4 months and 5 days. The immediate causes of his demise were old age and general debility. His life abounded with many trying and stirring events. He united with the Latter Day Saints in York, Canada, in May, 1836, being baptized by Elder P. P. Pratt. He resided for a time near Nauvoo, Illinois; moved thence to western Iowa in 1846; enlisted in the noted "Mormon Battalion," in which he served as sergeant under Captain Hunt, and went with it to California, where he was honorably discharged, and from whence he went to Salt Lake City, Utah, where he became alienated from that fragment of the church because of the perverse and corrupt teachings and practices introduced into it by Brigham Young and his fellows, and, with others, crossed mountain and plain on horseback between February and April, 1848, to "Winter Quarters," so as to prevent his wife and children from going on to Utah. After this he engaged in farming extensively at Galland's Grove, Shelby county, Iowa, and by his industry and good management, in due time secured a competency for himself and family. Later on he located the farm and residence where he finished his mortal career. He united with the Reorganized Church in 1859, was ordained to the eldership in 1860, and to the office of Seventy in 1861. In 1863 he accompanied E. C. Briggs on a mission to Utah, and in company with Elders J. W. Chatburn and Samuel Wood went there on another mission in 1869-70. He did considerable local preaching in various localities, and in many ways proved a valuable helper in the ministry. Bro. McCord was a man of many virtues: his hospitality was proverbial, and his confidence in and love of the latter day work were unswerving. In many ways he contributed of his temporal means to the finances of the church, and in aid of its traveling ministry. He died in full possession of his mind, without any apparent pain, and talked to his wife to the last. He requested her to lay him down in bed, and when this was done he said to her he was perfectly easy, and in two minutes thereafter his spirit fled its earthly tenement to "return to God who gave it." His body was buried June 16th in a private burying ground on his farm, after an appropriate sermon by Elder J. W. Chatburn to a large concourse of relatives and friends.

"Death's but a path that must be trod,
If man would ever pass to God."

HEATH.—At Wheeling, West Virginia, Mary, daughter of Bro. and Sr. Heath. Little Mary was born January 11th, 1884; died July 28th, 1887. Funeral from the family residence; sermon by Bro. G. T. Griffiths.

MOORE.—Near Lamoni, Iowa, August 14th, 1887, of cholera infantum, Demmie E., son of David A. and Sylva Moore, aged 6 months and 18 days. Funeral sermon by Elder H. A. Stebbins.

DECATUR DISTRICT.

Two-day meetings will be held as follows: At Allendale, Worth county, Missouri, August 27th and 28th; in the Lone Rock Branch, Harrison county, Missouri on September 3d and 4th; at Wirt, Ringgold county, Iowa, September 10th and 11th; at Davis City, Decatur county, Iowa, September 17th and 18th, and in the Greenville Branch, Decatur county, on September 24th and 25th. The elders who can assist in any of these meetings are requested to do so, and to inform me as early as possible so that I may arrange matters and make announcements.

H. A. STEBBINS, Dist. Pres.

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

Conference of the Pittsburg and Kirtland district will convene September 10th and 11th, at ten o'clock a.m., at New Philadelphia, Ohio. Clerks of branches and elders and priests are requested to send in their reports in ample time to R. S. Salyards, Kirtland, Ohio. It is desirable that as many of the Saints be in attendance as possible, as the new church building is to be consecrated, and we expect a good time in general. Brethren W. H. and E. L. Kelley, James Brown, R. S. Salyards, Geo. H. Hulmes, W. H. Garrett, and others of the ministry are expected to be present. Arrival and departure of trains:—leave Pittsburg on the C. & P. R. R. at 6:30 a.m. and 12:55 p.m.; arrive at New Philadelphia at 12:22 p.m. and 6:05 p.m. Leave Wheeling and Bridgeport on C. L. & W. R. R., 11:35 a.m. and 4 p.m. Leave Cleveland 6:55 a.m. and 4 p.m. Let all try to be there on Friday evening, so as to be in time for business on Saturday morning.

G. T. GRIFFITHS, Dist. Pres.

The Saints of the Southern Indiana district will meet at the Union Chapel, Jefferson county, Saturday, September 3d, at half-past ten o'clock. Will the branches be prompt in sending in their reports in time. M. R. SCOTT, Secretary.

The Independence, Missouri, district conference will convene Saturday, September 3d, at ten a.m. A goodly attendance is expected. Branch and laboring officials will please have full and complete reports of work and branches.

I. N. WHITE, Dist. Pres.

South-Eastern Illinois conference will be held Saturday and Sunday, September 17th and 18th, instead of 24th and 25th, as noted in minutes. The reason for this change is that the State Fair is to be held in the district, and on the same days on which conference was to convene, which would prove to be very inconvenient. All are invited to attend.

G. H. HILLIARD, Pres.
I. M. SMITH, Sec.

The conference of Eastern Iowa district will (D. V.) be held at Canton, Jackson county, Saturday and Sunday, October 8th and 9th. Parties coming by rail should start on Friday and will be met at depot in Onslow. Let all who can, attend; bring faith, peace, godly zeal, and a blessing will be yours. It is desirable to hold a series of two days' meetings after the conference session. Let all of the ministry be on hand ready for duty, thus economizing time and expense in such arrangements as may be effected. By order of district authorities,

WM. T. MAITLAND, Dist. Sec.

The semi-annual conference of the Manchester district of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will (D. V.) convene for business purposes at seven p. m., Friday, the 7th day of October next, in the Latter Day Saints' chapel, 113 Clarendon Street, Great Jackson Street, Hulme, Manchester. All district officers will please send in their reports of labor (not licenses) to the district secretary, Elder James Baty, 10 Chapman Street, Hulme, Manchester, on or before Saturday, 1st October, 1887.

JOSEPH DEWSNUP, President.
JAMES BATY, Secretary.

Notice is hereby given that a conference will be held at Sweet Home, Nodaway county, Missouri, October 1st and 2d, 1887. Branches are requested to send delegates.

JAMES THOMAS, Dist. Pres.

150 TOWN LOTS.

I am prepared to furnish any one wanting a lot, either Business or Residence, in LAMONI, at low prices and very easy terms. Some fine acre pieces also. Call on or address

J. W. DENOON, M. D., Lamoni.

20aug3m

LADIES or Gents, Girls or Boys, wanted in Europe and America, to sell our Folding Bustles, Portable Bed-springs, Tidy Holders, Sewing Machine Relief Springs, &c. For terms, address Bro. B. F. Ordway, Peoria, U. S. A.; or Bro. Henry Tabbiner, 2 Grafton-st., Hanley, England. 6aug

The Sisters' Aid Society of Independence branch have for sale for the benefit of the new church, two Cabinet Photographs: one of the THREE WITNESSES, with views of the HILL CUMORAH and the ANGEL delivering the PLATES; the other of the OLD LIBERTY JAIL as it now stands, for 25 cts each. Those desiring to purchase can address Mrs. B. C. Smith, box 61, Independence, Missouri. 22jul3m

TO HOPE SUBSCRIBERS.

On and after January 1st, 1887, the Hope will be sent to subscribers as follows:

Single copies, per year . . . . . 50c.
Over 4 copies and under 10, to one address, each . . . . . 40c.
Ten copies and over, to one address, each . . . 35c.

Subscriptions to be paid in advance unless otherwise arranged for by subscribers.

Foreign Money Orders.

Bear in mind the fact that the post office at Lamoni is now a Foreign Money Order Office. Therefore, those in foreign countries sending moneys to this office should draw them on Lamoni, Iowa, U. S. A.

ZION'S HOPE

Is published every Saturday by the Church of Christ, at Lamoni, Iowa. Single copies, per year, 50c; packages of four to ten 40c; packages of over ten 35c.

Lamoni and Vicinity.

Those wishing to become acquainted with Lamoni and vicinity, will do well to subscribe for

THE LAMONI GAZETTE

A weekly paper, now published by

LAMBERT & HANSEN.

dec11tf

J. H. HANSEN, M. D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Will practice in Lamoni and vicinity; calls made at all hours. Office in Drug Store of Hansen & Walker, Lamoni
MIDWIFERY and DISEASES of WOMEN a Specialty
Residence one block East Teal's Store. 14feb1y

Money Orders.

Money Orders are much safer than Postal Notes when remitting to this office, and they cost but two cents more. Don't forget this, lest you lose money.

D. DANCER, Manager.

"A BOOK FOR THE PEOPLE."

CAPTIVATING! USEFUL! Eloquent Discussions, and Diplomatic Papers on the Great Public Questions of the Past and Present, by JAMES G. BLAINE.

Embracing his masterly arguments on the vital issues in the Anti-Slavery Struggle, the All Important Labor Question, Prohibition, Irish Home-Rule, etc., etc. A FORTUNE FOR BOOK CANVASSERS! APPLICATIONS FOR TERRITORY COMING IN WITH A RUSH! THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING CO., NORWICH, CT.

WHEN YOU TRAVEL

Take the Line selected by the United States Government to carry the Fast Mail,—the

As it is the Line running Through Trains to and from the following cities and towns on its own Lines:

CHICAGO,
AURORA, OTTAWA,
STREATOR, ROCKFORD, DUBUQUE,
LA CROSSE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS,
MENDOTA, PEORIA, GALESBURG, ST. LOUIS,
QUINCY, KEOKUK, BURLINGTON, WASHINGTON,
OSKALOOSA, DES MOINES, CHARITON,
CRESTON, ST. JOSEPH, ATCHISON,
KANSAS CITY, NEBRASKA CITY,
OMAHA, COUNCIL BLUFFS,
LINDOLN & DENVER,

Making Direct Connections

TO AND FROM

NEW YORK,
BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON,
CINCINNATI, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON,
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISVILLE, SAN FRANCISCO,
LOS ANGELES, SALT LAKE CITY, COLORADO AND
PACIFIC COAST RESORTS, CITY OF MEXICO,
PORTLAND, OREGON, MANITOBA,
VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND
POINTS.

Good Equipment,
Good Service,
Good Connection.

For information concerning the Burlington Route, apply to the nearest Ticket Agent of the C., B. & Q. or connecting railroads.

HENRY B. STONE, General Manager,
PAUL MORTON, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Train Leaves Lamoni, Going East at 1:45 p.m.
Do, do, West 2:53 "
At Bethany Junction, 3 miles east of Lamoni
Trains pass going South at 3:07 a.m. Going
East and West, pass at 12:10 a.m.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEarken TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAve IT BE ONE WIFE. AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.

"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 34.—Whole No. 746.

Lamoni, Iowa, September 3, 1887.

No. 36.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,

Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

Business letters and subscriptions must be sent to David Dancer, by P.O. Order, Registered letter or express Entered as second class matter at Lamoni Post Office.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - - - EDITOR.
W. W. BLAIR - - - - - ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, September 3, 1887.

PERSECUTION AND ITS CAUSES.

(Continued from page 426).

IN our last it was demonstrated that when the Lord's "army" (See Doctrine and Covenants, Revelation, December 16th, 1833, section 98: 6-9, with Revelation, June 22d, 1834, section 102: 3-11.) went up to purchase lands in Jackson county, Missouri, to make homes there, and also others to assist their fellow Saints in every lawful, proper way to regain their lands and property, of which they had been dispossessed by a barbarous mob, they did but simply comply with the laws of Missouri when they armed themselves for self defense and for the defense of the state, and that Governor Dunklin advised it. It was also shown that this "army" consisted of but "two hundred and five men."

We now proceed to show further, that this "army" had not the most remote intention of levying war, or to in any way commit aggression upon the Jackson county mobbers, or any one else; but that they intended to proceed legally and peacefully to aid their fellow Saints in regaining their rights and their property guaranteed to them both by the laws of nature and the laws of Missouri.

It will be noticed in the following items of history, that Wm. E. Lellin, also the late General Doniphan, figured conspicuously. Note well that document to which the former signed his name, and then you will know the malice of his statements made frequently since when he (and others like him) charged that Joseph the Seer and his fellows of the "army" were actuated by "a military spirit;" "a spirit of war," etc., etc. Please note well also the manly, noble sentiments of Doniphan—a man who then and since has proved himself to be as honorable and humane as he was brave and incorruptible. And last but not least, consider well the utterly impracticable, but very crafty "propositions" of the Jackson county committee to the mobbed and robbed Saints to sell or buy each others lands. Verily, herein was "Tantalus" revived, re-enacted, and added to previous mobocratic outrage.

"Monday, June 16th, 1834.—The citizens of Clay county, (to the number of eight hundred or a thousand, among whom were the brethren), assembled at the Court House, in Liberty, agreeably to the request of Judge Ryland, and a deputation from Jackson who presented the following: "PROPOSITIONS OF THE PEOPLE OF JACKSON COUNTY TO THE MORMONS.

"The undersigned committee, being fully authorized by the people of Jackson county, hereby propose to the Mormons, that they will buy all the land that the said Mormons own in the county of Jackson; and also, all the improvements which the said Mormons had on any of the public lands in said county of Jackson, as they existed before the first disturbance between the people of Jackson county and the Mormons, and for such as they have made since. They further propose that the valuation of said land and improvements shall be ascertained by three disinterested arbitrators to be chosen and agreed to by both parties. They further propose, that should the parties disagree in the choice of arbitrators, then——is to choose them. They further propose, that twelve of the Mormons shall be permitted to go along with the arbitrators to show them their land and improvements while valuing the same, and such other of the Mormons as the arbitrators shall wish to do so, to give them information; and the people of Jackson hereby guarantee their entire safety while doing so. They further propose, that when the arbitrators report the value of the land and improvements, as aforesaid, the people of Jackson will pay the valuation, with one hundred per cent added thereon, to the Mormons, within thirty days thereafter. They further propose, that the Mormons are not to make any effort, ever after, to settle, either collectively or individually, within the limits of Jackson county. The Mormons are to enter into bonds to insure the conveyance of their land in Jackson county, according to the above terms, when the payment shall be made; and the committee will enter into a like bond, with such security as may be deemed sufficient, for the payment of the money, according to the above proposition. While the arbitrators are investigating and deciding upon the matters referred to them, the Mormons are not to attempt to enter into Jackson county, or to settle there, except such as are by the foregoing propositions permitted to go there.

"They further propose, that the people of Jackson will sell all their lands, and improvements on public lands, in Jackson county, to the Mormons,—the valuation to be obtained in the same manner, the same per cent, in addition to be paid, and the time the money is to be paid is the same, as the above set forth in our propositions to buy, the Mormons to give good security for the payment of the money, and the undersigned will give security that the land will be conveyed to the Mormons. They further propose, that all parties are to remain as they are till the payment is made, at which time the people of Jackson will give possession. (Signed),

"SAMUEL C. OWENS,
"RICHARD FRISTOE,
"THOS. HAYTON, SEN.,
"THOS. CAMPBELL,
"JOHN DAVIS,
"THOS. JEFFREYS,
"SMALLWOOD NOLAND,
"ROBERT RICKMAN,
"ABRAHAM M. CLELLAN,
"S. K. NOLAND.

"On presentation of the foregoing, Samuel C. Owens made a made flaming war speech, and General Doniphan replied on the side of peace. The Rev. M. Riley, a Baptist priest, made a hot speech against the Mormons, and said 'the Mormons have lived long enough in Clay county; and they must either clear out, or be cleared out.' Turnham, the moderator of the meeting, answered in a masterly manner; saying, 'let us be republicans; let us honor our country, and not disgrace it like Jackson county. For God's sake don't disfranchise or drive away the Mormons. They are better citizens than many of they old inhabitants.'

"General Doniphan exclaimed: 'That's a fact; and as the Mormons have armed themselves, if they don't fight they are cowards. I love to hear that they have brethren coming to their assistance. Greater love can no man show than he who lays down his life for his brethren.'

"At this critical instant the cocking of pistols and jingle of implements of death denoted desperation. One motioned to 'adjourn,' another said 'go on,' and in the midst of this awful crisis a person bawled into the door, 'a man stabbed.' The mass instantly rushed out to the spot, in hopes, as some said, that 'one damned Mormon had got killed.' But as good luck would have it, only one Missourian had dirked another: (one Calbert a blacksmith, had stabbed one Wales, who had previously whipped one Mormon nearly to death, and boasted of having whipped many more.) The wound was dangerous, and, as if the Lord was there, it seemed as though the occurrence was necessary to break up the meeting without further bloodshed, and give the Saints a chance to consult what would be most advisable in such a critical instant, and they immediately penned the following answer to the propositions from Jackson county, presented by Owens, &c.

"Gentlemen:—Your propositions for an adjustment of the difficulties between the citizens of Jackson county and the Mormons is before us; and, as explained to you in the court house this day, we are not authorized to say to you that our brethren will submit to your proposals; but we agree to spread general notice, and call a meeting of our people in all, the present week, and lay before you an answer as soon as Saturday or Monday next. We can say for ourselves, and in behalf of our brethren, that peace is what we desire and what we are disposed to cultivate with all men; and to effect peace we feel disposed to use all our influence, as far as would be required at our hands, as free born citizens of these United States. And as fears have been expressed that we designed hostilities against the inhabitants of Jackson county, we hereby pledge ourselves to them, and to the hospitable citizens of Clay county, that we will not, and neither have designed, as a people, to commence hostilities against the aforesaid citizens of Jackson county or any other people.

"Our answer shall be handed to Judge Turnham, the chairman of the meeting, even earlier than the time before stated, if possible.

"(Signed),

"W. W. PHELPS,
"WM. E. McCLELLIN,
"A. S. GILBERT,
"JOHN CORRILL,
"ISAAC MORLEY.

"N.B.—As we are informed that a large number of our people are on their way to Jackson county, we agree to use our influence immediately to prevent said company from entering into Jackson county, until you shall receive an answer to the propositions aforementioned.

"It may be thought, at first view, that the mob committee made a fair proposition to the Saints, in offering to buy their lands at one hundred per cent, in thirty days, and offering theirs on the same terms. But when it is understood that the mob held possession of a much larger quantity of land than the Saints, and that they only offered thirty days for the payment, having previously robbed them of nearly everything, it will be readily seen that they were only making a sham to cover their previous unlawful conduct. But the tempest of an immediate conflict seemed to be checked, and the Jackson mob to the number of about fifteen, with Samuel C. Owens and James Campbell at their head, started for Independence, Jackson county, to raise an army sufficient to meet me, before I could get into Clay county. Campbell swore, as he adjusted his pistols in his holsters, 'The Eagles and Turkey Buzzards shall eat my flesh if I do not fix Joe Smith and his army so that their skins will not hold shucks, before two days are passed.'

"They went to the ferry and undertook to cross the Missouri river after dusk, and the angel of God saw fit to sink the boat about the middle of the river, and seven out of twelve that attempted to cross were drowned. Thus suddenly, and justly, went they to their own place by water. Campbell was among the missing. He floated down the river some four or five miles, and lodged upon a pile of drift wood, where the Eagles, Buzzards, Ravens, Crows and wild animals ate his flesh from his bones, to fulfil his own words, and left him a horrible looking skeleton of God's vengeance, which was discovered about three weeks after by one Mr. Purtle.

"Owens saved his life only, after floating four miles down the stream, where he lodged upon an island, 'swam off naked about daylight, borrowed a mantle to hide his shame, and slipped home rather shy of the vengeance of God.'

"We were threatened that we should not pass through Richmond, and it was reported that an army lay in wait there to intercept us.

"Thursday, 19th, we passed through the town as soon as it was light, and before the inhabitants were arisen from their slumbers, meeting with no opposition; but we had not proceeded many miles before one wagon broke down, and by the time that was repaired, wheels run off from others; and such like incidents continued through the day to impede our progress. When we started in the morning we intended to arrive in Clay county that day, but in vain. At a seasonable hour we encamped on an elevated piece of ground between two branches of Fishing river, having traveled about fifteen miles. Fishing river, at this point, was composed of seven small streams, and those betwixt which we encamped were two of them.

"As we halted and were making preparations for the night, five men armed with guns rode into our camp and told us we should see hell before morning; and their accompanying oaths partook of all the malice of demons. They told us that sixty men were coming from Richmond, Ray county, and seventy more from Clay county, sworn to our utter destruction. The weather was pleasant at this time.

"During this day the Jackson county mob, to the number of about two hundred, made arrangements to cross the Missouri river about the mouth of Fishing river, at Williams' ferry, into Clay county, and be ready to meet the Richmond mob near Fishing river ford, for our utter destruction. But after the first scow load of about forty had been set over the river, the scow in returning was met by a squall and had great difficulty in reaching the Jackson side by dark.

"Soon after the five men left the camp swearing vengeance, we discovered a small black cloud rising in the west, and in twenty minutes, or thereabouts, it began to rain and hail, and this was the squall that troubled the Jackson boat.

"The storm was tremendous: wind and rain, hail and thunder, met them in great wrath, and soon softened their direful courage, and frustrated all their designs to 'kill Joe Smith and his army.' Instead of continuing a cannonading, which they commenced the sun about one hour high, they crawled under wagons, into hollow trees, filled one old shanty, &c., till the storm was over, when their ammunition was soaked, and the forty in Clay county were extremely anxious in the morning to return to Jackson, having experienced the pitiless peltings of the storm all night, and as soon as arrangements could be made, this 'forlorn hope' took the 'back track' for Independence, to join the main body of the mob, fully satisfied, as were those survivors of the company who were drowned, that when Jehovah fights, they would rather be absent. The gratification is too terrible.

"Very little hail fell in our camp, but from half to a mile around, the stones or lumps of ice cut down the crops of corn and vegetation generally, even cutting limbs from trees, themselves were twisted into withes by the wind. The lightning flashed incessantly, which caused it to be so light in our camp through the night, that we could discern the most minute object; and the roaring of the thunder was tremendous. The earth trembled and quaked; the rain fell in torrents, and, united, it seemed as if the mandate of vengeance had gone forth from the God of battles to protect his servants from the destruction of their enemies, for the hail fell on them, and not on us, and we suffered no harm except the blowing down of some of our tents and getting some wet, while our enemies had holes made in their hats and otherwise received damage, even the breaking of their rifle stocks, and the fleeing of their horses through fear and pain.

"Many of my little band sheltered in an old meeting house through this night, and in the morning the water in Big Fishing River was about forty feet deep, where the previous evening it was no more than to our ankles, and our enemies swore that the water rose thirty feet in thirty minutes in the Little Fishing River.

"Friday the 20th, we went five miles on the prairie to procure food for ourselves and horses, and establish ourselves for the moment in some secure place where we could defend ourselves from the rage of our enemies; and while in this situation, on Saturday, the 21st, Col. Sconce, with two other leading men from Ray county, came to see us, desiring to know what our intentions were; for, said he, 'I see that there is an Almighty power that protects this people, for I started from Richmond, Ray county, with a company of armed men, having a full determination to destroy you, but was kept back by the storm, and was not able to reach you.' When he entered our camp he was seized with such a trembling that he was obliged to sit down to compose himself; and when he had made known his object of their visit, I arose, and addressing them, gave a relation of the sufferings of the Saints in Jackson county, and also of our persecution generally, and what we had suffered by our enemies for our religion, and that we had come one thousand miles to assist our brethren, to bring them clothing, &c., and to reinstate them upon their own lands; and that we had no intention to molest or injure any people, but only to administer to the wants of our afflicted friends; and that the evil reports circulated about us were false and got up by our enemies to procure our destruction. When I had closed a lengthy speech, the spirit of which melted them into compassion, they arose and offered me their hands, and said they would use their influence to allay the excitement which everywhere prevailed against us, and they wept when they heard of our afflictions and persecutions and that our intentions were good. Accordingly they went forth and rode among the people and made unwearied exertions to allay the excitement.

"The brethren in Clay county wrote the committee of the Jackson mob the same day:

"Clay county, 21st June, 1834.

"Gentlemen:—Your propositions of Monday last have been generally made known to our people, and we are instructed to inform you that they can not be acceded to.

"Honorable propositions to you are now making on our part, and we think we shall be enabled to deliver the same to you the early part of next week. We are happy to have it in our power to give you assurances that our brethren here, together with those who have arrived from the East, are unanimously disposed to make every sacrifice for an honorable adjustment of our differences that could be required of free citizens of the United States,

"Negotiations at the camp are now going on between some gentlemen of this county and our brethren, which are calculated to allay the great excitement in your county. We are informed that the citizens of Jackson entertain fears that our people intend to invade their territory in a hostile manner. We assure you that their fears are groundless; such is not and never was our intentions.

(Signed),

"W. W. PHELPS,
"A. S. GILBERT,
"W. E. McCLELLAN,
"JOHN CORRLI,
"ISAAC MORLEY.

"To S. C. Owens, and others of the Jackson committee."

WE quote the following from a leader in the Mail, published at Toronto, Canada, for August 6th, which from a Canadian standpoint is very fair:

MORMONS FOR CANADA.

There is some talk of the emigration of the Mormons to Canada, and fears are expressed lest in the North-West, where it is said they propose to settle, they will practice polygamy, which, according to the revelations alleged to have been received by the founders of the cult, is an essential in their religion. The Mormons are having a difficult time of it in the States, hence their desire to move. The marriage laws are being enforced there, and the polygamous leaders of the sect are in hiding. President Taylor himself was a fugitive at the time of his death, though he had made a feint of parting with his surplus wives; and his partisans declare that the persecution of which he was the victim "for conscience' sake," was the immediate cause of his demise. At a recent Mormon convention a proposal was made that the territory of Utah be created a State. The alleged purpose in view was the granting to the people of the territory the same constitutional rights as are enjoyed elsewhere. But public opinion in the United States at once declared against the project, for the reason that a State has control of the marriage laws, and for the further reason that the Mormons, as legislators on marriage, would very speedily cause the laws to conform to their peculiar views. If the Mormons, having given up in despair the hope of ever making polygamy legal in the United States, are really looking to Canada in the expectation that they will be able to practice their abominable offence against civilization here, they are reckoning upon an immunity from punishment which can never be allowed. The laws of Canada against polygamy are stringent in the extreme, and what is more, they apply equally throughout the country and are very apt to be enforced.

Nor is there any such hope for polygamists here through the establishment of new provinces as there is across the border by the creation of new States. Here the marriage law is a federal concern, and no province can alter it. There are, of course, Mormons who are not enamored of the doctrine of the multiplicity of wives. We have such in this country already, under the name of Latter Day Saints. Precisely how these non-polygamous Mormons reconcile themselves to brotherhood with the other class of Mormons it is difficult to understand. The matter is a theological mystery too deep for the lay mind to fathom. But the polygamous Mormons are true to their offence. The late president, John Taylor, in a sermon delivered just before his flight, quoted a pretended revelation, drafted in Biblical language, and bristling with allusions to Abraham, Jacob, David and Solomon, in which the practice of polygamy was insisted upon as an essential; and at the funeral of this same worthy, one of the "the twelve apostles" intimated that the distinguishing characteristic of the religion was to be maintained and to be duly observed when circumstances should permit. Were the Mormons to abandon their disgraceful doctrine they might find a home here; but, as they have no intention of doing this, their best policy is to remain where they are, or if Utah is getting too warm for them, to find under the guidance of Mr. Allan Quatermain some secluded spot in Africa, where, remote from decency, they will be offensive to nobody and free from all restraints of law and all dangers of persecution or prosecution as the case may be.

THE TRIBUNE ON CODMAN.

IN the Salt Lake Weekly Tribune for August 11th, we find the following, which it takes from the New York Evening Post and credits to Captain John Codman:

"If the people of Utah had sufficient independence to act for their own interests, there would be a golden opportunity now before them. They pretend, politically, that they are willing to give up polygamy. Why not, then, call Joseph Smith, the son of the prophet, who has always claimed to be his father's successor, to assume the mantle that has fallen from John Taylor? He is now at the head of 18,000 non-polygamous, law-abiding Mormons in Iowa, who differ in no material point excepting this from the Mormons of Utah. The troublesome question of the revelation which they need an excuse for putting aside could thus be settled without any new revelation to offset it, for Joseph, as I have already said in another letter, insists that his mother destroyed the original document, and that the one now existing is the device of Brigham Young.

A move in that direction would instantaneously convince Congress that they could be trusted with the State machinery in their own hands, whereas Congress will and ought to be convinced to the contrary if either George Q. Cannon or Joseph F. Smith is intrusted with the reins of power."

Commenting on the above the Tribune says:

"It is very strange that a man like Captain Codman should write anything like that. It is most astonishing that he should write that the Josephites "differ in no particular point, excepting polygamy, from the Mormons of Utah." He surely ought to know better, for there is a large branch of the society in this city, and their preaching and practices are familiar to all observant people. They not only do not believe in polygamy, but they never seek in any way to interfere with political affairs. That makes a difference from the Utah Mormon as broad as is the mighty waste between loyalty and treason. A thousand times has the Tribune called upon the Mormon people to give up the delusions which keep them in perpetual turmoil and make them Ishmaelites to the civilized world around, accept the son of their first prophet for their Chief Priest and stop the trouble which they are at present never freed from. But the Utah Mormons, at least the Chief Priests who control the Utah Mormons, hate the Josephite chief more, if possible, than they do the average orthodox clergyman. The reason is that he simply preaches that his father was a prophet who established a new creed which was purely religious. There is no assumption of a right to temporal rule; no grasping after political and commercial power; no polygamy; no ostracism of those who advocate the sovereignty of the laws; no ostracism of other creeds; no exclusiveness—in short, there is not a practice in common between the two organizations. How a man like Captain Codman could write anything like the above is one of the unexplained mysteries."

To this we have to say, Captain Codman errs when he states that the church under Pres. Joseph Smith and that of the Utah Mormons "differ in no material point excepting" polygamy; for the former abide strictly by the plain teachings of the New Testament, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants, and therefore oppose not only polygamy, Adam-God worship, unquestioning obedience to the priesthood, resistance to or evasion of the laws and rulers of the land, but also dictation by the church in matters of the state. And further; President Smith has never admitted "that his mother destroyed the original [polygamic] document," for his mother always testified that she never saw such document. Brigham Young said she destroyed it, and this he did, probably, because he could not produce the original, if there ever was one, either in the handwriting or bearing the authentic endorsement of Joseph the Seer.

As to how far "the Chief Priests who control the Utah Mormons hate the Josephite chief," as claimed by the Tribune, we are not prepared to judge. One thing is certain, "the Josephite chief" has no personal quarrel with the Mormon leaders, nor with any one else. But he has from the first opposed their harmful theories and unchristian practices, and has sought diligently to reach them and their people through press and pulpit, to turn them away from evils which he knew would ultimately ruin and overthrow them. If for this he is hated of any one, such is to be pitied for his blindness and littleness of soul.

The Tribune is right when it says Pres. Joseph Smith "simply preaches that his father was a prophet who established a new creed [new to this generation.—Ed.] which was purely religious;" for the Doctrine and Covenants of the church, its disciplinary law, declares: "Behold, the laws which ye have received from my hand are the laws of the church, and in this light ye shall hold them forth. Behold, here is wisdom."—Doc. Cov. 58:5. If the Utah leaders would adopt this item of divine "wisdom," they would at once and forever divorce Church and State and be careful to keep them apart till Jesus comes in power and dominion.

When the primitive christian church lusted after and attained control of the affairs of State, she departed from the principles taught by the Master when he said, "My kingdom is not of this world;" (John 18:36); and then it was that she went "into the wilderness" (Rev. 12:14) and soon after bestrode "a scarlet colored beast," (Rev. 17:3). Latter Day Saints should never question the fact that God designs, especially in free America, that the church should forever keep separate from, and not interfere directly with, the political affairs of the land; for He inspired men to frame the Constitution which provides this. The church must stand by itself, and upon its own merits; and the State should be left free from and uninfluenced by the church, to stand by itself and upon its own merits.

THE UTAH CONSTITUTION.

THE Deseret News reports that 13,000 votes were cast in favor of the proposed constitution for Utah, and near 500 against it, in the late election there. Does this mean that 13,000 Utah Mormons vote polygamy a crime, and to be punished with three years imprisonment and one thousand dollars fine? The Reorganized Church from the first proved polygamy and concubinage crimes by the sacred books of the church, the laws of nature, and the laws of the land. And we are glad that the Utah Mormons, even at this late date, vote them such. The world moves!

JUSTICE TO THE INDIAN.

"THE world moves," is an axiom once more verified in the extending of the ballot to the Indian.

At the close of the late war between the North and the South, one of the issues decided by the arbitrament of arms was the status of the Negro. He had ceased to be a slave and in sheer justice he became a citizen of the United States, and as such was entitled to the exercise and enjoyment of the right of franchise. It was a result of the fight.

The Indian has long been a ward of the United States. Efforts have been persistently made to make him amenable to the methods of life held best to subserve the interests of the person and the well being of society. He has been fed, clothed, sheltered and fostered by the Government; has even been punished for crimes against the civil code; but has never been called a citizen in the sense in which the word has been applied to the Celt, the Teuton, the Gaul, the Anglo-Saxon, or the Negro. In dealing with his wards Uncle Sam has finally concluded that it is politic to secure to the wards, as individuals, so much of the public domain, (theirs by right of occupation and possession, but the Government's by right of conquest and subjugation), as may be sufficient to provide for sustenance, as in the case of other dwellers upon the soil. In doing this, when the lands are set off, the question arises: what is the political status of these whilom wards of the Nation thus domiciled upon their own lands. We are much pleased to see that the Indian office has decided that such Indians are citizens and are entitled to vote. Good. "The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceeding fine," may be true for justice to the American Indian, as in the affairs of the Caucasian race. We copy from the Chicago Times, of August 17th:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The question raised as to whether the Santee Indians at Niobrara,

Neb., who have severed their tribal relations and have been allotted lands in severalty, have the right to vote as the citizens of the United States has been decided in the affirmative by the Indian office. Gen. Upshur, acting commissioner of Indian affairs, says:

Paragraph 4, article 6, of the Sioux treaty of April 29th, 1868, provides for the issuance of patents to individual Indians, and concludes as follows: "And any Indian or Indians receiving a patent for land under the foregoing provisions shall thereby and from thenceforth become and be a citizen of the United States, and be entitled to all the privileges and immunities of such citizens, and shall at the same time retain all his rights to benefits accruing to Indians under the treaty. Under the provisions of that article patents were issued to 132 heads of families belonging to the Santee band of Sioux Indians, and to the remainder of the band allotments in severalty were made and certificates therefor issued. The 132 Santees to whom patents were issued became citizens as soon as they received their patents, according to the plain and unmistakable provisions of the treaty, and the debates in both Senate and House show that this was the unmistakable intention of Congress when the bill allotting lands in severalty to Indians was passed. The first measure of this kind, introduced in the Senate by Mr. Coke, of Texas, contained no provision as to citizenship, but Senator Dawes introduced a similar bill which contained a section declaring that every Indian born in the United States to whom allotments should be made under the provisions of that act, and every Indian who had voluntarily taken up his residence separate and apart from his tribe, should be a citizen of the United States. This was done after Senator Dawes had made inquiry at the Indian office regarding the manner in which Indians had heretofore been made citizens. The language is plain and unmistakable, and that it was perfectly understood in the Senate is shown by the fact that Senator Maxey moved to strike out the provision, and made an earnest speech in opposition to the policy of making Indians citizens of the United States. The amendment was defeated without a division. Senator Dawes, submitting a slight amendment, said: "The question is sometimes raised whether an Indian by becoming a citizen of the United States does not lose his claim to the tribal property which the tribe holds in common, and this is to prevent any such construction as that." In the House Mr. Pekins stated that under section 7 of the bill every Indian born within the territorial limits of the United States to whom allotments shall have been made under the provisions of this act is declared to be a citizen of the United States without formal application to the courts. Upon the recommendation of the committee on Indian affairs the house amended the section by inserting the words 'or under any law or treaty' so as to declare every Indian to whom allotments shall have been made under the provisions of this act, or under any law or treaty, to be a citizen of the United States."

Congress, says Gen. Upshur, was capable of comprehending the meaning of the English language plainly expressed, and undoubtedly did understand that it was making citizens of Indians who held their lands in severalty under any law or treaty. The Santees, therefore, are citizens by treaty specially applicable to them and also by the general law.

The statute of Nebraska constitutes every citizen of the United States with the qualifications as to residence possessed by the Santees electors. In accordance with these views the Indian office has to-day written a letter to Nebraska expressing its opinion that the Indians are citizens, but recommending that the matter be submitted to the courts for determination. A similar question having arisen within the territory of Dakota, Gen. Upshur has written the Indian agent recommending him to advise the Indians for the present to abstain from attempting to exercise the right to vote.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

A Mr. F. D. Mitchell, who lived in this county about ten years ago wrote us from Stockton, Kansas, August 15th, for tracts, and says:

"I liked to hear the Saints preach. Have not heard a sermon since I came here. Can not some good elders come this way? I think a good opening is awaiting them in this country."

Bro. John Erter, of Antwerp, Ohio, in a late letter says:

"The latter day work is advancing here, and we are getting to be better understood by the people. Bro. Springer has done a good work here, and is certainly the right man in the right place. We expect him back the 19th to stay until the two days meeting at Clear Lake, Indiana, the 27th and 28th. There are three awaiting baptism when he comes, and others are investigating. * * * The Herald and Hope are a power for good. The tracts are just splendid."

Bro. J. C. Clapp wrote from Deer Lodge, Montana, August 17th and said:

"I baptized a most excellent man on Friday, and will baptize several next Sunday. God's name is being glorified in the work."

MR. SAMUEL BRANNAN, once an able and diligent elder in the church, and one of those engaged in the emigration of the Saints from New York to California, round Cape Horn, in 1846, in a late letter to Bro. D. S. Mills, of Santa Ana, California, which letter Bro. Mills has kindly sent us, expresses himself as follows:

"Mormonism in Salt Lake is a curse to the earth. Polygamy is a limb of Paganism, and has to fall as slavery fell with war and blood, which will wipe out a people that sustains it; but it has its mission to perform, like slavery, to illustrate to the world (civilized) its criminality.

"Polygamy destroys woman (who is the mother of nations) and makes her a slave worse than a negro; and has been the cause of the decay of every nation that sustained it, and eventually of its downfall.

"Woman is the mother of nations, and her degradation is the downfall of that nation that fosters it; and I so told Brigham Young when I left him in Salt Lake camp there, to return to California in August, 1847, and now his people witness its fulfillment.

"I heard Joseph Smith preach a sermon against polygamy, as being one of the causes of the overthrow of nations, when I was a boy in Kirtland, Ohio; and his theory was correct, and it will soon be illustrated in the United States, and polygamy will have to go under."

Mr. Brannan was one of the editors of the Prophet, published in New York City, and was afterwards connected with the development of the city of San Francisco, California. He has of late been engaged in an effort to colonize a grant of land from the Mexican Government at, or near Guaymas, in Sonora. He was known as a man of energy, experience and brains in his vigorous days. Bro. Mills is personally acquainted with him and has great friendship for him.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

Bro. John H. Gough, an aged and poor brother residing at Mechanicsville, St. Charles county, Missouri, thinks there are some in that region who would believe the gospel if it was presented to them. He is anxious to hear it again.

Bro. A. H. Parsons sends us a Chase, Kansas, Record for August 11th, in which he has secured the presentation of a most reasonable and excellent presentation of the faith, in contradistinction to that of the dominant church in Utah.

By letter from Bro. J. W. Chatburn, Harlan, Iowa, we learn that by reason of the solicitation of some of the brethren, the committee on conference grounds at Harlan have decided to hold the meeting in a fine grove adjacent to Bro. Chatburn's place, and not on the Fair Ground as at first intended. Brethren please notice. The committee will publish the notice and order of exercises and rules in due time.

A finely illustrated Omaha Daily World of August 15th was sent us by Bro. M. H. Forscutt, now residing at Omaha, for which he has our thanks. Omaha is a marvel of rapid growth and solid prosperity, and its friends are "booming" it for all it is worth.

Sr. Mary Fisher of Harrisville, Utah, request the elders when near there to call on her.

Brn. R. J. Anthony and Peter Anderson are making converts and friends in Utah. They now are fitted out with a team and will therefore be able to get around more readily.

Those corresponding with Bro. and Sr. T. W. Smith should direct as follows: Elder Thomas W. Smith, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, care Richard Ellis, Catherine street, Forest Lodge, Glebe.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Ques.—Is it right to administer the sacrament to Saints that do not bear their testimony, and discharge their duty as Saints should in prayer and testimony meetings?

Ans.—It is impossible for all to speak, or pray at our ordinary prayer meeting. The fact that persons attend and enjoy meetings of the sort is an evidence of their faith; and all such should receive the sacrament. We answer, Yes.

Look here boys of the church. See what the innocent cigarette is doing for you.

"A letter from Boston says that out of twenty young men who competed for a West Point cadetship at Westfield, ten were rejected by the physician because they had 'the tobacco heart' brought on by cigarette smoking. They were unfit for West Point service."

THE following from the Coldwater, Michigan Republican, of August 16th, tells a good story. It appears that there were two parties; one which expected that Elder L. D. Hickey would attack the faith of resident Latter Day Saints, and one which anticipated the same thing; and it is to the credit of the good sense of Elder Hickey that he disappointed both of these. "The devil himself is scarcely so black as he is painted;" is sometimes true of men.

"The lecture delivered by L. D. Hickey, of Coldwater, at the Ball school house Saturday and Sunday evenings, was listened to by a large audience. The subject was the "Philosophy of the Mormon Priesthood," and all parties were very much disappointed, as many of the outsiders expected to hear him rake the Latter Day Saints and the most of them expected the same thing, and as he did not, thus the disappointment."

Mothers' Home Column.

EDITED BY SISTER "FRANCES."

"Would I could dig the grave of slander! dig it as deep as the woe it has caused—let the stone which sealed it be large as the mischief it has done; and for requiem make felt the silence which has taken the place of song in the deserted home."

"BEAR YE ONE ANOTHER'S BURDENS, AND SO FULFILL THE PERFECT LAW."

Continued.

"THERE is absolutely no redeeming feature in gossip. Even if true, we do not desire to know disagreeable facts about our neighbors. Nothing is more demoralizing to a man than to loose faith in his fellows. The man of faith and honor is not apt to be suspicious of others and does not willingly believe evil. The lover of scandal and the believer in it are alike deficient in honor and morality, and are the banes of well organized society. If all gossips could be quietly killed, some morning, the next generation of men and women would be far happier. A case of hydrophobia now and then starts the cry of 'Muzzle the dogs,' 'Death on the highway.' In the highways and byways and in the home there is death and misery from the poisoned tongues of the gossips. Let the cry go up 'Muzzle the gossips.' Teach the children that gossiping is dishonorable, and that faith in the honor and virtue of mankind, will build up society and add to the sum of human happiness.

The blinding storms of winter, the frozen icebergs of the polar regions which have un pityingly shut their victims in, are tender in their mercy compared to the venom which drops from slander's tongue. "Speak evil of no man," is the divine injunction. "Hath no man condemned thee?" She answered "No man, Lord," "Neither do I condemn thee, go and sin no more." When the Master was brought face to face with absolute guilt, this was his action, these his words; and yet we, who think we are abiding that perfect law, who flatter ourselves that we are following the Master and shall enter into perfect rest, is this our record? We pray God, while we write, that the power of his Holy Spirit may help each one to search his heart, to enter into the sanctuary of his own soul, and see if he has never wrapped around him the accursed garment of Babylon. If he has never opened his door to the stealthy knock which came at midnight, and suffered the defamer whose vulture beak was wreaking with his carrion feast to enter and defoul the air? We ask you to sit in judgment upon your own souls, before the Lord shall call you into his judgment and you hear the summons to answer at his bar. You may perchance have thought it a small matter to repeat or listen to a tale of scandal, but could you have stood by while others as cruel and thoughtless plunged the knife in your own bosom, do you think you would not have shrunk from the blow or have felt the pain when the knife entered? Has the reputation of your brother or sister been as precious to you as your own fair name, or have you taken up a reproach against them and that to without proof of its truth other than the unsupported testimony of the tale-bearer, whose evidence ought not to be taken upon oath? Have you done this and esteem it a light thing, then turn with us to the fifteenth Psalm and let us learn how the Lord esteems it.

"Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle? Who shall dwell in thy holy hill of Zion?"

"He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart."
"He that backbiteth not with his tongue, nor doeth evil to his neighbor, nor taketh up a reproach against his neighbor."

Having done this and finding condemnation upon the pages of God's word, do you, like one of old wish to inquire, "Who is my neighbor?" Let us refer you to the answer made by the Master and point you to that poor, bleeding, wounded man, lying in the rocky mountain pass, between Jerusalem and Jericho, stripped and wounded, far from home and friends, among strangers. Did you come like the priest and the Levite and when you saw the great need of tender care, pass by on the other side, closing your ears to his groans and shutting your eyes to his gaping wounds, lest your heart should be moved with pity? Aye worse than this, did you while passing strike the helpless man, because another had whispered you, "He is a sinner." Did you take up the reproach (the truth or falsity of which you knew not) and strike again this already wounded man? It may be so, and you may have thought yourself guiltless, but if so, we beg you to open your heart and let the sunlight of God's truth enter it, and when the good Samaritan comes along, bends over the wounded man, lifts up his head and gives him wine to drink, pours oil into his wounds, lays him upon his own beast and takes him to the inn, thou priest and Levite, hide thy head for very shame and know of a surety, "It is not every one who saith unto me, Lord, Lord * * * but he who doeth the will of my Father who is in heaven."

The Students Society of Lamoni, led thereto by a painful experience, have entered into a pledge, never to listen to or repeat anything calculated to wound the feelings of, or prove in any way detrimental to the character of any one. We rejoiced when we heard this, and our prayer shall ascend to God daily that they may be enabled to adhere firmly to their resolve. If we can believe the words of the Psalmist and the Apostle James, there will, in the great day of reckoning, be many a brow upon which the cold sweat of disappointment will gather, for they will realize too late the truth, "That their religion was vain." Let every tale-bearer, every retailer of scandal pause to take in the full meaning of the declaration of James, when he says, "If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, that man's religion is vain." "The tongue is a fire, a world of iniquity; so is the tongue among our members, that it defileth the whole body and setteth on fire the course of nature, and is set on fire of hell."

We insert in this issue and commend its adoption not only by our young friends of the Students' Society, but by every one striving for everlasting life, the plan adopted by Hannah More. It is no matter of jest, and better we realize the fact now than when we stand face to face with it in eternity; and if we can help one another to realize it, we are helping each other on in the way of everlasting life.

"A CURE FOR TATTLERS.

"Miss Hannah More, a celebrated writer who died about fifty years ago, had a good way of managing tale-bearers. It is said that whenever she was told any thing bad about another her reply always was: "Come, we will go and ask if it be true." The effect was sometimes ludicrously painful. The tale-bearer was taken aback, and begged that no notice might be taken of the statement. But the good lady was firm; off she took the scandal-monger to the scandalized, to make inquiry and compare accounts. It is not likely that any body ever a second time ventured to repeat a gossip story to Hannah More. One would think her method of treatment would be a sure cure for scandal."

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Sister Flora L. Scott, Michigan, writes:—"Our long dry, hot weather has at last come to an end. We have had nice rains and all seem refreshed. We are still firm in the work, and trying to do what little we can for the Master's cause."

A. E. Nelson, Campello, Massachusetts, writes:—"I have just read Sr. Burton's last article in the "Column" and it caused tears which I could not restrain, to flow from my eyes, and I do praise God for the noble men and women we have in the church who stand ready to sacrifice for the cause of Christ, and may they know by our prayers and our works that we are not unmindful of their needs, trials, sacrifices and afflictions. I am poor myself, but I stand ready to divide what I have with the Saints, especially with the missionaries. May God's care and richest blessings rest upon brother and sister Burton and all who love the work of God."

Sr. Hattie A. Eaton, Deer Isle, Maine, writes:—"I enjoy the Home Column very much, and think it a great privilege we sisters enjoy, of exchanging our views and striving to cheer and help build each other up in our most holy faith, as we feel we are drawing near to the end of time. For one I wish to be found among the wise ones, having oil in my lamp, ready to go forth and meet the Bridegroom."

HOME COLUMN MISSIONARY FUND.

Sr. Emeline Seely, Wano, Kansas.....	50
Sr. M. J. Head, Clarkdale, Missouri.....	50
Sr. Lena Dawson, St. Louis, Missouri.....	50
Sr. Bertha Hayer, Mission, Illinois.....	26
Sr. Eliza Eukes, Bozeman, Montana.....	1 00
Sr. Fanny Leatherwood, Wilson Station, Ala.	50
Sr. Christina Rasmuson, Council Bluffs, Ia.	50
Sr. Ann Leonard, Amboy, Illinois, (Sale of one tidy).....	75
A Brother, Flintville, Wisconsin.....	5 00
Sr. E. Lowrie, Decoto, California.....	1 25

IS IT WORTH WHILE?

BY JOAQUIN MILLER.

Is it worth while that we jostle a brother,
Bearing his load on the rough way of life?
Is it worth while that we jeer at each other,
In blackness of heart that we war to the knife?
God pity us all in our pitiful strife.

God pity us all as we jostle each other,
God pardon us all for the triumphs we feel,
When a fellow goes down 'neath his load on the heather,
Pierced to the heart; words are keener than steel,
And mightier far for woe than for weal.

Were it not well, in this brief little journey,
On over the isthmus, down into the tide,
We give him a fish instead of a serpent,
Ere folding the hands to be and abide
Forever, and aye, in dust at his side?

Look at the roses saluting each other;
Look at the herds all in peace on the plain;
Man, and man only, makes war on his brother,
And laughs in his heart at his peril and pain,
Shamed by the beasts that go down on the plain.

Is it worth while that we battle to humble
Some poor fellow being down into the dust?
God pity us all! Time too soon will tumble
All of us together, like leaves in a gust,
Humble, indeed, down into the dust.

HENDERSON GROVE, Ill., Aug. 6th.

Dear Sister Frances:—As a child, I was always striving to be a Christian, and would often startle my mother by telling her my dreams and asking her to tell me what they meant. We knew nothing of Latter Day Saints, at that time my mother belonged to the Christian Church. It grieved me very much to think no one would interpret dreams, for they seemed so real to me. I dreamed at one time I died and suddenly found myself in a beautiful meadow; the loveliest flowers were blooming and the birds poured forth a melody of song. While I wondered what it could mean, there came to my ear the sweetest music; no mortal has ever heard or can pen describe it—low and sweet—till I fell to the ground overcome. Then I saw a group of children coming toward me. They gathered around me, lifted me up and showered kisses on my face; then from their midst came a form clothed in purest white, with such a halo of glory around his head. He stepped forward and laid his hand on my head; then I knew it was the Lord. He gently said, "You must return to earth; your work is not quite done. Then, weeping, I cried, "Can I ever come back; shall I ever enter heaven?" The answer was, "Yes, my child, but it will be through being faithful to the end."

As I grew to womanhood I was still searching for something, I hardly knew what, to comfort me. I wanted to do right, but it seemed to me all religion was a mockery. I joined the Presbyterian Church, but they fed me with husks; and when I questioned the minister why we did not have the gifts, was told we did not need them, nor want them. In despair I turned to the world. I shook off the fetters of religion, stifled my inward monitor and tried to find happiness there, but it was like catching bubbles; it could not satisfy me. I could not be happy. A still small voice was always whispering, "Come back; there is a God who will reward all men according to the deeds done in the body."

About this time I had another dream. I thought I was walking along a country road when I came to a cross which stood where two roads met, and I stopped to consider which road I would take. The one was broad and wide, the other very straight and narrow. I chose the broad way, and was going carelessly along, when my foot slipped and I felt myself going down, down! Who can picture the horror I felt; it seemed as though a thousand imps were below, laughing in glee to see me slowly but surely slipping down. I had given up all hope, when an arm was put around me and I was lifted up and out of danger. Turning I saw a man, and that man is now my husband, and it was through him I first obtained a knowledge of the truth. Now I wish to say to the young folks who are tempted in like manner: "Trust in God, for if our faith is strong and our star of hope burns brightly, we shall be found always at the post of duty, contending for the right; and though to human view the results of our labor seem small, still let us work and still let us hope, for we know that above all the confusion and strife and misjudgment of the world the voice of God will one day be heard, proclaiming that the right has prevailed. Having faith, we shall work faithfully and leave results with God; having hope, we shall work cheerfully, whatever our position may be; having both, we shall work lovingly; and as more and more we feel and share the divine love, so more and more shall we seek to lead others to Christ, that they may feel and share it too. May we all live so that we may not be weighed in the balance and found wanting.

Your sister in Christ,

NELLIE J. WILLIAMS.

ROXBURY, Massachusetts, Aug. 12th.

Dear Sister Frances:—I rejoice in reading the letters in the Mothers' Column and the good sound advice contained therein. When I read Sister Emma's letters it made my heart rejoice to know such noble women are working in the cause of Christ. I love this glorious cause, and feel thankful that God, in his infinite mercy, called after me, and brought me into his church and kingdom. Having a family of four children, I feel the need of his grace to assist me in bringing them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. They are all in the church but one boy, and may the Lord call after him in his youth, that we may all rejoice together.

Dear sisters let us be faithful to this cause, for it is not the swift, neither the strong, but those who endure to the end, that shall gain the reward at the end of the race.

Yours in gospel bonds,

S. J. MORTIMER.

LAMONI, Iowa, July 28th.

Sister Frances:—while looking over the Herald this morning I could but feel thankful to my heavenly Father for his great goodness to me. You yourself know something of my life, and what I have had to contend with. Had I not put my trust firmly in God I should have given up in despair, but I believe he will not lay any thing upon us that we are not able to bear, and every thing is for our good. I see his loving care through all, and I can but thank him for the great blessings I have received of late. O, I do want to live the life of a true Saint, ever willing to do the will of the Father, ever having a forgiving spirit; for except we forgive we can not expect forgiveness.

If Sister Emma could know the comfort her letters brought to one poor soul she would be happy. It is indeed hard to be separated from those we love, but when God brings them back to us how thankful we feel. Let us ever pray for such, for they truly need our prayers, out in this cold world, tempted by every evil. May God bless you in your work.

L. M. J.

BATTLE LAKE, Minn., Aug. 8th.

Dear Sister Frances:—I pray for the Home Column, and I think it is doing a good work, and I would advise all young mothers to study the letters and profit by them. I have lived to raise a family and to see them all grown, and now while looking back over my past life I can see many times where such advice as we find in the Home Column would have been of much worth to me. I also bear my testimony to the truth of the Latter Day Work. I have not received such bright testimonies as some, yet I have received enough to satisfy me, and have oftentimes been greatly blessed of the Lord, and have seen many blessings granted to the Saints, and also in my own family, for which I do thank my heavenly Father.

And now I say to you, dear sisters, strive to aid the good work, and, above all, try to bring up your little ones in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Oftentimes when my children were small did I plead with the Lord to spare me to raise them up, and ask him to help me to lead them to him, and although I feel that my prayers were feeble, yet when I see my children arise and speak of the goodness of God I feel that they have been answered and that I am more than repaid for the trials I have passed through. So I would say to you, careworn and discouraged mothers, cheer up and be determined to bring up your children right, and ask for help to do so, and in time you will feel amply repaid.

I remain your sister in love,

ELEANOR GOULD.

ALLENDÆ, Mo., June 5th.

Sister Walker, Lamoni, Iowa:—At your request I make a statement of a vision that was opened to my view on the morning of Sunday, January 16th, 1887. It was during the preaching by Bro. H. A. Stebbins. I had come to the meeting that morning expecting not only to see Bro. Stebbins on the platform, but I looked about in vain for Bro. Jones, and felt disappointed that I did not see him also. With this feeling in my mind I turned towards Bro. Stebbins, who was then preaching, and immediately above him the heavens seemed to be opened, and I saw two angels above his head. And I saw that they were there for the purpose of receiving and recording the words that he spoke unto the people, and it was a testimony to me, as I understood it, that his words were acknowledged of God, and my soul was satisfied, and I knew him to be an accepted witness of God. The next time that he came to Allendale, from which I live seven miles, I did not hear that he had come, but I was shown it in a dream, and in my dream I spoke to my son and said, "Yes, Bro. Stebbins has come, and the Lord has sent him."

I have had many testimonies and visions in this latter day work, and of the divine calling of Joseph Smith, that I might relate.

SUSAN PINKERTON.

The church has too long been deprived of testimonies such as these, and we again solicit, as we have before done, that those to whom God has seen fit to grant such testimonies, would send them up to us, that they may be used for the strengthening and upbuilding of the cause we all love. Those to whom God gives a testimony will be able to tell it plainly, and you need have no hesitation because you do not write well. It is our business to put your communications in proper shape for the printer, and we do it with gladness when we feel the Spirit of God testifying with our spirits that it is from him. Since the above testimony was written the Lord has blessed Bro. Stebbins to do a good work in Allendale; and consequently the enemy of all righteousness is raging. So let it be. God's truth must finally triumph.—ED.

Correspondence.

MAY, Nebraska, August 19th.

Bro. Joseph:—The weather has been hot and dry, so that a few miles travel would wilt the best starched collar that ever passed through the hands of a Mongolian. But on the 12th and 13th copious rains fell, turning dust into mud, dampening river and creek bottoms that have been dusty for months. All nature smiles again; the air, that was oppressive, is cool and vivifying. The farmer who was sad, feeling the effects of the long drought, appears gladdened as he follows the plow, and sees the damp soil roll over in proper shape, which soil he hopes may be duly prepared to receive seed the approaching spring, and yield a bountiful harvest. News of the effects of the drought a hundred miles south of of this is distressing, indeed.

