

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, JANUARY 3, 1901.

NUMBER 1.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When sending your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to Independence, Mo.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Box B., Independence, Mo.

SPIRITUAL DREAMS.

Take Heed.

Through the medium of a dream the Lord has in times past revealed some very wonderful things for the welfare and guidance of His creatures. Joseph in Egypt, being warned in a dream, was enabled to not only save the Egyptian nation, but his own father's house. The dream of Nebuchadnezzar, interpreted by Daniel, as well as various dreams given to Daniel, have been sources of information, when correctly interpreted, wonderful for the knowledge of heavenly purpose revealed. In a dream Joseph was warned of the intention of Herod to destroy the Saviour, and instructed to carry his family into Egypt for a season. The wife of Pilate warned her husband to have nothing to do with the persecution of the Saviour, she having suffered many things in a dream concerning Him. The prophet Joel also describes the dreaming of dreams as one of the signs of the last days, dreams having great spiritual significance, because of the revelations of the Lord for the welfare of those who dwell upon the earth. A dream of this character, remarkable alike for its forceful instructiveness, its grandeur and its spirituality, was related some time ago by one of the young sisters of the branch, in a Saints' meeting at Independence, Missouri, and we give it here for the benefit of our readers.

When this sister, at her own request, was baptized, at the age of eight years, it was stated in her confirmation that she should be blessed with visions and dreams; and upon two subsequent occasions, when receiving administration for illness, this promise was reaffirmed to her. Reflecting upon these promises a short time before the relation of the experience following, she sought the Lord to know what was lacking in her character that these promises had not been realized, and on the night of February 18, 1899, this was manifested:

She appeared to be in an assembly so large that the features of all the audience could be distinguished from the position she occupied, and yet every corner of the room was plainly and distinctly visible. A young man of noble mien was preaching, his theme being "The soul of Man." To illustrate his discourse he had a very brilliant, pure white ball of light, encased in a clear globe, and elevated upon a standard which could be raised or lowered at will, something after the order of a telescope; the standard was slender so that it would sway back and forth if desired, yet so firmly secured that it could not be thrown down.

The purity, brilliancy and intensity of this ball of light, which, the young preacher said, represented the soul when it first came into the world, and was united with the body, penetrated to every part of that vast room; the globe encasing it represented the body. On either side of this globe stood a personage, one representing the guardian angel or ministering spirit from the Lord for that soul, whose mission was to influence the child for good. The other, the angel of darkness, having a thin, black arrow, four or five inches long, and various dark shadows or stains, who constantly strove to influence the child to do that which is evil in the sight of the Lord. The good spirit would suggest the right way, and if heeded would prevent the opposite spirit from gaining power—for it seems that besides the ministering angel from the Lord, there is an evil angel appointed by the opposite power to minister to every soul—if, however, the suggestions of the evil one were heeded and the good influences of the other rejected, the dark spirit advanced in power over the soul, and the good messenger would be driven back, farther away. Satan, as well as the Lord, makes claim upon the soul and is constantly trying to work closer and impregnate the soul with his influence. When the soul yielded to a temptation the evil spirit cast his arrow against it leaving a dark spot upon it.

The dark messenger kept trying to bluish the soul by putting more spots upon it, trying to get it into evil association; and when the young child starts attending school, it gave Satan so much more, and the good spirit less, power on account of the evil surroundings and examples; and here the preacher urged upon his hearers that as each soul has a good and evil guardian, parents were admonished to heed the good suggestions of their own good guardian with reference to their child, and seek to co-operate with the good angel of the child, thus making two witnesses for the right, and aiding the good angel in his mission to the child. And it was shown that these two good witnesses operating together would so influence the child that when it was eight years old it would desire baptism and have no other desire in that regard. The evil influence was thus kept out by the increased influence for the right, and when the child yielded to this influence of the spirit of light and was baptized, it was as if the soul was born anew—the preacher was phrasing the words of the Spirit in John 3: 3, "Ye must be born again"—and it became as perfect, bright and shining as when it first shone.

The preacher then removed the globe and called attention to the fact that the shining beauty of that light was not in the globe but the light, representing the soul, was inside, and not in the globe (the body), and that if it is marred, the good angel had power to remove all blemishes when the soul yielded to his influence, so that it would return to God as pure as when given. If the young soul did not heed the influences of the good angel, the dark power gained more and the good power less influence, until gradually the soul, by continued yielding to evil temptations, which the shadows represented, became darker and darker; and while it was here demonstrated that the Spirit of the Lord will not always strive with man, yet this good guardian angel would continue to occasionally strive to regain his influence and if succeeding in one of these efforts to the extent of influencing baptism, the soul is cleansed from its darkness and impurity, and restored to its brilliancy and purity; the good angel again has full charge and the evil angel is relegated to the distance, though still striving with renewed power to get into contact with the soul to mar or destroy its purity.

If, however, the soul, instead of pursuing this course, still resists the good angel and yields to the evil, the shining light becomes a black substance, and when the preacher removed the globe in demonstrating the power of evil under continued yielding to evil influences, it was shown that there was no beauty inside nor out.

In speaking of the purifying effect of baptism upon the soul, the preacher said that if the Lord touching the stones for the brother of Jared would cause them to produce such a light as they did, how much more would He do for the soul preparatory to its coming in contact with the adversary; and as those stones would shine forth in the darkness of the boat and dispel the gloom, how much more the light of the soul, if kept as good as God gave it, pure, unsullied and shining, would dispel the gloom and darkness in the difficulties of this life, and help to dispel the influence of Satan wherever it was exerted. But, on the other hand, if the soul becomes darkened, like the prince of evil, it would be an instrument in his hands for carrying his destructive influence in whatever association it might have.

The preacher now removed the perfect globe, substituting one less perfect; and again removing that, placed an ill shaped globe, having no desirableness, over the light, showing that the soul (or spirit) can be perfect in an imperfect body, the light shining as brightly and beautifully as in the perfect covering.

The light when it was pure and bright was shown to be up high, on an elevated position, and Satan was shown as being beneath it; now, if the soul still heeds the influences of the good angel, Satan, in trying to conquer it, may shake the very foundation on which it stands, so that it may be caused to sway back and forth as if about to fall, but by giving entire heed to the influence of the good angel, even though it may require some time to accomplish it, the good angel can steady it, so that it will not be harmed; and if its entire dependence is placed upon the good spirit's influence, no matter what the circumstances, it will be brought safely through the difficulty.

Above the stand which elevated the light was placed a small square frame representing paradise. Now, if after baptism, the influence of the good spirit is heeded, the soul is helped to come up higher, and nearer to the paradise; but when it heeds the evil influences it drops down in proportion to the degree of the offence towards the Creator. It was shown how the soul could ascend until it almost reached paradise, and could then yield so far to this evil influence that it would drop down to the level of the evil angel, and come entirely under its control, so that the good angel can have no farther influence. But if the good angel has the influence until the last, it guides and uplifts the soul into paradise.

The instruments which Satan used in his work, the dark shadows, etc., were theft, lying, murder, etc. (see Gal. 5: 19-21); the instruments which the good angel used were the Bible, Book of Mormon, and Doctrine and Covenants, which were bright and shining like the pure soul, and if these were accepted by the soul it added that much more brilliancy to the soul than it possessed of itself.

Thus the manifestation ended.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

MRS. S. CRANE, Lowell, Snohomish county, Washington, would be very glad to have any of the Saints residing in that region to visit her. They live one mile from Lowell and two and a half miles from Everett on the south side of the Snohomish river. Boats running between Everett and Snohomish pass their place. Everett is a city of about 12,000 inhabitants, 30 miles north of Seattle. The Great Northern and the Monte Christo railroads terminate there. This lady is not a member of the church, but desires to become a member. She says:

If I wanted to act the hypocrite I could go and unite with some of the sect churches, but oh the light has come, and I cannot be at home with any more. I once belonged to the Baptist church, but found it was not in harmony with the church of Christ and left them. I would like to be among the Saints; many times I weep and wonder if the time will ever come when I may meet and be among the people of God. Please pray for me.

All who have accepted the restored—the everlasting—gospel will understand the feelings of this sister as she expresses her inability to find comfort and consolation in that which formerly interested her. Truly "the light has come." We hope some of the ministry in that territory will make a note of this address and visit this faithful one as soon as convenient.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

BRO. W. J. DURRETT, Montague, Texas, remitting for ENSIGN, Herald and tracts, says:

I wish I could be at Independence this Christmas with Saints, and hear some of the elders preach. I have not heard a sermon by any of the elders since Bro. Cathers preached at Vineyard, in Jack county, five years ago.

SR. E. J. McCULLOUGH, Pond Creek, Oklahoma Territory:

I see that Elder Wm. Aylor, of Independence, Missouri, recently baptized two at Pond Creek. If any of the elders are in this part of the country I would be pleased to have them call on us. We live nine miles southwest of Pond Creek; I would also be glad to make the acquaintance of any of the Saints who live here. I rejoice more each day in the great latter day gospel. I see new beauty in God's word each time I read it, and am more determined each day to press on to the end of the race. I will tell some of my experience since I joined the church if any one desires to hear it. I desire the prayers of all Saints.

Sr. (Mrs.) S. A. MUNDELL, Ripley, Oklahoma Territory: I ask the Sisters' Prayer Union to pray for my father, J. S. Painter, who is badly afflicted, that he may be healed and led to obey the restored gospel. I also ask their prayers in behalf of my baby that it may be healed of spasms.

Sr. MARY HINDS, Amber, Iowa:

We [Sr. Hinds and her father, Bro. James Bradley, Sr.] are among the isolated ones here in eastern Iowa and feel thankful for the "silent preacher." We read Bro. R. J. Parker's sermon today (Dec. 10th) and it seemed grand to us. The other day Bro. J. S. Roth and W. E. LaRue and Sr. LaRue came and stirred us up and I pray that the good seed sown fell upon good ground and may bring forth many sheaves for the Master.

Bro. FAYETTE BOOKER, Hardin, Missouri, December 15:

I have taken the ENSIGN for one year and would not do without it for twice the amount as we live twelve miles from a branch of the church; we have not had the pleasure of attending a meeting for seven months. Myself and wife and one other family are all the Saints in Hardin. But as for myself and wife, we are strong in the faith, trying to keep the Master's will, doing the best we can under the circumstances, and with the prayers of the Saints I hope we may live worthy to be called Saints. If any elder comes to this part of the country, they would be gladly entertained at my house.

Bro. M. RASMUSSEN, Sylveston, North Dakota, December 13:

The ENSIGN and Herald are welcome visitors at our house; they contain all the preaching of the restored gospel I have been privileged to hear for eight years until Elder Wm. Sparling came here last January and gave us fourteen as good sermons as I ever heard, some were the best. How the "heathen" did rage and imagined many vain things. There are only seven families of Americans in our neighborhood; four families are Dunkards in belief but not in practice. We are running a union Sabbath School, but the Dunkards take little or no interest. I ask the prayers of all God's people that I may press onward and upward and gain the prize, and that my wife may yet obey the gospel in its fullness.

Sr. JULIA HIDDLESTON, Kiik, Colorado, December 13:

I want to say to the Saints who have moved away from here, that we are not starved out yet in Colorado, judging from the well filled baskets and boxes that came in at our kitchen door Thanksgiving. It was a complete surprise to us, but a happy one. We spent the day in praising and thanking God for His goodness and mercies. There were forty-three of us including the children, but not all Saints. We had quite a stir in this neighborhood last week; two preachers came down from Denver, and organized what they call a class. It pains me to the heart to see good, honest people caught in a trap baited with chaff, when the golden grain has been scattered all around them, but such is the case. But thank God, the Saints are not so hungry as to be fed on chaff. It has been promised to this little broken branch that if they would live faithful, there would be more added to our number, and I hope that each and every one is striving to live faithful. I ask an interest in the prayers of all the Saints that we may be worthy of the promise. May God bless us all in my prayer.

Bro. C. W. EHRHARD, Effingham, Kansas, wisely concluded that one of the best Christmas presents he could make this year is a copy of the ENSIGN to some of his friends, and sends us three dollars for that purpose. He adds:

We are isolated, but are not left without comfort and encouragement. Our desires are to see the gospel spread, and we are striving to sow the seed, trusting it may fall on good soil and come forth a new life in Christ our Lord. I have been scattering tracts and papers to those not of the faith. You will remember I sent for one of your 28 sermon offers and autobiography of Bro. Luff. I read them, and the Lord knows how many others read them also, I do not. They are still preaching.

This brother is doing what a great many others can and should be doing to spread a knowledge of the gospel among those not of the faith. In this way the investigator can leisurely examine and ponder the truths presented to him and thus get a more thorough understanding of the doctrine than could be had in any other way in the same length of time under favorable opportunity. Reader, what are you doing along this line?

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Bro. A. H. Parsons departs for Clay county, Kansas, to do missionary work.

Bro. I. N. White leaves for St. Louis, Friday morning and will probably be gone until February.

We understand Bro. J. J. Luff has disposed of his candy store to Bro. W. J. Lentel and Fred Schweers.

Sr. Lentel's mother died, the early part of the week, the interment taking place at Rich Hill, Missouri, today, Thursday.

Next Sunday the Century Rally. Let every member be present all day if possible. Elders Joseph Luff, R. May, Ellis Short and G. H. Hulmes will be the speakers at the morning hour, and R. J. Parker, B. J. Scott, E. H. Garrett and the pastor, at the evening hour. Our splendid choir will give us good music between the talks. The afternoon communion service will give the Saints their opportunity to express their views and experiences regarding the work of the past and future.

Last Sunday was a day long to be remembered by the Saints of this place. At the morning hour Bro. Swen Swenson, of El Dorado, Missouri, preached a very profitable sermon on prayer, at the Saints' church, giving much comfort and encouragement. At the afternoon service the lower auditorium was filled, the largest audience being present that has been there at such service for several years, except at conference time. Bro. Frank Ridd and Ammon White were in charge. A number of prayers and testimonies were offered. The Spirit giving words of admonition and encouragement to one brother, through one of the elders; shortly afterwards, through another elder, a sister was given words of comfort, and then the body were spoken to in exhortation to humility and purity of life, avoidance of pride and worldly pleasures which would work the ruination of the Saints; that greater blessings were in store than had yet been realized, but the Saints had hindered their being received because of lack of diligence and preparation. The Saints were exhorted to go to their closets before they came to service, and pray for God's blessing upon the service, and prepare themselves for it, and the Lord would meet them in His house. It was quite a lengthy and forceful manifestation. At its close two of the elders testified to its correctness, they having received the same manifestation. The meeting held for two hours, and was closed when three or four had arisen to speak. Much encouragement was given, and if the Saints are heedful, many other such seasons, exceeding this one in power and strength will be experienced. At night Bro. A. H. Parsons continued his chart sermon on the narrow and broad ways, to a very interested audience.

The Sunday School entertainment, Tuesday evening of last week, was a very successful and enjoyable affair. The main auditorium was tastefully decorated with evergreens, and across the rostrum, besides these festoons of evergreens, there were two signs made, apparently from white sheet cotton, one reading, "Good Tidings," the other in front of the pulpit, "Joy to the World the Lord is Come." A lantern high above all, encased in evergreens, shown through a space made in the form of a star with very pretty effect. The exercises, consisting of recitations, songs, etc., showed careful training and study and were well rendered. The order was excellent, fitting the sacred theme depicted, the birth of the Savior, and the character of the place. We have not the space to particularize in detail, all did well. Sr. Orville James was chorister for Bro. Orville was detained at his store. Srs. W. N. Robinson and Flo McNichols and Bro. Arthur Murphy rendered effective and appreciated assistance in the Christmas songs presented. Sr. Cordie White presided at the organ very acceptably, Sr. Nellie Brocaw assisting occasionally. The audience seemed satisfied and pleased with the entire program.

The annual business meeting of the Sunday School was held Tuesday evening, Superintendent W. N. Robinson and Assistant Superintendent Ammon White presiding, Srs. Flo McNichols and Nellie Brocaw secretaries. Reports of officials were presented and adopted. From the excellent report of the secretary we gather a few of the most interesting items: average attendance for the year, 398 7-10. Including balance on hand January 1, 1900, entire income this year is $492.04; expenses, $311.10; deducting library money we still have a balance of $95.39 on hand; $65.00 was given to building committee; $20.00 donated to fur. care fund, and $8.00 to the sufferers in India. After passing upon bills for expenses of the Christmas entertainment the election of officers for 1901, was reached. Bro. W. N. Robinson and Ammon White asked to be released from being considered as candidates, and it required four ballots to decide to decline the request of Bro. Robinson and Bro. White, and they were both re-elected. Then the rules were suspended and Sr. McNichols, for secretary; Chas. Williamson, for treasurer; Orville James, chorister; Belle James, organist were all elected to succeed themselves. Sr. Lizzie Kelley, librarian, would have shared the same action but declined to serve, the work being more than she could give attention. Bro. Geo. H. Hulmes, Jr., was then elected in her place. Sr. B. C. Smith was also continued as treasurer of library fund. Adjournment was had about 10 o'clock p. m.

A large audience assembled at the Saints' church last Saturday night to hear the testimonies of some of those who were present at a baptism in London, Ontario, on the night of December 29, 1875, when a remarkable and glorious manifestation of heavenly light shone upon the scene during the baptism of two candidates, Sr. R. May (then Sr. Lively), and Sr. Polly Bushnell, daughter of Bro. and Sr. Edgar Harrington. Letters were read from Elder J. J. Cornish, who was the officiating minister on that occasion, Sr. G. E. Harrington, daughter of Bro. and Sr. John Parker, and Apostle R. C. Evans, after which Bro. Wm. Clow and A. C. Dempsey, and Srs. May and Bushnell related their experience on that memorable occasion. Bro. Clow was then a member of the Methodist church and vigorously opposed the Saints. He was joking and making light of the occasion as he accompanied the Saints and others to the baptism, but as Bro. Cornish and Sr. Lively stepped into the water there was a sound of a mighty rushing wind, and a circular shaft of light from heaven enveloped them and illuminated the waters, so that the pebbles on the bottom of the Thames River could be seen and the waves sparkled in the light. At the same time a voice spoke to Bro. Clow, "THESE ARE MY PEOPLE, AND YOU MUST NOT LAUGH AT THEM." The Saints present fell on their knees praising God for the manifestation, the non-members prostrated themselves on their faces, crying unto the Lord to have mercy upon them and forgive them; subsequently every one of them united with the church. As may be imagined these testimonies were very interesting, and owing to the lateness of the hour all did not participate who were present; it was after ten o'clock when the audience was dismissed. A synopsis of the testimonies will be given in the ENSIGN at some future date.

LAMONI, IOWA.

President Joseph Smith occupied the pulpit Sunday morning and Bishop E. L. Kelley in the evening. Sunday School was fairly well attended, and at afternoon prayer service a large number were present. Elder John Smith preached at Saints' Home Sunday evening.

Last Monday evening the Sunday School held their Christmas exercises which were well attended. The program as published by the General Association was carried out, and all did their parts well, even to the smallest. Near the close of the exercises the Christmas offering was taken up, and Bro. G. W. Blair, the superintendent, presented it to Bishop Kelley to be used in spreading the gospel. Bishop Kelley in accepting in behalf of the church reminded the school that the offering was for Jesus, and that Jesus should say how it should be expended.

On Thursday evening, 20th inst., the high school declamation contest was held in auditorium of church, a large audience was present. There were eight contestants, Sr. Laura B. Kelley, daughter of Bishop E. L. Kelley won first place. Her recitation, "Laddie," was not only an excellent piece but was excellently rendered. Srs. Nina Greenawalt, Clara Lambert and Bro. Edmund Howard won places of distinction.

Sr. Ruth Smith's elocutionary class, consisting of forty pupils, gave a closing recital on the 13th inst. The young ladies acquitted themselves creditably and showed good work for but one term of training. A number of beautiful tableaux were given near the close; the most beautiful of all was "Madonna and Child."

The annual election of officers for the Sunday School occurred on Thursday night; the following were chosen: superintendent, D. J. Kral; assistant superintendent, Sr. Flora L. Scott; secretary, Ed Mader; treasurer, Anna Allen; librarian, James Jones; chorister, B. M. Anderson; organist, May White.

Bro. and Sr. Wellington Johnson and family, of St. Joseph, Missouri, are spending a few days here with relatives and friends.

Elder Eli Hayer has returned home from the missionary field for a short time.

Bro. Moroni Shippy and Sr. Eva Harp were united in marriage Sunday evening, at the home of the bride's parents, Bro. and Sr. John Harp. The ceremony was performed by the father of the bride in the presence of twenty-six guests. The attendants were Sr. Zelta Braubrooks and Ed Harp. A wedding supper was served, and some very handsome presents were received. The young couple leave Wednesday morning for their future home at Randall, Fayette county, Iowa.

Bro. Charles H. Lake, of Boston, son of Elder J. H. Lake, arrived today to assume his duties as assistant business manager of Herald office. Sr. Lake will follow in the spring.

Elder Geo. W. Thorburn, our Dakota missionary, surprised Sr. Alice by dropping in just before Christmas to spend the holidays at home.

G. L. K.

December 31.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lung Mission, 811 Cottage Grove Ave. 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 116th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Our rally meeting was quite successful in attendance and spirit. The Sunday School was large and interesting. The three o'clock sermon was well received, the theme being the "building up of Zion," by Bro. F. M. Cooper, an able exposition on the subject. Bro. S. C. Good was in charge of the meeting. The singing was good under the management of Bro. F. M. Pitt, the chorister. The Religio was an interesting review of Alma 1, with a reading by Sr. Mamie Penney, and appropriate song. The concluding sermon was by the writer on "Consider your ways," Haggal 1:7.

Bro. Charles Lake, son of our beloved J. H. Lake, enjoyed the meetings yesterday. He was en route from Boston and Kirtland to Lamoni, where he thinks to locate. Bro. Haines was up from Aurora and helped in our services by his good hearted presence.

A grand and happy reception is expected for the new year in the union services for the first Sunday. There will be preaching at 11 o'clock, a union Sabbath School at 1:30 in charge of Bro. J. Harris and F. M. Pitt. At the close of the school will occur the baptism of three precious lambs—Zella, Mable and Pansey Bushweit, members of the Hope of Israel Sunday School. In honor of this the school voted to suspend the session for next Sunday and attend the baptism which will be at 3411 Cottage Grove avenue, at or about 2:30 p. m. At three o'clock will commence the sacrament, social and confirmation meeting to continue for two and one-fourth hours, with preaching at night; also preaching at night at 716 Van Buren street, the only service there for next Sabbath. Let all come with earnest hearts, fervent prayer and short, spirited testimonies, and let us make this a memorable meeting.

Bro. F. G. Pitt is expected in the city soon, and no doubt will be with us over the coming Sabbath to aid us in our services.

The entertainments at West Pullman, Lang mission and at 716 Van Buren street, respectively, were all pronounced good. We were privileged to attend two of them, and was pleased with the appropriate sacred sentiment. It required much hard work on the part of the committees, but success crowned their efforts.

Bro. F. M. Pitt is preparing a program for the coming Sabbath School convention to be held at Sandwich some time in February; he wants to make it a great success and wishes the hearty co operation of all who can help.

With a happy and prosperous new year for all, and a decided advancement in the important work, I am still in the conflict and love of the work.

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Dec. 31.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 8 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Zion's Religio-Literary Society Friday evening.

Our summer weather has caught a fearful cold. It snowed Wednesday night and nearly all day Thursday. The thermometer marked two below zero Friday morning. Saturday was bright and warm, and most of the snow was gone against night. Snowed all day Sunday with a cold wave.

The Sunday School Christmas entertainment Monday evening was well carried out to a full house.

Sr. Roush came near presenting J. B. with a son for a Christmas present—born Wednesday.

Bro. Samuel Platt is lying very sick with little hope of recovery; he has cancer of the face.

Sr. Schmutz has sold out her rooming house and with Bro. Schmutz will make her home with their daughter, Sr. M. E. Everett, 2809 Welton street.

Annual branch business meeting Monday night, the 31st, and a watch meeting after to welcome the dawn of the 20th century.

Elder J. B. Roush addressed the Sunday morning congregation on Priesthood; his sermon was very interesting.

Sunday School officers were elected at the School session; the old officers were re-elected except secretary and treasurer, Sr. Ada Powers to the former, and Sr. Ella Brannar to the latter office.

Bro. Sam Brannar left for Graceland, Monday. S.

DECEMBER 31.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

Sunday, the 16th, came in with heavy rain, there was a continual downpour all the forenoon, but regardless of that there was a good congregation of Saints at the 11 o'clock service; Elder A. Haws the speaker and was attentively listened to.

At 7:30 Elder J. M. Saxe addressed the Saints and quite a number of friends. There were more strangers out to hear than we have had for a long time, a number of young men being among them; all listened with interest, and good seed was sown. Bro. Johnson, a young man from the Lang mission, Chicago, worshipped with us.

Last Sunday Bishop C. A. Parkin was our speaker at 11 a. m., he also went to Oakland and preached at 8 p. m.; John M. Saxe spoke at Oakland at 11 o'clock, Albert Haws went to Stockton and dispensed the word of truth there, Fred A. Blair was the speaker at Santa Rosa; your correspondent preached at Berkeley at 11 a. m. and here at 7:30 p. m. A number of interested strangers were present in the evening. Is not this a pretty good showing for local work? Bro. Haws and other are also putting in spare time among the different missions and other sectarian meetings of our city, where they manage to speak a few words for our cause. We are not very idle in San Francisco.

We had a fine Christmas tree entertainment Friday evening; all the program was furnished by the Sunday School children, and a very enjoyable time was had.

A good, peaceful spirit was present at our Wednesday evening prayer meeting, and a number of prayers and testimonies were offered.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

December 24.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Missouri. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

ROCKY FORD, Colo., Dec. 16.

Editor Ensign:—I promised a number of my friends and brethren here I left Independence that when I got settled I would write and tell them something of the country and climate and its benefits to my health. As many know I have suffered severely for the last eighteen years with the asthma. I got so bad that I had to leave Missouri and seek a higher and dryer climate. I am happy to say that I am not bothered with that dread disease out here, but have good health and feel twenty years younger than I did in Missouri.

I have lived here at different times for over two years and while here always well, but just as soon as I go back to Missouri or any lower altitude then I suffer just as before. My wife and I have traveled one thousand miles up and down these mountains and valleys to satisfy ourselves as to the best place to locate for health and to farm. Have been in Denver, Greeley, Boulder, Canon City, Pueblo, Rocky Ford and many other places. And after a careful examination and going over some of the ground the second time to satisfy ourselves have decided that Rocky Ford, taken all in all, is the best place to make a home.

Now as many have asked me of this place I will try to describe it. Rocky Ford is a railroad town of about 3,000 inhabitants. In the valley of the Arkansas river. It is situated 50 miles east of Pueblo and about 180 miles south and a little east of Denver. It is the home of the famous "Rocky Ford Cantaloupe," where hundreds of carloads are shipped to various cities of the United States. This valley is about eight miles wide here and is noted for its fertility. All kinds of grain is raised successfully and the alfalfa hay crop is fine, cutting three and often four crops a year, with good home market for it, as there are thousands of heads of sheep and cattle fed here and the farmers find it very profitable.

Besides general farming and stock raising it is an excellent country for raising the sugar beet. A sugar factory was built in Rocky Ford this last year costing $1,000,000. About 8,000 acres of beets were raised by the farmers of the valley, which proved very profitable. I have talked with a number of the farmers and they say where the beets are a good stand and are properly cultivated on good ground, have brought $100 per acre this last year.

We get a five year contract from the sugar factory averaging $5.00 per ton, so there is no competition or changing of price for five years, but bring your beets to the factory, just all you can raise, and get your money. One man can cultivate twenty acres by getting some help to thin out in the spring and to help harvest in the fall; begin about the first of October to gather the crop. The average crop is twenty to twenty-two tons. But some this year went as high as forty-five tons to the acre.

The farmers also raise watermelons and the famous Rocky Ford cantaloupe, 500 carloads were shipped from Rocky Ford this year, all bringing good prices ranging from $70 to $125 per acre this year. The land is raising fast in price since the sugar factory has been located here. The factory will be enlarged next year and they want 16,000 acres of beets or just all they can get. The beets have tested very high here, reaching as high as 20 per cent sugar. When it reaches 25 per cent we get $7.00 per ton.

This is a fine place for a man with a large family, as children can be of great help in beet raising and get good wages. Land rents from $25 to $150 per acre according to how close to town and implements, etc.

This is called "Sunny Colorado" because it is so dry and almost always clear and very bright. The land is all under irrigation and generally plenty of water from the mountains. The water is either rented from the ditch company each year or bought by the farmer and owned by deed just as his land. Most all own the water they use.

This is a very healthy climate especially for any lung or throat trouble, the altitude being 4,000 feet above the sea level. It is also a fine fruit country and many of the finest orchards I ever saw anywhere are seen here.

The factory here grinds 1,000 tons of beets per day and put out over 100 tons of very fine sugar per day. Much more could be written, but I will forbear at present.

We have a few Saints here and hope soon that enough will come in here and those of the world here be converted so we can soon organize a branch. Bro. Duacan and Hanson have been preaching here and made good impressions, and I expect to follow it up as far and wide as I can.

Now if there are any who wish to come this way to locate and are willing to work and try to live as Saints should so we can build up the cause here, we will gladly answer any question we can if you write us, enclosing stamps for reply. Plenty of good schools and society as good as found anywhere I have ever traveled. I believe this a good place for the poor Saints to get a start if they are industrious and careful, will find favor with the people. The beet company are anxious for people to come in here and cut up these large farms so as to have more beets raised. The company owns 16,000 acres of land and are renting a good deal of it where they can find good farmers.

Yours for the truth,

W. T. BOZART.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Dec. 11.

Editor Zion's Ensign:—Again I come begging a little space to say a word about the Sunday School normal exercises, held at Underwood, last Sunday. The attendance was not as large as it should have been, but the interest was good. Bro. T. A. Hougas was expected to be present, but from some cause failed to come; however, Bro. J. F. Minton was present, also Bro. Charles Fry, who is a host in Sunday School work. The two brethren named took charge alternately in presenting the different features of the work, illustrating every phase of the work in a plain and simple way.

Saturday night an interesting entertainment was given, consisting of readings, recitations, and music. Sunday afternoon Bro. Minton addressed the School on the general features of the work in a very able manner. Bro. Fry also gave much good advice and instruction during the session.

Sunday night a special round table exercise was held, during which some of the most important features of the work was discussed. Among other things came the question as to the best means to induce parents to take an interest in Sunday School work. This seems to be one of the most serious problems to solve. Many parents seem to think that their duty ends when the little ones are off to Sunday School, and some parents start home the moment church service is over, and meet their children at the door coming to school. If the Sunday School is of divine appointment (and we believe it is), then it is equally as important as any other service. It looks strange to see a Sunday School in a large branch with scarcely enough adults to teach the classes, and only from six to ten in the Bible class. And what is true of the Sunday School is also true in regard to the prayer and communion service, only the matter is reversed, the parents attend and the children are left at home. Some bring their children, but it is the exception and not the rule.

I now ask, Should not the children, especially the elder ones, attend the communion service? Is it not important that they should partake of the emblems and be taught to love and respect this sacred ordinance? What are the best means to be adopted to induce parents to take an interest in this work as they should? Let us hear from others.

Last Sunday we had Bro. E. L. Kelley and I. M. Smith with us, and they occupied the morning and evening hours to the edification of all. Bro. Kelley was here to take an old Saint to the Home, from St. Bernard hospital. We are making an effort to start a mission in the southern part of the city. Bro. Roberts and Madison, of the local force, held service Sunday, at 3 o'clock, in a private house.

The wife of Bro. J. P. Christensen is low with consumption. Bro. Smith, Kelley and the writer ministered to her Monday. Pray for her. As ever,

Yours in Christ,

J. S. STRAIN.

DENISON, Ia., Nov. 15.

Editor Ensign:—I think I can spend my time no better than visiting with my brothers and sisters, for I love the association of the Saints best of all people, and enjoy spending my evenings with them; though I may be thousands of miles away from some of them we can visit through your columns.

We Saints of this place, or some of us sisters have a Home Class Religio, and think some of starting a local, and if we do, perhaps we can get the rest interested and join with us. It is hard for Saints isolated as we are, to live as we should, without some kind of a meeting to keep us in activity—at work for the cause in some way. We had better not be called a Latter Day Saint than to sit idly down and watch others do beyond their power, for the upbuilding of the kingdom of God, and when asked what you can do, reply, "nothing, I am busy with the world and worldly things;" another will say I have done my part years ago; and one has one excuse and one another. Now, dear Saints, let us not be thus, let us be up and doing; let worldly pleasures go and enjoy the pleasures of the Lord throughout eternity, and let us remember we can never finish our work till the Master calls us home.

I was calling on a friend the other evening and was invited to stay and attend a ward social which was to be at their home at eight o'clock that evening. I stayed and all went well until the minister began to tell of how their church—the M. E.—was decreasing, and they could not think why it was; he says the church all over the country is decreasing, and some say it is lack of faith; some, just a dropping off; and he says I do not know what to think of it. He prayed that we might all meet in mansions in the skies. I think some of them told him of what church I was a member, for he did not treat me so cordially as at first. I thought, while sitting there listening to them talk and pray, How glad I am that I am one of another flock—of the chosen flock of God—and that I am on a more solid foundation, one that has no fear of the raging storms, but is firm in the truth and in the light of God as restored to earth in the last days.

Bro. C. E. Butterworth has been here lately and preached two evenings in our house to quite a good number, mostly those out of the church. We are looking for another elder here before long to preach to us.

Will say God bless and protect His people wherever they may be, on the land, or on the waters of the sea, and in foreign lands; may His watchful eye be over us and bring us through conquerors at last, and will be especially bless the young of His church, and keep and guard them through the trials of life; may we ever be steadfast and true to the cause we love so well, is the prayer of

Your sister in the one true faith,
Miss EDITH MONTGOMERY.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence Mo., as Second Class Matter.

THE GATHERING.

Sermon delivered by President Joseph Smith, at Lamoni, Iowa, Tuesday, April 17, 1900.

I think it may be possible that I might not throw as much light upon this subject as some might wish, but I have been a quiet, though not indifferent, spectator of what has been said and what has been written upon the subject of the gathering and consecration of the people and redemption of Zion. I am not going tonight to present to you a long line of texts from the Book of Mormon and from the Doctrine and Covenants, but I purpose to look at the situation as I see it, present some things as I understand them, and express some views in regard to these topics that may possibly be suggestive of some thought with the great majority of you.

I believe that none of us question but what there are conditions existing in society that need remedying. The question is, What is the remedy? How shall it be applied? I do not believe the oft repeated statement that "the rich are growing richer, and the poor poorer" all the time, in this country. My experience disproves this axiom. While there are many who are growing rich, there are many poor who are reaching comfort, able circumstances by their own exertion, by taking advantage of their own energies and improving the conditions which are presented to them from time to time. There is a class of poor men who are standing still, and possibly may be growing poorer in this condition while their energies are wasting and their opportunities are passing away, but we have been taught from the first that the gospel was to be preached to the poor, and that the poor in spirit were to be blessed by being rich in faith though we might be poor in this world's goods. I believe it has passed into an axiom somewhat among these Latter Day Saints that the people of God are poor as a class; that it is made up of humble or working classes, the real every-day nerve and sinew of the country.

I know of no process by which every man may be made rich in this world's goods. There is no process revealed in detail for the accomplishment of this purpose. There are commandments existing touching the gathering, touching the consecration of the properties of the people, touching what is commonly called "all things common;" but there are no specified details as to how any one of these particularly mentioned systems or schemes may be carried into execution under present conditions. If anybody knows of any such revelation or any such commandment, I am a patient listener, anxious for the delivery of the people, and I will gladly welcome the reception of this plan.

When the people were driven from Missouri in 1833 to 1838, when they were driven from the place which God had set for the gathering of His people, the final establishment of the reign of Christ on this land so far as the building of a temple was concerned, they went out from that land with a great deal of sorrow, a great deal of grief; and I am talking to some men who were boys then, who were driven out of that land, and there possibly may be some old men and women present who went out from that land. At the time they were commanded to go in there, land could be bought for $1.25 and $2.50 per acre, and today the same lands cannot be bought for less than from $25.00 to $1,000 per acre, and instead of its being a wilderness, open to the settlement of the people, under the benign influences of Uncle Samuel, those lands are held by individuals, and by syndicates, and by people who acquired title to them according to the laws of the United States. And as the redemption of Zion is to be accomplished by purchase, if the people are to be blessed, every man who presumes to think he can obtain a residence there, or habitation there, I do not care how holy he may be, he must acquire that in accordance with the declaration, by purchase or by blood; and it by blood, then his enemies are upon him, and he "shall be scourged from city to city, and from synagogue to synagogue." If there are any of my brethren who like that kind of a scourging, they are completely welcome to it, but I am not bidding for that kind of a scourging.

I propose to seek for the blessing of God in the way appointed by Himself, if I can discover that way, and until He shall, in His divine wisdom, reveal further directions upon which we can agree and settle our convictions, and act in accordance with them, I am under obligation to take those things that I find in the Book of Doctrine and Covenants given to us for guidance to this people—myself with them—and using the wisdom that He will give me, proceed upon the courses that are there pointed out as straightforward directions for the accomplishment of this purpose.

A standing objection to us as a people is that we are not gathering; but I began to carry into effect the language of one of the revelations that the gathering into the regions round about was to be accomplished by the advice and with the counsel of the elders, since 1834; notwithstanding, some of the brethren were under the impression and taught the principle that we could not gather into the regions round about until it had been swept with the besom of God's wrath and the inhabitants driven out from there and the land cleared for our occupation. The besom of wrath has not swept that country in that sense, but He has fostered the gentiles, to use the expression, and permitted them to enter in and occupy where the Saints might have occupied in the days that are passed, if they had observed the commandments which God gave them at the time.

It is not wise for us to repeat a similar experiment to that. He has told us, in what is called the "Fishing River" revelation, given to those people being driven out from that land, what they should do in reference to it, and told them at the same time, that if they did as He told them, they should find favor in the eyes of the people while they were saying, "Redress us of our grievances," etc. Now, I ask the question, Is that revelation in vogue? Is it in force for us? No other place has been appointed in all the land that we know anything about, by the divine commandment of God. If we say that Nauvoo was intended as a resting place for Saints, it was one into which they were forced by their enemies; and if they were accepted, and it was established as a stake, it was a matter of necessity; God permitted them to attempt the building of a temple, but they never finished it. Bro. J. W. Brackenbury, my brother, Alexander Smith, and myself, as boys, have played over that temple when it was not finished, and after it had been left by the Saints when they were driven out from there; and not one stone has been left upon another as the original workmen placed it, as a sign of God's indignation against the things that were in there, and prevented the people from becoming holy. I know whereof I speak.

If we shall take this revelation at its value, move quietly forward in the direction that is there pointed out, then the economies which are to follow a successful gathering will necessarily obtain. Mark what I say. But if we undertake to accomplish some great thing as some have thought we should do, in the condition that many of us are, how much do you think we can really accomplish in that time? Take myself as an instance of the average position of the Latter Day Saint; I have a little piece of land with a house standing upon it; I have a temporary abiding place therein; everything I have, my service and all, are at the command of God; I have twice made a schedule and placed it in the hands of the Bishop and asked him to execute to me a proper and correct document or paper that would show upon record that I had tried to comply with the commandment of God. How many have done that? I am not boasting of it, but simply to tell you my own conception of the thought; and I haven't been very busy airing my views of the gathering in the Herald or elsewhere, as you are aware. While other elders have preached it by tongue and by pen, I have been trying, in my way, to carry it into execution; in a small way, it is true, but to give that advice that sooner or later, if followed, will reach the design and accomplishment which is thought to be so good.

They were to carefully gather together into the regions round about. I have been asked the question, What does that term "regions round about" mean? I cannot tell just how far from Independence the outskirts of that line would be. The place where we now stand was in the line of Missouri and not until lately did they put it into Iowa. But I give it as my understanding that any person who is within twenty-four hours ride, the quickest way that he can get there, I don't care whether it is by ox team, whether it is by horse team, whether it is by bicycle, or whether he rides the telephone or telegraph, if he can get there within twenty-four hours, I am of the opinion that he is within the confines of the regions round about.

I will give you some reasons for that. We now number by the Recorder's report, some forty-five thousand people. The city of St. Joseph has a population of fifty-five thousand; the city of Chicago has nearly two millions of people. You take these people and put them altogether, forty-five thousand of them into one city, and give them the entire control of it, and there is not material enough, there is not money enough to make a city like the city of St. Joseph. I am stating a plain, every-day common sense fact. We are a diversified people. We have dentists enough to pull all the teeth that forty-five thousand people could ever use, with a view to setting them up in business. We have blacksmiths enough to shoe all the horses that the Latter Day Saints ever owned; we have machinists enough to drive all the machinery that would give forty-five thousand people employment, but have not the machines.

We have hundreds of coal miners—we would have to have coal fields for them to occupy; we have thousands of farmers, we'd have to have farms for them to occupy; we have some men who sell wood and coal, we'd have to have a place for them to work. We have printers enough to print all the literature that the church has used for the last forty years, or will use in the next one hundred years. Now, for all these to get together in a heterogenous mass, is but to invite disaster, and I'm not prepared for that kind of work.

There is a nucleus formed, and when I first came into this region of country in 1871, I rode a horse over from Pleasanton here all across this valley, and rode through the blue joint grass knee deep into this place. All these trees that you people see here were all planted by Latter Day Saints after they came here. There was not a stick of wood on these prairies. At that time it was quite a journey between here and Independence, and but few stopping places. Some one asked me the question, What are we going to do in reference to these people that are between here and Independence? What are we going to do with the inhabitants in Missouri? I stated, You had better convert them; that is the way to change the population; and I uttered a little prophecy in the Grove school-house, where the Evergreen church stands, and told the people in the presence of some that are now here, that I would guarantee that it would not be a great many years, and I expected to live long enough to see it, when a Latter Day Saint might start from here on foot and eat every meal, and sleep every night, in the house of a Latter Day Saint, and he can pretty nearly do that now.

I told the people up yonder at Preparation, and at Galland's Grove, and at Little Sioux and around about the region of Magnolia, all Latter Day Saints, to secure all the land they could honestly; and I am thankful that right before me is a man who now lives at Henderson, who will remember it; I told them about investing in all the land they could cover; but they said the boy didn't know what he was talking about. Much of the land that I told them to fasten upon at one time could have been bought cheap. The locality where the city of Missouri Valley now stands, could have been bought for a horse and saddle and sixty-four dollars in cash, and now the railroad town of Missouri Valley stands there—but I did not understand the gathering so some of them said.

There was at Manti a class of as good people as ever the sun shone on; honest, upright people, the children of some of whom are here tonight; they were so impressed with the thought that they were soon to be gathered to Zion, that they would hear the tocsin sound and the angel of God bidding them to their tents, O Israel, that for years they kept their boots and their covered wagons and their tents all ready; refused to become proper owners as well as occupants of the soil, because they did not want to leave anything behind them when they went to Zion. The consequence was, if the angel had blown his horn, they would have started off post haste to go to Zion, and yet would have had nothing when they got there; and yet they believed there is to be a temple built there, grand in its character, its towers and turrets to be glittering with gold, if we believe the statements of the traditional teachings of the church. And yet we are to go there as a people so poor that we cannot build a common school-house and maintain it; and caviel over the establishment of a seat of learning here in this town costing the pitiful sum of nineteen thousand dollars and a little over.

Now, I will tell you what I think about it. Every man and every woman that wants to go into the confines of what is called "Zion" may do so upon the exercise of three pieces of good, common sense, foresight maintained, by the revelation of God; and that is to prepare himself before he goes for two things; to maintain himself if he can in temporal things, and to maintain himself in spiritual unity with Christ, the Lord, and in friendship with the people among whom he moves, as an upright, honorable man. If he will observe those things he will not fail; but if he goes in there as a spiritual enthusiast and breathes out threatenings and slaughter against the people who live there, he is preaching sorrow to himself and trouble to his brethren. There is no use of that.

I am prepared personally to do as I advise every man to do, but it seems to me if we are to carefully gather together in one region as much as possible, consistent with the feelings of the people, and observing that other portion of this commandment, talking not of mighty faith, boasting not of mighty works, but carefully gathering together, observing the laws of God and the laws of the land, I believe that men can go into that region of country and build their homes and drive the stakes of their boundaries, establish their hearth-stones and erect their roof-trees and stay there, they and their posterity, until the angel shall sound with his horn that time shall be no more, or until Jesus comes and personally superintends the winding up of all this dispensation of the gathering that shall be, the one great gathering.

It will be impossible in a city of forty-five thousand to give every man a corner lot with its face toward the temple and bordering on the square. I'd like to see the mathematician that can do that. If he is present and can speak, I will give way for him. I don't want you to expect it of me, because I cannot. There was a brother offered me a fifty foot lot there for twenty-five hundred dollars, and I told him I could not buy enough of it to place a hen coop on it. I asked him what I should do if I went there. "Live on it." Live on what? "Why, on the lot." I confess I could not do that, and work for the church and the Herald office.

Now, my brethren, I think that we should exercise some degree of good common sense as well as to pay heed to the revelations; and I have some here that, it seems to me, it would be well enough for us to look after a little bit. This revelation, given on Fishing river, is one of them. Let us see; a little later in this revelation, if my memory serves me right, it speaks of what is called, I suppose, the redemption of Zion, and it says, "But first let her armies become very great." How big an army is forty-five thousand men? Lord Roberts has somewhere near two hundred thousand men in his command, and lo and behold, he has not whipped the Boers yet. It is to be a spiritual army. How great a spiritual army have we? Take the whole mass of Latter Day Saints, of every degree of faith—and I speak with reference to those in Utah, and those here and from every branch—men, women and children, communicants in the church, and they will hardly make three hundred and fifty thousand. Not a quarter of as many people as now make the city of Chicago; and when that wonderful city is to be established, if this work that we are engaged in is to prosper, as we anticipate it shall be for the accomplishment of the redemption of mankind and the bringing of them into relationship of the gospel economy through the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ, there will be more than three hundred and fifty thousand of the army—a great many more.

How large a territory would it take? Giving every man a room, giving every man employment, giving every man a business, how large a territory would it take? Let us be consistent. There are seventy-five millions of people in the United States—I do not know just what proportion there are in Missouri and Iowa, but there is a great many less than that. Iowa is fast filling up, so is Missouri fast filling up, and around those centers there will have to be exercised a great deal of care and ingenuity; and now the Lord says about those people gathering there, that they must do it as they are led by the counsel of the elders of the church. Well, what elders? By some of the pieces that we have read in the Herald, by some of the speeches that have been made, the leading elders of the church have been charged with being derelict in duty because they did not take the lead in this thing. I plead guilty for one; that one of the reasons that I have not taken the lead in some things that have been presented, was because I could not see the result that was to follow the teachings that had been given. I could not see that it could possibly be a success.

This place where we are now sitting was instituted and located by what was known as the Order of Enoch. I was one of the prime movers in that Order of Enoch, the prime originator of it, not the man who furnished the money, because I did not have it; but with Bro. E. Banta and Israel Rogers, David Dancer and Calvin A. Beebe, we tried our best to get fifty thousand dollars, reached a little over forty thousand and had to stop there. We did it by virtue of an order of the conference. We said the time had come for the seeking out a place to gather for the people. They succeeded in getting something over forty thousand dollars, a little over. They came down here and bought up a good deal of land, and just as soon as they began to do that, there was unkind talk about speculation, etc., until my heart was grieved and my feeling was disgusted, and they then began to hamper them by spiritual suspicion and by a representation of it that was calculated to hurt the more, and that was, to speak lightly of it. I heard a complaint that Bro. David Dancer speculated when he bought this land: but I know that he and Bro. E. Banta bought corn and paid fifty cents a bushel for it that those who cried speculation might be paid for their labor; they fed that corn to cattle and hogs which they sent to Chicago to sell. The two lost fifteen hundred dollars on the deal, yet made no complaint; some of them had Dancer's money in their pockets while they were crying "speculation" against him, and I knew it.

And when he laid out this portion of the country into lots, it was "speculation," "speculation," cutting off the streets and charging so much for the lots, and he was getting rich over it. David Dancer's riches came from another source, and he gave this land on which this church stands, put his hands down in his pockets and furnished over three thousand dollars of the money that went into this house, and stood the brunt of the church in its building this house of worship. I do not speak of it because he is a rich man, or because he was my friend. I speak of it because it was a solemn fact—it showed the interest that the man had in his brethren.

Now that "Order of Enoch" was in accordance with law. It was in accordance with the law and the revelations that govern the organization of the Order of Enoch, and was called the First United Order of Enoch. If it had met with proper response from the people, it might have been followed by the United Orders of Enoch, first to twentieth, or twenty-fifth, or fifty of them, or organizations of a similar kind; and before this we would have had the wheels and spindles running by the people; but can men who undertook this work and are met with that kind of response, can they continue to do it and retain heart? No, they cannot; it is impossible.

Bro. William Criel is a young man that came to this country with the Herald office. He went from here to Independence. He learned the foundry business, the iron worker's part, in the town of Plano, as a young man. Now that man is employing a number of men, running a machine shop of some kind. I intend to go and look at it when I go down there, and see what it is. He has lately been elected one of the councilmen of the city of Independence. Why not take that as an example and do likewise? Would it hurt anybody?

Again, one brother some years ago, asked me what I thought he had better do. He was a man of some means. I advised him to go down into that region of country and buy land, buy all that he could reasonably get; and when he had done it, then go to work and settle honest, upright men on the land, either selling them or renting them the land at the proper percentage of their earnings and helping them to pay for the land by giving proper advice in regard to it. He went there and bought property, and, as soon as the lands began to boom up there, and he got a little wealthy and well off, he began to buy cattle and one thing and another, and pretty soon he died and left his property to go to ruin and his family likewise. He is now dead. If he had done what he was advised to do, I have confidence in believing that the man would have lived and have been a benefactor to many people.

There was another man I advised to set apart some of his money that he could just as well as not; but he did not do it, and he managed to put some forty-five or fifty thousand dollars away in a losing speculation and in the last years of his life was unfortunate enough to lose nearly the whole of it; but like the honest man that he was, paid his obligations though it might have taken the last of his property.

Now, my advice to the Latter Day Saints touching the gathering, is this, and it will be a plain, common sense operation, too: Individuals who are doing well where they are, unless there is some direct commandment comes to them to arise and go up into the hill of Zion, let them stay right where they are doing well, and if they have any excess of means and want to use it for this development of the redemption of Zion, let them go into the regions round about and pursue this policy, and they are sure to be blessed. Purchase lands in eligible positions, and if they have the wisdom to direct the affairs of the people who may become associated with them, then rent them the land, or sell them the land, but do not give it to them; sell them the land and help them to pay for it by good advice. See to it that they make proper use of their energies, conserve their strength in such a way that they may be benefited by it, by advising them and standing by them that are worthy, and not become a help to them that are unworthy to be wasting of their means. In that way they can accomplish good.

But how about this gathering and having all things common? Well, I confess I don't understand it exactly. I don't know of anybody that does. It seems like we get into difficulty, and get farther away every time we begin to talk about this "all things common" and this equality. Now, what is it to be equal? I am making no complaint of my temporal affairs. We are not all alike equal in spiritual things, how can we be? One man is called unto one work and one office, and another man is called unto another work and another office. There is just as much equality between that as there is in the duties devolving upon them, or the responsibility upon each if they magnify what they hold, and there is more or less of inequality in the demands made upon us. I am not a seventy, I am not one of the quorum of apostles, but in my place I am an apostle. I am one sent, one who has the watch-care over the missionary field. An high priest, of those that may be needed in a local organization. I am a seventy, I am a deacon, for I am sent to look after the house of God, if need requires, after every one. To every one in his own office there is given according to the place that each is called upon to occupy, and it is a mistake to say that they cannot have the spirit of their office and calling upon them, and to exercise the wisdom that belongs therewith in every move that they make. I am not going to say that they are infallible, or that I am infallible, but I do say that in the position to which men are called they should be respected; and if it is their business to give advice, they should be heeded; if it is not their place to give advice, then it should not be paid any attention to.

We cannot go into that region of country around Independence and buy the farms and settle up the land like we could when there was no people there, nor when land was selling for $1.25 an acre. Now, why should it be proper to expect of me or anyone else to do that? Why should it be? "Oh," says someone, "God never commands a people to do what they cannot do, and he has commanded us to do that." We will admit that He has; that He has commanded us to buy all the land we could between Independence and the Kaw river, between the border of the Jew and gentile. Where is that border? The Wyandotte Reservation, which is just on the other side of the Kaw, the mouth of the Kaw river. There are fifty thousand gentiles, lots of those there. How many Indians are there? Not many gentiles were there at the time the command was given, you could look over the land across the Blue, and you could see quite a region of country, and it is just as nice a country as ever lay out of doors. And really, whenever I go there, my heart warms and I think I'd like to live there. I am coming down there and I am going to live while I am there just as long as I can, but that doesn't say that I am going to make a settlement there; I do not know how I can. Now this comes to mind: if we are to keep that commandment as it was then given, we have to acquire just a little land and just as much land as we can by purchase. Who is going to do that? Really, brethren, you don't expect me to buy land for you there? No. Do you, really, any of you? I have not the money and I do not control the church finances. We have had an evidence of that today. I do not have my hand in the public crib to deal out the moneys as they may be gathered in there; I do not have the right to do it, and do you know, I am glad of it, because when you get up over yonder you may be able to testify that I have been a prophet to you but never that I said I was profitable to you; but I am going to try to take care that you shall never be able to testify truly that I have been unprofitable to you in the temporal things of this life. I want to see the gathering, but I want to see it take place in such a way that it shall be effective. And not only that, but that it shall not fall to pieces of its own weight, disintegrate by its own want of cohesion.

I happened to be down in Missouri there when that boom was going on at Kansas City and Independence. I looked around about me with my spiritual eyes, literally astonished. I saw men, whom I thought were good business men, and they were just as crazy as bed-bugs, in the land speculation. I use that homely phrase to force it upon your attention. I never saw a crazier set of men in my life. I said to them: "Brethren, if you have any confidence in me, in what I say, get out from under this; it is going to fall; it is a boom; it is going to strike somebody when it does fall and it is going to smash some people." One of them took me by the arm and says, "Brother Joseph, you must not talk that way, it discourages our people; it discourages emigration; your influence is of such a character that you will injure our trade;" and they almost wrung their hands to keep me from it. One brother was offered seventeen thousand and five hundred dollars for a twenty acre piece of ground. I begged him to take it; but he wouldn't. Have you ever got that offer since? No. Twenty acres of as nice land as lies north of Independence, between that and the Missouri River. No, sir, he was going to have twenty thousand dollars for that piece of land.

I saw six or eight real estate agents gathered around Bro. Mayo's door a few months later and they were a dubious looking set. I said, "What's the matter with you men, you look sorry?" One of them says, "We are, that's the truth." "Oh," I says, "Here a little while ago when I talked about your boom here and told you I could buy the property which you were offering me then at such large prices, in a short time, for the one-third or one-half of it, you wouldn't believe me." One of them steps up and says, "We'll be glad to sell for one-fifth." I says, "How many are there of you here, you real estate men?" Thirteen. You making a hundred dollars a month? One of them says, "The whole dozen of us are not making that." What was the trouble? They calculated that somebody was going to be wild enough to come in there and purchase the land that others had purchased at a speculation, and pay fabulous prices for it; but I inquired where the people were coming from, and I thought that the Latter Day Saints were not sufficiently numerous to buy all that land and build up that city in that kind of a way, and I did not think they were foolish enough to do it, even if there were enough of them. I hope they have had time to get wiser since then.

I refer to that for this reason: we must face the situations as they are. We must accept the conditions under which we are to labor just as they exist. It is folly for us to pass them over, and to try to exercise faith within the people, to lift the clouds when they cannot even find a foot-place to stand while they are doing it. I have looked at this question a long time. There is not a man among you who has tried harder to become acquainted with these communionism ideas and their application, than I have; not a man in the Latter Day Church who has tried harder to arrive at just conclusions, concerning the amelioration of the poor and the establishment of such conditions that they would all be enabled to live and grow happy and comfortable; but I cannot find the working details of it in such a way; and it is not revealed to us in such a way that we can take it up and write it down; if it was, then there would not be such a diversity of opinions as there are, surely.

Am I justified in that conclusion? There is a number present who I believe have tried, in the city of Denver, to get at some solution of the economic question. Did they accomplish it? No, they met with failure. I do not know in the world a real successful communistic association with one possible exception. In the south of France there is a model institution controlled by two or three men; it is limited in its character and confined to a specific kind of manufacture. There is the Krupp Gun Manufacturing Company, over in Germany, that employs a great many thousand people. They are manufacturing the means by which to kill people and Krupp and his relatives are growing rich over it. There is a community in the northern part of this state that is not a successful community. There are the facts in the case. That community in the Amana society is now composed of aged or middle-aged individuals. The relative proportion of individual production is as two fifty are to two seventy-five. Two hundred and fifty in the community and two hundred and seventy-five in the state at large. It has a great many acres of land, and it has to hire outside workmen to run the land and work. The men and women have grown old, and it has no accretion of young people—a communal community. I would be pleased if some of you elders should go there and try and discover what that principle is, and if you have to stay there two or three months and preach to the people, wouldn't it be a sensible thing to do? I think so.

Returning again: this army is to become very great and a certain thing is to be accomplished when it does become great. I am afraid I am getting so blind I won't be able to see that kind of a kingdom when it comes. "Firstly let my armies become very great, and let it be sanctified before me, that it may become fair as the sun and clear as the moon and that her banners may be terrible unto all nations." Brethren, we have got a little growth yet to make; "That the kingdoms of this world may be constrained to acknowledge that the kingdom of Zion is in very deed the kingdom of our God and of His Christ; therefore let us become subject unto her laws."

There was one thing said up on this floor this afternoon that pleased me. It was this: that an individual that had traveled in a great many states, had become somewhat acquainted with the country and the places where he had passed, paid us the tribute to say that this was the best town he knew anything about. Because here the people called the Latter Day Saints have the preponderance of power and the moral influences of the people whom we represent is pronounced, and wickedness of an extraordinary sort could not be allowed.

Another brother said if he had to choose between the two, he would choose Plano in preference to Lamoni for morality. Will he please tell me who it was that made Plano what it was in the sense of its morality? When I went into that town there were two saloons in it, and about five hundred inhabitants. It grew and about the time it had fifteen hundred inhabitants there were five saloons in the place. When we first began our raid against the sale of liquor, we were not able to elect a single trustee, we finally succeeded in electing one, and then in electing two, and by and by we succeeded in electing three, and then we put a stop to the sale of liquor. And one of our religious people went down to the town of Sandwich and he stayed until he had baptized a great many there. A reverend gentleman stated of Plano in Sandwich, that there were three elements at work, under the influences of which it never could prosper; one was the saloon element, another was the devil, and the last was the Latter Day Saints. Not a single license was issued in the town of Plano that was issued by the vote of a Latter Day Saint. They continued to work and strive against it until they had a strong influence there; and after I left the postmaster wrote and said to me, "We need you here politically, we need you socially, we need you morally and we need you religiously." That is one of the influences at work there. And I was pleased to see that this tribute was paid to us as a people for the places where we live. Now, if this be continued in its widest extent, then the time may come that this army may become very great and people will be constrained to say, "Let us go and learn of her laws and become subject thereto," because they are righteous laws.

My father, upon one occasion, was approached upon the good order of service of Nauvoo, and some one says, "I don't see how you manage to govern the people." He replied, "I will tell you how I do it, I teach my people good order and they govern themselves." You see the force of that? Every man should esteem himself as a conservator of the public peace and if he perfects himself in that line, he will accomplish it.

Some people believe that the temple must be built first. If that is correct, who is going to build it? There must be a body of people who are sufficiently strong in money, in workmen of every kind, in whatever shall give them command of the resources around them, who can quarry the stones, and hew them. They cannot, without resources, cut the timber and dress it; they cannot complete the work unless they have workmen; they must all come from somewhere, and under the operation of a law by which they can be maintained while they are doing the work. I do not see how it can be accomplished and no people there. I do not see how we can stay at Lamoni and build a temple at Independence before the people are gathered there. And if we gather there without the means of accomplishing something, what will be the result? Some of these people have been there ever since 1870; they know very well that those who come prepared to help take care of themselves and others, will not only be welcome, but accomplish a great deal; but if they come depending on others, there is a failure just as sure as they gather there.

We have not the privilege of moving into the places and settling them up and taking possession, as if they were still government lands. My idea is that just so rapidly as we can, to cluster together in little places where we may live in quietude and peace, observing the laws of unity and righteousness among ourselves, and the laws of the land. Let our influences, those of the Spirit, be spread wider and wider, and by baptism and more rapid accretion, we will finally people all the land in all the regions around, until this people are conjoined with the expression of the Spirit by which men are converted unto God; then will you see that Zion shall arise and her banners be terrible unto the nations with which she may be surrounded. Not because of the wealth of her armies, but from the fact of the righteousness resident in the people; and the pure in heart, the Zion of God, gather into the regions round about, and finding the center there, radiate until the whole world shall be filled with the righteousness of God and the righteousness of Saints.

It is an economic work to be wrought out. It must be done in this way; it cannot be done by the church taking its lead in every sense, by taking all the properties that are gathered and consecrated, going in there and forming a single branch of manufacture of that kind, and establishing on church moneys, properties that shall be for the enjoyment of the few and furnishing work for the few; but it must be a joint work of all the individuals who have the work at heart, who have the means to contribute and who are willing to consecrate their portion of it in such a way and for that purpose, not by making themselves poor, but by helping to make others rich in the sense that they are self-supporting. That is the way it will have to be done.

For instance, people have said here, "Bro. Joseph Smith, you ought to have manufactures here in Lamoni. Will some one tell me what we can manufacture successfully in Lamoni? Wagon factories? South Bend can best us all to pieces. So can Batavia. We might manufacture brooms and so we can. Who will raise the broom corn? Broom corn was worth a number of dollars to the ton only a little while ago. There was some raised here and is being worked here in the town. To how many people would a large broom factory give employment? Eight men. It would take a great many broom factories, then, to give employment to what is here.

If any manufacturing shall be undertaken in Lamoni, every stick of timber, every pound of

$2.50 SENT FREE!

THE WELL KNOWN CHICAGO HEART SPECIALIST, FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., L.L. B., WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS NEW AND COMPLETE TREATMENT TO OUR READERS.

There never was a better opportunity for persons suffering from diseases of the heart, nerves, liver, stomach or dropsy to test, free, a New and Complete Treatment for these disorders. Dr. Miles is well known as a leading specialist in these diseases, and his liberal offer is certainly worthy of serious consideration by every afflicted reader.

This new system of Special Treatment is thoroughly scientific and immensely superior to the ordinary methods. It consists of several remedies carefully selected to suit each individual case, and is the final result of twenty-five years of very extensive research and experience in treating this class of diseases. It consists of a curative elixir, tonic tablets, laxative pills and usually a plaster, selected for each case. Extensive statistics clearly demonstrate that Dr. Miles' New Treatment is three times as successful as the usual treatment.

Thousands of remarkable testimonials from prominent people will be sent upon request which prove the doctor's case, and give the world's most successful physicians.

Mr. Julius Keister, of 350 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, testifies that Dr. Miles cured him after ten able physicians had failed. Mrs. E. Trimmer, of Greenspring, Pennsylvania, was cured after many physicians had pronounced her case hopeless.

Col. E. B. Spilleman, of the 9th United States R-gulars, located at San Diego, California, says: Dr. Miles' Special Treatment has worked wonders in my son's case when all else failed. I had employed the best medical talent and had spent $2,000 in so doing. I believe he is a wonderful specialist. I considered it my duty to recommend him. "For years I had severe trouble with my stomach, head, neuralgia, sinking spells and dropsy. Your treatment entirely cured me," writes Hon. W. A. Warren, of Jamestown, N. Y.

As all afflicted readers may have $2.50 worth of treatment especially adapted to their case, free, we would advise them to send for it at once. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 201 to 203 State Street, Chicago, Ill.

(Please mention this paper.)

coal, every pound of iron would have to be imported here, at such a cost that by no means could we compete with other places in the manufacture of farm implements, buggies, wagons and anything of that kind which is manufactured. But you can raise corn and can it. How many would that give employment? Sugar beets the same. Quite a number, it is true. I have canvassed the work of the locality. We are removed away from the great water courses, and what would we do for water to make steam? I know we can make lots of steam on the floor here but that won't run factories or machinery. All these things I see in a common sense way.

You will bear me witness that I have not gone without the law of God here, but have spoken strictly about the law of God being promised. I know that just as well as anyone does; and there are things in the Book of Doctrine and Covenants that I cannot possibly see how it is that we are going to comply with them under the present conditions; but this revelation given on Fishing River, I can see how we can work on that, and some other things that are given in regard to it; that the counsel of the elders should be sought and obtained in this regard, and they should move in accordance with this. I can see easily how a great many can gather into the regions round about, when they are ready to go, and to get all things ready before them. I am willing whenever there is sufficient element desirous of being organized into a society and of devoting what they may have, with a bond and deed that cannot be broken, and just as soon as they are determined upon the nature of that bond, reduce it to form. When that time comes and that bond comprehended, and made likely within the hearts of men, I am willing to stand up and help them organize that association and spread it all I can, and just as widely as they want, from Independence to Hudson Bay, and from Pensacola to Columbia River if they can. I believe that the great part of it has to be done by other individuals, or the associations of individuals conjoining their means together, if they have them, and working within the limit of their means, and accomplishing it little by little, until it is widespread and operates through a wide region of territory.

THE ATHLETIC GIRL is apt to be influential, to have power—and most of us like this—and when she expresses an opinion she is generally listened to with respect. A sound mind in a sound body is the superlative of attraction, and this a girl may and should possess. For most girls, as for many older women too, it is well to strive for the rounded life, the life of symmetry, the life which is not unduly developed in one direction at the expense of another. Because a girl excels in rowing, in riding, in golfing, or is an expert at tennis, she need not sacrifice her musical skill, her grace of conversation, her ability to lead a meeting or paint a picture, nor yet her knack of beating up a cake or concocting some delicious dish when unexpected company arrives to take supper.

An exquisite young woman is she whose dress and hair and skin indicate the most scrupulous attention to the daily toilette. We have learned that bathing, and rubbing, and care for personal cleanliness, the nicety which distinguishes the lady and adorns her for her station, are the handmaids not of health alone, but of beauty, and where is the young girl who despises beauty? For the business girl, for the girl whose daily employment is close and confining, nothing can be better than that she emulate the dainty girl in her every-day care of her dress and appearance, and in frequent cleansing of the skin by thorough bathing and vigorous friction, and by keeping herself and all her belongings as dainty as she possibly can.—Margaret Botome.

FOR SALE.

A first class, well established grocery business in Independence can be obtained at a bargain if taken at once. Will pay a hustler well. Reason for selling, other business demands attention. Address Grocer, care Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Missouri.

A MAN WANTED in every county in the United States, to post up bills, distribute circulars, samples, catalogues, etc. Big pay and life time job. Send stamp to Geo. H. Brush, Box 83, Ridgely, Lake county, Tennessee.

ECZEMA, ITCHING HUMORS, PIMPLES.

Treatment Free.

Does your Skin Itch and Burn? Dismissing Eruptions on the Skin so you feel ashamed to be seen in company? Do Scabs and Scales form on the Skin, Hair or Scalp? Have you Eczema? Skin Sore and Cracked? Rash form on the Skin? Prickly Pain in the Skin? Swollen Joints? Falling Hair? All Run Down? Skin Pale? Old Sores? Eating Sores? Ulcers? To cure to stay cured take B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) which makes the blood pure and rich, then the sores will heal and the itching of eczema stop forever, the skin become clear and the breath sweet. Trial treatment sent free and prepaid by writing to BLOOD BALM CO., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Georgia. Describe your trouble and free medical advice given until cured. Blood Balm sold by druggists at $1.00 per large bottle.

NOTICE.

To all who expect to buy or move to Independence with a view of residing here permanently—I am prepared to furnish you with all the information needed in regard to real estate, if you will enclose stamp for reply. Now is a very good time to buy; values are at a very low ebb, and the Saints may as well take advantage of it.

Your brother, W. S. LOAR.

I TEACH any one how to turn sweet milk into sweet, firm, solid, yellow butter. "No drugs used," perfectly healthy and nice enough for a queen's table. One receipt 25 one-cent stamps, 20 receipts, one dollar. Address Geo. H. Brush, Box 83, Ridgely, Tennessee.

GRACELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue, to I. W. ALLENDER, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

EUGENE FIELD'S POEMS A $7.00 BOOK

THE BOOK of the century. Handwritten by three of the world's greatest artists. This book could not have been manufactured for less than $7.00.

The fund created is divided equally between the family of the late Eugene Field and the fund for the building of a monument to the memory of the beloved poet of childhood. Address: Eugene Field Monument Souvenir Fund, 105 Monroe St., CHICAGO. (Also at Book Stores.) If you also wish to send postage, enclose 10c. Mention the Ensign, as Advt. is inserted as our Contribution.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 64 pages; cloth binding, $1.00; paper binding, 65
- "AUTOGRAPHY OF ELDER JOSEPH LUFF," 377 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations, Reduced from $1.00 to..... 75
- "THREE BIBLE COMMENTARIES," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper binding, 5 for $1.00; each..... 25
- "THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDICATED," by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each..... 30
- "SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SERMON OF PALMYRA," by Elder M. H. Bond, of the Seventy; 68 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the author..... 25
- "FAULTY CREEDS," by Elder H. C. Evans; 60 pages; 100; each..... 20
- "THE BOOK OF MORMON ISM IN CONTRAST," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 20 for $1.00, 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE CREEDS LAID BARE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE RESURRECTION OF THE WICKED," by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH? WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET?" by Elder W. J. Peterson of the Quorum of Seventy; 59 pages; paper cover; engraving of author; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRANSLATOR," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 27 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE LIFE OF W. WIGHT," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "APOSTASY OF THE CHURCH," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE MOST EXCELLENT WAY," by Elder P. C. Kelley; 68 pages; paper cover; each..... 5
- "THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW;" Elder Joseph Luff's answer to Elder R. J. Parker; by R. L. Kelley; per hundred 90c; per doz. 15c; 6 for 10c; 2 for..... 5
- "IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION," by Elder Joseph Luff. 70c per 100; 15c per doz.; 3 for..... 5
- "WHAT WE BELIEVE," The Epitomes of Faith, with quotations given in full. 20c Per doz.; 2 for..... 5
- "EVANGELIA LOST," a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb..... 25

SERMON PAMPHLETS.

- The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen:
  - "Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; Illustrated.
  - "The Book of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 58 pages.
  - "The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages.
  - "The Kingdom of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 46 pages.
  - "A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 36 pages.
  - "Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 64 pages.
  - "Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages.
  - "Creed Making; Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 33 pages.
  - "Antiquarian Evidence Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder B. L. Kelley; 40 pages.
  - "Joseph Smith;" Was He a Prophet of God? by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages.
  - "Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages.
  - "Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 39 pages.
  - "God is Light," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 46 pages.
  - "Why I Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. H. Kephart; 33 pages.
  - "The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wight; 41 pages.
  - "The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 38 pages.
  - "Save Yourself," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages.
- We also fill orders for all Herald office publications. Address all orders and make all remittances to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Mo.
- Missouri Pacific Railroad. Quick time, good connections, low rates to all points. Rates, time cards, etc., cheerfully furnished on application. F. A. MILLARD, Agent. Telephone 17.

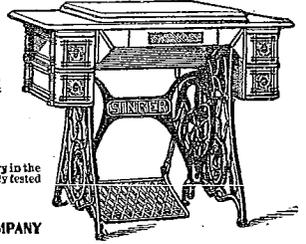

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898.

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Iowa depositors, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on your deposits, saved money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of some certificate of deposit, will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities. It has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered.

List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hillard, Mrs. David Hancock, Miss Alice Danca, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Resequie, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Blair.

A Singer Sewing Machine

THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, earning more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible.

THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch.

BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world, where every machine is carefully tested on practical stitching.

Sold only by THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 190-3.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

SAINTS AND FRIENDS—Remember that I am still in the mail order clothing business. For years I have served you and my reputation speaks for itself. Send me your order or write for my price list. I also have two good organs for sale cheap. Address E. T. ATWELL, Cantrah, Mo.

QUIT-TO-BAC CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT.

BOXES, POSTPAID, $1.50 (U.S. Stamps or Money Order)

With Positive Guarantee of Cure, or Money Cheerfully Refunded. You Run No Risk; why not try it and be a free man? Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST. 37th Year

SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

(INCORPORATED) East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg. Kansas City, Mo.

Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches, Twenty Rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue.

FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE PATENTS

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion there whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbooks on Patents sent free. Official agent for securing Patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice without charge.

Scientific American. A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by newsdealers.

MUNN & CO. 36 Broadway, New York Branch Office, 63 F St., Washington, D. C.

CANCER CURED WITH SOOTHING, BALMY OILS.

Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Wound Diseases. Dr. Sherman, Utafa, Mo., Cancer Relief Dispensary. Write for Illustrated Book. Sent free. Address DR. BYE, Cor. 9th and Broadway, KANSAS CITY, MO.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT This Regular $5.00 Waterproof MACKINTOSH for $2.75. Send no money. Cut this ad out and send to us. State your height, weight, state number of inches around body (chest over vest, under coat, close up under arms and will send you this coat by express C. O. D., subject to examination. Examined by your nearest reliable druggist and if exact as represented, the most wonderful waterproof, tan color, genuine DAVIS Rain Coat, made in U.S.A., and sold for only $5.00 on the market, pay $2.75 and we will send you our manufacturer's price $2.75 and return the balance.

THIS MACKINTOSH is the latest style, made of the finest heavy waterproof, tan color, genuine DAVIS Rain Coat, made in U.S.A., and guaranteed waterproof. Suitable for all climates and guaranteed the greatest bargain ever offered on this coat or any other. Write for free samples of Men's Raincoats, from $1.50 up, and guaranteed bicycle tires, from $3.50 up. We can save you money. Address H. S. DILLER & CO., 306 Dearborn St., Chicago.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT.

TRAINS WEST.	a.m.
No. 65—Wichita and K. C. Mail	12:49
" 9—Kansas & Nebraska	1:4
" 93—Texas, Joplin & K. C.	3:15
" 3—St. Louis Express	3:35
" 73—Lexington Branch Pass.	3:33
" 7—Past Mail	10:00
TRAINS EAST.	a.m.
" 91—Joplin and K. C. Mail	3:16
" 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex.	5:17
" 5—St. Louis Mail	5:55
" 71—Lexington Branch Pass.	6:46
TRAINS WEST.	a.m.
No. 96—K. C. & Wichita Mail	2:42
" 12—Lexington Branch Pass.	5:53
" 6—St. Louis Mail	6:23
" 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail	8:37
" 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	10:17
TRAINS EAST.	a.m.
" 78—Lex. Branch Passenger	6:10
" 4—St. Louis Through Mail	6:17
" 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex.	7:40
" 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	9:30
" 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited	11:12
Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop.

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.

TRAINS WEST.	a.m.
No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass.	8:30 a.m.
" 71—" "	6:40 p.m.
TRAINS EAST.	a.m.
No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass.	8:56 a.m.
" 70—" "	6:16 p.m.
Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON.

EAST BOUND.	a.m.
" 101—Local Way Freight	7:07
" 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail	8:30
WEST BOUND.	a.m.
" 85—" "	5:21
No. 51—Chicago Limited	6:40
" 49—St. Louis Flyer	8:40
WEST BOUND.	a.m.
" 84—" "	9:15
EAST BOUND.	a.m.
" 102—Local Way Freight	2:40
" 8—Chicago & St. Louis Mail	5:51

All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on Tel. 29. J. W. DUGAN, Agent J. CHARLTON, G. P. T. A. G. L. Chicago.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKING TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "manking to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 146, Summit, Mo.
- Mrs. E. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucia Etzschner, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3138 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

Complaint of a Street.

As I was going to school one day I passed by a street, and if it had been a person I fancy it would have talked thus: "Oh, dear, I don't see why it is, people pass me by and pay no attention to me. I guess it is because I am not so nice looking, nor good as my neighbors. Now, there is Hamilton street and several of my friends, who always look so nice and clean, and every one seem to like it too, and are anxious to go on this street. They pass me by with a sneer and say, 'That street is always so rough?' Why is it that I am so ugly and have to be called muddy, disagreeable or rough? I am just getting tired of it and don't see how I can bear it any longer."

A few mornings after this I was going by the same street again. A great number of teams and wagons came along and unloaded a lot of things along this street. Such a noise and confusion as there was; there were wagons full of ashes and crushed rock, and they were rolled out there until I fancied I could hear the street say, "Dear me, how long must I bear it. It will certainly drive me crazy. What is the good of all that old material anyway?" When I came along again several men were there working with picks and shovels. They had dug out a lot of the extra soil, having gone down about two feet. The street was crying with fear and terror, "What are they trying to do, will there be anything left of me?" This was only a beginning; they leveled this all down, and the street thought now, if they will only stop perhaps people will like me. But they did not stop. They put in the curbstone; this was a curved board, afterwards covered with a thick layer of tar and cement. They then plied in a layer of crushed rock and ashes. This made not only a terrible noise, but a great dust as well, which was not very pleasant. They packed this all solid, and made it level. The next was a coat of dirty, black tar, but before doing this they run an engine over it. This has no wheels, but has a big roller in front, and at the back two little rollers. As this passed over it the street thought surely it would all be crushed to pieces.

After the tar, which was disagreeable to some on account of its peculiar odor, had been put on, they spread a white looking powder over it about half an inch thick. This is put on hot, and the men who do it have to wear moccasins, something like Indian snow shoes, to avoid making an impression. They run the roller over this again and let no one go over it for some time.

Then one evening I fancied I could hear the street complaining like this: "Well, I don't see any use in all this. Such noise, such jarring and dust, and black tar being put over me, and that roller, which was almost more than I could endure. I did have a little hope when they put that white powder over the tar, for it did look a little bit nice. Even that was hot and did not feel very comfortable. I don't see though as I am ever going to be of any good to any one again, for every one has to turn and go another street. I tell you it is discouraging. There is no use of me trying to be of service in this world. Even when I could do a little good, that opportunity was taken away and here I am now with no chance of doing anything for any one."

Not long after this as I was going past this street again I fancied I heard it talking again; but oh, in what a cheerful tone. It was not like its old self. It began in this way: "My friends, I hear some of you talking and complaining as you ride along, and I think you ought to stop it. Learn a lesson from my experience, won't you? and do not get into that habit of complaining. You don't feel very happy while you are doing it, and I am sure no one else does. Do you see the difference between me and my neighbor over there. Well, I was once the same and I worried about it, and found fault with my lot. Now, people say, 'Oh! what a nice, smooth, pleasant street, so good to travel on,' and yet they do not think of the hard experience I had to go through, and how unpleasant it was. Little children trip merrily along on their way to school, and I hear their little secrets and their plans for the day's work in the school room. Other children, not old enough for school, come here and play and seem delighted with me because I am so smooth. People like to travel here on their bicycles and in carriages. Only yesterday I heard a poor, lame girl say, 'I could stand it to ride on this street every day, because we go so easy it does not hurt me.'

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

The Jerusalem we see today is not the one that gladdened the eyes of the Holy Family journeying from Nazareth to worship in the temple. That city lies buried forty, fifty, sometimes over a hundred feet deep in wastage piled in the overthrow of many sieges. The crimson banner of the Moslem floats above the Tower of David used as barracks, and the Turkish sentinel pacing his rounds, looks with ineffable scorn on the Christian. The crumbling Tower of Antonia, the citadel of the Temple, is occupied by the Governor of Jerusalem, and, if possession counts in the law, it is his right, for he held it before William the Conqueror was crowned with the Saxon's crown in Westminster Abbey.—Mrs. Lew Wallace, in the December Ladies' Home Journal.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution and By-laws of Zion's Religio-Literary Society.

ARTICLE IV.—MEMBERSHIP.—Sec. 1, Admittance. Add at the end "except in cases where letters of removal are presented, when vote may be taken at time of presentation."

ARTICLE IV.—MEMBERSHIP.—Sec. 3, Withdrawals. Substitute the following: "Any member who may wish to withdraw from the society shall give one week's notice of his intention to do so, except where he desires to remove and unite with another society, in which case, if in good standing, he shall be given a letter of removal recommending him to membership in such society, and vote may be taken without one week's notice."

JESSIE M. CAVE,
CLEMENT MALCOLM,
ANDRE C. ANDERSON.

By order Decatur district convention. December 18.

Mission Report Blanks.

The following was adopted by the last General Conference: Resolved, That the Board of Publication provide blanks to be sent to the missionaries as early as January 1 of each year, upon which they are to report to the Church Secretary, not later than March 1, to compile for publication in the Herald; said blanks to be in accordance with the tabulated form of reporting as previously adopted.

Blanks have been forwarded to all general missionaries, who are requested to include report of labors to March 1, and forward promptly for publication.

Any failing to receive blanks will be supplied on application.

R. S. SALYARDS,
Church Sec.
LAMONI, Ia., Jan. 1, 1901.

NOTICES.

The following information is desired of brethren of the second quorum of elders: A. A. Baker, W. A. Carroll, J. A. Gillen, S. D. Love, B. F. Miller, Ola Olson, J. S. Parrish, W. A. Prewitt, J. C. Severine, J. S. Strain. Please send me items when born, when baptized, when, where and by whom ordained.

F. C. WARKNY,
Sec. of 2d Quorum of Elders.
2422 Wabash Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Convention Minutes.

The Religio workers of the Far West district met in convention at St. Joseph, Missouri, on above date. There are now six societies in this district, with every prospect of increasing the number.

Quarterly reports from the locals, and verbal reports from the presidents of the local societies show an increase of work done, and a general development in the young people of this district who are in the Religio work. The semi-annual election of district officers resulted as follows: President, Walter W. Smith; vice president, J. E. Powell; secretary, J. A. Gardner; treasurer, Benjamin Dice; librarian, Samuel Simmons.

Our district good literature committee is at work in the right way, and the good results are apparent already.

J. A. GARDNER, Dist. Sec.
ST. JOSEPH, MO., Dec. 14.

"MORE EXCELLENT WAY."

ERRATA.

Page 46, right hand column, read A. F. Rogers for "A. C. Rogers."

Page 56, left hand column, 13th line, read devoted instead of "devoter."

Page 67, last line, left hand column, insert it after the word "applied."

Same page, right hand column. 14th line, read world for "word."

Conference Notices.

The Northeast Missouri district conference will convene at Bevier, Missouri, February 9th at 10 a. m., continuing over the 10th. All who can should try and be present at this meeting; election of delegates to General Conference, and other important features will come before the body. Let all come prepared to assist and help to make these meetings a success.

J. A. TANNER, Dist. Pres.
BEVIER, MO., Dec. 21.

The conference of the Kirtland district will convene with the Cleveland branch, February 23rd and 24th. All branches send full reports to J. W. Baldwin, 95 Elm street, Sharon Pennsylvania.

All branches are especially requested to be represented as some important matters are to be disposed of.

F. J. EUELING, Pres.
Palmer Pa.
J. W. BALDWIN, Sec.
Sharon Pa.
December 27.

Conference of Northwest Kansas district will meet at Blue Rapids, Saturday, February 24, at 10:30 a. m. A full report from the branches is desired; also the ministry including the elders, priests and teachers, of labor done, willingness to labor in the vineyard of the Lord, the condition of the work, the needs and wants of the same. A complete report from branch officers of the spiritual condition of their respective branches will enable the conference to take such action that may serve the best interest of the work; also it will keep the district president in touch with the work under his care and supervision.

Presidents of branches are requested to call their business meetings not later than two weeks before the district conference and forward their reports that we may get them in time for the business session. All will see the importance of this: heretofore many reports were not received until after adjournment, therefore were not reported. At our last conference two branches out of eight reported; about the same per cent of the ministry. Such conditions should not obtain among the Saints. The law requires obedience in small things as well as the large and more important ones.

I wish to call attention to the law as found in Doctrine and Covenants, section 17, paragraph 25, the rules of the church and the oft repeated request of the Church Recorder. God gave the law, and just to the extent that we keep the law we honor Him who gave the law. Dear Saints, we cannot afford to be found among the slothful and disobedient. There are no great and precious promises made to such; it is the true and faithful who shall inherit the blessing and obtain eternal life. May our heavenly Father assist us to take on a new supply of energy and zeal (a good time to begin is with the new year, 1901), and make a strong pull spiritually altogether to regain much that has been lost in the years past. Come to the conference, bring the spirit of peace and good-will, and let us rejoice together.

In bonds,
A. KENT, Dist. Pres.
IBLYWILD, KS., Dec. 23.

DIED.

(One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.)

HERZING.—At Ateshion, Kansas, December 28, 1900, Sr. Naomi Romack Herzing. She was born in Hardin county, Ohio, August 7, 1831, and was married to Charles Herzing November, 1857, who died in 1888. She was the mother of nine children, seven of whom remain to mourn their loss. She was a member of the church thirty-six years and died in the faith. Funeral services in the chapel Sunday, December 30th, in charge of Elder Wm. Gurwell, Elder M. T. Short preaching the sermon.

WARNEY.—At Kansas City, Missouri, December 26, 1900, Myrtle Carrie, daughter of Bro. and Sr. F. C. Warny, aged 16 years, 11 months and 16 days. She was attacked with peritonitis and only survived its terrible grasp two days, when she was summoned home to the paradise of God. She was baptized when eight years old, by Bro. T. W. Chatburn; was a bright, intellectual and promising young sister. Funeral sermon by Elder I. N. White, at Independence stone church, December 28, 1900.

MCCLURE.—At Burlington, Kansas, December 17, 1900, of consumption, Teacher Lewis McClure. He was born in Indiana, April 14, 1855, baptized April 10, 1876, by Elder Nelson Vanfleet, married to Miss Hattie Porter, August 29, 1879; nine children were born to them, eight of whom, with the faithful companion, mourn their great loss. Funeral at Pleasant Hill, Christian church, near Burlington, December 19; Elder Wm. C. Cadwell preached the sermon from Romans 6: 23, assisted by Elder P. Cadwell. The Christian friends deserve sincere thanks for timely help during the service. Nearly the whole neighborhood attended, showing the esteem in which he was held.

BALD Without help, a bald spot never grows smaller. It keeps spreading, until at last your friends say, "How bald he is getting."

Not easy to cure an old baldness, but easy to stop the first thinning, easy to check the first falling out. Used in time, baldness is made impossible with—

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

It stops falling, promotes growth, and takes out all dandruff. It always restores color to faded or gray hair, all the dark, rich color of early life. You may depend upon it every time. It brings health to the hair.

$1.00 a bottle. All Druggists.

"I have used your Hair Vigor and am greatly pleased with it. I have only used one bottle of it, and yet my hair has stopped falling out and has started to grow again nicely."
J. C. WITZ,
March 24, 1899. Canova, S. Dak.

Write the Doctor.
If you do not obtain all the benefits you expect from the use of the Vigor, write the Doctor.
Address, DR. J. C. AYER,
Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, JANUARY 10, 1901

NUMBER 2.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box 11, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered to the contrary.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

Box 11.

A DAY OF PREPARATION.

That the epoch of time in which we now live is pre-eminently one of preparation for the fulfillment of the purposes of the Lord regarding His coming and reign, no one who correctly reads the "signs of the times" can at all doubt. First, of all, it is a day of especial preparation for the children of God. A higher conception of their duties as followers of the Lord Jesus Christ, a spirit of self-abnegation and sacrifice for the furtherance of the cause of righteousness, is enjoined; a stronger manifestation of the spirit of kindness and brotherly love toward all men, but especially to those of the household of faith, is demanded, that the character of the Christ may be assimilated into every life, the more as the day of His coming approaches. Cold, hard, calculating selfishness, that which sees excellence only in that which advances individual interests regardless of the rights or just claims of others, must be rigidly repressed to give place to such an interest in the welfare and advancement of others, that any reasonable assistance will be gladly rendered, though it may involve some individual sacrifice to extend it.

A perfect and upright, Christ-like character is superlatively above all worldly honors and attainments, though its value is so little prized by the vast majority of men and women. It is indeed sad to contemplate in this day when all the events transpiring point so conspicuously and forcibly to the fast approaching end of time, that comparatively few indeed are preparing for the eternity before them. The mad pursuit of riches which must perish, the incessant search for the pleasures which at best are transitory and vanish with their attaining, the ceaseless grind and toil required of thousands to simply exist, seems to engross the mind to the exclusion of that which advances and uplifts the nobler part of man, and the results are awful to contemplate when we consider the statement of the apostle that as we sow so shall we also reap; and the further fact that we are so closely verging upon the reaping time.

The Lord Himself indicated that just such a condition would exist at the time of His coming. The language used, "But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating [feasting] and drinking [carousing], marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark, and knew not until the flood came, and took them all away, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be" (Matt. 24: 37-39), is significant as pointing to the same careless and indifferent manner of living when the moment of the winding up of the present scenes and conditions comes, that existed when the flood swept all living, except a very few, from the earth into eternity. Notwithstanding the faithful preachings and warnings of Noah, the authorized servant of God, the hour of destruction found them wholly unprepared; and the Lord says it will be just the same when He comes to close up the rule of sin, and usher in the reign of the thousand years of peace. He has sent faithful servants in this the eleventh hour to warn the people, and for years the cry has gone forth, "Behold the Bridegroom cometh, go ye out [make preparation] to meet Him." Some have persecuted those servants, others have mocked and derided at the kindly message, spurning the invitation to prepare for that great event by obeying the gospel, and have pursued their old manner of life—just as did the antediluvians. Still others, a few of the noble of earth's children, have gladly heeded the warning voice and have sought to prepare the wedding garment (righteousness), and to have oil (the Holy Spirit), in their vessels that the day may not overtake them unprepared.

Another mark of the "Day of Preparation" is the rapidly increasing centralization of the financial power in the hands of the descendants of Judah. There can hardly be a question that they hold the balance of power in all the world so far as finances are concerned; that every prominent nation of the earth is paying tribute to that power, and this will account for the gathering of all nations to Jerusalem—when the Jews shall have been established as a nation under their own rulers—to take a prey, and a spoil; and when they shall have almost gained their point, the Lord is to come and adjudicate for the stricken city. These important steps leading up to the final culmination in the fulfillment of the predictions of the prophets, have been, and are being steadily manifest, but the "signs of the times" are seemingly unobserved by the millions whose deepest interests are in the balance. The awakening to a realization when it is too late for repentance to avail, will indeed be sad and bitter.

But the adversary is equally active and vigilant it seems, and is using his ingenuity to hold control so far and so long as he may. He is aware that his time is extremely limited, and in his great wrath is putting forth efforts everywhere to bring as many as possible under his control and prevent them from securing the reward promised the righteous. He is preparing his armies for the final conflict, and hence it is that wickedness seems to be so much on the increase; the things of this world seem to be obtaining a closer hold upon the worldly minded, and the true worship of the Father—"in spirit and in truth"—is fast narrowing down to those who are willing to make the sacrifices required in obeying the fullness of the everlasting gospel.

Daniel declares, in speaking of the "time of the end," that "many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased" (Daniel 12: 4), which is an apt description of this time. From the fields of invention, science, and research there comes a stream of knowledge, all bearing evidence that this is truly an age of inspiration, witnessing to the existence of the Lord as supreme, and by which His judgment upon the ungodly will be acknowledged as just, because they would not repent and do His work when the opportunity was afforded them. But notwithstanding that light has come into the world, and the witnesses to that fact are almost innumerable, the preparation for the closing scenes of "the life that now is," are not such as will bring happiness to the majority of mankind. The preparation is going on continually, but for too many it is a preparation for a judgment of condemnation. Many are filling up the cup of their iniquity, and its emptying will be in bitterness and woe.

Another strong evidence of the fact that we are now in the closing hours of the "Day of Preparation" is the unrest and commotion in all nations. The United States, while prosperous on certain lines, is the scene of much distress. Industrial troubles are increasing, the greed of the corporations and moneyed interests is bearing its fruit in strikes and in feelings of desperation and anger on the part of the working classes that portends fateful events in the future, and a precipitation of a conflict between capital and labor that will bring about the fulfillment of the prophetic declaration, that no man may buy or sell unless he has the "mark or the name of the beast, or the number of his name" (Rev. 13: 16, 17), and that "he that will not take up his sword against his neighbor must needs flee to Zion for safety," for there shall be "the only place where the people are not at war one with another" (Doc. & Cov. 45: 13).

Other nations are also having their difficulties, so that seemingly the entire world of mankind are in a condition of upheaval, all of which proves that the Scriptures are rapidly being fulfilled and these conditions are impressing upon the faithful and thoughtful followers of Christ, that "the day of the Lord is at hand," the thousand years of millennial happiness and peace—"for a thousand years is as one day with the Lord"—and further emphasizes the necessity of careful preparation on their part, that Zion's converts being redeemed by righteousness may be prepared to inherit and abide in Zion, the Holy City, against which the wicked will fear to advance.

Dear Saints, what preparation are we making? How have we considered our ways in the light of the increase of the knowledge of God, which has come to us through the revelation and ministrations of the angel's message in these last days? "They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament," says the prophet Daniel (12: 3), and the great apostle to the gentiles exhorts:

Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight [get free from every incumbrance that hinders progress], and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus [as our only pattern and example], the author and finisher of our faith.—Hebrews 12: 1, 2.

Let us be wise, and constantly have on the wedding garment, the robe of righteousness, and have our lamps trimmed and brightly burning, because of the goodly supply of oil in our vessels; thus will our preparation be complete when "the day of the Lord" comes.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

BRO. HENRY W. GODFREY, Tryon, Nebraska, desires that the Saints will continue their prayers in his behalf that he may recover from his affliction. He has realized considerable benefit, and is much better, and is hopeful, if faithful, of a complete restoration.

BRO. W. T. BOZARTH desires his letter, from Rocky Ford, Colorado, in the last issue of the ENSIGN, to read, "Land sells from twenty-five to one hundred and fifty dollars per acre, instead of 'rents' for those figures, as published.

BRO. R. T. JONES, Farmersville, Texas, requests that any of the elders passing from Kentucky to Tennessee will stop off at Mansfield and visit John C. Sanders, who lives one and a half miles from that place. Mrs. Sanders is the daughter of Bro. Jones, and herself and husband are interested in the gospel.

WE should like to hear IMMEDIATELY how many of the Saints desire the DAILY ENSIGN during the session of General Conference in April. Will presidents of branches kindly present this matter to their members and obtain desired information notifying us early so that we may know what to count on. We should have responses from 3,000 or 4,000 out of our 45,000 membership. If you are interested let us hear from you. The price will be the same as heretofore, 25 cents for the ten days or the time occupied by the Conference.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

ELDER F. C. WARKY, 2422 Wabash avenue, Kansas City, Missouri:

I start out again tomorrow (January 2d); will go to Rich Hill for one day, then go to Schell City to begin a protracted meeting about Saturday, and continue as wisdom and interest may demand.

ELDER M. T. SHORT, Highland Station, Kansas:

I am holding a series of meetings in the Wolf River school-house, to large audiences. The room, a good sized one, was full yesterday, and we expect an overflow from now on. I am giving out some cogent gospel truths, and trust they will take hold of and hang on to the life line.

M. A. WHITE, Carson City, Michigan, sending for ENSIGN and Book of Mormon, writes:

Convinced of the truth contained in those papers I could hardly do without them. I know it is the plan of God unto salvation. I was baptized by a Baptist minister by immersion, but not being satisfied in any of the creeds of the churches of the day, the first opportunity in the spring if I live I shall obey.

BRO. W. S. CARTER, Spy Hill, Assiniboia, Northwest Territory:

We have Elder Frederick Gregory with us now [December 25th]; for about six weeks, and although the weather was cold part of the time he has preached over forty grand and instructive sermons; has had a good hearing although few seem anxious to come out from the world. God grant they may soon. Are having fine weather here now.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Tomorrow (Friday) night will be the annual business meeting of the Religio when selection of officers to serve the ensuing term will be made. Every member should be present.

Sr. T. J. Franklin, formerly of this city, is now living with her only daughter, at Del Norte, Colorado. She is well and still loves to hear of the progress of the great latter day work.

Mr. and Sr. Peter Widener, nee Pearl Haley, have a fine little daughter to comfort them. Bro. and Sr. Brad Haley are the happy grandparents. May she be spared to brighten the lives of all her associates in life.

A very successful and enjoyable musicale was held at the home of Bro. and Sr. H. R. Mills Tuesday evening. A large number were present, and those taking part rendered their selections in a very creditable manner.

Bro. I. N. White expected to be at St. Louis last Saturday and Sunday to attend the conference there, but sickness in his family changed all his plans, and he will now go in another direction. He expects to go to Springfield in a few days.

A special business meeting of the branch will be held next Monday evening to consider the completion of the towers on the church and some improvements on the inside. Every member is interested in this work preparatory to the dedication of the church and should be present next Monday evening. Make an earnest effort to put everything else off, and attend this meeting.

Sr. Hannah Richmond, widow of Bro. Lucien Richmond, deceased, departed this life at the residence of her step-grandson, C. C. Frisbey, last Saturday afternoon, January 5th at 4:30, of pneumonia, aged 66 years and 3 months. She united with the Reorganized church about thirty years ago and has lived a consistent, faithful life until her departure. Her relatives being members of the Hedrickite church, the funeral took place from that church Monday the 7th, Elder Richard Hill being in charge and preaching the sermon. Fully half of the congregation present were members of the Reorganized church, thus paying a fitting tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased.

The "Century Rally" at the stone church last Sunday was a splendid success. From the opening to the close the Holy Spirit was present giving light and understanding. The choir did excellent service contributing much to the pleasure of the occasion. Bishop Ellis Short was the first speaker, dwelling upon the advancement made since the ushering in of the 19th century, chief among the important events of that century being the restoration of the gospel. Brn. G. H. Hulmes, B. J. Scott and Joseph Luff followed in order, and gave much food for thought and encouragement in the voicing of the Spirit's impressions upon them. These talks were from fifteen to twenty minutes in length, interspersed with choir numbers of from six to ten minutes, so that the services lasted until half past twelve o'clock. We cannot begin to give even a synopsis of these short sermons here. The main auditorium was filled with a very interested audience. In the afternoon the lower room was crowded, there being hardly a vacant chair; the services brought comfort and strength to the participants. At night a large audience again gathered, the program of the morning being carried out with Bishop R. May, Elders Edwin H. Garrett and R. J. Parker and Apostle I. N. White as speakers. All had good, uplifting thoughts to present, without repeating the thoughts of those who preceded them, yet all bearing upon the theme of the service. It was about half past nine when the benediction was given. The day was beautiful and very pleasant in temperature, and altogether it was one of the most enjoyable, as well as profitable, occasions in the experience of the church here.

The regular business meeting of the branch was held Monday evening, W. H. Garrett presiding; Bro. J. W. Luff being absent on account of illness. Bro. Lester Braclenbury was chosen clerk pro tem. The usual reports were read, the treasurer's report showing receipts for the month of December, $52.68, and expenses $50.40, leaving a balance of $2.28. The treasurer of the building committee reported: Building fund balance last report, $14.15; receipts, $1053.85; borrowed from furnace fund, $24.25; total, $1092.25. Expended, G. H. Hulmes return of loan, $16.00 to Phil. E. Chappell, balance of mortgage in full, $1033.75; notary, 25 cents; releasing mortgage, $1.25; Bishop E. L. Kelley for interest on loan from California brethren, $41.00; total, $1092.25. Furnace fund total receipts, $359.80; loaned building fund, $24.25; paid E. L. Salmon on account for furnaces, $300.00; total, $324.25; balance on hand, $35.55; signed by R. May, Wm. Crick and Geo. H. Hulmes for committee. These reports were on motion referred to the branch auditing committee. Letters of removal from Lamoni, Iowa, for Sr. Eliza Keene, Geo. E. Reyner, Nancy Jane Reyner, Vida Ruth Reyner, Nora Gertrude Reyner, Arthur H. Mills and Maude M. Mills were read and on motion they were accepted as members of Independence branch. Letters of removal were on motion granted to Bro. L. D. Sperry to Lee's Summit, and to Bro. and Sr. A. C. Dempsey and Senterlow Dempsey to Nevada, Missouri. A bill of $13.00 for coal bin in north room was on motion turned over to the branch treasurer for payment. The time of the building committee having expired, on motion they were sustained for the coming term. Owing to the contemplated absence for a time of Bro. G. H. Hulmes he offered his resignation as a member of that committee, which was accepted and Bro. Frank Criley was selected to succeed him. On motion a stove formerly used in the lower auditorium was donated to the Second Kansas City branch. On motion a special business meeting was called for next Monday evening to consider the completion of the outside of the church building and some further improvements inside. Adjourned.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Elder G. W. Thorburn preached a very effective sermon Sunday morning upon the topic "Have Faith in God." President J. A. Gunsolley edified the Saints at the evening hour upon the subject, "The Shepherd and the Sheep." Elder John Shippy spoke at Saints' Home Sunday evening. Good reports came from the effort.

Sacrament service Sunday afternoon was largely attended, and was characterized by some strong and faithful testimonies.

President Joseph Smith is confined at home with a severe attack of neuralgia.

Robert Meredith, son of Reuben C. and Nellie N. Elvia, was blessed January 2, 1901, by Grandpa R. M. Elvin and Bishop E. L. Kelley.

Bro. Will Ross, of Mound City, Missouri, son of Bro. R. K. Ross, arrived last Friday night to attend Graceland college.

The second term of Graceland college opened yesterday with ten new students.

Sr. John Staith met with a severe accident last week in falling down a flight of cellar stairs. She sustained several injuries but is recovering.

Last Tuesday night occurred the annual election of branch officer. The following were chosen: President, J. A. Gunsolley; presiding priest, M. J. Danielson; presiding teacher, A. K. Anderson; deacon, Charles Braclenbury; secretary, Sr. Anna Allen; recorder, C. I. Carpenter; chorister, B. M. Anderson; organist, Sr. Roxanna Anderson.

Religions report the best prayer meeting last Friday night for a long time. Bru. W. J. Mather and Oscar Anderson in charge.

Elder H. A. Stebbins filled his regular appointment at Davis City, Iowa, last Sunday.

G. L. K.

January 7.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Clarence Eugene, a pretty little boy, has taken up his abode with Mr. Herdus and Sr. Ada Cudworth. He is contented and peaceful, adding one more to the grandchilden of Bro. F. G. Pitt.

Bro. Isaac Richardson has engaged with the Kimball school of shorthand of our city, and will be one with us hereafter. We bid him welcome. Formerly he lived in Cleveland, Ohio.

Our union service was very enjoyable, and largely attended. Bro. F. G. Pitt gave us an excellent sermon in the morning. At 1:30 a session of Sabbath School was held with good attendance. The baptism, as announced, was attended to, in addition to which a young colored man was baptized by Bro. G. H. Graves, making four in all. The sacrament service was quiet and impressive. Many good resolutions were heard of, and the Saints seemed happy in the latter day work, but, as we heard in the morning, it is a warfare, and everlasting vigilance is the price of victory.

We commence tonight a series of meetings at the mission, to continue indefinitely as the interest will justify, and the interest will be governed by the efforts of the Saints. So let each consider himself an interested partner.

We expect to spend the third Sunday (20th) at West Pullman filling our regular appointment there, which we have missed the past two months on account of sickness.

Our last priesthood meeting was interesting and instructive. The program for the next one is, First, A discussion of parliamentary rules, with blackboard illustration. Second, A paper, "How Can the Priesthood Add to the Spirituality and Interest of a Prayer Meeting," by F. M. Pitt. Discussion led by Bro. Wm. Strange.

Bro. R. T. Cooper came in from his long trip from Los Angeles and worshipped with the Saints. We were glad, through him, to hear from the T. W.'s of the Pacific slope.

Bro. E. E. Johnson is reported as not quite so well as usual. Many prayers are offered in his behalf.

Bro. J. L. Benson has returned to his dental school work preparatory to a graduation in the spring.

J. M. TERRY.

305 Ogden Ave., Jan. 7.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street. Services: Wednesday evening, prayer service. Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave., services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:30 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Quite a number have been confined to their homes owing to heavy colds, or may be the la grippe; Sr. Emma Smith's condition is about the same.

Not many out to the Wednesday evening prayer meeting, but those present made good resolutions.

The Religio had a very fair showing at the prayer service Friday night.

District conference convened about 7:30 in the basement of the church, Saturday last. Visitors and delegates present from Cheltenham, Oak Hill and Belleville. Reports from the officers, bishop's agent's report, and other routine business, occupied the session, together with other necessary reports.

Sabbath morning at the preaching service were a number of visiting Saints; Bro. and Sr. Jones from Lebanon were present; also a number of other visitors. Bro. Allen having returned was speaker the morning hour, assisted by Bro. Henry Roberts. The afternoon service was largely attended; a goodly number of testimonies.

Branch business meeting Tuesday evening of this week. The Religio holds its regular election of officers Friday night.

ETTA.

January 7th.

ST. JOSEPH, MISSOURI.

The services Sunday morning were in charge of Bro. J. C. Gardner, Bro. Wm. Lewis being the speaker of the hour. His text was from Daniel 10:12; he pointed out the many ways Satan takes in depriving the Saints of the blessings so much needed. Bro. Cather, who was the speaker of the evening, took up the subject of the Apostasy.

The Prayer Union meets at the homes of the sisters. The president, Sr. Gardner, was very much encouraged by the large attendance last Thursday.

Bro. R. Archibald, who has been very ill for some time, seemed to take a change Sunday for the better; he is still quite weak. The children were notified of their father's illness, and Bro. Russell Archibald, of Texas, and Sr. Tena, of St. Louis, arrived Sunday.

The officers of the Zion's Star Sunday School were elected Sunday morning as follows: Bro. Chas. Hubacher, superintendent; Bro. Coventry Archibald, assistant; Bro. John Gardner, secretary; Bertie Neidorp, assistant; Sr. Josie Isleib, chorister; Amy Winning, organist; Bro. Martin McKimm, treasurer; Russel McKee, librarian.

The work at South Park is reported to be prospering, preaching every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, Sunday School 9:45. Bro. Guinand was elected superintendent of the school.

The following were elected at the Aspey mission, Geo. W. Best, superintendent; Bro. Nanney, assistant; Pearl Best, organist and treasurer; Maud Nanney, secretary.

Bro. John Burlington, of Nevada, Missouri, spent the Christmas holidays with friends in St. Joseph.

A. B.

January 7.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line.

Attendance at all the services from Sunday School to night preaching, was good yesterday. Our priest, Bro. Thos. Newton, was able to meet with us, for which we felt very grateful indeed.

Our Sunday School met under the direction of its new quota of officers yesterday, our superintendent, Sr. Mary McIntosh, performing her duty especially well.

A vote of thanks was tendered our retiring superintendent, Bro. Fred Koehler, who has so faithfully performed his duty in that office for the past five years in our midst.

Bro. J. A. Koehler, who, after declining nomination in several of the prominent offices in our Sunday School in the business meeting of six months ago, nominated himself janitor, again volunteered to serve the school in that capacity for the ensuing six months. Bro. Gus is to be commended for the cheerfulness with which he has performed this "arduous" part of the "labor of love."

Little Ethel Barto, youngest daughter of Bro. and Sr. Chas. Barto, is at present lying very low with typhoid fever.

We were glad to have Bro. J. D. White drop in with us at our sacrament meeting, and mingle his testimony with ours yesterday afternoon. A. C. K. January 7.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA. Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

Our morning sermon was delivered by Elder J. A. Saxe and was very well received. At 7:30 the writer had the pleasure of filling the pulpit. Quite a number of strangers were in attendance during the day, some of whom heard the gospel for the first time.

Bishop C. A. Parkin went to Santa Rosa and dispensed the word there. Bro. Fred B. Blair was at Oakland.

Tuesday evening the choir held their regular practice; as an outgrowth of their improvement we are having new hymns and new tunes sung at our hours of worship, also an anthem occasionally, which very much aids our service.

Wednesday evening our business meeting was held. Five members were received by letter and one on certificate of baptism. Bro. Blair is energetically hunting up the stray sheep and leading them back into the fold where they can be safely housed, warmed and fed. Bro. Fred is a rustler and a wise shepherd. He was chosen to preside over our business meeting. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: president, Chas. A. Parkin; priest, Roy Davis; teacher, John Lawn; deacon, Hawley; financial secretary, Chas. Kaighin; clerk, John Lawn; organist, Chas. Wyatt; chorister, Ella Lytle.

All is moving along nicely in church affairs here. There is a willingness on the part of nearly all to do their duty, and our course is upward and onward. GEO. S. LINCOLN. January 4.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

TAHOR, Iowa, Jan. 2.

Editor Ensign:—We are still marching along, trying to keep in sight with the noble host of workers in this glorious cause.

The Christmas entertainments in the Sabbath Schools of Shenandoah and Hamburg were excellent. Everybody was well pleased, especially the children. In both of these places all did their part exceedingly well. We heard from other branches in the district and they were not one whit behind in this praiseworthy work.

We are glad to be able to state that the children in this field are being taught the gospel; all the branches are taking quite an interest in this arm of the great work of the Master entrusted to our care.

We are also busy preaching the word of life to the people, answering to the many calls as fast as we can get to them. My fellow laborers, of the general missionary force, are working to the best of their ability; they are all doing what they can, we honestly believe; and the local laborers are pushing ahead and doing what they can. We have no fault to find with any, but say, May God speed the truth, and honor those who are advocating it by giving them "souls for their hire" as seals to their testimony.

We rejoice in reading the news published in your messenger of peace. Bro. Joseph Luff's sermon in the Ensign of this week is just grand. May God bless him with the needed health and strength of body to enable him to do all that is in his heart to do for the cause, is our daily prayer.

I am glad to hear the news from home, thankful you are all pushing ahead in the work entrusted to your care in Zion. Long may you all live to continue, until this work is completed according to the design of the Chief Workman in this wonderful building.

We have had splendid weather, good roads, and fair audiences, and excellent liberty in preaching the word, and never felt better or stronger in the faith, or had a greater desire to labor in His cause.

With good wishes and best regards for all, I am still your co-laborer and brother in bond.

HENRY KEMP. SHENANDOAH, IOWA.

CORWELL, Minn., Dec. 30.

Dear Ensign:—I am at home today reading the most interesting letters from all parts, which are elevating and instructive to any and all of the Saints who are isolated as I am, and more so when we read of them with whom we are acquainted. The Spirit has burned within me today, as it appears that I have taken a deeper interest than usual. I know enough of the work to know that it is of God, and the primitive pattern.

When I read Sr. Laura Larferty's letter in the Ensign I was overjoyed almost to tears, for I know of the many trials she has had in the past, and yet in full hopes of a final rest with the Saints in the reign of a thousand years. Sr. Laura is worthy of the prayers of all Saints.

I feel to rejoice that the Religians are prospering in Ono. I have enjoyed many good meetings there, and in Porcupine, but since my departure from there, I sometimes think the Spirit has left me, but in reading my church papers I am again renewed and feel encouraged to press onward in my christian course. It is hard to live an upright life in a spiritless community.

Wishing the prayers of all Saints, I am as ever,

Your brother in Christ, JAS. M. BLOOD.

VOLINA, Alabama, Jan. 1.

Dear Ensign:—As Jennie, my daughter, is now unable to write either to the Ensign or to the many dear Saints and friends who are asking to know how she is getting along, I will say her health is no better. She is gradually getting worse and has been confined to her bed now for the last ten days. Though spiritually she is about as usual she seems to try hard to contend earnestly for the faith that was once delivered to Saints; her spells or convulsions still stay with her, but at the same time she seems to have all the patience that could be expected of one afflicted in same manner. She also wishes through your columns to thank all those kind friends and Saints so far away for all their kind favors for the past few days.

Now I will return, as I had to lay my pen down and go to her bedside, she having been taken with one of those horrid spells; it will take her now some time to become conscious.

Oh, dear Saints and friends, you can only imagine how she has suffered for! these many years; and not she alone, but her loving papa and her kind stepmother who have never failed—no, never—to do all we could to wait on her and to relieve her suffering as much as possible.

She asked me this morning to be sure and thank, especially Sr. Alice C. Schwartz of Omaha, Nebraska, for cheering letters and favors, also Sr. Campbell of Gilroy, California, and Sr. Elizabeth Pickles of San Diego, California, and Mrs. Newberry and Chedell of Providence, with many others of whom I cannot now think, for kind favors, etc. I will now say to all her many friends whom she has learned to so dearly love, to please continue their prayerful advice to her, and pray for her, dear Saints, that her faith may increase and that she may be saved in the end.

She still loves to get those dear letters as she calls them, but if any one writes and does not receive an answer, please take the will for the deed. I will try again to write while it may be a consolation to her.

Yours for the glorious cause, Jennie's father, B. F. PAGE.

ESCATAWPA, Miss., Dec. 27.

Dear Ensign:—You are a welcome visitor to us. A few Saints here are striving to do the things that we are commanded to do in order to obtain eternal life. Our conference passed off pleasantly, the weather was fine. The elders present were T. C. Kelley, D. H. Tucker and W. L. Booker. Bro. T. C. Kelley gave us some of his rousing sermons.

Bro. D. H. Tucker gave us a farewell hand-shake and departed for his native home, not knowing whether he would be permitted the privilege of ever meeting with us again; may God bless him and protect him and give him his desired health, and also all the elders who have forsaken families and are gone far from home to carry the angel's message.

We had the privilege of meeting one more Christmas and had a pleasant time with our Christmas boat containing its many presents for the children; a number of temperance pieces were recited. I have a question to ask and would be glad to have it explained to me. Who was Melchisedec? Hebrews 7:3 reads thus: "Without father, without mother, without descent, having neither beginning of days nor end of life, but made like unto the Son of God abideth a priest continually." For fear my writing may not be of much value and may take up too much space in your valuable columns, I will come to a close by asking an interest in your prayers.

Yours for the gospel's sake, JACOB JOEL MILLER.

[Hebrews 7:3 in the Holy Scriptures translated and corrected by the Spirit of revelation through Joseph Smith the Seer, reads: "For this Melchisedec was ordained a priest after the order of the Son of God, WHICH ORDER WAS WITHOUT FATHER, WITHOUT MOTHER, WITHOUT DESCENT, HAVING NEITHER BEGINNING OF DAYS, NOR END OF LIFE. AND ALL THOSE WHO ARE ORDAINED UNTO THIS PRIESTHOOD ARE MADE LIKE UNTO THE SON OF GOD, abiding a priest continually." "Three Bibles Compared" shows these discrepancies and explains clearly many puzzling questions arising from the errors of uninspired men. This book, paper cover, is for sale at this office, 25 cents each. The comparisons are made between King James, the Revised and the Inspired Translations.—ED.]

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Jan. 2.

Editor Ensign:—Perhaps it would interest others to know concerning the Master's work in Council Bluffs. While it is not flourishing as we should like it, yet the future seems bright. There are a number of earnest workers in this town, and by a special effort this coming year a great deal can be done. A few can accomplish a great deal if in earnest. It seems strange that the burden of "push" is left with comparatively few. But we are told we must not murmur. Maybe the Lord will crown the few with success if they toil on.

We have regular meetings in our little chapel, and attendance fairly good. We have also opened meetings south of town every Sunday at three o'clock. Would kindly ask the Saints to turn out and help us. I am satisfied that the Lord has many honest and good people here; there only needs work done, but we cannot expect to convert the world and sit with folded arms. We have an excellent Sunday School, and I can't help but say, God bless the Sunday Schools! And may He bless our Religion. From these departments we expect the future success of the gospel. May greater activity be manifest; maybe God will work through them in mightier way. Is it not worth every effort on our part to help them?

It seems strange to me that so few take an interest in the Religion; maybe they do not realize what it does. But if they would stop and meditate, they would discover that from the ranks of the Religion, as well as the Sunday School, God will select efficient workers—young men and young women who acquaint themselves how God deals with humanity, and having become strong in character, can move out and assist others. It is not only the knowledge they acquire, but desire as well. It is those who manifest a desire and willingness to prepare themselves that God will honor.

We are now at the beginning of another year, and as we take a look back we discover that in our own selves we are very weak and frail, and our success depends on our faith and confidence in God. If we should drive a nail into a post for every opportunity lost, for every sin committed, and we tried to make it up by pulling out a nail for every good deed that we would do, after the nails were all pulled out, we would have done a good work, but the marks would still be there. How much better not to have those marks. "As we sow so shall we reap," although we know the Lord is very merciful to those that try to do right.

Let us unite ourselves for the coming year and see if we can add to our numbers in our various departments of work for the Master.

Praying the Lord will give us the sufficient grace, I am

Your brother for the cause of Zion, A. E. MADISON.

NEW FLORENCE, Montgomery Co., Mo., December 9.

Editor Ensign:—Bro. C. J. Spurlock and Beebe were here one week and preached for us; we got the Methodist church that they had not used for over a year, but when the Saints came and preached two sermons, they sent an appointment to that church and said we could not preach in the house, so we had to close.

We baptized one from the Christian or Campbellite church. They are holding a protracted meeting which has been going on for a month; we did not want to interfere with this meeting in town, so we visited some in town and Bro. Spurlock and Beebe went on to their work to Osage county, Missouri. We are looking for Bro. D. C. Tucker to come soon.

Yours in the faith, F. M. BASS.

BEAVER, Mo., Dec. 29.

Editor Ensign:—Quite a number of the Saints have been writing from different places inquiring about the country and its production. It is rather a rough, hilly, broken timber country, on which can be grown produce, all kinds of grain and tame grass; it is a good country to raise stock, and a good dairy country.

Three families of Saints have bought farms, and two have homesteads near us; and there is plenty of good openings for good, true Latter Day Saints whose eyes and minds are turned Zionward, and who have a desire to move into the "regions round about," where good, cheap homes can be secured both for cash and trade.

The work is moving onward here. Elder J. C. Christensen is preaching at this place; sixteen have been baptized here, and seven recently; others are interested in the gospel.

At a regularly appointed business meeting the Saints decided to build a church at this place; myself and Elder J. C. Christensen were chosen to act as trustees and building committee solicitors, with authority to appoint others to assist in that work, and as the burden is too heavy for the few poor Saints who reside here to bear alone, we would be very thankful for assistance, either small or large. The church has a membership of 40,000, and ten cents from each would not be felt, and at the same time be a big help to building our house of worship; in fact, a dollar or more by many would not be any drawback to the donors. A dollar or more can be sent by postoffice money order on Granada, Douglas county, Missouri. Dimes, quarters and half dollars can placed in a pasteboard, making a hole the size of the coin, and be sent to either of the committee named at Beaver, Douglas county, Missouri.

In making this request I do not consider it begging, as the work is the Lord's as well as the earth and the fullness thereof, and as this is about the center of the South Missouri district, we wish to put up a good, suitable house, with an open Bible and free pulpit to all denominations when not in use by the Saints.

At present we are holding our social services and Sunday School in private houses, and we hope and pray that God, as well as the Saints, will hear our humble cry, a friend in need being a friend indeed.

Yours in gospel bonds, JACOB E. SWEGART.

GUIDE ROCK, Neb., Dec. 15.

Dear Ensign:—It seems a great comfort to we who are isolated to give vent to our pent up feelings through your pages. It is very lonesome away from the Saints, but God knows what is best for us, and perhaps it is for our good.

Did you ever notice and admire some tree growing alone on a hill, and see how it braves the storm, and grows stronger thereby? Dear Saints, let us that are alone take heart and strive to grow strong and noble by standing firm amid the storms of life that surround us.

There are some here that seem interested, but the majority are indifferent. I think Emerson fittingly describes them when he says, "He in whom the love of reason predominates will accept the first creed, the first philosophy, the first political party, he meets with—most likely his father's. He gets rest, commodity and reputation, but he shuts the doors of truth." I believe that is the trouble with a great many people.

We have had some preaching here this fall, by Bro. Walter Self, of Nebraska, and also by my brother, A. H. Bro. Chas. Porter, of Nebraska, comes down once in a while. I have a brother living about ten miles northwest of Alva, Oklahoma, who would like to have an elder come there and preach; his wife belongs to the church, he does not belong, but is a truth seeker.

We would like to know where our northwest Kansas elders are, although our postoffice is Nebraska, we live across the line, and would gladly welcome any of them, when they see fit to come this way.

Your sister in the faith, OLIVE V. PARSONS.

HEPORTH, Ont., Dec., '00.

Editor Ensign:—The Ensign always brings good news to our home, although we do not take it ourselves, we always have the privilege of reading it. I go to Sunday School whenever convenient; my teacher is Sr. Phemia Terrie, and I appreciate her teaching very much, can always learn a good lesson from her; am sorry to say will not have her much longer as she thinks of going to Toronto. Elder MacGregor was the first elder to proclaim the glad tidings of good news to this part of God's vineyard, and that it is really true that God has restored the everlasting gospel to earth by angel hands for the last time.

Oh, let us rejoice in the day of salvation.

No longer as strangers on earth need we roam; Good tidings are sounding to us and each nation, And shortly the hour of redemption will come.

We invite Bro. MacGregor to come again when it is convenient.

Elder John Shields left here about a week ago; the last Sunday he preached at Sauble Falls the Spirit of God was upon him, and he spoke in the gifts of tongues, and through the interpretation Bro. Smith, of the Colopy branch, was called as priest, and Bro. Waters, of the same branch, as teacher. Dear Saints, this assists us to so live till we see the Master coming in power and great glory to gather His Saints, and ask an interest in your prayers that I may increase my faith and live faithful, that my lamp shall be trimmed and burning when the Master comes. I remain

Your sister in the one true faith, EMILINA BARNES.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

A TRUE RECORD.

Sermon by Elder R. C. Evans, delivered at Saints' church, Independence, Missouri, Sunday, April 29, 1900.

I count myself happy in being thus privileged to address you; and by special promptings, I purpose to talk to you tonight upon a special line of thought, new to me at least. I draw your attention to the 10th chapter of Proverbs and 9th verse, where you will read these words:

A false witness shall not be unpunished and he that speaketh lies shall perish.

My effort tonight will be to raise some objections that we have heard raised against the Book of Mormon and the work in general that we represent. I shall try to answer as best I can in the time allotted to me tonight those serious objections that are so commonly urged against the work.

It is, perhaps, fair to say that the great majority of the people who are in opposition to this marvelous work have never carefully read it; indeed I have known men of high standing among the clergy to confess, while they have opposed it vehemently, that they have never read it, nor would they stoop to peruse its pages. This is an unfortunate position to occupy, not only in regard to the Book of Mormon, but to every other good book. To show you that this is unfair, I submit this thought: Were we to take the Bible and go to a heathen nation, desirous of presenting the words therein to the people, and their priests were at once to denounce it as a deception and fraud and were we to appeal to them to read the Bible, and they to reply that they had never read it, never heard it read, and never would permit themselves to peruse its pages, how long, think you, before that nation would be brought to God? It is good advice, whether found in the sacred record before me, or if never uttered before, "to prove all things and hold fast that which is good."

The world that surrounds us offers many objections to this work; and if we can, tonight, remove those objections, perchance some who are honest and sincere will think more of this marvelous work and a wonder that has been committed to the sons of men in these last days.

Perhaps the greatest objection that is urged against the divine authenticity of this book is the fact, as claimed, that it contains the support and authority for the practice of the infamous doctrine of polygamy. Now, to a well posted Latter Day Saint, this, perhaps, would seem a false issue; but nine-tenths of the world who know anything of Mormonism in its earlier or later stages, are of the opinion in the very moment the Book of Mormon is presented to them, that in that book is contained the foundation for the practice of polygamy in the salt land.

Now, if that position is occupied by teeming thousands of the world, and upon investigation tonight, we find that the book is silent as to its support of this infamous doctrine, I say again, if we discover that this book is not only silent as to supporting this crime, but discover, on the contrary, that in its denunciation of this crime it is more terse and plain and unmistakable than any other book of which we know, if that can be proven, then this great objection against this book falls to the ground.

Some may think that my statement is unwarranted, when I say that no other book that has ever come into my hands contains within its pages a stronger, more terse and unmistakable denunciation of polygamy than does the book called the Book of Mormon; and for the benefit of the few perhaps who may be here, who are unacquainted with this work, I desire to read one paragraph from this Book of Mormon, a paragraph that is unexampled in its plain, terse denunciation of this crime. Permit me to read as follows:

"But the word of God burthens me because of your grosser crimes. [Here it is called a gross crime, whatever he refers to]. For behold, thus said the Lord, This people begin to wax in iniquity [he calls it here iniquity]; they understand not the Scriptures: for they seek to excuse themselves in committing whoredoms, because of the things which are written concerning David, and Solomon his son. Behold, David and Solomon truly had many wives and concubines, which thing was abominable before me, saith the Lord; wherefore, thus saith the Lord, I have led this people forth out of the land of Jerusalem, by the power of mine arm, that I might raise up unto me a righteous branch from the fruit of the loins of Joseph. Wherefore, I, the Lord God, will not suffer that this people shall do like unto them of old. Wherefore, my brethren, hear me, and hearken to the word of the Lord: For there shall not any man among you have save it be ONE WIFE: and concubines he shall have none: For I, the Lord God, delighteth in the chastity of women."

I may read no farther, suffice it to say that there are eight specific denunciations in this one paragraph—and I have only read to you part of the paragraph—concerning this infamous doctrine, and practice of polygamy, found in this book. We cannot find a similar one anywhere near like it in this book, the Bible. Do not let my hearers tonight mistake me, and go away saying that the speaker upon this occasion believes or stated that the Bible endorses polygamy—not that—it denounces it, but not so plainly or tersely, and as unanswerable as this text; and this passage is only one of many that might be referred to in this sacred volume, the Book of Mormon.

Now, if this has been an objection—and we know it has—and upon investigation we find that this book denounces this work as a crime, then that objection, at least, must fall to the ground. I may say to you that in all of my reading I have never discovered one single statement in all the literature published to the world by the people who went astray and exhibited their folly in the western valley, where they have even made the claim that this book was their authority for the practice of that heinous crime. Their best men, their file leaders, admit that the practice of this awful crime was not endorsed by the prophet of this church, nor practiced by him, or them, until long after they went out amid the mountains.

This, perhaps, may be denied by some, and so I furnish you a few statements made by some of their leading men. George Q. Cannon, one of the presidency out there, in a sermon preached by him on June 11, 1871, found in the Journal of Discourses, volume 14, pages 165-6, says:

"A prevalent idea has been that this prejudice against us owes its origin and continuation to our belief in a plurality of wives * * * Joseph and Hyrum Smith were slain in Carthage jail, and hundreds of persons were persecuted to death previous to the church having any knowledge of this doctrine."

"There is a good, clear statement from one of the presidency, that Joseph Smith and Hyrum Smith knew nothing of this doctrine, and that they who practiced it in later years, knew nothing of it until they had gone to the salt land.

Brigham Young is on record as follows: Being interviewed in 1860 by United States Senator Trumbull, said:

"As to our institutions, we know we are right, and polygamy, which you object to, was not originally a part of our system, but was adopted by us as a necessity [when?] after we came here."

Enough upon this. We might cite evidence that would occupy the entire hour, but we trust that the admission of Brigham Young, the admission of George Q. Cannon, the statements of the Book of Mormon and all the history that has ever been printed upon the case by those who knew, are convincing evidences that the Book of Mormon does not teach nor sanction polygamy; neither did the prophet Joseph, nor his followers as long as they remained true to the simple gospel plan, as found in the Book of Mormon and the revelations to the church. So that objection must pass.

Another objection is urged—and a common one too. I remember in discussion in the Dominion of Canada, with a Baptist minister, he urged one like this:

"Elder, I want to be honest with you tonight. I am going to ask you a question: will you answer?"

"Yes, sir."

"Is there not enough truth in the Bible, the New Testament, I mean, to save a man?"

And I answered, "Yes, if a man has authority to act in the ordinances therein described?"

"Then, I think we might just as well close this discussion now, as at any other time. If there is enough in the New Testament to save a man, then what do we want of your Book of Mormon? All we want is salvation, and the little minister has made the admission that we obtain salvation if we obey the gospel as found in the New Testament."

Well, that was, of course, considered a clincher, but I had one behind it.

"Now," I said, "I have been willing to answer you a question, you answer me one now. Was there enough revealed in Old Testament times to save a man? Now," I said, "Doctor, I have no disposition to get you in a trap, I don't care whether you answer this question in the affirmative or in the negative, I will make a little argument for you and help you out so you will not be able to say that I took you unawares. If you answer in the affirmative I will agree with you. If you answer in the negative, then it proves that Adam, that Enoch, that Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, that Daniel, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel and all the holy prophets have gone down into a vortex of despair, for there was no New Testament in their time."

"Well," he said, "Brother, I think, perhaps, there was enough revealed in Old Testament times to save a man."

"Then, sir, after your own logic, let me say, if there was enough revealed in Old Testament times to save a man, what is the use of your New Testament? That argument is just as big as yours. It said if there was enough in the New Testament, what do we need of your Book of Mormon? The fact are, God revealed himself in the old Testament times according to the condition the world was in."

I do not take the position that the Almighty reveals to the world according to His omnipotence and omniscience and would reveal intelligence, but He adapts Himself to the conditions of men and reveals Himself according as they may have the power to comprehend. And God, in His infinite mercy, has led the world along the sunny way of truth as they were able to bask beneath its radiant gleams, and so we say that it was necessary for Him to reveal the grand truths, the gospel truths, in Old Testament times, and to continue to reveal Himself in New Testament times, and to continue to reveal Himself just according to His loving promises and to the provisions that He has made by which He has declared in the seventeenth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles, that He has made of one blood all nations of men, and has determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation, that they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from any one of us."