Prejudice continues here, and ignorance of our faith, which seems bliss to some at least; and if they insist, I don't envy them them the bliss. Our cheeks never tinge with shame when essaying to tell the old story. And I find Kearney and Franklin counties are not limits to God's power. The attendance at the school house in the south-east part of Kearney county has far exceeded my expectations; but the quiet of the meetings has been sadly interfered with by over grown boys. We have had two public school houses closed against us. Some are doubtless thinking, but I have not the remotest wish to hurry them into the church. Let them get a good ready. To be instant in and out of season to present the word is my duty, the rest is with God, and the people. The few Saints here, have been exemplary. Their religion is all the people have against them. Their zeal and ready co-operation have been cheering. Four have been added. In bonds,

JAS. CAFFALL.

LIMERICK, Ohio, August 14th.

Bro. Joseph:—The work moves on in this part of the vineyard, and there are many calls for preaching in this district, sufficient to keep all of the elders in the field if they were only situated so they could leave their families. I sincerely hope the time will soon come when the hands of those that desire to go forth to preach the word may be loosed, and that those who desire to know the way of life and salvation, may have the opportunity to hear and obey. I am doing what I can to distribute the Voice of Warning among those desirous of investigating the truth, and I find that good is mostly the result; for most all that read them are led to inquire further after the latter day work. The books are furnished me by Bro. Peters.

I rejoice to see the work moving on, yet I am sorry to see and know of some of the branches in this district being in a languishing condition. But we are told that because "iniquity shall abound the love of many shall wax cold." It behooves each of us to examine and see whether we be in the faith. May we all live worthy of the name we have taken upon us, and endure unto the end.

Yours in bonds,

HIRAM E. MOLER.

SAN BENITO, Cal., Aug. 5th.

Dear Herald:—I have thought for some time that I would write to you, and try and tell you how loved and appreciated you are by the Saints in this vicinity. Just think of the joy and consolation you carry to hundreds and thousands of homes, scattered as they are, east, west, north and south! You record the word of the Lord by his servant the prophet, settling those knotty questions that have been disturbing your pages, or rather the minds of your readers; also you inform us that the gospel is gaining favor in the eyes of the people, and many are embracing it. You comfort us when we are sad and disheartened by reading the testimonies of our brothers and sisters, who are trying to live faithful to the end, and are receiving so many manifestations of the "fathers" loving kindness. But, dear Herald, I can not mention a hundredth part of the good you accomplish by your weekly visits. Sometimes you bring us tidings of the Nova Scotia Saints. Although I do not know them personally, yet they are dear to me, and I eagerly read the conference appointments to see if an elder has been sent to carry on the good work there commenced by Bro. and Sr. Burton, and to cheer and encourage those who are there, and carry the "glad tidings" to many that are honest in heart that have never heard the gospel in its purity, who are near and dear to me by the ties of nature, for that is my native land.

I have shed tears of sympathy for Sr. Emma when reading her letters, and have thought of the home ties she has severed that she might accompany her husband in his labor of love. And she is proving herself a helpmeet indeed. Dear sister Burton, when you are devouring your rations, and this morsel reaches you, will it not carry you back in memory to the time, we together embraced this religion? O, those were happy days, never to be forgotten. But many of the little band that met and worshipped thirteen years ago are scattered, or "passed beyond the vale;" yet enough are left, with the younger ones who have taken the places of the older ones, to hold meetings every Sunday, and we are blessed by the Spirit of God, and the "signs follow" occasionally. John B. Carmichael, son of our beloved but diseased Bro. Carmichael, is branch president. Last March Bro. Hiram L. Holt, of San Bernardino, came and labored acceptably in our district. He opened up a new field of labor in Bear Valley, and removed much prejudice. Some are convinced, and many are asking for his return. He baptized one, a promising young Dane, who united with our branch, and if faithful may become useful with his own people. He also presided at our district conference last April at Elvina, and was assisted by Bro. J. R. Cook of Sacramento. We were all glad to see Bro. Cook and wife, (for it was he who brought the gospel here). Brn. Holt and Cook went to Tulare county and labored for about two months. The results time alone can tell. Bro. Holt returned to his home, but his wise counsel and sound reasoning will not be soon forgotten by those who heard him.

Sometimes, dear Herald, your pages do not bring joy and consolation, but sorrow; that some who were once in the "light of the gospel," are now astray and trying to lead others from the truth. I do not think that Father Whitmer's writings will influence any that are firm in the faith. Those who have had a testimony for themselves can not be "tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men and cunning craftiness whereby they lie in wait to deceive."

We are looking, and anxiously expecting Bro. D. S. Mills to visit us. If he fails to put in an appearance here many will be disappointed, for he is generally beloved.

Yours for the truth,
MARY J. PAGE.

BROWN CITY, Mich., August 18th.

Editors Herald:—I write to inform you how God is working in this field. On the 30th of July I went to Five Lakes where I had been laboring some before, where in the last six months I have baptized forty. On the following day I was called to administer to a lady who was sick. Of course, I went. I discerned that she was possessed of an evil spirit, and that, too, for a good purpose. I prayed for her and she got immediately better. But I knew it would return, for she had two brothers and two sisters who were not present, and I knew it was God's will for them to be there, although they lived from sixty to one hundred and fifty miles away. I told her father she would not be healed until they were there; so he telegraphed for them. They arrived August 4th. I was there when they came and told them all about the affair. When they came the lady was very bad, taking four or five persons to hold her in bed. I called the house to order and told just what was the matter with her and said that if we put our trust in the Lord she would be healed. Some doubted, for the doctor had said she had inflammation in the stomach, and was very dangerously sick. We sang a hymn, had prayer, and all this time there were four persons holding her. When I arose from prayer I went to the bed where she was and anointed her, laid my hands on her, and rebuked the evil spirit. Immediately it left her and she sat up in bed, and in less than an hour she was walking around the house and went over to her brother's house, nearly half a mile.

Of course, all present saw that it was the power of God that did the work. But the next day one of her brothers doubted that it was the power of God, and this sister, the one that had been healed, told him that, unless he would promise to obey the gospel she would be taken again. But he would not yield. So, in less than an hour she was worse than ever, and I was called for again. I went and administered again, and she was again immediately healed. This was Friday the 5th; and on Sunday I had the pleasure of baptizing her, with her two brothers and two sisters, and two more with them, making seven. This is one of the many peculiar circumstances that has happened at Five Lakes since I have been laboring there.

The next Sunday after, we held a two days' meeting there, and had a very large turn out. It was estimated that on Sunday there were five hundred present. We had a good time and good preaching. Brn. Cornish, Phelps, DeLong, J. J. Bailey, and Most, also Bro. Salyards (from Ohio) were present.

Next Sunday I go to help Bro. J. J. Cornish, up near Bay Port, to hold a two days' meeting.

Yours in bonds,
J. A. CARPENTER.

LITTLE SIOUX, Iowa, Aug. 13th.

Editors Herald:—I am still alive and at work for the Master. Never have I felt stronger in the faith of the gospel than now. Never has the blessed light thereof shone more clearly upon my soul than now. My love for "the work" can not be expressed in words. Only the deep, inner movements of the soul can tell the actual joy, consolation and peace of God I so often possess. The silent tear, the quick pulsating heart, and the holy, burning calm that pervades the breast bespeak the quiet touch of the Holy Spirit's hallowed presence!

During the last two months God has blessed me with apparent unprecedented power of speech, and clearness of perception when declaring His holy word. The aptness of words, the propriety of sentences, have often surprised, while the Spirit's sure witness has touched the hearts of the hearers. Here is a field for labor, as the Holy Spirit showed it me some months ago. The plain and happy leadings of the Spirit in paths of duty, last March, shall not soon be forgotten by me; while the future developments of His grace are not to be mistaken.

"He leadeth me! O! blessed thought,
Oh! words with heavenly comfort fraught;
What e're I do, where e're I be,
Still 'tis God's hand that leadeth me."

I surely know it. The unmistakable guidance of His power; the self-evident manifestations of His Spirit, so according with the written promises, showing themselves in their true light, tell of a Father's care, a Saviors' love!

"Sometimes 'mid scenes of darkest gloom,
Sometimes where Eden's bowers bloom,
By waters still, o'er troubled sea,
Still 'tis God's hand that leadeth me."

The beautiful unfoldings of his sacred truth; the happy disclosures of his mercy; the divine energy of his goodness moves us heavenward, thrilling our souls with his power; saving, renovating, purifying, uplifting, until he at last shall crown us heirs of his kingdom!

Thirteen years ago, upon a certain time, the Spirit communicated to me some important truths for personal edification. Among other things said, were these words: "I will have a clean people." I thought, when I read the late revelation to the church, the Lord now tells it to the church entire! Not only clean bodies, but clean mouths! Lips that shall not be cursed by the unhallowed touch of intoxicants, nor be stained by the filthy weed; but tongues that shall not utter blasphemy, obscenity, vulgarity! Clean indeed! Eighteen hundred years ago rang these words down the aisles of the Church of God: "Be ye clean that bear the vessels of the Lord." Clean bodies; clean eyes; clean mouths, lips, tongues, thoughts, words, deeds!

My soul has learned to loathe the universal uncleanness that prevails. Drunkennes, debauchery, licentiousness that greets one most every where. It is grossly obnoxious, it is contemptibly defiant, and blasphemously audacious! And shall we, as a people, wink at it? Have we any compromise to extend toward it? O, no! we can not! Hate, hatred—in the strongest manner should feel itself existing in every heart against the evil works of darkness. Hatred for evil intensifies love for goodness. "Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth," said the Apostle, and said it well! Foul blots on the mind. Detestable stains upon the soul. Cancerous blotches upon the heart. Putrid masses of iniquity existing beneath a horrified vision! Do we need to work? "Is there anything to do? When I read in God's unfailing word: "The teacher's duty is to * * * see that there is no iniquity in the church, neither hardness with each other; neither lying, backbiting, nor evil speaking; and see that the church meet together often, and also see that all the members do their duty;" and then to travel as I have in the past, and to find branches almost disrupted by these forbidden things existing, I have been pained beyond expression, and asked—"Where does the fault lie?" I'll trace ninety-nine times out of the hundred the cause to neglect on the part of visiting officers, or a lack of enforcement of God's law in some manner, against evil doers. No branch can prosper with these things. It impairs the usefulness of the church; it reflects upon the ministry; it disgraces our holy profession; it prevents the word of God; it puts Christ to an open shame; it causes the church to be evil spoken of; it offends Deity and grieves the Holy Spirit, and should have no place within the house of our God. We read in the Book of Mormon, Moroni, chapter 6: "And the church did meet together oft to fast and to pray, and to speak one with another concerning the welfare of their souls; * * and they were strict to observe that there should be no iniquity among them." "Strict to observe," is the way it should always be. "Health and cure" is what we need, and should have. Said the Apostle Paul: "Let every one that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity."

There are those who sing: "Nearer my God to thee," who seem to fail to understand that nearness to God is the result of practical effort. Our religion consists not in theory only, but in the practical—all goodness, purity and truth. These elements manifest in the Christian life command our admiration. These evidence force of character; for if virtue is power, vice is moral weakness. Character shall be the passport of entrance through the "pearly gates." This can only be developed by the practical application of Christian principle. Excellent principle shall be the motor power of all Christian lives. No higher conception of right can be found than that expressed in the gospel work. It is the product of infinite thought, and infinity never reconsiders; for reconsideration admits of previous mistake. Knowledge may condemn, as well as save. Our knowing "the work" to be true is not the sole guarantee of salvation. The power of that knowledge should so permeate our souls as to constantly prompt us to faithful performance of all duties incumbent. Each professor, according to their age, should have a clear understanding of the demands of the law of God upon them. These should be freely taught, not by a speculative teacher or preacher, but by one who properly names all "everyday commands" as momentarily and hourly binding. Otherwise, "who shall abide the day of His coming." The things now prevalent, and yet to transpire, fulfilling and to fulfill divine forecasts, are and shall be wonderful and terrific! What part shall each one take, and how far shall we go? Who, amid firing guns, roaring cannon, booming of shells, bellowing of earthquakes; howling of tempests, raging of cyclones, perplexity of nations, fear of men, dashing of seas, piercing of lightnings, crashing of thunders, devastation of famines, scourging pestilence, sweeping fires, shall remain faithful to their calling before God!

"Are there no foes for me to face;
Must I not stem the flood!
Is this vile world a friend to grace,
To help me on to God?"

That the church may prosper in all righteousness; grow in grace and in the knowledge of Jesus Christ; be blessed with all needful blessings, and at last be crowned victorious according to God's will is my prayer. Yours truly,

J. F. McDOWELL.

JONESBORO, Maine, July 28th.

Dear Herald:—After the Kirtland Conference by request of Bro. Kelley I labored in the Massachusetts district until their conference, which was held in Brockton the last Saturday and Sunday in May. The presence of Bro. E. C. Briggs added interest to the conference; his advice and counsel were well received, although some points of instruction were somewhat different from our usual custom. He urged the keeping of cases where Elders Courts were necessary, in the branches where the troubles occur, and not send them to district conference, and in cases of appeal from said courts it should go to the missionary in charge, thereby preventing the scattering of some of these matters that can only be appreciated by the localities where they transpire. He also advised against the interference, by the district president, with branches; that such interference also belonged to the missionary in charge, whose duty it is to "regulate the affairs of the church in all the world."

From the conference I went home and stayed a few days. While there the citizens hired Music Hall for one night for me, and I spoke to a fair sized audience of liberal minded ones who had taken the pains to hire the hall and advertise, all on their own account. June 11th I was in attendance at the Western Maine district conference at West Surrey. The conference passed off pleasantly. Mr. V. G. Cunningham and Hollis Saunders, with their wives, were baptized by Bro. Green. Others there are convinced of the truth and will probably join ere long, making prospects favorable for a branch there. Bro. Frank Carter took Bro. Green and myself to his home at North Blue Hill, where we held a meeting in the school-house. From there we went to Orland. Saturday eve we commenced meetings in the town hall; only a few ventured out. Had three services during Sunday. In the evening the hall was filled. Some written questions were handed in for us to answer, two of which were as word follows: "Prove that the Bible is the inspired of God," and "Does the New Testament teach a plurality of wives?" The first furnished us a subject for our evening discourse. The Spirit that prompted the inspiration of the Bible enabled us to maintain its claims thereto by sufficient evidence for any rational man to predicate a faith upon. The second question opened the way for us to draw the line between us and the Utah Church, and all others who maintain similar views. At the close of the meeting we were offered the use of the Universalist Church, which we accepted and was appreciated by us, including the profusion of beautiful flowers with which the ladies society there decorated the stand for us. During our stay of fourteen days we preached eighteen discourses, and opened up a new point at East Orland. The kindness shown us by the people while there was commendable. As is usual, the poor creed-bound ones did some talking that savored strongly of contact with the "father of lies" with whom there is much variability and shadow of turning. Old creedology dies hard. Too bad that it will not accept the panacea of gospel truth and save itself from an ignominious death.

Leaving Orland, we attended the two days meeting at Little Deer Isle, July 2d and 3d. The attendance was good, but the weather was exceedingly warm. Our next point was Tenants' Harbor, where we dropped down on Bro. Seavey and the friends there rather unexpectedly, although opportune to administer to a son of Mr. Steven Gardener who had been about abandoned by the attending M. D. The parents of this boy had proved themselves worthy of divine favor by the friendship shown towards the gospel missionary when I first made my advent among them, representing "the sect everywhere spoken evil of." The church ordinance was effectual, and when we left the boy was improving rapidly. Our main object seemingly in going there proved to be on the boy's account.

Urgent requests from Jonesport caused our departure for there to be present at the conference. The Union Church there has been recently refitted, newly carpeted, and painted inside and out, by the Saints and other friends. It was formerly occupied by the Saints and Congregationalists alternately. A new building has been erected by the Hon. D. J. Sawyer, at a cost of several thousand dollars, now known as the "Sawyer Memorial Church." At the dedication, which was an event of considerable moment for the place, Mr. Sawyer stated (so I learn) that "the Lord made known" to him that he "should build a house for his people to worship in." Mr. Sawyer at present, is custodian, and determines who are the Lord's people and who are not. Another feature of this matter is, that the doctrine of immediate revelation as held by the Saints and ridiculed by the sects, is now being endorsed by them. Temple building by revelation is no longer peculiar to the Saints! This following in our wake by the Congregationalists is commendable, even if late.

At present writing we are holding meetings nightly with increasing numbers. Some have given in their names for baptism. Bro. Green, who has been making some record with Bro. Peters' Voice of Warning enterprise, has one out on duty that has been read by sixty people, including two ministers. I reckon Maine is ahead on this line.

The movement towards a magazine for our people is looked upon with favor through here; we hope for its success. The need for literature of our own is apparent, and ought to be supplied. I also find a demand for our hymns with music. If a cheap edition could be put out many beside the Saints would buy. I find that the sale of the Harp is hindered because many are waiting for the music edition before they buy. Can Herald tell us when the music book will be issued? I am often asked, but can not answer with any certainty.

Yours,

F. M. SHEEHY.

[No; we are not prepared to say when that book will be out.—Ed.]

SEVEN MILE, Ohio, Aug. 15th.

Editors Herald:—In last Herald, page 528, near the foot of first column, the word "cockspin" should read "cockspur." It expresses that prodding effort exhibited by the writer to irritate and wound, though in some respects skillfully hidden. The word may seem a little uncouth, but it expresses the matter as it is. The best of causes and the most exalted thoughts are not always set out with fine "enticing words of man's wisdom," or rounded periods. Had Mr. Lamb been aware of this, it might have checked some of his rash criticisms on the Book of Mormon.

I came into this section twelve days ago on call, to see Bro. M. B. William's boy, eight years old, who had typhoid fever, and it was feared that he would not live. Last Saturday he was doing well. I held services here last evening in the United Brethren church. Have an appointment at same place for this evening. Bro. J. H. Yingling and wife, are the only representatives of our faith here; they are very worthy and have many friends. They have but little encouragement to continue, save in their own experience, except Herald and Hope. Old sister Williams, baptized in 1833 or 35, is well and strong in the faith. But little preaching has been done in the Miami Valley of recent years. Brn. James G. and Moses R. Scott are laboring farther down in the district by due appointment.

Hopefully,

WM. H. KELLEY.

COLTON, California, July 26th.

Dear Herald:—I feel contributing to your columns a pleasant duty. 'Tis the only place for a universal prayer and testimony meeting that proves a benefit to the doubting and strength to the faithful, if we choose to make our talks interesting and instructive. Sr. Walker, one of our leaders of this vast penned experience meeting, gives us some good advice, which should be followed, in the manner of writing manuscripts to be sent to a publishing house, which would save many an hour of worry on the part of the managers, if correctly followed,—that is to write on paper no wider than a common envelope, on one side of a sheet, endeavor to make your chirography plain. Perhaps some have been inclined to be offended if their letters have been sent back again because the editors had no time to revise, even though the writer may have taken half a day or more in penning one letter. If editors would do this, with the injunction to write it over according to office rules given, and numbering your pages, do not get discouraged, for we must make this age a progressive one by living to grow in knowledge. You have more time than the editor, whose responsibilities make his rules strenuous. If they were not so, there would be no interesting literature. An editor once said he thought the majority of men did not use a tithe of the power they possess, and depend on the editor doing all. Each reader, if wishing advancement, should help in this matter of reciprocal enlightning. Editors are not all "vademecum" specialists, nor highly concentrated extracts of encyclopedical knowledge of every known science. Do not have misapprehensions as to what our papers really are. Let us strive to do the best we can from the kind advice given to us by the more experienced, thereby causing the verdict to be more than favorable, i. e., highly laudatory. Let us lay good plans as the skillful general, and at the great judgment day we will pass our examination "laudabile modo"—not only with this in view, but because it is a duty we owe our fellow mortals. I fear some of us work solely for reward or popularity, although this is to a degree satisfactory. "'Tis only noble to be good," as Tennyson said.

With wishes for prosperity of all good causes, I remain your friend,

REGINA ROHRER.

FIVE LAKES, Mich., Aug. 16th.

Brother Joseph:—Ours is called the Gravel Creek branch. It was organized last March by Elder J. A. Carpenter, who is the laborer in this part of the Lord's vineyard. It numbers some forty-six members, and the work is still progressing and bids fair for a much larger number. On the 13th and 13 we held a two days' meeting and had a good time. Many good speakers were in attendance, among them were Elders R. Salyards of Kirtland, Ohio; J. J. Cornish of Reed City, E. Delong of Vassar, L. Phelps of Juniata, J. A. Carpenter, J. J. Bailey and J. Most of Brown City, Michigan. That part of the Scriptures was fully verified which reads, "When the sons of God were assembled together, Satan came also." Some that were opposed to the cause of Christ built fires on both sides of our camp, thinking to smoke us out. But God's power was made manifest, not only to the Saints, but to the people of the world; and many remarked how wonderful and grand it looked to see the smoke roll upward some twenty feet and then roll backward from our camp, while prayer and thanksgiving were offered up to the God of heaven by some two or three hundred Saints. It brought to our minds the time when Christ will come with ten thousand of his Saints to execute judgment upon the earth, and take vengeance on those who know him not and persecute his Saints. May God forgive our enemies, and lead them to the light, is the prayer of your brother in Christ Jesus.

R. W. HUGILL.

IRON HILL, Iowa, Aug. 17th.

Dear Herald:—I came here on the 13th inst., and found Bro. W. T. Maitland skirmishing around the frontier, (he is a good hand at that, too), and was doing a good work; so we put our forces together, and yesterday I had the pleasure of leading two noble souls into the waters of baptism. Some of the Lamoni Saints will be glad to learn that one was Bro. E. Trimble, the other his daughter Estella. God's Spirit was with us at the water, and in confirmation, to the cheering and comforting of all present. Some outsiders shed tears at the confirmation. We have full houses at our preaching meetings, and a good interest manifested. Last night I spoke an hour and a half in English, then about an hour in German. There was a German Baptist minister there with his class, and they are investigating our claims. Some others have said they would be baptized into the Saint's church. I have reason to believe that this will be a fruitful field. May God speed the day that all the honest in heart may be gathered out. I rejoice in the work, and will try to do all I can to roll it on.

Yours in the one faith,

J. S. ROTH.

ANGUS, Iowa, Aug. 19th.

Editors Herald:—I see the Lord is blessing the active ministry in different places and souls are converted to the truth, which makes my heart rejoice. The Lord has blest our efforts in this place. I never enjoyed such liberty in preaching as I have this summer. I have also had the pleasure of leading eight souls into the waters of baptism. We have had considerable prejudice to contend with, and much still exists, while many friends have been made. Last May efforts were made to close us out of the Union church. A meeting was called by some of the stockholders and trustees. I happened to get home in time to attend, as I had a share in it, and had a voice in in the meetings. Three local preachers were present, with some other members of the Methodist church. They labored hard to have us silenced, but to no avail. The same week I received a challenge to defend the Book of Mormon. I accepted it, but my opponent would not stand fire more than one night. I believe the cause lost nothing. Since then their opposition has been more snake-like. But through the mercy of God we still survive. The mines at Angus are all shut down at present, which will cause many of us to move away to get bread for our families. Angus at present presents a very forlorn appearance. The Saints are all feeling well in the work, and seem desirous of having relatives and friends enjoy what they do.

Yours in bonds,

WM. THOMPSON.

AUDUBON, Minn., August 17th.

Dear Herald:—We are trying to push on the great work of the Lord. Bro. J. C. Foss started home the 14th, with our best wishes. Bro. T. J. Martin and myself are to continue meetings as best we can. There is a good interest manifested in our work by the world. There is some opposition which makes us feel like battling the harder for the truth.

Yours,

H. WAY.

SMITHVILLE, Texas, August 14th.

Editors Herald:—I have been away from my branch for over two months and have not had the opportunity of attending meeting. The Herald is all the company I have had. It is getting better all the time. I think the Whitmer review came in the right time. It would have been a bad thing if it came after his death. There are a great many that knew nothing about him. I knew he was a witness to the Book of Mormon but did not know he had ever been cut off from the church. I think his effort for leadership very weak. He has been fully answered.

I got ten books from Bro. Peters and have had most of them loaned out, but have not done as well with them as I hoped to. In many places all classes held protracted prayer meetings last spring, and asked the Saints to join with them, asking the Giver of all good to send us rain. They seemed alarmed about the long drouth, and they made promises that if their prayers were answered they would do better, and do their duty as christians. After these meetings we several times had good rains, and everything looked fine for a good crop, and now the most of the people are fled back in their old channels.

Yours,

J. L. WILSON.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

THE FALL OF MAN.

THERE are a few facts concerning the fall of man to a condition of temptation and sin, to which I desire to call attention. In the Inspired Translation of the Bible, (which unfortunately I have not with me), it is represented that the Lord counseled with the angels of light relative to the redemption of man, and Lucifer, a son of the morning, came before the Lord and said, "I will be thy Son and redeem all mankind, that one soul shall not be lost; therefore give me thine honor." But the Father chose the meek and lowly Jesus, who said, "Father, thy will be done, and the glory be thine forever." This choice seemed to exasperate the aspiring Lucifer, who then rebelled and drew away a third part of the hosts of heaven, because of their agency or power to act for themselves, and these became Satan and his angels, to tempt the children of men and lead them captive at his (Satan's) will. See also, the "vision" in Book of Doctrine and Covenants, sec. 76.

It seems that even prior to Satan's fall by transgression, when there was no devil, the necessity of a Savior to meet a future demand was known. It is not probable that when Lucifer offered his services as a savior for man, the idea had dawned upon his mind that himself would be the instigator of man's fall. Adam was formed a dual creature upon earth, himself and all men, male and female, having been previously created spiritually.

The Lord saw that it was "not good that the man should be alone," so he "made him a help meet for him." I do not conclude from the simplicity of these statements that the discovery was the result of trial and observation upon the part of the Lord. We have no record of Adam's temptation until after Eve was formed. When alone he did not transgress God's interdict, "thou shalt not eat," &c. God had previously planted in the garden, among other things, the tree of life, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil, authorizing free access to one, and forbidding man to touch the other. Eve was made and given to Adam for a wife, "and they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed."

We may well admire their innocence, but their sense of propriety was undeveloped. Before they partook of the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, they did not even seek to clothe themselves. And why? Because their sense of modesty and vulgarity, right and wrong, good and evil, was dormant; and I think it a safe conclusion that it ever would have been, without contact with the tree of knowledge. Just why it was wisdom in the Almighty to place this tree on the other side of a command to "not partake," I can not tell, and I may as well say that this is only one of the many points I do not understand when I contemplate the work of God. These thoughts, however, I have to offer. It is said in holy writ that Satan, "not knowing the mind of the Lord, sought to destroy the agency of man." The expression, "Not knowing the mind of the Lord," taken in connection with the plainly written facts that men must be tempted and taste the bitter, &c., suggests to my mind that the devil in going about to establish his will, is but fulfilling his mission, foreknown and foreordained by the Almighty upon the principle of free agency given to all intelligent beings. I believe the Lord is sufficiently wise, so that when men or devils do evil they are but acting the part foreknown by the Lord, and these deeds are made to subserve some end in the great economy of life.

The importance of what "is written," is made apparent by the fact that by it, we shall be judged. Hence, any theory or speculation that does violence to the general tenor of the word, or that brings any part of the written word into disrepute, is dangerous, and does not reflect the sentiment that served as the crowning virtue of Jesus Christ, namely: "Thy will, not mine, be done." Theorize as we may, the facts of history and revelation remains the same. In the Book of Doctrine and Covenants we read:

"And it came to pass, that Adam being tempted of the devil, for behold the devil was before Adam, for he rebelled against me, saying, Give me thine honor, which is my power; and also a third part of the hosts of heaven turned he away from me because of their agency; and they were thrust down, and thus became the devil and his angels; and behold, there is a place prepared for them from the beginning, which place is hell; and it must needs be that the devil should tempt the children of men, or they could not be agents unto themselves, for if they never should have bitter, they could not know the sweet."—Doc. and Cov. sec. 28: 10.

If God has made known this great truth so far in advance of modern orthodoxy, why should I or any one else who professes to accept the triune word of inspiration, consisting of the Bible, Book of Mormon and doctrine and Covenants, refute it with our theory? It is a matter of surprise to me that the words of our illustrious and honored foreparents fall with so little significance upon the ears of some, who accept Joseph the prophet, and his work of retranslating the Bible, resulting in bringing to light many things that were lost and destroyed, by the "abominable church," through whose hands the original manuscript passed. Please allow me to quote them again:

"And in that day Adam blessed God, and was filled, and began to prophecy concerning all the families of the earth; saying, Blessed be the name of God, for, because of my transgression my eyes are opened, and in this life I shall have joy, and again, in the flesh I shall see God. And Eve, his wife heard all these things and was glad, saying, Were it not for our transgression, we never should have had seed, and never should have known good and evil, and the joy of our redemption, and the eternal life which God giveth unto all the obedient."—Inspired Translation, Gen. 4: 10, 11.

I would suggest that mother Eve was as likely to know whether they would have had "seed," (posterity), as those brethren who write upon the subject now. And probably Adam, after his transgression and subsequent obedience to the gospel, was as well qualified to represent the results of his fall and redemption to the favor of God, as any who may discourse upon that matter now.

Relative to the statement of Paul to Timothy, that "Adam was not deceived," I can not agree with the editor in the position taken by him, that Adam transgressed in order to be with his fallen helpmeet. This view invests Adam with a knowledge of good and evil which he did not possess previous to his fall. We turn to the history of the affair and learn that Eve, being tempted of the devil, partook of the forbidden fruit, and gave to her husband, and he ate also. There is nothing in Genesis, so far as I know from which the deduction can be justly drawn that Adam partook knowingly and designedly with the view to carry out the injunction to "multiply."

The short of the matter seems to be, that Satan tempted Eve, and Eve tempted Adam, and both were transgressors from temptation, and not from premeditated design. When interrogated by the Lord, their apologies for the wrong are very similar. One said, "The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat;" while the other said, "The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat." He offered but one excuse for the act—his wife gave him of the fruit. I think Paul viewed the matter in this light. Let us notice his language: "Let the women learn in silence with all subjection. But I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence." Now Paul, what are your reasons for female subordination? Why do you place man at the head? These are his reasons, which I deem to be very good, provided Adam and Eve are representative of their respective sex:—"For Adam was first formed, then Eve. And Adam was not deceived, [primarily, or when alone], but the woman, being deceived, was in the transgression." Thus making Eve accountable for the transgression referred to, which I think was the primal one.

Please turn to revelation in Doctrine and Covenants, 28: 11. There it is stated that Adam partook of the forbidden fruit because the devil tempted him. It is further said that he became "subject to the will of the devil, because he yielded unto temptation," and was cast out of the garden of Eden "because of his transgression." A technicality might be raised upon the statement that "Satan tempted Eve, and Eve tempted Adam." Eve was tempted through a voluntary instrument or servant, so was Adam. But Satan's will was done through these agencies, and the three parties in the wrong were held equally responsible for their individual act.—Gen. 3. After carefully recanvassing the subject, without bias or prejudice, and still willing to be convinced, I remain of the same opinion as expressed in Herald for March 6th, 1886.

Allow me to add that the apostle, in his language to his son Timothy, exonerates Adam from blame in the transgression referred to by him, stating that the "woman, being deceived, was in the transgression." Yet we have the plainly revealed fact that Adam did transgress the same law or command, but through the example or persuasion of his wife, hence I conclude that all that Paul had reference to was the primal act of sinning, for which Eve was responsible while Adam was not. Whether the latter was "deceived" when he partook of the fruit offered by his companion, I have no means of knowing, other than this—if he was not, it necessarily follows that he possessed a knowledge of good and evil, and this horn of the dilemma is far more difficult to manage, or reconcile, than is the idiom or inadvertency of Paul's language to Timothy. Personally, I do not believe that either Adam or Eve foreknew the consequences of sin. I believe that God in his wisdom, mercy, love and infinite watchcare, desired and designed that they should know for their own good. This knowledge could only be developed by actual contact with the elements of sin. Man could not fall into the grasp of Satan and "taste the bitter" by obeying, so temptation was allowed that man might learn his dependence, and appreciate the goodness of God. Father Adam and mother Eve so viewed it, judging from their own version of the matter, and theirs is the voice of those who knew, by experience, the three conditions—the primal, innocent, or negative state; the lost, or fallen condition; and the obedient or regenerate sphere, brought to light and participated in through the gospel.

Please permit me to theorize a little. If the position occupied by many is correct, that the world could have been and would have been peopled by an immaculate race of holy beings endowed with all the faculties that promote a condition of perfect peace, happiness, and glory, had not Satan made his invasion, then it follows that a terrible mistake has been made by somebody who held the power to have ordered otherwise. To charge the misery and woe of a world reeking with crime, suffering and sorrow as a result following the mistake of the first pair, and argue that all of this might have been avoided if they had done differently, and that all this sad experience of a world's sorrow is of no benefit, is to my mind a grave reflection upon the prudence of God. If God had not desired that man should be tempted and thus learn to love and serve him from choice, why did he not banish his Satanic Majesty to the remotest bounds of the universe ere he entered the fair domain and lead captive the unwary and the ignorant? Why? A million hearts, oppressed with gloom, re-echo "Why?" The sickness, pain, and misery of a dying world reverberates the question, "Why?" The cold and pitiless hand of death, that has chilled so many warm hearts and con-gealed the flowing life blood of myriads of dear souls, demands to know why.

Tradition is one thing, and revealed truth may be another. Christ came to "destroy the works of the devil." If the drama of this world's life, death, and resurrection, are not each a part of the divine economy, it occurs to me that the "works of the devil" might have been forestalled in time to have averted so many serious consequences. Christ lived and died for the accomplishment of the great work. Would it have taken more or cost more to have intercepted the cause of man's fall? I think not. I believe the Almighty had the power and the right to have prevented the intrusion of Satan and his hosts upon the sacred heritage, but he chose a better way in view of the ultimate.

GEORGE S. HYDE.

[When the writer of the above says, "I can not agree with the editor in the position taken by him that Adam transgressed in order to be with his fallen help meet," we reply that evidently Adam sinned knowingly, intentionally, and for the purpose of continuing with Eve and raising up a posterity, and that this is found not only in the words of Paul, "And Adam was not deceived, but the woman being deceived was in the transgression," (1 Tim. 2:14), but also in these words, "If Adam had not transgressed, he would not have fallen; but he would have remained in the Garden of Eden. And all things which were created must have remained in the same state which they were after they were created; and they must have remained; and they must have remained forever, and had no end. And they would have had no children; wherefore they would have remained in a state of innocence, having no joy, for they knew no misery; doing no good, for they knew no sin. But, behold, all things have been done in the wisdom of Him who knoweth all things. Adam fell that men might be; and men are that they might have joy," (2 Nephi 1:8). Eve was free to act for herself, and was therefore accountable for her deeds. Adam was equally free, and equally accountable. Eve said Satan "beguiled" her; but Paul said "Adam was not deceived." —ED.]

PARABLE OF THE WHEAT AND THE TARES.

In Matthew 13:24-30, we have the following parable from the mouth of Jesus of Nazareth; "Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field; but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. So the servants of the household came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares? He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest; and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them; but gather the wheat into my barn." The corrected translation says, "Gather ye together first the wheat into my barn, and the tares are bound in bundles to be burned." The latter will appear the better translation after a while, in our examination of the meaning of the parable.

The divine teacher gives the following explanation of the parable. 1. The field is the world, 2. The good seed are the children of the kingdom, 3. The sower of the good seed is the Son of Man, 4. The tares are the children of the wicked one. 5. He that sowed them is the devil, 6. The harvest is the end of the world, 7. The reapers are the angels.

Now I will endeavor to explain the matter more fully. 1 The field is the world, or the earth. 2 The wheat or the good seed is both the truth or the gospel, and the Church of Christ. 3 The tares are false doctrines, and false churches built upon the false doctrine. 4 The sower of the seed is both Christ, and his apostles. 5. The sower of the tares is the devil and his ministry. 6 The reapers are the latter day ministry, and also the angels of the Lord. 7 The harvest is the end of this dispensation, and the end of the millenium. 8 The sowing and reaping periods extend from the days of Christ's first advent, until the end of the thousand years reign of Christ, if not from creation to the end of the Millenium. We shall not be under necessity of observing the order as named above particularly, but merely sustain each proposition named. The good seed I assume is both the gospel, and the gospel church; or the truth, and believers of the truth. In this same chapter we have another parable, which may be considered as introductory to the one under consideration, and illustrates a preliminary work. It is the parable of the sowing of seed (good seed) among thorns, stones, and on the wayside and in good ground. Here the good seed is called "the word of the kingdom," that is "the gospel of the kingdom;" the field, or ground in which the seed is sown is the heart, or the understanding of men and women. Those who hear and understand, and obey the word, or gospel of the kingdom, become in turn good seed, or wheat or "children of the kingdom," or the church of Jesus Christ.

Christ and his apostles were sowers of the good seed or the gospel; what was sown was wheat, and what it produced was wheat; or in other words they sowed the truth or the gospel, and it produced the church or the true believers of the gospel.

"Now after that John was put in prison, Jesus came unto Galilee, preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God." "And it came to pass afterward, that he went into every city and village, preaching and showing the glad tidings of the kingdom of God, and the twelve were with him." "And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." "And they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them, confirming the word with signs following." "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." "Who then is Paul, and who is Apollos, but ministers by whom ye believed, even as the Lord gave to every man. I have planted, Apollos watered, but God gave the increase." "For we are laborers together with God; ye are God's husbandry, ye are God's building." "Now, then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us; we pray you in Christ's stead be ye reconciled to God." "We therefore as workers together with him, beseech you that ye receive not the grace of God in vain."

The result of sowing the good seed of the kingdom of God, was the conversion of multitudes to Christ, and the establishing of the Church of Christ in all of the then known world. By the year 64 A. D., as Paul said, the gospel "was preached to every creature under heaven." Christ had finished his part of the work of sowing the seed of truth, and of planting the church; he had left the world and had gone to heaven, and had left the sowing the seed, and of building up the church to his apostles, who went "everywhere," or into the world, and preached (as they had been commanded) "the gospel to every creature." And they slept after they had finished their work, and while they were asleep (in Jesus) the enemy of Christ and his church, sowed tares among the wheat, in the field, which is the world. This enemy is the Devil, who has also his ministry or apostles. A tare is a species of grass, and in appearance resembles wheat, and has seeds which are poisonous which also resemble wheat, but are smaller. The tares therefore do not represent weeds in general, but that which is an imitation of wheat, or a counterfeit gospel, and the seed which it produces is a counterfeit church. The Devil can present himself as an angel of light, and his servants can and do represent themselves as ministers of righteousness, or preachers of the gospel, yet they are not preachers of the true gospel, but sow a spurious seed, or tares, or an imitation gospel. The tares were soon developed, and truth and error were soon seen growing together, and the children of the kingdom, and the children of the wicked one were found in the same field. The tares would represent Babylon, or the "Mother of Harlots," or the mother church and her daughters. The tares are not only sown in the field, but are sown among the wheat. And of course would apparently be growing out of the same stool, or from the same roots. If the Church of Christ was planted in one field, and Babylon in another, there would be no force nor application in the parable, or if the two gospels and the two churches were growing apart or separately and distinct in the same field, but the tares were sown among the wheat, and were to grow together. So I understand that in the field, or the world, where the apostles had sowed the gospel seed, or the truth, and the Churches of Christ had sprung up; in the same field, and among the Churches, the devil and his agents sowed the seeds of error, and the history of the church shows that soon the tares outnumbered the wheat, and there is nothing in the parable to forbid the idea of the tares being more numerous than the wheat, or of growing more rankly than the wheat.

The lesson that I wish to draw from this is, that there has been and will be some wheat among the tares, from the time of the first sowing of the wheat and the subsequent sowing of the tares, until the final harvest; or in other words, there has been and will be those who are "the children of the kingdom," or whom God says are "my people" in Babylon, or in Rome and her daughter churches. God has been calling upon these people to "come out," ere he destroys her. They are wheat, growing among tares. Again, we read of Babylon being guilty of shedding the blood of Saints and of the martyrs of Jesus, as well as that of apostles and prophets. Now there were no apostles and prophets of former days that Babylon slew; nor has the "mother church" slain any of those of latter days, although her daughters have done so; but the mother has certainly put to death thousands of saints and martyrs of Jesus. If not, what was the moral and religious character of those who cheerfully laid down their lives rather than subscribe to the dogmas of Rome? They professed faith in Jesus as the only Savior, the only Mediator, the only Lord; and through whom alone they expected salvation. They may not have understood the gospel in its fulness, but their Christ-like spirit, their courage, their faith, and their fortitude clearly showed that it was not wilful blindness on their part. Such people would have believed and obeyed as much as we have, and more, if they had understood it. They had the spirit of faith and obedience, or the disposition to obey the fullest measure of gospel truth. Prejudiced, and bigoted, and stupid indeed, must he be who would deny that these martyrs were not Saints, and children of God, and therefore "children of the kingdom" and "wheat." They gave abundant evidence of possessing the "Spirit of Christ," and if so, then they were "his," and as they brought forth the "fruit of the Spirit" they were certainly "led by the Spirit of God," and if so, they were the "sons of God;" "for as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." If it be assumed that no one can or does receive the Spirit of God in any other church than ours, the experience of the writer and many others positively contradicts that assumption. In fact we know differently. If we know what the Spirit of God is now, we know that we had received a measure of it before. It was not in the same measure, but it was the same kind of Spirit that we have received since we became members of this church. Now for one, I know that I believed and preached at least two-thirds of the doctrine that I now hold, years before I had seen or heard a Latter Day Saint elder, or had read a line of the church publications. Again; I know that I have preached under the direct aid and inspiration of the Holy Spirit before I joined this church, but not as much so, nor with the same degree of light as since, but nevertheless in the same manner. I only design by these remarks to help sustain the proposition that wheat and tares are growing together, or "children of the kingdom" are found in institutions of man's creation. If there are no wheat among the tares, nor the "children of the kingdom" in Babylon, how can the wheat be separated from the tares? or the children of the kingdom be gathered from among the children of the wicked one? This query leads us to consider another interesting feature of the parable, namely, the gathering of the wheat into the "barn."

I understand that the gathering of the wheat is progressive, or that there are at least three stages of gathering. 1st, Gathering out of Babylon, or other churches, into one true Church of Christ. 2d, The gathering of the Church of Christ afterward to the land of Zion. 3d, A subsequent gathering from various parts of the land of Zion to a center place, or the city of Zion. Now the fact is, that the church is Zion, America is Zion, and there is to be a city called Zion. The gathering of the wheat is, first, from among the tares; then, to the land where the barn is located, and then into the barn.

Zion, the New Jerusalem, is the barn, America is the land whereon the barn is to be located, and the church is the wheat that is to be gathered into the barn. A decision of a General Conference, and one among the first held by the Reorganization (I think Bro. Jason W. Briggs was president of the conference and favored the resolution) was that the Saints on other lands should gather to this land (i. e. America) preparatory to gathering to, and rebuilding Zion. To this agrees various revelations and teachings of the Spirit through both Joseph the father, and Joseph the son, as prophets of the church; the call through them is to come out of Babylon into the church, then to gather to the land of America, and into "the regions round about," preparatory to a revelation yet to come to gather to the city of Zion. Now while we are justified in considering human institutions (as organizations) to be tares, and the work of the evil one, yet all who love the truth and who are honest in heart, in these human institutions, are the children of God, and the people of God. And that while God does not recognize any of these organizations as his church, yet he does recognize that whatever truth they hold, is his truth; and whoever truly loves his word and desires to keep his laws and observe his precepts are his servants, or his children, and therefore "children of the kingdom." There can be but one Church of Jesus Christ on earth at the same time, yet there are virtuous, honest, truthloving, sincere, and upright people among them all, who are God's people. They have, it is true, not learned all the truth that God has revealed; and have we? They have not obeyed all the commandments of God; and have we?

In the primary, secondary, grammar, high school and college departments, every one is a student, a learner or scholar, and the teachers, and even the professors, are students; although the latter may know more, and understand more, and are better qualified to teach others than the teachers of the grammar and lower departments, and they in turn be farther advanced in scholastic lore than the graduates and the scholars under their tuition, yet they are likewise learners still; and so it is in the school, or doctrine of Christ. As it is in human life and physical growth, so in the Christian life and spiritual development, some are babes, some are children, some are youths, some are young men, some are adults, some are middle aged, and some are aged. The soft milky grain is wheat, and so it is in every stage of growth and development until it is mature and fully ripe. These parties of whom we are speaking are not in the fold of Christ perhaps, but all sheep are not in the fold, or else there would be none called the "lost sheep," and no need of "hunters and fishers" sent out to find them, and catch them and bring them into the fold. This is a principal part of the reapers work who are to gather the wheat into the barn; namely to collect the wheat from among the tares; or it is the work of the ministry to gather out the children of the kingdom from Babylon, and the work of the hunters and fishers to search for and find the sheep who are outside the fold; but those outside the fold are sheep even if they are lost ones, as well as those who are safe inside. The angels are to gather those who through circumstances beyond their control could not gather of their own free will with the body of the church. The angels are to gather these (the remainder) unto the others. They will also have their part to perform in the time of the harvest in gathering the tares to be burned.

But the harvest does not end till the final resurrection, or the final judgment, at the end of the thousand years reign of Christ. The wheat is gathered first at Christ's coming. The tares are gathered and burned a thousand years after. The angels are to gather out of Christ's kingdom "all things that offend, and them which do iniquity." Now this refers to the destruction of the tares, and unless we take the ground that the field is the church, and the tares are the wicked ones in the church, which we do not consider at all to be correct; then the gathering "out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity," must refer to the "field" or the world, as the kingdom of Christ, which has not yet come into his possession, nor will until he returns from heaven, and "the kingdoms of this world" become "the kingdom of the Lord and his Christ." I understand that this destruction of the tares will be finished at the second resurrection, and "death and hell" are "cast into the lake of fire;" "and whosoever was not found written in the book of life will also be cast into the lake of fire." And "the fearful and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolators, and liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone, which is the second death." Certainly we will not claim that this kind of characters are in the church, and must be allowed to remain in it till the angels gather them out; when God's law commands the church to expel such characters from the church if they are found in it at any time.

But at the end of the thousand years, after Christ has taken his kingdom and reigned, and has subjected all to his sway who will yield obedience to him, then those who at the close of the thousand years' reign are found to be incorrigible will be cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, or, being tares, will be burned from off the field. The wheat is then already gathered into the barn, for the devil brings his children or servants, against the "camp of the Saints," (or the barn where the wheat is gathered), and are destroyed by fire from heaven.

There is also a destruction of the tares, at the coming of Christ when Babylon comes into remembrance before the Lord and is destroyed. And the wicked, or those "that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ," will be "punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power." After the final destruction of the children of the devil, at the close of the thousand years, when Christ has subdued all things under him, and has destroyed all who would not yield to his government, then he delivers up the kingdom to God, the Father. Of course thereafter it is the kingdom of the Father. It is this time that is referred to in Matt. 13:43, when the righteous shall "shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of the Father." It is not the kingdom of the Father, during the millennial reign of Christ, or during the thousand years following Christ's second coming, for it is the kingdom of the Son; but when the Son has finished his reign, and subdued all enemies under his feet, he will resign the kingdom to the Father. The devil, false prophet, the beast, and all enemies of truth and righteousness are destroyed, along with death and hell, and all who remain on earth will be obedient to Christ. Then the time will come indicated in the prayer of the Son, "thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven." The kingdom of the Father will then have come, and his will be done on earth as it is now done in heaven by all the angelic hosts.

Christ's kingdom has not yet come in which the children of the devil are to be gathered out. And not until the last enemy is destroyed will all the tares be burned up, nor will the harvest be fully ended, nor will the righteous receive the fulness of glory. The earth then will be full of the glory of God, and of the knowledge of God. There will be no more tares, nor sowers of tares. The field will be purified by fire, and all corruptible things burned up. The new heavens and the new earth appear, and God will make his tabernacle with men. The seventh day of redemption's week, or the day of the Lord has ended; time will be no more, but eternity will have commenced. Angels and saints dwell together, alike immortal, celestial and glorious. Christ is subject to the Father, has yielded back the sceptre to the Father, and the Father is God, all in all.

In conclusion, I understand that the parable of the wheat and tares will cover a period of time reaching from the preaching of the gospel of the kingdom by the Savior, from the days of John the baptizer, till the end of the thousand years reign of Christ and the destruction of the devil, hell, death, sin, and incorrigible sinners, and the establishment of the kingdom of the Father. All truth, and all true believers, or the true Church of Christ, must be considered as wheat. All error, or falsehood and sin, all believers and followers of error, or false doctrine and sin, or the church of the devil, must be considered as tares. I am inclined to the opinion, and believe that I could readily sustain it, that the parable will cover seven thousand years of time, or from the creation to the establishing of the kingdom of the Father. For the Lord sent his angel (the Son, in all probability,) and preached the gospel unto Adam and Eve; thus the good seed was sown. Adam and Eve made known the gospel to their children. Satan came among them, claiming to be also a Son of God, and commanded them not to believe the gospel, and they believed it not. So we see the wheat and tares beginning to grow together; "And men began from that time forth to be carnal, sensual, and devilish," or tares or children of the devil. Seth, Enos, Cainan, Mahalaleel, Jared, Enoch, Methuselah, were all preachers of righteousness or sowers of the good seed. Cain and his seed were ministers of unrighteousness and sowers of tares. And thus it has continued and will continue till the harvest, wheat and tares growing together in the same field, i. e. the world.

T. W. SMITH.

PAPERETTE, Tahiti, May 25th, 1887.

Selections.

WONDERFUL FIND IN SYRIA.

The following are extracts from a private letter of Rev. James S. Dennis, D. D., of Newark, now in Syria:

"The excavations and discoveries at Sidon still continue with remarkable results. The number of sarcophagi at present brought to light is eighteen, and some of them are most magnificent, and will rank high among archaeological treasures. They are of enormous size, and the scripture is elaborate and in perfect preservation. Upon one of them alone are eighteen almost detached statues about three feet in height, without a single scratch, and of pure marble.

"The most remarkable of them came to light last week. It is an ancient Phœnician sarcophagus, which has never been opened, and contained a mummy and a large amount of jewelry of great value. The mummy when unrolled, was found to be the body of a man in middle life, and the state of preservation was astonishing. The features, and in fact the entire body, were intact; the flesh was tender, and yielded to pressure; and teeth, hair and viscera were all in place. Upon the outside lid of the sarcophagus is an inscription of seven and a half lines in Phœnician characters, and also one in Egyptian hieroglyphics. The bi-lingual inscription of such an ancient date excites great expectations. We shall have to wait to have it deciphered by the savants before we can know the full value of the statements it contains. The sarcophagus is of black basalt such as comes from Egypt, and it may have been made in Egypt by order from Sidon. The date of it is, of course, a matter of conjecture as yet. It may be anywhere from 800 to 1500 B. C., and even older. This strange being, who has been brought forth literally from the tomb of the ages to face the nineteenth century—who is he? What if he should be Ethbaal, 'king of the Zidonians' and father of Jezebel, or some older king who flourished in the earlier days of 'Great Zidon? It is more than probable that he was a royal or princely character.

"The value of this enormous find is roughly estimated as approaching a sum not far from $800,000. One of the European Consuls at Beirut has offered $25,000 for one of the sarcophagi. It was not accepted, and the Turkish Government is boxing the entire lot, and have sent a special steamer to transport them to Constantinople.

"The discovery of the sarcophagus of Ashmunazer, in 1855, just outside of Sidon, was regarded as an important event. It also had a Phœnician inscription of twenty-two lines, and several interesting data were gathered from it. This is a far more marvelous and magnificent upturning of old Sidonian remains.

"The excavations still continue, and other treasures may be brought to light. A government official, Hamdy Bey, from Constantinople, is superintending the operations. These are days of great archaeological wonders. Think of the old Pharaohs on exhibition in the Boulak Museum in Cairo!"

THE CONSTITUTION VOTE.

Congress and the country should now be satisfied as to the expression of the Mormon voters with reference to the polygamy forbidding Constitution. It is understood that the non-Mormons were silent as to the Constitution, voting neither for nor against it. They resolved to do this in their convention, and so far as known were faithful to their promise and to each other. It must therefore be accepted that the votes cast on the Constitution, whether for or against, were thrown by the People's party or Mormons. The total Constitutional vote, with a few small precincts to hear from, was 13,372, of which number 12,887 were for and 485 against the adoption of the instrument. Anything approaching nearer to unanimity could not, in reason, be asked. Only a little more than three per cent of the voters expressed their disapproval of the Constitution, while more than ninety-six per cent of the Mormons who voted declared in favor of the Constitution making polygamy an offense against the State. It will not do to say these men making up the ninety-six per cent were not honest and sincere. They have gone on record and their sincerity can not, in fairness, be called in question. As well might they be denounced as dishonest in their voting for candidates for office.

Having agreed with the Constitutional Convention as to the wisdom and propriety of placing Utah in harmony with the popular sentiment of the nation in the matter of polygamy, the people have the right to expect that their appeals for justice and full citizenship will be granted, and statehood conferred upon the Territory. To deny statehood now will be bad faith on the part of the government, which for nearly a score of years has conveyed the impression that a State government would immediately follow such a declaration as was made at the polls on the 1st instant. We can go to Washington next winter with a well-backed appeal for relief. If our righteous request shall then be denied, it will be in the face of what is akin to a pledge to do us justice, and give us our rights as citizens of the republic. We have done what was asked, and in reason nothing more can be demanded.—Salt Lake Herald.

THE EXTIRPATION OF CRIMINALS.

The first step, therefore, in the extirpation of criminals is to shut up on an indeterminate sentence all those who, by a second offense, place themselves in the criminal class. We shall certainly come to this, and when we do society will be free of a vast mass of criminals, who will be where they earn their living, where they can no longer prey upon society, where they can not corrupt the innocent, where they can not increase their kind in the world, and where they will have the only chance possible to them for reform. How shall they be treated? Kindly, humanely, of course, but not in any way pampered. The first requisite is their security. Society has a right to demand that they should be secure, and, secondly, that they shall not have an easier lot as criminals than honest men have outside the prisons. Rigid discipline is essential; discipline is the first requisite in any attempt for the improvement of the condition of the men, physically, morally, or intellectually. In any education, in the learning of any trade, it is the first requisite; it is emphatically so for boys and men distorted morally, intellectually, and physically. Hard labor is also essential.

GO STEADILY FORWARD.

Be not discouraged if, in the outset of life, things do not seem to go smoothly. It seldom happens that the hopes we cherish of the future are realized. The path of life in the prospect appears smooth and level enough, but when we begin to travel it we find it up-hill and generally rough enough. The journey is a laborious one, and whether poor or wealthy, high or low, we shall find it so to our disappointment, if we have built any other calculation. To endure what is to be endured with as much cheerfulness as possible and to elbow our way as easily as we can through the crowd, hoping for little, yet striving for much, is, perhaps, the true plan.

Be not discouraged, though occasionally you slip down by the way and your neighbors tread over you a little; accidents will happen, miscalculations will sometimes be made, things will turn out differently from our expectations and we may be sufferers. It is worth while to remember that prospects are like the skies in April, though clear, soon overclouded. As it would be folly to despair of again seeing the sun because to-day is stormy, so it is unwise to sink into despondency when fortune frowns, since, in the common course of things, he may be surely expected to shine again.

Do not be discouraged under the circumstances. Go steadily forward; rather consult your own conscience than the opinions of men, though these are not to be disregarded. Be industrious, be frugal, be honest; deal in perfect kindness with all who come in your way, exercising a neighborly and obliging spirit in your own intercourse with others and all will be well.—Mother's Magazine.

CONTAGIOUS CHEERFULNESS.

The other day, when the wind was hurling eastward at forty miles an hour, when the stinging snow-pellets were discharging in cruel volleys, and the cold was momentarily increasing, a butcher's boy, seated in his open cart, went whistling through the streets as cheerily as a lark mounts to meet the sun. That warm-blooded boy fairly defied the tempest, and laughed at the rage of the storm. The little fellow was a sun-beam and a blessing to the whole street. His plucky notes rebuked the thermometer, and the very cold seemed abashed. Somehow, we kept thinking of him all day, and the remembered picture put a brighter glow into the atmosphere. A lump of ice reduces the temperature of warm water at a rate quite out of proportion to its mass. A crusty man, a cynical woman, or a cross child will disenchant, chill, and tangle an entire household. One cheery Christian inspires a whole church, while one bilious disciple modifies a Christian circle in the wrong direction. There is even cash value in a hopeful man. The child that rises first in the morning and fills the home with happy songs to the echo of which the household wakens to duty, may determine the tone and trend of the day for all. The butcher who sent that happy boy through the streets the other day deserved the gratitude and custom of the whole ward. The clear whistle put the tempest to shame, and now, when the storm is over and almost forgotten, our juvenile prompter in cheerfulness is remembered.

Miscellaneous.

BORN.

DAVIS.—At Hollister, San Benito county, California, November 12th, 1886, to Bro. Roy and Sr. Emily Davis, a daughter. Blessed April 10th, 1887, by Elder J. R. Cook and named Ethel Emily.

MARRIED.

CHENEY—DONALDSON.—At the residence of the bride's parents, August 21st, 1887, by Elder Henry Kemp, Mr. Byron Cheney to sister Lizzie Donaldson, both of Mill Creek, Iowa. A large gathering of Saints and friends were present and spent a very enjoyable time.

DIED.

HIDY.—At Independence, Missouri, June 20th, 1887, of cholera infantum, Dana Elvin, son of George H. and Addie May Hidy; aged 1 year, 9 months, and 16 days. Funeral sermon by Elder Joseph Smith.

WHEELING.—In Lamoni, Iowa, August 24th, 1887, Mr. H. H. Wheeling, aged 50 years, 10 months and 14 days. He was born in Tuscarawas county, Ohio, and emigrated to Iowa in 1849. He was an honorable citizen, a reliable business man, and a generous hearted neighbor. A large concourse of relatives and friends assembled at his late residence to pay their last tribute of respect, when select portions of the Scriptures were read, hymns were sung, and appropriate remarks were made, Elder W. W. Blair officiating.

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

The Northern Minnesota district conference will be held in the Saints' Chapel, Girard, Otter-tail county, November 26th and 27th, instead of December 24th and 25th as announced in Herald, page 471.
H. WAY, District Clerk.

The conference of the Central California district will convene with the San Benito branch, San Benito county, September 30th. Let all strive to do their duty, be in attendance, and bring with you the Spirit of God and let us rejoice together.
J. M. RANGE, Dist. Pres.

The conference of the Western Maine district will convene with the Green's Landing branch, at Saints' Chapel, Green's Landing, Maine, September 17th, 1887, at two o'clock. It is hoped that Bro. E. C. Briggs will be with us.
WM. G. PERT, Dist. Pres.

COMRADES! ALL ABOARD!

Headquarters Department of Iowa, Grand Army of the Republic, has selected the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad as the official route to the encampment at St. Louis, which meets September 27, 28, 29 and 30. Through special trains will be run over the Burlington route for this occasion, affording superior accommodations for those attending the Encampment. All posts and comrades are invited as far as possible to patronize the C. B. & Q. Railroad on this occasion, and thereby make the selection of route unanimous. Rates will be as low as by any other line. For tickets and further information, apply to any Ticket Agent of the C. B. & Q. or connecting lines.

Conference Minutes.

CENTRAL KANSAS.

Conference convened with the Fanning branch, August 6th and 7th; W. Hopkins presiding, H. Green secretary. The following branches reported no changes since last report: Scranton, Good Intent, Fanning, and Netawaka. No report from Centralia branch. Elders W. Williams, W. Gurwell, D. Williams, G. George, H. Green, W. Hopkins, and D. Munns, reported in person; J. Jarvis and P. Adamson by letter; priest J. Price in person; teacher W. Thatcher by letter. The following officers were elected for the next three months; D. Munns president, H. Green secretary, and H. Parker, Bishop's Agent. The authorities of the church, also of the district were sustained. Bro. Blair spoke instructively to the edifying of all present. A motion was made and carried that the next conference will be held with the Scranton branch, to commence at 10½ a. m., October 29th, 1887. Evening session preaching by Bro. W. W. Blair. Sunday morning preaching by Bro. Blair, also in the afternoon. Three were baptized during the intermission. Sacrament and confirmation meeting at half past six; and preaching at eight by Bro. Blair. The attendance during conference was good, and the preaching of the word was instructive and edifying for Jew and Gentile, Saint and sinner.

SOUTHERN NEBRASKA DISTRICT.

Conference convened at McCaig's Grove July 24th, 1887, at 11 a. m. Sunday. Opened by singing "Hark the herald angels sing," and prayer by Bro. W. W. Blair. Preaching by Bro. R. M. Elvin. Preaching by Bro. Blair in the afternoon, and by Bro. James Caffall in the evening. Large congregations and good attention. Officials present fifteen. Monday morning at nine met for business. District president L. Anthony, and secretary J. B. Gouldsmith reported. Report of Bishop's Agent: Tithing received $163.08, paid out during quarter $70; freewill offering received $22.50, paid out during quarter $26.07, paid out during quarter $25.07, balance due the church July 1st $103.83. Report referred to Brn. Dan Brolliar and L. K. Tyson. Elders W. W. Blair, J. Caffall, R. M. Elvin, J. W. Waldsmith, L.

Anthony, J. Armstrong, and J. E. Malcom reported in person; C. H. Porter, R. C. Elvin and James Thomson by letter. Priests J. B. Gouldsmith in person, and F. L. Tucker by letter. Teachers N. Trook, D. Broliar, J. Furguson, and Deacon T. L. Rider reported in person. Branch reports: Nebraska City 136 members; 1 added by letter, 1 died. Palmyra 40, no change. Blue River 127; 2 added by letter, 1 died. Plattsmouth, and Moroni, no report. Brn. J. Caffall and R. M. Elvin were sustained as missionaries. A collection was taken up of which $2.10 was given the secretary, $5 to Bro. Caffall, and the rest turned over to the Bishop's Agent. At two p. m. a season of prayer and testimony was had, when a good measure of God's Spirit was enjoyed to the satisfaction of his people. In the evening Bro. Blair preached. A vote of thanks was tendered the McCaig brothers for their kindness in entertaining the conference in their grove. The present district officers were sustained. Adjourned to meet at Wilber, October 23d, 1887, at 11 a. m.

LITTLE SIOUX DISTRICT.

Met pursuant to adjournment at the Saints' meeting house in Persia, Harrison county, Iowa, at eleven o'clock a. m., Saturday, June 4th, 1887, president of the district, J. C. Crabb, in the chair. Organized by electing J. C. Crabb president of conference and Phineas Cadwell and C. Derry associate presidents, Wm. C. Cadwell and J. W. Wight were elected secretaries. The following branch reports were read and approved.—Spring Creek 59, including 6 elders, 2 priests, 3 teachers and 1 deacon, 1 baptized; Wm. Chambers president, D. Chambers clerk. Willow Valley 45, including 1 elder, 2 priests, 1 teacher and 1 deacon, 6 received by certificate of baptism; John Hunt president, Henry C. Purcell clerk. Little Sioux 209, including 1 high priest, 4 seventies, 3 elders, 1 priest, 3 teachers and 2 deacons, 2 baptized, 1 removed, 1 died, 3 marriages; J. C. Crabb president, Wm. Stuart clerk. Magnolia 168, including 1 high priest, 1 seventy, 10 elders, 8 priests, 1 teacher and 3 deacons, 9 removed by letter, 1 died. Charles Derry president, Donald Maule clerk. Union Center 94, including 1 seventy, 12 elders and 1 priest; J. M. Putney president, J. W. Steel clerk. Logan 55, including 1 high priest, 3 elders, 1 priest, 2 teachers and 1 deacon, 3 received by letter, 1 marriage; Phineas Cadwell president, Adele D. Card clerk. No regular report was received from Sioux City, but a letter was read from Bro. Berg reporting no changes. Spiritual condition of branches was reported good by branch officers or delegates, with the exception of Sioux City, whose future was thought to be some brighter. Official Reports.—High Priests J. C. Crabb, C. Derry and P. Cadwell; Elders H. O. Smith, D. Chambers, W. W. Whiting, H. Garner, Donald Maule, Warren E. Peak, C. E. Butterworth, J. M. Putney, P. C. Kemmish, T. Thomas, John H. Hunt, Wm. Chambers (baptized 1), E. R. Lanpher, J. Seddon, John Hawley, M. P. Berg, B. S. Parker, F. Collins, H. S. Smith, Wm. C. Cadwell, J. W. Wight and J. McKee; Priests Alma Ellison, W. T. Fallon, J. Chapman, F. Hansen, Phineas Pelton, M. Daugherty, J. Bullard and D. Brewster; Teacher Wm. R. Davison and Deacon Isaac Haws reported. Bishop's Agent reported as follows: On hand at last report $114.90; received since (itemized in report) $85.45; paid out (itemized) $109.87; balance on hand $90.48. Phineas Cadwell Bishop's Agent. Report was referred to committee consisting of Brn. W. T. Fallon, W. R. Davison and D. Chambers, who subsequently reported it correct with the exception of 83 cents in favor of Bro. Cadwell. Report adopted and committee discharged. Tent committee reported progress and asked to be released, and on motion their request was granted. J. S. Knauss' matter was called up and on motion referred to a Court of Elders consisting of Brn. Henry Garner, D. Maule and W. Chambers, who subsequently reported, recommending that action be deferred till our next quarterly conference on account of insufficient notice, and that a new notice be given through the Herald to appear on the first day of the next conference to answer to the charges as made. Report adopted and Court of Elders discharged.

Matter of Missouri Valley mission coming up, Bro. Derry stated that Magnolia branch had contributed five dollars to its aid and that by letter from Bro. Smith had learned that he needed more assistance in the same line; secretary also read a letter to the same effect from Bro. Smith. On motion Bro. Smith was continued in charge, and authorized to take up collections. D. Chambers, one of the delegates to Annual Conference, reported having attended and tried to represent his district to the best of his ability. C. Derry, J. W. Wight and P. Cadwell had not attended. The following Two Days Meetings were appointed: Twelve Mile Grove, July 9th and 10th, P. Cadwell in charge; Willow Valley, June 25th and 26th, C. Derry in charge; Union Center, July 23d and 24th, W. C. Cadwell in charge; Magnolia, August 6th and 7th, J. C. Crabb in charge; Six Mile Grove, August 20th and 21st, D. Chambers in charge. Quite a discussion favorable to a motion made by Bro. C. Derry that we ought to take a more active interest in Sunday School work was had, when a motion was made and prevailed that all Sunday Schools in the district be requested to report at the quarterly conferences. Two were baptized during conference by Bro. Warren E. Peak. Preaching was had by Bro. Warren E. Peak Saturday evening, and Bro. W. W. Whiting Sunday morning. Sunday afternoon the sacrament was administered and a prayer and testimony meeting was held, in charge of Bro. John Hawley. Adjourned to meet at Magnolia at 11 o'clock a. m., Saturday, September 3d, 1887.

150 TOWN LOTS.

I am prepared to furnish any one wanting a lot, either Business or Residence, in LAMONI, at low prices and very easy terms. Some fine acre pieces also. Call on or address J. W. DENOON, M. D., Lamoni.

20aug3m

LADIES or Gents, Girls or Boys, wanted in Europe and America, to sell our Folding Bustles, Portable Bed-springs, Tidy Holders, Sewing Machine Relief Springs, &c. For terms, address Bro. B. F. Ordway, Peoria, U.S.A.; or Bro. Henry Tabbiner, 2 Grafton-st., Hanley, England. 6aug

The Sisters' Aid Society of Independence branch have for sale for the benefit of the new church, two Cabinet Photographs: one of the THREE WITNESSES, with views of the HILL CUMORAH and the ANGEL delivering the PLATES; the other of the OLD LIBERTY JAIL as it now stands, for 25 cts each. Those desiring to purchase can address Mrs. B. C. Smith, box 61, Independence, Missouri. 23jul8m

TO HOPE SUBSCRIBERS.

On and after January 1st, 1887, the Hope will be sent to subscribers as follows:
Single copies, per year . . . . . 50c.
Over 4 copies and under 10, to one address, each . . . . . 40c.
Ten copies and over, to one address, each . . . 35c.
Subscriptions to be paid in advance unless otherwise arranged for by subscribers.

Foreign Money Orders.

Bear in mind the fact that the post office at Lamoni is now a Foreign Money Order Office. Therefore, those in foreign countries sending moneys to this office should draw them on Lamoni, Iowa, U. S. A.

ZION'S HOPE

Is published every Saturday by the Church of Christ, at Lamoni, Iowa. Single copies, per year, 50c; packages of four to ten 40c; packages of over ten 35c.

Welsh Hymn Book.

We have on hand about 100 copies of a book, entitled "Llyfr Hymnau at Wasanaeth Eglwys Iesu Grist. Ad-Roleiddedig Sant y Dydd Diweddaf." There are 393 hymns in Welsh and 33 in English. It is published by the church in Wales, and sent here for sale. Sixty cents each, free of postage; bound in full leather, marbled edges.

HOW TO SEND MONEY.

Remit by Post Office Order, or by Express Order, on Lamoni, Iowa. Or by Bank Drafts on Chicago or New York only; personal checks on banks in any other cities can not be used at par. Money Orders from Foreign countries should be made payable at Lamoni, Decatur county, Iowa.

Lamoni and Vicinity.

Those wishing to become acquainted with Lamoni and vicinity, will do well to subscribe for

THE LAMONI GAZETTE

A weekly paper, now published by

LAMBERT & HANSEN.

dec11ft

J. H. HANSEN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Will practice in Lamoni and vicinity; calls made at all hours. Office in Drug Store of Hansen & Walker, Lamoni

MIDWIFERY and DISEASES of WOMEN a Specialty

Residence one block East Teal's Store. 14feby

Money Orders.

Money Orders are much safer than Postal Notes when remitting to this office, and they cost but two cents more. Don't forget this, lest you lose money.

D. DANCER, Manager.

"A BOOK FOR THE PEOPLE."

CAPTIVATING! USEFUL! Eloquent Discussions, and Diplomatic Papers on the Great Public Questions of the Past and Present, by JAMES G. BLAINE.

Embracing his masterly arguments on the vital issues in the Anti-Slavery Struggle, the All Important Labor Question, Prohibition, Irish Home-Rule, etc., etc. A FORTUNE FOR BOOK CANVASSERS! APPLICATIONS FOR TERRITORY COMING IN WITH A RUSH! THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING CO., NORWICH, Ct.

WHEN YOU TRAVEL

Take the Line selected by the United States Government to carry the Fast Mail,—the

As it is the Line running Through Trains to and from the following cities and towns on its own Lines:

- CHICAGO,
- AURORA, OTTAWA,
- STREATOR, ROCKFORD, DUBUQUE,
- LA GROSSE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS,
- MENDOTA, PEORIA, GALESBURG, ST. LOUIS,
- QUINCY, KEOKUK, BURLINGTON, WASHINGTON,
- OSKALOOSA, DES MOINES, CHARITON,
- CRESTON, ST. JOSEPH, ATCHISON,
- KANSAS CITY, NEBRASKA CITY,
- OMAHA, COUNCIL BLUFFS,
- LINCOLN & DENVER,

Making Direct Connections

- TO AND FROM
- NEW YORK,
  - BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON,
  - CINCINNATI, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON,
  - NEW ORLEANS, LOUISVILLE, SAN FRANCISCO,
  - LOS ANGELES, SALT LAKE CITY, COLORADO AND
  - PACIFIC COAST RESORTS, CITY OF MEXICO,
  - PORTLAND, OREGON, MANITOBA,
  - VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND POINTS.

Good Equipment, Good Service, Good Connection.

For information concerning the Burlington Route, apply to the nearest Ticket Agent of the C. B. & Q. or connecting railroads.

HENRY B. STONE, General Manager, PAUL MORTON, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt., CHICAGO, ILL.

Train Leaves Lamoni, Going East at 1:45 p.m. Do. do. West 2:53 "

At Bethany Junction, 3 miles east of Lamoni Trains pass going South at 3:07 a.m. Going East and West, pass at 12:10 a.m.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEARKEN TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAVE IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.

"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 34.—Whole No. 747.

Lamoni, Iowa, September 10, 1887.

No. 37.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

Business letters and subscriptions must be sent to David Dancer, by P.O. Order, Registered letter or express Entered as second class matter at Lamoni Post Office.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - - - EDITOR.
W. W. BLAIR - - - - - ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, Sept. 10, 1887.

PERSECUTION AND ITS CAUSES.

(Continued from page 571).

THE following will furnish still further items of interest in respect to the Saints, their friends and their enemies in Missouri in those critical times, showing that the former sought by every fair and legal means to obtain redress for the wrongs they had suffered and redemption of their rights and property taken from them by a ruthless mob:

"June 22d; Cornelius Gillium, the sheriff of Clay county, came to the camp to hold consultation with us. I marched my company into a grove near by and formed in a circle, with Gillium in the center. Gillium commenced by saying that he had heard that Joseph was in the camp and if so he would like to see him. I arose and replied, 'I am the man.' This was the first time that I had been discovered or made known to my enemies since I left Kirtland. Gillium then gave us some instruction concerning the manners, customs and dispositions of the people, &c., and what course we ought to [pursue to] secure their favor and protection, making certain enquiries, to which we replied, which were afterwards published and will appear under date of publication July 2d.

"About this time brothers Thayer and Hayes were attacked with the cholera, and Bro. Hancock was taken during the storm. I called the camp together and told them that in consequence of the disobedience of some who had been unwilling to listen to my words, but had rebelled, God had decreed that sickness should come upon them, and that they should die like sheep with the rot, that I was sorry, but could not help it. Previous to this, while on our journey, I had predicted and warned them of the danger of such chastisements; but there is some who could not give heed to my words.

"On the 23d; resumed our march for Liberty, Clay county, taking a circuitous course round the heads of Fishing river to avoid the deep water. When within five or six miles of Liberty, we were met by Gen. Atchison and other gentlemen who desired us not to go to Liberty, as the feelings of the people were so much enraged against us. At their communication we wheeled to the left, and crossing the prairie and woodland came to Sidney Gilbert's residence and encamped on the bank of Rush Creek, in Bro. Burghart's field. During this a council of High Priests assembled in fulfilment of the revelation given the day previous, and the following individuals were called and chosen as they were made manifest unto me by the voice of the Spirit, and revelation, to receive their endowment.

"Edward Partridge was called and chosen, to go to Kirtland and receive his endowment with power from on high, and also to stand in his office of Bishop to purchase lands in the State of Missouri.

"Wm. W. Phelps was called and chosen, and it was appointed unto him for to receive his endowment with power from on high and help to carry on the printing establishment in Kirtland until Zion is redeemed.

"Isaac Morley and John Corrill were called and chosen, and it was appointed unto them to receive their endowment with power from on high in Kirtland and assist in gathering up the strength of the Lord's house and preach the gospel.

"John Whitmer and David Whitmer were called and chosen, and appointed to receive their endowments in Kirtland and continue in their offices.

"Algernon S. Gilbert was called and chosen, and appointed to receive his endowment in Kirtland, and to assist in gathering up the strength of the Lord's house and to proclaim the everlasting gospel until Zion is redeemed. But he said he 'could not do it.'

"Peter Whitmer, Jun., Simeon Carter, Newel Knight, Parley P. Pratt, Christian Whitmer, and Solomon Hancock were called and chosen; and it was appointed unto them to receive their endowment in Kirtland with power from on high; to assist in gathering up the strength of the Lord's house; and to preach the everlasting gospel.

"Thomas B. Marsh was called and chosen; and it was appointed unto him to receive his endowment in Kirtland, his office to be made known hereafter.

Lyman Wight was called and chosen; and it was appointed unto him to receive his endowment in Kirtland with power from on high; and to return to Zion and have his office appointed unto him hereafter.

"The same day the elders made the following reply, as before referred to, to 'S. C. Owens, and others, committee' of the Jackson mob.

"We the undersigned committee, having full power and authority to settle and adjust all matters and difference existing between our people or society and the inhabitants of Jackson county, upon honorable and constitutional principles; therefore, if the said inhabitants of Jackson county will not let us return to our lands in peace, we are willing to propose firstly; that twelve disinterested men, six to be chosen by our people, and six by the inhabitants of Jackson county; and these twelve men shall say what the lands of those men are worth in that county who can not consent to live with us, and they shall receive their money for the same in one year from the time the treaty is made, and none of our people shall enter the county to reside till the money is paid. The said twelve men shall have power also, to say what the damages shall be for the injuries we have sustained in the destruction of property and in being driven from our possessions, which amount of damages shall be deducted from the amount of their lands. Our object is peace, and an early answer will be expected.

"(Signed)
"W. W. PHELPS,
"EDWARD PARTRIDGE,
"ISAAC MORLEY,
"JOHN CORRILL,
"JOHN WHITMER,
"A. S. GILBERT.

"June 24th, this night the cholera burst forth among us, and about midnight it was manifest in its most terrified form. Our ears were saluted with cries and moanings and lamentations on every hand; even those on guard fell to the earth with their guns in their hands, so sudden and powerful was the attack of this terrible disease. At the commencement I attempted to lay on hands for their recovery, but I quickly learned by painful experience, that when the great Jehovah decrees destruction upon any people, makes known his determination, man must not attempt to stay his hand. The moment I attempted to rebuke the disease, that moment I was attacked; and had I not desisted, I must have saved the life of my brother by the sacrifice of my own, for when I rebuked the disease it left him and seized me.

"Early on the morning of the 25th the camp was separated into small bands, and dispersed among the brethren living in the vicinity, and I wrote and sent by express, to 'Messrs. Thornton, Doniphon and Atchison,' as follows:

"RUSH CREEK, Clay county,
"June 25th, 1834.

"Gentlemen:—Our company of men advanced yesterday from their encampment beyond Fishing River to Rush Creek, where their tents are again pitched. But feeling disposed to adopt every pacific measure that can be done, without jeopardizing our lives, to quiet the prejudices and fears of some part of the citizens of this county, we have concluded that our company shall be immediately dispersed, and continue so till every effort for an adjustment of differences between us and the people of Jackson has been made on our part that would in any wise be required of us by disinterested men of republican principles.

"I am respectfully, your obedient servant,

"JOSEPH SMITH, JUN.

"N. B. You are now corresponding with the Governor, (as I am informed). Will you do us the favor to acquaint him of our efforts for a compromise. This information we want conveyed to the Governor, inasmuch as his ears are stifled with reports from Jackson of our hostile intentions, &c.'

"I left Rush Creek the same day, in company with David Whitmer and two other brethren, for the western part of Clay county. While traveling we called at a house for a drink of water. The women of the house shouted from the door that they had "no water for Mormons, that they were afraid of the cholera," &c. We turned and departed, according to the commandment, and before a week had passed the cholera entered that house, and that woman and three others of the family were dead.

"When the cholera made its appearance, Elder John S. Carter was the first man who stepped forward to rebuke it, and upon this was instantly seized and became the first victim in the camp. He died about six o'clock afternoon; and Seth Hitchcock died in about thirty minutes after. As it was impossible to obtain coffins, the brethren rolled them in blankets, carried them on a horse sled about half a mile, buried them in the bank of a small stream which empties into Rush Creek, all of which was accomplished by dark. When they had returned from the burial, the brethren united, covenanted and prayed, hoping the disease would be staid; but in vain, for while thus covenanting, Eber Wilcox died, and while some were digging the grave, others stood sentry with their fire arms watching their enemies.

"June 26th; the elders wrote Governor Dunklin as follows:

"Sir: A company of our people, exceeding two hundred men, arrived in this county the 19th inst. and encamped about twelve miles from Liberty, where they were met by several gentlemen from this and Ray county, who went by request of the people, to ascertain the motives and designs of our people in approaching this county; and as the deputation was composed of gentlemen who appeared to possess humane and republican feelings, our people were rejoiced at the opportunity of an interchange of feelings and an open and frank avowal of all their views and intentions in emigrating to this country with their arms. A full explanation having been given in a public address by our brother, Joseph Smith, Jr., which produced great satisfaction, the same in substance was afterwards reduced in writing and handed to the aforesaid gentlemen that it might be made public, as the shedding of blood is, and ever has been, foreign and revolting to our feelings. For this reason we have patiently endured the greatest indignities that freemen of this republic have ever been called to suffer, and we still continue to bear with heart-rending feelings a deprivation of our rights, having commenced negotiations with the inhabitants of Jackson for a compromise wherein proposals on our part have been made, which have been acknowledged by every disinterested man to be highly honorable and liberal. An answer to our propositions has not yet been received from Jackson.

"If we fail in this attempt, we intend to make another effort and go all lengths that would be required by human or divine law. As our proposals and correspondence with the inhabitants of Jackson will doubtless hereafter be published, we think it unnecessary to detail the same in this communication. Our right to our soil in Jackson county we shall forever claim, and to obtain peaceful possession we are willing to make great sacrifices. To allay excitement in the county, the aforesaid company of emigrants have dispersed to await the final end of all negotiations that can be made with the said county of Jackson.

"Within the last week one of our men, being near the ferry, was seized by some Jackson citizens while in this county, threatened with death if he made resistance, and carried over the river prisoner to Independence, where he was put under guard one day, and after hearing many threats was liberated. The houses of several of our brethren in this county have been forcibly entered by some of the inhabitants of Jackson, and a number of guns and small arms taken therefrom. Where the men were absent from their houses, loaded guns were presented to the females and their lives threatened if they made resistance, so we have been informed, and we have no doubt of the fact.

"Your second order for the restoration of our arms was received last mail. We have not yet done anything with it. Hoping that the influence of the inhabitants of Jackson county will materially lessen in the surrounding counties, and the people become more tranquil, we think it wisdom to defer petitioning for a guard while there exists a hope of a compromise, &c.

"We believe that the President would render us assistance in obtaining possession of our lands, if aided by the executive of this state in a petition, and thereby put an end to serious evils that are growing out of the Jackson outrage. In a letter from your excellency, of April 20th, we had a word on the subject of petitioning. We should be pleased to hear further, and would here observe that no communication from the Executive, giving his opinion or advice, will be made public, if requested not to do so.

"We are respectfully, and with great regard your obedient servants,

"(Signed),

"A. S. GILBERT,
"W. W. PHELPS,
"JOHN CORRILL."

"The drafting and signing of the above was the last public act of the keeper of the Lord's storehouse, Algernon S. Gilbert; for he was attacked with the cholera the same day and died in a few hours, according to his own words that he 'would rather die than go forth to preach the gospel to the Gentiles.'

"The following is from the chairman of the committee of the Jackson mob to our lawyer:

"INDEPENDENCE, Mo., June 26th, 1834.

"MR. AMOS REESE, Dear Sir.—Since my return from Liberty, I have been busily engaged in conversing with the most influential men of our county, endeavoring to find out, if possible, what kind of a compromise will suit with the Mormons on their part. The people here, enmasse, I find out, will do nothing like according to their last proposition. We will have a meeting if possible, on Monday next, at which time the proposals of the Mormons will be answered. In the meantime, I would be glad that they, the Mormons, would cast an eye back of Clinton and see if that is not a country calculated for them.

"Yours respectfully,

"S. C. OWENS."

"The cholera continued its ravages about four days, when an effectual remedy for their purging, vomiting, and cramping was discovered; viz, dipping the person afflicted in cold water, or pouring it upon them. About sixty-eight of the Saints suffered from this disease, of which number thirteen died, viz. John S. Carter, Eber Wilcox, Seth Hitchcock, Erastus Rudd, Algernon Sidney Gilbert, Alfred Frisk, Edward Ives, Noah Johnson, Jesse B. Lawson, Robert McCord, Elial Strong, Jesse Smith and Betsy Parish.

"The last days of June I spent with my old Jackson county friends in the western part of Clay county.

"On the first of July I crossed the Missouri river, in company with a few friends, into Jackson county, to set my feet once more on the "goodly land," and on the 2d I went down near Liberty and visited the brethren. This day the 'Enquirer' [published] the correspondence between the Sheriff and the camp, of the 22d of June as follows:

"GILLIUM'S COMMUNICATION.

"Being a citizen of Clay county, and knowing that there is considerable excitement amongst the people thereof, and also knowing that different reports are arriving almost hourly, and being requested of the Hon. J. F. Ryland to meet the Mormons under arms and obtain from the leaders thereof the correctness of the various reports in circulation, the true intent and meaning of their present movements, and their views generally regarding the difficulties existing between them and Jackson county, I did in company with other gentlemen call upon the said leaders of the Mormons, at their camp in Clay county, and now give to the people of Clay county their written statement containing the substance of what passed between us. (Signed),

"CORNELIUS GILLIUM."

"PROPOSITIONS, &c., OF THE MORMONS.

"Being called upon by the above named gentleman, at our camp in Clay county, to ascertain from the leaders of our men our intentions, views, and designs, in approaching this county in the manner we have; we, therefore, the more cheerfully comply with their request, because we are called upon by gentlemen of good feelings, and who are disposed for peace and an amicable adjustment of the difficulties existing between us and the people of Jackson county. The reports of our intentions are various and have gone abroad in a light calculated to arouse the feelings of almost every man. For instance: one report is that we intend to demolish the printing office in Liberty; another report is that we intend crossing the Missouri river on Sunday next, falling upon women and children and slaying them; another is that our men were employed to perform this expedition, being taken from manufacturing establishments in the east that had closed business; also that we carried a flag bearing "peace" on one side, and "war or blood" on the other; and various others too numerous to mention, all of which a plain declaration of our intentions from under our own hands will show are not correct.

"In the first place, it is not our intention to commit hostilities against any man or set of men; it is not our intention to injure any man's person or property, except in defending ourselves. Our flag has been exhibited to the above gentleman who will be able to describe it. Our men were not taken from any manufacturing establishment. It is our intention to go back upon our lands in Jackson county, by order of the Executive of the State, if possible. We have brought our arms with us for the purpose of self defense, as it is well known to almost every man of the State that we have every reason to put ourselves in an attitude of defense, considering the abuse we have suffered in Jackson county. We are anxious for a settlement of the difficulties existing between us, upon honorable and constitutional principles.

"We are willing for twelve disinterested men, six to be chosen by each party, and these men shall say what the possessions of those men are worth who can not live with us in the county; and they shall have their money in one year; and none of the Mormons shall enter the county to reside until the money is paid. The damages that we have sustained in consequence of being driven away shall also be left to the above twelve men. Or they may all live in the county, if they choose, and we will never molest them if they let us alone, and permit us to enjoy our rights. We want to live in peace with all men, and equal rights is all we ask. We wish to become permanent citizens of this State, and wish to bear our proportion in support of the Government and to be protected by its laws. If the above propositions are complied with, we are willing to give security on our part; and we shall want the same of the people of Jackson county for the performance of this agreement. We do not wish to settle down in a body, except where we can purchase the land with money; for to take possession by conquest, or the shedding of blood, is entirely foreign to our feelings. The shedding of blood we shall not be guilty of, until all just and honorable means among men prove insufficient to restore peace.

"(Signed)
 "JOSEPH SMITH, JR.,
 "F. G. WILLIAMS,
 "LYMAN WIGHT,
 "RODGER ORTON,
 "ORSON HYDE,
 "JOHN S. CARTER.

"To John Lincoln, John Sconce, George R. Morehead, Jas. H. Long, James Collins."

"On the third of July, [1834], the High Priests of Zion assembled in Clay county, and I proceeded to organize a High Council, agreeably to revelation given at Kirtland, for the purpose of settling important business that might come before them, which could not be settled by the Bishop and his council. David Whitmer was elected president, and W. W. Phelps and John Whitmer, assistant presidents. The following High Priests, viz, Christian Whitmer, Newel Knight, Lyman Wight, Calvin Beebe, Wm. E. McLellin, Solomon Hancock, Thomas B. Marsh, Simeon Carter, Parley P. Pratt, Orson Pratt, John Murdock, Levi Jackman, were appointed councilors and the council adjourned to Monday.

"Frederick G. Williams was clerk of the meeting.

"From this time I continued to give instruction to the members of the High Council, elders, those who had travelled in the camp with me, and such others as desired information, until the 7th, when the council assembled according to adjournment at the house of Elder Lyman Wight; present fifteen high priests, eight elders, four priests, eight teachers, three deacons, and members.

"After singing and prayer I gave the council such instructions in relation to their high calling as would enable them to proceed to minister in their office agreeably to the pattern heretofore given; read the revelation on the subject, and told them that if I should now be taken away, I had accomplished the great work the Lord had laid before me, and that which I had desired of the Lord; and that I had done my duty in organizing the High Council, through which council the will of the Lord might be known on all important occasions in the building up of Zion and establishing truth in the earth.

"It was voted that those who were appointed on the third should be confirmed in their appointments. I then ordained David Whitmer president, and W. W. Phelps and John Whitmer assistants, and their twelve councilors. The twelve councilors then proceeded to cast lots, to know who should speak first, and the order of speaking, which resulted as follows, viz:

1 Simeon Carter,	7 Christian Whitmer,
2 Parley P. Pratt,	8 Newel Knight,
3 Wm. E. McLellin,	9 Orson Pratt,
4 Calvin Beebe,	10 Lyman Wight,
5 Levi Jackman,	11 Thomas B. Marsh,
6 Solomon Hancock,	12 John Murdock.

"Father Whitmer came forward and blessed his three sons, David, John and Christian Whitmer, in the name of the Lord. Also father Knight blessed his son, Newel. Bishop Partridge stated to the council that a greater responsibility rested upon him than before their organization, as it was not his privilege to counsel with any of them except the president, and his own councilors, and desired their prayers that he might be enabled to act in righteousness.

"I next presented the case of W. W. Phelps to the council, to have their decision whether he should take his family to Kirtland, and if so, when he shall start, as it had been deemed necessary for him to assist in the printing establishment. It was motioned and carried that four of the councilors speak on the subject, two on each side, viz, Simeon Carter and Wm. E. McLellin for the plaintiff; and Parley P. Pratt and Calvin Beebe for the church; after hearing the pleas, the president decided that it was the duty of W. W. Phelps to go to Kirtland to assist in printing, and that his family remain in the region where they were, and that he have an honorable discharge from his station in Zion for a season, (as soon as he can accomplish his business). Signed by the president and clerk.

"It was then proposed by W. W. Phelps, that David Whitmer, the president of the church in Zion, should go to Kirtland and assist in promoting the cause of Christ, as being one of the three witnesses. This case was argued by Levi Jackman and Christian Whitmer on behalf of the plaintiff, and Solomon Hancock and Newel Knight for the church; after which it was decided, as before, that Bro. David Whitmer go to the East and assist in the great work of the gathering, and be his own judge as to leaving his family or taking them with him. It was also decided that John Whitmer and Wm. E. McLellin go east as soon as convenient.

"The high Priests, elders, priests, teachers, deacons and members present, then covenanted with hands uplifted to heaven, that you [they] would uphold Bro. David Whitmer as president in Zion, in my absence, and John Whitmer and W. W. Phelps as assistant presidents or councilors, and myself as first president of the church, and one another by faith and prayer.

"Previous to entering into this covenant, and in pursuance of the revelation to the Saints to sue for and proclaim peace to the ends of the earth, the following appeal was written, and sanctioned by the High Council and first presidency of the church, at the foregoing sitting.

"President Whitmer closed the council by prayer." F. G. Williams, clerk.

Times and Seasons, vol. 6, pages 1105-10.

SUSTAIN THE CHURCH PRESS.

Now that the busy times of haying and harvest are past and farmers are beginning to be more active in marketing stock and produce, and now that the various industries of the land are affording more steady and remunerative employment, making money easier to obtain, the HERALD Office requests that its interests shall be looked after by its patrons, and that at an early time.

Those in arrears for Herald, Hope, or Sandhedens Banner are solicited, and expected, to pay up without delay and renew for another year. Those indebted to the office for books are requested to remit as soon as at all practicable.

Missionaries, district and branch presidents, book agents, and the business men and women of the church, are respectfully requested to extend the sales and circulation of the books and papers of the church so far as they can find or make opportunities. All others who can, are also solicited to render aid in this direction. Zealous, well directed and persistent efforts in this matter will help largely in spreading abroad the knowledge of God's "marvellous work and a wonder." Let each one strive and give what encouragement he can in this.

We continue to gain steadily, year by year, and this is evidence that greater progress can be and will be made. Every family of Saints should take the church papers, and be well supplied with the church books; and every single member, who can, should also have them. All these publications should be put in the hands of all others as fast as possible, that they may learn the saving truths committed to the Saints, lay aside their prejudices, become friends to the Church of Christ, and finally be numbered with God's latter day Israel.

The church is growing rapidly in members, in influence for good, also in knowledge and spiritual experiences. The fragments and organizations claiming to be the church, which have hitherto opposed and in some measure hindered its progress, are, in the overruling providence of God, losing their influence, membership, or very existence, many of their members uniting with the Reorganized Church. In this connection we note with gladness the fact, that the Brighamite Church, which began in 1860 to abandon some of its most extreme and harmful doctrines and practices, has continued steadily—though slowly—in putting away those evils and working up nearer to the original and genuine faith of the Latter Day Saints as set forth in the standard books of the church and its authentic history up to 1844, and also that prospects are encouraging for a further and more perfect return to "the old paths" at no very distant day. Our church publications, directly and indirectly, have done and are doing very much to effect this. In view of all this we ask you to sustain the church press, and to do it thoroughly and promptly. The church press is church property; its influence is that of the church; its conquests are those of the church; its interests are church interests, therefore every member and friend of the church should feel responsible for its success, and strive zealously and wisely for its best and greatest accomplishment.

Again we say to the church and its friends, strive earnestly and prudently to extend the circulation of our church publications, "pay the printer," be happy, and make others so.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

IN this issue will be found a timely and very able article, "The church and her leaders," by Elder Joseph Dewsnup, who at one time was an active, efficient elder in the Brighamite Church, in England. On reading it one feels surprised that any intelligent, honest Latter Day Saint could ever believe in and accept of the leadership of any who can not prove it by "the law and the testimony" contained in the sacred books of the church. "The law of the Lord is perfect;" "the testimony of the Lord is sure." And Jesus said, "Every plant which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up." This will eventually be the fate of all false leaders and their works.

A copy of the Northwestern News for August 4th is before us, in which we see a letter of acceptance, by Bro. W. C. Cadwell, of his nomination to the lieutenant governorship of Iowa by the Prohibition party. We heartily wish him success, for we are confident he possesses the ability and virtues necessary to fill that important office in an eminent and worthy manner. The temperance movement has come to stay in Iowa, and if trading, truckling politicians are kept out or muzzled, the Prohibition party will attract to it the men and women of law and order throughout the entire State, in time.

Bro. V. D. Baggerly wrote August 23d from West Fork, Crawford county, Indiana. On invitation he had preached some in the northwest part of the county to fair sized congregations, with good liberty. A Mr. Conner lectured there with a view to offset Bro. Baggerly's efforts, telling the people that the reason infidelity was gaining, arose from the fact of some preaching that the signs should follow gospel believers. To this Bro. Baggerly replied with gospel sermons based on Scripture, which is resulting well for the truth. He has more calls to preach than he can fill, and thinks the prospects there were never so good. Elder James G. Scott had done some excellent work in that region, and the Disciples were battling it, as were also some others.

Bro. B. V. Springer says, "My home address is Ray, Steuben county, Indiana."

Bro. Geo. E. McConley wrote August 27th from Sterling, Colorado, renewing for the HERALD, and says: "God bless the HERALD. I like it splendid. It helps me in my labors. Consider me a lifelong subscriber."

Pres. Joseph Smith started August the 25th, via St. Joseph, Mo., to attend the Reunion at Plum Hollow, Iowa, and we look for his return by the 6th of September.

Bro. H. C. Bronson reports three baptized and one old member regained during his late trip to Georgeville, Mo. He was to attend the two-days meeting at Clarksdale, August 31st.

Bro. J. A. Currie of Bandera, Texas, wrote August 22d that the work was gaining in that region, and the outlook improving.

Bro. Thomas M. Parr, 1417, 20th Avenue, North Minneapolis, Minnesota, requests some of the active ministry to call on him. He thinks some there will be baptized.

We are out of best bound Holy Scriptures, $2.50. Do not order unless you can wait until another edition is printed. We shall soon have the "Cowdery Letters" on sale, in paper binding. Those wishing them bound in cloth or leather will please order them.

We now have for sale tract No 42 "Rejection of the Church," by Pres. Joseph Smith. Price 15 cents a dozen, and $1.00 a hundred.

The American Farmer for August says, "The dairy product of the United States in 1886, $260,000,000; wheat $450,000,000; cotton $400,000,000; poultry $600,000,000—nearly three times as much as the dairy product, and one-third more than cotton. And yet some people despise the poultry business because it is small. Others fear it will be over done. * * * There is no danger of over production."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Ques.—Should the Saints use the pure, unfermented juice of the grape in their sacrament meetings, or is water just as good?

Ans.—The Doctrine and Covenants says of the sacrament: "And behold, this should be wine; yea, pure wine of the grape of the vine, of your own make."—Sec. 86: 1. But if "pure wine of the grape of the vine" is not attainable, then water will do, for it is also said: "Listen to the voice of Jesus Christ, your Lord, your God, and your Redeemer, whose word is quick and powerful. For behold, I say unto you, that it mattereth not what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink, when ye partake of the sacrament, if it so be that ye do it with an eye single to my glory; remembering unto the Father my body which was laid down for you, and my blood which was shed for the remission of your sins; wherefore a commandment I give unto you, that you shall not purchase wine, neither strong drink of your enemies; wherefore you shall partake of none, except it is made new among you; yea, in this my Father's kingdom which shall be built up on the earth."—26: 1.

Q.—Is it lawful for a woman in the church to marry a second time while her husband is living, though she had good reasons but did not apply by law for divorce?

A.—No. For the law of the Lord bids all Saints to obey the laws of the land: "Let no man break the laws of the land, for he that keepeth the laws of God hath no need to break the laws of the land."—Doc. Cov. 58: 5. Persons who will put away their companions, if in the church, should comply with both the laws of the land and the laws of the church. If they have failed to do so, they should take proper steps to rectify the error, wisely, and as soon as practicable. (See Doc. Cov. 42: 20).

Mothers' Home Column.

EDITED BY SISTER "FRANCES."

"All the doors that lead inward to the secret place of the Most High are doors outward—out of self—out of smallness—out of wrong."

WE can not too highly commend the following selection to the careful consideration of the mothers who read the "Column," and especially to the young mothers who as yet have no mistakes to look back upon and regret. If mistakes have been made, don't feel that it is too late to rectify them. Treat every such thought as a temptation of the devil, (which it is) and go upon bended knees to the Giver of all good and perfect gift and ask him for grace to retrace your steps, and wisdom to guide you in the future. Let me beseech mother's whose children are yet of tender years, to realize that in all their life they will be children but once. The little tender hearts will in time have grown to maturity, and the impressions made upon them will remain when perhaps you will be quietly resting beneath the sod of the valley. "Mother taught me this"—"My mother believed it true"—"Mother never allowed me to do such things"—and thus on and on down the stream of time the web of influence is spun, and link after link is welded in the chain. Oh, mothers of the household of faith! Mothers of the future hope of God's church and cause, are you awake to the blessedness of your position! It is in your power by patient continuance in well doing, always accompanied by faith and prayer, to train your children to become heirs of God and citizens of his kingdom.

THE MOTHER'S PLACE.

Teach the children to respect you. Perhaps you smile at this. Love seems so far above and beyond respect! The children love you with all their hearts. Granted. But for all this, neglect not to cultivate respect in them. A devoted mother is willing to forego comfort for the sake of her loved ones. Sleepless nights and aching limbs must sometimes be; but there is another kind of self-denial for mothers. When Marion has devoured her own portion of the choice fruit or confection, and her baby fingers stretch towards mamma's plate, deny yourself the pleasure of giving her the whole, or a portion of what belongs to you.

When Isabel longs for a new hat which she does not really need, and the family purse reminds you that you can not purchase that without wearing your old cloak another Winter, buy the new cloak, and let the hat wait. It may be there is an instructive course of lectures in progress. For some reason all the family can not attend. Take your turn with the others. You will be surprised to see how willingly the girls or husband will remain at home when they find "mother" cares about going. Do not say, "Anything will do for me." Have a proper care for your person and apparel.

Encourage the children to work. Something more than encouragement may sometimes be necessary. In most cases, however, a judicious mother can so interest the boys and girls that work will not be a heavy burden. Marion wants to wash dishes, but is too small. Let her dust, while Isabel does the dishes, and by and by instruct them both in the mysteries of bed-making and bread-making. Be sure that the boys chop the wood and bring the water. No doubt it would be easier to do all this work yourself, there's so much "bother" about teaching children, but for their sakes, if not for your own, give the extra time and labor.

All this may require self-denial on the part of the loving mother, who would gladly give herself and her possessions for the dear ones; still in kindness to them, as well as to herself, these simple rules should be followed. When each child has his or her allotted portion of work and mother is treated with the respect that is her due, there may be fewer sickly attempts at art, and fewer wishy-washy stories and poems written. There certainly would be fewer poor, tired women longing for rest, but mother, instead of being the slave and drudge, to be thrust into the background when parlor company comes, will become what God designed her to be, the queen of the home.—Selected.

HOME COLUMN MISSIONARY FUND.

Sr. Jessie W. Kennedy, Cadillac, Mich.....	1 00
Sr. J. M. Leland, Pecatonica, Ills.....	1 00
Sr. Elizabeth Thomas, Unionburg, Iowa...	1 00
Bro. D. J. Hannah, Sand Run, Ohio.....	1 00
Sr. Ellen Meacher, Keokuk, Iowa.....	50
Sr. Margaret Durfee, Keokuk, Ia.....	50
Sr. Maggie Durfee, Keokuk, Ia.....	25
Sr. Hannah Wallace, Keokuk, Ia.....	50
John Wallace, Keokuk, Ia.....	50
Sr. Alice Jacobs, Keokuk, Ia.....	50
Sr. Mary Bowen, Fremont, Neb.....	10
Sr. Naomi —, Ohio.....	1 00
Sr. Jane S. Eldridge, Brockton, Mass.....	1 00
Sr. Lavinia M. Lillie, Elliott, Mo.....	25

LAMONI, IOWA, September 1st.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Sister Mattie A. Adair, Temple, Texas, writes: "I have just finished reading the Herald, and wish it was a daily instead of a weekly. The Herald is well worth the money I pay for it, for after four read each number in this place, I send it to my mother and sister, who also read it. I want to ask the Saints to pray for my mother and my husband, that they may be brought to a knowledge of the truth. Please remember me in your prayers that I may overcome and inherit eternal life. I love this work and know it is the work of God; and if there be wrong in it, it is in the individual, not in the doctrine. I would like to hear from Brn. J. H. Hansen and R. J. Anthony; they are the first elders I ever heard preach."

Sister Laura Fuller, Escanaba, Mich., writes: "I have been praying for the last seven years that the Lord might put it into the heart of some of his servants to come to this place. My husband does not want to leave here, and I do so long to hear the gospel preached once more. There is a new place opening on the lake coast not far from here, which gives promise of many advantages to those coming first. I will be glad to send papers containing information to any Saints who may wish to know in regard to the same, also to give them any information in my power."

MONDAMIN, Aug, 22d.

Dear Sister Frances:—In thinking of the work of the Lord this afternoon, there arose a desire in my heart to express some thoughts in regard to it. I find untold comfort in contemplating the wonderful wisdom God has manifested in the plan of salvation, also in thinking of the depth of his love for all his creatures. There is sweet music in the little poem of "Jesus loves me," and though I sometimes almost come to the conclusion He did not love me because of my deep sorrow and bereavement; but this thought has passed away, and I think the greater trial, the greater will be its sanctifying influences if we bear it through the grace of God. I remember the Scriptures say The Lord will have a "tried people," also, "we shall be purified as by fire." I don't think I ever realized the force of this Scripture until of late. Oh! how hard to pass through the trying ordeals of this life. How could it be endured without the help of God? How sweet the thought that whatever comes, God will give us grace to bear it if we will only rely upon his faithful promises. I feel more determined to seek to know how to walk with God. I desire to receive more of the help of his grace. I am thankful it is our blessed privilege to improve in our Christian duties and example. How cautiously we should watch our every day life, and especially our conversation. The organs of speech should be a sweet sound to all ears. Are we trying, as mothers in Zion, to bring this blessing into every family? Are we seeking to keep the minds of the innocent little lambs of the fold pure by using pure language, or do we suffer the slangy stuff of the age to pass our lips, and indulge the little ones in using that which is more poisonous to the tender mind than tobacco is to the system. Here I remember another saying of the Scriptures, "that it is not what goes into the mouth that defiles, but what comes out." See the simplicity of the Lord in try to teach the people. I hope we may all be enabled to read and understand, to be hearers of the word and doers also. I desire the welfare of the cause of Christ, and desire to be remembered as one struggling in for the victory.

Your sister in Christ,
Mrs. GEO. S. HYDE.

"By inward sense, by outward signs,
God's presence still the heart divines;
Through deepest joy of him we learn,
In sorest grief to him we turn;
And reason stoops its pride to share
The child-like instinct of a prayer,"

LAMONI, Iowa, Aug. 28th.

Dear Sister Frances:—My heart goes out in praise and thanksgiving unto my heavenly Father for the many mercies which he has shown unto me. I am thankful that I have been permitted to make my home, for a few short weeks, with the Saints at Lamoni. And now, as I go from here, I hope that I may not be forgotten by them, but be remembered in their prayers. My stay here has helped to strengthen my faith and love for the work in which we are engaged; and I hope when I go to my new home I may find something to do for the Master to help roll on his gospel truth. I shall look back to this summer as one of the happiest of my life.

There are times when I feel discouraged and downhearted, but beyond the dark clouds I can always see a bright ray of hope to cheer me on. I do not want to fall by the way and be overcome with darkness; but I want to remain faithful unto the end, and at last receive a crown of eternal life. Pray for me.

Your sister in the gospel, M.

TEMPERANCE.

"Who hath woe? Who hath sorrow? Who hath contentions? Who hath babbling? Who hath wounds without cause? Who hath redness of eyes? They that tarry long at the wine; they that go to seek mixed wine. Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his color in the cup, when it moveth itself aright. At the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder."—Proverbs 23: 29-32.

Dear brothers and sisters, after reading the above words in that blessed book, the Bible, we all ought as members of the Church of Christ, oppose the selling and making of intoxicating drinks, and do all we can to exterminate this monster from the land. There is no one in the church but is either directly or indirectly interested in the extermination of the liquor traffic. If we are parents we wish our sons to grow up sober young men, fitted to go forth in the world and battle for success; but if their brains are clouded with liquor they can not succeed. Again, looking at it from a business point of view, it pays for young men to be total abstainers, for no merchant, no manufacturer, no farmer, nor railroad company wish for employees that drink; for it makes their muscles tremulous and their bodies entirely unfit to stand an honest day's work. The railroad companies, as a rule, consider human life too precious to be put in charge of a drunken engineer or switchman who has it in his power to send many souls to death without a moment's notice.

"Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise." Never were words truer than the above, for if those saloon keepers at Sioux City had not been deceived by this "mocker," Rev. George Haddock would have been alive to-day, and these men would not have been doomed to felon's cells. Rev. George Haddock will always live in the memory of all lovers of temperance, as a martyr to the cause of temperance.

"For the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty; and drowsiness shall clothe a man with rags." We all see this fulfilled every day we live on this earth; and this is another reason that we should raise our children to habits of strict sobriety. Every father and mother in the Church of Christ should teach this doctrine in their family, and impress the truth upon their minds, that the use of liquor is a hindrance to them in whatever business they engage, and those that have the cause of Christ at heart ought to interest themselves in every effort to regulate and crush the saloons, for many promising young men have gone down to drunkard's graves who have been allured from paths of sobriety and virtue by the temptations that the saloons throw out.

Then think of the sorrow and shame that parents have to endure, whose children have gone astray and become the prey of that demon, Rum,

Even those that sell the accursed poison do not wish their own sons to become addicted to its use. It might well be said that whisky is at the root of all evil. Most of all the crimes and misery upon the earth can be traced directly or indirectly to the use of intoxicating liquor.

"No drunkard can inherit the kingdom of heaven." Those of you that are indulging in the sparkling cup, remember these words in the Holy Book, that you are bartering all hopes of eternity for this accursed stuff that makes devils of men.

Every Latter Day Saint should be the sworn enemy of the rum traffic; for this enemy is doing more than all else to retard the march of the gospel. The saloon is the enemy of the fourth commandment, for through its influence men, women, and boys break the Sabbath and profane it by drinking, swearing and gambling. The rum traffic destroys society, and drags manhood down to a lower level than the brute creation. So long as it flourishes, so long will the church be assailed by its power. Every Latter Day Saint should take up arms against this rum power, this curse to every nation civilized or uncivilized.

Every dollar that is paid out in a saloon is just one dollar taken away from men engage in reputable and honest business; and for that reason every business man ought to oppose the saloon. Some men have such an appetite for strong drink that they would spend the last cent they had for it, and leave their families hungry, cold and naked. If the millions that are spent for rum every year in the United States were spent for the necessaries of life, how much more happiness there would be! The drunkard spends his money for the vile stuff, and the money is worse than lost, for he can not enter into heaven; this demon robs him of that, steals his brains, steals his health, and he loses the esteem and confidence of his fellow men. It drags him and all that are dependent on him down to poverty, misery, ignorance and disgrace; and all hopes of a peaceful old age, surrounded by the comforts of life, can never be his. Again, every one that has a spark of humanity within him ought to oppose the rum traffic, from the fact that children from the cradle, not through any fault of theirs, are handicapped in the race of life, "for the sins of the fathers are visited upon the heads of the children;" and this is often seen in the children of the drunkards—for they are brought into the world with weak constitutions, and branded from birth with some life-long disease. Surrounded with poverty and dirt, and half starved and clothed, with no schooling or kind parents to teach them the way they should go, they are put in the world, many times are unfitted for the higher and nobler walks of life; for the parents' sins are upon them, for they often inherit this taint in their blood, that impels them to rise and sin. They are more easily led into temptation, more prone to fall than those reared under Christian influence.

We, as mothers of the land, ought to unite against the rum curse. Women know too well the misfortune and suffering that has been caused by rum, and instinctively she arrays herself—in hostility towards it. If the women of the land could decide this for themselves, prohibition would be the law in every State and Territory in the Union. Every member of the Church of Christ should seem to look upon prohibition with indifference. Rouse yourselves to activity, and join heart and hand in the great effort to destroy the rum power.

MRS. DANIEL JONES.

"EXCEPT ye become as little children ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven."

Dear Saints, did you ever think how much the Savior meant when he said the above? Most of the points in the comparison have been elaborately discussed, but I wish to call your attention to one that I have never seen brought out. Really the most prominent characteristic of the child is its ardent desire to find out, investigate, understand and learn all things, this quality leading him to seek information wherever he can find it. And did not the Savior mean that we should be childlike in this as well as in other things? He has said, Search the Scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life," yet there are Saints who think that if they go to church on Sunday and remember as well as they can what the minister says, they are doing all that is required of them in the way of learning. Now I would call your attention not only to the need of thorough and constant study of the scriptures as found in the three books, but also to the fact that even we grown people can not afford to do without the expositions of truth given each week in the Hope. There are many things that the elders in their teachings never touch, and which Sr. Frances doubtless feels would humiliate the older ones if taught in the Home Column, that appear in the Hope with the most beautiful expositions; and I say we older people would do well to faithfully read the Hope. We should not think, if we have no children, and especially if we have not been reared in the church, that because we are grown we do not need this paper; but we should subscribe for it, read it ourselves, and get the volumes bound as a fund of truly instructive and interesting reading for those young people who happen to be with us at times. If we do not, young people will grow up all around us with higher and purer thoughts and purposes than our own, and we shall then be children indeed, needing even to be taught of them. (See Heb. 5-12). V.

Correspondence.

In Camp, Leeka's Grove,

PLUM HOLLOW, Ia., Aug. 31st.

Bro. W. W. Blair:—The Camp is finely situated. There was rain on Thursday, and the tent did not come till Friday. The first service was Friday night. Brn. R. M. Elvin, C. Derry and Joseph Luff are here. There are not many tents on the ground. It was threatening rain Saturday—did sprinkle some. Sunday was fair, and there was a large attendance morning, afternoon and night. Monday, it rained at intervals, and at night just poured down, sifting through the tents like mist. But no one was seriously incommoded. Two of Bro. Wm. Leeka's children are sick, but apparently not dangerous—chills and fever I suppose.

Brn. Elvin, Derry, Luff, Hougas and myself have done the preaching. Major A. R. Anderson, Representative of the Eighth District to Congress, was present from Sidney, Sunday, morning and afternoon, and expressed himself well pleased. The meetings were very orderly on Sunday. No disturbance of any sort has occurred. Last night we had a wedding. Bro. Emsley Needham and Sr. Julia Hills were married by me at the opening of the evening service, the bridal party being arranged on the platform. The Plum Hollow band put in an appearance and gave the camp and bridal party a serenade. A very favorable impression is being made.

Bro. Wm. Leeka sent for a tent which is 40x50, and is proof against rain. We are well appointed. It looks rainy, but is warm this a. m. We meet at 9 a. m. for prayer and social meeting, at 11 for preaching, and at 2:30 and 7:30 for preaching. An excellent spirit is prevailing among the Saints. No one sick on ground that I have heard of. Bro. Elvin's wife is with him.

Yours,
JOSEPH SMITH.

ANTWERP, Ohio, August 22d.

Editors Herald:—Since our district conference in June I have been doing what I could in the way of missionary work during the heated term. Did some labor at Clear Lake, Indiana, till July 28th, at which date I went to St. Joseph county, Michigan, an entirely new place, one never visited by the elders before. I held forth in five discourses, to good audiences of attentive listeners. The people were kind and courteous. I was kindly entertained at the home of Mr. and Sr. Crookes, she being the only member in the county. We left on August 4th, strong in the hope and belief that good would eventually result from the effort there. Spent one day at Island Park, Indiana, and although one day too late to hear that "Prince of Humbugs," Sam Jones, we saw and heard a pocket edition of Babylon. I was told that Sam received three hundred dollars for a sixty minute speech on "Character and Characters," which consisted of jokes and anecdotes, in his bombastic style. I was mean enough to indulge in the thought that "fools and their money parted."