Here, then, we discover that God is no respecter of persons, as stated by Peter in the 10th of Acts. If God is no respecter of persons, and He has made of one blood all nations of men, then He is in duty bound, as the eternal Father, to reveal Himself to these nations so that they may have an opportunity here or hereafter in the worlds that are without end, until the last soul has heard the tocsin of alarm, and had the privilege of entering into the sunny way. So that the objection that is found urged that there is enough in the New Testament to save a man is no objection to the Book of Mormon or any other revelation that God may give to the sons of men.

Now, what is the object of this book? Well, maybe I had better read from the book itself; if it is a bad book, the sooner we discard it the better. It just seems that God, in His infinite mercy, left the world without an excuse. He did not only write the object of this book here in its latter pages, but on the very first page the object of the book is revealed. "It is to the convincing of the Jew and the Gentile that Jesus is the Christ, the eternal God." Is that the object of this book? Is that a worthy object? I opine that any book that has for its object the convincing of the Jew and of the gentile that Jesus is the Christ, is a book that should be placed in the hands of everybody.

Does it not seem remarkably strange to you tonight, that if this book has been preserved, is now circulated throughout the world, and the avowed purpose therein stated, namely, the convincing of the Jew and the gentile, that Jesus is the Christ, if that is its object, why should any man who loves Jesus Christ be found in opposition to this work? It seems to me that it doesn't matter who wrote it, it doesn't matter where it came from; if we hold in our hand a book that has this for its object, it would be a good thing to place in every man's hands, if that object is considered a laudable one.

If it is true that Jesus is the Christ, let every move to promulgate this truth be supported by every man that loves the Christ. "Well," says one, "doesn't the New Testament do that?" Well, it has not accomplished this work. While it is serving to convince gentiles, to a limited degree, that Jesus is the Christ, it has been almost a total failure with regard to the convincing of the Jew. Let me give you a conversation that is supposed to have taken place between a Jew and a converted gentile.

The gentile says to the Jew, "Isaac, why don't you obey the gospel and give your heart to Jesus?" Isaac's face is lit up with a broad smile of pity and he says, "Say, Jesus, whom you call Christ, is a brother of mine after the flesh. You will permit me to know as much about my family as you. Now, our fathers declare that he was a 'vine biber,' that he was a 'glutinous man,' that he was a 'blasphemer.' Our historians, of his time, declare that 'he was born of a poor woman who was condemned of a nameless crime, cast off by her husband; that she gave birth to Jesus in a dilapidated barn, that he was the offspring of an old Roman soldier. That at twelve years of age he left the house at Galilee and went down to Egypt and there learned sleight of hand and legerdemain and came back in latter years, and by the quickness of the hand that deceives the eye, he professed to turn water into wine, to deceive the people by his arts and tricks; and that he took unto himself ten or eleven vile publicans and sailors with him, and went about the world getting his living in a bad and a shameful way. Our people tell the story that they finally arrested him, that one of his good friends who was in the scheme went back on him, that he was betrayed by one of his own followers, and we crucified him because he was not fit to live." Now part of this is taken from Lardner's History of Christianity and some of it from the New Testament.

Oh, but the christian goes back to the Jew and he says, "Ah but your people were mistaken." But the Jew says, "Why, our people have written book after book against this Christ, exposing the fallacy of His claims." But the average person (christian) who is willing to receive any book that is written up against Latter Day Saints, will at once come out and say, "These books were written by His enemies;" and yet they will use the books that are written against us by our enemies. Did you ever know a man who was in good standing in this church write a book against it? No. Did you ever know a man who was in good standing in this church write a book against Christ? No. You will not read anything that is written against Jesus, because you say it is written by his enemies. Be consistent then and refuse to hear any slander against the Latter Day Saints.

Isaac brings up all this evidence, and the christian, full of faith and zeal, replies to Isaac, "Your people were mistaken, and do you know, Isaac, two or three days after your people crucified our Christ, He arose triumphant from death, hell and the grave?" And Isaac laughs again and says, "Who told you?" "Oh," the christian says, "the New Testament, almost every writer in that makes the statement there, and many of them declare that they saw Him; they ate and drank with Him after that resurrection." And Isaac laughs again and says, "You poor fool, don't you know that the very men who testify to you in the New Testament that Jesus rose from the dead, are the very men whom my fathers declare were guilty of stealing his dead body away and then getting up that yarn? That is no evidence to me sir, that Jesus rose from the dead," and he gets off another thought and says, "If Jesus Christ arose from the dead, why didn't he walk up to the temple that beautiful morning, that bright Sunday morning and say, 'Here, look at the wounds in my hands and feet, see the hole the spear made in my side. I am the man you killed over there Friday morning.'" He says, "he didn't because you know that the only evidence that you have that he arose from the dead, are the very men and women who, our fathers say, stole him away. He didn't go up there because he was still dead."

Ah, friends, don't you know that Jews make that argument right along. One celebrated gentleman has said, "You bring to me the evidence that Jesus Christ has arisen from the dead and I will kiss the ground upon which he trod." I might proceed further along this imaginary conversation with Isaac, but you see that he takes our New Testament and shows that these charges were openly made against the disciples, and the New Testament shows they were.

A great many people say to us with regard to the golden plates from which the Book of Mormon was taken, "Show us these plates and we will believe." You know that it is a common request made. The Jew can play infidel and say, "Show us your Christ and we will believe." The infidel has just as much right to demand of the christians, "Show us your Christ, show that He is arisen from the dead, produce Him," as the common christian has to say to us, "Show us your golden plates and we will believe." Now that is only a subterfuge. They would not believe if we were to bring a hundred pounds of plates here and bring plates just as described in the history in the coming forth of the Book of Mormon; they would say we had secured some metals and fixed them up and cast them down at the foundry; but it is no evidence at all, and neither would it be any evidence, only it is an objection, that's all.

Now, how is the Book of Mormon going to convince the Jew that Jesus is the Christ. We have discovered that the New Testament will not convince the Jew that Jesus is the Christ, because he doesn't believe that the testimony is true. He says that the men who wrote it were the very ones who were accused of being the persons who stole the dead body away. Now, with this thought before us, we are met at the very threshold of our examination into this book, that it has for its object the convincing of the Jew that Jesus is the Christ. How will that be brought about? We come to Isaac again and we have been chased out of the New Testament by him, we will get into the old. We say, "Isaac, what do you think about Moses?" "Oh, Moses, God's great prophet, Israel's great leader. I believe every word he says." "All right, Isaac." "God revealed through Moses that the posterity of Joseph of Egypt was to become a multitude of nations in the midst of the earth." (Gen. 48:14-20). "Yes," he says, "I believe that I read that and I have not understood it." The posterity of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasseh, Moses declares farther on, that they were to go to a land far away from that given to Abraham and Isaac. "The blessings of thy fathers have prevailed above the blessing of my progenitors unto the utmost bounds of the everlasting hills." (Gen. 49:22-26). He says, "I believe that." The posterity of Joseph were to go to a foreign land away off, to the utmost bounds of the everlasting hills, they were to become a multitude of nations. "Yes, I believe that, and I believe that Moses was inspired to write it." Why, it was to be so distinctly pronounced their land, that away back there in the 33d chapter of Deuteronomy Moses is inspired to write, "Blessed of the Lord be his land," and gives a splendid description of Joseph's land. Well, now, you believe that? "Yes."

Now we go over to Isaiah. "You believe Isaiah, Isaac?" "Oh, Isaiah, why he is the golden tongued prophet of Israel, I believe him." Isaiah, speaking of this very event, the posterity of Joseph going to a foreign land, says, that they were to cross over the sea from Jazer, and that they were to go to a beautiful land, described in the 16th of Isaiah, and he goes on farther in giving a description of this land, and declares that it is beyond the rivers of Ethiopia, and geographically describing it as the land shadowing with wings." (Isa. 18:1). And then we get after Isaac and have him describe North and South America and the Isthmus of Panama between. He says, "That is just what Isaiah says, I never thought of that."

We go to Jeremiah and we say, "Do you believe Jeremiah, Isaac." "Yes, Jeremiah was the heart-broken prophet of Israel." There we find that he gives a description of the people coming to this country, declares that the course was from the land of Jazer, and giving a description of the second colony, that they were to come from the very parts of the country where the first colony had been, declaring that there gold and silver and metal had all been discovered by the second emigration. (Jer. 49:30-32).

"Why," he says, "I have read that, but I never understood it." And we take the Book of Mormon and we say to him, "We have that book that gives a full description of how the first people came as described over there in Genesis, when the people were building a tower to get to heaven, and how that they were scattered over all the face of the earth, and America is part of the earth, Isaac, so the chances are that some them came here." We take Isaac to his own dear historian Josephus and we cite him there how Josephus declares that upon a certain occasion a number came over the sea in ships (Whiston chapter 5, page 34); and we take him to this Book of Mormon, and we give him a glowing description here, how that at the tower of Babel when the language was confused, how that that people came to this continent, and we give him two hundred pages of description here as to how they came, where they entered the land, who they were, how many there were as to numbers, and we get him interested. He is beginning to believe that there is something in this book, because Moses is behind it, Jeremiah is behind it, and Isaiah behind it, and he believes their testimony.

We then bring him to the 49th chapter of Jeremiah, where the second colony is described as coming in and occupying the place where the first colony came in. We give him a full description how they came. We show that Isaiah and Jeremiah said they were to wander through the wilderness, how they wandered eight years, how they were to find the gold, silver and metal, etc., and how they discovered the gold and silver, and the cattle and the desolated homes of the former occupants, and he is interested at once. He said, "Now, if my prophets would only show that such a book contained the history of such a people, and it was to come forth, oh, then I'd believe."

I said, "Now, you have unshaken faith in Isaiah?" Yes, and we ask him to read the 29th chapter of Isaiah and there he will learn that the people were to become like unto Israel of the other part; that he was to become unto him as Ariel, and they could not be unto him as Ariel unless they were of Israel; and we read to him there, how that that people, by reason of their iniquity, were to be brought down, and four times in one verse we show him that that people were to speak out of the ground, whisper out of the dust. Their voice would be as one that hath a familiar spirit, out of the earth, and they should whisper out of the ground. And Isaac says, "Brother, what does Isaiah mean about a people whispering out of the dust and talking out of the ground?" And we reason with him like this and we say, "The only way in which a people can whisper out of the dust and talk out of the ground, is to have written their history upon imperishable material, and that history be buried in the ground and come forth out of the ground." And he says, "That is reasonable and I'd like a few strong proofs of it," and we say, "Keep right on," and he recognizes in this chapter that these are mysteries. And he reads, "And the first vision of all is become unto you as the words of a book," and the reader discovers that Isaiah shows plainly that the words of a book were prophesied of as having come out of the ground and that they were to convince the Jew and the gentile that Jesus was the Christ.

Briefly, let me say, that we can go to the Old Testament, tell all the story of the coming forth of the Book of Mormon—which I can touch just barely tonight—and we can do it from his own standpoint, his own dear, beloved prophets, and we get him interested until he believes the book because his prophets foretold its coming forth; and when he believes the book, he is made to confess that Jesus is the Christ because the book is full of the Christ. That is one reason why the world should endorse that book, because it brings into prominence before the Jew the prophecies that he believes in, and proves to him the coming forth of this marvelous work and a wonder. Much more could be said upon that line, but we pass on to another objection.

Nearly every encyclopedia, and nearly every book that has been written upon this work by the clergy, have all placed their efforts against the work in the "Spalding Romance" or "Manuscript Found." Now, I cannot tell you all about the "Manuscript Found" tonight. I have not the time to read to you all the stories that have been circulated, but I am going to offer to you two statements—not made by backwoods people, but doctors of divinity—as to the true origin of the Book of Mormon, from their standpoint. Those of you who want a full record of this will do well to purchase Bro. Etzenhouser's work, "From Palmyra to Independence."

"There was living in Bethany a Rev. M. Spalding, * * * He had written some chronicles on the ruins of Central America and some Bible truths mixed up together. * * * Joe Smith and Cochran got some knowledge and borrowed it, and from the help of Spalding's manuscript they made the Mormon Bible. Rev. Mr. Spalding called and sent for it a great many times, and his wife came for it, but Smith would not let them have it. Smith told Spalding, and I heard him—" (Notice, this reverend gentleman did not get this from anybody else, he was there on the spot,— "Smith told Spalding and I heard him.") What did you hear him tell Spalding? "That he made a Mormon Bible of it, and the Lord had taken it into the wilderness, and he, Joe Smith, prophesied where it was deposited in Palmyra woods about twelve miles east of Rochester, New York."

"Now, this is a true history of Joe Smith and the Book of Mormon." This is said by Samuel D. Green. He makes one other statement here. He says, "I saw Mr. Spalding as late as 1827 and he refers to one William Jenkins, now dead, and he says he saw Spalding in 1829." Let us look at that just for a moment. This man heard Joe Smith tell Spalding he would not give him his book. You cannot have that book; why? I have made a Mormon Bible out of it. You state that Spalding never told on Smith; that he never instituted proceedings to bring Smith into jeopardy because he had stolen his book. Did you ever hear that Spalding ever made such a statement? Never in the world.

Now, when did Spalding tell this man Green all about this? He had conversation with Spalding in 1827; that is the only date he gives as having talked to Spalding. Mrs. Spalding tells the world, and has been wearing widow's weeds ever since, declaring that Spalding died in 1816, yet this reverend gentleman had a long conversation with Spalding about this stolen book and Joe Smith away down in 1827. This is truth, yea, verily. That Spalding died in 1816, told this gentleman all about Smith and his book, over here in 1827. Well, he didn't want to be alone in this talk so he says, Bro. "Jenkins talked to Spalding" ing in 1820." All of Spalding's people and every encyclopedia that I have ever read, says that Spalding died in 1816. You can believe that if you will, maybe you have more faith in him than I have. But Bro. Green is supported a good deal in this by another gentleman.

In the Congregationalist, of October 24, 1877, the Rev. Tyron Edwards, D. D., of Philadelphia, gives the whole thing away. This is no back woods preacher, I will give you to understand. Here is a doctor of divinity on record. This is not a hasty statement made in the pulpit, but this gentleman wrote it in the paper, placed it there for publication, and it has gone all over the world. He tells what he knows about the Book of Mormon as follows: he says,

"The Book of Mormon was in substance written by Rev. Solomon Spalding, who was a graduate of Dartmouth College and a Presbyterian minister, * * * Beginning in 1809, and writing at intervals as he did, he often read parts of the work to his neighbors, and among the listeners was Joseph Smith, who not only attended the readings, but borrowed the manuscript, as he said, to read to his family at home. In 1812 the completed manuscript was placed in the hands of printer, etc." Let us look at this for a moment. This man agrees with Bro. Green that Smith borrowed the manuscript; but why did Smith borrow this manuscript? It is not left for us to guess. Furthermore, as Spalding used to read it every night to his friendly neighbors, the men that lived around his place—and Joe Smith was one of these men—and Joe used to come over every night and hear him read, you know he got so interested that he borrowed it, and read it to his family at home. That is one good thing, Joseph was not willing to become educated himself and leave his wife and children in ignorance at home. That is rather a good thing, you know. When did he do this? Sometime between 1809 and 1812. The whole manuscript was complete in 1812. Smith had given it back to him, and he had placed it in the hands of a printer, howbeit, the other fellow said Smith would not give it back. Of course we must be charitable to these doctors of divinity because while they differ, I guess they both tell the truth. It was a kind of an ecclesiastical equivocation, giving evidence that they had developed a wonderful fondness for preambulating around the suburbs of veracity, but being reverend gentlemen, you will have to break it gently, not to cause a prostration. So Smith borrowed this work and read it to his family. When? Sometime between 1809 and 1812. If it was 1809, Joseph read it to his family when he was between three and four years of age. Now, the preacher says—I don't want any of you people to laugh at me—it is a statement made by the Rev. Dr. Edwards, Doctor of Divinity, in the great city of learning down here in Philadelphia, how that Smith had a family down there in 1809. He was born in 1805. Every encyclopedia so publishes it, born December 23, 1805. I suppose he only had one wife then, and if he had one wife and one family in 1809, when he was only three years of age, it is not to be wondered at that he increased wonderfully in later years.

Now, you people can believe this story as against all the prophecies of the Bible, and all the statements made by the people connected with the coming forth of this wonderful work, this marvelous work and a wonder, so far as you like. I briefly, now, draw your attention to the encyclopedias. Nearly every encyclopedia gives this yarn, this Spalding story, and yet there isn't a man of intelligence in this audience who dare to stand up and say, I believe that Edwards told the truth. That Smith got this thing from Spalding and read it to his family in 1809. There isn't a man living that will say there was any truth in that statement. It is contrary to all facts, contrary to reason and common sense, and yet the encyclopedias contain this story, the Spalding Romance. Says one, "If it is in the encyclopedias it must be true." There is a fallacy and I want to examine it a moment. You people must not believe that because a statement is found in the encyclopedia, that therefore it is true; because every good encyclopedia means to give all the facts on both sides of the case.

For instance, we take up the Encyclopedia Britannica. It goes on and gives Joseph Smith a fearful character, and it contains this Spalding Romance, and before it gets through it gives the other side of the story, which says that the Spalding Romance is false, and concerning Joseph Smith it declares he was a good man. But you know it is just "pay your money and take your choice." The man that wants to believe Joseph Smith was a bad man, finds certain things in the encyclopedia that seem to prove it. The man that wants the facts in the case and reads the whole story, as recorded in the encyclopedia, declares that some folks say that Smith was a bad man and the Book of Mormon was taken from the Spalding Romance, and if he is willing to read all the facts, will discover that it says that the Spalding Romance is a silly fabrication.

Let me show you how reliable this Encyclopedia Britannica is. I happened to look at it today. It tells the story how that Joseph Smith and Sidney Rigdon were arrested charged with fearful crimes, among them theft and murder. You punish people for murder in this country, unless the murdered ones happen to be Latter Day Saints, then this "land of the free" doesn't punish them. (?) But do you know that that very encyclopedia declares that while these men were charged with murder, they escaped. Did they send the officers after them? No. Did they ever arrest him for that charge again? No. "Oh," says one, "Smith was such a villain, just as soon as he made his escape he got out of the country and he was never heard of again." Oh no, he didn't. He went right across the river and went to the chief authorities of the nation and he obtained a charter and built a city; thousands of people flocked around him. Wasn't that a funny way for a murderer to hide from justice? Will this great nation of the United States tell me that Joseph Smith was guilty of murder, that he escaped from prison and that this great nation never attempted for the smallest part of a minute to re-arrest him? Will this nation tell me that that murderer went unpunished, and that the murderer went to the chief authorities of the nation and obtained a charter to build a city? That encyclopedia tells both those stories. Are they true? What do you think of your people as a nation? That would have a man in jail for murder, and that man could get away and this nation would never try to catch him again, and that that nation would grant him a charter to build a city, and that he built the city, lived there in prosperity for years afterwards. And then when they did arrest him the chief man of the state is on record as saying that there was nothing against him, and when the rumor went out that Governor Ford would have him released the band of cut-throats and murderers assembled, and as Smucker tells the story, their confession was that if the laws of this country cannot kill him, powder and shot can, and they killed him. So the world was quite anxious to get rid of him. They arrested him upon a number of charges and a number of times, but they never found anything against him, and the verdict of the last court that tried him—I mean that mob—was that the laws of our country cannot bring anything against him, so we had better kill him, and they raised a mob to do it. So you see the encyclopedias are not always good ground for you to exercise your faith on. Another instance: Chambers' Encyclopedia goes on in the early part of it to show that Joseph Smith was a polygamist and before it gets through it says it cannot be proven that Joseph Smith was a polygamist. There is your encyclopedia.

Now, it is said that three witnesses bore testimony to the divine authenticity of this latter day work. We will put these three witnesses up against Edwards' story about the four year old boy having a family there.

"Be it known unto all nations, kindreds, tongues and people, unto whom this work shall come, that we, through the grace of God the Father, and our Lord Jesus Christ, have seen the plates which contain this record."

This testimony shows that God by the hand of an angel shows the plates from which the Book of Mormon was taken to those three men, that they saw them, they handled them, they talked to the angel in broad daylight right out in open space. They have since described the appearance of that angel declaring that he had light hair, blue eyes, that he wore a beautiful garment of pure white, reaching down below his knees, opening in front so they could see his bosom, flowing sleeves, etc.; that they asked him questions, that he replied as a man talketh with his friends.

Yes, but the encyclopedia says that these witnesses denied their testimony. Yes, and the encyclopedia states they did no such a thing, too; you can believe the one part if you want to, but I had sooner believe what the men have said, and what the encyclopedia declares that they undoubtedly said. It is stated by good authority, the dying testimony of those three men is in existence. Oliver Cowdery died in Richmond, Ray County, Missouri, and his last words to David Whitmer were, "Be true to your testimony, Brother David." If time would permit we could give you his last words in full and the last scenes of his life, showing that he stood firm in his integrity as to the divine authenticity of this work. Martin Harris did the same, David Whitmer did the same. David Whitmer called a doctor to his bed-side as he lay dying there; the doctor pronouncing him sane, he then bore his testimony and signed for the last time that testimony and then gave up the ghost.

It is said that those three witnesses quarrelled with Joseph Smith and finally were estranged from him and went out from the church. Suppose we admit that. It seems to me that that makes the case all the stronger. If they had been going "snooks" with Joseph Smith up to the time of their death, it would have been different; but they did not agree with Joseph in all matters, with the policy of the church in many things and finally dwindled away. But did they ever deny their testimony as to the divine calling of Joseph Smith, as to the divine authenticity of the Book of Mormon? Never. Their last dying words were that the Book of Mormon is true.

This is also true of the eight witnesses whose testimony is appended here, all died in full faith of the divine authenticity of this work. Joseph Smith whose life was one long sigh, one long sad tear, a life of deprivation, of sorrow, a victim of misplaced confidence all around, yet he stood in the gate of death and died firm in his testimony that an angel had appeared to him.

I draw your attention to this thought, as the closing one, that hundreds and thousands of people have believed the testimony of Joseph Smith and these other men, and have read the book and learned that the promise of God in that book was that if they would obey the things taught therein that God, by the Holy Ghost, would reveal to them the divine authenticity of this work; and those hundreds and thousands have gone down to the tongueless silence of the tomb with their faces aglow with the hope that has filled their hearts, by reason of God having fulfilled His promise in proving to them that this work was no cunningly devised fable of man,

$2.50 SENT FREE!

THE WELL KNOWN CHICAGO HEART SPECIALIST, FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS SPECIAL TREATMENT TO OUR READERS.

There never was a better opportunity for persons suffering from diseases of the heart, nerves, liver, stomach or dropsy to test, free, a New and Complete Treatment for these disorders. Dr. Miles is well known as a leading specialist in these diseases, and his liberal offer is certainly worthy of serious consideration by every afflicted reader.

This new system of Special Treatment is thoroughly scientific and immensely superior to the ordinary methods. It consists of several remedies carefully selected to suit each individual case, and is the final result of twenty-five years of very extensive research and experience in treating this class of diseases. It consists of a curative elixir, tonic tablets, laxative pills and usually a plaster, selected for each case. Extensive statistics clearly demonstrate that Dr. Miles' New Treatment is three times as successful as the usual treatment.

"Thousands of remarkable testimonials from prominent people will be sent upon request which prove the doctor to be one of the world's most successful physicians."

Mr. Julius Keister, of 350 Michigan Avenue, writes the following: "For years Dr. Miles cured him after ten able physicians had failed. Mrs. R. Trimmer, of Greenspring, Pennsylvania, was cured after many physicians had pronounced her case 'hopeless.'"

Col. E. B. Spileman, of the 9th United States Regulars, located at San Diego, California, writes: "Dr. Miles' Special Treatment has worked wonders in my son's case when all else failed. I had employed the best medical talent and had spent $2,000 in so doing. I believe he is a wonderful specialist. I considered it my duty to recommend him." "For years I had severe trouble with my stomach, head, neuralgia, sinking spells and dropsy. Your treatment entirely cured me," writes Hon. W. A. Warren, of Jamestown, N. Y.

As all afflicted readers may have $2.50 worth of testimonials specially adapted to their case, free, we would advise them to send for it at once. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 201 to 209 State Street, Chicago.

(Please mention this paper.)

but that it was the power of God because it contained the everlasting gospel.

The sun, the moon, the stars have told their story in confirmation of this work; the rains, the land of Palestine, and all the nations, have combined in their testimony of the divinity of this work. Now this is quite a statement, but you have but to read the evidences that are surrounding the coming forth of this book and the conditions that obtain in consequence of its introduction into the world, and all that statement that I have made may be confirmed to you.

In closing let me say that every argument that is urged against the divine authenticity of this book only proves its great strength and makes manifest the weakness of those who oppose it. May all God's people strive to live by the words contained therein, and if they do they will be splendid citizens of town, county and state; they will be law abiding people; they will be true men and women, splendid husbands, splendid wives, splendid brothers and sisters, splendid fathers and mothers, splendid people all the way through, because they will love righteousness, they will hate iniquity, they will shun the very appearance of evil, they will "cleave to that which is good."

Reported by Sr. Belle Robinson James.

A MAN WANTED in every county in the United States, to post up bills, distribute circulars, samples, catalogues, etc. Big pay and life time job. Send stamp to Geo. H. Brush, Box 33, Ridgeley, Lake county, Tennessee.

Revision of the Creed.

A committee was appointed by the Presbyterian General Assembly, which convened in St. Louis, in May last, for the purpose of considering the question of creed revision...

- 1. The returns plainly show that the Church desires some change in its creedal statement. 2. They also indicate that no change inconsistent with the integrity of the doctrine in the Confession of Faith is wanted.

For some years the matter of revision has been in the air, and presbyteries have made overtures to the General Assembly in regard to the matter...

It will take time to settle this momentous question, and much patience must be exercised; for it is too serious a thing to meddle needlessly with a great historic document like the Westminster Confession of Faith.

Send in your orders and they will receive PROMPT and CAREFUL ATTENTION. GILBERT J. WHITEHEAD & Co., Guilford, Mo.

NOTICE

these pieces of property if you think of locating near Independence, Missouri:

357 acres as good a stock and grain farm as is in Jackson county, Missouri, 5 miles from railroad town.

FOR SALE.

A first class, well established grocery business in Independence can be obtained at a bargain if taken at once.

THIS WILL INTEREST MANY

To quickly introduce B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), the famous blood purifier, into new homes, we will actually send free 1,000 treatments to readers of ZION'S ENSIGN...

A $20,000 STOCK TO SELECT FROM.

GOOD, NEW, UP-TO-DATE Clothing, Dry Goods, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, and Furnishing Goods.

We have left 25 Ladies Fine Beecle Capes worth $8.00 to close out at $3.69. 25 Silk Plush Capes worth $10.00 to close out at $5.00.

20 per cent Discount to the Ministry. Send in your orders and they will receive PROMPT and CAREFUL ATTENTION.

GILBERT J. WHITEHEAD & Co., Guilford, Mo.

H. KERSCH & Co., Severance, Kans.

GILBERT J. WHITEHEAD, Severance, Kans.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue, to I. W. ALLENBER, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 441 pages; Cloth binding; $1.00. Paper binding; 65c. "AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF ELDER JOSEPH LUFF;" 277 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations; Reduced from $1.00 to 75c.

SERMON PAMPHLETS.

- The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen: "Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; Illustrated. "The Book of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 58 pages.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898. Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all...

A Singer Sewing Machine

THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, earning more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible. THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch.

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 190-3.

College City Chronicle

The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

SAINTS AND FRIENDS—Remember that I am still in the mail order clothing business. For years I have served you and my reputation speaks for itself.

Buy 4 Choice Acres of Land and 4 Room Cottage On western border of Lamoni. 1/2 CASH. COMMERCIAL BANK, Lamoni, Ia.

NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS

should include the stopping of the use of Tobacco. By doing so, you will save money and feel stronger and purer. Then why not RESOLVE NOW

SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches, Twenty Rooms, Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue.

CANCER CURED

WITH SOOTHING, BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Etc., etc. in all Stages and Wards Diseases.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT

This Regular $5.00 Waterproof Mackintosh for $2.75. Send no money. Cut this out, make your height, weight, state number of inches around neck, waist, over vest, under coat, close up under arms, and will send you this coat by express C. O. D., subject to examination.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

Table with columns for Missouri Pacific - Main Line Depot, Trains West, and Trains East, listing various routes and times.

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.

Table listing train times for Liberty Street Depot, including Trains West and Trains East.

CHICAGO & ALTON.

Table listing train times for Chicago & Alton, including East Bound and West Bound services.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. GURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes...

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri. Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 146, Lees Summit, Mo. Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri. Mrs. Lucina Etzenhouser, 3417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri. Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3135 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

Complaint of a Street.

[CONCLUDED].

"Now, my friends, I used to complain: I did this even when I was being made better fitted to do more good in the world. I was fearful of what was going to become of me. I did not know what the result would be. The workmen seemed to know, however, and one who seemed to be the master workman would say, 'That is going to be all right. This will be a good street.' That was about all the encouragement I had. My friends, stop your complaining, things will come out all right some time. You may not understand it any more than I did, but all will be well. When those big rollers went over me I wondered if there was to be anything left of me, but you see that I am here all right. Things may come into your lives that will seem to crush out every bit of happiness you ever had, but do not despair. These are only going to serve as rollers to smooth and level the crushed rock that has been put in your path in order to make a sure and firm foundation. The tar and the powder then was put on to make even more smooth and fill up all little cracks and crevices, and give a smooth surface as well as a lasting one. So in your lives, there are many things that help to do away with the rough places, and give you a character that is better and will be lasting, helping you to do more good in the world.

"Your great Master Workman knows your life and knows just how He wants it to become. He understands too, what is necessary to help it become that way. So don't worry, all will come right in time, and you will then feel thankful as I do now, that the workmen knew better than you did. You will then feel that the hours of preparation for this work, although fraught with many heartaches and discouragements, and much suffering, were indeed blessing in disguise to you?"

Thus our life must be developed By the Workman kind and good: All the dross must be removed. As the apostles said it should.

As the street, with much complaining, Made its life a tale of woe, So we, too, with bitter murmurings, Onward into darkness go.

As the rocks were thrown upon it Making a foundation sure, In our lives the trials sent us, Cleanse our hearts and make them pure.

Then the roller came to level Making smooth the roughest place, So in life the heavy trials Often make us grow in grace.

When the workmen spread the mixture, And we saw the whitened street, We could see the workman's object As we viewed it all complete.

So we often understand not What the Master has in view, But he wants us to develop All we can that's pure and true.

And we'll see at last the reasons, As we view our finished life, Why the way was often darkened By the clouds of doubt and strife.

Then we'll thank the dear, kind Father, For the paths He led us through; And that sometimes clouds o'er shadowed Skies of sunny, azure hue.

For the sorrows have developed What joy never could have done, Helping us to follow closer The Redeemer, Holy One.

And we're ready for the conflict, And made stronger every day, For the work He has in waiting For the ones who will obey.

When sorrow crosses our pathway, And we falter 'neath their weight, When the clouds of disappointment Seem to always be our fate.

Let us still with hope march onward, Trusting God to send the light, Then at last we'll thank the Workman That His life was not always bright.

Sunshine is not always needed To develop what is best; Trials of what will make us better, And they'll put us to the test.

God, the Master, knows each sorrow, He is who rules each life, But there'll be a glad tomorrow If we're patient in the strife.

NETTIE HEAVENER, PEORIA, ILL.

An eastern sage has said that a man was made for misery as sure "as the sparks fly upward." To my mind that was as erroneous as the knowledge of astronomy and geology existing in the sage's day. Man makes much misery for himself and for those who come after him.

Happiness depends largely upon the mind. Hence free will as opposed to destiny comes under the argument and destiny so far has got the best of it.

Is there such a thing as happiness? The ordinary healthy mind must answer yes. Why, then, are people unhappy, might be asked. Much of our own happiness is still in its infancy, but every one knows how to be disagreeable.

One of the rarest things in social intercourse is the disinterested desire to please. Charm of manner cannot be put on and taken off at will, like a garment.

Much might be said on the question of married happiness. It ought to be a model state, yet when a voice from the colonies said, "Send me a thousand wives," there were a thousand benedicts ready to answer, "Take ours." The craze to be thought socially and financially better off than we really are is a great enemy to true happiness. There is many a hero and many a martyr, in the shape of a city clerk or a shopman, in our midst—men who sweat out their lives in toil in order to satisfy the greed of a wife whose ambition is to live on $1000 a year after the manner of her neighbor in receipt of $5000.

But woman is growing out of her infantile intelligence. She is learning—at last. As she grows wiser she will learn to appreciate gentleness and courtesy—and, if necessary, to content herself with honorable poverty. There is little to choose between the lot of the Hindoo widow and that of the average English girl. Neither has an opportunity given her to follow her own bent. What I may term ineffectual lives of many of our women is one of the saddest sights of our day.

Happiness has many enemies and idleness is one of them. Those who wish to be happy will have to cultivate habits of labor. Life, to be happy, should throb between exertion and repose. There was a time when workers were referred to as common people by those who lived upon the fruits of their labor, and were not ashamed of it.

I might define happiness as fidelity in friendship, love in marriage, moral courage, courteous behavior in social intercourse, a devotion to duty, and a perfect sincerity in every relation in life.

We are not happy, it is true. We should and ought to be. There is an art of happiness which should be preached from the cradle to the grave. It is taught in the words of the Persian philosopher: "Taking the first step with a good thought, the second with a good word, and the third with a good deed, I entered the paradise."—Sarah Grand, in St. Louis Globe Democrat.

To General Church Missionaries.

We wish every church missionary to have the Senior Quarterly to carry with him at all times in his work. We know too that all are not able financially to send for them at the proper time. But we want you to have one anyway. So if you will drop me a card stating that you would like to have the Senior Quarterly (or other grade if you prefer) for your individual use, we will have it sent free up to June, 1901. It will be remembered that this privilege is restricted to missionaries laboring under general church authorities and out in the field and for them to carry with them at all times. Write to me and not to the Herald Office upon this matter. Do not hesitate to write if you wish the Quarterly. In bonds, T. A. HOGGAS, Gen. Supt. HENDERSON, IOWA, Dec. 31.

To First Quorum of Elders.

On December 31st I mailed a circular letter to each member whose post-office address I had, but some of the addresses are known to be wrong, but were all that I could get. Possibly they may be forwarded to you, but the probabilities are that they will not be. So if you do not receive the letter by January 10th, write me and give full correct address and I will mail you another. It is very important that I hear from every one and soon too. I do not have any address of the following brethren: H. C. Brunson, Lovi Graybill, Wm. Farley. Any one knowing their whereabouts will confer a favor by notifying me thereof. Also who can give me accurate address of Walter J. Haworth, New South Wales; N. C. Enge, Norway; Gilbert J. Waller, Honoluli? Any deaths that may have occurred should be reported to the secretary of the quorum. Please let me hear from you promptly. In bonds, T. A. HOGGAS, Sec. and Treas. of Quorum. HENDERSON, IOWA, Dec. 31.

First Report of Committee on Improvements in Sunday School.

After about nine months' additional consideration, we, the committee appointed to consider and suggest improvements in connection with the Sunday School work, report briefly as follows:

- 1. The improvements suggested to last convention we still believe, if adopted, would be of advantage to the work of the Association. 2. We urge a careful and prayerful consideration of each one as appears in the published copy of our report as corrected. 3. We especially urge a favorable consideration (a) Of increasing the Sunday School department in Saints' Herald. (b) To the improving of Zion's Hope, and since it is published in the interests of the Sunday School department of church work, we recommend that the General Convention ask the General Conference to place the publishing of Zion's Hope under the control of General Sunday School Association.

In behalf of committee, J. E. MINTUN, January 1, 1901.

Correction of a Correction.

On page 8 of ENSIGN, December 27, 1900, attention is called to an error occurring on page 315 in Bro. Etzenhouser's "From Palmyra to Independence," requesting a correction. I looked the matter up, and find on pages 11 and 12 of the first volume of Church History that the date 1823 is correct, but the age would be 18 instead of 15 as there stated. H. RESCH.

HOLDERS, Mo., Jan. 1. NOTICES.

All local organizations of the Daughters of Zion who have not reported to me within the last six months, please do so as soon as possible, giving name of chairman and secretary, as I wish to have the correct address of all and know the exact number of locals to report to our next general meeting. Mrs. H. H. ROBINSON, Cor. Sec. Box 146, Lees Summit, Mo., Jan. 4.

Conference Notices.

The conference of the Northeastern Illinois district will convene at Sandwich, Illinois, February 2d, 1901. Branch clerks will please have their reports made up to and including January 15th. HENRY SOUTHWICK, DIST. PRES. January 5th.

The Fremont district conference will meet at Shenandoah, February 2d. As I need all reports in order to make my summarized report to the conference, please send me branch and ministerial reports to Shenandoah by January 30th. CHARLES FRY, Sec. Tabor, Iowa, Jan. 4.

The Clinton district conference will convene at Coal Hill chapel, near El Dorado Springs, Missouri, on Saturday, February 2, 1901. Prayer service from 8:30 to 9:45 a. m.; business session at 10 a. m. T. R. WHITE, DIST. PRES. VINA H. GOFF, clerk. NEVADA, Mo., Jan. 7.

District conference of the Southern Wisconsin district will be held at East Delavan, Walworth county, Wisconsin, February 2 and 3, 1901. Officials and branches be sure to send their reports in time, to W. A. McDowell, Williams Bay, Wisconsin. Those coming on the train from the west, come to Delavan at one p. m., and you will be met with team. W. A. McDOWELL, Dist. Pres. J. C. DUTTON, Dist. Sec. January 3.

The Kewanee district conference will convene February 9th, at 10 a. m., at Kewanee, Illinois. District officers will be elected for the ensuing year, and we hope to see a goodly number present. Local officers will please bring or send in their reports so it may be known who are working. J. W. ADAMS, Dist. Pres. PEORIA, Ill., Jan. 1.

Notice is hereby given to the Saints of Southern Indiana district, that there will be two days meeting at Derby, Indiana, January 19th, and that the conference of the above named district convenes January 26th at Byrnevile, Indiana. Let presidents of branches take notice and forward reports to the district clerk, J. T. Scott, Byrnevile, Indiana, in time. Bro. G. A. Smith and Bishop E. L. Kelley will be with us. We are also expecting Bro. Lake. We hope all the branches will be represented by delegates. Come and help us, brethren and sisters, in this grand work of the Lord.

There will be a two days' meeting at the "Union branch," February 2d and 3d. The Bishop apprises me he can only be in the district over two Sundays, and no doubt Bro. Smith will stay for the meetings as appointed. So come one and all, and attend these meetings. M. R. SCOTT, JR., DIST. PRES. OSGOOD, Ind., Jan. 1.

Convention Notices.

Convention of Kewanee district Sunday School association will be held at Kewanee, February 8th, beginning at 10:30 a. m. Remember this is the time for election of officers and a good delegation is desired.

In bonds, F. A. RUSSELL, Dist. Supt. ALPHA, Ill., Jan. 7.

Advertisement for Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Includes text: "The father? Gone for the doctor. The mother? Alone with her suffering child. Will the doctor never come? When there is croup in the house you can't get the doctor quick enough. It's too dangerous to wait. Don't make such a mistake again; it may cost a life. Always keep on hand a dollar bottle of AYER'S Cherry Pectoral. It cures the croup at once. Then when any one in the family comes down with a hard cold or cough a few doses of the Pectoral will cut short the attack at once. A 25 cent bottle will cure a miserable cold; the 50c. size is better for a cold that has been hanging on." Includes an illustration of a man and a woman.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, JANUARY 17, 1901

NUMBER 3.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, Editor. J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to Editor, PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box 3, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and trafts made payable to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

Box 3.

WHICH IS YOUR CHOICE?

Two ways are open for every individual in this life from which he may choose his course; and in pursuing either of them, there will be given him needed assistance that he may finish his course, and attain the reward for which he has wrought. As the existence of a middle ground has never been made known, every one must necessarily take one or the other of these two ways, and press on as the path may lead him. After either course has been chosen and one may have gone on until even the end is almost in view, it is possible for him to leave the way so long pursued and begin in the other; but his steps must be retraced, and he must enter the other path at the beginning. Occasionally we may see an individual zig zagging from one path to the other, but if this course is closely considered, it will be observed that the broader way gradually enlarges before him, and he progresses considerably farther on that road than on the straighter one, until the broad way may claim his entire attention.

What are these two ways? Let us hear what the Master has said regarding them:

Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.—Matt. 7: 13, 14.

This is a very plain statement of One who had authority for every doctrine He taught, every word He uttered. It is made, too, in language so clear and unmistakable that not even the simplest mind need to misunderstand its meaning, scope, or application. It is the narrow way, through the straight gate, that is the one approved of the Master, whose end leads to life eternal—to salvation; but it is too painfully apparent, that it is the few who walk in it. It does seem a sad comment on the boasted intelligence of this age, that while men are very much alive to the enlightenment concerning earthly things, they are yet so blinded to the possibilities of the developments of the spiritual man, that they shamefully neglect to consider its demands; or, if at all considered, it is to but a limited and superficial extent, resulting in conditions such as are described by the Savior. There are few, comparatively, who choose to walk in the narrow way; there are too many privations in it, to please the flesh, too many sacrifices to be made; what with watching continually and praying much, enduring the sneers of the scornful, loss of prestige in the associations of men because one will not "run to the same excess of riot" as they, the road is some times made quite rugged, and all these combine to make the narrow way unpopular with the worldly-wise.

But the joyful experiences of those who do make a right start in the narrow way, and continue therein, more than compensates them for the efforts required to keep their feet from straying. The sweet promises of the Savior "I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee" (Heb. 13: 5), and "I will not leave you comfortless, I will come to you" (John 14: 18), become realities, and when the Holy Spirit fills heart and soul, the burden of the heaviest trial is lightened, and strength is given to continue to meet the various exigencies of life which are required to make up a character fitted to inherit the highest gift our heavenly Father can bestow—celestial life.

Inasmuch as growth or development is a positive result of compliance with the physical laws controlling every sphere, so there can be but one issue when a continued compliance is given to spiritual laws. When a seed is planted in the earth the immediate result is not a stunted tree, or even a stalk of perfect straw capped with a head of ripened grain. On the contrary, that which is first seen is a tiny blade or spear of grass, or small stem and leaf; then if conditions continue favorable, a continuous growth is shown until perfection is attained. Many untoward circumstances may retard the growth, but if time and favorable conditions are extended, the end will be reached.

The experiences of the spiritual life in man, are very similar indeed. There must be a beginning, a simple planting of the gospel seed in heart and mind; the warmth, light and energizing power of the Spirit of Christ from which springs faith, will lead to repentance, baptism, the Holy Spirit's abiding presence, and continued growth toward perfection. There is, under these conditions, a gradual enlargement of spiritual force and comprehension of the things needful to prepare the soul for the state of perfection which it is designed by the Creator to occupy ultimately. Unfavorable conditions, the weakness of the natural man predominating occasionally, the trials and afflictions incident to the warfare, may at times hinder and retard the development. One may prove a dull pupil in the school of experience that is to try the stability of every man's faith, but under the comforting and uplifting influence of the Holy Spirit, these hindrances may be overcome, and the end reached at last.

As the good develops from a small beginning, being aided by divine inspiration from time to time, so is the evil in those who choose the broad way for their development. The beginning of the formation of an unrighteous character, is in the lesser crimes or unlawful pursuits. The natural tendency of the flesh seems inclined towards the pleasures of this life, because it is "of the earth, earthy," and these tendencies, if fostered or allowed to sway the mind, lead on to development in sin as surely as that the life controlled by the Spirit will lead continually on to righteousness. The following of the "broad" way is the direct result of obedience to "the law of sin and death," as the apostle speaks of it. From time to time as may be needed to insure the continued pursuit in sin, Satan sends the inspiration of his spirit to cheer and comfort his followers; and very often, along some lines, makes them believe that it is the Spirit of God which is directing them; but the development will be certain if the course is continued.

There being no doubt as to the existence of these two inspirations striving to lead men for weal or woe, and the consequent growth or development as individuals are influenced by either, and as they are so opposite in their character, so are the fruits resultant from their control; and the fruits are a sure index to the source of life from which they spring. The Savior in His day impressed upon all men the thought of judging by the fruit manifested. Hear Him:

Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves. Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit.

A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.—Matt. 7: 15-18.

The Apostle Paul thus indicates the fruit of the two inspirations which dominate mankind.

Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these; Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies, envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like: of the which I tell you before, as I have also told you in times past, that they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God.—Gal. 5: 19-21.

Those are the fruits assisted and inspired by the controlling power of the "broad" way, and the apostle tells us that they who do such things (and continue in them) shall not inherit the kingdom of God. Now, hear him declare the character of fruit which will meet the approbation and commendation of the heavenly powers:

But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law.—Gal. 5: 22, 23.

They who walk the "narrow" way, having entered into it through the straight gate baptism, are evidenced by the manifestation of these fruits, described above by the apostle as "the fruits of the Spirit." It should, therefore, not be difficult to decide who are walking the "broad," and who the "narrow" way, in the light of this instruction; nor should there be any hesitancy in deciding in which path it is for the best interest of every individual to journey. Pondering the matter carefully and prayerfully, may light, strength and guidance be given to every one to "choose the better part."

USE PROPER DECORUM.

It is a humiliating fact that so many otherwise good people, when attending divine services, fail to properly recognize the sacredness of both the appointed place and time in which they participate. The house of God should, in the mind of every devout man, woman and child, possess so sacred a character, that should preclude any other than earnest, reverential thought—the spirit of soberness and devotion. One does not need to wear a long face to be devout and reverential, but it is wholly inconsistent with the purpose associated in a place where public, divine worship is offered, that there should be a spirit of levity and a loudness in conversation at variance with the offering of devotion to the Most High.

It is the height of impropriety to talk in loud tone or voice, or permit oneself to laugh aloud so that the voice may be heard across the building. The house of God should not be used for paying social visits. And in all conversation the voice should be modulated to a whisper. If the person whom you wish to address is deficient in the sense of hearing, a warm hand clasp and cordial smile will serve to convey the greeting you may wish to extend, without intruding upon the attention of others. Your social converse may be carried on after you have left the place of worship.

Another exceedingly improper and irreverent trait that every one should studiously guard against, is the habit some have of showing an unseemly haste in getting into wraps, overshoes and overcoats, and even of passing out of the building while the concluding hymn is being sung. This is in exceedingly bad taste, and is very offensive to every lover of proper decorum. Imagine the preacher reaching for his overcoat and overshoes while announcing the closing hymn, and putting them on while the hymn was being rendered. But it would be no more inconsistent for him to do so, than any one of his audience. There is always plenty of time after the benediction to get into all the wraps one may have. If it is absolutely necessary to leave before the benediction is given, take wraps into vestibule, if there is one, otherwise put them on outside, so as to avoid marring the service of the hour.

The proper way in entering the house of God for worship is for one to go directly to ones seat, quietly sit down and prepare your mind and heart to hear the message of life, commune with the Lord in earnest prayer for His presence and blessing upon the effort to be made, and get yourself into a condition in which the greatest degree of good may be realized from the service.

If ever the Saints participate in the blessings of the temple, it will be because they recognize the sacredness of the place and prepare themselves accordingly. So deeply was this impressed upon those attending the dedication of the Kirtland temple, that all young children were rigorously excluded from that service, it is said, and so sacred was it esteemed when Solomon's temple was being erected, that even the sound of a hammer was not permitted to be heard in rearing it; the fittings had all to be done before the attempt was made to put the building together.

Those are, or should be, examples—let all strive to profit thereby and worship with singleness of heart and purpose.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Bro. B. J. Scott will preach next Sunday evening at the Saints' church.

Sr. Sherman, mother of Brn. Plenny and Harry Sherman, is having an unpleasant experience with the grip.

Sr. Wm. Pitt had a very sudden and severe attack of pleuropneumonia last week, but is almost recovered again.

Bro. Henry Kemp returned home Tuesday night. Sr. Campbell, his daughter, is somewhat stronger but is still in a very unsatisfactory condition.

There are a few cases of grip among the Saints here; Sr. Boyce has been suffering from a severe attack, but the other cases seem to be light, though unpleasant.

Bro. and Sr. J. F. Trout, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, are domiciled in Bro. and Sr. W. N. Robinson's cottage, while the latter are in the city during the busy season.

Sr. Fannie Lee is having some severe attacks in the malady from which she is suffering, and is quite weak. Everything possible is being done for her relief, but the progress made is not satisfactory so far as improvement in her condition is concerned.

The Religio held their annual election of officers last Friday night, the result being: W. H. Murphy continued as president; Frank Rudd, vice president; Bertha Skinner, secretary; Edith R. Clow, organist; Cordie White, chorister, and Frank Criley, Jr., librarian. The report was quite encouraging and the prospects for the future are bright.

Bro. and Sr. W. T. Bozarth have shipped their household goods to Rocky Ford, Colorado, and will themselves depart for their future home this week. Bro. Bozarth has suffered considerably from asthma since his return from that place, and is anxious to get back again. We are sorry to have them leave, but trust prosperity and health may attend them in their new home.

Bro. Joseph Luff preached a sermon at the Saints' church Sunday morning which was full of instructive thought; he had very close attention during the delivery. Bro. R. J. Parker also presented a forceful discourse at the evening hour, which was much appreciated. The afternoon service was fair, but too slow in movement for a successful experience. When will the Saints learn that diligence and earnestness cannot be dispensed with and a spiritual feast enjoyed at the same time. "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver," may have more than one application.

Sr. J. H. McMullen and daughter Ruth, and Mrs. Martin, her sister, left for Rocky Ford, Colorado, Saturday of last week. Sr. McMullen had to be carried on a cot to the station, but she gradually grew better as the journey progressed and was able to walk off the train at Rocky Ford. So Sr. Martin advises in a letter which will be published next week. Sr. McMullen is progressing very encouragingly.

Bro. John, whom our distant readers will know as our blind brother, has sold his grocery to Mr. Bundy, of Nebraska, and will depart in a few days to join his wife, and will make Rocky Ford his future home. May success attend him.

The special business meeting Monday night was fairly well attended and a good spirit was manifested in the investigation and discussion of the questions under consideration. A good portion of the first part of the meeting was occupied in an informal canvassing of the necessities of the church building and the procedure necessary to reach a satisfactory conclusion of the work to be done. This talk finally resulted in a resolution authorizing the building committee to take steps to secure the necessary funds to paper the auditorium, put new matting in the aisles and finish the windows with weights and stops. A resolution authorizing the committee to secure $1200 by subscription, or by subscription and loan, to make more general improvements, was negotiated. A further resolution authorized the committee, however, to make such other improvements besides those indicated in the motion first named above, as their judgment and the means available permitted.

Tuesday morning, between 2:30 and 3 o'clock, fire was discovered at Bro. Wm. Crick's foundry on the South Side; an alarm was turned in and the fire department made good time getting to the scene, but the nearest water plug was one thousand feet from the foundry, necessitating a run back to the hose house for additional hose. When finally water was turned on, the fire company, of which Bro. John Nesbit is foreman, made short work in subduing the flames, but the loss will reach between three and four thousand dollars, which we believe is nearly if not fully covered by insurance. The loss to Bro. Crick will still be considerable from inability to fill his orders. But he is not the kind of a man to allow a little thing like a fire to down him; before the flames were entirely subdued, he had lumber on the ground for rebuilding, and put the carpenters at work at once on such parts as they could reach, and will be running his foundry again as lively as ever in a few days. He had just completed an extension of his works, his business requiring more room. One room of the building was occupied by the American Scale Co., their loss was very heavy; what insurance they may have had, if any, could not be ascertained.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Elder R. M. Elvin discoursed to a large congregation of Saints Sunday morning, upon the topic of "The Gathering." Elder David Wight was the speaker at the evening hour, subject, "The Crown of Righteousness." Both sermons were very edifying.

The little infant of Bro. and Sr. Bert Derry was blessed at afternoon prayer service, by Grandfathers Geo. Derry and

Wm. Anderson. Bro. Derry spokesman, and named Arthur Wallace. Willard Eugene, little son of Bro. and Sr. John Gray, was blessed at same meeting by Brn. Anderson and Derry.

Bro. Louis Victor Laurent, aged seventy-four years, brother of Sr. M. E. Ronat, of the Saints' Home, died in Los Angeles, California, on 6th inst., his body was brought to Lamoni for interment, Bro. David A. Anderson accompanied the remains, arriving this afternoon. Funeral was held at Saints' Home, at 4 o'clock; sermon by Bishop E. L. Kelley.

On Friday night the Religio elected its officers for the coming term, those chosen were, W. J. Mather, president; Charles Brackenbury, vice president; Jessie Cave, secretary; Susie Mader, treasurer; William Mason, librarian; May White, organist; William Ross, chorister. The Lamoni Religio, in the words of Bro. J. A. Gunsolley, who was in charge of the meeting, "Was never in a more prosperous condition, not only as to numbers but also in actual work which it is accomplishing."

Bro. J. W. Wight will leave this week for Laverne, Minnesota, where he is to enter into a discussion on the 21st, with a Rev. Walker, of the Christian church. Debate is to be held in the Christian church. This is a place where the gospel has never been presented to the people. Bro. Henry C. Smith is also on for a debate, to be held in a Christian church at Omaha, Nebraska. Discussion to begin on February 8th, and continue six teen sessions. The Rev. David H. Bays will act in behalf of the Christian church.

President Smith is still confined to his home, but is very much better.

G. L. K.

January 14.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Lang meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Sunday Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

It is said there are one hundred thousand cases of grip in Chicago. "The house of God is not escaping, as many of the Saints are afflicted therewith, but the good Father is kind and is caring for his own."

The wife of Bro. R. T. Cooper, who lately came to the city, is very sick at her boarding place. Bro. Cooper is on his run to Los Angeles, and will return Saturday morning. Prayers for her and others was asked for and offered yesterday.

Our special effort at the mission is proving very beneficial. The meetings are spiritual and encouraging. The plan differs from the usual way in that we have a thirty minute sermon, then the meeting is occupied in prayer and testimony, free for all to speak according to the trend of their own mind. The plan has worked well, and will largely be continued during this week.

Bro. F. G. Pitt has done us good service while here, in preaching the word, making plain the gospel plan. Last evening his sermon was on the second coming of Christ, and the preparation thereto. He starts Wednesday for his field.

Bro. Wilcox, of Plano, was among the worshippers at our sacrament service, and his counsel in testimony was good.

It is quite a question in our Religio as to whether the church had the Melchisedec priesthood before the coming of Christ. Who can answer this question?

The Sabbath School elected officers yesterday, continuing Bro. F. M. Pitt, superintendent; J. F. Keir, assistant; R. A. Penney, secretary. The school is in a prosperous condition.

Bro. P. M. Smith, assistant editor of Herald and assistant church historian, gave us a flying call on Wednesday. He was here in the interest of the historical department of the church.

We are sorry to learn, indirectly, of the death of Bro. Samuel Simmons of the Delano branch, near Cameron, Missouri. If this report be true, the church there has lost one of its pillars, but he was fitted for better conditions.

For truth and triumph,

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Jan. 14.

ST. JOSEPH, MISSOURI.

Bro. and Sr. Belville, of Nebraska, mourn the loss of their infant son, Karl, who died the 10th inst., of pneumonia. The funeral service was from their home in St. George. Sermon by Bro. Cather, Bro. Lewis in charge.

The services yesterday were very well attended. Bro. Hawkins was the speaker of the morning, and Bro. Guinand, of the evening.

Bro. Howard Molyneaux, who has been an earnest worker in the Religio and Sunday School, and has made many warm friends here, returned to St. Louis last evening.

Don't forget to come out next Sunday morning, January 20th; Bro. Lewis has something special to tell to you.

The choir has arranged to meet at their homes during the winter. Practice next Friday at Bro. Carl Kinneman's.

A. B.

January 14.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line.

Sr. Mary McIntosh was elected Sunday School superintendent, and Bro. Geo. Edwards assistant, at the last business meeting. Interest and attendance in Sunday School are increasing.

At the branch business meeting of this month Elder Joseph Emmett was elected president; Bro. Thomas Newton, priest; Bro. Fred Koehler, teacher; Bro. Wm. Brown, deacon; Bro. Gus. Koehler was elected recording secretary; Bro. John C. Grainger, press agent. The deacon was added to the board of trustees.

Last Sunday morning Elder John D. White addressed the branch on the "Duties of Saints." His remarks were appreciated and effective in doing good.

The attendance at all the meetings seems to be increasing; the business meetings are particularly well attended for meetings of this kind.

Last Sunday night the branch was pleased to meet about a dozen young Saints from Independence at the evening service.

We are making efforts to remove the small remaining debt on the church. The Saints are looking for a way to brush away the clouds that bother them, so that they may rise to that condition, where others seeing their good works may be constrained to follow Jesus, and receive the blessings promised.

Bro. and Sr. Barto's youngest girl has been very ill, but is now nearly well.

Sunday night's sermon, by Bro. Emmett, was unusually good and inviting to hungry souls.

JOHN GRAINGER.

January 15.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Zion's Religio-Literary Society Friday evening.

We have had all kinds of weather in the past few days. The year came in very cold, some thermometers showing 28 degrees below zero, but at present it is fine and the snow is about all gone and the roads are dry and smooth.

Our rally service the first Sunday was not a great success on account of sickness. Srs. Walters and Brannon have been quite sick, but were able to attend service Sunday, the 13th. Sr. Brennan has been sick and as soon as she got better Bro. John was taken, and is not yet able to be out.

The ordinance of baptism is to be administered next Sunday if the weather will permit.

Owing to the extreme cold the last Monday of December, our annual business was postponed till Wednesday evening, January 9th, when the president gave a short talk on the events of the past year and the outlook for the future in branch work, after which officers were elected for the next six months. There was no change except in the presiding elder, Bro. J. B. Roush was elected to succeed Bro. E. F. Shupe, who has been in continuous service as president since the organization of the branch over eleven years ago.

The Denver branch begins the 20th century with flattering prospects. It seems to me the prospects were never so bright as at present. May we improve the opportunities as they are presented, and the close of the year show advancement.

Sunday morning Elder J. B. Roush preached to the young people; his sermon was good and opportune. In the evening his subject was from Paul, "After the way they call heresy, so worship I the God of my fathers."

At the election of officers for the Religio all the former officers were re-elected.

January 14.

THE DAILY ENSIGN during the coming General Conference will be 25 cents for the entire session.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Jan. 6. Editor Ensign:—Bro. C. R. Duncan and the writer closed a successful meeting near Rocky Ford, Colorado, in the first part of December, and went up to Pueblo. Tried to conduct a series of meetings near the latter place, but prejudice seemed to prevail, so the services closed after a couple of nights.

In the city we secured the Bessemer City Hall for Sunday, December 23d, at 11 a. m. and held a preaching service, but few came out. At Pueblo we enjoyed the hospitality of Bro. and Sr. Chas. Bishop, and Bro. and Sr. John Woolsey. Bro. and Sr. W. E. Wolfe having moved to Florence, where Bro. Wolfe has a good position with a smelting company; and later the latter day gospel will be preached there, and we think a good work will be done because of their presence there. They are alive in the work.

On Sunday, December 23d, we took leave of the Saints at Pueblo and came to Colorado Springs. Found the Saints anxiously engaged conducting their Sunday School. Elder J. F. Curtis and family are located here. Wednesday night, December 26th, the Saints who formerly made up the Mountain View branch assembled and resolved to remove the seat of the branch to Colorado Springs and call it the Colorado Springs branch. Bro. J. F. Curtis was president of the Mountain View branch and is also president of this one. They have secured a pleasant hall and are conducting regular services, including Sunday School and Book of Mormon study.

Now, all elders passing through going east or west, who have to pass through this city, should make it a point to stop and give them an encouraging lift, with a sermon or two. Many of them are new in the work and need the teaching that can only come from those long in the work. Bro. Curtis' address is No. 504 East Willamette Street.

Bro. Duncan and I have issued a new tract, briefly stating the differences between Utahism and Josephism (I enclose a copy). Bro. Duncan wrote it and I set the type and printed it in a job office here.

We will labor in the country about thirty miles east. Though Colorado is a hard field, yet we think the time is coming when we will get a foothold. Ever praying for the spread of truth, I am,

Your co-laborer,
A. B. HANSON.

GAYLORD, Kansas, Dec. 31.

Editor Ensign:—We are once more reminded that another year has rolled into the boundless ocean of eternity, carrying with it an imperishable record kept by angelic hand, of our successes, failures, hopes and aspirations in life; and we are told in Holy Scripture that we must all appear before the Judge of all the earth to answer to that which is recorded and receive our just reward for faithful obedience to the divine principles of truth as revealed through Jesus Christ, or condemnation for neglecting to use the means provided for our eternal happiness.

Individually, in taking a retrospective view, I can discern the guiding hand of the Lord for good according to faithful performance of duty. I have endeavored to serve the Lord to the best of my ability, using care in my labors and manner of life; yet in that eternal day when an account of our stewardship shall be required, failures may appear. I am glad to say that when clouds and conflicts have arisen and sought to clog the wheels of spiritual progress, the Lord, who is ever rich in mercy towards His struggling children, forgets not to lend His Holy Spirit which bursts the clouds asunder, letting in the beautiful light of hope, revealing eternal happiness and assurance of His loving watch-care continually.

I believe I can truthfully say that no previous year in my ministerial labors have I enjoyed so great and oftentimes remarkable degree of the Holy Spirit when standing before the people to declare the angel's message—the restored gospel. I also have experienced to some degree that peace and vigor of mind as promised to the elders in the Revelation of 1894. I can therefore rejoice in the gospel and am glad to say as did one of old, "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth."

I hope the coming year shall be one filled with high and holy aspirations for the accomplishment of good by the Israel of God everywhere, that when the book of life is opened our names may appear therein and we may hear the welcome plaudit, "Well done, enter into the joy of thy Lord."

With feelings of gratitude for past favor from the hand of God, I remain,
Your brother in Christ,
L. F. JOHNSON.

ROSCOE, Mo., Jan. 10.

Editor Ensign:—Today being my 53d birthday I thought I would, through your columns, the "Ensign preacher," let others know what I am doing.

Bro. J. N. Stephenson and I are at Roscoe, Missouri, holding meetings in the Christian church, which for years has been refused our people, until now. They have begun to see by not letting the Latter Day Saints preach in it, they were losing the friendship of thinking men and women; so it is with all churches who do likewise. We appreciate their kindness and wish them success in the truth. There seems to be quite an interest manifested here, and if the work is rightly cared for, no doubt there will be an ingathering not far away.

Sunday, December 23d, Bro. A. C. Silvers led four precious souls into the watery grave at Collins, Missouri, and they were confirmed and one child blessed the same day by the writer. The missionaries of this district all seem to be busy. Bro. W. H. Manning, of northwestern Kansas, put in his appearance the latter part of December, at his home near Lowry City, Missouri, and we understand will labor the unexpired time of his appointment in this district, for which many, we believe, will be glad. While the weather has been fine, with the exception of a little rain, so far this winter, it seems hard to get people out to hear. Many will tell us, Yes, we know you have got the truth, yet it seems that truth is not what they are wanting. Oh! may they wake up this side of the Judgment day.

We learn that Bro. A. White, Cortwell and Devore have been doing a good work of late, near the north line of this district. Brethren, come over a little farther the next time, we would like to shake hands with you. I am making headquarters at Bro. and Sr. M. Killebrew's while here. They are whole hearted Saints; God bless them and the kingdom they are in.
T. R. WHITE.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 31.

Dear Ensign:—As it has been a long time since I have written to your columns, I thought I would write a few lines and tell of the good things we are enjoying from time to time. I have not been a resident in this city very long, but sufficient to notice the kindness and courtesy of the Saints. I am more than pleased to see this feature predominating among God's people; for, if we are sociable, kind to one another, with our souls filled with love and charity for each other, here in this sphere of existence, under the surrounding difficulties, trials and environments, which we are subject to while here, what a joy, a world of peace and happiness, will be ours when we are privileged to participate in the loving kindness and charity of Jesus Christ, our Redeemer, when He shall come to take up His abode with His Saints. The which we are told is not far distant, and when we think of it and of the great work that still remains to be done, can we answer anything else but "yes" to the question, "Ought we not to be filled with faith, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness and charity?" Can all the virtues contained in the gospel bring us too soon to a perfect condition? No! If they could God would never have placed them there. He is too wise to err, to good to be unkind; and if it had not been necessary for us to practice all of those virtues, and to demonstrate them in our lives in our daily talk and conversation, he would not have told us to observe them. The branch here is in a good condition at present and under the supervision of Elder N. F. Liddy, a very efficient manager we believe, and may he long live to defend the faith is our prayer. We had the pleasure of listening to two very interesting and soul inspiring discourses by him yesterday; the morning sermon was grand and accompanied throughout with the blessed influence of the Spirit, which brought to mind that passage of scripture which says, "How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel and bring glad tidings of good things." He read his lesson from the 7th and a portion of the 8th chapter of the first book of Samuel, and then talked principally to the Saints.

And while his talk was uplifting and inspiring, yet there was that feeling of sorrow and joy mingled together, which in itself brings a person a feeling of blessedness, and causes them to reflect on the days gone by, and as to whether they have merited any good or not.

Wishing all a happy and prosperous New Year, the church included, I remain,

Your brother in the gospel,
WALTER L. BENNETT.

DOW CITY, Iowa, Dec. 31.

Editor Ensign:—The afternoon is clear and beautiful for this season of the year. And it is pleasant on this the last day of the year 1900 to see the old year and the nineteenth century pass into eternity, like a dying Christian, with a smile on his face, conscious of having done his whole duty in the fear of God.

The mind naturally runs back over the history of the closing century; and as it does so, the marvelous achievements made in the arts and sciences together with the modern improvements which are useful and beneficial to mankind crowd into our thoughts and we are pleased to admit that God is good and that his foreknowledge is indeed great. In this we see a fulfillment of these words, "Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased."

The restoration of the gospel of Christ in its beauty, fullness and power and the organizing and establishing of the true church of Christ among men with the authority to preach its truths and administer the ordinances thereof is: perhaps the greatest blessing given by our heavenly Father for the benefit and salvation of a dying world, if they will but accept it as such, in this century. And while we are glad that many of those who were instrumental in the hands of God in bringing this work into existence proved true to their trust thus imposed, how very different would be the result of their work have been had all proved loyal to God while they held fast the truth in theory and practice.

However, be this as it may, we have great cause to rejoice in the fact that the Lord still speaks to His people and has re-established them upon the sure foundation of His eternal truth. We may profit by the history of the past, but we should never permit ourselves to become discouraged by the thought "It might have been;" but with a firm trust in God steadily, wisely and perseveringly press forward and upward until the battle is ended and the victory is won under the leadership of Jesus our Lord.

The year just closing has had its share of cloud and sunshine, rain and snow, wind and storm, and yet we have an abundant harvest and bounteous crops of all needful staples of life. They come to us from the hand divine, and the heart goes out in gratitude to God.

As a district the Galland's Grove district, has been peculiarly tried and crippled in her work because of sickness and death of some of our number. Others have been very sick, but have by the help of God recovered and are about their work. Yet we have never (thought of being discouraged or fainting by the way, but feeling that whether living or dying we were the Lord's, and sometimes the clouds have parted to let mental vision and we have been enabled to see and understand something of the power and glory of God. While there has ever been within an abiding testimony that this work is divine and that God doeth all things well.

During the year sunshine and shadow has by turns visited this, the Dow City branch. Since the reunion held here four of our worthy members have been called from us to fill their places with the pure and good in the paradise of God, to mingle with the spirits of righteous children of God. Nevertheless the Spirit of the Lord has been with us and the gifts of the gospel have been enjoyed to the comfort of all; and though we weep and our eyes fill with tears we "sorrow not as those who have no hope," for our trust is still in God. Sorrow and mourning, death and the shroud have been seen in the home of the writer and our darling little daughter and a loving father are missing from our homes.

The fall and summer passed in sickness and mourning, yet how very thankful we are that loving hearts and tried and true hands were ever ready to do all they could, and above all to know that we were not forgotten or forsaken of the Lord. "Praise the Lord, O my soul."

The Sunday School entertainment held in the Saints' church at this place Christmas eve was excellent, and so far as I know, gave general satisfaction. The presents distributed were not of the costly kind, but usefulness seemed to be the thought that inspired the donors as a rule. The children were made happy and their parents were glad; and all seemed to see behind the presents the bounteous hand of our heavenly Father. Wishing all a prosperous and happy New Year, I am,

In bonds,
C. E. BUTTERWORTH.

WATERVALLEY, Ky., Dec. 6th.

Dear Ensign:—As I have had the opportunity of reading the good letters and good news of Zion from Saints from different portions of the world, I feel like writing a few words of testimony and experience for the good of the paper and myself. I commenced reading the paper last winter. The Salutes of this neighborhood seeing I was interested in the great Latter day work, and Bro. Bob and Will McClain and Joe Williams, another one of the Saints, kept me in books, and papers of all kinds that were good for a man to read who was seeking for the truth.

I was so glad to get the ENSIGN; when they would read them over they would send them to me, and I would read all the letters from the Saints of different parts of the world; I would feel like I had just received a letter from some of the home folks. I was too poor to pay for the paper, but I got as much good reading out of it as those who took it, for they would read them and give them to me, so I thank them for their kind and Christ-like spirit. May God bless those three Saints for the good they have done in my prayer.

I will now relate a little experience which I had during the year. First, I had been in the Christian church for ten years and lived according to the rules of that church up to 1898; my health got so bad I could not work, and I got too poor to go to church and pay the preacher anything, so I was not in the shoot any longer.

I would wonder to myself if God was now like he used to be, but was told by my preacher that He was not; but the heavens were brass over our heads and we could not have any more of God's blessings rest upon us till Judgment day, and then we would be blessed according to our good works; then I would read James, "Is any sick among you, let him call for the elders of the church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord: and the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him." So I would ask my Christian friends what that meant; of course I was ignorant, for I had not been taught the ways of the Lord fully; I had been taught faith, repentance and baptism; that was all I knew. So they would tell me it meant if any man broke the rules of the church he could send for the elders of that church, he could pray for you and tell you how to make reconciliation to or with the church; this represented the oil or gospel anointing. So I was very well satisfied with this for awhile.

My health grew worse, and it came to me again—James 5th chapter and 14th verse, Inspired Translation—so I asked again, and I was told it was in the apostles day and not ours, so I went on with my health getting worse all the time. I would conclude some times that God was unjust to heal people 1800 years ago, and would not do it now. I prayed, but did not expect any answer, and of course did not get any either. So I went to my church one Sunday, and Rev. J. T. Cabe preached as good a sermon as any Campbellite ever preached, and at the end of his discourse he gave out an appointment for Bro. C. L. Snow in the evening at the school-house in that neighborhood; so for curiosity I went to hear my first Latter Day Saint sermon—or Mormon as was called by my people. Bro. Snow preached from James 5: 14, and 1st Corinthians 12th chapter. When I went back home my brother asked me how I liked his sermon; I said he did very well for a Mormon. I did not hear any more of the gospel till last January. My health got so bad I had not sat up all day for several weeks; my body was a perfect wreck James 5: 14 came to me again with 1st Corinthians 12, Ephesians 4: 11-15, and I studied over these passages.

Bro. Snow and Cook were going to preach about fifteen miles from here, and some of my folks went to hear them, so I sent them word to come down to see me; they came Thursday evening, and Bro. Cook preached that night, Bro. Snow the next morning. Bro. Will McClain was baptized next morning by Bro. Snow. All this had a great bearing on my mind. That evening about sundown I asked Bro. Cook and Snow if it would be pleasing to God for a sinner who was seeking the truth to call on elders to anoint him with oil and pray over him? They said as great miracles as was ever performed was on people not in the kingdom of God. So I asked them to perform the work that was given them to do. They did so, and I have enjoyed many blessings since.

Bro. T. C. Kelley held a week's meeting in August. I was baptized into Christ September 3, 1900. I am now enjoying the blessing of the gospel of the Son of God. May God bless Bro. Snow and Cook, and Bro. Kelley and the Saints whom I have mentioned here, for my introduction into the kingdom, is my prayer.
MARTIN C. FIELDS.

LATONIA, Jasper Co., Ill., Jan. 4.

Editor Ensign:—As I have not heard a latter day sermon for over eighteen months only through your columns I cannot well do without the paper. I came here from Oklahoma one year ago last September; am a member of the Stillwater branch. Since coming here I have not as yet been able to find any of the Saints or one member near. Hill P. O., fifteen miles from here, but did not get to see him when I was at his house; his daughter informed me that he had not been to meeting for two years.

I heard of some Latter Day Saints and after looking for them two days found they were Utah Mormons; saw one of them and talked some, but not having the gift of speech myself, I gave him an ENSIGN which I happened to have, and my address. They have a membership of about seven and hold meetings. They have left some "Voice of Warning", through here, which were very good; and I happened to get one in time to keep it from being torn up by a child, which a Christian minister gave to me to keep people from reading.

I love the work of this latter day and know that it is of God. The people here have not heard the gospel in any way. If any of the members come this way I would be glad to have them stop here and preach; they would be welcome to make this their home while here.
Yours in bonds,
F. M. BRANNAN.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

RICHMOND, VA., NOTES.

Dear Ensign:—We have received a little encouragement in our work here, by the reception of the following letter to Sr. Corson from the pastor of the Apostolic Church here as a "reward" for the efforts made to convert him to the truth; and through him, and tracts, and personal talks, to also reach the congregation. Everything seemed so still and calm and their "wild vine" pruned and trimmed to look and appear so much like the true vine to those who know not the truth that we began to be discouraged, and to think our "tactics" would have to be changed to reach them, when a sudden change occurred in the preaching of the pastor, which indicated a "storm" in the near future, soon to be realized, as we found a bomb had fallen in the camp and "great fear came on" the pastor and some of the flock. We hope the result may be that "believers may be added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women." (Acts 5).

THE LETTER.

"RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 15, '00.
"MRS. A. R. CORSON,
"Richmond, Va.

"Dear Friend:—I herewith return your papers, etc., as near as I can. If I have lost or misplaced any let me know and I will endeavor to find them and return them to you. I beg to say that I have admired your zeal, but have no liking for your teachings as a whole. I have, through personal regard for you alone, received or read these papers, so far as I have done so. I feel it to be my duty to say that I can move only farther and farther from your most cherished teachings. I sincerely believe your system a positive evil, very adroitly arranged and hence to be avoided. To be consistent with the above, I am sure you will agree with me that I should not lend any influence or means that I may possess or control to the furtherance of your teachings.

"I am not alone in the opinion that our ladies' meeting and other meetings should not furnish an opening for teachings so objectionable and influences so damaging. You may not have understood that this was not agreeable, and our courtesy may have been mistaken for approval.

"We trust you will forbear to seek the continued use of these advantages. I carefully avoid any personal condemnation of yourself. I condemn your system and your methods of propagating it.

"Very sincerely,

"JNO. W. DAUGHERTY."

THE ANSWER.

"RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 16, '00.
"REV. J. W. DAUGHERTY,
"Dear Sir:—I was not much surprised on receiving your letter, for I had detected a different atmosphere in the regular church services. I wish to make a short reply to your very courteously worded letter. You say,

"Through personal regard for you, I have received and read your papers, etc.' I thank you for your personal regard, but sincerely regret that the regard was not given to the Master whose servant I am, even Jesus Christ our Lord. Then you would have read with a desire to know the truth.

"You add, 'I feel it is my duty to say, I can move only farther and farther from your most cherished teachings.' Very well; let us see what they are. First: Jesus Christ the same yesterday, today and forever; the gospel the power of God unto salvation unto every one that believeth, and the only means by which mankind can be saved; the gospel law is the same in all ages, and its principles are first, faith, which must come by hearing the word and must lead to true repentance, which will result in obedience in baptism for the remission of sins; then the laying on hands of an authorized ministry for the bestowal of the Holy Ghost; and that the same signs shall follow them that believe, now as in the olden times; the same God, the same gospel, the same results to follow its preaching. You can only move 'farther and farther from our most cherished teachings! Where are you going?

"You speak of not lending your influence or means for the furtherance of our teachings. I am quite sure we have never even intimated that we wished any of your means or your influence, only so far as to recognize and acknowledge the truths you know we teach.

"I wish you had defined what my objectionable teachings were and in what my influence was so damaging. I have not taught anything that cannot be substantiated by God's word to any honest minded truth seeker.

"You also say, 'Our courtesy may have been mistaken for approval.' No, I made a greater mistake than that; I mistook it for true christian fellowship, and it was very sweet and precious to me; but you by your own words have shown me it was only a hypocritical dissimulation.

"When you said, 'God bless you, sister, that's right, stand up for your religion,' you never meant one word of it; and every warm hand clasp that cheered my heart was only mere courtesy, a veneer of politeness to hide the true feelings of your heart. Thank God, the veneer has worn through and shown the real article beneath.

"Yes, I will 'forbear to seek the continued use of these advantages,' for even if I felt at liberty to go to even 'the other meetings' I could not feel that there was any truth or sincerity in any expression of friendliness or christian charity, and your words would ever be to me as 'a scounding brass and a tinkling cymbal.'

"You say you carefully avoid any personal condemnation of myself, as though you could find something in me to condemn. If there is anything to condemn in me I wish you had shown me up, but according to your next words it is only my system and my methods of propagating it. What is my system? It is the same system followed by Paul and Peter, and it is the true gospel, of which Paul said, 'If any man preach any other, let him be accursed.'

"You say you believe 'it is a positive evil and adroitly arranged.' I wish you had shown me wherein the evil consists. I am certainly desirous of knowing. I can discover none. I know it will not lead us to pretend to a courtesy we do not feel.

"My method of propagating it you condemn. In what should you condemn them? I followed the same methods you have been marking out for the women of your church; just distributing tracts, quoting scripture and talking gospel. I am not aware that I have used any sly or underhand means. You know I have been open about it. If I pushed myself where I was not wanted, it was because in my ignorance I supposed that in the aim of the Apostolic Church was to help and to bless all mankind, not merely to secure a blessing for 'us four and no more.'

"Again, and again, I say we have no connection with the Utah Mormons. Bro. Goodrich wished to see you about printing an expose of Utah Mormonism, a deposition taken from a lady here in Fulton concerning the evils she saw in Utah. That was what he wished to see you about at your office. Had you met him and looked over the article, you certainly could have seen that we are doing all we can to warn people against evils of that false religion. Can it be possible that you were afraid to meet him? 'Oh for a faith that will not shrink,' etc.

"I thank God for a religion that cannot be overthrown; whose adherents need fear no man on the earth as to the overthrow of their faith. A religion that needs to fear a weak woman like myself and shuts the door on her, lest her influence cause its overthrow, must be built on a sandy foundation indeed.

"A wild vine though trained and trimmed, pruned and tied up here and lopped off there, is a wild vine still and shows it by its hard, bitter fruit. Naming it for the true vine will not help it either. Its wild Babylonish characteristics will still remain.

"My dream has been fulfilled to the letter. I dreamed I was at your house and you asked me to dine; I told you I had dined and was not hungry, but I would take a little milk. You poured out the milk, and while I was enjoying it you poured something like beer, sour and very bitter, into the milk as I was drinking. I immediately spat it out and said, 'Oh, Bro. D., I told you I wanted nothing but the milk.' You looked hurt and grieved, but I drank no more of your milk. I awoke with these words ringing in my ears as if spoken by some one at my head: 'Nothing but the sincere milk of the word.' Thank God, that is left, and I can drink that at home. And when you look over your congregation you will miss one earnest hearer; and the bitter tears I have shed are not for myself or my isolation, but that the Christ I love is again wounded in the house of His friends; and remember His words, 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me,' and that 'he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my mother, my sister, and my brother.' Well might you ask as you did in a sermon not long ago, 'If Christ should come to this church would He be accepted?'

"I wonder what you would do if you got to heaven and chanced to find me there; and if you got there first, you would be apt to close the door and if I should persist in seeking admittance you would politely request me to forbear lest I exert a damaging influence.

"Imagine Paul and Peter requesting people to stay away from their meetings lest their teachings should prove objectionable and influence prove damaging. If I had no more faith in the religion I professed than that, I would give it up quickly and seek one with a firmer foundation. But the true religion cannot be downed so easily; it is a vine of God's own planting and its roots take hold of the living Rock.

"I wish I could add from my heart, 'God bless you, brother,' but I can only pray, 'God be merciful to you and lead you to see your error and to humbly repent. I wonder no longer why the Saints have to preach repentance to the christians as well as to the worldlings.

"Sincerely your servant in the true gospel,

"A. R. CORSON."

I will submit this correspondence without any comments as the letters show the state of mind and the condition of affairs in this city. This letter has been a surprise to many of Mr. D's members and others who are not members.

I will close this letter by inserting a statement of a lady here who was in Utah and became disgusted with the "beauties" of the Utah system. The letter, however, will speak for itself. She is still a member of that church and a lady of refinement, and has the respect and confidence and good-will of all the people of Fulton, who are well acquainted with her. I have the original statement signed by her and her sister, who was with her when in Utah, though not a member of that church.

THE STATEMENT.

"706 Louisiana St., Fulton,
"Richmond, Va., Nov. '00.

"I was a member of the Baptist church for about a year before I accepted the Mormon faith. Not knowing anything of the Mormons I was not at all prejudiced against them, when two Mormon elders came to my father's house and asked for lodging; then I heard them preach and read their books and saw that they had many precious truths not taught by other churches. The beautiful story of God's condescending love toward man in sending an angel to the earth in these latter days with the everlasting gospel, to restore it to man again with all its ancient gifts and blessings and powers, was so sweet to my ears and so captivating to my soul that I believed and accepted it, receiving a testimony of the truth of the story and the restored gospel which I still believe; but they never taught us to believe in polygamy, though they said it had been taught and practiced by their parents, but it had all been done away and it had not been practiced for years. After I came in they taught us that we could not live our religion in Virginia, that we must go to Utah; that the temple was being built where Christ was to come, that the people were so pure and good and loving, that there was no strife there, but all was love, peace and joy.

"I was baptized by Elder Curtis, April 15, 1893, and as they continued to teach the necessity of gathering to Utah, we sold out and went there, making a great sacrifice of home, friends and property, it costing us about $400 00 in going and returning, as we soon returned when we found out how woefully we had been deceived as to the things there.

"We lived in the house with George Reynolds, one of the Seventy, who had two living wives, and one—his first wife—dead. He had twenty-four children by these three wives, who are now living. Instead of finding these mountain Saints the pure religious people they were said to be, and their life one of joy, peace and happiness as I had expected from what the elders had told me, I found it all the reverse and everything just to the opposite; neighbors so at loggerheads with each other that they would not speak. I heard more quarrelling, cursing and swearing during the six weeks I was there than I ever heard before in all my life. I have known them to ask a blessing on their food and be swearing before the meal is over. I was told that I must believe in polygamy and pay up my tithing for two years before I could become a full member; that if I could not believe it, I must at least say I believed it before I could be admitted into the church as a full member; that I could not go into the temple until I did so; that I could not know any of the secrets or anything that was done in the temple as that was all secret which was taught in there, and that they could not reveal any of the things done in there.

"We—my husband, my sister and myself—also lived next door to one of the wives of young Brigham Young. He had three living wives and one dead; and this one by whom we lived had a falling out with her husband and would not speak to him. She had to wash for a living—washing four days a week and ironing two. The bishop of the ward in which we lived had three living wives. During the six weeks we were there, two men, one of them a seventy, were arrested for polygamy. (Here I asked, 'How do you know polygamy was practised there?') We wanted no better proof of it than to see these wives with young babes in their arms, who were or had been polygamous wives.

"I was so disgusted with all I saw and heard, and with the awful thoughts of the great deception that had been practiced upon us, that I lost all hope and did not know what to believe nor where to go, although I never could let go the angel's message and the restored gospel, yet I became so careless and indifferent that I gave up even reading the Bible. But finally a ray of hope and light came through the darkness. Elder Goodrich and a sister of the Reorganized church came to me with papers and tracts and documents, and showed me the awful apostasy of the Utah church, and that these claims they made with which I became so disgusted, were not any part of the true latter day message, and that the gospel, in all its fulness and purity and ancient simplicity, had indeed been restored to the earth and was found with them in the organization known as 'The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ.'

"My sister will also sign this statement with me.

(Signed.) "Mrs. — G.
"Miss — A."

I will close this letter by adding that I had a talk with the Utah elders here about these statements, and as to their living in polygamy with these women who had been sealed as plural wives before the Manifesto, and they told me they never denied that fact.

Yours for the truth,
J. L. GOODRICH.

3820 4th St., Fulton,
Richmond, Va., Nov. 26.

RETROSPECTIVE.

Editor Zion's Ensign.—As the old year and the old century are past, and we now are starting on the new, it might be well to look back over the year just gone. I find, by looking over my diary, that January 1, 1900, found me in Wayne county, Illinois, where I received the gospel in 1867, and spent all the early part of my church life and ministry. Those early ties formed in the work and association, form ties that are strong and lasting with me; and I love to get back among those where I so long labored, and learned to love them.

After a few days in Wayne county I went to St. Louis, Missouri, where I remained until January 22d, laboring in the city and vicinity as best we could, for the interests of the church. Some matters being of a peculiar nature, the bishop was called to assist the local authorities in settling it.

I next find myself at home and in the regions round about for a time, during which time Bishop Kelley came down, and we made an effort to look at the country some in Jackson county, that we might know prices in different places, so we could intelligently give information to those desiring to move to that part of the country. Then we were next at Lamoni looking after church work in the line of the bishopric, and meeting with the trustees of Graceland College. This institution deserves the hearty support of every member of the church. First, because it is needed for the general good of the church, collectively and individually; and second, because it was started and completed by the voice of the whole church in General Conference. Therefore, we are in honor bound to sustain it.

I remained at Lamoni until after the General Conference, which proved to be one of education and trial, which we hope in the end will bring good to all, as we read that all things work for good to them that love God. After conference we labored awhile around home. During my stay there Bishop May and I took a few days drive through the country, looking over Jackson county and the counties round about, that we might understand the situation. The bishopric of the church seem to believe in the gathering of the Saints as outlined in the revelations of God. On this trip we did some work among the branches.

Next visited Kingston, Caldwell county, preached a few times and went to old Far West, to learn something of the situation there. We believe the Saints will sometime return and build up the old waste places as the Lord hath said. We then went to Burlington, Iowa, and preached a few days in that city, thence on to Joy, Illinois, to district conference. After attending the business sessions of the conference and preaching Saturday night, I went back to the conference which was convened at Burlington, to assist in the dedication of their church house. After conference at Burlington I baptized three persons on Monday, having been requested to do so. I believe in leaving baptisms and other church work in branches to be done by local authorities or by their direction, thus honoring every man in his calling.

From Burlington I went to Rock Island, Illinois, where, in company with Bro. F. M. Cooper, we held a few meetings in that vicinity. Rock Island and Moline in Illinois, and Davenport, Iowa, afford quite a field for labor. It is not easy to start the work in cities, for the want of suitable places properly located, to meet in. It is sometimes inconvenient to be poor and not able to have such places as we think we need to hold meetings; but if we were rich we might get proud, so likely it is best as it is. We then went to Clinton, Iowa, and in connection with local brethren there, held a few meetings, preaching in a private house most of the time. Here they need a public house in which to hold services badly. Next to Maquoketa, where we held one meeting in company with Bro. Turner, who went with me from Clinton. From here we went on to Fulton, where we held a few meetings in connection with the local authorities at that place. Next we went to Green Valley branch, endeavoring, for a few days, to encourage the Saints of that place in their several duties. We then went to Strawberry Point and on to Arlington, where we spoke three times to the Saints and friends at that place; then back to Strawberry Point and spoke one night in the tent, where Bro. Sutton and Hand were holding meetings; some had accepted the way of life at the last named place, and I assisted in confirmation. We then went on to Fairbanks, and out to Owen Center school-house, where we held two nights; then twice in the town of Fairbanks, and back to Owen Center over Sunday.

This closed my tour in the Eastern Iowa district, and I returned home to meet my son, son-in-law and brother, from Illinois, and my brother-in-law from Tennessee, who had come for the first time since I lived in Missouri, to visit me. I remained around home a short time laboring in the regions round about, as necessity demanded. I never go home to rest as some do; if I did, I find so much to do, there is not much time to rest. So I guess we had all better work on as long as we are able, then rest when we get so we can't work any more. That seems to be about the only chance for rest as I view it in this life. The gospel, to me, means work all the time. Now, the bishopric meet at Lamoni to hear some appeal cases. O! the weakness of poor, fallen humanity. We constantly need the help of God in this probationary state, and if we are not very watchful and prayerful, any of us are liable to get into trouble, and may finally fall, and fall in the end. So we have great need to be merciful as well as just.

From Lamoni the first presidency and bishopric went to St. Joseph, Missouri, to assist the Saints there to devise ways and means to liquidate their local church debt. We sincerely hope they may soon succeed in canceling the debt. Those church debts are burdensome. This trip was made in obedience to an order of General Conference. We then all went together to look at a body of land out east of St. Joseph, which was for sale, to see if we could buy it, with the view to assist the Saints in getting homes, so a number could settle together and form a branch of the church, as contemplated in the command to gather in the regions round about. We did not, however, make the purchase, not deeming it advisable at the time. By the way, when we buy land now, it takes money, and we had all better see to it, and get ready to consecrate of our substance for the benefit of the poor and needy in the church, lest their cries might go up against us; but all cannot be done at once, but must have a beginning; and the only true way to help the poor is to place them in a condition so they can help themselves, and that is all a worthy Saint would desire. (This does not refer to those not able to work).

Next we were found at Rich Hill, Missouri, where the bishop assisted the local church to lift a mortgage which was held by a man out of the church, and the Saints feared they would be closed out. After arranging that matter we preached at night, then took train at 10 p. m., and next morning was in St. Louis, where we assisted a few days in their reunion as best we could; then on to Boston, Massachusetts, to attend the reunion at Silver Lake, and labor in the eastern mission for a while; arrived at Silver Lake the morning of August 9th, and did what we could until the 15th (when it closed), to help make it a success. Both of those reunions, so far as I could judge, were a success, all trying to do their part nobly, and the sisters did their part well. Indeed this, and almost every other good work in this world, would fail without the help of the sisters. They are now doing a splendid work along the various lines, to assist the spread of God's truth. Went to Plymouth, Massachusetts, with Bro. W. H. Kelley, and assisted in ordaining the late Peter Hansen, who died in his field of labor lately, where he was sent by General Conference. How glorious it is to die at the post of duty. "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord, they shall rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

Next back to Boston, Providence, Fall River and Plainville, preaching nearly every night and twice on Sunday, up to the 19th, when we went over to Maine. Here I preached at Dixfield Center, Jonesport, Indian River, Lamoin and Stonington, laboring continuously nearly every night, and generally twice and sometimes three times on Sundays, until September 19th, when I went back to Boston, worked in that part of the mission until September 26th, trying to encourage to duty as best we could.

From there I went to New York City, preached once in Brooklyn, and then by request of those in charge, went to southern Ohio to attend district conference. On the way, just before reaching the depot at Radcliffe, Ohio, I fell in with Bro. W. H. Kelley again. We attended the conference together, and had a very pleasant time with the Saints and friends at Vales Mills, except one little incident that occurred. This incident served to try the patience of some a little, and served the purpose of demonstrating the fact, that while some brethren think that others have violated the law, and they are determined to see that the law is kept, they go to work in the wrong time and place, altogether out of harmony with the law to correct the supposed wrong. Such a course can only result disastrously to those pursuing it, as we view it. Hence the admonition, "let every man learn his duty," comes in good in such cases.

From here we went to Creola, Ohio, held one meeting and on to the Northern Ohio, or Kirtland district conference, where we had a very pleasant time indeed. Every thing passed off pleasantly, and everybody seemed to enjoy themselves. Next we went on to Kirtland two nights and Cleveland one, then on to Coldwater, Michigan, where a two days' meeting had been appointed, and out of five discourses they managed to get the writer in four times and Bro. S. W. L. Scott once. Bro. Scott has been there a long time, but his preaching is always appreciated by all who hear him, it never gets old.

The next place we make is Clear Lake, Indiana; we held two services there, but the political situation was so interesting, it was hard to get a hearing, but we had several Saints out to hear. I wish our people were able to see that the noise they make about who should be elected does not change things; better go your ways in peace, vote your sentiments and let God correct the evils in His way and time. In company with Bro. G. A. Smith we went to Galien, Michigan, to attend district conference. We here had a most excellent time throughout, and all so far as the writer could judge, enjoyed the meetings. We held one meeting after conference closed.

From here we went home and labored in that vicinity, and up to St. Joseph over one Sunday. Then Bishop Kelley, Bishop May, Bishop Short and myself went to Holden, to look at the country and learn the opportunities to secure homes for Saints. This evinces a zeal in the bishops to be able to report the situation, and assist in doing the Lord's work. The work is not to be done in haste; best to be sure if we do go slow. There is a good chance to get town property at Holden. The weather was against us and we did not get out into the country. But the writer was there in the summer and found prices of land from thirty to forty dollars per acre, generally, for good land.

On the last of November, in company with H. O. Smith, missionary in charge of the South-west mission, we started for Cove, Arkansas, to be present at the district Conference. We arrived all right in time to participate in the business of the conference; we had a good time, and the people all seem to enjoy themselves. We remained a few days after conference, continuing meetings each night until Thursday, then the writer went on to Grannis and held meetings each night and twice on Sunday, Bro. Smith continuing at Cove. At Cove and Grannis they have very nice church buildings. Bro. Short has mills at those places, and furnishes the lumber, so that the cost on others is not very heavy, just a little effort and a house is up. Bishop Short seems to have trained the Saints pretty well about looking after the necessities of the traveling elders; and Bro. and Sr. Newton at Cove, are not a whit behind the best, in looking after the missionaries' wants and the interests of the work all round, and the boys working there seemed to have partaken of the same spirit, for they are all ready to chip in and help. And there is Bro. Earl Bailey, wife and sister-in-law at Grannis to keep up that end with their helpers living there. This is as it should be, the church work should be the chief thing with all Saints, other things coming in second.

December 10th we left Arkansas for Beaver, Texas; arrived there the next day and began meetings that night, having sent the appointment ahead. We kept meetings up each night at Beaver until the next Saturday, preaching the funeral sermon of a child of Bro. and Sr. Geinger's at Beaver on Saturday at 2 p. m. Here is the home of Bro. A. J. Moore. He stands high in the estimation of his neighbors, and so do all the Saints living there, so far as I learned. On Sunday we held forth at Oklaunion, where Bro. Scott and Chism held the debate last May. It seems the debate, did our cause no harm there, so the gospel banner still floats over the rubbish. There is quite a lively band of good Saints living in that neighborhood, Bro. Wilcox, late from Lees' Summit, Missouri, presiding. By request of his daughter, Gracie, the writer baptized her while there, Sunday afternoon. Monday night found us back at Beaver, where Bro. Smith gave us an excellent discourse.

Our next stop was Fort Worth, where we preached to a few Saints in a private house, endeavoring to encourage them in the battle of life. Then on to Cook's Point for three nights, trying to stir up their pure minds to duty along gospel lines; then on to Hearne, where we preached Saturday night and twice on Sunday; could not continue over longer on account of Christmas preparations. We then came to this place, San Antonio, where we have spent the holidays with the Saints, stopping with Sr. Merritt, where we are being well cared for at this writing. We have held seven meetings here, preaching to small audiences, except Sunday night we had a fair audience for this place; they tell me Bro. Smith did his part well all along the line, as well as all I traveled with.

It has been a pleasure to me to have the association of those brethren with whom I have traveled. I believe them all to be good men trying to do the best they can for the work. I traveled mostly in Maine with Bro. W. W. Blanchard, in Ohio with Bro. W. H. Kelley, and in this mission with Bro. H. O. Smith. And in the east, middle states and south all officers and members have done all they could to assist me in my work, extended every courtesy and entertained me royally, for all of which I hereby extend heartfelt thanks. In return I tried to give them plain gospel truth, and have kept busy, trying to encourage and strengthen the Saints in the conflict for eternal life. The year's work is done, the record made, we must meet it, and take the results of our own works. That I have made some mistakes I have no doubt, but I have tried to do my duty. Wherein I have differed from others, I did so honestly, and as yet have not been able to see differently. I have tried not to impugn the motives of any. That I have spoken sometimes harshly, I admit, and hope to improve. If I have offended any I ask pardon. If I have helped any, I want them to thank the Lord for that, for I am aware that if I do any good it is because the Lord works through me for their good and His glory. I desire to be merciful and try to be just, I hold no enmity against any, living or dead; I have many weaknesses that I am conscious of, and some, no doubt, of which others are conscious and I am not; I am willing to be criticised, and want to be corrected, for I know to be right is the chief thing. I confess my ignorance but want to learn, and some time in the future hope to know more than I do now. I am willing to bear all the burdens of life uncomplainingly if I can. I want to let the sunlight of life, if I have any, go out to cheer and encourage others; I do not want to burden others with my troubles and trials, if such things should come to me.

I thank God for courage, and my brethren for their confidence, I also thank God and my wife for her willingness to bear the burdens of life at home alone, and let me go on in the Master's work. And now I pray God to bless the work of the past year, that the best possible results may accrue to the church; and to over-rule the mistakes made, that no serious harm may come to the work from them. And I further pray that we all may be richly endowed with the Holy Spirit to qualify us for the work before us, that we may work wisely together, in unity and love, judge righteously and walk uprightly the coming year, that Zion may indeed arise and shine, and the favor of God rest upon her. That the gospel may be exemplified in the lives and conduct of the Saints, and that all men may know we are Christ's disciples because of the love we have for one another.

Now, let all take courage and fight manfully the good fight of faith, and work patiently and peacefully; cheerfully and obediently; that our efforts may be crowned the coming year with great success, and bring much good to the church and people, and much glory to God and the Lamb, is my desire and prayer in the Master's name, amen.

G. H. HILLIARD.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Jan. 1.

Christian Ministers Would Abolish Prayer Meeting.

The pastors of Kansas City Christian churches adopted a resolution at their meeting yesterday, declaring it to be their sense that the mid-week prayer meeting, as it is conducted in a majority of Protestant churches, has outlived its usefulness, and appointed a committee to prepare and report a program for such meetings which shall be more modern in its character and better calculated to meet the needs of present day church people.

Dr. George H. Combs, pastor of the Prospect Avenue Christian church, who brought the subject up, and at whose suggestion the committee was appointed, declared that he thought the ago had outgrown the old-fashioned prayer meeting.

"The prayer meeting was perfectly adapted to the needs of the time which brought it into existence," he said, in addressing the meeting, "but that time has long been past. The best men's lives have now become so full of other things that they cannot be induced to come out and spend an evening in prayer. When the prayer meeting was brought into existence, men thought that their chief religious duty was to kneel and pray. As time has passed, their religious feeling has become more and more closely linked with endeavor.

"I do not regard the decline of the prayer meeting as an unhealthy sign. I regard it as a very healthy one. Men do not spend so much time now in asking God for favors, but they do spend a great deal more time than they ever did in helping their less-favored fellows. The prayer meeting is dying from natural causes. The time has come when it fails to meet the requirements of men in this busy world, and I think it our duty, as ministers, to propose a substitute for it which shall be more in touch with the spirit of the times, and shall be more educative and helpful to men's moral and spiritual natures."

No minister who took part in the discussion which followed this somewhat advanced statement, dissented from any part of it. The remarks of each indicated that he had only been waiting for an opportune moment to so express himself. Dr. Combs' motion was that a committee be appointed to draw up a program for all prayer meetings for a period of three months. If approved by the ministers, it will be adopted, and the prayer meetings at all the Christian churches in Kansas City during the next quarter of a year will be conducted along the lines suggested. Dr. Combs was made chairman of the committee. Drs. R. Lin Cave, of Independence, and W. F. Richardson, pastor of the First Christian church, are the other two members.

The action of the Christian ministers will probably attract wide attention and much comment. The prayer meeting has for many years been regarded as one of the most important sacred services of a majority of protestant churches. It is believed to have originated with the Methodists, but their example has been very generally followed. In some places it is held on Wednesday and in some on Thursday evenings. Song, prayer and testimony have been its characteristic and universal features. In its early history it was attended by church people as regularly as any of the other weekly services, but the decline in its attendance in Kansas City has excited much comment, and many remedies have been proposed for the unhealthy condition which, by many religious people, it has been assumed to indicate.

Dr. Combs proposes to make very radical changes in the program for prayer meetings at the Prospect avenue church, of which he is pastor. He said last evening:

"I have already partially outlined plans which I intend to try to get adopted by my own church. I believe the prayer meeting is a failure, because it is not educative, does not appeal to men's social natures and accomplishes nothing tangible and practical. The prayer meeting as it now exists, is a relic of a time when the negative and dreamy side of men's natures predominated in their religion. Their active, positive natures are now predominant, and they demand something of a more practical nature than it affords them.

"Mind you, I do not think that the time for prayer is past. Far from it. But I think that the time for a man to pray is when he needs help from God, and that is when he is exposed to the temptations of his every day life, in his office or counting house, or on the street, and not when he is in the church. I am a believer in the efficacy of prayer, but I haven't so much faith in the formal, public prayer as a great many have.

"My purpose is to make the program for the mid-week meetings as interesting as that for any other service. I am now trying to arrange for a series of mid-week critical talks and lectures on subjects which are of immediate and pressing interest and concern—on politics, matters touching the social and moral good, education, municipal affairs, etc.—by men who are closely in touch with every phase of life in the city and country at large. Another of my projects is to have critical study and discussion of the Bible. In this way I think much more good can be accomplished than can be done by meetings, which nobody but the pillars of the church, both men and women, attend."

Kansas City ministers of other denominations do not all agree with those of the Christian church. Dr. William P. George, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, said yesterday:

"I do not care to criticize the brethren of other denominations, but as for me, I should be loath to see the prayer meeting abolished. I believe it is one of the best institutions of the church, and instead of secularizing, I constantly attempt to make it more spiritual."

"The failure or success of the prayer meeting," said Dr. Wm. J. Williamson, pastor of the Bales Chapel Baptist church, "depends upon local conditions. Our prayer meeting is one of our sweetest, best meetings. Conducted in the really old-fashioned way—that is, made bright and interesting, and consisting largely of Bible study, prayer and personal experiences—it is a service with which I do not believe the church could safely dispense."

"The prayer meeting is the people's meeting," declared Rev. William Carter, of the First Presbyterian church, "and if it is a failure it is the fault of the people. No. I don't favor abol-

$2.50 SENT FREE!

THE WELL KNOWN CHICAGO HEART SPECIALIST, FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS NEW AND COMPLETE TREATMENT TO OUR READERS.

There never was a better opportunity for persons suffering from diseases of the heart, nerves, liver, stomach or dropsy to test, free, a New and Complete Treatment for these disorders. Dr. Miles is well known as a leading specialist in these diseases, and his liberal offer is certainly worthy of serious consideration by every afflicted reader.

This new system of Special Treatment is thoroughly scientific and immensely superior to the ordinary method. It consists of several remedies carefully selected to suit each individual case, and is the final result of twenty-five years of very extensive research and experience in treating this class of diseases. It consists of a curative elixir, tonic tablets, laxative pills, and usually a plaster, selected for each case. Extensive statistics clearly demonstrate that Dr. Miles' New Treatment is three times as successful as the usual treatment.

Thousands of remarkable testimonials from prominent people will be sent upon request to any physician or doctor to be one of the world's most successful physicians.

Mr. Julius Keister, of 350 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, testifies that Dr. Miles cured him after ten able physicians had failed. Mrs. E. Trimmer, of Greenspring, Pennsylvania, was cured after many physicians had pronounced her case "hopeless."

Col. E. B. Spelman, of the 9th United States Regulars, located at San Diego, California, says: Dr. Miles' Special Treatment has worked wonders in my family, curing all else failed. I had employed the best medical talent, and had spent $2,000 in so doing. I believe he is a wonderful specialist. I considered it my duty to recommend him. "For years I had severe trouble with my stomach, head, my nerves, itching scalp and dropsy. Your treatment entirely cured me," writes Hon. W. A. Warren, of Jamestown, N. Y.

As all afflicted readers may have $2.50 worth of treatment especially adapted to their case, free, we would advise them to send for it at once. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 201 to 200 State street, Chicago.

(Please mention this paper).

ishing it I am far from thinking it has outlived its usefulness or is out of date."—The Kansas City Journal, December 18, 1900.

Winter Protection of Shrubs.

This is the season to consider the protection of shrubs and small trees and other plants which will need it for the winter. In this vicinity we do not hurry the work, as our winters are not of the severity that does much damage before New Year, and, in fact, it is the sur and cold combined, the one following the other, that do the harm. By leaving the work as long as possible, it gives the wood of such plants as are to be covered, time to become well ripened. Covered in November, spring would show a lot of decayed shoots, those that were unripened when covered, the confinement having started mildew on them.

Before strawing up roses of the hybrid perpetual or June class, cut away about a third of the tops. This will have to be done at any rate in the spring, and doing it now saves that much covering. In the case of tea roses and others of partly tender nature, they are well covered by earth as any other way. Sawdust is also a good covering. As they flower altogether from the young growth, and are not dependent on the shoots of the previous season, it is well to cut them down to within a few inches of the ground. Then a sod or two may be cut and placed over them, to remain till spring. On its removal in April, fresh shoots start, and an abundance

An Explanation.

So far as the committee has been heard from, the "First Report" of the committee on Sunday School Improvements expresses their views with reference to the improvements of the work being done, or should be done by the church in behalf of the Sunday School department.

We wish it understood that what we recommend is in the abstract, the adopting of the recommendations being the business of the Convention, and the executing of that adopted being the business of the executives, the executive committee, or to whomsoever the Convention may commit the work to be done by special legislation.

To only two subjects in this "First Report" do we invite favorable consideration at the coming Convention; the latter subject, however, divided under two heads: 1, "The Improving of the Hope;" 2, "The placing of its publication under control of the General Sunday School Association since it is being published in the interests of the Sunday School department of church work." This subject should be treated under these two heads.

The only question to be decided by the Convention in considering the first recommendation of our report on this subject is, Does the Hope, to meet present and future demands, need improving? If the Convention decides that it does, then, unless the latter clause is adopted, the point gained is to show to the Board of Publication what we, as an association, believe should be done to make the Hope satisfy present demands, and through our executives, or some ones specially appointed by the Convention, this action should be reported to the Board of Publication—it being the mind of the committee, so far as heard from, that this matter be left to the executives—and they to suggest such improvements as they may ascertain by diligent inquiry and observation should and can be carried into execution, and these improvements to be made as rapidly as possible, it being an authoritative stimulus to both the executives and Board of Publication concerning what we may, as an association having charge of this department of church work, believe should be done with the Hope in the interests of the Sunday Schools.

If, however, the latter recommendation is adopted by the Convention, and the General Conference accedes to the request, then the Hope with its future is in the hands of the executive committee, as I understand it, and the passage of the first recommendation will but stimulate them to what the Association desires of its future.

For one I do not believe the Hope is all it should be as a Sunday School paper, and I am not able to say why it is not, or with whom the fault may lie; neither does the committee wish it understood that we make that a part of our report, by recommending that it be placed under the control of the Sunday School Association; but we believe the improvements and changes that, from the demands of the present or future, may be necessary to be made to answer its sphere of action as a Sunday School paper more satisfactorily, may be more easily and more properly made under the control of those who have the Sunday School interests specially in charge.

The need of more space in the Herald is, it seems to the committee, very apparent. And this is the only point the committee reports; and when this subject is considered it should be considered to answer this one question, "Does the present demands of the Sunday School work indicate that we need more space to represent its interests as a part of church work?" If this is decided affirmatively it will be upon the basis that we have faith that it can be obtained in some way, and occupied beneficially to the church. But the question of how to obtain and occupy should not be considered until we conclude we need more space. Then the whole matter can be left to the executive committee to secure the space upon the best terms possible, and when space is secured, arrange to occupy as fully and as wisely as God may open the way, and, I believe, if we act with the proper spirit, and decide we need more space, that God will open the way that all else will be supplied.

Having labored to purview of the duties to which we were appointed, and having come to the conclusion contained in the report, we, in the interests of the Sunday Schools of the church, send it forth, and whether our recommendations are affirmed or negated, that is the business of the Convention. I am

Yours sincerely and hopefully, with all our personal interests to enhance,
J. F. MINYON.

January 9th.

Conference Notices.

Galland's Grove district conference will convene at Deloit, Iowa, Saturday, February 16, 1901, at 8:30 a. m. This is the most important conference of the year, and a full report and a good representation is desired.

C. E. BUTTERWORTH, Pres.
January 9th.

Conference of the Eastern Colorado district will convene in Denver at the Saints' church, corner Twenty-Second and Arapahoe streets, February 16th, at 10 a. m. Delegate credentials and all reports for the conference should be sent in due time to J. B. Roush, 2912 California street, Denver, Colo.

J. B. ROUSH, Pres.
A. E. TABOR, Sec.
Wheat, Col., Jan. 7.

The Ohio district will meet in conference at Limerick, Ohio, February 2, 1901, at 10 a. m. Branch officers will please see that full and complete reports are prepared, and bring or send them to the undersigned in due time. Those from a distance desiring conveyance from railroad please inform Elder T. J. Beatty, Limerick, Ohio, in due time. All come on Friday, the 1st, and all come to Jackson on the Hooking Valley road if practicable.

JAMES MOLEY, Dist. Pres.
Limerick, Ohio.
WELLSTON, O., Jan. 2.

Convention Notices.

Religio of the Northeastern Illinois district convenes at Sandwich church, Friday, February 1st, at 2 p. m. for business.

ADAM J. KECK, Vice Pres.
WILMINGTON, Ill., Jan. 10.

The Sunday School association of the Kirtland district will convene February 25th, at Cleveland, Ohio. All schools are cordially invited to be in attendance. General superintendent, T. A. Hoogas, will be present, and a good and profitable time is anticipated. All come prepared to take part, and bring the "Winnowed Songs" along.

RICHARD BALDWIN, Supt.,
DORA McFARLAND, Sec.
SHARON, Pa., Jan. 11.

The convention of the Northeastern Illinois district Sunday School association will convene at Sandwich, Illinois, February 1, 1901. Following is an outline of the program: Prayer meeting, 10:15 a. m.; business meeting, 11 a. m.; institute work, 3 p. m.; entertainment, 6 p. m. Would like to have a good representation of the different schools in the district as the officers are to be elected. Secretaries please send reports to me.

MAMIE WILLIAMSON, Dist. Sec.
NORWAY, Ill., Jan. 10.

First Annual Report of Ladies' Aid Society of St. Joseph.

The Ladies' Aid Society was organized by Sr. Grace Kralh, January 4, 1900. The following officers were elected, Sr. Grace Kralh, president; Sr. Carrie L. Best vice president; Sr. Eldridge, treasurer; Sr. Annie Brooks, secretary. The first six months the society raised $25.00.

At our semi-annual election of officers, Sr. Best was elected as president, Sr. Gardner, vice president, and Sr. Brooks, secretary and treasurer. Since that time the society has made $90.00, total $115.00; turned over to building fund $105.00, balance on hand $10.00.

CARRIE L. BEST, Pres.
SR. GARDNER, V. Pres.
SR. BROOKS, Sec.
January 7.

MARRIED.

(One dollar must accompany these notices when other than the plain announcement is desired. No descriptive information will be inserted free.)

HADEN-ARMSTRONG.—Near Raymond, Missouri, December 25, 1900, at 12 o'clock noon, Bro. Oscar E. Haden and Sr. Emma J. Armstrong, Elder J. A. Armstrong officiating.

DIED.

(One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.)

DUNCAN.—At the home of her son, Wm. A. Duncan, Hebron, Nebraska, on the morning of December 31, 1900, Sr. Juliette Duncan, aged 68 years, 10 months and 10 days. She was brought back to her home at Millersburg, Ill., and interred in the cemetery near by. Funeral services in Saints' chapel, conducted by Elder Wm. E. LaRue, a large assembly of relatives and friends being in attendance. She united with the church August 14, 1870, and continued faithful until death.

JORDAN.—On January 2, 1901, at her home in Carberry, Manitoba, Sr. Mary Jane, wife of Bro. James More Jordan, aged 31 years, 9 months, 7 days. An affectionate husband mourns the loss of a loving companion, and three small children the loss of a kind mother. Sr. Jordan was baptized in Riverview, Ontario, and her life has since been that of a true Saint, full of life and energy. Services in the Presbyterian church by Rev. Mr. Carswell. Elder Frederick Gregory arrived in time to attend, but too late to officiate, not knowing the sad news.

FERRY.—Of old age, while on a visit to her daughter, Sr. Lentell, at Independence, Missouri, December 30, 1900, Elizabeth Jane Ferry, Sr. Perry was born in England, 1830, united with the church and was baptized by Elder R. Rowley, May 10, 1875, in Illinois. She was the first to open her house for the preaching of the gospel in Rich Hill, and was faithful unto death. Her remains were interred at Rich Hill, funeral services being in charge of Elder F. M. Sharrock, sermon by Elder F. C. Warnky.

WALBERRY.—At her home in Steuben county, Indiana, December 27, 1900, Sr. Sarah Walberry. She was born September 5, 1848, in Sandusky county, Ohio, and was baptized September, 1864, by Elder I. M. Smith. Her faith was grounded deep in the promises of the Savior, and her life was a sweet memento of Christian graces. She died in the hope of a glorious resurrection. Funeral from the Methodist church in Otsego township. Sermon by Elder S. W. L. Scott, a very large and interested audience attending. She was laid to rest in North Otsego cemetery, beside her daughter, Cora Bell, who preceded her sixteen years.

Joy.—At Strawberry Point, Iowa, December 25, 1900, after a few days illness, Sr. Mary Joy. Mary Nelson was born July 30, 1824, in Washington county, Vermont; was married to Solomon Joy, February 19, 1844. They were blessed with ten children, only four of whom survive, though they have raised several others. For over sixty years she was an untiring worker in the Methodist church. July 9, 1900, she was baptized by Elder J. R. Sutton, and to say she was faithful, but faintly expresses her love for the work. An aged husband, four children, eleven grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren and hosts of friends mourn her departure. Funeral Sunday, December 30 at 2 p. m., at the house; sermon by Elder J. R. Sutton, assisted by Rev. Hildwood. Interment in Strawberry Point cemetery.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulme, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 149, Lee's Summit, Mo.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lawton, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3198 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

Hearts, like apples, are hard and sour, Till crushed by pain's resistless power; And yield their juices rich and bland To none but sorrow's heavy hand. The pure streams of human love Flow natural from the heart above. But, gush by pressure from above, With God's hand on the lever, The first are turbid and meanest, The last are sweetest and sereneest.—J. J. Holland, in "Bitter Sweet."

The following, translated from Sahagun, is the advice of an Aztec mother to her daughter, and although, as Prescott says, it is the product of the twilight of civilization, we think it may contain some beautiful thoughts for our girls. We will simply make selections from the letter.

"Listen, my daughter; in this world, it is necessary to live with much prudence and circumspection.

"Hear this allegory which I shall now tell you, and preserve it, and take from it a warning and example for living aright. Here, in this world, we travel by a very narrow, steep and dangerous road, which is as a lofty mountain ridge, on whose top passes a narrow path; on either side is a great gulf without bottom, and if you deviate from the path you will fall into it. There is need, therefore, of much discretion in pursuing the road.

"Take care that your garments are such as are decent and proper; and observe that you do not adorn yourself with much finery, since this is a mark of vanity and of folly. As little becoming is it, that your dress should be very mean, dirty or ragged; since rags are a mark of the low, and of those who are held in contempt. Let your clothes be becoming, and neat, that you may neither appear fantastic nor mean. When you speak, do not hurry your words from uneasiness, but speak deliberately and calmly. Do not raise your voice very high, nor speak very low, but in a moderate tone. Neither mince when you speak, but let your words be proper, of a good sound, and your voice gentle. Do not be nice in the choice of your words. In walking, my daughter, see that you behave becomingly. Do not carry your head very much raised, since it is a mark of ill breeding; walk erect, and with your head slightly inclined. Do not have your mouth covered, or your face, from shame, nor go looking like a near sighted person. Walk through the streets quietly, and with propriety. Another thing that you must attend to, my daughter, is, that, when you are in the street, you do not go looking hither and thither, nor turning your head to look at this and that. Show a becoming countenance, that you may neither appear morose, nor, on the other hand, too complaisant. See, my daughter, that you give yourself no concern about the words you may hear, in going through the street, nor pay any regard to them, let those who come and go say what they will. Take care that you neither answer nor speak, but act as if you neither heard nor understood them, since, doing in this manner, no one will be able to say with truth that you have said anything amiss. My dear daughter, whom I tenderly love, see that you live in the world in peace, tranquility and contentment, all the days you shall live. See that you honor me and your father, and reflect glory on us by your good life. May God prosper you, and may you come to God, who is in every place.—Prescott's History of Mexico, Vol. III, contributed by Sr. Marie H. Clark.

HEADACHE
Pain back of your eyes? Heavy pressure in your head? And are you sometimes faint and dizzy? Is your tongue coated? Bad taste in your mouth? And does your food distress you? Are you nervous and irritable? Do you often have the blues? And are you troubled about sleeping?
Then your liver is all wrong.
But there is a cure. 'Tis the old reliable
AYER'S PILLS
They act directly on the liver. They cure constipation, biliousness, sick headache, nausea, and dyspepsia. Take a laxative dose each night. For 60 years they have been the Standard Family Pills.
Price 25 cents. All Druggists.
"I have taken Ayer's Pills regularly for six months. They have cured me of a severe headache, and I can now walk from two to four miles without getting tired or out of breath, something I have not been able to do for many years."
—S. S. YALOW,
July 12, 1899. Boston, Mass.
Write the Doctor.
If you have any complaint whatever and are in need of medical aid, you can possibly receive, write the doctor who will receive a prompt reply without cost.
—Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, JANUARY 24, 1901

NUMBER 4.

ZION'S ENSIGN:

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost.

Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth almost cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

PRIDE.

One of the potent factors in retarding the progress and development of the work of the Lord among the children of men, has been foolish and sinful pride. All along the pathway of the ages whenever God has spoken, either by His own voice or through His servants, it has always been to or through those who were humble in heart and contrite in spirit, and His promises of divine favor and blessing have ever been to that class of individuals. He has continually opposed the proud, the haughty, and the arrogant, and when He has spoken of or to that class at all, it has been in reproof, and a warning to repentance. Though the great Nebuchadnezzar was made a prince in His hands for the carrying out of His designs regarding the nations of his time, he had yet to undergo a fearful experience when his pride led him to boast of his greatness, and credit his own prowess for the glory attending his accomplishments; he was deposed from his glory, and was turned out with the beasts of the field until he was thoroughly impressed with the fact that honor, glory, majesty, might, dominion and power belonged alone unto the Creator of all.

History had a repetition on this continent in the days when the history of the Book of Mormon was being written. So long as the Saints were humble, and sought diligently to bring forth righteousness, they were a favored people and their enemies were not permitted to overcome them. But when they began to prosper exceedingly they forgot their obligation to the Almighty and became wicked and neglectful, were lifted up in the pride of their hearts because of the abundance of their worldly accumulations and much fine apparel; when they began to look down upon their less favored brethren and sisters, and to despise them as beneath themselves, the Lord chastened them sorely, and they were made to feel the instability of all things earthly. The prophet Alma records a time in the eighth year of the reign of the judges who were appointed in place of the kings to administer for the people, when this state of affairs existed, and this unholy and unrighteous exhibition of pride wrought havoc among the people of God. He says:

And it came to pass in the eighth year of the reign of the Judges, that the people of the church began to wax proud, because of their exceeding riches, and their fine silks, and their fine twined linen, and because of their many flocks and herds, and their gold and silver, and all manner of precious things which they had obtained by their industry; and in all these things they were lifted up in the pride of their eyes, for they began to wear very costly apparel. Now this was the cause of much affliction to Alma, yea, and to many of the people whom Alma had consecrated to be teachers, and priests, and elders, over the church; yea many of them were sorely grieved for the wickedness which they saw had begun to be among the people. For they saw and beheld with great sorrow, that the people of the church began to be lifted up in the pride of their eyes, and to set their hearts upon riches and upon the vain things of the world, that they began to be scornful, one towards another, and they began to persecute those that did not believe according to their own will and pleasure. And thus in this eighth year of the reign of the Judges, there began to be great contentions among the people of the church; yea, there were envyings and strife, and malice, and persecutions, and pride, even to exceed the pride of those who did not belong to the church of God. And thus ended the eighth year of the reign of the Judges; and the wickedness of the church was a great stumbling block to those who did not belong to the church; and thus the church began to fall in its progress. And it came to pass in the commencement of the ninth year, Alma saw the wickedness of the church, and he saw also that the example of the church began to lead those who were unbelievers, on from one piece of iniquity to another, thus bringing on the destruction of the people; yea he saw great inequality among the people, some lifting themselves up with their pride, despising others, turning their backs upon the needy, and the naked, and those who were athirst, and those who were sick and afflicted.—Alma 2: 5-10 (large Ed.), 2: 3, 4 (small Ed.).

It is a distressing thought that those who were once enlightened by the Spirit of God, should so far fall away into transgression, that their sins would even exceed the sins of those who had never been members of the church, and that they actually led the unbelievers "from one piece of iniquity to another." What an awful responsibility they thus assumed, even the answering to God for the condemnation following or resulting from a failure to obey the gospel of Christ by those who were thus led and influenced in evil doing.

But because one takes pleasure in attiring themselves neatly and becomingly, so as to make a more pleasing appearance, it is not necessarily an evidence of sinful pride, nor is an absence of color, of flowers, or bright hued ribbons from a sister's raiment, a positive indication of the absence of pride. Our heavenly Father in the spring and summer, robes the earth in different shades of emerald hue; and how much we all enjoy its beauty compared with the sombre, dull color of the fields in winter. And not only does He dress the earth in green, but He further adorns it with beautiful flowers of every hue, enhancing the loveliness already existing so as to give pleasure to His children, that they might praise Him who is the giver of every good gift. Who does not admire the tidily, cleanly, neatly attired man or woman, boy or girl, as compared with others who are careless, slovenly and neglectful of their personal appearance? It is not therefore justifiable to condemn one as possessing sinful pride simply because the individual may wear "good clothes."

But, it may be asked, is there not a danger that in adorning the person with attractive attire, one may be led into thinking too much of what they wear, and thus gradually be drawn into an exhibition of pride, which is the opposite of that which is commendable? Yes, there is always danger of the children of God being led into transgression if they are not watchful and careful, as well as prayerful. The Apostle Paul was so favored with the manifestations of the Spirit, that in order to keep a proper control of himself, a thorn in the flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet him, was found needful, lest, as he said, "I should be exalted above measure," but no one will argue that it would have been better that the apostle should not have had those manifestations of the Spirit. There is always danger in an excess.

But when individuals are observed acting meanly and contemptuously toward another, simply because the other cannot afford to dress as richly as they, that may be accepted as an evidence of the possession of a pride that is despicable alike to God, and to all right minded men and women; it is a sin that should not go unrebuked. When one is becomingly and satisfactorily dressed, the knowledge of that fact should tend to exclude the thought of it from the attention and leave the mind free for the exercise of nobler thought. To a refined nature, the inability to attire themselves as tastefully as they would desire, is often more harmful, as being the subject of regretful thought much more frequently, than would the pleasant impressions following when the desire for better things can be reasonably gratified.

We have seen a pride manifest which to others was saddening, a desire to appear not proud, so great as to lead the individual to an apparent utter and reckless disregard as to appearances; slovenly and unattractive in personal attire and actions. That is the other extreme to be avoided as sedulously as over-adorning. Any one who truly has the love of God in their hearts will not be guilty of either extreme, nor will one "think more highly of himself than he ought" when he is conscientiously giving service to the Lord.

Let all guard carefully against any disposition to despise the poor, for to them especially was provision made in the preaching and application of the gospel laws. Our Lord was numbered among them while on earth; He had not where to lay his head. And the humble and contrite are regarded with favor by the Lord, while the proud and haughty, they who despise the poor, will be brought into judgment before Him, and will be found "poor indeed." Love God supremely, love the brethren "with a pure heart fervently," serve the Lord with singleness of heart and purpose, and no spirit of false pride will have power or influence.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

✓
SR. EMMA RICE, Adin, Modoc county, California, writes that Bro. Daley is there and has recently baptized four. It is quite difficult for an elder to get a hearing in that region.

BRO. A. J. LAYLAND has recently been laboring in the vicinity of Kemmerer, Wyoming; he held a series of meetings at Harris Fork, and was announced to preach at Diamondville, Wyoming, January 18th.

BRO. F. C. KECK closed a series of fourteen sermons in the opera house at Miami, Indian Territory, January 21st. Had good attendance all the time, especially the last night, when the hall, a large room, was filled. Opposition was active but ineffective in keeping the people away. Bro. Keck says he enjoyed wonderful liberty in preaching, and much prejudice has been removed.

APOSTLE R. C. EVANS, London, Canada, in a recent letter to the editor, gives a cheering account of the progress of the work in his mission; he says every missionary is doing good work. He organized one branch the week previous to his writing (January 17), and was to organize two more in two weeks from that time. Two churches were erected last year and preparations are now being made for three more to be built in the spring. A number have been baptized.

ELDER C. G. LANPHEAR, Sandwich, Illinois, in sending for some tracts, says:

Religious meetings are being carried on here to quite an extent at present time, and it is a very good time to give out some of our church literature.

Our aged brother is still manifesting his interest in, and love for the work of the Master, in doing something to advance its interests. May his efforts yield an abundant harvest in the salvation of those who are willing to obey the celestial law, by which the perfection of bliss may be attained, and thus added luster may be given the crown of life which he himself may receive for faithful service.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

BRO. JOHN MOST, New Carlisle, Indiana:

We belong to the Buchanan branch but do not get to meet with the Saints very often as it is about nine miles from where we live. This makes us look very anxiously for the ENSIGN every week. It is a welcome visitor at our home with its many encouraging sermons and letters.

ELDER M. T. SHORT, Fanning, Kansas, January 16th:

I have spoken every night so far in this new year, as also the mornings of the 6th and 13th, and am feeling well. Good hearings and attentive audiences have been the rule under which I wrought. Seed time, cultivation and harvest are the successive stages in this work. I go to Atchison this 6 p. m.

SR. ELIZABETH JEFFRIES, Gay, West Virginia:

We live away out in the West Virginia hills, fifteen miles from the depot. We have no preaching except through the ENSIGN. We expected Bro. D. L. Shine to come and preach for us awhile this fall, but sickness prevented him. We wait with patience every week for the arrival of the ENSIGN, and eagerly scan its pages and always find a good sermon and a number of good letters from the Saints which we enjoy very much. There is a great deal of sickness here. Weather very warm; some rain; very little snow.

ELDER F. C. KECK, Fairland, Indian Territory:

When we closed our meetings at Shilo, on Grand River, house would not hold the people; I never saw a house packed so tightly. Many were outside listening through the windows. After preaching Bro. Riley and I started to drive to Fairland; on the road the horse scared at the cars and ran against a telegraph pole, tearing our buggy to pieces, throwing Bro. Riley out on his face, and I on the side of my head and temple, bruising us up some. "It is a miracle that the results were not more serious. I am having the most wonderful meetings wherever I go in the territory.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Elder Joseph Luff will preach next Sunday morning at the Saints' church.

The choir is hard at work on the Cantata to be given for the benefit of the organ fund. A full attendance of all the singers should be given every rehearsal.

Bro. and Sr. C. G. Gould's new house, corner Clark and S. Fuller streets, is nearly completed outside, and the lathers are at work on the inside. It will be a nice, cosy, convenient home when completed.

Bro. L. A. Lyon, of Prairie City, Missouri, and Sr. Dahlia Weise, of this city, were married Sunday morning last by Bro. Henry Kemp. They left the same evening for Prairie City, where Bro. Lyons is in the cheese business.

Sr. Orville James entertained friends last week, and Sr. J. A. Robinson, Sr., this week, in honor of Sr. A. L. Newton, who has been visiting home folks since the holidays. Sr. Newton and children and Sr. Cora Strong departed for their home, Cove, Arkansas, Monday evening.

The weather this winter has been simply delightful. For the past few weeks hardly a cloud has covered the sky and only slight frost was had during the nights. Heavy wraps have only been needed a few times. No rain or snow has fallen to amount to anything and some cisterns are feeling the absence of the moisture.

A fire in Hall's bakery, next door to Bro. H. R. Mills & Sons book store, Monday noon, threatened for a time to do considerable damage, but the quick and efficient work of the department, under Bro. John Nesbitt, the warden, soon removed the danger, though the store of the Bro. Mills and others adjoining the bakery, were filled with smoke, doing some slight damage to stocks.

Sr. Mary Boyes calmly and peacefully departed this life, Tuesday morning about 2 o'clock. Aged sixty-two years. She was only ill about two weeks, but had a premonition that she would not recover. One sad feature attending her death is the severe illness of her son, Bro. J. E. Lewis, which prevented him from being present at the time of her decease. The funeral took place from the Saints' church Wednesday afternoon, the pastor preaching the sermon.

Sunday morning Elder Henry Kemp addressed the Saints at the stone church upon the invitation of the Savior, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." (Matt. 11: 28). At night Bro. B. J. Scott occupied to the edification of the hearers. The afternoon service was filled with activity, the spirit of testimony leading to the comfort of the Saints. The following prophecy was given:

Yea, verily, verily, thus saith the Lord unto you, my people, hearken and listen unto the words of counsel that I have to give unto thee; for, verily I say unto thee, it has been pleasing in my sight to see the effort that you are putting forth to strive to live nearer and walk nearer unto me. And behold, verily I say unto you, you must live near unto me. You must keep yourselves upright and holy before me, and then will I stand by you in every trial that shall come upon you. Verily I say unto you, death and disease and destruction is going abroad in the land, ye, sweeping the earth, as it were, with the besom of destruction. But if my people shall live as they should live before me, they need not fear; for I will stand by them in the sixth trouble and in the seventh trouble I will not forsake them. And ye, I say unto you, my servants, upon whom has been conferred the holy priesthood, look unto your hearts, be ye chaste men in every respect, be humble, be faithful, be meek and lowly, and you shall have the influence of the Spirit that you shall be enabled to exercise faith in me under the influences of the holy priesthood that has been conferred upon you, and wonders and miracles shall be performed in mine house and this, my people. Yea, be obedient children, ye, be meek and lowly, and you have naught to fear, for your Father in heaven will be a father to you in every time of need. Therefore be faithful, thus saith the Lord unto you.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 563 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Samuel L. Worley, a young man of goodly presentation and intelligence, was baptized yesterday at the mission, thus adding one, we hope, who will be a helper to the cause.