I returned to Coldwater on the 5th, but did not do much preaching on account of the weather, as the long looked for rain came at last, and although too late to save the corn and potato crop, it was a great blessing to the country. Returned home on the 16th, came here on the 19th, and on the 20th troubled the placid waters of the Maumee by baptizing three persons, an old man of seventy and a man and wife. There are more to come. Come again, Bro. Lincoln. The world, the devil and the "sky pilots" will learn ere long that God is at the helm, and when he works who can hinder! I enjoyed splendid liberty of the Spirit yesterday while presenting the grand principles of truth. Expect to return to the lake on the 25th to attend our two-days meeting on the 27th and 28th. As there was no provision made at our conference for a two-days meeting at this point, at the earnest request of the Saints and friends I have taken the responsibility to appoint one on the 17th and 18th of September, commencing at 10:30 on Saturday, the 17th. The meeting will be held in Bro. Erter's grove, six miles south-east of Hicksville, and six miles north-east of Antwerp. Those coming from a distance will write Bro. John Erter, Antwerp, Paulding county, Ohio, who will give information as to the routes, stations, &c. We shall expect quite a delegation from Clear Lake. Everybody is invited.

As soon as practicable I expect to visit some new points in Michigan, also Mercer and Sandusky counties, Ohio, and other points in Indiana. Shall push along and keep moving while I have powers of body and mind. I must not forget to say that in my late trip to Michigan I had father Stroh for a traveling companion and helper, and to those who know him I need not say he is No. 1. God bless him, and all Saints, is the prayer of yours in bonds,

B. V. SPRINGER.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug 15th.

Bro. Joseph:—We ought to have an able minister in this city, one who is willing to sacrifice and endure much, and yet in an amiably, loving manner, zealously stand by the truth, lifting the banner high, and so nobly that all who are hungering for the word of life may be sought out, also able with the pen, apt to teach, not given to curiosity seeing, and can honorably stand the storms of life, one that you are not afraid to risk the good name of the church in his care, can also sympathize with all conditions of life and grandly march at the head of thoughtful men. I want such a man with me now. Who is he?

Your reply on examining as a whole the "Address" of Br. Whitmer is good and sound, and I am fully satisfied that "that Seer will the Lord bless; and they who seek to destroy him shall be confounded," and that all who take comfort in trying to bring reproach on his name will be brought to shame. The cunning exhibited in expounding the 19th sec. of Doc. and Cov. by such men is truly ridiculous. They ought to read Matt. 10: 14, "And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear your words, * * * it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorah in the day of judgment;" and verse 40,—"He that receiveth you receiveth me;" and 1 John 4: 6—"We are of God; he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us. Hereby know we that Spirit of truth and the spirit of error." Some said to Moses, "Ye take too much upon you. * * Wherefore then lift ye up yourselves above the congregation of the Lord."—Num. 16: 3. This is an old cry and oft repeated,—“Shalt thou indeed reign over us, or shalt those indeed have dominion over us.” Num. 16: 8. Right authority, ordained of God, is despised by the world prompted by the spirit that dwelleth in the hearts of the wicked.

Laman and Lemuel, the elder brothers, understood the "cry," and said, "Our younger brother thinks to rule over us." Nephi 4: 1. Notwithstanding this, the angel of the Lord had said to them, 1 Nephi, 1: 30, "Know ye not that the Lord hath chosen him to be a ruler over you, and this because of your iniquities." "Authority" has ever been the bane of a people at unrest. They are always willing to tear down before they build a better mansion to shelter those bereft of home.

I am not disquieted over the issue. God is holding the reins in his own hands. There is much to encourage in the work, though the laborers are few. I have attended or held a meeting to average once a day since the General Conference. At Pittsburg Bro. Cady and wife, formerly excellent members of the Methodist church were baptized when I was there. They will no doubt make their influence felt in the church of the Saints. On the 26th of July, a young lady, sister Lizzie Bedell, of Bridgeport, Connecticut, while here on a visit heard the gospel and was baptized. Her father is a member of the English Church, and her mother of the Roman Church. A sister Mary Scheibel and son of Boston, were baptized, who were members of the Roman Church. Two young ladies from Sweden gave their names for baptism a few days since. They are of the Lutheran Church. So you see we are gathering from the ranks of all the societies of the land. All who are seeking truth must come out from the man-made churches, to the kingdom of God.

The difficulties in the district will be dissipated after a little time, if the Saints will let all those matters alone that belong to those whose duty it is to set in order the churches. Brethren Smith and Bond of the Seventy are appointed to take charge of Fall River and Providence branches. I have requested that all ordinations in the district be left to the president of the mission.

The injunction of the ancient apostle to "lay hands suddenly on no man," is especially impressed upon the attention of the Saints, and if left to me I advise that all ordinations in the many missions be left to the presidents, and not be permitted in the judgment of all and any of the elders to set apart whom they think may be called. "Believe not every spirit" is a command of great import for the welfare of the church; and if those men called to take especial charge of the churches can't be held responsible for wise ordinations, who can? And if they err in that matter, how much easier the few can be corrected than the many. The gifts of the gospel are more especially to confirm the word, with the power to bring to remembrance, and show things to come. But the setting apart the ministry, and all that appertains thereto, should be left to those whose duty it is to regulate all the affairs of the church in all nations.

I am of the opinion that more harm has come to the church through hasty ordination than from any other source. And if members of one quorum can be removed to a less responsible quorum, then can officers be released and stand as members. And such must be the case where they do not learn their duties to "be counted worthy to stand."

The Saints in this mission are earnest workers, but we want help. I expect to sail on the 18th instant for Nova Scotia, in company with Bro. Sheehy. He is to meet me here, or get aboard at Portland, Maine. Bro. Bond has baptized eight or ten since conference.

Yours in the bonds of the gospel,

E. C. BRIGGS.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 14th.

Editors Herald:—We arrived here July 12th; enjoyed a pleasant trip; stopped in Sacramento four hours; met Bro. James H. Parr, and sisters Blair and Calderwood. The few hours there seemed like being home once more. But circumstances were such we had to part with pleasant company and move on our journey Southward. We were met at the depot at Los Angeles by Bro. Earl, formerly of Sacramento. Met quite a number of Saints during the week. The following Sunday met with Saints at their place of worship. They have a fine room in second story well furnished and kept in order, on Spring Street, centrally located as to the business part of the city. Bro. J. R. Badham is the presiding and leading Spirit here, well fitted for the position he fills, both for presiding and preaching. The church will be properly represented and defended under his administration. He has the knack of rectifying mistakes and putting things in order without giving offense. This is a hard matter to do, for many fail who try the hardest. Since I have been here he made several discourses on Twenty-five reasons why we should believe the Book of Mormon. They were excellent, being so logical it seemed as if impossible to find any one to refute them.

To-day I had the pleasure (this I mean) of meeting and hearing Bro. D. S. Mills preach. Prayer meeting was at 10, a. m., being early for church. We went into the meeting, found him speaking to the Saints. His testimony of the work, and his exhortation to be faithful was as a voice from heaven. After meeting found that he had not forgotten us, needed no introduction. As many had not seen him we had to be satisfied with but few words as our portion. He preached at 11 a. m., subject, Restoration of the former land marks.

I felt as though my six year's absence was lost in my spiritual growth, and that I was privileged to return home again and hear my Father's voice. I only hope this will be the case. Met Bro. Geo. H. Rice here; he lives in this city. Don't think he takes to anything. Think if Bro. Joseph had seen him when he was east it would be different with him. He speaks very highly of Bro. H. A. Stebbins. With such men think he could be regained, a wise and better man. He is a good man, but unwise men ought to stay away from him. May the restorer soon come.

Yours in hope,

GEO. L. MATTHEWS.

WHEELOCK, Texas, August 16th.

Bro. Smith and Blair:—I have just come home from middle Tennessee. I stayed there about three weeks, preached nine sermons in eight new places, visited a great number of families and conducted one prayer meeting for the people at their appointment. The people turned out well at every appointment and gave good attention. I am satisfied that the word spoken was as good seed sown upon good ground, and will bring much fruit. I gave an opportunity at each appointment for anybody that saw proper, to come forward and show by the Bible that our claims were not true, if they could. But nobody came. There were several preachers present, of different denominations. One Methodist preacher told me after I had preached a few discourses that he already saw that if I would stay there I could organize a church. He said the people would not tell me what they would him. And another man, who is a Campbellite, told me that if I would stay there I could build up one of the largest churches in that country. All of this took place in the section of Tennessee where I was born and raised, and where I had preached for about ten years while I was a member of the Baptist Church. The people seemed astonished at the doctrine, yet would confess it was the Bible. But there was a part of it new to them. There I saw a fulfillment of the prophecy of Isaiah, for it is "a marvelous work and a wonder." Judging from what I observed, I never saw such an opening for the work of the Lord to continue. May God bless the people, and may the good work go on in middle Tennessee. I love my old neighbors, kindred and friends. I hope the time will come that I will have the privilege of going back there to preach to them again, and baptize many of them into the Church of Jesus Christ. I left them examining the scriptures to see if the things that I preached were true. Now, if regard to the work in this section of Texas, I am not prepared to tell just how the brethren are getting along, for it has been some time since I have been around, to see them, but think they are doing very well, all things considered. I mean to visit the branches as soon as I can, and then I will tell you about the matter. I will now come to a close for the present.

Yours in gospel bonds,

E. W. NUNLEY.

MASONVILLE, Ontario, Aug. 20th.

Editors Herald:—I was baptized January 5th, 1884, at Riverview, Dufferin county. I have never regretted that step. I rejoice in this great latter day work, because I have received sufficient evidence to know for myself that the doctrine is true, and would feel to encourage my brethren in the words of the hymn, "Go on in faith, ye Saints go on. Fear not, your cause is good." I was raised in the church of England, my parents being of that persuasion. When about twenty years of age I joined the Methodist church, and continued a member of it about four years, when I heard elder J. A. McIntosh preach; and after careful and prayerful investigation of the principles of the truth presented, the Spirit influenced me to yield obedience to the gospel, which I did, and have been made to rejoice many times in its saving power.

We feel grateful to our heavenly Father, here of late, in seeing many embrace the great work in this vicinity. Elders W. J. Smith, R. C. Evans and J. H. Lake, labored here, strengthening us and building up the Saints, and the Lord is adding almost daily to our number. On the 17th of July Bro. W. J. Smith went to labor in the west part of Amaranth township, about ten miles from here, and after preaching eleven times baptized ten. He was joined by elder J. H. Lake, they continued preaching for a week and nine more were baptized. Fourteen of these were heads of families, and most of them had belonged to the Methodist church. Of course, this stirred up the Methodists, and they went to their preacher and demanded that something be done to save the people. Their preacher sent to Parkdale (suburb of Toronto), and secured the services of the Rev. T. L. Wilkinson, one of the Goliaths of Methodism, to defend their cause. He is sharp and shrewd, deeply learned and accustomed to debating, has met the Rev. J. A. Harding of Campbellite fame, also Mr. Sweeney of the same faith, all of which made us feel that except the Lord assisted his servant, the work must be trampled in the dust. Bro. Smith, however, seemed firm, stating his willingness to meet any man they would bring, so accordingly they met and arranged the following propositions for discussion. "Resolved, That believers only are proper subjects for Christian baptism." W. J. Smith affirmed. 2. Resolved; That infant children of believers are proper subjects for Christian baptism." Rev. T. L. Wilkinson affirmed. The debate to last four nights, two hours and a half each night. The debate commenced the evening of the 15th, and closed on the evening of the 18th. It was largely attended, and although it was in a Methodist community where none had ever heard Bro. Smith, (as there was no place large enough where he had been preaching to accommodate the people), yet we are pleased to say that the gospel banner being unfurled there, made us many friends. The Saints are feeling jubilant over it, and rejoice in the victory. I need not stop here to tell you of Mr. Wilkinson's course of argument, (for there was but little of that), but will merely say that it was a gush of ridicule, from beginning to end, trying to prejudice the people's mind against Bro. Smith, claiming he was a Mormon, &c. Bro. Smith had good liberty in defending the truth, and much prejudice has been removed. Many who thought the Saints of no account, were led to see they are able to sustain their position by the word of God in this principle, at least, that was presented to them. The Rev. T. L. Wilkinson chose as his moderator the Rev. Mr. Sing, pastor in charge, and Bro. Smith chose me as his moderator. The chairman was a Congregational preacher, and of courses sided with the Methodists. However, we had regulations written for governing the debate, and we brought them to time as well as possible.

Yours in hope of eternal life,

JOHN SHIELDS.

MAUD, Kansas, Aug. 18th.

Dear Herald:—Before I left Decatur county I was requested by numerous friends to write to them. I told them I would write to the Herald and not slight any of them. We are located in Los Animas county, Colorado, the extreme southeast part of the state. It is a nice country to look at, and I believe it to be a good country. The soil is deep and of a good color. There is no timber in this part of any account, not much running water, but plenty by digging, and of a good quality. There are good chances to get homes here yet, but it is settling up fast and we expect a great rush this fall. We are sixty miles from railroad communication, but we have good wagon roads. We have no use for brakes on our wagons.

There is one drawback in this country,—there are no Saints in this part that I can find, so I feel lost. But it does not shake my faith. There are Campbellites, Baptists, United Brethren, and almost all else but Saints. I hope to see the time when we will have a branch in this part. There is plenty of land in this country to make homes for those renters in Decatur, and if they were here with means enough to live until they could get a start, they would make a good exchange. That is my mind.

I have not yet done any but fireside preaching. I am better at that than any other kind, but I hope to see the time when I will be able to tell the story in public.

Your brother,

I. N. DELONG.

VALENTINE, Mo., August 21st.

Bro. Joseph:—The Saints' Herald is dear to me. It always brings comfort to the hungry and weary wanderer. Thanks be to God for his goodness and mercy. His grace towards us is greater than we can comprehend; his word is light and life, and "the light shineth in darkness, but the darkness comprehendeth it not." Sandhedens Banner is a great joy to me. My mother tongue is the best for me, and it seems a wonder to me that Saints who can read the Banner will disregard it because they can read the English. Let us remember, dear Saints, how precious it was for us to read God's word in our own tongue. Let us lift up the Banner. Bro. P. Anderson is doing his best, and I can truly say that he is able to do the work. This has been proved up to this time. He in connection with other Danish Saints desire to see the continuation of the Banner. It will do good wheresoever it goes. It speaks the truth. I say again, especially to the Danish Saints, let us help our brother Peter in this good work. Good news is heard from our brothers Moore and Thomas here in this district. May the blessing of heaven follow them.

Your brother in gospel bonds,

A. JENSON.

WOODBINE, Iowa, Aug. 21st.

Editors of Herald:—Being somewhat disappointed by rain (although a welcome visitor) to-day in not being permitted to attend a two-days meeting at Six Mile Grove, we have spent our time in reading "welcome Herald." O, how we prize its weekly visits, as it comes with such cheering news from all parts! Truly, the Saints are gaining favor with the people.

We have opened a new place for preaching about three miles from Woodbine, at Farlow School-house, and Bro. Derry has been there three times. On last Sabbath he preached at three and eight o'clock p. m., to good and attentive audiences; house crowded full, and some outside; had good liberty as he usually does, delivering two splendid discourses. I feel that good will be done there, and that in the near future a number may be gathered into the fold. This is my daily prayer to our heavenly Father. There are quite a number of good, sound, thinking, influential citizens there that are investigating, and are very friendly to us. I have two copies of Book of Mormon, also several copies Voice of Warning loaned in the neighborhood. I pray God to give the increase, and in the near future we may have a church at Woodbine. How I wish the people could see as I do since I obeyed the gospel at last fall Reunion at Bro. Garner's grove. We are anxiously awaiting the Reunion at Harlan, and trust and pray God may be with us in power and that great good may be done in his holy name. I had one dozen Voice of Warning and they are all out; I send for one dozen more. I want to sow some of them.

Yours,

S. B. KIBLER.

LUCAS, Iowa, August 24th.

Bro. Joseph:—Being young in years, I have always felt a timidity when I thought of writing to the Herald, but this morning there is another feeling. The Spirit of the Lord manifests to me that it is my duty to bear my testimony, inasmuch as the Lord has blessed me with the knowledge of his gospel. When I look back over my past life and think of my unworthiness, and consider that he has spared and blessed me, the thought often arises, Why is it that he spares me, and others who are better and could do more good in this world than I are called away? I can see no other reason than that God in his mercies allows me this probation that I may be better prepared to meet him. May it ever be so; and I trust and pray that through God's grace I may yet be enabled to "prove worthy of the many blessings which he has bestowed upon me, and that I may never be ashamed to act as a valiant soldier in the defense of his truths, and wherever an opportunity may afford, to bear my testimony to the same. I can say as did Job in days of old, "I know that my Redeemer liveth, and though worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God." The same Spirit which revealed this to him, has made manifest to me that there is a God in heaven whose all-seeing eye is over all, and he taketh cognizance of the actions of his children, and blesseth them in accordance to their desires and humility before him. May we all strive from day to day to keep his commandments, and may we as a church become more united and strive to overcome our failings and imperfections that the work of the Lord may roll on more rapidly and eventually fill the whole earth, when peace and good will towards all men may be in every heart, when Satan shall be bound, and all the results of his evil devices and cunning craftiness may be banished away, and love and harmony prevail throughout the length and breadth of the land, is the prayer of

Yours in Christ,

T. W. WILLIAMS.

SONORA, Iowa, Aug. 24th.

Brother Joseph.—Since I wrote to you from Iron Hill, I baptized two more, some more have given me their names for baptism, and a number more are seeking after truth. Some nights the Presbyterian church in Fulton, which they so kindly gave us the use of, could not hold near all the congregation, and the last night we were there the trustees told us that the house was open for us at any time and said, "Come again." The work is onward, thank God. I expect to go back there to Iron Hill and Fulton, after the reunion, if I am well.

I remain a lover of God's works,

J. S. ROTH.

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., Aug. 23d.

Brethren Joseph and William.—I thought a few lines from here would not be amiss, as I hear many say, "Why don't you write oftener to the Herald, so that we can all learn how the work is going on," etc. I thought I was doing pretty well; for I drop a card every now and then to keep you informed as to how the work is progressing.

Well, everything seems to move on nicely, all through this district. Of course, we have plenty of opposition, get lots of abuse, and are called everything but Saints by many. And on the other hand, we are blessed in meeting the opposing parties, and are brought off more than conquerors. We try to suffer the abuse, and to not abuse or speak of them in an unbecoming manner. As officers we all strive to see alike, and work in unity and love, each having a desire to advance this great latter day work. We have had Bro. R. Salyards with us ten or twelve days, which was a source of joy to us. He did me and the Saints much good, as several have expressed to me. We regret that he did not stay longer. You will be welcomed back again, Bro. Salyards.

We have held two days meetings in Lapeer and Huron counties, and will have one in Sanilac county. I find they do much good. It is the means of bringing many out to hear who otherwise would not come out. And in the two days we generally get in six sermons and two prayer and testimony meetings, and I tell you it counts up fast. It lays prejudice one side, causes many to believe, and others to feel more friendly toward us. O, this work is onward here! Several are coming into the church. None are going out. Eight were baptized on the 21st and 22d, near Canboro, where we held our debate last winter with Mr. Lelland on the Sabbath. Lelland never came back there since.

Brethren, pray for us that we may be humble, wise and faithful, ever standing for the truth. I am now on my way to attend to a call at Gladwin.

Your fellow worker,

J. J. CORNISH.

PARIS, Tenn., Aug. 25th.

Bro. W. W. Blair.—In company with Bro. Griffin have held four meetings near Fulton, Obyon county, Tennessee. Interest not very flattering. We then went to Kenton, held two meetings and baptized two. Thence we went to Farmington, Graves county, Kentucky, to conference. We had a profitable meeting, organized the branch there, ordaining Bro. James Adair an elder, Bro. William Clark priest, and Bro. Green Snow deacon. Went thence to Eagle Creek to attend the funeral service of Bro. William Greens. Continued meetings three days with increasing interest. Went to Weekly county, held meetings three days, baptized one and two others gave their names for baptism. The interest there is very favorable for others to unite. There we received a cordial invitation, as representatives of our faith, to hold meetings with other denominations in a union meeting-house at Board Springs, Graves county, Kentucky, beginning Sept. 11th. We accepted the invitation and desire the prayers of the Saints that we may rightly represent our faith and doctrine.

P. B. SEATON.

CANBORO, Mich., August 18th.

Bro. Joseph.—Everything moves on grandly here. We have occasionally some coming into the church. Bro. Salyards is with me, has been, and will be for a few days yet. I am pleased to have him with me; it seems so strange for me to go to meeting and sit down to hear a Latter Day Saint elder preach. And O, how good it is! My lot has been in the past to be alone. We had a two days meeting in Five Lakes; it was a grand success. The Saints are alive to the work. We are all encouraged to move on.

I am feeling well, and in the faith,

J. J. CORNISH.

MILTON, Florida, August 25th.

Dear Herald.—The voters of this county have just said by a majority vote of 140 that alcoholic liquor shall no longer be sold in this county. For this nobody in particular, but everybody in general, is entitled to credit. It was a spontaneous uprising of the people in revolt against the traffic and its disorders. It is gratifying to be able to state that so far as I know all our people, who were eligible to vote, were a unit for prohibition. I was much surprised and pained by one of our ministers, not a voter here, giving his sympathy to the dram-shop. Why he did so I am unable to conjecture, as he is, I think, a teetotaler.

If the liquor traffic is right, if it promotes the peace and prosperity of the people, if it increases happiness, if it promotes the general welfare, if it is necessary as a means of maintaining our public or private rights or privileges, then I agree that it should be protected by law, and that all good people should give it sympathy and support. But if it is an evil producing drunkenness and crime, if it leads to idleness, waste, and want, depriving helpless women and children of the necessities of life, if it causes men to abuse their wives and murder each other; if, in fact, it leads to and produces evil, and only evil; then it should be suppressed by law, and all good people should give sympathy and support to its suppression.

L. F. WEST.

NEW PROVIDENCE, Ind., Aug. 22d.

Brother Blair.—I now find time to write to you, having just returned from Crawford county on a preaching tour. Found the work there cold and heavy. But I had not preached there long until light began to spring up among the people. There is now a good interest manifested among them. My time was limited because of our conference on the third of September. Before I went to Crawford I was over in the Blue Licks and opened a new field of labor. Some there are believing. The work in Southern Indiana is looking up some.

JAMES G. SCOTT.

CLEARWATER, Neb., Aug. 26th.

Bro. Joseph.—I have been trying to do what I could for the cause in different parts of the Central Nebraska district for the past month. This is a hard field in many respects to labor in, as compared with the east. The most of the people are "Homesteaders," and are therefore very poor. The land is poor in some parts, and the drouth this season has caused a partial failure in crops, so that several of them will suffer. Many families are abandoning their claims, being starved out. This would be a good country if it had plenty of rain. The land being very sandy it requires a great deal of rain.

I visited Grand Rapids, in the north-west part of Holt county, which is on the borders of the Lamanites. Just across the river is a large Indian Reservation; I saw several villages built of logs, sod, and canvas. They seem to live in peace with each other and with the whites. They cultivate the soil and have their flocks and herds the same as other people, which indicates the near fulfillment of the promise in the Book of Mormon concerning them. The few Saints there, are doing what they can for the work, but are all poor in this world's goods. We preached there twice; but very little interest manifest. From there we went to Chelsea, where there is a larger branch. They seem to be in good condition spiritually, and are gaining favor with the people. They have had bitter opposition from the outside, but by their godly living they have succeeded in very nearly living it down, so that some who made strong threats against them are now ashamed of it. Bro. R. H. Wight is in charge of the branch here, and has done a good work. He has the confidence of the Saints and friends, and seems to have the work at heart and is anxious for its welfare. We love to encourage all such who show their faith by their works, and if they have peculiarities, (and who is without them?) we can afford to use charity, and thus be the disciples of Christ.

We preached there twice. The interest was not good, but very few desire to hear. We did what we could in cheering and encouraging the Saints, who seemed to feel well. From there we went to Knox county, preached in two new places for a week, five times at what is known as the Spencer Valley School-house, and twice at Grimpton on Sunday. At these places the interest seemed good. We were invited to come again, which we expect to do when we can. This opening is the work of Bro. J. P. Larsen, who moved in there about one year and a half ago from Omaha. He has done all he could, giving tracts and talking in a private way, and above all setting a good example. It seems strange to many to see the Saints scattering all over the country, one here and one there. But to us it is not strange, for we see the hand of the Lord in it all. Wherever there is a family of Saints who honor their profession before men, there is an opening for the preaching of the word. Hence we hear calls from those faithful Saints, "Come and preach; the people desire to hear our doctrine." So it seems this is the way the word is to be scattered in all the world. I expect to attend the conference in this district the 3d and 4th of September, and continue to labor as the way may open and wisdom direct. Will try and attend to all calls in any part of the field so far as possible.

The Lord has greatly blessed me in presenting the word, and at times far beyond my expectations, which is very encouraging to me. But judging from the number baptized, very little has been done. We can not always judge by that, for the gospel is to go to every creature, then the end will come. Whether there be a number baptized or not, I understand that the gospel is to be "preached as a witness unto all nations," which witness will testify for or against them in the great day; so that when we sow the seed faithfully we have done our duty. The cheering news in the Herald from week to week is inspiring to the soul. When I read it I feel new life springing up within me, which drives away the clouds which serve to discourage from time to time. I do not see how any Latter Day Saint can live without it, who feel any interest in the work at all. Then may it continue to go forth until its glorious news reaches the ears of all people.

In gospel bonds,
W. M. RUMEL.

TABOR, Iowa, August 21st.

Brother Blair:—Bro. Goode and I have just returned from Mill Creek, where we met with Saints and friends, and had the privilege of presenting the word of life to fair audiences with good liberty. Father Goode spoke quite lengthy at each service and bore a faithful testimony to the truth of the latter day work. We are inquired of by nearly all we see concerning our camp meeting. We expect a large attendance.

Yours for truth,
HENRY KEMP.

ALVIN CLARK made telescopes for fifty-two years, and now has died at the age of eighty-three. He made lenses which brought the moon so near the earth that its surface could almost be sketched; he read with his wonderful instruments new secrets of the celestial world; he counted the rings of Saturn, he brought to view the moons of Jupiter; he could almost catch the glory of the flowers which bloom on Mars and Venus. But the machine of his body ran down at length, and in a delirium his soul went out on its long voyage. When the night comes down we poor mortals can not see, but the solemn owl that has been blinded by the fiercer light of the day goes out to find her food. Her eyes are not like ours. So when the night of life comes down and mortal eyes close forever, what do the soul's eyes see? Has this Alvin Clark by this time seen more glorious than all his lenses ever revealed? Is he smiling back at his fifty-two years' work and saying to himself, "What a bungler I was at best! How dull those glasses really are that I thought so fine; why the heaven of heaven is open to my naked vision now." And thus the haunting question comes back perpetually, Are we anything more than reasoning animals that have our little day and then disappear, or are we standing on the very threshold of Summer Land and only a little lower than the angels?

—Salt Lake Tribune.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

THE CHURCH AND HER LEADERS.

"When nations are to perish in their sins
'Tis in the church the leprosy begins;
The priest whose office is with zeal sincere
To watch the fountain, and preserve it clear,
Carelessly nods and sleeps upon the brink,
While others poison what the flock must drink;
Or, waking at the call of lust alone,
Infuses lies and errors of his own;
His unsuspecting sheep believe it pure;
And, tainted by the very means of cure,
Catch from each other a contagious spot,
The foul forerunner of a general rot.
The truth is hushed that heresy may preach,
And all is trash that reason can not teach:
Then God's own image on the soul impressed, Becomes a mockery, and a standing jest"

—Cowper.

The differences between the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and the Utah Latter Day Saints, in faith and practice, must be self-evident to any one who has made even a superficial investigation of their respective claims as servants of Christ. And seeing that such differences are based upon matters held to be essential to salvation, it follows that one, or both, have departed from that truth, defined by Jesus as "Thy Word." The word of God.

The true basis of the position of a Latter Day Saint must of necessity be, belief in the divine calling of the martyr, Joseph Smith, to preach and teach the fulness of the gospel of Jesus Christ and officiate in the ordinances of his church.

The fact that the first principles of the gospel are held intact by both sections of the church, is a proof of the foregoing proposition, and become a paramount reason why the respective positions taken up and maintained by the differing bodies should be, without bias, submitted to the arbitrament of the word of God as stated in the Book of Mormon, the Bible and the Book of Doctrine and Covenants, these books having been accepted as the standard works of the church.

God is not changeable, "neither doth he vary from that which he hath said; therefore his paths are straight, and his course is one eternal round."—Doc. Cov. 2:1.

Affirming, as we do, the divine origin of the church, it is evident that the question of legitimate succession to the office-work thereof is the pivot upon which must hinge the claims made to faithfully represent Christ to the church and the world. This question once settled, all other differences, being minor, must vanish like the dew before the morning sun.

Our premises are that, upon each side of this question there are men and women who want the truth, and who if the truth be made plain according to the revealed law of God, they will accept and adhere to it at any cost or sacrifice. To such as these we address ourselves, and the settlement of this question ought not to present any insurmountable difficulty, although the importance thereof can not be over-estimated. The key to its solution will be found in the revelation given to the church February, 1831, Doc. 43: 1, 2. (Sec. 4, European edition):

"O, hearken, ye elders of my church, and give an ear to the words which I shall speak unto you; for behold, verily, verily I say unto you, that ye have received a commandment for a law unto the church, through him whom I have appointed unto you to receive commandments and revelations from my hand. And this ye shall know assuredly, that there is none other appointed unto you to receive commandments and revelations until he be taken, if he abide in me. But verily, verily I say unto you, that none else shall be appointed unto this gift except it be through him, for if it be taken from him he shall not have power, except to appoint another in his stead; and this shall be a law unto you, that ye receive not the teachings of any that shall come before you as revelations or commandments; and this I give unto you, that you may not be deceived, that you may know they are not of me. For verily I say unto you, that he that is ordained of me, shall come in at the gate, and be ordained as I have told you before, to teach those revelations which you have received, and shall receive through him whom I have appointed."

Herein is affirmed the standing and authority of the "first elder" of the church, and from this we learn that no other shall be appointed as his successor "except it be through him." And none are to be received in his stead except those who are so appointed. This is a law, binding upon the church, and no amount of sophistry or special pleading can alter the fact, or relieve the eldership of their obligations herein imposed, viz., to see that the requirements of the law are fulfilled by those who claim to lead the church.

Much has been said about the "mantle of Joseph" falling upon Brigham Young, and of his having spoken with the voice of the martyred prophet; but all this is beside the question, and does not answer the query, Did he come in at the right gate? In other words, was he appointed and ordained according to the law before quoted? If not, the whole superstructure upon which the Utah hierarchy base their claims to administer the ordinances of the gospel of Christ, [as the leaders of the church.—ED.], must fall to the ground, because the conditions are wanting upon which alone such claims can be sustained.

If the people of Utah chose to sustain the late President Young as their "prophet, seer and revelator" in the face of his well authenticated denial, "I am neither a prophet, or the son of a prophet," it was their own business. He well knew, none better, that in preaching, teaching, and practice, he was in open violation to the commandment which says, "Thou shalt love thy wife with all thy heart, and cleave unto her, and none else."—Revelation given February 9th, 1831, Doc. Cov.

In thus practicing, he transgressed the law of God, and sinned. "And whosoever committeth sin, transgresseth also the law; for sin is the transgression of the law."—St. John 3:4. If the testimony of the adherents of the late President Young may be accepted, he lived and died without repenting of this evil. Therefore, according to the law, the church is justified in rejecting the claims of his followers that he was the legal successor to the martyr and a duly qualified prophet of God.

And besides, he was not a lineal descendant of the martyr, nor the "head" of his posterity, neither did he receive, or claim to have received, appointment, anointing, or ordination as the president, prophet and seer of the church at his hands. The absence of any one of these qualifications was and is sufficient, in itself, to disqualify him as the successor to Joseph Smith in the prophetic office and leadership of the Church of Christ.

In the investigation of the position of the Reorganized Church, and her claims to be the legal successor of the Church of Jesus Christ established on the 6th April, 1830, we present the following revelation given through the martyr, June 19th, 1844, as pertinent to this inquiry:

"For the anointing have I put upon his [Joseph's] head, that his blessing shall be put upon the head of his posterity after him; and as I said unto Abraham concerning the kindreds of the earth, even so I say unto my servant Joseph, in thee and in thy seed, shall the kindred of the earth be blessed."

The question here arises, who is "the head of his posterity after him." Can it be any other than his eldest son Joseph Smith, the present leader and prophet of the Reorganized Church, who both by heirship and blessing is entitled to represent his father's posterity? We think not. For as such, he becomes the inheritor of the authority conferred by revelation upon his predecessor April 6th 1830, and reconfirmed by revelation January 19th, 1844, par. 39, as follows: "I give unto you my servant Joseph to be a presiding elder over all my church, to be a translator, a revelator, a seer, and a prophet." This, when taken in connection with the law given February, 1831, sec. 43, par. 1 and 2, shows that the perpetuation of the prophetic office must needs be by transmission through the seed of the martyr, birthright being one primary and necessary qualification. It is therefore with confidence that the president of the Reorganized Church is named as the only one in whom this requirement of the law can at present be found; although it must be conceded that more than this is required to fully qualify him for the position he now holds; for his qualification would be passive, and his appointment void, except he had also been ordained and blessed to this end by his predecessor in the prophetic office. That he was thus appointed and blessed under the hands of his father while imprisoned in Liberty Jail, Missouri, and also at Nauvoo, has been affirmed by unimpeachable testimony. He was ordained to the Melchisedec priesthood under the hands of Elders William Marks, Zenas H. Gurvey, sen., and others, the former the president of the Stake of Zion, and High Council, at Nauvoo; the latter a president of Seventies at the death of Joseph and Hyrum Smith and the consequent disorganization of the church, such ordination being authorized by vote of General Conference convened at Amboy, Illinois, April 6th, 1860, as well as by the direct call of the Spirit. The President of the Reorganization, addressing the conference upon that occasion, said:

"I came not here of myself, but by the influence of the Spirit. For some time past I have received manifestations pointing to the position which I am about to assume. I wish to say that I have come here not to be dictated by any man or set of men. I have come in obedience to a power not my own, and shall be dictated by the power that sent me."

Assuming the subsequent verification of this claim on the part of the President of the Reorganized Church, his qualifications as the legal successor of the Martyr may be summed up as follows.—Lineal descent, appointments, anointing, call of God, and ordination by competent authority,—thus proving that he has come in "at the gate" and been ordained according to the law given unto the church, that Christ's Church "may not be deceived."

It may be asked, from whence did the Reorganized Church derive her authority to perpetuate the priesthood and administer the ordinances of the gospel of Christ? The answer is not far to seek, and may be found in the faithfulness of her ministry, who did not "bow the knee to Baal," but taught and kept the law of God. That the official acts of the first elders of the church were approbated by God can be proved by reliable testimony, and those who afterwards became the leaders of the Reorganization had received their authority by transmission under the hands of those elders during the lifetime of Joseph and Hyrum Smith. And after the death of these men of revered memory, these ministers of God beheld with dismay the flood of licentiousness and corruption that gradually stole upon and engulfed the church, ambitious men essayed to rule and occupied without authority the vacant seats of the martyred prophet and patriarch. The machinations of these self appointed leaders succeeded for a time, and their unlawful teachings and evil practices blinded and corrupted those who gave heed to them. The "dark and cloudy day" had come, but all did not wander into the forbidden paths. A "remnant" remained true to the church covenants, contending for "the old paths," affirming the law of God contained in the divine oracles given to the church, pointing to the admonition addressed to the church on the 22d and 23d of September, 1832, claiming that, in honoring this the word of the Lord, the distracted church would be blest of God and redeemed from her affliction; for "neither doth he vary from that which he hath said," and he had said to the church,— "And your minds in times past have been darkened because of unbelief, and because you have treated lightly the things you have received, which vanity and unbelief hath brought the whole church under condemnation. And this condemnation resteth upon the children of Zion, even all; and they shall remain under this condemnation until they repent and remember the new covenant, even the Book of Mormon, and the former commandments which I have given them, not only to say, but to do according to that which I have written, that they may bring forth fruit meet for their Father's kingdom; otherwise there remaineth a scourge and a judgement to be poured out upon the children of Zion; for shall the children of the kingdom pollute my holy land? Verily I say unto you, nay."

The spirit and teachings of the foregoing revelation were re-affirmed by the word of the Lord on the 19th January, 1841, as follows:

"And again, verily I say unto you, let no man pay stock to the quorum of the Nauvoo House, unless he shall be a believer in the Book of Mormon and the revelations I have given unto you, saith the Lord your God, for that which is more or less than this cometh of evil, and shall be attended with cursings, and not blessings, saith the Lord your God. Even so. Amen."

Herein lays the condemnation of polygamy, and the Adam-God, blood atonement theories of the Utah church. Such doctrines are contrary to the teachings of the Book of Mormon and the commandments given before 1841, and consequently have been, and still are "attended with cursings, and not blessings," as predicted by the word of the Lord.

The men called to reorganize the church were so called because they taught and lived in accordance with the revelations and commandments of God. And by the light of those commands they tried and rejected polygamy, and its attendant evils, as taught and practiced by the late Brigham Young and those who uphold his authority as the leader of the Utah church.

Much has been said about the character and authority of the late Wm. Marks. Everything that could be done to impair his authority as an elder of the church, by the adherents of the Utah church, has been said and done. Elder Wm. Marks was, at the death of Joseph and Hyrum Smith, the president of the Stake of Zion at Nauvoo, and as such was of high authority in the church. He was also president of the High Council, and therefore stood next in authority, as a local officer, to the First Presidency. At the impeachment and trial of President Sidney Rigdon, who had been condemned upon the almost unsupported testimony and caprice of Brigham Young, Elder Marks refused to endorse the decision arrived at, and refused to condemn by his vote. This did not suit the policy of the self-appointed leaders, and therefore Elder Marks and all others differing with them were unceremoniously removed from their offices, and in many cases excommunicated, or threatened with excommunication from the church. Whatever may have been the offences of Elder Rigdon, the before named charge was the only one alleged against President Marks, so far as known to the writer. [And so far as appears of record.—Ed]. And upon this flimsy pretext he was removed from an office conferred upon him by the sanction of the church under the presidency of Joseph, the Martyr.

That Elder Wm. Marks was an approved servant of God may be gathered from the following extract taken from a letter addressed to "the Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Kirtland," March 26th, 1838, by the Lord's servant and prophet, Joseph Smith. See history of Joseph Smith, Millennial Star, vol. 16, page 1311

"I would just say to brother Marks, that I saw in a vision while on the road, that whereas he was closely pursued by an innumerable concourse of enemies, and as they pressed upon him hard, as if they were about to devour him, and had seemingly obtained some degree of advantage over him; but about this time a chariot of fire came, and near the place even the angel of the Lord put forth his hand unto Bro. Marks and said unto him, "thou art my son; come here." And immediately he was caught up in the chariot and rode away triumphantly out of their midst. And again the Lord said, "I will raise thee up for a blessing unto many people. Now the particulars of this whole matter can not be written at this time; but the vision was evidently given to me that I might know that the hand of the Lord would be upon his behalf."

What further vindication of the character and standing of Elder Marks need be required than this promise in respect to his future work, "I will raise thee up for a blessing unto many people." This sanctifies his presidency, and when taken in connection with the heirship of the "first elder," becomes strong presumptive evidence of the divine acceptance of the Re-organized Church. But when besides these testimonies we have the knowledge that the gifts of the gospel of Christ follow obedience to the teachings of her ministry, her claims pass from the regions of conjecture into the atmosphere of established truth.

In concluding this short article, the writer may be pardoned in giving expression to the wish that it may be a means of bringing out the truth; and he trusts that the subject may be approached by all, devoid of that spirit of bitterness that so often marks controversy upon these and kindred subjects by some of those who essay to discuss them. Asperity in argument or teaching seldom leads to conversion. Surely, we may accredit one another with equal desire to know the truth. The advantage is not always with those who make the most noise. The truth, however meek its advocates, still remains true, and will, sooner or later, be made manifest.

"Thou must be true to thyself, if thou be true would'st teach,

Thy soul must overflow, if thou another soul would reach,
It needs the overflow of heart to give the lips full speech.
Think truly, and thy thoughts shall the world's famine feed;

Speak truly, and each word of thine shall be a fruitful seed;

Live truly, and thy life shall be a great and noble creed."
--(Heber).

JOSEPH DEWSNUP, Sen.

SECRET ORDERS.

DO SAINTS NEED THEIR AID.

THE secret orders of the land are many. They all claim they are for good, and many of them say that they have taken up what has been cast out by the christian churches, and that they are ever first in deeds of charity to mankind in general, and them-in particular. Their secrecy is such that there is no knowledge of their inward working, so that the people can only judge from the outward acts as to the truth of their claims for good to humanity.

We hear a great deal of suppers, feasts, balls, and other entertainments, but we seldom learn where the widows, fatherless, or poor and needy have been visited, outside of those who are members of the order; and as for their teachings for good, it must be almost exclusively their own, as we seldom ever learn anything of their public instruction.

The first thing needful to become a member of a secret order is money, and the amount wanted by some of them is so much that no workman can very well give, so that those orders simply say no poor man need apply; for the fees are from thirty to one hundred dollars for admission, to say nothing of what is wanted after. Of the real benefits none can judge unless he once has been admitted and has seen and learned for himself. And if we take heed we learn that there are many disappointments, and much to displease, if we only believe half of what we learn from those who once were members, and more especially is this so among the Knights of Labor.

Now the question would be, What do they give, or offer to the Saints that is not found in the gospel of the kingdom? If for the sake of discussion we admit all of their claims, is there something they have that the Saints have not that would make the Saints honester, purer, and nobler workers in the great reform of humanity? Let us be honest in this matter and seek for the facts, and learn all there is to learn of what there is of good in any one or all of the secret orders, with their signs and grips and other things that they offer. But first let us ask ourselves why they should be secret. In the very nature of the thing, is not a secret order against some one? If not so, why should there be anything secret in this land of boasted liberty and free speech, where the claim is that all and every one is free to say and do as he pleases if he obey the laws of the land. Do we not see in those orders a class distinction? a combination of men against their fellows? What is the order of Knights of Labor but a combination of workmen against employers? We see in Masonry a combination of the wealthy, or the money power. And so it is with others of them; for if men really and truly loved their fellowmen, there would be no such combinations; and if we read the history of the past, we learn that it was only when men fell away from the ways of truth that such combinations became a power in the land. They are to-day warring against each other, and it would be wisdom in the children of the kingdom to take no part in any, no matter what their claims may be. All they give us are earthly promises for which they take our time and money, and in a good many instances rob us of our God-given right—our agency—oftimes compelling us to do things that we would not if free and not bound by an oath.

The Saints should always remember, and should never forget, that they belong to the highest of all orders, the order of the sons and daughters of God; that this order is not of men, but of God the Father; that the word is from the Spirit of truth; that the promises are many and far-reaching, and that the greatest of all is life eternal; that all the benefits are ours; that obedience to every law brings a blessing to us all, and that all that is for our good in this life and in that which is to come will be given if we are not of little faith. What need then have we of the orders or the promises of the sons of men? or what can they give to us that God our Father will not give, if it is for our good? And if God has blessed us with this world's wealth, we don't need a secret order to be a giver of charity or a worker of noble deeds. The poor and needy are everywhere, and if any one has thirty or an hundred dollars to give, let him use his own agency, act in his own stewardship, and he need not fear but what the blessings and and promiaes of God will be with him.

As for organized labor and co-operative ways, it has been tried and attempted many times; but in the most of all cases, through the wickedness of men, it has almost always ended in disappointment and disaster. And if Saints can not co-operate among themselves there can be little for good expected in co-operation with men of the world whose aims and expectations are all of a selfish and worldly character.

In writing these lines there is no aim to hurt the tender spots of any ones feelings. But experience has taught that it is indeed a narrow way that leadeth unto life eternal; and if we would serve God aright we must heed the advice to ever "watch and pray." We must leave the world and its wiles, for we can not serve God and love the world and its ways. The things of this world must be under, and the things of God must be uppermost in our thoughts, if we expect to be led and guided by the Spirit of truth. How can we be so guided if we are in secret orders, meeting with them and consenting to their doings?

Much more could be said and written, but a hint to the wise is enough. Let us then as Saints of God be wise in the days of our probation, have our light trimmed and brightly burning, so that we will be ready when the Prince of Peace will come on earth to reign as king of kings.

WILLIAM CAIRNS.

REFLECTIONS AND LABORS.

THIS evening I am alone, and the meditations of my heart respecting the great work brings fond reminiscences, causing my heart to swell with gratitude to the great Giver of all good for his manifold blessings. And after taking a retrospective view of my boyhood days when I was fondly roaming in sins' domain, exulting in the follies and vices of youth, I think of the first time I heard the gospel of Christ in its purity. I had, previous to that time, united with the Second Advent church, and found but little nourishment there. And as I had always desired to be a Christian, and had now made an effort to serve God, I expected to obtain the blessings of his Spirit that would enable me, under every condition to perform my duty, and overcome the trials of this life. But in this I was disappointed, which caused me much sorrow and grief of mind. Many times my mind reflected on the power of God, as enjoyed by the ancient Christians, and because of such not being found in the different churches of to-day, my mind was often perplexed; and yet there seemed to be something within pointing to the future, that gave me hope. I therefore thought that, perhaps it was all right, and that when I got older I would be able to understand matters better and live as I ought. I knew I was not doing my Master's will—at least I was not satisfied with my living—although I had many seasons of joy. But, as I have already said, I was not satisfied. I attended church as regular as I could, and often heard my brethren and sisters testify of their happiness, how that they were ready to depart this life any time the Master should call, etc. But when I would compare their walk with mine, I could not perceive that they were living closer to God than I. To bear testimony as they did, I never could. Within my breast there was a reaching out—a longing—for something I could not understand; hence, being thus perplexed, and the vanities of the world offering every attraction, discontent and dissatisfaction respecting religion being predominant within, I turned my attention to the ballroom and other places of amusement, trying to find satisfaction there. But the giddy whirl of worldly gayety had lost its attraction. I desired to be a Christian; but where was the "ancient path?" I could not ascertain; and if I asked any of the different bodies, all pointed to their respective claims, saying, "This is the way."

My mind was troubled. I saw nought but confusion, and in this condition I spent days and week; many times when night had spread its curtain of darkness, and parents and brethren were lost in slumber, was my pillow wet with tears, and none but God knew the anguish of my heart. How often I prayed that the time might come when the gospel would be enjoyed as in ancient days! And many times I thought how glad I would have been could I have lived in the days when Christ and his apostles were here, that I might have received counsel from them, and be numbered with those that enjoyed the knowledge of the gospel. I often thought I would gladly have suffered persecution with them could I but have received the blessed assurance granted unto them. All this seemed to be lost, or at least I did not understand how to obtain it, hence gave up trying.

At this juncture it was rumored that the Mormons were holding meetings a few miles distant, and that they were coming to the neighborhood where I then was. My curiosity was aroused; I made up my mind I would go and hear them. But little did I expect they were the servants of God. The time came, however, for the preaching, and I went to hear—or rather to see—the Mormon preacher. Arriving at the school-house, I saw the preacher, (Elder J. J. Cornish), a boyish looking man, talking and making himself merry, and he seemed to be admired by those who were acquainted with him. The time came for preaching; he took the stand; and the simplicity of the preaching, and the power that attended it, were wonderful indeed. It was different from anything I had ever heard, for "he spake as one having authority." I listened with wrapt attention. The next night I went and heard him again, and became more deeply impressed. I continued to go until he had preached a number of times, and had shown plainly the principles of the gospel. He then held out the inducement Jesus offered,—“If any man will do the will of my Father, he shall know of the doctrine.” Long had I desired to know; and hence I thought it but a small thing Jesus required, i. e., to obey his Father's will. I determined to obey, caring not for the inuendoes that were being hurled at the Saints, hence was baptized; and, praise be to God, while I was being confirmed the Spirit that brings intelligence from heaven was given me. I could not doubt it. I then knew the work was of God. And hundreds of times since then God has confirmed the evidence then given, and I have never regretted obeying the gospel. Since then I have been called of God to disseminate the principles of truth, and have been blest in my efforts. The Master has always stood by me when I have tried to do my part, and we feel to trust him for the future.

I wish now to say a few words about the work here in Canada. We seem to be progressing nicely, and prospects seems bright before us. At our district conference it was thought best that I should go down to Cameron again; but there being some few arrangements to be made in several of the branches, I therefore did not start at once, but, in company with Bro. J. H. Lake, labored some in Egremont, Proton and Melancthon townships. While here (Melancthon) we were made sorry to see in the Herald how Brn. Curtis and Crum had been assailed by religious (?) bigots. We sympathise with them, having received somewhat similar treatment here myself, on two different occasions, first at a place called Horning's Mills. I was preaching there in a private house and the Christians (?) decided that we were deceivers, and they banded together to drum us out of the place. When I started preaching they came to the house, and, with their drums, tin pans and various kinds of music, hallowing, &c., made a noise that could be heard three miles. The grey haired sire of seventy years, the stripling youth, mothers, wives and daughters, most all belonging to the so-called Christians, constituted this "gang," to "drive out the Saints." But, as we possess a pretty good pair of lungs, they saw their drumming and banging of pans were not effectual in stopping us, then they divided into three different parties, hid by the way, and showered in their eggs as we were passing by. The result is, seventeen have been baptized there since.

Again, on the 7th of last month I went to a place called River View and gave out for preaching; but the good (?) people were determined not to hear us and to keep others away if they could. A few came, and the result was we baptized four; two of them members of the Methodist church. The Methodists then became exasperated, the Presbyterians joined with them, and as we were driving home from meeting they tried their hand with their strong sectarian reasons, (eggs), and as we had just opened a new place, the result was, a week from the next Sunday we baptized ten more, all heads of families but one. Some of them then called on their ministers for help, but they were afraid to meet us, yet thought something had to be done; and they sent to Park Dale, a little town in the suburbs of Toronto, for a Mr. T. S. Wilkison, a professional debater among the Methodists, just fresh from the war-path where he had been in combat with a Mr. Sweeney of the Disciples, as I was told. On Saturday the thirteenth instant we agreed to debate the following:—"Resolved, that believers only are proper subjects for Christian baptism." I affirmed; Mr. Wilkinson denied. The debate was to begin Monday evening, to last four evenings, two hours and a half each. These arrangements being made, we went home, and on Sunday morning we baptized nine more—five were heads of families.

Monday night came, and the debate began. Tuesday and Wednesday nights passed, and by this time his arguments—which consisted in the old hash of baptism taking the room of circumcision—were about gone. Some of his followers seeing his argument fail, and not having a supply of eggs on hand, tried stones, one of which hit me on the shoulder, but did no material harm. Thursday night, the last night of the debate came, and if you ever saw a "Jack-on-a-pole" that works with a string, you can have some idea of his performances. It was really amusing to see him flounder. And such abuse I never had to take before. While he was abusing me, and the Saints in general, some of the good Methodist brethren were off after eggs, which they intended giving us without pepper or salt. But, by the protection of the Master we passed out through the crowd leaving them sitting on their eggs; and on the 21st and 22d we baptized eight more—six were heads of families. After the debate closed I got many a warm handshake from strangers. I think the debate did good. It is apparent that Mr. Wilkison was not satisfied with his effort, as he kept his friends there and took up the matter after we were gone.

I am now on my way to Cameron, where I expect to remain for some time.
W. J. SMITH.

ALBTON, Ontario, August 23d.

THE COST OF SOLOMON'S TEMPLE.

The talents of gold, silver and brass used in the construction of the temple amounted to $34,399,112,500. The jewels are reckoned to have exceeded that amount, but let them be estimated as equal to it. The vessels of silver consecrated to the uses of the temple were equal to $2,446,720,000, the vessels of gold, $2,726,481,015; the silk vestments of the priests, $50,000; the purple vestment of the singers, $1,000,000; trumpets, $100,000; other musical instruments, $200,000. Ten thousand men were engaged in hewing timber on Lebanon, 70,000 were bearers of burdens, 20,900 men were overseers, all of whom were employed seven years. Solomon bestowed on them $33,669,885. Food and wages, estimated at $1.12½ per day, $469,385,440; the cost of the stone and timber in the rough, $12,726,480,000.

No Credit for moneys received on subscription will appear on the Colored Address Label of the Herald for this issue, as no changes have been made, except in case of persons desiring a change in P.O. address.

Selections.

PREMATURE OLD AGE.

A GOODLY NUMBER OF EXCELLENT RULES BY WHICH IT MAY BE AVOIDED.

The following good advice is given by Dr. Benjamin Ward Richardson: The rules for the prevention of senile diseases are all personal. They should begin in youth. It should be a rule among grown-up persons never to subject children to mental shocks and unnecessary griefs. When, in the surrounding of child life, some grave calamity has occurred, it is best to make the event as light as possible to the child, and certainly to avoid thrilling it with sights and details which stir it to the utmost, and in the end only leave upon the mind and heart incurable wounds and oppressions. Children should never be taken to funerals, nor to sights that cause a sense of fear and dread combined with grief, nor to sights which call forth pain and agony in man or in the lower animals.

To avoid premature old age in mature life, the following are important points to remember:

Grief anticipates age. Dwelling on the inevitable past, forming vain hypotheses as to what might have been if this or that had or had not been, acquiring a craze for recounting what had occurred—these acts do more harm to future health and effort than many things connected with real calamity. Occupation and new pursuits are the best preventives for mental shock and bereavement.

Hate anticipates age. Hate keeps the heart always at full tension. It gives rise to oppression of the brain and senses. It confuses the whole man. It robs the stomach of nervous power, and digestion being impaired, the failure of life begins at once. Those, therefore, who are born with this passion—and a good many, I fear, are—should give it up.

Jealousy anticipates age. The facial expression of jealousy of is old age, in however young a face it may be cast. Jealousy preys upon and kills the heart. So, jealous men are not only unhappy, but broken-hearted, and live short lives. I have never known a man of jealous nature live any thing like a long or a useful life. The prevention of jealousy is diversion of mind toward useful and unselfish work.

Unchastity anticipates age. Everything that interferes with chastity favors vital deterioration, while the grosser departures from chastity, leading to specific and hereditary diseases, are certain causes of organic degeneration and premature old age. Thus chastity is preventive of senile decay.

Intemperance anticipates age. The more social causes of mental and physical organic diseases are investigated, the more closely the origin of degenerative organic changes leading to premature deterioration and decay are questioned, the more closely does it come out that intemperance, often not suspected by the person himself who is implicated in it, so subtle is its influence, is at the root of evil.

When old age has really commenced, its march toward final decay is best delayed by attention to those rules of conservation by which life is sustained with the least friction and the least waste.

The prime rules for this purpose are:

To subsist on light but nutritious diet, with milk as the standard food, but varied according to season. To take food in moderate quantity, four times in the day, including a light meal before going to bed. To clothe warmly, but lightly, so that the body may, in all seasons, maintain an equal temperature. To keep the body in fair exercise and the mind active and cheerful. To maintain an interest in what is going on in the world, and to take part in reasonable labors and pleasures, as though old age were not present. To take plenty of sleep during sleeping hours, to spend nine hours in bed at the least, and to take care during cold weather that the temperature of the bed-room is maintained at sixty degrees Fahrenheit. To avoid passion, excitement, luxury.—Philadelphia Call.

CONVICTS' APPEAL.

It is a remarkable petition or appeal which the inmates of the Tennessee Penitentiary have addressed to the people of the State. Next month Tennessee will vote on a proposed amendment to the constitution prohibiting the sale of liquor. The campaign is a vigorous one, and seemingly everybody is taking part in it, either for or against prohibition. Last week three hundred convicts signed the following, which was addressed to the voters of Tennessee and is being widely circulated through the State:

"In all ages in the history of mankind crimes, reformations and revolutions have been the direct result of practical experiences by the human family!

"One of these experiences has taught the people of the State of Tennessee that their prisons are filled, their poor houses occupied, and their paupers created by that soul destroying demon, 'whisky.'

"We, the inmates of the State Penitentiary, knowing by observation, and convinced by undeniable facts, that liquor is the cause of all the misery we endure, of all the hardships and privations we subject those to dependent upon us, do hereby most earnestly ask that the voters of this great State may seriously consider the question before them, and give their aid in word and deed, to the cause of 'Prohibition.'

"We do not say that every prisoner in the State is a habitual drunkard. We do not claim that every criminal act was perpetrated under the influence of whisky, but we earnestly assert that three-fourths confined in these walls can trace their downfall directly or indirectly to that cause.

"Wearing the garb of disgrace, being dishonored and counted unworthy to mingle with the people of our State, we yet have the same love for our wives, the same devotion to our mothers, the same affection for our sisters, and for their sake, and the sake of our children, we appeal to you to unite as one man, and free the State from a curse created by the hands of men, discountenanced by the law of God."

It is not an unusual thing for criminals to attribute their misdeeds to drink, but it is not often that these same criminals ask to be deprived of liquor. They are familiar with the evil of intoxication and know the consequences of liquor drinking, yet as a rule, they hold laws cruel and men their enemies who interfere to prevent drunkenness. The Tennessee convicts have done themselves credit in their confession and appeal, and the people of the State will do well to heed the advice given by these miserable men.