Wife and I spent a pleasant Sabbath and visit at West Pullman. We were greeted by a fair and attentive audience both morning and evening, and had a goodly measure of liberty in presenting the word. The Sabbath School was good under the charge of Sr. G. H. Henley, the superintendent. The Religion convened at 6:30 p. m., Bro. G. H. Henley being president. The time was occupied in prayer, Scripture quotations and testimony. Withal we were pleased to find the work in a progressive condition. Bro. Francis Earl is at present in charge.

Bro. J. F. McDowell passed through the city recently en route to his field of labor in the east.

Bro. F. G. Pitt and wife started on Friday for Pittsburg, where he will re-enter his missionary work. He was active while present with us.

Don't forget the priesthood meeting on the 28th, at 3411 Cottage Grove avenue. These meetings are growing in interest and should be attended by all the priesthood.

In visiting the house of Sr. Thompson, in the south part of the city, 9033 Cottage Grove avenue, we found seven in bed with the measles, including Sr. Thompson. Sr. Mamie Morgan was kindly caring for them.

One week from Sunday next will be our regular monthly union meeting at the usual place. Let us make this a happy gathering, and a large one. Don't forget Sunday School at 9:30, preaching at 11 a. m., sacrament meeting at 3 p. m., preaching at 7:30 p. m.

Bro. H. E. Moler, after a visit with home folks, returns to the field today. He will hold a few meetings in West Pullman.

In Renewing your subscription, don't fail to add 25 cents for "Daily Ensign" during the coming General Conference, commencing April 6, 1901.

There is not much change in the condition of Bro. E. E. Johnson. Over six months he has spent in bed.

With love and hope,

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Jan. 21.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Sunday being such a fair day, permitted many who have been "housed up" to attend services. At Sunday School the attendance was especially good. Elder John Smith was the speaker at morning hour, and Elder Columbus Scott at evening. The usual prayer and testimony service was held at 2:30.

Elder M. F. Gowell preached at Evergreen Saturday night and twice on Sunday. Bro. Nephi Suively spoke at Davis City yesterday, J. P. Anderson spoke at Centerville, and Frank E. Cochran at Lucas.

The speakers for next Sunday are Elder Chas. H. Lake in morning, Elder David A. Anderson in evening.

Sr. Emily M. Scoville, of Webb City, Missouri, arrived at Saints' Home last Saturday.

Bishop E. L. Kelley made a business trip to Old Far West, Missouri, the fore part of the week. Saturday evening he went to Red Oak to preach the funeral sermon of Sr. Whitcomb (mother of Sr. E. C. Briggs), who died on the 17th inst., at 80 years of age. She united with the church in 1839.

District Sunday School and Religion convention will be held here January 31st and February 1st. District conference February 2d and 3d.

There are quite a number of slight attacks of la grippe here, but none are seriously ill that we know of.

The Wednesday evening prayer meeting which has been held in the Mite Society building for some years has been discontinued.

New students recently enrolled in Graceland college are Chloe and Samuel Young, Hefel Vanderflute, Martha Lester and Nellie White, of Lamoni, and C. L. Price, Mt. Ayr, Iowa, Asa Clement and Leslie Webb, Cove, Arkansas, Mabel Bartholomew, Moorehead, Iowa, and W. T. Ross, Mount City, Missouri.

Elder D. W. Wight left for his mission field last Wednesday.

G. L. K.

January 21.

ST. JOSEPH, MISSOURI.

We are having unusually fine weather for the time of the year, quite warm and springlike.

The services Sunday were all well attended, especially the social meeting at 5:30 p. m., which was very spiritual. Bro. Lewis preached an excellent discourse in the morning on order in God's work. Bro. Cather who was the speaker of the evening took for his theme the Restoration of the Gospel.

Choir practice at the home of Sr. Pearl Best Friday night at 8 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Sr. Myra Booker who, together with her sister, came to St. Joseph to go to business school, and is stopping with the family of Bro. H. O. Smith, has been taken down with that dreaded disease, smallpox. She, however, has it in a mild form.

On July last the membership of this branch agreed to try to raise in six months $1150, which would reduce the debt on the building $1000. Those who are interested and who have assisted in this effort will be pleased to learn that the amount has been raised. The Saints have responded nobly to the call to "bend every energy" to the redemption of our church from the bondage of debt." A. B. January 21.

FIRST KANSAS CITY BRANCH. 2324 Wabash Ave., Sunday School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; social service 12:15 p. m. D. F. Winn, pastor, 2306 Bellfontaine.

Since we last burdened our pages a new century has arrived and with it new aspirations. There has also arrived at the home of Bro. H. L. Ashbaugh, a grandson; he is just five hours younger than the century. He is the son of Bro. and Sr. Givens. He is a lusty little fellow and the Kansas City papers suggested that he be called Century in honor of the event, but his grandfather says he is afraid the boy would not be able to bear such a burden; in fact he rather inclines to Louis, we presume for the reason that in his younger days the boys used to call him that.

Among the sad things that have happened since the first of the year is the death of Bro. John MacLaren, a young man highly respected by his acquaintances, and loved by those who were intimately acquainted with him.

Things are moving along in about the usual way; sickness and other causes have lessened the attendance both in Sunday School and at the other religious services, but the interest is good, and the spiritual outlook for the future is encouraging. Elder F. C. Warnky has been away most of the time on a missionary trip, south of here; he has held services at Schell City, Veve, Walker and Rich Hill with good results; we miss him at both Sunday School and testimony meetings, but most especially at the weekly teachers' meeting. On last Thursday evening we had Bro. Wm. Clow with us at teachers' meeting; those present expressed themselves well pleased with the exposition of the lesson.

There has been considerable sickness in the branch of late. Among those who have been unable to attend services are Sr. L. H. Ashbaugh and Sr. E. Elzenhouser, but we understand both are improving.

Elder W. H. Pease spoke last Sunday morning and Elder G. H. Hulmes in the evening; both were good sermons.

Elder J. D. White has opened a mission on Vine street at the home of Bro. Geo. L. Kern.

Elder F. Rudd is to preach for us next Sunday evening.

R. E. PORTER.

January 21.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH. Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line.

Bro. George Edwards preached Sunday morning, and Bro. Joseph Emmett in the evening. Fair attendance at both meetings. The afternoon prayer meeting was largely attended and the Holy Spirit gave cheer and comfort to the Saints, instructing and exhorting them to duty.

It is good to see so many strangers who find it convenient to come to the little rock church on the corner.

A nice, large stove stood in the place of the small one when the Saints gathered Sunday morning. Thanks to the Independence branch for this donation.

JOHN GRAINGER.

January 21.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

OTTO, Ark., Jan. 16.

Editor Ensign:—I began gospel work in this field November 26th, near Hunt, Johnson county, in the Union Grove school-house. I landed at Coal Hill November 21st, and soon was made at home with Bro. T. A. Roberts and wife. There was, some years back, several Saints here, but death, the world, and more congenial climes have contributed to thin them out, till now, only Bro. Roberts, wife, one son, and Sr. Mita Rhodes (daughter of Bro. and Sr. E. H. Case) are left. Bro. J. W. Gillen, I. N. Roberts, G. E. Deuel and J. D. Erwin have done the pioneer work.

Being informed by Bro. Roberts that there were some Saints near Hunt, seven miles north, I started to find them and see what could be done in the preaching line. Bro. Roberts kindly offered to hire horse and buggy to "carry" me out, but I declined, thinking this too much of a luxury for an Arkansas missionary. Before reaching my destination, however, I had to pull off shoes, and otherwise adjust wearing apparel preparatory to fording the creek. This with other things encountered, has convinced me that the above offer was proper, and in future will be considered a necessity instead of a luxury.

Arriving at the home of Bro. and Sr. R. Hicks I found a hearty welcome "as long as you want to stay." Bro. and Sr. Jim Knick also live near Hunt and were very kind to "the elder." I soon learned that the Liberty Hill school-house near by was closed against us. Bro. Erwin had held a meeting there several years ago, and so clearly and forcibly did he present the truth that "Babylon trembled for fear of her loss, and wicked professors made light of the cross," and proceeded to use the cog argument on our brother, under cover of the darkness, and then closed the house against future efforts. They do say our "J. D." is "a stayer;" takes worse "ch. eggs to route him.

Bro. Deuel and Jackson were later threatened, and also the writer with the same argument, but an increase of friends made it hazardous, so the writer came and went unmolested. Bro. Thos. Day and wife walked about ten miles to attend these meetings. They were converted through reading Exeter, tracts and Book of Mormon furnished by Bro. T. A. Roberts and Nanny, eight years ago. They are good, zealous Saints, and are falling into line as fast as they can learn their duty. Have quit tobacco and coffee, and notwithstanding they are poor in this world's goods, are taking the Ensign, contributed to the missionary's needs, and have arranged to pay their tithing. We held meetings at two points in Johnson county, joining districts, visited and talked the gospel to thirty-one families, and distributed many tracts and Ensigns.

I gave way at one 11 a. m. service for a funeral sermon by a Baptist preacher, and he began by preaching my funeral, and closed by a pressing invitation to all who wanted to meet the departed in heaven to come and give him their hand. Only those who have witnessed an "old time" shouting contest can picture the scene that followed. They found out before I closed my meetings that I was the liveliest corpse that had ever furnished the text for a Baptist preacher's funeral sermon in that place. Considerable interest was aroused, and several were left investigating. We expect to hold meetings again before spring at the same points. We forgot to say Bro. and Sr. Day have established a home Sunday School.

Leaving Coal Hill Monday, December 31st, we came to Conway, where we were met at depot by Bro. W. O. Brannon and Jesse M. Simmons, the former, priest of Ingleside branch, near Saltillo, the latter, clerking in grocery and clothing store at Conway. Remaining over night in town, next a. m. came out to home of Bro. Brannon, near Ingleside school-house. Found a once large branch reduced by apostasy and moving away, to a mere handful—about twenty. We find some noble Saints here, willing and ready to do, but needing some one with push and energy to take the lead. The elders have moved to Howard county, leaving the branch nearly disorganized. Bro. W. O. Brannon, priest, and Bro. W. I. Moore, deacon, seem to be good, faithful brethren, and ready to do anything possible for the good of the branch.

Have enjoyed good liberty preaching to them and the world, and have assisted them in organizing a Sunday School with the following officers: Elder J. M. Smith, superintendent; W. O. Brannon, assistant; J. M. Simmons, secretary; J. J. Black, treasurer; and J. M. Smith, chorister. Literature (L. D. S.) was ordered and they start their boat next Sunday, 10 a. m. Elder J. M. Smith is back from Mississippi, where he has been the past year, and is assisting in the service. What is gained by bringing people into the church and then leaving them to the mercy of the destroyer? I learn there are a few Saints at Bald Knob, about fifty miles northeast, who have been organized into a branch, and they, too, are not in working order.

It seems to me wherever there are a few branches within fifty miles of each other, they should be organized into a district, so they could meet together occasionally in conference, where they would be cheered, and stimulated to continue the battle, when without these times of refreshing they become tired and lose interest in the work. The district president could look to their several needs, and provide means for utilizing otherwise wasted energies.

We expect to encourage the Saints in this, White and Sharp counties, to hold a camp meeting at a place as convenient to all as possible, some time this coming summer. All thus far spoken to are heartily in favor of it. What say you, Saints in White and Sharp?

We are trying to get scattered Saints to have a home Sunday School and distribute literature freely in their respective localities so as to prepare the way before the preacher, and keep themselves busy. If we can keep our members all at work for the Master there will be fewer admonitions to "Come up higher."

I never met a more hospitable people anywhere than in Arkansas. I have never lacked for friends or places to stay. I held a two weeks' meeting in one place where there were no Saints, and where they had never heard a Latter Day Saint, and I had a new place to stay each night, and many invitations to which I could not respond.

There are hundreds of acres of government land in the state that can be homesteaded, and also railroad land which can be bought for from $2 to $6 per acre. Improved land can be bought for $8 and $10 per acre. This is the best poor man's country I have ever seen. The farming people don't handle a great quantity of money, but they make a good living. Railroad land can be bought on easy terms. You Saints who are living in cities and depending on days' wages for bread, why not come to the sunny south and get a home? Many people are making a good living on forty acres, with one horse. I have looked at some good railroad land, in the timber, which can be bought for $5 per acre, some forty, and some eighty acre tracts. This is a much better state, so far as I have seen, than I expected to find.

I have been in the state fifty-six days and have preached fifty times, organized one Sunday School and attended two other services. Am feeling well in body and spirit and happy in the conflict. May God bless the Ensign. It carries cheer and hope to Saints, and light and truth to many minds whom the elders could never reach.

In bonds,
W. S. MACRAE.

JOELIN, Mo., Jan. 21.

Dear Ensign:—I believe the work in this part of the vineyard is growing. Bro. Love and myself commenced a series of sermons at Central City December 28, and continued for over two weeks. On the death of the old year we had a "watch meeting." About twenty of the Saints from Blendville came over; however, we did not stay until twelve o'clock. Great interest was manifest in our meeting from the very start to the close. One old lady told us when we were advertising the meeting that she had had a dream and she believed the Lord had sent us there to rouse up the people. The sister wanted to be baptized but her husband would not give his consent. Two precious souls were baptized yesterday. Bro. Love officiating.

Last night we met in the I. O. U. W. hall where Bro. Love preached a sermon to a house full of anxious seekers on the subject of "The Laying on of Hands," and then the two sisters were confirmed members of the church, in which we felt the approval of God. Many more are believing and as soon as the Methodists get through we intend to hold another series of meetings. The Methodists commence their meeting tonight in the hall. We held our meetings in the school-house.

The devil begins to imagine vain things and tell several falsehoods. The last night of the meeting the school director (Mr. Judd) wrote on the blackboard, "This present series of meetings shall close." Well, in the meantime I had requested the Methodist preacher to give way his regular appointment as we were in a series of meetings. He said he never made a practice of doing that kind of business, but he never came to fill his appointment, and as a consequence there were no preachers there. So the Sunday School superintendent turned the meeting into a prayer and social meeting. While they were praying and testifying and asking an interest in one another's prayers, one Mr. Covert arose and said, "I don't know as I need an interest in your prayers near as much as the man who wrote that message on the blackboard. Please pray for him."

They have closed the school-house against all protracted efforts. The people said if it was closed against us it would be against all denominations. We can occupy it on Sundays, and we left a regular appointment on the first Sunday. The Methodist preacher came over to fill his appointment once while we were there. The house was full and he preached from Matthew 6:33. He only occupied about three-quarters of an hour, so when we were privileged to make announcements I stated that I would preach a short sermon after the brother had dismissed.

He told me to proceed before the dismissal. The preacher had left several little gaps for me to walk into. I did not personate, and did not even refer to anything the brother had said. I enjoyed splendid liberty and the people could discern who was presenting the truth. Many of the people would come up at the close of the sermons and say, "O, I wish my father, brothers and sisters could hear this preaching."

Last week while preaching south of Neosho, the boys threw stones at us, but none took effect. It made friends for us (Bro. Prewitt and myself), and we effected an opening that is encouraging. We were domiciled with outsiders altogether. Bro. and Sr. Crawford, of Fairland, Indian Territory, have a daughter living south-east of Neosho. The good Lord directed these two old folks to come to see their afflicted daughter while we were there. We were glad to meet them once more, and we spent a happy time together.

I commence a series of meetings tonight at East Hollow, two miles north of Central. I find in my missionary work that there are some dark sides to the picture, and occasionally we have to shoulder our grip and "tramp, tramp, the boys are marching." But then we ought never to grumble when it's our lot to walk. We should make our sacrifices willingly; look at what many of the old veterans have done and gone through. I nearly deserted the Sabbath yesterday, having walked about eighteen miles. Such experiences, however, do not take away any of the grandeur from this latter day work. I am still in the faith, rejoicing in the blessings of God.

Your brother,
A. M. BAKER.

HOLDEN, Mo., January 22.

Dear Ensign:—With the new year the Saints here moved from the hall on second street, where church services had been held, into the Episcopal church house on 4th street, the Saints having rallied their forces by way of money under advice of the Bishops, bringing us in a closer touch with the gospel needs and union. Bro. A. Allen being at home on a furlough, immediately began holding preaching services for the length of time he would remain on his visit with his family. A goodly number of strangers attended from the first, and the Saints were much edified through his effort.

It seems that was the proper move to make, as from the first night's service until the present there is a fair turnout of strangers to all preaching services. At the present writing Bro. A. White is and has been holding forth for nearly a week with good liberty and edification to all.

Some of our brothers and sisters have been and are yet suffering in the strong grasp of a gripper; Bro. H. Resch is one of them. He and Bro. P. C. Scarfill, president of the branch, have each held three preaching services at Post Oak in the past month. Other local brethren are up and about their duties as they come trooping in in various ways. The sisters also organized an Aid Society on New Years day, fourteen being present, with Sr. Johnson, Sr., president. They too, are bending all their energies in this and other directions. It certainly is very exhilarating to see the strong, earnest, determined effort the branch is making to come up higher.

The heart is made glad to realize the healing power made manifest by the administration of the elders and earnest prayers of the Saints when called upon to unite our prayers for the sick and afflicted. Our prayer is that the good work may go on and continue unto the end. The Saints were pleased with the presence of our congenial Bro. Walter Smith over Christmas. He too was home on a furlough to visit his widowed mother and sisters, who since have been seriously stricken with the grip; we hear they are some better at this writing. The other two missionaries, Bro. Davis and Devore, thought it wisdom not to leave their field of labor during the holidays.

The entertainment on Christmas eve, with the two beautiful laden trees were gratifying to both the eye and ear. Parents had reason to be proud over the lovely deportment of their children; and eager hands were outstretched and eyes sparkled to receive the precious presents placed on the trees by loving hearts and hands, and who willingly lent their aid to make the one evening of all evenings a pleasure and success for all that might attend. Weather fine. Hearts united. Earnestness manifested. Sacrifice cheerfully made. Good attendance. The gospel preached. The Spirit of the Lord in our midst. Is not that enough? Yes, if health and needs of life are sufficient.

In gospel work,
ELLA R. DEVORE.

NEVADA, Missouri, Jan. 21.

Dear Ensign:—We are making progress here. This is one of the best fields for labor I have seen for some time. Good openings here on every side, and but few laborers to supply the demands. Since down here this time I have preached at Rich Hill, Schell City, Veve, Walker, and now I am here at Nevada; preached yesterday both morning and evening.

There are good prospects here for ingatherings: many are believing and receive the truth gladly all over this country, and a good harvest is almost sure to be ours if we can only occupy with wise reapers.

Yours in bonds,
F. C. WARNEY.

CLARKSDALE, Mo., Jan. 20.

Editor Ensign:—For the past ten days I have been busy at this place and have preached twelve times, Bro. Swenson once. He left for home to purchase a home, and I am left alone to talk with a cold, and very hoarse to speak to the people. But on Sunday morning I addressed the few that came to hear with good liberty and freedom, and as Bro. Charley Paul said, "J. C., that's the best one I've heard you preach yet." C. P. E. partook of the spirit of it and that's why it tasted so good. I close my series of meetings tonight, feeling that the seed is sown and that I've done my part if they never obey.

Bro. C. P. Paul obtained the use of the Christian church for a few sermons. The work is onward in old Far West district. We'll try and act well our part. May God bless His people.

Your brother,
J. C. FOSS.

ROCKYVILLE, MISSOURI, Dec. 28.

Editor Ensign:—My husband and I have just returned from Hickory Co., where we were called December 7th by the sickness of his father. As we were ready to return home he was called to Collins, St. Clair county, to do some baptizing where he and Bro. W. H. Mannerling opened the work three years ago. He began services Wednesday, the 19th, and Sunday about 1 p. m. a nice, quiet crowd gathered on the banks of a small stream whose waters were like crystal flowing over a gravel bed, and although the air was crisp, four adults, all heads of families, complied with this requirement of the gospel.

The interest seemed to demand and the Saints greatly desired that he should soon return and remain "in the regions round about" for some time, but he was sent to open new fields or try to in the west part of the district. Bro. T. R. White, missionary in charge, came down Saturday and did the confirming Sunday evening.

In the one faith,
MRS. A. C. SILVER.

ROCKY FORD, Col., Jan. 13.

Editor Ensign:—Several asked me to write and let them know how my sister, Bertha McMillen, stood the journey from Independence to this place. I will say she stood it just splendidly, your prayers were certainly answered; she was so weak the morning we started that she couldn't sit up long enough to be dressed, nor even raise her hand, had to be carried on a stretcher to the train. But when we got to Topeka, Kansas, (77 miles), she sat up to look out and talked about things seen, as though she enjoyed herself, and felt surprisingly well all the way.

There was a lady on the train (a stranger) said to me, I feel that your sister is going to get well, and that it just seemed to her the "guardian angels were hovering over her on her trip." That seemed strange to me, that she would feel that so plainly, when she knew nothing of the elders asking the Lord that the angels might guard her and draw near unto her throughout her journey.

These administrations have done me a world of good. I feel greatly encouraged and ask an interest in all your prayers that I may do nearer right than I have ever done before; my greatest fault is that I give way to the trials of life too easily. I am so weak in that way; but I have a stronger desire to live right than I have had for a long time.

I thought I would let all hear through the Ensign of Sr. Bertha's journey, I know it will make all rejoice, for there were so many earnest prayers offered, I never heard such pleading as was done for her. Oh! how my heart goes out to those who took such an interest in her when she was so sorely tried. Hoping to be able to meet you all, I will close.

Your sister in the one faith,
MRS. W. M. MARTIN.
P. S.—I will just state that Sr. Bertha was able to walk off the train just as Bro. Garrett asked that she might be.

KINMUNDY, Ill., Jan. 19.

Editor Ensign:—Bro. T. DAVIS, our district president, and F. M. SLOVER, our missionary in charge of the Southeast Illinois district, have been doing some faithful work in this part of the Lord's vineyard. On December 17, 1900, they organized the Saints here into a branch to be known as the Kinmundy branch, with two officers, a priest and teacher, and eleven lay members, five scattered. We have a neat little church house, three miles south-west of this city, which was completed last October. We are having our prayer meeting every Sunday afternoon, and our weekly prayer meeting on Wednesday night.

The Saints here can see the sky ahead, and are pushing forward for the prize. Last Sunday the Saints met at Bro. John Bass's to offer prayer in behalf of his wife, Josephine Bass, who has been troubled with nervous prostration for some time past. We hope to be able to have preaching at our church house once a month in the near future.

Any of our elders who chance to pass this way will be cheerfully received at my home, one mile west of the C. & E. I. depot.

Your brother,
EARNEST E. FISHEL.

OREGON, Wis., Dec. 20.

Editor Ensign:—Will you permit me to make a suggestion to the Saints of Wisconsin through the Ensign?

We are all, or should be, interested in this great latter day work, and anxious to see the gospel of the kingdom preached in all the world. So would it not be well for each saint to form him or herself into a lookout committee, and talk religion with the friends in their locality and the regions round about, and find out if they would like to hear the gospel preached. Then ascertain if there would be a church, school-house, or room of any kind in which the servants of God could preach; inform the missionary in charge of the fact, and then he can see that someone gets there at the earliest convenience.

In this way the church might be saved the expense of the missionaries running around from Dan to Beersheba, hunting up church trustees and school boards, and many a time to find that the doors are closed against Latter Day Saints.

Again a missionary may go into a neighborhood and procure a school-house, and then find out, to his sorrow, that he has got into a locality of "stay-aways." It is my opinion that there are many localities of this kind in Southern Wisconsin district. I do hope the Saints will be willing to help in this matter, and see if we cannot be more successful in the future in getting this latter day work before the minds of the people.

Your brother in bonds,
W. P. ROYNSON.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

RIGHT LIVING.

Sermon by Elder F. G. Pitt, delivered in Independence, Missouri, Sunday morning, April 29, 1900, at Saints' church.

I will read for our lesson this morning a portion of the general epistle of James, beginning at the 12th verse, 1st chapter:

Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him. Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man: but every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed. Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin: and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death. Do not err, my beloved brethren. Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning. Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures. Wherefore, my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath: for the wrath of man worketh not the righteousness of God. Wherefore, lay apart all filthiness and superfluity of naughtiness, and receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save your souls. But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves. For if any be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass: for he beholdeth himself, and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was. But whose looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed. If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is vain. Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unstained from the world.

I certainly feel very grateful for this privilege of meeting with you this morning; and while I would rather be a hearer than your speaker, I trust the Holy Spirit may be present, and furnish us such matter as we stand in need of. To this end I ask an interest in your prayers that God may direct in whatever way seemeth Him best.

While casting about in my mind for some text upon which to base what may be presented this morning, I could hardly think of any other verse than that you will find in Proverbs the 12th chapter, and 28th verse, which reads:

In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death.

And a verse very similar you will find in the 11th chapter, 19th verse:

As righteousness tendeth to life: so he that pursueth evil pursueth it to his own death.

The information furnished us in these texts is certainly important. The chief thing to be desired, whether we realize it or not, is life. It is true that many do not seem to realize the importance of life, neither do they seem to understand the means by which it is to be obtained; certainly to us who are assembled here this morning, the greatest gift is eternal life. One of the saddest texts to me found in all God's word is that announced by the Master, "Strait is the gate and narrow is the way that leadeth unto life and few there be that find it." To me it would have been much more pleasant to have Him say that the way of life was a broad way, and that many were entering therein; but if He had so stated He would not have stated a fact; and yet how sad it is to realize that only a few are finding or entering the narrow way, while in the great broad way, that leads to destruction, many are going in thereat. It cannot be that God has willed it thus, because all through the Word that we claim to be the word of God, is manifest an effort upon the part of God to show us the true way and to urge us to walk therein.

The difficulty is then, that there are evil, as well as good, influences in this world, and many are walking the wrong way; not because they desire it so much as because they are misled. One reason that the enemy succeeds so well in leading away God's children and those who would be God's children, is because of his powers of deception. If man could be made to understand that righteousness leads to life, that sin ends in death, there would not be so many walking in the broad way; but the great reason that so many are walking in the wrong way is because they think it is profitable; they believe there is something to be gained by it; but sooner or later every one of us must learn that important lesson, that sin does not pay.

In my efforts to present the gospel, I have met with this difficulty, the word of God is so much misunderstood. When we mention a principle of the gospel, it is understood quite differently by those in the world, than those whom we are addressing this morning. Too many times, things are taken for what they appear to be, rather than for what they are. Now, you take these three important words found in our text, "Life, death, righteousness," and what a variety of ideas are had concerning them! The word "life" is understood by many to be an existence only, and "death" a non-existence. A gentleman, a short time ago, admitted to me that his understanding of death was, ceasing to be, ceasing to exist, and that life meant an existence. I attempted to show him the fallacy of his position, and that his foundation being wrong, his whole theory must be wrong. Now, a moment's thought, it seems to me, will convince us that life is something more than a mere existence, and that death cannot be a non-existence, because such a thing as putting something that exists out of existence, is an impossibility. The matter that composes my body today will never go out of existence; it is true it may die, and the particles be scattered over the earth; it may go into gases and other matter, but every particle of this body will remain, in some condition, and if it is true that there is a spirit in man, and this spirit is intelligence, as we believe, there is no such thing as putting the spirit out of existence, but it will remain in some condition eternally.

Suppose a drop of water falls upon this stand; in a few moments it would disappear and we ask a child where it has gone, and the child would say, "It has dried up;" that means it has evaporated, and some might think that it had gone out of existence, as it appears to have done; but our own intelligence tells us that this is not true, it has simply gone into vapor, to return again, the same as our bodies go into dust at death, to return again in the resurrection. If this house were destroyed by fire, every particle of the material would exist in some form, for there is no such thing as annihilation, therefore it cannot be that death means annihilation; as well talk of creating a thing out of nothing as to talk of reducing a thing that exists to nothing. It cannot be done.

Coming along the railroad to Independence a few days ago, I saw trees; some of them were blossoming out in leaf in all their beauty, and others were dried and withered. What was the reason of this? Some were dead trees and some were living, both were existing, but one tree was in one condition and another in another, and so it is with us. In life we are in one condition, in death we are in another condition, and, therefore, life and death simply mean conditions of existence; and in this light, we can understand what God meant when He said, "In the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." The man did not go out of existence, but his condition changed; whereas before he was developing into life in all its fullness, when he partook of the forbidden fruit he entered into that condition where he was tending to death; and had there not been some means to stop this condition, or to prevent that which was upon man to end as it had begun, man must have entered eternal death. But we are told in the Book of Mormon that before man died physically, the gospel was given to him that he might have life, and so man by this means enters into that condition known as life; and now we are enabled to understand the words of the Master, "Ho that believeth in me shall never die." He did not mean that man should not die so far as the body was concerned; He did not mean that there should not be a separation of the spirit from the body, but He meant that through life there would be given man an opportunity to enter into the condition known as life, and that condition should be eternal if he would continue in the means provided.

ELDER F. G. PITT.

And so we can understand what is meant in the parable, "A certain rich man and a certain poor man died. The one lifted up his eyes in hell being in torment, and the other was in Abraham's bosom; both existing although both were dead physically, but one in one condition called life, and the other in another condition called death; and so we are able in this light to understand what the Master meant when He said, "Let the dead bury their dead." It is those who are dead in trespasses and sins; those who had departed from the word, or who are in a condition of separation from God, that were told to go and bury those who were physically dead. Death and life then, are simply conditions of existence.

The other word, "righteousness," what does that mean? It would seem as though nearly everyone would be able to understand what it means. The word is very plain, and yet people tell us that righteousness, as understood by us, is altogether wrong. Speaking in London upon one occasion outdoors, I was urging the people to be obedient to the gospel; telling them that they could not expect to receive everlasting life if they continued in sin, and so urged upon them the necessity of obedience to truth and right. But a gentleman became excited. He said, "You are robbing God of his glory; we are not saved by righteousness of our own; our righteousness is as filthy rags before the Lord; and if you claim that we can be saved by our righteousness, then you destroy the efficacy of the blood of Christ." So I find in different directions this principle urged, that man cannot aid himself in his own salvation; that he has been bought with a price, and all we have to do is to accept the proffered mercy or grace, and do nothing of ourselves only remain passive in the hands of the Almighty, and He will work in us although we do not do a thing to save ourselves.

Now I turn to that passage quoted and let us see how it reads. You will find it in Isaiah the 64th chapter, beginning at the 6th verse:

"But we are all as an unclean thing, and all our righteousnesses are as filthy rags."

The gentleman went on to say that all our love for our children, our wife and neighbors, our charity, our good words and all that we might be able to do, all amounted to nothing in our salvation, and were in the sight of God as filthy rags. Let us read further:

"And we all do fade as a leaf; and our iniquities, like the wind, have taken us away."

Now, if this is our condition this morning, if our iniquities have carried us away, then surely our righteousness is as filthy rags; and further it goes on to say:

"And there is none that calleth upon thy name, that stirreth up himself to take hold of these: for thou hast hid thy face from us, and hath consumed us because of our iniquities."

Now is it correct to place us in this condition, when we are calling upon God? Is it proper to claim that because of these statements that certain men had departed from the Lord, whose iniquities had so separated them from God, that their righteousnesses were as filthy rags? Therefore all of our good deeds are not to be considered by the Lord. And yet that is the kind of reasoning that is going on in the world; and people are trying to persuade themselves that their own good deeds will amount to nothing, but that Christ will save us by having given to us what is called "imputed righteousness;" that He did right, though we do wrong, and when the end comes He will impute unto us righteousness because we believe, although we have failed in doing right.

I read in the statement of 1 John 3:7, "Little children, let no man deceive you: he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous." Righteousness then, means that if we do right, we will be righteous, and there is no other way of obtaining righteousness but by doing right. Then we are asked the question further, "What is righteousness, or where shall we obtain it?" There are different kinds of righteousness; there is the righteousness of man and the righteousness of God; the righteousness of man will only help us while we are here in this present condition. But there is a righteousness of God that will lift us higher than man, and while it may be true that our own righteousness will not save us, yet when we do the righteousness that God has commanded, we are not doing our own righteousness, but we are doing God's righteousness, and by so doing shall be led into life. The way of righteousness is life, but where is that way? Jesus said, "Except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye can in no wise enter the kingdom of heaven." Therefore, it required something more than the kind of righteousness that the scribes and the Pharisees manifested.

Now, we need not be at a loss to know where true righteousness is found. If we turn to the 21st chapter of Matthew and the 32d verse we read: "For John came unto you in the way of righteousness, and ye believed him not," etc. This is in harmony with the statement of Paul, "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation unto everyone that believeth, to the Jew first and also to the Greek, for therein is the righteousness of God revealed." John came preaching the gospel. See Mark

1:1. Therefore, he came in the way of righteousness.

Now, if you will examine carefully what John was sent to teach, you will find he was sent to prepare the way of the Lord; that is one thing. He was to make his path straight; that is another thing. And when he came in the way of righteousness he did prepare the way of the Lord, he did make his paths straight. Among the first things that he taught the people was that they should repent or stop doing wrong and learn to do well, and he taught what is known as the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins. Now do not prepare to go to sleep because you think I am going to teach baptism this morning; I am not; I will say very little about it: and one reason is, I have thought that some of our people have said more than was necessary upon this principle and have not said enough about the principle that should precede it, and that is repentance.

I see in this Book of Covenants containing revelations to the church, a command like this, "Say nothing but repentance to this generation." Over and over again the Lord repeats it. What does he mean? If he had said, say nothing but baptism to this people, I could understand why we should make baptism the principle thing. Now I do read in God's word that we should say nothing but repentance to this generation. And what is repentance? Repentance means reformation; it means to cease doing wrong, and learn to do well. "Let the wicked forsake his way and the unrighteous man his thoughts and let him return to the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him, and to our God for he will abundantly pardon," is the message coming from the Almighty, through Isaiah 55th chapter, and it seems to me that some of us have been negligent upon this matter, and have taught other things, without teaching as we should the necessity of bringing forth fruits unto repentance.

"The straight way," what does that mean? Make His paths straight. I notice those letters on the tablet back of me are all in a line, they are straight. So you will find all truth in line, in harmony; and when we have to deviate from the truth, we step out of line, and in going back we take a step back again, and our path becomes crooked. The way of evil and error is crooked, but the way of truth is straight; therefore there is no need to deviate from that which the Lord has given us. Now, here is one way that you can tell whether the church is in the right way or in the wrong. I care not what principle you have in hand, whenever you find that the church is getting out of harmony, or deviating in the least from that which God has given it, the church is making crooked paths. We only have to find the true paths that have been given to us, and then walk in line with them; find righteousness and follow it, and we will receive the spirit of truth that will help us remain in the truth and work righteousness. One of the easiest things in the world is to depart from the truth. It has been the history of the church from the beginning, that the church has no sooner obtained a truth than many have begun to walk in crooked paths, and we should be careful therefore, in regard to this.

I have before me the Doctrine and Covenants, to one passage of which I wish to call attention while we are upon this question of baptism. I said I would not talk to you very much about it, and neither will I, but concerning those who should be baptized, the Lord says, "All those who humble themselves before God and desire to be baptized, and come forth with broken hearts and contrite spirits, and witness before the church that they have truly repented of all their sins, and are willing to take upon them the name of Jesus Christ, having a determination to serve him to the end, and truly manifest by their works that they have received of the Spirit of the Christ, unto the remission of their sins, shall be received by baptism into his church." Now, I ask you elders, Have we always done as this word commands us? Have not some been a little too anxious to get people in the church without thinking about the conditions that should precede their baptism? I believe that one reason why we, as a body, are not farther advanced today than we are, is because the evil one has succeeded in getting his agents—if I may be allowed the term—into the church, and there work mischief that he could not work on the outside; and I believe firmly that the elders, some of them at least, will be called to account for this, for baptizing men in the church who never complied with the conditions named, and were, therefore, entirely unfit for membership.

Now, the conditions are very plain. They must manifest by their works that they have received of the Spirit of Christ unto the remission of their sins. At a late meeting, I won't tell you where it was, but not a thousand miles away from Independence, at a large gathering, I heard the presiding elder announce, "There will be baptism this afternoon; a number have given in their names and if there are any others that wish to be baptized, they may go down to the water." I thought to myself, Where is the provision in all God's law for such a careless way of bringing people into the church? And in this way are we not entirely ignoring God's law, which says they must come "with broken hearts and contrite spirits," that they must "witness before the church that they have truly repented of all their sins, and manifest by their works that they have received of the Spirit of Christ," etc. This means something more than going down to the water and asking for baptism. I believe there is room for reformation along these lines.

There is a wrong idea with a great many concerning salvation itself. Salvation to some, means entering heaven, getting into the presence of God and being permitted to walk the beautiful streets of gold. But the salvation offered us in Christ is not simply a place, but a condition as well, and unless we are prepared for heaven, it will not be heaved to us. The condition that we must be in, is the condition of righteousness. As long as a man sins, he is the servant of sin, and he must receive the wages of sin; and what is that? "The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life." The one great purpose of the gospel is to save men from their sins, and just in proportion as you brethren and you sisters are saved from doing wrong, just to that extent are you prepared for the kingdom of God. If you are still doing wrong, then you must stop it before you will ever be able to enter where God and Christ are. No man can be happy and sin, no matter how much God might desire him to be happy; sin brings its own punishment, and man cannot do wrong and be happy.

The gospel comes to us as an aid; by believing on Christ, we accept the message. Accepting the message, we yield to the commandments of Christ, and by yielding to those, we have our sins pardoned and receive the gift of the Holy Ghost to help us overcome our sins; then when we receive this Holy Spirit, and are able by its influence to overcome our sins, and work righteousness, then will be given to us the blessing that comes from right doing and right living. In this world we have opposites on nearly every hand. We have light and darkness; bitter and sweet; we have the good, also the bad, and man may take which he chooses; but we ought not to deceive ourselves in thinking that we will receive eternal life, while we are yet walking in the way that leads to death.

Our second text declares plainly: "As righteousness tendeth to life, so he that pursueth evil, pursueth it to his own death." If we have in this life, overcome by the aid of the Spirit, by the association of our brethren, by coming to meeting, and these various helps, if we have overcome so that we are not quite so quick tempered as we used to be, we do not speak out our mind quite so quickly as we used to do, if we act more kindly to our children, and more loving and kind to our companion, all these indicate growth. If we pay our debts better than we used to, if we are more clean in our speech and in our actions than we used to be, all this indicates growth. But if we are the same as when we came into the church, if we are as careless, and as indifferent as we once were, then we are deceiving ourselves, if we think that merely holding membership in the church will enable us to enter eternal life.

Our only hope of eternal life is to overcome the evil and cleave to the good. Evil will always separate us from God, and only in proportion as we overcome the evil shall we come nearer to God. There is a great deal in this world to lead man astray. The fierce competition in trade tempts people to do wrong; it tempts men to tell business lies, and to trick to what is called business tricks. All this the Saints have to suffer from as well as the world; but if we resist these evils and overcome the wrong, we will show ourselves worthy of eternal life. If, however, we yield every time we are tempted, and give way whenever we are tried, then we shall never be worthy to enter where God and Christ are, because nothing unclean, nothing that is impure, can enter where they are. For "without holiness no man shall see the Lord."

Now, what is the wisest course for us to pursue? Is it best for us because we see evil in others for us to do evil? Will we yield because other people do evil? By no means, when we know, as we ought to know, that righteousness leadeth unto life. Therefore, if we have a horse to sell, tell the one receiving it its true conditions, even if we do lose by it; better lose here, than to lose our life in the world to come. Or if we have goods to sell, let us tell just the condition of the goods. If we are building a house and the contract calls for number one lumber, let us not put in number two and thus cheat our customers as well as ourselves. These are little things, but these are the things that must determine whether or not we shall be permitted to enter where God and Christ are. And do you know, Saints, the Lord tells us that those who inherit the celestial glory, are those who are valiant in the testimony of Jesus. That doesn't mean that we shall not enter there unless we bear testimony in every prayer meeting; it doesn't mean the one who shall preach the most, or bear testimony the longest, by any means, but it means that kind of a life that will testify to others that Christ is in us, and that the gospel is the power of God unto salvation; and the nearer I live to Christ, the more my testimony will be worth. But on the other hand, if I carelessly go to my work, and am careless about my promises, and about my obligations, careless about my language and do not do as I agree to do, then the louder I speak in testimony of the gospel, the more condemnation will attach to me, because I am hurting the work rather than benefiting it. The strongest testimony that anyone can bear for Christ, is to live as Christ has commanded.

I believe that this gospel is able to make bad men good men. There is power enough in it to take the weakest and make them strong, the most ignorant and make them wise. That is why I love it. I love to see what is called the outward manifestations, but those amount to nothing to me so far as the individual is concerned unless he is living somewhere near right; otherwise he is doing the right injury when he pretends to speak in the word of the Lord.

One of the greatest hindrances to this latter day work have been evil doers. In the land of England where I have lately been, at one time the Saints could be numbered by thousands. Whole congregations have sometimes been baptized in a few weeks; but now how is it? Only a few scattered members here and there, and why? Because men and women, claiming to be Latter Day Saints, went contrary to the law of God. They went into iniquity that many other churches would not think of doing, and brought reproach upon the entire church; and now people will only listen to our doctrine so long as they do not hear our name; but as soon as they hear that we are Latter Day Saints, away they go—the majority of them—because they have no use for that name. Not because the doctrine is impure, not because the gospel is any different from what it was when Christ was here; not because we teach it differently, but because, through wrong doing, evil has come upon the church, and they judge the work by what they think are its fruits. By your fruits shall men know you, and while it may not be a just judgment that the world passes upon us, there is something in it worthy of our consideration. If God has given us His Holy Spirit; if we are indeed the church of God; if we have received the remission of our sins by having been born again, then the fruits of righteousness should be manifest; and if not manifest it demonstrates, as John says, that we are not born of God because they who are born of God "doth not continue in sin for his seed remaineth in him, and he cannot continue in sin because he is born of God." (1 John 3: 9). Therefore we cannot claim to be His disciples if we are living the same as the world lives, and doing the same as the world does.

Remember then that the way of righteousness is life, and in the pathway thereof, there is no death. What is death? Death is that condition in which there is separation, going back to original elements. Life is that condition where there is development and growth and progression. The grandest thought to me is that in this gospel is promised everlasting life and no death. Coming along the road I saw some trees that were alive, but they had branches that were dead; and so no doubt there are some Saints that are living but they have some parts of their nature that are not active, not doing their whole duty. If my arm is paralyzed it is dead to me; if my eye is blind it is dead; but in the gospel of Christ is promised me eternal life without any death. I will then enjoy to the fullness because there is furnished in the gospel the power of developing every good and the power of overcoming every evil. We can understand then what Christ meant when He said, "I am come that ye might have life, and that ye might have it more abundantly." Not a part of life, but life in all its fullness. Thee, Saints, let us strive for life in every part by being fully active.

I asked a party what I should preach about this morning, and they said, "Preach about the gathering." Well, the strongest argument that I could use today in favor of the gathering would be an argument in favor of purity; be prepared for that time when Christ shall come. For if you are not prepared for it, the gathering will not be of any good to you; just as the garden must be prepared for the seed in order to bring forth fruit, so must our hearts and our minds and our souls be prepared for Christ's coming or His coming will do us no good and neither will He gather us, except it is with the wicked to be burned.

Now, while it is good to know about heaven and the fulfillment of prophecy, the glory of this redeemed and a great many other things, let us as elders of the church remember that reformation of life is the principle thing; to us it means more than all else; though our sermons may be ever so eloquent and people may praise us because of what they have heard, unless our sermon shall have the drawing influence of the Spirit that will cause men to live better lives, it will be all wastefulness upon our part; and although we may know little about heaven, little about the other world, little about the angels and how they dwell, if we will only learn how to treat our brethren, how to treat our companions and our children and our neighbors, how to work for God, our life will be secured unto us; eternal life is promised unto us, because if we walk in righteousness we are promised the life wherein there is no death.

I feel thankful that in the years that have separated us, that so many are still striving to overcome, whose faces are still Zionward, and I hope that nothing may separate us from the love of God when we are so near the end. Brethren and sisters, do not get discouraged because somebody else does wrong. In this Book I am told that in the times in which we live it will be trying times; it will be difficult to keep the commandments of God and many will depart therefrom. Let us not grow weary and be overcome because others do wrong, for the promise is, "He that endureth to the end, the same shall be saved." And if you, brother, or you, sister, are the only ones who endure, salvation is promised to you, though all the rest may lose it.

And again, let us look more at the bright side, not so much at the dark. In this world we can walk in the darkness or in the sunlight. And so it is in the spiritual life; we can choose the darkness or the sunlight of God's love. In the light we shall see things as they are and find much to make us happy and escape the many dark objects that so appear in the dark, but which are not real. When one becomes darkened in mind even the light appears to be darkness; it is difficult for such to see good in anyone, and you can nearly always tell where people are walking; when they always look upon the dark and bad side it is because they are walking in the dark.

When a man is in the light he will see both the bad and the good, but he will not be looking for the bad, but for the good; just as one who is in search for food will not search for barren ground where there is no food; he will go where food can be obtained. And so with those who are hungering and thirsting after righteousness; they will go where righteousness will be found; and while they do see evil and that which is not pleasant to them, they will take delight in the beautiful and true and the good, and they will avoid the evil as much as possible and not indulge in that which is not edifying and refining in its nature, and will make the best of conditions as they find them.

Now I feel thankful for this privilege of meeting with you this morning, and I trust that we shall not be overcome, and that to us there may be given light and life and all that God has promised to those who love and obey Him, Amen.

Reported by Sr. Belle Robinson James.

GIFTS OF EDUCATION.

Perhaps ere this the Saints will begin to think, on account of my long silence, that Grace-land's exchequer is full and running over; I only wish that it were so, but this is to drive that mist of illiveness from your minds.

A number have been thoughtful and sent in their contribution, for which we are very grateful, but we are still in need of help.

One thing is passing strange; the sisters are taking more interest in the welfare of Grace-land than do the brethren; with worldly institutions this is not the case.

We are in a new year and are still hopeful for the help expected in the old century.

Looking over the wonderful munificence of gifts for educational purposes during 1900, I note a few:

Robert S. Brookings and Samuel Cupples, of St. Louis, to Washington University, $3,000, 000, while the University of Chicago received $2,675,000; Clark University, $2,350,000; and the old renowned Harvard, $710,500; Yale $1,341,912; and Brown's $1,000,000, and Columbia $492,000. Last years gifts, as far as seen or reported, amounted to $62,461,304, and during the past seven years such remembrances to institutions of learning have amounted to $282,389,762; and be it understood that some of these old and popular colleges keep men employed for no other purpose than to solicit (beg) aid; and pay for such service more than all the faculty of Grace-land receive.

Saints think! if our work as a church is to grow and develop into the grand proportions as is forecasted in the latter revelations, our gifts for church work will have to be dollars where heretofore it has been but pennies; so, if you are to be a helper by donation to erect the temple, yes! temples of the church, get into practice by helping to sustain Grace-land.

A word to those who have subscribed toward paying off the college debt, and have not yet sent to Bishop E. L. Kelley their subscription: let me urge upon all such not to wait for the call for your money, but send at your earliest convenience and it will be thankfully received, and promptly receipted for. I understand the situation, and wisely advise you, for the paying up will stop interest and reduce the indebtedness.

Do not forget us on the running expense please.

Still on deck,

ROBT. M. ELVIN.

Box 224, LAMONT, IOWA.

THE "GIFTS."

In a sermon preached by Bro. Joseph Luff at General Conference there is matter that ought to engage the attention of many who call themselves Saints. A thoughtful perusal of some things contained in that discourse would enable many to better comprehend the relation between the gifts of the gospel and the fruits of a holy and consecrated life.

While I do not disparage the gifts of the gospel, and hold them dearly, yet I do not want to forget that men may possess the most precious gifts and yet be lacking in these traits of the Christ-life that develop inward piety and a consecrated life. Reputation is what others think of us; character is what we are or have.

Some are almost ready to canonize men who have great mental endowments, and especially if they chance to be possessed of some of the gifts; notably, healing, tongues, or prophecy. And in some cases this undue regard has almost amounted to man worship.

Character cannot be estimated by that standard. No one in the possession of these gifts can take any credit to himself for their possession, but give God thanks for them, and use them wisely, never making a display of them.

In the 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians, Paul says, "Though I speak with the tongue of men and angels and have not charity, I am as a sounding brass or tinkling cymbal." And though he possessed all the gifts, and gave his life, it would profit nothing without charity. How plain this language shows the hollowness of all these precious things without love or charity. I have heard some say, "Oh if I only had the gift of tongues, prophecy, like Bro. or Sr. so and so I would be glad." This wish is father to the thought that the gifts that are outwardly manifested are of greater worth than those that produce the peaceable fruits of righteousness, to wit, faith, knowledge, wisdom, discerning of spirits, etc., etc.

While all the gifts are desirable, yet it seems to me that the gifts which promote the greatest degree of spiritual growth, and bring the greatest joy to its possessor, are the gifts such as knowledge, wisdom and faith, all things being equal.

The Apostles Paul plainly says that he possessed more gifts than all of them (the Saints) yet he would rather speak one word of exhortation in his native tongue to their edification than a thousand in an unknown tongue, especially if no one was present to interpret.

Many of our people have a habit of openly expressing their preference for certain ones of the ministry who are talented, and use the following language before the local priesthood: "Oh isn't he smart?" "Wasn't that a powerful sermon?" "How I wish he could preach here all the time."

Such indiscreet remarks tend to dishearten and weaken the hands of the local force who feel the effect of such conduct. Many Saints never go to preaching except some "big gun" comes along. The Apostle Paul says we may covet earnestly the best gifts, yet he would show us a more excellent way, and that evidently means the exercise of that heavenly gift, charity.

Charity would prevent this man or talent worship, and help us to estimate character according to its moral worth, and not conclude that their brother, because he happened to be one of the small blocks in the building, was not worthy of their love and respect. All the stones in a building are not the same size; some are large, some small, yet they are just as important as the larger ones. Many members but one body; Christ the head, and all the building fitly framed together grows into a holy temple in the Lord. The members who seem to be least, on these, Paul says, God bestows more abundant honor.

Then be careful, dear Saints, how you estimate the character of your brother. Look for good in him, and if weak, encourage him. The strong ones can walk alone, or at least need less support.

Some have asked how the gospel gifts are obtained, and I answer, by living so as to be worthy of them. The Spirit and gifts will not stay long in a temple with idols; the vessel must be consecrated to retain the holy guests. And above all things put on charity; which vaunteth not itself, is not provoked, thinketh no evil, is not puffed up, is kind, tender hearted, forgiving, and is that alone which we shall take with us to the paradise of God.

Yours for a higher life,

J. S. STRAIN.

2540 7th Ave., COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Take Care of Your Eyes.

It is often more helpful to tell people what not to do, especially if the caution comes betimes, than what to do. Among the efficacious eye spoilers which people of this day and generation have to contend against are dotted veils and colored lampshades. In hall or drawing room, the green, yellow, red or pink "umbrella" shades are charming; in the room where people read, write, or sew, they are out of place. White alone should shade the lights used in such a room. Two members of one family went to a specialist to consult him about their eyes, which were giving them much trouble,—why, neither they nor

HEART TREATMENT FREE

To EACH READER, FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., THE CHICAGO HEART SPECIALIST, WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS NEW INDIVIDUAL TREATMENT FREE.

That Dr. Miles is one of the most successful and reliable of specialists is proven by hundreds of testimonials from well known people. One patient cured after failure of eleven Grand Rapids physicians, two after having been given up by six or seven Chicago physicians, another after nine of the leading doctors in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago failed.

A thousand highly flattering testimonials as to Dr. Miles' moral character and unusual skill, from Bishops, Physicians, Clergymen, Mayors, Farmers, etc., will be sent upon request. For years an extensive corps of trained assistants have aided him in his investigations. Every State, Territory, Canada and Mexico, as well as South America, Africa and New Zealand are represented among his thousands of patients.

The late Prof. J. S. Jewell, M. D., advised Dr. Miles to "by all means publish your surprising results." Prof. J. Ross, M. D., President of Rush Medical College, writes in 1897: "Dr. Miles has taken two courses of my private instruction in diseases of the heart." Col. N. G. Parker, Ex-Treasurer of South Carolina, says: "I believe Dr. Miles to be an attentive and skillful physician in a field which requires the best of head and heart." Col. A. M. Tucker, late General Manager of N. Y., L. E. & W. system of railways, says: "Dr. Miles' success as a physician has been phenomenal."

When an experienced physician offers to prescribe treatment for diseases of the heart, nerves, stomach, or dropsy, it is conclusive evidence that he has great faith in his skill. And when hundreds of prominent men and women freely testify to his unusual skill and the superiority of his New Individual Treatment, his liberality is certainly worthy of serious consideration.

The Doctor's new system of treatment is thoroughly scientific and immensely superior to the ordinary methods.

As all afflicted readers may have $2.50 worth of treatment especially prescribed for each case, free, with full directions, we would advise them to send for a Copyrighted Examination Chart at once. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 201 to 209 State St., Chicago.

(Please mention this paper.)

he seemed able to determine. Calling on them at their home one evening, he exclaimed, almost immediately on entering the sitting room. "I know now what is the matter with your eyes—too much yellow!" Bright terra cotta and yellow ruled in the decorations, and, of three lamps used, two were highly polished and highly reflecting brass, and the center-table lamp sent a very yellow flame through one of the golden "fish-scale" globes. White porcelain shades were ordered for the lamps, and at last accounts the weakened eyes were rallying.—Sci.

The Way to Soften Hard Water

"When water is made hard by carbonate of lime it may be softened by the use of quick-lime, sal-soda or ammonia," writes Maria Parloa of "To Get the Best Results in the Home Laundry," in the February Ladies' Home Journal. "When there is time to allow the water to settle the lime is the best agent. To soften with the lime have the water in a large tank or hoghead. Pour enough water on the quick-lime to slake it. When it falls to powder add enough water to make a thin cream and then stir into the water in the tank. Use one ounce of lime for every forty gallons of water. Do not let any undissolved lime go into the water. Allow the water to stand for twelve hours. For softening with soda, dissolve a pound of sal-soda in one quart of boiling water and when cold bottle it.

Add a gill of this liquid soda to about twenty gallons of water. Water that is discolored by the soil, as is so often the case after a heavy rain or when the water pipes are being repaired, should be strained through Canton flannel."

I ALWAYS like to see a girl and her father good friends, and by that I mean chummy, advisory friends, who can talk like equals about anything that comes up, in the family life or out of it. Such a girl is likely to be level-headed. She is apt to make up her mind more slowly, and to keep it made up when she has once done so, after she has observed the cautious and judicial way in which her father's mind sets to work.—Helen Watterson Moody in the December Ladies' Home Journal.

Lo, The Poor Indian.

The wild days of fierce land grabbing and of injustice to the poor Indians that had the misfortune to be found here by the early settlers, have ended. The new era shows great care and thoughtfulness in relation to the children of the Indian at Carlisle, Hampton and other schools. Waldon Fawcett, who has hitherto written much regarding the lighter side of life in New York and in Paris, has contributed to the February number of THE DELINEATOR a very enlightening article upon the education of the Indian girl.

FOR SALE.

A five room house and lot 50x150, with fruit and shade trees, well, barn and shed. Also four acres of good garden land. Will sell together or separate. Enquire at ENSIGN office.

A MAN WANTED in every county in the United States, to post up bills, distribute circulars, samples, catalogues, etc. Big pay and life time job. Send stamp to Geo. H. Brush, Box 83, Ridgeley, Lake county, Tennessee.

NOTICE

these pieces of property if you think of locating near Independence, Missouri:

357 acres as good a stock and grain farm as is in Jackson county, Missouri, 5 miles from railroad town. Good house, 6 rooms, barn, buggyhouse. This farm can be bought for $45 per acre; may be $40 will buy it. land around worth from $50 to $60 per acre. This party wants to change his business. I have 10, 20, 40 and 50 acre tracts from $40 to $150 per acre. Your brother,
W. S. LOAR.

Missouri Pacific Special Excursion Rates.

On February 5th and 19th the Missouri Pacific Railway will sell round trip homeseekers' tickets to many homeseekers' points, at rate of one first class fare (plus $2.00) for the round trip. For rates, routes and other information call on or address
JNO. J. ACKERMAN, Agt.

ST. PAUL, MINNESOTA.

Annual convention National Creamery Butter Makers' Association, February 19th to 22d, tickets sold February 18th and 19th. Good to return February 25th. Rate, one fare round trip.
J. J. ACKERMAN, Agt.

A Bargain $600 will buy a six room house and over 3 acres choice land at Lamoni if taken soon. One half cash. Address with return stamp. Look Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

CANCER A CURABLE DISEASE.

Many people have an idea that cancer is incurable, but we have over 150 original and recent testimonials of cures of actual cancer, the sufferers having taken 8 to 24 bottles of the famous B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) which is meant to cure old obstinate blood and skin troubles. B. B. B. kills the cancer poison in the blood and the sores quickly heal. No cutting required. Among others cured was Mrs. M. L. Adams, of Fredonia, Alabama. Had an eating cancer, the bones of her nose and upper part of her mouth entirely eaten out. Could only eat strained soup, yet the cancer healed perfectly by taking 14 bottles of B. B. B. Allan Grant, Sparta, Georgia, had painful sore on lip called epithelial cancer, also much pains in bones and weakness in back; 10 bottles of B. B. B. healed the sore and gave him strength, and made his blood pure and rich. B. B. B. heals ulcers, scrofula, eczema, cancer in any form, old sores, etc. Druggists or by express prepaid, $1.00. A trial treatment of B. B. B. free by writing Blood Balm Co., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Georgia. Describe trouble and free medical advice given. Medicine sent at once prepaid.

THE DAILY ENSIGN during the coming General Conference for 25 cents for the entire session.

20 Acres of us nice, smooth land as you ever saw. A short walk from L. D. S. church and Public School in Lamoni. Worth $2,000; $1,500 will buy it now, on easy terms. If interested write the owner.
D. F. NICHOLSON,
Lamoni, Iowa.

Have You Seen "LAMONI PULPITS" in the INDEPENDENT PATRIOT?

A synopsis of one sermon a week from the Saints' pulpit in Lamoni, appears in the Patriot. Subscription one dollar per year. Address, THE PATRIOT, Lamoni, Iowa.

A postal card brings a sample copy.

ALL SECRET SOCIETIES THE TRUE CHURCH OF THE DEVIL.

BY GEORGE E. PAGE, Price 5 Cents. Agents Wanted in Every Town. Address: G. E. Page, Independence, Mo., or orders sent to Ensign Publishing House will receive attention.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue, to I. W. ALLENDER, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 444 pages; Cloth binding..... $1 00
- "Paper binding..... 65
- "APOSTOLICAL ORDER OF ELDER SEPP LUFF," 371 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations, Reduced from $1.00 to..... 75
- "THREE BIBLES COMPARED," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper binding, 542 pp., each..... 25
- "THE BOOK OF MOHAB VINDICATED," by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each..... 30
- Cloth Bound, 2 for 1.00; each..... 60
- "SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SPIRIT OF PROPHECY," by Elder M. H. Bond, of the Seventy; 58 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the author..... 25
- "FAULRY CREEDS," by Elder R. C. Evans; 6 for $1.00; each..... 20
- "THE BOOKS AND UPON MORMONTISM," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 20 for $1.00, 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE CREEDS LAID BARE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE RESURRECTION OF THE WICKED," by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH?—WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET?" by Elder J. W. Peterson of the Quorum of Seventy; 39 pages; paper cover; engraving of the Prophet..... 10
- "THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRANSLATOR," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 27 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c, each..... 10
- "THE LEGAL SUCCESSOR," by Apostle J. W. Wright; 900 pages; 3 for $1.00; each..... 10
- "APOSTASY OF THE CHURCH," by Apostle J. W. Wright; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY," by Elder T. C. Kelley; 68 pages; paper cover, each..... 10
- "THE GOSPEL SMITH INTERVIEW;" Elder Joseph Luff's answer to Elder R. M. Parker; by E. L. Kelley; per hundred 90c; per doz. 15c; 6 for 10c; 2 for..... 5
- "IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION," by Elder Joseph Luff. 90c per 100; 15c per doz.; 3 for..... 5
- "WHAT WE BELIEVE," "The Epitome of Faith, with quotations given in full. 20c Per doz.; 3 for..... 5
- "EVANGELIA LORE," a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb..... 25

SERMON PAMPHLETS.

The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen:

- "Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; Illustrated.
- "The Book of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 58 pages.
- "The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 35 pages.
- "The Restoration of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Smith; 46 pages.
- "A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 36 pages.
- "Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 54 pages.
- "Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages.
- "Creed Making; Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 36 pages.
- "Antiquarian Evidences Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 49 pages.
- "Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages.
- "Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages.
- "Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 39 pages.
- "God is Light," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 46 pages.
- "Why I Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. H. Kephart; 33 pages.
- "The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wright; 41 pages.
- "The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 38 pages.
- "Save Yourselves," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages.

We also fill orders for all Herald office publications. Address all orders and make all remittances to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Mo.

Missouri Pacific Railroad.

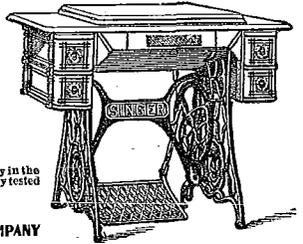

Quick time, good connections, low rates to all points. Return time cards, etc., cheerfully furnished on application. F. A. MILLARD, Agent. Telephone 11.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI, Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898.

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Pension holders, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on your deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check; any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of same a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered.

List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella D. Hitchcock, Mrs. Lucy L. Rossignole, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Blair.

A Singer Sewing Machine

THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, earning more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible. THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch. BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world, and every machine is carefully tested on practical stitching. Sold only by THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 190-3.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle

The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

SAINTS AND FRIENDS—Remember that I am still in the mail order clothing business. For years I have served you and my reputation speaks for itself. Send me your order or write for my price list. I also have two good organs for sale cheap. Address
E. T. ATWELL,
Cumorah, Mo.

$777 Buys 4 Choice Acres of Land and 4 Room Cottage On western border of Lamoni. 1/3 CASH. COMMERCIAL BANK, Lamoni, Ia.

NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS

should include the stopping of the use of Tobacco. By doing so, you will save money and feel stronger and purer. Then why not RESOLVE NOW 3 Boxes of QUIT-TO-BAC will make it easy. Sent postpaid anywhere for only $1.50 (U. S. Stamps taken). Positively guaranteed to cure or money cheerfully refunded. Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY,
Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST. 35TH YEAR SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE. (INCORPORATED) East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches. Twenty Rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses, Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue. FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Missouri. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

CANCER CURED WITH SOOTHING PLAIN OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Bladder, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Womb Diseases. H. Sherman, Ufford, Ill., Cancer Sufferer cured. Mrs. W. A. Southard, Liverpool, Ohio, Cancer breast cured. Write for Book and Remedy sent free. Address Cor. 9th and Broadway, KANSAS CITY, MO. DR. BYE, $5.00 BOX RAIN COAT This Regular $5.00 Waterproof Rain Coat for $2.75. Send no money. Cut this ad out, state your height, weight, and number of inches around body taken over vest, under coat, close under arms, and we will send you this coat by express C. O. D., subject to examination. Examine it at your nearest express office and if exactly as equal to any $5.00 coat on the market, pay the agreed our special guarantee. Return price $2.75 and express charges. THIS MACKINTOSH is the latest style, easy fitting, made from heavy waterproof material, complete, heavy cover cloth; full length, double lined, lined with fine quality lining, waterproof, sewed in the seams, guaranteed to last and guaranteed waterproof. Satisfaction guaranteed and guaranteed the greatest bargain ever offered by us. Write for circular, and guaranteed bicycle tires from $2.50 up. We can save you money. Address H. S. DILLER & CO., 305 Dearborn St., Chicago.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC MAIN LINE DEPOT.

TRAINS WEST.	a.m.
No. 95—Wichita and K. C. Mail	12:49
" 9—Kansas & Nebraska Lim.	4:34
" 9—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex.	4:15
" 3—St. Louis Express.....	6:33
" 73—Lexington Branch Pass.	8:35
" 7—Past Mail.....	10:00
" 81—Joplin and K. C. Mail.....	11:17
" 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex.....	5:17
" 3—St. Louis Mail.....	6:55
" 71—Lexington Branch Pass.	8:45
TRAINS EAST.	a.m.
No. 96—K. C. & Wichita Mail.....	2:52
" 72—Lexington Branch Pass.....	8:53
" 6—St. Louis Mail.....	7:23
" 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail	8:37
" 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.....	10:17
" 78—Lex. Branch Passenger.....	6:10
" 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.....	1:37
" 64—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex.....	7:40
" 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.....	9:30
" 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited.....	11:12
Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop.

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.

TRAINS WEST.	a.m.
No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass.	8:30 a.m.
" 71— " " "	6:40 p.m.
TRAINS EAST.	a.m.
No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass.	8:55 a.m.
" 78— " " "	6:16 p.m.
Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON. EAST BOUND. a.m. " 101—Local Way Freight..... 7:07 " 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail 8:30 p.m. " 85..... 5:51 " 51—Chicago Mail..... 6:40 " 48—St. Louis Flyer..... 9:10 WEST BOUND. a.m. " 102—Local Way Freight..... 2:40 " 8—Chicago & St. Louis Mail 5:51

All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on J. W. DUGAN, Agent J. CHARLTON, G. P. & T. Agt., Chicago.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. GURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 140, Lee's Summit, Mo.
Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
Mrs. Lucretia Eubank, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
Mrs. Clara Fricke, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 8188 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

HOW MANY times we have heard some of our young people, who are advanced, say, "I wish, when Bro. A. speaks in tongues he wouldn't speak so loud, people will wonder what kind of a meeting we are having anyway," or, "when Sr. B. prophesies I do wish she wouldn't act so queer; I don't believe God's Spirit manifests itself that way at all," etc., etc. Now, my dear boys and girls, there is such a thing as being too advanced for the Spirit of God to dwell in us.

So often we pray for the faith once delivered to the Saints, but suppose we got such an outpouring as was given on the day of Pentecost, would we be willing for the world to hear and see? We say "Yes," but when we are afraid some one will hear Bro. A. speak in tongues, one is privileged to doubt the assertion.

Do not be thinking so much of just what words your own or anybody else's testimony shall be given in that you lose sight of the earnestness, truth and spirit that gives life to it.

Culture is a lovely qualification, but we must bear in mind that God never has depended upon the elegant spoken ones of earth, to glorify His cause.

things else, keep your hearts, lives and faith simple. We are not greater than our Lord, and there was no ostentation in His life. As a stream is purest close to the fountain head, so are we purer and more God-like if we do not stray too far from Christ and place between Him and ourselves the barrier of worldly speech, act or desire, which barrier ever grows imperceptibly, but grows nevertheless.

Worldliness is like a river—gradually it entrenches farther and farther upon its shores. Perhaps in the lifetime of a man, the degree of encroachment will not be perceptible, but little by little it carries away its earthly banks and enlarges its borders.

You understand the law, and God will preside in the services dedicated to Him. Boys, you who may be called to bear the gospel, concern yourselves with the weightier matters pertaining thereunto; do not seek to conduct meetings strictly on up-to-date principles when this duty shall fall upon you.

What Love of Admiration May Lead to.

In many cases the trouble is on account of a silly love of admiration. Many young men like to drop in upon an old friend and his pretty wife, and they flatter her and she is foolish enough to think they mean it all, and soon the husband tells her that he does not like these attentions, and the distance is very short to the time when there is talk of a separation.

I could fill this page month after month, with battles won (or battles lost) along these very lines. The broken oysters that have held no water are everywhere, but the fountain is never out of sight if you will only lift your eyes, and that fountain is a cross, and of the Sufferer on that cross it was said, "He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed."

Trans-Continental Passenger Association.

Notice is hereby given to the general ministry and all concerned, that the newly organized Trans-Continental Passenger Association has been furnished a copy of the minutes of the late General Conference containing lists of all missionaries and church officials laboring under general appointment, together with full instructions tending to facilitate prompt and regular issuance of clergy credentials.

All laboring under general appointment have been indorsed. Lists of names, addresses, and territory of missionaries in charge, have also been furnished.

The same general method of issuing permits in operation with other associations, has been provided for, under which local ministers will be referred to their respective missionaries in charge for endorsement.

"The Trans-Continental Clergy Certificate is good only upon roads parties thereto, named below, for tickets between points west of, including Cheyenne, Wyoming; Colorado common points; Trinidad, Colorado; Albuquerque, New Mexico, and El Paso, Texas; J. A. Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe, Chicago, Rock Island, and Pacific; Colorado and Southern; Colorado Midland; Denver and Rio Grande; Florence and Cripple Creek; Midland and Terminal; Pecos System; Rio Grande Southern; Rio Grande Western; Santa Fe Pacific; Santa Fe, Prescott, and Phoenix; San Francisco and San Joaquin Valley; Silverton Railroad; Silverton Northern; Southern California; Southern Pacific (Pacific System); Union Pacific.

Applications, remittances, etc., should be addressed to James Charlton, chairman, 503 Ernest and Cranmer building, Denver, Colorado. Application blanks may be obtained from local agents, or from Chairman Charlton.

R. S. SALVARDS, Church Sec. LAMONI, Ia., Jan. 14.

NOTICES.

The Committee on American Archaeology hereby request aid from all who may have matter pertaining to the subject.

Will the students of the Zion's Literary-Religio send in whatever they may have accumulated during the past year's study they have given the Book of Mormon. Anything touching geography, location of lands or cities, in fact, anything that may be helpful towards perfecting the work of the committee, send to 5 Montgomery avenue, Somerville, Massachusetts.

On behalf of the committee, F. M. SHEEHY, SONERVILLE, Mass., Jan. 16.

Conference Notices.

The Texas Central district will meet with the Philadelphia branch on the 23d and 24th of February, at 10 a. m. The Sunday School association will meet at same place on the 22d of February at 10 a. m. Let there be a full delegation to both conference and Sunday School association. We expect our missionary in charge to be with us. Let everybody come who can. We want to have a good time. There will be conveyance to branch from Marlin, on Texas Central R. R., also from Reagan, on same road, on Friday, February 22d. E. W. NUNLEY, Dist. Pres. COOKS POINT, Tex., Jan. 19.

The Philadelphia district conference will convene February 2d and 3d, at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. District officers will be elected for ensuing term. Local officers will please bring or send their reports that we may know who are working. E. B. HULL, Sec. 1248 Harold St., PHILADELPHIA, Pa. January 13.

The conference of the Northern California district will be held in Sacramento, March 5th, 9th and 10th. Will the presidents of the different branches comprising the district, please take notice and send reports to the district clerk, E. S. Chase, Irvington, California, by March 1st. We hope to enjoy the presence of President A. H. Smith, Bishop G. H. Hilliard, and Elder J. F. Burton in addition to the regular missionary force of the district. Come and bring the Spirit of the Lord with you. F. B. BLAIR, Dist. Pres. OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 10.

Convention Notices.

The Sunday School workers will meet in convention at Netawaka, March 1, 1901, at 10:30 a. m. Let all who are interested in this part of the work try to be present and the officers come prepared to report; hoping and praying that we may have a profitable time.

HARRY THOMAS, Dist. Supt. NETAWAKA, Kans., Jan. 18.

The Eastern Colorado district Sunday School association will convene with the Denver branch, corner 22d and Arapahoe streets, Denver, Colorado, February 15, 1901, at 10 a. m. Send reports to J. F. Curtis, clerk, 504 E. Willamette street, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

L. A. SCHMUTZ, Dist. Pres. 2506 Welton St., DENVER, Colorado.

The Clinton district Sunday School convention will convene at Coal Hill chapel, Friday, February 1st. Election of officers and delegates to General Convention. Come prepared to take an active part for the good of yourself and others.

MINA KEARNEY, Supt., WARREN McELWAIN, Sec. LOWRY CITY, Mo., Jan. 21.

Northwest Kansas district Sunday School association will convene at Blue Rapids, Kansas, February 1st, at 2:30 p. m. At this meeting we will have election of district officers, and hope that all who possibly can will attend. Officers who cannot be present, send written reports of your work.

N. C. JOH, Supt. BELOIT, Kans., Jan. 21.

The Des Moines district Religio association will meet in convention in Des Moines at the Saints chapel, corner 16th and Des Moines streets, February 7th, at 2:30 p. m. Let the Religio workers and all who are interested in this department of church work be on hand; and those who are not interested, come and get interested. Please send reports of locals to secretary one week prior to convention. Address Rhodes, Iowa, Box 189. MATTIE FUGHESS, Sec.

January 18th.

The Sunday School Convention of the Galland Grove district will convene at Deloit, Iowa, February 13th, at 10 a. m. All schools in the district will please take notice and send their reports to F. B. Shumate, Dunlap, Harrison county, Iowa, at least ten days before the date of convening, so that they will be sure and reach him in time. Let all be present who can, as business of importance will be transacted. Come in the Spirit of the Master and unity will prevail. We expect Bro. Mintun to be with us.

R. WRIGHT, Supt., Wm. McKim, Ass't. Supt. F. B. SHUMATE, Sec. DOW CITY, Ia., Jan. 18.

A PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR POWDER

Highest Honors, World's Fair Gold Medal, Midwinter Fair

Avoid Baking Powders containing alum. They are injurious to health.

MARRIED. (One dollar must accompany these notices when other than the plain announcement is desired. No descriptive information will be inserted free.)

MANNERING-DAMITZ.—At the home of the bride's parents, Bro. and Sr. Fred Damitz, three miles east of Quincy, Missouri, January 9, 1901, at 7 p. m., Elder W. H. Mannerling, of Lowry City, Missouri, and Sr. Viola Damitz, John A. Silvers officiating.

DIED. (One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.)

GREEN.—At Hastings, Iowa, December 15, 1900, after an illness of one week, Bro. B. M. Green. He remained strong in the faith, and died trusting in God.

MOORMAN.—At Murray, Iowa, December 29, 1900, William Oral, son of Bro. and Sr. E. L. Moorman, aged 14 months and 22 days. He was attacked with spasmodic cramp and only survived its terrible grasp about seven hours, when he passed away like one going to sleep. He was blessed by Bro. Snelvey, of Lamoni, Iowa, October 12th.

STUNTED

Does your hair split at the end? Can you pull out a handful of HAIR by running your fingers through it? Does it seem dry and lifeless? Give your hair a chance. Feed it. The roots are not dead; they are weak because they are starved—that's all.

If you don't want your hair to die use Ayer's Hair Vigor once a day. It makes the hair grow, stops falling, and cures dandruff.

It always restores color to gray or faded hair; it never fails. $1.00 a bottle. All druggists. One bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped my hair from falling out, and started it to grow again naturally. LENA G. GREENE, Canova, S. Dak. Ayer's Hair Vigor completely cured me from dandruff, with which I was greatly afflicted. The growth of my hair since its use has been something wonderful. LENA G. GREENE, April 13, 1890, New York, N.Y. If you do not obtain all the benefits you expect from the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, write the Editor about it. DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, JANUARY 31, 1901.

NUMBER 5.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box 11, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost.

Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can afford it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

OR BY

GOSPEL GIFTS.

A "gift" is, in the common acceptance of the term, an expression of thoughtful consideration for the welfare, comfort and happiness of the recipient, and of the regard in which he is held by the donor, but unless the gift is used as the giver intended, the object for which it was presented may fail of attainment. The gifts of the gospel referred to by our Lord in Mark 16: 17, 18, and more fully explained by the Apostle Paul in 1 Corinthians 12, were to be to the church, the children of God, all that the title by which they are designated implies. They were intended by the Lord for the edifying of the body of Christ—the church—for the perfecting of the Saints, and so long as any of this class exists, until the Lord comes, and whenever the "everlasting" gospel is authoritatively presented, these gifts will be manifest, for they were made a component part of the gospel benefits, and cannot be separated from it. God hath "set" them in the church, His church, as He "set" the sun, moon and stars to do their work in blessing His creation.

It cannot be denied that some of the gifts enumerated by the Savior and His apostles are being manifested in some individuals in these latter days who do not accept the gospel of Christ as He taught it. Some of these parties profess to believe in Christ and His doctrine, but when their faith is examined, it is only such parts of the gospel of Christ as agrees with their own ideas of what the gospel should consist that they believe. Hence, having but an abstract of the gospel, they cannot have, are not entitled to, the genuine gifts of the gospel as promised by the Savior. It may be urged as opposing this assertion, that the language of the promise is, "And these signs shall follow them that believe." But what must be believed? Many, perhaps, think that simply to believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, is all that is referred to; but when it is considered that there are a great number of churches whose members make just such a profession whom the signs do not follow at all, and from the further fact that the Scriptures declare that even devils acknowledge that much, it must be apparent that such a theory would legalize all the efforts that Satan might use along this line, in order to get men and women under his domination and control. This position, then, being untenable, what is referred to in the promise of the Savior, that those signs would follow provided the condition of belief existed previously? Let us read the scripture relating to the matter and obtain an explanation of the matter.

And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned.

There can be but one conclusion as to the meaning of this language. It was the GOSPEL as the Lord and His apostles taught it, that was to be believed. The apostles were to go into all the world and preach the gospel. He who believed their teachings and obeyed the gospel requirements, its ordinances, etc., was promised salvation; while he who disbelieved and consequently rejected the authoritative teachings of the servants of Christ, and refused to obey the commandments of the Lord to comply with the demands of His gospel, was to be condemned. These signs, then, were to follow those who believed the gospel, and who, because of that belief, render obedience to it. 'Tis the devils do not do, hence any of the signs emanating from them are counterfeit, furnished for the purpose of blinding men and women to the requirements of the gospel. Satan makes no such demands. All he appears to require is that individuals have so earnest a desire to possess them, that they are willing to seek for them and use them as he directs, and he, seemingly, stands ready to supply the demand. So, too, those who decline to conform to the principles of the gospel of Jesus Christ as He taught it, and as He authorized His followers to teach it, cannot legally or logically be recipients of the genuine gifts of that gospel, and when that class of individuals manifest any of the gifts named in the gospel, it must necessarily come from some other source than that of the Holy Spirit, and are displayed for the purpose of deceiving others as to the necessity of obedience to the gospel of Christ.

Thus when the servants of God, authorized and commissioned of Him to preach the "everlasting gospel," and administer its sacred and holy ordinances, urge upon their hearers the necessity of honoring the law of that gospel, and complying with its ordinances in order to participate in its benefits and privileges, including the signs, or gifts, these individuals interpose as an argument that it is not needful to obey all the ordinances of the gospel in order to enjoy those blessings, that they themselves have these gifts mentioned or promised in the gospel, and they have neither been baptized nor had the hands of the ministry laid upon them for the bestowal of the Holy Spirit, hence the teachings of these servants of Christ are misleading and untrue. Some are thus deceived and will not honor the gospel laws; they will suffer loss in the end because they have built upon a sandy foundation. But those who weigh the matter carefully and correctly, will comprehend clearly the faulty character of such a philosophy, and rightly conclude that "whatsoever God doeth, it shall be forever: nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before him" (Ecc. 3: 14), and will risk their hope—if it should be thought there is any risk attaching to obedience—upon obeying God, rather than to dishonor Him by refusing to obey all He has commanded in His gospel.

These gospel gifts are, like all else attaching to the gospel of Jesus Christ, sacred and holy; and if used only by constraint of the Holy Spirit, as they are intended to be, will bring joy, comfort and strength to those towards whom they are permitted to be exercised, and will develop power in those who hear and heed what is revealed, to live more perfectly before the Lord until the character of our divine Lord is more closely assimilated. Paul says to covet earnestly the best gifts, and the children of the Highest should place themselves in such a condition that the Holy Spirit may divide the gifts in such a manner as will best glorify God, and accomplish His purposes in such bestowal. What any Saint might esteem as the "best" gift, might not be such for him. Some have earnestly sought and desired the gift of prophecy because the Apostle Paul seemed to speak more favorably of it than some others, the gift of speaking in tongues, for instance. Others have desired and sought for some of the other gifts enumerated by the apostle in 1 Corinthians 12: 4-10, as to be more earnestly coveted. This is a mistake it seems, for the eleventh verse of this chapter distinctly avers that: "All these [different gifts] worketh that one and the selfsame Spirit, dividing to every man severally AS HE WILL." Not as the individual wills, for, as we have stated, individual, uninspired, human judgment as to what is the best gift is apt to be faulty. But when the Holy Spirit divides, there can be no possibility of a mistake, and the church will be profited and God will be glorified in the magnifying of such gift.

To covet the best gifts, then, is to make earnest and continued effort to place oneself in such harmony with the divine mind and will, that the Holy Spirit will be permitted to perform his office work in this direction, and divide the gifts as God directs. Upon the individual whom He bestows the gift of wisdom, happy and favored is he, if he use his gift for the benefit of the household of faith, or those seeking to become such; and graciously gifted is the one upon whom the gift of knowledge is placed, if he strive to so wisely disseminate that knowledge in making others wise unto salvation. What blessings may be attained and enjoyed by the individual who is endowed with the gift of faith, what grand and glorious possibilities are opened to him in the exercise of such a divine gift; and how fraught with blessings to those who so much need them is the gift of healings; what a grand privilege to be permitted to administer relief and consolation through the Lord, and the Holy Spirit to the afflicted. Thus we might continue; all of those splendid gifts enumerated by the apostle, are beneficial in the highest degree, and are to be earnestly desired and coveted as the Holy Spirit may see it is best to endow the individual. All should seek by humility and righteousness, by fasting and prayer, to place themselves in such a condition that the Lord may be pleased to magnify His name in the dividing of some of these gifts to every one.

As these gifts of the gospel are intended to help and benefit God's children, those who have received them through His wisdom and love, should carefully guard against carelessness or indifference as to their use; that is, they should diligently strive to keep themselves in the mind of the Spirit, so that when it is the desire of the Lord to communicate His will to His children, imparting blessing to them, the vessel, the instrument of conveyance, may be clean and worthy. The Apostle Paul admonished Timothy on one occasion, thus:

Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy, with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery.—1 Timothy 4: 14.

Again he exhorts him: Wherefore I put thee in remembrance that thou errst in the gift of God, which is in thee by the putting on of my hands.—2 Timothy 1: 6.

He instructs Timothy that "God hath not given us the spirit of fear, but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind," from all of which it will be seen that the recipients of these gifts are responsible for the use made of them, and that they are bound by the sacred character of the trust imposed, to keep their bodies pure, their spirits holy, and so magnify the trust that only the greatest good may be manifest in their use.

Stir up these gifts within you then, dear Saints of God, given by the loving kindness of our heavenly Father, and strive daily to live that He may be glorified and the church perfected unto the coming of the Lord, which is drawing so nigh at hand.

WHO WOULD HAVE THOUGHT IT?

Some one sends the ENSIGN the following clipping. We do not know from what paper it was taken. The Spalding story seems to be held at a discount by this reporter:

BOOK OF MORMON FOUND.
Carbondale, Ill., Dec. 26.—Interest has been created here over a discovery made by Marshal Penrod, who lives on a farm near Dongola. Recently Penrod grubbed a black oak stump out of a potato field close to his residence and found a stone about a foot long and eight inches in diameter. The peculiar shape of the stone, which resembled a pocketbook, attracted his attention and upon close examination he found carved on its face in English language the following words: "This stone contains the original manuscript of Moroni (Mormon).—Joseph Smith." The ravages of time had apparently made but little headway on the stone, and upon closer investigation he found the stone was hollow and a hole drilled entirely through it and at both ends red cedar plugs had been driven in. Upon removing one of the plugs several sheets of parchments were found containing writing in hieroglyphics that could not be deciphered.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

BISHOP G. H. HILLIARD was in Los Angeles, California, January 22d. He will remain in Southern California until about the middle of February, then go north. He is well and busily at work.

SR. F. D. ROGERS, Guide Rock, Nebraska, desires the prayers of the Saints for the recovery of her husband's health. She says he was sick for over two months with pleura-pneumonia and had hemorrhage of stomach; though better now it has left him very weak.

BRO. F. M. PITT, 258 North Troy street, Chicago, Illinois, has favored the ENSIGN with copies of eight illustrations for blackboard work in the Sunday School. They are bright and attractive in design and execution, the explanations accompanying being clear and forcible. This will be of great assistance to all who wish to make Sunday School work most effective (and who does not desire this?). Bro. Fred is not making a speculation out of his work, as the price at which he offers the entire set, twenty in number, (50 cents) will show, but is doing this work from the best of motives—to promote the interest and success of the Sunday School. See his notice in another column and encourage him in his good begun work by ordering a set at once.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

BISHOP G. H. HILLIARD, Los Angeles, California:

I have been preaching here in Los Angeles each night this week and last Sunday. I go from here to Downey today, then Garden Grove, Santa Ana and San Bernardino and back to Los Angeles. Then start north about February 12th, and on to San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento and other points in California. I look for E. A. Blakeslee here tomorrow. Busy at work.

APOSTLE I. N. WHITE was at Thayer, Missouri, January 24th, and thus advises:

I am having a lively time and fine interest holding meetings in Christian church here; close the 27th and go to Malden to hold a series of meetings in the M. E. church. I am the first to sound the message in these towns, a ripe field indeed. Had a spirited talk with the M. E. minister here yesterday, for about four hours; he seems to be an honest man and went away puzzled; our message is the talk of the town. Health good and feeling well all around. Never felt more blessed than on this southern trip; the Lord be praised.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Sr. Reyner was quite ill Saturday last but is better again.

Bro. J. E. Lewis is recovering nicely from a severe attack of pneumonia.

Bro. and Sr. Josiah Curtis, Jr., are caring tenderly for a fine new boy who made his advent on Monday, the 21st of January. All are doing nicely.

Bro. J. B. Smith, who returned from Arizona a few weeks ago, is not improving as his family and the Saints desire he should, and earnest presentation in his behalf should be continued.

Grandma Clements has been quite ill at her home on the south side, but is now slowly improving. She was almost given up at one time. We have missed her from the church for some time.

Sr. C. A. Bishop has been suffering severely from an attack of the grip, which, in her already feeble condition and advanced age, has the appearance of a fatal termination. Administrations bring but temporary relief, and she is quite weak and exhausted. Sr. Thos. Haley is also suffering from the grip, as well as a number of others, among them being Bro. H. R. Mills and "ye editor."

Bro. H. H. Robinson and C. E. DePuy, accompanied by Mr. MacL. Lucas, came up from Lee's Summit, Sunday, and Bro. Lucas was baptized in Shultz's pond, by Bro. Robinson, at the close of the afternoon service. The confirmation was given at the evening service, Bro. Jos. Luff and H. H. Robinson officiating. They returned to Lee's Summit after the evening service. Bro. Robinson reports an encouraging increase of interest and attendance at that place.

Sr. Letitia Crick moved into her new home on Clark street, Tuesday. She is now living near all of her children except David, who lives on the south side. Bro. John Crick lives just four doors below in Bro. J. H. McMullen's old home, her daughter, Sr. Walter Weeks, is next door to her, Bro. Thomas is next door but one above her, and the back of Bro. Wm. Crick's lot almost joins the back of her lot, across the alley. This is a pleasant feature indeed. Her children think the world of mother and she is worthy of all the loving care and attention they can bestow upon her.

On Wednesday evening of last week Bro. Samuel H. Burnham and Miss Minnie Corbin left the Cape of Good Hope, around which they had been cruising together for some time, and with Elder Joseph Luff as pilot, were landed in the United States after a voyage that occupied less than ten minutes. They received the congratulations of friends after their arrival and seemed to be uncommonly happy in the new harbor. The panoramic transit was witnessed by several friends gathered at the home of Bro. and Sr. J. A. Burnham just south-west of town. May their joy-star never grow dim.

Next Monday evening will be the regular monthly business meeting of the branch. One of the items of business of great importance to be transacted is the election of some one as presiding priest, succeeding Bro. Layton who has served so faithfully and acceptably in the past. Earnest prayer for Divine guidance in the selection should be made by the Saints, and every individual member should feel the necessity for such inspiration in this matter, sufficiently to seek it with all faith and earnestness. There should be a very full attendance at this meeting. Don't neglect this duty.

Sunday was a beautiful day, and the Saints' church was filled with an attentive audience, among the number being some twenty-five or thirty medical students from Kansas City. Bro. Joseph Luff was the preacher, and presented some food for thought along lines of church organization and the immutability of the works of the Lord. At night Bro. R. J. Parker delivered a forceful discourse, with much liberty, on church succession. Very close and marked attention was given by the large audience present. The afternoon service was good, the lower auditorium being well filled. The increased attendance and interest, of late, is very noticeable and indicative of the efforts being made by the Saints to bring themselves more in harmony with the Divine mind; as a consequence the blessings are increasing and development in right lines is more manifest.

Bro. J. W. Layton, since his injury sometime ago while shoeing a horse, has been unable to follow that vocation, and favorable additions at Rocky Ford, Colorado, being reported he left for that point Saturday morning last, to secure a location prior to removing his family after the General Conference, in April. We regret the necessity of this move, as it takes a wise, faithful laborer from our midst, whose services have been greatly appreciated by the Saints here without exception. Always diligent and punctual in attendance at the church and other places where his duty as presiding priest called, he will be missed from our midst for sometime to come. The best wishes of the Saints will attend himself and family in their new home. Bro. Layton also hopes for relief from an affection of the throat in the healing qualities of the Colorado climate. The local Religio presented him with a large sized Book of Mormon in flexible binding before he left. He does not expect to be idle spiritually or in temporal affairs, he would not be satisfied with that condition in either sphere.

Sr. Fannie Lee, youngest daughter of Bro. and Sr. John H. Lee who has been suffering from consumption for some months past, smilingly welcomed the heavenly messengers to conduct her dearer spirit to the paradise of God, and Saturday morning last, at ten minutes before five, her heart ceased its pulsations, and the wasted form was at rest. She had suffered considerably early in the evening for a while before her departure she became easy, the ever shortening respirations alone telling the sorrowing watchers of the near approach of the end. Suddenly, at the time noted she opened wide her eyes, gazing straight upward with a smile, and on the instant, without even a sigh, the spirit took its flight, the face retaining the smile as the features and form, lovely in their purity, relaxed. The funeral was held from the church Monday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, Bro. Joseph Luff, who was present at her departure, preaching the sermon. At the conclusion the remains, encased in a beautiful white casket, were gently interred in the city cemetery until the morning of the first resurrection. Quite a large number were present at the service. The grief stricken ones have the sympathies of the community in their bereavement. Sr. Fannie departed just three years, almost to a day, after her sister Zonia.

LAMONI, IOWA.

All services were well attended yesterday. The Sunday School registered an attendance of 410, with only two teachers absent. One of those was Bro. John Smith, who was not idle, but met with the Saints at Davis City and delivered two sermons, returning Monday morning. Elders Lake and Anderson spoke at the church as per announcement, and Elder Columbus Scott at the Saints' Home.

Bro. A. M. Chase arrived from his mission field latter part of last week.

Sr. Alice P. Dancer, matron of the Saints' Home, has been for the past two weeks at the home of her sister, Sr. Jessie M. Smith, who is quite sorely afflicted with rheumatism. Sr. Mary A. Rood is in charge of the Home during her absence.

Bishop Kelley left on last Friday for a ten days trip through Southern Indiana. He expected to attend the conference at Byeville.

President Smith was able to be at his office the latter part of the week and also attend the services yesterday. Although his pain has mitigated, he still suffers. He expects to visit Independence the latter part of the week.

The Religio now has an enrollment of 162 and three home classes.

January 28.

[OUR readers who weekly enjoy reading these items from the pen of Sr. D. J. Krahl will, we are sure, join us in congratulating Bro. and Sr. Krahl upon the advent of another sweet little daughter, January 23d.—Ed.]

D. J. K.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Our great modern Sodom is alarmed over the prevalence of smallpox, which is not easily controlled. Well might the world awake to the increasing and hastening calamities which are decreed, unless, like Nineveh, they repent. It remains for the Saints to "stand in holy places," having the mark of the "Lamb" upon the door lintles, that the destroying angel may pass them by.

Bro. S. C. Good is suffering from a very severe attack of grip. He suffers much pain, yet some improvement is noted. Bro. Good is missed from our meetings and Sabbath School.

The Religio held a very spiritual prayer meeting last evening, the good Spirit speaking in words of correction and admonition and comfort. Bro. Johnson, who remains very sick, was prayed for very earnestly. Assurance was given that he was in the Lord's hands.

Bro. W. E. LaRue, a young missionary of twenty-four summers, is spending a few days with us. William is a grandson of Jesse L. and "Aunt Sally" Adams, of good repute in the church in an early day, and by inheritance he is in possession of the true spirit of the work. He is methodical and plain in his presentation of the truth, and by care and constancy will make a "pastor," the need of which is keenly felt by the church. His sermons were well received.

Yesterday was a good day for the work in Chicago; the meetings were well attended, and too with the spirit of love and unity, known and possessed only by the true followers of Christ. A number of excellent people are near the kingdom, whom we hope to soon see enter our fold; withal, the outlook is encouraging, and, like the leaven, the truth is spreading in the city. Let all keep a lookout for new openings to preach the gospel, and for missionary work.

Enclosed find subscription for ENSIGN for one who, while not of our fold, is, we trust, nearing the threshold with his companion.

Sr. R. A. Penney starts today for a visit to her former home, Lake Mills, Wisconsin, where lives her father. She will be gone about two weeks. She goes armed with literature to spread the light.

Sr. Worrell is very sick with pneumonia. She was quite bad when visited yesterday.

Union service next Sunday at usual place. A feast of spiritual blessings awaits the Saints if they come "in the name of Christ."

Sr. Vincent, from Higbee, Missouri, is spending a few days in our city, and attended services at the mission.

In hope and good cheer,
J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Jan. 28.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street. Services: Wednesday evening, prayer service. Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave., services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:40 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Bro. Fred recently shook the dust of the city from his shoes and departed for other fields. We understand he is at present stopping in St. Joseph. He left many friends, who regretted his departure.

Bro. Allen has been away from the city the past week; he was present at service last evening.

We had visitors yesterday from out of town.

Our convention, Sunday School and Religio, meets February 9th and 10th.

Recent election of officers in Sunday School resulted as follows: Superintendent, T. J. Elliott; assistant, Howard Molyneux; secretary, Dan De Jung; treasurer, Mrs. Burgess; Sr. Florence Burgess presides at the organ; Bro. O. O. Randall, chorister.

Bro. Howard Molyneux, upon his return from St. Joseph, was immediately given responsibility as per above note of election.

Bro. Arthur Burgess has been demonstrating his artistic powers. For the past two Sundays we have been treated to excellent blackboard work.

Sunday morning, 27th, Bro. N. Cooke, Gordon Smith, George Barraclough, T. J. Elliott and J. J. Billinsky occupied a quota of the morning hour; Bro. Christenson presided and offered the concluding remarks.

We have been expecting Bro. I. N. White for a week or two, "but he cometh not."

We have some sickness in our midst.
ETTA.
January 28.

DENVER, COLORADO.
Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening, Zion's Religio-Literary Society Friday evening.

The weather is fine—warm and dry. Unless we have more snow, water for irrigation will be very scarce next summer; but few days so far that an overcoat is necessary.

Bro. Jno. Brennan will move to Rocky Ford in a few days.

Bro. Samuel Platt is no better, but is gradually failing.

Bro. Joseph Schmutz is almost as bad as when he was taken to the hospital last summer.

Grippe has made calls on several of the Saints. Sr. Brennan is suffering from the mumps.

Sr. Hamlin and children have returned from Salt Lake, satisfied that Denver is good enough for them. Bro. H. will come later.

Our conference convenes February 16th. If the weather remains as at present, we see no reason why we may not have a large attendance. We hope to have Patriarch Smith with us on this occasion.

Bro. Phillip Landfried has taken a life partner. Phillip is a good boy and we think he has made a good choice in a wife.

Four were added to the branch last Sunday, three by certificate of removal from other branches and one by baptism. Sr. McNall, formerly of Omaha, was baptized by the writer, in the Platt river. The day was fine, the water clear, and a large body of Saints and friends gathered to witness the ordinance, and to the writer it was one of the most pleasant occasions for a long time.

Sunday morning the church was well filled while Elder J. B. Roush discoursed on "The Apostasy;" the subject was continued in the evening by the same speaker.

January 28.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

Sunday, January 6th, we had preaching at 11 a. m. by Bishop C. A. Parkin, and at 7:30 p. m. by Elder Albert Haws. Elder J. A. Saxe went to Santa Rosa and preached there. We noticed among the visitors at our hall Bro. and Sr. Tilton, recently from Iowa.

There was good attendance at the prayer meeting Wednesday evening, nearly all taking part. A good Spirit prevailed throughout. The time was very profitably spent by all present.

The Sisters' Prayer Union continues to hold its sessions every Thursday afternoon. Its interest still keeps up.

The Religio is still in its glory every Friday evening. The regular number is always present, and often we are overcrowded with visitors. Some of our sessions are very interesting and instructive. Young childhood and old age are to be found among the members, and all are interested. The Book of Mormon grows more interesting on better acquaintance.

Last Sunday Fred B. Blair preached for us at 11 a. m., and at Oakland at 8 p. m. Your correspondent preached at Oakland at 11 a. m., and here at 7:30 p. m. John A. Saxe was the speaker at West Berkeley. J. A. Anthony went to Santa Rosa and presented the word of truth. Chas. A. Parkin went to Stockton and held services and preached.

We had a full house Sunday morning and evening. Among others we noticed Bro. and Sr. Thomas Reese from Montana. There was quite a number of strangers out.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

January 10.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line.

At the Sunday morning service our teacher, Fred Koehler, preached the best sermon we have heard from him for a long time. He taught the Saints to be frugal and not waste the substance the Lord gives them. He spoke with much freedom and plainness.

The afternoon prayer meeting was one of rejoicing because of the Holy Ghost speaking to several individuals, and the branch collectively, for their good.

Elder Joseph Emmett spoke at the evening meeting on Revelation 14: 6, 7, concerning the restoration of the everlasting gospel, officially, through an angel. He expounded the doctrine of ministration of angels as taught by the Spirit. The instructions were edifying and plain, easily understood by the minds of the people.

There is a man preaching in this neighborhood who claims to have the gift of tongues. He has started a new church.

JOHN GRAINGER.

January 28.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

BARNES, Kas., Jan. 25.

Editor Ensign.—Leaving home the 5th by advice of Bro. I. N. White, I wended my way to Idylwild, Kansas, where I was to hold a series of meetings. En route I came in contact with Mr. La Grappe, arriving in the midst of a chill. I tried to preach Sunday morning, the 6th, but could not; he had his clutches on me with a death grip, and notwithstanding prayers and administration I was not able to put in appearance till Monday evening. I continued the effort with dark nights, and grip putting in his appearance here and there, which reduced the interest held for.

Next point was Greenleaf. In company with the presiding elder, Bro. Alma Kent, we held forth for several days with a growing interest.

Bro. and Sr. Transue of this place, having obtained the Christian church, Bro. Kent and I came here, leaving Bro. John Alfred Davis, who just came in, to continue the meetings. We have the promise of the use of the church next week only when not occupied with their own appointments. The audience is increasing, prospects fair for a hearing, and we work on.

Wishing you success in the labors of love at home, I am

Yours,

A. H. PARSONS.

MOLINE, Ill., Jan. 24.

Editor Ensign.—I arrived in my new field, the Kewanee district, on the 12th. Bro. Cooper and I began meetings in Rock Island on the 13th, and have continued in Rock Island and here ever since. The attendance of outsiders is poor. On the 19th our hearts were made to rejoice when a noble young lady of about twenty-two summers, presented herself for baptism. Bro. Lloyd and Crull cut about ten inches of ice from a portion of the old Father of Waters, and I baptized Sr. Fannie Ray; we are preaching in Bro. Lloyd's house. I think one or two more are interested.

I will now leave this meeting for Bro. Cooper to carry on for several days till I can return, for I have just now received a telegram from my wife stating that my dear, old mother, who lived with my brother in Tama City, Iowa, was dead. I will take the 7 p. m. train tonight to attend her funeral tomorrow. She was in her 86th year, a believer in the gospel, but she dare not obey and stay where she did. After the funeral I will return here to assist Bro. Cooper again.

The Saints of Rock Island and Moline have a fine Sunday School also a good Religio; I enjoy their association. My little co-laborer and associate, Bro. Cooper, and I get along fine, but as I don't believe in the patting on the back theory, I will drop that. From here I expect to go to Keawnee to conference on the 8th of February. I remain

In bonds of the gospel,

J. S. RORR.

Home address, 1011 Summer St., Grinnell, Iowa.

LOVELLA, Mo., Jan. 28.

Dear Ensign.—After a pleasant visit at home, I left on December 28th, for Spickard, in Grundy county, for the two days' meeting at Mt. Hope. I assisted Bro. Foss; we had good interest and fair crowds. On the 6th of January I organized a Sunday School at Mt. Hope. These Saints, beginning on the first of the century, ought to do well.

On the 7th, came to Cameron, where I met Bro. Cushman. We came immediately to Far West. I went to see the directors of the Pleasant Grove school district and secured the use of the school-house. This school-house is just across the road from the church where I spoke about a month before, and was closed out. I spoke the first night, and was taken, on Sunday, with tonsillitis, and was not able to speak. Bro. Cushman spoke there until Wednesday following, then on Saturday, the 19th, we opened up at Oakland school-house, where we preached five times to good crowds; fine interest. Then, on Thursday, came to Kingston, and from there to Wakenda branch, in Ray county, on Friday for the two days' meeting. At 2:30 Saturday, the 27th, we began the two days' meeting; good crowds, the church was full, good interest. Bro. Cushman has gone to Kingston; I continue here this week. The work is in good condition. The Sunday School and Religio are doing well.

I had the pleasure yesterday, of uniting in marriage two of the Wakenda young people, Bro. Louis Hutchen and Miss Stella Garrison.

The work is onward in this part. Ever praying for the welfare of Zion, I am,

Your brother,

WALTER W. SMITH.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 23.

Dear Ensign.—I have just been reading the letter written by Sr. Martin, relating the experience of moving Sr. McMullen from Independence to Rocky Ford, Colorado. The most noticeable thing in that answer to prayer she was able to walk off the cars at the depot at the end of the journey, according to the prayer of Bro. Garrett. I wish, and have often prayed, that the elders might be more courageous in asking for blessings. Had the elder in this case been timid, and had withheld the words of this blessing for fear it might not have so happened, when it might not have come into her. The Lord has said unto his servants, "Be courageous;" and so it should be with us at the present time. Elders, go forward and bless in the name of the blessed Master (not prophecy). In faith, and it will be a surprise to the church, the great and wonderful blessings thus obtained from the good Lord.

An elder once said to me, after relating some wonderful manifestations and miracles that had been wrought, "Why, Bro. Shaw, I don't see how you dare to say the words, lest they might not be in harmony with God's will, and if not, then the blessing would not be realized." Remember that the revelation says if you pray in the Spirit then your prayers shall be answered. O! my brother elders, I do believe I have administered unto those who were appointed unto death, and the God of heaven recognized the ordinance of His church, as well as His servant, to that extent that He would fulfill according to the blessing of the elder. And I would say to all do not fear to bless when the Spirit is upon you, for God will be true to His promise, and will recognize you as His servant.

If God has given you a special gift, strive hard to magnify that gift, and develop in the same until you may be perfected in it. May this be your greatest desire, but covet not another's calling. Now, if this be in the church, then the power and manifestations of the Spirit will be received for the good of all and salvation of souls. I could relate several incidents, but space in the paper will not admit, and these were called miracles.

The work is onward here in the city. I baptized one last Sunday; I now have one name for baptism next Sunday, and several others say they expect to unite with us soon.

Yours in gospel love,

M. SHAW.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 28.

Dear Ensign.—Though the work in Chicago is ably represented in the little silent preacher every week, possibly a few lines in a little different strain may be acceptable by way of diversion, but not in the way of improvement on the faithful efforts of your untiring correspondent. The work here in this great city is moving slowly but steadily onward. There are some excellent people here, not only identified with the church by name, but such identity is made manifest by their works. Like other places our people are known by their peculiar characteristics. For instance, there are those among us who are considerably strange, prominently God, very Grave(s) and yet Puller, several Pitts (not pitfalls though), genuine Penneys (not counterfeits), and Terry (who does not tarry).

It is uphill work here for the ministry, and in our meetings one or two strangers form a conspicuous part of our congregations. A great deal of work in converting and getting people to our meetings devolves on the laity, and from my observation a large majority of those entering the fold have been mainly through the personal efforts of members. In fact, there are those who were ready for baptism before they had ever heard a Latter Day Saint sermon. In a great city of two million people, with all the hubbub and noise incident to business, the innumerable amusements and attractions, we are as a drop in the ocean, and little can be accomplished except by personal contact. I do not know what success the Utah elders have in their house to house canvass. People generally do not know any difference between the Utah folks and us, so that they have no harder time getting a first hearing than we have. There have been enough of their missionaries here to have built up a large branch. Some of the time there has been twenty-five or thirty of their elders here. By the way, I have heard some of them make hard efforts at twisting the truth in trying to defend the abominations of their doctrine and practices. Saints who live in the country in large branches where they own their own meeting house, have little idea what an expense a small branch in a large city is to, in order to maintain a house of worship and attend the same. At present the Chicago branch maintains two places of worship. The one on the south side is now kept up by those of that section, and the west side people have to keep up the one on Van Buren street. It, with fuel, lights, etc., costs us something like $350 a year. That is quite a tax on the handful of Saints here when you take into consideration car fares and the high cost of living here.

As Saints we should let our light shine by our acts, our every day acts. As a rule in large cities people are slow to get acquainted, and it is often the case that people never get acquainted with those living in the flats above or below them, or even just across the hall on the same floor. Wherever we have lived we have made acquaintances, and some very desirable ones, in the which it has been the means of accomplishing some good for the Master, more especially, though, through the efforts of my wife. Our policy is not to flatter our religion in their face at first, and thus arouse their prejudice; but first gain their confidence and let them see we are trying to live a christian life, then get them interested in the plain truths of the gospel. The next thing they will want to know what church believes in and practices these principles. People who have never heard our side, but have heard everything that is contemptible and mean of us, have a right to be prejudiced for they have been educated that way, and it is hard to get people to forsake their education. One old Scotch lady (a Presbyterian) was very sociable with my wife, talking freely on religion, until she found out we were "Mormons," when the sociability ended.

Yours in the gospel,

W. H. DEAM.

MENOKEN, Kan., Dec. 23.

Editor Ensign.—As it has been some time since I wrote for your precious columns, I will be pardoned for making the attempt at this time. I often wonder why others do not write who are interested in the work in this Northeast Kansas district. I have no desire to boast of anything, but in the spirit of meekness I wish to state that never in my life have I felt better in the gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Though laboring alone at present among the people, my testimony is that the Lord has been with me to direct and protect.

How few are the laborers when there is so much to be done! Souls are perishing all around us for the want of the true bread which cometh down from heaven. By the help of the Master I have fed many a hungry soul recently and expect to do still more, as I am in this grand and glorious work for life. It can and must be done in no other way, for the Lord has said that "by your hands I will work a marvelous work among the children of men, unto the convincing of many of their sins, that they may come unto repentance, and that they may come unto the kingdom of your Father; wherefore, the blessings which I give unto you are above all things." (Doc. & Cov. 16:4).

I meet with all kinds of people in my travels, but it is my business to sow the good seed wherever I find willing minds to receive. The work is grand and God cares for his servants as in days of old. I go without purse or scrip and trust all in His hands, who said that not a sparrow falls to the ground without His notice. It is for us, dear Saints, to be diligent and faithful in all things while the day lasts.

If the scattered Saints will assist to effect openings in their several neighborhoods and write me at Pannburg, Kansas, any time, I will gladly try to respond. Of late the dear Lord is giving me much liberty in presenting his word, to whom we ascribe all the praise. I have had quite a struggle in the past, but all things come to him who waits, you know. It is ours to persevere like good Jacob of old until we obtain the blessing.

I feel, dear Saints, that I cannot too earnestly plead with you to awake to the necessities of the hour. The work we represent is vastly important to all, both saint and sinner. And if we do not arise in the strength of the Lord, live our holy religion in deed and in truth, we must suffer great loss here and hereafter.

Your brother in love,

FRANK J. PEIRCE.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

ALICE H. CORSON.

A QUESTION ANSWERED.

A brother in the Apostolic church handed me a tract entitled "What Kind of a God Do You Trust?" It was only a little leaflet, and was very good, its mission seeming to be to point out the fact that the God they worshipped was a living God, and was unchangeable; but I could not see much in it to indicate any difference in their faith, and in the faith of the so-called orthodox churches, which they class as Babylon. None of those churches would admit that their God was a dead God, or that He was a changeable one, though teachings would make it seem as if they thought He had changed, and the lives of too many would make it appear that they had no fears of their God, either dead or living.

Now, I wish to tell this brother and all others to whom this may come, what kind of a God we Latter Day Saints trust. For some seem inclined to doubt the fact that we worship the one living and true God, and Him only do we serve; that our God is the God of the Bible, the God of Abraham, and Isaac, and of Jacob. Our God is not a mythical being, the creature of a diseased imagination, or something conjured up out of the carnal desires of our own hearts, as so many seem to think; and we learn what He is from His word, His works, and His revelations to us as a church, and to each of His children individually.

The living God, the source of all life, "in whom we live and move and have our being;" and this living God has a form, a character, a personality; not merely pure essence as some teach, without body, parts or passions, a shapeless non-entity. Could such a being exist, or if existent, have power to create, or be the source of life? A living nothing, the ideas as absurd as it is unscriptural. But the Word of God teaches us that He has a body with parts; that He has passions, or feelings, or emotions, as I trust I can make plain by the help of the Spirit.

That He has a form and parts notice what the Word says, Genesis 1:27: "And God created man in His own image." Genesis 9:6: "For in the image of God made he man." 1 Corinthians 11:7: "For as much as he is the image and glory of God." And Paul, in his epistle to the Hebrews, speaks of Christ as being the brightness of His (the Father's) glory, and the express image of His (the Father's) person (Hebrews 1:3), also that He sat down on the right hand of the majesty on high. (Hebrews 1st and 3d). If you ask "what is the form of God?" the question is answered right there in the above texts, and also in Philip- pians 1:6: "Let this mind be in you which was in Christ Jesus, who being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God." Christ's form differed not from man's form, yet here it plainly says He was in the form of God.

Numerous texts can be cited to show that He was a God of parts, or a being with different members to His body as has man, who was created in His image. See Exodus 33:20-23, that He has a face; Genesis 32:30, Exodus 33:11, Deuteronomy 5:4, that He has eyes; 2 Chronicles 16:9, Proverbs 22:12, Psalms 34:15, Ezra 16:5. But as I do not intend to write a concordance, I will just add the comforting word found in 1st Peter 3:18: "The eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open to their prayers;" and "the face of the Lord is against them that do evil."

There is a world of comfort in the thought that our God is a living, seeing, knowing God, whose eyes are over us, if so be we are righteous, or to speak in common parlance, "He keeps an eye on us." I am glad of that.

One gladly solemn thought thrills through my heart today. It is that I cannot beyond His watch-care stray. He knows my way throughout, tho' dim to mortal sight, Though dense with fogs of doubt, and dark with sorrow's night.

Not only a watchful God, but a listening God:

He heard my cry of deep distress. While wandering sad and lone; He sought me in the wilderness, And He will lead me home.

He is a merciful God. Daniel 9:9: "To the Lord our God belong mercies and forgivenesses, though we have rebelled against him." Nehemiah 17: "But thou art a God ready to pardon, gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness." The marginal reading has it "A God of pardons," and we cannot think that the character of God as pictured in His word, and in His revelations to us individually, will limit those pardons to only the few who have heard the gospel in this life. He could not do that and be no respecter of persons. He is an impartial God, and willeth not the death of any, but rather that all should turn and live. But He wants a willing turning; He compels none to turn, but His voice is saying, "Turn ye, turn ye, for why will ye die." A just God will not mock His creatures by inviting them to come, and turn and live, if life and salvation are not for them.

While the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God in our sinful and rebellious state, since He is of too pure an eye to behold iniquity, and cannot look upon sin with any degree of allowance yet He is not the God of torture, and cruelty and vengeance, that the modern creed-makers have pictured Him. And while the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, yet the love of the Lord is the highest wisdom, for the more we love Him the more will we strive to learn of Him, and the more we learn of Him the more will we love Him.

He is a God of love. John says, "He that loveth not knoweth not God, for God is love." And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us.

God is love and he that dwelleth in love, dwelleth in God, and God in him.

Our God is an unchangeable God. Oh the comfort in that thought. Job says in 23d chapter and 18th verse: "He is in one mind and who can turn Him and what his soul desireth, even that he doeth." Is there not a mine of precious hope and comfort there, when we read that God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son to die for their salvation? For surely He desired their salvation, and what His soul desireth even that He doeth. To we who have heard His call, what comfort to know that He hath desired our salvation, for surely had He not had a desire to save us, He would not have called us again and again till we caught the tones so freighted with love and compassion that at last we could but pause and listen. His voice would not deceive us, and we almost fancied we could see His kind eyes glisten, so anxious to relieve us. Orthodoxy, so called, would have us to think that the great sacrifice of the Only Begotten Son of God was all in vain; that the great enemy of mankind was to be victor instead of Christ. Is there any gospel in that thought? Is that the good tidings of great joy that should be to all people, that nine-tenths of them shall suffer eternal torments in hell-fire for never having obeyed the gospel of which most of them never have even heard, and that only one-tenth, and probably not so many, shall be saved? "Search the Scriptures," and see for yourself, for they are they that testify of me," said our Lord.

And the God we trust is a God of revelation, and a God that revealeth secrets. Amos 8:7: "Surely the Lord God will do nothing but He revealeth His secrets to his servants the prophets." And Genesis 40:8: Do not interpretations belong to God?" Matthew 16:17. Jesus says to Peter, "Flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven." Galatians 3:3: "How that by revelation He hath made known unto me the mystery, which in other ages was not made known unto the sons of men as it is now revealed to his holy apostles and prophets." And nowhere in the world do we find that apostles and prophets were to be taken out of the church, for Paul tells us in Ephesians, 4th chapter, that they are to continue "till we all come to a unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God," and he also tells us that God set them there, and the wise man tells us (Ecclesiastes 8:14) that what God doeth it shall be forever. They were given for the upbuilding of the body of Christ.

Is the body of Christ now complete? If so, when completed, and what use to labor now for the edifying or upbuilding of the church or body of Christ? And if apostles and prophets are not needed for that work now, why were they then? What conditions have changed to render them unnecessary? Has Christ changed? No, for he is the same yesterday, today and forever. Has man's nature changed? Is not man today the same as when the apostles were commissioned to "Go into all the world to preach the gospel to every creature?" And was it ever to be any other gospel? Paul says not, and if any man or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel, let him be accursed. And our Lord said, as is recorded by Matthew, Mark and Luke, "heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away." Was not the gospel plan perfect as it came from God Himself? for Christ always said His words were not His own, but were the words of His Father who sent Him. And there is no other plan made known whereby man can obtain salvation, for the gospel, and the gospel only, is the power of God unto salvation, unto the Jew first, and also unto the Greek.

The reason for the hope that is in us is that our God is an unchangeable and impartial God, and no respecter of persons, and is just as willing to give His needy children the same helps today as in the beginning of the gospel era. "For our God is the God of gods, the Lord of lords, a great God, and mighty, and a terrible, which regardeth not person nor taketh rewards." Deuteronomy 10:17. And Job says, "Behold, God is mighty, and despiseth not any. He is mighty in strength and wisdom." And Peter said, "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons." And to all who will comply with his demands, will He verify His promise, "These signs shall follow them that believe, In my name shall they cast out devils, they shall speak with new tongues, they shall take up serpents, and if they drink any deadly thing it shall not hurt them. They shall lay hands on the sick and they shall recover."—Mark 16:17.

Did not God always send His prophets when His people were in greatest need of guidance? Has not the condition of the religious world in this age been one of confusion and misunderstanding of God's plans? and as a part of the great plan of preparation for the incoming millennium, he gave another prophet to restore the everlasting gospel which He had said was to be preached "to every nation, kindred, and tongue and people," that they might no longer be in darkness or have an excuse for not putting on Christ and His righteousness.

Now, to sum up the answer to the question on title page of the brother's tract, "What kind of a God do you trust?" I would say that we Latter Day Saints trust the God of the Bible, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the living God, the mighty, unchangeable, impartial God, who is no respecter of persons; the God of love, truth, justice and mercy, to whom belongeth mercies and forgivenesses, and who only has a right to say under what conditions they shall be granted. A personal God who can and does speak to His children, and who will speak again; a prayer hearing and prayer answering God; not a mere myth, an imaginary nothing, without body, parts and passions. A God without passion could neither love nor pity, while the Word says, "Like a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him." And I bless His holy name for a more perfect view and a clearer knowledge of the character and attributes of God, so that I am no more in bondage of fear, for a knowledge of God must beget love, and perfect love casteth out fear. Only in Christ and by the Spirit can a perfect knowledge be obtained. "If any man lack wisdom let him ask of God, who giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not," for the often asking.

3829 4th St., Fulron, Richmond, Va.

CLAIM A STRANGE "GIFT OF TONGUES."

"The gift of tongues" or the power to speak all languages, is claimed to have been received by a number of students of Bethel college, at Topeka, Kansas, and a great religious excitement, such as has not been heard of in Kansas for years, prevails. Rev. Charles Parham, of the Shiloh, Maine, fraternity, is the founder of the college. It was opened some months ago, and is filled with students of the Bible. No one connected with this school ever works, except to do a little household turn occasionally. No one connected with it has an income. Subscriptions are never taken. But everything is provided, it must be, for the school grows continually, and the members seem to be living well and eating three hearty meals each day. Faith is the main principle. On this and prayer the members of this strange religious sect depend for sustenance, and from this source it is received, so they claim.

But the latest claim they make as a result of faith and much prayer, is the power to speak foreign languages without ever having studied them. This a remarkable and wonderful thing in this skeptical age to lay claim to such a power as a result of prayer, and the people who make it must be in earnest, right, or seekers after just such advertising as they are sure to get.

It is claimed that the "gift" was first bestowed upon Miss Agnes Ozman, a young woman who did evangelistic work in Kansas City only a few months ago. Two weeks ago she received the "gift."

In the college there are forty scholars. Their only text book is the Bible. They were found by a reporter the other day sitting around the building reading their lessons. The only time they do not spend studying the Bible is when they do a little housework, such as repairing the building, attending to the grounds and the house and the barn, and preparing the meals.

Reverend Parham conducts the classes. When the class is called the recitation is made by each scholar reading aloud a verse of the Bible, and the verse is studied for its meaning, and lengthy discussions ensue, the creed of the school fixing the meaning, of course. Right now the attention of the various classes is being given to the Acts of the apostles, and the twelfth chapter is being especially studied. The twelfth chapter of the First Corinthians names the gifts of the apostles, among them being the gift of tongues, the gift of discernment, the gift of healing, the gift of prophecy and other gifts, and these people think faith will bring them all these gifts. In fact, they believe themselves to be just like the apostles, in that they believe they are designated especially for this work and no other. Their school is to prepare apostles. The school in Kansas is patterned after the school in Shiloh, Maine, where two former Kansas City young women are now living.

The students have been praying long for the "gift of tongues," feeling that they could then go as missionaries better fitted to teach the heathen. It is cheaper, too, they think, and a quicker way to get several languages by inspiration or gift than to work at school for several years.

One afternoon about two weeks ago Miss Ozman was reading in the study with the other scholars, when suddenly she went into a seeming trance, and not exactly either, for she began to speak strange words—all foreign words! There was an exclamation of joy over all the room, and the whole school was exceeding glad.

Afterward she was asked about her experience, and she said:

"I believe the Lord inspired me with the words I spoke at the time. I did not know then when I was talking what the next word would be, I don't know what language I was talking nor what I was saying, only as the Lord would inspire me."

Speaking of the power given Miss Ozman, Rev. Parham said: "It was nearly a week before the gift was bestowed upon others. All the while the students prayed to their utmost for the gift. Finally several others received the gift, and now there are fifteen or twenty that have it. Occasionally they burst out talking a lot of unintelligible verses to those sitting around, and not understood by those giving utterance to them until the Lord inspires the meaning."

While sitting at a table writing letters the other day Miss Ozman's hands refused to write the characters of the English language. She tried and tried, but it was of no avail. Then unconsciously her hands formed the characters of some language, it is said, though she could not interpret the writing. While writing under this power the muscles of her hand contracted and worked spasmodically, and the writing made was a scrawl.

Rev. Parham, who has the gift of tongues, says he is inspired to talk the German language, and even while talking to persons in the college the other day he suddenly began talking German, and, again, later, he even spoke something which sounded like the Swedish language or something else like that.

Another man, Samuel Riggins, who lived for some time on East Eleventh street in Kansas City, is at the school, and he claims he can speak the Zulu language, so he is perhaps intended as a missionary for the Zulus.

But the strangest language spoken by any student yet is that by Miss Thistlethrate. Asked to speak in a foreign language, she said she felt no inspiration right then, but in a few minutes she began something which sounded like this:

"Euossa, Euossa, use, rela sema calah mala kanah leulla saga nalan. Ligle logle laule logle. Ene mine mo, sah rah el me sah rah me," meaning, it was translated, this: "Jesus is mighty to save," "Jesus is ready to hear," "God is love."

The male members are called "brothers." "Brother" Howard gave an example of his inspiration along the line of the gift of tongues, and his tongue ran rapidly from both ends, the words coming so swiftly he could hardly utter them. In fact, they were like a mighty oratorical flood, and he waved his arms and hands and gesticulated as though he were preaching to the gentiles and the Jews alike. He was speaking Hindoo, it was explained.

Mrs. S. E. Hackman, of 305 East Eleventh street, went with a party to Topeka a few weeks ago. They were there on New Year's eve. She said to a World reporter yesterday that Mrs. Ann Strine, of 1208 McGee street, had a brother, his wife and two children who had received the gift of tongues. While at Topeka she attended one meeting at the college that lasted nearly all night. Others from Kansas City in this school are: Mattie Horr, Joseph Horr and their four children, and Mr. and Mrs. Near and their son. A Miss Luella Moore has also been in the school two months. Geo. Thomas, who is said to live on Harrison street, was afflicted by having a rusty nail driven into his foot and thought to be crippled very badly. But he went to Topeka a few weeks ago, and the faith of this sect of people has cured him so that he walks without crutches.

Parham preaches here every two weeks. He will preach at 1675 Madison street tonight, Sunday morning, afternoon and night. A number of those who have received the gift of tongues will doubtless accompany him down from the Topeka school to attend these meetings.—The Kansas City World, January 15, 1901.

Stones Built in Ancient Wall May Be Used in Erecting New Capitol.

Jackson, Miss., November 29.—The officials of the state of Mississippi who are charged with superintending the construction of the new capitol, which is to cost $1,000,000, have had their attention called to a very excellent article of stone which is said to exist in inexhaustible quantities in the old wall extending from near Raymond, in the northern portion of this county, to Brandywine, some 40 miles to the southwest.

and it is possible a full investigation will be made before any contract for the stone work for the capitol is awarded.

The existence of this great wall has been known for many years, but all previous efforts to interest archaeologists and other scientists have proved futile, they having poo-hoed at the idea of any such prehistoric wonder in the great valley of the Mississippi. But the wall is there beyond all question, and so accustomed have the inhabitants of the vicinity become to its presence that their curiosity has become dulled and they have long since ceased to wonder as to its origin. It is conceded by every one who has ever seen the wall that this section of the country was inhabited several thousand years ago by a race of very superior beings.

As stated, the old wall is traceable for some 40 miles, but not without numerous breaks. Once the general direction is fixed, however, the explorer has little trouble in finding where it next crops above the surface. The average height of the wall above ground is only three or four feet in the most exposed places, but there is no telling how deeply imbedded are the bottom layers. In some level stretches, where the entire top of the wall is still above the surface, it is from ten to forty feet wide and as solid as it could have been when first built. The stones average six feet long, three feet wide and two feet thick, and are estimated to weigh from two to three tons. They are roughly but accurately squared and dressed, and imbedded in as fine an article of cement as any building of the present century could produce. So tightly and firmly are the great stones joined together that it requires considerable exertion with pick and crowbar to loosen them from their ancient beds.

Some four or five weeks ago Mr. T. C. Watson, a prominent citizen of Copiah county, wrote Governor Longino calling his attention to this great stone wall, and suggesting that the stone for building a score of such capitols as the state of Mississippi proposed to build could be had in the neighborhood of Brandywine, Claiborne county, where he stated the wall seemed to terminate in a great walled city, covering an area of about four square miles. This letter was accompanied by a rough drawing of the locality, and gave the dimensions of the stones, as stated above. Mr. Watson has seen the wall hundreds of times, having lived near it many years. The citizens of the Brandywine neighborhood refer to the so-called buried city as the "old quarry," from which for generations they have been in the habit of taking material for building chimneys or other structures where stone answered the purpose of brick.

Governor Longino has just received a piece of the stone, which was sent to him as a sample, and it is pronounced by all who have seen it as of the most excellent quality and different from any other stone found in this section of the country. The sample will be sent to the Smithsonian Institute for analysis, and if found to be as good and lasting as is believed here the new capitol will very probably be built of it.

A stone that will hold its surface, as this has done for perhaps thousands of years, seems to have demonstrated its value as a building material. So impressed of its value was the Governor that he has headed a list with a subscription of $100 toward investigating and exploring further into the mystery, and it is highly probable that the capitol commissioners will visit Brandywine county in a body at an early date.

Dr. T. B. Birdsong, of Hazlehurst, who is quite an enthusiast in matters of this kind, has done more exploring and investigating around and about this supposed buried city than any other man living. Fifteen years ago he made his first visit to the Brandywine quarry, and in speaking of that visit, which was in company with Colonel Louis J. Du Pre, who was counsel to one of the most important posts in Central America during Mr. Cleveland's first administration, and Messrs. Bridges and Stannes, two citizens of the neighborhood. Dr. Birdsong says: "Mr. Bridges secured the services of a negro and crowbar to demonstrate the manner of quarrying the stone. Standing on what we supposed to be the top of the wall, the man pounded at the rock till the blade of the crowbar bit into a seam. Then working the bar laterally, out rolled a perfect stone, almost a cube, from its ancient bed of cement, falling at our feet as if fresh from the stonecutter's hand."

"Towering above us 200 or 300 feet was a vast hill, topped with an oval summit like the capitol at Washington—this covered with great palm pines, primevals of the forest—and the wall runs under this hill. Quoth Colonel Du Pre: 'If that hill be the sediment of ages, how old must be this ruin!'"

"To uncover enough of this stone pile, so evidently artificial, so as to get a definite idea of the character, would take steam shovels and plows, pile-drivers and dynamite and a host of pick-axes and barrows. With minds made dizzy with speculation over the antiquity of this evident relic of prehistoric energy and art, we could only do what others have done before us, come away wondering, and I still wonder."

Colonel Du Pre was a man of means, and had delved into the mysteries of prehistoric mounds and cliff dwellers' homes in the West and in Central America to a considerable extent, and but for his death shortly after his visit to the "Brandywine quarry" the world might not now be so ignorant of this great wonder. Colonel Du Pre made an especial effort to discover from whence came the stone of which the great wall was constructed, but could not, there being nothing like it in that section of the country.

Some years later Dr. John B. Jewett, of Newtown, Ohio, made numerous inquiries by mail about this wall, and contributed several interesting articles to the scientific press on the subject. Among other things he said about it:

"There is strong probability, I think, that the locality of the Copiah wall itself is referred to in several Mexican legends at the remote pre-Mexican time. * * * If the American public can be convinced that there is in Mississippi a monument older than the pyramid of Cholula, and that a glimpse of its history and the strange people who built it is possible, they will surely make haste to rescue the ruins."

It is understood here that a party of archaeologists and other scientists are preparing to visit Mississippi for the purpose of exploring the old wall. If they do they will be given a cordial reception and rendered every assistance in the power of the people living in the vicinity. The wall is there. No one knows how it came nor by whom built.—Cincinnati Inquirer, December 2, 1900.

A Few Practical Health Thoughts From Up-to-date Authorities.

BY A. HAWES.

A man who possesses good health is always rich.

Health is an energetic man's capital, and he that continues to disobey physical, mental, or moral laws becomes a double bankrupt.

One may purify the blood more in a single day by breathing pure air than by taking sarsaparilla or any other blood purifier for a year.

"Tea and temper" are so often found associated as to afford good grounds for believing that they are closely related.

It is not what one eats that nourishes him, but what he digests.

A cold is much more easily avoided than cured.

A man who has a perfectly healthy skin is almost certain to be healthy in other respects. In no way can the health of the skin be preserved but by frequent bathing.

So-called "softening of the brain" is often hardening of the liver.

"A merry heart maketh a glad countenance;" but a sour stomach makes a wry face.

Correct habits of eating and drinking are of the utmost importance if we would keep the body in a state to serve us well.

No person can impose upon his stomach with impurity; sooner or later punishment will follow, as the result of physical transgression.

Intense mental activity, or severe physical exercise, soon after eating, hinder the digestive process.

Nature makes no provision for digesting more than her proper wants demand.

It is a mistaken idea that foods made rich with fats are the most nourishing. Really "rich" foods are those which contain a large proportion of the essential food elements in a condition in which they may be easily assimilated.

Liquid of any kind, taken at meals in large quantities, is prejudicial to digestion, because it delays the action of the gastric juice, weakens its digestive qualities, and overtaxes the absorbents.

The nourishing quality of any food depends upon its digestibility as much as upon its nutritive elements.

Eating between meals is a gross breach of the requirements of good digestion. The habit many have of eating fruit, confectionary, nuts, sweetmeats, etc., between meals, is a certain cause of dyspepsia.

The royal road to health leads not by the road of big pills or little pills, or purgatives or patent medicines, but by the homely road of correct habits.

The best brain food is that which will make the best blood, and thus most efficiently nourish the body in general.

Every individual should consider the hour for meals a sacred one, not to be intruded upon under any ordinary circumstances. The habit of regularity in eating ought to be cultivated early in life.

All the medicines in creation are not worth a farthing to a man who is constantly and habitually violating the laws of his own nature.

The simplest food is, as a rule, the most healthful.

If we would keep the mind free and vigorous, we must preserve a healthy state of digestion.

An unstimulating, abstemious diet is the strongest of all the allies of virtue.

Air is food for the lungs as bread is food for the stomach. More millions of people die from want of lung food than from a deficiency of other aliment.

Half the men and women who complain of sleeplessness have done nothing to entitle them to the use of "nature's sweet restorer."

For poor sleepers, a half hour's exercise taken a short time before retiring, will often act like a soporific.

Physical culture is the sovereign remedy for most human maladies.

When the vital status is raised the morbid conditions, engendered by neglect and ignorance, are left out, and the individual exists on a higher physical plane.

The Hindoo devotees, who, in blind zeal for his religion, holds out his arm until the muscles shrink and shrivel up, leaving the arm but a useless appendage of the body, violates the law of nature which demands exercise for health, no more than does the student who shuts himself up with his books until his limbs grow lank and thin, and his fingers bony with physical idleness; and the latter acts no more wisely in sacrificing himself upon the shrine of learning, than the other in deforming himself to appease the wrath or win the favor of Buddha.

Never use the eyes when they are tired or painful, nor with an insufficient or dazzling light; lamps should be shaded.

Always let the light fall upon the object viewed, from over the left shoulder if possible: it should never come in front.

Never read on the cars, when riding in a wagon or street car, or when lying down.

Never play tricks with the eyes, as squinting or rolling them.

The way of the transgressor is hard, whether the law infringed belongs to the physical or the moral code.

Every human being produces on an average, more than four barrels of carbonic acid gas each day.

Pain stands as a lighthouse to warn navigators on the sea of life whenever they are approaching the shoals of overfed idleness, the rough breakers of neglect and general disregard of nature's laws, or the giddy whirlpool of passions stimulated and gratified.

Health getting is a process of development, like the growth of a tree, or the raising of a crop of grain. We must sow the seeds today, in right habits of life and a correct regimen, and weeks, months, or years hence we shall reap the harvest.

Diseases are seldom inherited, but tendencies to disease are often transmitted from parents to children. By beginning early in life, these inherited tendencies may be extinguished.

Pure air is the first and last desideratum of human life.

God's oxygen is the best tonic known.

Nothing relieves thirst like water.

Sunshine is one of nature's most potent remedies. It cures more diseases than the whole category of patent medicines.

Thousands of people are cured at mineral springs, of rheumatism, neuralgia, "biliousness," and a dozen other diseases which result from dissipation and gormandizing, not by the bad tasting minerals and worse smelling gases in the water, but by the water, in spite of its impurities. More water drinking at home and less beer guzzling, tobacco smoking and French cookery, would cure a vastly greater number and ruin the mineral water business in six months.

One of the most mischievous errors current in modern times is the popular notion that a man may transgress all the laws of health with impunity, and then swallow a few drops of medicine and antidote all the results of his evil habits. Diseases are far less frequently cured by remedies than most people, and indeed many physicians, suppose. When a sick person gets well, it is usually because he has reformed from his evil ways, and nature has ceased to punish him for his physical sin; nature cures whenever there is a cure. It has been suggested by a very wise physician that it may be that remedies hinder as often as they aid in recovery. And it may be that patients get well in spite of remedies which are applied outside and inside, almost as often as by the aid of them.

When we hear a man extolling this remedy for disease, and claiming that he has been cured in some magical way, of a disorder generally conceded to be incurable, let us remember that there is a very great difference between being well and feeling well. There is a very large class of remedies, the effect of which is to make a sick man feel better, but which have no real influence upon the progress of the disease, unless it be to hasten it by using up the patient's vitality, and deluding him into the foolish expenditures of strength, under the belief that he is well, when he is really no better, but only feels better.

The man who has good health has golden wealth, though his pocketbook is thin, and his bill of fare a crust.

A quaint old Dutch physician who flourished nearly two centuries ago, had great faith in the mechanical cure of diseases. It was a favorite saying of his, that more patients would be cured by climbing a bitterwood tree, than by drinking a disgusting decoction of its leaves.

There is a most intimate relation between health and morality. We have long held that a great share of the crime among civilized people might be fairly charged to bad physical conditions, which, by impairing the physical health, lowers the nerve tone, and then the moral tone, so that there is not a proper appreciation of moral principles and obligations. Is not this a means of explaining those strong lapses from rectitude on the part of men whose character has previously been for a lifetime above reproach, which now and then so sparkle and shock the moral sense of the community. A writer has suggested that the unhappy condition of John Calvin's stomach may have been the real cause of the burning of Servetus; and there is probably no doubt that many a poor fellow has swung from the gallows because the judge had a fit of indigestion.

Acids that are Death to Cholera.

The acid of lemons and oranges is fatal to the cholera bacillus. Even if placed upon the rinds of the fruit the germs will not survive longer than a day.—Feb. Ladies' Home Journal.

The House We Keep.

Professor Ellen H. Richards, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has arranged to supply THE DELINEATOR with six articles in relation to various problems of housekeeping. The first article appears in the February number and is devoted to "The House We Keep," touching in a general way on the details of house arrangements. Just one sentence will illustrate the line of her thought. She says: "The educated woman of the twentieth century will plan her kitchen before she settles upon her parlor."

To Cure a Child of Stuttering.

The child that stutters must be gently, patiently and persistently corrected, stopped when he begins to hesitate, made to fill the lungs with air by a deep inhalation, and then to pronounce the difficult syllables until he can do so easily and smoothly. If this course is pursued undeviatingly cure is certain.—December Ladies' Home Journal.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. GURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 146, Lee's Summit, Mo.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Fricke, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 313 1/2 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

I WANT to make an appeal to the mothers and daughters of Zion to contribute more of their experience, thoughts and counsel to these columns. We have many beautiful things that have been taken from other literature, but we want a little more of each other, our living, breathing selves here. Mothers, who have reared a family of sons and daughters, let us all have the benefit of your experience. Let us also know how YOU made your home happy; it is sure to help somebody. Let the girls and boys take up their share of distributing what knowledge they may have gained along those lines that we, as Latter Day Saints, desire to progress. It should be your concern as well as that of older ones. Do not wait until you think you are prepared to write something that will set Latter Day Saint tongues wagging with its brilliancy, but bring to this altar that which you have received of the Lord, for we all have one talent, and be sure it will be as acceptable as was the widow's mite of which Christ said, "She hath given more than you all."

WHILE I am not a member of the Daughters of Zion, I read your columns and am very much pleased with the wisdom in which they have been written. Surely this will be a blessing to mankind, for many of us can look back on our youthful lives and see where we fell short of making things brighter and pleasanter than we did, especially for mother.

I was very much pleased with the article to the girls on helping mother and making her happy, and I thought I would write a little piece for the young men and boys, as I trust there are a good many who read the ENSIGN.

Young men, respect your mother, she who has had the care of you more than all the rest of the family; speak to her with that respect that she is entitled to as your mother, and not with that familiarity with which you would address your wife or your sister. When you are away from home do not put in all your time writing to your sweetheart. Remember mother appreciates letters from her absent boy more than a sweetheart does, for the evening or solitary time is coming to mother when shadows lie long upon her pathway. See to it that some of the sunshine of your youth comes into her life. You have no idea how mother loves you and how willing her hands are to do something for her son. Many a night while you were asleep has mother stayed up to work for you, when she should have been the one to take the rest. Do not forget the birthdays nor anniversaries that mother has the same as the rest. When you are buying a present for the young maiden who has won your heart, do not put all you have to spare into one fine present, but divide your surplus and get mother a present too, even if it is not so fine as the one you get for your sweetheart. You may rest assured that she will appreciate the love that prompted you to get it, for she will know that you do not forget her even though you are in love with another. Take her to drive or to church occasionally. A mother is entitled to the same gallantry as a sweetheart, and be sure your chances will not suffer. Every woman trusts a

HEART TREATMENT FREE

TO EACH READER, FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., L. B. B., TR. CHICAGO HEART SPECIALIST, WILM. ST. 250 WORTH OF HIS NEW INDIVIDUAL TREATMENT FREE.

That Dr. Miles is one of the most successful and reliable of specialists is proven by hundreds of testimonials from well known people. One patient cured after failure of eleven Grand Rapids physicians, two after having been given up by six or seven Chicago physicians, another after nine of the leading doctors in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago failed.

A thousand and more flattering testimonials as to Dr. Miles' moral character and unusual skill, from Bishops, Physicians, Clergymen, Mayors, Farmers, etc., will be sent upon request. For years an extensive corps of trained assistants have aided him in his investigations, every State, Territory, Canada and Mexico, as well as South America, Africa and New Zealand are represented among his thousands of patients.

The late Prof. J. S. Jewell, M. D., advised Dr. Miles to "by all means publish your surprising results." Prof. J. F. Ross, M. D., President of Rush Medical College, wrote in 1874: "Dr. Miles has taken two courses of my private instruction in diseases of the heart." Col. N. G. Parker, Ex-Treasurer of South Carolina, says: "I believe Dr. Miles to be an attentive and skillful physician in a field which requires the best qualities of head and heart." Col. A. M. Tucker, late General Manager of N. Y., L. E. & W. system of railways, says: "Dr. Miles' success as a physician has been phenomenal."

When an experienced physician offers to prescribe free treatment for diseases of the heart, nerves, stomach, or dropsy, it is conclusive evidence that he has great faith in his skill. And women freely testify to his unusual skill and the superiority of his New Individual Treatment, his liberality is certainly worthy of serious consideration.

The Doctor's new system of treatment is thoroughly scientific and immensely superior to the ordinary methods. As all afflicted readers may have seen, the free treatment especially prescribed for each case, free, with full directions, we would advise them to send for a Copyrighted Examination Chart at once. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 291 to 299 State St., Chicago.

(Please mention this paper.)

In Renewing your subscription, don't fail to add 25 cents for "Daily Ensign" during the coming General Conference, commencing April 6, 1901.

A QUESTION.

GEO. W. ROBLEY.

If a sinner is repentant,
Crushed beneath a weight of woe,
Lifting up his eyes expectant,
Will the Lord forsake him? No!

If he pass beyond death's portal,
Where confined in chains of night
Spirits are, who once were mortal,
Praying for a ray of light,

Will the Lord, our great Creator,
Cease to feel for those He made,
And forget the Mediator,
Who the debt on Calvary paid.

If through suffering, obedience learning,
Then he turns his heart to God,
By experience truth discerning,
And begins to love His word,

Will the Father who is reigning,
In His realm of endless light,
Still allow the awful chaining
Of a soul that flees the night?

General Church Recorder's Notice.

Since the notice by the Church Recorder in Herald and Ensign last June there has been more than usual promptness in forwarding the reports of branches soon after the district conferences. The results that nearly all of the branches in the United States and Canada are on the general records according to their latest reports.

And many branch and district clerks have been prompt and efficient in answering inquiries for corrections of names of persons and places and of dates of birth, baptism and ordination, also of marriages, deaths and other particulars. But others have not attended to the matters enquired about, therefore corrections cannot be made in those records where uncertainty exists upon these points of difference.

Wherefore, again appeal is made to those who have deferred attention, or have been careless in the matter. We need help in order that a perfect agreement may be had between branch records, district records, and general records, and that when they do agree they may be right and correct as to names, places and dates.

We have now to say that excepting in that the branches of Western Wales have reported up to August, 1900, there has been no change in the situation outlined in the "Recorder's Notice" last June, as to the branches in England and Wales. But it would be a great favor to us and to the church in general if there came to us complete corrections of the branches in Birmingham, Manchester, and Sheffield districts up to January 1, 1901, also from Wales. Possibly some reports may be on the way now.

Bro. J. F. Burton and J. W. Peterson have written about the situation in the Society Islands; the latter assisting Bro. Bohemiet to some degree. He writes that prospects are favorable that full corrections will appear by and by.

Probably reports from Australia and Honolulu are now coming over the sea and will arrive in time.

Most of the branches in Canada have been well reported, and the district clerks are also faithful. The same may be said of nearly all the districts and branches in the United States, even though very many differences or errors are found to exist. But, by care and patience, these are overcome in time. However, many small branches have not been reported and they need attention by the district officers, that they may make out reports of gains and losses for the records. Where branches have not been reported for some time their books should be examined and an effort be made to learn of the deaths of members, that such may be recorded more promptly than has been the case sometimes.

Concerning the United States: By my table of districts and their conference times, I find that the reports of Central California for April and October have not arrived, the last received being for October, 1899.

Of other October reports the only ones now lacking are those from Kewanee, Spring River, Kirland and Northern Michigan, the latter being kept by the district clerk for correction before sending in.

The September reports of the New York district have not come.

There are lacking, but expected, the reports from Eastern Maine, Oklahoma, and Northeast Texas and Choctaw, all for December.

Although the Virginia district has held at least two conferences, there have no branch reports been sent in by the officers. If they will now attend to this matter it will be well.

There are also branches in no organized districts that should send us full accounts of gains and losses, such as Ingleside, Martin's Creek, Slady Grove, and Drew county in Arkansas; Evergreen, Birkhorn, Olive and Pine Cliffs, in Nebraska; Amanda, Ohio; Scranton, Pennsylvania; Bottineau and Star of Hope, North Dakota; Marshall, Salem, and Pleasant Valley, South Dakota; Louisville, Kentucky; South Pittsburg, Tennessee; Rockwalton, Virginia; Gilman, Spokane, Lake Park, Roslyn, Seattle, and Castle Rock, Washington; Hope and Condon, Oregon. Especial attention should be paid to reporting the deaths that have occurred, inquiry being made as to scattering members, and their residence if living.

In closing will say that on the present edition of branch report forms is printed a copy of Sections 173 and 174 of the "Book of Rules," pertaining to "Church Records" and "Branch Reports," so that all branch officers may be informed as to the use and disposal of said reports of branches. This, with the printed instructions of the Church Recorder, should make it easy for any one to fill out reports properly, and to know what to do with them afterwards.

We will be glad to aid any in perfecting their accounts as well as our own, and will be thankful for assistance to this purpose, because we believe that the Lord wishes order in these things, as in all others.

Respectfully submitted to all throughout the church who should be concerned and interested.

H. A. STEPHENS,
General Church Recorder.
LAMONI, Ia., Jan. 10.

First Quorum of Elders.

On January 2d we mailed to each member of the First Quorum of Elders a circular letter requesting an immediate reply. We have received many replies, but there are yet many to hear from. And from the fact that but one has been returned "uncalled for" and, too, that each bore my return request, I conclude that they were delivered. Brethren, may we not hear from you? In case you have not yet received the letter, write me for another. Up to January 21st the following have not been heard from: Joseph Boswell, Horace Bartlett, Dr. J. H. Hanson, Thomas Whiting, Wm. Newton, R. Mackenzie, W. F. Seward, David S. Holmes, C. W. Hawkins, Stephen Butler, Amazon Badham, Amos B. Moore, F. L. Sawley, George Daley, S. O. Waddell, M. B. Williams, L. W. Torrence, Moses McHarness, H. E. Durlay, C. S. Yerrington, Chas. E. Crumley, Wm. A. Moore, Frank P. Scarellif, Edwin Stafford, H. C. Brunson, Enos J. French, Marcus Shaw, E. A. Bakesley, Wm. Farley, James W. Smith, A. E. Elliott, S. G. Cunningham, A. E. Durand, Isaac Carlile.

Any one knowing of the death of any of the above named brethren will confer a favor by reporting the same to me. May we hear from all soon. A little more delay will defeat the whole object of getting these circular letters out. In bonds,

T. A. HOUGAS, Sec. of Quorum.
Henderson, Iowa.
MACEDONIA, Iowa, Jan. 21.

Notice to all Sunday School Workers.

The blackboard and object lessons that were advertised in the Saints' Herald and Zion's Ensign will be ready for mailing by February 1, 1901. There are twenty designs in all, and a charge of fifty cents is made for them to defray the expense of the material used in getting them made and mailed.

Those who have sent me their orders, will now please send me fifty cents and the twenty designs will be forwarded to you postage prepaid. I have made a number of extra copies so that I am prepared to fill more orders than I have yet received. Those who desire to take advantage of this opportunity will please send in their orders at once to the undersigned. Thanking all who have responded and hoping to hear from many more, I remain,

Your co-laborer in gospel bonds,
F. M. PRYR.
258 N. Troy St., Chicago, Ill.

Conference Notices.

The Independence, Missouri, district conference will convene at Independence, March 9 and 10, 1901, at 10 a. m. Delegates to General Conference are to be elected and much other business of importance is to be transacted and a good representation from all the branches is desired. We would also like to have a correct statistical report from all the branches in the district. Please mail reports, both statistical and ministerial, to D. F. WINN, 2306 Bellefontaine Avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

D. ROBY WINN, Dist. Sec.

The Massachusetts district conference will convene February 23, 1901, at Providence, Rhode Island, 2:30 p. m. Branch clerks are kindly requested to have statistical reports in my hands not later than February 10, 1901. Only Conference appointees and district officers need report. Let as many as possible come together on this occasion with a determination to make our first session of the new century the keynote of our future expectations and show our willingness toward promoting the "hastening time," proving God at His promises.

M. C. FISHER, Dist. Clerk.
39 Hudson St., Somerville, Mass.

Conference of the Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, district will convene at Wheeling, West Virginia, March 2, 1901, at 2 o'clock p. m. Presidents of branches will please see that reports are duly made out and sent to the undersigned at 435 Sixth avenue, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, not later than February 25th. Give full report of resident and scattered members. All brethren holding the priesthood are requested to send reports to same address. The brethren residing in Johnstown, Pennsylvania, are in this district and will please report. Appointment of delegates to General Conference to be attended to, etc. Let there be a good attendance at this conference, and bring the Spirit of the Master with you. The Wheeling Saints are preparing to entertain all visitors.

EDW. E. OMOLENDRO, Sec.

Convention Notices.

The Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, district Sunday School Association will convene at Wheeling, West Virginia, on Friday evening, March 1, 1901, at 7:30 o'clock for business and such other matter as may be of interest. There will be a session on Saturday at 9:30 a. m. General Superintendent T. A. HOUGAS will be present. All Sunday School officers and teachers in the district are expected to be present, as also all others who are interested in the progress of the work. A good program has been arranged for the occasion. School reports to be sent to the undersigned not later than February 25th; also reports of officials. L. A. SERRO, Dist. Sec.

4024 Eoff St., Wheeling, W. Va.

The District Z. R.-L. S. of Spring River district, will meet at Webb City, Monday, March 4th. This is the Monday following the Spring River district conference.

M. S. PRICK, Dist. Sec.
JOPLIN, Mo., Jan. 21.

The Des Moines district Sunday School will meet in convention at Des Moines, Friday morning, February 8th. Local secretaries who have not sent in their reports will please do so immediately. An especial effort is being made to make this convention one long to be remembered.

BESSY R. LAUGHLIN, Dist. Sec.
OLIVET, Iowa, Jan. 21.

District convention of the Sunday School and Religion will convene at St. Louis, Saturday evening, February 9th, at 7 o'clock. An interesting and instructive program prepared for each session, of Saturday and Sunday evening.

J. J. BILLINSKY,
Supt. Dist. S. S.
ETTA M. HITCHCOCK,
Pres. Dist. Religion.

The Far West Sunday School convention will convene at St. Joseph, March 15, 1901, at 10:30 a. m., and the following program will be rendered:

"The Mistakes of Sunday School Superintendents," Will Flanders. "The Mistakes of Sunday School Teachers and What Qualifications are Necessary to Make One a Successful Teacher," Sr. Lehman. Music. "How to Cast An Influence on the World Through the Sunday School," Ruby Bean. "Benefits to be Derived From Attending Conventions," Sr. Taddick. A ten minutes talk by Bro. Sven Swenson. Music. "How Can the Teacher Best Obtain and Hold the Attention of the Class," C. P. Faul. "Our Boys," Walter Smith. "A Model Sunday School," Susie Wolf.

Let all come prepared that we may have a profitable time.

C. J. GRAYEN, Dist. Supt.
GRACE CONSTANCE, Sec.
KINGSTON, Mo., Jan. 19.

BORN.

RENEAU.—At Tryon, Nebraska, January 14, 1900, to Mr. Landon and Sr. Lillie Reneau, a son. Blessed January 14, 1901, by Elder C. H. Porter and named Floyd.

RICHARDS.—At North Platte, Nebraska, March 15, 1900, to Bro. Joseph and Sr. L. M. Richards, a son. Blessed March 25, 1900, by Elder C. H. Porter, and named Joseph.

MORANT.—At North Platte, Nebraska, June 20, 1900, to Bro. Samuel and Sr. Jessie Morant, a daughter. Blessed July 4, 1900, by Elder C. H. Porter, and named Mabel.

NEWBERRY.—Near Tryon, Nebraska, May 28, 1900, to Mr. John and Mrs. Mabel Newberry, a daughter. Blessed January 14, 1901, by Elder C. H. Porter, and named Ethel.

RENEAU.—At Tryon, Nebraska, September 29, 1898, to Mr. Landon and Sr. Lillie Reneau, a daughter. Blessed January 14, 1901, by Elder C. H. Porter, and named Jennie.

STODDARD.—Near North Platte, Nebraska, July 20, 1899, to Bro. Wm. and Sr. Ida Stoddard, a son. Blessed at Tryon, January 14, 1901, by Elder C. H. Porter, and named Alma.

BARRETT.—Near Hurdy, Nebraska, January 20, 1900, to Mr. Marion and Sr. Jennie Barrett, a daughter. Blessed near Hebron, Nebraska, September 9, 1900, by Elders C. H. Porter and J. W. Wadsworth, and named Lilian Jane.

MARRIED.

(One dollar must accompany these notices when other than the plain announcement is desired. No descriptive information will be inserted.)

HUTCHEN-GARRISON.—At the Saints' church at Louella, Waukegan, Missouri, at 11 a. m., January 27, 1901, Bro. Robert L. Hutchen and Miss Stella Garrison, Priest Walter W. Smith officiating.

DIED.

(One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.)

SIMMONS.—Near Cameron, Missouri, January 8, 1901, Bro. Samuel Simmons, while sitting in his chair, suddenly fell over and expired. A

A PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR POWDER

DR. PRICE'S

PRICE'S

CREAM

BAKING

POWDER

Highest Honors, World's Fair Gold Medal, Midwinter Fair

Avoid Baking Powders containing Alumina. They are injurious to health.

kind husband, loving father, and faithful friend; a man of sterling worth who was ever ready to help others even at his own disadvantage; one whose daily life was a living epistle, who practiced the golden rule, has thus been called to another sphere. Wife, two daughters, one son and other relatives are left to mourn. Deceased was 62 years, 3 months and 12 days old at time of death. Sermon by Elder Sven Swenson, assisted by Benjamin Duen.

BOYES.—At Independence, Missouri, January 22, 1901, Sr. Mary Boyes, aged 60 years and 9 months. She was born in St. Louis, Missouri, May 3, 1840, and moved with her parents, Thomas and Grace K. Gawley to Canada, where she married Mr. John Lewis, who died in 1869. She subsequently married Mr. Edmund Boyes, who departed this life January 18, 1875, at Carrollton, Missouri, where the family had moved in 1868. Deceased with her family came to Independence in 1878, where they have since resided. Grace, who died aged 11, and Bro. John E. Lewis were born to her first marriage. Four were born to her last union, of whom Sr. P. J. Canady and Bro. Joseph Boyes of Independence survive her. She was "faithful unto death." Funeral from Saints' church, January 23d; sermon by Elder W. H. Garrett.

ON GUARD

The warning cough is the faithful sentinel. It tells of the approach of consumption, which has killed more people than war and pestilence combined. It tells of painful chests, sore lungs, weak throats, bronchitis, and pneumonia. Do not suffer another day. It's useless, for there's a prompt and safe cure. It is

Ayer's

Cherry

Pectoral

which cures fresh colds and coughs in a single night and masters chronic coughs and bronchitis in a short time. Consumption is surely and certainly prevented, and cured, too, if taken in time.

A 25c. bottle for a fresh cold; 50c. size for older colds; $1 size for chronic coughs and consumption.

"I never keep a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral on hand. When every time I get cold I take a little of it and I'm better at once."
—JAMES H. BROWN,
Oct. 10, 1893. El Paso, Texas.

Write the Doctor. If you have any complaint whatever and desire the best medical advice, write the Doctor freely. Address
Dr. J. C. Ayer, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1901

NUMBER 6.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our files.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferred for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

RELIGION AS A "BUSINESS."

To a close observer it is a very patent fact that in many of the various sectarian bodies today the "pews" dominate the "pulpit." That is, the laymen prescribe the policy to be pursued, and the pastor soon learns that it is they, not the Christ, whom he must serve if he wishes to continue in their employ. Of course, the Lord is the ostensible object of service, but the hard-headed—which usually may also be written hard-hearted—man of business, the successful man of the world, has undertaken to have things in his church run about as he thinks proper, and the policies which have served to make him so prosperous in his temporal affairs, are made to do service in his religious interests, and the pastor, having these policies outlined to him, is required to work along those lines towards success, just the same as any other clerk or employee of the "man of business" has to do.

How different the condition of the pastor in these fashionable societies to that occupied by the man sent of God to minister for the people's welfare. In olden times the people gathered willingly to hear what the Lord had to say to them. They who professed to serve God received the word gladly, and strove to honor the wisdom and loving kindness of the Father by carrying out the instructions revealed for their guidance and benefit, instead of treating it lightly or trying to invent some excuse for not heeding the commandments of the Lord. But now when the Spirit of revelation from God is despised, and men prefer to seek to understand the things of God by the "spirit of man" which is in them, applying "business methods," and worldly wisdom to the things of the Spirit, the results "hinted" at in the following editorial from The Kansas City (Missouri) Star of Sunday, February 3d, are the natural fruits. It is true that much good may be accomplished by systematic work in spiritual as well as in secular affairs, and the greatest success is possible of attainment only when persistent, methodical lines are followed, but it is not, nor cannot be accomplished by pursuing the policies that are generally adopted by the successful man of the world. The Spirit of Christ—in which His work must be prosecuted to realize the benefits intended to be enjoyed by the obedient—and the spirit of the world are at entire variance in their work and its effects. Here is the article referred to above:

CONFESSIONS OF A MINISTER'S WIFE.

A book on the experiences of a minister of twenty years' service would probably make interesting reading. It would show the curious and hidden forces at work in every church, the jealousies that arise, the operations of the ecclesiastical machine. A clergyman's wife writing her "Confessions" for the Atlantic Monthly gives a hint of what might be expected from a frank autobiography of a pastor. As a result of her observations she is convinced that a clergyman—she does not specify of what denomination—is AS MUCH HAMPED BY PRECEDENT AND THE PRESSURE OF THE DENOMINATIONAL ORGANIZATION, AS A CITY'S MAYOR IS BY THE CHARTER AND BY THE CLAIMS OF HIS PARTY. The extent and power of the influences brought to bear upon a minister are not appreciated by the members of his congregation. Only a few of them are known to any one layman.

The ordinary church goes usually regards the life of his pastor as comparatively plain sailing. He is expected to prepare two sermons a week, to preside at the weekly prayer meeting, to officiate at weddings and funerals, and to pay occasional visits to his parishioners. In city churches, where congregations are large, pastoral visits are not expected, except in cases of sickness. In the eyes of the very many persons the clergyman's duties are reduced to the preparation of discourses, to which he brings a mind untroubled by cares over finance or by other anxieties. Even the difficulties of preparing a sermon which is suited to the varied requirements of a large audience of all ages and conditions are frequently minimized.

The path of the clergyman is not nearly so clear as the layman supposes. The question of finance is at all times a pressing one and its chief burden is on the pastor. The church is the first organization to feel the effect of bad times, for economy in benevolences comes easy. It is the last to receive the impetus of prosperity. There is continual pressure for outside gifts. A church is expected to contribute its quota to the denomination's charities, and when it falls below its accustomed place, reproachful looks are cast on the minister. There are usually parties of loose and strict sectarians in every church. One is anxious that the organization be well represented in the many denominational charities of the city or town. The other resents every contribution made outside denominational benevolences. The minister must try to adopt a policy that will offend neither of these factions. In any case his eloquence is depended on to foot the bills. Good audiences of the right sort of people mean increased contributions. There is always more or less financial pressure on a minister to preach sensational sermons that will advertise himself and his church.

In addition to this, mere numbers count much in the minds of the brethren and sisters who assiduously read the denominational statistics in the year book. For this reason names of members who have moved away are frequently retained on the church rolls, so that the membership list will make a good showing. A minister who purges the list has to face a reduction in his membership, and he must bear the odium which attaches to the falling off. For the same reason, additions to the church are eagerly sought. These are not announced as so many souls, but are divided into men and women, and the writer in the Atlantic suggests that one of the former is usually more prized than two or three of the latter. In city churches quality as well as quantity of membership is carefully watched by the elders. A wealthy New Yorker, an ex-cabinet member, was once complaining to his pastor of the condition of the church. "We have had two hundred additions during the last five years," protested the minister. "But, my dear doctor," answered the other, "who are these people?"

The influence of the ecclesiastical machine is most potent in connection with the changes in theology. In certain denominations the conservative element controls the church papers and the governing bodies. For a minister of not extraordinary ability a path to promotion lies along the lines of conservatism. The pressure is to conform to the accepted beliefs whether they approve themselves to him or not. If he comes to be regarded as a "dangerous" man he loses favor with a large portion of the powerful conservative element. Unless he has striking ability the door of advancement is closed to him and he runs the risk of losing his present charge. If he conforms to the ideas of the machine he is in favor with the influential classes, extracts from his sermons are quoted approvingly in the denominational paper, and it publishes his picture. In certain other denominations the liberal element has captured the machine of the denominational organization, and controls the influential religious papers. In such cases the pressure is to make the minister suppress beliefs which he really cherishes, and proclaim ideas which he cannot fully approve.

The fact that pressure of all sorts is brought to bear on a minister is no indication that he yields to it. But so much the more credit is due to the earnest, sincere clergyman, who preaches the truth as he sees it, who espouses no facts, and does not proclaim this doctrine and suppress that because of the effect on his own popularity. That fearless sincerity frequently brings its own compensation, is seen in churches in every town where the members unite in the support of their pastor. The difficulties of the ministry are great, but so are its rewards. [Emphasis all ours.—Ed. ENSIGN.]

How does such a state of affairs appeal to you, ye servants of Christ? you who have been instructed to go and teach the gospel, with the understanding that when you have faithfully preached its truths, and endeavored to make the people understand their duty therein, that your responsibility ceased at that point and that of the hearer began. Such a condition as the above article describes would not be possible if a man's living was not made contingent upon his ability to please the membership of his church rather than that of pleasing the Lord, who framed the plan of salvation, and authorized its promulgation. The apostle, on two occasions (Eph. 6: 6; Col. 3: 22), admonished his brethren who were employed as servants that they should give service not simply to please their employers, but that their faithfulness and diligence in the performance of duty should be rendered because they were the children of God, and desired to please Him. This is the language employed regarding this matter in Ephesians 6: 6-8:

Servants, be obedient to them that are your masters according to the flesh, with fear and trembling, in singleness of your heart, as unto Christ. Not with eye service, as men-pleasers; but as the servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart; with good will doing service, as to the Lord, and not to men: Knowing that whatsoever good thing any man doeth, the same shall he receive of the Lord, whether he be bond or free.

If men in secular affairs, who profess to be followers of Christ, are required by their allegiance to the principles of truth to render service, not merely as men-pleasers, but as pleasing God, how infinitely greater is the duty pressing upon the ambassadors of Christ, His representatives on the earth, to perform those duties with an eye wholly single to His glory. And if such service offends their fellow men, they are not responsible so long as their work is approved of the Master—of that, however, they should be convinced, because they are acting according to His will revealed for their guidance. It is not surprising that the Savior reminded His hearers that mere lip service was an abhorrence to Him, when referring to Isaiah's prophecy (Isa. 29: 13). He declared:

Ye hypocrites, well did Esaias prophesy of you, saying, This people draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoreth me with their lips; but their heart is far from me. But in vain they do worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men, for as another translation reads, "Teaching the doctrines and commandments of men."—Matthew 15: 8, 9.

The need for a heaven inspired ministry, men authorized of God to teach the principles of eternal truth, is thus emphasized. When these minister's preach, they preach as men who have authority, and their ministrations receive the seal of heaven's approval in the signs of the gospel following, giving assurance to those who accept and obey the gospel that God is with His servants, and will fulfill all His promises to His children. The Lord's plan is the best, and most satisfactory in its results.

QUEEN VICTORIA.

The following fine tribute to the memory of the good queen who so long ruled over a great nation is taken from the New York City Scientific American of last week. It is so fitting a recognition of her excellent qualities that we believe our readers will appreciate its sentiments as we do. One account of her life's ambitions stated that she had a desire to live until the coming of the Savior that she might literally "cast her crown at His feet."

VICTORIA.

As a journal devoted to the interests of the arts and sciences, we offer our tribute of respect to the august sovereign, whose reign of three score and three years, just closed, has witnessed an advancement of mankind in the arts of peace for which there is no parallel in the history of the world.

How far the manifold virtues of the Queen conducted to the industrial pre-eminence of the people over whom she ruled—a pre-eminence which is only now being challenged—is a matter of conjecture; but if, as some affirm, the stability of a nation is to be measured by the purity and strength of its home life, we may well believe that to this noble lady, who was at once a model mother, wife, widow and Queen, much of England's greatness is due.

In an age which is, it is supposed to be, less sympathetic and more cynical than any that preceded it, there is something profoundly reassuring in the universal wave of regret that swept around the world with the tidings of her death: for in the instantaneous and unsolicited display of sympathy that broke forth, as in this city, in a thousand half-masted flags, we see the impulsive tributes of this twentieth century world to a lady who, amid the unbounded opportunities for display and self-aggrandizement that surrounded her throughout the sixty-three long years of her reign, preferred always to be queenly among women rather than queenly among queens. Yet she was both; and it is in the happy commingling of her public and private virtues that she has won the love of her people and the profoundest respect of the civilized world.

A FUND NEEDED.

We frequently receive requests from brethren and sisters to forward the ENSIGN, free of charge, to some one or more whom they designate as being worthy, and to whom the ENSIGN would be a benefit, but who, through force of circumstances, are unable to pay for it themselves. While these appeals touch our sympathies and we would be glad to comply with them if it were in our power, the management have been compelled to decline such requests for the sake of the interests the church has committed to them. If it was but one or two, of a dozen for that matter, the case would be different, but when one such appeal is honored, who shall say where the limit is to be placed, and why should the request of one be regarded, and another, perhaps equally as forceful and worthy, be disregarded?

It will be readily seen that if the ENSIGN extended its free list in this manner, it would soon become a losing institution, and instead of a gain at the end of the year, which is an absolute necessity to pay off its indebtedness, we would have a loss to make up from some quarter; from what source would it come? The management have, therefore, made it a rule to decline all these requests, making no discrimination. It appears to them that the best way to care for cases of the kind referred to is for each branch to raise the small amount required by a collection or for an individual who has cognizance of a worthy person needing the church papers, to solicit small contributions from their friends until the amount needed is raised, thus giving a number the privilege of assisting in a good work.

There is still another way by which these demands may be met, and that is for those who may be prospered in temporal things to contribute to a fund for this purpose. We shall be glad to receive remittances for such a fund. Who will be first to start it? There is an opportunity here for doing a good work which will bring many returns to the donors as well as the recipients. Shall we hear promptly from a number so that we may supply some of these requests without delay?

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

J. WM. ALLEN, New Windsor, Illinois, Feb. 2:

Everything seems to be quiet here at present, prejudice seems to be quiet just now, but will spring up when the people of God sound their trumpets once more. But I am thankful that the tent meetings of last summer did some good; four precious souls have obeyed the gospel since the tent was here, and more are interested.

SR. CALLIE HICKS, Hunt, Arkansas:

Elder W. S. Macrae was here about two months ago and preached for us awhile. He is the man to send among strangers; is a man who makes friends and is not ashamed or backward about the important business on which the Lord has sent him. He prints his advertising bill, puts them up and scatters literature ahead of his preaching. He had good hearings, good attention and has caused many to read, talk and dispute. Many say, "That is the best preaching we ever heard." God alone knows what will be the result. The brother did his work well. Pray for me.

ELDER W. S. MACRAE, Saffillo, Arkansas, Jan. 31:

Begin a series of services tonight in Liberty church (union), three miles north, near the home of Bro. and Sr. Handrickson. Will continue till 10th of February, then to Hunt, 11th; thence here, Bald Knob, Martins Creek and, via home, to General Conference. Saints in Arkansas, listen! Are you having a Sunday School in your locality? We want to organize where there are a few members, and where there are only one or two members, start a home class. Will you do it? Why not? Watch for time and place of first reunion. Get ready now to attend.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

District conference will convene in the Saints' church March 9th and 10th.

Religio convention, Independence district, meets here March 7th and the Sunday School on the 8th.

Bro. J. B. Smith is still quite poorly and confined to his home. Hold him in remembrance in your devotions.

General Conference only two months off; "furbish" up your "spare" rooms and interview the furniture men.

It is reported that Bro. Frank Rudd has bought the Dr. Kinyoun property on Maple avenue, between Brn. Frank Criley and R. G. Smith.

Bro. Wm. Lewis and sons, of The Lewis Creamery, St. Joseph, Missouri, have favored the editor with a handsome calendar for 1901. Thanks, brethren.

President Joseph Smith has been in the city all week. He is feeling reasonably well again, with the exception of an occasional twinge remindful of his recent painful experience with neuralgia.

Papers of incorporation were filed the 6th for the Page Safety Car Company, the names of the directors being given as follows: Ellis Short, R. May, Joseph Luff, R. D. Wirt, E. M. Riddle, C. C. Hook and J. E. Page, capital stock $200,000. It is intended to be an Independence concern.

Sunday was quite stormy, diminishing the attendance at the church services. Bro. Alfred White occupied both morning and evening at the Saints' church, the pastor being still confined to the house with an attack of the "grip." The afternoon service, with Brn. Frank Criley and B. J. Scott in charge, was enjoyable and helpful.

Sr W. C. Duncan, now residing at 18 East Stillman street, Colorado Springs, Colorado, reports Bro. Duncan's health very much improved since their arrival there. He has no more fainting spells, and very little heart trouble or weakness; he is gaining in weight every day. They are also enjoying greatly the church privileges afforded them in their new home.

Winter, in all its appointments and attending trains, is upon us. On the evening of February 1st, snow began falling, continuing with more or less intermissions, until the 3d, leaving about six inches of snow on the level. Sleighs have been going daily ever since, the cold following the snow preserving its "slipping" qualities. This is the first snow of any moment this winter. The weather cleared up and has been fine so far, though more snow again commenced falling Wednesday evening.

The burning of the electric light plant this week leaves the city in a bad way for light. A special election is talked of to settle the question whether we shall have municipal or private corporation successor to the late plant. We emphatically favor municipal ownership in this regard. What is the use of paying out in tolls to private parties what should be applied upon the purchase of a city plant? Municipal plants are giving splendid results in other cities and will here. After the plant is paid for, the earnings could be applied to other expenses and lessen the cost of taxation. Let us have a city ownership of lighting facilities.

The regular business meeting of the branch was held Monday evening, February 4th, W. H. Garrett presiding, assisted by Bishop R. May; J. W. Luff secretary. After the usual opening exercises and reading of usual reports, etc., the report of the branch treasurer was read, showing collections for month of January, $30.11; expenses, $31.75; balance due treasurer, $1.64; $53.73 still due for rent, coal, etc.

A letter of removal from Magnolia, Iowa, for A. J. Headlee, and one from Lamon, Iowa, for Wm. Gauter, were read and on motion and vote these, brethren were received as members of Independence branch. The resignation of Bro. J. W. Layton as presiding priest on account of removal to Colorado was then read and accepted. The following resolution of recognition was passed unanimously: "Resolved, That we regret the loss of Bro. Layton's services as presiding priest, and in parting with him hereby express our recognition of his faithful and efficient services while in our midst." Two ballots were required to make choice of his successor, Brn. W. H. Murphy receiving 31 and Ammon White 27 votes, with a number of scattering votes on first ballot; on the second, Bro. Murphy received 43 and Bro. White 30 votes and on motion of Bro. White the election of Bro. Murphy was made unanimous.

Bro. Frank Rudd was chosen to succeed Bro. Layton as one of the branch auditors. Brn. J. J. Luff, Lester Brackenbury, R. G. Smith, Robert Kemp and O. L. James were elected "Reception Committee" for General Conference, and on another motion the price of board was fixed at $3.00 per week. The branch officers were on motion instructed to open the upper auditorium for all funeral services. The following also prevailed: "Resolved, That all parties seeking to use this church for entertainments in which such parties expect to get a money consideration out of such entertainment shall be refused its use." The officers and teachers of the Sunday School were granted permission to use the north room of the basement Tuesday evening of each week for teachers' meetings, the young people's prayer meeting on that evening being held in the lower auditorium. Adjournment was then taken.

LAMONI, IOWA.

On Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the Decatur district Sunday School and Religio associations met in prayer service, this being the introductory meeting of the convention which met on last Thursday and Friday. In the evening at 7:30 a joint Sunday School and Religio program was rendered. Sr. Anna Sal-yards read a Sunday School newspaper, after which Bro. J. A. Gunsolley delivered a talk on "Truth in its relations to the Sunday School." A Religio newspaper was then read by Sr. Alice Thorburn, and Bro. C. I. Carpenter concluded the exercises with a plea for the Religio. Friday morning at nine o'clock the Sunday School convened for business. Reports were read from 16 schools, which showed a present enrollment of 1287, a gain of 244 for the past year. The convention then proceeded to the election of its officers for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows: Superintendent, F. E. Cochran; assistant superintendent, D. E. Daniels; secretary, J. P. Anderson; treasurer, John Lovell; librarian, Callie B. Stebbins. 129 delegates to the General Convention were then chosen and the Convention adjourned to meet at 7:30 in the evening. In the afternoon the Religio held their business session. Six societies reported a membership of 340 Religians for the district (an increase of 201 for the year), and an enrollment in the Home Class department of 61. Officers elected, J. P. Anderson, president; W. J. Mather, vice president; Alice Thorburn, secretary; J. A. Simpson, treasurer. At 7:30 the Sunday School met according to appointment and discussed the subject of "International Texts," after the close of which a motion was passed without a dissenting voice, that the delegates be instructed to cast their vote in opposition to the adoption of the texts chosen by the International Lesson Text committee.

The district conference met at ten o'clock Saturday. Brn. F. M. Weld and Duncan Campbell were chosen to preside, and Brn. B. M. Anderson and A. M. Chase to act as secretaries. Twelve branches reported, showing a total membership of 2,286, a loss of 2 since last report. Ninety-one delegates were chosen to General Conference. Bro. R. M. Elvin was chosen president for the ensuing year. Bro. Elvin nominated Bro. H. N. Snively as assistant which was ratified by the conference. Bro. B. M. Anderson was continued as secretary. Bro. Columbus Scott preached Saturday evening in the auditorium, and the priesthood held a meeting in the basement to consider the subject of "common consent."

A blizzard greeted the churchgoers on Sunday morning, yet a few of the faithful faced the elements and wended their way to Sunday School. District president, R. M. Elvin, spoke in the morning, and Bishop Wm. Anderson in the evening. Conference adjourned to meet at Cleveland, Iowa, subject to the call of district officers.

President Joseph Smith left on Saturday for Independence, Missouri.

Dr. Bertha A. Greer left Sunday for St. Louis, Missouri, to be gone about ten days.

Bro. John Stalberg and family have decided to change their location, and have disposed of their livestock, rented their farm and will move to Billings, Montana. Bro. Stalberg and eldest son expect to depart in a short time. Sr. Stalberg and family will remain here until fall.

D. J. K.

February 4th.

"Ye editor blundered last week in offering Bro. and Sr. Krahl congratulations on the arrival of 'another' little daughter. She is an 'only,' the first being a rather lively specimen of a boy, and, while we beg pardon for the error, we renew our congratulations with increased fervor, and trust the little treasure may live to be an ever-increasing comfort to her parents].

ST. JOSEPH, MISSOURI.

The heaviest snow storm that has visited this section this winter came Sunday morning, and continued throughout the greater part of the day. A strong wind from the north drifted the falling snow in great piles, making it impossible for many of the people to leave their homes. The street car lines suffered the most from the drifting snow, some of them being unable to run till evening.

The Religio gave a Salma Gundi party Friday evening.

Bro. Shaw has baptized two, the fruits of labor done at the Aspey mission.

There are a great many sick in the branch; among those who are unable to attend the services are Sr. Burr, Sr. Wm. Lewis, Bro. L. Neidorp.

Bro. Nesser and Bro. Head, of Stewartsville, held a two days' meeting at the Aspey mission, on the 26th and 27th ult.

The work here is moving along as usual, the interest is good and the outlook for the future is encouraging. Storm prevented the usual services Sunday. There was Sunday School in the morning, with but few in attendance. A. B.

February 4.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street. Services: Wednesday evening prayer service. Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave. services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:00 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

We were pleasantly surprised Sunday morning by Bro. I. N. White, who came direct from the Union station to the church, and was in time for Sabbath School. Of course he was pressed into service; with teaching a class, and preaching twice, his day was well occupied, and all this despite his not feeling very well.

The weather here has been miserable for the past few days, Sunday afternoon and night being very disagreeable.

Brn. White, Christenson and Barraclough conducted the afternoon social sacramental service. Quite a good attendance. Among those present were three of the brethren from Utah.

Sr. Emma Smith continues very poorly; indeed, at this very writing she may have already found that peace which comes to those who fall asleep in Christ, as Bro. Gordon reported her as being very low, yesterday. There are others who are suffering from diseases owing to the sudden vagaries of the weather. Bro. Tom Elliott's appointment for yesterday was Belleville; Bro. Robert's at Cheltenham; John Beard at Oak Hill.

A party of the married people went to Collinsville, last Tuesday evening, passing the evening with our erstwhile Bro. R. J. Crawford and wife. Owing to the distance, they remained over night, returning the following day, reporting having had a very pleasant time. The peculiar event of importance that night was the anniversary of Bro. Dawson's birthday; he smilingly says that he is twenty-nine and —

Sunday School and Religion convention next Saturday evening; a varied program will be rendered Sunday evening, the branch having accorded us the use of the auditorium.

We were somewhat saddened by the passing away of Sr. Cowlishaw, and as friends who knew her years ago speak of her interest and devotion to the work, we feel sure that she has passed on, and in that day when the books are opened, and she is judged, she will have wrought so valiantly and faithfully, that eternal life will be hers to enjoy. Truly God does not forget, though we may live to be so old that the younger generation know naught of the many mighty works of faith and faithfulness of earlier years.

Preaching services this week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening. Business meeting postponed until Tuesday night of next week.

ETTA.

February 4th.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Sr. C. Sanderson is quite sick with heart and other afflictions. In harmony with her profession she called for administration.

Our Sandwich conference, though not largely attended, was blessed with a goodly measure of peace. Bro. J. T. Hackett was placed as district president, with Bro. John Midgorden continued as assistant. The Sunday School business and entertainment passed off with more peace than alacrity. The Religio received the resignation of Bro. E. E. Johnson and elected Bro. J. F. Keir as his successor. Bro. F. M. Pitt was elected as district superintendent of Sunday School work.

Bro. W. H. Deam made his maiden effort at preaching yesterday at the 3 o'clock service. We were not privileged to hear him, being engaged elsewhere in the city, but favorable reports were heard.

Bro. W. O. Hidy of Nevada, Iowa, spent some days in the city with the grocery house that he represents "on the road." While here he attended our services on the south side, also spending an evening of gospel converse at our house. We trust he carried away a blessing, physical and spiritual. Come again, William.

Bro. W. H. Dowker, one who aids in giving power and control to the iron horse between Chicago and Battle Creek, Michigan, worshipped with the Saints yesterday.

In the midst of the worst snow storm of the season, a goodly number of Saints gathered at our union meeting yesterday and spent nearly two and one-half hours in worship and administering to the sick.

We are pleased to learn of the bettered condition of health of Pres. Joseph Smith. May he have strength as his day, is our earnest prayer.

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Feb. 4.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday:—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Zion's Religio-Literary Society Sunday evening at 6 p. m.

The weather has been quite wintry for a few days, but little snow but quite cold.

Bro. Samuel Platt is some better since being administered to.

Bro. John Brennan has bought twenty acres of land near Swink Station, about five miles from Rocky Ford, and will engage in beet raising for the sugar factory. He and family left Denver Saturday last; he is quite enthusiastic over the outlook.

Bro. Mottashed, of London, Canada, has secured a position in the city and will remain in Denver for a season; he was in attendance at the Sunday services at the church.

Elder J. B. Roush was the speaker at both services, Sunday. The sacrament service was a very good one. S.

February 4.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line.

Zion is covered with a mantle of snow about eight inches deep, and the Saints had hard work to assemble yesterday. It is the first heavy snow we have had this winter and some were not prepared for it.

The thrilling incidents of the world during the past week have not a tendency to distract the attention of the people from their duty to God. Our city has been visited by fires, murders, contagious diseases, and miracle working preachers. What will be next? How long before the Lord will purify His holy land?

Bro. Emmett exhorted the Saints to purify themselves, that they might be a delightful people before the Lord. Bro. Newton preached the first principles of the gospel to a small audience in the evening; there were eight outsiders present.

JOHN C. GRAINGER.

February 4.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

CHESTER, Wis., Jan. 27. Editor Ensign:—Last week I again attended meeting at the Dunkard church, near Barron, where Bro. E. M. Wildermuth and I preached so long, to large crowds, two years ago. I received a very friendly reception, but the people were nearly all sick with the la grippe so I did not hold any meetings. I attended the quarterly meeting at the Dunkard church.

Their missionary in charge, Elder C. P. Roulland, from Lanark, Illinois, during his discourse, challenged the world to refute the principle of trine immersion. When he finished his sermon I told him that I was only a small part of the world, but would accept his challenge. He answered that he was no debater, that he would not debate, could not, and if he did, his church would call him in. He also said while preaching that if any man would show him that the Dunkard church was wrong and that any other was right, he would join that church within twenty-four hours. I told him I would give him one week to defend his cause, and at the end of it I would have him convinced of the truth of the latter day work, and have him baptized by single immersion, i. e., if he meant what he said. He then said, "You know if you convince a man against his will he is of the same opinion still." He backed out completely. I could not coax him to stand by his challenge.

We are getting more friends there all the time, and I hope we may soon see many of those people in the latter day work. I join Bro. Whiteaker at Island Lake tomorrow. We know the latter day work will stand the test. In gospel bonds, J. B. WILDERMUTH.

NEW BOSTON, Ill., Jan. 29.

Dear Ensign:—I came home from the south part of the district January 5th, feeling very poorly, and found wife and baby sick. In a few days our boy took sick and we have been sorely afflicted ever since; it was the grip at first, then wife took the pneumonia, and has not recovered yet, but we think she is on the mend, as well as the children, but I have not been so well the last few days.

I am sorry to lose the time out of the field, but we are subject to sickness and disease, and therefore have to yield sometimes. Will say to the Saints in the district that unless we get better we will be unable to attend the conference, February 9th, but hope and pray that the affliction may be taken away ere that time. My health has been poor much of the time the past year, but the Lord knows what is best for us and we want to be able to bear it patiently. Your brother in the one faith, J. W. ADAMS.

J. W. ADAMS.

ANN, Missouri. Dear Ensign:—As your pages come laden with words of encouragement from week to week, how glad we are to get you and the dear Herald also. At present writing we are at the home of Bro. and Sr. Cook, holding meetings with fair congregations of earnest listeners; prospects very good for an increase in numbers.

Bro. Roach and the writer held a very interesting and profitable meeting at Denlow, where Bro. Roach baptized two noble souls, Bro. R. going west accompanied by his bride, while the writer came here. At the request of many outsiders as well as Saints, I shall hold a meeting at Fox Creek. It seems that the opportune time has come for good faithful labor to be done. Places where a few years ago we were refused school-houses, now we are requested to come and tell them of the gospel message.

I feel myself again when I get into the country where a house full of anxious listeners greets the speaker every night, and perhaps a dozen will ask you home with them, outsiders as well as Saints. It is a change from city life and feels like a rest to me, though I have averaged over one sermon a day since I bid Bro. Whiteaker good-by at Mt. Grove, and I truly can say that our kind heavenly Father has blessed me in speaking. Oh, how easy it is to tell the gospel news when we have the Spirit to help us and a house full to hear us.

I am glad to be able to say that most of our missionaries are doing good work in the field. Although two of our General Conference appointees went back on us, yet God has raised up others to take their places, who are making up for lost time.

Letter from home says work is progressing nicely on the church; almost finished. We would very much like Bro. Joseph, Bro. Kelley and Bro. White to be here at the dedication, which we would like to take place sometime before General Conference or directly after, or whenever it will suit those brethren. It would seem that we ought to be entitled to a week's preaching from Bro. Kelley as the Saints in this field have never had the pleasure of seeing the brother. We now have two churches in the district almost ready for dedication.

The meetings held at Springfield by Bro. White and Tucker were very highly commented upon. "Come again," we heard many say. With best wishes for Zion's welfare we say adieu for the present.

HENRY SPARLING.

CHELTFENHAM, St. Louis, Mo., January, 1901.

Editor Ensign:—I have often thought I would write to our much appreciated paper, that the Saints and friends might know I am in the faith. I am a young Saint and I realize that the young as well as the old have something to do. I was baptized when I was eight years old by Bro. Ivor Davis. I am a teacher in the Sabbath School and desire the prayers of all Saints that I may teach the truth in the way God's word presents it.

We have prayer meeting here on Wednesday evening and the Religio on Thursday evening. There are a good many young people in this branch, but they do not all belong to this church. Bro. W. O. Thomas, who is about 82 years old, is confined to his bed, and desires the prayers of the Saints that he may recover; he is like a father to us all; he has not been to church for three or four weeks and it seems that we are lost. He is known almost all over the church. He is getting very feeble and hard of hearing, still when he is well no matter if there is rain, snow or sunshine he will be with us. He realizes that his days are short and desires that when God shall call him he shall be ready to meet Him. He is a good brother and tries to keep the law of God. We had our district conference Sunday, January 6th, and had nice meetings.

In gospel bonds,

MAGGIE THOMAS.

ODEHOLT, Ia., Jan. 26.

Editor Ensign:—When we have not the privilege of meeting with the Saints, sometimes I feel almost discouraged, but when I read the good sermons and letters in the Ensign, and we read the "Voice of Warning," also "Book of Mormon Vindicated," by Bro. I. M. Smith, it is such a help to us. We are four in number in this place, myself and husband, my son's wife and Mrs. Keck. People here are very unconcerned about religion, at least those who do not belong to any church, and church members are very prejudiced against our faith. Bro. C. J. Hunt and W. F. McDowell preached here some few years ago in a tent, but very few came out to hear. Next Sunday, 27th, a Rev. A. Rossbach, pastor of the Ida Grove Unitarian church, preaches in our town hall. He says while Unitarianism has no creed by which to bind its members, the following articles of belief were adopted by the Western Conference, in 1887:

"We believe that to love the good and live the good is the supreme thing in religion. We hold reason and conscience to be final authorities in matters of religious belief. We honor the Bible and all inspiring scripture, old or new. We revere Jesus and all holy souls that have taught men love as prophets of religion. We believe in the growing nobility of man. We believe that good and evil inevitably carry their own recompense, no good thing being failure, and no evil thing success; that heaven and hell are states of being; that no evil can befall the good man in either life or death; that all things work together for the victory of good. We believe that we ought to join hands and work to make the good things better, and the worst good; counting nothing good for self that is not good for all. We worship one-in-all that light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world, giving us power to become the sons of God, the eternal God, our Father."

Our town paper, The Chronicle, says: "Many of our people have got out of the way of attending church because of inability to accept the creeds of other denominations; all such should attend the services next Sunday." I was thinking perhaps now is the time for our elders to try once more to present the gospel here, for I do think there are some good people here, and if we could only get them out to hear. I believe they would become interested. I have done what I could in giving them sermons and tracts, also lending my books. Sr. Curson, your experiences are like mine nearly; mine were with the M. E. church of this place, and the parson told me he would be very glad for me not to quote scripture to his members, as it was a stumbling block to some of the weak ones, but we have this consolation. Christ's sheep know His voice, and he will gather them out in His own due time.

Yours in the faith,

F. E. HOUT.

MARION, Iowa, Jan. 30.

Dear Ensign:—We love to read the letters from the Saints and thought that some might like to hear from us.

We met with the Saints of our dear old Janesville, Wisconsin, branch on the first Sunday in September, also December. What a source of joy and strength it is to meet with the children of God. I often think it must be a foretaste of millennial joys.

We have met with the Saints of Viola, Iowa, several times lately, and God willing, will try to go at least once a month hereafter to keep the gospel before the people there. The Saints there are few in numbers, but have made a grand and noble struggle to get the gospel before the people and are beginning to see the fruits of their right living and noble efforts.

For a long time Bro. and Sr. Newlin, Dr. Potter and Sr. Hart were the only Saints there, but about two years ago Bro. J. W. Peterson preached there and baptized Bro. and Sr. Drumbarger and others, and this fall Bro. Roth and Hills preached a series of sermons and Bro. Randall was obedient; there are others who seem much interested, so we feel anxious to keep up the meetings.

The few Saints there started a union Sunday School; Sr. Newlin, superintendent, and Bro. Newlin organist and chorister, and so by each one helping where they could do the best, and all working in unity after four years of hard work, as I would call it, getting ready and driving about three miles and back each Sunday, they are beginning to see the harvest. I thank God for such noble Saints, who, after taking the stand and becoming obedient, realize they must try to live aright and work to bring others to the light.

I often feel sad because so few see the way, but then I think that if we bring one soul to righteousness, how great shall be our joy with that soul in the world to come; and I feel like taking fresh courage.

We, six of us, are still the only Saints here, but there are several who seem very much interested and we still hope and pray that we may have a branch here yet. Bro. Hills made a new opening a few weeks ago about twenty miles from here. One man, a Mr. Kester, had heard a Bro. Adams preach forty years ago in Illinois and it made such an impression on him, that a boy of ten years, that he had always wanted to hear more, but this was his first opportunity. He and his family seem much interested and are anxious to hear more. The trustees closed the Evangelical church after Bro. Hills had preached three sermons, but school-houses have been promised and he expects to go back there soon.

We are trying to live our religion and ask the prayers of the Saints.

Your sister,

Mrs. L. E. HILLS.

THE DAILY ENSIGN during the coming General Conference for 25 cents for the entire session.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

THE COMING OF CHRIST.

Sermon Delivered at Independence, Missouri, at the Saints' Church, Sunday evening, May 6, 1900, by Apostle E. C. EVANS.

I am very grateful tonight for the splendid hope extended in the gospel by which the lowest, the most ignorant and the weakest may arise to conditions where they may meet with and enjoy the favor of God, and where their lives, by reason of the development brought about through the gospel forces, may attest the fact that this gospel is no cunningly devised fable of men, but that it is the power of God unto salvation; that within its wondrous scope is found the divine force that ameliorates the condition of men, and has proved to the world that this work is indeed a marvelous work and a wonder.

Tonight while the patriarch was praying that God would fit us ever to meet the Master at His appearing, and when the splendid anthem breathed out that sigh for "rest, sweet rest," that is known so little, enjoyed so meagerly in earth life, I thought, "O, if we were endowed with all that earth could give, and yet our lives were such that when the Master came we would be weighed in the balance and found wanting, our life would surely be a miserable failure."

My mind is directed by reason of that prayer and anthem to the coming of Christ, the signs that were to precede that coming, and how we shall prepare to be worthy to meet Him with joy. I have selected the twelfth verse of the last chapter of the Book of Revelation as a text. It reads as follows:

And behold I come quickly, and my reward is with me to give to every man according as his work shall be.

Our skeptical friends have argued that He who made this promise, whether a good man or a deceiver, certainly made a mistake. If a good man, time proved Him to be a victim of misplaced confidence; but whether good or bad He made a promise here that has not been fulfilled, and therefore is false. Their argument is predicated upon the one word, "quickly," "behold I come quickly," and they reason from this that quickly means in a few minutes, or a few hours, or a few days, weeks or months, or, at most, a few years; and as He has not come through all these long generations that have intervened between the time of His making this promise and today, they declare that it is prima facie evidence that the promise was a false one, whether made in sincerity or otherwise.

Our sectarian friends have felt the force of this objection urged against the divine and prophetic mission of the Christ, and they have tried to remedy it by saying that Jesus comes every time somebody dies. He comes "quickly," for instance, in a railroad or steamboat disaster, when men are losing their lives without warning, Jesus then comes "quickly." I have heard it said with tears rolling down the faces of those who made the utterance, that "the Master came at such an hour," meaning by that, that such a one had "passed over the river," and the Master had come for them. While this may be regarded by certain minds as a good explanation, as a good reply to our skeptical friends, to me it is an evidence of weakness and ignorance on the part of those who make, or seek to make, rather, such an excuse.

I believe that Jesus meant what He said and that He told the truth; and so far as I am concerned, if His coming was to be delayed another thousand years, it would not invalidate this promise, or make it false. The Bible teaches me that when He comes He will "suddenly come," quickly come. That is to say, He will come as a thief in the night, and without warning to thousands of earth's inhabitants, and thus they would be unprepared for His sudden advent.

Now the word "quickly," and the word "suddenly," may be regarded as synonymous in this connection. We turn your attention to the third of Malachi, and we read the statement with regard to this same question, the coming of Christ, in place of using the word "quickly," the word "suddenly" is used: "Behold I will send my messenger and He shall prepare the way before me and the Lord whom you seek shall suddenly come to his temple." Now, whenever He comes, it shall be quickly, suddenly, and not necessarily in a few days or a few weeks or a few hours; so that the objection urged by infidelity against this statement, falls, shattered by its own weakness.

Another thought, "And my reward is with me." I want to touch that just while we are on the thought of the second coming of Christ; I want to just examine it a few moments, with your permission. I heard a gentleman not long ago bearing testimony something like this: "I was saved at a certain time"—he mentioned the time—"About two weeks after I was saved, I went in for full salvation"—that is another degree, and about seven or eight days after he was enjoying full salvation, then he went in for sanctification—that is still another degree. Some little time after that he concluded he had better go in for holiness, and O, he had a number of degrees, all better, higher and grander and more potent than salvation. He had it all here, but it was not a great while after that until he kind of wondered whether he ever had any of it at all; and I saw him some time afterward, grovelling in the sins of the world. I suppose he would be warmed over again at the next revival, and get it all back again.

Now, this text says, "And my reward is with me." You haven't it yet. In this condition of sighs and tears, of pains and sorrow, we are every day liable to become the victim of misplaced confidence, every day liable to feel the estrangement of former friends, liable to be misunderstood, and by reason of that misunderstanding, to be cruelly misrepresented by those whom, you thought loved you. We are all surrounded by those conditions in this life and yet some call that salvation. If it is, it does not amount to much.

The Master declares His reward is with Him, and they who are worthy, will receive it when He comes. This is in keeping with that wondrous thought that "the race is not to the swift," nor yet "the battle to the strong, but he that continueth to the end, the same shall be saved." A man walking in the sunny way of obedience, is in a safe condition, and if he continues to the end, he will be saved. He has in this life, if true to the trusts reposed in him, "the earnest of his inheritance," but he has not the inheritance. "My reward is with me to give to every man according as his works shall be." That is a blessed statement. That is a wonderful statement that every man is to be rewarded according as his works shall be. Our speaker for this morning said that God had no favorites. How often have we made use of the statement in less delicate language than our speaker of this morning, God has no "pets." It is well to know that God has no pets, no favorites, and that mercy will never rob justice; nor will justice ever rob mercy. That God who has revealed himself as being "no respecter of persons," and who has declared through His servant that He has made of one blood all nations of men to dwell on all the face of the earth, that they who seek after Him might find Him; that God has no pets, but will reward every man according to his works—not according to his faith, but according to his works.

APOSTLE E. C. EVANS.

Let me tell you right here, my friends, that one of the most soul-destroying systems of religion that is extant in the world today, is the thought that God is going to reward men just simply because they believe—or say they do—simply because they have a strong faith. Don't you know that is why we have the millionaires all over this country taking advantage of men who are not in conditions of wealth and power as they are, and then as they think they are to be saved by their faith, and their works are not taken into consideration, they will kind of fix it up with the Lord by building a large church before they die.

We are to be saved, or at least rewarded, according to our works; and oh, if we could but instill that thought within every human breast tonight, if we could only implant this idea upon the tablets of every man's memory, it seems to me that there would be an improvement in the world; that men might live and desire to live that they might accomplish good, be a rain-bow instead of a cloud. If we could only impress the world with the idea that God is not mocked, that whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap, it seems to me our kind words would flow with greater freedom, our kind deeds would fill up our life instead of wasting our time simply believing that Jesus did do it all and all we have to do is to believe that He did it all. With this thought before us, that we must live as God wishes us to live, filling our lives with noble deeds and noble words, with pure life work, we may be prepared to meet Him when He comes.

I am conscious of the fact that a great many people when we offer to talk about the coming of Christ, feel a little weary and say, "Oh, we have heard so much about the coming of Christ in time past that we have lost faith in it." Don't you know that the devil instituted that business? I cannot illustrate the thought that I wish to impress upon your minds better than by referring you to a story found in the old school book. The story runs as follows: A boy was out watching the sheep by night and he thought he would have a joke upon the village folk, and he jumped on a stump and shouted at the top of his voice, "Wolf, wolf," and the people grasped their guns and hastily left their homes and ran to his assistance, and when they reached the meadows, he laughed at them. They returned home quite disappointed. A few nights elapsed and he tried the same game again, and called them out and they came, and he again laughed at them. Before a week or two had glided by, and in the darkness of the night he heard the shrill howlings of the wolves; he knew that danger stared him in the face and the only thing he could do was to give the alarm; mounting the stump he cried with vehemence, "Wolf, wolf," but the people in the neighborhood said, "You have fooled us twice, we will not go out," and the result was that the shepherd and the sheep were destroyed—devoured by the wolves.

What do I mean to convey by that? Simply this: God knew that the time was nearing when the Son would make his second advent, illuminating the world with the brightness of his coming. The devil, to thwart the design of God as he thought, inspired men to strike out and tell you that the coming of Christ was near, and they set the day several times and prepared for the advent of the Savior. Upon one occasion, I believe it was in 1843, they declared that you would hear the clock strike twelve, but you would never hear it strike one; the crack of doom would sound and that was the last moment; and thousands prepared themselves in white robes and upon bended knees, looked upward to the skies for the Christ who did not come; as a result, thousands drifted away discouraged, until they were hurled into the vortex of infidelity and despair. And now when God has restored the everlasting gospel and has inspired His servants to preach the second coming of Christ and to tell you, to point out to you the signs of that advent, the world says, "O, we have heard so much of that, we pay no attention to it," and thus the wolf story is literally about to be fulfilled in our lives, and thousands will go down into the vortex of despair because they will not give ear to the tocsin of alarm, and prepare to meet the Master.

We have reason to believe that His coming is near. I fancy I hear someone say, "Oh well, Bro. Evans, you know no man knows the day nor the hour when the Son of man shall come." No, Christ said a long time ago that no man knew the day nor the hour, but He did not stop at that; He said that the angels did not know it, and He did not even stop there; but He said, no one but my Father only. Now we take that eighteen hundred years ago there was not a man in the world knew approximately near as to the coming of Christ. There was not a man on earth knew. Is that to say they never would know? Why, eighteen hundred years ago there was not a man in the world knew anything about a telephone, about a telegraph, about the steamboat, about the locomotive, anything about a railroad, or a steel pen, nor any thing about a thousand things that we have, that we now know all about. Will it do to say that because they did not know anything about a steamboat a thousand years ago that they do not know anything about it now? That won't do. Evenso, while it was true that no man knew the day nor the hour then, does it say that no man will ever know, approximately at least, or be able to understand the signs of the coming of Christ and be able to warn the people as to his near approach? We think not.

For instance, if we follow this to its legitimate conclusion and make the argument that because no man knew the day nor the hour that no man ever would know, we must go farther and say, that as the angels did not know then, that they never will know; yet the Bible says they are coming with him. You do not mean to convey to me the thought that these angels will never know until they fall from the dizzy heights of celestial bliss down to this world? The Son did not know the day nor the hour then, it was not given Him of His Father. "My Father only," He says. Will you tell me that because He did not know then, that He does not know now, or that it never will be revealed unto Him until He leaves the shining courts and comes down here without a moment's notice? I could not believe that.

Now, while I am satisfied so far as one man is concerned, that He does not know the day nor the hour, yet I am satisfied, according to the Bible, the Book of Covenants and the Book of Mormon, and other revelations that have been given to God's people, that we may know the times and the seasons; that we may know approximately, at least, that the coming of Christ is near at hand. I want to draw your attention to one or two signs that seem to portray the fact, as signs of the second coming of Jesus Christ.

I turn your attention to the third of Malachi, and I am met right on the threshold here with the objection, and the world tells me that this prophecy has no reference to the second coming of Jesus Christ, but it had reference to His first advent. You know how the people today pity the poor Jews of eighteen centuries ago, and they say how blind they were not to have understood the signs of Christ's first advent. They, poor people, have located some of these prophecies that are to meet with fulfillment in His second coming, and because He did not fill these prophecies in His first coming, they entirely overlooked these prophecies, and therefore, entirely rejected it. But I would have you to know that the great world today are as ignorant of the signs that portray His second advent, as the poor, maze-bound Jew was regarding the signs of His first advent.

They tell us that this very prophecy had full and complete fulfillment in His first advent; and I take issue there, and appeal to the prophecy and shall present it for your consideration, and I believe I will have your verdict. "Behold, I will send my messenger and he shall prepare the way before me." For this messenger, it is acknowledged, is a prophet. This individual is to be sent of God. He is not to learn the business of the ministry as he would black-smithing or candy-making, but he is to be sent of God, divinely commissioned, but he bears a message from God to earth's children; a prophet of the Lord, and he shall prepare the way before him: "The Lord whom ye seek shall suddenly come to his temple."

We are told that John the Baptist filled this to a nicety. Now did he? While we are ready to admit that John the Baptist was a messenger, that he was a prophet, that he was divinely commissioned, that he did come and prepare the way for the first advent of Jesus Christ—that is all admitted, but we think this prophecy goes farther than that and shall give you our reasons. "And the Lord whom ye seek shall suddenly come to his temple." Eighteen hundred years ago He suddenly came to a barn, born in a stable, cradled in a manger; He did not come to His temple suddenly eighteen hundred years ago. When he went there the first time He was carried there by His Hebrew girl mother for the priest to care for Him according to the law.

"And the Lord whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to His temple. Even the messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in. Behold, he shall come, saith the Lord of hosts. But who may abide the day of his coming?" If that had reference to His first advent, who could not abide the day of His coming? He had hard work to abide it himself. It did not molest the cow in the next stall. Everybody was able to abide the day of His first advent. There was no especial stir made so far as the general public was concerned. It is true the angel choir sang an anthem of praise and joy; it is true the guiding star bade the Magi travel toward the manger in the old stable; all this was done, but the great world knew nothing of it.

"Who shall abide the day of his coming and who shall stand when he appeareth?" He could not stand Himself when He made His first advent, He was a baby. "For He is like a refiner's fire and like fuller's sops." Was He? No, He was like a dimpled darling baby, that is what He was in fact; but here it says when He comes His coming is to be with majesty and glory and power, just as another writer, describing the second advent says, "That He is coming in flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God and obey not the gospel." That is why the question is propounded, "Who shall be able to abide the day of his coming?" That is why the question of inquiry is asked. Why? Because the prophecies declare it shall be so wondrous, so glorious, that even the wicked shall see its wondrous power and shall cry for the rocks and the mountains to hide them from His presence. For He is "like a refiner's fire and like fuller's sops."

You know there are some people every time they see the word "fire" in the Bible—I suppose that while they literalize the word "fire," we had better literalize the word "sops." I want to look at this. Why does the Lord use this term, this word "fire" so frequently in connection with the judgment all through the Bible? Because it is a purifying element. It is a splendid metaphor; nothing can be used that would answer the purpose of God better than that term "fire." Every other element in the world may become contaminated and impure, but fire is a purifier first, last and all the time. The word "sops" is used because of its cleansing properties and it is unfair for men to use these metaphorical expressions, literalizing them to frighten people.

"And he shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver, and he shall purify the sons of Levi." Did he do that the first time when here? Did He purify the sons of Levi when here before? No, when addressing them he said, "You are of your father the devil, and the works of your father you do." "Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can you escape the damnation of hell?" I believe that it is eighteen times in the 23d chapter of Matthew where Jesus speaks of these sons of Levi, and he calls them liars and hypocrites, and declares they are filled with dead men's bones and all manner of uncleanness and excess; accuses them of loving the applause of men, of standing in the street corners and making long prayers that they might be heard of men. A funny way to purify them, wasn't it? Why, He says He was going to purify the sons of Levi and purge them as gold and silver, that they might offer to the Lord an offering in righteousness. Did He do that then? No, He declared that they were so hypocritical that they would put heavy burdens upon the people, that they would not even so much as lift their little finger to assist them; you stand in the way, you will not go in the king dom yourselves and you hinder those who would go in.

"Then shall the offering of Judah and Jerusalem be pleasing unto the Lord." When? It was not pleasant eighteen hundred years ago. Why certainly their offerings were not pleasant then. He accuses them of almost every crime in the calendar, declaring that they were a generation of vipers, and when He comes again He is to purify the sons of Levi that they might offer an offering in righteousness before Him.

Now the thought—what are the signs that foretell this advent? I am just going to give you one of them before we close. The language of this prophecy shows that God is going to send a prophet to prepare His way, just as he sent the prophet eighteen hundred years ago to prepare His first advent, so will He send a prophet in the latter days to prepare His second advent. Now, a great many tell us that John the Baptist was the man referred to right here. John ought to know his own business, and so I am going to interrogate him, I am going to let John answer that question himself. I am reading from the first chapter of the gospel as recorded by John. We will start at the 19th verse, and read as follows:

"This is the record of John when the Jews sent priests and Levites from Jerusalem to ask him, Who art thou?"

There is a fair, straightforward question, "Who are you, John?" Now, he has a chance to reply.

"And he confessed and denied not, but confessed, I am not the Christ."

They were looking for the Christ.

"And they asked him, What then art thou, Elias? And he saith, I am not."

Now for someone to try to reason out that he is or that he was; but farther:

"Art thou that prophet?" Mark you it doesn't say, "Are you a prophet?" He would have been compelled to say "Yes, I am a prophet. Jesus will tell you that of all men born of woman there hath not risen one greater than John. I am a prophet but not the one." Art thou that prophet, that prophet? They knew that prior to the coming of Jesus without sin unto salvation, as the lion of the tribe of Judah, as the one that would take vengeance upon all those that obey not the gospel; they knew that was to be preceded by the sending of a prophet, and they said, "Art thou that prophet?" A great many people say, "Yes, John was that prophet." He did not use many words, so there cannot be any fight over it as to the meaning of the sentence. Notice what he says: "And he answered, No." That is all he said about it. You cannot misunderstand that. He answered, No. Did that silence them? No. "Then said they unto him, Who art thou that we may give an answer to them that sent us? What sayest thou of thyself?" Now, John will tell us if he is the one referred to by Malachi; he said, "I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, make straight the way of the Lord, as said the prophet Esaias." Why did not he say, I am the one referred to by Malachi? He said, I am the one Isaiah referred to; not the one referred to by Malachi.

This teaches me that one of the signs of the coming of Jesus Christ, is that God is to raise up a prophet and introduce the gospel law, by which men will be prepared to meet Jesus when He comes. Are we alone in this idea? I wish I had known I was going to preach on this subject, I would have brought some evidences here, but you will have to take my word for it now. Don't you know that most every Reformer, from the days of John Wycliff unto the last man that has ever attempted a reformation, has committed himself to the thought that prior to the coming of Jesus Christ that the old Jerusalem gospel had to be restored as to church organization and doctrine, and that it was to be restored by some individual revelation, some prophetic work?

For instance, the celebrated Alexander Campbell, speaking of the coming of Jesus Christ in the evening time when God would send a great light to illuminate the world, he says prior to His coming some new revelation must be given. Listen to his words as I find them in his book:

"The practical result of all creeds, reformations and improvements, and the expectations and longings of society warrant the conclusion that some new revelation or some new development of the revelations of God must be made before the hopes and expectations of all true christians can be realized, or christianity can save and reform the nations of this world. We want the old gospel back, and sustained by the ancient order of things."—A. Campbell, "Christian System," p. 234.

Elder H. H. Hawley, one of the leading men of the Christian church, says in the Christian Evangelist, of July 17, 1890, "We must restore the gifts of Christ (apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors and teachers) to their proper place and power, if we would have his peace rest upon us, and be once more in him."

Roger Williams, who was the founder of the Baptist church in America, after he had organized it, went to England, and while there, or else on his way coming back, he began studying this question of authority, and oh! friends, let me say right here. If the opponents of the Latter Day Saints could only cite to a piece of history that proves that Joseph Smith, after the command of God was given to him to organize this church, and after he had organized it, that he came to this people and said, "Brethren, I have been mistaken; I have had no authority to baptize the people and officiate in the name of the Almighty in the ordinances of the gospel. Let me out;" if the world could point to the fact that Joseph Smith had abandoned the church that he organized, the whole world would rise to do it; but they cannot. All through the years of poverty, and suffering, and trial, and conflict, he stood like the eternal granite bearing his testimony that the angel had come; that the message from the skies had saluted his ears, and he stood in the hour of death, almost his last words, in fact, the last breath he breathed, acknowledged his faith in God.

But it was not so with Roger Williams. After he returned to this land he left the church he organized; he declared to his former brethren, "I have no authority, and you have none by which you have the right to officiate in the ordinances of the gospel," and furthermore he said to them, "The world will never have that authority until God speaks and restores the apostolic ministry again." He knew that apostles and prophets were set in the church for the work of the ministry and for the edifying of the body of Christ; and when he awoke to this idea, that God had the right to dictate the terms of salvation and to call the men who were to be His ambassadors, and as God had not spoken to him, he refused to officiate farther, and left the church. All that evidence as taken from Dr. Cramp's history of the Baptist church, page 404, may be found in a little work entitled, "Faulty Creeds," obtainable at the Ensign Publishing House, here.

Charles Wesley, viewing this statement found in Malachi, composed a hymn and it is something like this:

Previous to the dreadful day,
Which shall thy foes consume,
Jesus Christ, prepare thy way,
Let the last prophet come.

He knew it. He knew that God had to send that messenger, that prophet, to prepare the way of the Lord for His second advent, as He sent the prophet John to prepare the way of the Lord, before His first advent. Furthermore, not only was he satisfied that God would choose a prophet and send him forth with this great message, but he knew that apostles had to be sent, and so he could say:

Almighty God of love,
Set up th' attracting sign,
And summon whom thou dost approve,
For messengers divine.

From favored Abraham's seed
The new apostles choose,
In faith and confidence to spread
The soul reviving news.

We know it shall be done,
'Tis God's almighty plan.

Yes, it is God's almighty plan to have apostles and prophets in the church for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ. It is one of the signs of the last days when God will send His angel to organize the church with apostles and prophets. It is the tocsin of alarm that shall awaken every man to a sense of his duty, and turn in with the overtures of mercy and thus prepare for the second coming of Christ. Now, notice that wonderful statement:

From favored Abraham's seed,
The new apostles choose.

How do we become Abraham's seed? "As many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ, have become Abraham's seed and heirs according to the promise." So from the few that God would select that would hear the voice of the prophet, they would be baptized, and from among those few God would select His apostles, who were to set up as an "attracting sign" the old Jerusalem gospel again.

That is one of the signs of the coming again. The prophet is here, the apostles have come, the church has been organized, and as a Methodist minister over in the Dominion of Canada about three years ago, when having a discussion with him, said to the audience and I could not help but hear it: "So far as the Mormon church is concerned, it is the strongest organization on earth. Talk about a counterfeit ministry," he says, "if you will read the New Testament and see how God first organized His church 1800 years ago, this thing which we call Mormonism is the most complete counterfeit the world has ever known, and hence Jesus, knowing that this counterfeit in church organization would arise in the last days, warns us to be careful, for it will be so complete as to its church organization as to almost deceive the very elect."

While it is complete in its organization, if it is a counterfeit it is the only one that I have come across that ought to deceive anybody if they will only keep the New Testament open and see what was to be.

"It is the most perfect counterfeit the world has ever known." Let me show you. If this is a counterfeit, God has made the sun and the moon and the stars and the distress of nations and the earthquakes and the pestilences and the famines and the testifies, as Jesus said he would testify to the truth. If this is a counterfeit, God has called up his agencies to testify to a counterfeit; and farther than that, when this marvelous work and a wonder was to come forth by the unlearned boy, the blind were to see out of obscurity, the deaf were to hear this wondrous story, the wonderful work of God was to be displayed in miraculous phenomena, and has it not been so? Has God confirmed this counterfeit by opening the eyes of the blind, unstopping the ears of the deaf, causing the lame to walk and burning fevers to be allayed, and causing out of the mouths of babes and sucklings testimony of the coming forth of this work?

I may say to you as a living witness of the love of God and His mercy that these things are true. I expect to leave you tomorrow night; I do not know when I may ever get here again, perhaps never. Over in Canada I have faced the mobs more than once; three times in my life I have written what I expected to be the last letter I would ever write. I have stood in defense of this work when the bullets were whizzing around and peeling the bark from the trees, when a young lady received two shots in her head and her mother sitting near received one in her hip. The mother has gone home to her rest, the young girl still lives. One of those shots came out and the other one is still there. It can be felt by any one whom she permits to put their finger on her head; and before God, I do not care when or how soon the end will be. I know and I have been made to sensibly realize that as long as I behave myself, as long as I enjoy health and strength, this life is nothing better than a great big sigh and sacrifice to me. It means to be away from home and loved ones as long as I live, if I behave myself, and I would just as soon the struggle would end now as anytime in this world; but before I go I want to testify to you in the name of Jesus Christ that I know that God has fulfilled His promises to this church. I have seen the blind instantly restored to sight.

I knew a man—he is still living, thank God, I do not have to go back to the Beautiful Gate in Jerusalem to show that Jesus Christ's promises are yea and amen—I know a man and you may know him too, if you want to, George Waller, now living in the city of Chatham, Ontario, had his eyes burned out. Doctors with surgical instruments pried the lids up, cracking the lids; they testified that there was nothing there but two little red spots about the size of a winter-green berry. I went to visit that man, had no idea of administering to him, but in the conversation that followed I heard a voice speak from the eternal world and filled that room, and these were the words it said: "He who spat upon the clay can heal this man today." Instantly that room was filled with the Spirit of God. I anointed him with the oil and I put my hands upon him, and I do not think I said twenty words before God filled me with the Holy Spirit, and I commanded him in the name of Jesus Christ to receive his sight; and I bear my testimony to you in the name of Jesus, that that man was instantly restored.

I do not have to go out of the state of Missouri to prove that the blind see. I do not have to go back a month from tonight to prove that it is a fact. Over here in Pawnee, Missouri, on the 8th of last month (April), a child who had a cataract covering the entire ball of her eye was brought up to the conference, and I was requested to administer to her, and Bro. R. M. Elvin went with me according to the law, and we administered to her and she went home with her parents. Three or four days afterwards another lady and gentleman came up and inquired for me and after some conversation they gave me the following statement which I wrote down in their presence:

"Lamoni, Iowa, April 15, 1900.—This is to certify that Elvin Nixon, a little girl whom you, R. C. Evans, and Robt. M. Elvin administered to last Sunday (April 8, 1900), she being at that time entirely blind in one eye, caused by a cataract which had grown all over the ball of her eye, that after you had administered to her, her parents took her home, the cataract has left her eye, her sight is fully restored. The doctor who was called in, has examined the eye and pronounced her sight restored and the cataract removed. The doctor's name is Dr. Walse. The doctor, the girl and her parents all reside in Pawnee, Missouri."

Testimony of Mr. C. J. Smith of Pawnee, Missouri, given to R. C. Evans in Lamoni, Iowa, Sunday, April 15, 1900.

R. C. EVANS.

I believe I have a copy of her father's letter, written to Elder R. M. Elvin, in my pocket. The 23d of April, 1900, here is what her father says:

"I take the liberty this morning of writing you in reference to our little daughter, who was entirely blind in one eye; yourself and Bro. R. C. Evans administered to her the first Sunday of Conference and now she is entirely well; her eye is as clear as it ever was. Pray for her, Bro. Elvin, that all may be well for her. Praise be to the Lord. Yours in the faith,
"E. NIXSON."

I do not want to weary you here, but I know that God is in this work from that standpoint. Evidences have been accumulating all along the line. I know I could tell the truth and say I believe I could go into the full explanation of miracles that have fallen under my own immediate observation, and talk to you until morning, in the last twenty-three years of my experience. I know that God is favoring this wonderful work and I have every reason to believe that He is preparing a people for His second advent.

Now the question in closing, "Who shall be able to abide the day of his coming? Who shall stand when he appeareth?" Oh, may God help us, dear brethren and sisters, to live so that when He comes we may meet Him with joy. If we lose that, we lose all that is worth having. Now I do not wish to say to you that in preparing to meet Jesus that you have to lose all your smiles; I would not assassinate your pleasure and joy. I want you to have more pleasure. I do not think that God wants you to go around as though you were living near a graveyard, moaning and sad. I know some people think that is religion; some people think they have religion when it is indigestion and dyspepsia. I do not mean that. I believe if you have got the love of God in your heart, you will be happy, you will tell it in your step, in the gladness of your eye, in the happy laughter; in all of these ways.

Sometimes you may be misunderstood by people who are very solemn, but you cannot help that. I guess I will have to be born again before I can lose some of the things that cause me to meet with disfavor at the hands of some people. But don't you know, people are saying all around Independence that I do not change much; some folks got to work and advertised me as that boy preacher of fifteen or twenty years ago. It is not because I have not had a good deal to pass through. Nearly three thousand Latter Day Saints live over there in our country, and I have to write to a good many of them; I have to know all their sorrows and joys and sadness and difficulties, and all that. We have fifteen missionaries over there and I have to know about where they are and what they are doing, and where they are going, and where they ought to be; and I have to get on that pedestal sometimes in order to attend to them. My life is a busy one and I have a great deal to think about, but I try to cultivate that faculty, that when I do anything I want to do it and get through with it; and if I have time for smiles and joys I am going to try and have it. That is what will keep you happy. That is what will advertise to the world that this gospel is what brings true happiness and true tranquility and true joy.

May God help us to be pure, not sad; be honest, not mournful; be upright before God so that you can get down and say your prayers without a compunctious throb at the close of the day, and recognize under all conditions and be able to say that "I have done, I believe, what God expected me to do, what He has given me the power and the intelligence to accomplish. If we can live that way, then we need not fear His coming, no matter when it is.

If I know my heart, I want to be good, I want to be pure, I want to do the right, and I hope that as I leave you, when you will all be gathered here, a thousand or more of you, that you will remember us out in the frontier. You know as I gaze into your faces tonight memory's hand is reaching backward to the dear dead days of the silent past, when many of you nearly a quarter of a century ago were made Latter Day Saints over there in Canada. You are coming up here and embellishing Zion and I have to go back and send on some more recruits up here, and I want you to remember us over there in the struggle of the right against the wrong. When you get down to pray, remember us. Many of you do not know the sacrifices and the trials incident to the missionary life.

May God help us all to do just what He intends us to do, and if we can accomplish this, we will meet Him with joy and will receive the plaudit, "Well done." I thank you.

Reported by Sr. Belle Robinson James.

Conference Daily, 25 cents.

HEART TREATMENT FREE

TO EACH READER, FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., L. L. B., THE CHICAGO HEART SPECIALIST, WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS NEW, LITTLE TREATMENT FREE.

That Dr. Miles is one of the most successful and reliable of specialists is proven by hundreds of testimonials from well known people. One patient cured after failure of eleven Grand Rapids physicians, two after having been given up by six or seven Chicago physicians, another after nine of the leading doctors in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago failed.

A thousand highly flattering testimonials as to Dr. Miles' moral character and unusual skill, from Bishops, Physicians, Clergymen, Mayors, Farmers, etc., will be sent upon request. For years an extensive corps of assistants have aided him in his investigations. Every State, Territory, Canada and Mexico, as well as South America, Africa and New Zealand are represented among his thousands of patients.

The late Prof. J. S. Jewell, M. D., advised Dr. Miles to "by all means publish your surprising results." Prof. J. P. Ross, M. D., President of Rush Medical College, wrote in 1874: "Dr. Miles has taken two courses of my private instruction in diseases of the heart." Col. N. G. Parker, Ex-Treasurer of South Carolina, says: "I believe Dr. Miles to be an attentive and skillful physician in a field which requires the best qualities of head and heart." Col. A. M. Tucker, late General Manager of N. Y. L. E. & W. system of railways, says: "Dr. Miles' success as a physician has been phenomenal."

When an experienced physician offers to prescribe free Treatment for diseases of the heart, nerves, stomach, or dropsy, it is conclusive evidence that he has great faith in his skill. And when hundreds of prominent men and women freely testify to his unusual skill and the superiority of his New Individual Treatment, his liberality is certainly worthy of serious consideration.

The Doctor's new system of treatment is thoroughly scientific and immensely superior to the ordinary methods.

As all afflicted readers may have $2.50 worth of treatment especially prescribed for each case, with full directions, we would advise them to send for a Copyrighted Examination Chart at once. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 201 to 209 State St., Chicago.

(Please mention this paper.)

Blood On The Moon.

There was literally "blood on the moon" last night, and today the superstitious are terrified. Some look for eight weeks of frightful weather, with fierce storms, and terrible disasters; others believe that some awful calamity is sure to ensue. And no one is able to explain the wonders.

At 6:30 o'clock last night, the moon was seen in the eastern heavens, with a few clouds lazily drifting about it, and one very bright star just below and a little to the left of it. Then about five minutes later, out of the clear bright light of the moon's rays a cross formed, a long cross, with narrow arms. And it turned as red as fire. For fifteen minutes it lasted, and all the time it was fiery red. It was seen by hundreds and it was unchanged for the time mentioned, while the star still shone brightly just to the left of its lower arm.

Then, gradually, this wonderful cross turned pale, and finally almost white. Then by 7 o'clock it faded entirely away, and the sky assumed its wonted aspect. The rest of the night there was nothing unusual in the heavens.

Various persons see in all this many signs and portents. An old chap who banks a great deal on his knowledge of the weather, and always judges by signs—as hesays, always rightly—declares that the red cross fading into white means that for eight weeks

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hutches, President, Independence, Missouri. Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 1, Lees Summit, Mo.

Editor's address, 212 North Compton Ave., St. Louis, Missouri.

Do you appreciate the rest to our minds and bodies, the comfort to our hearts, that comes to us by obeying Christ's plea to trust in Him?

Our highest duty is obedience, doing the best we can each day by ourselves and our fellowmen, and absolutely trusting the Lord to do His part.

"Like produces like." This is fully understood and appreciated by scientific stock growers, horticulturists, florists, etc.

for seed, that no fertilizing pollen may be conveyed from an inferior plant to the blossoms of the superior one from which he wishes to save seed. And what care is exercised in the mating of choice stock, of cattle, horses, etc.

Neither should health be overlooked in the estimate. Beware and do not let your affections be won by one in whose blood you know are the germs of consumption, cancer, scrofula, or insanity.

Heredity is not limited to physical things only. The noble parents may rightfully expect a noble offspring; and if one is noble and the other ignoble, there must, according to nature's laws, which are unchangeable, be a deterioration.

I am so glad our girls are being taught these things, that he false modesty that forbade a girl to speak of the results of matrimony is being done away, and these living questions may be discussed without fear of misconstruction of motives.

ALICE R. CORSON. RICHMOND, Va.

Program for Institute, February 15, 1901, Kirilind District.

10 a. m.—Opening hymn, Winned Songs, 96. Invocation, G. T. Griffiths Hymn, 72. Introductory remarks by district superintendent.

2 p. m.—Opening hymn, 58. Invocation, J. F. McDowell. Hymn, 6. 20 minutes talk upon Institute work, T. A. Hougas.

3:45 p. m.—Training class, T. A. Hougas instructor. (a) "Effective Teaching;" (1) "Telling not necessarily teaching;" (2) "Questioning not necessarily teaching;" (3) "Hearing not necessarily teaching;" (4) "True method;" (b) "Objective versus abstract teaching in Sunday School."

7:30 p. m.—Opening hymn, 62. Invocation, T. A. Hougas. Hymn, 136. Opening address, G. T. Griffiths. Anthem, Blake Mills choir. Recitation, Nettie McMillen. Organ solo, Elizabeth Gibbs. Recitation, Vera Dalberg. Duet, Mrs. Chas. and Celia Cramer. Recitation, Lula Griffiths. Soprano solo, Emma Warnock. Recitation, Pearl Kimball. Quartette, E. Lutz, Emma Warnock, C. R. and F. E. Ullom. Recitation, Hazel Cramer. Solo, C. A. Cramer. Recitation, Mrs. Lizzie Crawford. Solo, Mrs. Albert McMillen. Hymn, 66.

8:30 p. m.—Object lessons, T. A. Hougas. (1) "Benefits thereof;" (2) "Time and place for them;" (3) "Examples." Closing hymn, "When We Meet Safe at Home," 100.

All those who have not had subjects assigned them may select their own. Place of meeting, 139 Superior Street, 10 a. m., sun time. For accommodation write to Bro. Robert Miller, 147 Stibley Street, Cleveland, Ohio, and you will be cared for.

F. J. EBELING, Chairman Program Com. DORA E. McFARLAND, Sec. Church Secretary's Notice.

ENROLLMENT IN QUORUMS. The law provides for enrollment in quorums of all church officers, including elders, priests, teachers, and deacons. (D. C. 104: 31; 118: 1; 120: 10.)

Applications should contain full name, office, dates of birth, baptism, ordination; by whom ordained; also permanent address, labor performed; for the information of quorums, and their records. None of said items should be omitted.

Quorums make their own selections from applications in the hands of the Church Secretary. The Secretary cannot enroll anyone in a quorum. Quorums report all enrollments and other changes of membership to the General Conferences in their general reports, which are published in the General Conference minutes.

conferences, subject to quorum approval or disapproval.

All requests for enrollment should be in hand before April 1. Brethren who have sent in applications in past years, not yet enrolled, also those ordained to other offices, should send in new applications.

R. S. SALYARDS, Church Secretary. LAMONI, Ia., Jan. 28.

Questions Answered.

Answering a recent inquiry in the Ensign from Chicago as to whether or not the Melchisedec priesthood existed before the time of Christ, would refer the inquirer to the 9th and 10th chapters of Alma, which states Alma, as high priest, held this office, together with others of the "holy priesthood."

A question was raised by the Independence local, as to whether or not any of the Lamanites, on accepting the gospel, recovered their first estate, so far as whiteness of skin was concerned. Answering this we find a positive affirmative toward the back of the Book of Mormon, in the record of that Nephite who was the son of Nephi, son of Helaman, latter part of chapter 1, "And it came to pass that those Lamanites who had united with the Nephites were numbered with the Nephites, and their skin became white like unto the Nephites," etc.

MARIE H. CLARK. INDEPENDENCE, Mo.

NOTICES.

To the Saints of Eastern Maine district—There will be two days' meeting held with Saints of Indian River branch, March 9th and 10th. All are invited to come, with as many elders as can. Let us all try to bring the Spirit of the Master with us and be blessed.

J. N. AMES, Dist. Pres. CHARLESTOWN, MESS., Jan. 30.

The committee on reunion for 1901 met at Clitherall, December 8, 1900. I. N. Roberts, chairman, W. W. Gould, secretary. Bro. Will Oaks having moved away, Bro. Arthur Whiting was chosen in his place. The time set for the beginning of this reunion is June 20, 1901, and is to continue over two Sundays or longer if the interest demands. Sr. M. Fiedela Hawley was chosen organist. The chairman was empowered to appoint one in each branch to solicit money for expenses of this meeting.

The committee requests and invites Bishop G. H. Hilliard to attend this meeting, believing that his aid will be a power for good. Arrangements for board and horse feed will be looked after in due time, and notice given in the church papers.

I. N. ROBERTS, A. W. WHITING, LON WHITING, CHARLES PIERCE, W. W. GOULD.

Conference Notices.

The quarterly conference of the South Missouri district will convene at John's Mills, March 2, 1901, at 10 a. m. Reports sent by mail should be sent as early as possible to G. W. WINEGAR, Dist. Sec. BURNHAM, Mo.

Conference of the Spring River district will convene at Webb City, Missouri, March 1st, at 7 p. m. Let each branch have their statistical reports ready and in the hands of the district clerk as early as possible before the convening of conference, so that they may be compared with former reports and records. Delegates are to be elected to the General Conference.

T. S. HAYTON, Sec. GALENA, Kans., Box 216.

Convention of the Independence, Missouri, district Z. R. L.-S. convenes at Independence March 7, 1901, at

DR. PRICES' CREAM BAKING POWDER. Highest Honors, World's Fair Gold Medal, Midwinter Fair. Avoid Baking Powders containing alumina. They are injurious to health.

7:30 p. m. Also continue work at 9:30 next morning. All reports should be in by March 1st, if possible. AMMON WHITE, Dist. Pres.

The Independence, Missouri, district Sunday School convention convenes at Independence, March 8, 1901, at 2 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. MISS EVA M. BAILEY, Dist. Supt.

The South Missouri district Sunday School association will convene at John's Mills, Missouri, March 1, 1901, at 10 a. m. Superintendents please send in reports early. G. W. WINEGAR, Dist. Sec. BURNHAM, Mo.

DIED. (One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.)

LEE.—At Independence, Missouri, January 26, 1901, of consumption, Sr. Fannie Lee, daughter of Bro. John H. and Sr. Martha J. Lee. She was born at Myrtle Creek, Douglas county, Oregon, April 2, 1874, and came with her parents to Independence about eighteen years ago. She was baptized November 2, 1884, by Elmer T. W. Chaburn, and continued a consistent member of the church to the end. Her illness was lengthy, three months of which she was confined to her bed. The funeral took place from the Saints' church, Monday, January 28th, sermon by Elder Joseph Luff.

FALLING HAIR. Does this illustrate your experience? And are you worried for fear you are soon to be bald? Then cease worrying, for help is at hand. You need something that will put new life into the hair bulbs. You need AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It brings health to the hair, and the falling ceases. It always restores color to gray hair. You need not look at thirty as if you were fifty, for your gray hair may have again all the dark, rich color of youth. $1.00 a bottle. All druggists. Write the Doctor. If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write to the Doctor, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1901

NUMBER 7.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

WHY HAVE FAITH?

There are individuals who think the conditions and force of circumstances in which they exist are a constant reminder of the futility of asking the Lord for the things which seem to be, in their demands and necessity, absolute. And one thing which tends to encourage this thought is the fact that it is a prominent and insistent teaching of modern theology that the Lord no longer answers prayer in the sense of communicating His will directly to His children; that the only means now at the command of those who pay homage to Him, is through the Bible, the word and instructions revealed to other individuals thousands of years ago. But they who carefully read the Scriptures are met with and impressed by the reasonableness of the assurances given there, such as are stated in these passages.

For I am the Lord, I change not.—Matt. 3: 6.

God is not a man, that he should lie; neither the son of man, that he should repent: hath he said, and shall he not do it? or hath he spoken, and shall he not make it good?—Num. 23: 19.

Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons; but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him.—Acts 10: 34, 35.

For the gifts and callings of God are without repentance.—Rom. 11: 29.

Do not err, my beloved brethren. Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.—James 1: 16, 17.

When it is considered, therefore, that from the beginning of man's creation until the apostolic dispensation God spoke directly to His people through His servants and handmaidens, and remembering that after the crucifixion of the Savior He still spoke to His people until there were none left on the earth who so obeyed His will as to be accounted worthy of His revelations, and further comprehending that He "changes not," that "His ways are one eternal round," that "He is no respecter of persons," that "with Him is no variableness, neither shadow of turning," etc., it must be conceded that either the thought that the Lord will not now reveal Himself directly to those who now obey the gospel and do His will, is entirely erroneous, or that these scriptures above quoted were not inspired nor given by Him.

Forasmuch as what is generally termed "the orthodox" churches do not, nor have not, since their inception and formation, enjoyed this privilege in the gifts of the gospel, some individuals have been led to the conclusion that there is something wrong with the Bible, being unable otherwise to harmonize the discrepancy existing. Apparently they have entirely lost sight of the possibility that the teachings of these churches on this point may be erroneous, and that because the members are not in accord with the Scriptures in their interpretation of that which God requires of them, He cannot, therefore, acknowledge them in the manner in which He has recognized and blessed His children all along the ages, while they abode in His love, and kept His commandments.

But this is evidently the only rational solution of these conflicting statements. No one is willing to admit that the Lord changes, for that would signify that His wisdom was not sufficient for every exigency that might arise in human experience, and that He was unable to see the end from the beginning, as the Scriptures declare of Him. If, then, it be admitted that He cannot change, there is left but the one conclusion, which is that those organizations which do not have communion with Him have failed to place themselves in harmony with that which He has already given so plainly in the Bible for their guidance.

It is but a poor argument to use, as some do for want of a better, that God only intended the gospel gifts for the apostolic age, when the fact so forcibly presents itself to Bible readers that God has spoken to His children in all ages when He was authoritatively represented upon the earth. Even under the Mosical law—an economy that was specifically declared to be added for a special purpose, and for a "set" time, until the coming of the Christ—this blessing and privilege was enjoyed through the prophets. To urge an argument of that kind is simply another way of asserting one of two things; that either the law of the gospel was perfect when given by the Savior and His apostles of His day, or it was only perfect after His day when those gifts and blessings, then a part of the gospel, were discontinued. It is impossible that both should be perfect, and yet be the same law. The candid mind is, therefore, left to but the conclusion that the fault lies with men; and such is really the fact in the case. If men will walk in the "old paths," in the "good way," they will have abundant evidence of the truth of the Scriptures and of the unchangeability of God.

There is then, at this time, every reason that any one ever had, for exercising faith in God and in Jesus Christ; in believing steadfastly all the promises they have ever made. Every one will be fulfilled whether for blessing or for condemnation, and happy indeed is the individual who can place sufficient confidence in the immutability of all that the Lord has revealed in His word, that a consistent obedience to, and observance of, all the requirements and commands attaching to the gospel, shall be given; for that individual will assuredly set to his own personal seal, his own individual knowledge, that God is true and that "the gifts and callings of God are without repentance," that what He hath said He shall perform, and what He hath promised He will make good. The Holy Spirit will never cease to be a "revealer," never cease to "take the things of the Father and show them" unto His children so long as He has a church upon the earth builded after His own pattern, with apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, teachers, etc., established under His own authority, and upon this basis all are justified in having "faith in God" and will not be accepted unless they do. He is true always.

But sometimes even His children become despondent because an answer to prayer is not experienced so quickly as they anticipated, or think their pressing needs justify them in expecting; and they sometimes impatiently exclaim, "What is the use of praying, or of trying to do right? The Lord does not pay any attention to my requests." This is a mistake. No one who sincerely tries to serve the Lord acceptably will pray to Him in vain, in the sense that consideration is not given to their petitions and need. But as the Lord's ways are higher than man's, He often sees that if many of the petitions made to Him were granted, it would not be for the best good of the petitioner, and as a loving Father, possessed of all wisdom, He bestows that which shall ultimate in the highest blessing to the individual and for His work.

From the language used by the Lord in Malachi 3: 14, 15, it is evident that just such a complaint as outlined above was made by His people of that age, and that He was displeased with their lack of confidence in His wisdom and loving kindness:

Your words have been stout against me, saith the Lord: yet ye say, What have we spoken so much against thee? Ye have said, It is vain to serve God; and what profit is it that we have kept his ordinance, and walked mournfully before the Lord of hosts? And now we call the proud happy; yea, they that work wickedness are set up; yea, they that tempt God are even delivered.

This was wholly a superficial view that God's people gave to the situation. They, doubtless, asked, as many do today, for those things which the superior wisdom of God saw was unwholesome for them. They seemed to overlook, just as some do today, that in those things which the ungodly seem to obtain so easily, are found the extent of happiness they shall probably have. That is, as they seek happiness in worldly enjoyments to the exclusion of much, if not all, of spiritual excellence, they will have no part in the more enduring joys of the hereafter. Their misery and wailings will be experienced while the Saints are having the thousand years of infinite joy in the companionship of holy men and women who have by their faith and works proved themselves worthy. Knowing this, it cannot be wondered at that the Lord is displeased with those who are disposed to murmur because they do not at once receive the fruition of their desires. But mark the conclusion of the testimony of Malachi (3: 16-18):

Then they that feared the Lord spake one to another: and the Lord hearkened, and heard it, and a book of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the Lord, and that thought upon his name. And they shall be mine, saith the Lord of hosts, in that day when I make up my jewels; and I will spare them, as a man spareth his own son that serveth him. Then shall ye return, and discern between the righteous and the wicked, between him that serveth God, and him that serveth him not.

Not only are the prayers of His children heard, but even when they speak one to another about His favor and loving kindness, to comfort, cheer and encourage each other, the Lord recognizes and causes their testimonies to be made a matter of record, so that it may be brought to their remembrance, when the Lord shall select His chosen. With these considerations and promises before God's children, let all be encouraged to patiently press on, awaiting the greater wisdom and infinite love of our heavenly Father, for Jesus hath said:

Have faith in God.—Mark 11: 12.

EVIDENCE ACCUMULATES.

The following taken from The Cincinnati (Ohio) Daily Enquirer for February 5th, and sent us by Bro. George Bartholomew, Jr., is very decided testimony to the accuracy of the angel's declaration concerning the worship offered by some of the prominent religions of the day, "The creeds are all wrong," and accords with the editorial of last week, "Religion as a Business." Read and ponder:

CHURCH ON THE ROAD TO DESTRUCTION.

Toledo, Ohio, February 4.—Rev. Campbell Coyle, pastor of the Collingwood Avenue Presbyterian Church, a congregation composed of many of the wealthiest people of Toledo, in an address delivered before a meeting of the Ministers' Union today on the subject "What Is the Matter With the Church?" handled the church and ministers without gloves, producing a genuine sensation. His address in part was as follows:

"That a crisis in religious matters is at hand no minister or far seeing layman, who takes an interest in church affairs, can deny. The church resembles a sleeper who, before awakening, begins to toss and turn on his couch. Thus the beginning of the new century finds the church restless on its couch of ease.

"The church has assumed a character of late years that bodes evil for future generations. The strong and active forces, which at one time predominated in her character, have been buried from sight, and in their place have sprung up qualities which it is impossible to name, which have made or unmade churches for hundreds of years. Virtue, honor and character have given way to the manum of iniquity. The church is literally buried in money and the opinions of the ministers of God. Their sermons and their efforts to bring the black sheep to a sense of their duty are retarded, and have become subservient to the money bags.

"For seven long days each week the world is worshipping constantly at the shrine of mammon. For a small fragment of every Sabbath day it worships its God. Preachers and ministers are breaking the Sabbath day by the secularity of their talk and actions. They preach popular themes which will appeal to the people by their sensationalism of their peculiar interest.

"The Gospel is hidden under a pyramid of scientific, historical, faddish and popular subjects which should be purged from the pulpit with an arm of might. The church has entirely lost sight of its original purpose, and to this fact can be traced the degeneracy which is supposed to prevail. People are beginning to call the church a stupendous farce, and there seems to be a foundation for their assertions. They see the utter impossibility of the objects to which the church aspires, under the existing conditions. They see the smoothness with which the present-day preachers cover their remarks so that the consciences of the favored ones will not be played. They know that worldliness and secularism have become the bosom friends of the church, and parade arm in arm with her. The church has a high object, but her methods of accomplishing it is at present most inadequate."

EDITORIAL ITEMS

SR. (MRS.) L. C. MCCONNELL, Stromsburg, Nebraska, will remove to Charleston, Polk county, Nebraska, February 15th, and they would be pleased to have an elder stop with them in the near future and preach for them.

BRO. WILLIS W. KEARNEY and his wife, Sr. Mina Perkins Kearney, are now editor and associate editor, respectively, of the Lowry City (Mo.) Independent. May abundant success attend their efforts.

ELDER F. G. PITT is now prosecuting his mission in the Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, district. He was at Bro. and Sr. Fairley's, 30 Preston avenue, Bellevue, January 28th, where any mail for him may be addressed.

ELDER F. C. WARNKY was at Montevallo, Missouri, the 5th inst. He reports good congregations and good audiences all along, and feels quite sanguine as to the ultimate results of his labors; has enjoyed good liberty in presenting the gospel, two evenings especially being the most joyful experiences of his ministry in the blessing of the Spirit. He has so many calls that he almost regrets the near approach of Conference which necessitates his return home to prepare quorum work.

BRO. J. L. STORY, Eureka Junction, Washington, desires the prayers of the Saints for the recovery of his little girl who is very ill.

BRO. J. F. PATTON, Alexandria, South Dakota, recommends the juice of half a lemon every night in two-thirds of a cup of water as hot as can be taken for an attack of the grip and rheumatism. To be used until cured we presume. He also recommends making two small sacks out of drilling, putting about two teaspoonsful of sulphur in each of them and fastened to the stocking so they will lie in the middle, using this as a preventative of the grip and other diseases. The placing of flour of sulphur in the shoes is strongly recommended by scientific men as a preventative against fevers and contagious diseases, and at this time when there seems to be a run of various diseases it is well to take every precaution. A prevention is always better than a cure.

BRO. R. T. JONES, Box 196, Farmersville, Texas, desires that Bro. C. L. Snow or any other elder passing between points in Kentucky and west Tennessee call upon his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Sanders, one and one-half miles southeast of Mansfield, Tennessee, on the T. P. & A. R. R. They are reading the ENSIGN and are interested in the gospel claims.

BRO. C. P. HOLMES, Mondovi, Washington, January 3:

The ENSIGN is all the preaching we hear. Bro. Davis, if this meets your view, would like for you to come to Mondovi, if you can. I could not go to Spokane that week, as the roads were almost impassable with team. We do not know where to find Bro. Davis only through the ENSIGN, as I suppose he takes it.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

If those desiring the DAILY ENSIGN during the coming General Conference will send in their orders as soon as possible, it will assist us in having our lists arranged in advance, which is necessary in order that they receive the first issues on time. The first issue will be published April 6th, and the last, the day Conference adjourns. Price 25 cents for entire session. Send orders to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

BRO. I. N. WHITE returned home Monday.

The musicale this week was given at Bro. and Sr. Orville James, Tuesday night, and was an enjoyable affair.

BRO. ROY E. NEWKIRK has opened an upholstering establishment in the McCoy block, corner West Lexington and Osage streets.

The weather has been fine but quite cold this week, and the brethren May and Peterson have both been very busy filling fuel and feed orders.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitley, of East Lexington street, died Thursday morning of last week. The funeral took place from the home at 4 o'clock p. m. the same day, Bro. W. H. Garrett officiating.

Meetings for the practice of the Cantata of David, soon to be given by our choir for the benefit of the organ fund, is being held weekly. It will be a treat for our music-loving people. Give it a hearty patronage.

Last Sunday was a fine day though rather cool; Bro. Joseph Luff occupied the pulpit at the stone church at the morning hour, and Bro. J. A. Robinson, Sr., at night. The afternoon service was a source of comfort and strength to the participants.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Second Kansas City, Missouri, branch, will give a supper, entertainment, and bazaar, February 22d, at the church, corner of Twenty-third and Holly streets. Proceeds to go toward relieving the indebtedness of the new church. All are invited.

Elder L. Hartley, whom those attending the Lamon Conference last year, will remember as being present with Elder Geo. Frisbee, representing the Hedrickite brethren, has been very sick with an attack of pneumonia the past week. He was somewhat improved Wednesday.

At the home of the bride's parents, Tuesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, Mr. Joseph B. Collins, of St. Louis, Missouri, and Miss Hattie Smith, a granddaughter of Elder Joseph Westwood, were united in marriage, Elder W. H. Garrett officiating. Only the immediate friends were present. The bride is a young lady of many excellent qualities, and will, we are sure, do her part of the contract to make it a happy union. The groom is an affable gentleman, and will doubtless seek to leave his chosen companion no regrets for the choice she made. May happiness and prosperity be their portion through life.

A beginning was made in the church yesterday, Wednesday, on the improvements recently authorized. Work on the baptismal font, to the west of the rostrum in the main auditorium, was commenced, and the paper for the walls has been selected. A number of the brethren were present as volunteers in assisting with the work. The church will soon present quite a different appearance on the interior.

BRO. R. J. PARKER left last week for Kansas, to do mission work. We understand he has gone to St. Johns, which is the headquarters of the Southwestern mission of the Brighamite church of Utah. He will be apt to give the denizens of that region a number of things for cogitation before he finishes his work there, and they will be quite apt to know and understand a great many things about the Utah faith, as well as that of the Reorganization, of which they were uninformed before Bro. Parker's advent. God speed the work of this enlightenment.

SR. M. WINDSOR recently received a very interesting letter written by Sr. Emeline McLellan, widow of Elder William E. McLellan who was one of the members of the original quorum of Twelve in the first organization of this church. She is now living with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clark, at Denison, Texas, at the advanced age of ninety years. She is well but feels her strength gradually diminishing, and wrote Sr. Windsor partly with regard to the interment of her remains beside those of her husband which are interred in the Independence cemetery, when she passes away. She has no fears for the future and no anxieties to remain. She is simply and calmly awaiting the summons home of the Master, whom she has served these many years. Her letter is remarkably well written for one of her age, the writing quite firm and very legible. In her letter she bears this testimony of Bro. Joseph, our present honored president. In speaking of her desire that her son and daughter, who will accompany her remains to Independence, might meet him on that occasion, she says, "For Joseph is a gifted man, and wisdom and judgment are among his special gifts." Her faculties seem strong and bright, and she shows thoughtful consideration for the comfort of those whose sad duty it will be to see her remains laid in their resting place, until the resurrection. We trust, however, she may be spared to see some of her loved ones in the fold of Christ, and possessed of like precious faith which has accomplished so much for her peace and assurance.

ST. JOSEPH, MISSOURI.

The services Sunday were all well attended. Bro. J. C. Foss was the speaker of the morning and evening. Quite a number of strangers attended the evening service. The sacrament service which had been postponed owing to the storm, was in charge of Bro. Wm. Lewis and Cather, and was a very solemn and impressive service. The testimonies were cheering and encouraging. The Spirit was manifested in the gift of tongues.

The Wednesday evening prayer services are well attended, which is encouraging.

Sr. Olive Long was married on 10th inst. to Mr. Theodore Chrissinger. Sr. Long is a sister-in-law of Bro. and Sr. Shaw, and has been an attendant at our services for three years. Mr. Chrissinger has resided in St. Joseph eleven years. They will make their future home in Shendoah, Iowa.

The Religio held a very spiritual prayer meeting Tuesday evening, Bro. Coventry Archibald in charge.

Sr. Emma Hardman, daughter of Bro. and Sr. Kinder, is very sick.

At a very impressive ordination service which was held Sunday at 4:30 p. m., the following brethren were ordained to the office of priest: Jno. Bear, Coventry Archibald, W. Bowly, M. Neuman; to the office of teacher, Bro. T. A. Cook and Thomas Baker. A. B.

February 11.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Elder Frederick M. Smith occupied the pulpit the morning hour yesterday, speaking on the subject of "The Gathering." Bishop Kelley was the speaker at the evening service; his remarks were on the "Duty of the Preacher and the Hearer." Elder M. F. Gowell spoke at the Saints' Home.

District president, R. M. Elvin, delivered two sermons at the Evergreen church yesterday, and Elder H. A. Stebbins two at Davis City. Elder Columbus Scott spoke at the Surprise school-house, Priest J. P. Anderson at the Center school-house, and Elder H. N. Snively at Greenville.

Bishop E. L. Kelley returned from his southern Indiana trip last Wednesday. He reports a splendid conference at Byrnesville.

Apostle Heman C. Smith left last Monday morning for Omaha, to enter into a discussion with Elder D. H. Bays.

Yesterday Elder H. N. Snively offered a few very important remarks at the Greenville church, which will be treasured in the memories of at least two individuals for sometime. Those two are Sr. Alta F. Bogus and Mr. Jno. S. Vandal. Sr. Bogus is the daughter of Bro. Joseph Bogus, priest of the Greenville branch. May they see many years of happy wedded life.

Professor J. A. Gunsolley left Wednesday noon for Des Moines, Iowa, to attend the Des Moines district Sunday School and Religio conventions and quarterly conference, which was held there the latter part of last week. He returned this morning.

Last Monday, Bishop Wm. Anderson received a telegram from Clarinda, Iowa, notifying him that his eldest daughter, Sr. Jesso Reese, who was in the hospital there, was very low. Bro. and Sr. Anderson left for Clarinda that evening, but her spirit had taken its flight before their arrival. Her remains were brought to Lamoni for interment. Apostle J. R. Lambert conducted the funeral services at the family residence on Thursday afternoon. She leaves a husband, two sons and one daughter to mourn her departure.

Bishop James Anderson, of Kansas City, brother of Bishop Wm. Anderson, was in attendance at the funeral of Sr. Reese. Bro. I. P. Baggerly left on the 6th to do missionary work at Centerville, Iowa.

On February 6th Elder Edwin Stafford passed to the other side, aged 74 years and 18 days. At the age of ten years he heard the first missionaries preach the latter day work, in 1837, at Stockport, England. He was baptized in 1838, and with his parents came to America in 1841, locating in Nauvoo. From 1847 he was in many places upon land and sea, but in 1861 received the tidings of the reorganization of the church, and united with it under the hands of Bro. Z. H. Gurley, Sr., in Knox county, Illinois. He removed to Decatur county, Iowa, in 1875. His wife died in 1890. Six sons and daughters are living. He was always steadfast in his faith, and for many years did considerable church work. His sermon was preached by Bro. H. A. Stebbins, and Bro. R. M. Elvin assisted. D. J. K.

February 11.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 598 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

After two heavy snows of late, another one is upon us this morning. The streets are piled high with the white crystals, while six hundred teams are fast carting it to the lake. It will cost the city about ten thousand dollars for this work. It is good for the laborer.

Our sacrament service, in charge of Bro. Wm. Strange and the elder, at branch headquarters, was well attended yesterday, and a good spirit was enjoyed. The emblems were sent to Bro. E. E. Johnson by the hands of Bro. F. M. Pitt and Jas. F. Keir, who also distributed the emblems to the congregation. Bro. Johnson, when we last visited him, was cheerful and deeply interested in church affairs, especially the Religio work, in which he takes especial delight. If the district Religians want to cheer his heart, they can do so by diligently taking hold of, and pushing the noble cause of the Religio, and write him occasionally to 1950 North Marshfield avenue, as to progress.

Bro. S. C. Good is convalescing from his recent severe sickness. We hope for his complete recovery. Sr. Sanderson is slightly better; we also hope for her recovery.

We visited, recently, Bro. J. H. Thomas, a supernannated seventy, who resides with his daughters in the city, and found him lively in body and mind, at the age of seventy-eight. The old fire was rekindled in relating some of his experiences as a missionary in the south.

Bro. F. L. Horton related, in our meeting, yesterday, a remarkable case of healing from a severe injury, through earnest, personal prayer, being at Joliet and away from the eldership. It tended to strengthen the faith of the Saints. Some beautiful and significant spiritual dreams and visions have been given to a number of the Saints, some of which we will try to prepare for publication. Sr. May Horton also spoke of being healed by administration. Bro. Wm. Wainwright was the speaker at the mission last evening, the writer occupying the morning hour. Bro. E. J. Lang preached at a new opening on the south side at three o'clock. We hope it may result in a new mission.

We will, Providence permitting, occupy at West Pullman next Sunday at the morning hour, and at the Lang mission in the evening.

Priesthood meeting on 25th of this month, an interesting program is preparing.

Yours in good cheer and strong hope,

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Feb. 11.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street. Services: Wednesday evening, prayer service. Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave.; services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:30 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

We have had a busy week, we trust a profitable one.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings Bro. I. N. White held, forth and dispensed the gospel to interested listeners. Owing to the severely cold weather, the attendance was not as large as we believe it otherwise would have been. Thursday evening he spent with the Cheltenham Saints; one item of moment that evening was the ordination of Bro. C. J. Remington to the office of teacher, under the hands of Bro. I. N. and Henry Roberts. The Cheltenham branch was also reorganized.

Sr. Emma Smith passed away to the better life Saturday; funeral from the home yesterday afternoon.

Saturday evening the Sunday School and Religio met in convention; business session of Saturday resulted in some changes as regards officers; we believe that the district work is now getting firmly established, and from systematic, continued, earnest effort, we are in hopes of accomplishing much good throughout the district, both in Sunday School and Religio work.

Sunday morning many of us rejoiced at the return of Bro. R. Archibald, of whose services we are very much in need. He is accompanied by his family, and seems glad to be able to settle back in St. Louis, not because of the city, but of the gospel and its privileges. He expressed himself as well pleased with our new quarters.

Bro. Evan Davis, from Independence, passing through the city on his way to Ellingham, Illinois, visited with us Saturday evening and all day Sunday.

Sr. Bertha Greer has been with us for the past several days, but owing to the demands of her profession, will have to return to Lamoni the early part of this week.

Bro. S. R. Burgess left Sunday evening for Detroit on business; he will be detained but a few days.

Bro. J. Christenson was in charge of the service yesterday at 11 a. m., Bro. Geo. Barraclough assisting, Bro. Archibald speaker. Quite a good sized audience listened to the discourse, and by their respectful attention attested their pleasure in again hearing the clear, forcible speaker. Bro. E. S. Wilcox, of Shendoah, Iowa, was among our visitors, morning hour. The special program of the evening, in charge of district officers, was conceded by many to be entertaining and instructive. Special commendation might be rendered to several, but gladly do we extend to all participants thanks for their willing service. Our congregation was quite large.

This may be taken as a card of invitation to ye missionary, on his way to Conference, in the ensuing days. We will be glad to have you visit us.

Many visitors from Cheltenham, also from Belleville, attended the convention.

Coming events: At Cheltenham, for the benefit of their branch, an entertainment and supper, Thursday, February 22d. At our own church home, the Mite society will celebrate the 20th anniversary of the organization called the Mite society, February 21st, an entertainment and supper.

ETTA.

February 11.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line.

The Sisters' Prayer Union will hold a bazaar at the church on Thursday evening, February 21. Everybody welcome.

At the last business meeting letters of removal were granted to Bro. Claud Connelly and Albert Johnson to the Armstrong branch, and Bro. Fred Schweers to Independence.

Elder J. D. White appealed to the Saints Sunday morning to sustain by their faith and prayers all the holy priesthood that they may be better enabled to fulfill their mission, and when he referred to the burden on Bro. Joseph Smith the Holy Spirit softened the hearts of the Saints and evidenced to them some of his trials as leader and prophet to the covenant people of God. There was a large attendance at the afternoon prayer meeting and the Spirit of God spoke in prophecy and told the branch to fast and pray more, and be more humble and He would pour out greater blessings upon them. Elder Joseph Emmett preached the evening sermon from 1 John 4. He said, "We should not believe everything we hear, but should try the spirits, by the Scriptures, to prove them."

Bro. and Sr. George Edwards have had considerable sickness during the past few weeks, and three of their children have been afflicted, so that the trials they had were almost more than they could bear. They are improving now and they desire the prayers of the Saints in their behalf. Bro. Edwards was appointed associate priest of the branch at last business meeting.

JOHN GRAINGER.

February 11.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at "Druid's Temple," Cor. 14th and Folsom Sts. Sunday School 9:45 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sacramento meeting on first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin, presiding elder; residence 3010 16th street.

Sunday, January 27th, we had preaching at 11 a. m. by Elder Albert Haws, and at 7:30 p. m. by Bishop C. A. Parkin. At Oakland the Saints' chapel was dedicated at 11 a. m. by Patriarch A. H. Smith. It was a very interesting and spiritual service. Prayer and testimony meeting followed at 12:15 p. m.

We held a business meeting here Wednesday evening, the chief feature of which was to consider changing our place of worship. There was a large attendance, nearly all the members of the branch being in attendance. Bro. Fred B. Blair was placed in charge of the meeting. By a majority vote we made the change, removing from "Red News Building" to "Druid's Temple," Folsom and 14th Sts. Saints will please take notice.

The Sisters' Prayer Union held its regular session Thursday afternoon.

We have been having wet weather; an abundance of rain has fallen of late and the earth has been thoroughly drenched.

Sunday was our sacrament day. We met in our new quarters, a large, light and well ventilated hall, almost like a church, with cathedral windows and two galleries. We think we will like our new home and hope to accomplish good in this part of the city.

During our meeting 12 hymns were sung, 7 prayers were offered and 18 testimonies given, nearly all taking part. One child just baptized was confirmed. A good spirit prevailed throughout. All well with us.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

February 4.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

GULFORD, MO., Feb. 1. Editor Ensign: I am still in the "field of battle." In the last three weeks I have preached at the Murphy school-house, five miles southeast of Rea, Missouri, and at the house of Bro. William Halley, J. O. Vaughn and R. F. Hill, the church and school-house being denied us. Last week I held meeting at the Fairview school-house with fair interest; a good people there. "Many to hear and few to obey" seems to be the results of our work. Bro. J. Arthur Davis, my co-laborer, has been holding meetings at Arcoe in the Methodist church. Next week I go to Ravenwood to commence services in the Christian church.

A few days ago I received a letter from my niece, Lou Havelly, who lives at Stromsburg, Polk county, Nebraska, and I make the following extract from her letter: "I wish that they (the people) could hear a Latter Day Saint sermon once, but I don't think any of them ever heard one, and maybe wouldn't if they could. Why can't you or some other Latter Day Saint preacher come out here and preach some for us. I would like to be baptized and don't know of any other chance unless some of you come out here." I hope some one of the elders in charge of that field will take notice of this request. I have a sister out there by the name of Lizzie C. McConnell. This may make a good opening for the work.

I am ever hopeful of the final outcome of the work, and that a "Remnant" will be saved.

Yours in bonds,
D. C. WHITE.

CARBERRY, Mar., Jan. 21.

Editor Ensign:—On account of cold, rough, stormy weather, and badly drifted roads I am pretty well housed up. Practically, I have done nothing since the first of the year, except to write, which of itself is not very satisfactory to the writer.

I obtained an opening at Carlington school-house but could not continue the effort, much to my sorrow. The people appear interested and I believe would give me a good hearing if the roads were fit to travel, and the weather not so uncertain. Not many care to leave the fireside, and as a general thing, there is little or no accommodation for teams when service is held in a school-house.

As the winter is but half over, and the most stormy half to come. I expect to labor in the east until spring opens, when, if God does not will otherwise, I will return and renew the struggle, remaining till winter. Have been in the west just one-half year, and give the following brief account of labor: Preached 133 times and cancelled about 30 services for various causes; baptized and confirmed 16; organized one Sunday School, and leave one school and two branches to organize upon my return; ordained one priest, one teacher; sold 3 Book of Mormon, 3 Doctrine and Covenants, 4 volumes Church History, 9 "Book of Mormon Vindicated," and 17 Voice of Warning; obtained one subscription to Herald and one to Ensign, Gospel Quartermasters, etc.

Praying for grace to continue active to the end, and for the blessing of God to follow my feeble effort of the past six months.

For victory,
FREDERICK GREGORY.

SHENANDOAH, Ia., Feb. 6.

Editor Ensign:—Leaving home January 26th for my field of labor, I landed in safety at Riverton, Iowa, same night. Was met by our worthy brother, Elder James Comstock, president of Riverton branch, who is, with his excellent wife, highly esteemed by all who know them, both the membership of the church and non-members, in all this county. In their cosy home an elder is always made to feel at home.

We preached twice on Sunday 27th, in the school-house, and attended Sabbath School. Preached twice in the house of Bro. L. C. Donaldson—who is priest of the branch—three miles from school-house; here also you are made welcome and at home; had good liberty and audience very attentive.

Wednesday night held a prayer meeting in the house of Bro. Mortimer in Riverton. God's Spirit was abundantly bestowed, and all hearts were made to rejoice in the goodness of God. Thursday, came on to this place ready for the district Sunday School convention that night and three sessions on Friday. All were very interesting and exceedingly profitable as expressed by all.

The business of the conference was done satisfactorily to all present on Saturday. Preaching at night by Elder I. M. Smith was a very able and logical discourse to the edifying of all present. Sunday morning the third preaching by your humble servant. Our sacrament and prayer service in the afternoon was all we could ask, God's Spirit being abundantly given in tongues and prophecy, filling the hearts of all present with joy and peace. Truly the love of God filled the souls of all, each loved his brother as himself. Bro. Smith again preached at night. Thus ended one of the best and most peaceful conferences ever held in this district.