It is probably true that nine tenths of the crimes in this world may be traced directly to the use of intoxicants. Especially is this true of crimes of violence. Absolute prohibition if such a thing were possible, would make this a pretty good world so far as crimes against persons are concerned.—Salt Lake Herald.

INGERSOLLISM AND YOUNG MEN.

FROM letter to Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, in August North American Review, by Dr. Henry E. Field: You feel strong in the strength of a robust manhood, well poised in body and mind, and in the center of a happy home, where loving hearts cling to you like vines around the oak. But many to whom you speak are quite otherwise. You address thousands of young men who have come out of country homes, where they have been brought up in the fear of God, and have heard the morning and evening prayer. They come into a city full of temptations, but are restrained from evil by the thought of father and mother, and reverence of Him who is the Father of us all—a feeling, which thought it may not have taken the form of any profession, is yet at the bottom of their hearts, and keep them from many a wrong and wayward step. A young man who is thus "guarded and defended" as by unseen angels, some evening when he feels very lonely, is invited to "go and hear Ingersoll" for a couple of hours, listens to your caricatures of religion, with descriptions of the prayers and psalmsinging, illustrated by devout grimaces, nasal tones, which set the house in roars of laughter, and are received with tumultuous applause. When it is all over, and the young man finds himself again under the flaming lamps of the city streets, he is conscious of a change; the faith of his childhood has been rudely torn away from him, and with it "a glory has passed away from the earth;" the Bible which his mother gave him as he came away is "a mass of fables;" the sentence which she wished him to hang on the wall, "Thou, God, seest me," has lost its power, for there is no God that sees him, no moral government, no law and no retribution. So he reasons as he walks slowly homeward, meeting the temptations which haunt these streets at night—temptations from which he has hitherto turned with a shudder, but which he now meets with a diminished power of resistance. Have you done that young man any good in taking from him what he held sacred before? Have you not left him morally weakened? From sneering at religion it is but a step to sneering at morality, and then but one step more to a vicious and profligate career.

How are you going to stop this downward tendency? When you have stripped him of former restraints, do you leave him anything in their stead, except indeed a sense of honor, self-respect and self-interest?—worthy motives, no doubt, but all too feeble to withstand the fearful temptations that assail him. Is the chance of his resistance as good as it was before? Watch him as he goes along that street at midnight. He passes by the places of evil resort, of drinking and gambling—those open mouths of hell; he hears the sound of music and dancing, and for the first time pauses to listen. How long will it be before he will venture in?

With such dangers in his path, it is a grave responsibility to loosen the restraints which hold such a young man to virtue. These gibes and sneers which you utter so lightly may have a sad echo in a lost character and a wretched life. Many a young man has thus been taunted until he has pushed off from the shore, under the idea of gaining his "liberty," and ventured into the rapids, only to be carried down the stream and left a wreck in the whirlpool below!

Miscellaneous.

GRAPE WINE.

The following is used by the Plano Branch in making wine for Sacrament and medical purposes. Ripe, freshly picked, and selected, tame grapes, twenty pounds; put them into a stone jar and pour over them six quarts of boiling soft water; when sufficiently cool to allow it, you will squeeze them thoroughly with the hand; after which allow them to stand three days on the pomace, with a cloth thrown over the jar; then squeeze out the juice and add ten pounds of nice crushed sugar, and let it remain a week longer in the jar; then take off the scum, strain and bottle, leaving a vent until done fermenting, when strain again and bottle tight, and lay the bottle on the side in a cool place.

KENT AND ELGIN

Conference of the above district will convene in Chatham, Ontario, at 10 a. m., Saturday, October 8th 1887. Officers of branches will please see that their branches are reported. Clerks will please examine both sides of branch reports and fill in all items needed. I wish the solicitors for Bishop's Agent in the various branches to report to me at the end of the quarter and send in what means they have in their hands to me, or bring them to me at conference, in order that the families of the elders laboring in the field may be sustained. I also exhort the Saints to contribute their tithes and offerings so that the laborers may be kept in the field, for truly "the harvest is great and the laborers few."

RICHARD COBURN,
Sec'y, and Bishop's Ag't of Dist.

CHURCH LIBRARY.

We thank Elder D. S. Mills, of California, for a gift to the Church Library of the "Miracle Workers of the Bible," received by mail.

JOHN SCOTT, Librarian.

NOTICE.

At a regular business meeting of the Stewartsville branch, August 20th, 1887, a motion prevailed requiring the publication of the following names of members of said branch who have moved away without letters, asking them to call for such within the next quarter, otherwise they will be reported scattered members: Harriet A. Crawley, James E. Yates, Jacob Warnock, Laura C. Duncan, Wm. Duncan, Amos A. Yates, Adella May Snook, James W. Manzey, Ella Mack, Thomas Manzey, Susan Manzey, Eugene Ursebeck, John G. Morgan, D. R. Evans, Delila J. Perkins, Sarah Jane Thatcher.

J. M. TERRY, Pres.
D. R. BALDWIN, Clerk.

Wanted to know the whereabouts of Elder B. M. Starah. He was last seen near Denver, Colorado. W. H. Barrett, Box Elder, Laramie county, Colorado.

BORN.

HILL.—At Cedar Rapids, Iowa, May 28th, 1887, to Sr. Nellie and Bro. Lue Hills, a daughter. Blessed August 23d, 1887, by J. S. Roth, and named Ellen.

SHIMEL.—Near Chelsea, Iowa, April 6th, 1887, to Sr. Almy and Bro. George Shimel, a son. Blessed August 24th by J. S. Roth, and named Charles.

DIED.

EVANS.—At her home in Cleveland, Lucas county, Iowa, August 21st 1887, Isabella, daughter of Edward R. and sister Janet Evans, and granddaughter of John T. Phillips. She was born March 7th, 1868 in Nortonville, Contra Costa county, California; was baptized by Bro. Abner Lloyd, and remained a member of the church until her death. She leaves father, mother, brothers and sisters, and a large number of relatives to mourn her loss. She was a promising young woman, blooming with health and beauty until two weeks prior to her death, when she was taken sick with typhoid fever and seemed to fade away without her nearest friends realizing it; but she died peaceful, with a smile upon her lips, in the hope of a part in the resurrection of the just. She had many friends, being loved by all who knew her as a faithful and kind daughter, a loving sister and a true friend. The entire community deeply mourn her loss and sympathize with the relatives in their sad bereavement. She labored hard to assist her parents in the maintenance of a large family, for which she will receive her reward. Funeral services were conducted by Elder John Evans. Funeral sermon was preached by Elder John Watkins, Sen.

"Sister, thou wast mild and lovely,
Gentle as the summer breeze,
Pleasant as the air of evening,
When it floats among the trees.
Yet again we hope to meet thee,
When death's gloomy night has fled;
Then on earth with joy to greet thee,
Where no bitter tears are shed."

BUNKER.—At Streator, Illinois, of whooping cough and lung fever, Mattie, child of Bro. Edward and Sr. Ella Bunker, August 21st, 1887, aged 1 year and 9 months. Was blessed December 30th, 1885, by Elder W. Vickery.

Sleep on, dear Mattie, and take thy rest;
God took thee from us as he thought best.

ATKINSON.—Sister Diana Atkinson was born February 10th, 1863; was baptized June 18th, 1887, by Elder J. H. Merriam, died August 16th, 1887; funeral sermon by Elder J. A. McIntosh. Thus passed away one of the few. During her illness she was patient, gentle and resigned, and died trusting in God. Just before she died she called each of her brothers to her bedside and exhorted them to be good boys and men, and to pray. Finally, after kissing her father good-bye and exhorting her sister to be true to God, she affirmed that they would meet again. She then asked the time, and being answered, a quarter to nine, she said, "I will die at ten," and thought it a long time to wait. A shade of doubt came over her, and then all seemed light and clear, doubts and fears all gone. I have never seen or known a more gentle, sweet temper, and such resignation and enduring patience. She rests in hope. She wished the hymn "Shed not a tear," sung after she was gone. A very large concourse attended her to the cemetery to attest the high respect which was cherished for her by all who knew her. May those loved by her, yet bereaved of her, profit by her example and advice.

GOFF.—At his residence in Provo city, Utah, on the 4th day of August, 1887, elder James Goff, after a lingering illness which he bore with Christian fortitude, often longing for the time of his departure. He leaves an aged wife and six children to mourn their loss. Bro. Goff was born January 5th, 1809 in Warren county, Tennessee, and was with the church in its early days in Missouri and Illinois. Emigrated to Utah with Brigham Young, and the 16th of June, 1880, he was baptized, confirmed, and ordained an elder of the Reorganized church at Provo, by elder Joseph Luff. He sleeps in peace, and is at rest.

THRUTCHLEY.—Harriet, infant daughter of Bro. Abram G. and Mary L. Thutchley was born June 22d, 1887, and died August 2d, 1887.

Darling Hattie you have left us,
And our loss we deeply feel;
But 'tis God who has bereft us,
He can all our sorrows heal.

Mrs. Rose Terry Cooks says that American women don't know how to live. If they want health, she writes, let them learn to live in fresh air—open their windows, wear flannel night-gowns, and take a jug of hot water to bed if they are cold, but never to sleep with closed windows—and air all their clothes and their room daily, eat simple, wholesome food, wear boneless waists and button their skirts on them, and take the heels off their boots. Then, she argues, they will be rosy, happy, healthy, and a comfort to everybody as well as themselves.

THE GOSPEL PACKAGE,

Containing one copy of the Voice of Warning, an assortment of Tracts, letter paper, envelopes, and printed recipes valuable in every household, by mail to any part of United States for 35c in stamps or otherwise.

W. C. LANYON, LAMONI, IOWA.

150 TOWN LOTS.

I am prepared to furnish any one wanting a lot, either Business or Residence, in

LAMONI,

at low prices and very easy terms. Some fine acre pieces also. Call on or address

J. W. DENOON, M. D., Lamoni.

20aug3m

LADIES or Gents, Girls or Boys, wanted in Europe and America, to sell our Folding Bustles, Portable Bed-springs, Tidy Holders, Sewing Machine Relief Springs, &c. For terms, address Bro. B. F. Ordway, Peoria, U.S.A.; or Bro. Henry Tabbiner, 2 Grafton-st., Hanley, England. 6aug

The Sisters' Aid Society of Independence branch have for sale for the benefit of the new church, two Cabinet Photographs: one of the THREE WITNESSES, with views of the HILL CUMORAH and the ANGEL delivering the PLATES; the other of the OLD LIBERTY JAIL as it now stands, for 25 cts each. Those desiring to purchase can address Mrs. B. C. Smith, box 61, Independence, Missouri. 23jau3m

Foreign Money Orders.

Bear in mind the fact that the post office at Lamoni is now a Foreign Money Order Office. Therefore, those in foreign countries sending moneys to this office should draw them on Lamoni, Iowa, U. S. A.

ZION'S HOPE

Is published every Saturday by the Church of Christ, at Lamoni, Iowa. Single copies, per year, 50c; packages of four to ten 40c; packages of over ten 35c.

Welsh Hymn Book.

We have on hand about 100 copies of a book, entitled "Llyfr Hymnau at Wasaneth Eglwys Iesu Grist, Ad-Redoleiddedig Sant y Dydd Diweddaf." There are 393 hymns in Welsh and 23 in English. It is published by the church in Wales, and sent here for sale. Sixty cents each, free of postage; bound in full leather, marbled edges.

HOW TO SEND MONEY.

Remit by Post Office Order, or by Express Order, on Lamoni, Iowa. Or by Bank Drafts on Chicago or New York only; personal checks on banks in any other cities can not be used at par. Money Orders from Foreign countries should be made payable at Lamoni, Decatur county, Iowa.

Lamoni and Vicinity.

Those wishing to become acquainted with Lamoni and vicinity, will do well to subscribe for

THE LAMONI GAZETTE

A weekly paper, now published by

LAMBERT & HANSEN.

declintf

J. H. HANSEN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Will practice in Lamoni and vicinity; calls made at all hours. Office in Drug Store of Hansen & Walker, Lamoni

MIDWIFERY and DISEASES of WOMEN a Specialty

Residence one block East Teal's Store. 14Feb1y

Money Orders.

Money Orders are much safer than Postal Notes when remitting to this office, and they cost but two cents more. Don't forget this, lest you lose money.

D. DANCER, Manager.

"A BOOK FOR THE PEOPLE."

CAPTIVATING! USEFUL! Eloquent Discussions, and Diplomatic Papers on the Great Public Questions of the Past and Present, by JAMES G. BLAINE.

Embracing his masterly arguments on the vital issues in the Anti-Slavery Struggle, the All Important Labor Question, Prohibition, Irish Home-Rule, etc., etc. "A FORTUNE FOR BOOK CANVASSERS! APPLICATIONS FOR TERRITORY COMING IN WITH A RUSH!" THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING CO., NORWICH, CT.

WHEN YOU TRAVEL

Take the

Line selected by the United States Government to carry the Fast Mail,—the

As it is the Line running Through Trains to and from the following cities and towns on its own Lines:

- CHICAGO,
- AURORA, OTTAWA,
- STREATOR, ROCKFORD, DUBUQUE,
- LA CROSSE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS,
- MENDOTA, PEORIA, GALESBURG, ST. LOUIS,
- QUINCY, KEOKUK, BURLINGTON, WASHINGTON,
- OSKALOOSA, DES MOINES, CHARITON,
- GRESTON, ST. JOSEPH, ATCHISON,
- KANSAS CITY, NEBRASKA CITY,
- OMAHA, COUNCIL BLUFFS,
- LINCOLN & DENVER,

Making Direct Connections

TO AND FROM

- NEW YORK,
- BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON,
- CINCINNATI, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON,
- NEW ORLEANS, LOUISVILLE, SAN FRANCISCO,
- LOS ANGELES, SALT LAKE CITY, COLORADO AND PACIFIC COAST RESORTS, CITY OF MEXICO,
- PORTLAND, OREGON, MANITOBA,
- VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND POINTS.

Good Equipment, Good Service, Good Connection.

For information concerning the Burlington Route, apply to the nearest Ticket Agent of the C., B. & Q. or connecting railroads.

HENRY B. STONE, PAUL MORTON,
General Manager, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Train Leaves Lamoni, Going East at 1:45 p.m.
Do. do. West 2:53 "

At Bethany Junction, 3 miles east of Lamoni
Trains pass going South at 3:07 a.m. Going
East and West, pass at 12:10 a.m.

PUBLICATIONS ISSUED AND FOR SALE

—) BY THE (—
Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church,
at their Publishing House in
LAMONI, DECATUR CO., IOWA,
And sent Free of Postage at prices named.

Holy Scriptures.

Inspired Translation by Joseph Smith the Prophet.
Sheep or Library binding.....1 50
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....2 00
Full Morocco, gilt edges.....2 50
New Testament, inspired edition.....75

Book of Mormon.

Roan, sprinkled edges.....1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....1 50
Full Morocco, gilt edges.....1 75

Doctrine and Covenants.

Sprinkled Sheep, or Library.....1 25
Imitation Morocco.....1 50

The Saints' Harp—Hymn Book.

Imitation Morocco, marbled edges.....1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....1 50

Life of Joseph the Prophet, History of the Reorganized Church, and Autobiography of Joseph Smith.

In Cloth, full gilt finished, very handsome.....2 25
This book contains 827 pages of large, clear reading matter; also, three very fine Steel Engravings, and a fac simile of the Autograph of Joseph the Prophet and Emma, and of Joseph Smith; also, Steel Engraving of Hy. um Smith. A complete history of the Church up to 1880.

Joseph Smith the Prophet, and His Progenitors.

Muslin Boards, 312 pages, by Lucy Smith.....75
Leather Binding.....1 00

Hesperis.

Poems by David H. Smith, 202 pages, fancy cloth, gilt edges.....1 50

Rules of Order and Debate.

For all Deliberative Assemblies of the Church; also, a Chapter on Branch Rules, and one on Reports of Branches and Districts; 128 pages, limp cloth.....40

Joseph the Seer.

His Prophetic Mission Vindicated, and the Divine Origin of the Book of Mormon Defended and Maintained. Paper covers 200 pages.....35
This is a reply by Elder W. W. Blair to Elder William Sheldon of the Second Advent Society, and is an important work to be in the hands of the ministry of the Church, especially; and it is a most excellent one to be circulated both in the Church and among those without, abounding in proofs never before presented in defense of Joseph Smith and the Book of Mormon.

Voice of Warning.

And Instruction to all People, on the Doctrine and History of the Latter Day work; 128 pages
In Paper Covers, twelve for $1.....each 10)
Limp Cloth Covers, each.....25)

Prophetic Truth.

Confirmed in the appearing of the Book of Mormon an Israelitish Record of a Fallen People; paper covers; five for $1.....each 25)
Being the Subject of an Evening's Conversation Respecting its Origin. Its Divinity Proved by the Scriptures and Collateral Evidence. Prefaced with a Brief Sketch of the Life of the Prophet, showing the way and manner of his becoming possessed of the Record.

Branch Records.

Leather backs and corners, muslin sides; printed headings, and ruled for Record of Names, Blessing of Children, and for Marriages.....2 00

District Records.

Printed and bound similar to Branch Records.....3 00

Licences, Notices, &c.

Elders, Priests, Teachers, and Deacons Licences, each per dozen.....12
Blank Preaching Notices, per hundred, 40c. and.....50
Baptism and Confirmation Certificate books, with blank stub, 35 for.....25

Certificates and Reports.

Branch Statistical Reports, per dozen.....40
Annual Statistical Reports, two for.....12
Certificate of Baptism and Membership, per dozen.....12
Certificate of Removal, per dozen.....12
Marriage Certificates, per dozen.....25

"Manuscript Found."

We have for sale at this office the notorious "Manuscript Found," written by Rev. Solomon Spaulding, about which so much has been said in connection with the theory that it furnished Joseph Smith and Sidney Rigdon the chief ground work and material from which to write the Book of Mormon. Has 144 pages 8 mo.; single copies, in cloth, 25 cents; 10 copies or more to one address, 20 cents each; in paper, single copies 15 cents; 10 copies or more, to one address, 13 cents each.

Tracts.

- No. 2.—Truth Made Manifest; 20c. a doz., per 100.....1 50
- No. 3.—Voice of the Good Shepherd; 6c. a doz., 100.....40
- No. 4.—Epitome of Faith and Doctrine of the Church and the Kirtland Temple Suit; 5c. per doz., 25c. per 100, 50c. for 250, $1 for 500, per 1,000.....1 75
- No. 5.—The Gospel.....price the same as No. 4
- No. 6.—The "One Baptism;" its Mode, Subjects, Prerequisites, and Design,—and Who Shall Administer; 16 pages; 25c. per doz., per 100.....1 75
- No. 7.—Who Then Can be Saved; 5c. a doz., 100.....40
- No. 8.—Fulness of the Atonement; 25c. a doz., 100.....1 75
- No. 9.—Spiritualism Viewed from a Scriptural Standpoint; 20 pages; 30c. per dozen, 100.....2 25
- No. 10.—The Narrow Way; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100 for 1 10
- No. 11.—The Plan of Salvation; 30c. a dozen, 100.....2 25
- No. 12.—The Bible versus Polygamy; 25c. a dozen, 100.....1 65
- No. 14.—Reply to Orson Pratt; 25c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 75
- No. 15.—Brighamite Idolatry; 5c. a dozen, per 100.....40
- No. 16.—Polygamy; Was it an Original Tenet of the Church; 20c. a dozen, 100.....1 40
- No. 17.—The Successor in the Prophetic Office and Presidency of the Church; 25c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 75
- No. 18.—Rejection of the Church; 15c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 10
- No. 20.—The "One Body;" or the Church of Christ under the Apostleship and under the Apostasy; 12 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 40
- No. 21.—Truth by Three Witnesses; 3c. a doz., 100.....15
- No. 22.—Faith and Repentance; 15c. a dozen, 100.....1 10
- No. 23.—Baptism; 10 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 25
- No. 24.—The Kingdom of God; 5c. a dozen, 100 for.....40
- No. 25.—Laying on of Hands; 5c. a dozen, 100 for.....40
- No. 26.—Mountain of the Lord's House; 4 pages; 5c. a dozen, per 100.....40
- No. 27.—The Sabbath Question; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 40
- No. 29.—A Vision of the Resurrection, from the Doctrine and Covenants; 6c. a dozen, 100 for.....40
- No. 30.—Origin of the Book of Mormon; 15 cents a dozen, per 100.....1 10
- No. 31.—What is Truth? and True Orthodoxy? and an Evangelical Church? Also, the Kirtland Temple Suit. Per dozen 6c., 100 for 25c. 250 for 50c., 500 for $1, 1,000 for.....1 75
- No. 32.—Which is the Church? 5c. a dozen, 100.....40
- No. 36.—The Spaulding Story Re-Examined; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....1 25
- A Memorial to Congress; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100.....1 10
- Trial of the Witnesses to the Resurrection; 32 pages; 6c. each, per dozen.....60
- Prophecy on the Rebellion; per 100.....15
- An assortment of Tracts, 35 cents.
- COMPLETE SET OF TRACTS.
Bound in Limp Cloth turned in.....75

Reply to Littlefield.

We have for sale at this office, in pamphlet form, containing 48 pages, the "Reply of President Joseph Smith to L. O. Littlefield in refutation of the doctrine of plural marriage." Price, post paid, single copies 10 cents; 75 cents per dozen to one address.

Forscutt and Shinn Discussion.

J. Shinn affirms "The Bible Teaches the Coming of Christ to Judge the World is now past." M. H. Forscutt affirms "The Bible Teaches the Literal Resurrection of the Body from the Grave." Paper covers, 104 pages.....25

Visions of Joseph Smith, The Seer.

Discoveries of Ancient American Records and Relics, with the statement of a Converted Jew, and of others; paper covers, 43 pages.....10

Concordance to Book of Covenants.

An enlarged new edition; paper covers, 32 pages.....10

Sunday School Supplies.

Sunday School Engineer and Record Book.....50
Prompt Attendance Tickets.....100 for 15c., 1,000 for 1 00
Good Behavior Tickets.....Same price.

Miscellaneous.

- The Problem of Human Life Here and Hereafter, by A. Wilford Hall; 544 pages, in cloth boards.....1 50
- Universalism Against Itself, by A. Wilford Hall; in cloth boards; 336 pages.....1 00
- Josephus, complete in one vol., library leather.....3 50
- Gibson's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, cloth boards, 6 vols.....4 00
- Mosheim's Church History, cloth boards, 2 vols.....4 00
- Baldwin's Ancient American, (illustrated), cloth.....1 80
- Rollin's Ancient History, 2 vols. in one, leather.....4 00
- The Koran, library leather.....2 00
- Gieseler's Ecclesiastical History, from A. D. 1 till 1854, cloth boards, 5 vols.....10 00
- The Ecclesiastical History of Eusebius Pamphilus, Bishop of Caesarea, to Palestine, cloth boards.....2 00
- Cruden's Complete Concordance of the Bible.....1 75
- The Bible Text Book.....1 00
- Apocryphal New Testament.....1 65
- Brown's Concordance of the Bible.....60
- Emerson's Ready Binder, Herald size.....85
- Emerson's Ready Binder, Hope size.....90
- Emerson's Ready Binder, Advocate size.....50
- Five Quires of Note Paper, 120 sheets.....50
- Five Quires of Note Paper, better quality.....60

Tracts in German.

Tracts in the German Language may be had of Bro. Ad. Richter, Burlington, Iowa: The Baptism, 6 cents; the Repentance, 6 cents; the Principles of the Gospel, 6 cents; the Epitome of Faith, 2c.; the Sixth Trumpet, a fifty-four page pamphlet, 25c. These prices include postage.

THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price $2.50 per year. Money may be sent by Post Office Order, Registered Letter, or by Express on Lamoni, addressed DAVID DANCER, Box 882, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa. ALL matters of business connected with the office should be addressed to DAVID DANCER; communications and articles to the EDITOR.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEarken to the word of the Lord: for there shall not any man among you have save it be one wife, and concubines he shall have none."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.

"We believe that one man should have one wife, and one woman but one husband: except in case of death, when either is at liberty to marry again."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 34.—Whole No. 748.

Lamoni, Iowa, September 17, 1887.

No. 38.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,

Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

Business letters and subscriptions must be sent to David Dancer, by P.O. Order, Registered letter or express Entered as second class matter at Lamoni Post Office.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH

EDITOR.

W. W. BLAIR

ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, Sept. 17, 1887.

PERSECUTION AND ITS CAUSES.

(Continued from page 585).

In the following "Appeal" it will be observed that the Saints, and notably those who sign it, among whom was David Whitmer, had not the remotest thought of using violence in regaining their lands and property, nor of aiding others to do so, and did not propose using carnal weapons only in personal defense, or in the service of the State when legally called upon to do so, as has been heretofore shown. Some of these passages we have italicised, that the reader's attention may be called specially to what were the intentions and purposes of the leading men for and in behalf of the church, and to show that their desires were for peace with all men, and that they sought, and intended ever to seek and obtain their rights and privileges as guaranteed to them by the laws of the land, and to do this by legal, orderly, peaceful means:

"AN APPEAL.

"Whereas the Church of Christ, recently styled the Church of the Latter Day Saints, contumeliously called Mormons, or Mormonites, has suffered many privations, afflictions, persecutions and losses, on account of the religious belief and faith of its members, which belief and faith are founded in the revealed word of God as recorded in the Holy Bible, the Book of Mormon, the Revelations and Commandments of our Savior Jesus Christ; and whereas the said church, by revelation, commenced removing to the western boundaries of the State of Missouri where lands were purchased of the Government, and where it was calculated to purchase of those who were unwilling to reside with the church as a society all lands that could be bought, for the purpose of building up a holy city unto God, a New Jerusalem, a place [we] were desirous to call Zion, as we believe a place of refuge from the scourges and plagues which are so often mentioned in the Bible by the prophets and apostles that should be poured out upon the earth in the last days; and whereas, the inhabitants of Jackson county, Missouri, have leagued and combined against said church, and have driven the Saints from their lands and took their arms from them and burned down many of their houses without any provocation; and whereas, we have petitioned the Governor of this State, and the President of the United States, for redress of wrongs, (the law being put to defiance in Jackson county), and for redemption of rights, that we might be legally repossessed of our lands and property; and whereas the said inhabitants of Jackson county have not only bound themselves to keep us out of that county, but have armed themselves, cap a pie, and even with cannon, for war; and whereas our people residing in the upper Missouri have recently armed themselves for military duty and self defence, seeing their arms taken from them by the inhabitants of Jackson county were purposely kept from them; and whereas a number of the members of the church in the east have emigrated to this region of country to settle and join their brethren, with arms to answer the military law, which has created some excitement among the inhabitants of the upper counties of this State; whereupon, to show that our object was only the peaceable possession of our rights and property, and to purchase more land in the regions round about, we met a committee from Jackson county for compromise, and our emigrating brethren met some gentlemen from Clay and other counties to satisfy them that their motives were good, and their object peace, which they did; and whereas the propositions of the Jackson committee could not be accepted on our part, because they proposed to 'buy or sell,' and to sell our land would amount to a denial of our faith, as that land is the place where the Zion of God shall stand according to our faith and belief in the revelations of God, and upon which Israel will be gathered according to the prophets: And, secondly, the propositions were unfair, notwithstanding they offered double price for our lands in thirty days, or sell theirs at the same rate, for this plain reason, that the whole large county of Jackson would be as thirty to one, or nearly so, in comparison with the matter in question; and in supposition, for one thousand dollars, two thousand dollars to our people, was asking for three hundred thousand dollars the exorbitant sum of six hundred thousand dollars, taking the land, rich and poor, in thirty days! with the reproachable, vicious, unamerican, and unconstitutional proviso that the committee on our part bind themselves 'that no Mormon should ever settle in Jackson county;' and whereas our committee proposed to the said Jackson committee, (if they would not grant us our rights otherwise), that our people would buy the land of those that were unwilling to live among our people in that county, and pay them in one year, they allowing the damage we have sustained in the loss of a printing office, apparatus, and book work, houses, property, &c., to come out of the purchase money, but no answer returned; and whereas, to show our honest intention and awaken the friends of virtue, humanity and equal rights, it becomes our duty to lay our case before the world, to be weighed in the balances of public opinion:

"Now, therefore, as citizens of the United States, and leading elders in the Church of the Latter Day Saints, residing in the State of Missouri, in behalf of the church, we, the undersigned, do make this solemn appeal to the people and constitutional authorities of this nation and to the ends of the earth, for peace; that we may have the privilege of enjoying our religious rights and immunities, and worship God according to the dictates of our own consciences, as guaranteed to every citizen by the constitution of the National and State governments. That, although the laws have been broken and are defied in Jackson county, we may be enabled to regain and enjoy our rights and property, agreeable to law in this boasted land of liberty.

"Since the disgraceful combination of the inhabitants of Jackson county has set the law at defiance and put all hopes of criminal prosecution against them in that vicinage beyond the reach of judge or jury, and left us but a distant expectation of civil remuneration for the great amount of damage we have sustained, necessity compels us to complain to the world; and if our case and calamity are not sufficient to excite the commiseration of the humane, and open the hearts of the generous, and fire the spirits of the patriotic, then has sympathy lost herself in the wilderness and justice fled from power; then has the dignity of the ermine shrunk at the gigantic front of a mob, and the sacred mantle of freedom been caught up to heaven where the weary are at rest and the wicked can not come.

"To be obedient to the commandments of our Lord and Savior, some of the leaders of the church commenced purchasing lands in the western boundaries of the State of Missouri, according to the revelations of God, for the city of Zion, in doing which no law was evaded, no rights infringed, nor no principle of religion neglected, but the laudable foundation of a glorious work began for the salvation of mankind in the last days, agreeable to our faith, and according to the promises in the sacred scriptures of God. We verily believed—knowing that the national and state constitutions and the statute laws of the land, and the commandments of the Lord, allowed all men to worship as they pleased—that we should be protected, not only by all the law of a free republic, but by every republican throughout the realms of freedom.

“The holy prophets have declared, ‘that it should come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord’s house should be established in the top of the mountains and should be exalted above the hills, and all nations shall flow unto it. And many people should go and say, come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob, and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths; for out of Zion shall go forth the law and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem.’ And again it was said by Joel, seemingly to strengthen the faith of the Latter Day Saints in the above, ‘That whosoever should call on the name of the Lord should be delivered, for in Mount Zion and in Jerusalem shall be deliverance, as the Lord hath said, and in the remnant whom the Lord shall call.’ The Book of Mormon, which we hold equally sacred with the Bible, says ‘that a New Jerusalem shall be built up on this land unto the remnant of the seed of Joseph, for the which things there has been a type.’

“In fact all the prophets from Moses to John the revelator have spoken concerning these things; and in all good faith, by direct revelation from the Lord, as in days of old, we commenced the glorious work, that a holy city, a New Jerusalem, even Zion might be built up, and a temple reared in this generation, whereunto, as saith the Lord, all nations should be invited: Firstly the rich and the learned, the wise and the noble; and after that cometh the day of his power; but the inhabitants of Jackson county arrayed themselves against us, because of our faith and belief, and destroyed our printing establishment to prevent the spread of the work, and drove men, women and children from their lands, houses and homes, to perish in the approaching winter, while every blast carried the wailing of women and the shrieks of children across the wide spread prairie, sufficiently horrible to draw tears from the savage or melt a heart of stone!

“Now, that the world may know that our faith in the work and word of the Lord is firm and unshaken, and to shew all nations, kindreds, tongues and people, that our object is good for the good of all, we come before the great family of mankind for peace, and ask their hospitality and assurance for our comfort and the preservation of our persons and property, and solicit their charity for the great cause of God. We are well aware that many slanderous reports and ridiculous stories are in circulation against our religion and society, but as wise men will hear both sides and then judge, we sincerely hope and trust that the still small voice of truth will be heard and our great revelations read and candidly compared with the prophecies of the Bible, that the great cause of our Redeemer may be supported by a liberal share of public opinion, as well as [by] the unseen power of God.

“It will be seen by a reference to the Book of Commandments, page 135, that the Lord has said to the church, (and we want to live by his words): ‘Let no man break the laws of the land, for he that keepeth the laws of God hath no need to break the laws of the land;’ therefore, as the people of God we come before the world and claim protection by law from the common officers of justice in every neighborhood where our people may be; we claim the same at the hands of the Governors of the several States, and of the President of the United States, and of the friends of humanity and justice in every clime and country on the globe.

“By the desperate acts of the inhabitants of Jackson county many hundreds of American citizens are deprived of their lands and rights; and it is reported we mean to regain our possessions, and even Jackson county, ‘by the shedding of blood’ but if any man will take the pains to read the 153rd page of the Book of Commandments he will find it there said:

“Wherefore the land of Zion shall not be obtained but by purchase, or by blood, otherwise there is none inheritance for you. And if by purchase, behold you are blessed; and if by blood, as you are forbidden to shed blood, lo, your enemies are upon you, and you shall be scourged from city to city, and from synagogue to synagogue, and but few shall stand to receive an inheritance.’

“So we declare, that we have ever meant, and now mean to purchase the land of our inheritance, like all other honest men, of the Government and of those who would rather sell their farms than live in our society; and, as thousands have done before us, we solicit the aid of the children of men, and of Government, to help us to obtain our rights in Jackson county, and the land whereon the Zion of God, according to our faith, shall stand in the last days for the salvation and gathering of Israel.

“Let no man be alarmed because our society has commenced gathering to build a city, and a house for the Lord, as a refuge from present evils and coming calamities; our fore-fathers came to the goodly land of America to shun persecution and enjoy their religious opinions and rights as they thought proper; and the Lord, after much tribulation, blessed them, and has said that we should continue to importune for redress and redemption by the hands of those who are placed as rulers, and are in authority over us, according to the laws and Constitution of the people, which he has suffered to be established, and should be maintained for the rights and protection of all flesh, according to just and holy principles, that every man may act in doctrine and in principle pertaining to futurity according to the moral agency which he has given them; that every man may be accountable for his own sins in the day of judgment; and for this purpose he has established the Constitution of this land by the hands of wise men whom he raised up unto this very purpose, and redeemed the land by the shedding of blood.

“Now we seek peace, and ask our rights, even redress and redemption, at the hands of the rulers of this nation; not only our lands and property in Jackson county, but for free trade with all men, and unmolested emigration to any part of the Union, and for our inherent right to worship God as we please. We ask the restoration of these rights because they have been taken from us, or abridged by the violence and usurpation of the inhabitants of Jackson county. As a people we hold ourselves amenable to the laws of the land, and while the Government remains as it is, the right to emigrate from state to state, from territory to territory, from county to county, and from vicinity to vicinity, is open to all men of whatever trade or creed, without hindrance or molestation; and as long as we are justifiable and honest in the eyes of the law, we claim it, whether we remove by single families, or in bodies of hundreds, with that of carrying the necessary arms and accoutrements for military duty; and we believe that all honest men who love their country and their country’s glory, and have a wish to see the law magnified and made honorable, will help to perpetuate the great legacy of freedom that came unimpaired from the hands of our venerable fathers to us, but [and] they will also protect us from insult and injury, and aid the work of God, that they may reap a reward in the regions of bliss when all men receive according to their works.

“In relation to our distress from the want of our lands in Jackson county, and for the want of the property destroyed by fire and waste, rather than do any act contrary to law, we solemnly appeal to the people with whom we tarry for protection from insult and harm, and for the comforts of life by labor or otherwise, while we seek peace and satisfaction of our enemies, through every possible and honorable means which humanity can dictate, or philanthropy urge, or religion require. We are citizens of this republic, and we ask our rights as republicans, not merely in our restoration to our lands and property in Jackson county, Missouri, but [by] being considered honest in our faith, honest in our deal, and honest before God, till by due course of law we may be proved otherwise, reserving the right of every man’s being held amenable to the proper authority for his own crimes and sins.

“Crowns won by blood, by blood must be maintained;” and to avoid blood and strife and more fully satisfy the world that our object is peace and good will to all mankind, we hereby APPEAL for peace to the ends of the earth, and ask the protection of all people while we use every fair means in our power to obtain our rights and immunities without force, setting an example for all true believers that we will not yield our faith and principles for any earthly consideration whereby a precedent might be established that a majority may crush any religious sect with impunity, knowing that if we give up our rights in Jackson county, farewell to society! farewell to religion! farewell to rights! farewell to property! farewell to life! The fate of our church now might become the fate of the Methodist next week, the Catholics next month, and the overthrow of all societies next year, leaving nation after nation a wide waste where reason and friendship once were!

"Another, and the great object which we mean to accomplish is the salvation of the souls of men. And to bring to pass a glorious work, like many other religious denominations in all ages we shall license elders to preach the everlasting gospel to all nations according to the great commandments of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ as recorded in St. Matthew, 'Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.'

"Thus we shall send laborers into the Lord's vineyard to gather the wheat and prepare the earth against the day when desolations shall be poured out without measure; and as it now is and ever has been considered one of the most honorable and glorious employments of men to carry good tidings to the nations, so we shall expect the clemency of all men while we go forth, for the last time, to gather Israel for the glory of God, that he may suddenly come to his temple, that all nations may come and worship in his presence when there shall be none to molest or make afraid, but the earth shall be filled with his knowledge and glory.

"We live in an age of fearful imagination; with all the sincerity that common men are endowed with the Saints have labored, without pay, to instruct the United States that the gathering had commenced in the western boundaries of Missouri to build a holy city, where, as may be seen in the eighteenth chapter of Isaiah, 'The present should be brought unto the Lord of Hosts, of a people scattered and peeled, and from a people terrible from their beginning hitherto: a nation meted out and trodden under foot, whose land the rivers have spoiled, to the place of the name of the Lord of Hosts the Mount Zion;' and how few have come forth rejoicing that the hour of redemption was nigh! And some that came have turned away, which may cause thousands to exclaim amid the general confusion and fright of the times, 'Remember Lot's wife.'

"It would be a work of supererogation to labor to show the truth of the gathering of the children of Israel in these last days, for the prophet told us long ago, 'That it should no more be said, the Lord liveth that brought the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt, but the Lord liveth that brought up the children of Israel from the land of the North, and from the lands whither he had driven them;' and so it must be for the honor and glory of God.

"The faith and religion of the Latter Day Saints are founded upon the old Scriptures, the Book of Mormon, and direct revelation from God; and while every event that transpires around us is an evidence of the truth of them, and an index that the great and terrible day of the Lord is near, we entreat the philanthropist, the moralist, and the honorable men of all creeds and sects to read our publications, to examine the Bible, Book of Mormon, and the Commandments, and listen to the fulness of the gospel, and judge whether we are entitled to the credit of the world for honest motives and pure principles.

"A cloud of bad omen seems to hang over this generation. Men start up at the impulse of the moment and defy and outstrip all law, while the destroyer is also abroad in the earth wasting flesh without measure, and none can stay his course. In the midst of such portentous times we feel an anxious desire to prepare, and help others to prepare, for coming events; and we candidly believe that no honest man will put forth his hand to stop the work of the Lord or persecute the Saints. In the name of Jesus Christ we entreat the people of this nation to pause before they reject the words of the Lord, or his servants: these, like all flesh, may be imperfect, but God is pure, hear ye him!

"While we ask peace and protection for the Saints, wherever they may be, we also solicit the charity and benevolence of all the worthy on earth to purchase the righteous a holy home, a place of rest, and a land of peace, believing that no man who knows he has a soul will keep back his mite, but cast it in for the benefit of Zion; thus, when time is no longer, he with all the ransomed of the Lord may stand in the fulness of joy, and view the grand pillar of heaven which was built by the faith and charity of the Saints, beginning at Adam, with his motto in the base, 'Repent and live;' surrounded with a beautiful sign supported by a cross about midway up its lofty column, staring the world in letters of blood, 'The kingdom of heaven is at hand,' and finished with a plain top towering up in the midst of the celestial world, around which is written by the finger of Jehovah, 'Eternal life is the greatest gift of God.'

"Although we may fail to show all men the truth of the fulness of the gospel, yet we hope to be able to convince some that we are neither deluded, nor fanatic, but, like other men have a claim on the world for land and for a living, as good and as great as our venerable fathers had for independence and liberty; that, though the world has been made to believe by false reports and vague stories that the Saints, (called Mormons), were meaner than the savages, still God has been our help in time of trouble and has provided for us in due season; and, to use the language of Pope, he has let the work 'spread undivided,' and 'operate unspent.'

"For the honor of our beloved country and the continuation of its free government, we appeal for peace; for an example of forbearance, and the diffusion of the everlasting gospel, we appeal to the humanity of all nations; and for the glory of God, before whom we must all answer for the deeds done in life, and for the hope of holiness hereafter, we mean to remain faithful to the end, continuing to pray to the Lord to spare us, and the people, from whatever is evil, and not calculated to humble us, and prepare us for his presence and glory; at the same time beseeching him in the name of Jesus to extend his blessings to whom he will, and his mercy to all, till by righteousness the kingdoms of this world become fair as the sun, and clear as the moon. Missouri, U. S., July, 1834.

Signed,

"W. W. PHELPS,
"EDWARD PARTRIDGE,
"PARLEY P. PRATT,
"THOMAS B. MARSH,
"DAVID WHITMER,
"JOHN CORRILL,
"LYMAN WIGHT,
"SIMEON CARTER,
"JOHN WHITMER,
"ISAAC MORLEY,
"NEWEL KNIGHT,
"CALVIN BEEBE."

THE Camp Meeting at Plum Hollow, Iowa, beginning August 26th, and continuing till September 4th, inclusive, was a most decided success. Bro. Henry Kemp was chosen to preside, Bro. Daniel Hougas being chosen to assist him. A competent corps of police, under the charge of Bro. C. Moore was appointed; and the song service placed in charge of Bro. George Kemp, who secured from the many excellent singers present, a choir that met the requirements of the occasion. The singing from first to last was good. The grounds upon which the meeting was held were very pleasantly located on a sloping hillside, open to the west, and sufficiently large to afford room for tents, wagons, carriages and buggies. The brethren with Bro. William Leeka at the lead had sent for a tent forty by fifty feet in size, and this was pitched in an open spot that gave room for it, and furnished shade on three sides for seats for the overflow. Water for men and animals was plenty and good. Hay had been provided in abundance and provisions were to be had for all who wanted them.

The meetings began on Friday evening, the 26th, the necessary officers were appointed, and the conduct and times of holding the sessions were agreed upon. The exercises began with a prayer and testimony meeting at nine, which closed at half past ten a. m. The preaching sessions were at eleven in the forenoon, and at half past two, and half past seven in the afternoon. These services were all well attended, and a most excellent feeling prevailed from the first. It rained heavily on Thursday of the second week, causing some inconvenience from wet tents and bedding; but this did not result in the loss of a single service, for the large tent was ample and tight. On Friday evening Pres. Joseph Smith gave a lecture on Temperance, at the request of several of the citizens, which was largely attended and was well received. The preaching was done by Brn. Joseph Smith, Joseph Luff, Charles Derry, Robert M. Elvin, Daniel Hougas and Henry Kemp, the burden falling on the first four named. The Sunday service of both days was very largely attended, it being estimated that thousands were present on both the first and last Sunday, the larger number being on the last day. The country side for miles in every direction was represented by families, or parts of families, in road carts, single and double buggies, wagons and carriages of all descriptions, and in great numbers. Persons were present from all or nearly all the towns for twenty miles in every direction. It was said to be the most orderly and best camp meeting ever held in the country.

Hundreds of new faces were seen, and from the first to the last most respectful order was observed. There was no loud and boisterous language indulged in by any, no harm was done to tent or wagon that we heard of; and there was no ill feeling exhibited by anyone; all seemed to try to behave well. On Sunday the greatness of the crowd prevented many from getting seats, so that there was some walking about in groups, and some little talking near the tent, but this was more in thoughtlessness than out of disrespect, and so was not noted as offences.

On Friday evening the Brass Band from the town of Plum Hollow favored the camp with music after the evening services were over, and on the following evening the String Band gave some excellent pieces in the tent; and on the Saturday afternoon the Brass Band in force came on the grounds and played for an hour after the afternoon services were ended, rendering some pleasant music. Permission of those in charge was asked by these musicians, before they came, which permission was cheerfully accorded to them.

The weather was for the most part pleasant, and on the last day simply superb, a day to be remembered a lifetime. Fifteen were baptized during the session, Bro. Joseph Luff administering in the rite. At the confirmation the Spirit was very visibly present. Altogether, the Plum Hollow Camp Meeting was one of the best and most telling services ever held by the Saints in that locality. It was decided to repeat it at the same place next year, the time to be fixed by the committee, of which time due notice will be given through the HERALD.

ABRIDGE CONFERENCE MINUTES.

THE increase in conference minutes, both as to number and size, owing to the growth of the church and the spreading abroad of its missionary work, renders it needful that all conference minutes be as thoroughly abridged when sent to this office for publication as can be and express essential facts. It is not wisdom to burden the columns of the HERALD with the routine and unimportant details, but only with the facts as to what has been done, and these put in plain, concise form. When the secretaries give us a clear, concise statement of their conference proceedings, leaving out formalities and all needless words, it will save them much time and paper, save the editors' time, save largely in type work, and save space in the HERALD to be used for other and important purposes. Permit us therefore to ask that conference clerks sift and thoroughly abridge their conference minutes when sending them for publication.

PROGRESS OF PROTESTANTISM.

IN the Record of Christian Work for September, 1887, we find a tabulated statement of "the home strength and foreign work of the whole American Church—Protestant—from which we gather the appended facts which serve to show that Protestantism, the past year, made but very little progress in point of members.

1. "The local preachers of our Methodist brethren have diminished the past year by 704.

2. The ordained ministers of all our churches have increased by 134.

3. Our table shows that the communicants in all our churches have increased by only 13,260."

Of course, the Roman Catholic, the Utah Mormon, nor the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints is embraced in this "Protestant" list; yet it is nevertheless a fact that the Reorganized Church has from the first persistently protested against all forms of heresy and apostasy in the Christian system, whether of ancient or modern origin, and they intend to continue to do battle on that line, and "prepare the way of the Lord, and make his paths straight."

SOME one asks to know when Ezekiel 37:7-14 is to be fulfilled, also whether all Israel can dwell on this earth through the millennium; and further, whether all Israel will then be Saints.

1. We understand that none but Saints have the promise of inheriting the earth during the millenium. 2. That the earth as it will be reconstructed at the second coming of Christ will be sufficiently large to accommodate most liberally not only the Saints, but also all who will be resurrected after Christ's advent, and likewise the remnants of nations who will then be left. 3. That Ezekiel 37:7-14 will be fulfilled at the second advent of Christ, and that the Israel there spoken of will be Saints. The Saints should bear in mind that "they are not all Israel, which are of Israel, * * * but the children of the promise are counted for the seed;" (Rom. 9:6, 8); and that "the children of the promise" are "they which are of faith, [in Christ], the same are the children of Abraham. * * * So then they which be of faith are blessed with faithful Abraham. * * * For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ. * * * And if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise."—Gal. 3:7, 9, 26, 27, 29. Abraham was made "the heir of the world," and so was "his seed," "through the righteousness of faith" [in Christ]. Rom. 4:13.

Add to this the following by Paul to Titus and we learn something more of the origin, scope, and end of God's promises to his faithful Israel: "According to the faith of God's elect, and the acknowledging of the truth which is after godliness; in hope of eternal life, which God, that can not lie, promised before the world began." From these texts we learn who only inherit the new earth, and to whom is given the promise of eternal life.

IN this issue will be found an article, "The End of this Age," which we print chiefly because it fixes the coming forth of the church out of the wilderness in about 1826, whereas the revelations of Joseph the Seer point definitely to about 1828-9 as the time for "the beginning of the rising up, and the coming forth of my [Christ's] church out of the wilderness; clear as the moon and fair as the sun, and terrible as an army with banners." Doc. Cov. 4:3, with sections 1:5 and 22:2. Of course, these periods are not far apart, and it is gratifying to know that Biblical scholars in 1812 and 1887 by their interpretations of the prophetic periods of the ancient prophets and seers confirm, essentially, the prophetic statement made by the young seer in 1828-30, as to the time when the Church of Christ would be manifested by the will of God in and by her "coming forth out of the wilderness." This, be it observed, was to be done by the foreknowledge and foreordination of God, as foreshown by his servants the prophets near 1800 and 2400 years before that "coming forth" was to begin. And be it further observed, the church so "coming forth" was to be distinct, separate, and independent of all other organizations, therefore not a reformation, but the sole, individual, organic church of Christ in its restoration. We think with Machiavel, mentioned by our author, that, "upon the coming of the Longobards into Italy, began the evident and open state of the Pope's kingdom," and that this was in 568. Add 568 to 1260 and we have 1828—the very time indicated by Joseph the Seer.

As to the other dates mentioned in the article, we have neither time nor space to consider them now.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

THAT the law of Moses was not intended to be taught to others than Israelites, is seen not only in the fact that the Israelites never sought to proselyte other nations outside of Canaan, but the law itself contains no obligation, no provision, for its propagation beyond those who dwelt with Israel.

Bro. J. A. Robinson wrote August 30th, that his address is now 215 Moss Avenue, Peoria, Illinois. He says further: "Three of our children were in the ill-fated Chatsworth wreck. They escaped unhurt."

Elders passing through Minnesota on the Southern Minnesota railway are requested to call on Bro. William J. Graves, at Brownsdale. He is alone and would like to welcome and entertain a passing elder as an angel unawares.

The fact that the local band of musicians chose to visit the camp, at Plum Hollow, and play for the pleasure of those who chose to listen, some, one or more, were of the opinion and expressed it, that "It was too bad; and showed too much respect to the Mormons." The fact was apparent that a feeling of respect for those holding the meeting prevailed with all, or nearly all of those not of the church, in attendance. This was unpleasant to some who could not forget the class prejudice to which they have improperly yielded themselves. The influence of the meetings for the advancement of the work in the Fremont district was most excellent; and Bro. Henry Kemp has reason to feel strongly encouraged both with the condition of his camp, and the good work done at the camp meeting.

Bro. J. W. Johnson, of McFall, and Bro. Joseph Curtis, of Stanbury, Missouri, writes us that there is apparently an opportunity for some preaching at the last named place. Bro. Johnson proposed to try as soon as a period of better health gave him the opportunity.

Bro. Heman C. Smith's address is box 695, San Bernardino, California. Please take notice as there are other H. C. Smith's in the city, and unless you take care to make the address plain he does not get your letters without trouble.

Cheering news from Bro. J. F. Burton's work in Australia and Victoria. By letters from Bro. Read and Sr. "Lizzy," July 21st, we learn that there is prospect of a more extended work being done upon Bro. T. W. Smith's arrival in that mission.

Brethren S. Maloney and John Hawley left Independence, Missouri, August 31st, and September 2d, for a mission in the Indian country. Bro. Maloney takes his family and expects to labor some time in that field. These are good men and we hope for them success.

We have two letters from sisters at Flora Vista, New Mexico, Mollie Shippy and Martha Brett, who are anxious that some one of the elders should visit that region. They represent the country as being healthy and productive, and of excellent climate. Fruits and vegetables thrive well.

In a letter written from Buttsville, Missouri, by Bro. B. Bennett, August 26th, we learn that the preaching by Elder J. R. Lambert last June near Spickardville was hotly and unfairly opposed by Rev. Scoville after Bro. Lambert had gone from there, and that altogether the results were favorable for the latter day work and many now desire to hear Bro. Lambert again.

Bro. J. A. McIntosh wrote us from Tilbury Center, Ontario, September 5th, that he had "baptized twenty since June, and many others are on the tapis."

Bro. W. J. Smith was at Cameron, Ontario, September 3d, and reports the Saints there in excellent spirits, and that Bro. J. H. Lake was laboring there successfully.

We thank Bro. Geo. S. Lincoln of San Francisco for late papers sent us; also Sr. Smith of Wheeling, W. Va., for sending us four copies of the Register of that city, of late date.

Care should be taken by all who send letters, communications, or printed matter to this office to have the postage fully prepaid. Failure in this respect may cause delays and loss.

We see by a late paper from Columbus, Nebraska, that there is some talk of the nomination of Bro. H. J. Hudson, for Judge of the County Court; which we think eminently proper, for he is qualified both in head and heart for the duties of that office.

Read the Reunion notice.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Bro. Joseph F. Burton writes from Hastings, Victoria, August 5th:

I am just in from Moolap, a settlement five miles beyond Geelong, one hundred miles from here, where we found a people hungry for the bread of life. Visited and preached in houses and hall for a fortnight or so, baptizing eight persons; among the number, the Methodist local minister, the Sunday School superintendent, and their organists. Day and night, brother Ashton Woolley (who had been up there about a year ago and sowed the seed), and myself were employed in explaining the things of the kingdom, while the people listened with wondering countenances as the words of Christ and the apostles reached their ears with clear light and meaning, untarnished by the darkness of uninspired interpretations and comments. I was about to break my word and plead for help, for the work here is driving and has got beyond me. I can not possibly attend to it anything like it should be, and there are not any elders yet whose circumstances will allow of their devoting their time to the work, yet we hope to see some of them giving a part of their time to the work soon; but as Bro. T. W. Smith is likely to come on soon I refrain from pleading—but it is an excellent field for twenty or fifty elders. The old Methodist minister here is driving his congregation away from him by denouncing and ridiculing baptism, etc. I am a great impostor in his eyes—but I am glad that he gives as a reason for so saying of me, that I teach and believe as the Saints of former times did. I am willing to be numbered with them now, and hope to be with them by and bye. The work in Australia goes on just as fast as it possibly can, but needs nursing. I pray daily for wisdom; I want to fill my place—not simply occupy it. May peace be with you."

Bro. E. L. Kelley wrote us of late and says:

"During the month of August there were one hundred and eighty-seven registered visitors at the Temple. It is safe to say, from the statements of these people, that not one-tenth of them knew a thing of the church prior to their coming here, not in the least apprehending that there was any such organization in existence. They came from all parts of America, and one officer of the United States army made a second visit and made a contribution of $4 25 for the good of the cause. It will take no great philosopher to forecast a favorable return from the scattering of right thoughts in this way among all classes and grades of society in the land. Many others come and go without registering, who are now our friends and they bring their friends with them. I drop these items so you may see what the elders are doing when at this place. As a rule they have something to do. We need a good local elder here—one who is willing to work at a sacrifice for the Master, and is willing to invest in faith for his reward. Can you find one who wants to work in this way?"

Elders H. A. Stebbins and Thomas Bell report large, interesting and spiritual meetings at Allendale and Lone Rock, Missouri, during the past ten days, with some persecution, and a few additions by baptism. In a recent note to us Bro. Stebbins says:

"I returned September 5th from my third trip to Allendale, where I baptized two more, making nine in all during the past six weeks. These last were formerly members of the Disciple society, a man aged seventy-six years and his wife aged sixty-four. The opposition is still very bitter and of a very base character, but that style of warfare only causes the honest ones to think for themselves and to hear for themselves. There is good reason to believe that others will be baptized before long. I leave on the 9th inst for other points where I have engagements, and expect to be away for a month or more."

Under date September 2d, Bro. J. C. Clapp wrote from Deer Lodge, Montana:

"We are gaining ground here. Will baptize three more to-morrow. We can have a good branch here. Our chapel is finished; Sunday School is good, and temperance cause is onward."

Bro. N. M. Cole writes from Wellingington, Kansas, of late, subscribing for the Herald, and says:

"I am entirely separate from the Saints and am battling with the world in its mad career. It gives me much food for thought. I think I will read the Herald now and see if you are in a more genial atmosphere."

Bro. I. N. Roberts, in his letter from Medina, Texas, September 1st, says:

"I am feeling good spiritually. The work is moving along nicely. The Lord is adding to our numbers good, honest people."

Mothers' Home Column.

EDITED BY SISTER "FRANCES."

"Sometimes comes to soul and sense
The feeling which is evidence
That very near about us lies
The realm of spiritual mysteries
The sphere of the supernal powers
Infringes on this world of ours."

AN INVOCATION.

O, Thou invisible, but ever-present God!
Who was, and is, and evermore shall be
The "Alpha and Omega" of eternity.
Hear Thou my cry, as low on bended knee
I raise my voice on high to plead with Thee.
"For what is man," that Thou should'st hear his prayer?