We move on from here to the northern part of our field, from thence to Council Bluffs, then to district conference of the Potawatamie district for last Saturday and Sunday in this month (February). I hope the afflicted ones of your branch are improving. There are a number of Saints afflicted in every place we go, and many are healed through the prayer of faith. We are still hoping for the best, trusting God for the precious promises made to us and all the Saints throughout the land. May God bless the work with all its laborers is my daily prayer.

Yours fraternally,

HENRY KEMR.
Mission address, Shenandoah, Ia.

LINN, Missouri, Jan. 20.

Editor Ensign:—Bro. Geo. W. Beebe and the writer are yet in the Whearso branch in Osage county. Since coming here we have labored in and around the branch. We have sold a number of church books, such as the Book of Mormon and Hymn books. Have also distributed a number of Heralds, Essays and Autumn Leaves sent us by the Religio Society. The Saints who reside here have also given us papers for distribution. Zion's Religio-Literary Society is doing a good work in sending church literature to those in need of such. We missionaries appreciate such work and believe that eternity alone will reveal the vast amount of good that is being done by the Religio in this line of church work. For one I am heartily in sympathy with the Religio work in all its department so far as I have become acquainted with it.

The Society recently organized here over which our worthy Bro. Beebe presides, and the Sunday School just started, which he so ably superintends, bids fair to be a success. Although some here are slow to take hold of the work, others both of the old and young are assisting nobly.

C. J. SEVRLACK.

WALKER, MISSOURI, Feb. 9.

Dear Ensign:—Our quarterly conference at Coal Hill in this, the Clinton district, is just over and an excellent time was had by all the Saints present. The Spirit was present to comfort all. Bro. T. R. White and myself just closed a four nights meeting at Veve. Find the people in the country all suffering with a grippie. We commence meetings tonight at this place, but will not remain longer than Monday, as the smallpox scare will keep many away. I am feeling excellent in the presenting of the gospel to the people.

Yours in bonds,

J. N. STEVENSON.

BELFLOWER, Mo., Feb. 1.

Editor Ensign:—For some time I have been a reader of your columns and have enjoyed all the good things contained therein, but I believe I have never written anything to help roll the good news along. During the holidays my husband (W. M. Ayler) visited at home (Independence), but he wasn't well. He returned to his field of labor (Oklahoma) January 7th, and was taken sick with the grippie, which prevented him from going farther south, as he had intended. The next day a letter came requesting him to go to his old home, Montgomery county, Missouri, on business. He didn't see that he could do much for the work in Oklahoma just then, so he asked for a release from that field, and came home.

Receiving a permit to preach here until spring, we started for Bellowflower, Montgomery county, the 21st, had an appointment out for 22, having secured the use of the Christian church. Meeting began with a well filled house. The work having never been opened here before, they were all anxious to hear and desirous of getting reading matter. People are coming to hear that are not in the habit of going to meeting. Feel well in the work and trust our visit will not be in vain.

Yours in gospel bonds,
LOUIE E. AYLER.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence Mo., as Second Class Matter.

THE SERMON ON THE MOUNT.

Sermon Delivered at Independence, Missouri, at the Saints' Church, Sunday morning, May 13, 1900, by President Joseph Smith.

I have chosen as a text upon which will be presented the thoughts that will occupy our attention this morning, a portion of the "Sermon on the Mount." It is a sermon addressed to individuals who had some knowledge of the work of the ministry of the Master. I have chosen this portion because it seems to me we have rather more need for the consideration of individual righteousness than we have for the consideration of doctrinal tenets; and while I realize that it is a good thing to hold what is defensible, a wonderful thing for individuals to hold that upon which they can pin their condition and action—present a fair reason for their hope—it will not be upon this consideration that we shall stand, nor we shall hope, after this weary warfare of the world is over; but it will be upon the characters that we have made for ourselves, that character which we may have maintained under factitious circumstances, under conditions unfavorable in themselves, by which we have been surrounded in the world, and through the exercise of that which has been latent in the world for honor for ourselves, but standing before God because of our individual righteousness.

That portion of the text is this: Except your righteousness exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case inherit the kingdom of God. For I say unto you, Except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven.

Any one who has lived in this world, and especially if he has been under conditions that brought him into contact with the internal elements that are at work in the world among men, become a part and parcel, as it were, of the great turmoil that is going on in this world, cannot help but have seen, sooner or later, his opinion of some things existing has been radically changed in passing from youth to old age; and while an army in its panoply presents a grand sight, unless there shall be such inherent qualities in the membership of that army that cannot only face danger, but bear the brunt of long continued battle, the army itself proves to be a failure; and it is, no doubt, owing to these looking back qualifications in the so-called christian world, under the ministration of the Christ idea, that our infidel brother is seemingly warranted in making the charge against christianity that it has been a partial, if not a complete failure.

I am not one of those who are prepared to admit that the Christ idea is a mistake; I am not among that class that is willing to concede that Christianity is a mistake, is a failure; but it has been forced in upon my recognition that the christian—using the term and making it apply to the great mass of so-called believers—has himself proved to be a failure; but he is a person at the present time nearer to the world of mankind, nearer necessarily to his good. That advancement in christian economy, that advancement in christian understanding; that improvement in christian conduct, which only signifies those who have made this earth a paradise, and have brought the coming of the Son of man.

Now, I am not speaking to you as individuals who are outside of the pales of safety. I am not disposed to treat you in this morning's discourse as foreigners to the commonwealth of Israel; I am not here even to invite you to come to Christ in the sense of a doctrinal presentation, but I am here to make an exhortation to you, that shall help your inner life; that shall, to a great extent, modify, if possible, the asperities of your human characters, strengthen and fortify you in the good that you may have resolved to do, and help you to perfect this grand christian economy, to be christians. I do not mean believers of Christ, in the sense of simply doctrinal believers, for all the thundering of the first principles of the gospel, so-called, notwithstanding they have covered the whole range of human existence in this work of the spiritual existence that may have been before his work, of the spiritual existence that may be hereafter, cannot by any possibility help you to sublimate your human characters, and bring them into rapport with the Christ idea, unless it is by a persistent effort of your own will.

Christ was speaking to individuals whom he had been educating, and was uttering a word of warning to them, that certainly must have had its effect upon them if they should have observed truly what He taught them, and allowed its precepts to sink so deeply into their hearts as to become a part and parcel of their living, that at their going to bed and their rising up, their thoughts were fixed upon righteousness which was to follow human conduct as a saving force for them.

While this sermon of ours, in the fifth chapter of Matthew, is made up of a series of promises, based upon an "if," there follows these direct declarations to them, notwithstanding all this teaching that had come to them: "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." Now, while the utterance of this carries a trite saying, and we frequently make use of the declaration, "We are poor in spirit and yet rich in faith;" notwithstanding this, unless the principle that is announced there has in some sort a lodgement in the human heart, and controls the human mind to such an extent that the individual, under the operation of this Spirit, exhibits in his conduct a life worthy of imitation of others, worthy of consideration, in the high courts of heaven, the utterance has been made in vain.

"Blessed are they that mourn for they shall be comforted." It is not by this that we can take advantage of the statement made by the Savior, and carry ourselves in the minds of our friends and communities as if we were sadly passing a funeral every hour; teaching our hearts to mourn and to lament, until we sow the metaphorical crocadile of repentance to grief; that is, to be seen of everybody—to give an opportunity or a reason or an excuse for such conduct as that; but he, whose heart is so filled with sublime thought, so in sympathy with his human kind, so full of love as that which sent the Savior to the world, as to be cognizant of the laws to which men are subjected, and yet that in his mourning he indeed shall be comforted, for the time shall come when all those dark clouds that surround their horizon shall pass away, and they shall stand in the sunlight of God's glory and behold Him as He is, if they are worthy to see Him at all.

"Blessed are the meek;" and yet it has been your fortune and mine to discover among those individuals who have made profession of meekness, that it was only upon the surface; and that just as soon as their self-love was touched or hurt in some way, instead of being meek, they were raging defenders of their own right; and absolute in their apparent integrity to show they were meek in this world, they were ready to fight everybody and everything, in their blind zeal. "Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth." Here is a promise unto them who are meek. We have Moses given unto us as an example of a meek man, and yet Moses, in his wrath, smote the rock because God did not do as he thought He ought to do; and he suffered a severe penalty for that, just the same as you and I must do, if in our human exigencies we smite the rock because we have not our way; and however meek we may seem to others to be, if we have not that inherent within us that is meek, in the darkness and in the light, meek in the hours of self-communion and self-sorrow, and meek in the hours of uprising and prosperity, unless that same principle of meekness rests with us, then we are indeed as the scribes and the Pharisees, and we must needs get out from under such an influence as that, or we can never escape the condemnation uttered in the words of my text, "Except your righteousness (your meekness), exceeds the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no wise enter the kingdom of heaven."

Now, I am not here to scare you people this morning, I want to lift you higher. It is the office-work of the preacher to make men good, and better than they were; and, if possible, to make them good, though we sometimes labor under that solemn asseveration "there is none good, no, not one;" and yet men are comparatively good, no question about that. There are men in the world who are comparatively good, men who make no profession of religion, have united with no church, are under no bonds or obligations of this kind unto their fellow men, but as the world goes they are good men and they do good. It has been my fortune to meet some such men as these; I have met them in the Catholic church, as Methodists, as Presbyterians, as men who have no profession at all, who have been my friends and have done good in their time and day, without an accepted hope of reward such as the christian says he has, and you know that men cannot be very good who are not meek.

"Blessed are they which hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." I have a few thoughts in reference to this text—I do not know how well they will fit you people, or how well they will suit you. I might possibly be able to better fit you if I knew everyone of you and your conditions in life, were permitted to walk with you add work with you, have business association with you, to know how you conduct yourselves from Monday morning until Saturday night. I know sometimes how well you conduct yourselves from Sunday morning until Sunday night.

Now let me inquire, What is righteousness? I am told that righteousness is doing that which is right. There are none of you do right unless you think right; I do not care how well you are acquainted with the law, how learned you may be in the requirements of the law, how much you may know of scripture, how much you have taken to heart the precepts of the doctrine of Christ; I care not how well and learned you may be in all this respect, unless there has been such a learning upon your part, that what you have learned has sunk deeper than the simple precepts heard by the ear, then you have made a mistake, and this will act with you as the whip, the spur affects the ingrate, the unwary and the unwilling, or the dull and the dormant; those who are either stupid from ignorance or are stubborn from willfulness. It is one thing to do right, because right is the innate element of the character; it is another thing to do right because the law prescribes what is right; and he that will not do what the law prescribes, is in danger of the judgment, in danger of arraignment, of passing before the Judge and receiving condemnation. That is one way to do right. And only this last week I was reading a circumstance that brought this to my mind, and I thought if ever I treated again upon the subject of righteousness, I would bring this to mind as an example.

Two men were engaged in a business, like as men are over in Kansas City and Independence, and all the large cities where there is a market for brains and men's energies; and these two men in the process of their business arrangements came into such a relation that the one secured from the other a large amount of money, but in doing it he had to sink the moral right and to use the legal right; and in defense of his action he made use of the remark that he did the same thing that other business men had done, and that, legally, the man from whom he obtained this money, had no claim upon him. But how about the moral right? As soon as the moral right was presented to him, he hung his head in shame, because he was not so far gone in the great vortex of business corruption, and said he knew that the processes he had used to secure this amount of money from this other man would not bear an investigation under the light of moral teaching of good men in the world, saying nothing about men that were trained as Christ's followers.

Now, my friends, let me ask you, if, since last Sunday morning, have we, in our business with our fellow men, have we, as neighbors, have we, as individuals, who are trying to set an example to the world, have we, as professors of Christ, followers of the meek and lowly Lamb; have we, in our conduct toward our fellow men, observed the principles of right-doing because that the law commanded it, or because we had the love of it in our hearts? I think it is well for each and all of us to take the matter under advisement.

It lies in our every-day life to a much greater extent than some of us may possibly be willing to admit. I find it in the morning as I open my front door to go out into the busy world; I find that precept lying there, over which I must step, or through which I must walk during the hours of my busy day, if I shall ever endeavor myself to my fellow-men or faithfully discharge the duties that God has enjoined, or if I must subserve the interests of that underlying spirit that would make me to do unto my fellow man as I would that my fellow man should do unto me.

Now, there is one place where this principle of doing right comes into play. I want to call your attention to it. I don't know whether you have any tale-bearers or scandal-mongers in Independence or not. I don't know whether you have men and women who are busybodies in other people's affairs or not; whether you have individuals here who love to hear evil of each other, or of other men; whether there are those in the town who are willing to tarnish the reputation of another by a hint of something that is not right; I do not know whether you have such goings-on here or not, but if you have not, it is a model city, it is truly named, "Zion;" but if you have, and you are conscious that it lies at your door, pray do not ask for the redemption of Zion until you have got that door-yard clean, because if Zion should be redeemed right at your doors, you would not know it, you would be blind to observe it, and your hearts would be so steeled against the influences that should surround the honest and pure in heart, that you would not recognize your surroundings. You had better get rid of that spirit and get rid of it at once. Why? For two reasons; one is that it is directly contrary to the law of God; I may add a second reason, that it is contrary to the law of fair-dealing between men and women, and for the other reason, it injects poison into the human mind that is calculated to make dark the sunniest day and destroy the happiest life. It is the mother of jealousy; it is the mother of distrust between neighbors; it is the handmaiden of sin, and will continue to stir up envy and wrong until it terminates in wickedness. Now, whether it be possessed by man or woman, it should be jealously guarded against and overcome. Do not tell me that you cannot overcome it, because I know better. Do not tell me you are terribly willing to do it but cannot, for I cannot believe that; and for this reason, God has never asked a human being to do what he cannot do. He has bidden us to be pure of heart, and no individual with that sin lurking in the human heart can be pure; that is out of the question.

We have a great problem before us; that is the redemption of Zion; but the redemption of Zion must follow the redemption of the people, or Zion's converts. Zion's converts are to be redeemed by righteousness; not the righteousness that exists only in the adherence to the written word, so far as the doctrinal tenets are concerned, but that yielding unto the law of Christ, that so far perfects the human heart and mind, that human conduct is right before God, and pure, not because of the ban of condemnation against it in the law of God, but because of that inherent principle that makes the individual at once the fellow servant of Christ, and prepared for His coming.

The book of Doctrine and Covenants is before us; it is a kind of a guide, but it is no more explicit in its requirements in these modern times than is the word, the Scripture that we have in this King James' translation. In it is this kind of remark, or this kind of teaching, "Charity covereth a multitude of sins." Now, how many of us have taken advantage, under that declaration, to outrage this principle of righteousness referred to in this sermon on the mount, that "Charity covereth a multitude of sins?" Now, fortunately, for you and for me, while we are not willing to accept that, in order that the sinner may be saved, but it comes to us in a better form, that "Charity preventeth a multitude of sins." How? I will tell you. Just before I left my home, an individual started to tell me quite a story; I did not want to hear it. There were some things about it that I thought I could not understand, and I could not make the individual who was telling me the story comprehend that there was another side to what he was trying to tell me; I could not make him understand that if the charity which he now asked to be extended unto an individual suffering the punishment of the rod, had been at work in that man's heart prior to the time that the rod was raised against him, it would have prevented not only the necessity for the inflicting of the punishment, but would have disarmed the hand that held the rod. In that sense it would have prevented a multitude of sins.

Some years ago I was in the city of St. Joseph. I was well acquainted with some of the brethren there, not quite so well acquainted with some others. I was at the house of an impulsive man, and while I was there, writing at the table, another brother came in from outside in the street, where they had been having some talk about the assembling of the conference, and he made use of an expression he heard against this brother while he was on the street talking with some other men. To my astonishment, he jumped to his feet, and under the spirit of self-defense rated those people that were speaking against him in harsh terms. I spoke to him, but he was so angry that he paid no attention to me. After the other man had passed out, I said, "You have done wrong, for just as sure as you live, that statement will be told in their hearing, and the brother who brought the statement to you, will take what you said to them, and you have made trouble for yourself." It caused a breach that was never healed, has not been healed to this day, so far as I know. The exercise of a little charity would have prevented all that. Charity, in the first place, would have told the man not to come into the presence of that fiery-tempered individual and have re-told what he heard against him. Had the individual against whom the utterance had been stated, calmly held his peace, under the charity that those persons might have done what they ought not to have done, and yet without a motive to injure him, there would have been a still further prevention, and charity would have had its equitable scope, instead of each one doing wrong: a court of elders had to settle that, but the heart burns have never been settled, and I do not know that they ever will be, until both parties stand before the bar of God. How about the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees? I hope you have no such thing as that in Independence. If you are all good people, my exhortation cannot hurt you.

"Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy." There is one principle I have observed in some men that I do not like. I do not like it in myself and I do not like it in others. I am going to tell you what it is; I don't know whether you will like it or not. That is a disposition, if a person is found sinning against the law, to execute the law against them, under the declaration made in the Doctrine and Covenants, that the elders are to see "that my law is kept." "Now, you sinner, if you come under the rod, you have to take the rod; it doesn't make any difference, the law has to be magnified, we have to honor the law of God." Under the influence of that, absolutely good men have exhibited a vindictive spirit, at the same time they have said, "There is nothing in my heart against the individual, against the sinner, but the law of God must be honored;" I have seen men under the influence of that spirit who have absolutely driven people out of the church—absolutely driven them out of the church—under what I believe to have been a spirit of persecution, under the view of keeping the law of God. I do not believe that the law of God ever was intended to be distorted in that way. If I am keeping the law of God the man who sinneth against me, if I am under the right principle, it makes little difference how grievous that sin is, it is not any worse than the one that hung the Savior upon the tree, and under the influences of that better charity within His heart that gave Himself for the world, looking out upon those men who had shed His blood, He said, "Father, forgive them, they know not what they do." "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy." If the principle of mercy, if the principle of desire and power to do right because right is right, is with me, I will never persecute an offending brother or sister until I drive him or her to the verge of desperation and cause them to leave the ark of safety and go out into the world where they are without restraint, where they are sure to take the downward way, if the principle of mercy is right within my heart. At least it seems to me that I will not. Mind you, I am not pleading that we should be unmerciful of the transgressions that are taking place in our midst, but the ultimate judgment and punishment to be passed upon the transaction as a whole can only be to those that are without mercy.

We sometimes pray, "Father, forgive us as we forgive them who trespass against us." Suppose we have this prayer answered whenever we make it, emphasizing the word "as," which means, "Father, forgive us in the same way we forgive others;" will it excuse us from the stripes that we visit upon them? Will it surely? If I, in my self-righteousness, bow down before God, clasp my hands and look up unto Him and in the spirit of self-exaltation—self-congratulation for how good a man I am—pray God that He will be merciful to me because I, in my clemency, have been merciful to those who have sinned against me, how high toward heaven does that prayer go, and what will be the result if I receive the ministrations of that prayer answered upon myself? Pray tell me, how far would it be? How would I escape punishment?

"Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." No man is pure in heart, pure in principle, until he has had the influence of purity at work in him; until it has sifted from him all that would induce him to do evil, to be an enemy to mankind in any form, and to have his tongue under perfect control, making him a right thinking, a right feeling man toward God and only in such a spirit as that shall he ever see God.

I have come down into your midst, feeling that we have a great work before us, feeling that we have the redemption of Zion lying at the doors, brethren. It will not consist only in that idea that we have the doctrine that is defensible, but it will be in the life that every man and woman who gathers into the regions round about shall exhibit before the world, and before each other, and before God; and if we are a set of money changers who will take the life out of our fellowmen, if we are careless and indifferent concerning the effect that our conduct may have upon those who are within and without; if we are dealing wickedly or unfairly in any sense or principle of right conduct towards our fellowmen and before our God, let me give you a warning, that such a man or woman as that cannot find himself at home in Zion where the pure in heart should dwell.

I am gratified this morning with one thing; while a great many people are talking about the redemption of Zion and the gathering of the people together, under the influences of the better counsels of the Reorganization, men are gathering into the regions round about. They are planting their hearth-stones and erecting their roof-trees and proposing to live right here within the confines of Zion until the trumpet shall sound that shall proclaim to the world that the Lord Jesus is come. If we are living right not one of us shall quake when we hear the sound of the trumpet, but in gladness of spirit and uprightness of heart we will say, "Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly; we are prepared for thine advent." Are we prepared for that condition this morning?

We began in the early days of the Reorganization to believe that it was practicable for men and women, desirous and willing to live right before their fellowmen and before God, to gather into the regions round about, and so we have continued until that little nucleus that was first planted here so many years ago by Bro. John W. Brackenbury—who was one of the first witnesses—and some others, has grown into a very fair representative article of religion in the world; and I believe that the precept and the example of those who are striving thus diligently to redeem Zion by pure, upright lives, will be successful. We have a building over our heads here and walls surrounding us by which we have exemplified our devotion to principle and to theory and to doctrine. Now let us live that manner of life that shall warrant our fellowmen of whatever faith or belief they may be, whether they have hope with us or have hope in a different form of philosophy, that they shall be constrained to say that we are the people of our Father who is in heaven and are striving to keep His laws and our army is becoming glorious.

Reported by Sr. Belle Robins-on-James.

THOUGHTS FOR THINKERS.

Editor Ensign:—I very well know that it would be unlawful, therefore, unchristian, for the casual member of the body to wag the head and the whole body with an undue and disrespectful energy. But I also know that the tail is a part of the body, and that its undeniable duties are to wag, and in so doing help to steer or direct the body. If this position is tenable it is my apology for the following "Thoughts for Thinkers."

My text is: "For the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of the light."—Luke 16:8.

It is both said and published by the skeptical, historical and scientific thought of the times that no established church has ever, as a body, either led a reform, reformed itself or the world; but in every instance where the so-called christian Gods (three in one) have established their church in the past, it has been disrupted by apostasy, and division, and eventually swallowed up in the great maelstrom of idolatry, priestcraft, worldly pleasures, pride and lust. They also say that all reforms of the past have been led by those who were infidels to the creeds and dogmas of the churches.

If these accusations are true (which I believe no well informed person will attempt to deny), then the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ should know it, and they, as the established church of God, should see to it that history neither repeats itself wholly nor in part. They should also prove to the world that it is possible for the church of God not only to reform itself, but to step to the front and become the light and leaders of the world in all reformatory measures. The church has been warned to not only say but to do the former commandments and the things written in the Book of Mormon, also to come up higher. These revelations never were nor never will be any more applicable than at the present time, when there is a great tidal wave of immature reformatory measures going forth with mighty power throughout the world. And if we can rely upon current reports and the statements of its leaders, this great labor reform movement is centering its forces upon universal economic socialism against capitalists and the churches.

But these millions and millions of slaves and laborers who have been toiling for ages, and, as it were, sweating blood, to keep up the unlawful extravagance and oppressions of capitalists, governments and churches, under the rule of kings, queens, emperors, mitred priests, and the corrupting influences of office power and capital, are not the only ones who are crying out reform! reform! but even the protestant churches, who have slept in security, trusting in their man-made creeds and dogmas, are being forced by internal and external conditions to examine and reform their creeds.

They are also preparing for a greatational reform and a united church. These vast multitudes of both christians and anti-christians are only waiting for leaders, and to mature their plans when a mighty upheaval of these opposing reformatory forces will result in the most terrible consequences that the world has ever known. Oh, that it was God's will to endow the Moses man and the church with power to step into the breach and lead these hosts into the church, the body of Christ, which will, when perfected as a body, become an economic socialism in the fullest and most perfect sense of the word. But I know that this cannot come to pass, because both ancient and modern prophets have seen and prophesied of the anti christ and of the terrible work of the last days, when, to resist the demands of these openly or secretly organized reformers, will be death, destruction of property, or fleeing to places of safety.

The latter course is the only one that can possibly be pursued by latter-day Israel, for they dare not join these anti-christian forces, either secretly or openly, neither dare they take up their sword against their neighbor. It is unnecessary for me to bring scriptural proof upon this subject, as my purpose in this article is to stir up thought and a more thorough investigation of these very important subjects, that the wise children of the light may be wiser than the children of the world in this generation, and have their lamps trimmed and burning, with oil in their vessels, so that that day of terrible, troublous times shall not come upon them unawares, nor as a thief in the night.

Now, I think it would be very unwise in me or any other shepherd to simply become an alarmist, crying out, "The wolves, the wolves are just over the hill coming down upon the sheep with mighty force, when by so doing I would alarm, confuse and scatter the flock, and thus leave them a prey to the wolves, unfitting them to hear and follow the true shepherd's call. This would be folly in the highest degree so long as the shepherds were divided as to where the wolves really were, and as to whether they are good or bad wolves, and as to the best means of separating the goats from the sheep, and leading the sheep and the lambs by a straight road into places of safety; not in haste nor by fright, for then the lambs and the weanlings would be trodden under foot by the goats which would be just as bad as being devoured by the wolves.

That a crisis is at hand, and that the wolves are just over the hill, is evident from the howlings of organized labor upon the rostrum and through the press, and in the strikes, boycotts, and the forced compliance with their demands. These innumerable hosts are organizing for self-protection and reform; but eventually they will, by the force of circumstances, unknowingly become the forces of the antichrist, who is to destroy, make desolate, and kill all who will not receive his mark in their hands and forehead, and work, buy and sell, as commanded by this power. My shepherd brethren of the priesthood, are we preparing ourselves and the flock over which the Holy Ghost has placed us, to practically and intelligently meet this crisis and lead the flock out of danger and into God's appointed places of safety where there are green fields and plenty of pastures and the pure waters of life flow freely and in abundance?

I most emphatically repeat that it is an absurdity for me or the whole combined priesthood to cry out and warn the sheep to gather into the regions round about as places of safety so long as there are so many differences among the shepherds as to the time when this should be done, the places where that safety shall be found, and the means to be adopted after arriving there, for a livelihood. These must be settled amicably by the shepherds first, then in peace and love mature plans in harmony with the revelations already given, or that may be given.

But I know, that these conditions cannot be brought about in a day, nor in a year; I, therefore, offer some practical suggestions that can be put into practice in both large and small branches, as an educator, leading upward to higher attainments along these lines. The first proposition is that wherever there are four or five or more Saints living in a neighborhood, village or city, they can co-operate on a small scale, and save to themselves the middle man and retailer's profits. This can be done by buying your weekly, monthly, or yearly staple supplies directly from the farm, the wholesaler and the manufacturer. Let every one entering into this organization make out a bill of what they will need during either of these periods, send it to a competent and chosen brother whose duty shall be to go and buy at wholesale for the whole, and distribute the same if agreed to by the co operators, and thus a saving of from twenty to twenty-five per cent can be made. Then let this money saved be put into co-operative farming or manufacturing. In this way, or by the Rochdale system of co-operation (which has been a great success for over fifty years) both experience and confidence can be obtained which can never be gotten by preaching and crying wolves, wolves, gather, gather, or in any other way.

Experience and success in any undertaking causes confidence in self and others. Man never has nor never will be able to make one grand leap from his many and long cultivated imperfections and unlawful desires into perfection. So it is in the present crisis. A perfect system of economic co operative socialism is the only means of self and life protection. Now, if this perfect system is not given in and through present revelations, and God should through his mouth-piece give the needed perfect system, how much better off would the body be? Would this perfect system, be so forcibly and emphatically given that man could not differ upon what its real meaning was? Would God through this system take man's agency from him and jump him, with all of his inexperience, selfishness and ignorance, into this perfect Christ-system of socialism with a perfect knowledge of its working. I answer, No, He never has done so, nor He never will do so.

Then, brethren and sisters, let us step to the front, every one of us in our places, and let us see to it that the above named and all other needed reforms are brought to pass in ourselves as individual members of the body, and thus reform the whole body; then the candid member will have less wagging to do, and the children of the light will be wiser in this generation than the children of the world.

A. HAWS.
POLK ST., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
January 16.

VIDE ET CREDE.

Down in the land of Missouri when anything is told we frequently hear the exclamation: Show me!

Over in Italy the unbeliever is exhorted: vide et crede—see and believe!

And we expect at the next General Conference to present in our financial report that Grace-land College is muchly alive, and has many friends throughout the church.

I thought a few extracts from letters received from far and wide might be of interest. So here are a few:

"Wisconsin.—Enclosed find an order for the benefit of Grace-land College. I would gladly give more if I had it to give."

"Northwest Territory.—Having seen your appeal, I enclose — for Grace-land."

"Missouri.—I send my Christmas offering for Grace-land College; although small, I trust it will help. I am not a member of the Latter Day Saints' church."

"Oregon.—Enclosed find my offering to help keep you quiet, not that I think you are wrong. And as I got this as a Christmas present I will send it on and let it do its work and wish it was an hundred times as much."

"Canada.—I cheerfully send my share, and hope you are blest in collecting the money. Your articles in the papers stirred me to duty."

"Idaho.—This is in response to your suggesting that each one that could send a dollar more or less as seen in last Herald. Am sorry I cannot send more for the college."

"Nebraska.—I want to send this for the college, hoping it will do a little good."

"California.—Your letter of "One Dollar" touched my heart, and what's better, my pocket."
"Tennessee.—Find enclosed $—, which please accept as a mite for Grace-land College."

"Minnesota.—Enclosed you will find (a V) as a little help to pay the expenses of Grace-land College, hoping that you will succeed in getting the institution free from debt."

"Oklahoma.—Please find for college expenses; it will devayor to help a little along as we are poor in this world's goods, but hope for the true riches in the life to come."

"Missouri.—Your salary pleading in the behalf of Grace-land College I hope will eventually bring the desired aid, though it may be in small sums. I, for one, want to cast in my mite as one among the willing."

"Massachusetts.—I have read your appeal in the church papers, and like the way you keep at it. I am thankful to my heavenly Father for being able to send in a little, hoping that it will encourage you in the work, and that your efforts may be crowned with success. The want of space compels me to close. Please take note, will still need help."

For Grace-land,
ROBERT M. ELVIN,
Box 224, LAMONI, IOWA.
First Safe of Mormon Church.

An interesting relic of the early days of Mormonism, when Ohio was the home of the prophet Joseph Smith, has just been presented to the Western Reserve Historical Society. It consists of a massive iron, fire-proof safe, which has held hundreds of thousands of dollars in money and valuables. For a number of years it was the depository of all the money of the Mormon church. Deeds of property, valuable diamonds and other gems belonging to the church were all so stored in this little relic of bygone days.

The depository of the Mormon church in those days was what was known as the Bank of Kirtland. It was after the Mormons became involved in financial difficulties that the bank failed and the big safe, or vault of iron and wood was turned over to the storm-torn of the church in lieu of fees. Remaining in the possession of the attorneys while they lived, it descended to the family of J. R. Morley, of Painesville, and then to Mrs. C. H. Morley, of Kirtland, who presented it to the historical society.

The relic's different in construction from the modern safe and is heavy and strong in appearance. During the last week it has been undergoing much needed repairs and now is in good condition. Were it not for the fact that the burglar has progressed in the last seventy-five years, and would make short work of the safe, strong as it appears to be, it would still be used for storing away valuables.

Like all iron safes of the real old-fashioned type, this Mormon safe has hidden springs in sufficient number to tax the ingenuity of the person not acquainted with their location. One of the springs covers the keyhole. It works from without and is simple in construction. By pressing one's thumb on the iron stud nearest the keyhole the hole is immediately closed, giving the same the appearance of having no keyhole whatever.

On a direct line with the keyhole spring is the most ingenious one of the lot. The manipulation of this makes it impos-

WILL SEND $2.50 FREE.

BANKMAN MILES, M. D., LL. B., THE CELEBRATED CHICAGO SPECIALIST, WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS NEW SURGICAL PREPARATION FREE TO EACH OF OUR READERS.

"When an experienced physician offers to give away $2,500 worth of a New Treatment of Diseases of the Heart, Nervous System, the Dr., it is conclusive evidence that he has great faith in it. And when hundreds of prominent men and women freely testify to his unusual skill and the superior quality of his New Special Treatment, his liberality certainly worthy of serious consideration."

"That Dr. Miles is one of the world's most successful physicians in treating these diseases, is proven by hundreds of testimonials. One patient cured of a chronic case of eleven Grand Rapids physicians, two of whom were paid up by six and seven Chicago physicians; another after one of the leading doctors in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago failed. Thousands of testimonials sent upon request."

"To eminent Rev. W. Bell, D. D., of Dayton, Ohio, Secretary of Foreign Missions, writes editorially in the Slate Sunday School Union: "We desire to state that from personal acquaintance we know Dr. Miles to be a most skillful specialist, a man who has spared neither labor nor money to keep himself abreast of the great advancement of medical science."

The late Prof. J. S. Jewell, M. D., editor of "Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases," Chicago, said: "By all means publish the surprising results." Rev. J. W. Stokesbury, of Fairport, Mo., had head, heart, stomach troubles and nervous prostration. Three physicians failed to help him. He writes: "I regard myself cured." Mr. C. Buck of Webb City, Mo., wrote a friend: "Dr. Miles treated me for my trouble, and I am now a healthy and great nervousness. He cured me in years ago." Mr. Geo. Woodhouse, of Flat Creek, Mo., reports: "My son was so bad, he was helpless. Other physicians could not help him, but Dr. Miles cured him out all right."

This new and special treatment is thoroughly scientific and immensely superior to the ordinary methods. As all afflicted readers may have $2.50 worth of treatment especially prepared for their case, please we would advise them to send for it at once. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 201, to 209 State St., Chicago. (Please mention this paper).

Aside from these peculiarities there is nothing to be commended in the usefulness of the safe. Without dynamite or explosives of any description it could be opened on short notice. The studs could be torn from their fastenings with the aid of an ordinary hatchet, and with a gold chisel the thin wrought iron bands could be cut open. Once through the thin outer shell of the wrought iron, progress would be easy. First there would be a layer of fireproof wood to cut through, then a sheeting of tin. All the inner compartments are fashioned out of this last mentioned metal.

The safe was manufactured about the year 1820 by Jesse DeJano, of New York City.

On the inside of the door is pasted the following notice: "This safe was taken on account by the late law firm of Perkins & Osborn (Painesville) from Joseph Smith and others then in Kirtland, Ohio, and is the same, as I was informed and believe, used by the said Smith and others for a vault and place of safe keeping for the valuables of the bank in Kirtland, Ohio."

A newspaper clipping also pasted on the inside of the safe door explains that the safe became the property of Perkins & Osborn in the year 1837, they taking it in part payment for their fees as attorneys for the prophet. Later it was used by that firm and remained in the firm's office at Painesville until the partnership was dissolved. It then became the property of W. A. ...

Efforts have been repeatedly made by the firm to gain possession of the relic, but overtures of that kind have always been unsuccessful. Chicago Record, December 23, 1900.

Church Recorder's Request.

TO THE OFFICERS OF QUORUMS.

During recent years there has been increasing work in the General Church Recorder's department, as well as less ability on his part to labor overtime, therefore I have not fully carried forward the "General Quorum Record," originated by me in 1876.

Therefore, I ask the officers of the above quorums to send me their latest printed lists of members, or a written one where no printed one is had. By these, and what correspondence may follow, there can be made a correction of the "General Quorum Record," also corrections of the record in the hands of each quorum, as to names enrolled and their spelling and initials, and of dates of birth, baptism, confirmation, and where and by whom ordained.

Also, I mention that in nearly all lists, heretofore issued, some names have been misspelled and some initials given. Therefore, I request that when in the future you send new lists, the copy be submitted for comparison with the "General Quorum Record," and with the printed card. For it is evident that only by making immediate and constant connection with the names in the "General Quorum Record" can the best be done to guard against the re-enrolling of those already enrolled elsewhere, or where two, or more, have the same name that one is not taken for the other, or some other complication arises, that would take time and make trouble to rectify.

Therefore, if the presidents and clerks of quorums will send full lists of names, that we can get a number for the preparation of new cards. Hence this appeal to you. Please write us. Some ask for lists and post office addresses. By extra searching of Herald and Ensign lists we might find the most of them, but time to do it is in it is doubtful, especially when we consider the number.

Respectfully submitted for attention, H. A. STEPHENS, Gen. Church Recorder, LAMONI, IOWA, Jan. 23.

Notice This is a complete description of Jackson County, to be published in pamphlet form, giving quality and prices of farm, city and suburban property. Price 15 cents. Send orders to W. S. LOUIS, Box 203, Independence, Mo. Conference Daily, 25 cents.

CURES RHEUMATISM OR CATARRH IN A DAY.

TREATMENT FREE.

B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures the worst and most stubborn cases by draining the poison out of the blood and bones, and building up the broken down constitution. Aches and pains in the bowels or joints, swollen glands, droppings in the throat, hawking, spitting or bad breath, etc., all disappear promptly and permanently. B. B. B. cures where all else fails. B. B. B. makes the blood pure and rich. Druggists $1. Treatment of B. B. B. sent absolutely free by writing to Blood Balm Company, 86 Mitchell street, Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and free medical advice given until cured. Medicine sent prepaid. B. B. B. puts new color in your skin, and makes the blood redder and more nourishing. Try this grand cure and get rid of those pains and aches.

A MAN WANTED in every county in the United States, to post up bills, distribute circulars, samples, catalogues, etc. Big pay and life time job. Send stamp to Geo. H. Brush, Box 53, Ridgeley, Lake county, Tennessee.

A Bargain $600 will buy a six room house and over 5 acres choice land at Lamoni if taken soon. One-half cash. Address with return stamp, Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Have You Seen "LAMONI PULPITS" in the INDEPENDENT PATRIOT?

A synopsis of one sermon a week from the "Saints' pulpit in Lamoni," appears in the Patriot. Subscription one dollar per year. Address, THE PATRIOT, Lamoni, Iowa. A postal card brings a sample copy.

ALL SECRET SOCIETIES THE TRUE CHURCH OF THE DEVIL.

Price 5 Cents. Agents Wanted in Every Town. Address, G. E. Page, Independence, Mo., or orders sent to Ensign Publishing House will receive attention.

GOODS WELL BOUGHT ARE HALF SOLD.

From our immense stock you can be supplied with anything you need. CLOTHING, FURNISHING GOODS, HATS, CAPS and FOOTWEAR, Ladies' and Children's JACKETS, CAPES and WRAPS, DRY GOODS, BLANKETS, TRUNKS, VALISES and TELESCOPES.

Special discount to the ministry on all goods. We make a specialty of Prince Albert Suits, either in Ready Made or made to your order. Samples and prices submitted upon request. We also carry complete line of guaranteed mackintoshes.

G. J. WHITEHEAD, With Kersch & Co., Severance, Kans. G. J. WHITEHEAD & Co., Guilford, Mo. Address all mail orders to Gilbert J. Whitehead, Severance, Kansas.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 444 pages; Cloth binding, $1.00; Paper binding, 65c. "AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF ELDER R. ETZENHOUSER," 377 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations. Reduced from $1.00 to 75c. "THREE BIBLES COMPARED," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper binding, 5 for $1.00; each, 25c. "THE BOOK OF THE SEVENTY," by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each, 30c. Cloth Bound, 2 for 1.00; each, 60c. "SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SEER OF PALMYRA," by Elder M. H. Bond, of the Seventy; 68 pages; paper bound, with fine engraving of the author, 25c. "FAULTY CHILDREN," by Elder R. C. Evans; 6 for $1.00; each, 20c. "THE BOOKS AND UTAR MORMONISM IN CONTRAST," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover, 20 for $1.00, 3 for 25c; each, 10c. "THE CREEDS LAID BARE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, 10c. "THE RESURRECTION OF THE WIDOW," by Elder W. J. Smith; 30 pages; paper cover, 2 for 25c; each, 10c. "WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH?" WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET? by Elder J. W. Peterson of the Quorum of Seventy; 39 pages; paper cover; engraving of author; 2 for 25c; each, 10c. "THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRANSLATOR," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 27 pages; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, 10c. "THE LEGAL SUCCESSION," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 96c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each, 10c. "ANALYSIS OF THE CHURCH," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 40 pages; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, 10c. "THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY," by Elder T. C. Kelley; 68 pages; paper cover; each, 10c. "THE BAPTIST CHURCH," by Elder Joseph L. Parker; by E. L. Kelley; per hundred 90c; per doz. 15c; 6 for 1.00; 2 for 50c. "IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION?" by Elder Joseph L. Parker; 96c per 100; 15c per doz.; 3 for 40c. "WHAT WE BELIEVE," The Epitome of Faith, with quotations given in full. 20c Per doz.; 2 for 40c. "EVANGELIA LOCI," by E. L. Kellogg and tenor; words by J. C. Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb. 25c.

SERMON PAMPHLETS.

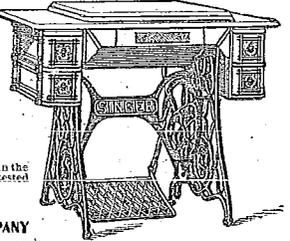

- The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen: "Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; Illustrated. "The Book of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 58 pages. "The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages. "The Restoration of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 40 pages. "A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 36 pages. "Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 54 pages. "Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages. "Creed Making; Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 36 pages. "Antiquarian Evidences Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages. "Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages. "Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages. "Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph L. Parker; 36 pages. "God is Light," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 46 pages. "Why I Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. H. Kephart; 33 pages. "The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wight; 36 pages. "The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 38 pages. "Save Yourselves," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages. We also fill orders for all Herald office publications. Address all orders and make all remittances to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo. Missouri Pacific Railroad.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898. Officers: Depositors a safe bank for their savings, and others, the best office in the State. Eastern readers, and will pay for per cent interest per annum on year deposits. Small money, Bank Draft, or Express, or Post Office Order, or check, or money order, or any other form of money, bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, a member of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. We will give you a certificate of deposit with interest and send on return mail to the order. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered. List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Rossegue, Frank K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Adams, Frank Crickley and Geo. W. Blair.

A Singer Sewing Machine

THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, earning more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible. THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch. BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world, and every machine is carefully tested on practical stitching. Sold only by THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 190-3.

College City Chronicle

The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

20 Acres

of as nice, smooth land as you ever saw. A short walk from L. D. S. church and Public School in Lamoni. Worth $2,000; $1,500 will buy it now, on easy terms. If interested write the owner. D. F. NICHOLSON, Lamoni, Iowa.

SAINTS AND FRIENDS:—Remember that I am still in the mail order clothing business. For years I have served and my reputation speaks for itself. Send me your order or write for my price list. I also have two good organs for sale cheap. Address E. T. ATWELL, Cumorah, Mo.

UWANTOQUIT

using tobacco. "QUIT-TO-BAC" makes it easy to stop using it. Three boxes, postpaid, only $1.50 with POSITIVE GUARANTEE to cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORBWAY, Peoria, Ill.

SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches, Twenty Rooms, Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue. FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to Miss M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Mo. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

DR. EYE, CANCER, ETC.

WITH SOOTHING BALMY OILS. Cancer, Pimples, Catarrh, Itch, Eruptions, Eczema and all Skin and Wound Diseases. L. Watson, Address, No. 1300 First Street, St. Louis, Mo. Write for Free Circular. Address, Dr. E. B. Diller, Cor. 9th and Broadway, KANSAS CITY, MO.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT

This Regular $5.00 Waterproof Rain Coat for $2.75. Send no money. Cut this out. State your height, weight and number of inches around body taken over neck, under coat, close up under arms, and we will send you this coat by express C. O. D., subject to examination. Examine it for yourself and return it if it does not represent the most wonderful and durable rain coat ever made and main to any $5.00 coat on the market, pay the agent one special mail order price $2.75 and express charges. THIS RAIN COAT is the latest style, easy fitting, made from heavy waterproofed cotton, comes in three colors; full length, double breasted, heavy lined, or in the plain lined, waterproof, sewed and lined, heavy lined, guaranteed waterproof. Suit guaranteed. Guaranteed to satisfy and guarantee the greatest bargain ever offered by us. Write for free samples of 25c Mackintoshes, from $1.50 up, and guaranteed bicycle tires, from $3.50 up. We can save you money. Address H. S. DILLER & CO., 305 Dearborn St., Chicago.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

Table with columns for Missouri Pacific - Main Line Depot, TRAINS WEST, and TRAINS EAST. Lists train numbers, destinations, and times.

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.

Table with columns for TRAINS WEST and TRAINS EAST. Lists train numbers and times.

CHICAGO & ALTON.

Table with columns for EAST BOUND and WEST BOUND. Lists train numbers, destinations, and times.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general and local societies as established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the corresponding secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. E. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 146, Lee's Summit, Mo.
- Mrs. E. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 213 North Compton Ave., St. Louis, Missouri.

A DEAR friend of mine the other day, wrote me her experience, which was beneficial to me and so I will pass it on to you. She said there came to her a time of such utter discouragement that it seemed as though life could never again be the thing it had been, and that it had dealt hardly with her.

It had meant so much to her at first, and she had so often mourned because she could not enjoy the enthusiasm she had once felt. She had asked God many times to help her find the upland path once more, for she knew, feeling as she did, she could never accomplish anything useful in this life. She had not the interest to try. One day, while pondering over it, these thoughts came to her. She was discouraged because she no longer had the faith in her fellow man she once had. Life had lost its zest because she had grown morbid in regard to the issue of all her endeavors, and thought they could only end in defeat. She thought she had trusted God, but in the light of the truths dawning upon her, she saw that she must first trust her brother. She determined to overcome it, and thanked God that He had given her this ray of light. She sang when sadness seemed to be hovering near, she prayed for that charity that "thinketh no evil," she learned to trust herself and others, and more and more to launch out and do those things she had feared to attempt. And behold, fortune seemed to smile upon her, and she proved the truth of that saying of the Lord's, "To him that hath it shall be given." I think Christ meant that in many ways, for those who go through life with abundant faith and good cheer, all things seem to come to them. It is a truth capable of many applications.

My friend is a sunny faced girl whom everybody loves, and such happiness is within the reach of us all. Let us keep our faces heavenward, judge things as they really are, and not as they appear to us, colored by the mood in which we happen to be, and life will develop new purposes and be rich in fulfillment thereof. The remedy for our ills lies often within ourselves.

WHEN you admit God as a universal Father and yet give him no filial reverence, you set your children a poor example of father-loving and honoring. As an example to your children, you should maintain religion at home.

"HOSPITALITY is a christian duty. We owe its exercise to our fellows, in virtue of our common brotherhood in Adam, and of our closer brotherhood in Christ. 'Be not forgetful to entertain strangers.' 'Use hospitality without grudging.' Now, if hospitality is a christian duty, it is incumbent upon all christians, and this according to their ability, for it is demanded of us according to what we have, and not according to what we have not. The recipients of our duty of hospitality are indicated to us in the scripture: servants of our Lord, our fellow kinsmen in Christ; and then it is said, 'Ye did it unto me,' and we may entertain angels unawares. Our kindred, our friends, have a claim on our hospitality, and especially the poor who cannot pay it again. No christian family should permit a guest to speak lightly of piety, or to carp at the Scriptures, or to profane God's name and day. The christian family has always in its midst one choice and sacred guest—their Lord—and so they should allow no other guests to do despite to him. This quiet, unostentatious, but unflinching conduct of home piety, in the presence of guests, has often been made 'an effectual means of convincing and converting sinners.' The steady light of holiness shining in the home has led the stranger within the gates, to the same clear shining.

EVERY girl, no matter what her station or prospects, should acquire some useful art or profession, should learn to do some one thing so well that it shall have a value in the great world-market, and in her hour of need suffice to make her a breadwinner. The world has an abundance of mediocre workers, but it can never have a superfluity of those who have added to native endowment discipline and conscientious training. Think this over, dear girls, in this serene August weather when some of you are pondering what to do next, and many of you are planning for the future. Probably the best gift which could be bestowed on most girls in any station or occupation would be what on the turf is known as staying power. Many of us begin with enthusiasm, but we give out before the end of the day. To adopt a certain line of conduct, to choose a special study, or to decide on a particular course and stick to it, is in each case to deserve success, if not always to insure it.

The path of life is strewn with the wrecks of those who began but did not hold on their way. She who would make her mark in this workaday world, and gain her prize, must be steady and persevering in the face of every discouragement; with belief in herself and in God.—Margaret Sangster in Ladies' Home Journal.

Credentials of Delegates to General Conference.

District officers, and officers of branches not in districts, are requested to forward credentials of delegates appointed to represent their districts or branches in the coming General Conference, to the Church Secretary as soon as possible, that a complete roll of delegates may be prepared, as provided for by resolution of General Conference, to facilitate prompt organization and work of that body. Credentials of delegates appointed at fall or winter conferences should be forwarded without delay, and of those yet to be appointed, immediately after appointment. It is desired that all credentials be in hand as early in the month of March as possible.

One certificate for each delegation, with number of members in district or branch and names of its delegates, signed by the president a secretary of the district or branch appointing, with name of district or branch and place and date of holding of conference or business meeting, is sufficient. Separate individual credentials are not necessary.

Attention is called to the following, adopted at the General Conference of 1890:

"Resolved, That the Secretary be and is hereby authorized to devise and have printed a blank form of delegate credentials; and that a copy or copies be sent to each district or branch entitled to representation, prior to the convening of each General Conference."

District secretaries and secretaries of branches not in districts who fail to receive credential blanks will be supplied promptly on receipt of postal card with address.

The rules governing "representation" and the "restrictions of delegate voting," are as follows:

"Each district shall be entitled to one delegate for every twenty-five members of said district, and one vote in conference for each delegate to which they may be entitled. (Scattered members in districts, including those enrolled on records of disorganized branches, who are not recorded as members of other districts, may be included in the enumeration of membership.)"

"The delegates present at conference from any one district shall be entitled to cast the full vote of the district of which they are delegates, unless otherwise instructed by their district conference."

"Provided, that in case of a disagreement of views among the members of said delegation (the full delegation not being present), they shall be entitled to cast only their individual votes as said delegates."

"No one delegate shall be entitled to cast, as representative in the same conference, more than twenty votes."

"Each regularly organized branch of the church not included in an organized district, shall be entitled to one delegate, who shall have the same privileges as delegates of districts." However, at the General Conference of 1900 the chair ruled "that a branch of more than twenty-five members is entitled to one delegate for each twenty-five of its membership, the same as a district."

Respectfully,
R. S. SALYARDS,
Church Secretary.

LAMONI, Ia., Jan. 25.

Be On The Watch Tower.

One N. A. Nelson is making the rounds claiming to be a member of the Kewanee, Illinois, branch and to having been in a hotel fire in Kewanee, jumped from the third story, lost all his clothes and $10.00 in money; wants help to go to the West, sometimes to one place and sometimes to another. He was at Kewanee about three years ago, they helped him, but he is back again to take a fresh start. At last accounts he was at Burlington, Iowa. He ought to be helped to Ft. Madison penitentiary. He is not a member of the Kewanee branch. Look out for him; help him off on a cheap way. He is a fraud.

J. S. LORA.

Kewanee, Ill., Feb. 9.

To the Second Quorum of Seventy.

Notice.—Brethren, permit us to call your attention to the necessity of reporting to the undersigned by March 10th. Send a complete report of labor done by you during the present conference year to the secretary at Radcliff, Ohio. Try and have your reports reach us not later than March 10, 1901.

H. E. MOLER, Sec.

WILMINGTON, Ill., Feb. 8.

Conference Notices.

The conference of the Kirtland, Ohio, district will be held in Cleveland, Ohio, at 156 Superior Street, February 23 and 24, 1901. All who wish to attend will please write to C. R. OLLUM, 671 Lorain Street, so that proper arrangements can be made. C. R. OLLUM.

February 3.

For the convenience of all, the conference of the Central district of California, to convene at San Jose, will meet on March 1st. This change one week earlier is made to secure the presence of A. H. Smith, J. F. Burton, G. H. Hilliard and E. A. Blakeslee, if consistent with demands elsewhere. They and the branches are notified. This notice is for isolated ones.

J. M. PUTNEY, Dist. Pres.

GILROY, Cal., Feb. 1.

Oklahoma district conference will convene at Okarche, March 2, 3, 1901. This will be the time for election of district officers, and also to appoint delegates to General Conference, so we hope to see a large attendance. Okarche is on the Rock Island railroad, near the center of the district. Each branch is expected to report to each conference; branch officers should be on time with their reports. All those holding the priesthood are also expected to report. Let each one make an effort to attend, and do their part to advance the cause of truth.

R. M. MALONEY, Dist. Pres.

The Southern California district conference will convene at San Bernardino on Friday, March 1st and continue over Sunday the 3d. Two sessions of the first day will be given over to the work of the District Sunday School and Religio. All Sunday School as well as Religio workers are requested to attend on the opening day. The respective organizations will send delegates.

All brethren holding priesthood license in the district are requested to report in writing whether they have done any labor or not. We desire to hear from each one.

Come, brethren, and let us make this one of the most spiritual meetings ever held in the district. Delegates to the General Conference are to be selected. Other features of importance will necessitate action.

T. W. WILLIAMS, Dist. Pres.

1322 Myrtle Ave., Los Angeles, Cal.

Convention Notices.

The Independence District Sunday School Association will convene at Independence, Missouri, on Friday, March 8, 1901, at 2 p. m. The school secretaries are urgently requested to send in their school reports and credentials at least three days before the convention. Let every one come prepared and make the convention a success.

Mrs. ABIE A. HORTON, Sec.

THE DAILY ENSIGN during the coming General Conference for 25 cents for the entire session. Send orders as soon as possible and thus aid us in arranging our lists.

A PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR POWDER

DR. PRICES' CREAM BAKING POWDER

Highest Honors, World's Fair Gold Medal, Midwinter Fair

Avoid Baking Powders containing alum. They are injurious to health.

DIED.
(One hundred words. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.)

JONES.—At her home, Caseyville, Illinois, January 25, 1901, Sr. Mary Jones. She was born February 6, 1825, and was aged 65 years, 11 months and 19 days. She united with the church in 1875 and was faithful to the last; was loved by all who knew her. She leaves husband, four daughters, two sons and a large number of relatives to mourn their loss. Funeral service in the Methodist church by Elder Arthur Allen. A very large attendance at the funeral showed that the departed sister was greatly esteemed.

LOONIS.—At his home in Valley Junction, Wisconsin, January 27, 1901, Jerome B. Loonis passed through the valley of death to receive the reward of the finally faithful. He was born April 3, 1819, at Brighton, New York; united with the church in 1865, remaining firm and immovable until the very last. He was stricken with pneumonia and was sick only a short time. His faith in God never wavered and his testimony was that "God doeth all things well." Funeral services were held at the Saints' church, Elder W. A. McDowell officiating.

Crouching

In every cough there lurks, like a crouching tiger, the probabilities of consumption. The throat and lungs become rough and inflamed from coughing and the germs of consumption find an easy entrance. Take no chances with the dangerous foe. For 60 years there has been a perfect cure. What a record! Sixty years of cures.

AVER'S Cherry Pectoral

soothes and heals the wounded throat and lungs. You escape an attack of consumption with all its terrible suffering and uncertain results. There is nothing so bad for the throat and lungs as coughing. A 25c. bottle will cure an ordinary cough; harder coughs will need a 50c. size; the dollar bottle is cheapest in the long run.

"One of my sons was splitting blood with a high fever and was very ill. We could hardly see an sign of life in him. The doctors said it was no good. But one bottle of your Cherry Pectoral cured him and saved his life." C. G. ANDERSON, Nov. 10, 1888. Pullman, S. Dak.

Write the Doctor. If you have completely exhausted and desire the best medical advice, write the Doctor for a free trial.

Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1901.

NUMBER 8.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE.
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the bank.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

H. B.

USE YOUR LIGHT.

Light is an element upon which all growth and enlargement is dependent. In the physical world other elements, such as air, heat and moisture in combination with that of light, are needful for full development in the various phases of life manifest. But in the spiritual, the most important part of man's nature, light must have a controlling influence, if the perfection designed by the Creator for the highest salvation of the soul is reached. In other words, intelligence, knowledge, understanding, as revealed and inspired by the Holy Spirit, will cause the formation of a character that will ultimate in perfection if permitted to continue its work until the end. Like all other gifts of the Creator, the more completely this important one of light and intelligence is used, the more fully it fulfills its functions as designed; and one of the most satisfactory experiences connected with its exercise is, that the more it is used, the greater is the capacity for its use enlarged, until height, and depth, length and breadth are extended, and man shall know as he is known, and shall comprehend the invisible things of God by those "things which do appear."

Intelligence acquired in obedience to the laws revealed for its acquisition, becomes a part of the individual character, so long as it is lawfully retained. This is indicated by the Savior's instruction, "Let your light so shine that others, seeing your good works, may glorify your Father which is in heaven." It is a gift from the Father, and is bestowed that it may be used in the enlightenment of others who desire to possess it, and to have eternal life. It is not given for the elevation, alone, of the one upon whom it is bestowed, for the Savior, in admonishing his disciples to make good use of this gift of light, declared, "Neither do men light a candle and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house." (Matt. 5: 15). So that the evident intention in the giving of light is that men and women may see, may comprehend and understand the things of God, and thus be led to glorify the Giver by walking and living therein. How applicable, then, and full of force is the promise of the Savior, when the conditions laid down, or attaching to the promise, are observed:

If ye CONTINUE in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.—John 8: 31, 32.

The word of the Lord is truth. Jesus so affirms when he prays: Sanctify them [His disciples] through thy truth: thy word is truth.—John 17: 17.

Evidently, then, if light is freedom, if the truth gives liberty, its opposite, darkness, is bondage; error is enslaving. If truth and light exalt and uplift, darkness and error debase and lower; and this gives emphasis to the saying of our Lord, "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." (John 8: 36). How satisfactory it is to feel a perfect freedom; to know that one's course is in truth, because it is in harmony with that which has been revealed especially to guide the children of men in the right way, the narrow way. Uncertainty and doubt bring misery and distress, and are directly the results of the influence of darkness. Light is assuring, comforting and confirming; even the Pharisees recognized that the Savior, whom they hated and despised, spoke with such decision as to inspire confidence in the minds of those who were not so darkened in intellect and so blinded by prejudice that they could not comprehend light when it shone upon them.

Upon those to whom light comes, is laid a duty and responsibility to make such good use of it that men may be saved and the Father glorified; but in no other way can this be realized than by doing the things commanded of Him, and exemplified in the life of the Savior. The "doer of the work," is the one who shall be blessed in his deeds as the Apostle James testifies. With this fact before us, what are we, as Saints, as His followers, doing with the light which has been revealed in these last days? The Lord works through agencies today the same as He did in other ages. In the days of the apostles contemporary with the ministry of our Lord, the Saints, after His resurrection, were "scattered abroad." There was a purpose in that scattering, for it is written, "Therefore they that were scattered abroad went everywhere PREACHING THE WORD." (Acts 8: 4). And today many of the Saints are living in lonely and isolated conditions, so far as church privileges and associations are concerned, but because of their hungering for the bread of life, and their desire that others may enjoy the light of the everlasting gospel, they are using their influence in making the name of Saint honorable among their acquaintance, leaving their association with the light and Spirit which is in them, so that the ministers for Christ may water the seed sown and draw others to the fold of Christ.

In how many instances has it been shown in our experience, where the very fact of a scattered and isolated condition of one brother, or a sister; of a family, or two, has made it possible to introduce the gospel in a neighborhood from which many precious sheaves have been garnered? It may have taken years of patient, steadfast labor on the part of the isolated ones; perhaps many trying and discouraging hours have been experienced, and perhaps there has been despair of results because no visible encouragement was manifest by which the efficacy of the work being done was given; but the Father has not forgotten the efforts made, and when the elders have come at last, the surprising and gratifying interest shown in the preaching of the gospel, testified that the humble endeavors of these faithful Saints to let their light shine, had been sanctified to the good of the "sheep;" the heaven had been surely, even if it was slowly, working, and the harvest justified the wisdom of God in ordaining that some should be "scattered" for a time, that the word might be preached "everywhere."

How encouraged are God's servants when they go into a neighborhood where a few Saints, or even where only one, have lived for years, to find that such are honorably spoken of, though their faith, the doctrine they love and teach, may not have found much favor, or made much progress, because of misunderstanding and prejudice. Many times has this testimony been borne of these faithful ones: "They are better than their doctrine." This, of course is a fallacy, for no man can be better than the influence which dominates or controls him; and while such testimony is indicative of prejudice and lack of understanding, it is likewise an evidence that those who have lived the standard of righteousness in those places, have compelled respect for themselves, and, to a certain extent, for the doctrine of Christ as they hold it.

To be deprived of the fellowship and association of those of like precious faith is sometimes hard to bear, its loss is often keenly felt; but "sacrifice brings forth the blessings of heaven," is a truth to which the experience of ages has testified, and when ones circumstances are such as to impose an isolated condition, the sacrifice should be accepted cheerfully, in the assurance that in due time other conditions will prevail; and while environments are such as to preclude the association with those who are in sympathy with the restored gospel, Saints will endeavor to make the best possible use of the opportunities open to them to bear their testimony, in precept and example, trusting that they have been placed in that condition that others might hear the gospel, and be given the privilege of enjoying its benefits. They can do this. They MUST do it, if they use properly the light which has blessed their life and spirit. They can make a home for the elders when they come to gather the sheep into the fold, and truly blessed are all those who faithfully magnify their calling, as Saints and children of God, in doing work for His cause.

Take courage, ye lonely ones, you are only doing what others have done for the Master and for the salvation of others in ages ago. Be not discouraged if fruitage is long in appearing. If you are living consistently, and sowing the seed wisely, as opportunity is offered or made, the lack of interest will not be laid to your charge. Satan is mighty, and is a hindering force that can neither be overlooked nor despised. Press on patiently and faithfully, and in His own good time the Father will give the increase, and you shall greatly rejoice, with the angels in heaven, over your work. Trust Him and "Let your light shine."

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

ELDER JAS. MOLER's address is now Holden, Missouri, instead of Limerick, Ohio.

BRO. C. W. ETHRIDGE, Effingham, Kansas, expresses his thankfulness for the privilege of being with a branch of the church and having the association of the Saints.

BRO. W. O. FISHEL, Kinmundy, Illinois, earnestly requests prayers for his wife's recovery. She is suffering from lung trouble. He says the Saints there, though few in number, are trying to live faithfully; are holding prayer meetings regularly.

It ought to be generally understood that the editor of a paper does not assume responsibility for the positions which may be assumed by contributors who write for its columns; he is only accountable for what he may express editorially, though he is expected to exercise as good judgment in that which may be accepted as suitable to present for the consideration of his readers, as the means at his command permit. But some good brethren seem not to understand this fact, and are inclined to think that even in the advertisements accepted, he stands sponsor for any view that may be stated, though in reality such view or views may be the very opposite to his own belief. This is incorrect; no one should be held as endorsing the positions another takes unless his acceptance of such views has been stated. An advertisement is space purchased and paid for by the advertiser. Those who do not desire nor favor that which he offers for sale need not patronize the advertiser, and should pay no attention to it. There are others, however, who may want to possess the article advertised; to them it is of sufficient merit to induce them to secure that which is offered, and none should be offended if they thus act. Saints should be broad enough to allow their follows the exercise of their own judgment in these matters even as they expect others to extend to them. Keep it in memory then that only for his own views, expressed editorially, is an editor responsible, and when disagreeing with anything published, remember that such difference is wholly and solely with the individual to whom the article is credited.

ANY one having a copy of Sr. Lucy Smith's history with which they will part, please notify E. F. Shupe, 3633 Clayton St., Denver, Colorado, stating price.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

MARY A. COLPITTS, Promise, Oregon, Jan. 13:

I am a member of the church and am one of the many who don't get to hear anyone of our Saints preach, for there is not one besides myself here. If any of the elders come this way, would like to have them stop; they will find a good home and plenty to eat.

MARY S. MOORE, Albany, Oregon, January 7th:

The ENSIGN is all the preacher we have here; we cannot even get a letter from one of our preachers, but would like very much for one to come here in this neighborhood. My husband and I are the only ones who belong to the Latter Day Saint church within ten miles of here that we know of, so you see we are alone in a Campbellite stronghold. Ever hoping and praying for the upbuilding of Zion.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

If those desiring the DAILY ENSIGN during the coming General Conference will send in their orders as soon as possible, it will assist us in having our lists arranged in advance, which is necessary in order that they receive the first issues on time. The first issue will be published April 6th, and the last, the day Conference adjourns. Price 25 cents for entire session. Send orders to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Sr. I. N. White was threatened with an attack of typhoid fever this week, and, though still suffering somewhat, is improving, we are glad to say.

Bishop W. H. Pease, of Kansas City, Kansas, is expected to address the Saints here next Sunday morning. It was so announced Wednesday evening.

Bro. Geo. H. Hulmes, Sr., had a severe attack of pneumonia last week, but we are glad to record is again convalescing, though still confined to his home.

Practice for the cantata, to be given at the stone church, Thursday evening, March 14th, is occupying the attention of our singers considerably these days. This cantata will be one of the enjoyable events of the winter. Don't miss it. Organ fund gets the benefit. Admission for adults, 25 cents; children 15 cents.

Z. L. and M. L. Newland, of Liberty, Missouri, were baptized Sunday after the morning service, by Priest W. H. Murphy. They were confirmed at the afternoon service by Bishop R. May and Apostle Joseph Luff, respectively. The youngest son of Bro. and Sr. Frank Rudd was blessed at the same time, Bishop May being spokesman.

Work on the coloring of walls of the main auditorium of the stone church was begun Wednesday morning. It is expected that it will be completed by Saturday. The bishop called for volunteers Wednesday night, to help clean up the floors on Saturday. We hope there will be a hearty response so that service may be held there Sunday morning.

Bro. George Hayward has added an improvement of his own to his splendid phonograph by which two to four horns may be used at the same time, thus multiplying the force and effect of the piece rendered. It can be heard for quite a distance. A number of very pleasant evenings may be spent in listening to the very numerous selections he possesses.

Bro. J. A. Robinson, Sr., narrowly escaped a serious injury one day last week; while using the elevator at his warehouse a spring dropped out and struck him upon the head cutting a gash, necessitating a number of stitches. He had on a soft felt hat creased down at the top of the crown; the bolt or spring struck this lap, and it is that fortunate circumstance that the injury was not more serious.

Sunday was a fine day so that many were enabled to attend the various services at the church. Bro. Joseph Luff occupied the pulpit at the morning hour, preaching the funeral sermon of Lena May, the six year old daughter of Bro. John B. and Sr. Mattie E. Burnham, who died of scarlet fever Friday of last week, after an illness of four days, the interment having taken place Saturday. At night Bro. I. N. White preached a practical sermon in which much good instructions were given the Saints. The afternoon service was well attended and uplifting.

A pleasant surprise party gathered at the home of Bro. and Sr. W. H. Garrett, Fuller street, Wednesday evening, the victims being Bro. Henry Hendrickson and Mrs. Emma Hendrickson and Alice Garrett, the occasion being the celebration of their birthdays. The young people enjoyed themselves as only young people can. Refreshments were furnished by and served at Bro. and Sr. James Hendrickson's, next door to Bro. Garrett's. The tasteful arrangement of the tables under the supervision of Mrs. Lottie Gould and Lizzie Kelley presented a very inviting appearance and was a credit to their good judgment in such matters and on short notice.

Bro. M. T. Short returned home Tuesday evening, and the same night his home was visited by burglars who seemingly first sampled Sr. Short's culinary abilities, and satisfying their hunger, proceeded to investigate as to the pecuniary wealth attaching to a L. D. S. missionary. Before they finished, however, they apparently became alarmed and left, carrying Bro. Short's coat with them, but probably found that it required more avoirdupois than they possessed to successfully use it, and discarded it near the railroad where Bro. Short found it next morning. The same night some of the same gang visited Bishop Ellis Short's, but aside from ransacking the house and visiting the pantry no damage resulted, and nothing was taken. It was a "Short" night and the results were in harmony with their condition, they continued "short."

ST. JOSEPH, MISSOURI.

Sunday was a beautiful day, and the Sunday School and other services were all well attended. Rev. Daniels, a follower of St. Thomas, occupied the stand in the morning, and Bro. Cather spoke to a large and attentive audience in the evening.

Bro. Robert Winning, who had been to Denver on a business trip, called upon his family Monday of last week; he left Tuesday for the East, where he has been since last November.

One of the pleasant events of the week was a surprise given to Sr. Wm. Lewis, on her birthday, February 12th, by her family. Bro. Lewis, who was in the secret, kept back preparations for the evening meal until the family arrived, who served supper.

The infant daughter of Bro. and Sr. Milton Kineman was blessed at the prayer service Sunday evening, by Elders Wm. Lewis and R. Archibald, and named Pearl Luella.

The social service, Sunday evening, was well occupied, and was a spiritual feast. The Spirit was present in great power. Bro. Dobson, who has been sorely afflicted for some time, met with us. He spoke hopefully for the future.

There are still a great many on our sick list. A. B.

February 18.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 19th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Bro. Clarence E. Mead, a former resident of Chicago, is returning and will re-locate here. He has lived in the north regions for ten years.

We held a pleasant meeting yesterday morning at West Pullman, speaking from Isaiah 21: 6. Some here are preparing to move Zionward in the spring. In the evening we had a very enjoyable meeting at the mission, where the words of the hymn which was sung, "Prophets are restored again," suggested the theme upon which we spoke with good liberty. A number here are near the kingdom, among whom is an intelligent native of Ceylon, who is here studying American ways.

We were pleased to form a hasty acquaintance with Mr. Charles Most, whose father, J. W. Most, is an elder in the church and the elder of Buchanan, Michigan, branch. He is located here and we hope he will soon be not only almost but altogether a member of the kingdom.

Bro. P. Pement occupied on the west side at the 3 o'clock hour yesterday, and Bro. F. M. Cooper in the evening. Both efforts were well spoken of.

Sr. Laura B. Trumble and Mr. Harry Robertson were married in the southern part of the city on Thursday night by Elder F. J. D. Earl. They are from Hartford, Michigan, which will be their future home. Success to them is our wish.

We were called on Thursday by telegram to Fulton, Iowa, to attend the funeral of Bro. Levi Roush, the father of our honored brother and missionary, J. B. Roush. Bro. Roush passed away on the 18th after a protracted illness with consumption. Three sons preceded the father to the spirit world, leaving but one child (save an adopted daughter) to comfort the bereaved wife and mother. Bro. Roush was held in high esteem by his neighbors, which was attested by a large number at the solemn services held in the chapel on his farm on the 15th. Thanks are due the Fulton choir for their beautiful and appropriate singing, also to the Fulton I. O. O. F. lodge who took charge of the remains and buried it according to their solemn ritual. We found Bro. J. B. in poor health, yet patient and hopeful and bearing it without a murmur. He will return soon to his Colorado home where his health is some better. Bro.

Roush was nearing 58 years of age when he passed away.

Sr. Tessie Williamson is in the city with an eye on the world of fashion as seen from a Chicago standpoint. Millinery is her special line, representing a business in your city; but Tessie thinks of more than hats, ribbons and flowers, for she loves the gospel and its auxiliaries.

We were pleased to form acquaintance with Bro. John Heide while at Fulton, with whom we dined, and his estimable family. Two stalwart boys of 19 and 21 head the list, the younger being the taller and he attributes it to being spanked more when younger. Bro. John is in charge of the branch, also bishop's agent for the district. We also there met his brother, who is county recorder of deeds, in whose sleigh we enjoyed a pleasant ride back to Maquoketa, where we took train for home. We enjoyed the change from city life, though poorly in health ourselves.

We want to stand upon the side of right and mercy so when these principles triumph we may wear the victor's laurels.

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ordan Ave., Feb. 18.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street. Services: Wednesday evening, prayer service. Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave., services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:40 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Mrs. Fred Johnson is more happily privileged than most of us; she flits away whenever she chooses, and comes back radiant with the joy of pleasuring with friends.

At the business meeting of last Tuesday Bro. Russel Archibald was chosen branch president.

Our own little son, Philip, celebrated his fifth birthday anniversary, Tuesday, February the 12th.

Saturday last Bro. and Sr. S. R. Burgess started eastward; Bro. Burgess to transact business, while Sr. Burgess will improve the time in sight seeing.

Bro. Archibald was the speaker twice upon yesterday; Bro. Barraclough going to Belleville. We know naught of the other appointments.

Bro. Allen is away from the city; has not been here for some weeks.

Sr. Marcy Molyneaux is far from well; Sr. Christenson's little son, Paul, is afflicted with the measles, we hear, and there are quite a number who are not in good health.

This week, Thursday night, the Mite Society celebrates its 20th anniversary with a tea party, also entertainment in the basement of the church.

Friday night the Cheltenham Saints have a supper and entertainment.

The young people enjoyed a valentine social at the home of Sr. Lottie Cook, on Dan Cupid's evening. They had a splendid time, "so the folks say."

Brs. Gordon Smith and Jos. Swift presided at yesterday's social service; the time was very well occupied.

Bro. Evan Davis, late of Independence, has decided to remain in St. Louis.

ETTA.

February 18.

FIRST KANSAS CITY BRANCH.
2324 Wabash Ave., Sunday School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. social service 12:15 p. m. D. F. Winn, pastor, 2306 Bellfontaine; telephone 205 Union. Superintendent Sunday School, E. Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect; telephone 1306. Missionary in charge, J. D. White, 609 Main St.; telephone 1358.

Your correspondent has been frozen up, but the warm weather has thawed us out again.

Things have been running along in very much the same way as usual; the cold weather and icy streets have reduced the attendance at the various services somewhat, but the interest has been good.

Bro. Wm. Blair is home from his western trip and is quite an acquisition to our Sunday School.

Bro. and Sr. W. R. Pickering reached the thirty-first mile stone in their married life on last Wednesday, and invited a few of their friends to celebrate with them. A very enjoyable evening was passed, and on parting some hoped they might meet them for a similar purpose in another thirty-one years, but a wiser one (no doubt remembering the scene at the table) said, "Rather let us hope we shall meet them every year for thirty-one years." Time has surely dealt kindly with Bro. and Sr. P.

Bro. A. D. (Dell) White has associated himself with the Kansas City Commercial Agency, now the Trades' Protective Association, and we understand is well pleased with his new venture.

Sr. D. H. Blair, we understand, has gone to St. Joseph, Missouri, to bid her sister, Mrs. Robert Winning, farewell. She goes to Worcester, Massachusetts, to reside, where Bro. Winning is now in business.

The Religio will entertain its friends on Friday evening, February 22d, at the home of Sr. E. Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect.

Announcements for services on next Sunday are as follows: First Kansas City branch, W. R. Pickering at 11 a. m., and W. O. Hands at 7:30; northeast mission, J. D. White at 11 a. m., and B. J. Scott at 7:30; Chelsea Park branch, Chas. Wooden at 11 a. m., and D. F. Winn at 7:30; Ivanhoe mission, J. D. White at 7:30; West Argentine, W. H. Pease at 7:30.

R. E. PORTER.

February 19.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.
Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line.

During last Wednesday evening's prayer meeting the gift of tongues was exercised by one Saint and the interpretation followed by another. The Holy Spirit spoke to four individuals.

Elder E. T. Atwell, of Cumorah, Missouri, and Ammon White, of Independence, and Sr. Eunice Winn addressed the Religio Friday evening.

Sr. Eva Bailey, district Sunday School superintendent, spoke to the Sunday School Sunday morning on some of the topics that will be presented at district convention, March 8th. Sr. Bailey says she is glad to see the improvements since last she met with the Sunday School. The membership has increased twenty-seven members since last report. Elder C. De Puy, of Lees Summit, attended Sunday School, and preached to the branch at the morning service. He said that he was aware that there is an interest taken in this part of the Lord's vineyard that is beyond common. He presented the gospel of Jesus Christ in an effective manner, using as a text 1 Timothy 15th and 16th verses. The sermon was edifying. Elder D. F. Winn, of the First Kansas City branch, was the speaker at the evening meeting, using 33d verse, 6th chapter of Matthew. He showed where the "kingdom of God" existed in the time of Abraham, Moses, and others before the birth of Jesus. There was good attendance all day.

Social Thursday evening, February 21st.

JOHN C. GRAINGER.
February 10.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Zion's Religio-Literary Society Sunday evening at 6 p. m.

The weather is again fine, made to our order, seemingly, for the district conference.

Elder J. B. Roush was called to Iowa the 5th inst. on account of the serious illness of his father, who, we learn since, has died.

The district conference met at the Saints' church Saturday, the 16th, at 10 a. m. In the absence of the district president, Elder E. F. Shupe was chosen to preside. The business sessions were very harmonious, the yeas and nays only being called in the election of district officers. J. B. Roush was elected president; K. Sei vice president, and A. E. Tabor secretary and treasurer. A fair representation was given us by the press of the city. The bishop's agent reported receipts of $521.73 for the past six months, a pretty good showing for the district, we think. The ministerial reports show considerable improvement all over the district. The committee on church building at Wray reported over $700.00 subscribed towards a church and the committee will proceed to erect said church immediately.

One special feature of the conference was the appointing of a committee to draft a memorial to General Conference requesting them to appoint a committee to wait on Mr. Carnegie and present the condition of Graceland and the Saints' Home to see if he may not be induced to help them financially in his distribution of millions to institutions of learning.

The preaching services were as follows: Saturday night, Elder G. E. McConley; Sunday morning, J. Frank Curtis; Sunday evening, Emsley Curtis.

The prayer and sacrament service Sunday at 3 p. m. was a time long to be remembered; the Spirit was present from beginning to end.

Bro. Gilbert's choir rendered good service during the conference.

Sr. Lenore Schmutz returned Saturday from Lawrence, Kansas, where she has been attending the University. S.

February 18.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.
Services at "Druid's Temple," Cor. 14th and Polson Sts. Sunday School 9:45 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sacrament meeting on first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin, presiding elder; residence 3010 16th street.

At our branch business meeting four members were received by letter, so we are still adding to our number. Our course is upward and onward.

At the Friday evening Religio three new members were received, one being Bro. Johnson, formerly of the Lang mission, Chicago. The newly elected officers are as follows: President, Sr. M. A. Saxe; vice-president, Sr. C. A. Parkin; secretary, Sr. R. C. Davis; treasurer, Chas. A. Parkin; corresponding secretary, Miss Edna Mills; pianist, Helen Saxe; chorister, Edna Mills; librarian, Sr. C. A. Parkin; lookout committee, Mrs. Davis, Parkin and Roberts, Brn. Lawn and Lincoln. Our Religio meetings are well attended now and good interest taken therein.

Sunday we had preaching at 11 a. m. by Bishop C. A. Parkin and at 7:30 p. m. by the writer. There was a good congregation at both services and good attention given to the speakers. Our services were never better attended than now. There are always some strangers present also. We are alive in the work.

Last night at our prayer meeting we were very much pleased to meet Brn. Hilliard and Blakeslee of the Bishopric, and we were glad to hear their words of encouragement in regard to the advancement made by our cause all over the land. Bro. Ward from Seattle also worshipped with us and mingled his voice with ours. Bro. Lander was ordained to the office of teacher. A good, peaceful spirit prevailed throughout the meeting.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.
February 14.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

STEWARTSVILLE, Mo., Feb. 18.

Elder Ensign:—I am still laboring along in company with Mr. Grip. I find it very hard to preach with him.

Owing to sickness at Gospel Hill there will be no two days meeting there next Saturday and Sunday, 23d and 24th. The work is onward in the Far West district. The Saints at St. Joseph are getting along fine under President William Lewis' directions. Bro. M. Shaw is holding up his part of the work at the Aspey mission. He has baptized several. The officers and members of other branches I have visited are acting well their part. I have learned that when the local authorities do their duty, in seeing that the law of God is kept, the church is onward. This should be the order everywhere.

We ordained Bro. G. A. Summerfield a priest last night.

Yours truly,
J. C. Foss.

BIG CABIN, I. T., Jan. 29.

Elder Ensign:—Bro. W. H. Smart recently preached six sermons here with good attention and crowded house. This is a new place and some of the citizens invited Bro. Smart out to see them; one lady came up and shook hands with him at the close of the meeting and said that he preached the Bible. They want more preaching here.

Bro. Smart has gone to other parts but will be back soon and preach more for them.

I was baptized by Bro. Smart last July when on his way to Oklahoma, and I thank God that my eyes were opened so I could see the truth. One lady had a dream the night that Bro. Smart preached on the Book of Mormon. She belongs to one of the sects. She dreamed that she baked the finest light bread, and when she broke off a piece and tasted it, it did not have any salt in it—no savor.

Any elder coming this way will be welcome at my house and there is a good opening here.

Yours for the faith that was once delivered to the Saints,
J. R. HACKER.

SELDEN, KANS., Jan. 31.

Elder Ensign:—We came here from Fairfield, Nebraska, last September, and have been talking to the people, finding a number belonging to other churches who have a great desire to hear the gospel. We are having good success in showing the gospel.

My wife was at one of the neighbors who opposes the work, and the Lord led the way in debate so the ladies had to give it up. It seems that the Lord is working with us and we are anxious to have the gospel spread in this part of His vineyard.

There is one more family of Saints here by the name of Davis, and if you can help us in getting a preacher please let us know through the Extoner who we can get. We are not particular who we get so he is a good man. Any elder going through we would be glad to have stop, and if they will let us know we would go and get them. We have a school-house and the promise of a crowd; that is all we can do. Help us in getting an elder if you can, and oblige. Bro. Davis and wife we find to be good Saints. May God's blessings be upon all His people in thy prayer.

JAMES TEETER.

WINTHROP, ARK., Jan. 23.

Elder Ensign:—Elder J. D. Erwin is sounding the gospel with good liberty. We will have preaching tonight again and it may continue all the week. Some seem to be nearing the kingdom; hope much good will be done. We know all the honest in heart will be gathered into the fold. I hope to be able to attend Conference in April. I have been wonderfully blessed since I obeyed the gospel. I try at every opportunity to present the truth. I have two Sundays regular appointments out at different places. Pray for me that I may be able to hold out to the end that I may be found with oil in my lamp.

Yours for the truth,
J. R. MCKINNEY.

MALAD CITY, Ida., Jan. 5.

Elder Ensign:—Having been a reader of your pages for nearly two years I thought I would say a few words in its behalf. I find it a beautiful fire-side preacher; I wouldn't wish to be without its preachers are very scarce with us, or at least the kind of preachers that I believe are beneficial. We are rather isolated, living about twelve miles from the nearest branch, but are making an effort to meet with them each Sunday.

Bro. D. W. Wight organized a Sunday School while here about a year ago and we are taking part and find that the good Lord is blessing us in so doing. He is also blessing the efforts of the School. The first few weeks we had but ten or twelve, but our average attendance now ranges from thirty to forty.

I believe there is a better prospect for the church here in Malad than there has been for some time, if we will each be diligent in performing the work assigned us, for the Lord loveth a willing worker. As for me I hope I shall always be found striving to work for the Master, for in so doing I find rest to the weary soul. The evil one is ever ready to turn our attention away from the things of God, but if we will be prayerful and also watchful, we will come out victorious at the end. My prayers are that we may all continue faithful. I ask an interest in the prayers of the Saints everywhere.

Your brother in Christ,
ELIAS E. RICHARDS.

RAYMOND, MO., Jan. 13.

Dear Ensign:—The ENSIGN is a welcome visitor to us. I very much enjoy reading its pages, and especially the sermons that come every week; they are full of thought and comfort to us. We are living one mile south of Raymond, a small town on a branch line of the Fort Scott & Memphis railroad, in Cass county. This is a beautiful country, and a fine community. There are none of our faith here, but we find them very kind, good neighbors. There are three churches in Raymond, Methodist, Protestant, United Brethren and Presbyterians, all very attentive to their church. I go sometimes but always come away feeling sorry for them. Just to think that nice, intelligent people are so blinded and will not receive the truth when they hear it. They are honest in their belief and it will be a while before they see any differently, but I hope and pray that the time will soon come that all may see and understand the truth.

It has been twenty-five years since my husband and myself united with the church, and I can truthfully say I am just as firm in the faith today as I ever was; there is nothing else that will satisfy me. And now as we have just entered into a new country, I want to try to lay aside every evil that may hinder in any way; as we are growing older each day we should try to grow better.

We are having fine weather; it doesn't seem like winter. Christmas has come and gone, and on that day our youngest daughter was married to Bro. Oscar Hayden. They left the next morning for Stewartsville, their future home. May joy and happiness attend them. I will close, ever praying for the welfare of God's people.

Your sister in the one faith,
JENNET ARMSTRONG.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Jan. 28.

Elder Ensign:—Thinking some would like to hear from the Taylorville branch I will send you a few items.

We have a small church 30x46 feet, a membership of 45, a Sunday School of about 50, it convenes 9:30 a. m.; also preaching 11 a. m., social meeting at 2:30 p. m., evening service 7 o'clock every Sunday, also Wednesday night prayer meeting. Elder Luther Simpson, president; Bro. Thomas Broad, presiding priest; Bro. J. G. Ettinger, teacher; Bro. Wm. Griffiths, deacon. Our branch was organized about a year ago, and a newly laid out district, and is without a missionary therefore we are very much pleased when some of them come.

Elder Arthur Allen came out from St. Louis and gave us a week's discourse upon the restored gospel; not very large crowds but some very much interested. Come again, brother. Bro. Abram Jones' family and relatives were called to Caseyville January 27th, to attend the funeral of the mother of Sr. Jones; Bro. Allen was to officiate.

A. M. S.

UNDERWOOD, Ia., Feb. 3.

Dear Ensign:—I like to read of the progress of the work in other places and perhaps some would like to hear from this place. The work here is doing very well. There are three branches of the church near here where there are meetings and Sunday School held every Sunday, and at one place the Religio is also held. The young are taking an active part in the Sunday School and Religio. What a blessed privilege it is to be able to do something for the Master; when we think of all He has done for us, how willing we should be to work for His cause.

But I am afraid a good many of my young people are guilty of doing as Sr. Laura Lafferty writes, that in prayer meeting we permit the older ones to do the work. It is our duty to bear testimony for God for He truly is with us in this work. I can say as one of old that "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." How thankful we should be that we have had the privilege of obeying the gospel and for the blessings contained therein. I have received many testimonies to the work, I have seen the sick healed and also have been healed myself, through the administration of the elders, and to God be all the praise. Dear Saints, pray for me that I may live faithful and do my duty as a child of God.

Your sister in the gospel,
ANNA OLSON.

CLINTON, Utah, Jan. 30.

Elder Zion's Ensign:—I thought it might be interesting to hear a few lines from us isolated Saints. We are the only family that belongs to our church around here. We try to live the life of a Latter Day Saint as near as we can. The ENSIGN is such a good paper, it brings so much good news to us; it seems like we couldn't do without it. It comes nearly every Sunday, so it is our preacher. I wish we could get people to read them; a few will, but some say, "Oh, there is nothing but religion in them," but I think the day will come when they will wish they had a little more religion.

We take the Quarterly and I have a home-Sunday School; one of our neighbor's children come too, so we have a nice time. I do hope we will some day live where there is a branch of the church. I think our children would grow up to be better men and women. It is so hard to raise a family here. I was baptized October 18, 1896, by Bro. H. O. Smith. Four of our children were baptized the 15th of September, 1899, by Bro. H. N. Hansen. My husband was baptized at our last reunion in September at Pleasant Grove, by Bro. W. S. Pender, and oh, what a happy time that was for me. I can truly say I am so thankful we have obeyed the true gospel.

Bro. Peter Anderson came here the 15th of this month and preached four evenings; he did surely do some good preaching; he showed us the rise of the church and the succession so nice and plain it seems like everybody could understand for he showed it so plain, using nothing but the church books to prove it. The first evening the house was full, but after that there were just a few. Some seemed interested. I think his preaching will do some good here; some of them are afraid to come to our meetings more than one evening, for then they will be called Josephites, and that hurts them.

My prayer is that the Lord will bless and protect all the elders of his church, that they may be wise teachers. Dear Saints, pray for us that we may be true to the gospel of Jesus Christ. I also ask the Saints to pray for me that I may be restored to health and strength.

Your sister in the gospel,
ANNIE E. GARDNER.

ADA, I. T., Jan. 27.

Dear Ensign:—I am still at Ada, hoping some of the elders will soon find this opening and come and preach for this people. We find many who don't know anything about the gospel and want to hear one of our elders preach. We are glad to say that Bro. J. L. Booker aims to come in our town soon, and we are going to try to have a union Sunday School if the Lord wills. We are not caring to let our light go out.

Since we came to Ada the Lord has seen fit to take our little babe from us. She was born at Wilburton, Indian Territory, January 24, and died at Ada, October 5. She was 8 months and 11 days old. Bro. E. A. Erwin blessed her. It is so lonesome without our babe, but I know it is a blessing to her, for of such is the kingdom of God. Let us all watch and pray.

Hoping to hear from some of the Saints at Shawnee, Texas, or Wilburton, Indian Territory, I remain

Your sister in the one faith,
FANNIE REED.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

SOCIETY ISLANDS MISSION.

Editor Ensign.—It has been some time since I penned anything for your pages, for which I almost feel to ask your forgiveness; for when I consider that you send me your paper at such an extremely low price, it reminds me that I should do, at least, a little to enlighten your readers concerning the prospects of the work we so much love, in this far off mission.

At our April conference in Papeete the publication of the church paper here was suspended on account of its cost, which I was really glad of (though I took no part in suspending it) for it rather liberated me for the work of the ministry, which I was anxious to perform. So immediately after the conference, we started out to magnify our calling, cutting ourselves loose from all who speak our own native tongue, resolving to learn the Tahitian or perish in the attempt. Our first landing was at Avatoru Rairoa, one of the largest, if not the very largest, island in the Tuamotus.

When we steamed into the harbor a church bell was ringing and very much reminded us of home as the sound of the bell was loud and clear on the morning air, and was especially gratifying at that time, as it told of a steady place to set our feet. I always preferred going afoot in America rather than on horseback, for the reason that I did not like the shaking. It reminded me too much of a terrier shaking a rat. But on a boat it is worse yet, much worse. The dreaded sea sickness has not more horror to me than the continual, ceaseless plunging, rolling and shaking of a boat. One almost feels as if they would be willing to go to the bottom if one could be quiet.

Arriving on shore we found only one Saint among the bystanders, later three others put in an appearance, one a very feeble old man, too old to go to conference, another a girl of thirteen summers. But summers here are twice as long as in America, so also girls are twice as large; many of them full women grown at eleven and twelve years of age. Well, they four and we two made six. Fully as many as held membership in the church on the 6th of April, 1830. While there was no Peterson in the church April 6, 1830, one got in on the 18th day of the same month, and the church has not been without that name ever since, I think. This, of course, is not saying the church could not exist without that name on the record, possibly they were more bother than good. Well, there were two Petersons among the six at Avatoru, and while we are not given much to blowing our own horns (possibly we are not so capable of doing so as some are) yet we went to work trying to learn more of the language so we could instruct the Saints when they returned from conference. Time and again we gave up in despair and finally despaired altogether. Time and again I said to my wife, "If ever I go on another mission, I'll go where people understand English, or else I'll stay at home. The idea of coming out here and spending three, four or more years not being understood nor understanding any one, is, to say the least, wasting time." Ten months without preaching over a dozen sermons makes me feel as if nearly two hundred sermons were stored away in me somewhere, and yet I don't weigh over one hundred and ten pounds. At that rate I suppose my sermons are not very weighty.

A few days after we landed the church bell sounded, not the fine large and loud one we heard, but a broken one, which the Saints soon hope to replace by a new one. The six Saints and about twenty others soon gathered at the Saints' church, a respectable building of flooring, good seats and iron roof, as I supposed for prayer meeting, when the old brother, a priest, asked me to take charge. But I told him as best I could, more by signs than words, to go ahead as I did not understand Tahitian. He opened the meeting, and after the second song told 'the people I would now talk to them. There was nothing for me to do but to try, but it was only a trial and not over five minutes of that, but they seemed quite satisfied, and I know I was. Satisfied that I could not talk such a backward, mixed up language; however, I tried again and again for three successive Sundays, to fail each time as I had before. During this time we lived on coconuts and fish mostly, as the quarantine in Papeete had shut off the foreign food supply; and on these coral islands no fruit of any kind grows and rarely any vegetables.

After a week or two the Saints mostly arrived home from conference, until we had quite a respectable branch. About the first of June we left for the island of Tikehau, twenty-eight miles distant. We had scarcely gotten over our trip from Papeete but as this was so short a distance we anticipated a pleasant journey. While pleasant anticipations relieve us of many distresses, they prove themselves mostly to be only mere guesses, for scarcely had we gotten well out to sea than a dark cloud straight ahead showed disfavor, and I might here remark, that with one single exception, when we have gone to sea we have encountered a storm that astonished the natives.

By ten p. m. the storm was upon us and all night we were driven hither and thither, the wind frequently changing. All night we soldiered it on deck in the storm, drenched to the skin and shivering with cold. In the morning no one knew exactly where we were, though it was most impossible for us to be out of sight of land. About noon, land hove in sight, in the most unfavorable position, and though we tried hard we did not reach the opening in the coral reef until about nine o'clock at night, and then the sea was coming out so swiftly, owing to the action of both wind and tide, that it was impossible for us to, get even near enough to anchor; so we had to lay off shore all night. Next morning, Sunday, we entered the lagoon with the city in sight some three or four miles away, but the proprietors of the boat as also the captain and crew, said the Saints and everybody else were on the other side gathering coconuts. Food being scarce, Mr. Schacht, a white trader, proprietor of the boat, or rather agent for the proprietor, and most of the crew went ashore with guns and spears. The white man to hunt snipes, the others to spear fish along the shore. Several hours were thus spent, till we gave up all hopes of getting to church until night. Arriving at the yahui (pronounced rahuy), the place, or rather the time for gathering coconuts, only to find the season closed and all the people gone to the city. It was then too late to get to the city that evening as the wind was again in the most unfavorable quarter. We sailed part way, keeping close to shore, but as most of the lagoons are too rocky to admit of night sailing, and especially is this true of this one, we had to anchor for the night. A heavy wind and an unloaded schooner of course made anchoring unsafe, but there was no other way to do. As night came on, with many a wistful look, I desired to go ashore and lie down on the sand or even on a rock, so I could be quiet, but remained on board. I say on board because it is impossible to go below on account of the awful smell of dried coconut, called bufa (boofah). There is not a thing in all this world that I would not rather smell than bufa. Whether rain, sunshine, wind or sea we always stay on deck both night and day, and that too without attempting to eat a bit of food. Of course, sailing vessels coming down from San Francisco are better in some regards, and after about a week one feels like eating a little.

Next day we beat against a heavy wind all day and landed about nine o'clock at night to find everything asleep. We, however, soon found a bed and slept therein, occasionally waking when a rat ran over us. It might not be far from true if I were to say that these islands are regular rat dens, and the worst in the world. Nothing is so bothersome in the houses unless it might be cockroaches, or ants, or mosquitoes, or centipedes or fleas. Next day the duties of the household fell on wife, poor girl. It is almost a shame to send a woman to this mission. They are compelled to lay around on deck, as there is no possibility of standing up, owing to the motion of the boat, and to sit up on the boat is to sit down on the deck, as chairs would be in the way, and besides, if they were not they would upset. However, things will be more pleasant now, we hope, as the government talks of putting on two steamers; indeed they have talked of it a long while but they are not on yet.

On account of exposure to wind, sun and weather, I was too sick to leave my bed. My work as well as hers fell on her, and she was nearly as sick as I. For a week I was in bed most of the time; added to the worst cold I had ever had up to the time I left Avatoru, it was almost doubled from four days of exposure without food, as described above. Besides a hollow tooth began a ceaseless crusade all over one side of my face, and, worse yet, the extreme light, and a weakened condition of body for lack of nourishment, helped out, no doubt, by my neuralgia tooth, gave me such pain in my eyes that for several days I was compelled to tie a dark cloth over them to exclude the light. The pain was so extreme I was fearful of losing my sight, and occasionally, when I did peep out from under my dark cloth, I could see tears coursing down the cheek of her who has so far been my only companion, and done her part in the mission without complaint. Sick and blind I lay upon my bed realizing that we were among strangers and those whose customs, habits and language were different from ours; far, far from home, without money, and seeing the tears coursing one after another down the sunken cheek of my only companion in this lonesome mission, I confess that it was not the most pleasant experience I have seen in life.

I did not feel to murmur nor complain, realizing that God was over all, and knew all, and that I was in His hands; if He desired me to pass through this dark cloud to see the golden sunshine on the other side I should not complain. If this trial was given to teach me some lesson, then it was a disgrace to me that I was not able to see it without. In such case it would be foolish for me to complain. I could see that it was but a combination of circumstances, and whether God did or did not rule in those matters, it furnished me time for solemn thought.

I conceived the idea of reading very carefully, more carefully than ever before, the book of Doctrine and Covenants, and as I was a servant of Him whose vast wisdom created all things, it was my duty to study to defend my Master rather than to hunt for flaws. I had read the book before with that idea of faultfinding, now I should read it differently.

I was soon able to read again and entered upon my resolution with a joy and peace that indeed was the golden sunshine behind the cloud. I could see as I never had before what a doubtful heart was. Before, I was searching for flaws; I was looking for darkness and not light. With pen in hand I read and marked as I read, until there was scarcely more room on the margin for more notes. It had been suggested to me that I dare not read the revelation of 1841 very closely, so I gave particular attention to it. It is reported that one in authority has said that that revelation was never presented to the quorums for their approval and was really not a law to the church. Whatever may be the opinion of others, I am ready to give my testimony as soon as it enters the second seventy. I do not know if it was or was not presented to the quorums at the time, but I do know that the elders have endorsed it ever since, and that the Conference has many times endorsed the three books as standard of law and doctrine.

An old time Saint said to me, "When you come to the place in that revelation where Joseph orders a hotel built that he might be the landlord, you will not have so much confidence in everything you read." I am frank to confess that I did not come across that statement; in fact, it is not there. That the Lord did reveal the fact that a hotel built after a certain way and run on a certain cleanly, economical plan would be both a blessing to the church and those who desired to study the latter day work, is true. That the Lord or Joseph appointed the prophet, landlord, or made provisions for such an appointment is not true. It simply makes provisions for a governor or landlord, but does not appoint nor indicate Joseph Smith for such position. Others had a place therein without overseeing the business. Joseph had no more than they except an extra burden, for the church of their own accord, after the revelation was given, made him governor. After arranging my marginal references alphabetically in a book I found I had about twice as much matter as there is in the concordance to the Doctrine and Covenants.

The first Sunday in Tikehau I attempted to preach again, but with little better success than in Avatoru. The second Sunday, however, will not be forgotten as long as memories of this mission are in mind. If ever anybody was given the language I was; not for the time being only, but has not left me since. Bro. Burton and wife know that at the April conference I was not able to hold a private conversation without an interpreter; in a little over a month from then I was talking with apparently as much freedom as in English. What a wonderful thing the Holy Spirit is; how past finding out are the ways of God, yet how good and merciful. It is unnecessary for me to say "to God be all glory," because all glory is His. I feel very thankful in all the reasoning faculties of my soul for His condescension to notice one who should be, if not now, His humble servant.

During the month of June we were in Tikehau; the latter part of the month teaching almost every night the principles of the gospel, the Catholics sitting outside the church waiting for an opportunity to object at the close, which was always granted them. Many discussions were had in which we were able to show in contrast truth and error, to the comfort of the Saints. One of the peculiar things is, that though the Lord gave me the language which to this day is a marvel to me, I do not speak it correctly and am scarcely able to read it at all. My language is different from the Bible language, but the Bible language is also different from their everyday language; perhaps more different than the English Bible and the language of today. With Bro. Burton it was the reverse. The natives say he read papu maitai, exactly good, while Bro. B. told me repeatedly that he only spoke a very little, and that very brokenly. In his work as editor that was the best for him, while in my work the blessing I received is just suited to me. What a wonderfully wise Giver.

On the afternoon of July 5d at just 3 o'clock we set sail for Makatea. We had planned to leave at 3 and we left at 3, which is so near a miracle in this country for a native to get ready and leave on time, that it is worth recording. They vary from the set time from two hours to two weeks. Probably Uncle Mark's exactness of manner during his stay there taught them this lesson of promptness. The president of the branch took us in his cutter and landed us next morning at our destination in safety. We have cutters in this country though they do not know what snow is. However, it makes one feel quite cold to go out on the rolling billows in a boat not many times larger than a Wisconsin cutter. The sea was quite smooth on this trip however, and we enjoyed it hugely with no signs of seasickness on my part. When morning dawned we were in sight of Makatea and although sailing under a French flag we sang our national hymns and hurrahed for the Fourth of July and the land of the free. We landed in the forenoon, but as wife has written an account of our visit there to the editor of the Autumn Leaves I will not repeat it here. Our next visit was a return to Avatoru.

We took passage on the Tau Hoa (My Friend), the same boat that we were on four days going twenty-eight miles to Tikehau from Rairoa. The agent had agreed to carry us for five dollars, but charged us ten. On this trip we made no inquiries as to fare, the agent agreeing, however, to land us at the camp of the Saints. Next morning early we were standing off shore at the camp, but the agent would not land us, but beat against a strong head wind all day and landed us about dark at the city on the opposite side of the lagoon from where we were at in the morning; our fare, five dollars. A few Saints were in the city and we were made welcome till morning. After we were landed, our boat sailed a few miles up the lagoon to another city, Tibuta. After she was safely anchored in the harbor with four anchors, a small gale completely wrecked her and the agent lost eighteen tons of bufa which he was personally responsible for, having taken it on board without consulting the owner. This same agent had promised the Saints in March when the schooner was builded, if they would help him launch the boat he would take them to conference and back free of charge. They launched the boat and he took them to conference, but would not return them unless they paid the regular fare, which they were unprepared to do. In consequence they were compelled to remain several months in Papeete contracting a large store bill. This same agent had also promised the Saints of Makatea that he would call and take them to conference, but he never called and they did not get to conference. Is it any wonder that the boat was a complete wreck and that too in a harbor where there were dozens of other boats and none of them injured?

Next day after landing at Avatoru we sought passage on a small trading cutter that was going across the lagoon and return that day, but was refused. Next day, however, one of the brethren came for us and we departed just ahead of the boat that refused us passage the day previous, it making another trip. When near our destination a very small gale just passed us and upset the boat behind, spilling every thing out, including several tons of bufa. I was never in a mission before where God's judgments seem to work so quickly and so surely.

From July 25th to August 25th we spent at the camp of the Saints, teaching them morning and evening, the principles of the gospel. Twice we started to leave for Arutua but each time a storm was, or seemed to be, gathered for our especial benefit. On the evening of August 12th I organized the first Religio in the mission. Long and carefully I studied the matter, and finally decided upon the following plan. Inasmuch as the older people seem to crowd the children out of Sunday School, it was necessary to give special attention to them. In church the older ones seem to sit up front and leave the young folks behind or to go away and play as they pleased. It was, therefore, necessary to seat the youngest first, and limit the membership to those under thirty years of age, and to shame any one who would nominate a relative for any office, a custom largely practiced in this mission, in some places to the detriment of the church.

Of course a Religio cannot be operated here as in America. In the first place very few children can read. In the second place there is very little to read if they could, and in the third place they do not read what they have to read. So I divided the sessions in two parts, the first half hour is to be spent in dialogues and speeches, the latter half in reading church history or other matter from the Orometa, after which questions are asked upon the lesson, and each one is to relate what he hears read. I expect to improve upon the plan as we can, and those coming after us will do the same, of course. I have been told that it would be impossible to establish any new thing here, and especially to improve upon it afterward; but experience has taught me that, with very few exceptions, these people are as anxious to learn and as willing to improve as the Saints in America; and as the Religio is composed mostly of outsiders, they are especially anxious to outlearn the old folks. One Religio I organized at Ahe is the whole talk; much more interest is taken in it than in the branch work, but I soon showed them it was wrong to neglect the church. But as the members of the Religio are very largely non-members, they very much desire to outdo the church, in attendance, at least. Another Religio is committing Lucy Smith's history to memory; it's a new thing now, and will not be so much appreciated after awhile, of course. While I am no more in favor of these human organizations in the church, than human organizations out of the church, yet of course I believe men should "do good of themselves for the power is in them," thus to do. I was very careful to have them select presiding officers from among those ordained for that reason.

If I live to be as old as Methuselah I shall never forget a young people's meeting I presided over in St. Joseph, Missouri, in the Saints' hall, 4th and Francis streets. At that time I held no office in the church, and I received a rebuke from the Lord, which I believe will do me for one life time. Never again will I attempt to perform an official act where the Lord has not called me, nor will I instruct others to do so. For that reason it is but in harmony with the law that an officer of the church should preside. Or if one be found worthy then ordain him. If he is not worthy of an ordination, he is not worthy to preside over the young. As I see it, it were much better if all these societies were a part of the branch work, and all things in the church be done by common consent. If these societies be not considered in the church, then they may regulate their own affairs independent of the common consent of all the members of the branch. In our work here I have had the branches regulate and set in order the Religios, with one or more officers to direct it. In this way we can accomplish all that can possibly be accomplished the other way, and more, besides being in harmony with the law.

August 24th we set sail for Arutua, via Tibuta, where we stopped a few hours. We had not intended to stop at all, as the Saints at that place were all inside diving. When coming out of the harbor the wind suddenly calmed and we were left at the mercy of a very strong current outward bound on top, and as strong a one inward bound beneath. If ever the evil power was in the water we thought it was then. I can best describe it by asking the reader to imagine a boiling teakettle three hundred feet in diameter, tossing the water as high acordingly as an average teakettle would. At that ratio it can be easily seen how we were tossed. Is it any wonder that my wife turned suddenly sick from fright? On account of this we were forced to go ashore until she could gain strength enough to endure the trip. Fortunately a few Saints had come for provisions, who, seeing our danger, gathered a crowd to help us. After throwing us a rope we were pulled near enough to the coral so we could jump ashore. After resting a few hours and refreshing the inner man, or rather the outer man on the inside, we again set sail for our destination, the harbor by this time being quite smooth, and the wind a little stronger. When fairly out to sea we discovered that the wind was straight ahead. We beat against it all afternoon, and at dark was at land's end, and the wind growing stronger, so the brethren anchored the boat for the night. In the morning we set sail again, and by 2 p. m. we were at our destination. Before leaving shore it is the custom to have prayer, and on the boat prayer night and morning, and thanks rendered just before landing. Our things were all brought ashore at the camp of the Saints, and we quartered in the house of Bro. Lui, a French half caste, where we remained only a few days, as we wanted to visit Manihi, Takaroa and Tokapoto, returning to this place in October, where the people of several islands expect to gather and dive for pearls and pearl shells.

CONCLUDED NEXT WEEK.

THIS DO AND LIVE.

Swiftly time is passing, and each day brings us one day nearer the end. Death makes its claims on all, and each day our privileges and opportunities are lessened. There is no time for loitering, but every precious moment should be improved. The injunctions of the Spirit to "come up higher" should not lose its weight with the Saints of God, but should be treated as everlasting food for thought and action. These words, emanating as they have, through the Holy Spirit from the throne of a kind and loving Father, whose only desire and will towards his children is, that they might enjoy all the blessings couched in the gospel covenant, should cause the heart of the Saint to leap for joy, and kindle a glowing aspiration to mount the ladder of duty, and gratefully perform what their hands find to do.

God's people may be assured that they cannot receive the full fruitions of His Spirit, and at the same time seek pleasures, such as the world offers. Jesus said, "Ye cannot serve God and mammon," and we are exhorted in the Roman letter to "be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that acceptable, and perfect will of God" (Rom. 12: 2), indicating that it is hardly possible for men and women, young or old, to prove what is that acceptable and perfect will of God without a transformation in the renewing of the mind. The Apostle Paul precedes this thought with the exhortation: "I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." (Rom. 12: 1). And again, the Lord has revealed unto us in these latter days, that He "cannot look upon sin with the least degree of allowance." It then matters not how harmless and innocent some of the pleasures of this world may seem, yet if there may be connected with it the remotest sin, God cannot look upon it with any degree of allowance.

If God's people are to be a peculiar people, zealously affected, and are to bear the marks of distinction from other people, we then ask in what particular sense will this distinction obtain? We read the character of men and women by their lives, by their actions, by what they do; and I know of no other law, human or divine, upon which we may be able to determine God's people from others. In fact, it seems to be the heaven approved plan, characteristic of the man of God alone, and by which we may determine the lines of distinction from others, in that Jesus said, "He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them; he it is that loveth me." (John 14: 21). And again, through one of his servants, "Shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works." (Jas. 2: 18). Are our minds fully transformed, and can we present our bodies a living sacrifice, until we are able to forsake all for God and Christ? The question has been asked me on various occasions, "Is there any harm in going to the theatre? Is there any harm in dancing?" I merely reply to these questions by asking, Can anyone derive any profitable benefit by a participation in these pleasures? If it deprives any individual of the condition by which they might "prove what is that acceptable and perfect will of God," I then decide, to that degree that it deprives, it is certainly hurtful to the individual.

We have taken an inside view of this question, and we want now to view it from the outside. I make a profession of being a follower of Christ; my neighbor does not. He naturally has his eye on my life because of the profession I make; he observes that my life does not accord with my teachings; as a result, I have no influence with him in a religious way. In business matters his confidence is shaken, and he looks at me and says, If he doesn't practice what he preaches in religious matters, I can't put much confidence in his word in business matters.

It is indeed comforting to know that there are a great many who are making a strenuous effort to live above the world, but it would be much more comforting to see all affected similarly. We cannot be too careful in our living, for Satan is on the alert on every hand, and we should, therefore, heed the admonition of the Apostle Paul,

"shun the very appearance of evil." May we thus offer our lives on the altar of sacrifice, transforming our minds, knowing this, "that the Lord cannot look upon sin with the least degree of allowance."

W. H. PEASE.

609 Main St., KANSAS CITY, MO.
February 5th.

"GIFT OF TONGUES."

Rev. Charles F. Parham, of Topeka and the seven students of his college who claim to have received the "gift of tongues," returned here yesterday and renewed at 1675 Madison avenue their effort to start a revival which shall cause all the people of Kansas City to embrace their peculiar faith. Rev. Mr. Parham in his sermon said God had told him he was to meet with complete success this time.

Mr. Parham is confident the millennium is at hand and that it is to be ushered in by his preaching, and the exhortations, "prophesyings" and speakings-with-tongues of his disciples.

"The day is at hand for the restoration of the apostolic faith," he declared. "Private ownership of land and of all other things will be done away with and all Christian people will pour their money and their all into the coffers of Christ; and then the devil will be chained up and Christ's ideal of fellowship, love and faith in Him will have been realized."

Rev. Mr. Parham was disposed to be critical regarding the beliefs and actions of other professing Christians. He denounced the Spiritualists as frauds.

After complimenting the Catholics for what he termed their willingness "to believe that God can do anything," he scored the infidels, whom he characterized as "ignoramus whose fancies are as vain as a madman's dream."

Then he directed his attention to Mrs. Nation, the now famous Kansas joint smasher. He admitted that he was once something of a joint smasher himself. "I have lived in Kansas for years," he declared, "and once succeeded in closing up and keeping closed, all the joints in a German town. But Mrs. Nation, with her little hatchet and fiery words will prove as complete a failure as have all forms of reformation. There isn't now a city or county or town in Kansas where you can't get whisky if you wear a red nose. The red of your nose will serve as a light to light you safely to the bar or the garret or the cellar where it is kept."

"But if I had all the money that the W. C. T. U. spends in fighting the liquor traffic I could send out spirit moved men and women who would move the world, and who not only save men's bodies from the liquor traffic, but also their souls from the devil."

Rev. Mr. Parham having concluded his discourse, his disciples began to testify—or, in their phraseology, to "prophesy."

Rev. Mr. Parham himself told how, on the preceding night, at a little meeting of the faithful in Kansas City, Kansas, the "gift of tongues" was suddenly conferred upon some who had never had it before. The number of those who were receiving this evidence of the presence of the Holy Ghost was, he said, constantly increasing. He was followed by Mrs. Haskins, a good looking Kansas City woman, who said she had been healed of all her bodily defects. The spectacles she wore might have been suggestive to a hardened disbeliever. Mrs. Haskins also related how, after having labored with the Lord for a prolonged period on the preceding night, the Holy Ghost had visited her, and she had suddenly spoken in an "unknown tongue."

"And, oh!" she exclaimed, with the evidences of complete joy beaming from her kind face, "I don't care whether I ever speak with an unknown tongue or not, I have this blessed fact as a witness that the Holy Ghost abideth with me."

Mrs. Easter, who frequently testifies, told of a remarkable cure. It was that of a young girl who had been so completely paralyzed below the waist that for seven years it had been possible to stick a pin in her flesh without her discovering the fact. She had been completely healed, Mrs. Easter said, after Rev. Mr. Parham had prayed a brief time with her in his college at Topeka.

Mrs. Easter then told her own experience. At a former meeting she testified that she had been healed of consumption, Bright's disease, deafness and tumor by her faith. She made an interesting addendum last night. There were other diseases of which she had been cured which she could not mention in a public audience, she declared. "But," she continued, "I can tell of my most joyful experience. For weeks I have been praying to God that He confer upon me this gift of tongues, and last night, just at twelve o'clock, He gave it to me for a witness. I spoke in a foreign tongue, and, as I have for many years longed to be a missionary to China, I am convinced that the tongue I spoke in was 'China.' My stepfather, who is a German, heard me, and he declares that I also prayed in German, and that he understood me perfectly."

She added that the Lord had graciously increased her avoirdupois from 108 to 170 pounds within the last five years.

Miss Ozman, the student in Parham's college at Topeka, who says that since January 1st she has spoken in twenty languages, testified, but mentioned no new instances on which the gift of tongues had been conferred upon her.

Rev. Mr. Parham's sister-in-law, Miss Thistlewait, who occasionally has the gift conferred upon her, was so thankful for it, because, she said, she felt nearer to the poor heathen nations when speaking in their own languages.

A young student from Topeka, named Stanley, told of how he was divinely cured of typhoid pneumonia on Thanksgiving day. "The doctors said I would die, but," he gravely asseverated, "the Lord divinely healed me, and the next day I was able to walk ten miles."

Young Stanley's father, who at seventy is one of Parham's most diligent students and ardent followers, and Miss Stanley, aged about 18, also testified to having been endowed with a gift of tongues, although they gave no specific instances.

Rev. Mr. Parham stated last night that the meeting will continue indefinitely. He is hoping for a great revival of religion as a result of it. He says he is daily making recruits, and that money is coming to him from the most unexpected sources.—Kansas City Journal, January 31, 1900.

Synopsis of a Lecture by a Lamonian Deacon.

We are evidenced that God exists. All nature declares it, the formation and productions of the earth, the creation of fowls, beasts, fish and man, the planetary systems, the seasons, all proclaim that God exists, and is good, all wise, gracious, knowing and powerful.

We also have reasons for believing that He has revealed His will to man in ages past and in the present age, and many prophecies of Scripture that have been fulfilled in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, and others now being rapidly fulfilled in this the twentieth century, are positive proof that the writers of the Bible were inspired of God, that as the Psalmist testified "Thy word is truth."

Many events that the past century records indicate that "the latter days have come," among which are the restoration of the "everlasting gospel" as seen in vision by the Apostle John on Patmos. The restoration of the former and latter rains to the holy land. The Jews gathering and rebuilding Jerusalem on its "old heaps" as "towns without walls." The restoration of the priesthood authority to administer sacred rites; the same kind of organization, ordinances, and spiritual gifts to follow all who believe and obey. The same form of doctrine as taught by the Master and His servants at the first. The name of the church not after a man (human), but after the infinite Lord Jesus Christ, and His followers called "Saints" as of old. Faith, repentance, baptisms, laying on of hands for the gift of the Holy Ghost, apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors and teachers, healings, miracles, visions, revelations, etc., as in former times. Therefore, let all who have heard the certain sound of the restored gospel take heed lest they fail to obey, for the warning to all such is condemnation.

Let us who have been willing to hear, believe and obey the gospel law, take heed also lest we stumble and fall by the way; for all hell, so to speak, is up in arms against the latter day work, and every soul who resolutely tries to walk strictly in the path of duty as true soldiers of the cross, will have three divisions of the foe to battle against, viz., the world, the flesh and the devil.

The darkest hour which precedes the day is mostly passed. The dawn of millennium's morn will soon appear. Let us then all so struggle, fight, toil and pray, that when our blessed Lord, the Redeemer, comes to Zion, when evil, misery, woe and death are dispelled, the earth at rest, and all at peace, we may be among those who shall meet Him in the air, and with the ten thousands of His Saints and angels descend also with them to live and reign a thousand years.

Reported by W. C. Lanyon.

The Italian Cure for Colds.

"No," said a woman who confessed to having been very seasick upon a voyage home from Naples, "I didn't have the doctor. They told me I ought to, but, you see, all ships, no matter what flag they sail under, that leave Italian ports, must have an Italian crew and an Italian doctor. I wasn't going to put my life in the hands of anybody who calls himself 'il dottore.'"

"Nevertheless," said another woman, "it was an Italian doctor who treated a cold of mine more successfully and with less medicine than any other physician I ever had. It was one autumn in Naples, and I was suddenly and seriously seized with a severe cold. I couldn't but be frightened, away off there in a strange land from my own doctor, and my husband was more frightened than I was. By the advice of the hotel proprietor, however, we did not call in the resident American physician of the place—there always is one, you know, but his chief use, I observed, seemed to be in Mr. Howells' and Mr. James' international novels, where he acts as a splendid foil to the foreign lover of the heroine by falling in love with her himself, too, but always being rejected. No foreign hotel proprietor was ever known to recommend a resident American physician. Our Neapolitan host sent out for a regulation 'dottore,' who prescribed no more stringent course than drinking as much water as possible. Not a pennyweight of medicine. I simply kept a pitcher of pure water and a glass upon the table at my side, and about every fifteen minutes I quaffed a good long draught. The cold was scattered like magic. After the first day I should scarcely have known I had been on the borders of one. Here at home in America, whenever I want to scatter a threatened cold I promptly follow the prescription of my Neapolitan 'dottore' and dose myself with pure, cold water."—Ex.

Gave The Healers a Hearing.

Albany, Jan. 31.—At least 500 men and women, most of them Christian Scientists from New York, last night attended the hearing on Assemblyman Bell's bill to abolish the Christian Science, faith cure and divine healing systems. While sentiment seemed against them, yet the scientists held their own throughout. The scientists attacked the bill on every ground

WILL SEND $2.50 FREE.

FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., THE CELEBRATED CHICAGO SPECIALIST, WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS NEW SPECIAL TREATMENT FREE TO EACH OF OUR READERS.

When an experienced physician offers to give away $10,000 worth of a New Treatment for diseases of the heart, nerves, stomach or dropsy, it is conclusive evidence that he has great faith in it. And when hundreds of prominent men and women freely testify to his unusual skill and the superiority of his New Special Treatment, his liberality is certainly worthy of serious consideration.

That Dr. Miles is one of the world's most successful physicians in treating these diseases, is proven by hundreds of testimonials. One patient cured after failure of eleven Grand Rapids physicians; two after being given up by six and seven Chicago physicians; by six and seven of the leading doctors in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago failed. Thousands of testimonials sent upon request.

The eminent Rev. W. Bell, D. D., of Dayton, Ohio, General Secretary of Foreign Missions, writes editorially in the State Sunday School Union: "We desire to state that from personal acquaintance we know Dr. Miles to be a most skillful specialist, a man who has spared neither labor nor money to perfect himself abreast of the great advancement of medical science."

The late Prof. J. S. Jewell, M. D., editor of "Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases," Chicago, said: "By means published your surprising results in the treatment of St. Vitus's dance, Palfour, Mo., had head, heart, stomach troubles and nervous prostration. Three physicians failed to help him. He writes: 'I regard myself cured.' Mr. C. Buck, of Webb City, Mo., wrote a friend: 'Dr. Miles treated me for mind trouble, unnatural fears and great nervousness. He cured me in two years ago.' Mr. Geo. Waunderbusch, of Flat Creek, Mo., reports: 'My son was so bad, he was helpless. Other physicians could not help him, but Dr. Miles brought him out all right.'"

This new system of special treatment is thoroughly scientific and infinitely superior to the ordinary methods.

As all afflicted readers may have $2.50 worth of treatment especially prepared for their case, FREE, we will advise them to send for it at once. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 201 to 209 State St., Chicago. (Please mention this paper).

imaginable. It was held up as a horrible octopus of medicine and in the interests of the "doctors' trust." One speaker said, during his address: "All of you who have been cured by Christian Science stand up." About 500 persons arose.

Dr. Mary Walker, who was present, said Christian Science might be a good thing, but she did not have enough salvation in her to try it. The committee took no action on the bill.—Ex.

Helps for the Kitchen.

A small, strong table, covered with zinc or tin, on castors, so that it can be run back and forth between the kitchen and pantry or dining room, saves innumerable steps and any amount of time and patience, says The Home Magazine.

Keep a high stool in the kitchen to sit on when ironing small articles. Wear gloves when ironing and you will save many a burn.

In washing greasy skillets the addition of a little soda to the water will neutralize the grease and make it much easier to clean. These are best cleaned when hot.

To clean the range after frying, crumple a newspaper between the hands and rub the range with it. This will absorb the grease and leave the range bright as before.

The small paper bag that groceries come in are better protection to the hands than the gloves made purposely for blacking stoves.

If there is a hold-r or two hung near the oven door there is not the temptation to use the apron and perhaps soil or burn it.

Make a muslin cover to draw on your thumb when paring apples and potatoes to avoid cutting the skin.

A soft mat is restful to stand upon when at work.

Half the battle in washing dishes is keeping the dish cloths and towels clean. Wash out once a week in ammonia water.

Use soapy water for making starch. The linen will have a glossier appearance and the iron will not be so apt to stick.

Next winter try wearing shoes of old jeans in the kitchen. Use an old overshoe for a pattern.

A sponge large enough to expand and fill the chimney after having been squeezed in, tied to a slender stick, is the best thing with which to clean a lamp chimney.—Selected.

Father Time's Own Clock.

"The transmitting clock at the Naval Observatory, Washington, is the absolute monarch of American time keepers," writes Evan-der Melver Sweet in the February Ladies' Home Journal. "Every day in the year, except Sunday, by one pendulum-stroke it speaks directly and instantaneously to every city and considerable town between the peaks of the Rockies and the pines of Maine, saying to them that on the seventy-fifth meridian it is now high noon to the fraction of a second. A duplicate mechanism, stationed at the Branch Naval Observatory on Mare Island, performs a similar service for the people of the Pacific slope. And by this one clock at the National capital (together with its duplicate on the Pacific), is set nearly every time-piece in the United States and Cuba, most of those in Mexico and many on the border of Canada. A number of clocks—from three to three thousand—in nearly every city and large town are wired together into a local family, and, by means of a switch-key at the telegraph office, are put into direct contact with the parent clock at the National capital. So that the instant the electric touch is given from Washington every clock in the circuit—whether it be at Boston, Minneapolis or New Orleans—begins a new day in perfect accord with its mechanical deity."

FOR SALE.

On North Main Street, Independence, Mo., three-fourths of a mile from the Square. Lot 14 acres, fronting three streets; four roomed house, good barn, carriage house, workshop, hay chamber, three-stalled cow house separate. Full of large and small fruits, in fine bearing condition; good asparagus bed; fine well with never falling spring; $1,250. Apply to Mrs. E. A. STEVENS, 109 Chrysler Ave., Independence, Mo.

A MAN wanted in every county in the United States, to post up bills, distribute circulars, samples, cuttings, etc. Big pay and life time job. Send stamp to Geo. H. Brush, Box 83, Ridgeley, Lake county, Tennessee.

Notice This.

I am preparing a complete description of Jackson County, to be published in pamphlet form, giving quality and prices of farm, city and suburban property. Price 15 cents. Send orders to W. S. LOAR, Box 203, Independence Mo.

CANCER A CURABLE DISEASE.

Many people have an idea that cancer is incurable, but we have over 150 original and recent testimonials of cures of actual cancer, the sufferers having taken 8 to 24 bottles of the famous B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) which is meant to cure old obstinate blood and skin troubles. B. B. B. kills the cancer poison in the blood and the sores quickly heal. No cutting required. Among others cured was Mrs. M. L. Adams, of Fredonia, Alabama. Had an eating cancer, the bones of her nose and upper part of her mouth entirely eaten out. Could only eat strained soup, yet the cancer healed perfectly by taking 14 bottles of B. B. B. Allan Grant, Sparta, Georgia, had painful sore on lip called epithelial cancer, also much pain in bones and weakness in back; 10 bottles of B. B. B. healed the sore and gave him strength, and made his blood pure and rich. B. B. B. heals ulcers, scrofula, eczema, cancer in any form, old sores, etc. Druggists or by express prepaid, $1.00. A trial treatment of B. B. B. free by writing Blood Balm Co., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Georgia. Describe trouble and free medical advice given. Medicine sent at once prepaid.

A Bargain $600 will buy a six room house and over 3 acres choice land at Lamoni if taken soon. One-half cash. Address with return stamp, Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Have You Seen "LAMONI PULPITS" in the INDEPENDENT PATRIOT?

A synopsis of one sermon a week from the Saints' pulpit in Lamoni, appears in the Patriot. Subscription one dollar per year. Address, THE PATRIOT, Lamoni, Iowa. A postal card brings a sample copy.

ALL SECRET SOCIETIES THE TRUE CHURCH OF THE DEVIL.

BY GEROME E. PAGE, Price 5 Cents. Agents Wanted in Every Town. Address, G. E. Page, Independence, Mo.

GOODS WELL BOUGHT ARE HALF SOLD.

From our immense stock you can be supplied with anything you need. CLOTHING, FURNISHING GOODS, HATS, CAPS and FOOTWEAR, Ladies' and Children's JACKETS, CAPES and WRAPS, DRY GOODS, BLANKETS, TRUNKS, VALISES and TELESCOPES.

Special discount to the ministry on all goods. We make a specialty of Prince Albert Suits, either in Ready Made or made to your order. Samples and prices submitted upon request. We also carry complete line of guaranteed mackintoshes.

G. J. WHITEHEAD, With Kersch & Co., Severance, Kans.

G. J. WHITEHEAD & Co., Guilford, Mo.

Address all mail orders to Gilbert J. Whitehead, Severance, Kansas.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 44 pages; cloth binding, $1.00; paper binding, 65c.
"THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF ELDER JOSEPH LUFF," 377 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations. Re-duced from $1.00 to 75c.
"THREE BIBLES COMPARED," by Elder B. Etzenhouser; paper binding, 5 for $1.00; each, 25c.
"THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDICATED," by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each, 60c.
"SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SEER OF PALMYRA," by Elder M. H. Bond, of the Seventy; 58 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the author, 25c.
"FAULTY CREEDS," by Elder R. C. Evans, 6 for 1.00; each, 20c.
"THE BOOKS AND UTAM MORMONISM IN CONTRAST," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 20 for $1.00, 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
"THE CREEDS LAID BARE," by Elder T. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 25 for 25c; each, 10c.
"THE RESURRECTION OF THE WICKED," by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
"WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH?—OR WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET?" by Elder J. W. Peterson of the Quorum of the Seventy; 39 pages; paper cover; engraving of author; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
"THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRANSLATOR," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 27 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
"THE MORMON SUCCESSION," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
"AROSTASY OF THE CHURCH," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
"THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY," by Elder T. C. Kelley; 68 pages; paper cover; each, 10c.
"THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW," by Elder Joseph Luff's answer to Elder R. J. Parker; by E. L. Kelley; per hundred 90c; per doz. 15c; 6 for 1.00; 2 for 50c.
"IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION," by Elder Joseph Luff. 90c per 100; 15c per doz; 3 for 40c.
"WHAT IS BAPTISM?" by Elder Joseph Luff; with quotations given in full. 20c Per doz.; 2 for 40c.
"EVANGELIA LOST," a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb. 25c.
SERMON PAMPHLETS.
The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen.
"Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; Illustrated.
"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 58 pages.
"The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages.
"The Restoration of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 46 pages.
"A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 36 pages.
"Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 64 pages.
"Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages.
"Oreed Making; Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 36 pages.
"Antiquarian Evidences Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages.
"Joseph Smith? Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages.
"Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages.
"Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 39 pages.
"God is Light," by Elder W. H. Kelly; 46 pages.
"Why I Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. H. Kephart; 33 pages.
"The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wight; 41 pages.
"The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 38 pages.
"Save Yourself," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages.
We also fill orders for all Herald office publications. Address all orders and make all remittances to ZION'S ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Mo.

MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD. Quick time, good connections, low rates to all points. Rates, time cards, etc., cheerfully furnished on application. F. A. MILLARD, Agent. Telephone 17.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898.

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Exchange members, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on year deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of some certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities. It has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered.

List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Resseguie, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Blair.

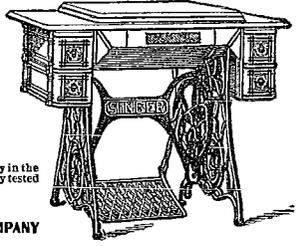

A Singer Sewing Machine

THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, costing more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible.

THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch.

BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world, where every machine is carefully tested on practical stitching.

Sold only by THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 190-3.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

20 Acres

as nice, smooth land as you ever saw. A short walk from L. D. S. church and Public School in Lamoni. Worth $2,000; $1,500 will buy it now, on easy terms. If interested write the owner, D. E. NICHOLSON, Lamoni, Iowa.

SAINTS AND FRIENDS:—Remember that I am still in the mail order clothing business. For years I have served you and my reputation speaks for itself. Send me your order or write for my price list. I also have two good organs for sale cheap. Address E. T. ATWELL, Cumorah, Mo.

UWANTOQUIT

using tobacco. "QUIT-TO-BAC" makes it easy to stop using it. Three boxes, postpaid, only $1.50 with POSITIVE GUARANTEE to cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORBWAY, Peoria, Ill.

SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches, Twenty Rooms, Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue. FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to Miss M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Mo. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

CANCER CURED WITH SOOTHING BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Womb Diseases. Dr. Sherman, Unity, Mo., Cancer Cures, 715 E. Third St., St. Louis, Mo. Write for Illustrated Book. Sent free. Address Cor. 10th and Broadway, BASTON, ILL., Mo.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT This Regular $5.00 Waterproof MACKINTOSH for $2.75. Send no money. Cut this ad. out and send to us. State your height, weight, state number of inches around your chest, over vest, under coat, close up under arms, and waist length of your vest, by express C. O. D., subject to examination. Examine at your nearest express office and if exactly as represented, the most modern bargain you ever saw or heard of, and if you wish to pay cash on the spot, pay the agent our special manufacturer's price $2.75 and $1.00 freight. This MACKINTOSH is the latest style, made of the most heavy waterproof material, genuine barfs of 1000 ft. long, and guaranteed to be the best. It is made of the finest dressed sugar velvet cloth, fancy plaid, and lined with the most suitable for both rain and overcoat and guaranteed to be the best bargain ever offered by us or any other house. Write for free samples of the MACKINTOSHES, from $1.25 up and guaranteed to give you the best. We can save you money. Address H. S. DILLER & CO., 305 Dearborn St., Chicago.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

Table with columns for Missouri Pacific - Main Line Depot, Trains West, and Trains East, listing various routes and times.

Table for Liberty Street Depot, listing Trains West and Trains East with times.

Table for Chicago & Alton, listing East Bound and West Bound trains with times.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development, that they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

Mrs. Mary E. Holmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
 Mrs. H. B. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 149, Lee's Summit, Mo.
 Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
 Mrs. Lucena Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
 Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.

Mrs. Caille B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
 Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 212 North Compton Ave., St. Louis, Missouri.

MOTHERS.

Mothers are the queerest things,
 'Member when John went away,
 All put mother cried and cried
 When they said good-by that day.
 She just talked, and seemed to be
 Not the slightest bit upset—
 Was the only one who smiled!
 Others' eyes were streaming wet.
 But when John came back again
 On a furlough, safe and sound,
 With a medal for his deeds
 And without a single wound,
 While the rest of us hurried,
 Laughed and joked and danced
 about,
 Mother kissed him, then she cried—
 Cried and cried like all girls do.
 —Edwin L. Sabin, in the Century.

NOTICE.

Secretaries of Daughters of Zion local societies are hereby requested to send to me, as soon as possible after reading this notice, a full list of members, also stating changes in membership, and giving names of those lost or gained since last report.

CALIE B. STEBBINS,
 Recording Secretary,
 LAMONI, IOWA.

ONE day, while waiting at the home of a friend, the ticking of a couple of clocks attracted my attention. One was a big, old-fashioned time piece, and its leisurely, comfortable tick-tock contrasted markedly with the hasty, nervous ticking of the little one. It caused me to sologuize something on this order: Those two clocks measure exactly the same amount of time, sixty seconds to the minute, and sixty minutes to the hour; and although the small one is making such a fuss over it, it is not accomplishing one bit more, and it is just so with people. For instance, take a woman about her housework. Notice the fussy housekeeper (we all know her), who runs from this thing to that, touching each lightly, as a humming bird does a flower. Before the day is done, she is worn out, exhausted in body and mind, and yet sees much that still remains undone, as it will every day of the world. Observe the one who goes methodically about her duties; she gets through and has time to give to rest and recreation, and moreover does her work better. Method and order are the great time-savers, not hurry. Just keep this in mind when you know there is so much to do, seemingly more than you can accomplish. Think of the big and little clock, and work quietly and steadily, and you will be surprised at the result.

ALTHOUGH not a member of the Daughters of Zion, I enjoy very much the many words of wisdom printed in your columns, and especially those excellent talks to girls and boys, and while we all love a manly man, I have oftentimes wondered where this training of the man should commence. Some may say he is not old enough before three years to commence training, but my mind is, his training should commence at the marriage of his parents. I have often thought, how much less misery this world would know, if, when a young couple assume the marriage vow, they would talk together of the possibilities of little ones coming to their homes and fit themselves for such responsibilities. Practice patience, learn to bear and forbear; the husband to remember the little one is just as liable to inherit his disposition as the mother's, remembering that what we sow we reap; then if we sow an honest, honorable, upright disposition, so will we reap one. The wife to remember that on her rests the greater responsibility, as to its mental as well as physical growth, for just as her appetite effects its appetite, so does her mind affect her child. If she be kind toward all, with a mind uplifted by holier things, so will its mind be influenced by holier things; and if she be helped along this line by a husband who foresees a future man or woman, instead of a little prattling child, how much easier for the wife and mother. Ought he not, when she is willing to assume motherhood, be willing to lift from her shoulders the greater part of the burden of everyday affairs? Be polite, respectful. Address her in the same manner you did before marriage, always remembering that you have placed a great care upon her, and that the little one to whose birth you are now looking forward, will some day be a young man or woman, and if you sow the seed of respect and kindness for mother you will not sow in vain.

Hoping these few thoughts will prove a blessing to some young couple launching on the sea of matrimony, I am yours for truth and love to all mankind.
 MRS. E. L. PRINGLE,
 McIVON, MICH.

General Conference Reception Committee.

At the regular business meeting of the Independence branch it was decided to fix the rate of board for Conference visitors at $3.00 per week.

Arrangements will be made so far as possible for the free entertainment of General Conference appointees. It is necessary that the committee be notified before your arrival.

All parties desiring services of this committee will receive same so far as possible by notifying any one of our number, stating what accommodations are desired and when you expect to arrive. Persons accepting invitations from friends and making their own arrangements need not notify the committee, but we will assist so far as we can in directing to places of board.

Do not fail to notify the committee early that as many as possible may be assigned before convening of Conference, thereby avoiding disappointment to yourselves and annoyance to the committee.

L. BRACKENHURY, Chr.
 J. J. LUFF, Sec. & Treas.
 Com. ROBERT KEMP,
 R. G. SMITH,
 O. L. JAMES.

Reduced Rates to General Conference.

Reduced railway rates to the coming General Conference and conventions of auxiliary societies, to be held at Independence, Missouri, April next, have been obtained over the lines of the Western Passenger Association. Other associations will be heard from in due time, and further information be given.

R. S. SALYARDS, Church Sec.
 LAMONI, Ia., Feb. 16.

High Priests' Quorum.

A blank report form has been sent to each member of the quorum, and, by rule of the quorum, it is expected that these will be filled out and returned to the secretary as soon after the 1st of March as may be practicable. Therefore, please do not wait till the latter part of March or the first of April before you report. If any high priest fails to receive the blank, then another will be sent him upon notification of its non-arrival. A few addresses have been changed, as follows: G. S. Lincoln to 28 Glen Park avenue, San Francisco, California. W. H. Pease to 930 Sandusky avenue, Kansas City, Kansas. M. H. Cook to 1015 East B street, Des Moines, Iowa. Robert Winning, Worcester, Massachusetts, care of Worsted Wheat Company, R. Archibald has returned to St. Louis, but I have not yet learned his street address. Also Thomas Taylor's address should be Care E. Roberts, 63 Bristol Road, Bournemouth, Birmingham, England. The former address was that of another Bro. Thomas Taylor. Joseph Squire's address is 227 McDougal, not McDonald street. Of those not yet ordained, V. M. Goodrich has changed to Station B, North Columbus, Ohio; and J. B. Roush to 2942 California street, Denver, Colo.

Respectfully yours,
 H. A. STEBBINS, Sec. of Quorum,
 February, 1901.

Notice to District Secretaries.

As many of the district conventions of the General Sunday School Association will be held in February, and others the early part of March, I call your especial attention to the necessity of making out complete, itemized reports promptly, and sending them to me so that I may be able to compile the general report of the Association for the coming General Conference. I will be pleased to have you send in the reports just as soon after the district conventions are held as is possible, so that I may have all of them by not later than March 15th. These reports should be a compilation of the various reports of local schools as outlined in the General Blank furnished by the association and secured at the Herald office, especially including the number of schools in each district, the present total membership, the number of classes, the number of books in libraries, together with the names of the officers elected for the ensuing year.

Sunday Schools not in district associations should also send in their reports of the last year's membership, sessions held, classes, officers, number of books in libraries, etc. I also desire a list of the delegates selected to represent the district or school at the coming Convention. Be sure and provide me with this list at the same time you send report. By giving prompt attention to the above, you will confer a favor upon your co-worker and well-wisher.

W. N. ROBINSON, Genl. Sec.
 INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Feb. 17.

Council Bluffs Aid Society.

The new century was begun by the Aid Society of the Council Bluffs, Iowa, branch with a business meeting at the home of Sr. C. A. Beebe, Jan. 10, 1901, with twelve active members. Officers were elected for the ensuing six months, viz., president, Sr. Wing, who has held that position since the beginning of the organization, Oct. 17, 1895. Other officers are: Vice-president, Sr. Dodson; secretary, Sr. Potter, and treasurer, Sr. Liles. Resolutions were passed and work planned for the next six months.

After the business part of the program was finished, dainty refreshments were served in the dining room, and sociability reigned supreme until the hour of departure, each one carrying away a lighter heart and feeling strengthened for the coming work.
 MARY POTTER, Sec.

February 12.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

Spring River district conference was held in Saints' church at Blendville, Missouri, October 7 to 9, 1900. E. A. Davis in chair, W. S. Macrae, secretary pro tem.

The following ministers reported by letter: E. A. Davis and F. C. Keck of the Seventy. Elders, R. H. Davis, J. L. Lancaster, C. K. Ryan, S. D. Love (baptized 8), T. S. Hayton (baptized 3), J. T. Riley, Noah Karahou, W. H. Prewit (baptized 4), and J. W. Thorpe. Priests, H. J. Thurman, D. S. Palmer, W. E. Haden (baptized 5). Teachers, M. S. Frick, George M. Rhonamus. Oral reports were rendered by Elders W. S. Taylor, J. M. Richards, W. S. Doty, S. W. Simmons, J. A. Graves, E. E. Bradley, Z. Decker, W. S. Macrae. Teachers, A. P. Free, J. L. Garner, L. H. McCall.

Branch reports: Lamanite, first report, present number, 19; Fairland, 46; Columbus, 60, gain by baptism 3; Maysville, 82; Blendville, 146, gain by baptism 11, by letter, 3; Weir City, 95, gain by baptism, 5; Traverse, 44, gain by baptism, 4; Webb City, 171, gain by letter, 1.

District treasurer reported cash on hand, $15.68; audited and found correct. It was ordered that our next district reunion be held at Berry's Ferry, Indian Territory, beginning Friday before full moon in August, 1901. Brn. J. T. Riley, Noah Karahou and W. B. Hillen were appointed to act as committee on arrangements, and Brn. W. S. Macrae, O. P. Sutherland, and M. S. Frick to provide for a cooperative boarding house.

On petition from Blendville branch Bro. Max Stebbins was ordained a deacon.

As provided for by the Far West district, Priest W. E. Haden (missionary) was ordained an elder.

The bishop's agent's reports showed the sum of $56.25 due to him; the account was audited and found correct.

The blank forms adopted by our last General Conference for missionary reports, were adopted to be used for ministry reports to the Spring River district conferences, and the secretary authorized to procure necessary supply.

The district treasurer was authorized to pay for a tent lost at our last reunion, and also to pay expense for repairing the big tent.

Apostle I. N. White arrived in time to preach the closing sermon of the conference.

Conference adjourned to meet at Webb City, on Friday before full moon in March, 1901.

T. S. HAYTON, Dist. Sec.
 January 14.

Convention Notices.

The Spring River district Zion's Religio-Literary Society will meet March 4, 1901, at Webb City, Missouri. The Sunday School district convention meets on Friday, the 1st, and quarterly conference on the 2d. We urge all Religians to attend, especially those of this district.

M. S. FRICK, Dist. Sec. Z. R. L. S.
 222 1/2 Empire St., Joplin, Mo.

The district Religio convention of the Far West district will convene at St. Joseph on Friday evening, March 15th, at 7:30. All societies are requested to be governed in the election of their delegates by the following resolution, which was passed at last convention:

"Resolved, That each local be allowed one vote for every six members, to be cast by delegates in Religio conventions."

Program for convention: Opening exercises; "The Religio-Its Work," J. A. Gardner; "Old Folks in the Religio," Elder T. T. Hinderks; "The Home Bless," Carrie Lewis; "Good Literature Work," Samuel Simmons; "Young Folks in the Religio," Elder D. E. Powell; new business; benediction.

W. W. SMITH, Dist. Pres.
 St. JOSEPH, Mo., Feb. 15.

DIED.

(One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.)

BERDICK.—At Kansas City, Missouri, Saturday, January 25, 1901, Sr. Jerusha Burdick, in the 60th year of her age. She was born in Illinois, July 5, 1841, and was married to Jackson Burdick in May, 1856, who died in Independence, Missouri, June 5, 1893. Ten children were born to them, of whom six are left, bereaved, Bro. Ira Burdick of Independence being one of her sons. Funeral at Independence and interment in Independence cemetery, Elder W. H. Garrett in charge. It is thought she was a member of the Hope of Zion branch, Northern Minnesota district. District authorities please note.

STARVED

Slow growth of hair comes from lack of hair food. The hair has no life.

HAIR

It is starved. It keeps coming out, gets thinner and thinner, bald spots appear, then actual baldness.

The only good hair food you can buy is —

APPEL'S HAIR VIGOR

It feeds the roots, stops starvation, and the hair grows thick and long. It cures dandruff also. Keep a bottle of it on your dressing table.

It always restores color to faded or gray hair. Mind, we say "always."

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

"I have found your Hair Vigor to be the best remedy I have ever tried for my hair. It was falling out very bad, so I thought I would try a bottle of it. I used only one bottle, and my hair stopped falling out, and it is now real thick and long."

NANCY J. MOUNTAIN, Yorkers, N. Y. July 25, 1898.

Write the Doctor.

He will send you his book on The Hair and scalp, and a free consultation you wish about your hair. You will receive a 4-page book. Address: DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1901.

NUMBER 9.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to Editors, PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desired your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an undue loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks. Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE.

Independence, Mo.

11-2 B.

COMMENDABLE FAIRNESS.

Justice is, comparatively, a scarce article in this life. In too many instances, by far, prejudice rules the judgment, and often the innocent are made to suffer an unjust sentence and an unmerited condemnation. Especially is this true of those who hold different views religiously, from those held by organizations which have assumed to themselves the right to designate their own views as "orthodox." The Bible being the accepted and acknowledged standard of truth, it would seem to a candid mind that the faith which is nearest the pattern given in the Scriptures, would be the nearest truth, and that organization which is complete in word, doctrine, ordinance and blessings, with that of the New Testament, would most certainly have the right to the term and title of "orthodox."

Unfortunately for humanity, this sort of logic does not seem to prevail with men when their religious opinions are the subject of investigation or formation. The largest license has been and is still used—in some instances at the expense of truth itself—in organizing societies and creeds, and the consequences are seen in the multiplied and diversified faiths represented in the world today. Many of these, however, have had a hard battle with bigotry, intolerance and hate in their inception, some of their adherents finding a martyr's grave ere they were acknowledged as being among the self-styled "orthodoxy." It is stated somewhere that a prominent individual being asked for a definition of orthodoxy replied that "orthodoxy is my doxy, and heterodoxy is YOUR doxy." In other words, "My belief is the truth; if some hold differently they are in error." And under this spirit, if any happen to hold opinions contrary to those expressed by these "orthodox" people—no matter how closely he may follow the Scriptures—he is a dangerous man; and some zealous pastors have even been known to earnestly warn their flocks against going to hear another minister preach lest they be led away into error, as though every man or woman who is able to read, could not examine from the Bible the references and doctrines of the preacher, and use their judgments to decide whether he spake "according as it is written," "to the law and to the testimony." (Isa. 8: 20).

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is not "orthodox" in the estimation of other societies, notwithstanding the fact that they accept, believe and teach all the truth that any of them hold and teach, and a great deal of scriptural truth that others do not accept. As a consequence its members have been, and still are, often maligned, misrepresented and misunderstood, because of their opponents being influenced and controlled by the spirit of ignorance and bigotry; and under this spirit men ascribe to, and often accuse the Saints of almost every crime in the category of criminality; in fact, where ignorance mostly prevails, the name is made a synonym of all that is evil, even by and among a class who are themselves notorious as law breakers and even shedders of human blood.

This is, however, NOT the case where the Saints are best known. In every community, where there is found a faithful member of the Reorganized church, they have, and are making that name a synonym for virtue, integrity, and sobriety; and where there is an instance of a member acting dishonestly or disgracefully, he is NOT a representative of that people, that organization. Honest, fairminded people everywhere recognize the fact that it is those among any people who exemplify in their lives the principles of the faith they hold and teach, who are its true representatives, and the number of individuals occupying places of prominence and influence who are willing to give the Saints credit for uprightness and integrity of character in the communities in which they reside, is, happily, increasing. This is having its tendency for good, and while these men seldom, indeed, accept the faith of the Saints, they are moved by the spirit of justice to give them credit for consistency, and as worthy of the confidence of others, as men and citizens.

The latest testimony of this character coming under our notice is an editorial in The Independence (Missouri) Sentinel for February 15th, weekly edition, which is so fair and manly in its spirit that we are confident our readers will share with us in the appreciation of the lofty sentiment of Mr. R. H. Womack, the editor. Here it is:

A POPULAR FALLACY.

One is frequently led to dwell upon the strangeness of popular fallacies—in other words, as to why people just simply pick up a prejudice and nurse it through life without ever appealing to their reason or asking themselves why it is so. While at Jefferson City last week an old acquaintance said to us, "And you have moved to Independence, have you? I wouldn't live there; it is the home of Mormons." We knew that he was honestly mistaken in his premises, and looked at him with an eye more to pity than to condemnation. "Do you know," we suggested, "that the words you have just given utterance to are a reflection upon your own intelligence, and make you ridiculous when spoken to men who know and understand the people whom you condemn without a hearing?" We then informed him that Independence had no better citizens than the Latter Day Saints; that they are as moral as any people on the face of the earth; that they pay their debts promptly, and that no distinction was drawn in the community on account of religious beliefs. "Why," we said to him, "Independence now has a member of the religious organization in its city council and barring the fact that we disagree politically I find nothing in him to condemn or even criticize adversely."

"Would you support a Democrat of this faith for mayor?" our prejudiced friend asked, to which we responded that we would cheerfully do so were he qualified for the place—that his religious beliefs would cut no figure in the case whatever. Thus, prejudice, based upon ignorance, stalks blindly through the world heaping injustice upon a people who comprise a citizenship as good as any that exists. And, strange to say, the prejudice in this particular case finds a home in the bosom of a member of the Missouri legislature.

How striking is the contrast here presented. On the one hand a man honored with a seat in the lawmaking assembly of the state, ignorantly permitting his prejudice to assert itself against a people whose character he had never personally investigated, but yet passing his judgment in an adverse manner upon them. In just such a way is prejudice spread by people who fail to realize the responsibility upon them to execute justice, that the measure to be noted to them in the day of final accounts, when they will be judged for their life's work, may be joyous and satisfactory to them. But the other side of the contrast represents a more pleasing picture. The spirit of justice and fairness exhibited is that which belongs to, and characterizes a true hearted man. Such a judgment is truly a strong testimony that the children of Zion are redeeming themselves by righteousness, and that because of it, the reproach is being rolled away, as the Lord rolled away the reproach of Israel in days of old, when they adhered to the covenants they made with Him and kept His commandments. Editor Womack forcefully states a fact when he asks, "Why is it that people will 'just simply pick up a prejudice and nurse it through life, without ever appealing to their reason, and asking themselves, why it is so.'" If they would stop long enough to use their reason in making such inquiries, there would be less of injustice about which to complain, and a very great deal less of sin to atone for in the day of Judgment.

Of course we are not blind to the fact that men sometimes have ulterior motives in view in championing the side of a question which may not be popular with the majority. There are some in Independence, as elsewhere, who would not object to the Saints coming here in considerable numbers, if they could dispose of their land here at good, round figures, to the newcomers. We do not, however, anticipate that such a desire will be gratified to any very great extent, even should it exist. But we have not thought that such an idea inspired the article copied above. We accept it as a just tribute to the consistent life and character which we know the Saints, as a rule, are manifesting in Independence, and on their behalf, express our thanks and appreciation of the courtesy, the kindly feeling and the spirit of justice and fairness in which the article abounds. May there never be an occasion for a change of this sentiment. There will not be so long as the Saints are faithful to their covenant with the Lord, and so long as this spirit of candor and honesty is cherished.

SR. JENNIE E. PAGE.

Sr. Jennie E. Page, so widely known to our readers, through the correspondence columns, and who endeared herself to the Saints by the sweet, cheerful, submissive spirit in which she endured her years of intense suffering, was released from her life work, and passed into the paradise of God February 14th. She loved God's work, and was never so happy as when telling the gospel story to others, and endeavoring to inspire them with her faith in its saving and blessing powers. Isolated from the association of the Saints and the grand privileges which a branch of the church affords, she yet remained steadfast, displaying a courage and fortitude under extremely trying conditions, that won for her not only the love and respect of good men and women brought within her sphere of acquaintance, but which also must have enlisted in her behalf the sympathy and love of the heavenly host and the favor of the Divine ones. She has entered into rest, which truly must be sweet and joyous to her, but her memory will be cherished by those who have so deeply sympathized with her for so long. To her afflicted father, Bro. B. F. Page, and family, we tender our sympathy in their loss.

ELDER GOMER R. WELLS, Deer Lodge, Montana, February 14th, says the brethren of Australia had intended sending him a supply of the pamphlet by Elder W. J. Haworth, in reply to D. H. Bays' "Dogmas and Doctrines of Mormonism," but that finding the express rates too costly, they decided to have Bro. Wells get up a list of names and send them to Australia to have the orders filled. This, Bro. Wells states, he is now ready to do.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

I. J. STOWERS, Tecumseh, Nebraska, Feb. 7:

If any of the traveling speakers pass this way, would like them to call on us. We are the only Latter Day Saints anywhere around. We will care for the elder if any should come.

BRO. W. A. WELLS, Fraser, Colorado, Jan. 15:

If any of our elders should go near Arrington, Kansas, I would like if they would stop and see my children. Inquire for George Bowser; everybody knows him. They will be made welcome.

MRS. D. H. COPPING, 92 Drummond street, East Ottawa, Ontario, Jan. 29:

I think if an elder came to Ottawa there might be a great deal of good done; I have spoken to quite a number of persons and they seem to be interested.

ELDER F. C. WARNKY, Nevada, Missouri, February 18:

I closed my meetings at Virgil City Friday night. The prospects for a branch are good; many are believing; some who have been enemies to the church for years past are now our friends, and are rejoicing in the truth. I came here Saturday, preached twice in the hall yesterday; tonight and tomorrow nights I will hold cottage meetings in different parts of the town, and Wednesday I go to Rich Hill.

CHAS. L. GASON, Lone Rock, Oregon, January 6:

Your paper is a preacher that I do not want to turn away. It is twenty miles to the nearest Saints' church: I do not hear very much Saints' preaching. There is a Baptist building and an M. E. house here at Lone Rock, but the doors are closed on the Saints, and during the winter months the school-house is closed also. There is so much prejudice here against the Saints, and to have men misrepresent us, and class us along with the Utah people, it is sad; but the Christ was spoken against, and He said: "They have persecuted me, they will also persecute you." Brethren, let us count it all joy when we are falsely accused.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

The weather is fine. Tuesday was just like an early spring day.

Bro. W. S. Loar has returned from his visit with his folks in Iowa.

Regular business meeting of the branch next Monday evening. Let us have a full attendance.

Bro. George H. Hulmes, Sr., was on the streets of our city Monday. He is recovering nicely from his illness.

Bro. W. Weeks is making some improvements on his home on Clark street, which will add much to its cheerful appearance.

Sr. Mary Clements has had a third stroke of paralysis and is reported quite low. Her advanced age makes the case more serious.

Sr. M. E. Hulmes returned Friday from quite a lengthy visit with her brother, W. H. Smith, and family, in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania.

Bro. Joseph Luff's new addition to his house is enclosed. He has built a "tower" and we suppose will be in a better position now than ever as a Watchman on the Walls of Zion.

We regret to learn that Sr. J. H. McMullen has had one very severe attack of her old illness since removing to Rocky Ford, Colorado, but was improving again at last account.

It is thought that the work on the main auditorium of the church will not be completed before next week. This will necessitate holding all services next Sunday in the lower auditorium.

The Independence district conference will meet in the church here Saturday of next week, at 10:30 a. m. Delegates to General Conference, April 6th, will be named, and other important business transacted.

Our good brother, J. S. Clark, though unable to get out very much, keeps a cheerful spirit, and rejoices in the gospel work, whose progress he watches with the keenest interest. May he be spared to see its final triumph.

The district Religio Convention will meet here Thursday of next week, and the Sunday School Convention on Friday. In addition to other important business there will be the election of delegates to the General Conventions which meet here in April. There should be a full attendance.

Bishop E. L. Kelley's serious illness from pneumonia is causing much interest and concern, because of the esteem in which he is held by the Saints, here, as elsewhere. Slight improvement was reported at last accounts. The prayers of the Saints for his speedy recovery are earnest and many.

The services at the church Sunday were all held in the lower auditorium, the main auditorium being still in the hands of the "improvers and embellishers." Bishop W. H. Pease, of Armstrong branch, occupied at the morning hour, on the subject of "Worldly Pleasures," preaching a very forceful and instructive discourse. At night Apostle I. N. White preached on the identity of the everlasting gospel today with that preached by Jesus and the apostles of His day; a number of strangers were present. The afternoon service was well attended and the time was profitably occupied.

Bro. J. C. Foss returned home Tuesday. The grip still accompanies him, though there is considerable of a strained relationship existing with Bro. Foss, and he does not feel that the company is at all desirable or agreeable; but the grip seems to like to stay with him. He says it has been hanging to him since December.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Patriarch A. H. Smith occupied the pulpit yesterday morning, and Elder A. M. Chase in the evening.

Elders P. E. Cochran and Columbus Scott held services at the Surprise school-house yesterday. Bro. Scott delivered two sermons.

Elder David A. Anderson is conducting a series of meetings at Lucas, Iowa.

William Wallace, infant son of President Joseph Smith and wife, was blessed yesterday under the hands of Patriarch A. H. Smith and President J. A. Gunsolley.

John H. Harp will leave tomorrow for Granis, Arkansas.

Sr. Ella D. Whitehead, daughter Clara, and father and mother, Bro. and Sr. Bradbury Robinson, expect to leave on the 15th prox., for California, where Sr. Whitehead has interests which demand her attention.

Bishop Kelley is still confined to his bed, though he is slowly improving.

The meeting of the priesthood of the branch for prayer service last Tuesday night was well attended, and the time wisely occupied. Another meeting of the same character was appointed for Tuesday night of this week.

Bro. and Sr. O. E. Prall returned, last Saturday, from Wisconsin, where they had been called by telegram, notifying them of the death of Bro. Prall's father.

The infant son of Elder David Wight and wife is very low with influenza.

D. J. K.

February 25.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 745 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 598 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

We enjoyed three good services yesterday, though not the best in health; one on the south side and two on the west. We arrived at the Sabbath School in time to hear a very interesting and instructive review of the lesson by Bro. James F. Keir, who illustrated by an object lesson. The good Samaritan review on last Sabbath was favorably commented on. It was by Bro. R. A. Penney. We took occasion to use the illustration, still remaining on the board, to illustrate a point in our sermon last evening.

Our district president, Bro. J. T. Hackett, was with us yesterday, preaching in the morning at 3411 Cottage Grove avenue, a very spiritual, instructive sermon, feeding the Saints on "pure food," the Christ-life and character. He occupied at three o'clock on the west side to a good, attentive audience, where again good liberty was enjoyed, and a responsive amen from the audience was had. At night he spoke again on the south side. Bro. H. says he wants to know nothing among the Saints save Christ. He is holding the correct principle as a missionary for this work, to make a success of it. He will remain in the city for a few days.

Next Sabbath will be our regular union sacrament service day, the last one of the conference year, hence, should be the best. Special provision will be made for seating. Let us make this a feast day. We should remember that to make a feast we must have the heavenly manna to feast upon. Like sitting at a table with dishes but no viands upon them, would our meeting be without the presence of God's Spirit to bless.

We are informed that Bro. E. K. Evans, editor of The Glad Tidings, will spend next Sabbath in our city, and will, no doubt, attend our sacrament service. We have ventured to announce him for the morning hour at 3411 Cottage Grove avenue.

A letter was read before the Religio prayer meeting yesterday, dictated by Bro. E. E. Johnson. Bro. Palmer was cheerful and as well as usual yesterday morning. He urged to faithfulness of duty with the Saints. Sr. Sanderson is growing some better. Sr. Stevens, who has been long time afflicted, was able to be at the services yesterday morning. Sr. Gonyea, who is afflicted with cancer, was down from Waukegan yesterday, for worship and administration.

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Feb. 25.

ST. JOSEPH, MISSOURI.

Bro. T. C. Dobson, of Deloit, Iowa, who has been visiting his brother, Eli T. Dobson, returned to his home Sunday evening.

Mrs. D. H. Blair, who spent the week with friends in the city, returned to her home in Kansas City, Saturday.

Bro. Frank Dungee and Sr. Lizzie Graham were married Wednesday evening, 13th inst., Bro. Wm. Lewis officiating. May happiness and prosperity be their portion through life.

Among the pleasant events of the week was a surprise party given at the home of Bro. Best, Wednesday evening, by his lodge friends who presented him with a handsome umbrella.

One of the enjoyable events of the week was the Martha Washington tea given by the Ladies' Aid on the 22d. The Religio furnished the music for the evening. A dutchess lace handkerchief, made and donated by Sr. Barr to the Aid society, brought $13 00.

Sr. Best entertained a number of the Saints Thursday evening, in honor of Bro. Best's birthday.

Bro. J. C. Gardner, in a few well chosen remarks, presented Bro. Best with a handsome rocker, after which refreshments were served. It was all a complete surprise to the brother.

Bro. Cushman was the speaker at the morning service yesterday. Bro. Guinand preached an excellent sermon in the evening. The social service was in charge of Bro. Best and Hubacher, and was a spiritual feast.

A. B.

February 25.

FIRST KANSAS CITY BRANCH.
2324 Wabash Ave., Sunday School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; social service 12:15 p. m. D. F. Winn, pastor, 2306 Bellfontaine; telephone 205 Union Superintendent Sunday School, E. Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect; telephone 1306 Missionary in charge, J. D. White, 609 Main St.; telephone 1358.

Attendance at all services yesterday was unusually good. Sr. Eva Bailey, district superintendent, made the Sunday School an official visit; we trust she may come again soon. Elder M. T. Short spoke both morning and evening to quite attentive audiences. His sermons were very favorably commented upon. At the social service a goodly degree of the Spirit was present. Two prophecies were given for the benefit of the Saints, urging them to more diligence if they desire heavenly blessings.

Bro. J. W. Johnson, of St. Joseph, was a visitor at all the services, and in the evening he brought four visitors not of the faith with him. Among other visitors we noticed Srs. Mary and Mabel Waruky and Elder B. J. Scott.

The entertainment given by the Literary society was well attended, and we understand was enjoyed by all.

An agent of Bro. E. T. Dobson was placing orders for ice with local houses during the week. We understand Bro. Dobson is harvesting a large crop.

As General Conference is approaching, Bro. E. Etzenhouser and Frank Rudd desire to say that they will be pleased to have any of the Saints make their office, Rooms 307, 309, 309, 515 Main St., their headquarters while visiting the city. Free bureau of information.

R. W. PORTER.

February 25.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.
Corner 23d and Holly One block south of Observation Park line.

The Ladies' Aid Society cleared $80 00 at their social.

The local Daughters of Zion will hold their first regular meeting on Thursday, 2 p. m., at Sr. Adu Koehler's, 1728 Belleview.

Twenty-four young people of the church gave a surprise party to Sr. Edith Edwards, on Tuesday evening, February 19th, in honor of her sixteenth birthday. The pleasure will long be remembered by those participating.

The colored Sunday School at Armstrong is prospering under the efforts of Bro. Robert Clow, superintendent, Sr. Nettie Williams, assistant superintendent, Sr. R. Lucemore, Sr. Sarah Hawkins and others, supported by the manifestations of God's pleasure in their work. Some of these little souls are hearing the gospel story for the first time in their lives, and they show a lively pleasure in the opportunities offered them. The session is from 1:15 to 2:30 p. m.

Elder Alfred White visited the Second Kansas City Sunday School last Sunday, and instructed the branch at 11 a. m. on prayer as described in James 16:5. His words were powerful for good.

Sr. Eva Binger, daughter of Bro. and Sr. Charles Binger, was baptized at the Armstrong font by Priest George Edwards, after the morning service yesterday, and confirmation was administered by Elder B. J. Scott, assisted by Elders Alfred White and Joseph Emmett, at this branch during the afternoon prayer meeting.

Bro. John Weedmark, of Lamoni, Iowa, has been visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity during the past few weeks.

Last Sunday's prayer meeting in charge of Bro. Alfred White and Joseph Emmett, was highly spiritual, and Bro. B. J. Scott received an endowment of the Holy Spirit in the gift of prophecy, giving encouragement and strength to the faithful, and admonition and warning to the negligent. Bro. White preached the evening sermon, using Amos 3d chapter, 7th verse, as a text. He presented the necessity of prophets now, as only a Saint, endowed with authority from God, could do it.

JOHN C. GRAINGER.

February 25.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

BEAVER FALLS PA., Feb. 8.
Editor Ensign—My last letter, if I remember correctly, was written from Philadelphia, where I have labored most of the time up till the beginning of the New Year. I have put off writing in the hope that I would have something of more interest to write about. But time flies, and even now I have nothing very important to report, but I hope I can truthfully report "progress," even though it has been slow. Our work in a large city is generally slow. I know of no place where one can work so hard and seem to accomplish so little, as in a large city. There is so much to attract, to amuse, to interest, and the forces of the wicked so strong, that our very best efforts, at times, seem almost in vain. The Saints are generally scattered, living expensive, halls to meet in difficult to obtain and costly, and many other things, too numerous to mention, all helping to retard the work.

One thing is clearly making itself manifest, here in the East at least, and that is the necessity of chapels which the Saints can call their own. Very little can be done toward reaching the masses in a stuffy hall, up two flights of stairs, which can only be had on Sunday by the Saints, but which is occupied by the followers of the prince of darkness the rest of the week. And the Saints are beginning to awaken to that fact. As a result, efforts are now being put forth to build in several of our prominent cities, among which we may mention Philadelphia, Pittsburg, and Brooklyn. As soon as I arrived in Philadelphia I saw how useless it was for a missionary to try to do the work required without some place to meet in during the week as well as on Sunday. And since a hall would be too expensive, we began to talk up building a chapel; we found a few of the Saints had already anticipated this need, and had organized themselves into a chapel association, with a nice little fund on hand with which to purchase a lot. We then began a search for a lot, at the same time asking the Lord to open up the way, which He did in a marvelous manner, so that the branch now find themselves in possession of a good lot, nicely located, without costing them a cent, enabling them to use the entire amount they have been able to accumulate toward the building. They now have on hand in cash about $300.00, and over $200.00 more subscribed. The plans are drawn for a neat little chapel which they have every reason to expect to see completed next summer. They are a nice body of Saints, the branch is in fairly good spiritual condition, and with a chapel of their own, I believe the work will prosper.

In compliance with the advice of the missionary in charge to visit Pittsburg, I left "the city of brotherly love" and spent the last Sunday of the old year with the Saints at Pittsburg, where I met a warm welcome, and was made happy by the presence of the good Spirit in their Sunday services. Finding myself nearly half way to Chicago, I yielded to the temptation to run home to spend New Year's day with our children, where wife had preceded me more than a month before. Of course, it was a happy New Year's day to us all. I was pleased to meet our loved ones again, but most of all to witness their zeal in church work. Though many changes have taken place since I was one among them I am glad to see the young maintaining their interest. May God continue to bless them. Bro. Terry seemed determined I should not grow rusty while visiting, and whatever assistance I was able to render him was certainly a pleasure on my part.

I returned to Pittsburg, January 19th. The branch seems to be in a fairly good condition spiritually, but rather unfortunately located so far as their place of meeting is concerned, being in the center of the business portion, and up two flights of stairs, and on a occupied by them on Sunday. On that day they hold three services following each other in close succession. At 10:45 preaching, at the close of the preaching service, testimony meeting, and at the close of this, Sunday School. This ends the services for the day, for by this time, those who have taken part in all these services without intermission, are pretty tired. Many live several miles away, making it very difficult, to say the least, if they were not tired, to get back in time for evening meeting. I am pleased, therefore, to state that they were meeting with some success in their chapel enterprise. They had a lot secured and paid for, but there was some dissatisfaction man first on account of the size of the lot and the location. Friends who know about this, will be glad to learn that all this has lately been remedied. In answer to prayer and works combined they have been able to exchange their 25 foot lot on Colwell street, for a 40 foot lot on Miller street, on the hill, instead of under, and the branch is now all united, and we are in hopes they will be able to build next summer too. Perhaps the statement relative to the exchange of lots needs a little qualification. I will say, therefore, that the exchange is being made on last Wednesday evening the branch adopted resolutions providing for the exchange, and if no hitch occurs, the deal will be consummated in a few days. The branch has good talent, and with proper effort there should be a good work done here, as I believe there will be.

I am now holding meetings here, about thirty miles from Pittsburg, where there is a small branch, presided over by Elder W. H. Forbes, formerly from Chicago, at whose home I am stopping. Bro. Forbes is a live man, and one who does not believe in hiding his light under a bushel, as many can testify about here. We have a hall to preach in on Sunday, and in private houses during the week. We generally have larger audiences in private houses here than we do in the hall. It is a good idea when the people will not come to us, to go to them. Our audiences are not large, but attentive, and seemingly interested. The indications are that some will be baptized soon. The weather is cold and stormy which interferes somewhat with the success of our meetings, but we are trying to do the best we can under the circumstances, leaving the rest in the hands of Him who doeth all things well. I am feeling well and hopeful.

In gospel bonds,
F. G. PITT.

RICH HILL, Mo., Feb. 21.

Dear Ensign:—I closed my labors at Nevada Tuesday night, and on Wednesday bid the Saints good-by, and turned my face toward home, after a number of very profitable series of meetings in different parts of this section of the country; now I am stopped just for a few days, here in Rich Hill, to make my promise good which I made them, that before I would return home I would again come and preach to them.

Our esteemed brother, F. M. Sharrock, president of the branch, who lives a few miles out of town, failed to appear at our meetings for three nights, but yesterday he came with smiles all over his face, and about the only thing he could say was, "It's a girl;" the four previous children were boys, so we freely forgive him for being absent; his associates, Bro. Delmar Chapman and Welch, he can well trust the welfare of the branch. The meetings are fairly well attended, and the preacher feels well too. We close tonight, and tomorrow we expect to reach home, after an absence since January 24.

Yours in bonds,
F. C. WARKNY.

HOOD RIVER, Ore., Feb. 19

Editor Ensign:—I notice in the Ensign of February 14th, a notice to "Be on the Watch Tower," over the name of Bro J. S. Roth; it is our duty, as brethren to warn each other against these "fakes" who would intrude upon our people. Not long ago a man came to my house, claiming to be a Saint; he was a short, heavy set fellow, looked to be 40 or 50 years old, claiming to be a nutter from California. He was fairly well dressed and seemed quite intelligent. He claimed to have been baptized by Elder Albert Skinner, whom he said now lived in Missouri.

He said he wasn't broke, but was rather close run for money. I informed him that he was welcome and treated him to the best we had; he stayed two nights, and then stated that he was going up the road to the next station and would be back the next Sunday evening. He came back according to his agreement, about 8:30 p. m., but he was just about as drunk as a man could be and walk. It is needless to say that he got leave to go his way at an early hour the next morning, and when he left he never even thanked me for the kindness shown him, so I wish to warn the Saints of eastern Oregon, Idaho and Montana, against this "fake," as he claimed he was going to Montana.

I would be pleased to know if there is an elder in the church by the name of Skinner, and if so, if he ever baptized a man in California by the name of Trombley; I think Professor J. A. Trombley is the name he gave me. I trust he will be brought to judgment, as he is doing us an injury by going from place to place, claiming to be a Saint among strangers, leaving a false impression upon their minds. Hoping all is well in Zion, I am

Your brother in Christ,
THOS. CHAPMAN.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 16.

Editor Ensign:—I am still in the field of battle earnestly contending for the faith which was once delivered unto the Saints. I feel thankful to God for the hope that is set before us. Our work from house to house is onward in this city and a number very near the Kingdom of God. Four have given me their names for baptism as soon as the weather will permit, and my brother in the Lord, Priest W. H. Fuller, has six or seven about ready to enter the Kingdom of God. He is the right man in the right place; he is the man for the street work, and what we want to have here is a large branch, and if the Lord will keep the stumbling blocks out of our way I think the work will roll on this year in Chicago. The Lord has given us one nice young man this year for a starter; I baptized him January 6th.

I think our street work will be of great worth to us this year: what we did last year on the street has got people to reading our work this winter who never read before or ever heard of a Latter Day Saint. Dear brethren and sisters, the Lord showed me last year another way to get at the people with this blessed gospel work. I opened two Bible schools this winter and teach the people at their homes and let them read for themselves to see the work just as it is. I find it is a good way to get at them with the truth.

May God help us to be faithful to this marvelous work and a wonder, and that we may live long to see this blessed work established among our race of people [colored], is our prayer in Jesus' name.

Yours for the battle,
G. H. GRAYES.
508 West 37th Street.

IOWA PARK, TEXAS, Feb. 8.

Editor Ensign:—While I wait for the train I will drop you a line. Bro. A. J. Moore and the writer are just returning from a trip in the Indian Territory, just across the river from Montague and Clay counties, Texas. We find such a smallpox scare in every part of the country and from one to live cases in every little village, especially on all the railroads, that we find it almost impossible to get the people to come out to hear. I trust that the plague will pass over soon as it is in a light form; not many dying so far.

Yours for truth,
T. J. SHEPPARD

VALLEY JUNCTION, Wis., Feb. 7.

Dear Ensign:—As I am at liberty for a few moments I will drop a few words to your many readers. I am at home for three or four days to look after some home affairs, then go again.

Bro. J. B. Wildermuth and I have been laboring together in Chiwaukee county most of the time this year. We have opened up four new places, some of our hearers are well the kingdom. We have other calls to go to other new places. We want to follow them up as fast as possible so to do. The work is moving along real well.

In bonds,
A. L. WHITEAKER.

VOLINA, Ala., Feb. 17.

Editor Ensign:—By your kind permission, through the columns of your most worthy and highly appreciated paper, I beg just a few lines which will inform the many dear Saints in almost every state in the union, who I am certain, have been pleading for Jennie, my daughter, that if it was God's will that she might be restored to health, that her spirit took its flight twenty minutes before one o'clock, Wednesday night, February 14th.

She was taken with a hard convulsion on Monday evening, February 5th, after which time she seemed almost entirely unconscious up to the time of her death, excepting about six of her last hours, when her mind came again to her, and I never saw her seem to be more sensible in her life, though her voice was too weak to talk above a whisper. She left every evidence that I could possibly wish for, that she is one among the saved.

I stayed by her bedside almost without ceasing from early dark until it was finished; she knew she was dying, and said, "Papa, don't leave me." She seemed to have many things to say to me, but as I have said, it was only in a whisper, and of course I could not gather every word as I wanted to. While she was suffering intense pain, she would often say to me this, "I feel mighty good," and twice she asked me, or said to me rather, "Do you hear that singing?" She asked for water quite often, and for it, and for everything else that we did, she would always, in that deathly whisper, say, "Thanks." As I have stated above, at forty minutes after midnight, on Wednesday night, the spirit fled. Oh! I would not take aullions for the consolation that she left her poor sorrowing father. I will say here, as I cannot recollect each and all, those dear Saints who have been loving and kind to her all the way down now for many years, even until her death, to please accept the thanks and the prayers of a bereaved father. It always did her much good to receive the letters sent her.

As we were almost entirely isolated from any Saints, or any church, we did not have anything said at the grave, but I intend to have her funeral preached some time in the future. I hope that the elder who is nearest me will try and come this way and preach it for us.

Jennie was born in Monroe county, Alabama, April 5, 1872, and excepting the first two years of her life, lived in Evergreen, Alabama, up to the time she was taken to the hospital for treatment, some two years ago. She joined the Baptist church at the age of 14, and lived a consistent member for two or three years, when she saw things quite differently—using her term—to what the Baptists preached and practiced, and was converted and baptized by Bro. M. M. Turpen, in Baldwin county, this state, and has ever since been a member of the church of Latter Day Saints. I don't remember just how long she lived in the church, but I think at least nine or ten years. She was, at the time of her death, 28 years, 10 months and 9 days old. I ask the dear Saints everywhere to continue now, as Jennie is gone, to pray for her father.

BENJ. F. PAGE.
P. S.—I have seven miles due east of Castleburg, Alabama, on Cedar Creek, and will say, if any of the Saints, or the elders, ever come this way, to please hunt me up. My hat-hating always hangs out for my and all of the dear brothers or sisters.

OZARK, Missouri, Jan. 23.

Dear Ensign:—I beg space in your columns to give my testimony. My whole heart is in harmony with the work though sorely afflicted. Neither myself or my husband have good health. How glad would we be to hear some Latter Day Saint preaching. We live now where the people are spiritually blind and where the sound of guns are frequently heard on the Sabbath. Oh, how we hunger and thirst to live among God fearing people where the Saints assemble and worship in spirit and in truth.

Mr. Anderson, who lives in Ozark, sends us her Heralds and Ensigns, and last evening as we sat around the store I read the sermon delivered by Elder R. C. Evans at the Saints' church, Independence, Sunday, April 29th; how inspiring and grandly, through the inspiration of a kind and loving Father, did Bro. Evans illustrate the divinity of this marvelous work. May God bless the dear preacher, and also Sr. James, the reporter. Although we have had our ups and downs and our shortcomings, this finds us with charity in our hearts for all the dear brothers and sisters and a fervent wish for the unbelievers. May God bless all with light and spiritual guidance.

About the first thing we look for in the "letter department" is for letters from those with whom we have been acquainted, and especially Bro. C. J. Spurlock; we never forget his kind and christian admonition. May the blessings of heaven rest on him. We are thankful for a church house in Springfield, Missouri. Dear Saints, pray for us in our sore trials. We are hated by our relatives in the flesh, and so poor, we are neglected by the world; pray that we may endure our sufferings always with an eye single to the glory of God.

Your sister in the conflict,
CASSANDER TENNIS.

BELLCENTER, Wis., Jan. 13.

Dear Ensign:—You are a welcome visitor; we could hardly do without you, for we love to read your interesting letters from different parts, from the elders and also from the sisters and all who love this grand work in which we are engaged, besides other interesting news published in your columns.

We are still in the faith doing the best we can to help roll on this grand and glorious gospel work. The Wheatville branch is doing fine, prospects are good. When we meet we all come together with love for one another, no jar or contention is found in our midst. We are somewhat scattered but meet the first Sunday in each month for sacrament and we are blessed in so doing. Our worthy brother, F. L. Sawley, is doing a good work here, also Bro. L. Doughton, when he was here was doing a noble work. These brethren are both well liked in these parts, by the Saints and also the outside world. The people are all asking, When is Elder Houghton coming back? I think Bro. Sawley and Doughton would do a grand work if they could be in these parts this coming year. Hope they will for they are both zealous in God's work, they make the gospel so plain.

The president of the branch, Bro. J. W. Whiteaker, is doing all that he can to keep the flock together and feed them with that spiritual food which is needful; he is trying to be useful in the vineyard of the Lord in teaching others the doctrine of the everlasting gospel, but some will not listen; some will listen but will not take heed, while others seem interested.

I am glad we are privileged to live in the day and age when the gospel is restored and preached in its fullness, and I am glad that I accepted and obeyed it. I thank God for all His blessings bestowed on me, one of the weakest of His handmaidens in His vineyard.

I have a niece living near Ft. Wayne, Indiana, to whom I sent one of our tracts on the Kingdom of God. She liked it real well, she says she never tires of hearing the word of God spoken, but she never heard a Latter Day Saint sermon. I wish she could hear it, I want to get some more tracts and send to her as soon as I can.

May God bless us all and give us of His Spirit to guide us in this life, and save us in the celestial kingdom is my prayer. Pray for us that we may be earnest, faithful Saints.

Your sister in one faith,
M. E. WHITEAKER.

VINCENNES, Ind., Feb. 3.

Dear Ensign:—It being a fact that this is the church of Christ, we should not hesitate to show our faith by our works. Now the fruits of the Spirit are love, joy, peace and brotherly kindness. When we enter the narrow way we are expected to rub off all bad things and selfishness with the rest; if not, we cannot obey the command to come up higher.

Now I want to have a little chat with all of the branches of the church in all the world. Is it possible that the elders have to stop the ministry in order to serve tables? I read not long ago where one had hired to a farmer to help gather corn; another had hired to plow; can we not come up higher and stop all such by every branch having a special fund, then when the elder comes, ask him what he needs and see that he gets it; and give him some money besides to buy stationery with and anything else he needs. These are the kind of prayers that bring the blessing of heaven. Try it and see. Do we expect the elder and his family to make all the sacrifice?

There are no Saints here, but I have found a few who are willing to read the church papers. One woman, after she had read a few, refused to take any more and was not satisfied, but came in and asked if we did not have a heap of members in Utah. My reply was that she surely was not that ignorant; everybody who reads the newspapers knew better than to class us with that abolition.

Some of the elders in these parts have been to see me, Jenkins, Scott and Marshall. Charley Barmore used to come, though I have not seen him in a long while. Come again, Charley, if you can.

Hopefully in the faith,
MELVINA ULMER.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence Mo., as Second Class Matter.

SOCIETY ISLANDS MISSION.

[CONCLUDED].

Before our leave taking I wish to here relate one of the strongest and most direct manifestations of the Father's care that has come under my observation in this mission. I wrote "manifestation" but I should have written "series of manifestations."

A very small insect, almost invisible, was imported from France a few years ago, in house plants. In this warm climate they have multiplied so abundantly, because of no winter, that they threaten the destruction of every cocoon on the Islands. This means more, perhaps, than many at first will imagine, but when it is considered that the cocoon is really the tree of life here, furnishing food, water and houses, and being the only food grown on the coral islands, it will be seen what a great loss they are about to realize. Some islands are not yet affected, but where the Saints dwell the insects are especially bad. This year they began to make their appearance on this island, Arutua. The Saints, becoming alarmed, thought it a good time to repent, and, if possible, obtain from the Lord the reason for the plague. So the officers of the branch appointed three days of fasting and prayer; in the evening of the third day all gathered in the church for prayer. During this meeting ten open visions were given, and two prophecies. The first vision seen was a man in mid heaven with a fan in his hand, fanning as if driving something away. This vision they failed to understand perfectly, but the president informed them that it indicated favor from the Lord and for them to persevere. The next vision was a trunk, such as are used here for money; it was filled and more, with money. After reasoning and more praying a second box was seen, without a dollar in it, which they were told was the bishop's box, which at that time, in this mission, did not have a dollar in it. This explained to them what the other box was, namely, their own, and though filled with money, yet they had not paid one dollar tithing.

They speedily and very faithfully repented. Each one, children and all, prayed for forgiveness, covenanting with the Lord to pay their tithing in the future. Every soul in the church old enough to talk, begged for pardon, even Catholics and outsiders doing the same. About this time a wild, mad, ferocious bull was seen coming into the church, and one brother became very much frightened and dodged and tried to get out of the church, but two brethren caught him, and, with difficulty, held him. He, however, was the only one who saw the animal. When this vision was made known they interpreted it to mean that the adversary was getting very mad, and the president exhorted them to diligence and never stop till they were laid in their graves. He exhorted them to pay their tithing whether the devil got mad or not. Also not to pay with the expectation of the Lord blessing them, but to do their duty whether the Lord blessed them or not. Other visions were seen and a brother in prophecy told them the cause of the plague of insects was that they had not given the Lord His tenth, but if they would do their duty, as they had promised, God would send a strong wind and drive the insects into the sea, and that that was the meaning of the vision where a man was seen with a fan. That day many of the Saints paid their tithing, and up to the present time about five hundred dollars have been paid into the hands of the bishop's agent, in less than three months, by a membership of fifty nine. Shortly after the prophecy above referred to was given by one of the natives, Moe by name, a very strong, cold wind blew for nearly a week which almost put an end to the insects, so much so that when we came here I remarked to the Saints, "How green the trees look," and then they told me the reason.

On September first we set sail for Ahe, where all the people of Manihi are gathered to make bufa, and later to dive for pearl shell. Nothing of any special importance occurred here except that I preached more sermons and drew more charts than for any other period of the same length of time during my ministry. This branch has paid in two months over two hundred dollars tithing. From Ahe we went to Takarua, the Mormon stronghold in this mission. Our members are not very much alive here, and all that we could do did not seem to enliven them much. From there we went to Takapota, expecting to remain only a short time and then return to Arutua. We had ordered all our mail to Arutua for two months past. Also we were to meet all the elders who wished to go on a mission, at that place, about October 1st, and assign them to their fields. We also expected to get reports there from all the missionaries sent out by last conference, in time to report to the presidency in October. Also we had ordered an organ from San Francisco which we expected in Papeete in October, likewise, the translation of the Doctrine and Covenants was to be completed about that time and as one of our brethren was expected to sail for America in November I was anxious that he should take the translation with him to the Herald office. Word had also been received that the Governor General had ordered a conference of all the churches to explain to him their faith, and this, too, was to be in November. It was reported also that the French police had closed our church at Takarua, telling the Saints that it was a new law just come from Papeete, which, if true, doubtless applied to all our churches in this mission. Added to this, I was almost destitute of shoes and must get to Papeete soon. But there was not a single boat to be obtained. A trading vessel was expected in a few days and I had promise from the owner of a passage on that; but when it arrived, considerably overdue, the super cargo would not take us on board. This super cargo is a Jew. To me it sounds very queer, of late, to read of the Jews being the Lord's favored people. Well, what could we do? It was annoying just at that particular time to be tied up in that way when there was so many things that needed my attention. Phrenologists tell me that I have quite a little inventive ability, but I could not, to save me, invent a way to get out of that place; we could only wait and pray. Such long days and weeks of waiting.

One morning, on the 7th of November, one month and one week past the time we expected to be in Arutua, a small boat was discovered anchored at the landing. It was soon discovered that the boat was a Catholic boat, and we felt grave fears as to the possibility of our getting away on it; however, the captain readily consented, but he was only going to Takarua. But we returned to that island in hopes of soon getting away, as there were plenty of Saints gathered there diving, and the proprietor of three trading vessels, though a Mormon, also lived there. To our utter surprise we could not get a Saint at that place to either loan us a boat or rent one. All seemed willing to do so, and even anxious, but the stormy period had come on and their boats were too small, or the sails too old, or a relative, not a member, had a share in the boat and would not consent. We told them that we would be willing to go in a canoe and furnish the sheet for a sail, but do what we would we could not get a boat. Finally, after explaining over and over again our situation, we got them to appoint a committee to hire a boat, we promising to pay for it. One day the committee would see one man, the next day another man, and so on until I got very tired of such slow work and started out to find a boat myself, which I succeeded in doing before night, returning about 9 p. m., not having eaten dinner or supper; I resolved not to eat or drink till I had obtained a boat.

The next was to find sailors, so next morning before breakfast I started out on another tour, on foot as before, resolving not to eat or drink until I had secured the men before 8 o'clock I had secured the men, and they were to have the boat ready by 4 p. m., without delay. About noon that day, November 15th, I heard that a boat had come for us and was at the city on the other side of the lagoon. My sailors, or rather one of them, the others having backed out, borrowed a small boat and took us that evening to the city, where we indeed found a brother from Manihi, who had come for provisions, also for us. Bro. Hotu had heard from the Jew that we were at Takapoto, and no boat, so he had hired a boat to come to Takarua for provisions and then to go to Takapoto for us, but finding us at Takarua he was saved an extra trip. Can you, kind reader, imagine my feelings when this brother, who was hired partly to come for us, sat around and told vulgar stories and smoked tobacco for thirteen days before making any effort to go.

We set sail November 28th for Aho with a favorable wind, a quarter aft, the very best for sailing. We had scarcely gotten out of sight of land till the sky darkened in every direction, and the wind changed to straight ahead. A storm was fast approaching, white clouds showing wind. In a very few minutes it seemed to have vanished, and a dark cloud was seen in another direction. In less than an hour the wind had changed to every part of the compass, and each time facing a dark storm, trying, it seemed, to get at us, the hand in the wind each time forbidding. We reached Manihi that night, and breakfasted on shore in a city uninhabited, as all the Saints were at Ahe, seventeen miles distant. By three o'clock we were landed at the city, surrounded by scores of former acquaintances, all happy to see us, and we none the less glad to see them. The day being Sunday we attended the various services of the day, and Monday and Tuesday listened to matatus, declamations and songs, which they were arranging for conference. The Religio members were especially active.

On Wednesday we set sail for Arutua and arrived tua (back) the place where the Saints are camped, about four o'clock, but the sea was so heavy we could not get over the reef, so we stood offshore till morning. In the morning we found the sea no better and concluded to go to the city and through the harbor and back across the lagoon on the inside; according to custom the wind was straight ahead, so we were compelled to beat against the wind all day with a heavy cross sea which was not far from as bad as the boiling teakettle we got into at Tibuta. When within half a mile of the harbor the worst storm we have yet encountered at sea struck us, and it looked for awhile as if we would be compelled to swim ashore, but finally ran into the mouth of the harbor all safe, the sailors shivering with fright. The channel through the reef harbor is very narrow and very crooked; just as we were in the most particular and dangerous place the captain, in trying to steer the boat around a short curve, broke the handle off of the rudder. Fortunately no harm came to the boat, for the broken piece was immediately replaced and we anchored in safety. We found many of the Saints at the city so we sent the boat back next day to Ahe, via Apatai and came inside, in a few days with Saints camping here where I am while now I write. The boat we came in on its return trip encountered a storm, and after being out several days at sea, finally returned to Apatai.

This year has been one of almost continual wind and storm. The natives are very much afraid to go to sea. Heretofore, for six months at a time, the wind has blown from one quarter; now it is almost a miracle if it blows two days from the same direction, and occasionally we have a cold wave that the natives have not experienced before. They call this year mea huru e (thing likeness strange), or in other words, no year like it. Surely the last days are upon us. One protestant boat with six persons aboard, including a protestant minister, left Hao in August, and the boat was found some weeks after, broken up on the reef at another island. No trace can be found of the men. Almost weekly we hear of some boat wrecked or lost. In October one of our members, an elder, and former governor of Manihi, left Ahe in company with his wife and one child, to go to Takarua. When near their destination a storm tore away their sails and for nine days they drifted about and were finally picked up by a trading vessel some eighty miles away. When found they had just one cocoon left for food or drink. Whatever may be said of the name of this ocean, it is no longer "pacific."

Upon arriving here our first inquiry was for mail, and was informed that there was none nor had they heard of any. A brother just arrived from Apatai, however, informed us that there was a whole bag full at that place. We sent word immediately by a returning boat to a brother whom we heard was coming in a few days to this place, to be sure and bring our mail; but we waited and waited, and although several boats had come from that place, not one could get the mail. The governor was out gathering coconuts and the mail was in the city. He, being a Catholic, cared very little about my mail. Finally, on the 12th of December, a brother took a special trip to get my mail, and after spending some days in hunting up the governor persuaded him to deliver it over. On the 17th I received indeed a bag of mail, and now to "faatiafaro" my trouble, i. e., to straighten it out.

First, I received no letter from San Francisco about an organ, and therefore suppose none was sent.

Second, The action of the French officers in closing our church at Takarua was because the law requires wood or stone buildings to be erected in the city, and as our church there is part "nion" he did not desire them to use it. However, after the Saints promised to build a lumber one soon, he let them go on with their worship. I can hear nothing of a law from Papeete on the matter, and as other branches I have since visited have not been interfered with, I presume it is all talk. Something like a letter written from here to Bro. Burton about several of our brethren being appointed governors of several islands, as appearing in the Herald. It was doubtless written to cheer up Bro. Burton without any regard for facts. We thank the editor of the Herald for his congratulations, but they are a little premature—I think about fifty years. On this point I wish to write more after awhile.

Third, Only one missionary reported to me, so I am not under the necessity of making a long report to the presidency, especially as the brother reported nothing only that he had gone to his mission.

Fourth, The season has been so very unfavorable for the elders to clear themselves of debt, that no one came to receive an appointment, though I expected twenty or thirty. So all my worry to get here to see to that work was cleared away.

Fifth, In my mail I received a letter from our translator, dated October 3d, stating that he would that day finish the translation of the Doctrine and Covenants, and as eighty dollars was due he desired to know where to get it. He said he had written several letters to the native bishop, but got no reply. Had called twice to see him but he was not in. This being near the middle of December, it is a shame that a friend who has treated us so kindly, should be compelled to wait so long for his money. I must get to Papeete as soon as possible. May the Lord open up the way. It is necessary also that the translation be sent to America for publication, so that Bro. Burton and others can read the proof about conference time. I fear, however, that we shall not be able to collect the money till conference time.

Sixth, Of the conference of ministers in Papeete to inform the Governor General of their faith, I can hear no more, so I suppose there is no truth in it. Today, December 22d, the brethren have all gone to election, to elect a governor and other officers. This does not look much like 'Apu, as stated in the Herald, had been appointed governor, does it? This island and Apatai have one governor. The Saints compose almost the entire membership. It was scarcely possible for the Governor General to appoint any other than a Saint for the governor here. The present governor, a Catholic, not giving good satisfaction, the authorities resolved to allow the people themselves to elect, and so they have gone there for that purpose today. Makatea the same way. They are all Saints there too. No appointment was made, and the last I heard they had no governor.

At Manihi, the governor heretofore, was a Saint; he has been removed and a non-church member appointed. Among some forty governors four are Saints. Last year I think there were seven of our people held that position.

The political taffy fed the Saints about conference time by those who wanted their votes has not kept sweet very long. The old idea told me three times last year at Hickwern by the Governor General himself, "We want you to understand that your religion is only tolerated here," has not been entirely obliterated by our last conference in Papeete. The Saints are beginning to see that "before election favors and promises" are not as lasting as the Spirit of Catholicism. We were of the opinion last conference that much of the praise said to have been received—though I heard little of it—was blarney, and we think so yet. We are not here to court the favor of political schemers, but hope to attend strictly to our business and so live and work with such respect to all that we shall have at least the favor of God. We hope to treat the natives on an equality with ourselves, whether we lose our caste with others or not. We repented of our caste when we were baptized, and henceforth our brethren and sisters of whatever race are one with ourselves. We are all one family of God.

Before arriving at this place, we heard from Catholics, Mormons and Saints how that the spirit of prophecy had been poured out on the Arutua branch, and that scarcely a meeting was held since their wonderful fast meeting in August, but that some one spoke in prophecy, and others saw visions. I also learned that the officers of the branch were rather doubtful as to the source, so I was anxious to see about the matter. If it was really an outpouring of the spirit of truth, which was doubtless true, as every one was striving very hard to live exactly right, they needed some instruction as to the use of the gifts; or if from a wrong spirit, they needed instruction also. The matter is principally new in this mission, and so one might well suppose they were puzzled a little.

The first Sunday after my arrival I was asked to preach, and while talking with a goodly degree of the Spirit, a brother jumped to his feet just as I had finished a point, and exclaimed, "Prau wau. Hapao to ture. Aita pea pea," which in English is, "True. Keep the law. No trouble." He sank to his seat after saying that, a flood of tears coursing down his face. This was indeed very singular, but I let the matter rest for a few days while I considered the matter from all sides, at the same time praying for light. Considering the excitable nature of these people, as also their lack of understanding of order and peace, I concluded that it was, doubtless, a testimony for himself, but not to be given, especially when some one else was speaking; so I asked him and the officers of the branch to come to the house one evening, when I explained to them that God was a God of order, and it was not order for two to speak at a time; and further, that the Spirit was subject to the prophet, and not the prophet to the Spirit. He should, therefore, control the Spirit; but if he could not do so, he might know that it was not of God. I showed them from the Bible and Doctrine and Covenants the operations of the Spirit and their use. I bade him live very faithfully and probably I would instruct them again sometime in a sermon. On Sunday, the 9th, during prayer and testimony meeting, this same brother arose, and, with due control, spoke the following in English, of which language he does not know a word:

"Hear all people, everybody. The king of all kingdoms is coming soon, all people will hear Him, everybody will see Him. His people will gather together from the four winds." Then he stood for a moment or so, when I said, "If you have anything more to say, Moe, say it. If not sit down." He sat down, but said afterward to some of the brethren that he was not done, but could not say it.

The Saints were especially cheered when we told them what was said. This convinced us of course that he did not speak of himself. We can only say may the good work go on; but we need more instructors here than one. May the Lord send us such men as can and will travel among the Saints, and patiently instruct them in all these matters. The work is reviving in all the islands so far as I have heard. Of Papeete, I know little as I can get neither word or letter from there. In July I heard that the branch was progressing nicely. I have baptized eight and witnessed several baptisms by others. A letter from Taneta Rau last week informs me that many of those at Hao who, a few years ago, were beguiled into the Mormon faith, are now returning, though he mentioned no baptisms. I hear that Bro. Janssen has baptized several at Vaihital. (The above was written December 16th).

December 29th: As I have had no opportunity of sending this letter since last I wrote, I wish to add a few lines concerning the first Christmas tree in the mission. A few days before Christmas all the men of this island were called to Apatai to choose a governor, but they expected to be back on the 24th to take part in the exercises of the evening. Evening came, however, and no boat, so it was necessary to postpone the matter.

On the 25th, in the afternoon, several songs, declamations, and dialogue were rendered, and in the evening the distribution of presents and a short program. We arranged coconut limbs in a fan shape across one end of the church and lit it up with candles and Chinese lanterns. On the end of the branches or leaves we tied the presents, and were it not for the fact that I arranged it mostly myself, I would say it looked very nice; but as it was mostly my idea, I will say nothing(?) about it, only that when completed it looked very much like a young coconut tree. All trees in this part of the mission are evergreen so we could get no other. The missionary woman had arranged all the details, and the missionary simply carried out her commands, except as to the tree. Everything was new, and the children, and the older ones too, scarcely knew how to act. They had given money to buy candy and they knew there would be "monama" on the tree and that was about all they cared to think about. The tree was certainly off until the people were all gathered. Well, without multiplying explanations we will say it was a grand success and everybody was delighted. The children's hearts were made glad and we rejoiced to see them happy. We explained to them the object of the tree, the birth of the Savior, the gift of God, and such things as would enlighten them. At first they hardly knew whether to take hold of it or not, but now they say it is going to be a "ture wahara fanau ra" (birthday or Christmas law). Many useful presents were given. The missionaries were not forgotten. One article I presume never seen on a Christmas tree in America was received by the missionary and another by his wife. That is a fan; they were not at all out of place.

Your brother in peace and good-will to men.

J. W. PETERSON.

ARUTUA, Society Islands.

THE CLIFF DWELLERS.

The origin of the ancient cliff dwellers of Arizona and New Mexico has, it is believed with reasonable certainty, at last been learned. This discovery was made by the expedition of the bureau of ethnology under the leadership of Professor W. J. McGee, which has returned to Washington.

While journeying through northern Sonora, in Mexico, the expedition discovered and examined a number of entrenched mountains. These mountains constitute an ethnological phenomenon wholly unprecedented. Nothing like them has ever been seen in America. They are hills on which are still to be observed the remains of prehistoric fortifications of great strength. On them the ancient population of the region made its last stand against fierce invaders.

Most interesting of the relics of a vanished race were the entrenched mountains which are found in the vicinity of fertile valleys and frequently near the modern villages situated on the sites of prehistoric towns. The system of fortified hills, if it may so be called, extends northward through Sonora into Texas. The northernmost of them is not far from Tucson, A. T. Another overlooks the Papago village of Poso Verde in Sonora. Another is in the neighborhood of the town of Caborca. Several others are near the town of Pitiquito. One overlooks the Mexican settlement of Poso Nueva. The most remarkable of all are in the vicinity of the settlement of San Rafael de Alamito in the Magdalena valley, Sonora. There are many others, but these serve to illustrate the common association of entrenched mountains with sides suitable for human habitation.

These mountains are well known to the Mexicans, who have long regarded them with a curious, though not scientific, eye. The one that overlooks the town of Caborca is about 800 feet high and nearly a mile long. One side of the hill slopes steeply southward. The north side is very precipitous, the cliffs overhanging in places. Along the south side, half way up the slope, is a continuous wall built of loose stones and running the whole length of the mountain. The wall varies in height from two to ten feet, being made higher where the slope is more gentle and therefore easier for a foe to ascend. In places the wall is carried out in the shape of bastions, and where the slope is easiest the fortification is reinforced by supplementary walls above and below.

Toward the crest of the mountain, at various points where the ascent is easy, many large stones were found, some of them being of several tons weight. It is evident that these were intended to be rolled down upon the approaching enemy, being placed so as to be easily dislodged by a push. Within the entrenchment Professor McGee discovered a few house circles—that is to say, the remains of circular houses built of stones. On the hillsides were quantities of pottery fragments, the remains of thousands of pots of all shapes and sizes. There were also great numbers of stones brought from a distance such as were suitable for the manufacture of hammers, arrow points, knives, etc.

From these signs it is known that the people who fortified the mountains had no knowledge of the use of weapons. They were pottery makers and were skilled in the arts of the Stone age. Relics yet more interesting were discovered by the expedition at San Rafael de Alamito. In that neighborhood are the most extensive mountain fortifications. Particularly remarkable are two hills, which are known in that country as Las Trinchoras or the fortified places. The whole mountain side was sprinkled with fragments of pottery and with stones fetched from afar for use in the manufacture of implements. Many implements were picked up, such as utensils for grinding corn into meal.

Professor McGee traced for half a mile a canal which evidently had been used to supply water. He tried to follow the ditch further, but all signs of it had disappeared beyond. It was impossible to ascertain whether it brought the water from reservoirs in the hills or from the Magdalena river four miles distant. The remains of the ancient irrigation works showed that they were on a very extensive scale. The valley of Aribaca today is irrigated by a ditch ten feet wide. The prehistoric ditch for watering the same valley was of much more elaborate construction, elevated above the level of the bottom lands and 150 feet wide.

Very interesting material for study was afforded by rock carvings found on the two buttes near San Rafael de Alamito. They puzzled Professor McGee somewhat, because they seemed to represent not one era, but the works of modern Indians as well as those of the prehistoric people. For the most part these carvings exhibited the conventionalized forms of human beings, deer and other animals. They appeared to be records of feats of hunting, or in other cases the totems—coats-of-arms—of clans or individuals. Such rock carvings are made by the modern Apaches and by other Indians of the Southwest. But those unmistakably ancient were different, consisting of arbitrary symbols, the general arrangement of which suggested a likeness to the old Maya inscriptions of Yucatan. The carvings are to be studied and there is no telling how much of interest may be ascertained from them.

Professor McGee says that all indications point to the conclusion that the entrenched mountains were not permanent places of habitation. They were merely places of refuge, having neither granaries nor cisterns, and depending for water supply upon such quantities of that fluid as could be carried in ollas on the women's heads. From what is known of primitive warfare it is easy to judge what followed next. The next step was the destruction of the irrigation works by the savages, who cut the ditches and tore down the reservoir dams. Thus the food supply was cut off and the people starved. Only a few survived, and these were divided into two groups. One group made its way northward to the region of the Gila valley, the Verde valley and the Salido valley, where the rivers flow permanently. In the region which they had hitherto occupied the streams flow only for part of the year.

The people of this group became cliff dwellers. Still harried by savage foes they maintained existence with difficulty. Their dwellings on the ledges of inaccessible cliffs were safe against invaders, and from them they overlooked the valleys where their crops grew without the artificial storage of water, though helped by some irrigation. From time to time hostile tribes ravaged their fields, but they managed to get along. It was not an easy life and some of them went further to the north, where they found fewer enemies and were able to dwell in the valleys. These were the early people of the pueblos, who built their villages for the sake of protection in a peculiar fashion that still survives. Thus the modern pueblo is a town consisting of an assemblage of rooms, entrance to the houses being obtained ordinarily by means of ladders.

The other group of survivors was driven into the desert so far that their conquerors did not venture to follow. There they developed abstemiousness and physical courage in an extraordinary degree, because these qualities were essential to their survival. Those who did not possess them died. Their descendants are the modern Papagos and Pimas, who are well known to be the bravest of all Indians.

On the mainland in the Seri country Professor McGee found an ancient shell heap, composed almost wholly of clam shells. It was sixty feet high and covered several acres. This heap is situated on the shore of the Gulf of California, fifteen miles south of the strait that separates the island of Tiburon from the mainland. This shell heap was so old that the mud flats from which the clams were obtained had vanished and had been transformed into salt flats and sand dunes. Moreover, the sea had cut away nearly one half of the heap, so as to reveal a section of it from top to bottom. All through it, from top to bottom, fragments of Seri pottery and pebbles, such as they use today for implements, were discovered. This shell heap must signify a great lapse of time. Centuries were required to make the accumulation, and other centuries must have elapsed before the sea could eat away the land and obliterate the old lagoons in which the clams grew. The Seris were there before Columbus arrived. The civilization of the people who fortified the mountains passed away. The Spaniards came, and their dominion eventually disappeared. Now the Yankees are opening the country, and they find the fierce Seris exactly as they were half a dozen centuries ago—hopelessly savage and intractable. They have seen civilization after civilization pass by them, and they remain today as at the earliest beginning of the Stone Age.—New York Journal.

A Cure for Wounds.

The smoke of woolen rags is a cure for most dangerous wounds. A lady of my acquaintance ran a machine needle through her finger. She could not be released till the machine was taken to pieces. The needle had broken into her finger in three pieces, one of which was bent almost double. After repeated trials the pieces were extracted by pincers, but they were very strongly imbedded. The pain reached the shoulder, and there was every danger of lockjaw. The woolen rags were put over the coals, and she held her finger over the smoke, and in a very short time all the pain was gone and it never returned, though it was some little time before the finger healed. This is but one of the many instances of such cures, some of them taking place several days from the time of the wound. Let woolen rags be kept sacredly and always at hand for wounds. The smoke and stench will fill the house, perhaps, but that is a trifle when the alternative is lockjaw, or even a long, painful sequel to a wound. Another instance was the wound made by an enraged cat, which tore the flesh from the wrist to the elbow, and bit through the fleshy part of the hand. One ministrant of the smoke extracted all pain, which had been frightful.—Boston Transcript.

The simplest things are the things that really appeal to us most, and that is only because when we are simple we are natural. An enjoyment that is natural is always the deepest and truest. The moment the artificial, the conventional, comes into our lives, that moment the sweetest realizations go out.—Edward Bok in the December Ladies' Home Journal.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. F. B. GURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes under the supervision of the general society. Local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development, that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Huimes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 146, Lee's Summit, Mo.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenhour, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 212 North Compton Ave., St. Louis, Missouri.

Dear Sister Curtis:—Your letter and card received, and while I may have seemed to be indifferent to your request, I may here say that my time has been so fully occupied with various and pressing duties, that your request was laid aside unawares, though not forgotten.

I certainly feel very incapable of "writing an article" as I have never done so before, and upon a topic so often canvassed by others. I feel like shrinking from the privilege, but that story of the talents comes to mind, and lest my talent be sometime found buried, I shall try to dust it off and improve. I will tell you of our home life.

Father and mother are both lovers of peace and happiness, and so set out in their journey through life. They taught each of their children, while very young, to obey. No duty was asked of them that was not intended to be performed, and no duty was allowed to be shirked. In this way we learned to help bear the work of each day, and to feel a responsibility of our little part resting upon us. We were taught that quarreling, swearing and lying were disgraceful and sinful, and that it displeased our parents very much to have us indulge in any of these. As you know, mother stands at the top in almost every household. Her pleasure is our aim, and so it was in our home. If mother wished us to do something for her, it was done. Not only for her, but for each other; and so when we came to maturer understanding and knowledge we all feel grateful that we are the children of our parents, and that they tried to rear us in the way they thought was good.

Indeed, I really do not know which it is who feels the greatest benefit, parents or children; for it is certainly barrowing to step into a home (?) where the children are grabbing, snarling, scolding, pouting, and all out of sorts, just because the other does not give him or her all his or her own selfish way. Why not teach to give and take, lend and borrow, be kind and accommodating? The sun's rays will be more golden, nature will look like the hand of God, and earth will give you a little taste of paradise.

Let us might get the idea that we had just one little circle, and that among ourselves, I might say that father is known for many miles around; those in distress are often comforted, the sick find a sympathetic word, the missionary is always welcome, the beggar is never turned away hungry; in fact, the phrenologist said he would never be rich so long as there was a Lazarus.

On the other hand I might mention many things that would bear great improvement, but when we consider that the "helps, governments," etc., with which the youth of our day are supplied, were not then so universally known, it seems to me that surely the great Father had a watchcare over all. That each of Zion's children may act well their part in the gospel warfare, is my most sincere and humble wish.

Respectfully,
MABEL CLARK.

WALDEMAR, Oul.
Manners in Public Places.

Probably the worst manners in the world are those of persons anxious to draw attention to themselves.

Gentlefolk conduct themselves so as to escape observation. They converse in quiet, well-bred tones, they do not push themselves forward; they do not obstruct the way of those who are passing out at church door, theatre or elsewhere; nor occupy the middle of the sidewalk, nor bar the way over long with their carriages.

They arrive in time for a performance at opera or theatre, and do not whisper, rattle their programs, or disturb those about them.

They do not talk during a musical performance. They conform to the customs of the place when traveling. Once dressed, they are no longer conscious of their clothes.

The sacrifice made by a gentleman in giving up his seat to a woman in a public conveyance is imposed by a spirit that does him honor, and deserves her most gracious recognition, but she should never imply by look or manner, that she expected the attention before it was offered.

Engaged couples should not make themselves conspicuous by an exclusive devotion to each other.

The attitudes of some young women make the skirt seem superfluous. Men rarely admire poor imitations of themselves, and girls appreciate the courteous restraint inspired by a regard for their presence.

Nothing gives such upright dignity of mien as the consciousness that we are what we pretend to be, and true gentleness overflows in manner, and makes the voice winning and the movement graceful.—Mrs. Burton Kingsland, in The Ladies' Home Journal.

WILL SEND $2.50 FREE.

FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., THE CELEBRATED CHICAGO SPECIALIST, WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS NEW SPECIAL TREATMENT FREE TO EACH OF OUR READERS.

When an experienced physician offers to give away $10.00 worth of a New Treatment for diseases of the heart, nerves, stomach or dropsy, it is conclusive evidence that he has great faith in it. And when hundreds of prominent men and women freely testify to his unusual skill and the superiority of his New Special Treatment his generosity is certainly worthy of serious consideration.

That Dr. Miles is one of the world's most successful physicians in treating these diseases, is proven by hundreds of testimonials. One patient cured after failure of eleven Grand Rapids physicians, but after being given up by six and seven Chicago physicians, another after one of the leading doctors in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago failed. Thousands of testimonials sent upon request.

The eminent Rev. W. Bell, D. D., of Dayton, Ohio, General Secretary of Foreign Missions, writes editorially in the State Sunday School Union: "We desire to state that from personal acquaintance we know Dr. Miles to be a most skillful specialist, a man who will spare neither labor nor money to keep himself abreast of the great advancement of medical science."

The late Prof. J. S. Jewell, M. D., editor of "Journal of Nervous and Mental Disease," Chicago, said: "By all means publish your surprising results." Rev. A. W. Stewart, of Fairport, Mo., had had heart trouble, which troubled and nervous prostration. Three physicians failed to help him. He writes: "I regard myself cured." Mr. C. Buck, of Webster City, Mo., wrote a friend: "Dr. Miles treated me for a mind trouble, a mental fear and great nervousness. He cured me in nine years ago." Mr. Geo. Woody, of Flat Creek, Mo., reports: "My son was so bad, he was helpless. Other physicians could not help him, but Dr. Miles brought him out a right."

This new system of special treatment is thoroughly scientific and immeasurably superior to the ordinary methods.

All afflicted readers may have $2.50 worth of treatment especially adapted to their case, FREE, we would advise them to send for it at once. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 201 to 209 State St., Chicago. (Please mention this paper.)

Australia's "Ensign."

At the annual conference of the church in New South Wales, Australia, it was decided to inaugurate a press and type fund, with a view to purchasing a printing plant with which to print the Australia "Ensign." Bro John Kaler, of 128 Evans street, Rozelle, was appointed treasurer of this fund, and he was instructed to solicit subscriptions from the Saints in America, as well as all other parts of the world. So if you feel to help the work in this part of the world, send along what you can spare to Bro. Kaler. A paper of our own is a real necessity in this land, and I feel that if the American Saints only knew the amount of good which could be accomplished by one, we would soon have the necessary money to purchase a small plant with which to print it. Some of the brethren think that by owning our own printing plant we can have our paper printed for half the price others would charge us to print it. Those who desire to assist us may send their donations to John Kaler, Rozelle, New South Wales, Australia.

Now a few words with reference to our former appeal for subscriptions with which to resuscitate the Ensign. Up to the present we have received one hundred names from America, which, though not sufficient to warrant us in making a start, is encouraging to us, and we again ask the Saints in all parts of the world to assist us by sending along seventy-five cents, for a year's subscription to the paper when it is started. Those who have already sent in their names may now send in their money if they feel so disposed, and we will forward them the paper as soon as it is issued, which we sincerely hope will be soon. Some have already sent their money for which we thank them.

Send all money for subscriptions to Walter J. Haworth, Wallsend, New South Wales, Australia, by international money order if preferable, or

SPECIAL NOTICE.

If those desiring the DAILY ENSIGN during the coming General Conference will send in their orders as soon as possible, it will assist us in having our lists arranged in advance, which is necessary in order that they receive the first issues on time. The first issue will be published April 6th, and the last, the day Conference adjourns. Price 25 cents for entire session. Send orders to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

The General Conventions.

The General Convention of Zion's Religio-Literary Society will convene at Independence, Missouri, at 7:30 p. m., Tuesday, April 2d and continue over the 3d. The General Sunday School Convention will open at the same place at 10 a. m., Thursday, April 4th, closing the evening of the 5th.

It is practically certain that reduced railroad rates will be secured with time limits that will accommodate all who wish to attend both conventions and the following General Conference. Notices will be given as soon as arrangements are completed with the passenger associations, and all should watch for these notices and study the accompanying instructions given by our Church Secretary very carefully. This may save you some inconvenience.

There will be matters of very general interest to come up in both conventions, and we trust all will make an effort to attend. We hope for and fully anticipate the most interesting and most largely attended conventions of the societies. Further notices will be given as to program of business, work, etc.

Hopefully, your brethren and co-laborers,

T. A. HOUGAS, Supt. Genl. S. S. Association. J. A. GUNSOLLEY, President Z. R. L. Society. February 23.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

Conference convened at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, February 2 and 3, 1901. Geo. W. Robley and Geo. H. Smith were chosen to preside; E. B. Hull secretary. The following of the ministry reported in writing: Elder F. G. Pitt; Priest D. C. Carter; Teacher A. D. Angus, and Deacon Ira W. Humes; verbal reports by Elders Geo. W. Robley and Geo. H. Smith, and Priest H. H. Bacon.

Branches reported as follows: Philadelphia 106, loss of 1; Baldwin 50, gain of 2.

Treasurer reported on hand at last report, $3.51; collected, $1.95; expended, $1.50; balance on hand, 90 cents.

Bishop's agent reported on hand at last report, $121.33; collected, $570.75; expended, $181.60; balance on hand, $523.08.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing term: President, Geo. W. Robley; secretary and treasurer, E. B. Hull; John Zimmerman was sustained as bishop's agent. Motion prevailed that the collections taken during this conference be divided with the Philadelphia branch.

The following were elected to represent this district at General Conference: Geo. W. Robley and F. G. Pitt. A resolution was adopted sustaining the general church authorities.

Sunday morning a sacramental and social service was held and in the evening Geo. W. Robley preached from the text, "Canst thou by searching find out God?" Adjourned to meet at Baldwin, Maryland, the first Saturday in August.

E. B. HULL, Sec. 1248 Harold St., Philadelphia, Pa.

The Clinton district conference convened at Coal Hill chapel, February 2, 1901, District President T. R. White presiding, assisted by F. C. Keck; Vina H. Goff secretary, assisted by A. C. Silvers.

Ministry reporting: Elders, Swen Swenson, W. H. Love, C. Quick, T. B. White, A. Lloyd, G. W. Beebe, C. P. Welch, W. H. Manning, H. L. Kinning, S. C. Andes, John Wood, A. A. Goff. Priests, John A. Silvers, S. C. Williams, A. S. Leeper, J. N. Stephenson, A. C. Silvers.

Branches reporting: Wheatland, 55; Rich Hill, 183, gain 4; Lebanon, 37, loss 11; Nevada, 60, gain 8; Lowry City, 83, gain 4; El Dorado Springs, 187, gain 3; Walker 24, loss; Veve, 124, gain 1; Tebo, 38, gain 6.

Report of bishop's agent, Geo. W. Beebe, read, audited, and found to be as follows: on hand last report, $59.43; receipts since October 6, $270.55; disbursements, $206.33; balance on hand, $83.65.

District treasurer, Geo. W. Beebe's, report found correct as follows: receipts, $10.95; disbursements, $12.61; balance due treasurer, $1.66.

The committee on location of next reunion reported, and it was voted to hold the next district reunion near Wheatland, Hickory county, in accordance with the invitation of the Wheatland branch.

Delegates to General Conference were elected as follows: F. C. Keck, John Burlington, M. J. Phipps, George Swenson, Andrew Oglevie, T. R. White, D. Tucker, C. P. Welch, F. T. Baker, J. N. Stevenson, S. C. Andes, Iva Keck, Swen Swenson, A. Lloyd, A. C. Silvers, R. T. Walters, Wm. Manning, Viola Manning, A. A. Goff, Ollie Keck, Sherman Sigman, and H. L. Kinning. The majority of those present were empowered to cast the full vote of the district.

Veve Chapel was selected as the place for next conference, the time being June 1st. Three preaching and two prayer services were held, the Sunday afternoon prayer service being the best had at the conferences for years. Several prayers were offered and fifty-eight testimonies given, the spirit being present in a marked degree.

VINA H. GOFF, Clerk. 118 W. Hunter St., Nevada, Missouri.

Conference of Ohio district convened at Limerick, Ohio, February 2, 1901. Bro. G. T. Griffiths chosen to preside, James Moler associate.

Branches reported as follows: Vinton, present number 102, 1 baptism; Liberty, present number 50; Creola, present number, 46, 6 baptisms, 1 received on certificate; Milton, present number 47, 3 baptisms; Columbus, Ohio (new), present number 11. Byer and Davisville branches withdrew their reports for correction.

Bishop's agent's report: Received since last report, $161.70; on hand last report, $9.68; total, $161.38; expenditures, 145.80; balance on hand, $16.08.

Elders reported as follows: J. L. Goodrich, V. M. Goodrich, T. J. Beatty, James Moler, S. J. Jeffers, and A. B. Ervin. By letter, A. B. Kirkendall, O. B. Thomas, and W. Kriebel.

A communication from Elder H. E. Moler was received, and a committee, consisting of V. M. Goodrich, J. L. Goodrich and T. J. Beatty, was appointed to draft a letter and send a copy to Elders W. H. Kelley and H. E. Moler.

Report of elders' court in regard to Sr. Philadelphia Roush was read, and the sister cut out from the church for apostasy.

Moved that the conference provide for the ordination of S. B. Kriebel to the office of a priest.

The committee on reunion reported as favoring Columbus, Ohio, as being the better point for holding a reunion. Time and place for next conference and reunion left to the reunion committee and the district officials.

Moved that district officials provide letters of removal to the members of the Liberty branch in case of its disorganization.

Moved that the report of committee on bishop's agent's report in 1890, wherein an error was thought to exist, be expunged from the record as it was found to be clerical error.

Elder S. J. Jeffers elected president; V. M. Goodrich, associate; E. E. Long, re-elected secretary, and S. J. Jeffers sustained as bishop's agent.

James Moler, G. T. Griffiths, W. H. Kelley, T. J. Beatty, Martha Beatty, J. L. Goodrich, V. M. Goodrich, S. J. Jeffers, O. B. Thomas, A. B. Kirkendall were chosen delegates to General Conference.

Moved that a committee of three, one from each branch, be appointed to consider the advisability of consolidating the Byer, Bierly and Liberty branches, and report to mission-ary in charge at earliest moment.

Vote of thanks extended to Saints for hospitality.

E. E. LONG, Sec.

Conference of the Northwest Kansas district met in Saints' church at Blue Rapids, Kansas, February 2, 1901. President A. Kent in charge, John Soderstad, secretary pro tem.

Ministry reporting: Elders, J. A. Davis, T. E. Thompson, A. Kent, Wm. Landers, J. S. Goble, Mahlon Smith, V. F. Rogers, M. T. Short and A. H. Parsons. Priests, W. S. Hudson, F. S. Ward, N. Lund, L. G. Gurdwell, T. H. Barrett, Wm. Scott. Teacher, A. C. Ingie.

Branches reporting: Rural Dale, Idylwild, Blue Rapids, Homestead, Greenleaf. Not reported, Beloit, Solomon River, Norcutur, Scandia.

Bishop's agent, A. Smith reported amount on hand November 2, 1900, $51.10; received $77.57; paid out $86.10; on hand January 29, 1901, $32.57.

District treasurer, E. Sandy, reported amount on hand last report $1.53; received 40 cents; amount on hand February 2, 1901, $1.93.

As this district in conference assembled adopted a resolution requesting each member of the district to pay the sum of five cents every three months (20 cents a year), to the district treasurer to pay district expenses, be it

Resolved, That the presidents of branches see to it, and urge the members to pay their dues.

Resolved, That hereafter all branches in this district hold their business meetings not later than two weeks preceding each conference, and forward their reports to secretary of district.

WHEREAS, the ministry of the Northwest Kansas district have been careless and indifferent in reporting to the district conferences, be it

Resolved, That hereafter those who are, and those who shall be, ordained in this district, who shall fail to report for the space of one year without any just cause shall be considered under censure, and unless proper confession is made, their license shall be called in till such time as they are willing to recognize that law and order requires them to make report to these conferences as they, as ministers, form a part thereof.

Delegates to General Conference are Alma and Anna Kent, John Soderstad, Clem Krithof, J. H. Scott, E. Sandy, Mary Smith, A. Z. Smith, A. H. Parsons, Wm. and Ella Landers.

Adjourned to meet with Homestead branch May 4th and 5th, 1901.

ELLA M. LANDERS, Sec. STOCKTON, KAUS.

Convention Minutes.

St. Louis district Sunday School association convention was held in St. Louis, February 9, 10, 1901. On Saturday evening, February 9th, business items were discussed, and officers for the ensuing term elected as follows: Charles J. Remington, district superintendent; Joseph Jacques, assistant superintendent; Anna De Jong, secretary; S. A. Burgess, treasurer; Florence Burgess, librarian. On Sunday evening, February 10th, an entertainment, especially edifying, was rendered under the auspices of the Sunday School association and the district Religio association. The convention then adjourned until February 8, 9, 1902.

ANNA DE JONG, Dist. Sec. 2329 De Jong St., St. Louis, Mo. February 24.

Northeast Missouri district association convened at Bevier, February 8, 1901, M. J. Rudkin, assistant superintendent, in charge, Geo. A. Tryon, secretary. Reports were had from Bevier and Higbee Schools; Superintendents' reports were read from D.

Robt. Winn, and M. J. Rudkin; also from W. G. Chapman, librarian.

Treasurer's report was audited and found correct, as follows: balance last report, $11.93; receipts, $2.56; expenditures, $4.92; balance February 6, 1901, $9.57.

Election of officers resulted in the choice of M. J. Rudkin, superintendent; Mary Burnham, assistant superintendent; Nydia Thomas, secretary and treasurer; D. L. Morgan, librarian.

The delegates chosen to General Convention were: Louise Palfrey, F. T. Mussell, D. L. Morgan, Frank Chaburn, Nydia Thomas, Wm. E. Summerfield, J. A. Tanner, Geo. A. Tryon, J. T. Williams, Annie Williams.

A motion was passed that all active workers in the district who may not be members of local schools, be considered ex officio members of our district conventions.

A demur of action was then raised on the grounds of mover not being a member of this convention and it was announced that action would be taken at our next convention. Adjourned to meet at same place as our district conference and on day previous.

Geo. A. TRYON, Box 283, Huntsville, Mo.

Convention Notices.

The program of the Independence district Sunday School convention to be held Friday, March 8, 1901, at 2 p. m., will consist of routine business, election of officers and of delegates to General Convention. The amendments as per Herald of December 26th will be discussed, and such other business transacted as may be presented. In the evening there will be an interesting program of papers and talks on important Sunday School topics interspersed with vocal numbers. We hope there will be a full representation of the School district, and that much good may be done for the Sunday School work.

Mrs. ABBIE E. HORTON, Sec.

BORN.

DAVIS.—At Coffeyville, Kansas, February 12, 1901, to Bro. Benjamin and Sr. Elma Davis, a son, named Hugh Stanley.

MARRIED.

(One dollar must accompany these notices when other than the plain announcement is desired. No descriptive information will be inserted free.)

BOWMAN—NELSON.—At the home of the bride's parents, Ero. and Sr. Nelson, Amor, Otter Tail county, Minnesota, February 18, 1901, Mr. John Bowman and Sr. Alfreda Nelson, Elder F. D. Omans officiating.

DIED.

(One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.)

NELSON.—At Lander, Wyoming, February 3, 1901, in the 82d year of his age, Bro. Andres Nelson. He was born on the island of Bromholm, Denmark, April 11, 1819. He was a good Saint and faithful unto the end. He kept the faith and died in the hope of a glorious resurrection.

BURNHAM.—At Independence, Missouri, February 15th, 1901, of scarlet fever, after an illness of four days, Lena May, daughter of John B. and Mattie E. Burnham. She was born February 25, 1895. Interment in Independence cemetery, Saturday following her decease. Funeral sermon at Saints' church, Sunday morning February 16th, by Elder Joseph Laif.

COCHRAN.—At Booneville, Missouri, February 4, 1901, Sr. Ellen Cochran. She was born in Belfast, Ireland, September 26, 1826; was married to Samuel Cochran, May 9, 1849, and was the mother of eleven children. She was baptized September 24, 1835, and lived a faithful, consistent life till death. She leaves to mourn their loss three sons and three daughters, one of who, Sr. Cammie Cochran, belongs to the church. Funeral service from family residence conducted by Elder J. A. Tanner.

KING.—Susannah Mary Mills was born in York county, Ontario, July 27, 1878; came to Applegate, Michigan with her parents in 1883; was baptized by Elder E. C. Briggs June, 1893; was united in marriage with Frank N. King, November 16, 1898. She died February 6, 1901, leaving a little babe one day old. Husband, father, mother, three sisters, two brothers and a large circle of friends mourn their loss. Funeral at the Baptist church in Cash, Michigan. Interment in Washington cemetery. Sermon by E. J. Goodenough.

SMITH.—At her home, 2316 Lyon street, St. Louis, Missouri, February 9, 1901, Sr. Emma, daughter of Elder J. G. Smith, aged 16 years, 9 months, and 24 days. She was born in St. Louis, Missouri, May 16, 1884; baptized April 3, 1895. She has gone to meet her mother and other loved ones. Leaves her father, step-mother, four brothers, two sisters and many relatives and friends to mourn her departure. Funeral services were held February 10th, at the home; in charge of Priest Geo. F. Barraclough.

GREEN.—February 8, 1901, Elder George Frederick Green, son of Elder George and Sr. Kezia Green, in his 35th year. He was born July 16, 1866, in Chatham township, Kent county, Ontario; baptized August 25, 1887, or- dained priest following October and elder June 11, 1899. He married Martha Ellen Brown November 9, 1892, who died April 26, 1894. On March 4, 1896 he married Esther Ann McEdden; two children were born to them. Funeral services in Saints' church, conducted by Elder A. Lovell, assisted by Elder J. H. Tyrrell. Interment in Louisville cemetery to await the first resurrection.

PAGE.—At her home, Volina, Alabama, February 14, 1901, Sr. Jennie E. Page, daughter of Bro. Benj. E. Page, aged 28 years, 10 months and 9 days. Though a sufferer for many years her cheerful, humble spirit and her anxious efforts to bring the light of the gospel to others, won for her the loving sympathy of hosts of Saints and friends. She was born in Monroe county, Alabama, April 5, 1872, but resided in Evergreen, Alabama, all but two years of her life. She joined the Baptist church at the age of 14, but was later baptized by Elder M. M. Turpin, in Baldwin county, Alabama, and lived a consistent member until her death.

THROAT REST. You can cough yourself into bronchitis, pneumonia, and consumption. Bandaging and bundling your throat will do no good. You must give your throat and lungs rest and allow the cough wounds to heal. There is nothing so bad for a cough as coughing. Stop it by using AYER'S Cherry Pectoral. Even the cough of early consumption is cured. And, later on, when the disease is firmly fixed, you can bring rest and comfort in every case. A 25 cent bottle will cure new coughs and colds; the 50 cent size is better for settled coughs of bronchitis and weak lungs; the one dollar size is more economical for chronic cases and consumption. It's the size you should keep on hand. All families ought to be on the watch for the first signs of cough or acute lung troubles. Every country home in the land should keep Ayer's Cherry Pectoral on hand to provide against an emergency. JOSEPH G. WILKINS, M.D., Dec. 14, 1899. - Holland, Mich.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, MARCH 7, 1901

NUMBER 10.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE.
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box 11, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks. Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

THE GOSPEL A WITNESS.

The gospel of Jesus Christ is a force for good in the world which is accomplishing its work upon all who submit to its influence. This influence affects for good not only those who obey the principles of the gospel, but it also blesses those who neglect to honor them by obedience, so far as they may have association with those who do obey. For instance: The natural impulse when one is wronged, is retaliation; returning evil for evil; but the gospel law forbids this kind of dealing. It will not, under any circumstances, justify or permit ones dealing unjustly with, or to dishonestly take advantage of another. Thus is the world of unbelievers benefited by gospel influences, even though men are slow to credit the source of the benefits enjoyed.

Our Savior, when teaching the principles of life, and impressing the immutability of the laws which govern its attainment, proclaimed:

And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come.—Matt. 24: 14.

Under this instruction it is important that an understanding be had as to the manner in which the gospel can support this statement as being a witness; and it should be given careful consideration because of the results attaching. One of the definitions given by Webster of the word "witness," is "that which furnishes evidence or proof," and in this sense is the gospel pre-eminent as a witness. It is a credible one, because it is truthful—exemplifies facts. Its testimony can always be depended upon, and when promises connected with it are made, they are always fulfilled if the conditions are permitted to govern. It is a reliable witness; it cannot be tampered with or influenced to favor one and not another, when both alike honor its precepts. Its unchangeableness is an assurance to all mankind that they can place confidence in its testimony, whether they have lived in the days of its incipency on the earth, or whether they are living in the last days, the end of present conditions. It is true, men and women may misrepresent it as a witness; may affirm that it teaches principles and tenets which it really does not advocate, but that is not the fault of the gospel; nor can it be held as being responsible when its plainly declared precepts are misconstrued and misapplied. It always tells the same story in every age of the world's history when it is permitted an audience by the people.

But men are so accustomed in this life to applying their own ideas and theories to all questions to which they give consideration, that the habit has become a fixed one with many to use the methods adopted in the field of political economy in elucidating their theories as to the best manner of governing the kingdoms of this world, of framing laws by which success shall be attained, in interpreting the gospel laws; forgetful, or what is worse, ignoring the fact that between the physical or material world and the spiritual kingdom, there is a stupendous and effectual difference in character, and that what would be accounted lawful in interpreting the laws of one, could not possibly be so with the other. The laws of men as framed are often capable of different interpretations, but the laws of God are not; there can be but one truthful definition of their meaning and intent given; and if others are added, they are misconstructions, either from lack of understanding, or because of wilful, sinful presumption. Take for example those strikingly forceful words of the Savior to Nicodemus, recorded in John 3: 5:

Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

Language cannot be made more plain and unequivocal; the meaning is plainly evident that unless a man is born of both the water and the Spirit, it is impossible for him to get into the kingdom of God, into the place where God dwells; and yet millions of professing christians do not comply with the ordinance of baptism as instituted by the Son of God, and exemplified in His obedience under the hands of that divinely appointed minister, John the Baptist—millions of them. Why is it? Simply because their teachers whom they have selected to instruct them, have taught that faith is the one thing needful, the only real requirement to an entrance into God's kingdom; that baptism is a matter of taste or convenience or conscience—individual conscience. If one really feels as if it is best to be baptized, why, of course, let him be accommodated; but unless it is insisted upon, it is not an unpardonable omission, if one passes it. Who will argue that such an interpretation is the fault of the Scripture, or that the words of the Master are capable of such an interpretation naturally? It is beyond all controversy a strained, distorted and wholly unauthorized assumption. Left to its own interpretation any child, of the age to comprehend the meaning of words, would understand that the Savior intended to be understood as teaching the necessity of obedience to all the ordinances governing admission into His kingdom—the baptism of both the water and the Spirit.

As emphasizing the unchangeability of this witness the Savior's statement will testify. He says, "And THIS gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations." That definite little word, this, is important as a means of identifying the true gospel of Jesus Christ in the latter days—just prior to His coming—and a reading of the chapter in which this quotation is found, will show that among the other signs of the near approach of the second coming of the Lord, was the preaching of His gospel—this gospel—in all the world for a witness. It is evident that the Savior intended to make the signs of His return so plain, that none who were thoughtful and careful could mistake its proximity. He knew then, as the Apostle Paul testified after, that there would come a falling away from the truth; that false leaders—self appointed—should arise, "teaching perverse things to draw away disciples after them." Paul calls them "grievous wolves." It was also revealed to John, on the Isle of Patmos, that there had been a "falling away," an apostasy from the truth, and that it would be restored again, the same as it was in the beginning; hence his testimony:

And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people.—Rev. 14: 6.

The verse following this explains why:

Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come; and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters."

This information enables us to understand when it was that this important event of the restoration of the gospel was to take place, "the hour of his judgment is come." Referring now to the Savior's predictions (Matt. 24) concerning the signs of His coming, and we find as one of them, that this gospel, the gospel which He preached, which He instructed and authorized His disciples to teach, was to be taught as a witness. What would be the consequence, if when a witness to a matter which should come up in any court of the land for a hearing, should be summoned to testify, that in the place of the individual who had witnessed the transaction being called, some other man, to whom the actual witness had described the occurrences, should appear; and supposing that the second individual should discard a part of the testimony because he did not believe it was true, and he should go before the court to tell, not what he KNEW, but what he believed in the matter, would his testimony be accepted? Certainly not. But when the party who was present during the transaction was put on the stand and related his personal knowledge, his witness would have to be taken as true, because he spoke with authority as having seen and known. It is therefore important that the testimony of the Savior and His apostles should be taken as they gave it, discarding all conflicting interpretations that may be offered by men in this age.

When, therefore, the claim that the gospel was again restored by angelic administration in A. D. 1830 is made, it is not a difficult matter to decide whether or not the claim is worthy of credence and acceptance. To do so, it is only necessary to go to the Scriptures and ascertain what were the distinguishing features of the gospel which was taught by the Lord and His apostles; and having placed them down on one side of a sheet of paper, take up, one by one, the distinguishing features of the gospel as taught by those who make this claim of restoration—not taking the word of their enemies or opponents, as to what they teach, but what they, themselves, by their authorized ministry and representatives, teach—and place them carefully down on the opposite side of the sheet, and note the result. Then take other sheets, recording the same gospel taught by the Savior, as in the first instance, and on the other side, note the distinguishing doctrines of all other denominations which may be known, and likewise note the result.

It should not, in such examination, weigh with the investigator that others argue that certain parts of the gospel doctrines, as taught by the Lord and His apostles, are "done away," "no longer needed," "only intended until the gospel was established and then were to cease," etc.; simply place the doctrines as Christ taught them on one side, and the doctrines which all others teach, on the other, and then judge which is according to the Savior's promise, "And THIS gospel of the kingdom shall be preached;" which one of all claiming to be the gospel of Christ is the true witness, according to the pattern given by our Lord. A true witness must always tell the same story, if his testimony is to be credited. Ephesians 4: 11-13; 1 Corinthians 11: 28; Hebrews 6: 1, 2, with Mark 16: 15-18, will outline the principles of the doctrine of Christ—in connection with 2 Peter 1: 5-11—as He authorized it; and when this kind of gospel is presented today it is the fulfilling of the Savior's promise, and is the "witness" for God, to whose testimony all who would inherit His glory must give heed.

How will it witness for you, reader? On your behalf because you have obeyed it? Or against you because you have rejected its testimony?

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

SOME of our subscribers received the last week's issue of the ENSIGN a little late. The burning out of a valve stem on the engine just after we had gone to press, is responsible for the delay.

SR. DORA HUDDLESON, Alma, Nebraska, is the only member of the church in Alma, but appreciates the blessings of the gospel and desires to never turn from the shining path set before her in the gospel.

BRO. R. L. WARE, who lives south of Richmond, Missouri, and Bro. Swen Swenson have recently held a series of meetings at the Alma branch, partly at the Christian Union church in that neighborhood. As a result four were baptized, Sunday, February 24th, by Bro. Swenson, and two others were baptized the next day, six in all. There seems to be quite an interest awakened in that vicinity.

SR. (MRS.) ESTHER AMES, Mammoth Springs, Arkansas, is a member of the Pomona, Missouri, branch, but lives about forty-five miles from there, and is entirely alone so far as the companionship of the Saints is concerned. Yet she says she is trying to let her light shine, and never gives up trying to serve the Lord, though at times her way seems dark. She is in hopes that some day she will live close to a branch. She does not enjoy attending services of other churches, not because of any prejudice on her part, but she cannot accept all they teach as being the doctrine of Christ.

ELDER COLUMBUS SCOTT, Lamoni, Iowa, in a note to the editor of ENSIGN, February 28th, conveying the cheering intelligence of Bishop E. L. Kelley's improved condition of health, adds:

Our faith was recently attacked by an Elder Booth, Disciple, at a point sixty miles southeast of Lamoni, in Missouri. Bro. Frank E. Cochran, who is looking after the opening, and has done a good work there, took me over last Sunday, the 24th inst., and the people attended our reply to Elder Booth well, filling the house. I occupied three hours during the day, morning and evening, and the people there are mainly with us; want to hear more. Some few there have tried to close the house against our brethren, but have failed so far.

ELDER L. E. HILLS has a four inch, two column cut of his chart, elucidating the organization of the kingdom of God, and a three column, "nonpareil," excellent presentation of the subject, "Who Have the Keys of the Kingdom of God Today That They Can Bind in Heaven in the Name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost?" in the Marion (Iowa) Register for February 1st. The chart and the article will command attention and thought in enlightening others as to the gospel plan. The chart is very clear and comprehensive, there being first two stepping stones, "Faith" and "Repentance," then a stream of water headed "Baptism of the Water," then another step, "Laying on of Hands," and "Baptism of the Spirit;" this takes the obedient through the doors into the "Kingdom of God," then follows the narrow path. On each side of the doors is a scroll, one showing the officers of the kingdom, the other its territory, subjects and laws. We are glad to see these efforts through the press and that our brethren are so presenting their subjects as to gain "grace and favor" with publishers, enabling them to reach many whom they could not in any other manner. Speed the good work.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS

BISHOP C. A. PARKIN, San Francisco, California, Feb. 28:

We are rejoicing in the glorious gospel, trying to understand and occupy where and as the Master would have us. Our people are trying to put in practice the theory of the restored gospel—trying to get on higher ground. We hope to hear soon of Bishop Kelley's recovery, to perfect health.

ELDER A. MCKENZIE, Five Lakes, Michigan, March 4th:

For the benefit of any who might come from a distance, or send for me to administer in any of the ordinances of God's house, I will say, that I will be away from home two or three weeks on a preaching trip in Saginaw county. There is considerable sickness around here, some among the Saints, and I am the only resident elder within fifty miles. This information may save some one a drive of twenty-five or thirty miles after me. Our elders in the field are few in this district and seldom get in this part from some cause; probably they think we don't need them, but we do.

ATTENTION, MISSIONARIES

If missionaries who have taken subscriptions for the DAILY ENSIGN, expecting to bring with them when they come to conference, will forward names as soon as received, they will confer a favor. They can settle when they come.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Bro. R. L. Ware, of Richmond, Missouri, was in the city Friday of last week. He is quite encouraged over the outlook for the work in his neighborhood.

Sunday at the Saints' Church the pastor occupied at the morning hour, and Bishop Ellis Short at night. The afternoon service was well attended and occupied.

Bishop E. L. Kelley has so far recovered from his recent severe illness as to be up and able to give some attention to his duties, so our Lamoni correspondent advises. The Lamoni items were received too late for insertion.

Monday morning rain fell for a short time but soon changed to a snow flurry, the mercury dropping until it reached nearly the zero mark. A strong wind blew until Tuesday evening. Wednesday the cold moderated considerably, though it is still quite "Marchy."

At the regular business meeting of the Sunday School, Tuesday evening, the superintendent and assistant, the secretary and all teachers of the Sunday School were appointed as delegates to the district convention to meet here tomorrow (Friday) afternoon at two o'clock.

We are pleased to learn that Sr. Josephine C. Powers, formerly of this city but now of Denver, is, with her children, engaged in the work there. She states they are all members of the Religion and are having very interesting sessions in all the services—church, Sunday School and Religion.

District Religion Convention tonight; tomorrow, Friday, afternoon and evening, at 2 and 7:30 o'clock, respectively, district Sunday School Convention; and Saturday morning at 10, and Sunday, district conference. At all these services in the Saints' church here, delegates to General Conventions and Conference in April, will be elected. Good attendance and interest is hoped for.

The Cantata of David, March 14th, is in brief the Bible account, set to music, of the calling of David, the shepherd boy, to be king over Israel, bringing in the different characters represented in that account. No costumes will be used, but the characters will be represented by different parties singing the parts belonging to those characters, and it is well worth hearing. The singing of the children is especially sweet, and it will be a treat to hear from beginning to end. Don't fail to secure your tickets early. The organ fund gets all the benefit and needs your active and effective support. Prices, adults 25 cents, children 15 cents, which is very reasonable for the class of entertainment.

Grandma Davidson, who has been quite poorly for the past few weeks, is still quite weak, though able to be propped up in bed occasionally. We hope she may be spared to at least again see her loved ones at the April conference. She has not seen her daughter, Sr. Emma Burton, since the return of herself and husband from the Society Islands mission, and of course they are anxious to see each other once more. But grandma is ready to take her departure when the good Father wills. She is and has been for many years fully prepared, having lived a faithful, consistent life in the service of her Lord.

The repairs on the church have been completed for the present. The walls of the main auditorium have been kalsomined a light greenish tint, with a wainscoting of dark green, the beveling of the window frames being colored a brownish red, the frames bronzed, wood work varnished, the platform extended four feet and raised on each side of the pulpit platform. A baptistry being put in on the west side, and a stairway into the room below. A nice railing has been run around the front of the platforms and a new carpet laid. Cleaning up was commenced yesterday and will be finished today, Thursday. The window sash have also been hung with weights, and altogether the improvements will add very much to the comfort of the worshippers. While we would have preferred and chosen other colors for the walls, we are free to admit the impossibility of the committee pleasing every taste, so we offer no criticisms, being thankful to have the walls dressed in a clean coat once more. We hope to have some good news for our readers next week regarding further improvements in the shape of a new organ.

The regular meeting of the branch for business was held Monday evening, Bro. W. H. Garrett presiding, Bro. J. W. Luff secretary. The usual reports of officers were read. The treasurer reported receipts for February $87.18, expenses $89.72, balance due treasurer, $2.59. The statistical report for six months, ending February 28th, was read, showing net gain of 16, and present number 1,070; Bro. Frank and Sr. Hattie Rudd, on letters from Chicago to Kansas City, Bro. M. J. Harrington and Sr. E. B. Gaylord, from Shenandoah, Iowa, and Bro. Schweers, from Kansas City, were received as members of this branch. The name of Bro. Roy E. Newkirk was presented by the president for ordination as teacher, evidence of his calling having been made to Bro. G. E. Harrington when president of the branch, but held over until Bro. Newkirk had received personal testimony. Bro. Newkirk not being present, consideration of the matter was, on motion, laid over until next meeting. Bro. George Essig, B. J. Scott, Frank Rudd, Josiah Curtis, Sr., Wm. Crick, J. H. Leg-gion, G. H. Hulmes, Sr., Wm. Clow and W. O. Skinner were appointed delegates to the district conference to be held in Independence Saturday and Sunday next. Adjourned.

Mr. Walter Weeks, brother-in-law to the brethren Crick, was taken with that dread disease, pneumonia, Wednesday of last week, and succumbed to the attack this (Thursday) morning, at 9:13. It was thought up until Wednesday morning that he would recover, but other complications arose resulting in the rupture of the gall bladder, and notwithstanding the most assiduous care, the efforts of physicians, the earnest prayers, with administrations of the elders, all proved unavailing to save his life. He suffered intensely all day yesterday and through the night, until about half an hour before his demise, when the pain apparently ceased and he passed calmly away. He had a premonition of his approaching end, and remarked in the early stages of his illness that he would not recover, and that he would not be lying in the bed he was then in, next Sunday. He would have been 41 years old in ten days more. He leaves bereaved a faithful, loving wife and two sons, besides parents, brothers and sisters. His mother arrived from Illinois two days before his death. He was an upright man in every sense, and was universally esteemed and respected. Though not a member of the church with his wife, he believed the work fully, and lived a consistent life. The funeral will probably take place Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, though no definite arrangements have been announced as yet.

ST. JOSEPH, MISSOURI.

Sunday was a beautiful day and many who have been housed up were permitted to meet with us; among those are Sr. Burr and Bro. L. Neidorh, who have not met with us since last December.

All the services Sunday were well attended. The service Sunday morning was in charge of Bro. J. C. Gardner, Bro. Shaw was the speaker of the hour. Bro. Cushman, who was the speaker of the evening, took for his topic "Continued Revelation." His elucidations on the subject were very clear. At the close of the service Bro. Dobson moved that a copy of the sermon be sent to the church papers for publication, that others might have the benefit of it.

The sad intelligence reached us Sunday that Mother Powell, of Hemple, had departed this life Saturday at 9 p. m. She has been very sick for some time. She was well known in church circles and was highly esteemed for her excellent qualities; those who have known her for years speak of her interest and devotion to the work. The sympathies of the Saints are extended to Bro. Powell and family.

The Ladies' Aid Society will give a coffee at the home of Sr. Best, 820 North 13th street, Friday, hours 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m. Sr. Mary Sampson, of this city, was married on the 14th ult., to Mr. Eli Carrick, of Panning, Kansas.

Sr. Emma Hardman, daughter of Bro. and Sr. Kinder, who has been very ill for some time, has gone to Colorado to recover her health.

Bro. G. W. Johnston spent Sunday with his family; he returned Monday to Kansas City.

Bro. G. J. Whitehead, of Severeance, Kansas, spent a few hours Sunday evening in St. Joseph, and was present at our sacrament service. Sr. Nellie Whitehead is very sick and requests the prayers of the Saints.

Bro. Robert Garlich, of Clarksdale, is in the city. A. B. March 4.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 568 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

The union service was well attended, and passed off pleasantly in charge of Brn. Strange and Richardson. The various parts of the city were well represented.

Sr. Thompson, who has been ill for some time with the measles, which left a fatal ailment behind, died quite suddenly yesterday morning. Bro. P. Pement held the service at one o'clock. The remains will be taken to Michigan for interment. She leaves a sorrowing husband and four children to mourn their loss. We give items as near as we have them.

Bro. E. K. Evans Sundayed with us, preaching at 3411 Cottage Grove at eleven o'clock, and on west side at night. Bro. Evans is en route with his family from Grand Rapids, Michigan, his former home, to Peoria, Illinois, which will be his future home. The Glad Tidings will continue, and be issued from the new home.

Next Sabbath is our regular branch sacrament service at three o'clock. We earnestly hope this service may be well attended, and be a spiritual feast.

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., March 4.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dixon street. Services: Wednesday evening, prayer service. Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave., services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:00 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Our "minutes" were mislaid last week, and our readers did not get to hear of the good times we've been having; the 21st and 22d ult. were both given over to festivities, one in honor of the 20th anniversary of the St. Louis Mite Society, the other a "Tea Party," given by the Cheltenham Saints at Old Fellows' Hall.

Thursday evening, the 21st, celebrated by the Mite Society, in honor of their 20th anniversary, was made particularly enjoyable, because of an excellent paper read by Bro. Billinsky giving a history of the Mite Society; it recalled many pleasing, as well as sad events connected with the years, and was heartily enjoyed by Mite Society members, especially. Bro. N. Cooke also occupied a short while; at one time he was secretary of the organization for five years, at which time the Mite Society held their meetings on Sundays. We do not know how much was realized from the serving of refreshments, but truly a very enjoyable time was had.

Friday evening, the 22d, was bitterly cold, but this did not prevent the gathering of a large concourse of people in Cheltenham; friends from far and near were there, and we believe they received ample compensation for their efforts.

Bro. Allen has been laboring in Cheltenham the past week. Tuesday evening last the Sunday School business meeting provided for a renewal of teachers' meetings, a committee for Easter entertainment, and minor matters of importance. Superintendent T. J. Elliott presided. Bro. Archibald was chosen chorister.

Attendance at Wednesday evening prayer meetings is urged upon all.

Sr. Florence Burgess presided at the Friday evening Religio service, as Bro. Ed Bell's folks had just arrived in town, and he was denied but a few minutes attendance at the session.

Our heart was gladdened Sunday morning by the fine attendance at school. District superintendent, C. J. Remington, presided over the session. A number of changes in classes were made, this keeping the superintendent occupied. Bro. Remington occupied the closing minutes with good words of counsel.

Yesterday, morning and evening speaker, Bro. R. Archibald, assisted by J. J. Billinsky and J. Christenson, respectively. Nice attendance in the morning, and a very large number of hearers at evenside.

Bro. Archibald presided over the sacrament service of yesterday afternoon, the largest attendance we have had, there being an unusual number of the young people present. From its beginning it was unusually peaceful, and while there were opposing influences, yet the Spirit of the Lord was present to a marked degree, and it proved to be one of those meetings from which you go away strengthened for all the demands which the week may impose. Thus it impressed us; and to many others we believe it brought the same balm, the same courage to be not only a hearer, but a doer.

We extend a cordial invitation to all of the ministry going to General Conference this next month to call upon us. We will see that the material comforts of life are provided, and will be glad to welcome any who find it possible to pass through St. Louis en route to Independence.

March 4.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH. Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line.

Bro. Emmett Palmer was baptized and confirmed by Elder Joseph Emmett last Sunday.

At the business meeting Monday night Bro. and Sr. Joseph Lewis and daughters, Jemima and Susie, were received in the branch upon letters of removal, and Bro. Lewis was appointed associate teacher of the branch.

The branch report to district conference will show an increase of nine members during last six months.

JOHN C. GRAINGER.

March 4.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday.—Sunday School at 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening Zion's Religio-Literary Society Sunday evening at 6 p. m.

The weather the past few days has been like summer, but we are sadly in need of moisture.

Elder J. B. Roush returned from Iowa, last Thursday; he is feeling quite poorly, but filled the pulpit at the church Sunday morning.

Bro. E. Curtis and A. B. Hansen were to begin a series of meetings at Yuma, Sunday, February 24th.

On February 20th Bro. Roush, having to be absent from the branch indefinitely, sent in his resignation as branch president, which was accepted, and E. F. Shupe was again chosen to preside. It seems vacations in this latter day work are of short duration.

The Wednesday night prayer meetings have been very interesting lately.

We learn that the Saints at Rocky Ford are holding regular services every Sunday. Why not? There are more of them than there were April 6, 1830.

March 4.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

SELKIRK, Ontario, Feb. 21.

Dear Ensign:—When I last wrote for your columns I had just closed a series of meetings at Humber Bay. I labored there a month without flattering results so far as proselyting is concerned. We feel safe, however, in leaving all such efforts in the hands of God "in whom we trust." I tried to do something in the interests of the Saints also, which I do not believe will prove a disappointment. Among other things a Religio was organized, which I am pleased to learn is doing well. The young people there are certainly capable of making a success of anything within their line. When I mention these the names of Ernest and Arthur Rowett, Jimmie, Ada and Davie Pycock and Robert Hamilton come to mind as the most active ones. The last named is alone in this work from the standpoint of fleshly or earthly relationship; this does not, however, deter him from doing his part.

The Toronto branch is doing what it can to keep up to the standard spiritually and sustain the financial weight of the church recently erected. It has some excellent Saints, but I can say, without locating guilt or blame on any particular person, there is too much appreciation of the distinction of office. "There are others," however.

December 8th I went to Hamilton, where I labored with fair prospects of missionary success until January 24th. Forty-three sermons covering every phase of gospel thought were delivered. Several persons took interest and are, I trust, near the kingdom. They desired, they said, more time to investigate, but freely expressed themselves as searching for truth. Prominent among these I name Mrs. McLain, Miss Daniels, Mr. Crawford and Mr. Boligan.

Our work there is hindered somewhat by Elder Dickhout's employment. He is a railroad engineer on a night run. He has only every alternate Sunday evening for gospel work and sometimes not that since he is now and then required to do special work. This may even keep him away from services all day Sunday. Railroad companies make no allowances for a man's spiritual responsibilities. Bro. Dickhout can be depended on in a spiritual way when other cares permit.

I came to this place on the date last named and have been holding meetings since in the hall over Bro. Derby's store, at whose house I also stay. He has a family of interesting children who are presided over with dignity and tact by Sr. Derby. I am partially initiated into the ways of the household and sometimes care for the baby, etc. There are not very many Saints here, only fifteen, but they are as a rule good ones. Bro. Alvin Kuisley, whose name is familiar to the readers of the church papers, resides here. I would like to see him engaged in the regular ministry.

Am feeling well physically and spiritually but would sometimes be discouraged did I not know this is God's work. We need not be too anxious concerning the seed we sow. We are not required to watch it constantly and pry into the secret of its growth before sowing time, although it should be diligently watered. Just as "the earth bringeth forth fruit of herself," so also "God giveth the increase." (See Mark 4:26-28; 1 Cor. 3:5-8). Solomon says, "In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening withhold not thine hand: for thou knowest not whether shall prosper, either this or that, or whether they both shall be alike good."—Ecc. 11:6.

In closing we repeat the following poetical language:

Be not weary or distrustful,
O thou servant of the Lord;
Though thy work seem fruitless labor
Thou shalt reap a fair reward
Work not with a faltering spirit
Work not with signs of wear,
For a way thou hast not looked for God will bless thy labors here.
The last two lines of this verse were once repeated to the writer by the Spirit except that "I" was used instead of "God."

That Zion may prosper and all be well is the prayer of

Your brother in Christ,

ALMA C. BARMORE.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., March 5.

Dear Ensign:—In answer to Bro. Chapman's inquiry in ENSIGN, February 28th, concerning a man by the name of Trombley, will say I baptized one J. B. Trombley, in El Dorado, El Dorado county, California.

I hope that should he (Trombley) see this, his mind will be called back to the time he was given up to die with pneumonia by the doctor, when through administration he was healed immediately. He may also remember the admonition "if he were not faithful a worse affliction might befall him."

Yours in the faith,

ELDER W. O. SKINNER.

LEMONT, I. T., Feb. 4.

Editor Ensign:—We take such solid comfort in reading the church literature and can't see how any member can live without the food it furnishes. Most of those who do not thus sustain the church publishing departments have, or will, sooner or later, go back to the weak and beggarly elements of the world. Shows, dances, drinking, gambling, then apostasy. Truly the harvest here is plentiful and labors none.

O, how we wish those dear Saints who live in England and Wales were here; they could live so much better and make much more money. Everything is reasonable; good health, water and farming country, one can rent or build on company land and pay no rent; good range, chickens, eggs and butter good price the year round. O, why can't things be set in order; some wide awake families come and work a few years for the bread that perishes and assist in building up God's kingdom here. The opportunities are grand, houses all over the country, little work and willing helpers. Arbors can be built in most every settlement, and adjacent to the towns, it is the fashion of the county, and why not we occupy in like manner, and do good.

Dear brethren, I only ask for life, that I may live and labor to do good and to this end I ask you to all pray for me that I may come to know the will of God our Father, then willingly, cheerfully, and with all my powers engage to discharge every known duty to His glory and the salvation of sinful humanity.

We have had so far the finest winter ever known here. Truly it is a blessing to the laboring, moving poor; farmers plowing. O, how grand and great is the goodness of our heavenly Father, when we can acknowledge His hand in all things and properly appreciate His goodness and blessings.

In gospel bonds,
C. M. FULKS.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 19.

Editor Ensign:—Perhaps some would like to hear how we are progressing at this point. I think I can truthfully say that the Saints here have resolved to move with the church and "come up higher." We are enjoying more of God's Spirit in our prayer services, and most all the Saints take an interest in testimony meeting.

Words of praise flow from the lips of all, to our kind and loving Father for His blessings, and to the many kind Saints and friends who have rendered us valuable aid in the building of our new church. By the time this reaches you, we shall have it finished, and it's a beauty—plastered with aggrite and the woodwork finished in oil. Three large size, new style, gasoline lamps hang from the ceiling, giving a very steady, clear light. The carpet for the rostrum 7x20, is a gift from a Mr. Moore, a furniture dealer. Altogether, our church has a very nice, homelike appearance, and I can say that all the Saints have done well; one brother, a cripple, with an artificial limb, who had a horse to ride to work, a distance of one and one-fourth miles, sold his horse and gave the proceeds to help build, and now walks. God will bless such a noble spirit.

It would not be justice to leave out our young people, who also have worked very hard to help along. A week ago they held a very high grade entertainment in our hall, netting clear $10.20. We heard nothing but the highest praise and it was worth 25 cents instead of only 10 cents. I will take this way of notifying the Saints of South Missouri district that for good reasons the Johns Mills Saints requested the quarterly conference changed; so the district president has changed it to Springfield, and we have invited Bro. Joseph Smith and Bro. Kelley to be present and dedicate our church at the same time, if this will suit the convenience of those brethren; if not, we may change the date of convening of conference in order to have them with us at that time, and thereby give all Saints a privilege to hear them.

We are making large preparations to accommodate a large crowd. Remember the Sabbath School convention will take place Friday, 10 a. m. All scholars come prepared to make it interesting. We will notify all branch presidents by letter if there is any change in time.

The Saints at Coleman, Michigan, may be glad to know that Rev. James Sharratt, who was pastor of the M. E. church there, is now here, and last Sunday night he rose for baptism. He speaks very highly of the Saints there.

H. SPARLINGO.

BALSAM LAKE, Wis., Feb. 4.

Editor Ensign:—After a serious illness of four months Sr. Philori Park quietly and peacefully passed away, leaving a husband, two sons and two daughters, besides many relatives, to mourn their loss. Sr. Park was a firm believer in the christian faith as taught by Christ and the apostles, was a faithful companion and a loving mother. Her generosity, charity, and christian demeanor won for her the highest esteem of all who knew her.

Sr. Park was born in Crawford county, Ohio, November 18, 1842; was married to J. W. Park April 6, 1862, moved from Ohio with husband and family to Balsam Lake, Polk county, Wisconsin, where they, by industry and strict economy, amassed a considerable fortune, built for themselves a pleasant and comfortable home, with many pleasant surroundings.

Sr. Park was kind and charitable to the poor, ever following the advice of the Savior: "Give to him that asketh thee: and from him that would borrow of thee turn not away;" passed through many trials, persecutions and afflictions to defend the cause she so zealously had espoused, and lived and died with the hope of having a part in the first resurrection. She was baptized into the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints at Seattle, Washington, in the winter of 1898, by W. Hastings. Her daughter, Ella, was baptized at the same time; both were zealous and received many evidences that the work is true, and is built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ being the chief corner stone.

She never had an opportunity of hearing the elders preach, only hoped that the way might be opened for a work in this place. Her funeral was largely attended, people came from far and near to view, for the last time, the remains of one who had long been in their midst. Her kindness will ever be remembered and her christian life held as an example for others. Feeling that this announcement will satisfy those who knew Mrs. Park, I will close by asking the prayers of the president and elders, and all the Saints in behalf of her daughter, Ella, who is sick, and has been more or less ailing for many years. I earnestly desire the prayers of the church for her recovery.

Feeling that God will carry on His work, I am as ever a firm believer that this latter day work is not of man.
RUTHEN ELVIN.

NETAWAKA, Kan., Feb. 23.

Editor Ensign:—Since writing you from Barnes we closed our meetings in the Christian church with fair liberty and an expressed desire on the part of many present, "We want more of that kind of preaching." However the elder would not stop to say good-by—business called him away as soon as "amen" was said.

Blue Rapids was our next stop; attended conference, which was good, peace and love reigned throughout. Our congenial brother of Northeast district, Elder M. T. Short, had preceded us and had the fire burning, so we joined forces till Thursday, when he bade us farewell and took his journey towards the setting sun, stating he would return in a few days and join me, but alas—strayed or stolen, which? is the problem that troubles the Quaker. It is said large bodies move slowly, hence we are hopeful of seeing his smiling countenance soon.

There is a golden opportunity for a series of meetings at the school-house six miles south of Centralia, as soon as the roads get so people can get around. I had a good hearing there. Preached three times in Centralia, but few to hear. I am doing my best to interest the people here; congregation is growing in numbers each night. Attention good.

I think of going to Horton Monday to hold a few meetings, and then home by March 5th.

LATER.—ENSIGN says our Congregational brother, that I have been looking for from the west, is at home. Well, well, I too will follow when my work is done.

In gospel bonds,
A. H. PARSONS.

STANBERRY, Mo., Feb. 25.