(The greatest, yet the weakest of thy care.)
Made in Thine image, yet inclined to stray,
And from Thy just commandments break away,
And wander far from Thee and from the right,
"Choosing the darkness rather than the light."
Worlds upon worlds attest the wondrous power
That forms a planet and the tiniest flower;
And all creation yields alike to Thee
The homage that is due Thy sovereignty.
"Upon a thousand hills" the cattle graze
And in mute language seem to render praise.
Innumerable songsters raise to Thee
Their early matins of sweet melody.
But man, unmindful of the blessings given
Spurns "neath his feet the choicest gifts of Heaven.
And yet, O God, remember we are dust!
That earth-born passions, avarice and lust,
Are but the traits of all the sons of men;
That we, alas! are what our sires have been.
Vice, masked in Virtue's guise our hearts assails,
"And when we would do good evil prevails."
"Broad is the way that leadeth unto sin,"
And multitudes there are who walk therein.
We block the highway with our noise and strife
And blindly pass "the narrow way of life."
"Blind leaders of the blind!" how shall we win
Those portals of the blest and enter in.
O, open Thou our eyes, that we may see

"The way of life" that leadeth unto Thee.
 Teach us the difference 'twixt good and ill,
 And grant that we may choose to do Thy will.
 May we make manifest our love to Thee
 By our deep love to all humanity.
 And O, our Father, grant in truth that we May learn the lesson of sweet "charity."
 From cruel slander may our tongues refrain
 Lest we should cause our fellow-creatures pain.
 May we fulfill that law of perfect love
 Which was decreed us by Thy courts above,
 And this, our "universal" doctrine be:
 "To others do as they should do to me,"
 Knowing no north, no south, no east, no west,
 But loving all show that we love Thee best.
 When through deep waters of distress we wade
 Hold fast our hands that we be not afraid;
 Should doubt so blind us that we cannot see
 Then may we hear Thy voice, "Rise, follow me!"
 And should despair plunge us in darkest night
 Unveil Thy face and all shall be made light.
 And when at last "we lay us down to rest,"
 Our quiet hands crossed lightly o'er our breast,
 Forgive, O Lord, the errors of the past
 And grant redemption to our souls at last,
 And like the violet crushed beneath man's feet
 Whose dying breath sheds forth a perfume sweet,
 So with our latest, fluttering, dying breath,
 May we Thy name adore even in death!
 And now, O Father, "Hallowed be thy name,
 Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, the same
 On earth, as it is done in heaven;
 Grant that each day, our daily bread be given;
 Forgive our sins, as we in turn forgive;
 May we be taught not but strive to live
 Pure, holy lives acceptable to Thee
 And Thine—the kingdom, power and glory be"

Sel.

We do not wish our friends who have kindly sent us choice selections to think they are forgotten because they have not yet appeared. We have them all carefully filed away and they will appear in good time. If every sister who loves the work of God and really wishes to serve it, would do so by helping to secure names for Autumn Leaves, they will be conferring a blessing upon the young, to the extent of which they will never know in this life. We find that in issuing our circular we ourselves made a mistake which has given rise to a misapprehension of our object in the minds of many. Instead of using the term "FICTION" we should have said "NARRATIVE," and we beg our friends will take notice of this, and that we only meant that we would present the truth in a form just as plain and attractive as the Lord would give us power to do. Some with whom we have talked, and yet others with whom we are corresponding for the purpose of obtaining the material for such narratives and also striving to enlist their talent in favor of it, know that from the first this was our intention, and if we succeed in getting the Magazine, we will have as a heritage to our young people the truthful history of the faithful labors of some of the most earnest workers of the Reorganization, and our young people shall know that truth is stronger than fiction. If the devil renders fiction attractive by putting it in narrative form, the same and yet greater power belongs to truth if her disciples are wise enough to make use of this power. If the friends of this enterprise who are able so to do, would aid in its establishment by taking an extra copy for one year and sending as a present to some friend or some person who is not able to subscribe, would they not be doing a good work?

If any parties have back numbers of the Herald for the current volume which they would be willing to send to one not able to subscribe, but missing the Herald very much, we will give name and address upon application.

HOME COLUMN MISSIONARY FUND.

Sr. Susan E. Cook, Victoria, Ills. ....	2 00
Sr. M. H. Rumel Rannie, Omaha, Neb. ....	25
Sr. M. Lachapelle, Deadwood, D. T. ....	1 00
Sr. Julia Glover, Hyde Park, Boston, Mass. .	1 00
Sr. Sarah Prouty, North Weymouth, Mass. .	1 00
Sr. R. E. Steffe, Boston, Mass. ....	1 00
Sr. Matilda Harschew, Lamoni, Ia. ....	50
Sr. Cora Russell, Boone, Ia. ....	50
Sr. C. Joyce, Irvington, Cal. ....	61
Sr. L. Driver, Irvington, Cal. ....	44
Charlie N. and Olive Edna Olson, Raymond Center, Wis. ....	20
Sr. Maggie Berg, Haven, Ia. ....	20
Sr. M. C. Knapp, Beloit, Kan. ....	1 00
Sr. Elizabeth Ainsley, Newton, Ia. ....	1 00
Sr. Amy Gill, Emerson, Iowa. ....	50
Bro. Amos Gill, Emerson, Iowa. ....	25
LAMONI, Iowa, September 8th.

WASHINGTONVILLE, O., Aug. 19th.

Dear Sr. Frances: I much appreciate the reading in the Home Column, and I made up my mind to endeavor to do something towards its aid, as I believe that in the cultivation of the religious element no sacrifice should be too great. That we are called as Christians to live righteously and godly through the love and mercy of God is quite well understood. To be temperate in all things must be the rule, so that we may willingly and cheerfully reap the reward of that which we have sown in our own or in another's pathway. It is our duty as Christians, too, by the general tenor of our lives, induce others to accept the testimony of truth, and at the same time be made glad to glorify our Father which is in heaven. The disciples are called to amend their own lives by a discipline to the cross, and then as carefully and as faithfully assist others who might be led to the same holy calling. In a darker age a Christian name, a religious profession, and a union with the established church, went far to prove any one a Christian. That age is passing away. We are in the period when a virtuous, Christ-like life, and a strict, uniform course of action are all that people will receive as evidences of a Christian life. Such a life is proof positive that defies contradiction.

Christian workers should never despond that there is nothing for them to do. "Let your light so shine that men may see your good works;" and in the bright resurrection morning what joy to hear the "Well done," and to know that you have unawares saved some souls from sin. A true Christian is bound by all that is high and holy in his profession to walk circumspectly and unselfishly, with an eye single to the glory of that Being that has called him out of sin. How can any one grow in refinement when he is indifferent about things conducing to it; when he permits himself to associate with bad company, reads impure literature, and saturates the heart with false ideas! How blessed human life would be were men "wise unto that which is good and simple unto that which is evil!" I believe that people sooner or later will learn that the path of duty is the only path of safety.

I hope that our blessed Herald, the messenger of peace, may assist the sin-sick souls, that they may enjoy rest and peace and enjoy the unity of the Spirit. And may that true light so shine as to penetrate the mist of darkness that broods over a slumbering and sinful world and minister that word which is quick and powerful, sharper than a two edged sword, and awaken and carry conviction into the hearts of the lovers of sinful pleasures.

And may the Herald of truth and God's ministering servants spread the tidings to the end of the earth, till the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea, is the prayer of

Your sister in Christ,

MARGARET M. YATES.

COLTON, Cal., July 26th, 1887.

Dear Friends:—Again we ask permission to step into your sanctum for a quiet chat, but I will not stay long, as precious time will be taken from others who may be waiting for admittance; but first we must borrow a fan, if it is as warm in your climate as the accounts show. I rather think our mild weather would spoil our enjoyment of sudden changes in the east. Here we have differences in temperature to suit any one; if one spot does not agree with you the distance is very short to another that will. As mountains, springs, groves, plains and sea-shore are but from seven to twenty miles distant, there are advantages of city and country. Los Angeles is the chief southern city. There seems to be more enjoyment here for young and old than inland. Some frisky fellows go to Catalina Island—from San Pedro—or sail around on the deep blue sea, in the hope that their nautical experience of head and stomach would have a solacing effect on their somewhat radical views of life, and make them come back better fitted for the arduous duties of the same. Previous to our arrival here, over five years ago, we resided in the states of Mississippi, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Illinois, but none, as far as my observation goes, compares with California, unless it be Mississippi, my birth-place—in and around Vicksburg and New Orleans. But I've failed to see plantations of rice or cotton, with the exception of a half acre patch of the latter near Santa Ana, which seemingly flourished, but every other product I can think of is at home in this soil. We have tropical trees and plants. Some perhaps are weary with accounts of this land, as they think them exaggerated, but I've failed to see it pictured grander than it is. Every thing is the choicest and most "recherche." A gifted traveler, with a soul to appreciate nature's works, and a ready pen to describe, lets fall his pen and is lost in admiration. Perhaps those persons who have been discouraged are those who have been set off in the middle of a hot desert by some real estate agent trying to sell it off in city lots, or talking in glowing terms of the fertile (?) alkali spots; or mayhap have been forced by some to settle on adobe low lands, where the rain and slush prevent travel. If you want to deceive, there are plenty of chances. The breezes from mountain and sea can not be other than pure.

This town (and a few others surrounding) is nearly enclosed by mountains, thereby making it a more desirable location in winter for consumptives, because it is warmer than any other location; but in summer the mountains are better, where hot and cold water and mud baths can be had, fresh from Nature's oven or ice-chest continually flowing. Sometimes invalids put off the lengthy journey from the east until too late for the sudden change to benefit.

The artesian wells are beautiful sights, sparkling in the sun as they flow like fountains beyond the pipes; the force from the mountains makes some of them of immense size. Two of the popular here are the San Juan "Rabel" and "Arrow Head;" the latter mentioned ones are named so from a light formation in the side of the mountain above them resembling that weapon. It can be seen at a distance of ten miles. There are built in those localities nice large public buildings for travelers. The water is piped to invalids' rooms. It has medicinal qualities which cause it to taste as the scent of rotten egg, but those who are accustomed to it like it. The first mentioned springs are situated near the town of that name, inhabited mostly by the native inhabitants of this country, Spaniards, Mexicans, Indians and mixed breeds. As you approach, the first thing that meets your view is the ruin of an old temple, which makes a feeling of awe come over you as if you were treading holy ground or had been transported in some way to Jerusalem. An old Mexican, over a hundred years of age, remembers the fall of the building, which happened nearly that length of time ago, through the shock of an earthquake, killing many that were congregated at the time. Visitors put their names on the walls, which are of adobe, covered with a kind of light-colored hard plastering. Attached to this is the priest's dwelling, of the same material, with roof covered row after row with something resembling stove pipes, at a distance. At nightfall can be seen dark women, dressed all in black, with their long loose chevleours flowing down their backs, wending their way toward the priest with prayer-book in hand. He is evenly pacing the porch, seemingly uttering the contents of the book. He wears a dark gown and oddly shaped cap. The old bells in the partly demolished tower still tolls solemnly the twilight hour. In some instances these isolated places remind one of the history of European ruins, Ephesus for instance, where a traveler passing through, startles the blank and listless quietude. The cry of partridge and quail anon disturb the repose of the once resounding theatre and stadium which was the scene of many a tough and anxious struggle. The glorious pomp of its heathen worship is no longer remembered; and christianity, which was here nursed as a dear and earthly child by the apostles, and fostered by general councils until it increased to fullness of stature, now lingers on an existence, scarcely visible. Nothing more is required to fulfillment of prophecy, for the candlestick is indeed removed out of its place, and dark night hangs over Ephesus.

The founders of San Bernardino, our nearest thriving city, are the Mormons," so-called by outsiders, and their house of worship is the oldest. There is very little prejudice prevailing, as people are beginning to understand their peculiar belief, and see it is all scriptural, and that the original Solomon Spaulding story was obtained, and found to differ altogether from the Book of Mormon, that it was supposed to be. There are a few believers of polygamy in that town, but the majority of Mormons are Latter Day Saints, who are doing most nobly in fighting down all evil practices, and straightening misunderstanding by outsiders regarding the difference between the two churches. The sincere are not to be condemned, whether they be Mormons or Presbyterians, or members of other denomination.

Praying for advancement of all good, I remain your friend,
REGINA ROHRER.

GALIEN, Michigan, August 7th.

Sister Frances.—Trusting that some thought we may drop will be like bread cast on the waters, or like "a word fitly spoken" may have the desired effect on some sad and discouraged souls, who need a kind and cheering word, to encourage them through life's uneven journey I pen these lines. What joy and comfort it gives me, and how it seems to build me up in the love and hope of the gospel of our dear Savior, to read the good letters of our sisters. This gospel is truly the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; and how can we refrain from believing that which has been delivered to us in these latter days, when we hear it explained in its simplicity and purity and see the signs follow the believer? Those who live humble and are worthy to receive the Holy Spirit, do receive it, and I myself have realized the calm and loving influence of the divine Spirit of God; and I can truly say I am thankful that I have heard and embraced this Latter Day Work; for it has afforded me many pleasant hours, and no regrets have ever found lodgement in my heart for the step I have taken. My only fear is that I am not living as near my Savior as I should, and I therefore solicit an interest in the prayers of all the faithful, that I may be found firm and steadfast, and may be instrumental in doing some good in the cause of my Master, and that I may overcome every trial and temptation, and come off triumphant through our Lord and Savior and be numbered with all the redeemed.

Your sister in the hope of eternal life,

LUE S. MEAD.

SAN LUCAS, Cal., July 14th.

Dear Sr. Frances.—Although you are a stranger to me in person, you are not a stranger in hopes, desires and interests of the great latter day work. From the editorial and letters of the Home Column I have received much instruction and encouragement. I have often thought of writing before, but fearing that I would not be able to edify I have refrained until now, for I have long since come to the conclusion that it is not my gift to speak or write to edification. I have received many testimonies that my work is to be in Sunday School interests. I was a Sunday School teacher for the little ones at Stewartsville, Missouri, for a long time, and am now the teacher of the Perseverance Sunday School of Long Valley, California. Not long since I had become discouraged as Sunday School teacher, and could not see that my work had accomplished any good; so thought I would resign. But on the night before I was going to resign, in my dreams, a man came to me with a record in his hand, and turning the leaves one by one showed me that my influence in the Sunday School, in the past, had accomplished good; and said if I would be faithful to that work I should be blessed. To God be all the glory and honor for the good done.

I have received many blessings and testimonies of this work, and I have had some very hard trials to endure since I obeyed the gospel. Little over one year ago I was called upon to give up from my embrace my sweet little Malle, one year, six months and ten days old; but she has gone to join her sister and brother, Ella and Eddie, and the three bright gems are waiting for me. God forbid that I should come short of realizing my hope of meeting them in peace. Since they have gone I have a more earnest desire than ever before to make my "calling and election sure" with God. We have sacrament meeting and Sunday School alternate Sundays in his branch now. We desire to see the work revive here, and others brought to a knowledge of the truth. We have no preaching only by visiting brethren. Trusting that we may soon be permitted to return to our Zion home, I remain your sister in gospel bonds, ANNA SMITH.

Correspondence.

ANACONDA, Mont., Aug. 13th.

Bro. Joseph Smith.—I arrived home from England on July 17th, after nearly four months absence from home, thoroughly tired of sight-seeing, and "Jubilee," "Jubilee," "Jubilee" ringing in my ears until I was almost haunted by it. Everything I saw, smelled, or ate had "Jubilee" on it, and you were considered very odd and out of place if you failed to wear "Jubilee" on some part of your person, in the form of an ornament or medal. "Jubilee" suits, "Jubilee" hats, "Jubilee" boots, "Jubilee" soap to wash you with, "Jubilee" towels to wipe you, a "Jubilee" shave at the barber's, and the little ragamuffin boot-blacks would fairly take you by storm to give you a "Jubilee" shine. During my absence I spent considerable time in the cities of Liverpool, Manchester, Stockport, Macclesfield, and the Staffordshire Potteries, and about three weeks in the "great big" city of London; so that I saw every phase of English life both in the manufacturing districts, and in the great metropolis—from the Royal pauper who derives his sustenance, and luxuriates from and upon the tribute gouged from honest but poorly paid toilers, and from the revenues derived from the illicit manufacture and traffic of strong drink, which is England's curse and disgrace, down to the poor, degraded, besotted fathers and mothers, sons and daughters, and the little innocent but wretched, half-fed, half-clothed children who may be seen on Saturday nights at eleven and twelve o'clock by the score, sitting in the streets, on the cold, damp stone steps, no shoes, no stockings on, waiting for their brutish fathers and mothers to come and open the doors of their wretched hovels. Yes, I have seen all this until my heart has ached within me from sympathy for those poor little ones, ranging from four to seven or eight years of age, who are educated to sing, and who do sing with all the gusto imaginable, "Britons never! never!! never!!! shall be slaves." How thankful I felt to know that I was an American, even though by naturalization, and that my darling children were far removed from such horrifying and contaminating scenes, and were living in God's own promised land, where honest toil and temperance render such scenes impossible. And it was strange to me to see the apathy and indifference manifested by the well-to-do classes to this condition of things in general; and I was often met with the remark, "O, its very common in this country; we are so used to such things that we scarcely notice them."

Is it not strange that the land of bibles should also be the land of drunkards; the females, in many localities, outdoing the males in their debauches, and hence the land of poverty and wretchedness to such an extent as can not be found in any other kingdom of its size. And yet noble efforts are being put forth for the amelioration of this condition of things by a noble few, in the face of great obstacles sustained by the government for the sake of the revenue derived from the damnable traffic. How timely and happy the successes attending the temperance warfare in our own land! My family joins me in affectionate regards to yourself and family, and Bro. Blair and family.

Very truly yours in the gospel,
JOHN R. EARDLEY.

SANDWICH, Ill., Aug. 21st.

Dear Herald:—Am interested in reading Herald and Home Column, also other reading that comes from other presses on religious subjects, especially the sermon by Rev. DeWitt Talmage concerning bigotry. To my mind it contains some common sense. O that the veil of darkness might be removed from my eyes that I might see more clearly in the perfect law of the gospel of Jesus Christ, which is liberty. Paul says "For if he that cometh preacheth another Jesus, whom we have not preached, or if ye receive another spirit, which ye have not received or another gospel which ye have not accepted, ye might well bear with him. For I suppose I was not a whit behind the very chiefest apostles."

I believe in no changing of the law, and that when God calls his servants to labor he endows them with the Holy Ghost, which is the Spirit of truth. Has not this Comforter been with the Saints from the beginning?

What is the abiding Comforter for? I am waiting for the promise to be more fully verified, and for God to "pour out his Spirit upon all flesh."

R. H. DENNIS.

[The Comforter is given for just what its name implies—to comfort the Saints forever. It also is given to "teach" the Saints, to quicken their memory, to "testify" of Jesus, to "reprove the world of sin," and of righteousness, and of judgment; also to "guide" the Saints "into all truth," to "speak" to them, and to show them "things to come." John 14: 26; 15: 26, 27; 16: 8, 13, 14, 15. Editor.]

CORMORANT, Minn., Sept. 1st.

Dear Herald:—We all rejoice in reading your words of cheer. Up here we have nothing serious to complain of. Of course the adversary is doing his part to hinder the work here as well as in other places. Rev. Hewitt has been here again; came fourteen miles to tell us some of the bad things Joseph the Seer had [never] done. It is the same old story. Three or four of us listened as quietly as we could until he had exhausted all of his fury. I felt that I must try and correct him a little. I asked liberty to speak a little. The preacher nodded yes. As soon as I started I received the necessary help. One thing I am sure of, we have not lost any ground in this case. I am also persuaded all was satisfied I believed what I was telling them. This country is largely peopled by Scandinavians and many of them are not satisfied with their reformed plan since hearing of the restored gospel in its purity as our Lord left it. Is there an elder in the region round about, who is able and willing to come up here and spend the winter and tell those honest ones (which I know to be many) the good old story? I will provide quarters when not on duty, and will assist as much as I can.

Love to all the household of faith,
W. W. McLEOD.

MONDAMIN, Iowa, Sept. 5th.

Dear Herald: As the minister failed to materialize, I recommenced meetings on Sunday night, August 7th, at Akron, and held three services. The house was well filled Sunday night; but as I used Bro. Cornish's synopsis I could get but small audiences the next two evenings, for they thought it was the "Mormon Bible!"

On the following Thursday I led one into the beautiful "Big Sioux," and there inducted her into the kingdom. Sister Christy, I think, can be given the credit of her conversion. The next day found me on my way to Richland, Dakota Territory, where I arrived muddy and wet, looking more like a tramp than a minister. The next day we procured the use of the Methodist church. This we believe was on account of the esteem in which the sister living there is held, and I know that we can live our religion, when we couple with it wisdom, and yet be held in high regard. We commenced services the same evening, and held forth five times, with increasing attendance, and the interest remarkable. We were assisted once by the minister, and also assisted him once. As this is in Bro. A. H. Smith's field, he will please take notice and also pardon me for not sending him a more formal account, as I did not know his address. We anticipate further labor there, as we expect to see quite a number take hold of the work.

Our next move was for Quorn, near Kingsley, Iowa, where we arrived about nine p.m., Saturday, 20th ult., stopping with H. B. Jordan, finding his father and mother there, and our eyes were bedewed with tears as we listened to the events of the martyrdom of the prophet and his brother, related by grandpa Jordan, who was an eye and ear witness to the scenes just preceding. We felt almost impressed to take a statement with regard to the events which transpired in the beautiful city during these stirring times, from this dear old man in Israel, who was so closely connected with the business transaction of the prophet. We felt it would be almost "as one speaking from the dead."

On Sunday 21st we preached three times, and continued here till we had spoken eleven times and held one sacrament and social meeting. At our last named service we had a good time. All the new members—three of whom had been baptized the preceding Wednesday—took part; and I believe the very heavens looked down and rejoiced. Concluding our services the evening of the 30th ult. we started next day for Lemars, on our way to conference at Magnolia, leaving behind us the tear-dimmed eye and warm grasp of the hand, betokening what the Spirit of God will do for human kind. We left several who have expressed themselves about persuaded.

At Lemars we visited and took supper with sister Violet Jordan—some four weeks old in the gospel—and in presenting us to the family with whom she had been boarding during the Institute did not use the conventional "Mr.," but "Bro Wight," which resulted in our being asked to say grace at supper.

On Thursday, 1st inst., we arrived at this place and next day billed the town for a series of meetings to commence last evening, when, after our return from a peaceable session of conference at Magnolia, we were greeted with a fine audience, the seating capacity being nearly all occupied in the Congregational church.

In bonds of truth,
J. W. WIGHT.

ALPENA, Mich., Aug. 21st.

Brethren Smith and Blair:—I am in health, both temporally and spiritually, for the blessings which were predicted by the elders at my confirmation have followed me, viz, health, and a knowledge of the Scriptures. Oh, what a glorious gospel is this, wherein there is no guess work. To those who obey its teaching, to them is given to know the doctrine from heaven. Alpena is a lumbering town (or rather city) of about 15,000 inhabitants, comprising various sects and creeds. I was at Oscoda about one month ago and heard some young men talking on the religions of the day, and in their conversation they mentioned the name of brother Cornish, and called him a Mormon, a follower of Brigham Young, said he wore moccasins, and threw his voice like a ventriloquist, trying to deceive the people. I was about to reply to these lads and show them they were either falsifying or had been wrongly informed, when the boat I was to return on gave signal for its departure.

In conclusion I will say, I am glad I accepted this restored gospel, and am looking forward to the day when the Lord will gather his obedient ones, remove the curse from off the earth, and raise his sleeping Saints and take up his abode here on this glorified earth.

Your brother in the one faith,
ISRAEL P. TITUS.

VIOLA, Iowa, Aug. 29th.

Dear Herald:—Your weekly visits, fraught with words that brings good cheer to us and echoing the glad tidings, "Peace on earth, good will towards men," is a source of much pleasure and we trust much profit as well. As there are but few of us at this place, (only five in number), and the people seem to care but little about hearing the gospel in its fulness, the consequence is that we have had very little preaching in the last eighteen months, as the elders who are at all available are few in number and their fields are large. We occasionally get sight of one "on the fly" passing from one district to another.

I was raised in the Methodist Church and was member for a number of years, living up to the best light I had, and was just as honest in my conviction as I am at the present; consequently I am justified in believing that there are a great many honest people in that organization. When I left the Methodists and united with the Reorganized Church, my former brethren seemed to think I had possibly committed the unpardonable sin—though they seemed to have no clear perception as to what that sin was. But when I called to mind the fact the pastor had stated to me some time previous to this, that according to his judgment it was impossible to commit the unpardonable sin in our day, why I felt pretty safe after all. I said to my former brethren: "You believe that neither baptism or church relationship are essential to salvation?" Yes. "Well, all that was required of me as being essential to salvation as a Methodist, is still required of me; so will you please tell me wherein my chances have been lessened." They had to give it up, and now treat me very cordially; but as to whether it is meant for a "good speed," or as a matter of policy, they have not advised me.

I, for one, am most decidedly in favor of the Church taking a positive stand on the question of prohibition, so that the world will know where to find it. It will most certainly be forced to declare one way or the other, and that before very long. It can occupy no middle ground. I have told my former brethren that I have received greater blessings since coming into the Reorganized Church than I had ever enjoyed before, and that I considered it far in advance of Methodism. And now it would be very humiliating to me to see the Church of Jesus Christ either apparently unconcerned or trying to sit astride the fence. We gladly welcome the Saints, both priesthood and laity, at Viola; but should any anticipate dropping in upon us and have not already taken a stand for prohibition, we would in all candor request that all such take such a stand before coming, if possible. If not, at least be careful to keep the matter from the inhabitants of our village. And as for the Saints drinking and visiting saloons, we wouldn't have it known for the world, even though they drank the beer at the back door of the saloon. May God's richest blessings ever attend his people, is my prayer,

J. A. NEWLIN.

MARTINSVILLE, Maine, Aug. 28th.

Editors Saints' Herald:—I feel it a duty I owe to the Saints as well as to my Creator to state what has been done for me. In July I had a very sick boy aged thirteen years. Our family physician had given him up. When Elders F. M. Sheehy and U. W. Green came to my house I had him administered to, and am happy to say that he has so far recovered as to be able to go out of doors in pleasant weather, which I feel very thankful for, both to my God and the elders.

May God speed the work until all the honest in heart and all the worthy may be gathered in. But I fear sometimes that I shall not be among them, for I truly realize that it needs those more worthy than I to bear the name of a Saint.

From a believer in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

JOHN BRIGHT, writing to Secretary Jones of the London peace society, who is one of the deputation going to the United States to present a memorial to President Cleveland in favor of the establishment of an international arbitration treaty, says: "There is talk of a permanent arbitration treaty between the United States and England. The project is a reasonable one and discussion may lead to its adoption. If the government of the United States were willing, and were in any way to signify its willingness to become a party to such a treaty, there is a force of good men with us to induce our government to consent. If this be done it will be a grand step forward in the world's march, and be followed in some not distant time by other nations willing to escape the sorry burden of military armaments. Two hundred members of the House of Commons sign the arbitration memorial. But far more than this number will be ready to urge acceptance of the treaty upon our government. If the action taken at Washington be favorable to the success of the scheme. England and the United States will still remain two nations, but I would have them always regard themselves as one people. An arbitration treaty, honestly made and adhered to, would tend much to bring about this blessed result."

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

THE "CHOICE SEER."

ALL Latter Day Saints would like to know whether that Choice Seer, 2d Nephi 2: 2, has come or is yet to come. He was to be "esteemed highly" among the fruit of Joseph's loins who was sold into Egypt. This promise was made by the Lord to Joseph, that he who would translate the Book of Mormon would be a descendant of Joseph who was sold into Egypt. Manasseh has written the law to Ephraim, and it was counted a strange thing. Hosea 8: 12; Isai 29: 14. In Deuteronomy we read that Joseph's horns will "push the people together to the ends of the earth," to Zion on this land, and to old Jerusalem in the east. "His horns are like the horns of unicorns; with them he shall push the people together to the ends of the earth; and they are the ten thousands of Ephraim, and they are the thousands of Manasseh." The Reorganization, or Ephraim, has the greatest work set apart for him to do, which he will do because he doubtless is more experienced, refined, and better prepared to spread the gospel among both Ephraim, Manasseh, the Jews and Gentiles, than Manasseh can possibly be for years to come. Ephraim, (or the Reorganization) has got the major part of this gathering to do which is of such vast magnitude. Ephraim will stand in the front of the battle. Now this Choice Seer has been esteemed highly by Ephraim and will be, who are the seed of Joseph who was sold for a slave to Egypt. Ephraim has brought many of them to the knowledge of the covenants that God had made with their fathers. Many of them supposed the Choice Seer could not do anything that was wrong. The Lord foreordained the Choice Seer to translate the Book of Mormon from the reformed Egyptian language, and to bring the church out of the wilderness where she was to remain for one thousand two hundred and sixty days or years (Rev. 12: 6) which expired about 1830.

"Out of weakness he shall be made strong in that day when my work shall commence among all my people unto restoring thee, O house of Israel, saith the Lord."—2d Nephi, 2: 2. "And thus prophesied Joseph, saying, Behold, that Seer will the Lord bless, and they that seek to destroy him shall be confounded; for this promise which I have obtained of the Lord, of the fruit of my loins, shall be fulfilled." And Joseph of old confirms it again: "Behold, I am sure of the fulfilling of this promise," (that the Lord would raise up this Seer). And to rivet the testimony in the minds of all people who have up to this date embraced the true gospel as preached by the Choice Seer, and all that ever do hereafter, may know who he is by his name, "And his name shall be called after me," (Joseph who was sold into Egypt). But this is not all, "and it shall be after the name of his father; and he shall be like unto me."

Now in what respect was Joseph the Martyr like unto Joseph in Egypt. In paragraph two it reads: "He shall be esteemed highly among the fruit of thy loins." This has been fulfilled by Ephraim, or the Church of Christ in this century. Orson Pratt stated in his works that the different tribes of Indians were Ephraim; but that is not true, for they are Manasseh. Of Ephraim and Manasseh Jacob said: "He also shall become a people, and he also shall be great, but truly his younger brother [Ephraim] shall be greater. And his seed [Ephraim's seed] shall become a multitude of nations."—Gen. 48: 19. The following words will be appropriate, Hosea, 2: 17: "My God will cast them [Ephraimites] away, because they did not hearken unto him; and they shall be wanderers among the nations."

Now the Lamanites, in the future, when they hear what the "Choice Seer" has done for them in translating the Book of Mormon, when it is preached to them as a people, they will believe it and receive it as the word of the Lord, which will be the very thing which will bring them to salvation. Then the "Choice Seer" will be esteemed highly among them, notwithstanding he has gone now. It is not written in the Book of Mormon that the "Choice Seer" was to be raised up from Lehi's seed, or from Manasseh. But he was to be, must be, one of the posterity of Ephraim, the son of Joseph of Egypt.

Let us hang to the rod of iron.

J. GALLUP.

SHALL WE DOCTOR WHEN WE ARE SICK?

THE above is the title of an article in the Herald for July 2d. In answer I say, emphatically, Yes. Why? Because the scripture, as I understand it, and my own experience, with the testimony of others, teaches me that Latter Day Saints should be, if they are not, sensible, wise, and discreet enough to accept gratefully all the good things provided for them by the kind and loving Father, and to know that "the eternal God made naught in vain."

Gen. 1: 11, 12, reads: "And God said, Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself, upon the earth: and it was so. And the earth brought forth grass, and herb yielding seed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind. And God saw that it was good."—See also Gen. 2: 8-17. There we find that God planted a garden, etc. Now turn to Gen. 3: 18: "And thou shalt eat the herb of the field." Gen. 9: 3: "Even as the green herb have I given you all things." Thus sacred history informs us that the human race, the children of God, were placed upon the prepared, clothed and adorned planet, to possess and enjoy all the creations of God; (with but one exception); the herbs are given them for food; Adam is placed in the God-planted garden to dress it and to eat of its good things.

I do not regard Adam as either a savage or an overgrown baby. I look upon him as a child of God, a pupil of his Father, skilled in the natural and spiritual sciences, one who understood the workings of the laws of matter, spirit and life. Those walks and talks in the Garden of Eden, the close and blest communion of our first parent with his God are not enough considered. I hold that Adam was taught many so-called mysteries, May not medicine be amongst the lessons taught; or must we believe that the human family were to grope about without any knowledge of the thousands of herbs, plants, shrubs, trees, grasses, mosses, lichens, etc. The idea is absurd in the extreme.

Let us consider the nature and use of a few,—hot, dry, binding, cold, moist, relaxing, temperate; some will kill, or destroy life because of their heat, while others will kill or destroy life from their coldness. This endless variety and degree shows the wisdom of the Creator and his kind provision for all the ills of mortal life. There is not a wound but there is a balm to heal it; there is not a stage or condition of disease but there is a cure provided.

Those who discard or despise natural medicine, even if they do not need them, or have climbed to a lofty platform above and beyond natural medicines, should pause and think of others less blest than themselves. All can not fast forty days and forty nights as did the Tishbite and Jesus, but eat when hungry, and drink when thirsty, or cry out with David, "Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean." Let the Herald readers ponder well every passage of scripture where herbs are mentioned as medicine, or in cookery, or temple worship. Let them consider all the writers and students of natural medicine named in the Bible, how that Solomon wrote a work touching upon all the herbs of the field "from the cedar of Lebanon to the hyssop that groweth upon the wall." We are not told that St. Luke, who was a doctor of medicine, ever prescribed for his companion in travel and missionary work, St. Paul; although we are informed of his profession and of their travels. Paul speaks of him professionally, calling him "the beloved physician." (Col. 4:14). And Jesus said: "They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick."—Matt. 9:12.

I have studied Rev. 22:2, "and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations." If this is literal, (and I suppose it is), there will be a tree whose leaves are for the healing of the nations. This may not be in point, but I give it here for the thoughtful consideration of the Herald readers before I pass on to my own experience in "the healing art divine," for I have from childhood realized the value of pure natural medicine, for I saw the many cures my old grandfather performed with simple herbs gathered from field and wayside.

I myself began in 1864, when but a youth, and have by God's blessing obtained over two thousand written testimonials, besides countless verbal testimonies, to cures performed by natural medicines.

Shall we doctor when we are sick? I take it much as if the question were, Shall we eat when we are hungry? Scripture says, "man shall not live by bread alone; but by every word which proceedeth out of the mouth of God." Shall we drink when we are thirsty? Scripture says "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters; and he that hath no money, come ye, buy and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price." Jesus also invites all that thirst, adding; "He that drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst."—See also Rev. 22:17, "Let him that is athirst come." And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."

The brother who first asked the question, "Shall we doctor when we are sick," answered that question ably and well, and I for one thank him every much indeed for his frank, open, and candid support of the question. And it is possible this article would not have been nigh so lengthy but for a counter article published in the Herald for July 23d, page 481, in which the writer runs a tilt against said article of July 2d. It will not lessen our faith in the gifts and blessings following believers, simply because God has filled the world with health producing and life sustaining agents. The latter day work is the most complete, as well as the most progressive work on earth, and it shall yet shine with every truth and virtue in the good time coming. It never took anything from my faith as as elder of the church, when called upon to anoint with oil in the name of the Lord, and lay on hands and pray over the sick, simply because I was engaged as a medical practitioner—not a bit of it. But on the other hand, I have been led to rejoice and praise God for the plan he has given, not only to turn this cold world into heaven by the power of his gospel so holy and mild, but could also heal the sick, make the lame to walk, and a thousand and one other blessings. I could fill a large work with testimonies of healings by faith. One case I wrote the Herald years ago of a poor helpless cripple, named John Heywood, who for fourteen years had been upon his knees, unable to walk upright. A score of doctors had failed him, but when he heard and obeyed the gospel he obtained a perfect restoration of his walking powers, to the glory of God and the wonder of all that knew him. This was not done in a corner, but was known all through the English mission. In this case as in many others, I doubted not but believed, so did the brother himself, and the power of God was felt and seen by all to such an extent, that the branch called for its publication in tract form, and it was sent out through the length and breadth of the land.

But knowing that the Herald space is limited, I close, thanking you for your kind insertion, and remain yours in love,

C. H. HASSELL.

76 Peel St., Farnworth, MANCHESTER, Eng.

SHALL WE DOCTOR WHEN WE ARE SICK?

SINCE this inquiry appears in the Herald for July 2d, and the great importance of it set forth in few words, we hope no harm will accrue from the honest opinion of others being expressed also.

The brother asks "to be shown from one or all of the three books where the medical profession is forbidden or condemned," We hardly think it necessary to show this, only in the sense that the Lord's method is at great variance with the drug medical profession. This should be sufficient without an outspoken condemnation being looked for. He thinks God does not guarantee to heal all who are administered to. Certainly not; and if relief can be obtained by resorting to a doctor who administers drugs, I believe Jehovah will endorse the act. But here lies the problem. Will drugs heal the sick? I see a myriad of witnesses rising to testify affirmatively. "Yes sir; many is the time we have been restored by medicine prescribed by this and that doctor." These testimonies are completely offset by as many more who have been afflicted by the same maladies and recovered still quicker without any medicine.

More competent witnesses however may be called; for as my brother argues, those who "make a specialty of this branch of learning" are better qualified to judge as to the strength, quality, etc., than Tom, Dick, or Harry. Hence these are they we will place upon the stand to testify of the effects of their medicine; we call for the authors of the United States Dispensatory." Professors Wood and Bache of Philadelphia:—"Medicines are those articles which make sanative impressions on the body." Professor Martin Paine, M. D., of the New York University Medical School, in his "Institutes of Medicine" says: "Remedial agents are essentially morbific in their operations." The Allopaths say it requires contraries to cure opposites. The Homeopaths say like cures similar. The Eclectics claim that the law of cure consists in sanative medication; while the Physio-Medicals declare it necessary to employ physiological remedies.

We have heard enough already to learn that the brotherhood of medical tendency are badly divided and subdivided, our two leading authorities standing with point blank contradiction. We see, too, that they are at variance on the primary premises. What Latter Day Saint is there who does not know the great importance of getting a proper start; of having the foundation of every matter predicated in truth. Who can tell us which one of twenty conflicting classes to believe? and from which to select our doctors when we are sick? It must be apparent to every one, that if one of the many are correct all the rest which would be a large majority are wrong. But let us hear more witnesses relative to the operation of their medicines. Professor Paine says again; "Remedial agents operate in the same manner as do remote causes of disease." And again; "In the administration of medicines we cure one disease by producing another." And he quotes approvingly the famous Latin adage, "Ubi virus, ibi vitus;" or, "Our strongest poisons are our best remedies.

Professor Alonzo Clark, M. D., of the New York College of Physicians and Surgeons, says; "All of our curative agents are poisons; and as a consequence, every dose diminishes the patients vitality."

Professor Joseph M. Smith, M. D., of the same school says: "All medicines which enter the circulation poison the blood in the same manner as do the poisons that produce disease." Professor St. John of the New York Medical College says: "All medicines are poisonous." Says Professor E. R. Peaslee, M. D., of the same school: "The administration of powerful medicines is the most fruitful cause of derangements of the digestion." Says Professor E. H. Davis, M. D., of the New York Medicine College: "The modus operandi of medicine is still a very obscure subject. We know that they operate, but exactly how they operate is entirely unknown."

Says Professor J. W. Carson, M. D., of the New York University Medical School: "We do not know whether our patients recover because we give medicine, or because nature cures them." Says Professor E. S. Carr, of the same school: "All drugs are more or less adulterated; and as not more than one physician in a hundred has sufficient knowledge in chemistry to detect impurities, the physician seldom knows just how much of a remedy he is prescribing."

Now comes the testimonies of prominent authors and medical professors of different schools who declare that drugs neither heal or assisting in healing the sick: Says Professor H. G. Cox, M. D., of the Medical College: "The fewer remedies you employ in any disease, the better for your patients." Says Professor Joseph M. Smith, M. D.: "Drugs do not cure disease; disease is always cured by the vis medicatrix nature," (the healing tendency of nature). Says Professor Clark again: "Physicians have hurried thousands to their graves who would have recovered if left to nature." And again: "In scarlet fever you have nothing to do but to rely on the vis medicatrix naturae."

Professor Austin Flint, M. D., of the New York Medical College and physician to one of the large hospitals said in a clinical lecture to his class, that in treating pneumonia in the hospitals he gave no medicine at all, and lost no patients. At the same time in private families in the city, to whom drugs were administered by skilled physicians, the deaths from the same malady averaged from thirty to forty per week. Professor B. T. Parker of the same school said: "I have recently given no medicine in the treatment of measles and scarlet fever, and I have had excellent success."

Dr. Snow, Health Officer of Providence, R. I., a number of years ago reported through the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, that he had treated all the cases of small-pox which had prevailed epidemically in that city without a particle of medicine, and that all of the cases—some of which were very grave ones—recovered. Dr. John Bell, Professor of Materia Medica in one of the Philadelphia College of Baltimore, in "Bell on Baths," and Dr. Ames, of Montgomery, Alabama, in the New Orleans Medical and Surgical Journal; and Professor Wm. Tully, M. D., of Yale College and of the Vermont Academy of Medicine at Castleton, Vermont, all testify of similar experiences and observations. R. T. Trall, M. D., says: "I have during the sixteen years that I have practiced the Hygienic Medical System, treated all forms and hundreds of cases of typhus and typhoid fever, pneumonias, measles and dysenteries, and have not lost a patient of either one of these diseases," and gave no medicine at all. Says Professor B. T. Barker, M. D.: "The remedies which are administered for the cure of . . . self-limited diseases kill far more than those disease do." Dr. Jennings, who practiced medicine in Derby, Connecticut years ago, whose fame extended far and wide, and under whose treatment "diseases seemed to have lost all of their malignancy and danger," palmed off one of the biggest humbugs upon his patients that we have heard of. He used no medicines but "harmless placebos," such as colored water, starch powders, and sugar pellets.

We will now listen to a few testimonies from the most eminent of the British authors and professors: "The medical practice of our day is at the best a most uncertain and unsatisfactory system; it has neither philosophy nor common sense to commend it to confidence."—Dr. Evans, Fellow of the Royal College, London.

"There has been a great increase of medical men of late; but, upon my life, diseases have increased in proportion." John Abernethy, M. D., "The Good" of London. "Gentlemen, ninety-nine out of every hundred medical facts are medical lies; and medical doctrines are for the most part stark, staring nonsense." Prof. Gregory, of Edinburgh, author of "Theory and Practice of Physic." "It can not be denied that the present system of medicine is a burning shame to its professors, if indeed a series of vague and uncertain incongruities deserve to be called by that name. How rarely do our medicines do good! How often do they make our patients really worse! I fearlessly assert that in most cases the sufferer would be safer without a physician than with one." Dr. Ramage, Fellow of the Royal College, London.

"Nine times out of ten our miscalled remedies are absolutely injurious to our patients suffering under disease of whose real character and cause we are most culpably ignorant." Prof. Jamison, of Edinburgh. "Our actual information or knowledge of disease does not increase in proportion to our experimental practice. Every dose of medicine given is a blind experiment upon the vitality of the patient." Br. Bostock, author of "History of Medicine."

"I declare as my conscientious conviction, founded on long experience and reflection, that if there were not a single physician, surgeon, man-midwife, chemist, apothecary, druggist nor drug on the face of the earth, there would be less sickness and less mortality than now prevail." Jas. Johnson, M. D., F. R. S., Editor of the Medico-Chirurgical Review. "The science of medicine is a barbarous jargon and the effects of our medicines on the human system in the highest degree uncertain; except indeed, that they have destroyed more lives than war, pestilence, and famine combined." John Mason Good, M. D., F. R. S., author of "Book on Nature," "a system of Nosology," "study of medicine," etc. We have quoted mainly from the works of R. T. Trall, M. D. [Hydropathist.—Ed].

If we esteem the testimonies of the most prominent medical practitioners of the past as worth anything, then it settles a number of very important facts. First, that they are divided into numerous conflicting classes, as before noticed.

Second, that their medicines are all poisons, and when they enter the circulation they poison the blood. Third, that the only way in which medicines act as agents in curing disease is by producing another; the primary disease is simply supplanted and succeeded by a drug disease many times more to be feared than the primary. Fourth, that they are ignorant of the manner in which their so-called remedies operate, hence "every dose is a blind experiment on the patients vitality."

Fifth, that they are most culpably ignorant of the essential nature and cause of disease, hence the uncertainty of their practice. Sixth, that in reality drugs do not cure disease at all. Seventh, that they have destroyed more lives than war, famine, and pestilence combined.

It seems that this should be sufficient for the thoughtful. Still it is argued that God sanctions the use of "strong medicine," and this revelation is quoted in its defence; "and whosoever among you are sick, and have not faith to be healed, but believeth shall be nourished with all tenderness, with herbs and mild food, and that not from the hand of an enemy." Doc. Cov. 42: 12. A close reading of the above shows the word "herb" to be amply qualified, for the patient "shall be nourished * * * with herbs," etc.

Pause and reflect upon the facts adduced from the most competent witnesses that can be had, the most renowned of the medical fraternity, a large majority of whom were drug practitioners themselves; so we have not been particular in our selection of witnesses. Now who is there that will come to the front and attempt to harmonize the act of poisoning the blood of a patient with that of nourishing him? How can the morbid impressions made by these poisons be construed into supplying with matter that will increase bulk? How can deranging a patient's digestion be made to appear as promoting growth? Who is there so skilled in legerdemain as to dress up the act of diminishing the patient's vitality and palm it off for supplying waste? Who among all the Saints can, by the use of strong drugs, induce another disease in one already sick, and then make himself and the patient believe he has "nourished" him?

Again; the brother suggests the idea that no herb was made in vain. We concur in the thought that all things were made for some purpose; but before we can endorse every theory that has become popular, or even confide in those wherein we were schooled and traditioned, we prefer understanding the designs of the Creator regarding them; and specially is it hard for us to retain confidence in a system so fraught with incongruities as the one under consideration. Hence the query is naturally propounded to us, What purpose had God in view when he created or placed on earth all noxious, poisonous, troublesome plants? We find the solution in the brief account of Gen. 3:17-19: "And unto Adam he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife and hast eaten of the tree of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it: cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life; thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee."

It is reasonable that in so brief an account only the more troublesome ones would be mentioned. And when we consider that Adam had naught but his naked hands to subdue them with, it is plain that the thorny kingdom was the hardest to contend with and the first mentioned. But we are forced to believe that the whole collection or family of worthless weeds, such as Jesus called the tares and showed their worthlessness, (Matt. 13:30), were included within the curse of thorns and thistles, for they are included with weeds as worthless and troublesome. It is not reasonable to think that the curse consists exclusively of thorns and thistles, for it would cause not only Adam, but his posterity "sorrow," pain of mind and body, and make labor necessary that they might obtain food. If all rural regions were as badly infested with Canada thistles as some are, there would be a shadow of logic in the idea that worthless weeds were not included; but the curse must be general, not having respect to locality.

But "herbs" has no direct reference to any plant, but is valuable for food. "And thou (Adam) shall eat the herb of the field."—Gen. 3:18. "Every moving thing that liveth shall be meat for you; even as the green herb."—9:3. "And God said: Behold, I have given you EVERY herb bearing seed which is upon the face of all the earth * * * to you it shall be for meat."—1:29. "And to every thing that creepeth upon the earth wherein there is life I have given EVERY green herb for meat: and it was so."—1:30.

But another glance at this curse. In our day one man with all the modern inventions can subdue more weeds than fifteen ancient oriental husbandmen with their crooked sticks and wooden plows. No naked hands or feet need now come in contact with the thistle in tilling, reaping, binding, or threshing the grain. As corn grows more rapidly by frequent stirring of the soil, weeds are actually an incentive to industrious cultivation causing some to raise better crops than if there were no weeds. What then! has the inventive genius of men rendered the curse of God of no effect? This is worthy of more than a superficial glance. A proper solution of it may help us to avoid great perplexity. Men have made many woful blunders in their avidity to become first in all things and solve all mysteries independent of revelation. They have not only sought out their own methods of redemption, but have sought and succeeded in making themselves, with millions of their fellows, believe that the curses of God, by a process of rectification, condensation, and distillation, are evaporated into great blessings to humanity.

And is it so? Let the increased death-rate in districts where drug medication has held sway, the relapse and collapse and complication of diseases, the bed-ridden women, and men with ruined constitutions answer this question. And other districts "thank their stars" that they have not been thus highly favored (?) with men wiser than their Creator. "Has the scientific genius of medical tendency lain dormant all these years?" Most assuredly not. Conscientious, talented men and women, furnished with the sad experience of their predecessors, have continued to labor on in their missions of love; have prayed, and studied, and discovered among other important facts that there is no such thing in all nature as a "law of cure;" that the only remedy in the universe consists in right living. Obedience is the only condition of cure. This principle is as true in the law of nature as in those of God, or the land. There is the same analogy in the idea of God rewarding "every man according to his works," and then let a clergyman pray the cold-hearted murderer off the end of the rope into paradise, as there is in the thought that he would ordain disease as a corrective discipline for violating the law of life and then furnish a doctor with medicine to destroy the penalty. God has not ordained remedies for transgression, but penalties.

Another significant discovery is, that disease is not our enemy, but our friend—so to speak. Obstruction is the enemy. Disease is a purifying process; remedial action, an attempt at reparation. That's no new discovery, says some. My doctor told me that disease was an extra effort of the vital functions to clear the channels of circulation—he told me that years ago.

Ah! then why should they hurl their deadly missiles at this remedial action? Can vitality after being poisoned and weakened combat an enemy more successfully than before? Why suppress this conflict with drugs? Or why intensify it with tonics and stimulants? Can a drunken man attend to his duties more assiduously than when sober? Will any good be done by subduing this combat with narcotics? "To give drugs is adding to the cause of disease; for drugs always produce disease."

Well, what in the world shall we do then; give up and die? No, no. If effete or waste matter from within and poisons or impurities from without have caused obstruction in any part and the vital organs are overtaxed, those organs should be "nourished"—that's the point. And there is not a drug in the apothecaries collection that can do this unless it be "mild" and nutritious, for they do not act upon the organs, but the organs upon them,—not the dead and inorganic upon the living and organic, but, per contra, the living upon the dead.

In conclusion. The food should be mild. And Sec. 86:1 says that "drink" should neither be "strong" nor "hot." And again: "Be temperate in all things." These few words of living inspiration cover the whole ground in the word "all." It includes medicine which must be temperate, nothing excessively strong, nor hot, is admissible. Strength, and heat, either mechanical or vegetable, are herein proscribed. Again; if nothing "strong" nor "hot" should be eaten or drank, how then can it be administered?

D. R. BALDWIN.

Selections.

THE END OF THIS AGE.

A. D. 566 the Commencement of the 1260,
1290 and 1335 Years, and Therefore
A. D. 1901 the End of this Age.

Extracts from 'A Syllabus of Lectures on the Visions of the Revelation,' published about the year 1812 by Amzi Armstrong, A. M., Minister of the Presbyterian Church, Muddlam, New Jersey, United States. Beginning Sec. x., p. 220.

WE are now to consider III. The time of Christ's Coming in these dread events.

THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

III. The signs, or tokens of the approach of these dreadful and decisive events are of two kinds:

1st. The dates that are given in prophecy for the continuance of God's forbearance, till the measure of the iniquities of the adversaries of His kingdom is filled up.

And 2d. The accomplishing of other events, that according to the word of prophecy, are to prepare the way for the execution of God's wrath, or are to be contemporaneous with it.

1st. The dates.

The only definite period of time given in the Book of Revelation, as fixed to a precise number of years, is the forty and two months, or one thousand two hundred and three-score days, a day being given for a year, at the expiration of which the afflictions and oppressions of the Saints are to cease, and the pollutions of the sanctuary are to be cleansed.

This period is given in relation to four different events.

1st. The Holy City being given to be trodden under foot of the Gentiles forty and two months (xi. 2).

2d. The prophesying of the witnesses for the space of one thousand two hundred and threescore days, clothed in sackcloth.

3d. The nourishing and preservation of the Church in the wilderness a thousand and threescore days (xii. 6). This is also again spoken of in the 14th verse of the same chapter, as to continue for a time and times and half a time—that is, three years and a half, or forty and two months, which, reckoning the months at thirty days each, is one thousand two hundred and three-score days, as stated in the 6th verse.

4th and lastly. The continuance of the power of the beast with seven heads and ten horns, is to be forty and two months, after the healing of his deadly wound in his head, in which he received the wound by a sword and yet did live (chap. xiii. 5). "Power was given him to continue forty and two months;" or, more literally rendered, "Power was given him to do," or "to act." That is, I suppose, to occupy his place and maintain his beastly state, and tyrannize over the saints "forty and two months."

These events seem, in their nature, so intimately connected with each other, and in the prophecy revealed in such connection, that, as they all have precisely the same duration assigned them, so, I suppose, the time of their commencement, and of course, the time of their ending, must be very nearly the same with all of them. If, therefore, we could ascertain the beginning of this period, in reference to any one of the four events, it would very nearly determine the times of the others.

The giving of the Holy City to be trodden under foot of the Gentiles, and the retiring of the Church into the wilderness from the face of the serpent, and the two witnesses putting on their sackcloth, are events that I am persuaded had their beginning before the close of the sixth century. The history of the latter part of this century is as strongly indicative of the state of things intended by these representations as that of almost any succeeding age. But the histories we have of these times, except the jejune and uncertain one that bears the name of Evagrius, have all been composed in later ages from the few and doubtful public records and detached tracts that have passed through the dark ages to the revival of letters in the thirteenth century, and most of them to the invention of printing in the fifteenth. It is, therefore, not to be accounted strange if we can fix on no one precise date, that from the light of such history seems eminently distinguished by circumstances, that would unequivocally marke the commencement of these events. From their nature, I suppose, they must have been nearly connected in time with the prevailing of the power of the beast with seven heads and ten horns. But as there was a difference of almost two hundred years between the rising of the first and of the last of the principal cities represented by the ten horns, and as the union of these principalities, in giving their strength and power to the beast, was not an event all at once brought about, and made manifest by any explicit general compact or act of union, it seems difficult to fix the date of this event.

There is, however, one intimation on this subject, in the second Epistle to the Thessalonians, that seems to have in it something decisive. The spirit of inspiration is unquestionably the best guide to the interpretation of the prophecies which he has dicated.

Speaking of the Man of Sin, the Son of Perdition, the Apostle says, "Ye know what withholdeth that he might be revealed in his time. For the mystery of iniquity doth already work, only he who now letteth, will let, till he be taken out of the way; and then shall that wicked be revealed." The tradition that this hindrance, which prevented the revealing of the Man of Sin, was the dominion of the ancient Roman Empire, is, I think, worthy of full credit. And whatever may be meant by this Man of Sin, we must look for his manifestation immediately upon the old Roman dominion being removed out of the way. This seemed to be accomplished, when the title of Emperor expired with the reign of Augustulus, in 476. But as the Senate and Consuls still continued to exercise their office, and the Church of Rome still acknowledged the authority of the Emperor of the East, there was not yet an opportunity for his being fully revealed. But when the entire dominion of the old Roman Empire ceased, and no longer stood in the way to hinder the exaltation of the Man of Sin, then was he revealed, and commenced his full career of iniquity. The Eastern Emperor withdrew his deputy from Rome, and gave up the city to the government of the Pope, in the year 552. But it was not till the year 566 that the entire dominion of the Roman Senate ceased, and the whole form of the old Roman Government was abolished, and gave full scope to the dominancy of him who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped.

It is true that there is no specific period mentioned in prophecy for the continuance of the papacy, which seems chiefly to be intended by the Man of Sin; neither is there any period assigned in the Revelation for the continuance of the beast with two horns like a lamb, or the spiritual tyranny of the Romish Priesthood. But the union of these powers, as they are in fact one in their nature and principles, seems to be intended by the little horn, which the prophet Daniel saw coming up among the ten horns of the fourth beast. And of him it is there said, the saints shall be given into his hands for a time, and times, and the dividing of time, which is the same period that is assigned for the continuance of the beast with seven heads and ten horns. Indeed, so intimately blended with each other are all the three powers predicted in the thirteenth chapter of the Revelation, and so dependent on each other for support and continuance, that it seems scarcely possible that they can subsist separately, or any one of them much outlive the others. So also in their origin, they are probably to be accounted nearly coeval.

Now, the dragon is said to give the beast with seven heads and ten horns his power and his seat, and great authority. But this seat could not be occupied by a new dynasty until vacated by the old; therefore the succession of this beast can not be dated till the old Roman form of government entirely ceased and was abolished. The very same event was necessary to make way for the revealing of this, as for the revealing of the other dominions predicted in connection with it in the same chapter. The old Roman form of government must cease, and be taken out of the way, before any of them could occupy the places assigned them, and exercise their beastly dominion, as ascribed to them in the prophecy.

This took place in 566, when that which hindered the revealing of the Man of Sin was taken out of the way, and the form of dominion of the fourth kingdom on the earth was changed, to admit of the last form of that dominion coming forward to occupy its place and exercise its authority.

The seat of the dragon would not be left vacant, nor the Man of Sin any longer be withheld, when that which hindered was taken out of the way. Accordingly, everything was already prepared, at that time, for the coming in of this triple alliance of anti-Christian powers.

The ten principalities were already established, and only waited the entire removal of the ancient form, to have the transfer of the supreme authority made by the dragon to them that they might succeed to the seat and dominion of the old Roman Empire.

The code of the Roman laws that was, by their adopting it, to identify them, in after times, as the legal successors to the dominion, had been formed and published by Justinian, a little more than thirty years before; and at whatever time they may have in any way have explicitly adopted this code, yet, as they from the first came into many of the principles of jurisprudence of the people whom they conquered, and with whom they intermingled, I think they must be reckoned to have commenced their dominion, as the last form of the fourth kingdom on earth, immediately on the entire removal and dissolution of the preceding form.

So likewise the fundamental principles of the spiritual dominion has been adopted and acted on before this time. Justinian had also thirty years before published his Novellæ, or ecclesiastical canons, for regulating the polity of the Church of Rome, and to all the ecclesiastical establishments that have copied from her. These, however, were administered by the authority of the Emperor, as long as Justinian lived, and in the dominion of the Empire, as long as it lasted in the west; but when Justinian died, in 565, and the last remains of the ancient form of government in the west was removed, in the year following; then, the beast that rose up out of the earth, or the hierarchy of the Church of Rome, took the administration on themselves, and constituting an ecclesiastical empire under the Bishop of Rome, as the Image of the ancient beast, in his name administered the government of the church.