Editor Ensign:—Feeling it our duty to write a few lines to your columns, we will try and do so. We are among the isolated ones, and the Herald and ENSIGN are all the preaching we get to hear, but they are a source of great comfort to us. We are always glad to hear of the progress of this latter day work in all parts of the Lord's vineyard. We hope to have the privilege of being where we can meet with the Saints ere long. Asking an interest in the prayers of the Saints, we remain

Your brother and sister in Christ,
MR. AND MRS. JAS. SCHOFIELD.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

ARE ENCYCLOPEDIAS RELIABLE?

ELDER DANIEL MACGREGOR.

This is an important question. If they are, then down goes "Mormonism" with all that term actually signifies, as a monstrous institution unworthy the notice of every right-thinking mind and beneath the contempt of all followers of Christ. But ere we arrive at such a final verdict, it is only fair that we take a look at our witnesses. What are encyclopedias anyway, and who wrote them? Some people attach infallibility to everything contained in such books. Our plea is that infallibility only belongs to God and His word, and consequently all other professed sources of information may at times be mistaken. Men, uninspired men, are the authors of all the encyclopedias.

Before me lies volume 16 of "Encyclopedia Britannica," and in glancing over an introductory page devoted to a citation of the various authors of the several articles in said volume, I find the names Wm. Thompson, Stellenbosch college, South Africa; Major F. C. H. Clarke, C. M. G. R. A., J. A. Crowe, W. S. Rockstro, J. C. O'Dowd, J. Johnston, Milwaukee, Grant Allen, J. Paton, and several others. Now, there is nothing above the human in these names, and they are not so extensively known that their veracity is at once made manifest. The address of some of these gentlemen is given in part, and of others we know not on what continent they reside, and are even minus of that supposedly all sufficient qualification, D. D., L. L. D., etc. They are only human beings, even if they do live in South Africa, and, like other creatures, can make mistakes. Indeed, the book concedes that thought, for on the title page I read, "The R. S. Peale reprint with American Revisions and Additions." One can readily understand the propriety of the term "additions," as editions succeed each other in this "knowledge shall be increased" age, but the term "revision" suggests a lack of perfection in the articles of former editions, and at once we see the indubitable truth that encyclopedias are imperfect.

Whether or no absolute fairness has been shown in the selection of authors for the various articles, is a question. In the volume before me it appears that the writing of the article on "Methodism" was given into the hands of the Methodists, and one, Rev. J. H. Rigg, D. D., author of "Churchmanship of John Wesley," was duly appointed; but when the article on "Mormonism" was required, a selection was made of a man whose views were decidedly in opposition to that people, and Prof. John Fraser, University of Chicago, was selected. Why such partiality?

Last August, while a matter of importance was being discussed by our Provincial Legislature, one of the members of the house ventured to strengthen his position by appealing to Encyclopedia Britannica, but was justly called down by members of the opposition; and the daily papers gloated over the deficiency of the foolish M. P. P. The following is an extract from Victoria Daily Colonist, for August 31, 1900:

"What twaddle this sort of thing is! do any members of the house seriously believe the Britannica has any legal value? Surely none of them can think that the courts would look in an encyclopedia to ascertain how to construe an 'act of assembly.' It is understood that the court will take judicial notice of the almanac and the dictionary, but we have yet to learn that encyclopedias stand on the same footing. Surely none of the members suppose that because a book is called an encyclopedia, it has any more value than if it were a book written, let us say, by the member from North Nanaimo."

But let us probe a little deeper by considering and investigating the article "Mormonism," as found in several encyclopedias. This is an article that takes into consideration the Book of Mormon, the life and work of Joseph Smith, the rise and progress of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, and the falling away of that nest of apostates who went to Utah. We shall first consider the nature of the testimony relied upon in these works, when dealing with "Mormonism." Wisdom advises me to be brief, and so far as possible, leave the reader to draw his or her own conclusions.

"According to the opponents of Mormonism from investigations made soon after the appearance of the Book of Mormon, the fact is fully established that the real author of the work [Book of Mormon] was Solomon Spaulding."—American Encyclopedia, Vol. 11, 1863, and Cyclopedia America, 1883, Vol. 11.

"It is asserted that through Rigdon's agency, Smith became possessed of a copy of Spaulding's manuscript."—Ibid.

"By anti-Mormons it [B. of M.] is generally regarded as taken from a romance written about 1811 by Solomon Spaulding."—The Century Dictionary and Encyclopedic Lexicon of the English Language, Vol. 5, 1895.

"It is alleged on the other hand that about 1809-1812, Solomon Spaulding, who had once been a clergyman, wrote a tale on the supposition that the American Indians were the lost ten tribes of Israel, in which the names of Mormon and Moroni frequently occur, and that the manuscript found its way into the hands of Sidney Rigdon."—Dictionary of Religion, an encyclopedia of Christian and Other Religious Doctrines, 1887.

"This book [B. of M.] is said to have been written about 1812, by a clergyman named Solomon Spaulding, or by Martin Harris, who died September, 1875."—Lee's Condensed Cyclopedia, Chicago, 1895.

"Some affirm that like Sidro phel, he [Joseph Smith] used the devil's looking-glass, a stone, and was consulted as to the discovery of hidden treasures."—Penny Encyclopedia, 2d Supplement, 1858.

"There is the most satisfactory evidence—that of his enemies—to show that at an early period he was regarded as a visionary and a fanatic. This fact is of the utmost importance as affording a clue to his real character."—Chambers' Encyclopedia, New York, Collier Ed.

"Evidence was brought forward by the opponents of Smith to show that with certain illiterate and ungrammatical interpolations bearing on religious matters, the so-called Book of Mormon was really borrowed or stolen nearly verbatim from a manuscript romance written by a quondam clergyman named Solomon Spaulding, who died in 1816. It is unnecessary to go over the arguments pro and con, suffice it to say, that anti-Mormons generally think them conclusive, while the Saints consider the whole story of Spaulding's romance a scandalous fabrication."—Ibid.

"It is conjectured by the opponents of Mormonism that Rigdon, into whose hand's Spaulding's romance is supposed to have fallen for some time, gave it to his new associate [Joseph Smith] to further his purposes."—Ibid.

Mormonism then, being on trial, is assailed by the testators, "it is asserted," "it is alleged," "it is conjectured by the opponents of Mormonism," "satisfactory evidence—that of his enemies," and according to the opponents of Mormonism the fact is fully established." What weight will such evidence have upon an unprejudiced jury weighing matters of eternal moment? Whether the Book of Mormon be truth or fiction, fact or fable, its claims as to being a message from God for this generation, ought not to be condemned because of a "conjecture" proceeding from "the opponents of Mormonism," who only "supposed" that the Book of Mormon was "stolen from Spaulding's manuscript."

Let us now look at some of the glaring misstatements evidenced to one and all beyond the possibility of a denial:

The testimony of the Three Witnesses. It is stated in Encyclopedia Britannica that "The Book of Mormon was accompanied by the sworn statement of Oliver Cowdery, David Whitmer and Martin Harris, that an angel of God had shown them the plates of which the book was a translation. This testimony all three, on renouncing Mormonism some years later, denounced as false." This, of course, is second handed testimony; let us consult the principles themselves:

"It is recorded in the American Cyclopedia and the Encyclopedia Britannica that I, David Whitmer, have denied my testimony as one of the three witnesses to the divinity of the Book of Mormon, and that the other two witnesses, Oliver Cowdery and Martin Harris, denied their testimony to that book. I will say once more to all mankind that I have never, at any time, denied that testimony or any part thereof. I also testify to the world that neither Oliver Cowdery or Martin Harris ever at any time denied their testimony. They both died reaffirming the truth of the divine authenticity of the Book of Mormon. I was present at the deathbed of Oliver Cowdery and his last words were, 'Brother David, be true to your testimony to the Book of Mormon.' He died here in Richmond, Missouri, on March 3, 1850. Many witnesses yet live in Richmond who will testify to the truth of these facts as well as to the good character of Oliver Cowdery."—David Whitmer's Address, p. 8.

The following letter, written as late as 1871, corroborates the foregoing so far as Harris is concerned:

"Smithfield, Cache county, U. T., January, 1871. To H. Emerson. Dear Sir:—Your second letter, dated 1870, came duly to hand. I am truly glad to see a spirit of inquiry manifested therein. I reply by a borrowed hand as my sight has failed me too much to write myself. Your questions: Question 1. 'Did you go to England to lecture against Mormonism?' Answer, I answer, emphatically, no! I did not; no man ever heard me in any way deny the truth of the Book of Mormon, the administration of the angel that showed me the plates, nor the organization of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, under the administration of Joseph Smith, Jr., the prophet whom the Lord raised up for that purpose in these the latter days, that He may show forth His power and glory."—Church History, Vol. 1, p. 51.

Many testimonies of a similar strain from the Three Witnesses might be adduced, but sufficient has been given.

Was Nephi a Jew? American Encyclopedia, attempting to give a sketch of the contents of the Book of Mormon, declares: "The first book professes to be the work of Nephi a Jew, the son of Lehi." Vol. 11, Ed. 1863, and Cyclopedia America Ed., 1883. The Book of Mormon, however, states: "And it came to pass that my father Lehi also found upon the plates of brass a genealogy of his fathers, wherefore he knew that he was a descendant of Joseph, yea, even that Joseph who was the son of Jacob who was sold into Egypt."—p. 11. There was never a Jew of the tribe of Joseph.

Are the American Indians of Jewish race? "This was the origin of the American Indians who were consequently believed by the Mormons to be of Jewish race."—American Encyclopedia, Ed. 1863; Cyclopedia America, Ed. 1883. The belief of the "Mormons" has always been in harmony with the Book of Mormon when a discussion of the ancestry of the red man is on, which book affirms in its record of events, and prophecy of the future, that the American Indians are descendants of Laman, who was a son of Lehi, a descendant of the tribe of Joseph. See Book of Mormon, pp. 65, 11, 97, 8.

Landing point of the second Colony. "The Book of Mormon itself gives no indication of that part of the continent on which they landed."—American Encyclopedia Ed. 1863; Cyclopedia America, Ed. 1883. Book of Mormon students must take exception to the foregoing; not only is the landing point clearly indicated, but also the location of the cities, provinces, boundaries and rivers, as mentioned in aforesaid book. They landed on coast of Chili, near Coquimbo. Encyclopedia Britannica testifies to this.

How many arrived in the second Colony? Encyclopedia Britannica, professing to give a history of the matter as outlined in the Book of Mormon, declares that, "Lehi, his wife and four sons, with ten friends, all from Jerusalem landed on the coast of Chili."—R. S. Peale Ed., Vol. 16. This is contradicted by the American Encyclopedia and Cyclopedia America, wherein it is said, "Those who arrived in America were Lehi and his wife, his four sons, Laman, Lemuel, Sam and Nephi and their four wives, (17) sons of Ishmael and their wives, and Zoram a servant and his wife, in all eight adult men with as many wives, besides these there were two infant sons of Lehi born during the journey through the wilderness, Jacob and Joseph."—Vol. 11. One has it sixteen, the other eighteen. The Book of Mormon states that Lehi and wife, their four sons with their wives, Zoram and wife, the wife of Ishmael and the "two sons of Ishmael and their families" constituted the adult assembly of this colony, in all seventeen souls. We are not informed as to how many there were in the "families" of the sons of Ishmael. In ancient times families were usually large. At any rate the colony of seventeen must have been considerably increased by these "families;" and there were others. During the sojourn of eight years in the wilderness children were born, for Nephi, in writing up a history of the colony, says: "And our women did bare children in the wilderness. And so great were the blessings of God upon us that while we did live upon raw meat in the wilderness our women did give plenty of suck for their children and were strong, yea, even like unto men." Again are we in the dark as to the number of children, but we may approximate. Three children to a family born of women "strong like unto men," during the space of eight years, is certainly a very moderate estimate for those ancient times. There were seven women besides the wives of Lehi and Ishmael. Twenty-one children would be the approximate result. Jacob and Joseph were born unto Lehi in the wilderness. Altogether there must have been forty in this second colony. See Book of Mormon, pp. 3, 4, 9, 12, 36, 37, 41.

Free Masonry. "Free Masonry, which, about 1890, was a popular subject of discussion in western New York, figures extensively in the Book of Mormon which abounds in anti-Masonic denunciations of secret societies, though Smith and all the leading Mormons subsequently became FreeMasons."—American Encyclopedia, Ed. 1863. "Infant baptism is condemned, so, strange to say, are polygamy and FreeMasonry."—Chambers Encyclopedia.

The terms "Mason" or "Masonry" are not found once in the Book of Mormon. It does speak against secret societies where people band together to rob, steal and murder, and in referring to just such societies, then extant, says, "And it came to pass that the ninety and third year did also pass away in peace, save it were for the Gadianton robbers, who dwelt upon the mountains, who did infest the land; for so strong were their holds and their secret places, that the people could not overpower them; therefore they did commit many murders, and did do much slaughter among the people."—p. 423. This is the kind of secret societies the Book of Mormon denounces. FreeMasons can hardly be classed as an organization of this character.

When were the Jaredites exterminated? Encyclopedia Britannica affirms that, "The Book of Mormon * * * professes to give a history of America from its first settlement by a colony of refugees from among the crowd dispersed by the confusion of tongues at the tower of Babel, down to the year 5 A. D. * * * between the Nephites and the bad Hebrews; a fierce war was maintained for centuries until finally in spite of Divine intervention in the person of the crucified Christ, the Nephites fell away from the true faith and in 384 A. D. were nearly annihilated by their dark-skinned foes."

There is a serious contradiction in the foregoing. One sentence affirms that the "history of America" is contained in the Book of Mormon down to 5 A. D. The next declares that it was continued at least until 384 A. D., when the Nephites were nearly annihilated. "But," says the objector, "the first sentence refers to the Jaredites who were exterminated 5 A. D." Howbeit, that would not adjust the difficulty, for the Jaredites perished hundreds of years before 5 A. D. The Book of Mormon informs us that the Zarahemla colony left Jerusalem at the time that Zedekiah, king of Judah, was carried captive into Babylon which was about 588 B. C. (see p. 137). After their arrival in America they discovered Coriantumr, who was the last remaining soul of the Jaredites. We are not told the very year of his discovery, but a casual reading of pp. 532, 185, 158, 159, 137, and a remembrance of the chronology as given on pages 136 and 17, will enable the reader to see at a glance that the Jaredites perished hundreds of years before 5 A. D., and sometime after 588 B. C. The American Encyclopedia, however, pursues a history of its own contrary to all.

"One of the books in the collection, the book of Ether, gives an account of the earlier settlement of America than that of Lehi by a colony from the tower of Babel soon after the deluge, which was led by Jared, and in time became a great nation which was destroyed for its sins before the arrival of the colony from Jerusalem."—Ed. 1863.

Lehi left Jerusalem 600 B. C., Book of Mormon page 17, landing in America about nine years afterwards, or 589 B. C., but before their arrival, this latter encyclopedia asserts the destruction of the Jaredites. The encyclopedias not only contradict the historical data of a work they profess to examine, but contradict each other. Are they reliable?

Christ among the Nephites and succeeding events. "He remained among them [Christ among the Nephites] forty days, instructing them in christianity and instituting christian churches. The Christians of America, unlike their brethren in the old world, immediately adopted the Christian era for their chronological computations, and according to the record, the four following centuries, the wars between them and the heathen Lamanites continued to rage with great destruction."—American Encyclopedia and Cyclopedic America.

The reader will notice that the foregoing is "according to the record," the Book of Mormon. Let us see. The Book of Mormon certainly speaks of the ministraton of Christ, but nowhere does it state that He tarried with them forty days. I have yet to learn that Christ, when in America, was busy "instituting Christian churches." As for the wars raging "the four following centuries," one has only to read that book and the falsity of this assertion is apparent.

"And it came to pass that there was no contention in the land, because of the love of God which did dwell in the hearts of the people. There were no envyings, nor stripes, nor tumults, nor whoredoms, nor lyings, nor murders, nor any manner of lasciviousness; and surely there could not be a happier people among all the people who had been created by the hand of God, there were no robbers, nor murderers, neither were there Lamanites, or any manner of ites; but they were in one * * * until an hundred and ten years had passed away * * * And now in this two hundred and first year, there began to be among them those who were lifted up in pride, such as the wearing of costly apparel, and all manner of fine pearls and of fine things of the world. And from that time forth they did have their goods and their substance no more common among them, and they began to be divided into classes."—pp. 479-480.

It will be noticed that divisions among the people did not begin till after the 201st year, which was at least one hundred and sixty-five years after Christ had made his appearance to them.

Authority of the latter day Sec. "The Book of Mormon, in which Joseph Smith was declared to be God's prophet, with all power and entitled to all obedience, professes to give a history of America."—Ency. Brit.

There is a prediction in Book of Mormon relating to an individual who would be raised up by God in these last days. "There is little said of him, but in that little he is called a "choice seer" and would do "a work which shall be of great worth" even to the bringing of the people to "a knowledge of the covenants" which God had "made with the fathers." It states that he would be "great" in God's eyes for "he shall do his work;" but nowhere does it affirm that he would have "all power and be entitled to all obedience." Such charges can only be made in the absence of something better, to down "Mormonism." The "all obedience" required in the Book of Mormon ought to be rendered unto God, not man, "And now I would that ye should be humble, and be submissive and gentle, easy to be entreated, full of patience and longsuffering, being temperate in all things, being diligent in keeping the commandments of God at all times."—p. 224.

Did Mormon lead a colony? Mormon, named from a mythic personage, Mormon, who according to Joseph Smith, led a Jewish immigration into America in early times." (Encyclopedic Dictionary, Robt. Hunter, M. A. F. G. S., vol. 5, part 1, 1885). This is so foreign to the facts that a reply is scarcely needed. The "brother of Jared" and Jared led the first colony, Lehi led the second, and the third colony was in America nearly a thousand years before Mormon was born. These are the facts "according to Joseph Smith" and as found in the Book of Mormon.

When did Smith get the plates? "He [Joseph Smith] asserted that on September 21, 1823, as he was praying, a supernatural light shone in his room, and an angel appearing made revelations unto him, and next day gave him certain engraved plates, with the instruments called the Urim and Thummim."—Encyclopedic Dictionary, 1885, Vol. 5.

Britannica has a different version of the matter:

"On the night of the 21st of September, 1823, the angel Moroni appeared to him three times and told him that the Bible of the Western Continent, the supplement to the New Testament, was buried in a certain spot near Manchester. Thither four years later, and after due disciplinary probation, Smith went and had delivered into his charge, by an angel of the Lord, a stone box in which was a volume six inches thick, made of thin gold plates."

When did Smith get the plates? The Mormons are said to be Jews. "Moi on concealed them [the plates] in a hill called Cumorah about A. D. 420. They are said to contain many prophecies concerning the colonizing of America by a direct tribe of Jews for which reason the Mormons claim direct Jewish descent."—Dictionary of Religion and Encyclopedia of Other Religious Doctrines, Rev. Wm. Benham, B. D. The charge is false. I never met nor heard tell of a Latter Day Saint who claimed Jewish ancestry. Further comment unnecessary.

How many witnesses to the existence of the plates? In reading American Encyclopedia and Cyclopedic America, edition 1883, one would be led to believe that there were but three witnesses. "It was printed in 1830 in a volume of several hundred pages. Appended to it was a statement signed by Oliver Cowdery, David Whitmer and Martin Harris."

No mention whatsoever of the other witnesses. Britannica also is in line with the above; but as we proceed in our investigations we learn that there were eight.

"To silence Spaulding both the faithful and the unbelievers clamored for a sight of the plates. After eight of the former had obtained a look at them Smith asserted that he had handed them over to the custody of an angel and they were seen no more."—Encyclopedic Dictionary, Vol. 5.

Our surprise increases as we read:

"The Book of Mormon finally appeared before the world in 1830, with the names of Oliver Cowdery, Martin Harris and David Whitmer appended to the statement that an angel of God had come down from heaven and showed them the original plates. This was immediately followed by the testimony of eight other witnesses * * * who affirmed that Joseph Smith, Jr., had shown them the plates."—Chambers' Encyclopedia.

There was no possible chance for any encyclopedia to accidentally overlook the testimonies of the eleven witnesses, for on the same page that the testimony of the three witnesses is found, we can read that of the eight also.

Date of Joseph Smith's death. It is asserted in that world renowned "Chamber's" Encyclopedia, that,

"After a short time it began to be rumored that the governor of the state was desirous of letting the two Smiths escape, whereupon a band of roughs, about two hundred in number, broke into jail 27th of June, 1844, and shot them."

Much as we respect the above work we cannot help remarking the contrast when we read from Britannica:

"Accordingly on the 27th of June, 1844, he and Hyrum were imprisoned in Carthage jail, but the same night a mob broke into the prison and shot the two men dead."

Spaulding Manuscript. — The opinion of many regarding the origin of the Book of Mormon is that it is the production of one Solomon Spaulding. It is not our intention to rebut that opinion at this writing, but rather to appeal to the works claiming to trace out such an origin. Readers will now be aware that encyclopedias are by no means prejudiced in favor of Mormonism, but rather against, hence we may expect something pretty strong from these commonly regarded all-powerful authorities. Chamber's Encyclopedia affirms that,

"About 1829 Smith became acquainted with one Sidney Rigdon, originally a compositor and preacher, but who had by this time, begun to promulgate a specie of incipient Mormonism, and had managed to found a little sect of his own. It is conjectured by the opponents of Mormonism that Rigdon, into whose hands Spaulding's Romance is supposed to have fallen for some time, gave it to his new associate to further his purposes."

According to this Smith obtained the real, original Spaulding romance. The American Encyclopedia, 1863, and Cyclopedic America, 1883, takes a different view of the matter.

"His widow [Spaulding's], in a statement published by her in the Boston Journal, May 18, 1839, declares that in 1812 he placed his manuscript in a printing office at Pittsburg, with which Sidney Rigdon was connected. Rigdon, she says, copied the manuscript, and his possession of a copy was known to all the printing office and was often mentioned by himself. Subsequently the original manuscript was returned to the author, who soon after died. His widow preserved it till after the publication of the Book of Mormon, when she sent it to Coeaut."

Assuming that Mrs. Spaulding's story is correct, the manuscript was only out of her husband's hands from 1812 up till a short time before his death, which occurred in 1816. The manuscript after that always remained in her hands till after the publication of the Book of Mormon. Accepting Chamber's story as true, we have Rigdon stealing the manuscript within those given dates, 1812 to 1816, giving it to Smith to further his purposes, and he, of course, getting through with it in time that it might be "returned to the author a short time before his death." Now, when we keep in view that Smith was born in 1805, it seems almost incredible that he, by 1812-1816, had "purposes" sufficiently matured to make a Book of Mormon out of Spaulding's Romance. But the possible chance of Smith getting the manuscript at this time is knocked out by Chamber asserting that "Smith did not become acquainted with Rigdon till about 1829." At this time Rigdon did not have Spaulding's manuscript to give as Mrs. Spaulding declares it was in her hands and remained with her till after the publication of the Book of Mormon. We think we have every right to this examination of matter when one of the encyclopedias asserts the truthfulness of its story because of being "conjectured by the opponents of Mormonism," and by them it was "supposed." Can there be any weaker testimony than this?

Another encyclopedia, recognizing the weakness of the previous contradictory testimony, comes valiantly to their assistance and offers the following: "An angel appearing, made revelations to him [Joseph Smith], and next day gave him certain engraved plates, with an instrument called the Urim and Thummim, by the aid of which he translated them, publishing the result in 1830 as the Book of Mormon. On this the Rev. Mr. Spaulding, a Presbyterian preacher, declared that having some time before written a work of fiction, which no publisher could be induced to print, his rejected copy had been lost or stolen, and had re-appeared as the angelically revealed Book of Mormon. To silence Spaulding both the faithful and the unbelievers clamored for a sight of the plates."—Encyclopedic Dictionary, 1885, Vol. 5.

According to this, Spaulding was alive at the time of the publication of the Book of Mormon, which was in 1830, and was vigorously opposing it. This would be a nice story if Cyclopaedia America would only keep quiet; hear what it says, "Solomon Spaulding was born in Ashford, Connecticut, * * * In 1809 he removed to Conneaut, Ohio. From Conneaut in 1812 he removed to Pittsburg, and thence in 1814 to Amity, Pennsylvania, where he died in 1816." When witnesses contradict themselves can their testimony be received as evidence?

The significance of "Mormon," and "Mormo." "Mormo—a bug bear; a false terror. Mormon—a genus of short-winged, web-footed birds; known by the name of "puffins."—Imperial Lexicon of the English Language by Rev. John Boag, Vol. 2.

"Mormo—a bugbear, a monster used by nurses to frighten children. 2. Entom: a genus of moths, tribe Noctulina. Mormo Mauria is a dark gray moth with blackish bands. Mormolyce—a bugbear, a hobgoblin. Mormon—a genus of Alcidæ, subfamily Alceina. The bill is short and very high, the culmen strongly arched, the lip hooked, the wings and tail very short; the former fitted for flight."—The Encyclop. Dict., 1885, Vol. 5.

"Mormon—the name generic of several animals."—Encyclopaedia Lexicon of the English Lang., Wm. Dwight Whitney, Ph. D., LL. D., Vol. 5, 1895.

"Mormons or Latter Day Saints—Mormonism is one of the most remarkable religious movements of modern times. The word is derived from the Gaelic mor, 'great,' and the Egyptian mon, 'good,' thus meaning 'great good.'"—Encyclopaedia of Christian and Other Religious Doctrines, by Rev. Wm. Benjamin, B. D. F. S. A.; printed by Cassel & Co., London, Paris, New York and Melbourne, 1887.

Marvelous, is it not, that "bugbear," "moths," "false terror," "puffins," "animals," "birds," "hobgoblins," "genus of Alcidæ," and "great good" are all traceable to the same source?

Polygamy, whence came it? Some encyclopedias charge very strongly the doctrine of polygamy against the church as organized by Joseph Smith and especially attach it to Smith himself. On this, however, there is a contradiction of testimony. "American Encyclopedia" (1863) and "Cyclopedia America" (1883) has this to say upon it:

"In 1838 Smith had persuaded a number of women to cohabit with him, calling them his spiritual wives although he had a lawful wife to whom he had been married in 1827." Again in "Britannica" we read:

"He [Joseph Smith] had a revelation on the 12th of July, 1843, expressly establishing and approving polygamy."

The evidence disproving the truthfulness of the foregoing charges is overwhelming, which we cannot now enter into. I cite the reader to a perusal of "Joseph Smith; Who Was He?" a reading of which will forever convince all candid minds of the innocence of Joseph Smith and the church as organized by him, so far as an affiliation with that vicious doctrine is concerned. We shall, however, let other encyclopedias speak.

"On August 29, 1852, Brigham Young proclaimed the 'Celestial Law of marriage' sanctioning polygamy, which he declared had been revealed to Joseph Smith in 1848. Smith's widow and her four sons at once denounced this as a forgery and headed a schism. Though the Mormon apostles had repeatedly replied to the imputation of such doctrine or practice with the most emphatic and explicit denials, the personal power of Brigham Young was such that he had but little difficulty in establishing polygamy as an institution of the church."—Appleton's Annual Cyc., Vol. 2, 1877.

This work seems to hold forth against the general history of Smith's death, which occurred in 1844. The Britannica gives this as the date and yet Appleton declares he was alive and giving revelations in 1848. One thing is very noticeable in this latter work and that is that Joseph's name is detached from the charge of proclaiming and "establishing polygamy." Brigham Young was the man who "proclaimed the celestial law of marriage" and that not till the "29th of August, 1852," eight years after the death of Joseph Smith. Appleton clearly states that Young was the character guilty of "establishing polygamy," and so out of harmony was this immoral teaching to the previous education of the Saints that he experienced "difficulty in establishing" it, for prior to 1852 it was denied "with the most emphatic and explicit denials."

Another work claiming equal notoriety declares that:

"It may be here stated that it cannot be shown that Smith was a polygamist in our sense of the word. Years after his death Brigham Young produced a paper which he said was a copy of a revelation made to Joseph at Nauvoo commanding him to take as many wives as God should give him. But it was not till August 29, 1852, at a public meeting held in Salt Lake City that the revelation was formally received."—Chambers' Ency.

How then, will this agree with Britannica, which states that polygamy was "expressly" established in 1848? Both stories cannot be true. There is meaning in the phrase, "It cannot be proven that Smith was a polygamist." Continuing in the same book we read the history of Young and his apostates in Utah:

"The great social peculiarity of the sect is their practice of polygamy. It was not so, however, at the first. Rigdon, Kimbell, Pratt, Hyde and Young are its true originators. Mrs. Smith declared Young's revelation to be a fraud and withdrew to Nauvoo. Her 4 sons followed her and have now founded a monogamic Mormon community called the Josephites."

Whatever encyclopedias may be able to perform they cannot at any rate convict Joseph Smith or the church he organized with any sympathy whatever with polygamy either in theory or in practice.

It is needless to continue. Our object has been to show that absolute trust cannot be reposed in the works of men. We think the foregoing errors and contradictions found in the supposedly most reliable books of earth—encyclopedias—clearly establish our position. It is written, "Cursed be the man that trusteth in man and maketh flesh his arm;" this eternal truth acted upon will establish an individuality never to be swayed by the contradictions, absurdities and vain imaginations of popular works.

It may be urged that the discrepancies heretofore pointed out are of a trivial nature and should be overlooked. In our judgment a person who cannot be trusted with pennies should never have millions confided to his care. He who masters not the rudiments of mathematics—numeration, notation and addition—will hardly be successful as a bank accountant. Musicians to be great must ever bear in mind their first lessons, and an encyclopedia to gain and retain the confidence of the "truth-loving" must be correct in minor matters as well as in the greater. Twice two are four; the earth is round; the snow falls, are simple truths and the book declaring to the contrary must expect to be questioned.

But these are not trivial discrepancies. They charge most serious things against a man's character, and in doing so they momentarily militate the influence of thousands who regard that man a servant of God, divinely commissioned to organize the kingdom of heaven. They erroneously affirm that a book which presents itself as a message from God for this generation is naught but a spurious, plagiarized romance. A book of this character, if true, is the greatest treasure of our times. It is equal to the Bible; and must a work of this nature be fought by the manifest errors and false assertions of encyclopedias? If so, then those errors and false assertions are of no minor importance. The misstatements then, of these works, must assume a stronger term; they are falsehoods and the many contradictions only prove that some one or ones have lied; or else they are guilty of revamping the base slanders of others. The testators contrariety each other and opposing the most prominent truths, have impeached themselves, and cannot be regarded as authentic sources of information. They are not reliable.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 146, Lee's Summit, Mo.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenhour, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 212 North Compton Ave., St. Louis, Missouri.

Gossip Has Gone Out of Fashion.

It is no longer considered good form to say a word against any one. An ill natured criticism is a social blunder as well as a moral one in good society.

Gossip, too, is really going out of fashion. Any one self-convicted, hastens to retract whatever may give the impression that one has indulged in anything so vulgar and plebeian. It has a corrective and an inspiring influence to fancy the persons spoken of to be within hearing.

True wit is a gift, not an attainment. Those who use it aright never yield to the temptation of saying anything that can wound another in order to exhibit their own cleverness. It is natural and spontaneous. "He who runs after wit is apt to catch nonsense." Talk that has bounciness in it, and the liveliness and sparkle that come of lightheadedness and innocent gayety, is a fairly good substitute for wit.

It is a form of influence to pass on in conversation whatever one has read or heard that may be helpful or inspiring to others.

We may do much in the cause of truth and kindness without advertising our motive or sounding a trumpet before us. With an art that conceals art we may lead the conversation away from scandal and innuendo into channels pure and peaceable. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh"—therefore the source must be right. Fearlessly, but never aggressively, should we defend our convictions and "show our colors."—Mrs. Burton Kingsland in Ladies' Home Journal.

Building Up of Happy Homes.

BY ALICE R. COHSON.

To the daughters of Zion and to all others who are interested in the building up of happy homes, and the development of true nobility of character, I send kindly greeting:—Sr. Curtis requests me to write something for your education; I essay the task, not because I think myself capable of edifying, but because I believe in doing all that our hands find to do, and leaving the results with the Master, knowing we shall not be rewarded alone for our successes, but for our endeavors.

Had I realized when a girl, as I do now, the responsibility resting on wife, mother and homemaker, and had the knowledge gained in the "school of experience" been mine, how many bright hopes might have been realized, that only withered under the blighting touch of disappointments.

I have no successes to boast of, I cannot tell you to see what I have done, but rather, see what I have not done that I should have done. By looking back, I can see the many mistakes I have made, and can utter a little note of warning that may be the means of saving some poor soul from the snare and the pitfall, from the alluring paths and byways that lead into danger, for pleasure, with her siren voice, is ever ready to allure you, and point to the fair flowers and delicious fruits found in her paths; while the tones of duty may seem cold and stern, and her features wear a forbidden aspect, yet her finger will point you the way to true happiness and her ways, though not seeming at first to be ways of "pleasantness," yet in the end will prove so, and like wisdom, "all her paths are peace."

The thing I did not do when I first began to realize that life meant more than mere existence, with all my wants sup-

"INCURABLE" HEART DISEASE SOON CURED.

By THE GREAT SPECIALIST IN TREATING WEAK AND DISEASED HEARTS, FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., WHO WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS COMPLETE TREATMENT FREE TO ANY AFFLICTED READER.

To demonstrate the unusual curative powers of his new and complete special treatment for heart disease, short breath, pain in the side, oppression in the chest, irregular pulse, palpitation, smothering spells, puffing of the ankles or dropsy, Dr. Miles will send, free, to every afflicted person, two dollars and a half worth of his new treatment.

It is the result of twenty-five years of careful study, extensive research, and remarkable experience in treating all the various ailments of the heart, stomach and nerves, which so often complicate each case. So astonishing are the results of his complete special treatment that he does not hesitate to freely offer all patients a trial free.

Certainly nothing could be more sent, free, to every afflicted person. Few physicians have such confidence in their remedies. And there is no reason why every afflicted person should not avail themselves of this exceedingly liberal offer, as they may never have another such opportunity. No death comes more suddenly than that from heart disease.

Mrs. Frank Smith, of Chicago, was cured of heart dropsy, after five leading physicians had given her up, and Mr. Julius Kester after ten. A thousand references to, and testimonials from, Bishops, Clergymen, Bankers, Farmers, and their wives, will be sent free on request. These include many who have been cured after five or ten years' treatment and professors had pronounced them "incurable."

Send at once to Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., 201 to 209 State St., Chicago, Ill., for free treatment before it is too late, and please mention this paper.

General Conference Reception Committee.

At the regular business meeting of the Independence branch it was decided to fix the rate of board for Conference visitors at $3.00 per week.

It is necessary that the committee be notified before your arrival. Only those whom the committee notify need expect free entertainment, as such places have about all been taken.

All parties desiring services of the committee will receive same so far as possible by notifying any one of our number, stating what accommodations are desired and when you expect to arrive. Persons accepting invitations from friends and making their own arrangements need not notify the committee, but we will assist so far as we can in directing to pieces of board.

Do not fail to notify the committee early that as many as possible may be assigned before convening of Conference, thereby avoiding disappointment to yourselves and annoyance to the committee.

L. BRACKENBURY, Chm. J. J. LUFF, Sec. & Treas. Com. ROBERT KEHR. R. G. SMITH. O. L. JAMES.

Reduced Rates to General Conference.

WESTERN PASSENGER ASSOCIATION.

The Western Passenger Association has granted the usual reduction of one and one-third fare, round trip, on the certificate plan, to the General Conference and General Conventions of Auxiliary Societies, Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints, to be held at Independence, Missouri, April 5-20, 1901.

The reduced rate is granted on the terms heretofore advertised, under which the attendance of one hundred persons holding certificates showing purchase of tickets costing more than fifty cents is required: "except that where parties or clubs traveling in a body purchase round trip tickets to the place of meeting from stations from which the local one-way rate is more than fifty cents and at not less than the rate announced on the certificate plan for the particular meeting in question (instead of one way tickets at regular rate) and present to joint agent a certificate from the selling agent to that effect, they will be counted by the joint agent in reckoning the attendance at any meeting."

Parties must obtain a separate certificate with every ticket purchased. No certificate will be honored which was issued to cover the sale of more than one single trip ticket.

Ministers or others who travel on clerical or half fare permits, or commutation tickets of any description, are not entitled to this reduction, nor to be included in computing the number in attendance at any meeting.

Tickets on the going trip may be purchased from April 2 to 8 inclusive, on any of those dates. "Under the method usually observed the passenger pays full fare on going trip, and on presentation of certificate to that effect, and other conditions named compiled with, he is entitled to a return ticket to starting point at one-third the regular fare, by route traversed on going trip."

"Where the journey is made over more than one line, it is usually necessary for the passenger to purchase separate local tickets of each road's issue, between points traveled thereon, and procure certificates thereof for each of the lines in this territory over which he travels in going to the meeting, as through tickets are not always sold, and it is not always practicable for the various lines to honor each other's certificates. Passengers should, therefore, ascertain from the ticket agent what portion of their journey can be covered by the certificate obtainable from him, and procure certificate filled out to correspond with the ticket purchased."

"Failure to procure or present certificate invalidates any claim for reduction in return fare."

Tickets for the going passage may be either limited or unlimited, according to the rate paid or the regulations in effect on the line over which it reads; but the return tickets sold at the reduced fare will, in all cases, be limited to continuous passage.

Return tickets at one-third fare may be purchased any time after the necessary one hundred have been secured and certified to, until April 24, except that,

A joint agent of the Passenger Association will be present to stamp and return certificates to delegates personally on two days only: namely, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 9 and 10; hence all parties must have their tickets in the Church Secretary's hands promptly, before those dates, in order that they may be filled out by him beforehand; and parties must be present on the 9th or 10th to receive certificates from the joint agent.

Special attention is called to the necessity of making the trip from Kansas City to Independence on the regular lines of railroad—either the Missouri Pacific or the Chicago & Alton, thus completing the journey to destination over regular lines. The local electric or steam line running between Kansas City and Independence is not included in list of lines granting reduction.

The Western Passenger Association includes the following lines of road:

Achison, Topeka & Santa Fe; Burlington & Northwestern; Burlington & Western; Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern; Chicago & Alton; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; Chicago & Northwestern; Chicago Great Western; Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis; Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific; Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha; Great Northern; Hannibal & St. Joseph; Kansas City, St. Joseph & Council Bluffs; St. Louis, Keokuk & Northwestern; Illinois Central; Iowa Central; Jacksonville & St. Louis; Kansas City, Ft. Scott & Memphis; Kansas City Southern; Keokuk & Western; Minneapolis & St. Louis; Missouri, Kansas & Texas; Missouri Pacific; Rock Island & Peoria; St. Louis & San Francisco; Sioux City & Pacific; Wabash; Wisconsin Central; Burlington & Missouri River; Colorado Midland; Denver & Rio Grande; Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley; Rio Grande Western; St. Joseph & Grand Island; Kansas City & Omaha; Union Pacific.

R. S. SALYARDS, Church Secretary.

LAMONI, Ia., Feb. 21.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

The semi-annual district conference of the Eastern Colorado district convened February 16, 1901. The president, John B. Roush, being absent, the meeting was called to order by the secretary, and E. F. Shupe was elected chairman pro tem.

Minutes of the previous conference were read from J. B. Roush and C. R. Duncan of the Seventy; Elder J. F. Curtis and Priest A. B. Hanson of the missionary force; E. F. Shupe, high priest, baptized one; Elders James Kemp, G. F. Johnson, J. W. Gilbert, E. Curtis and K. Sell; Priest F. D. Bullard, and A. E. Tabor, teacher.

Branches reported: Denver, Wray (formerly Laird), Colorado Springs (formerly Mount View), Fairview, Highland, Eustis, Cottonwood and Rocky Mountain.

The request of Eustis, Nebraska, branch for release from this district, was referred to a committee, and the committee was authorized to arrange for the transfer of that portion of the district in Nebraska to a Nebraska district. Committee, J. B. Roush, C. R. Duncan and K. Sell.

The bishop's report reported on hand at last report, $27.23; receipts $521.73; expenditures, $463.00; amount on hand, $85.96.

A memorial to General Conference was adopted asking that a committee be appointed to visit Mr. Andrew Carnegie to explain our religious faith to him, and to solicit a donation for Graceland College and the Saints' Home of $50,000 each.

The officers elected for the ensuing six months are J. B. Roush, president; K. Sell, vice president, and A. E. Tabor, secretary.

Delegates to General Conference are

J. B. Roush, A. B. Hanson, C. R. Duncan, Belle B. Roush, J. F. Curtis and Sr. Fishburn.

Adjourned to meet at Colorado Springs, August 23, 24, 1901.

A. E. TABOR, Sec.

Convention Minutes.

The Fremont district Sunday School convention convened at Shenandoah, Iowa, January 31, 1901, at 7:30 p. m. After the introductory by the district superintendent, Bro. Emma Hougas, the "Normal Work," in charge of Bro. Chas. Fry, was taken up, and the remaining time was devoted to this feature of the work. Quite an interest has been aroused in the work, and it was almost surprising to note the amount of study that had been done by those who have tried to follow the work as outlined by the district superintendent. The work for this quarter was the study of the four "gospels"—their authors, contents, etc. We feel that this work is of much value to the "workers" and should receive the attention of all.

The Friday morning session was occupied in transacting business. The district secretary not being present, Agnes Dundson and Ethel I. Skank were appointed secretaries pro tem. The secretaries acting as credential committee found three schools represented.

On motion the delegates were empowered to cast a full vote of their respective schools.

Reports of schools were read, seven out of eight in district reporting.

Officers reporting were superintendent, assistant superintendent, secretary and librarian. The district treasurer gave report orally. She reported $1.78 in the treasury.

In the election of officers for the coming year the result was as follows: Superintendent, Chas. Fry; assistant superintendent, Emma Hougas; secretary, Ethel I. Skank; assistant secretary, Agnes Dundson; treasurer, M. E. Pace; librarian, Blanche Andrews. The right to vote had been extended to our missionaries.

Motion prevailed to suspend the rules and vote by acclamation for delegates to General Convention. The following were elected delegates, and power was granted the delegates present to appoint others as delegates who might be present; also to cast a full vote of the district: H. Kemp, I. M. Smith, Chas. Fry, T. A. Emma, D. and M. E. Hougas, Anna Kemp, Eber Wilcox, W. W. Gaylord, Laura Gaylord, Wm. and Rachael Leeka.

A vote of thanks was tendered the officers for their work of the past year.

In the afternoon a suggestion from the district superintendent that each local superintendent be requested to write a letter to district superintendent, giving condition of his school, at least once every quarter, was adopted. Continuance of Bible study was recommended.

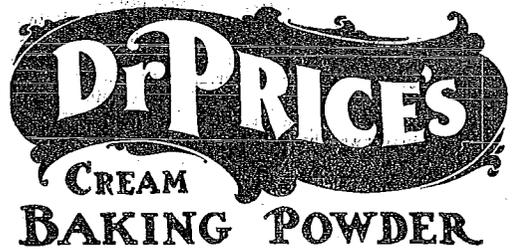

Upon suggestion of the district superintendent a motion prevailed that we authorize the district superintendent to secure a Sunday School Journal, and that the subscription be paid out of the district treasury. The superintendent's bill of $2.50 for stationery, postage, etc., was presented and allowed.

The remaining time of the session was spent in Question Box work in charge of Emma Hougas and Institute work in charge of C. Fry. The subject of records and reports was discussed, also that of prayer.

On motion it was decided to hold our next convention at Farm Creek (Henderson), beginning on Thursday, prior to our next quarterly conference.

The subject for the evening program was that of "Influence." The theme was well carried out in music, recitations and address. "The reading," "A Single Head of Wheat," by Ora Becksted, and a recitation, "The Crooked House," by Mamie Pace, were interesting and helpful. Bro. I. M. Smith's address on "Environment," was beneficial and inspiring. Sr. Mamie Pace favored us with a solo, "Golden Years are Passing By." A paper, "Influence of Sunday School on Character Building," by M. E. Pace was read and appreciated.

A spirit of peace prevailed throughout the convention. ETHEL I. SKANK, Dist. Sec.

For a third of a century American housewives have found Dr. Price's Baking Powder invariably a guarantee of light, sweet, pure and wholesome food.

Always makes the perfect biscuit, cake and bread.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. CHICAGO.

NOTE:—Baking powders made from alum and other harsh, caustic acids are lower in price, but inferior in work and injurious to the stomach.

NOTICES.

To the Members of the Second Quorum of Seventy:—A brief report to the secretary of our quorum, Bro. H. E. Moler, mostly statistical, will be expected from each member for the closing conference year. Each report to conclude March 10th at the latest.

This is essential that we may know who may be ready for conference appointment, and may have a record of labor done.

Send all reports to the secretary, Bro. H. E. Moler, Independence, Jackson Co., Mo., Care Bro. R. J. Parker. C. SCOTT.

Pres. Second Quorum of Seventy. LAMONI, Iowa, Feb. 28.

Second Quorum of Elders.

I have mailed a blank report to each member of this quorum to fill out and return to me; if any member should fail to receive it, please inform me and I will send another.

F. C. WARKNY, Sec. 2422 Wabash Ave., Kansas City, Mo. March 1.

Conference Notices.

The St. Louis district conference will convene Saturday evening, March 23, 1901, at seven o'clock, in the rock church, Gascon avenue and Dickson street, St. Louis, Missouri.

J. G. SMITH, Dist. Sec. 2816 Lyon St., St. Louis, Mo. March 1.

DIED.

(One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.)

WOODING.—At Burlington, Iowa, February 22, 1901, Sr. Mary Brooks Wooding. She was born July 31, 1826, in England, and was there baptized into the first organization, coming to Burlington about 30 years ago. She was married to Daniel Joseph Wooding in 1855, five children being born to them. The father died in 1891, daughter Eliza in 1876. At the ripe age of seventy-five she passed to rest. Funeral services at the L. D. S. chapel, 12th and Locust streets, February 24th. Elder James McKiernan, of Farmington, Iowa, preached the sermon; interment at Aspen Grove cemetery.

LEAVETT.—Levi Leavett, born August 6, 1823, at Chatham, Quebec, Canada, died at Sandwich, Illinois, February 22, 1901. Married August 6th, 1845, to Elizabeth Brundidge, with whom he lived for over fifty-five years. He leaves to mourn his departure his faithful and devoted companion, two sons, Edward A. and Albert C., and one daughter, Mrs. Leonard Thorp. He was for many years a member of the church, always faithful in his service and attendance, until he could no longer walk to the place of worship. Funeral services in the Saints church at Sandwich, Elder Charles H. Burr officiating.

GUNN.—At Fort Madison, Iowa, February 18, 1901, Charles P. Gunn. He was born in Nauvoo, Illinois, October 23, 1855; was married to Sr. Jane Tripp February 3, 1884, and was baptized in February, 1886, by Elder J. S. Roth. He leaves to mourn his death, a wife, babe aged one week, and six other children, two brothers and two sisters. Pneumonia set in February 13th, and on the 18th he died in gospel hope. Funeral services at his home, number 3105 Shawnee Street, February 20, Elder James McKiernan in charge, assisted by H. Lambert. Interment at Aspen Grove, West Fort Madison.

Advertisement for Ayer's Hair Vigor. Includes a portrait of a man and text: 'HEALTHY A man with a thin head of hair is a marked man. But the big bald spot is not the kind of a mark most men like. Too many men in their twenties are bald. This is absurd and all unnecessary. Healthy hair shows man's strength. To build up the hair from the roots, to prevent and to cure baldness, use—AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It always restores color to faded or gray hair. Notice that word, "always." And it cures dandruff. $1.00 a bottle. All druggists. My business calls me out among strangers a great deal. I would actually feel ashamed every time I would take off my hat, my hair was so thin and the bald spots showed so plainly. I began the use of your Hair Vigor less than three months ago. Today I find I have as fine a lock of hair as I ever had. I tell everybody what I used, and they say it must be a wonderful remedy.' GEO. YEAL, Dec. 14, 1899. Chicago, Ill. We have a book on 'The Hair and Scalp' which will send free upon request. If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write the doctor about it. Address: DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, MARCH 14, 1901.

NUMBER 11.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelopes and no list. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our list.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency stamps are worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE.

Independence, Mo.

Box B.

THE CROWN OF LIFE.

No greater blessing can come to the human family than that of full and complete life. An existence perfect in all its parts, fulfilling every requirement of the soul, is surely an ideal one; and such was the life of man intended to be from its beginning, as we have the design of the Creator manifested or revealed in Holy Writ. In the first place, all his environments were arranged especially with a view to contribute to his pleasure and development. It is apparent that man was not created for the conditions existing upon his first advent in the world, but that they were ordained and arranged for his happiness, that the Father might be glorified in his life; for it will be admitted by all intelligent minds that mankind is the highest type of all the handiwork of God in His creations.

The earth seems to have been created with a view to life; and it is beyond controversy that obedience to the commandments of the great Creator brings only that condition; for it is clear that as disobedience brought death, so obedience will assure life; had the commandments of the Lord been honored from the beginning until now, there could have been no place for the condition or experience called death. But as no law is of any effect except there are penalties of a painful and corrective nature attaching to their violation, so the changed conditions resultant from the disregard of the wise provision of the Father for the government of man, brought death into the world, and necessitated the plan of redemptive laws by which the purposes and designs of the Lord, that man might have life forever, should be fulfilled, and man be saved from the consequences of his own folly. Hence, the gospel of the Son of God was introduced, and obedience to its ordinances and provisions will insure to the obedient all that the Creator intended he should obtain, dwelling eternally in His own kingdom.

The Lord can bestow no higher honor, no greater degree of happiness upon an intelligent individual than to place him where knowledge is complete and perfect; where no experiences painful or unpleasant can come; but where every aspiration, every desire may be realized by which a harmoniously complete life is attained. Hence the gospel laws come to man as a boon, an inestimable blessing which it should be the chief aim and object, the mainspring of every action in this probation, to exalt and honor, because of the great benefits resulting. The Savior evidently referred to life in its most perfect and complete sense when, through His servant John on Patmos Isle, He sent the message of comfort and hope to the pastor of the church at Smyrna (Rev. 2: 10), "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." It is just that kind of life that comports with the character of a perfect, loving Savior, who gave all He had—His life—to give, that every one willing to follow Him might enjoy the same condition of happiness and exaltation of sphere as to dwell with Him, to see and enjoy that glory.

Father, I will that they also whom thou hast given me be with me where I am; that they may behold my glory, which thou hast given me: for thou lovest me before the foundation of the world.—John 17: 24.

In this prayer, breathing the incense of loving consideration and earnest desire for those who keep His sayings, is shown the evident purpose of His life and sacrifice. To this His gracious promise on another occasion testifies:

In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also.—John 14: 2, 3.

A cloud of witnesses testify to the reality of the resurrection of Jesus the Christ, above five hundred of the brethren having at one time seen Him after His resurrection (1 Cor. 15: 6). A multitude of disciples on this continent, on more than one occasion, saw Him descend from heaven, they felt the scars in His side, hands and feet, heard His voice in teaching them His gospel (John 10: 16), and after His instructing them, saw Him ascend again into heaven (Book of Mormon, 3 Nephi, 5th chapter). Every one, therefore, who follows the example of the Savior, and is obedient to the gospel requirements, as He was, will also have part in the life which He possesses, for the promise is, "He that shall endure to the end, the same shall be saved." (Matt. 24: 13). The whole plan of salvation is a preparation for life, and it is the condition for which all should labor. No one should make preparation to die, for physical death will continue to visit the human family until death is destroyed, without there being any preparation for it at all. The devil is working hard and employing all his agencies to prepare men for death, the very condition which all desire to escape. Whatever of preparation is made by any one should be to LIVE, that the article of death shall be but the opening of the door into that larger and fuller life, which the Savior gave His own precious life to make possible.

I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.—John 10: 10.

For as the Father hath life in himself, so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself.—John 5: 26.

Since the world was cursed by the entrance of sin into it, all creation has within it the seeds of death and decay. The fairest, sweetest flower blooms but to pass into oblivion so far as mortal sight can trace it. The most perfect type of physical man or womanhood lives but a span and is gone as untold millions have gone before. But as the seed is placed in the ground to die and from that death springs forth in beauty and fruitfulness again, so the mortal shall, because that in Jesus Christ death has found a conqueror, come forth in the resurrection in "immortal bloom" to a life which shall know no changing; and if because He obeyed the mandates of the perfect "law of life" the Savior was given to have life within Himself, why may not every son and daughter of the Most High have at least to a certain extent life within themselves? The statement of the apostle seems to give credence to the thought:

But if the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies by His Spirit that dwelleth in you.—Romans 8: 11.

The Spirit of God is the power of life—of the resurrection—and to the extent this Spirit inhabits our mortal body to that extent is there the power of life within us, and it seems a reasonable thought that if the children of the kingdom were only educated into the fuller comprehension of the laws of life—immortal life—there would be a better, more advanced preparation made in the mortal condition towards occupying higher conditions in the resurrection than some who obediently are now making. "Seek ye FIRST the kingdom of God and HIS RIGHTEOUSNESS" is an injunction which must be intelligently honored if the "crown of life" is attained. Shall we abide the condition?

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

ELDER F. G. PITT, on his way to General Conference, will endeavor to meet with the Saints in the following places on dates named: Chicago, Sunday, March 24; Plano, Monday, March 25; Sandwich, Tuesday, March 26; Kewanee, Wednesday, March 27; Peoria, Thursday, March 28; Dahiunda, Friday, March 29; Rock Island, March 30 and 31.

BRO. E. K. EVANS, editor Glads Tidings, announces in his March issue, his purpose to remove the paper to Peoria, Illinois. Bro. B. F. Ordway is to be associated with him in its management hereafter in looking after the financial matters, Bro. Evans continuing as editor. The paper will be changed in form, the pages being made smaller in size, but increased in number, and they anticipate a bright prospect for future success. May their hopes be realized.

The Messenger of Truth is the latest addition to the list of monthly papers published in Independence. It is printed by the Evening and Morning Star (formerly Searcflight) monthly in the interest of the Whitmerite brethren, L. P. Hansen being the editor. This same party undertook to issue it as The Return, but against this, Elder P. A. Page, of Richmond, Missouri, entered his protest, so the name was changed November last to the above. It has eight pages of two columns, and is six by nine and one-half inches. From 3 Nephi 12: 47 it takes its motto, "Old things are done away, and all things have become new." Owing to the illness of Elder Hartley, of the Hedrickites, Sr. Carrie Ballinger set up the last two issues, and Bro. J. W. Luff, of the ENSIGN, "made up the forms." The paper is issued free to all who will read it, but Editor Hansen objects to their being thrown away and misused, and therefore gives them to those, mostly, who ask for them. Editor Hansen came here from Lamoni, Iowa, and seems to have seized the reins of government among the Whitmerites. Meetings are held in his house every Sunday at 2:30 p. m., and he has issued a call for a council (conference) of the elders, priests and teachers of the "Church of Christ" to be held at his house, 23d of this present month. In the March issue of his paper, he "warns" all that the Lord God has commanded him to do what he has done since last August, and he is further instructed to continue "in this holy WORK." He declares "in this coming council, on the 29d day of the 3d month of the year 1901, which council is from God and not MAN, and will be the beginning of the work of the Lord for the last time, and will be a standing testimony to all nations, kindred, tongues and people on earth. And all people are invited to come and listen to his voice, and to covenant with their Lord and their God. Be it known to all people on earth that I am called and authorized of God to do his work and to represent his kingdom, to all the people on earth, wherever I may be sent of him whom is the Father of all creation. Grace and glory be to Him forever and ever. Amen. This testimony is true, and I lie not, and in Jesus' name I sign my name, which shall stand until the judgment day of the Lord. Amen.—L. P. Hansen." In another place he notifies "as many as believe in the gathering, that all information will reach each one with private correspondence with the editor of the Messenger of Truth."

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Mrs. R. S. COOP, Garfield, Oregon, Feb. 23:

There are no Saints in our part of the neighborhood, but there have been some of the Utah elders in these parts and the people are getting greatly interested over the Book of Mormon. We loan our ENSIGNS to all who will read them. We intend to be baptized when an elder comes up here.

BRO. GEORGE G. JURGENSEN, Glidden, Iowa, February 19:

Have just returned from conference at Deloit, where the Saints enjoyed themselves very much. The Spirit was with us and we had a feast, strengthening the "inner man." The speakers were Bro. J. W. Wight, Charles Derry and I. N. Roberts. The Religio and Sunday School exercises were good and instructive.

BRO. EDDIE GOFF, Vanclave, Mississippi:

I have been a member of this church about ten years and am happy to say I have never regretted the first step, though have not been as faithful as I should. I was baptized by Bro. M. M. Turpen. I think there was about forty baptized by him that year in Vanclave branch. I desire to be working for the Master until life is ended.

Mrs. ELA NELLIS, Lonerock, Kossuth Co., Iowa:

I am greatly interested in the latter day work, having been converted to it over three years and am waiting patiently for the Master to open the way for me to join in the latter day work. I know it to be the true church of Jesus Christ, and I hope you Saints will all pray for me that I will be one of the Saints before it is too late. There is no church of the Latter Day Saints within thirty miles of me. I pray the Lord will send some of His elders up in this part of the vineyard.

It would seem as if some of our elders in that portion of Iowa should be able to respond to this call and give this isolated one an opportunity to enter the fold of Christ. Make a note of it, brethren.

ATTENTION, MISSIONARIES

If missionaries who have taken subscriptions for the DAILY ENSIGN, expecting to bring with them when they come to conference, will forward names as soon as received, they will confer a favor. They can settle when they come.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

A number are on the sick list, but most of them are improving. Sr. Flower returned home Monday from visiting her relatives in St. Louis and other points.

Bro. and Sr. H. H. Robinson have moved back into their home here, returning from Lee's Summit last week.

Earl Stanley, son of Bro. and Sr. Geo. W. Frick, was blessed Sunday, March 3d, Brn. G. H. Hulmes, Sr., and W. H. Garrett officiating.

We were much pleased to learn by a note from Bishop E. L. Kelley, dated March 9th, that he was again at his office able to attend to business.

Bro. Joseph A. and Sr. Laura H. Harrington, of Armstrong, Kansas, are rejoicing over the advent of a little girl who came to take up her abode with them March 3d.

The Gleaners are at work preparing for an entertainment, amount realized from which is to be placed to the fund for the purchase of a piano for the Sunday School and Religio in the lower auditorium.

Sr. M. E. Hulmes and her brother, Mr. M. H. Smith, left Wednesday evening for Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, word having been received of the death of their little niece, Agnes Smith, at that place on that date.

Brn. A. H. Parsons, T. C. Kelley and T. W. Chatburn, of the general missionary force, have reached home to get ready for the convening of General Conference. Others will soon join them; they are all welcomed home.

All the priests of the branch are requested to meet the president of the branch in the north room of the basement next Monday night. This request refers not only to visiting officials, but to every priest who is a member of this branch.

Sr. Jennie Newton and children and Sr. Cora Strong, who have been residents of Cove, Arkansas, the past two years, returned to Independence this week to again take up their residence here. Bro. A. L. Newton will follow some time during the year.

The services Sunday were in charge of the district officials. Rain began Saturday night and continued until about 4 o'clock Sunday morning when a heavy snow set in, which, under a very strong wind, drifted somewhat, decreasing the attendance considerably. The morning hour was occupied by Elder Joseph Luff, preaching the funeral sermon of Mr. Walter Weeks, whose death was chronicled last week. About thirty of the "Modern Woodmen of America," of which deceased was a member, braved the elements and attended the services from house to church and from church to cemetery, where they performed a beautiful service over the casket, previous to the benediction. The afternoon service was occupied by President R. May, Vice President A. White and Bishop's Counsellor W. H. Pease, in representing the needs of the work in the district. At night Bro. A. H. Parsons was the speaker.

Bro. Carl Wilhelm Bergande, who has been engaged here a number of years as a shoemaker, on east Lexington street, died Saturday night, after an illness of about ten days, heart trouble being the principal cause. He was 71 years old. He leaves a wife, and a couple of children in the old country by a former marriage, his first wife having died there. The funeral took place from the home Monday at 2 p. m., and was well attended, Bro. A. H. Parsons preaching the sermon.

The Independence district conference convened Saturday morning, Presidents R. May and Alfred White in charge, Apostle I. N. White assisting, D. Robert Winn and Russell Etzenhouser secretaries. The regular routine of reports, branch and ministerial, were passed. Membership of district about 1900. Delegates to General Conference to the number of 76 were appointed, and the delegates present at Conference were authorized to cast entire vote of district. Several places were placed in nomination for next conference, but the choice fell upon Holden, September 21st, 22d, next. Elder G. H. Hulmes, Sr., was chosen by President May as his assistant in connection with Bro. Alfred White, and the choice was ratified by the conference. A motion prevailed that the indebtedness of the district from time to time be met by a levy pro rata among the branches of the district, by order of each conference.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Though the heavens poured down copious showers of rain yesterday, it did not deter the Saints from gathering to a goodly number to feast together at the sacramental board, also partaking of the heavenly manna, the sweet influence of the Spirit of God. There is a noble band of earnest workers in Chicago, for whose salvation we shall ever hope and pray.

Because of ill health and stormy weather we failed to reach our southside appointment yesterday morning, but we learn that Bro. John Harris stood in the breach and occupied acceptably. Thanks, Bro. H.

Providence permitting, we will fill our appointment at West Pullman Sunday morning next. It will be the last visit of the conference year.

Bro. J. H. Lake is expected to spend next Sunday in the city. He will preach at 716 Van Buren street at three o'clock, and probably at 3411 Cottage Grove avenue at eleven o'clock. There is some prospect for Bro. R. C. Evans being present also. Of this we are not positively advised.

Bro. F. L. Horton came up from Joliet and worshipped with the Saints at sacrament service yesterday. He returned last evening after the services.

Bro. E. E. Johnson still remains in about the same condition. He has shown additional strength by walking about his room. Sr. Sanderson is convalescing and will soon be found at her place in our meetings, for which she yearns.

The writer occupied last evening on the theme "Saved by the life of Christ" (Rom. 5:10), with good liberty and attention.

Our artist, Bro. C. A. Sherman, presented the Religio with a unique frame and matting for the programs. Upon the matting is placed pictures representing a Lamanite, a Jew, stick of Judah, the golden plates, the three records, the cross, etc., all being very suggestive of Book of Mormon times and stories.

With courage and hope and strong desires to advance the work.

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., March 11.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street. Services, Wednesday evening, prayer service. Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Chalmers, 5731 Manchester Ave., services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:30 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

The week has been rather a busy one; business meeting last Tuesday evening, when the weather was bitterly cold, and there were but two ladies present and fourteen or fifteen "brothers." Much business, and some of it very important, was transacted.

Wednesday evening, a noticeable increase in the attendance at service, and we enjoyed a very soul refreshing time.

Friday night a large crowd in attendance at the Religio; a good program. Our program committee made use of the idea in allowing two committees to represent their special work. "Wisdom is known of her children." This is a reminder to the temperance committee.

Sabbath morning we were pleasantly greeted by a goodly attendance at Sunday School, although the weather was far from propitious.

We were gladdened to meet with Bro. Bond upon yesterday. He is to stop with us for a couple of weeks. He was our speaker at both services yesterday, and expressed himself as delighted with our present comfortable surroundings.

Our invitation is still good respecting those en route to Independence conference.

At the social service yesterday Brn. Bond and Archibald presiding, the babe of Bro. and Sr. Archibald was blessed under Bro. Bond's direct ministrations, receiving the name of Russel

Lewis. The Spirit was present, and it was a truly beautiful sight, softening and hallowing the thoughts of all present. The service was enjoyable.

District conference the 23d and 24th of the present month.

Some of us are planning to visit Independence in the near future.

March 11.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening Zion's Religio-Literary Society Sunday evening at 6 p. m.

The weather has been warm, but oh, so dusty, till Friday night, when it set in snowing, and kept it up during the night and a great part of the day Saturday, it then turned warm and at this writing the snow is about all gone, also the dust.

Sunday was a beautiful day. A fair turnout at the church services.

Sunday, the third, just before time for the sacrament, a dust storm came up that hindered all but a few of the membership getting to the church on time, so there was no service.

Bro. Joseph Schmutz is very bad again and was taken to St. Anthony hospital Saturday.

The Wednesday prayer meeting was a feast of fat things; six prayers were offered, thirteen testimonies borne, one sister spoke in prophecy and a good degree of the Spirit was manifested from the beginning to end. We think the Saints see the necessity of living closer to the Lord and are receiving the promises of the gospel.

Bro. Alma Chatburn has gone to the penitentiary, Canon City, not to dwell within the walls of the pen, but to accept a position at his trade. By letter to Sr. May we learn that he has a very good position, and she is to follow to keep house for him soon.

Sr. Honawalt, with her husband and children, from St. Joseph, Missouri, have taken up their abode in the Queen City. Mr. Honawalt is a florist and is employed by the Colfax Floral Company.

Sunday, June 16th, has been set apart as Children's Day for the Sunday School.

The sermons Sunday morning and evening were by Elder J. B. Roush, subject, "The Immortality of the Soul."

There was a large attendance at the Religio.

March 4.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at "Druid's Temple," Cor. 14th and Folsom Sts. Sunday School 9:45 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sacrament meeting on first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder residence 3010 16th street.

Sunday morning we had the pleasure of listening to a very interesting discourse by Elder T. W. Chatburn. All were well pleased with his remarks. During the service one child was blessed, and one sick sister administered to. Bro. Hilliard has been to Santa Rosa, but returned in time for our evening service, and delivered one of his soul stirring sermons, to which all listened attentively.

We had a fine prayer meeting Wednesday evening; Bro. Saxe's double parlors were well filled with Saints, interested in the service. We had present Brn. Hilliard and Blakeslee, of the bishopric, Bishop Chas. A. Parkin and John A. Saxe and Chas. Kaighn, his counsellors, Bro. R. Etzenhouser, of the seventy, besides other ministers, and a house full of members. Two new members were received by letter.

Thursday the Sisters' Prayer Union held its regular session.

Friday evening was prayer meeting night at the Religio. It was the first night's meeting in the new home of the society, and there was a full house, and a pleasant evening was spent.

The weather of late has turned to regular summer weather. All vegetation is thriving nicely; fruit trees are beginning to bloom, and all nature is lovely. The evenings are delightful.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

March 4.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

CANTON, Ia., March 1.

Editor Ensign:—The conference of Eastern Iowa district met at Fulton, February 23d and 24th. It was not largely attended, but the spirit evinced by all indicated that their hearts were in the work, and that too, from a pure and unselfish motive. The services were good and their object clearly indicated the consideration of the value of a higher, better and more divine life.

My labor and association with the people and ministry of this district has been very pleasant indeed. I am much pleased that I have found, seemingly, so many who are truly consecrated to the service of God, which, of course, implies a very great deal. A character in man built up after the model, pattern and example of our risen Lord, is above all, the most valuable thing and priceless treasure to be found in this world. The value of power, riches, honor and authority in man can only be determined by the character he possesses and the life he lives.

As Saints we ought not to forget the first and great commandment, Mark 12:30, "And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind and with all thy strength. This is the first commandment." If we do this all our unwise zeal and ambition will give place to purer motives, and instead of working to glorify ourselves and seeking the praise of men, we will be honoring the object of our worship. When we walk in the light as He is in the light, and have fellowship one with another, we then spend the happiest and most enjoyable seasons of life because the saving power of Christ has kept us from committing sin.

But when our minds are filled with darkness, with dreadful apprehensions of evil to be unveiled and brought to light in ourselves and others, behold, the light begins to burn low, and if we are not very careful we are left in darkness, and how great is that darkness. To consider well our individual and personal responsibility, never compromising with, or covering up evil for policy's sake, seems to be the key that will open the door to future success. I want to so live myself, and to see others so live, that the work when introduced may not come in word only, but in power, in demonstration of the Holy Spirit and with much assurance. And if this, as theory, could be backed up by lives whose sterling integrity for right and for right doing, could not be questioned or doubted, this work surely would begin to move forward as it never has before, all of which would result in the salvation of ourselves and the honest in heart about us.

May we, then, try as we never have before to exalt the character of the stainless, everliving Christ, as reflected in us as His, and be found faithful, enduring to the end that we may have right to all that salvation is, and all that salvation means.

In hope,
WILL E. LARUE.

MILLERSBURG, Ill., March 4.
Editor Ensign—I think the Saints in this part of the vineyard, and especially in this branch, are awakening to the fact that it is much better to have some of the church literature laying around, than some other kind that is sometimes found in the houses of the Saints. There does not seem to be much said in your valuable paper about the Millersburg branch of the church, but that does not signify that it is dead by any means. The trouble with us is we have no good correspondents. However, our branch is alive in the work, or at least, the most of our members are, notwithstanding the disparaging remarks made in one of the letters from this district. I think that the most of the members belonging to our branch are making a great effort to live in harmony with the law of God.

As to our Sabbath School we have the banner School of the district, according to the reports at our last Sabbath School convention. I find that the greatest trouble with our Sabbath School, and the same thing seems to prevail all over the district, is that there is not interest enough taken by the church members. To make a success of anything, those concerned have to make a united effort. I do not know of any reason why there should not be as much interest taken in Sabbath School work as in church work, for it is much easier to teach a child the truths as contained in the gospel than it would be to teach a person who had grown old in their traditions.

Yours in bonds,
J. L. TERRY.

MONTEVALLO, Mo., Feb. 8.
Editor Ensign—I am not a member of the church but my wife is. Some time since I made arrangements to get the Methodist church, and sent for Elder F. C. Warnky to come and preach for us. He came and began on January 25th, preaching every night till last night, the 7th. He had good attendance and good order. The brother has expounded the gospel truthfully and goes away leaving a very good impression. There are a number almost fully believers. He is the only brother who has ever given a series of meetings here, and everybody was surprised, for they got Bible all the way, and could not find fault, until last night the order of things was changed somewhat. We had a Baptist brother with us, an Evangelist, hailing from Eureka, Arkansas. He came here in September and swept things with a storm, and his brothers thought they would have him here last night to down our brother, but he got a severe rebuking as Satan always got when he interrogated the Lord. As Bro. Warnky proceeded with his sermon, he asked if there was any one in the audience belonging to any other church who practiced healing, as described by James, 5th chapter. There was one Mr. J. T. Campbell, a member of the Missionary Baptist church, arose and said he believed in healing, but his church did not; this brought the Missionary Baptist Evangelist, Mr. Taylor, to his feet, and he declared he had frequently been called on, and had administered, omitting the use of oil: then Bro. Warnky asked him to show one of those administered to, name and place of residence. This called Bro. Taylor to his feet again, and he said, "I never said they got well." Bro. Warnky said this is the way we have in discerning the difference in the true church of Christ, and the church of men; this brought forth a remark by Mr. Taylor in this manner, "I would prescribe hogs' lard and turpentine." Bro. Warnky responded, "The brother says hogs' lard and turpentine, Jesus says oil and the prayer of faith. Now, brother, I am glad you are here as I need you as a witness." And he quoted St. Mark 16, from 15th verse to closing, and asked him if he believed these signs would follow his members. He answered in the negative. Bro. W. said this is the way your church is judged. If you are not in harmony with Luke 16: 15-20, you are not the true church.

Taylor said his church went into the wilderness but it came out again and the Missionary Baptist was the true church. In reply Bro. W. cited him to the figure given by Paul, and asked him if the head did not represent the apostles; he admitted it; so also if the eyes do not represent the prophets, he said certainly. Then Bro. W. asked him if he had either apostles or prophets in his church; he said, No. Then when your church came out of the wilderness it had neither brains or eyes; if the blind led the blind they will all fall in the ditch together; by their fruits shall you know them. Bro. Taylor heaved a sigh and mumbled, "Can you raise the dead, open blind eyes, unstopped ears?" Bro. W. informed him they only claimed what Jesus gave in his commission in Mark.

Taylor asked Bro. Warnky to take poison, to which he replied, "When Christ was asked for a sign he responded, A wicked and adulterous generation seeketh for a sign, why seekest thou a sign?" At which Taylor turned to hisses, and the audience hooted him to scorn, so Bro. Warnky showed that he was superior in the truth.

The church has my best wishes.
T. H. COLLINS.

GREENWOOD, N. J., Feb. 25.
Editor Ensign—The weather down here has been very cold this month; we have had no preaching here, for we have not had any place for a preacher should one come. We have a nice Sunday School and have a church most done, think will have it ready to dedicate by the 15th of March.

This is the second church in the state, and the people are stirred up to a high degree on its account; think the Mormons are going to ruin the place. I wish Bro. Frank Sheeby would send me his address.

I never felt better in the work and find that the more any one does for the cause, the better he feels, and the more he wants to do. Hope I may continuously prove faithful.

F. J. UPDYKE.

SENeca, Ill., Feb. 22.
Dear Ensign—After the close of the Sandwich conference—which, by the way, was a very peaceable session—the writer, in company with sub-missionary in charge, H. E. Moler, came to Wilmington, Will county. We found in town and the immediate vicinity, a little "bunch" of Saints, full of faith and hope of eternal life. By their united energy they have fitted up what was once a dwelling house, into a neat little chapel. By placing in it a platform and speakers' desk, and seating it with chairs, and last, but not least, by placing an organ in the proper corner, they have made it look so cozy and inviting that one can hardly help but say almost involuntarily, "Thank the Lord for the pleasant opportunities to worship Him."

We commenced meetings two weeks ago tonight (the 8th inst.) and continued each evening, also three services on each Sunday, and two afternoons through the week. We held social and prayer service, which were indeed very pleasant and profitable to all present. We did not have very many outsiders at our meetings, but those who did attend seemed interested, and we look for quite an increase to the little "flock" in the near future. We were greatly pleased to see the young Saints take an active part in church work.

One pleasant and profitable feature of the work there is, they have a nice little choir of singers, accompanied with instruments, both of the strings and the reeds. Sr. Marochia Robson presides at the organ, Bro. Elmer Kuhler wears the bow on the violin, and Sr. Jean Allott plays the bass viol. and let me tell you that they are no amateurs at this work either.

These young Saints at Wilmington have in this line of work, at least, heeded the instruction and admonition of the Lord, to cultivate the gift of music and song. Oh, how I wish that more of the young Saints would go and do likewise. We feel that our effort and sojourn at Wilmington was both pleasant to us and profitable to the Saints and others there, as well as to ourselves.

We expect to move on to Mission today to remain with the Saints there over Sunday, then on to Streator and Piper City, and thus make our way on towards General Conference. I find in Bro. Moler a very pleasant and genial associate in gospel work. Trusting in the Lord and in hope of eternal life.

In gospel bonds,
ELI M. WILDERMUTH.

FISHER, La., Feb. 10.
Dear Ensign—As I have a little time to spare today, after reading the good sermon and letters found in your pages, I will endeavor to write you a short letter. There are so many others who are capable of giving you better information and who are more worthy of your space, but I feel like saying as much as thank you, for you are a welcome visitor to me, and a great support, there being no Saints here.

I am alone in the wilderness. The gospel is a stranger in this part of the land, though I find some honest-hearted souls here, and if the opportunity was presented to them they would obey the gospel. Should any of God's servants come this way, I feel they could do a good work; they will be well provided for.

I feel that the heavenly Father has blessed me with knowledge and understanding. I have done what I can in my weak way to present the gospel here; my desire is to press onward and upward, striving to do the will of the Master and accomplish all that God has purposed in me. He has promised me a work to do and I desire the prayers of all the Saints that I may remain faithful to this end, as the prayers of the righteous availeth much.

Yours in the one faith,
W. P. BOOTMAN.

SABINE PARISH.
BOTTINEAU, N. D., Feb. 26.
Editor Ensign—I always feel safe in putting the ENSIGN anywhere, in or out of the church. Those sermons you publish are simply splendid for poor, isolated Saints, scattered on these bleak, frozen prairies of North Dakota, with scarcely any church privileges. Bro. Houghton and I are battling along as best we can; some times discouraged, but thank God, at other times our souls enlightened with heavenly joy. Three feet of ice was out and two more honest souls braved the jeers and frowns of an unfriendly world by confessing their Savior. One a son of Bro. and Sr. Stovell and the other the genial postmaster of Kelvin, a veteran of the civil war.

Bottineau is giving us a better turnout than ever before, averaging about 75 each night and last Sunday night about 200. There is no opposition to speak of, but oh how slow to obey. May God give his servants grace, wisdom and patience. Bro. Sorenson, I understand, has stepped over the line into Minnesota, and Bro. Thorburn is battling alone somewhere in South Dakota. May God bless them both and all scattered Israel.

Yours in the faith,
WM. SPARLING.

CENTRALIA, Kans., Feb. 2.
Dear Ensign—Pardon me, for so soon appearing in your columns. A short time ago I wrote a few lines to let you know how we, as Saints, were getting along. Then my spirit was burdened with our spiritual warfare; now, dear Saints, I come burdened with grief and sorrow unspeakable. Since that time we have had called from our home circle, our darling little boy; he was only five years old and passed away on his fifth birthday. I thank the dear sister in Providence, Rhode Island, for the nice letter she wrote me. I received it just before the nurse came to take away my baby boy to his last resting place. Dear sister, those consoling words you wrote did me so much good at that time in that dark hour of trouble.

I have been a member of the Reorganized church twenty years and feel stronger in the faith today than ever, and pray the Lord to help me hold out faithful till life's race is run, and my work here on earth is done. Pray for me, dear Saints. I have not the privilege of meeting with the Saints as many of you have, and being blessed with those spiritual meetings and strengthening words received where the Lord is pleased with His children; yet I am thankful for the church papers. O, how I do look for the day when the EXISTON comes, as though it was a special guest coming to visit me; and it is, for I feel greatly blessed when reading it.

I was privileged to meet with the Saints in Atchison during holidays, and I did so much enjoy it, also a good sermon delivered by Bro. White; I seldom have the privilege of hearing a good sermon. I mean a good scriptural and spiritual sermon; of course we go to church sometimes; we live two miles from the M. E. church, but how weak those sermons are to a Latter Day Saint; there is no life about it, does not give the comforting and consoling knowledge that we so much desire. I pray the Lord will yet remember this place and build up His work. Pray for us few Saints in this place that we may remember the covenant we made with the Lord when baptized, and strive to be more diligent in the future than the past.

Your sister in Christ,
MRS. AGNES BROOKS.

ENGLEVALE, KANS., Feb. 1.
Dear Ensign—By request of Vena Thom, Pond Creek, Oklahoma, I write you a few lines this morning. She is my sister, and having read some of our literature and heard a few sermons preached by Bro. Cather at this place three years ago, is now investigating the work, and requested me to have some of the elders call on her, and I know of no better plan than to ask this through the papers. I have not the address of any of the missionaries in Oklahoma. She lives one and one-half miles southeast of Pond Creek, and will be glad to care for and entertain any who may chance to come that way. I believe she will be an honor to the work if she gets an opportunity to obey.

We have had no preaching here for almost two years. We, myself and husband, are alone here; our nearest place of worship with the Saints is seventeen miles, and we are not permitted to meet with them very often. However, we enjoy it very much when we do go. Last Sunday, January 27, we met with them in the Sabbath School and preaching at night by Bro. Evan Davis. We are very anxious for some preaching here, and hope to get it soon.

We attend Sunday School at the Church of God, and they do not like our doctrine very well; we teach it just the same, and try to let our light shine the best we can. They have a new minister, Rev. Tuttle, and he was here only a few days when he made the remark, "They are nothing but Mormons, but trying to keep it secret." We hope to have an opportunity to let him prove his statement in the near future. We enjoy this latter day work, and when we are not permitted to attend Sunday School elsewhere, we have our little Sunday School at home. Our two little ones enjoy it and love to study with us.

Yours for the truth,
CORA CHRISTIE.

WALLACEBURG, OHIO, FEB. 8.
Dear Ensign—Your welcome visits come to us every week to cheer our pathway. We feel that much of the reading is inspired; many times while meditating on some parts of the word that seems hard to understand, you come to our rescue in bringing the very counsel and advice we stand in need of. The Daughters of Zion should also be a great help to mothers as we all want to know something that will be a help to us in training our families, as we all wish to see the future generations wiser than we have been.

Elder Phillips has been with us presenting the words of life; he seems to be the right man in the right place; we could not do our brother justice in our feeble sayings; he is a good counselor, for he gives the law both by precept and example. May the dear Lord raise up many such practical teachers to feed the hungry flock, for of such food we were much in need; it surely has been meat in due season. May we all strive to learn the home duty in serving Christ aright, then we will be able to reflect the light of Jesus. It is there we will have our trials and difficulties, for Satan knows the very place to begin; his wrath is aroused when he sees we are trying to battle against our weaknesses and to overcome self. May we abide in the law, then we shall never fail.

Bro. and Sr. Nevils, of Longwood, attended meeting with us; they are two of the children Elder Phillips baptized into the kingdom during his labors there. Our heart was made sad by hearing of the death of Bro. G. F. Green, eldest son of our worthy president of the district; may the dear ones who are left to mourn accept our deepest sympathy, especially the father and mother in their declining years.

Elder Green has been an uniring veteran in the Master's cause; every kind of weather finds him on duty, and his kind and fatherly watchcare over us, as well as other branches, should be highly appreciated. May his life long be spared with health and strength to do the work that has been placed upon him, which indeed must be trying.

Sr. McIntosh, widow of the late J. A. McIntosh, has been seriously ill with no hopes of her recovery, but at this writing she is much improved and may yet be spared for some wise purpose. We have been wonderfully blessed considering our meagre service to the Master. Ever praying for the welfare of Zion's cause I remain,
Your sister in the faith,
C. E. BRISTOL.

LINN, Osaige Co., Mo., Feb. 4.

Dear Ensign—I do not believe you have ever heard from us before and wish you to know that we have quite a nice little branch here, also a church house of our own. Although we have been spiritually dead somewhat in the past I feel that the Lord is again working with this people. We have Bro. C. J. Spurlock and Beebe with us at present and they are doing a grand work teaching the members their duty and also helping us to perform them, setting a good example. Bro. Spurlock has been preaching at several places around here, reacting as many as possible, planting the gospel seed. He is a good speaker and I always feel spiritually good while he is preaching. We thank the Lord for such noble men. We also feel their reward is sure.

Bro. Beebe has been laboring in the branch; he is priest and has done much good. Since these brethren have been here we have organized our Sunday School and Religion and we seem to be progressing nicely. Bro. Beebe has been visiting the house of each member, which has never been done here before in this branch. I trust that good may come from his labors; he is superintendent of our Sunday School and president of the Religion.

I wish to relate a dream I had in regard to this branch. Our presiding elder died, leaving us as sleep without a shepherd; we struggled along, keeping together as best we could. I had been praying some time before our presiding elder passed away that the Lord would send some one to enliven up our branch, but had begun to think the Lord had forsaken us, when I had this dream in which I saw two elders coming. My dream was short, but I felt relieved to think the Lord would send some one. A couple of weeks passed, we received word that these two brethren were on their way. I felt so rejoiced, for it seemed God had answered my prayers. So I feel they were sent of God to this part. I trust the Lord will crown their labors with success.

Ever praying that we may live worthy to meet our Savior, I beg an interest in your prayers.

Your sister in bonds of the gospel,
MRS. K. WILSON.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence Mo., as Second Class Matter.

THE TWO WAYS ILLUSTRATED.

EDLER A. H. PARSONS.

"The word of the Lord is right; and all his works are done in truth."—Ps. 33: 4.

Webster defines TRUTH, "conformity to fact, or reality; exact accordance with that which is, or has been, or shall be." 2d, "True state of facts." * * * 9th, "Real fact or just principle."

With a proper understanding of the vehicle used to express thought, we can better comprehend the thought expressed. Truth revealing facts, according to above definition, indicates what man has to deal with if he desires to believe God's word. "If ye continue in my word * * * ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."—John 8: 31-2. "Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth."—John 17: 17. Hence, Jesus the Christ said, "Follow me" (Matt. 19: 21), and advised not to try to climb up any other way than He, the Shepherd, led, in these words:

"He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold [church], but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber. But he that entereth in by the door [Jesus] is the shepherd of the sheep. To him the porter [John] openeth."—John 10: 1-3.

The last clause of this statement touching the shepherd [Jesus] and the porter [John] had its fulfillment on this wise:

"Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him."—Matt. 3: 13.

By authority did Jesus speak when he said, "Follow me," as prophetically stated by Isaiah the prophet:

"Behold, I have given him [Christ] for a witness to the people, a leader and commander to the people."—Isaiah 55: 4.

As a witness, he testified of God, His goodness, power to bless now, and to save all who will comply with His commandments. As a leader, to do for fallen humanity that which man could not do for his fellows in keeping with the thought expressed by Socrates and Plato, "It is necessary that a lawgiver should be sent from heaven to instruct us. * * * That lawgiver must be more than man, that he may teach us the things man cannot know by his own nature." As a leader and representative of the Father, to give command to the people as to what they must do to prepare themselves to dwell with God.

"He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me."—John 14: 21.

"As the Father gave me commandment, even so I do."—v. 31.

"Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: because straight is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it."—Matt. 7: 13, 14.

Strange as this statement may seem with the large efforts made to evangelize the world, in this age as well as in the New Testament times, but few have acknowledged Christ as their Redeemer, and these few have almost as many ways of defining what He commanded men to do to be saved, as it has been possible for non-essentials to arise among this few to cause division and organizing of different ways.

"As the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts."—Isa. 55: 9.

Yet man clamors for his own way or idea; hence, hundreds of different churches, each thinking they are a little nearer right than their neighbor; it is terrible to be groping in the mist of ignorance and superstition. Educated, bright, classical minds can agree on almost every other important problem, except what a man must do to be saved. And the more classical we are, the greater the war of words obtain, to demonstrate that Jesus did not mean just what he said.

Come, let us reason together as intelligent men and women, indicated by the circle from which the two ways diverge, and their relative positions, are significant, from the fact that they lead in opposite directions. This circle represents man in the world or valley of decision, as he is found in all the various phases of life. He is either tending upward or downward in his mental development.

No doubt many a soul has failed in the upward effort in life for the want of proper encouragement by those who profess to be better. Man is so apt to think—and "as he thinks, so is he"—that he and his church represent all the good that God recognizes; and to make it effective, he becomes overbearing and arrogant in his manner toward his fellows who are so unfortunate as not to see and act as himself.

This is a false idea, founded on the fanaticism of a narrow, contracted mind, into which the sunlight of God's dear Son has not been able to penetrate, revealing the cobwebs of superstition that prevent such a one seeing and comprehending the truth. Remember reader, Jesus said but few would walk in the Day Saints heed the admonition and touch not the unclean things of this world? Jesus prayed:

"I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world, but that thou shouldest keep them from the evil. Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word."—John 17: 15-20.

This prayer reaches down to us, but God will not force us in this matter.

As we approach the narrow way, there comes to our view the letter "F," which stands for the principle known and acknowledged by all church people as faith. It is indispensable, and no man can please or come to God without it. This gives us a definite starting point on this narrow way of holiness, and we proceed as church people of all denominations do, singing that beautiful hymn:

Am I a soldier of the cross, A follower of the Lamb; But by this time another milestone is reached, and the letter "R" comes to view, a halt is called, and we sing: And shall I fear to own His cause, Or blush to speak His name? By the Good Book, the Scrip-

"Immersion was baptism in the primitive church."—Rev. John Wesley.

"Baptizo [Greek], immersion."—Rev. John Calvin.

"Baptized, deeply immersed."—Rev. Martin Luther.

"I plunge, dip, baptize, bury, overwhelm."—Rev. Jones.

"Candidate sunk under the floods and rose again."—Rev. Talmage.

As further confirmed by the Scripture, "That he [Christ] might sanctify and cleanse it [people which would compose his church] with the washing of water, by the word."—Eph. 5: 26.

"Why tarriest thou? arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins."—Acts 22: 16.

In these texts is ratified not only the mode, but the object, as here stated:

"Be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins."—Acts 2: 38.

Washing signifies plunging, immersion, as we immerse clothing to cleanse or remove dirt.

"Having our hearts [not the body] sprinkled from an evil conscience, and our bodies washed with pure water."—Heb. 10: 22.

Italics are mine to draw attention to the point at issue.

In the council of Ravenna in 1311 A. D., the Catholic church first legalized baptism by sprinkling, and from this act the reformers entered a protest, hence called "protestants." Would it not be well for protestants to stop in this day of much learning, and ask themselves this solemn question, In whose wake are we following? The Reformers, or the Pope, father of the Catholic church?

The confusion continues; some go one way, some another; no longer can the christian family journey together; each separates and maintains his own idea in regard to this milestone, yet it is so plain, that "fools shall not err therein." What! are we less competent than fools? ought to be the query arising in every mind professing to be in this way of holiness.

"L. H." is seen as we move forward on the Narrow Way, which creates another difficulty, and causes another division among the few who became reconciled to accept baptism by immersion. Laying on of hands is the feature of this milestone; and not alone for one object, but for four.

1st, For the conferring of the Holy Spirit on baptized believers.

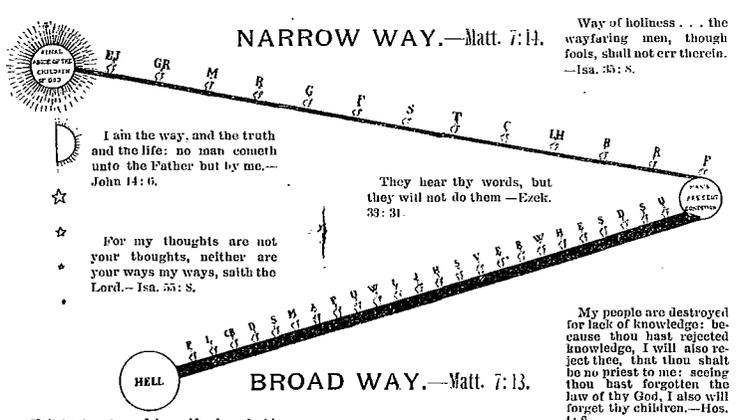

"Then laid they [Peter and John] their hands on them [those that had been baptized by Philip], and they received the Holy Ghost."—Acts 8: 17.

"And when Paul had laid his hands upon them, the Holy Ghost came on them."—Acts 19: 6.

"And he [Christ] led them out as far as to Bethany, and lifted up his hands, and blessed them."—Luke 24: 50.

Here it is apparent that Jesus gave his ministry an object lesson which they were to, and did, follow after the day of Pentecost.

"We still do what the apostles did when they laid hands on the Samaritans."—Augustine, at NARROW WAY.—Matt. 7: 11.

Way of holiness . . . the wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein.—Isa. 35: 8.

I am the way, and the truth and the life: no man cometh unto the Father but by me.—John 14: 6.

They hear thy words, but they will not do them.—Ezek. 33: 31.

For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord.—Isa. 55: 8.

My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge: because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to me: seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I also will forget thy children.—Hos. 4: 6.

BROAD WAY.—Matt. 7: 13.

Hell hath enlarged herself.—Isa. 5: 14.

believing the word of God, His truth which is facts—not subject to change; it is just as unchangeable as He Himself, keeping in mind these statements:

"I am the door."—John 10: 9.

"I am the way, the truth and the life: no man cometh unto the Father but by me."—John 14: 6.

Explanatory of this Paul said, "Gave him to be the head over all things to the church, which is his body."—Eph. 1: 22-3.

"Now ye are the body of Christ."—1 Cor. 12: 27.

"And the Lord added to the church daily such as should [or would] be saved."—Acts 2: 47.

"I will build my church."—Matt. 16: 18.

It is apparent from these scriptures that this church which Christ built, was His representative upon earth; by and through it, man could come to the Father, and there was no other way; he who tried to climb up any other way, or through any other kind of an organization, manifested, to say the least, a thieftish disposition.

Now let me photograph Christ's church with its characteristics as outlined in the Word of God. (See illustration).

Man's present condition, as narrow way, though the prophet said of the "way of holiness * * * the wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein."—Isa. 35: 8.

There are a great many things these days to keep people out of that narrow way of holiness, besides the difference of opinion relative to what constitutes or represents that perfect way. For instance, the theater is one of the places where great satisfaction is obtained by christians—ministers and people, in the way of amusement. Then comes that most popular gathering in what is known as "euchre parties." The cake walk, and dancing in all its phases, are very fascinating to many who profess to be followers of the meek and lowly Jesus, till the world's people, in drawing the contrast "by their fruits shall ye know them," conclude that the professor is a hypocrite, and religion is a farce; yet some of these good christians wonder why the world is not converted. If the question could be voluntarily turned around, it would answer the first. "Come out of them, oh ye my people;" out of these worldly ways, and let your light shine. When will Latter ture, we settled the meaning of the letter "R," to that same record we now apply, and discover, to the satisfaction of all Catholics and protestants, that "R" stands for Repentance, and journey on singing:

Sure I must fight if I would reign.

Not expecting the "fight" would come so soon, and just in the way it generally originates. The letter "B" stands out in bold relief, indicating we are approaching another indispensable milestone, but what it stands for, and the true meaning is the question that calls an abrupt halt. "B," born, baptism, buried, baptized, all these terms are used by Jesus and the apostles, from which we gather these facts.

"Except a man be born of water, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God."—John 3: 5.

"Therefore we are buried with him by baptism."—Rom. 6: 4.

"Baptized [grafted] into Christ."—Gal. 3: 27.

The mode is signified by the terms used, as certified to by Mr. Webster, baptism signifies "to dip in water." For the benefit of protestants, I will furnish a few thoughts expressed by the early reformers.

the close of the third century. Rev. Calvin says, "Laying on of hands is the instrument of God for conferring the Holy Spirit."

The Baptist Association, of Philadelphia, conference declared in 1742, that "Imposition of hands was for the conferring of the Holy Spirit."

Rev. John Wesley, "Laying on of hands for the conferring of the Holy Spirit was the order in the primitive church."

"Way so plain * * * fools shall not err therein." Where are we drifting when we enter the claim that we have the Holy Spirit, and dispense with the primitive means of obtaining it? Paul said:

"After their own lusts shall they [who? The people.] heap to themselves teachers [I wonder if this refers to preachers?] having itching ears: And they [who?] shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables."—2 Tim. 4: 3, 4.

Sad condition, indeed, but they say, "We are all right, let us alone."

2d. For the blessing of children. "He [Christ] laid his hands on them" (Matt. 19: 15). No water used, as now interpreted by some good people. "As thou hast sent me into the world, even so have I also sent them." (John 17: 18). As Jesus did the will of the Father in the above act, so we comprehend his ministry blessed children by the laying on of hands.

3d. Ordaining men to the ministry.

"Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them. And when they had laid their hands on them they sent them away."—Acts 13: 2, 3.

As this practice is followed by most church people, we will proceed to the fourth object.

The healing of the sick. "They shall lay hands on the sick."—Mark 16: 18.

"If a man love me he will keep my words."—John 14: 23.

Yet as professed followers of this same Jesus, when we get sick we fail to remember that our love for Him can only be manifested by doing what He has commanded, "Have hands laid on us,"—by whom?

"Is there any sick among you? let him call for the [doctors?] elders of the church."—James 5: 14.

It's too bad the revisers of the New Testament, of 1882, did not change the term "elders" to "doctors." It would have been more in keeping with our practice, and we would make a better showing as christians.

In our journey, as we leave this milestone, we are also compelled to leave many of our good people, as our eyes get a glimpse of the letter "C," which represents the church of Christ, His body, the kingdom of God, or of heaven, which are synonymous, interchangeable terms, to designate the church Christ said he would, and did, build. Jesus said:

"Seek ye first the kingdom of God."—Matt. 6: 33.

For "the law and the prophets were until John; since that time the kingdom of God is preached and every man [that seeketh after truth—Inspired Version] presseth into it."—Luke 16.

Instead of the people having the kingdom of God in them, they are invited to get into it. Jesus said, "Unto you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God; but unto them that are without [outside of the kingdom] all these things are done in parables."—Mark 4: 11.

1st. The name of church. We will consider, in view of the fact that some good people say it does not make any difference what name it is called. Paul says, "He hath put all things under his feet and gave him to be the head over all things to the church, which is his body."—Eph. 1: 22, 23.

Just stop and meditate for a few moments: Jesus the head of the church, his body. "The husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church." (Eph. 5: 23). It would seem strange, to say the least, to see a man with a lady calling her his wife, but introducing her by some other name than his own, or a man introducing his head as Mr. Johnson and his body as Mr. Thompson. It would be a settled fact in the minds of most people that that fellow was a fit subject for the asylum. What of people who organize a church and claim that it is Christ's church, but call it by some other name?

"There is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved."—Acts 4: 12.

"I bow my knee unto the Father of our Lord JESUS CHRIST, of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named."—Eph. 3: 14, 15.

In all civilized countries the lady takes the name of her husband when the marriage ceremony is performed. Then why not call the church by the name of its head, CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST, if it is His? If not, call it what you please.

2d. "Apostles," 1 Corinthians 12: 28; Ephesians 4: 11; Matthew 10: 1, 2. It is believed by some that there were only twelve of these apostles, and that when they died, or were killed, the office ceased. Judas fell by transgression, and Matthias was chosen to occupy the vacant chair. (Acts 1: 26). Later on there were two vacant chairs or places in this leading quorum, and Barnabas and Paul were selected. (Acts 14: 14). Then Silvanus and Timotheus are designated as apostles. (1 Thes. 1: 1; and 2: 6). Paul, addressing the Saints at Rome, said, "Salute Andronicus and Junia * * * who are of note among the apostles." (Rom. 16: 7). Thus nineteen men occupied the apostolic office during New Testament times, indicating that the office was a permanent fixture in Christ's church.

3d. "Prophets,"—1 Corinthians 12: 28; Ephesians 4: 11.

"Surely the Lord God will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets."—Amos 3: 7.

"The prophetic gifts are among us until now."—Justin Martyr, who wrote about the fore part of the second century.

Rev. Philip Schaff says: "In the second and third centuries * * * the apostles, prophets and evangelists disappeared."—American Baptist, January 14, 1892.

Let this same periodical define the duties of a prophet:

"A prophet, therefore, was one who spake for God, foretelling future events, declaring God's will or expounding what had already been revealed."—January 6, 1892.

Is it not apparent that this prophetic gift is the thing needed to help in obtaining a unity of understanding? "How can they believe unless they have heard and how can they hear without a preacher, and how can they preach except they are sent," by—their father and mother? No—by the Lord God who is able to bestow this prophetic gift to understand His word revealed, and to reveal things that are to come. 4th. "Evangelists."—Ephesians 4: 11.

"Philip the evangelist."—Acts 21: 8.

"Endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist."—2 Tim. 4: 5.

5th. "Pastors."—Ephesians 4: 11.

"I will give you pastors."—Jer. 3: 15.

6th. "Teachers."—Ephesians 4: 11; 1 Corinthians 12: 28.

7th. "Bishops."

"A bishop, then, must be blameless, the husband of one wife [not a divorced man, having two or three wives living at the same time; that is polygamy legalized by law], vigilant, sober, of good behaviour, given to hospitality, apt to teach."—1 Tim. 3: 1, 2.

"A bishop must be blameless, as the steward of God."—Titus 1: 7.

It would be well for the elders upon whom God imposed the duty of seeing that His law is kept, if they would call a halt and ask themselves this question, CAN ADULTERY be sanctified and made pure by law instituted by men? If not, then why hesitate to boldly declare against polygamy in all its phases? Divorcing is only the popular cover for adultery, and the facts are, that in polygamy as once practiced in the valleys of the mountains, they obligated themselves to take care of their wives and offspring, but not so with legalized adultery. It is wild fruit and bitter, and belongs to the "BROAD WAY" as the fruit of the flesh.

8th. "Deacons." Likewise must the deacon be grave, not double-tongued.—1 Tim. 3: 8.

9th. "Inspiration," The life of the church.

"I am the vine, ye are the branches. He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit."—John 15: 5.

10th. "Revelation."

"He shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you."—John 14: 26.

"He shall testify of me."—John 15: 26.

"Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will show you things to come."—John 16: 13.

The next milestone is designated by the letter "T." Tithing, representing the financial system of obtaining means to carry on the church work, and was known in Abraham's day, for he "gave the tenth" (Heb. 7: 4), indicating what, or how much was required as a tithe. Jesus recognized tithing as necessary in these words, "Ye pay tithe of mint and anise and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone." (Matt. 23: 23). "Let him that labors in business life and he that labors in the ministry be equal," was the language used defining the financial question, and equalizing the manner of living as nearly as possible. This is what I believe Jesus was considering when He said:

"Make to yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness; that, when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitations."—Luke 16: 9.

Mammon refers to money; if the little or much is used wisely, and what we have to spare as tithes or free-will offerings, over and above our necessities, is placed in the treasury of Christ's church, when we fail, the church is obligated to take us in and care for us. But if we spend our time and money with the world, and worldly societies, and fail, who is obligated to take us in? I am sure not the church; and no society will keep you in only as long as you pay your dues; when you fail, out you go.

Continuing our journey, the letter "S" comes to our view, representing the sacrament of bread and wine, emblematical of the flesh and blood of Jesus our Lord.

"Verily, verily, I say unto you, EXCEPT ye EAT the flesh of the Son of man, and DRINK his BLOOD, ye have no life in you."—John 6: 53.

"Jesus took BREAD, and blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body. And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of it: for this is my blood of the New Testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins."—Matt. 26: 26-28.

"I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, That the Lord Jesus the same night in which he was betrayed took bread: and when he had given thanks, he brake it, and said, Take, eat: this is my body, which is broken for you: this do in remembrance of me. After the same manner also he took the cup, when he had supped, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood: this do ye, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me. For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till he come."—1 Cor. 11: 23-26.

Here is presented to the child of God the means of spiritual life; yet some think this is not necessary, even Saints, or those whose name are on the church record.

"P" appears in this "narrow way" again, but stands for "fruits of the Spirit" which each one grafted into Christ must bear to demonstrate that they have been made a new creature, "for by their fruit shall ye know them." If we bear the fruits of the flesh it tells the story as to in which one of these ways we are walking; though our names may be on the church record it only figures against us.

The fruits of the Spirit are:

- 1st. Love.
2d. Joy.
3d. Peace.
4th. Longsuffering.
5th. Gentleness.
6th. Goodness.
7th. Faith.
8th. Meekness.
9th. Temperance. (Gal. 5: 22, 23).

If these nine kinds of fruit were borne by those professing to be God's dear children, quarreling, backbiting, evil speaking, fault finding, and all of those characteristics designating the "broad way" would not be once mentioned among them; it would soon bring the Lord Jesus from the courts of glory and the opening of the millennium.

Passing on the letter "G" is before us, which, by Paul's interpretation, stands for gifts of the Spirit, of which "I would not have you ignorant. * * * For to one is given by the Spirit the word of WISDOM; to another the word of KNOWLEDGE by the same Spirit; to another FATH by the same Spirit; to another the gifts of HEALING by the same Spirit; to another the WORKING OF MIRACLES; to another PROPHECY; to another DISCERNING of spirits; to another divers kind of TONGUES; to another the INTERPRETATION of tongues."—1 Cor. 12: 1, 9-10.

Here are nine special gifts to be divided among His children "severally as He [God] will." (1 Cor. 12: 11). Yet many christians say these are not for us today; just as though God had sent a different Spirit among His children in this age. Here is where the mistake is made; they are looking at churches that had their origin among men. If they would take a view of the photograph of Christ's church, as outlined in the New Testament, they would discern that where the children of God were, there would be the Spirit manifesting these gifts as God wills. "Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits [by the Word of God] whether they are of God."—1 John 4: 1.

"He that is of God heareth God's word."—John 8: 47.

"He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day."—John 12: 48.

When we leave this milestone, the gifts of the Spirit, we launch our frail bark into the river of death, and the next milestone is just on the other side, designated by the letter "R." Resurrection of those who have struggled during their probation to keep in this "narrow way" against the many odds they had to encounter from popular sources.

"This is the first resurrection. Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection; on such the second death hath no power."—Rev. 20: 5, 6.

This is the "resurrection of the just."—Luke 14: 14.

"Every man in his own order."—1 Cor. 15: 23.

It is a matter of choice granted to each individual.

Now we continue our journey along this "narrow way" to the letter "M." Millennium, or the thousand years reign with Christ upon THIS EARTH. (Rev. 20: 6, 9). During this period the "Law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem. And He [the Lord Jesus] shall rebuke strong nations afar off."—Micah 4: 2, 3. At the close of the thousand years reign "Satan shall be loosed out of his prison" (Rev. 20: 7); having been bound for this period, he now goes forth in great wrath "to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battle, the number of whom is as the sand of the sea. And they went up on the breadth of the earth, and compassed the camp of the Saints about, and the beloved city: and fire came down from God out of heaven and devoured them."—Rev. 20: 8, 9.

Here is the end of wickedness and sin upon the earth, the Psalmist says, "When the wicked is cut off, ye shall see it."—37: 34. How long they remain under the power of death, we are not told. We will now leave the "narrow way" and take into consideration the fruits of the "broad way," and the results accruing to those who chose this way in which to walk.

"The way of the transgressors is hard."—Prov. 13: 15.

The first character in the broad way is the letter "U"—Unbelief; next "S"—Swearing; "D."—Drunkenness; "S."—Seditions; "E."—Envy; "H."—Heresies; "W."—Wrath; "R."—Revelings; "B."—Evulsions; "V."—Variance; "S."—Strife; "H."—Hatred; "I."—Idolatry; "L."—Lasciviousness; "W."—Witchcraft; "U."—Uncleanness; "F."—Fornication; "A."—Adultery; "M."—Murder; "S."—Suicide; "D."—Divorce; "C. B."—Covenant Breaking; "L."—Lying; "F."—Fearful. Read Galatians 5, "Hell hath enlarged herself" (Isa. 5: 14), so as to supply habitation for the multitudes bound for its fort.

Read, my christian friend, and meditate. It is not strange that Jesus said but few would walk in the "narrow way." "By their fruits ye shall know" comes thundering down, along the stream of time, sufficiently loud to waken every soul, and start an investigation as to the kind of fruit we are bearing.

True repentance signifies a clean breast of all our evils, and then turning away from them, making right our wrongs, and then the Spirit can work, and we will bear fruit of its kind.

But as long as we allow our evil passions to govern us, instead of governing them, we will bear the fruits of the flesh instead of the Spirit; it was said, and well said, that "those who would not be made perfect by law, must be made perfect by that which they suffer." Hence, hell furnishes a condition for transgressors to learn that which they would not learn in this probationary state. What benefit it shall be to them I shall not speak further than to quote:

"Every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to God."—Rom. 14: 11.

"For this cause was the gospel preached also to them that are dead."—1 Pet. 4: 6.

"He [Christ] went and preached unto the spirits in prison [or hell]."—1 Pet. 3: 19.

"If I ascend up into heaven thou art there: if I make my bed in hell behold thou art there."—Ps. 139: 8.

"For thou wilt not leave my soul [psuche—spirit, life.—Liddell Scott—quoted from 'What is Man,' p. 54] in hell."—Ps. 16: 10. "The sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and hell delivered up the dead which were in them."—Rev. 20: 13.

We now return to the narrow way to the letters "G. R."—General Resurrection, the place where Saint and sinner shall meet; then will come to pass the statement of Paul, "every knee shall bow to me [Christ] and every tongue shall confess to God" of his marvelous goodness in feeling after his children all along the line of action.

From this milestone the entire family of God will march along the narrow way together to the letters "E. J."—Eternal Judgment, where John saw that the "small and great stand before God; and the books were opened and another book was opened which is the book of life; and * * * they were judged every man according to their works." (Rev. 20: 12, 13).

"Death and hell were cast into the lake of fire."—Verse 14.

From this statement we learn that hell has served its time as the abode of the spirits of those who walked in the "broad way," hence, it is cast into the lake of fire. Tradition has brought the idea along down the stream of time that those who went to hell would never have the opportunity of coming out, but the Bible makes the matter plain. Just as universal as death came or comes to man by reason of the transgressing of Adam, so just as universal shall life, through Christ, be manifest for fallen humanity. "To reward every man according to his work" would signify a variety of rewards or conditions of life, or places of abode. Jesus said, "In my Father's house [in the midst of his works, the universe] are many mansions" (John 14: 2), corresponding with Paul's illustration, "there is one glory of the sun [immortal glory, eternal life, where the children of God shall dwell; this is the reward to those who walk the narrow way], and another glory of the moon [this represents another condition of life, just as inferior to the habitation of the redeemed ones in the "sun" glory, as the sun is more brilliant than the moon, the reward corresponding with their works], and another glory of the stars; for as one star differeth from another star in glory, so also is the resurrection of the dead."—1 Cor. 15: 41, 42.

A grander and more beautiful picture of this question could not be made than Paul makes in the above statement, "every man in his own order."

The circle designating the final abode of the children of God being at a distance from man's present condition, does not carry the idea that the "sun glory" is beyond the bounds of time and space, but only to represent a higher, grander and more glorious condition to be obtained by walking that way, than the condition now obtaining on this earth.

Jesus said that the "meek shall inherit the earth."—Matt. 5: 5.

Not now, for "the earth is given into the hands of the wicked."—Job 9: 24. But the Psalmist tells us when "for such as be blessed of him shall inherit the earth; and they that be cursed of him shall be cut off * * * on the Lord and keep his way [the narrow way] and he shall exalt thee to inherit the land, when the wicked are cut off thou shall see it."—37: 22, 34.

Abraham, with all the children of God, is waiting for this eventful period. A "new earth" shall appear when it has been redeemed from under the curse, "every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low; and the crooked shall be made straight and the rough places plain. And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed."—Isa. 40: 4, 5. The physical face of the earth is to be changed, and a "marriage is to take place between the islands and continents, as signified by Isa. 62: 4. It was divided once, if no more, in the days of "releg" (Gen. 10: 25). This was after the flood; how many times since, we know not, but this we do know:

"Nevertheless, we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness."—2 Pet. 3: 13.

"Behold, I create new heavens and a new earth."—Isa. 65: 17.

"Whereby the world that then was, being overflowed [baptized, immersed] with [in] water, perished."—2 Pet. 3: 6.

As man must be born of water, so the earth received its baptism, and is "Now by the same word kept in store reserved unto fire."—2 Pet. 3: 7.

"Wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved," and we look for "a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness."—2 Pet. 3: 12, 13.

"And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed and all flesh shall see it."—Isa. 40: 5.

This brings the earth back into its paradisaical condition, when God said it "was good and very good." (Gen. 1: 31.) Then "the tabernacle of God is with men and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people and God himself shall be with them and be their God. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away." (Rev. 21: 3, 4).

When this condition obtains, then cometh to pass Paul's prediction, "When he [Christ] shall have delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father; when he [Christ] shall have put down all rule and all authority and power. For he must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet. * * * then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that God may be all in all."—1 Cor. 15: 24, 25, 28.

The moon and stars furnish a habitation for the rest of humanity that has not committed the unpardonable sin, which is denying the Holy Spirit after one has received it. If this was not true, how could man be rewarded "according to his works, and why should the Savior say, "In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you" (John 14: 2)? The smallest star reflects some good, and a reward or condition of life suitable to and in keeping with work done, made possible through the merits of Jesus Christ. When I think of God's goodness along this line, my heart swells with gratitude, to which my tongue is incapable of giving utterance for the want of proper language to explain or convey my feelings to my fellows.

When the consummation of Christ's work is considered in the light of the above Scripture, the beauty and magnitude of the thought expressed in the anthem sang by that heavenly choir, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men" (Luke 2: 14), is better understood. These stars differ in size, brightness, and glory, as do men and women in this present stage of action, but we are all God's children of creation, and Christ did not come to earth, suffer and die, just for a few whose environments and hereditary disposition, possibly, had largely to do with their life work, but "is the SAVIOR OF ALL MEN, specially of those that believe."—1 Tim. 4: 10.

It was well said when the prophet, speaking in the name of the Lord and for Him, declared, "my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord."—Isa. 55: 8. If man had his way there are those who, in their religious zeal, would send everybody to hell forever and forever, who would not concede to their particular creed.

I am so glad that our Father in heaven Tells of His love in the book He has given. Wonderful things in the Bible I see, This is the dearest that Jesus loves me.

From this system, representing "the narrow way," man began to depart even in the times of Paul.

"I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him [Christ] that called you into the grace of Christ unto ANOTHER gospel:

"INCURABLE" HEART DISEASE SOON CURED.

BY THE GREAT SPECIALIST IN TREATING WEAK AND DISEASED HEARTS, FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., WHO WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS COMPLETE TREATMENT FREE TO ANY AFFLICTED READER.

To demonstrate the unusual curative powers of his new and unique special treatment for heart disease, short breath, pain in the side, oppression in the chest, irregular pulse, palpitation, smothering spells, puffing of the ankles or dropsy, Dr. Miles will send, free to every afflicted person, two dollars and a half worth of his new treatment.

It is the result of twenty-five years of careful study, extensive research, and remarkable experience in treating all the various affluents of the heart, stomach and nerves, which so often complicate each case. So astonishing are the results of his complete special treatment that he does not hesitate to freely offer all patients a trial free.

Certainly nothing could be more generous than this philanthropic. Few physicians have such confidence in their remedies. And there is no reason why every afflicted person should not avail themselves of this exceedingly liberal offer, as they may never have another such opportunity. No doubt you will be more suddenly than that from heart disease.

Mrs. Frank Smith, of Chicago, was cured of heart dropsy, after five leading physicians had given her up, and Mr. Julius Keister after ten.

A thousand references to, and testimonials from, Bishops, Clergymen, Bankers, Farmers, and others, will be sent free on request. These include many who have been cured after from five to twenty physicians and professors had pronounced them "incurable."

Send at once to Franklin Miles, M. D., L.L. B., 201 to 203 State St., Chicago, Ill., for free treatment before it is too late, and please mention this paper.

which is not another; but there be some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ."—Gal. 1: 6, 7.

Jesus signified this when he said "the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force." (Matt. 11: 12). It was also recognized by the historians and some of the leading ministers.

"In this century many unnecessary rites and ceremonies were added to the christian worship."—Mosheim, 2 Cent., part 2, chap. 4.

"Constantine brought the world into the church, and the church was paralyzed * * the body [church] existed but the Spirit had fled."—Marsh, page 198.

Rev. T. A. Jones, D. D., says: "As a visible and located organization where is the church founded at Jerusalem? For long ages it has ceased to exist in member digesta."—History of Continuation of Baptist Church, p. 46.

Rev. T. A. Goodwin, a Methodist, said: "For more than seven hundred years the church has been tinkering at her creeds until they are a theological hodge podge, in many cases widely departing from the faith once delivered to the Saints. * * What of Methodism and some other creeds, for nearly three hundred years they have been quartered in a house of theological patchwork. The whole needs to be torn down and reconstructed, from cellar to garret, so as to make a systematical and congruous structure, consistent with itself and the Bible."—Indianapolis Herald.

Rev. John Wesley said, "The gifts of the Holy Spirit were no longer to be found in the Christian church, because the Christians had turned heathen again, and had only a dead form left."—94th Sermon.

Rev. Barton W. Stone said,

General Conference Reception Committee.

At the regular business meeting of the Independence branch it was decided to fix the rate of board for Conference visitors at $3.00 per week.

It is necessary that the committee be notified before the committee. Only those whom the committee notify need expect free entertainment, as such places have about all been taken.

All parties desiring services of this committee will receive same so far as possible by notifying any one of our number, stating what accommodations are desired and when you expect to arrive.

Do not fail to notify the committee early that as many as possible may be assigned before convening of Conference, thereby avoiding disappointment to yourselves and annoyance to the committee.

L. BRACKENBURY, Chr. J. J. LUFF, Sec. & Treas. ROBERT KEAR. R. B. SMITH. O. L. JAMES.

Reduced Rates to General Conference.

WESTERN PASSENGER ASSOCIATION.

The Western Passenger Association has granted the usual reduction of one and one-third fare, round trip, on the certificate plan, to the General Conference and General Conventions of Auxiliary Societies, Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints, to be held at Independence, Missouri, April 5-20, 1901.

The reduced rate is granted on the terms heretofore advertised, under which the attendance of one hundred persons holding certificates showing purchase of tickets costing more than fifty cents is required: "except that where parties or clubs traveling in a body purchase round trip tickets to the place of meeting from stations from which the local one way rate is more than fifty cents and at not less than the rate announced on the certificate plan for the particular meeting in question (instead of one way tickets at regular rate) and present to joint agent a certificate from the selling agent to that effect, they will be counted by the joint agent in reckoning the attendance at any meeting."

Parties must obtain a separate certificate with every ticket purchased. No certificate will be honored which was issued to cover the sale of more than one single trip ticket.

Ministers or others who travel on clerical or half fare permits, or commutation tickets of any description, are not entitled to this reduction, nor to be included in computing the number in attendance at any meeting.

Tickets on the going trip may be purchased from April 2 to 8 inclusive, on any of those dates. "Under the method usually observed the passenger pays full fare on going trip, and on presentation of certificate to that effect, and other conditions named compiled with, he is entitled to a return ticket to starting point at one-third the regular fare, by route traversed on going trip."

"Where the journey is made over more than one line, it is usually necessary for the passenger to purchase separate local tickets of each road's issue, between points traveled thereon, and procure certificates thereof for each of the lines in this territory over which he travels in going to the meeting, as through tickets are not always sold, and it is not always practicable for the various lines to honor each other's certificates. Passengers should, therefore, ascertain from the ticket agent what portion of their journey can be covered by the certificate obtainable from him, and procure certificate filled out to correspond with the ticket purchased."

"Failure to procure or present certificate invalidates any claim for reduction in return fare."

Tickets for the going passage may be either limited or unlimited, according to the rate paid or the regulations in effect on the line over which it reads; but the return tickets sold at the reduced fare will, in all cases, be limited to continuous passage.

Return tickets at one-third fare may be purchased any time after the necessary one hundred have been secured and certified to, until April 21, except that.

A joint agent of the Passenger Association will be present to stamp and return certificates to delegates personally on two days only: namely, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 9 and 10; hence all parties must have their tickets in the Church Secretary's hands promptly, before those dates, in order that they may be filled out by him beforehand; and parties must be present on the 9th or 10th to receive certificates from the joint agent.

Special attention is called to the necessity of making the trip from Kansas City to Independence on the regular lines of railroad—either the Missouri Pacific or the Chicago & Alton, thus completing the journey to destination over regular lines. The local electric or steam line running between Kansas City and Independence is not included in list of lines granting reduction.

The Western Passenger Association includes the following lines of road:

Atchison, Opeka & Santa Fe; Burlington & Northwestern; Burlington & Western; Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern; Chicago & Alton; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; Chicago & Northwestern; Chicago Great Western; Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis; Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific; Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha; Great Northern; Hannibal & St. Joseph; Kansas City, St. Joseph & Council Bluffs; St. Louis, Keokuk & Northwestern; Illinois Central; Iowa Central; Jacksonville & St. Louis; Kansas City, Ft. Scott & Memphis; Kansas City Southern; Keokuk & Western; Minneapolis & St. Louis; Missouri, Kansas & Texas; Missouri Pacific; Rock Island & Peoria; St. Louis & San Francisco; Sioux City & Pacific; Wabash; Wisconsin Central; Burlington & Missouri River; Colorado Midland; Denver & Rio Grande; Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley; Rio Grande Western; St. Joseph & Grand Island; Kansas City & Omaha; Union Pacific.

CENTRAL PASSENGER ASSOCIATION.

The Central Passenger Association has also granted the same reduced rate of one and one-third fare round trip, certificate plan, to the General Conference and Conventions, Independence, Missouri, and on the same general terms; namely: that going tickets must be purchased at full fare, a certificate to be obtained with every ticket purchased and corresponding therewith. However, reduction will not be granted by this Association on tickets costing less than seventy-five cents. Provided further, that going tickets in this Association must be purchased from April 24 to 7th, not later.

Certificates are not transferable. Do not forget that tickets must be handed promptly to the Church Secretary on arrival; also that all holders of certificates must be present at General Conference at Independence, Missouri, on April 9th or 10th, and two days only on which certificates will be filled out and returned by the joint agent of the Western Association.

The territory of the Central Association is bounded on the east by Pittsburg, Salamanca, Buffalo and Toronto; on the north by the line of and including points on the Grand Trunk Railway, from Toronto to Port Huron, thence via Lakes Huron and Michigan to Chicago; on the west by Peoria, Keokuk, Quincy, Hannibal, St. Louis and Cairo; and on the south by the Ohio river, but including points on either side of that river.

The following lines of road are included: Ann Arbor R. R.; B. & O. R. R.; B. & O. S. W. R. R.; C. & O. R. R.; C. & E. I. R. R.; Chicago & Erie and Erie R. R.; C. I. & L. R. R.; C. & M. V. R. R.; Cincinnati Northern R. R.; C. H. & D. R. R.; C. C. & St. L. R. R.; C. L. & W. R. R.; C. T. & V. R. R.; C. A. & C. R. R.; C. N. O. & T. P. R. R.; C. S. & H. R. R.; D. A. V. & P. R. R.; D. & C. N. Co.; D. & L. N. R. R.; E. & I. R. R.; E. & T. H. R. R.; F. M. W. & W. R. R.; G. R. & I. R. R.; G. T. R. R. System; Hoeking Valley R. R.; Ill. Cent. R. R. (Peoria Division); I. D. & W. R. R.; I. I. & I. R. R.; J. & St. L. R. R.; L. S. & M. S. R. R.; L. & N. R. R.; L. E. & W. R. R.; L. H. & St. L. R. R.; Mich. Central R. R.; Mobile & Ohio R. R.; N. Y. C. & St. L. R. R.; N. & W. R. R.; Ohio Central Lines; Ohio Southern R. R.; O. & L. K. R. R.; Ohio river R. R.;

Pennsylvania Lines; Pere Marquette R. R.; Pitts., Bessemer & Lake Erie R. R.; P. & L. E. R. R.; P. & W. R. R.; Pittsburg, Lisbon & Western R. R.; Southern Ry. (St. Louis Division); T. P. & W. R. R.; T. St. L. & W. R. R.; Vandalia Line; Wabash R. R.; W. & L. E. R. R.

SOUTHEASTERN PASSENGER ASSOCIATION.

The Southeastern Passenger Association has also granted the same reduction in rate and on the same general terms: except that going tickets may be purchased April 24 to 28th—on any of those dates. If a through ticket cannot be purchased at the starting point, the person should purchase the ticket at the most convenient point at which such ticket can be obtained and there re-purchase through to the place of meeting, procuring a STANDARD CERTIFICATE FROM EACH AGENT FROM WHOM A TICKET IS PURCHASED. Certificates will not be honored by conductors; they must be presented to ticket agents.

The Southeastern Association includes the following lines: A. C. L. R. R. Co.; A. G. S. H. R. R.; A. & V. R. R.; A. & N. R. R.; A. & W. P. R. R.; A. K. & N. R. R.; A. V. & W. R. R.; Blue Ridge R. R.; C. & W. C. R. R.; Chesapeake S. S. Co.; C. of G. R. R. Co.; C. & S. R. R.; C. N. O. & T. P. R. R.; E. & W. R. R.; F. & P. R. R.; F. E. C. R. R.; Frank & Cin. Ry.; Georgia R. R.; G. S. & F. Ry.; I. C. R. R. (South of the Ohio river); K. C. M. & B. R. R.; L. & N. R. R.; Macon & Birm. Ry.; M. D. & S. R. R.; Mobile & Ohio R. R.; N. C. & St. L. R. R.; N. O. & N. E. R. R.; N. & W. R. R.; N. & W. S. E. Co.; O. R. & C. R. R.; Pa. R. R. (South of Washington); Plant System; P. F. & P. R. R.; R. F. & P. R. R.; S. A. L. R. R.; S. C. & G. E. R. R.; Southern Ry.; T. & N. E. R. R.; V. & S. W. R. R.; W. & A. R. R.; W. Ry. of Ala.; W. & T. R. R.

TRANS-CONTINENTAL ASSOCIATION.

The Trans-Continental Passenger Association, in reply to request for reduced rates on the certificate plan, makes the following statement:

"After a thorough investigation as to the prospective attendance from Trans-Continental territory—the states of California, Nevada, Oregon and Washington—on the part of representatives of initial Pacific Coast lines, it has been decided that the attendance will not be sufficient to warrant any reduction below the regular nine months' rate. Your attention is respectfully called to the fact that the nine months' rate applying daily is approximately two cents per mile each way, or one and one-third fare for the round trip, which is the general excursion fare applicable throughout the East. Of one and one-third fare is probably the lowest rate that our lines would agree to make in this case in any event."

We understand from the above that parties going to Independence, Missouri, from above territory, will be able to obtain a rate of two cents per mile, or equivalent to that granted by other associations; namely, one and one-third fare round trip, though, as we also understand, not on the certificate plan. Passengers will therefore take notice and make full inquiries beforehand from their railroad agents, that they may purchase tickets to the best advantage.

The following named roads are included in the above Association: Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe; Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific; Colorado & Southern; Colorado Midland; Denver & Rio Grande; Florence & Cripple Creek; Midland Terminal; Peas System; Rio Grande Southern; Rio Grande Western; Santa Fe Pacific; Santa Fe, Prescott & Phoenix; San Francisco & Joquin Valley; Silverton Railroad; Silverton Northern; Southern California; Southern Pacific (Pacific System); Union Pacific.

Take notice that of the above the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe; Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific; Colorado Midland; Denver & Rio Grande; Rio Grande Western, and Union Pacific are also among those included in the Western Association as granting rates on the certificate plan; hence, passengers should make due inquiries of agents beforehand, that tickets may be purchased to best advantage—whether excursion or standard tickets.

R. S. SALVENDY, Church Secretary. LA VOXI, Iowa, March 7, 1901.

DIED.

(One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.)

BERGANDE.—At Independence, Missouri, March 9, 1901, Bro. Carl Wilhelm Bergande. He was born January 13, 1850, in Graseberg, near Gross Steppitz, Prussia. He was married to Miss Eliza Harmon September 26, 1888, in Highland, Doniphan county, Kansas, by "Pastor Kloss," who survives him. He was married in Prussia, his wife dying there; particulars could not be obtained. He was baptized by Bro. H. A. Stebbins at Allendale, Missouri. Funeral from the house March 11th, Elder A. H. Parsons preaching the sermon.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. GURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity; to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri. Mrs. H. H. Robison, Corresponding Secretary, Box 145, Leavenworth, Mo. Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri. Mrs. Lucena Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri. Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri. Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa. Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 213 North Compton Ave., St. Louis, Missouri.

Building Up of Happy Homes.

ALICE E. COLSON.

(CONTINUED.)

I would not have made the mistake of thinking I could hold on to the cross with one hand, and to a wayward friend with the other, to the salvation of both; or because I strove to walk in wisdom's ways myself, that I could be strong enough to bring the erring one with me. No, the time will surely come when one hand or the other must lose its clasp, unless, by the grace of God, the erring one is led to take hold of the cross for himself, for each one must cling for himself, and to let go is to drop down into the darkness of despair. Sooner or later, too, the path will fork, and you will feel that the right hand one is the proper path to take, and your friend will wish to turn to the left. Sad day when you must choose between clinging to the cross, or to the hand of the loved one; or whether to take the path in which duty calls you to walk, that seems to lead over sharp and flinty rocks, through loneliness and gloom; or to go with your friend along the other path, where the siren voice of pleasure is bidding you to walk, a path that seemingly leads to perfect bliss. Sad day, yet blessed day if it lead you to cry for guidance, "Lead thou me, Oh Lord! I dare not choose, be Thou my guide!" For the cry will not be in vain. "Wilt thou not from this time cry unto me; My Father, thou art the guide of my youth?"

When I took up my pen I knew not what I should write, and have just set down the thoughts as they flowed "from my brain, down my arm, and off the pen point." I have not tried to write for any one to say, "That is an excellent article," but because I would like to plant a little beacon light at some of the danger points on life's pathway. Above all things I would have you "Seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness." Let all your friends, your amusements, your work, and your studies and reading, be chosen with this in mind, "Whether ye eat, or whatever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

Trust not your own strength too far. "Evil communications corrupt good manners." The memory of an obscene story, a vulgar word, an impure suggestion, or a coarse joke, is a blot on the unsullied whiteness of the robe of purity the King's daughter should wear. She should be "all glorious within," though her outward appareling be mean and poor.

Again, "Be not unequally yoked together with unbelievers." There are many yokes beside the matrimonial yoke that are to be avoided; if one end is to be worn by an unbeliever, partnership for business or pleasure, is a yoke which it is well to notice, whether the one who is to wear it with you is an unbeliever or not. Be careful in choosing your confidants—for all girls will have them—but beware how you choose them, or the yoke may be a heavy one and hard to put off, though ever so galling. But the matrimonial yoke especially; when asked to put that on, consider well. If with an unbeliever, say No, and mean it too, a no with no "yes" in it, as the little boy said of his mother's "no." For unless the yoke breaks it would most assuredly drag you out of the narrow path at some point in your life. Something would be sure to allure him to one side or the other, and you would be obliged to go with him, and even should he come back, and your steps be found again in the narrow way, yet what a zig zag journey, and how much longer it would take to reach the goal—a perfect christian character.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

TREACHERY

A persistent cough is at first a friend, for it gives warning of the approach of a deadly enemy. Heed the warning before it is too late, before your lungs become inflamed, before the

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Don't delay until your lungs are sore and your cold settled down deep in your chest. Kill the enemy before the deadly blow kills you. Cure your cough today.

One dose brings relief. A few doses make the cure complete.

Three sizes: 25c. for an ordinary cold; 50c. for the harder colds; $1.00 the most economical for older cases.

"I consider your Cherry Pectoral the best remedy for colds and coughs and all throat afflictions. I have used it for 30 years and it certainly beats them all!" D. R. LANEY, Dec. 29, 1893. Union, N. Y.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, MARCH 21, 1901.

NUMBER 12.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, Editor.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to: ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When sending your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferred for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to:

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

TO PROTECT POLYGAMY.

Considerable interest was aroused throughout the United States, and probably in other countries, by the attempt of the legislature of the state of Utah last week to enact a law which, it is generally admitted, would have the effect to practically encourage the practice of polygamy in that state.