Thus, when that which hindered was taken out of the way, then was that wicked revealed, whose coming is after the working of Satan, with all power, and signs, and lying wonders.

Senez, a French historian, says: "The Bishop of Rome lived there amidst the confusions of the Empire, even at Rome. Whereas the Emperors were seldom seen there, which forced Christians to fly to their Bishop for counsel, and laid foundation for their authority." And, again, in the early part of the sixth century, he says: "The Pope of Rome thrust himself forward amidst these confusions and ruins of the Empire, recovering that which the Emperors had lost."

Thus was the way preparing and the new form of dominion was coming forward as the old retired and gave way. The actual change, when the new dominion must be considered as absolutely taking place of the old, can not, I think, be dated later than 566, when the last remains of the ancient form entirely ceased, for so fully was everything prepared and matured for the coming in and establishment of the new dominion, that the history of the times for some years before this period seems to be the history of that new dominion; and nothing but the two facts, 1st, of the ancient form of the Senate and Consuls being continued to that time—and 2d, of the dominion of the beasts that succeeded being continued to the present time, could seem to warrant us in fixing the date of this change so late as 566. For fourteen years before this time, even the claims of the Emperor of the East to a secular dominion in Rome had been withdrawn, and although the Eastern Emperors continued to attempt something in the general government of the Universal Church, as they had formerly been used to hold a dominion over it, yet, after the death of Justinian, their authority was very little regarded, and never again had efficacy in the west to control or limit the spiritual dominion.

As to the open revealing of the spiritual dominion, or the kingdom of the little horn described by Daniel, Machiavel himself says expressly: "Upon the coming of the Longobards into Italy, began the evident and open state of the Pope's kingdom." Now this was in 568. I perceive, however, no sufficient reason to suppose there was a delay, even of two years only, after the ancient seat of the dragon was vacated by the ancient dynasty, and that which hindered the revealing of the Man of Sin was taken out of the way; but that the Anti-Christian triumvirate commenced immediately their tyrannical and impious career.

This was in 566, and if to this be added the period assigned 1,260 years for the existence of their dominion, it must end in 1826.

* * * *

(p. 233) I suppose that according to the explanation I have here given of the order and progress of the prophetic visions, the events disclosed by the opening of the sixth seal must have begun to be accomplished (vi. 12).

The first concussions of that great earthquake have already been felt (in the French Revolutionary disturbances), and although there may be short intervals of awful stillness, yet the concussions will continue to be renewed till the total removing of the things that are shaken shall be completed. The thrones and dominions of the earth, both secular and ecclesiastical, have begun to be shrouded in darkness, and covered with blood, and the princes and potentates to fall from their high places, "even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind."

I suppose, also, that of the seven angels which have the seven last plagues, in which is filled up the wrath of God, and which are described as following each other with an awful rapidity in their succession, the first four have already poured out their vials of wrath; and that we may be daily looking for the fifth to begin to take effect and fill the kingdom of the beast with darkness, and cause them that are attached to it to gnaw their tongues for pain. And that very soon after this, and perhaps in a measure contemporaneous with it, the pouring out of the sixth vial will bring on the destruction of the Turkish Empire, and open the way for the kings of the east to come in for their portion in the events of the last day. They have long enslaved multitudes of them that have borne the Christian name.

After this there will probably be a general cessation of the nations for a little season from the tempests and dissolutions of war, while the four angels, standing on the four corners of the earth, hold the four winds of the earth, till the servants of the living God shall be sealed in their foreheads (vii. 1).

During this calm, the dispersed of Israel will begin to be gathered to the land of their inheritance, and be brought to the knowledge and acknowledgement of Christ as the true Messiah (vii. 4).

True Christians will then generally be convinced that the hour of God's judgment is come, and there will be a general concurrence among them, and a union of successful efforts to spread the knowledge of the gospel among the nations (xix. 6, 7).

And while the servants of the living God are thus separating themselves, and receiving his seal in their foreheads, that they may be distinguished as his servants, the three unclean spirits will be executing their commission, to distinguish also his enemies, and gather the kings of the earth, and of the whole world, with their marshalled hosts, to suffer the vengeance of the King of kings and Lord of lords (xvi. 13 and 14).

When these things shall be accomplished, and everything thus prepared, the calm will be interrupted, and the silence broken by the sounding of the seventh trumpet in an unexpected moment, and the pouring out of the seventh vial, when men have become most confident in their security. The great city will then be divided into three parts.

The cities of the nations will fall.

Great Babylon will be made to drink the cup of the wine of the fierceness of God's wrath.

The Beast and the False Prophet will be taken and cast alive into an endless perdition, and the remnant of their hosts will be slain with the sword of Him that in righteousness doth judge and make war.

Then Satan shall be bound a thousand years, and a seal be put upon him, that he shall deceive the nations no more, till the thousand years shall be fulfilled. And the saints shall live and reign with Christ a thousand years.—From the Prophetic News.

Conference Minutes.

CENTRAL MISSOURI.

Conference met with the Missouri River branch at the Nee's School-house, July 30th, 1887, Bro. W. T. Bozarth presiding. On motion all visiting brethren were invited to seats with us. Minutes of last conference were read and approved. Report of Branches:—Alma 32. Wakenda reorganized May 21st, 1887, with eighteen members, including 2 elders, 1 teacher, 2 deacons. The following elders were present: E. W. Cato, Sen., F. M. Miller, Geo. W. Carter, F. C. Warnky, David Frampton, W. T. Bozarth, Joseph Westwood, Emsley Curtis and M. A. Trotter; Teachers Brn. Hockings and Henry Manning; Deacons Morris H. Stone and H. T. Curtis. Bro. David Frampton was sustained president of the district, Geo. W. Carter vice president, and M. A. Trotter secretary. The report of the Missouri River branch was received. The Bishop's Agent made the following report: On hand last report $10.35; received since $1; paid out $9; balance on hand $2.35. Bro. F. M. Miller, Geo. W. Carter and M. A. Trotter were appointed to audit the Agent's account, who reported it correct. Bro. Cato was sustained Bishop's Agent. The spiritual authorities of the church were sustained in righteousness. The conference endorsed the labors of Bro. Bozarth in this district. Bro. F. C. Warnky was invited to labor in the district. A cordial invitation was extended to Bro. H. C. Bronson to labor in this district. Bro. F. C. Warnky preached Saturday evening; prayer and testimony meeting Sunday morning presided over by Bro. Frampton assisted by Bro. Hockings; preaching by Bro. Bozarth Sunday a. m., Sunday evening by Bro. Frampton, after which conference adjourned to meet with the Wakenda branch the last Saturday in October, 1887, at ten o'clock a. m.

TEXAS CENTRAL.

The above conference convened with the Central branch, July 1st, 1887, at eight o'clock p. m., Bro. E. W. Nunley in the chair, and Bro. E. Land secretary. On motion the business of the conference was deferred to ten o'clock a. m. tomorrow, and Bro. Nunley was requested to preach, which he did, from Gal. 1: 8. Met, ten a. m., the 2d. Minutes of last conference were read and approved. Elders reports: E. W. Nunley, I. N. Roberts, (baptized 2), Elias Land (baptized 1 and performed one marriage ceremony), S. W. Simmons. Priests S. R. Hay, C. C. Holcombe, and Ed. White. Teacher W. W. Wallies. The Bishop's Agent's report was read and approved: Due Agent last report, 35 cts.; received since, $62.40; paid out, $46; on hand, $16.05. Bro. I. N. Roberts, on tent committee, reports that he had not collected any more than reported at last conference, and on motion the committee was continued. Branch reports: Texas Central 34, including 1 elder, 3 priests, 1 teacher; 3 expelled, 1 died. Elmwood 62, including 5 elders, 2 priests, 1 teacher and 1 deacon, 6 added by baptism. At 2 p. m., on motion the following resolution was adopted: Resolved that we hereby return our sincere thanks to Almighty God in choosing such good and wise brethren to the Quorum of the Twelve April 6th, 1887; and be it further resolved that we endorse the defense made by the Herald against the opposers of truth. Signed, I. N. Roberts, T. J. Norwood. Bro. Elias Land requests that his name be recorded as not voting for or against the resolution above, he not being fully prepared to vote intelligently upon such a resolution. On motion all church authorities were sustained in righteousness. On motion Bro. Nunley was sustained president of the district, Bro. Land secretary, and Bro. Wm.

Sherrill Bishop's Agent. At 7:30 p. m. preaching by I. N. Roberts assisted by S. W. Simmons. 11 a. m., preaching by I. N. Roberts, assisted by C. C. Holcombe. At 3 p. m., sacrament meeting in charge of S. W. Simmons. At 7:30 p. m., preaching by I. N. Roberts, assisted by C. C. Holcombe. Adjourned to meet at Cook's Point on call of the president.

NORTH-EAST MISSOURI.

Conference convened at Bevier, Missouri, August 27th, 1887, at two o'clock p. m. By invitation Bro. Joseph R. Lambert presided, and Bro. John Taylor, district president, acted as clerk pro tem. Branch reports.—Bevier 118, including 5 elders, 4 priests, 4 teachers, 2 deacons; 7 removed by letter, 1 died; Ephraim Rowland president, John Richards clerk. Hannibal branch 24; including 2 elders, 1 priest, 1 teacher; 1 expelled; John Taylor president, Edward L. Page clerk. Salt River branch 20,—nine of them scattered; 2 died, 1 child blessed; Edward Moss clerk. Renick branch 24; including 4 elders, 1 teacher, 1 deacon; William Vincent president and clerk. Report of Bishop's agent, John T. Richards: on hand at last report $18.06, received since $42.50; paid out $42.03, on hand $20.53. The auditing committee found fifty cents more on hand than appeared in the report. Elders reported.—Brethren Perry, Reed, Ephraim Rowland and John Taylor; Priest, Mark Surridge; Teacher, John T. Richards. Saturday evening, preaching by Bro. J. R. Lambert. Sunday, 28th, met for prayer at nine a. m. Preaching at 10:30 by Bro. John Taylor. Sacrament and testimony meeting at two p. m. Three children were blessed. Preaching at seven p. m. by Bro. J. R. Lambert to a full house, with good liberty. The attendance during conference was very good, and the preaching of the word was instructive and edifying. Adjourned to meet at call of president.

FAR WEST.

This conference convened at the German Stewartville branch August 27th and 28th, 1887. J. T. Kinneman president, C. P. Faul clerk. Brn. George Best, J. M. Terry and Thomas Worrall, were appointed a committee on credentials. Branch reports: St. Joseph 116 members; Pleasant Grove no change; German Stewartville no change; Delano no change; DeKalb 69; Stewartville, no change; Center Prairie referred back to branch for correction. Elders reports: H. C. Bronson, (by proxy), had preached in St. Joseph, DeKalb and German Stewartville branches also in Kingston, and in Central Missouri District. J. T. Kinneman had done about what he could in the last quarter. Wm. Summerfield had preached in Platte county, Missouri, baptized 2, confirmed 1. Committee on order of business reported, and the report was adopted and committee discharged. Bro. Henry Islieb asked for an appeal from the action of the St. Joseph branch in severing him from the church. The president appointed Brn. J. M. Terry, T. T. Hinderks and Wm. Summerfield to examine into the merits of the claims for an appeal. The committee, after examining the record and merits of the case reported that in their judgment Bro. Islieb be granted an appeal. The report on motion was received, the yeas and nays were called, 46 were for the adoption and 36 against. The conference appointed Brn. L. L. Babbitt, H. C. Bronson and James Drown as a court of elders to hear the above case. Priests reports: Bro. A. W. Head had superintended a Sabbath School in which there was good interest manifested. Bro. L. Neidorp reports he is a teacher in the Sabbath School in St. Joseph, is trying to do what he can to advance the cause. Be it resolved that we are in hearty sympathy with the Sabbath School cause; and that we foster the work and urge the establishment of schools where practicable. Carried. Motioned the Bishop of the church be asked, by his agent, (Bro. W. Lewis), to grant the Pleasant Grove branch the privilege of moving the Starfield church, now unoccupied, to the branch, that they may worship therein. Carried. Bishop's Agent report for six months: money on hand last report $189.59; received since $590.30; expenditures $495.25; balance on hand 95.05. The report was adopted. Moved, that we ask the Central Missouri district to relinquish the claim they may have on Platte county, and add it to the Far West district. Carried. The present officers of the district were sustained by the yeas and nays for next quarter. Sunday, prayer meeting 9 a. m.; preaching by Bro. W. T. Bozarth at 11 a. m.; social meeting at 2½ p. m.; preaching in the evening by W. T. Bozarth. Never was the German church so crowded with people as at this conference; and the best of attention was given while Bro. Bozarth delivered two fine discourses. A vote of thanks was tendered the German Saints for their kindness in entertaining the Saints while at conference. Also a vote of thanks was tendered Rev. Mr. Dorsey for the use of his organ, and his services as organist during conference.

Miscellaneous.

REUNION NOTICE.

THOSE attending the Reunion at Harlan, September 24th, will not need to load their wagons down with articles that they have to buy at home, for they can buy as cheap at Harlan, and possibly some things cheaper.

Small sheet-iron camp stoves can be bought here, which will take very little fuel, thus insuring saving in fuel to those using stoves.

Delivery wagons will be run between the town and camp, by which groceries and supplies will be delivered on the ground free.

Those using stoves burning oil, or fluid will be handy, bring them; the material to burn can be had here, delivered in camp.

Enquire for Chatburn's Mills. Application has been made for trains on the Rock Island road to stop at the crossing near the grounds.

Those coming by the North-Western Rail Road will come to Kirkman. They should drop a card to J. W. Chatburn, stating time of arrival at Kirkman, giving plenty of time for teams to meet them for passengers and baggage. Arrangements have been made for reduced rates on the "Hack," for passengers; wagons will be sent for baggage.

Trains for Harlan leave Avoca, on the Rock Island, main line, at 11 a. m., and at 6 p. m.; connecting with all trains, excepting the passenger from Council Bluffs about 3 or 3:30 in the afternoon. Passengers on this train will have to wait at Avoca until evening. All coming from the south by Carson will connect.

Every effort will be made to secure the comfort, convenience and pleasure of all who shall attend.

J. W. CHATBURN,
In behalf of Committee.

SECOND NOTICE. ANNUAL REUNION.

Arrangements have been made for holding the Annual Reunion at Harlan as shown below:

Persons coming by the Chicago and North Western Ry will purchase tickets from any station on the line of that road in Iowa, paying full fare for same to Kirkman, and at the same time get a certificate from agent at such starting point that full fare has been paid.

Persons coming by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Ry will purchase tickets and procure certificates as in the case of the C. & N. W. Ry from Chicago and intervening points or from other stations on the line of that road in Iowa to Harlan.

Persons coming by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Ry will purchase tickets and procure certificates as in the case of the C. & N. W. Ry from stations on the line of that road in Iowa to Manning, changing cars there for Kirkman over the C. & N. W. Ry.

Persons coming by the Chicago Burlington and Quincy Ry will purchase tickets and procure certificates as in the case of the C. & N. W. Ry from stations on the line of that road in Iowa to Council Bluffs, changing cars there for Harlan over the C. R. I. & P. Ry.

Persons coming by the Kansas City St. Jo. & Council Bluffs Ry will purchase tickets and procure certificate from Kansas City and intervening points to Council Bluffs, changing cars there for Harlan over the C. R. & P. Ry.

Persons coming by the Sioux City & Pacific Ry will purchase tickets and procure certificates as in the case of the C. & N. W. Ry from stations on the line of that road in Iowa to Council Bluffs, changing cars there for Harlan over the C. R. I. & P. Ry.

Be sure and get your certificates showing the payment of full fare going when you get your tickets at starting point, and when changing cars at Council Bluffs and Manning. Carefully preserve these certificates and present these to the secretary of the Reunion to be countersigned in order that reduced fare may be obtained on the return trip.

Teams will be in waiting at Kirkman to convey visitors from that point to Harlan, seven miles distant.

It is confidently believed that such arrangements have been made with the Western States' Passenger Association, as will insure to all paying full fare going to the Reunion over the above named roads a return rate of one-third in all cases where directions given above shall have been carefully followed.

The Saints and friends at Harlan are fully prepared to give to all visitors a royal greeting, and to make their stay both pleasant and profitable.

Remember the date, September 24th to October 2d.

Committee.

VOICE OF WARNING.

To Those Who Circulate the Voice of Warning:—I have just mailed a memorandum book to each of you. Should any of you fail to receive it, please write me, giving your full name and address, and I will mail you another one. The little slips addressed "To the reader," which accompany the memorandum books, are intended for you to write your name and address on, then stick them on the first white page of the Voice of Warning as fast as they come into your hands. I hope each one will observe the instructions in the fore part of the memorandum books, as near as practicable.

Your brother in Christ,

J. H. PETERS.

EAST LAKE, Mich., August 31st, 1887.

BORN.

PRATHER.—Audubon, Iowa, April 18th, 1886, to Mr. Charles and Sr. Edith Prather a son. Blessed at the Plum Hollow Campmeeting, September 3d, 1887, by Elder Henry Kemp, and named Harry Nathaniel.

GRAYBILL.—At Dawsonburg, Iowa, August 10th, 1887, to Bro. John and Sr. Fanny Graybill, a son. Blessed at the Plum Hollow Campmeeting, September 3d, 1887, by Elder Robt. M. Elvin, and named Leslie Gould.

MARRIED.

NEEDHAM—HILLS.—On the Camp Ground, Pottawattamie Reunion, Plum Hollow, near Leeka's Mills, Fremont county, Iowa, August 30th, 1887, by Pres. Joseph Smith, Bro. Emsley H. Needham, of Wheeler's Grove, and Sr. Julia F. Hills, of Red Oak, Iowa.

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

The conference of the Fremont district is postponed until Saturday, October 8th, at ten a. m., and will convene with the Keystone branch.

HENRY KEMP, Dist. Pres.

Massachusetts district conference will meet in Unity Temple Hall, 275 High Street, Providence, Rhode Island, on Saturday, September 24th, 1887, at 2:30 p. m. Brethren Briggs, Sheehy and others of the active ministry will be present.

JOHN SMITH, Dist. Pres.

The Decatur Conference will be held at Lucas, October 1st and 2d, beginning at ten o'clock on Saturday. The annual election of officers will take place at this session. The branches are expected to send statistical reports, and the elders and Saints who can attend are urged to do so.

H. A. STEBBINS, Dist. Pres.

Alexander H. Smith, Andover, Harrison Co., Missouri.

NOTICES.

To the Saints in the Rocky Mountain Mission, Greeting:—This is to certify that Charles E. Malmstrom has been silenced and his license demanded, he declaring himself not in harmony with the faith and doctrine of the church. We therefore warn the Saints against any official acts by him. R. J. Anthony, in charge of Mission, Peter Andersen, president of district.

Wanted to know the whereabouts of Caleb, Hyrum, or Alexander Blodgett. Any person knowing where they are will confer a favor to the Church by letting me know by card. Address, David A. Frampton, Richmond, Missouri.

THE police court judge at Brockton has held in $1000 for the grand jury the two union labor men, McLaughlin and O'Brien, who were charged with conspiracy to injure the business of W. L. Douglas, the shoe manufacturer. There seems to be no question as to the facts in the case. The men acted as pickets about the factory to persuade non-union men to keep away. It does not appear that there was any intimidation or violence used by them, although such a thing might easily be supposed from the past doings of union labor men. If threats of violence were employed to keep away outsiders then the case of conspiracy becomes good, but otherwise not. The affair freshly illustrates how anything akin to the boycott has come to be regarded in the courts of the state.

THE GOSPEL PACKAGE,

Containing one copy of the Voice of Warning, an assortment of Tracts, letter paper, envelopes, and printed recipes valuable in every household, by mail to any part of United States for $5c in stamps or otherwise.

W. C. LANYON, LAMONI, IOWA.

150 TOWN LOTS.

I am prepared to furnish any one wanting a lot, either Business or Residence, in LAMONI, at low prices and very easy terms. Some fine acre pieces also. Call on or address

J. W. DENOON, M.D., Lamoni.

20aug3m

LADIES or Gents, Girls or Boys, wanted in Europe and America, to sell our Folding Bustles, Portable Bed-springs, Tidy Holders, Sewing Machine Relief Springs, &c. For terms, address Bro. B. F. Ordway, Peoria, U.S.A.; or Bro. Henry Tabbiner, 2 Grafton-st., Hanley, England. 6aug

The Sisters' Aid Society of Independence branch have for sale for the benefit of the new church, two Cabinet Photographs: one of the THREE WITNESSES, with views of the HILL CUMORAH and the ANGEL delivering the PLATES; the other of the OLD LIBERTY JAIL as it now stands, for 25 cts each. Those desiring to purchase can address Mrs. B. C. Smith, box 61, Independence, Missouri. 23jul3m

Foreign Money Orders.

Bear in mind the fact that the post office at Lamoni is now a Foreign Money Order Office. Therefore, those in foreign countries sending moneys to this office should draw them on Lamoni, Iowa, U. S. A.

ZION'S HOPE

Is published every Saturday by the Church of Christ, at Lamoni, Iowa. Single copies, per year, 50c; packages of four to ten 40c; packages of over ten 35c.

HOW TO SEND MONEY.

Remit by Post Office Order, or by Express Order, on Lamoni, Iowa. Or by Bank Drafts on Chicago or New York only; personal checks on banks in any other cities can not be used at par. Money Orders from Foreign countries should be made payable at Lamoni, Decatur county, Iowa.

TO HOPE SUBSCRIBERS.

On and after January 1st, 1887, the Hope will be sent to subscribers as follows:

Single copies, per year ..... 50c.
Over 4 copies and under 10, to one address, each ..... 40c.
Ten copies and over, to one address, each ... 35c.
Subscriptions to be paid in advance unless otherwise arranged for by subscribers,

PUBLICATIONS ISSUED AND FOR SALE

—) BY THE (—
Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church,
at their Publishing House in
LAMONI, DECATUR CO., IOWA,
And sent Free of Postage at prices named.

Holy Scriptures.

Inspired Translation by Joseph Smith the Prophet.
Sheep or Library binding.....1 50
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....2 00
Full Morocco, gilt edges.....2 50
New Testament, inspired edition..... 75

Book of Mormon.

Roan, sprinkled edges.....1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....1 50
Full Morocco, gilt edges.....1 75

Doctrine and Covenants.

Sprinkled Sheep, or Library.....1 25
Imitation Morocco.....1 50

The Saints' Harp—Hymn Book.

Imitation Morocco, marbled edges.....1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....1 50

Life of Joseph the Prophet, History of the Reorganized Church, and Autobiography of Joseph Smith.

In Cloth, full gilt finished, very handsome.....2 25
This book contains 827 pages of large, clear reading matter; also, three very fine Steel Engravings, and a fac simile of the Autograph of Joseph the Prophet and Emma, and of Joseph Smith; also, Steel Engraving of Hyrum Smith. A complete history of the Church up to 1830.

Joseph Smith the Prophet, and His Progenitors.

Muslin Boards, 312 pages, by Lucy Smith..... 75
Leather Binding.....1 00

Hesperis.

Poems by David H. Smith, 202 pages, fancy cloth, gilt edges.....1 50

Rules of Order and Debate.

For all Deliberative Assemblies of the Church; also, a Chapter on Branch Rules, and one on Reports of Branches and Districts; 123 pages, limp cloth..... 40

Joseph the Seer.

His Prophetic Mission Vindicated, and the Divine Origin of the Book of Mormon Defended and Maintained. 35
Paper covers 200 pages..... 35
This is a reply by Elder W. W. Blair to Elder William Sheldon of the Second Advent Society, and is an important work to be in the hands of the ministry of the Church, especially; and it is a most excellent one to be circulated both in the Church and among those without, abounding in proofs never before presented in defense of Joseph Smith and the Book of Mormon.

Voice of Warning.

And Instruction to all People, on the Doctrine and History of the Latter Day work; 128 pages
In Paper Covers, twelve for $1.....each 10
Limp Cloth Covers, each..... 25

Prophetic Truth.

Confirmed in the appearing of the Book of Mormon, an Israelitish Record of a Fallen People; paper covers; five for $1.....each 25
Being the Subject of an Evening's Conversation Respecting its Origin. Its Divinity Proved by the Scriptures and Collateral Evidence. Prefaced with a Brief Sketch of the Life of the Prophet, showing the way and manner of his becoming possessed of the Record.

Branch Records.

Leather backs and corners, muslin sides; printed headings, and ruled for Record of Names, Blessing of Children, and for Marriages.....2 00

District Records.

Printed and bound similar to Branch Records.....3 00

Licences, Notices, &amp;c.

Elders, Priests, Teachers, and Deacons Licenses, each per dozen..... 12
Blank Preaching Notices, per hundred, 40c. and..... 50
Baptism and Confirmation Certificate books, with blank stub, 35 for..... 25

Certificates and Reports.

Branch Statistical Reports, per dozen..... 40
Annual Statistical Reports, two for..... 10
Certificate of Baptism and Membership, per dozen..... 12
Certificate of Removal, per dozen..... 12
Marriage Certificates, per dozen..... 25

"Manuscript Found."

We have for sale at this office the notorious "Manuscript Found," written by Rev. Solomon Spaulding, about which so much has been said in connection with the theory that it furnished Joseph Smith and Sidney Rigdon the chief ground work and material from which to write the Book of Mormon. Has 144 pages 8 mo.; single copies, in cloth, 25 cents; 10 copies or more to one address, 20 cents each; in paper, single copies 15 cents; 10 copies or more, to one address, 13 cents each.

Lamoni and Vicinity.

Those wishing to become acquainted with Lamoni and vicinity, will do well to subscribe for

THE LAMONI GAZETTE

A weekly paper, now published by

LAMBERT & HANSEN.

decl11f

J. H. HANSEN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Will practice in Lamoni and vicinity; calls made at all hours. Office in Drug Store of Hansen & Walker, Lamoni

MIDWIFERY and DISEASES of WOMEN a Specialty

Residence one block East Teal's Store. 14Febly

Money Orders.

Money Orders are much safer than Postal Notes when remitting to this office, and they cost but two cents more. Don't forget this, lest you lose money.

D. DANCER, Manager.

"A BOOK FOR THE PEOPLE."

CAPTIVATING! USEFUL! Eloquent Discussions, and Diplomatic Papers on the Great Public Questions of the Past and Present, by JAMES G. BLAINE.

Embracing his masterly arguments on the vital issues in the Anti-Slavery Struggle, the All Important Labor Question, Prohibition, Irish Home-Rule, etc., etc. A PORTUNE FOR BOOK CANVASSERS! APPLICATIONS FOR TERRITORY COMING IN WITH A RUSH! THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING CO., NORWICH, CT.

WHEN YOU TRAVEL

Take the

Line selected by the United States Government to carry the Fast Mail,—the

As it is the Line running Through Trains to and from the following cities and towns on its own Lines:

CHICAGO,
AURORA, OTTAWA,
STREATOR, ROCKFORD, DUBUQUE,
LA CROSSE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS,
MENDOTA, PEORIA, GALESBURG, ST. LOUIS,
QUINCY, KEOKUK, BURLINGTON, WASHINGTON,
OSKALOOSA, DES MOINES, CHARITON,
CRESTON, ST. JOSEPH, ATCHISON,
KANSAS CITY, NEBRASKA CITY,
OMAHA, COUNCIL BLUFFS,
LINCOLN & DENVER,

Making Direct Connections

TO AND FROM

NEW YORK,
BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON,
CINCINNATI, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON,
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISVILLE, SAN FRANCISCO,
LOS ANGELES, SALT LAKE CITY, COLORADO AND
PACIFIC COAST RESORTS, CITY OF MEXICO,
PORTLAND, OREGON, MANITOBA,
VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND
POINTS.

Good Equipment,
Good Service,
Good Connection.

For information concerning the Burlington Route, apply to the nearest Ticket Agent of the C., B. & Q. or connecting railroads.

HENRY B. STONE, General Manager,
PAUL MORTON, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Train Leaves Lamoni, Going East at 1:45 p.m.
Do. do. West 2:53 "

At Bethany Junction, 3 miles east of Lamoni
Trains pass going South at 3:07 a.m. Going East and West, pass at 12:10 a.m.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEarken to the word of the Lord: for there shall not any man among you have save it be one wife, and concubines he shall have none."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.

"We believe that one man should have one wife, and one woman but one husband: except in case of death, when either is at liberty to marry again."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 34.—Whole No. 749.

Lamoni, Iowa, September 24, 1887.

No. 39.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,

Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

Business letters and subscriptions must be sent to David Dancer, by P.O. Order, Registered letter or express. Entered as second class matter at Lamoni Post Office.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - - - EDITOR.
W. W. BLAIR - - - - - ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, Sept. 24, 1887.

TRUTH AGAINST MR. CANNON.

THE Juvenile Instructor, published in Salt Lake City, Utah, and of which George Q. Cannon is the editor, has in its issue for August 15th the following editorial:

"A dispatch was lately sent from Carthage, Illinois, to the Louisville Courier-Journal, to the effect that the Prophet Joseph's son Joseph, the head of what is called the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints, residing at Lamoni, Iowa, was intending to come out to our Territory to offer himself as a candidate for President of the church. There may not be a word of truth in the dispatch, though it would not be surprising to hear of such a move on the part of that aspiring individual.

"There is great potency in the name of Joseph Smith among the Latter Day Saints. Many sacred recollections and feelings cluster around it. It occupies a tender place in their memories; and nothing would delight our people more than to have the sons of the Prophet Joseph honor their father by obeying the commandments which God gave through him. It is a cause of unceasing regret to all the thinking people of the Church that they should have assumed the attitude they have towards the work which he was the instrument in the hands of God of founding. It seemed an unnatural thing that the children of the Prophet Joseph should array themselves in antagonism against the men who were his companions and devoted friends and followers through the heat and conflict of his eventful life. By their labors and the blessing of the Lord his name has been made famous throughout the world and the greatness of the work which he performed was impressed upon the attention of mankind.

"President Brigham Young, through his long administration of the affairs of the Church, only added to the lustre of the Prophet Joseph's fame. His labors and achievements, admirable as they undoubtedly were, were a contribution to the greatness of the man whom he always revered and honored as the instrument chosen of God to lay the foundation and to hold the keys of this great latter day work. He did all in his power to magnify the Prophet Joseph Smith in the eyes of the church and of the world, and counted himself honored in holding the keys on the earth, under and subject to his beloved leader.

"Not only were these his feelings, but they were the feelings of all the Twelve Apostles, and were pre-eminently those of our lately deceased President, whose blood mingled with that of the two martyrs in Carthage Jail. He esteemed it the greatest honor of his life to have the privilege of being a friend of the Prophet Joseph, and to have been his companion in the dreadful scene which terminated in the martyrdom of himself and his brother, the Patriarch."

"It is wonderful the effect that falsehood, oft repeated, has upon the human mind. It would seem impossible that the sons of the Prophet could have thought themselves justified in viewing the Twelve Apostles as the enemies of their father. Yet, strange as it appears, it is nevertheless true that they held this view, and this, doubtless, because of the oft-repeated falsehoods which they heard concerning them.

"I visited Nauvoo early in the year 1860 and stopped at the Mansion House, then occupied by Mr. Bidaman and his wife, Emma, who had been the wife of the Prophet. Her children lived with her. Frederick Smith, the second son of the Prophet, whom I had known as a boy in Nauvoo before our exodus, and who has since died, told me that the Twelve had conspired against his father, and were the means of his death. I was astounded that he should have such an idea. It seemed incredible that a young man of his intelligence, with the means of information that he had at his command, could be so imposed upon as to believe such an atrocious falsehood concerning his father's best friends! I reasoned with him upon the subject and showed him the folly of such a thought and how baseless it was, pointing out to him that there were two of the Twelve with his father and uncle in the jail at the time the attack was made upon it. But so firmly was this untruth imbedded in his mind that, though he was silenced, I doubt very much if he was convinced.

"It has always seemed to me a strange circumstance that the immediate family of the great Prophet whom God chose to be the founder of His work upon earth should stand in the relationship in which they now do to that work. If they could have their way, in their blind ignorance, they would destroy all that he did. But God will, as He has done in the past, overrule their conduct and their antagonism to His work for the glory of His name and the accomplishment of His purposes. He will make all they do contribute to His praise; and the day will come when we shall see how this almost insane conduct of theirs has been controlled for good.

"The promises of God to the Prophet Joseph are of such a character that they can not fail.

Some of them concern his posterity. There will be some of them yet come forth and receive all the blessings the promise of which he obtained from the Lord in their behalf. This will undoubtedly come to pass, and the world will yet see its fulfillment. But there is little ground to believe that Joseph, the oldest son, will receive these blessings. His conduct has been such as to furnish little room for hope that he will receive the fulfillment of these promises. Upon this point, however, I do not think it necessary to dwell, as he is, as well as all mankind, in the hands of the Lord.

"It is a cause of thankfulness, however, to know that we are not left to uncertainty and to doubt respecting his claims or the claims of others in regard to leadership in our church. God has placed the authority of the Holy Priesthood upon men whom He has chosen. He has given them the Apostleship. They have all the power that God has ever given to man in the flesh. It is a delightful reflection to know that these men are united.

"The President of the Twelve Apostles is a man whose life has been spent in the cause of God. He has been distinguished throughout his career for his unflinching integrity to the truth. He has never wavered in his faith nor failed to perform his duty as a servant of God. He stood by the Prophet Joseph, as his predecessors did, in the hours of trial. When many so-called friends faltered and shrank he exhibited unyielding firmness and undaunted courage. Though now past eighty years of age, he is of vigorous frame and full of healthful activity, with well-preserved mental faculties, and with the apparent promise of living yet for many years. Nearly all of our leading men come of long-lived ancestry. President Wilford Woodruff's great-grandfather lived to be over one hundred years of age. He, himself, and his brothers have been noted for the wonderful amount of hard work which they have performed; yet he has brothers who are older than himself, the older of the two being upwards of eighty-five years of age.

"Men of such ripe experience as President Woodruff are of exceeding value to us as a people, and we should prize their society and entertain feelings of gratitude to our Father in heaven for His kindness in preserving their lives and giving us the benefit of their wise counsels. The departure of one man of mature experience, who has passed through the various scenes and vicissitudes that the Church has witnessed, is a great loss to us as a people. God undoubtedly fully understands what His work needs, and He does not take His servants from their earthly labors without having others raised up to take their places. Nevertheless, we miss their society, their presence and the strength which their counsels have been wont to give us.

"Upon no point are our enemies more deceived than in the idea that the death of a leading man like President Taylor is likely to result in the disruption of the Church or in any disaster to the people. God has given us such an organization that we are prepared, when His people are faithful, to meet all the exigencies that may arise. The work goes steadily forward, without interruption. It always has done so; it always will do so.

"If Joseph Smith, the son of the Prophet, were to come here, repent of his sins and be baptized, it would give great joy to the entire people of the Church. But for him to set up any claim to leadership, or to expect that the Latter Day Saints will look with favor upon him unless he changes his course, would be useless and would only result in confusion and shame to him."

It may not be necessary that we should reply to this article from the pen of George Q. Cannon, in the view that such reply will be read by the readers of the Juvenile Instructor; but, realizing how "wonderful the effect that falsehood, often repeated, has upon the human mind;" and how apparently strange it is to many that the sons of Joseph Smith are not arrayed among the Utah polygamic church, we think a good purpose may be served by reviewing Mr. Cannon's statements.

The dispatch referred to was not authorized by Joseph Smith, president of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; and he is in no sense responsible for it; nor does he contemplate offering himself as a candidate to preside over polygamists as such. That we are aspiring we do not deny; but are willing the nature of that aspiring shall be judged of God and good men, so far as the church is concerned.

That there was potency in the name of Joseph Smith among the Latter Day Saints who went to the west and founded the Utah church, is confessed. There was more potency in the command of Brigham Young and his word, however, or that same people would not now be where they are, morally, religiously, and politically. It might "delight" Mr. Cannon and his people, if the sons of the prophet were as George Q. Cannon and his compeers are; but we have ample reasons to know that if they were they would not be honoring their father, nor obeying "commandments which God gave through him." The commandments which God gave through the prophet, obedience to which can ennoble the sons and enable them to honor God, and at the same time honor the prophet through which they came, are found in the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants, the revelations of God's will to the church founded in 1830; from the faith of which church the sons of the prophet are not wandering, as George Q. Cannon ought to know.

Brigham Young used the "potency" of the name of Joseph Smith to very great disadvantage to its honor and fame, when by its use he foisted the doctrine of plural marriage upon the people of Utah against the plain and unmistakable words of Jesus Christ given to the church years before, thus running counter to the expressed will of God as found in the books of which God said, "Ye know that my law is written in my scriptures," "You shall take the things which are written in the scriptures to be my law to govern my church."—Doctrine and Covenants. This was using the name of Joseph Smith to subvert the power of the name of Christ in the church. Thus saith Joseph Smith has been made to do duty against, Thus saith the Lord Jesus Christ.

It seemed an unnatural thing that Joseph Smith, the prophet, the father of the men of whom Mr. Cannon wrote should have assumed an attitude of entire and radical opposition to the faith of his father, mother, brothers and sisters, his neighbors and the rest of mankind, proclaiming himself one sent to reform the religious opinions of the Bible believing world, by virtue of a command from God; and whatever regret the thinking men of the Utah Church may be exercised by because the sons of this man have arrayed themselves against the men who were at one time with him in church relationship, they will do well if they think sufficiently deep and well to discover that the same Spirit in them that moved him to array himself against religious error, animated by a similar cause, has been the reason why they, the sons, have pitted themselves against Utah Mormonism, and against the men whose "labors" unblest of God, have not only made the father's name "famous," but have well nigh made it infamous.

Joseph Smith during the fourteen years that he was permitted to live and labor did more to build the church founded in 1830, than has been wrought by the men so praised by Mr. Cannon as his successors. The Church of Jesus Christ at Joseph Smith's death numbered from 150,000 to 200,000, the result of those fourteen years of his life; while the church represented by Mr. Cannon after forty-three years of "labor" and "achievement," numbers no more than the smaller number given above; and the United States and England are sown with apostates from the faith as taught by that church.

President Brigham Young added no lustre to the name or fame of Joseph; nor did he seek to do so. Mr. Cannon starts an unfortunate controversy when he thus challenges an array of Pres. Young's management of the affairs of the church. That he was shrewd, and cunning, and at times in a way wise none cares to dispute. That he was successful in the organization and control of the machinery of his temporal exaltation is conceded. And that he took remarkably good care of number one in so doing, the records of the courts in Utah and the facts known outside of the courts will abundantly testify. We have some reason to believe that the ambition of Pres. Young was to achieve for his name greater prominence in the church than should attach to the name of Smith. The memory of Joseph may have been very dear to Utah Saints, but it is Brigham's portrait, and Brigham's name that are hung in conspicuous places in the houses of worship in Utah, and from one end of Utah to the other the name of Brigham Young was heralded, and blazoned abroad by song and speech, until the ear could catch no other refrain when the praises of men were sung. We do not object to men being ambitious in every legitimate object of human pursuit. But when ambition consorts with human vanity, it is selfish in its aims, and degrades. Will Mr. Cannon say that Pres. Brigham Young was without vanity. So far from Brigham Young doing all in his "power to magnify the prophet, Joseph Smith," or enhance the glory of his name, as is stated by Mr. Cannon, there are many who are of the opinion that Mr. Young was jealous of the name and did what he could to set his own name and work forward and let the other drop out of prominence; and it is to this sentiment that some peculiar teaching of his is traced.

Joseph Smith held himself subject to Christ; and taught the church that Christ was the Savior, and the only Savior, under God. If Brigham Young believed and taught responsibility to Adam alone, there was no thought in such teaching of subjection to Joseph Smith as a beloved leader. We do not know how thoroughly the responsibility to Adam as a God, permeated the mind of Pres. Young, for whatever he may have been, he was secretive and cunning; but with such a thought as a base we can easily conceive of much that is publicly known of him being possible, that with our understanding as to the teaching of Joseph Smith and the books would have been very improbable.

Before Mr. Cannon and his brethren can make good their statement that Pres. Young sought to magnify and honor the name of Joseph Smith, he will have to explain against rigid inquiry, the difference in the teaching of Pres. Young, H. C. Kimball, P. P. Pratt and others, in the fall of 1844 as published, and the teaching and actions of the same men in the winter of 1847. They will have to explain the reasons for the rebaptism of Pres. Young, and others on their arrival in Deseret, and the wholesale demand for rebaptism made upon all who crossed the plains "over the rim of the basin." They will have to explain the long silence in regard to plural marriage, and the reformation of 1856, with some other things connected therewith. And should Mr. Cannon, or others grow dignified and deny our right to inquiry, we have only to say, these things are of public note and proper subjects upon which the allegiance of hundreds besides the sons of the prophet may turn hereafter, in settling the controversy.

* Mr. Cannon may have seen Frederick Smith, the second son of the prophet, and may have been told what he states. But why does Mr. Cannon not permit the other sons to state their convictions for themselves. Why did he not state what Joseph the oldest son of the prophet told him. Why does he not give the statements of the living, acting sons of the prophet as to the matter in hand. He knows that Frederick Smith is dead, and can not explain why he should have said what he is reported to have done. The sons of the prophet who are living are prepared to give their reasons for their opinion concerning the Twelve, in office at their father's death. They are prepared to state their convictions concerning the work of their father, the work of Pres. Young, John Taylor and the church in Utah, unto Mr. George Q. Cannon and the church in Utah—Will Mr. Cannon and the church hear these men!

We are glad that it does seem a "strange circumstance" that the "immediate family" of Joseph Smith, "the great prophet, should stand as they do toward the work done by him. The very strangeness of this circumstance should long since have challenged more attention from the polygamists than it has done. There should have been among them a more determined and careful inquiry as to the reasons why that family stood so affected. This inquiry should have been made of them and not from others. The statements of President Young concerning them, based upon no personal inquiry by him, should not have passed current as the truth upon the matter in inquiry. That family would not "destroy all that he did." Mr. Cannon misstates them when he writes that they would. Nor are they so ignorant of the prophet and the work that he did, as Mr. Cannon presumes. They are quite well informed of that work from 1830 to 1844, and on this information have acted. They propose to save what of the work is savable, and feel no hesitancy in saying that should there have been any work done by him that can not abide the light, that work must fall; nor can the false bolstering given it by supposed friends save it from ruin. That the opposition of the sons of the prophet Joseph Smith to work done and being done in Utah, as contradistinguished from that done up to 1844, of which public record is made, will receive the divine aid of God unto the making it to conserve the interest of God's work upon the earth we most fully believe; and we concur in Mr. Cannon's statement that God "will make all that they do contribute to his praise;" and that Mr. Cannon and those to whom he wrote, "shall see how" their "conduct has been controlled for good."

We feel thankful that promises made to Joseph Smith are to be fulfilled; and whether "Joseph, the oldest son" shall be the recipient of any of them, other than he now has an assurance of remains in the providence of God and we are content.

Joseph Smith, the son of the prophet, was baptized and confirmed a member of the Church of Jesus Christ in the days of his father, by as competent authority as was, or has ever been in that church on earth. He has never been divested of that membership. Whatever sins he may have committed since he received a remission of sins in baptism he has "an advocate with the Father, even Jesus Christ the righteous," and has no need to go to Utah to be baptized. Indeed, unless he were desirous of being baptized out of the Spirit and fellowship of the church built up by his father; and into the bonds and thralldom of that institution fastened upon that church organized by Brigham Young in 1847, and into which he required all to be baptized who came to Utah, including the baptism of the Reformation of 1856, he could in no wise consent to the baptism offered by George Q. Cannon.

PERSECUTION AND ITS CAUSES.

(Continued from page 608.)

It is not surprising, that in a work of such character and magnitude as was committed to Joseph the seer and the first elders of the church, that the motives and methods and intentions and doings of its chief men, and especially of Joseph, should be misunderstood, misrepresented and denounced by those not of the church, and even by some within it. We read that Christ's own brethren did not believe in him, (John 7:5), also that many of his followers turned away from him, (John 6:66), and, furthermore, that many turned against the apostles, (2 Tim. 1:15; Gal. 2:4; 2 Cor. 11:26, etc.), some of them "teaching perverse things to draw away disciples after them," (Acts 20:30), and so "brought in damnable heresies," many following "their pernicious ways," causing "the way of truth" to "be evil spoken of."—2 Peter 2:1, 2.

Joseph was basely persecuted by many enemies of the church; he was envied by some of his brethren who thought they had equal if not superior authority and wisdom to manage and direct the affairs of the church, they being older, better educated, or more experienced in worldly wisdom. Others aspired to leadership in an indirect way; for while these outwardly allowed that Joseph was "the first elder" of the church, they at heart desired to lead him, and were unhappy, offended, and resentful, when he would not submit to their personal views and ambitions. Evil surmisings, heartburnings, jealousies, whisperings and evil-speaking found place with some, and in certain instances these became so prominent and harmful that official notice was taken of them, the facts in the case laid bare, and the offending parties brought before the church tribunals to answer. In these matters there were those who took sides with the offenders, regardless of "the law and the testimony" in the case, and that class have not been without influence, secretly exerted, from that time forward, casting dark shadows over the name and work of those whom God called and appointed and blessed to open up the glorious dispensation of the fulness of times. These parties claimed, in effect, that they were wiser and worthier than God's chosen Seer, to counsel, arrange and direct the affairs of the church, and they suffered themselves to get affronted, vexed, and resentful when Joseph would not be governed by their judgment instead of his own and that of the church.

To such an extent had false statements been made against Joseph, and to such a degree had they affected the vital interests of the church up to August 23d, 1834, that a conference of the elders was called on that date to inquire into the matter and have it properly adjusted. And in the following account of it we discover that Joseph, like Paul and others, distinguished servants of God, suffered shamefully at the hands of "false brethren." Here is the record of that transaction, taken from the Evening and Morning Star, pages 366-7, edited and published by Oliver Cowdery, Kirtland, Ohio:

"CONFERENCE MINUTES.

"Of the elders of the church of the Latter Day Saints, assembled in Kirtland, August 23d, 1834. After the usual form the conference came to order, and was opened by prayer, when the following preamble and resolutions were read, and ordered to be printed in the Evening and Morning Star and sent as a circular to the churches abroad:

"Whereas a report having come to the knowledge of the church in this place censuring the conduct of Bro. Joseph Smith, Jr., relative to his proceedings during his late journey to and from Missouri; and whereas said report was calculated to create unfavorable influence as regards the moral character and honesty of our brother, it becomes necessary for us to investigate the matter and report the same to our brethren abroad:— Therefore,

Resolved, That after hearing from the mouths of some, that a suspicion rested upon their minds relative to the conduct of our brother, as regards his honesty and godly walk, we have investigated his whole proceedings by calling upon those who accompanied him to and from Missouri, and are happy to have it in our power to say to our brethren abroad, one and all, that we are satisfied with his conduct, having learned from the clearest evidence, that he has acted in every respect worthy his high and responsible station in this church, and has prudently and cautiously preserved the good of this society at large, and is still worthy our esteem and fellowship; and that those reports could have originated in the minds of none except such as, either from a misunderstanding or natural jealousy, are easily led to conceive of evils where none exist.

"Resolved, That we say to our brethren, that while we are surrounded by thousands eager to grasp at a shadow if they have a hope of turning it into the semblance of a falsehood for the injury of the gospel, we exhort them to be steadfast and immovable in the truth, resting assured, that while they continue to walk in the holy covenant they have professed to embrace, that nothing can, in the end, operate against their good; and that while wickedness abounds, as in days of old, the characters of those seeking the greatest good for their fellow men will be shamefully traduced, and every act of their lives misrepresented, and a false shade thrown over their worthy deeds, calculated to create an evil prejudice in the minds of community, to prevent, if possible, the increase of light, the better to effect their own purposes and keep men in error. We say, dear brethren, may peace and the blessings of our Lord Jesus be multiplied unto you through the knowledge of the truth forever.

"Resolved, That these minutes be signed by the Moderator and Clerk, and published to the churches in the Evening and Morning Star.

"REYNOLDS CAHOON, Moderator.

"OLIVER COWDERY, Clerk.

"We, the undersigned, member of the above named conference, for the satisfaction of our brethren abroad, feel it to be our duty to say to those with whom we have a personal acquaintance, that we were present during the foregoing investigation and cheerfully concur in the spirit of the above minutes, and join in saying, that we are perfectly satisfied that, whatever impressions may have gone abroad, or whatever may yet remain with any in this vicinity relative to the conduct of our brother, Joseph Smith, Jr., we are certain, (from evidence), that he conducted himself in all respects as set forth in the Resolutions of this conference. We are induced to make these statements that the innocent may not suffer wrongfully, and that the minds of our brethren may be satisfied that every appearance of evil is, in this place, searched out, and that nothing unbecoming a society of people professing godliness, suffered to exist among them.

"J. B. BOZWORTH, from Norton, Ohio.

"JOHN SMITH, Pottsdam, N. Y.

"ORSON JOHNSON, Bath, N. H.

"ROSWELL EVANS, Waterford, Vt.

"WILLIAM BURGESS, Bolton, N. Y.

"ALMAN SHERMAN, Pomfret, N. Y.

"JONAS PUTNAM, Bolton, N. Y.

"IRA AMES, Benson, Vt.

"ASA LYMAN, Parishville, N. Y.

"JOHN RUDD, Springfield, Pa.

"ISAAC STORY, Warsaw, N. Y.

"OLIVER HIGLEY, Jamestown, N. Y.

"JACOB BUMP, Silver Creek, N. Y.

"ISAAC HILL, East Liverpool, Ohio.

"LORENZO YOUNG, do.

"We, the undersigned, members of this conference, being personally acquainted with Bro. J. Smith, Jr., and having accompanied him to Missouri, certify that the foregoing is correct.

"HEBER C. KIMBALL,
"LYMAN JOHNSON."

In October following, one of those who had circulated harmful reports concerning Joseph, bringing grief and persecution, made a full and free acknowledgment and requested that it be published in the Messenger and Advocate, which we find in that paper for October, 1834, pages 10 and 11, as follows:

"Dear Brother:—Having heard that certain reports are circulating abroad, prejudicial to the character of brother Joseph Smith, Jr., and that said reports purport to have come from me, I have thought proper to give the public a plain statement of the fact concerning this matter. It is true, that some difficulties arose between brother J. Smith, Jr., and myself, in our travels the past summer to Missouri; and that on our return to this place I laid my grievances before a general council, where they were investigated in full, in an examination which lasted several days; and the result showed to the satisfaction of all present, I believe, but especially to myself, that in all things brother J. S., jr., had conducted worthily, and adorned his profession as a man of God, while journeying to and from Missouri. And it is no more than just that I should confess my faults by saying unto all people, so far as your valuable and instructive paper has circulation, that the things that I accused brother S. of were without foundation, as was most clearly proven by the evidence which was called, to my satisfaction. And in fact, I have not at any time withdrawn my confidence and fellowship from brother J. S., jr., but thought that he had inadvertently erred, being but flesh and blood like the rest of Adam's family. But I am now perfectly satisfied that the errors of which I accused him before the council, did not exist, and were never committed by him; and my contrition has been and still continues to be deep, because I admitted thoughts into my heart which were not right concerning him, and because that I have been the means of giving rise to reports which have gone abroad censuring the conduct of brother J. S. jr., which reports are without foundation. And I hope that this disclosure of the truth, written by my own hand, and sent abroad into the world through the medium of the Messenger and Advocate, will put a final end to all evil reports and censurings which have sprung out of any thing that I have said or done.

"I wish still further to state, for the better relief of my own feelings which, you must be sensible, are deeply wounded in consequence of what has happened, that I know for myself, because I have received testimony from the heavens, that the work of the Lord brought forth by means of the Book of Mormon, in our day, through the instrumentality of brother Joseph Smith, jr., is eternal truth, and must stand, though the heavens and the earth pass away.

"Please give publicity to the above and oblige a lover of righteousness and truth.

"Yours in the testimony of Jesus.

"SYLVESTER SMITH.

To O. Cowdery.

"KIRTLAND, October 28th, 1834."

Had all Joseph's evil-minded and "false brethren" confessed as did Sylvester Smith, and then remained steadfast and faithful in the work of the Lord, his reputation would have suffered far less calumny, and they and their kind would have found no difficulty in believing that Joseph was "great" in the eyes of the Lord, and that he would be found worthy of being "esteemed highly" by the millions of Joseph's seed as predicted in 2 Nephi 2.

HARLAN REUNION.

BRO. J. W. Chatburn writes under date of the 14th, saying that an accomodation train leaves Council Bluffs, at 2:15, p. m., on the R. I. & P. R. R., which connects with the Harlan train at Avoca.

ELDER W. P. BROWN, of the Church of Christ, (D. Whitmer's), has written "Pamphlet No. 2," dated at Newton, Kansas, August 1st, and is circulating them. It is a review of the HERALD upon the claims and statements of Elder D. Whitmer. Some of the things in it we may notice hereafter; but at present call attention to the fact that the spirit by which Elder Brown wrote, and which he states on page 9 of this second pamphlet to be the "Spirit of God," has attributed the authorship of the later articles in HERALD reviewing Elder Whitmer to associate W. W. Blair, when they were written by the senior editor. He berates Elder Blair, instead of Joseph Smith. It is convenient to have a scape-goat at times; but we do not choose that another shall suffer for our acts. Elder Brown made a mistake, that is all.

Elder Brown referring to our statement concerning his first pamphlet, and Elder Whitmer's letter concerning him, in HERALD for June 11th, states that we misstated when we wrote that he left Canada "in consequence" of the letter of Elder Whitmer, published in HERALD last winter; he states that he did not leave Canada in consequence of that letter, or its publication. We ask Elder Brown's pardon for so stating; but it was so much like what our own action would have been under similar circumstances, and the departure from Canada, and the publishing of the letter were so near in point of time, we naturally concluded that the one was a result of the other; or of a letter of similar import received by Elder Brown, from Elder Whitmer, or Elders Whitmer and Snyder.

Elder Brown's pamphlets can be had by addressing W. P. Brown, Newton, Kansas.

REVELATION ON THE LATE REBELLION.

A BROTHER asks us to state in what publications the Revelation given through Joseph Smith, December 25th, 1832, was printed. It was printed first in "The Pearl of Great Price," in 1850 at Liverpool, England; then in 1857, in the "Compendium," at the same place; also in "The Seer," in 1853 in Washington, D. C. It was, printed in "The Saints' Herald," at Cincinnati, Ohio, November, 1860; it was, referred to in "Mormonism" by John Hyde, issued in New York, by Fetridge & Co., in 1857; and was printed in Beadle's work against the Mormons, in 1870, where he states that he copied it from the "Pearl of Great Price."

We deposited some years ago a copy of the latter work—pamphlet—with the Historical Society at Burlington, Iowa. The "Herald" containing it was deposited with two or more Societies in Cincinnati. Copies of the "Herald" for 1860 containing it may be seen at this office.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

THE Saints at Lamoni are having an increase of spiritual gifts and graces of late. Their prayer meetings and other gatherings of a religious character are made joyful and edifying by the help and guidance of the Holy Spirit in a somewhat notable degree.

Bro. Wm. S. McMullin wrote from Independence, Missouri, of late, that the Saints there were highly blessed, their meetings being graced by the light and gladness and power of the Spirit in an eminent degree.

Bro. Joseph Clapp baptized two at Deer Lodge, Montana, September 4th; and thinks there are others likely to follow.

We have received from Bro. Thomas Job, of Goshen, Utah, a small pamphlet entitled "A New Discovery in Magnetism," written by Bro. Job, in which he offers a new theory to account for the variation of the magnetic needle. Those interested in the study of mathematics, astronomy and the magnetism of the earth, will do well to obtain the pamphlet. Address Thomas Job, Goshen, Utah.

Bro. J. J. Cornish reports from Reed City, Michigan, September 6th saying, "I find the work is moving on grand."

President Joseph Smith started with his family and others for the Harlan Reunion, the 16th, going over the country with teams, and will probably be gone twenty days on the trip.

Bro. H. A. Stebbins writes us from Centerville, Iowa, that he preached there the 11th instant, baptized two, and solemnized the marriage of Bro. Geo. T. Angell and Sr. Maggie Archibald. They go to live in Crawford county, Kansas.

Bro. S. Beaver writes from Shermanville, Kansas, that there is an opening there for an elder who is not afraid of the so-called orthodoxy.

Refreshing rains for the last five weeks have wrought pleasing changes in the aspect of the country. The fields are clothed in beauty, the weather is delightful, good health abounds, business is reviving, and the people feel hopeful and encouraged.

JOSEPH THE SEER CASTS OUT A DEVIL.

"GATH," in a late Cincinnati Enquirer, relates an interview he had recently with John Willard Young, "the youngest son of the first wife of Brigham Young," in which we find this:

"Are you aware, Mr. Young, that President Garfield lived close by Kirtland and was acquainted with Joseph Smith?"

"Yes, Garfield talked to me frequently on that subject. He told me that there was not the least doubt that Joseph Smith had the power to perform miracles, and related that he cast a devil out of a man. Garfield explained it on the ground that Smith was a man of great magnetism. Some of the neighbors claim that Garfield had serious intentions of joining the Mormon faith in his youth. He was a Campbellite preacher. After he had taken so much interest in our people and was sincerely liked by them, we felt it hard that he should have yielded to the intolerance of his official circle and have given us little more chance than any of the other presidents."

Of what Garfield had said of this occurrence "Gath" states further:

"What Mr. Young relates about Garfield was true. He told me with considerable animation that once in Kirtland a person seemed possessed with a devil and had some kind of lunacy. Joseph Smith, Garfield said, was a splendid looking man, young and hale and strong, and he commanded this evil spirit to leave the person. Garfield said that there was almost a visible issuing of the demon from the man. He, however, put the whole thing on the ground of a strong will."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Ques.—Is it right for an elder to officiate in the ordinances of the Lord's house, to partake of the sacrament, who casts distrust on the character of his brother without cause?

Ans.—No. The law of the Lord says: "Thou shalt not speak evil of thy neighbor, nor do him any harm."—Doc. & Cov. 42:7. A member violating this law should confess, and make amends so far as in his power, as contemplated in the teaching of Jesus, (Matt. 5:23, 24), which closes with these words: "First be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift."

Q.—Is it not better for a member of the body to be cut off that can't be healed?

A.—Yes; and No. If such a member can never be healed, and endangers the life or destroys the well being of other members, let such be cut off. But if such may be healed in time to come, or if cutting it off destroys or seriously afflicts others, it may be found best to let it remain.

Q.—What should be done with members who fail to attend their meetings, but attends others?

A.—They should be labored with, to reform them, so long as there is hope of recovery. But if they will not reform after patient effort to recover them, then the church is authorized to suspend or cut them off by a legal course.

Q.—When an offended brother will not go to the offender, but rather to the world and claim to be no more a Saint, or demand his name taken off the record, what should be done with him?

A.—Labor with as the law of the Lord directs, and then "if he neglect to hear the church, let him become unto thee as a heathen man and a publican."—Matt. 18:15-17.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Bro. R. C. Evans wrote September 5th from St. Mary's Ontario, sending orders for church publications and says:

"The work is moving on and we feel encouraged with the prospects, reports from all parts being good. I am going into a new place to preach."

Mothers' Home Column.

EDITED BY SISTER "FRANCES."

"Time is hastening on, and we
What our fathers are shall be,—
Shadow-shapes of memory!
Joined to that vast multitude
Where the great are but the good."

"WHERE HAST THOU GLEANED TO-DAY?"

THE evening hour lay with holy calm upon the earth. The sun, weary with his long journey through the unclouded heavens had sunk to rest; while the pale stars came twinkling forth, looking with loving eyes upon the silent earth. Fit time, the Spirit said, for man to commune with his own heart, as he feels himself a pilgrim in this world, and knows that to-night "he pitches his tent one day's journey nearer home." One day the less for him to reap or glean in life's harvest-field! One day the less in which to gather up the stars for his crown up yonder! I stood beside the river's brink at this still hour, counting the little waves as they broke one by one against the pebbles at my feet. The peaceful hush of nature gathered round my brain, soothing its warring powers. Feeling weary, I sank at last upon a mossy seat, and must have slept. I say, "I must have slept," for there passed before my mind things not seen by waking eyes, though they were in strange harmony with waking thoughts.

I thought, while I was standing there, an angel came and stood beside me. I did not fear his presence, for it seemed to me that I had been waiting for his coming; and when he bade me follow him, I asked not where, but went.

We passed along some time in silence, when turning his radiant face to mine, he asked: "Do you not wish to know where we are going, and what is my mission?" Answering that I did, he said to me:

"In heaven a book of remembrance is kept by our loving master, and I am sent forth each day to gather up material for this record. I am going now to those who have professed to love the Master, and shall know from each where they have gleaned to-day. Many bright gems, many full sheaves, I shall this night find; but, alas! from many I shall be able to gather nothing but corruption. Their crowns are in the Master's mansion; but oh! how few the gems which have been set therein! Their treasury is also there, but instead of pure silver and gold, cankering rust and blighting mildew is found."

I trembled as those solemn words fell on my ear; for I realized how many there were who had passed the day in toil, in care and busy strife. Had they once thought of the coming of this unseen messenger to bear to heaven the record of the earth? Had they thought! and if they had not, was it eternally too late?

"It is too late," the angel said, "too late! The record of this day is closed, and though the Master may forgive to man his sins—may save him by fire, He never sets one star within his crown,—never adds to his treasury one grain of gold. Man is his own free agent.—God has placed him here to win the honor he would wear. Each day it is within his power to conquer in the Master's name, to lay up treasure there.—But alas! (and the angel turned away his pitying face), how many in that last great day shall find themselves beggars, who might have been the richest there!"

Passing on, we stood beside a hovel, where bare unrelieved poverty set its mark upon all, both within and without. Upon a scanty bed of straw reposed a woman's wasted form and faded face. Two children, scarcely more than babes, nestled close by the mother's side, and sleep embraced them all. What shall the angel find here? I said. I knew the mother and her babes, and knew that soon perchance her quiet slumber might be broken by a drunken husband's tread; and cruel blows might fall upon that fragile, wasted form. I knew that for the barest needs of life they often found no other help than that extended by their wealthy neighbor whom the world called "generous," and passed with bows of reverence, because these helpless ones were kept from starving by his bounty. My heart was filled with pity for these lonely ones, and tears fell freely from my eyes. I could but weep.

"Why do you weep?" the angel said.

"Why do I weep? In pity for a suffering friend," I answered.

"Yes; she has suffered," said the angel, "but you need not weep for her. Look, and see what I shall carry hence. I know where she has gleaned to-day."

I looked, and in his hand there gleamed a shining star. Its radiance lit the dimmest corner of the room, imparting to it the splendor of a lovely palace. In his other hand he held uncounted wealth ready to bear away.

"How came this here?" I asked. "Where did you find it?"

"Look," said the angel, "on that sleeping form, and tell me to whom she is related?"

"She has no kindred left," I said.

"No kindred! Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of these the least of my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Christ is her elder brother,—God her Father, for she is of His fold. To-day her patient, uncomplaining love, her fortitude in dark trials, has won to God another soul—has constrained one of His wandering ones to see and own the beauty of a christian life. This is the star—this soul redeemed which I shall bear away to place within her crown. And richer still (if that could be) is the treasure I shall carry home for her."

"Whence came the treasure?" I asked.

"Look forth at those broad fields," the angel said, "those fertile acres covered with bending grain. Whose are they? They are held in trust for God, and he who holds this deed of trust, is in the sight of God a beggar. Day after day, at this still hour my unheard feet have sought his door; but I have gone empty away. The world calls him her benefactor, for out of his plenty he has given enough to keep starvation from her door. What else! One word of hope or comfort? No, not one! But instead thereof so grudgingly has he doled out the miserable pittance, that to her wounded, suffering heart, but for her children's sake, and that life was the gift of God, she would have chosen death. But tonight, into the Master's ear there came a voice of prayer. 'Father, forgive and bless him, for he did not mean to wound me so.' Pitying angels heard and tuned their lyres afresh to see the perfect work by Christ the Mediator wrought. This is the treasure I shall take away, nor this alone; for gathering round her knee, her little ones—God's lambs—have learned of her the way of life. 'Her children shall rise up and call her blessed.'"

My heart swelled within me for very joy as I listened to the angel's words of promise for earth's faithful but tried ones, and contemplated the terrible ordeal of scrutiny through which men, whose apparent charity is but a mask, must pass. The angel continued:

"I am going on my way, but shall leave you here, for I know you could not bear to witness that which you would have to look upon if you accompanied me. Take home the lesson to your heart, and never forget that each night the Silent Messenger will pause upon the threshold of your door, and bear to heaven the gleanings of the day. Here you have seen one borne down with sorrow, feeble in body, poor and unknown. Could I but draw aside the veil, and suffer you to look for one moment upon the spotless robes, the crown of glory awaiting here, your soul would overflow with unutterable joy. There I might show one standing erect in manhood's prime. Sickness and sorrow seldom enter his abode. How vast his means for usefulness—how almost boundless his influence for good might be. He has reaped and gleaned his fields to-day,—but into his own treasury gathered it all! Could I show you that treasury, and you view it as God and His angels view it, your soul would sicken at the very sight. Loathsome worms riot in undisturbed revel. Cankering rust is there. The silver and gold which it so gladdens his eyes to look upon are stained with the tears of the poor—dark, grievous stains—stains upon which God never looks but with a reckoning eye. A crown—a starless crown—awaits him there; for he has heard and has obeyed the truth. But that pure love, without which faith is vain, has never had its perfect work. Ah! I have a weary mission to perform, and there are times when my soul cries out, 'Father, give me power to show to them, for one brief moment, just what they are treasuring up,' 'They have Moses and the prophets, if they hear not them, neither will they believe though one should rise from the dead.'"

"I shall gather to-night, many a pearl of patience, where weary feet have gone their daily rounds. Where a mother's hand has ministered to the wants of father and children. Many a diamond of truth, where the honest ones, brave in spirit, have not been ashamed to contend for the right. Rubies of virtue, garnets of grace, I shall carry home. But from many a door I shall bear but the record of blighting mildew, and cankering rust."

No longer able to restrain the feelings of my overcharged heart, I bust forth into weeping, when the bright angel tuned his harp and sang in thrilling melody:

"Aye, weep, daughter weep; but not for the poor,
Who are rich in the Spirit; but let your tears fall
Over those who desire God's riches, and yet
Into their own garner, are gathering all.
Look, daughter, look! see the world as it is
In ignorance bound, the gospel unheard;
Hark; hark to the cry from the north and the south,
The east and the west, 'Oh! send us the word!'"

God's messengers wait, they would gladly be gone,
But who shall provide for their little ones bread?
The husband, the father, those wants will supply;
But absent, who then will provide in his stead?
God hears the young ravens and sends them their food
By the diligent search of their own mother bird;
So the church must supply, each member his part,
And soon will the notes of her conquest be heard?"

HOME COLUMN MISSIONARY FUND.

Sr. C. A. Johnson, Nebo, Ill. ....	1	00
Sr. Mary Struthers, New Boston, Iowa ....	2	00
Sr. Catharine Nutt, Wilber, Neb. ....	1	50
Sr. Emma Jane Brolihar, Wilber, Neb. ....	50
Sr. Sarah Jane White, Wilber, Neb. ....	50
Sr. Pauline Park, Ford, Ia. ....	50
Sr. Rebecca J. Jamison, Ford, Ia. ....	40
Sr. Emma Park, Ford, Ia. ....	27
Sr. Hattie Bayer, Ford, Ia. ....	26
Sr. Clara Brockett, Ford, Ia. ....	24
Sr. Hettie Doty, Peakville, Mo. ....	1	00
Sr. Eliza Newberry, Montrose, Ia. ....	1	00
Sr. S. Bourguoin, St. Joseph, Mo. ....	1	00
Sr. N. A. Brooks, Wray, Cal. ....	1	00
Sr. Belle Bullard, Wray, Cal. ....	25
Sr. Sadie Bullard, Wray, Cal. ....	25
Sr. Mary E. Bullard, Wray, Cal. ....	50
Sr. Hattie, Burnside, Cal. ....	40

[Will Sr. Hattie please send us her name in full.—Ed.]

LAMONT, IOWA, September 15th.

SILVER HILL, Ark., Aug. 27th.

Dear Sisters:—Hoping you will spend a few of your precious moments perusing this brief letter from one who has never written to the loved Herald before, I will add a few words to the Home Column. I was baptized into this church the 6th of February, 1887, and must say that I am fully satisfied, and know it to be the work of God. The only thing I have to regret is that I did not join even sooner than I did. The first of our elders I ever heard preach was Bro. M. T. Short, at Seligman, Missouri, which was then my home. I attended church regularly and believed every thing he preached, still I remained obstinate, not desiring to be called a Mormon. This was in 1884, I believe; and during the same year, if I am not mistaken, Brn. Heman C. Smith and I. N. Roberts preached a series of discourses there. We have no church established at Seligman and but very little preaching. There are six members there, but what preaching they have (except when a traveling elder stops and preaches for them awhile) is by reading the good old Herald, which comes to them each week laden with good tidings. As we are traveling much of our time we do not get it sometimes for many weeks. We were near Conway, in Faulkner county, Arkansas, where my husband preached many times during our two months stay; during which time we never saw our dear Herald and heard but very little from the church. We made many friends there who earnestly solicited us to return as soon as practicable. We arrived at Silver Hill August 19th where we met with a warm reception.

I do love to read the Mothers' Home Column where is imparted so much valuable information. My name should have appeared in the Column ere this, but thinking I could not tell the readers any thing interesting have thus far been silent. But, dear sisters, pray for me that I may be strengthened and fully able to perform the great work which is for me to do, and none can do for me.

Yours with love,

MAGGIE CATO.

August 29th.

Dear Sisters of the Home Column: That letter from sister Eleanor was well and timely written, for in our own hearts, surely, we can tell when pride is there; and true though it is that some are proud in dressing finer than they ought according to their means, some are proud in being clean and tidy, while others give way to dirty, untidy habits, and are proud in thinking that their surroundings prove that they are not proud; so we do not, and I fear will not, see eye to eye in this matter; but we can all try to live so that our lives will be an honor and not a discredit to the church of God; meanwhile, sisters, send in your letters of comfort and cheer, bearing tidings of God's goodness, the blessings he has poured out upon you. Oh! send them in, dear sisters; it feeds, strengthens, and upholds us weak, scattered members. The Herald is not large enough for very much upon opinions of dress; let us have what will edify the soul and help fit and prepare us to fill the places of those that are taken home. Many are going, one by one. Oh, that we and our little ones may be getting ready, that there be no lack of soldiers of the cross.

In love,

SISTER HATTY.

[We earnestly commend to the careful reading of all who have written on "Pride," the selection by "Sister May," in Zion's Hope of September 10th, 1887.—Ed.]

MERLIN, Ont., August 17th.

Dear Sisters in Christ:—Although young in experience of life, yet I have a duty to perform. Sister Eleanor wrote a word to the young Saints, full of instruction. I also would like to see more letters from the young sisters; not thinking they are better able to instruct, but it would be encouraging to both old and young. I feel thankful for the spiritual strength I have received from the Home Column. Let us not be hearers of the word only, but go on to perfection; and having heard the word keep it and bring forth fruit with patience.

Dear sisters, I can not help wishing to meet every Sabbath with the Saints in Sabbath School and meeting, for this is my delight; but I will strive to be content in my own humble corner of the vineyard, knowing that a brighter day is coming if we are faithful, yielding obedience to his commands and overcoming the world, daily studying his words and praying without ceasing; remembering the words of the Spirit to "be cheerful in our warfare, that we may be glad in our triumph." Is it not worth living for?

I shall try sister Maggie Campbell's plan of saving unnecessary trimming of my clothes, and give it to the cause. I think if the young sisters would adopt this plan we would, in doing so, be more blessed. Praying God to bless you in your field of labor, and all the Israel of God, I remain your sister in Christ,

MARY WRIGHT.

GALIEN, Michigan, Aug. 7th.

Dear Sister Frances:—It is a great pleasure for me to use the pen in favor of the immortal truths of Christianity, truths which are eternal, and the groundwork of salvation. I am satisfied that the work in which we are engaged is true and that the power of Jehovah hath brought it into existence, and that his Spirit pervades it and will continue to move it along until the restitution of all things spoken of by the mouths of all the holy prophets since the world began; and I feel proud to say that by the help of God I shall ever strive to walk in the good and right way, and emulate our heavenly pattern, that when he comes in clouds of glory, I may be among the satisfied ones. In the blessed hope,

CYNTHIA O. SCOTT.

AKRON, Iowa, August 21st.

Dear Readers of the Home Column:—In reading sister Emma's letter I rejoiced; I wept and I prayed. I rejoiced that such as she are the ones that are proved by the Master, and stand the fiery trial which separates the gold from the dross; and when he has found the pure gold, how great is the use he can make of it; and so he must have purposed in trying sister Emma, to bring her to willingly sacrifice all to follow Christ. I have wept and prayed that every one that bears the name of Saint may be willing to follow him. That by our good example we may win the weak, lift up the fallen, reach the honest, and bring them into the fold. I often think if the Herald had always been so freighted with such good reading as it has been for the two last years or more, we poor, short-sighted mothers might have been able to have more properly instructed our children. As yet I have none in the fold, much as I desire it. I have tried the best I knew how to teach them the truth, and lead them in the narrow way; and I have so often wondered why none of them, or my husband either, have any desire to obey the truth. They all seem to love me, and are kind, but do not seem willing to obey this gospel that I so much love. It does not seem as though it is because I do not talk it and live it, for that is my meat and drink. I thought dear sister Emma found it such a trial to part with her children, but doubtless they were all in the fold, and she left them with the gospel refuge to be a wall of partition between them and the world, with all its allurements. This is what I have so longed to throw around my own dear ones, who are out in a sin-tossed world without any safe refuge to shield them from the tempter's snare. Pray for me, dear sisters, when it is well with you, that I may hold on to the rod of iron and not faint by the way side. I have asked God to spare me until my children were all raised, for I always have a dread and pity for children that are left orphans; but I have often thought if God would make me an instrument in his hands of leading my own as well as others into his fold, that I would give him all the praise, and I would be doubly rewarded. I do pray that the teaching and anxious pleadings shall not have been in vain, that they may be as bread cast upon the waters, that they may return ere many days.

I ask the prayers of all God's people, that I may move on in this good work and labor of love unto the end; and if I can never see the little good I may have done, that it may be said, like of Mary of old, "She has done what she could." Ever praying for God to hasten his work in his time, I am your sister,

M. A. CHRISTY.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 26th.

Dear Sister Frances:—I can not find words to express my appreciation of the truths contained in the "Mothers Home Column." The letters are cheering; the advice on various topics of interest to those seeking a higher and purer moral and spiritual plane, is excellent. I have read with much interest the various articles on Pride, and especially those by Sister Eleanor and Bro. J. W. Dumbauld.

The following incident occurred during a visit to one of the families of the Saints, by one of our brethren: One of the members asked the brother how it was he always had good clothes. He replied, "The amount you spend for tobacco is sufficient to keep me in clothing." Which one's conduct did God approve, the one who was clean in person and wore good clothes and kept that law which says, "tobacco is not good for man," or the one who was filthy in person and poor in clothing and a violator of God's law?

I am glad to know that the mothers in Zion comprehend the great responsibility of moulding the characters and destinies of the young. My prayers shall be for God to bless them in their work of love.

Your sister in Christ,

M. H. R. RANNIE.

HAY SPRINGS, Neb., September 3d.

Sister Frances:—As I have not seen anything from this part, I feel it a duty to write a line. There are quite a number of saints here, but no branch, and many of us so careless it pains my heart to think that we can not do more. I long for the time to come when saints will awake to duty, and each one try to do something for the cause. If I never do any good, I pray I may never do anything to bring reproach upon the cause we love. Brother Caffall was here last winter, and did some able preaching. Since then we have had to be satisfied with reading the Herald, which is a good preacher.

JULIA SHEPARD.

VICTORIA, Ills., August 30th.

Sister Frances:—When the Home Missionary Fund was started my heart responded gladly, for I thought there would be a chance for the sisters who had great love for the work; but, as a rule, little means, to do what they could; and when, at the April conference, I heard read the amount that had been sent in, I thought the sisters had done what they could; but since then, as I have seen the column grow less each week, I can but think it is owing more to the difficulty, or lack of opportunity to write, than lack of interest in the cause. Yet I feel we must join our faith and works or they will not avail.

Now, dear sisters, let us profit by our experience in the past, and by the teachings in the Herald which are given us for our instruction. I think the sixth of August number so full of good instruction it might be read once a week with profit, the year round, and especially the letter of sister Emma B. Farrar, of California. I think could the sisters all have seen the thoughtful, anxious, careful expression of brother Joseph and his counsellor when presiding over the conference, they would not grow weary in doing all they could to strengthen their hands and lighten the burdens of those who are called to spend their all, as it were, in the work.

SUSAN E. COOK.

Correspondence.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Sept. 11th.

Editors Herald:—I was reading to-day's Herald, and thought it was the best I had read yet, as it had so many encouraging reports from our brethren in the ministry. It seems as though the work was making faster progress now than ever before. I love the work and I feel as though with my limited means I can't do enough for its advancement, nevertheless I am putting in my mite occasionally to help it along.

Our new Church building has come to a standstill for want of means. There will be a meeting Monday night to consider measures for its completion. It would appear by the way the Saints have been blessed here, there ought to be sufficient means right here at home to complete it; still I may be mistaken in my conjectures. I would say, brethren, let us put our shoulders to the wheel and push on the work to completion. I will try and do my share. The Saints are getting along finely here, considering everything. Brethren, let us have more love for one another, not taking any undue advantage, for we have been admonished by the Spirit to be honorable towards each other. If one has committed an offense, it is between him and God. The Lord says, "Woe unto him by whom offenses come." We should be humble and prayerful, never forgetting our daily worship, and be brothers in very deed.

I feel like striving more each day to make advancement in the cause we are engaged in. For what shall it profit us if we gain the whole world and lose our souls?

Your brother in Christ,

WM. C. CUMMINGS.

CANTON, Ill., Aug. 29th.

Three score years ago "another angel," referred to by Zechariah 2:3, and Revelations 14:6, administered to "this young man," of the first above named chapter, verse 4. Joseph Smith, the subject of prophetic ken, and angelic care, had only fairly gained his majority when "The book is delivered to him that is not learned, saying, 'Read this I pray thee; and he saith, I am not learned.'" In the incipency and early rise of this "marvelous work and a wonder," the founder, under God, of this latter day dispensation was not versed in scholastic divinity, belles-lettres, astronomy, geology, chemistry, the occult sciences, history, geography, physiology, or even the fundamental principles of rhetoric, composition, capitalization, punctuation, or the rudiments of English grammar.

Again the Supreme and unchangeable Ruler of the universe was pleased to "condescend to men of low estate," for "God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise." In the vision of the mind we can behold Jesus, with sandals on his feet, touching tenderness in his deportment, authority in his tone, justice and mercy in his accent, and divinity within the sacred heart of Mary's child. Lo! he descends to the sea of Tiberias, or the lake of Galilee, and calls Peter and Andrew, James and John, from their menial avocation. They were untutored at the first, but readily became his disciples and learned of him eagerly. They were subsequently called to the apostleship; and we cheerfully infer that they studied and greatly improved upon their respective abilities, or talents. Their energy, piety and devotion; their toil, sacrifice and martyrdom have lit up the dark caverns, nooks and corners of creation. The whole galaxy of the illustrious, immortal dead speak to us by and through their examples of diligence, constancy, patience, and faith. God said, (more especially for the last age of the world's temporal existence), "I work a work in your days, a work which ye shall in no wise believe, though a man declare it unto you."—Acts 13: 41.

A man of God, with the sure testimonies of the Lord like Noah the preacher, ship-wright and mariner, can condemn an ungodly world. If Daniel the Hebrew captain was a "man greatly beloved," think you that the great prophet, seer, revelator and translator of our day and time, would not receive the sanctifying influence, co-operating power, and infinite blessing of the eternal and ever blessed Spirit! Men are supposed to be at their physical prime between the years of twenty-eight and forty, and their literary maximum, acme, or glory, falls betwixt forty and sixty. Ere a double score of tempest tossed years had graced the devoted life of the American prophet, his pulse was stilled in death; his bullet riddled body was mouldering, and his precious memory was enwreathed with a martyr's crown. He sought the bowers of nature for the purpose of secret prayer, according to the injunction of the Apostle James, in the vernal time of 1820. The lyric poet of the elect nation had cried,— "Give ear, O Shepherd of Israel, thou that leadest Joseph like a flock." Adventurers and romancers may judge that, if he was the chosen of the Lord, the ordained of the Most High, and the anointed of the Almighty, his life would have been prolonged, or he would not have met such a cruel fate. He began his public career when he was younger than Jesus Christ's ministerial beginning, and was an object of priestly hate four fold longer than his dear Lord; but each did the work assigned him of the Father. Eight full years, and more, had rolled away from the assassination of the Smith brothers, ere the apostates of Utah publicly proclaimed their own guilt and shame under the delectable dogma of polygamy. As I pen these lines I am reminded I do so on the thirty-fifth anniversary of that outgrowth of lust, variously styled "celestial marriage," "patriarchal order," "plurality," "spiritual wifery," polygamy," &c., &c. Brigham Young saw the workings of this heresy, a quarter of a century to a day. That licentious system brought about by men and women departing from "the faith," has rendered the name, and fair fame of the true, pure, sole and only Church of God odious all over the realms of civilization. A decade of years today since "the lion" roared, at least within the land of the living, and now "John" has gone to his bosom. Orson Pratt lies low with the uncircumcised, and the system that he tried to champion will soon go down to the pit where it is very dry.

The church presided over by the noble son of the honored dead will redeem the profession from undeserved, unmerited odium. Yea, more; she must save mankind from blind unbelief, aggressive skepticism, withering spiritualism, and forlorn atheism. She must, in due time, overthrow the pagodas of paganism, revolutionize the temple of human reason, pulverize the fast decaying walls of sectarian Babylon, and reconstruct the empires of the world when King Jesus comes all radiant in ineffable glory.

I thought, when seating myself, to say a few words to my wide spread acquaintances and friends about myself. Somehow I have not the patience to tell the Saints, in detail, of my operations at home or abroad, on land or sea. Deep anxiety, painful solicitude, bitter disappointments, complicated toil, social ostracism, and cruel persecution from without, and a lack of sympathy and active support from within appears to be my lot. I do not ask of any that are trembling under ponderous burdens to shoulder aught that belongs on my back; nor do I feel like I could carry much more, lest I falter and faint on the road. I believe the Great I Am will not suffer the weakest to fail if they strive lawfully, earnestly, and ever. The reservoir of grace is adequate, and accessible to the humble, prayerful, persistent, consistent, devoted inmate of the holy covenant; and it is God's delight, honor, power, and glory to have it so. Thank the triune Deity, look forward, renew your diligence, press on and obtain the celestial reward.

However, on the 8th inst. I began a series of meetings in the Tolbert Creek Christian Church, seven miles due west of Galesburg. The chapel is situated in a community of well-to-do farmers. The minister in charge, B. C. Stephens, I was informed, occupies the parsonage and has horse and buggy at his service, and gets, in addition, $68 per month. I heard that he was a shepherd of no ordinary attainments, and should I come within his spiritual jurisdiction I would surely have to defend my cause, or pack my traveling bag. Sure enough, at the close of the second service the Rev. wished to know of me, if I would affirm that the Holy Ghost was never given only by, or through the "laying on of hands." I told him, smilingly, that I was not spoiling for a fight, but I thought our avowed faith would bear a rigid examination, or words to that effect. When Mr. Stephens found that the time, place, and in fine, all the preliminaries for the debate could be arranged, his alternative was to eat his words, shift responsibility, and back down and out. I drafted the first four propositions, and read them in public, and then the man asked to take them home with him. I consented, and he returned the paper with the subjoined changes. When I told him I was quite familiar with the questions he submitted, that they were canvassed in 1884, in Kirtland, Ohio, that the arguments pro and con were published in a large book, printed and sold by the Christian publishing Co. 913 Pine St. St Louis; that I had perused carefully this, the Braden and Kelley debate, several times, and that I kept it on sale; he looked a trifle nonplussed. His plagiarism was nipped in the bud, nor did he get to disgorge Braden's gush, which elder E. L. Kelley so ably and completely refuted. I accepted of the document as amended, but his guardians prevented him, his word to the contrary; but doubtless he gave them the whip lest I would use the rod. Audiences were from fair to large, and immense. Please publish all, and oblige a cheerful, patient, hopeful, forgiving, happy toiler for God.

M. T. SHORT.

PROPOSITIONS BY SHORT.

Prop. 1st. The Book of Mormon is of Divine Authenticity.

2d. The Christian Church is the sole and only true church.

3d. "The laying on of hands" is a fundamental principle of the doctrine of Christ.

4th. The signs, miracles, spiritual gifts, and supernatural blessings of the gospel are done away, by divine direction, for all time, because they are no longer needed.

I will affirm the 1st, and third propositions, and negative the 2d and fourth.

M. T. SHORT.

PROPOSITIONS BY STEPHENS.

The above questions are too narrow, so I will suggest the following changes.

1st. Is the Book of Mormon of divine origin, and are its teachings entitled to the respect and belief of all Christian people?

2d. Is the church of which I, B. C. Stephens am a member, the Church of Christ, and identical in faith, organization, ordinances, worship and practice, with the Church of Christ as it was left perfected by the Apostles of Christ?

3d. Is the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in fact the Church of God, and accepted with him?

We will furnish a man who will affirm the 2d and negative the 1st and 3d.

B. C. STEPHENS.

Mr. Short: The above offer was made by one of the Trustees of the Church and one member of the Official Board of the Church and myself. Last Monday evening, August 8th, 1887, at which meeting you was present, and after making some remarks you withdrew from the meeting, we took the matter up officially and the Board would not sustain our offer. Therefore I am requested by them to notify you of the fact; also the Trustees, with the Official Board of the church, express the sentiment of the membership, and influenced by it will not permit you or your friends to use their house for preaching. Final.

Respectfully,

In behalf of the Official Board of T. C. Church.

B. C. STEPHENS.

Cameron, Ill., Aug. 10th, 1887.

P. S. As I had no chance of sending this as you requested, so I will mail it to your address.

B. C. S.

RAYMOND CENTER, Wis., Sep. 5th.

Dear Herald:—I have been reading your pages this blessed Sabbath day and have had to say in my heart, Precious pages! I find so much good, soul cheering reading in them. I often wonder how any one can do without the Herald. But there has been times when I thought I would have to give up taking it, not knowing sometimes how or when I could pay for it, but, God helping me, I mean to pay up all I owe, and, thanks be to the editors, they always send the Herald to me. I can appreciate it highly, not having brother or sister in the flesh or spirit here to talk to, but have the Bible and Herald, and the blessed Father is a friend at all times when we come humbly before him. I am thankful to him that he has ever called me out of darkness into this great light. I can truly say this latter day work is of God. I have had testimonies to its truthfulness by the Holy Spirit. There have been many times, when I and my little children have been sick, I have knelt down and asked him to heal us and restore us to health if it was his will; and, praise be to his holy name, he has done it, and blessed us in more ways than we ever can repay. The best we can do we can never praise him enough for his goodness to us. Pray for me, brothers and sisters, that I may be faithful unto the end. This is my desire and prayer.

Your sister in Christ,

MRS. SARAH ELVA OLSON.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 8th.

Bro. Joseph Smith: When I was in Utah at the time of President Garfield's death, many of the Mormons seemed to think they would have no more trouble; but I told them their trouble was but beginning, and that they would never be admitted as a State while polygamy was practiced or believed in; and all has come true. I was welcomed to a great many old friends' houses, and I spoke to them freely as a friend. I am old and have spent my best days in working for the world. I have a desire to do all I can in my old age. My whole soul is in this latter day work; but I can not go away from home, for I can not put my way.

I have noted with care the Gurley and Whitmer efforts to cause division, and I am pleased to find they have done so little harm, and that their names and influence have failed to draw away the Saints from the Reorganized Church. The past and present of the church has been well defined and ably defended. God has never found a people who were wholly righteous and obedient. He has to make them so by "line upon line and precept upon precept." When we look at God's long suffering and patience with the people who covenanted to serve him from the beginning of this latter day work, we find that many of them have been self-willed and rebellious, just as Israel was in days of old. And if at times he has hid his face from us and allowed our sins of unbelief and our enemies to trouble us, it has been to work out in us repentance and obedience. He shapes his people to his own ends, and impresses His own likeness upon them by a continual moral guidance which refuses to be frustrated by the people's shortcomings and sins. He chastises to work penitence, and it is only to the penitent that he can extend forgiveness. If we draw near to him in love and obedience, he will draw near to us and open the way for us to work his great work in this dispensation of the fulness of times. The people are awaking out of a long sleep, and are calling for light and knowledge, something that they can depend upon in this time of trouble. And God is calling unto us now: "Hearken unto me, ye that know righteousness, the people in whose heart I have written my law; fear ye not the reproach of men, neither be ye afraid of their reviling. . . . And I have put my words in thy mouth, and I have covered thee in the shadow of mine hand, that I may plant the heavens, and lay the foundations of the earth, and say unto Zion: Behold, thou art my people."—Isa. 51:7-16.

The "Mothers' Home Column" is doing a great and good work in the church. God help with intelligence and power from above, the sisters who are doing his work so well.

"Persecution and Its Causes" has given me light upon many things that I knew nothing of before. I had thought I knew the history of the church well. It ought to be printed in pamphlet form and given to the thoughtful to read. I am willing to do all I can, and to go where the Spirit leads and the church sends; but I do not want to take one step in my own strength.

Yours truly,

JOHN MCKENZIE.

35 Armach Road, North Bow

London, Eng., Sept. 2d.

Bro. Joseph:—The work of God is slowly onward here in England. But I thank God that we baptized eight persons into the kingdom of God since June, and opened a Sunday School, which, thank God, is very well attended. I have been a member of the Church of Christ for fifteen years, and during that time I have seen many changes in the work. But I am not tired of it yet. The first thing that made me strong in the work was to see my child healed by the power of God after it had been given up by two doctors. She is now a member of the Church. The next thing was to have my stammering tongue made loose; for when I came into the church I could not speak five words plain. But, thank God, I can speak plain now, for I have spoken two hours without a falter, when in discussion of the truth of the gospel. Besides this, I have seen many other blessings, which has enabled me to say that this work is the work of God.

We hail with joy the morning
That rolls the Sabbath round;
Then in the courts of Zion
Strive ever to be found.
Our place among the brethren,
We ever gladly fill,
And strives by pure devotion,
To do the Master's will.

Yours in Christ,

ELDER JAMES GERRARD.

DOW CITY, Iowa, Sept. 12th.

Bro. Blair: We have of late been visited by Bro. J. F. McDowell and his estimable wife. The elder has done some excellent preaching. His sermons are full of good instruction for all, the tendency thereof being to lead the Saints not only to sing, but to live "Nearer, my God, to thee." Bro. W. E. Peak and his excellent bride are with us at present. He has preached nine times at Dow City since his return from Kansas, with good effect. Yesterday the writer led two precious souls into the waters of baptism: both of them were formerly members of the Baptist church of this place. One of these sisters has been very much afflicted for a year or two past, losing one of her hands with bone cancer, something over a year ago. Of late the same disease (so stated by the physician) has made its appearance in other parts of her person, so that for days she has been unable to do any work. Sunday week she sent for the elders to administer to her, which they did, and repeated the administration two or three times during the week, from which she received so much relief that she desired baptism. Yesterday she was able to attend two services and ride over a mile and back to be baptized. When she arose from the water she shouted:

"Glory to God! Praise his holy name! Glory to God! Peace on earth; good will to man!"

Please remember her when you approach the throne of grace in prayer, that the disease (if not already) may be fully stayed by the power of God, and that she may be enabled to continue faithful to the end, and receive the crown of eternal life.

At the confirmation in the afternoon the church was well filled, and an excellent prayer and testimony meeting was had; the Spirit of God being present in a very remarkable degree, manifesting itself in the gifts of the gospel, gladdening the hearts of the Saints and bringing tears to the eyes of some—both members and non-members.

While there is room for improvement, yet we believe we can truthfully say that the Boyer Valley branch is in a prospering condition.

Yours in bonds,

C. E. BUTTERWORTH.

BOSTON, Mass., Sep., 11th.

Dear Herald:—As I read so much to encourage from week to week in your valuable columns, from the different branches, fields of labor, and many "sowers and reapers of life's harvest," who are bearing the burdens and heat of the day, and learn the decided success their efforts are being crowned with, I rejoice that Israel's God is remembering his covenant, and that the hunters and fishers are finding some honest ones willing to be caught in the old gospel net. And although some have gone forth weeping, they will doubtless return rejoicing, bringing precious sheaves with them.

I am thankful that a great deal of the filth and rubbish that has so long retarded the work of God's faithful servants, through the apostacy, is being cleared away, and that our non-association with the practices, people, or doctrine of the inhabitants of the salt land is becoming an undeniable fact to those outside. Thus it makes it easier for our claims to be presented, and brings confusion to many of these sanctified hypocrites, these "whited sepulchres," "blind leaders of the blind," garnishers of the tombs of those who have been slain for the sake of the same gospel we present, whom their forefathers persecuted and put to death; yea, and would put the thumb screws on to-day if they had the power. We have quite a number of that kind in this city; but in the face of all opposition, we as a people, are finding favor in the eyes of the honest people, in fulfillment of the promise given through the "choice Seer."

May I be among those who have taken the Holy Spirit for their guide, and have not been deceived by the many spirits abroad in the world, and earnestly seek and obtain that wisdom which cometh from the foundation of all true wisdom, God himself; is my constant prayer.

The work in this place is looking somewhat brighter than hitherto, but there has been a vast deal of work done that our Master can not approve of, and has done more to retard the work than assist it; hence we need men to labor here that have been called of God and ordained by the power of the Holy Spirit, men of wisdom who can take in the situation by the spirit of wisdom and discernment, and who have the authority and moral courage to remove the cause, where a chain of evidence indisputable demands it. When this is done, and we remove from us those things offensive to God, and make proper restitution as the law of Christ and his church demand for all transgression of said laws, then, and not till then, shall we as a branch, as a district, yea, as a church, receive the outpourings of heaven's blessing as we need them, and shall in the near future need them more, to meet the trials we as Saints of God shall have to meet.

I have much to thank and praise my heavenly Father for. The testimony he has given me of this work passes all explanation; but with all who have obeyed this gospel of the kingdom from the heart, I can say I know it is the Lord's work; and no one can rob me of this. I desire to come off conqueror.

Bro. E. C. Briggs has been in this city, but is gone to Nova Scotia. I pray he may have the spirit of wisdom to set in order those things that need his attention here, and not do as some of the western brethren have done, looked the ground over and departed frightened. I trust you won't think me a confirmed growler.

Yours in the faith,

P. BULLARD.

VALLEY VIEW, Iowa, Sept. 7th.

Bro. Dancer:—Please admit this name (Valentine Spanswick) to the list for Autumn Leaves. I wish I could get more names, as it is what every one stands in need of. I am much pleased with the good instructions we receive weekly from the Herald and Hope, and would not be without them for all other books and papers outside of the Church. We look for their coming with much joy and pleasure, and are much pleased with the many letters from the dear sisters; hope they will always continue, and that we may all prove faithful to the work that is given us to do in these latter days, which I know is the true work of God,
Your sister in Christ,

THIRZA CHAPMAN.

PRAIRIE VIEW, Kansas, Sept. 5th.

Dear Herald:—I left Kearney county, Nebraska, to (as per request) attend the North-west Kansas district conference, so as to make a brief stay at Wilber and deliver a few discourses at Fairbury, Nebraska, arriving at the latter place Saturday, 27th ultimo. Assisted by Bro. L. Anthony, I delivered seven discourses in private houses, at two different points; the first effort at Fairbury, I think, had a good hearing. Sunday evening our audience in two rooms and outside, numbered near one hundred. More labor ought to be had there. A pelting rain on Thursday night prevented the possibility of a grove meeting on Sunday as contemplated at the above place. The attendance at the conference was small—travel cut off through rivers swelling and washing away bridges, and thus some of the Kansas brethren were prevented attending conference, probably. The best of order prevailed, and the effects of union and fellowship felt to a great extent. Bro. H. A. Richardson, who migrated from Michigan, locating in Smith county, Kansas, was present and was ordained an elder, who we believe under God's guidance, will become a useful and efficient representative of the faith. The ordination was made a special order for Sunday morning, nor was the invocation for the guidance and evidence of the Spirit's power in vain, as all know who were present. And when, after ordination, Bro. R. declared the ordination was in accordance with the Spirit manifestations in answer to prayer prior to his coming to conference, the pleasure was more intensified, and proof of God's recognition seemed doubly sure. Bro. R. for the time being will travel and preach as his circumstances admit, which the general law makes obligatory upon all elders, and justification follows the honoring of this as well as all other recognized laws. And a desire for a change in duty or labor should only be evinced when evidence develops of the charge being legitimately thought of, or made. Desires prompted by a love for the work will not lead to efforts to hinder or prevent needed or proffered help, which may and can be legitimately obtained, or create timidity in a proper display of discretion. The offering with advice to accept God's divine economy is within the range of possibility; so is the subjugation of our dear self so as to abide by all its provisions, but more difficult than offering it to others, and yet self government evinced by the subjugation of self is highly essential to our spiritual development.

The cessation from ordaining because the effects of hasty ordinations are visible, would not be compatible with the existing legitimate demands; yet the former should be avoided. Would a lay member be justified if requested in a private or public capacity to explain or tell the belief of the church where no official resided, was requested in the form of a question, and being requested to answer, I did so affirmatively. For I verily believe it would be proper for a brother or sister under the circumstances. Why not? We are having proof of the ability of the honored wives and mothers in the church to express and tell their thoughts in the instruction that burdens the "Mothers Home Column," and I can but think the sentiment of all the Herald readers, if solicited, would be to let the good work go on. In watching for the outcome of the topic of dress, etc., one hardly knew but reason would exist for some foreboding felt by the possibility that a conclusion would be reached to distinguish the sisters by the cut of their dress, shape of bonnets, etc. But as the good work goes on one breathes more free in the development of evidence that extremes will be avoided and a love for the beautiful without catering to silly forms will be cherished, with the observance of an economy compatible with our profession.

To avoid a misunderstanding of the above question and answer I would say that to my mind the above procedure, and a member assuming authority to make and fill appointments to preach, or officiating in the administration of gospel ordinances, would be different—the latter not permissible. Nor do I think that refusing through timidity, to comply with such a request would be condemnatory.

I remain here until Friday, then accompany Bro. A. H. Parsons to Glen Elder, where he, as per arrangement, is to meet the Rev. H. R. Kendall of the Christian Church, on the public rostrum, to discuss the merits of our holy religion on the 12th instant. Bro. Parsons is making commendable progress in his ministerial career. Bro. G. W. Chute, of Blue Rapids, Kansas, so long and favorably known, has been active, doing good service in the latter day work, and expects to continue. I know of no others actively engaged in the vast north-western Kansas district as general conference appointees where Bro. A. H. Parsons says there is room for forty elders.

It may be proper to state that a motion appearing in minutes of the above district conference as published in Herald, July 2d to the effect that the officers of branches be authorized to visit the members of the respective branches, inquire into their standing and desires to remain members of the church, and such members as do not signify their intention to retain their membership, that their names be dropped from the record, was by some of the brethren questioned, and said that either a mistake of the secretary or the composers must have occurred; but for as much as neither the record or secretary were present, the matter of necessity was deferred. The claim was made that the motion was lost. It will therefore be proper for all to consider the motion inoperative until a definite conclusion is reached. With not a remote desire to impute improper motives, in my understanding there is not a shadow of jurisdiction for such a motion. Indeed I believe it to be radically wrong. In the first place branch officials are authorized to visit by the recognized laws of the church, and efforts by a district conference culminating in creating the impression that its legislative enactment is authorization for branch officials to move in law prescribed duties, is a grave error. But to advise, request, etc., would evince a desire for a proper co-operation, which is always permissible. And in the second place, the interrogation, by branch officials, viz: "Do you desire to remain in the church?" and the dropping of names from the record if an affirmative answer was not given, would work disastrously, evincing a desire to discourage or destroy, rather than encourage and save. The declaration that Bro. A., B., C. or D., is expelled from the church is the ultimatum of a law prescribed work, viz: visiting to labor, citation trial, etc., etc., the sole purpose of which should be to vindicate the innocent, punish the guilty, and maintain the fair fame and dignity of the church. Nor should officials ever overlook the solemn fact that zealous labor to prevent evil and trouble is their imperative duty; or if trouble exists, not to fail to labor to effect a reconciliation without a trial, if possible. Blundering to honor and abide by law is bad; but more preferable than intrigue or chicanery to evade it. Deliverance from the former is probable, while a step in the latter often opens the way for a more fatal leap. The withholding of a declaration that A. or B. is expelled until a trial is held, I would not oppose. But experience has taught me the impracticability of enforcing this in all cases. Nor can I see a necessity for it in the event of an individual being persistent in withdrawing, against whom no charge of wrong could be brought. And yet a permit to withdraw, if such a withdrawal would compromise the church without a trial and a declaration of expulsion, presents another feature. Hence, while the church is merciful to others, she should be just to herself.

Districts may be brought into being by two or more branches agreeing to make the compact, the ostensible purpose of such a compact being for the more effectual spread of the gospel, and therefore legitimate. But it can not be thought that governments or organizations which exists through exigencies can give or take from organizations recognized in the law. The body existing by integral parts not only renders co-operation permissible, but makes it imperative, while exigencies, making interference to regulate, etc., a necessity, must be authoritative, as no unauthorized act is recognized by God. And Latter Day Saints ought to be the last to question this, as the same time avoiding assumption, officiousness and priestly domination.

I think I am responding to calls as fast as possible, but of necessity some remain unheeded, and I can't avoid it, yet I hope none will refrain from reporting on all matters of importance.

In bonds,

J. CAFFALL.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 12th.

Editors of Herald:—I thought I would like to say a few words on the sacrament. I have seen the Saints partake of it with gloves on. Where is the person that will sit down at a friend's table to eat with gloves on? Again, I have seen some take it with their left hand; again I would ask if a friend offer us anything do we take it with our left hand, or our right? Now, if we use our right hand in temporal things, let us pay due respect to the things of God.

Your brother in Christ,

T. H. MOORE.

PARIS, Tenn., Aug. 9th.

Bro. Joseph: The work is onward here. Prejudice is fast giving way, and we are making openings in many new places, and I feel greatly encouraged to press on to the mark of the high calling.

P. B. SEATON.

NEBRASKA CITY, Sept. 13th.

Dear Herald:—Upon the close of our pleasant and interesting camp-meeting at Plum Pollow, Iowa, I returned home, rested a day or two, and with my family and a host of others, attended the brilliant wedding of Miss Rena, the eldest daughter of J. W. Waldsmith, our mutual and worthy gospel brother.

The successors of the Rev. L. L. Luse, have never become reconciled to the labors of love and works of righteousness of the saints at Wilber. There has been kept up a piquant flinging at our faith. Here is an example,—“We have such fools living here, that are so fanatical as to think, that by putting grease upon people, and lay their hands on them, the sick can be healed.” The same M. E. minister that got off the above ignoble peroration, also said, that if a “Mormon” was allowed to preach from his pulpit, he would never enter the church again. The last onslaught was upon the doctrine of baptism, several propositions upon the subject being submitted. On the 9th I went to Wilber, and upon consultation with the president of the branch and the brethren, I submitted the following: “Resolved: That the Holy Scriptures teach baptism; 1, that the mode thereof is immersion; 2, that it is for the remission of sins; 3, that infants and unbelievers are not proper subjects thereunto; and, 4, that it is an essential means unto salvation.”

I also requested that they affirm some theory of their own teaching. Rev. H. Presson, is to be the M. E. champion. Can not say that there will be a debate; but one thing I am sure of, after they have done so much brag and blow, they shall now have the choice of debating or “eating crow.”

I preached five times in the tent, which is used by the Saints as a place of worship. Rain, dark nights and sickness considered, the attendance and interest were good.

I have received “Pamphlet No. 2,” bearing the name of W. P. Brown. Strange that some are so zealous as to use the brains and hands of others over their own name to fight the truth. But he and his like are as bats in sunlight, or as snakes in “dog-days.” I wish it were possible that all who have entered the fold since 1830, could stand as a unit in good works and the hope of eternal life, nevertheless the actions of others will never help or hurt my opportunity to make sure my election in the kingdom of God.

In gospel bonds,

RORT. M. ELVIN.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

WAS IT NECESSARY THAT CHRIST SHOULD DIE?

In order to understand the above question it will be necessary to understand how the fall affected mankind. When man was created he was placed in the beautiful garden of Eden, where we may suppose fruit grew in abundance to satisfy the appetite; where flowers of every hue flourished in all their beauty to please the eye; and where the birds warbled forth in sweetest melody the praises of their Maker, the tree of life just within man's reach, all to gladden the heart and rejoice the soul, and he was permitted to walk and talk with God face to face.

O, how grand then was man's condition! But in order that man might know how to appreciate the goodness of his Creator and be man in the truest sense of the word, and not be a mere machine to be acted upon, he was given the power of choice, thus making him a free moral agent.

An opportunity to exercise upon this power of choice must be had, and it was given him in the following commandment: “And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat: but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it; for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.”—Gen. 2: 16, 17.

Shortly after this, another personage of power presented himself to the woman in the form of a serpent, which was no other than Satan, telling her in the following words that God had deceived them: “And the serpent said unto the woman, ye shall not surely die: for God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil. And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that the tree was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave also unto her husband with her; and they did eat.”—Gen. 3: 4-6.

As a result of this disobedience, man was driven from the garden of Eden, to eat his bread by the sweat of his face. No longer could he enjoy the grandeur and blessings of that place. Nor could he eat of the tree of life and live forever, or walk and talk with his God face to face as he had done; for he then had died a spiritual death, and he must also die a temporal death.

But before this temporal death should take effect, he was to be made acquainted with the plan of redemption by which he could be brought back into the presence of God, and live forever. But how was it to be brought about? Could man prepare a way or devise a means by which he could be brought back into the presence of his Maker and live forever, after he had become lost, fallen, carnal, sensual and devilish? Let us see:

“And now we see by this, that our first parents were cut off, both temporally and spiritually from the presence of the Lord; and thus we see they became subject to follow after their own will. Now behold, it was not expedient that man should be reclaimed from this temporal death, for that would destroy the great plan of happiness; therefore, as the soul could never die, and the fall had brought upon all mankind a spiritual death as well as a temporal; that is, they were cut off from the presence of the Lord; it was expedient that mankind should be reclaimed from this spiritual death; as they had been carnal, sensual and devilish, by nature, this probationary state became a state for them to prepare; it became a preparatory state.”—Book of Mormon p. 314.

“For as death hath passed upon all men, to fulfill the merciful plan of the great Creator there must needs be a power of resurrection, and the resurrection must needs come unto man by reason [because of] the fall; and the fall came by reason [because] of transgression; and because man became fallen, they were cut off from the presence of the Lord; wherefore, it must needs be an infinite atonement; save it should be an infinite atonement, this corruption could not put on incorruption. Wherefore, the first judgment [death] which came upon man, must needs have remained to an endless duration. And if so, this flesh must have laid down to rot and to crumble to its mother earth, to rise no more.”—Book of Mormon p. 70.

“Now Aaron began to open [explain] the Scriptures unto them concerning the coming of Christ, and also concerning the resurrection of the dead, and that there could be no redemption for mankind save it were through the death and sufferings of Christ, and the atonement of his blood.”—Book of Mormon p. 263.

The promise made to our mother Eve was, that of her seed one should arise who would have power to crush the power of him who had deceived her, in these words: “it shall bruise thy head.”

This promise was renewed to Abraham as follows: “And in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; because thou hast obeyed my voice.”—Gen. 22: 18. The Apostle Paul confirms this thought thus: “Now to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, and to seeds, as to many; but as of one, and to thy seed, which is Christ.”—Gal. 3: 16. See also Heb. 2: 16.

It seems then, that the love of God for fallen man was so great the he was willing to give his son (which means more than merely sending) that man might be redeemed. Yes, to bring the human and divine together, "so making peace." "And the angel answered and said unto her, the Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee; therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God."—Luke 1:35.

Was not this indeed a bringing together of the human and divine! While in the garden of Gethsemane the human cried, "O my Father, if it is possible, let this cup pass from me." But the divine,—"Thy will be done." And while upon the cross in the agony of death the human cried, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" But the divine,—"Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit." Why should any laugh at the idea of this miraculous conception of the Son of God? Did it require any more power, or was it any more a miracle, than it was to create man in the beginning?

If it was possible that man could have been redeemed without the shedding of Christ's blood, why did not the Father excuse him when he prayed so earnestly, sweating great drops of blood, that the cup might pass from him? Ah! it was not possible.

God sent an angel to stay the hand of Abraham when the life of his son was in danger. Did God have less love for his Son Jesus than he did for Isaac? No, no. We can not believe that! Hear what the Son of God says:

"Thinkest thou that I can not now pray to my Father, and he shall presently give me more than twelve legions of angels?" [To deliver him from the mob]. "But how then shall the Scriptures be fulfilled, that thus it must be?"—Matt. 26:53, 54.

It is sometimes urged against this view of the subject, that if God made it necessary that Christ's blood should be shed, he therefore compelled Judas to betray, the mob to arrest, the council to condemn, and the soldiers to execute him, and then condemned their souls for so doing, thus making God unjust. To this we reply: God gave his law to them, as to all others, and the power to obey or disobey. If they chose to obey, he would lead them to do right; but if they chose to disobey, then they would become subject to the power of the devil who would cause them to oppose the work of God and try to overthrow it by deception, bearing false witness against the innocent, and by finally shedding the blood of the innocent Son of God. For all this they will be condemned.

But the offering of the Son of God as a ransom for the sins of the world was done by and through the eternal Spirit. "How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God."—Heb. 9:14.

Christ being the great High Priest, as such he made the last sacrifice for sin, not in 1844, as is sometimes claimed by Adventists, but when he expired upon the cross. "By the which will we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all." "Who gave himself a ransom for all." "But this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sat down on the right hand of God."—Heb. 10:10; 1 Tim. 2:6; Heb. 10:12.

"Nor yet that he should offer himself often, as the High Priest entered into the holy place every year with the blood of others; for then must he often have suffered since the foundation of the world."—Heb. 9:25, 26. "Therefore there can be nothing, which is short of an infinite atonement, which will suffice for the sins of the world; therefore it is expedient that there should be a great and last sacrifice; and then shall there be, or it is expedient there should be, a stop to the shedding of blood; then shall the law of Moses be fulfilled; yea, it shall all be fulfilled; every jot and tittle, and none shall have passed away. And behold, this is the whole meaning of the law; every whit pointing to that great and last sacrifice; and that great and last sacrifice will be the Son of God; yea, infinite and eternal; and thus he shall bring salvation to all those who shall believe on his name."—Book of Mormon, page 297.

That "the most holy place" into which the great High Priest, Christ, entered, is heaven itself. See Heb. 1:3; Eph. 1:20; 1 Peter 3:22; also the following:

"But Christ being come a High Priest of good things to come, by the greater and more perfect tabernacle, [heaven itself] not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building. For Christ is not entered into the holy place made with hands, [that made by Moses] which are the figure of the true; [heaven]; but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us."—Heb. 9:11, 24.

From verses 15 to 17 we learn that Christ was the mediator of the new testament and that the testament could not be in full force until after the death of the testator. The 18th, 19th and 20th read as follows:—"Wherefore neither the first testament was dedicated without blood." "For when Moses had spoken every precept to all the people according to the law, he took the blood of calves and of goats, with water and scarlet wool, and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book and all the people, saying, this is the blood of the testament which God hath enjoined unto you."

From this we learn, that the covenant made through Moses was not dedicated with blood until every precept of law, of that covenant, had been declared to the people. So after Christ had set everything in order, and taught every precept of the gospel law, which was the new and everlasting covenant, it was necessary that it should be dedicated by the shedding of his own blood. Therefore, as this was the everlasting covenant, the perfect law, it was the last one dedicated by blood, all claims to the contrary notwithstanding.

"Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah. Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers, in the day that I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt; which my covenant they break, although I was a husband unto them, saith the Lord; but this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel; After those days, saith the Lord, I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people."—Jer. 31:31-33. "Now the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant."—Heb. 13:20.

The Apostle Paul taught the church in his day, that faith in the efficacy of the blood of Christ was essential to the remission of sins, as follows:—"Being justified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus; whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation through faith in his blood, to declare his [not our] righteousness for the remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God."—Romans 3:24, 25. See also Eph. 1:7; Col. 1:12-15; Rev. 1:5.

Many have thought, because of these passages, baptism was not for the remission of sins, and that therefore, all that was necessary was to have faith in Christ and his blood would cleanse us from all sins, without being baptized.

The Apostle John did not so understand, for he wrote: "But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin." 1 John 1:7. Christ walked in the light and had fellowship with God because he kept the commandments received of the Father. Hear him: "The Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak." "And I know that his commandment is life everlasting." "He that hath my commandments and keepeth [obeyeth] them, he it is that loveth me; and he that me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him." "Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word; that they all may be one; [have fellowship one with another] as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us; that the world may believe that thou hast sent me." John 12:49, 50; 14:21; 17:20, 21.

"For ye all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus." "For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ." "And if ye be Christ's then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise."—Gal. 3:26, 27, 29.

The foregoing ought to convince us that salvation can only be had by the offering of Christ upon the cross, and that a belief in and obedience to the gospel of Christ is the only promised means by which the blood of Christ can be efficacious to the remission of our sins.

By this we can see how "the seed of the woman" overcame the power of him who deceived her, conquered the powers of death, hell, and the grave, and will finally overcome all things and reign as king of kings and Lord of Lords. Yes; we can see how we become "heirs of God and joint heirs with Jesus Christ." All the glories of heaven and earth are Christ's, and we are joined with him in that heirship, and therefore can understand the words of Paul, "All things are yours."

CHAS. E. BUTTERWORTH.

DOW CITY, IOWA, Aug. 31st, 1887.

Selections.

MUMMIES WITHOUT END.

HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS IN EGYPT AND MANY OF THEM USED AS FERTILIZERS.