The following account appears in The Kansas City (Mo.) Journal for March 12th:

Salt Lake, U., March 11.—Today, three days before the legislature comes to a close, the house, by a vote of 25 to 17, and after an exciting debate in which more than a dozen members participated, passed the Evans senate bill amending that portion of the revised statutes of Utah relating to prosecutions for adultery. Having passed the senate last week by a vote of 11 to 7, the document now goes to the governor for signature.

This bill, which was introduced by Senator A. J. Evans, of Juab county, has caused more discussion and more feeling than any measure introduced at the present session of the legislature. Its text is as follows:

Every person who has reason to believe that a crime or public offense has been committed may make complaint against such person before some magistrate having authority to make inquiry of same, provided that no prosecution for adultery shall be commenced except on complaint of the husband or wife or relative of the accused within the first degree of consanguinity, or of the person with whom the unlawful act is alleged to have been committed, or of the father or mother of said person, and no prosecution for unlawful cohabitation shall be commenced except on complaint of the wife or alleged plural wife of the accused; but this proviso shall not apply to prosecutions under section 4208 of the revised statutes, 1893, defining and punishing polygamous marriages.

It will readily be seen how an individual who violates the statute relating to the prohibition of the crime of polygamy, is by this enactment, protected from prosecution, though his transgression be ever so open and flagrant. Imagine, if you can, under the teachings and influence of the Utah church for so many years, any one "within the first degree of consanguinity" making a complaint before a magistrate in that state, that their relative had become a criminal, and was living with more than one wife. Such a thing is beyond the wildest flights of fancy.

Senator Evans, its author, stated with regard to his bill:

My object in presenting the bill was twofold. In the first place, it was intended to keep down public agitation by taking away from certain agitators opportunity to arouse periodic furores against the Mormons directly, and indirectly the state of Utah, and for that reason its primary purpose was for the good of the state. I believe that a general law upon our statute books, in conformity with the laws of Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Oregon and North Dakota, and even more liberal laws, would create much less agitation throughout the country than the practice which has heretofore been resorted to of arresting every few weeks some Mormon on a charge of unlawful cohabitation and having the arrest announced in glowing headlines by all those newspapers throughout the country which can be induced to take up an anti-Mormon crusade. Everybody knows that these arrests have been made for political and religious purposes, and not with any patriotic desire to enforce the law.

Within the last ten years much more than half of those involved in polygamous relations have passed away by death, or those relations have been otherwise dissolved. Most of those remaining are advanced in years, and no good or honorable purpose can be subserved by prosecuting the few remaining polygamists. Every one of these prosecutions is a source of regret to fully 99 per cent of the people of Utah, for the reason that such proceedings create an agitation harmful to the state. It may be that an agitation more harmful can be inaugurated by reason of the passage of this law, but I do not believe it. To use the metaphor, we are between the devil and the deep sea, and the bill is intended to relieve the state of a condition of affairs more harmful, in my opinion, than this bill could possibly be.

Surely the United States will permit Utah to act in her domestic concerns with as much freedom as is allowed such states as these I have named, especially when the terms of the enabling act and our state constitution have been strictly complied with. I have in this matter acted with the best motives and according to what, in my judgment, is for the best interests of the commonwealth.

Why should any man, especially one elected by the people as a law-maker, desire to prevent the prosecution of a law-breaker, is a question that will suggest itself to every right-minded person. The Book of Mormon not only denominates the practice of polygamy as a crime, but says it is a "grosser"—one of the great or larger—crime, and yet we have the anomalous spectacle of a people professing to revere that book as a revelation from God, not only guilty of practicing this crime and defending it, but actually endeavoring to hedge its practice about with a law that practically renders it impossible to prosecute the offender. The plea that because some of those who practice it now, at this time, have been doing so for years, and that the effort to cause them to stop it would not accomplish any good, is only remarkable for its lack of good sense; the same thing may be said with equal propriety and force regarding the diligent burglar, highwayman or any other criminal. Continued, open, persistent violation of law should not go unpunished.

Senator Evans urges that the same liberty regarding the marriage question allowed the states of Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, etc., should be extended to Utah, but he cannot help recognizing the fact that the sentiment universally held by residents of those states regarding marriage, is diametrically opposite to the sentiment prevailing, by a large majority in Utah; the effort to place the latter on an equality with the first named states is, to say the least, and to put it mildly, illogical and unreasonable. But that kind of argument seems to be persistently used where the effort is made to bolster up the practice of this "grosser crime." Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, Dakota or any other state, would not permit a well known polygamist to go free of prosecution, no matter how long he had practiced it before being found out. The records show that bigamists are being imprisoned in those states whenever found. There is no similarity of conditions existing between Utah and the other states in this regard.

But Governor Wells seems to see with a clearer vision than the misguided senators and legislators who supported the bill of Senator Evans; and though a member of the Utah church, himself born of a polygamous union, placed his official veto upon the enactment. The Kansas City (Mo.) Star gives this report of the governor's reasons for the veto:

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 15.—The Evans bill, relating to the practice of polygamy in Utah, was vetoed by Governor Wells last night. In his veto message to the senate the governor says: "It is a measure of the supremest importance, and in its consequences for good or ill it easily surpasses any other proposition that ever came before this commonwealth for legislative and executive determination. With due allowance for the exaggerations that may be expected from those who warmly support, and from those who with equal warmth antagonize the measure, I accord to all of them, without any reservation whatever, full credit for absolute sincerity, breadth of sympathy and a desire for the public welfare, which, of themselves, render it a noteworthy and unique piece of proposed legislation.

"The patience, loyalty and conservatism of our citizens are so widely recognized that only by the passage of such a bill as this can their reputation be injured. The broad and intelligent everywhere accept the situation here as it exists and are content to let time complete the solution of the problem. Even the bigoted and meddlesome have to admit that, with rare exceptions, the conduct and integrity of the people are above reproach.

"In my opinion nothing can be clearer than that this bill, if passed, would be welcomed and employed as a most effective weapon against the very classes whose condition it is intended to ameliorate. Furthermore, I have reason to believe its enactment would be the signal for a general demand upon the national Congress for a constitutional amendment directed against certain social conditions here, a demand which, under the present circumstances, would surely be complied with. While it may be urged that in every event the poor could be made to suffer, is it not an odious thought, repulsive to every good citizen of whatsoever creed or party, that the whole state should thus be put under a ban? Surely there is none so selfish and unpatriotic as to argue that this is preferable to the endurance of a few isolated instances of prosecution—unbacked, as they are, by either respectable moral support or sympathy.

"All of us can readily recall the conditions of the past as compared with those of today. In the shortest memory still remains incidents of that distressing period shortly before statehood, during which so much sorrow and bitterness stalked through our community. Of still more recent date—no longer than two years ago—another outburst was threatened and, to some extent, was manifested. But as a termination of the first came concession and amnesty and evidence of good faith, and at length statehood, in which everybody rejoiced; and while, as a result of the second, the sun of our prosperity was for a time obscured, the clouds, at length, have rolled away, and Utah, united, hopeful and vigorous, is marching bravely forward to the music of the Union.

"I yield to no one in affection, for those of my people whom, from the highest motives, and because they believed it a divine command, entered into the relation of plural marriage. Born and reared in Utah, myself a product of that marriage system, taught from infancy to regard my lineage as approved of the Almighty, and proud today, as I have ever been, of my heritage, it will be granted, I trust, that every instinct of my nature reaches out to shield my friends from harm and to protect them from unjust attack. Their cause is my cause, and when they are hurt I am hurt, for I am part of them. But in that same heart which is filled with sympathy for them, I find also the solemn feeling that this bill holds out only a false hope of protection, and that in offering a phantom of relief to a few, it, in reality, invites a deluge of discord and disaster upon all. For these reasons, briefly and imperfectly stated, and for many others which might be given at length, I am unable to approve the bill now before me."

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

ELDER T. C. KELLEY, of Independence, Missouri, recently visited the locality in Illinois where some manuscripts, said to have been signed by Joseph Smith the Martyr, were found, and secured a copy of the letter, or a part of it, accompanying the manuscripts. The supposition is, that if genuine, it is the original of the copy of the Book of Mormon hieroglyphics sent to Prof. Anthon. This letter is headed, "The Religion of the Latter Day Saints," then follows hieroglyphics, and below it the following:

Being driven from place to place by the enemies of our faith, I place this original manuscript in this tablet of stone, knowing full well that it will be found in time to come. Hoping the finder will place the same in the hands of the church, I place this tablet beneath this oak in the year 1842. I am your obedient,

JOSEPH SMITH.

We understand the gentleman who found it has not yet decided what disposition he will make of it. Steps are being taken to ascertain if the writing compares with other writings of the seer, now extant. We hope to have a full account of the matter shortly.

ALL delegates (except those traveling on clergy half fare permits), and others who come to Conference, should be very particular to purchase tickets only to the junction point of connecting railroad, if such railroad is operated by a different company than the one on which the journey is begun, and repurchase from that same junction point, being sure to obtain a certificate with each ticket. For instance, east of Omaha purchase to Omaha, and obtain certificate with that ticket; then repurchase ticket from Omaha to Independence on Missouri Pacific, and secure certificate with that ticket also; or if coming via the Burlington Route, purchase from Omaha to Kansas City, with certificate to that point, then purchase again at Kansas City over Missouri Pacific to Independence again securing certificate, making three tickets and three certificates via that route. Coming from the east, if able to reach Chicago or St. Louis over one line of railroad, ticket and certificate should be obtained to either point, and ticket and certificate from there to Independence, if over Missouri Pacific or Chicago & Alton; otherwise to Kansas City, and repurchase from there to Independence, and again obtain certificate. It is an absolute essential that the entire journey should be completed over a railroad. Certificates for two-thirds reduction in fare returning home will not be good, if the electric cars or the Air Line Railroad is used from Kansas City to Independence. Either the Missouri Pacific or Chicago and Alton Railways MUST be used between these points. Keep these directions in memory, and save trouble as well as expense to yourselves. The joint agent of the railroads to stamp certificates will only be present April 9th and 10th, so that it is important that all certificates be handed to the church secretary, Bro. R. S. Salyards, at once on your arrival. Be particular to keep all certificates carefully together and hand to secretary, so that the return journey may be made at the reduction.

NOTICE.

If you have not sent in your subscription to the DAILY ENSIGN during General Conference, do not fail to do so at once. 25 cents for entire session.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Bro. T. W. Chatburn will preach at Lee's Summit, Sunday.

Bro. O. B. Thomas is in the city visiting his daughter, Mrs. Marks.

The quorum of Twelve meets here Wednesday of next week, March 27th.

We hope to have Bro. J. F. Burton for the morning service at the church, and Bro. T. C. Kelley at night.

The Cantata of David may be repeated in the church during conference. The way our singers render it, it is well worth repeating.

One remarkable feature of the prayer meeting Wednesday was the fact that the brethren outnumbered the sisters two to one in attendance.

We are to have a gas lamp in front of the church, a very much needed improvement. The lamp post is on the ground and connections are being made.

The young sisters of the Gleaners are hard at work preparing for their entertainment for the benefit of the Sunday School and Religio piano.

Bro. A. E. Elliott moved his family here from Joplin, Missouri, last week, and has arranged to open a lumber yard just west of the ENSIGN office.

Bro. and Sr. Sidney J. Preston are the proud possessors of a young daughter, born Tuesday evening. Sr. Preston was formerly Sr. Jessie Luff, daughter of Bro. and Sr. Joseph Luff.

The position of the gallery seats has been changed, backs added, and all nicely painted, and they are as comfortable as any other seat now. Matting will be placed in the aisles so that there will be less noise in walking.

Sunday being a pleasant day good attendance was noticeable at all services at the church. Elder Alfred White in the morning and T. W. Chatburn in the evening, presented stirring discourses upon the necessity of "trying the spirits."

Bro. J. A. Burnham and family met with a severe misfortune early last Sunday morning in the destruction by fire of the house and its contents in which they were living; even their clothing was destroyed, and we understand they had a narrow escape with their lives.

Bro. David Propper, of Kirtland, Ohio, passed through the city last Thursday evening on his way to Iowa. He stopped over long enough to chat a few moments with some of his friends, and departed the same evening on his journey. We were pleased to see him.

There was an excellent representation of the Willing Helpers at the called meeting March 6th, there being twenty-three of the membership present. Five large comforts and a quilt, finished complete, constituted the day's work. The society is at present a thriving one and a unity of purpose together with a desire for plenty of work are the chief aim and hope of its members.

Word from Sr. W. C. Duncan, of Colorado Springs, yesterday, Wednesday, advises that Sr. J. H. McMullen is not improving as was hoped for. Sr. Duncan reports that she is now in a very critical condition. Fervent offerings in her behalf were made at the prayer meeting here last night.

A most welcome rain came Monday night, continuing to nearly noon Tuesday, when the temperature dropped and snow flurries and high wind forcibly reminded us of the continued presence of March. But the needed addition to the cisterns enabled us all to endure the more unpleasant conditions with cheerfulness.

The February meeting of the Daughters of Zion was held as usual. Eleven members and two visitors were present. There were the regular readings, Home Column and supplementary, together with informal talks, and also topics for papers to be contributed by Srs. Murphy, Berg, James and Horton at the March meeting were given out.

The Cantata of David at the church last Thursday night was a success. Though the church was not full by a considerable, the attendance was encouraging. The singing was fine, and was thoroughly enjoyed. We cannot particularize for all did well. Sr. Orville James was conductor and carried her part with self-possession and grace. The pipe organ fund was increased $74.10.

Bishop R. May and Bro. W. H. Pease, his counsellor, visited the Saints at second Kansas City and Armstrong branches last Sunday, and instructed them regarding their duties from a financial and spiritual standpoint. They were well received and a profitable time was had. Next Sunday morning they will visit Chelsea Park, and in the evening the First Kansas City branch.

Thursday, March 8th, the Independence district convention of the Religio met in the church here, concluding their work Friday morning. There was a fair attendance. The district Sunday School convention held its opening session at 2 p. m. Friday, and closed with an entertainment at 7:30 p. m. It was decided in order to expedite the business at next convening that instead of concluding with an entertainment, the Religio should be given that service, thus giving them two sessions for business on Thursday, preceding the meeting of the district conference, and giving the Sunday School convention two sessions for business Friday, commencing at 10 o'clock. The attendance and interest were quite good. Sr. Eva M. Bailey was continued as superintendent; Bro. Eli Etzenhouser, assistant; Sr. A. A. Horton as secretary, and Bro. Fred Koehler as treasurer, were re-elected, and Sr. E. Etzenhouser was chosen librarian. The literary committee was sustained and four dollars appropriated for use of the committee the ensuing term. Adjourned to meet at Holden, Missouri, the 19th of next September, at 10 a. m.

The following eighty-eight persons were elected at the last district convention to represent the Independence district association at the General Convention at this place, April 4th, the total membership being 873: W. N. Robinson, Eva M. Bailey, Eli Etzenhouser, Mrs. Abbie E. Horton, Fred Koehler, Mrs. E. Etzenhouser, Wm. Clow, Annie Farrow, Mrs. B. C. Smith, Mrs. Flo McNichols, Neally Mills, Mrs. S. R. Berg, Nephi May, Lucy Young, Mrs. C. Ballinger, Lucy Lee, Mrs. Belle James, Mrs. Young, Alice Bozarth, W. O. Skinner, Mrs. Arthur Mills, Mrs. C. Gerber, Mrs. M. Pointer, Mrs. L. Aylor, Wm. Bushnell, Mrs. M. Stratton, Mrs. M. Milotte, Mrs. A. D. Berg, Stella Wight, Nettie Williams, Mrs. Sarah Hawkins, Gus Koehler, Mrs. Ada Koehler, Amelia Koehler, Sr. Tonnehill, Sr. Mary McIntosh, Bro. Grainger, Sr. W. O. Hands, Sr. Peacock, Frank Resch, M. Eunice Winn, Maud Birch, Mary Warnkey, Mrs. M. Etzenhouser, Mrs. D. H. Blair, Mrs. Ida Stewart, Arthur Mills, Mrs. W. N. Robinson, O. L. James, Tessie Williamson, J. G. Pointer, D. H. Blair, Wm. Blair, T. W. Chatburn, Mrs. Phoebe Tucker, John Tucker, Mrs. Ida Williamson, Francis Williamson, Mrs. Anna Murphy, Mrs. L. R. Devore, Sr. Annie Davis, Bro. Wm. Pease, Robert Winn, Jr., Sr. Roel, Mrs. M. T. Short, Frank Rudd, Sr. W. A. Bushnell, Elias Dave, Wm. McLaren, Mrs. Ida Layton, Sr. Grace Hitchcock, W. R. Pickering, Sr. M. Loosmore, Arthur Gillen, Mrs. E. W. McCallum, Jessie Briner, J. A. Robinson, Lizzie Kelley, Agnes Farrow, Ida Pearson, Frank Criley, Sr., Myra Brackenbury, W. H. Garrett, Jemima Lewis, Mrs. E. Pilgrim, Mrs. Cora Tonnehill, George Edwards, Mrs. Frank Rudd.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Yesterday was the third anniversary of the opening of the Saints' Home, and exercises commemorative of the occasion, were held in the parlors of the Home in the evening. Elder Columbus Scott was the speaker. Some half dozen members of the choir attended, and took charge of the singing, making the occasion altogether a very pleasant one.

The sermon at church yesterday morning was by Apostle Heman C. Smith; in the evening by Elder E. A. Stedman. The Philharmonic company of Chicago, secured by the Religio, appeared before a large audience at the church Friday night. The company is composed of a quartette of ladies of rare musical talent. The program consisted of vocal selections and readings and was finely rendered.

Among the arrivals of the missionaries last week were Apostle

W. H. Kelley, Elders I. N. Roberts, G. W. Thorburn, E. A. Stedman and Alma Hansen.

Bro. E. H. Tordoff and family, of Brooklyn, New York, will take up residence in Lamoni. Bro. Tordoff has lately accepted a position as binder in the Herald office.

Bro. and Sr. Bradbury Robinson, Sr. Ella Whitehead and daughter Clara, left for Campbell, California, last Monday night.

James Kelley, son of Apostle W. H. Kelley, has been critically ill with pneumonia for the past week. He is reported some better today.

Dr. Bertha A. Greer is erecting a commodious two story building corner 8th and Linden. It is to be completed by the 1st of June, and will afford office and residence room, also apartments for patients. Dr. Greer has an extensive practice and will be better able to serve her patients in her new quarters.

Sr. M. Stubbart and granddaughter, Effie, leave tomorrow morning for Octavia, Nebraska, to remain until August.

G. L. K.

March 18.

ST. JOSEPH, MISSOURI.

The district conference just over was one of the best sessions ever held in this city. The Spirit of peace and love was present throughout. Saturday at 7:30 p. m. Bro. Swen Swenson's sermon was very interesting and instructive; text "Let no man deceive you." At 11 a. m. Sunday Bro. H. O. Smith preached an excellent sermon. An intermission of 30 minutes was given to repair to the lower room, where the social meeting was held in charge of Brn. Wm. Lewis and D. E. Powell; there was not a vacant chair. The Spirit was present from the opening of the meeting in a marked degree. The gifts of prophecy, tongues and singing in tongues with interpretation was manifested. Apostle I. N. White occupied the pulpit at 7:30 p. m. The auditorium was well filled and the interest good. Many outsiders present.

Brn. W. W. Smith, R. M. Jeffries and G. W. Best were ordained to the office of elder under the hands of Brn. I. N. White, M. T. Short and J. W. Adams, Sunday afternoon at the social service.

Dr. J. S. Lawton of St. Joseph, Missouri, has arranged for a grand special excursion from St. Joseph to Kansas City and Conference for Sunday, April 14th. The train will leave St. Joseph in time to reach Independence for the first morning service. Saints will enjoy all the services of the day and return to St. Joseph by a special train at night. The fare to Kansas City and return will be $1.25, children between five and twelve years at half fare. Tickets may be procured of Dr. J. S. Lawton. All are invited and requested to bring their friends. A special train will leave St. Joseph at 7:20 a. m. and return after evening service by order of Dr. Lawton. Those living at a distance should come to the city Saturday so as to be in time to start Sunday morning. Train will leave promptly at 7:20 a. m. Those desiring tickets or further particulars address Wm. Lewis, Lewis Creamery, 11th and Frederick avenue.

The infant of Mr. H. A. and Sr. Weber was blessed by Brn. H. O. Smith and M. Shaw and named Lloyd Ruby, at the service Sunday evening. A. B. March 18.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 503 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Bro. J. H. Lake came in on Friday evening, and feeling quite well in body and willing in spirit we tested him to the uttermost, in which he broke his past record. Sunday morning we went to West Pullman, some seventeen miles by street car, where he preached at 10:45 to a good hearing, thus filling our appointment. Returning he preached at the branch meeting place at 3 p. m. and 7:45 p. m., thus preaching three times and traveling about thirty-four miles by street car. His preaching was well received and his counsel good. He goes today to Plano, Kewanee, Lamoni, and on to Independence.

Bro. G. T. Griffiths dropped in on us this morning, having traveled from Cleveland and Akron, Ohio. We were gladdened to see him with whom we have had long and pleasant acquaintance. He goes on this evening to visit his aged mother in Missouri.

Sr. M. V. Partridge, of Plano, who has been visiting in Michigan, Sundayed with us.

Bro. R. T. Cooper came in from his long trip and spent Sunday with the Saints. He reports his wife convalescing.

Bro. Wilcox, one of Plano's old timers, was seen among Chicago Saints at their afternoon service yesterday.

Miss Laura Van Dell, of our city, an accomplished lady, was married on the 16th to Mr. Frederick Valk, member of the firm John Valk & Co., Rock Island, Illinois. The wedding was a quiet one, only relatives being present. They started soon after for Rock Island, their future home. Through the thoughtfulness of Sr. Maggie Warlick, we were invited to do the official part of the work. We felt well in so doing.

On the evening of the 12th a branch was organized at the place usually known as the Lang mission. Bro. P. Pement was elected president, Bro. John Harris as priest, and Bro. Richardson teacher. It was named the Central Chicago branch.

We are moved in pity, at times, for the isolated ones, who hunger for the association of the Saints and the privileges of the sanctuary. We lately hear of the heart yearnings of our dear aged sister, Sarah Swank, of Lincoln, Nebraska, with whom we formed a very pleasant acquaintance when she visited her sister, our Sr. Sloan. When the angel is sent to gather the remnant of the elect such will be found by him if continuing in faith.

Our young friend, R. S. Nayaka, gave a very interesting talk before the Religio last evening on Oriental religions. It was well received. He is getting close to the church door, and will probably soon enter.

The Sabbath School is preparing a special service for Easter day, April 7th. Special song and recitations will be prepared.

J. M. TERRY.

365 Ogden Ave., March 18.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening Zion's Religio-Literary Society Sunday evening at 6 p. m.

The weather has been fine the past week, a little cool but clear.

The week has been a busy one, something nearly every night.

Wednesday night prayer meeting was a good one, Thursday night we had the pleasure of listening to a lecture on "The Philosophy of Mormonism," by Prof. Geo. Talmage, of the Salt Lake University; the lecture was given at the First Congregational church, before the Denver Philosophical Society. Mr. Talmage is a talented man and a very pleasant speaker; he handled his subject in a masterly manner and was listened to very attentively. Two of the leading ministers of the city, and members of the society, were selected to discuss the lecture, but one of them was absent, and the other did not feel to discuss; fact is, I don't think he was able. A number of questions were asked by the members of the society touching polygamy and other points, all of which the gentleman answered very satisfactorily, or seemingly so, to them.

The writer and Bro. Roush sat together, and oh how we longed to be members of the Denver Philosophical Society for about fifteen minutes. I don't think the gentleman would have had so smooth sailing, but we had to hold our peace, and I expect he and his associates were glad we did not have any say in the matter; suffice it to say he left the bars down in several places, if the members had only known it.

Several of the brethren from the eastern part of the state, are in the city, with the intention of forming a stock company (incorporated) to invest in land and live stock. A meeting was held at the time of district conference, and adjournment had till March 18th. There is prospect for money making along the above lines, and I see no reason why the Saints may not invest a few dollars and reap the benefits as well as others. We have not seen the constitution of the company and cannot, at present, state just what the plans are; we will probably have more to say about the matter in our next.

Our young brother, Ray Powers, has been quite sick for several days, but is reported better at this writing. There is no improvement in the condition of Bro. Schmutz.

The Memorial to General Conference has been drawn up by the committee and signed by the officers of the district, and will be forwarded by our delegates.

We see by the papers that Mr. Carnegie has lately given to the city of New York $5,200,000 for educational purposes. Why not we have a slice of his great wealth for Graceland, as well as others. I believe if Conference acts favorably on this, and the Saints pray earnestly for its success, the Lord may move on the heart of this benevolent man to do something for us in this our hour of need. Why not think of it Saints?

The preaching Sunday was by Elder E. Curtis in the morning, and in the evening by Elder Geo. E. McConley.

March 18.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line. Elder J. V. Roberts, formerly president of Shenandoah, Iowa, branch, presided with Bro. Emmett at last week's Wednesday night prayer meeting.

At a special meeting of the branch last Thursday evening, called by the president, Elder Emmett lectured on the duties of officers and members in the church.

Sunday morning the local bishop, R. May, talked to the Saints on "Lines of Duty," with privilege of asking questions after the discourse. He read and expounded passages of scripture concerning the temporal welfare of the church, and remarked that the benevolent secret societies are doing work the church should do. Elder Pease followed with exhortation to the Saints to comply with the law of tithing. He also urged the Saints to honor the officers in their callings. The meeting was continued in the afternoon, when much freedom was had in discussing the law of tithing and secret societies, many in the audience asking questions and receiving answers and testimony from the Bishop and his first counselor and others. There was a priesthood meeting called for Tuesday night.

Armstrong branch reports good attendance last Sunday. President M. B. Williams occupied in the morning; Bro. May and Pease in the evening on "tithing." There was one baptism. The afternoon prayer meeting was fairly good.

JOHN C. GRAINGER.

March 19.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

RAYMOND, Ida., March 7.

Editor Ensign:—I desire to do all I can to assist in spreading the gospel of Christ wherever my lot may be cast, and ever be found in the path of duty. And believing it to be the duty of the elders while in the field to write occasionally for publication, so that our brethren and sisters in the true faith may know what we are doing, that they who desire to communicate anything to us concerning the necessity or practicability of doing mission work in their vicinity, can do so.

Since my appointment to the Rocky Mountain mission I have labored in Idaho and Wyoming. In the latter state it was nearly all now ground; none of our elders have ever labored in western Wyoming to my knowledge, except at Cokeville, where I have preached a few times years ago; and although there are some tough characters in the mining towns that I visited, yet I believe that good will result from my labors while there; and if the openings thus made are looked after I believe some will obey the gospel in the near future.

In Idaho I have labored in the Bear River and the Thomastork valleys, and also in the Snake River Valley. In the latter place I had the pleasure of laboring with Elder S. D. Condit, and also met quite a number of true Saints (I use the word true to distinguish them from the Mormon people who call themselves Saints), who kindly cared for me, and assisted me in various ways; may the blessed Lord reward them for their kindness to me. I would like to mention each dear Saint by name and each kind friend of other faiths who kindly cared for me, but space will not permit, and I can only say I hold you all in grateful remembrance.

The work is onward here. The Saints, as a rule, are trying to live their religion, and there seems to be brighter prospects ahead for the faithful missionary to do good.

Yours hopefully,

A. J. LAYLAND.

MANILLA, P. I., Jan. 18, 1901.

Dear Ensign:—While I am in this far away land, deprived of meeting with Saints in church or abroad, I have the ENSIGN for my companion, and indeed it is a friend to me; for one away from God's people, and in the position that I am, needs courage to hold fast to what they have. While we are tried on all sides, I read of testimonies of those having great trials and I can say in my heart, may God help them, for I know what it is to be tried; I have been overcome many times, but I still hold on to the faith I have, breathing prayers to God that He may spare me and forgive me, till I can be of some use to Him. In the position I am in now I am a worthless creature; it is only by writing a few words that I can be of any worth, if any. Some may think I have a good opportunity in the army, but if one was in the army, one they could see how useless it is to labor; but I do not give up and say I can't, because that is not a true soldier.

I see that the majority of the people contend that the Book of Mormon and Joseph Smith, Jr., are false; let me, my reader, ask you to stop and think, while I am giving my weak testimony. Why is it that I believe in the Book of Mormon and Joseph Smith, and the Latter Day Saint doctrine? I was once bitter against them; I was not taught any doctrine till I was sixteen years of age, and then I was taught Free Methodist doctrine; but I soon learned by reading the Scriptures that it was not according to God's word, and then I began to search for a people who taught according to the Scriptures. I went among a great many different kinds of belief, and found not what I wanted. I wandered for six years looking for the food that satisfies the soul, and at last found a people who taught according to the Scriptures.

But they had what I had heard, a Bible of their own, that they taught from also, and Joseph Smith, as I had always been taught, was a polygamist; so I was on a standstill for a long time to know what to do; and the devil tried to show up everything that I heard or read against the church, to be true. But I did not do like I have seen a great many do, just put it down false at first sight. I knew enough about scripture and human nature to cast that thought aside. I thought I would keep quiet and look on till I knew if it was false or true; but it was not long till God, through His servants, revealed the truths to me, till I was determined to see farther, and through God's own appointed way, I was convinced.

It has been almost two years since I have conversed with a Latter Day Saint, only I have the paper, ZION'S ENSIGN, our church paper, to read, and it is not filled with man's opinion; any one reading it can see it is full of Scripture's texts; it is the Bible put in our everyday language, so we can understand it. I would like to ask why was it that I, when so young, could detect the mistake that so many people are making; or do I know, or why should I say it is a mistake, if I did not know? And why did I see at first, when investigating, that they were following according to the Scriptures? And why am I so well satisfied with Latter Day Saints' doctrine? And what will we say? Will we make God out as unjust by saying that He don't give the same blessings to His people today as of old? Why did He say He is no respecter of persons? Why did He say He was unchangeable? Why did He give to the people of olden times the gifts of prophecy and interpretation; of healing, and all others which we read of, and not now, if He is no respecter of persons and an unchangeable God? And why do all of the Saints of today testify of the gifts, if it is not true? Don't we know if we teach wrong, that we will have to give an account for it in the last day? Oh, my friends, do we prove the spirits to see if they are of God, or the devil? Why listen to hearsay when it can't be proven? The time is growing short, the Judgment day is close at hand; are we going to stand back and listen to every fable that is told about God's people? Compare the Scriptures with our doctrine and see if we are wrong. A great many people do not read the Bible, just listen to the minister, to what he says; and I have heard some say that they did not believe things that they heard quoted; did not believe it was in the Bible, and they did not care to look and see. I tell you the way I used to do; I would take a pocket Bible with me; if I heard something quoted that I doubted, I would look and see, and if I did not have my Bible, I took a pencil and noted it down and looked it up at home.

I will say that the Latter Day Saints' doctrine is true, it is the doctrine of Christ, and the Spirit of God is with man today as of old. May all who don't believe it, put it to the test.

Your brother in the faith,
WILLIAM C. BURROUGHS.
Troop F., 4th Cavalry.

DIGHTON, Ks., Feb. 28.

Editor Ensign:—I have often thought of bearing my testimony to the divinity of this latter day work through the columns of the ENSIGN, but feeling my incompetency to express my thoughts on paper, and the thought that some might think that I wanted to see my name in the paper, I have so far desisted. But if all should fail for that reason I would not have the privilege of enjoying, as I do, the testimony of others; and hoping that my testimony may strengthen some one as I have been strengthened by the testimony of others, I will try and give, in as few words as possible, a part of my experience.

I moved into a neighborhood of the Saints in Harrison county, Iowa, in 1851; one of my neighbors had a girl who I thought was pretty nice, though I thought that she, with the rest, was badly deceived; but for the sake of her company, and some place to go, I went to the Saints' meetings. The preaching seemed to agree with the Bible, but it was in conflict with the teaching of my church (I was a Baptist), so of course I thought it was the cunning of the devil that I had heard so much about. But for the same reason as before I kept on going, and they talked about the gifts and blessings of olden times being restored. I had believed from childhood that the only reason they were not enjoyed was because people did not have the faith as did the old Saints, so I got to studying, and came to the conclusion that the reason the Baptists did not have the required faith, was because that they did not believe, for a man must believe before he can exercise faith; so I began to see that it was me, instead of the girl and her people, who was deceived; but it was some time after I had married the girl that I made up my mind to take upon me the name of "Mormon." I had thought if it was not for that name I could go with them; but I came to the conclusion that I had my choice to take upon me the name and endure persecution for Christ's sake, or take my portion with the hypocrites, for I, by this time, believed; that was something that I never before was able to do; and why? simply because I had never heard the gospel of Christ preached. How could I believe in something that I never had heard, and how could I hear without a preacher, and how can any man preach except he be sent? So I requested baptism. But before being baptized I wanted to make a visit in the East, so I did, and when I got back I had a strange experience. I did not feel that I could go into the water for some reason; the heavens seemed to be sealed; it seemed that my prayers did not go higher than the ceiling, and in that condition I was not willing to go into the water. My mother (who I verily believe is now resting with the redeemed) had wanted my return to be baptized, and when I told her my condition it seemed as though her heart would break. So my father told Bro. David Chambers about it, and he, with my father and mother, came and had prayer at my house, after which I was ready for the water. That was proof to me that it is unsafe to put off baptism when a person is once ready.

After I was baptized I at times had doubts which troubled me. I asked God for additional evidence in regard to the work, and it came in a shape that I can never more doubt. My faith led me to seek a knowledge that could not be shaken. I received that perfect knowledge for which I was seeking, and I never have dared to ask God for anything more on that line, for He could not make my knowledge in regard to the divinity of the latter day work any more perfect than He already had done, so, to ask for something to be added to that which is perfect, would be to tempt God.

I can truly say that I know that the Book of Mormon is of divine origin, for the coming forth of that book is a part of the latter day work; and I also know that Joseph Smith was a prophet of God, for a false prophet could not bring forth the things of God.

We are isolated from the Saints in so much that we do not hear a sermon once a year. We are truly hungering for food, and my prayer to God is that He will either send some one, or raise up some one that will not only feed us, but will be able to build up the cause and kingdom of God in these parts. Any of the brethren who wish to, or can come, will find themselves welcome at our house as long as they see fit to stay and labor. By the studying of the books, and constant prayer to God we are trying to let our light shine that we may be worthy of having that light increased. I have a large family, and feel more and more the great responsibility resting upon me as a parent, knowing as I do that these are the perilous times as spoken of in God's word, and I am left without excuse, having received a knowledge of my duty.

We desire the prayers of the Saints that we may not faint by the way and be found without oil in our lamps when the bridegroom comes. Ever praying for the cause of Zion, I am,
Your brother,
A. P. PELTON.

LANCASTER, Wis., Feb. 25.

Editor Ensign:—I have been made to rejoice many times from reading of letters and of other articles of interest which those alone can appreciate who live isolated. Many times I have felt as though there was nothing for me to do, or if I was only near some lively branch, how much I might do. Some time ago I was reading of an invalid sister who thought it no trial to live isolated; that set me to thinking and made me feel somewhat ashamed of myself. This afternoon as I opened the ENSIGN the first thing I read was "Use Your Light"; oh, how those words did thrill me. I understand now why some are scattered, and shall try not to complain any more. To those who are acquainted or interested in this part of God's moral vineyard, I would say that at present the Saints here are all quite well. We have missed the missionaries which this winter. We have no meetings but are talking of trying to start others at some meeting. As this is my first attempt I shall not stay too long. I am trying to come up higher for I love this work.

In bonds,

Mrs. J. C. EMMINGTON.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence Mo., as Second Class Matter.

IMMORTALITY.

Funeral Sermon of Sr. Annie Wibberly, preached at La Grange, Ohio, December 30, 1900, by Elder J. L. Goodrich.

Fourteen verses of the last chapter of Revelation were read. Text—14th verse in connection with the 12th verse of the 20th chapter.

Saints and friends, dearly beloved: Again are we called together to mourn the death of one of our race, the ardent friend, the kind neighbor, the beloved sister, the loving mother, and the cherished and dutiful wife—Annie Wibberly. The following items have been furnished me by the husband, Bro. W. A. Wibberly.

Sr. Annie Wibberly was born October 21st, 1852, at Aymstrey, Herefordshire, England. She was converted to God by the preaching of the gospel as taught by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, with which she became identified by baptism and confirmation January 23, 1883, at Burton on Trent, England, under the administration of Elder George Potts. Sailed from England, March 28, 1888; landed at New York, April 6th, 1888, and at Ironton, Ohio, June 6, 1888. Died Friday, November 2, 1900, at the home of her only child, Fred Wibberly, in Ironton, being 48 (forty-eight) years and 13 (thirteen) days old, measuring time by years. But the length of life is best measured by its usefulness. They live most, who think most, feel the noblest, and act the best. Applying this standard, my estimate of her will not allow me to fix a limit.

History informs us that when Xerxes stood in the presence of an immense host of men, he wept at the thought that within a hundred years all of that immense mass of human beings would be dead and mouldering in the earth. He probably felt that all of life consisted in worldly aspirations, hopes, triumphs, wealth, and other temporal surroundings, and realized, for the moment, their certainty of decay, and the utter feebleness to satisfy the heart and mind. How different with us. Under the benign influence of our civilization and religion, we look beyond and within the frail tenement of clay—we look at more than the feeble, dying body with its earthly surroundings—and see within the body, the soul—the real man.

This thought on this occasion should lead us to contemplate the characteristics of the life of Sr. Annie Wibberly, in the relations of wife, mother, friend, christian. In all these relations her purity, gentleness, kindness and grandeur shone forth so that no one could fail to appreciate them. She met and overcame the evil influences of life and died with a heart bedecked with christian graces and ripe for a glorious immortality. What a life for emulation, admiration, and imitation. O, that we might all live such a life, that we might die such a death!

We will call your attention for a few moments to the words of the Apostle John as recorded in Revelation, 22d chapter, and 14th verse, already read in your hearing: "Blessed are they that do his commandments that they may have a right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city."

Also the 20th chapter and 12th verse of Revelation:

"And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened; and another book was opened, which is the book of life, and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books."

I wish to call your attention to two thoughts in these texts, viz: First, The books (in the plural) and the book of life; and second, All are judged according to their works. And then the purpose of these books in the plan of salvation and final work of God.

Daniel also refers to these books in the seventh chapter and tenth verse, as follows:

"A fiery stream issued and came forth from before him: thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him; the judgment was set, and the books were opened."

I understand these books to be the various records in the different dispensations of the world, in which God has had His will recorded for the blessing of mankind, and that no mistake might be made by the children of men, and no excuse for not knowing what that will is. The apostle has told us plainly the purposes and the objects of the scriptures in God's economy. Hear what he says in 2 Timothy 3: 15, 16:

"And that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Jesus Christ. All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

In other words, and in short, that no one have any excuse in the day of final judgment because he did not know the will of God. The book of life is spoken of in several places in the holy Scriptures, and only those who have overcome the world, the flesh and the devil, will have their names written therein, or have a right to the tree of life, or be permitted to enter in through the gates into the city. (See Ps. 69: 28; Dan. 12: 1; Phil. 4: 3; Rev. 3: 5; 13: 8; 21: 27).

This book of life will contain a record of every triumph we have made over temptation, and wherein we have overcome evil, and been obedient to the commandments of God, and have followed Christ as our leader, our commander, and our example, and have acknowledged Him in actions as well as words, as the way, the truth, and the life. Then when the books containing the requirements and the commandments are opened, and the book of life is also opened, and they are laid side by side, and the book of life shows we have complied with these requirements, and have been obedient to these commandments, then we will have "an answer of a good conscience toward God," and will receive that welcome plaudit of "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter into the joys of thy Lord." Then will we "Rejoice and be exceedingly glad" because we hearkened to the teachings of the holy Scriptures as they were found written, and obeyed the ordinances as they had been obeyed by the ancient Saints, and as believed and practiced by the ancient apostles and elders in the days of New Testament times, and rejected the teachings and commandments of men and refused to believe those who said these things were done away and are no longer needed.

I open up one of these books that will be opened up when we are brought before the great Judge, and ask, "What are its requirements? What are its commandments and ordinances? What are its promises and rewards? And when I have found them recorded in that book and taught and believed and practiced by the Master and those holy apostles and prophets appointed and inspired by Him, let us say, our duty is plain, we have found the way and we will walk therein, and follow in their footsteps, and imbibe their spirit and obtain their reward; will reject all systems and faiths that would lead in different paths or cause us to neglect obedience to any of these commandments, or to substitute anything else in lieu of them, or teach that any of these holy commandments are non-essential, or are not needed, or that the ancient gifts and blessings are done away and are not for us.

I shall not have time today to more than give you a brief summary of a few of these requirements, and ask you to read carefully and see if these things are true. They are, Faith in God and in His Son, Jesus Christ, and in the Holy Ghost; repentance for our sins and a separation from them, and from dead works, such as useless ceremonies, and things God never commanded nor approved. Such are many of the forms and customs of the day. Baptism, by immersion, for the remission of sins; a burial by baptism into Christ, a planting into the likeness of His death, and a resurrection in the likeness of His life. These are enjoined by the Scriptures. The ordinance of the laying on of hands of those in authority from God for the reception of the Holy Ghost, and the confirmation of the truth. Also, this ordinance is for the blessing of little children, the healing of the sick, and the ordination to the ministry.

With this faith and obedience we are admitted into, and become a part of the spiritual body of Jesus Christ, kingdom of God, the church of the firstborn, of the Redeemer, of God. We are then to add to this faith, by the simple rule of addition, all the christian graces, such as virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness, and charity, that we may be made partakers of the divine nature and be given the rewards of the great and precious promises, and escape the corruption that is in the world through lust. We are also required to give all diligence, for he says, "For so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

Our sister, whose body lies in the churchyard over yonder, has, as we believe, met those requirements and awaits her reward. Her religion was of that practical kind—not a mere outward show, professional manifestation—but a lamp with oil in it. She was opposed to hypocrisy and so great was this cardinal virtue developed in her, that it recalls the terrible picture drawn by the learned Jeremy Taylor over a century ago, which is no less true today. He says:

"There is a universal crust of hypocrisy that covers the face of the greatest part of mankind. Their religion consist in forms and outsides, and serves reputation or a design, but does not serve God. Their promises are but fair language, and the civilities of piazzas are exchanges, and disband and unites, like the air that beats upon their teeth, when they speak the delicious and hopeful words; their oaths are snares to catch men and make them confident; their contracts are arts and stratagems to deceive, measured by profit and possibility; and everything is lawful that is gainful; and their friendships are trades of getting; and their kindness of watching a dying friend is but the office of a vulture, the gaping for a legacy, the spoil of a carcass; and their funeral tears are but the paranyms and pious solicitors of a second bride."

Sr. Wibberly's hands willingly performed the household duties that pertained to womanhood, and her feet went gladly out over the rough places of life to bear the burdens of her domestic cares, that of mother and wife; and though often faint and weary, yet she was happy. She has indeed left a life count, closed without one blot of stain to mar its fair page, and in every relation in life and duty in which she was called, she proved herself in the highest sense a true and noble woman. Firm and sincere in her convictions; true to her friends; liberal toward those who opposed her; conscientious in the discharge of every duty; at true saint and christian, she surely deserved and doubtless has received the highest reward that can be bestowed on mortal or angel, the final decree of the Judge of all living. "Well done thou good and faithful servant."

It is one of the inconsistencies, perhaps one of the infirmities, of human nature, that in spite of all the blessed assurances of christianity, we grieve when those who are near and dear to us are taken away by the ruthless hand of death. We know that to those who are prepared to die, death is but the gloomy portal through which they pass to the realms of eternal happiness and perfect bliss; and this conviction should teach us that excessive grief for them is selfish; but neither philosophy nor religion can soothe the anguish which wrings our hearts when a dear friend or beloved relative is borne to the grave.

The blood will follow where the knife is driven;

Thus when the good are called home, to enter on the true life beyond the grave, we grieve, not for them, but for ourselves. It is well with them; they have exchanged the sorrows, the sufferings, the trials and care of this world, for the glories of heaven; a daily death for an eternal life.

There is a beautiful thought expressed by one of our oldest poets, which seems peculiarly suitable and appropriate when a good man or woman, ripe in years and rich in virtues, passes away from earth. Speaking of our misuse of language, he says:

We call here life.

Angels will live and know what 'tis to be,
Who all the nonsense of our language see,
Who speak things, and our words, their ill-drawn pictures scorn
When we, by a foolish figure say,
"Behold an old man dead," then they Speak properly and cry, "Behold a child is born."

I regret that I am unable to give utterance and pay a tribute in memory of our beloved sister, worthy of her exalted life and character. But I shall try and content myself by expressing in a few sincere and heartfelt words, the respect, esteem and admiration, felt by those who knew her. They were not confined to those of her religious faith alone, but shared alike by all classes, where honor, integrity, virtue and true piety are respected and venerated. No better evidence of the truth of this is needed than the assembled audience in this house today, through this very unelement weather, who have come to give utterance to their sorrow, and to her memory.

It is said that one touch of nature makes the whole world kin. So today we lay aside our cloak of prejudice, and put on the mantle of charity, the true robe of righteousness, required by the Master. Should we not all learn a lesson from this day, and in all cases deal as charitably with the living as with the dead? It was confederate soldiers who bore the body of General Grant to the grave; in life they opposed him, but in death they supported him. If our personal and religious animosities cease at the grave, should we not be more tolerant, considerate and charitable in our judgment while living? All of us must, sooner or later, claim from the living that tender recognition which we now bestow upon the dead; for our hearts,

Like muffled drums are beating
Funeral marches to the grave.

And to that bourn we are hastening with steady and rapid steps. Fortunately, indeed, shall we be, if, when we shall reach that bourn, we may be able to meet the Great Judge with a conscience void of offence toward God or man, as was that of our sister, whose loss we deplore today with profound grief. In her private life she exemplified the beautiful virtues of her religion. She was affable and kind, almost to a fault, carrying into her religious life none of the bitterness of secular hate which, I am sorry to say, too often characterizes those who think more of their own little society than they do of truth and toleration. Sr. Wibberly was possessed of great colloquial powers, and her mind was stored with pure thoughts and elevated ideas; the theme she most delighted to converse upon was the restored gospel and the plan of salvation, and when those lofty thoughts and expressions of our Savior were touched upon, and the fulfillment of the prophecies relating to the work of the Latter Days, her eyes would brighten, her countenance change, and her soul become elated. She was possessed of a good education and a sweet and charming language and expression that was calculated to fascinate all who were permitted to associate with her. She was much given to charity; not in the bestowal of alms to the poor but in that fuller and wider sense—in the kindness of her heart, and tolerance of her spirit towards all. We are told in Holy Writ that faith, hope and charity are the cardinal virtues, and that the greatest of these is charity. Not that charity that merely relieves suffering humanity, but that broader charity which judges leniently the motives and actions of others, which tells us to do and feel toward others as we would have them do and feel toward us—that sublime charity inculcated by our Savior, and so beautifully set forth by Paul in the 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians, as follows:

"Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal. And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing. And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing. Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. * * * And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity."

Let me here say that this sister possessed these cardinal virtues in a degree seldom possessed by mortals. Can we not, like her, believe others honest and conscientious though they may differ with us? Let us be patriotic if we will not be christian. In a word, can we not be charitable in our judgment of our fellowmen? Can we not give them a hearing before we judge them? Our Savior has said, "Judge righteous judgments." And again he said, "As I hear I judge and my judgments are just." Can we change His rule and be justified? Let us not forget that Human nature is but clay,

Truly blessed by charity.

She obeyed the apostolic injunction and lived in peace with all as far as laid in her power, always returning good for evil, and imbibing the spirit of the Master, walking in His footsteps and example, and endeavoring to transcribe His life in her own. She loved her husband, her children (one of whom has preceded her to the great beyond), her relatives, her neighbors, her church fellowship, and her enemies—to her faith, for she had no others—and in turn was loved by them. No wail, nor murmur, nor lament ever passed her lips or shook her lofty fortitude. With a faith unshaken in God, and ever true to the church of her choice, she only was unmoved by the change which she saw so near, and calm and serene she quietly waited for the curtains to be drawn aside which divide time from eternity.

When she felt the evening shadows coming on she expressed her will as to matters after her spirit should take its exit from the tenement of clay, a part of which will we are endeavoring to carry out today. When the night of death approached she gathered up in her mind the links of the past, and after taking a view of a well spent life and looking at many beautiful green spots in its journey, though not without many sorrows and afflictions, and by a faith that never faltered nor grew dim, she reunited them in that high world beyond the sun and beyond the stars. With deep emotion the thoughts of her loving heart tried to unite the loved ones of earth with the loved ones of heaven. The evening shadows deepened and the night of death has overtaken her and she has gone from her usefulness in earth to the higher realms of immortality. We shall see our dear sister no more with mortal eyes. A place, a home on earth is left vacant and many hearts are left sad, but our loss is heaven's gain, and a place long ago prepared for a noble character is now occupied over there. We will follow her; she cannot come to us, she will not return to earth till it is fitted for the final abode of the saints and the spirits of just men made perfect, when Jesus shall come in the clouds of heaven and all the saints shall come with Him; then she will again return to abide here forever. As long, however, as memory shall treasure up pure and lovely lives and noble actions; as long as private virtue, stainless and without a blemish, is revered, so long will her memory and her name be cherished by those who knew her and associated with her and partook of her hospitality as an example worthy the highest emulation. Monuments of marble may lift their stately heads toward heaven in honor of the noted characters of earthly fame, but she has a monument more precious to her memory and more valuable to the world, in her enviable disposition and the noble character of her life and works. Truly every page of history teaches the mournful truth that

The path of glory leads but to the grave.

In the busy harvest time of death in A. D. 1900 there was gathered into eternity no nobler spirit, no higher intelligence, no fairer soul, than that of our dear sister. Surely "death loves a shining mark, a signal blow." But If to live in the hearts of those she left behind, is not to die, then Annie Wibberly has only gone nearer the eternal light—has but crossed the low lands to dwell on the mountain top. But to us she sleeps and the sleep for us was all too soon.

I will close while in contemplation of such a life and in the presence of the bereavement of such a death by recalling the words of one who would fain have found out the great mystery of human life:

We are born, we laugh, we weep,
We live, we droop, we die;
Ah, wherefore do we laugh or weep?
Why do we live or die?
Who knows that secret deep?
Alas! Not I.

THE CHURCH OF CHRIST.

ELDER T. R. BOZEMAN.

My Dear Friend:—You, no doubt, have thought, ere this, upon the subject we discussed when at Weatherford some time ago. Finding a man who disputed your claim to belong to the genuine church of Jesus Christ, was, no doubt, somewhat of a surprise to you. Yet it seems to me that a man with a Bible in his hand, following the ways of the world as they flounder along, either of Catholic or Protestant faith, and especially that put forth as genuine by the Missionary Baptist or Christian faiths, must be blind to many of the very important positions accepted by the Saints of old. Did I not think well of you, in fact, admire you, this would never have been written, so I hope you will ponder over what I present.

If I was to describe a rainbow to a man who never discerned its colors, I might be able to convince him that one shade of color was all there was needed to make a bow; but if he afterward learned that it took several shades and colors to form the bow, and nothing short of this would make a bow, he would then know I was no better in the discerning of colors than he was, therefore, incompetent to describe the beauties of that which God sets in the cloud.

This little word "set" plays a very important part in our investigation. God "set," it still remains "set." Paul says God set in the church many gifts, blessings, officers and a priesthood. Ecclesiastes 3: 14 says, " whatsoever God doeth it shall be forever, nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken from it, and God doeth it that men might fear before him."

If what God does shall be forever, and He set in the church—as shown in 1 Corinthians 12: 28—gifts, apostles, prophets and blessings, then, beyond controversy, if you find His church it must show those as its component parts, like the rainbow its colors. No colors, no bow; no apostles and prophets, no gifts or healings, no church. God set the members in your body. No head, no man. No hands, nor feet, just a trunk. Is this God's church? The organization was splendid, lit up with the lamp of God's Spirit, and God did it.

My dear Mr. Bozeman, do you really believe the words of Jesus when he said (Luke 12: 41-48) that a steward, faithful and wise, would be appointed to take charge of the household (see Matt. 24: 45), mind you, before the coming of Christ. To set out to discover the household, I must look for a ruler, a faithful and wise one, who can receive from our heavenly Father instruction for the household. "Meat in due season." Beyond all hope of successful contradiction, the household was the kingdom of God, "the church." (Col. 1: 13). The gentiles were in the kingdom, then "translated," yet they were living men and women of Colosse. God was to set over His household a steward, faithful and true, filled with wisdom's spirit. Has the Protestant churches, or any of them, such a steward? If not, then your people are out of the contract for church recognition; that is, if there is any sense in the statement.

God agreed to have a head to His church, but you might say first, "True, but was not Jesus an apostle and high priest?" (See Heb. 3: 1). Yes. Well, think you, would the steward be anything less? If it took apostolic and priestly authority to save men nineteen hundred years ago, how can they now be saved short of it, or how can the church exist without them now?

In the days of Jesus they had the record—scriptures—and in it they were told of Melchisedec and his priesthood. Jesus, no doubt, read all about it, yet he did not essay to assume it until He was called of God to take it upon him. (See Hebrew 5: 5, and Ex. 28: 1). If Christ could not officiate for God until priesthood was conferred upon Him from heaven, don't you think there is a wonderful site of assumption by men uncalled today? Just think of it! the poor, honest, but deceived people, having trusted those men as guides. Generally the people willeth to do right, but being led by blind guides, swallowing whatever food is offered them in spiritual matters, they are led astray. The worst feature of it all is, both will fall into the ditch. I wish the guides only would tumble in and leave the rest on the bank, but not so, both suffer alike. Too bad isn't it, that Satan should have such a hold on the minds of men?

When the church was organized, God placed in it blessings, healings, gifts of the Spirit varied to suit each peculiar case or organism. My dear sir, how in reason's name can you have a church short of the organization God set in it? Apostles and prophets were needed in the New Testament church; when did God drop them out? Was the work of the ministry finished and Saints perfected? On matters of grave importance they must obtain the mind of God. (See Acts 15: 28). The Holy Ghost became a revealer then?

Take the doctrine of a sinner's repenting in Damascus. Here God missed the best opportunity ever offered to Him to speak peace and pardon to a sick soul, but He didn't. He absolutely failed out in the case of Saul of Tarsus. Why? Because the above doctrine was not of Him. If not, then both Catholic and Protestant have all gone out of the faith—departed from the faith, preaching another gospel." (2 John 9: 10, 11).

God had set prophets in the church, and one was in the city, so instead of peace and pardon being spoken, God calls upon His prophet, Go instruct Saul! for he is praying; announce to him his calling, as now I show you, is the instruction of the imperial Master of Ananias. Saul is ministered to by the prayer of faith, and the laying on of hands. (Acts 9: 17). The scales from the darkened eyes drop down and off. His spirit is cheered by the promise of God's Holy Spirit. See, it took a man holding the royal priesthood to minister this royal Spirit, by laying on of his hands. Saul's sins were not washed away yet. Acts 22: 16 reports that the messenger sent of God commanded him to arise and wash away his sins, calling on the name of the Lord.

Fourteen years later from the narrative of the above event, Paul and Barnabas are found with the Antioch Saints, a "church" was there, not destitute of prophets yet; here Barnabas and Paul received their second spiritual call in the ministry, to the apostleship this time; the first call was to the eldership. Please notice, if you have not before, that Barnabas was the first selected. Strange, wasn't it, if the ideas of men now are correct? Saul should surely have the lead, but he had not.

Prophets were in the Antioch church, and God set them in it (Eph. 4: 11). See some of the uses to which they were put in Acts 13: 1-4. Bishops, see 1 Timothy 3: 1. Elders, Acts 20: 17; overseers, 28th verse, made so by revelation, as in chapter 13. Prophets being in the Ephesian church, see Acts 19: 6. God is not walking in crooked paths, my dear sir; He called those overseers the same way. To call men today the gift of prophecy is needed in the church.

You may now say no church claims this but the Latter Day Saints. They are so vilely spoken against that we ask, Can any good thing come out of Nazareth, or can goodness be found with them? Do you know that some societies, who assume to surname themselves church, have a chair in their colleges to blacken the name of Latter Day Saint? His Satanic majesty is getting his work in well; he has filled the school books of our lovely land with falsehoods that are a sweet, delicate morsel to his followers, so you may rest assured the pharisees are not alone in saying he hath a "devil." John 8:52.

Mr. Bozeman, do you really believe your Bible? Read, that before Christ shall come, God will send an angel "holy" with the gospel (Rev. 14:6). Read it; did God, think you, say this to the downhearted, castaway, banished John, to cheer him, but also to deceive him, for God had no intention to send an angel with the gospel? Poor John needed comfort; banished, and when saw the church go into the wilderness; heartbroken and sad he asks, How long? 1260 years is the answer. No doubt the question was asked, How is it to return out of the wilderness? By the authority of an angel, is the answer, and God did not lie to John either. So the teaching of the Baptist church is erroneous, or God lied to John. I prefer to believe that God does not walk in crooked paths.

If this is a revelation, then you and I shall profit by it, but if it is of no value, and no one thinks anything about it, except the Saints, Why do they? Because the angel has come, and brought the church out of the wilderness, never more to be lost as in days of old. God has commissioned men today, like He always did; instructed them how to organize, by setting first the steward over the church, then placing apostles in it, for ministerial work among all nations; "presidents," a high priesthood, to preside and govern in organized fields. Seventy elders and other seventies also, to go to the apostolic bidding, where the apostles cannot go, and in such cases the ministrations of any of the seventy is equal to that of the one sending him. Elders to preside, preach and oversee; priests to minister as ordained overseers, teachers and deacons in their order. The bishopric is to have charge of temporal affairs of the church, and preachers of spiritual things also.

This gospel, as you will readily notice, was to be preached to every nation, kindred, tongue and people, so you see there was a time to come when there would be a famine for the Word of the Lord. After the church went into the wilderness, a makeshift was constructed, arrogant, proud, and on a scarlet beast. This gospel the angel of God brings must be preached for a witness; no nation, people or tongue had the royal priesthood at that time, this was caught up to God and His throne, when the church went into apostasy; if the church is restored, this priesthood must also be restored;—no priesthood, no church—this was restored by the angel.

I don't believe it, men may say; that does not alter the fact that God said He would send the angel with the gospel. If, however, you don't believe He has come, do you believe He will come? God said He would. When the angel comes will you be any more willing to believe it than you are now.

The church has all the members in it again today (the Reorganized church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, I mean) as of old, God ministering to her needs as in days gone by. Elder Bozeman, for your soul and body's sake, look into this great work without prejudice, for ah! what will not prejudice and pride obstruct? Faction will hide many miscarriages. Our religion, my dear sir, rests upon gentleness and persuasion, God and Christ recognizing the church, blessing her with the gifts of His Spirit. Don't eat any more husks; no need for it.

Yours in love,
J. A. ROHNSON.
INDEPENDENCE, MO., Feb. 2.

Cultivating The Habit of Promptness.

Elizabeth Harrison, in one of her talks to mothers on child culture, relates the following incident:

A friend came to me and said, "What shall I do with my Willie? He dallies so about everything that he has to. If I send him up-stairs after my thimble or thread, it may be a half hour or even an hour before he returns. I have scolded him and scolded him, but it seems to do no good."

"By scolding," I replied, "you have emphasized the fault you wished to cure, and have separated yourself from your boy. Now try to emphasize the opposite virtue—promptness—by praising him for it when you have the opportunity."

"Ah, there's no use in talking of that," she answered, "he is never prompt."

"Then," said I, "if he is never so voluntarily, make an occasion. Ask him to go to the kitchen, or some other part of the house on an errand for you; tell him that you will count while he is gone. When he gets back, commend him for having returned more quickly than usual. At dinner tell his father, as if it were a fine bit of news. This will make it a meritorious achievement in your son's eyes."

The next week she came to me with her face radiant and said: "I have been counting, and Willie has been trotting ever since last week." I laughed and told her that her mother-wit would soon have to hunt up some new device.

Mothers, so cultivate the rational element in yourselves, that you can see that every fault in your child is simply the lack of some virtue. In the inner chamber of your minds study your children, confess their faults to yourselves, not to your neighbors, and ask what is lacking that these defects exist. Like Nehemiah of old, build up the wall where it is weakest; if your child is selfish, it is selfishness that needs cultivation; if he is untruthful, it is accuracy that is lacking; perhaps he is tyrannical to the younger brother or sister, it is the element of nurture or tenderness which should be developed. Build up the positive side of your child's nature, and the negative side will not need to be unbuilt.—W. M. in (St. Louis) Word and Works for March.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."
MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development, that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

- ADVISORY COMMITTEE.
Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 437, Independence, Mo.
Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
Mrs. Lucena Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
Mrs. Callie E. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 212 North Compton Ave. St. Louis, Missouri.

Building Up of Happy Homes.

ALICE R. CONSON.
[CONCLUDED].

To be unequally yoked together is to be miserable; one pulls this way and the other that, the yoke becomes heavy and galling; instead of mutual helpfulness and true companionship, arises a sense of injury on the part of each, and a longing for freedom, which can only be obtained by the breaking of the yoke. Then neither is really free; the broken yoke will hang, part on one neck, part the other, a constant reminder of the folly of the past, and an ever present clog to future peace, happiness and usefulness.

"Search the Scriptures." In them may be found directions for every turn in life's journey. How many times you will come to cross roads, yes, and often where many ways diverge, and the wrong roads are too often the most alluring, while false guides will say, "take this road, or take that." Oh, then how valuable beyond words, is the Guide Book, turn then to its pages and ask for a light to be sent, and for the guide to show you the way and help you to understand the chart and its waymarks. Nor need you ever seek in vain, for the Spirit will guide into all truth all who submit themselves to His teachings.

Dear girls, let it be a white life for both, the same standard of morality for yourself and your gentlemen friends. Though by no means lover yours to their level, if so be that their standard is not so high as your own. Plant this beacon firm, and keep it burning brightly, and bring all your gentleman friends into its clear light. It will soon expose the spots, and when you see them, point fearlessly to them, and say, "You don't come up to my standard," and may hope by its clear searching rays he may be led to see the fulness too.

I know a young lady who had a gentleman friend, who, through one of her little brothers, discovered that he had been telling vulgar stories, bordering closely on the obscene, but she brought him up into the light of this beacon ray the foul stain it left on his otherwise good character. "Miss A," he said, "I will never tell another vulgar story. I thank you." The same young man told me afterwards, "if all young ladies were as brave as Miss A, it would be a good thing for the young men. I had never given it a thought, but she showed me plainly, and by the Scriptures too, that it was as bad or worse than swearing." And "I'll never tell a rough story again." And through her influence he gave up the use of tobacco, and yet they were only friends and neighbors. So a pure girl's influence may be very great, if she stands firm for the right. Yield in the least, and your influence is weakened, never to be so strong again.

"Get wisdom, and with all thy getting get understanding." Read good books only, shun flashy, sensational stories; read but few novels, and those only of the best writers, whose aim is to edify and uplift mankind; and not those, who, for the money there is in it, write only to pander to the corrupt and vitiated taste of the excitement-seeking throng; or to appeal to the baser passions of the lewd and amorous. Pure, clean, uplifting fiction has its proper place on our book shelves, but not the first place. It should occupy the same place in our mental bill of fare that the delicate cakes, creams and custards do to our physical food; good for a pleasant change, and to keep the appetite in tone, but not to be depended on for a steady diet, to build up muscle, nerve, bone, and sinew. Fiction, like the pleasant caller, tends to divert the mind from the heavier cares and duties, and thus affords a needed rest. But as we do not want so many callers, or have them stay so long as to leave us no time for our home duties and companions, so we should not let fiction keep us from our everyday duties and companions; and our daily companions of the book shelves should be, first, the words of God and of His servants; history, biography, travels, works of science, etc., and when the mind is wearied, a little chat with a pleasant author of fiction will be a pleasant and refreshing change.

Finally, whatsoever things are lovely and of good report, think on these things. Let your thoughts be pure; as we think in our heart so are we. If by chance a derogatory remark or a slanderous tale concerning another, reaches your ear, pay no heed; nine times out of ten it will prove to be only the bubbling over of a mind full of impurities, and has no more foundation than the froth from a boiling pot. Give evil and impure thoughts no lodging room

"INCURABLE" HEART DISEASE SOON CURED.

BY THE GREAT SPECIALIST IN TREATING WEAK AND DISEASED HEARTS, FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., WHO WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS COMPLETE TREATMENT FREE TO ANY AFFLICTED READER.

To demonstrate the unusual curative powers of his new and complete special treatment for heart disease, short breath, pain in the side, oppression in the chest, irregular pulse, palpitation, smothering spells, pulling of the ankles or dropsy, Dr. Miles will send, free, to every afflicted person, two dollars and a half worth of his new treatment.

It is the result of twenty-five years of careful study, extensive research, and remarkable success in treating the various ailments of the heart, stomach and nerves, which so often complicate each case. So astonishing are the results of his complete special treatment that he does not hesitate to offer it free to all patients a trial free.

Certainly nothing so generous—more philanthropic. Few physicians have such confidence in their remedies. And there is no reason why every afflicted person should not avail themselves of this exceedingly liberal offer, as they may never have another such opportunity. No death comes more suddenly than that from heart disease.

Mrs. Frank Smith, of Chicago, was cured of heart dropsy, after five leading physicians had given her up, and Mr. Julius Keister after ten.

A thousand references to, and testimonials from, Bishops, Clergymen, Bankers, Farmers, and their wives, will be sent free on request. These include many who have been cured after from five to twenty physicians and professors had pronounced them "incurable."

Send at once to Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., 201 to 209 State St., Chicago, Ill., for free treatment before it is too late, and please mention this paper.

in the chambers of your mind, lest they, like vermin, multiply and overrun and defoul its most secret recesses. "If there be any virtue, if there be any praise, think pure things."

I am afraid Sr. Curtis will not invite me to come again as I have stayed so long this time, so I will bid the dear girls farewell, and may they be true Daughters of Zion indeed, since Zion is the pure in heart.

LIFE IS MADE UP OF BROKEN DREAMS.

I can hardly imagine a wife who has lived a lifetime of married life not going back in memory over the way in which that life has been lived. Life is made up of broken dreams, all meaning something better than the dream. I think it is about time for us to get at the root of things. What are we here for? Is it to have the dream of marriage realized, to find perfection in the human being? We make a mistake in expecting perfection along any human line. Where would the making of character come in? I know very little indeed of the doctrines of Swedenborg, but one idea of his is certainly helpful. He believed that all the discipline of married life might be a preparation for the mating of souls—for all were to have their mates in some world—and that it might take all the discipline that marriage brings to perfect them for the perfect marriage ahead.—Margaret Botome in Ladies' Home Journal.

FOR SALE.
$600 buys a five room house with cellar, cistern, stable; also several young fruit trees, and shrubbery, on lot 50x151 rest, two blocks from Latter Day Saints' church. $200 cash; balance on easy terms. Contract brought up in full. Address
A. V. TERRY,
Independence, Mo.

The Young Man's Chances Today.

"A young man of capacity, industry and integrity has a field for individual effort such as has never before existed in this country, writes Edward Bok of 'The Times and the Young Man,' in the March Ladies' Home Journal. "And success is neither harder nor easier than it ever was. Success never yet came to the lag-gard, and it never will. Let a young man be capable; have enter-prise, be willing to work, and carry himself like a man, and he goes where he will. His success depends upon himself. No times, no conditions, no combinations of capital can stop a young man who has a determination to honor-ably succeed, and who is will-ing to work according to the very utmost of his capacity and sinews of strength. The real trouble is that the average young man won't work. He has gotten the insane notion into his head that success comes by luck; that men are made by opportunities which either come to them or are thrust upon them. And he waits for luck or a chance to come along and find him. In-stead of taking a sane view of conditions and seeing with a clear mind that as trade widens opportunities increase, he takes the mistaken view that the rich are getting richer, and the poor poorer. These are the condi-tions of mind and life which are keeping thousands of young men down, and will keep them down. The times are all right. It is the young man who finds fault with them who is not."

If ever there were a time when we needed to think of what we can have without money, it is now. We think so much about money. We talk so much about money. We say we can do nothing without money. That is not so. We can be saints without money; we can have peace of conscience, peace with God, joy in God, we can have heaven without money.—Margaret Bot-tome in the February Ladies' Home Journal.

Group Picture.

To the High Priests, Greeting:—Group picture completed, and will be on sale at Independence, at the General Con-ference. Photographs loaned me have been returned. If any fall to receive their copy, please let me know at once.

In bonds, ROBT. M. ELVIN.

To Conference Visitors.

Bro. C. G. Gould will haul trunks to and from points inside city limits for 35 cents round trip. Valises, etc., in proportion. Enquire for him of Reception Committee at train.

Millinery Opening.

Friday and Saturday, March 28th and 29th. Ladies are invited to at-tend.

Mrs. F. KELLER.

For Sale or Exchange.

Equity nice residence. What have you to offer? Address Box 243, Independence, Missouri.

FOR SALE.

Five room house, lot 50x150. Barn good, with several fruit and shade trees. Also four and one-third acres of good garden land three miles out on a good rock road. Price each $500-50; both $1,000. J. Tankard, 319 S. Grand Avenue, Independence, Mis-souri.

CANCER A CURABLE DIS-EASE.

Many people have an idea that cancer is incurable, but we have over 150 original and recent tes-timonials of cures of actual can-cer, the sufferers having taken 8 to 24 bottles of the famous B. B. B. (Botanic Cure Balm) which is meant to cure old obstinate blood and skin troubles. B. B. B. kills the cancer poison in the blood and the sores quickly heal. No cutting required. Among others cured was Mrs. M. L. Adams, of Fredonia, Alabama. Had an eating cancer, the bones of her nose and upper part of her mouth entirely eaten out. Could only eat strained soup, yet the cancer healed perfectly by taking 14 bottles of B. B. B. Allan Grant, Sparta, Georgia, had painful sore on lip called epithelial cancer, also much pains in bones and weakness in back; 10 bottles of B. B. B. healed the sore and gave him strength, and made his blood pure and rich. B. B. B. heals ulcers, scrofula, eczema, cancer in any form, old sores, etc. Druggists or by express pre-paid, $1.00. A trial treatment of B. B. B. free by writing Blood Balm Co., 86 Mitchell St., Atlan-ta, Georgia. Describe trouble and free medical advice given. Medicine sent at once prepaid.

BELGIAN HARES.

Have some nice young Belgian Hares for sale at reasonable prices. Call and see them when you come to conference, or ad-dress

J. W. LUFF, Independence, Mo.

ALL who contemplate coming to General Conference should send and get my pamphlet or description of Jackson county. While it contains but twenty pages you will obtain a great deal of information that you otherwise might not get. I have been in the real estate busi-ness here for about fifteen years and can furnish the very best of reference if necessary.

Very respectfully, W. S. LOAR.

FOR SALE.

Lot 58x185, about six blocks from Saints' church, three blocks from Kansas City and Independence Elec-tric Line, and about five blocks from public school; three room cottage and summer kitchen, good cellar cemented and drained, never falling well, on back porch. Good barn, wood-shed, buggy shed, chicken coop and pen. Plenty of small fruit for family use. Address GEO. A. GOULD, Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE.

On North Main Street, Independ-ence, Mo., three-fourths of a mile from the Square. Lot 14 acres, front-ing three streets; four roomed house, good barn, carriage house, workshop, hay chamber, three-stalled cow house separate. Full of large and small fruits, in fine bearing condition; good asparagus bed; fine well with never failing spring; $1,250. Apply to Mrs. E. A. STEVENS, 108 Crysler Ave., Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE.

Eight room house, lot 80x150 feet, barn, cistern, city water, fruit, flow-ers and shrubbery, 1110 West Elm. About two blocks from Saints' church. Mrs. L. HUGHES, Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE.

A fine stone front residence one mile east of court house, Independence, Missouri, on Macadam road. Ten rooms, bath room and furnace; fifteen acres of ground, large barn, tennis house, stone spring house, etc. Young orchard and vineyard. Ad-dress Box 90, Independence, Mo.

HAVE YOU PILES OR HEM-ORRHOIDS?

I cure them without knife, caustic, or loss of a drop of blood. Cases of twenty-eight years standing cured as easily as acute cases. John L. Lobb, a government cattle inspector, at stock yards, Kansas City, was afflicted for twenty-eight years, was cured in from three to five days. Why not, while attending conference, be cured of your piles, and go back home a new man or woman? I refer, by permission, to Col. J. W. Mercer, vice president of First National Bank, or Henry Rummel, deputy sheriff; I could refer to scores of both men and women as I cured one hundred and forty-two within last two years.

Dr. S. R. BERG. Box 572, INDEPENDENCE, MO.

A Bargain $600 will buy a six room house and over 3 acres choice land at Lamoni if taken soon. One-half cash. Address with return stamp, Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Have You Seen "LAMONI PULPITS" in the INDEPENDENT PATRIOT?

A synopsis of one sermon a week from the Saints' pulpit in Lamoni, appears in the Patriot. Subscription one dollar per year. Address, THE PATRIOT, Lamoni, Iowa. A postal card brings a sample copy.

ALL SECRET SOCIETIES THE TRUE CHURCH OF THE DEVIL.

BY GEROME E. PAGE, Price 5 Cents. Agents Wanted in Every Town. Address G. B. Page, Independence, Mo.

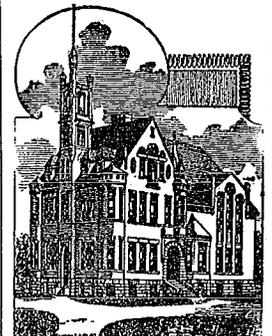

BIG INDUCEMENTS

Having removed our Guilford stock to Barnard, Missouri, and having just received a large line of BRAN NEW UP-TO DATE Clothing, Dry Goods, Shoes and Hats, we are better prepared to supply the demands of our large and increasing trade, than ever before.

We have purchased a lot of Prince Albert and Clerical Cut Garments from the American Tailors which they had left on their hands. We have bought these cheap and CAN SAVE YOU MONEY. 20 per cent off regular price to the ministry.

NATIONAL MERCANTILE CO. G. J. Whitehead & Co., Proprietors, BARNARD, MO.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

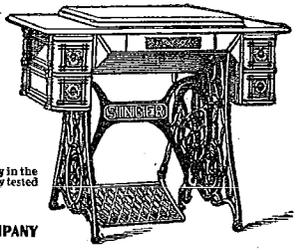

An institution of learning under the auspices of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, located at Lamoni, Iowa. For catalogue, or other information, write to I. W. Allender, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898. Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposit of... Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check, on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to V. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of same a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large deposit from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered. List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Resseguie, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Blair.

A Singer Sewing Machine

THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, earning more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible. THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch. BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world, where every machine is carefully tested on practical stitching.

Sold only by THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 190-3.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle

The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

20 Acres

of as nice, smooth land as you ever saw. A short walk from L. D. S. church and Public School in Lamoni. Worth $2,000; $1,500 will buy it now, on easy terms. If inter-ested write the owner, D. F. NICHOLSON, Lamoni, Iowa.

SAINTS AND FRIENDS:—Remember that I am still in the mail order clothing business. For years I have served you and my reputation speaks for it-self. Send me your order or write for my price list. I also have two good organs for sale cheap. Address E. T. ATWELL, Cumorah, Mo.

UWANTOQUIT

using tobacco. "QUIT-TO-BAO" makes it easy to stop using it. Three boxes, postpaid, only $1.50 with POSITIVE GUARANTEE to cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. Address, (Bro. B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Book-keeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Tele-graphy, English Branches. Twenty Rooms. Six-teen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue. FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to Miss M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Mo. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

CANCER CURED WITH SOOTHING BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Ovarian, Piles, Fistula, Ulcera, Eczema and all Skin and Wound Diseases. Dr. Bye, Cor. 9th and Broadway, KANSAS CITY, MO.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT This Regular $5.00 Waterproof MACKINTOSH for $2.75. Send no money. Cut this ad out and send to us. State your height, weight, state number of inches around your chest, over vest, under coat, close under arms and around your waist, and by express O. O. D., subject to ex-amine your measurements. We will represent the most wonderful waterproof, from $1.00 up, and equal to any $5.00 coat on the market. Buy direct from our ap-proximate manufacturers' price $2.75 and save $2.25. THIS MACKINTOSH is the latest and best in the world. It is made of heavy waterproof, tan color, guaranteed to keep you dry in any rain or snow, and is equal to any $5.00 coat on the market. Buy direct from our ap-proximate manufacturers' price $2.75 and save $2.25. H. S. DILLER & CO., 308 Dearborn St., Chicago.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

Table with columns for Missouri Pacific—Main Line Depot, Trains West, Trains East, and Liberty Street Depot. Lists train numbers, destinations, and times.

Table for Liberty Street Depot, Trains West, Trains East, and Chicago & Alton. Lists train numbers, destinations, and times.

CHICAGO & ALTON.

Table for Chicago & Alton, East Bound, West Bound. Lists train numbers, destinations, and times.

Nearing The End.

I feel the time is nearing,
By changes not a few,
When loving ones appearing,
Will note me leaving you.
To you long purchased mansion,
Where Saviors are going, and gone,
Receiving each our portion,
Through Christ that Holy One.

These locks are whiter getting,
The nerve unsteady now,
The sun of life near setting,
O'er you west hilly brow.
My limbs, I find, are falt'ring,
In honest toil and tread;
So oft demand a halting,
As if hunched or dead.

The optic nerve much weaker,
A dark, obscuring dim,
Old Father Time my speaker,
Compelled to follow him,
And thus o'er ship-rows peering,
Christ's gospel lights in hand,
I find Time's barge is nearing
Fair Eden's sunny strand.

I love my fellow mortal,
And pray that all may win
Alike that life pearl portal,
And safely enter in—
Where all is bliss eternal
For those in truth sincere,
Who walk her path supernal,
In sins polluted sphere.

—JOHN D. JONES (age 69).

KEWANEE, Ill.

A ROUND UP.

Perhaps by the time you are permitted to read this, your trunk or grip will be packed for the trip to General Conference, and let me drop the hint, that if you have any books for Graceland LIBRARY take them with you, and I will see to the transportation to Lamoni. Likewise, please remember OUR MUSEUM; this has almost doubled during the present year, but we will still make room for more. And those who are willing to aid in the growth of our HERBARIUM can also bring their contributions, or they may correspond with Prof. Jacob P. Anderson, Lamoni, Iowa.

In this round up for March we would say, we will do our level best to care for either gold, or silver, or paper money, that you shall either send to my home address, or bring with you to the Conference for Graceland College.

Whether I or some one else shall keep up this College issue for the ensuing year, please do not forget this church institution of education.

As an Israelite faithful to his appointment, I am your dutiful servant.

ROBT. M. ELVIN,
LAMONI, IOWA, Box 224.

Reduced Rates to General Conference.

TRUNK LINE ASSOCIATION.

The Trunk Line Association has also granted a rate of one and one-third fare round trip, certificate plan, to General Conference, etc., Independence, Missouri. Trunk Line territory is "from Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Dunkirk and Salamanca, N. Y.; Erie and Pittsburg, Pa.; Bellaire, O.; Wheeling, Parkersburg and Huntington, W. Va., and points east thereof, except in New England."

Going tickets may be purchased April 2d to 7th. On this Association "Certificates are not kept at all stations. . . . In such case delegates should purchase local ticket to station where certificates are kept and there obtain through ticket and certificate to place of meeting."

List of roads making the reduction: B. & O. (Parkersburg, Bellaire, and Wheeling, and east thereof); Buffalo & Susquehanna; Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg; Central of New Jersey; Chesapeake & Ohio (Huntington, W. Va., and east thereof); Chesapeake Steamship Co.; Cumberland Valley; Delaware & Hudson; Delaware, Lackawanna & Western; Erie (Buffalo, Dunkirk, Salamanca, and east thereof); Fonda, Johnstown & Gloversville; Jamestown & Chautauqua; Lehigh Valley; New York Central & Hudson River; Malo Line & Branches, including R. W. & O., Adirondack, and Penna. Divisions, but not including stations on the Harlem and Putnam Divisions, or St. L. & A. Ry.; New York, Ontario & Western; New York, Phila. & Norfolk; Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co.; Pennsylvania, including Buffalo and Allegheny Valley Division (formerly W. N. Y. & P. and Allegheny Valley Rys.); Northern Central; Phila. & Erie; Phila., Wilmington & Balt.; Washington Southern; West Jersey, & Seashore; Phila. & Reading; West Shore.

R. S. SALYARDS,
Church Secretary.
LAMONI, IOWA, March 14, 1901.

Notice to First Seventy.

Should any of the First Seventy fail to receive the blanks mailed them by the secretary of the quorum, if they will notify him, giving full address, he will send others. One blank is for the General Conference, the other for the quorum. They should be filled out and mailed at your earliest convenience to the secretary, R. S. Salyards, Lamoni, Iowa.

Please remember ten cents for postage and printing expenses. If you have any items of general interest send them along for the benefit of the church historian.

DUNCAN CAMPBELL,
Pres. First Seventy.
PLEASANTON, IOWA, March 11.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

The Southern Nebraska district met in conference at Wilber, December 30 and 31, 1900, with district president J. W. Waldsmith in charge, Robert White secretary pro tem. Bro. E. Robertson and W. M. Self did the preaching; one social meeting.

The following named brethren reported: Of the Quorum of Twelve, James Cahall; high priests, J. W. Waldsmith; seventy, C. H. Porter; elders, W. M. Self, A. J. Myers, C. E. Blodgett, W. Savage; priests, E. Robertson, J. F. Lippincott, S. Broililar; teacher, John Hollenbeck.

Branches reported: Nebraska City, Blue River, Shelton, Hebron and Elmwood; total membership 478; total gain 5, total loss 5.

The following named were sustained and elected as district officers: President and bishop's agent, J. W. Waldsmith; secretary, E. D. Briggs; assistant secretary, J. S. Myer.

The following named were elected as delegates to General Conference: J. W. Waldsmith, C. H. Porter, H. E. Christy and wife, E. Robertson, W. M. Self, W. Savage and wife, M. H. Forscutt, S. Broililar and wife, J. B. Gouldsmith, R. O. Self, J. F. Lippincott, H. W. Belleville.

It was resolved that this conference is in harmony with the missionary line of the district. Adjourned to meet at Nebraska City, time subject to call of the president.

E. D. BRIGGS, Dist. Sec.

March 1901.

The Northeastern Missouri district conference convened at Bevier, Missouri, February 9, 1901, High Priest J. A. Tanner in the chair, assisted by Apostle I. N. White; Geo. A. Tryon secretary; D. L. Morgan assistant.

Branch reports: Bevier 214, Higbee 91, Pollock 31 and Salt River 31.

Ministry reports: High Priest J. A. Tanner; elders, Wm. E. Summerfield, J. F. Petre, F. J. Chaburn, F. T. Mussell, R. R. Jones, Wm. Chapman, E. Palfrey, William Vaughn, J. T. Williams; priests, D. L. Morgan, Wm. Kelso, Robt. Grieve, Robt. Thrutchley, F. M. Burch; teachers, A. G. Young, E. E. Petre, H. W. Gipson.

Bishop's agent, J. T. Williams, reported: Received since last conference $625.51; on hand last report, $16.55; disbursements, $26.39; due church, $112.67.

Treasurer's report: Balance last report, $1.48; receipts, $13.76; expenditures, $12.85; balance, $5.39.

Bills of expense were allowed; of president, $1.40, and secretary, $1.47. Delegates to General Conference were chosen: F. T. Mussell, F. J.

Chaburn, J. A. Tanner, D. L. Morgan, Sr. Nydia Thomas, J. T. Williams, Sr. Annie Williams, Wm. Summerfield, Geo. A. Tryon, Srs. Louise Palfrey and Edith Palfrey, I. N. White, Sr. Ellen Davis, Wm. Vaughn, Sr. Carrie Richards.

Report of chairman of tent committee, E. Palfrey, was referred to a committee of J. N. White, J. A. Tanner, F. J. Chaburn and Wm. Summerfield. By recommendation of their report it was adopted.

Time and place of next conference was left in the hands of the district president.

Geo. A. TRYON, Sec.

Conference of the Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, district convened at Wheeling, West Virginia, March 2, 1901, at 2 p. m., Elders G. T. Griffiths and J. F. McDowell presiding; E. E. Omohundro and E. H. Thomas secretaries; F. G. Pitt chorister.

Branch reports: Pittsburg 161; Wheeling 158; Fayette City 68; Fairview 50; Beaver Falls 15; Banning no report. Total membership of the district 475.

Ministry reporting: J. F. McDowell, F. G. Pitt, L. D. Ullom (baptized 1), O. J. Tary (baptized 1), W. H. Forbes (baptized 1), C. E. Miller, Joseph Maxon, Jacob Reese, James Craig, Robert Perrie, Rees Jenkins, Priests, Louis A. Serig, W. W. Dodge, J. F. A. Smith, Samuel H. Gaskill, Thos. D. Gaskill, W. E. Rush (baptized 6), E. H. Thomas, Teachers, H. L. Benner, Jasper Dobbs, T. S. Hadfield, A. M. Thomas, Deacons, Joseph Ebeling and E. E. Omohundro.

J. F. McDowell and O. J. Tary were appointed a press committee. Bro. E. G. Pitt was unanimously chosen president of the district, with Bro. James Craig as associate president. The secretary, and Bishop's Agent L. D. Ullom, were sustained.

The following were chosen delegates to General Conference: G. T. Griffiths, J. F. McDowell, F. G. Pitt, James Craig, L. D. Ullom, F. J. Ebeling, T. Hougas, and Srs. Mollie Brewster, David Lewis, Nannie Smith and F. G. Pitt.

Resolved, That we hereby petition the First Presidency of the church to assign Gomer T. Griffiths to this mission, if wisdom should so direct.

Resolved, That this conference appoint a committee to confer and cooperate with the Kirtland district officials in their endeavor to have the General Conference held at Kirtland in the year 1902.

The following were appointed on the above committee: F. G. Pitt, Jas. Craig and O. J. Tary. Bro. E. S. Fairley, C. E. Miller and O. L. Martin were appointed to audit the bishop's agent's report. Committee found report incomplete and recommended the following, which was adopted and committee discharged:

Resolved, That the bishop's agent's report date 30 days previous to convening of conference and that the district president be authorized to appoint a committee to audit the books prior to convening of conference. Bro. O. L. Martin, O. J. Tary and Louis Serig were appointed a committee to audit the bishop's agent's books.

A vote of thanks was given to Bro. McDowell for his services as district president. Social service and sacrament Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Preaching by Elders Thos. A. Hougas and F. G. Pitt.

The conference was held in conjunction with the Sunday School convention. The Spirit of God met with us. A joyful and profitable session resulted. The young son of Bro. O. L. Martin was baptized during the conference, also the young son of Bro. J. F. A. Smith.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Wheeling Saints for their kind hospitality. Adjourned to Fayette City, Pennsylvania, at the call of district president.

E. E. OMOHUNDRO, Dist. Sec.
435 Sixth Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

Conference of the Northeastern Illinois district convened at Sandwich, Illinois, February 2, 1901. Bro. J. Midgorden, vice president of the district, was chosen to preside; Bro. H.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder

Each time the United States Government has officially tested the baking powders the report has shown Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder of superlative leavening strength, free from alum, absolutely pure and wholesome.

This is gratifying, for Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is depended upon by millions of people to raise their daily bread.

NOTE.—These Government inquiries also developed the fact that there are many mixtures upon the market made in imitation of baking powder, but containing alum or other caustic acid whose use in food is dangerous.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
CHICAGO.

BORN.

Rotism—At Denver, Colorado, December 28, 1900, to Bro. John B. and Sr. Belle Roush, a son; blessed March 10, 1901, by Elders E. F. Stupe and J. B. Roush, and named Claude Elmon.

DIED.

One hundred words free. One-cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.

SCHANTON.—At Millersburg, Illinois, February 17, 1901, Opal Ahmra, daughter of Mr. Jesse and Esther Scranton. Aged five months and four days, she was born September 13, 1900, blessed about October 13, 1900. Funeral services at Saints' chapel; sermon by Elder I. B. Laflue.

THIN HAIR

Lots of people have thin hair. Perhaps their parents had thin hair; perhaps their children have thin hair. But this does not make it necessary for them to have thin hair.

One thing you may rely upon—

AYER'S Hair Vigor

makes the hair healthy and vigorous; makes it grow thick and long. It cures dandruff also.

It always restores color to gray hair,—all the dark, rich color of early life. There is no longer need of your looking old before your time.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

"As a remedy for restoring color to the hair, I believe Ayer's Hair Vigor has no equal. I have always given it my perfect satisfaction in every way."

Mrs. A. M. Sargent,
Aug. 18, 1888. Hammondsport, N.Y.

Write the Doctor.

He will send you a book on The Hair and Scalp free, upon request, if you do not obtain all the benefits you expect from the use of the Vigor write the Doctor about it.

Address: DR. J. C. AYER,
Lowell, Mass.

J. F. KEIR, Sec.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 1901.

NUMBER 13.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box 2, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelopes and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are entirely lost, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks. Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

FASTING.

The sacrifice of fasting, or abstinence from food for a time, together with prayer and supplication as an offering unto the Lord, has been observed by God's people from a very early period of their history. While the first account given in the Bible where this offering was made, is recorded in 2 Samuel 12: 16-23, when King David was pleading with the Lord for the life of one of his sons, it is not an improbable supposition that it was observed almost from the time when men first began offering sacrifices unto the Lord. At all events, it was prominently connected with the service of the Israelites, as these quotations show:

Then all the children of Israel, and all the people, went up, and came unto the house of God, and wept, and sat there before the Lord, and FASTED that day until even, and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings unto the Lord.—Judges 20: 26.

And they gathered together to Mizpah, and drew water, and poured it out before the Lord, and FASTED on that day, and said there, We have sinned against the Lord.—1 Sam. 7: 6.

Then I proclaimed a FAST there, at the river of Abava, that we might afflict ourselves before our God, to seek of him a right way for us, and for our little ones, and for all our substance. For I was ashamed to require of the king a band of soldiers and horsemen to help us against the enemy in the way: because we had spoken unto the king saying, The hand of our God is upon all them for good that seek him; but his power and his wrath is against all them that forsake him. So we FASTED, and besought our God for this; and he was entreated of us.—Ezra 8: 21-23.

And it came to pass, when I heard these words, that I sat down and wept, and mourned certain days; and fasted, and prayed before the God of heaven.—Neh. 1: 4.

When Queen Esther took her life in her hands and appeared, unbidden, before King Ahasuerus to plead for the reversing of the decree written by the wicked

Haman for the destruction of the Jews in all the country controlled by the king, because Mordecai, a Jew, would not do obeisance to her greatness, she sent word to her uncle, Mordecai:

Go, gather all the Jews that are in Shushan, and FAST ye for me, and neither eat nor drink three days, night or day: I and my maidens will fast likewise; and so will I go in unto the king, which is not according to the law.—Esther 4: 16.

Five centuries before the coming of Christ, the people of Israel observed regular set times for fasting; Zechariah the prophet records in chapter 7, verse 5, that he was commanded by the Lord to say:

Speak unto all the people of the land, and to the priests, saying, When ye FASTED and mourned in the fifth and seventh month, even those seventy years, did ye at all fast unto me, even ye?

Daniel and Joel both speak of its observance, but these passages will be sufficient to indicate how well established this sacrifice or offering was in the Mosaic dispensation. And now turning to the New Testament it will be seen that our Savior sanctioned its continuance under the re-establishing of the gospel order existing before the law of Moses was "added," because of transgression, until "Shiloh come."

Moreover, when ye fast, be not as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance: for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. * * * But thou, when thou fastest, anoint thy head, and wash thy face [be natural in your habits]; that thou appear not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly.—Matt. 6: 16-18.

When John's disciples made the inquiry of the Savior as to why His disciples did not fast, calling his attention to the fact that both they and the Pharisees "fast often," He intimated that while He was with them it was not necessary for His disciples to observe this duty as His questioners were doing; He made intercession to the Father for them; but that when He departed from them, "then shall they fast in those days." (See Luke 5: 33-35; Mark 2: 18-20; Matt. 9: 14).

Fasting is a means by which power with God is secured. Of course it must be associated with a righteous life, a manifest willingness to walk with God in keeping His commandments. On one occasion the apostles were astonished, and doubtless humiliated and chagrined, to find that notwithstanding the express commission of the Lord Jesus, "Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy" (Luke 10: 19), they were powerless to cast the evil spirit out of the child which afflicted him with, what probably is now termed epileptic fits. It was no difficult to the Savior, however, who had prepared Himself for every work by His "fasting forty days and forty nights in the wilderness, when He communed with God" (Matt. 4); and when the disciples sought for the explanation for their lack of power, He instructed them that "this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting" (Matt. 17: 21); that is, as we understand it, the power over that kind of a spirit, or to meet every devilish influence, could only be obtained by fast and prayer. Not that fasting must be observed for each particular case—for the Savior did not stop to fast before casting the devil out of the child—but that His servants should seek by fasting and prayer and consecration of life, to possess the power, as He possessed it, over all evil and unclean spirits, that when any emergency arose, they should then and there, immediately, be prepared to meet and cope successfully with it, in the name and fear of the Lord.

Cornelius fasted and prayed, and an angel was sent to him to advise him to send for God's minister to instruct him in the way of life (Acts 10). When Paul and Barnabas returned from Derbe to Lystra, Iconium, and Antioch, after Paul's having been stoned at Lystra, they confirmed the Saints, exhorting them to faithfulness and diligence, and that "we must through much tribulation enter into the kingdom of God." It is recorded:

And when they had ordained them elders in every church, and had prayed with FASTING, they commended them to the Lord, on whom they believed.—Acts 14: 23.

In 1 Corinthians 7: 5, the apostle indicates that there are times when the Saints should give themselves "to fasting and prayer," and in 2 Corinthians 6: 5, among other ministerial duties enjoined that they may approve themselves as "ministers of God," he enumerates:

In stripes, in imprisonments, in tumults, in labours, in watchings, in fastings;

In relating his own experiences in the work of the Lord, and service to the Saints, he says among other incidents:

In weariness and painfulness, in watchings often, in hunger and thirst [enforced, unavoidable], in FASTINGS often, in cold and nakedness.—2 Cor. 11: 27.

The Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants also contain teachings regarding this duty and privilege, but what has been quoted above is sufficient to establish its importance with all God fearing men and women. We may not be able to explain the philosophy of fasting, satisfactorily, any more than that of baptism in water. There are some things connected with the gospel which are not fully explained in every sense by that which has been revealed: if they were explainable they would cease to be mysteries, and though the Apostle Paul was blessed with an abundance of heavenly revelation, there were some things which even he denominated as "mysteries." This should not, however, affect our recognition of the good results following the observance of all duties and privileges of the Saints, by which development and exaltation are assured.

We may suggest a few of the number of reasons why fastings should be observed often. First, it is an act of humiliation before the Lord, and humility of heart is pleasing to Him. Second, it is a sacrifice, for the sake of spiritual development, an endurance of physical discomfort, that the spirit may be exalted. Third, it acts as a continual reminder to the memory to keep in view the object for which the offering is made. When, however, extreme physical suffering results from entire abstinence from food and drink for twenty-four hours, a little plain nourishment, such as a small piece of bread, would not, we believe, impair or affect the purpose of the sacrifice, or make it unacceptable; for on one occasion Daniel declared:

In those days I Daniel was mourning three full weeks. I ate no pleasant bread; neither came flesh nor wine in my mouth, neither did I anoint myself at all, till three whole weeks were fulfilled.—Dan 10: 2, 3.

After this sacrifice, he saw a heavenly messenger, describing the vision, as "a certain man clothed in linen, whose loins were girded with fine gold of Uphaz: his body also was like the beryl, and his face as the appearance of lightning, and his eyes as lamps of fire, and his arms and his feet like in colour to polished brass, etc. This individual said to him:

Fear not Daniel, for from the first day that thou didst set thine heart to understand, and to chasten thyself before thy God, thy words were heard.—Dan. 10: 12.

Thus it is shown that the motive is considered when physical infirmities do not admit of entire abstinence. Let every one judge themselves in the matter, but none should neglect a sacrifice so important in its results, but should frequently go before the Lord in fasting and prayer for His blessings upon individuals and also upon the body. This, it has been shown, is pleasing to Him.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

SR. LIZZIE JONES and her husband, J. W. Jones, of Lake City, Missouri, say they are anxious that an elder should come there and preach. They will come to Independence with conveyance when notified, if the railroad is not preferred.

ELDER CLARK BRADEN'S wife, it is stated, has sued for a divorce, and charges him with a number of unchristianlike acts, such as abuse, swearing, squandering her money in unaccounted for ways, etc.

ELDER L. R. DEVORE, of Holden, Missouri, preached at Nevada, Missouri, Sunday morning, and lectured on the South Sea Islands Monday evening. Bro. R. W. Davis occupied Sunday and Bro. A. H. PARSONS Tuesday evening, preaching the funeral sermon of Elder Henry E. Goff, who died suddenly the preceding Sunday.

"THE NATIONAL LEAGUE OF IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATIONS" has headquarters at Springfield, Ohio. The stated object of this association is "to bring into communication for acquaintance and mutual helpfulness all bodies interested in the promotion of out-door art and public beauty, town, village and neighborhood improvement." These associations are doing a commendable work in encouraging improvements made in streets, parks, and even the back yards of residences in cities, towns, etc., of this country. Some of the changes made under their suggestions have been very pleasing and beautiful. Who does not love to look upon the beautiful in nature as well as art? Some of the streets in certain cities are famous as promenades because of the effort of residents to beautify lawns, to have rows of fine shade trees, broad walks, well paved streets, and all kept trim and neat. Such scenes appeal to that which is best in the nature of man, as uplifting him and encouraging the nobler impulses. Success to the good work.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

BISHOP C. J. HUNT, March 6: By invitation of the presiding elder, Bro. E. Ford, I am holding a series of meetings in the Saints' chapel in Mallard, Iowa. I am delivering a few lectures on our claims for the divine authenticity of the Book of Mormon this week. Interest good.

SR. W. T. BOZARTH, La Junta, Colorado (Rural Free Delivery), March 11:

We are well and Bro. Bozarth is feeling fine. We have had several prayer meetings and preaching twice. Bro. J. W. Morgan has been here several weeks with a view to locating and we hope he will remain. There are ten or twelve members of us here now and more coming.

ELDER E. M. WILDERMUTH, Piper City, Illinois, March 10:

I have been associated with Elder H. E. Moler since the Sandwich district conference. We have held some twenty or more meetings at Wilmington, W. Va. county. Then we came to the Mission branch and held a few meetings in their new, commodious church at that place. From there we came on to Sreator, visited most of the Saints and stayed over night; then came on to this place. We have held forth here at the Heavener school-house for a little over a week. Owing to unfavorable weather, with two exceptions, our audiences have been small. We go from here to Sreator and on to Ladd.

A FAST.

The Presidency, after a due consultation in regard to the situation and the work before the church, have thought it advisable that there be a day of fasting and prayer to be generally observed by the church, to the intent and purpose that supplication may be made to the divine Ruler for the blessings of spiritual direction, guidance, and comfort during the ensuing April session of conference.

To this end we appoint Sunday, March 31, as such day of fasting and prayer, and recommend that on that day the Saints gather at their several places of worship and engage in the service of prayer for such time or times as the branch or officers may deem wise; the fast to be from the evening meal of the 30th to the evening meal of the 31st.

"Let all things be done decently and in order."

JOSEPH SMITH,
A. H. SMITH,
E. L. KELLEY,
Presidency.

LAMONI, Ia., March 16.
—From Saints' Herald, March 20.

A CORRECTION.

In tabulated statement of Bishop's report [on page 8] under heading, "Saints' Home and Reserve Fund Receipts," read: "by sales and collections," not corrections. Error in copying.

E. L. KELLEY.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Gleaners' entertainment to-night.

The mumps seems to have run its course. We hear of no new cases.

Bro. J. M. Terry will be one of the reporters for the ENSIGN at this conference.

Bro. P. Peterson has been laid up the past few days with a painful attack of lumbago, which has made him a prisoner in his house.

Bro. J. W. Morgan, from Colorado, and W. H. Rhodes, from Oklahoma, and Sr. R. C. Evans, from London, Canada, are late arrivals.

Bishop Hilliard arrived home from California, Tuesday. Conference is near at hand, and our missionaries are dropping in every day or two.

Bro. and Sr. J. H. McMullin returned from Colorado Springs, Colorado, Wednesday evening. The climate did not help Sr. McMullin as was hoped. She has suffered intensely the past ten weeks.

Bro. C. G. Gould and family have moved into their new home, corner Clark and Fuller streets, and are busy "fixing up" for conference. They are nicely situated and have a very comfortable home. Brn. Barbee and Hendrickson were the contractors.

The Quorum of Twelve are in session in Bro. Joseph Luff's new addition to his house. Brn. W. H. Kelley, H. C. Smith, E. C. Briggs, J. R. Lambert, J. H. Lake, James Caffal, Joseph Luff, I. N. White, G. T. Griffiths, J. W. Wight and R. C. Evans are present.

Special Religio service tomorrow, Friday, night, and a full attendance is desired. Answers will be expected from all present on some of these inquiries, "What has the Religio done for me? What can I make it do for me? Why I have not taken the parts assigned to me during the year? What is the future of the Religio? Think it over and prepare your answers before you go. Be prompt in responses.

There will be no testimony in the service next Sunday afternoon, the meeting will be devoted to prayer, in accordance with the suggestion of the presidency. Let all make special preparation for this service and join in it as opportunity may be given and the Spirit direct.

For the convenience of visitors to conference, we herewith give time of departure of trains from the Union station, Kansas City to Independence: Missouri Pacific Ry., 6:25 a. m.; 6:55 a. m.; 9:50 a. m.; 9:55 a. m.; 1:10 p. m.; 5:35 p. m.; 7 p. m. Chicago & Alton Ry.; 8 a. m.; 5:25 p. m.; 6:15 p. m.; 9:15 p. m.

Bro. John Nesbitt, Fire Chief, advises that there should be no rigs left standing in front of the church at evening service. When the fire department is called out they go in a hurry, and in the dark they are liable to wreck someone's buggy before they could stop. Better be admonished and save good dollars.

Bro. J. B. Smith and family left for Las Vegas, New Mexico, Tuesday afternoon, where they will sojourn for a while. Bro. Smith is suffering with pulmonary trouble, and a change of air was deemed advisable to enable him to get strength. They are fine people and we hope may find some congenial companions in their new home, and ultimately return here.

Religio tomorrow, Friday evening. All Religians are requested to keep in mind and prepare themselves by fasting and prayer for this special meeting. Every one present will be expected to say something upon the following questions: "What Has the Religio Done for Me?" "What Can I Make it Do for Me?" "Why I Have Not Done the Work Assigned Me During the Year?" "What is the Future of the Religio?"

Sunday was pleasant and the services were profitable to the worshipers in the church. At the morning hour Elder Metuaore of Papeete, Tahiti, Society Islands, addressed the Saints in a very feeling manner and after expressing his pleasure at what he had seen and heard since coming to the Zion land, and at being privileged to meet the Saints here, he spoke briefly, yet forcibly and logically, from Rev. 22:18, 19. Bro. J. P. Burton, of California, late of the Society Islands mission, interpreted, and when Bro. Metuaore finished, continued in a description of the habits and customs of that people, paying a strong tribute to their simplicity, piety and devotion; they are a wonderful people in that way. At night Bro. T. C. Kelley delivered a fine discourse on the light of the world. The afternoon service was helpful.

Advices from two of the brethren indicate that alarming reports concerning the prevalence of smallpox in this city, are, some way, being circulated, one report having it that Independence is quarantined. These reports are ridiculous. There have been nine cases reported so far, of a very light form of the disease which has appeared all over the country. Six of these cases will be discharged Saturday. We learned of one new case Wednesday morning. Dr. Berg, city health officer, has been informed by the state health board that there have been about 2,000 cases throughout the state of Missouri, and not a single fatal case. In this city it has not amounted to hardly an ordinary case of measles, the patients being up and around the house as usual, about the only inconvenience being that they must remain indoors to protect others. We are satisfied no one will be any more liable to the disease here than at their own homes. Ordinary care should be exercised always, at home or anywhere else, to keep regular habits, see that every natural function of the body is performed, and fill the stomach with plain, wholesome food at seasonable times, and don't be afraid. An empty stomach is a poor condition to have where there is any kind of sickness.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Apostle J. H. Lake addressed the Saints Monday morning, Apostle W. H. Kelley in the evening. A very good prayer meeting was enjoyed in the afternoon. The thought, "What it has cost to become a Latter Day Saint," was touched upon by several in their testimonies in an edifying manner.

Elder I. N. Roberts preached at Saints' Home Sunday evening.

The Patron's meeting held at East Side School Friday afternoon, was well attended and was a very profitable and pleasant session. The meeting was in charge of Prof. J. A. Gunsolley. The program consisted of papers upon home and school topics, discussions of same, readings and music.

A large number of Saints are making preparations to attend General Conference, and there will be quite a delegation leaving next week.

Bro. Will Mather has been very ill for a week or more but is now better.

A number of new students have been enrolled at Graceland College for the spring term. Several new classes have been organized in normal department.

G. L. K.
March 26.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lang Mission, 5411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Bro. F. M. Sheehy came in from the "Hub" on Friday and spent Saturday in pursuit of archeological evidences, in which he has done much work the past year. He preached for us at three o'clock Sunday, a religio-politico-scientific sermon; a very interesting one.

Bro. F. G. Pitt and wife came in Monday from their mission and are visiting with their children and the Saints. They start toward Conference today. He preached last night at the branch meeting place.

We met Prof. J. H. Paul, of the Salt Lake City College, yesterday, and found him a man of pleasing address, and a fervent admirer of the Utah philosophy. He is here to take the degree Ph. D.

Sr. B. Schultz, who has been in Kentucky for some time, at the bedside of an aged and sick mother, returned recently, reporting improvement.

At the Central Chicago branch Bro. F. G. Pitt preached at the morning hour, and the writer occupied last evening, with a good audience and spirit, notwithstanding the rain.

Bro. C. E. Shaw and wife start tonight for Shenandoah, Iowa, to visit relatives, from thence to St. Joseph, Missouri, thence on to the Conference. A happy trip, Charles and Maudy.

Next Sunday being set apart by the presidency of the church as a general fast day, we hope all the Saints in Chicago will solemnly observe the same as wisdom and circumstances admit; the object being the obtaining of God's blessing upon the coming Conference and the work in general.

Bro. F. M. Cooper arrived home under the dominant power of the grip. He was some better yesterday.

Among those expecting to attend Conference we note Brn. C. A. Sherman, G. H. Graves, E. J. Lang, W. H. Fuller, Ratna S. Nayaka and the writer and wife.

We are glad to experience a decided improvement in health during the last week; and with a buoyant spirit and strong hope, and a set heart, we look to the harvest field.

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., March 26.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street. Services: Wednesday evening, prayer service; Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave., services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:30 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

The past week has been more than busy for some of us; but so far as we can remember this has been one of the largest conferences we have had. The Saturday evening business session was largely attended, and the meetings yesterday tested the capacity of our "big-new" church.

Much business was transacted, many reports received, among them one from Bro. Allen, which was splendid, and showed that while absent from us, he had been laboring diligently. Brn. Allen and M. H. Bond presided at this session, J. G. Smith, clerk.

Bro. Smith reported moneys received during the past quarter, $181.52, expended $17, balance on hand, $164.52.

Branches reporting, Whearso, St. Clair, Cheltenham, St. Louis, and Belleville Mission.

We people of St. Louis want more laborers in this part of the vineyard; we need them badly. "Ask and it shall be given," therefore, we are asking this Conference to consider our needs, and send us several missionaries. A petition was formulated, expressing appreciation of Bro. Allen's labors, also asking his return to St. Louis district.

Speakers yesterday were Brn. R. Archibald and M. H. Bond.

Yesterday was a great day for us, almost a Rally Day it seemed. Our Sunday School superintendent, T. J. Elliott, announced some weeks ago that the 24th would be Parents' Day, and special preparations were made therefor. The Sabbath School was well filled, and the exercises in which the children took part were excellent. A song by the primaries was splendidly given; upon the blackboard was artistically outlined and lettered, a greeting to parents. Parents' Day was a success, and a big one too.

Bro. Arthur Burgess has quite an artistic bit of work in the Roll of Honor, which contains the names of those attending a certain number of Sundays during the past year. This piece of his handicraft, neatly framed, is to be found in the front of our Sunday School room.

We have our large Book of Mormon map, mounted upon a spring roller and fixed up as a shade would be; it also hangs in the basement where Religio sessions are held.

Bro. Dawson and the janitor have worked very hard all week, spring house-cleaning at the church. Our "lot" has been sown with grass seed, trees planted, and some of these days we'll have a fine lawn. The fence also has been wired, and we have set our house in order.

Bro. Allen leaves today for points of the mission field, then eventually to Conference. Bro. Bond, daughter Bess and little Myron B. Trowbridge, are also leaving Tuesday, with Independence as the goal, although they are privileged to do some visiting en route.

Bro. and Sr. S. R. Burgess have returned from the East.

The largest afternoon social service of years was held yesterday, Brn. N. Cooke and Henry Roberts presiding. A very enjoyable time.

Bro. Jas. Baggerly visited with us last evening.

ETTA.

March 25.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday.—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening Zion's Religio-Literary Society Sunday evening at 6 p. m.

Sunday was quite stormy nearly all day, not very cold, but not cold enough to snow, but not stormy enough to hinder the Saints attending the services. A fair sized congregation assembled in the morning to listen to Bishop Hilliard discourse on the parable of the "Ten virgins." The sermon was very interesting. Though quite stormy there was a good sized congregation in the evening to listen to Bishop Hilliard on the financial law of the church; all were pleased with the subject as presented.

Bishops Hilliard and Blakeslee arrived in the city Wednesday, and left Monday, the former for Independence, and the latter for Galien, Michigan. Their visit to the Denver Saints has done much good.

Bro. Ray Powers is very sick, the doctors give but little hope of his recovery. He was taken to the hospital Saturday. The doctors disagree as to what is the matter with him.

Bro. Joseph Schmutz is some better at this writing.

Bro. Blair, the traveling man, was in town over Sunday and in attendance at the church Sunday and Sunday night. We also noticed the presence of Sr. Dove in the congregation, but did not get to meet her.

Bro. Blakeslee gave an interesting talk to the Religio at its six o'clock meeting.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH. Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line.

Last Sunday evening Elder A. H. Parsons preached, using as a text the 8th verse of 2d chapter of Ephesians, "By grace are ye saved." He dwelt on the necessity of human effort in order to attain salvation.

An elocutionary contest has been announced for Saturday evening, March 30th, between scholars of the first and second Kansas City Sunday Schools. There will be eight contestants from each school. To be held at this branch.

JOHN C. GRAINGER.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at "Druid's Temple," Cor. 14th and Polson Sts. Sunday School 9:45 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sacrament meeting on first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder residence 3010 16th street.

Sunday, March 3d, Bishop Chas. A. Parkin was the speaker here at 11 a. m. He also spoke at Oakland at 8 p. m. Your correspondent preached at Oakland at 11 a. m. Bro. Fred Blair held forth at Santa Rosa. Last Sunday Elder Joseph F. Burton was our speaker both morning and evening.

Our district conference was in session at Sacramento, and quite a number of the Saints were gathered there. Bro. Hilliard, Blakeslee and Blair were in attendance.

Sr. Ella Lytle, superintendent of our Sunday School, has been, and still is, very seriously ill. She has been at death's door for several days, but is now much improved, though not yet out of danger. We all hope and pray for her speedy recovery.

The Sunday School is in a good, prosperous condition, and accomplishing much good in the instruction it imparts.

The Sisters' Prayer Union still holds forth every Thursday afternoon.

We had a splendid prayer meeting Wednesday evening. The rooms of Bro. Saxe were filled, Bro. and Sr. Burton were among the visitors. The sweet, peaceful Spirit that prevailed throughout the meeting, was enjoyed by all. We are trying to live in the Spirit here, and to honor the cause we love. We still move forward.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

March 14.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

FAIRMOUNT, Otero Co., Col.

Editor Ensign:—Before leaving Independence I promised a number that I would write a short description of this country as I found it. I lauded in Rocky Ford the last Sunday in January, before daylight, with the weather considerably below freezing, and meeting with rather a cold reception. There was no fire in the depot to speak of, went to a hotel, found no fire; nobody up. Looked up Bro. and Sr. J. H. McMullen, she looking much better; I passed on to Bro. Rozarth's, one and one-half miles from the depot, finding them at breakfast, and after partaking myself felt more comfortable.

Bro. Rozarth took me to town, and we drove around some, and I must say I was delighted with ground location of the town; the scenery, appearance of the stock, and stacks of hay outside the town, and of the beautiful green color of the hay, everything seemed to indicate thrift. There seems to be no especial work for men coming here at this time of year, although there seems to be a great deal of building going on. Farmers seem to be pretty well supplied with their own help, and it does not look to me to be wise for men to come here for work until weeding commences. The best factories do not start work until September. You can scarcely find a desirable farm to rent, and land sells from $40.00 to $225.00 per acre, according to the distance from town, and the ditch it is under, or the amount of water you get.

Fruit does not do well here as a general thing. Men clear on beats per acre from ten to one hundred dollars, canteloupes about the same. There are some experts on beet and canteloupes. Land is all right here, providing you can get the water. My health is better here. When hail comes it is just as destructive as anywhere, some insure their crops against hail. There are a great many who have come here for asthmatic troubles, all are helped, some are cured and the climate seems to benefit people generally; but people die here. There are also plenty of doctors and they seem to make a living some way.

I would not advise any one to come here who are doing well enough where they are, or are making a good living where they are. It takes both time and money to make changes and locate in a new place; some succeed wherever they are, others fail. Some, however, might see things here differently from the way I view it.

In bonds,

J. W. LAYTON.

LINDSEY, Pa., Feb. 10.

Editor Ensign:—I will try and write a few lines to let the Saints know what is going on in this part of the Lord's vineyard. We have small home Sunday School here, but the interest is none of the best, although we do what we can. We also have prayer meetings here, but the number is small, and not of the best of attendance. I myself have not been as active as I should have been. I have to be away from home in order to obtain work, as there is not much to be had this time of the year save it be mining, and they do not work steady and run poor at the best, so I secured work in a chemical works, twenty-four miles southeast of Bradford, at a place called Morvinalde, McKean county, Pennsylvania.

I went to the boarding house and the lady asked me if I was saved. I replied that I had not run the race yet, but if I continued faithful to the end there would be a crown in store for me, but I could not say that I was saved until I had finished my life, as I did not know what might happen to me in this life. They began to call me devil. I replied that if they called the Master the prince of devils, would they not also call His followers the same? Then they began to sing, shout and yell, and were in such a confusion that I could not make myself heard. I withdrew from the room. The next day was Sunday, and I read a sermon out of ENSIGN to some of the boarders; it was on right living, and I also got them started again: I told them I believed the Bible as it read, and it said that the people of God were to grow in grace, but it was not so with them, that they jumped into it up to their ears. In the evening they held a prayer meeting, and when I got up to give a testimony they drowned me out, so I told them, as Elijah told the heathen, to pray louder, perhaps their God was on a journey, or perhaps he was asleep or deaf; such a confusion as it was I have never heard or seen before in my life. Some were praying, some dancing, some singing, some shouting at the top of their voices, and they numbered about thirty in all.

The next morning I asked the boarding house mistress what she called that meeting; she said a prayer meeting. I told her that I certainly believed that God had nothing in that kind of a meeting as it was not in order or in decency, and that it was impossible to take any good out of it. I also quoted them scripture, and so plain that those boarders not taking any part in any kind of religious work understood, and they asked me concerning salvation and I explained as best I knew how. I think that there can be a good work done there. I am going to move there in about two months, if it is the Lord's will, as wages are quite good; it pays $52.00 per month. We will give this place another trial before leaving; that is, we want an elder to come and do more preaching, as there are some who are ready to obey and others are near.

The Salvation Army people are holding forth every night; they are doing some good and they seem to be zealous in the work; they have them come to Jesus, drunk or sober, as Bro. R. Etzenhouser used to say. They teach against the use of tobacco as well as liquors. I think they are preparing some of the people of this place to be able to receive the true gospel when they do hear it. They captured a young man and his wife who used to come to our prayer meetings as there was no excitement in our meeting as in the Salvation Army people, and furthermore, they do not teach so much Bible, more deathbed stories; and we Saints are well aware it is easier to go the broad way than the narrow, as a ladder with only two rounds is easier to climb than one with a dozen; but the reward differing in proportion.

I get almost discouraged, but where would I go? I could not go to sectarianism. I am happy when I can do some work that helps the true cause along, and the reverse when I transgress the law of God and nature. I ask an interest in your prayers that I may be able to be of some good to the Lord's cause, and to pick up fallen man, and that I may hold out faithful in the faith.

W. F. BEAM.

PORT ANGELES, Wash., Mar. 12.

Dear Ensign:—As I was reading Bro. J. L. Goodrich's letter which appeared in ENSIGN, January 17th, I also thought I would give my testimony. My husband, myself and two of my elder children joined the Utah church in San Diego, California, but did not go in hastily; we read their literature for nearly a year, and never could find out the least shadow of their belief in polygamy. We were baptized by Elder Bushman, but soon after Elder Bushman left we were forced to have a new elder, who was Elder Nickson, who soon gave us to understand that we had to believe in polygamy; it was a saving grace. They also stated that they had no secrets in the temple at Utah, and insisted upon us all going to Utah, where we would be happy among God's people. In the meantime I had a vision in which it came to me that my husband and I were there in the temple, and we were going to be sealed for eternity. I gave a vow that if I ever left their church or told anything I heard or saw in the temple I should have my blood spilt for my sins. Then they anointed me and gave me the name of Sarah, by which I should be known in eternity.

I told the elders my vision, and they strictly forbid me mentioning it to any of the sisters. We soon found out that they misrepresented themselves as being the true apostles of Jesus Christ, and we then left their church. We soon united with the true church of Jesus Christ, and were baptized by Elder Griffiths, April 30, 1899, at San Bernardino, California, and with the branch there we, for one year, were contented. My children attended Sabbath School and young people's meeting, which they enjoyed very much. April 1900 we came to Port Angeles where there are no Saints; I believe we are the only ones here. The people here when they find out that we belong to the Latter Day Saints will drop us as if we were serpents; but that does not matter, we now have the truth as it is found in the Bible.

I also wish to say that my husband has been bedfast for six weeks with rheumatism, and we desire the prayers of the Saints.

Your sister in the one truth,
MRS. CLARA MICA RDLE.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., March 20.

Editor Ensign:—In your issue of March 14, 1901, reference is made to The Messenger of Truth in such a manner as might lead some to infer that the Church of Christ Publishing House was connected with its publication. Such is not the case. The paper is printed for Mr. Hanson simply as a business proposition, and the Church of Christ, or Hedrickites, as you persist in terming them, have not the slightest connection with Mr. Hanson beyond printing his paper and charging him for it.

Very respectfully,

JOHN R. HALDEMAN,

Editor Evening and Morning Star.

[The article referred to states, "It is printed by the Evening and Morning Star, monthly, in the INTEREST of the Whitmerite brethren." We fall to see how any inference could be made such as Bro. Haldeман complains about in that statement; we certainly intended no such construction to be placed upon it.—Ed.]

RIDGELEY, Tenn., March 10.

Dear Ensign:—We experienced the hardest hurricane last night that I ever saw. It passed through here about 9 p. m., turning over houses, fences, timber, etc., and it did not miss the house of the writer, but tore off one end of my house, and unroofed the other part. What was not broken and blown away is very badly damaged, and we are staying in the house with another family until we can get a house built.

Among the things blown away is the records of the Rapid staff, and I am not able to find them. Will all the members of the staff write me and give their key so I can make a new record? I am truly thankful that we escaped with our lives, but it has left us in an almost destitute condition.

Your brother in bonds,

GEO. H. BRUSH.

GARFIELD, Ore., Feb. 23.

Editor Ensign:—I have long thought I would write and relate some dreams, one of which I had the 6th of October, 1899: Very early in the morning, it must have been two or three o'clock, I was sleeping upstairs, with my head to the east. All at once it seemed that there was no roof to obstruct my view, and I saw the new moon about midway in the western sky, with the round part down and surrounded by a very large, bright star. The star's five points were composed of very small bright stars; and in the upper points of the star, standing on the points of the moon, was a large bird a great deal like the eagle on the silver dollar; beneath the round part of the moon, in a half circle, were the words, "A group of fifty stars showeth the day of destruction."

My first feelings were of fear, and then I thought, "There is no need of being afraid of anything so very beautiful." Then I began to count the stars in the points of the large star, and all I could make of them was 1902; the points of the star seemed to fairly blaze with the figures 1902. It was a beautiful light—like the moon in color, only brighter and more sparkling. I awoke then, and ever since it has been very vivid in my mind. I do not understand what it means, but I know that it must mean something.

Then, in February, 1900, near the first of the month (I do not remember the date), I had another dream. I was going from a place on a hill side down into a valley, and stopped at the only house I could see and tried to get a young girl to go with me to a meeting. While I talked with her, there came up a fierce storm from the west, and I told her I must go. Oh! how the wind blew and the rain fell in torrents, but I kept on in the dark; all the surroundings seemed to be the color of a steel engraving. While I went toward the west there seemed to be the waves of the sea in the west; and right above them there came a man with a table and set it down about midway in the western sky, an equal distance between the north and south.

Then there came a very old and majestic man and sat down at the table, and with him a younger man, but the exact image of the older one. There was a lot of books on the table; there were also countless numbers of people there, the most of whom stood at the southeast corner of the table. The majestic man opened the largest book and called them one at a time up to the table. I stood right in front of the table a short distance back, with several others. I could not hear a word, though all seemed very still, and no one was afraid. There was quite a space between the multitude and where I stood. He called them up one at a time until they had all been called; part of them he sent to the north side, and part to the south side, but back of where he sat. He then opened a smaller book, and called those who were with me, one at a time, and sent them to the northeast corner of the table. I could not hear what he said to them; but I could see that he said something. Then he called me, and I went and stood at the table. He looked in the book and said, "You are reserved for a further opportunity," and sent me to stand with the others whom I had stood with before. Then the table was taken away, and all the people but myself were gone.

Then there came from the north a very fierce and dark looking man with a sword. And the younger man who had stood with the majestic man, came also with a sword, and they fought in the air above the waves of the sea, a very long and fierce battle; till at last the dark ugly man was overcome and slain, while in the place where they had fought there appeared a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the ground in my path, and I had to climb over them. I climbed up on a sign, but I cannot now remember what it was. I turned and went back. The storm still raged and the wind blew, but I went on past where the house had been toward the hillside. There were a great many large trees which the wind had blown down in my way. There was also a railroad around the foot of the hill which I wanted to reach, but the trees kept falling all around me. There were several on the

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

INSPIRATION.

Sermon delivered at the Saints' church, Independence, Missouri, Sunday a. m. May 20, 1900, by Elder T. W. Chatburn.

I call your attention to some scripture as the basis of what I wish to offer. In the last chapter of Peter, the closing part, you will read something like this: Referring to Paul's preaching he said there were some things that would be hard to be understood, and that the unlearned tried to wrest or twist the scriptures to their own condemnation, and then the admonition is given that we "should grow in grace and in a knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ." Latter day revelation has made it a little plainer, and has made it to read: "To grow in grace and in knowledge of the truth." In John's gospel we read another scripture where Jesus is made to say, "I am the light of the world," and that "I lighten every man that cometh into the world."

In another chapter of the same writer it is recorded that "he that will follow me shall not walk in darkness but shall have the light of life." I presume this will be sufficient scripture for the discussion this morning.

One of the evidences, to me, of this work, is its progressiveness, its expansion; and I am an expansionist so far as that is concerned at least. I believe that we should expand, that we should grow in grace and the knowledge of truth, or of the Lord; therefore, I believe that we crystallize as we go along, and we change, and the things that we once presented we present no more.

Now, in the Eden of my gospel life, I used to think that no one, save he that belonged to this Latter Day Saint church, received the inspiration of God, or that inspiration, the guiding hand of God in its directings, was only known within the pales of this church. I have abandoned that; I think it no more. One of the scriptures that we have quoted declares the Savior as saying, that He is "the light of the world."—He doesn't say "church"—and that He lightened every man that came into the world. The "light" of Christ is certainly truth; it is certainly that which was designed to bring about the final culmination of the happiness and the glory of man; and as He is the light of the world, I, therefore, have come to this conclusion: There are those in the world who are inspired aside from those who belong to the church; and I am now prepared to say from the experiences of the past that I am NOT prepared to say that God is with no other people, save this church of Latter Day Saints.

If you take away inspiration from the discoverer, and especially when we read along those lines that Columbus, when he stood upon the deck of his vessel and declared to his seamen that on the morrow they would see the land, and when it came true, and they undertook to fall down upon the deck and worship him he said, "Do it not, for an angel of God stood with me upon the deck of this vessel." If you take away that inspiration from me, you make me an infidel indeed. If you take away from me the inspiration along the mechanical lines, I become infidel at once. I believe those men have been inspired in other ways to bring about that which God has designed for us, and which will finally bring the culmination that we desire. Take an Edison, a Howe, a Morse, and those men were certainly inspired, and I believe by that "light" that was promised by the Christ when He said, "I lighten every man that cometh into the world," and if you take this from me, it makes me the rankest infidel that you ever saw.

I take up this hymn book. Here are three hundred hymns that we sing, and how often we have felt the inspiration of God when we have sung them, and when you have heard the choir inspired in its efforts, the thrilling music that stirred our souls. You tell me that these men were not inspired who wrote these hymns, two hundred or more of them in this book, that were not composed by the Latter Day Saints? Take the old hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," and many others of like import, and I firmly believe that the men who penned them were inspired of God to do what they did. These old, gray headed sires of ours, who taught us along the sunny way in the garden of our experience, are somewhat responsible for those thoughts and for those conclusions that were arrived at then; for we were taught then that there was no inspiration to speak of; God did not reveal to man only through the channels of this church. It was a stumbling block to me; it always has been. Perhaps I am not entirely responsible for my skepticism, but I am skeptical, and I cannot help it.

Jesus comes to my aid in this matter, to my mind, and helps me out though. He says, "I am the light of the world," and certainly He meant it, and that He was the inspirer of the world; that He has inspired men along the ways, and in my broadening experience in traveling over additional territory, in looking and seeing and hearing and mingling with other religions, and seeing the devotedness and the honesty manifested, the sacrifices made, and see and hear them stand up and declare that they knew that God was with them, and that they had been inspired, I am not prepared to say this morning that it is not a fact. But I am prepared to say this: Coming, as I did, from a different church organization, out of the ranks of the Methodist church, I am prepared to say this morning that I felt good there; I felt well; I felt that God was blessing me; I know He did, and if any man would have stood up before me then and said, "Bro. Chatburn, you are mistaken, you have not obeyed the gospel, you have never had hands laid upon you for the gift of the Holy Ghost; you haven't received anything from God," I would have said, "You are a bigot, sir, and in my estimation you are wrong." Do you know that man could not have converted me that way? He never could have gained my confidence with those methods. But if he had come to me and said, "Sir, I believe it with all my heart; I take it for granted that you have been blessed, and that God has inspired you to do what you have done," that is, when I turned over the new leaf, when I began to try to serve God, when I ceased to do wrong, when I turned away from the revellings of my former life, when I ceased to drink and to gamble, to commit those things that I knew were not right in the sight of God, when I left them, though a sacrifice to me, and turned to do better, I was sacrificing along the lines for God to the best of my ability, he would then have affected me differently when he presented his testimony. I firmly believe God would not be a friend if He would not bless every man and woman that would sacrifice for Him. Therefore, when I see religionists from the Salvation Army to the Latter Day Saints, sacrificing for God as they do, I can, with a great deal of confidence, listen to their testimonies when they declare that God is with them and blesses them in their action; I believe it with all of my heart.

I think, perhaps, we have gone to the extremes. The extremes are a long ways apart, and this is a day of extremes. I think the adversary is working on Latter Day Saints and others on these lines. We should not go to the extremes; the golden mean is the better. Radicalism I believe to be wrong. Some man says, "Well, you cannot be too radical if you are right," but that little word "if" in there, covers a great deal of ground, and in our radicalism we may injure some one. We may oppose the injuring and the wounding of others; we may curtail our own influence and injure ourselves, and do less good than we otherwise would. As long as we are mortals we can go to the extremes on this as well as other things, and as long as this Bible teaches me that the basic principles of salvation and rewards are based upon good works, and that every man shall be rewarded according to his works, then I say that we go to the extreme when we say that in other churches God does not bless its devotees. My experience is that I can get closer to those people by giving them their proper place; that I can win them and get better acquainted and then teach them the gospel, if I give them this position, and tell them that as long as they are trying to do that which is right, so long as they have sacrificed along the lines, so long as they are spending their time and means endeavoring to make the world better, so long as they love virtue and hate vice, that God will bless them along those ways.

Now, I think that perhaps we go to the extremes in other things. You know that the Bible teaches us, or Paul tells us, that the church is like a body; it has all of its parts so fitly joined together, that one part cannot say to the other part, "I have no need of thee." When we go to the extremes in the church lines, we are just as wrong as we are when we go to the extremes outside of the church. For instance, I know a branch of this church where there was such preaching against the gifts of the church being made manifest, that the branch actually began to wither and die; and then it was said by its president that those who had the gifts had better manifest them. The body began to be paralyzed; there was one limb of the body unfit for use; it became paralyzed by non-use, and the church being compared to the body of a man, if any part of it is not in use, or if it becomes diseased in any shape or form and becomes paralyzed, the whole body is injured, isn't it? I think perhaps we can go to the extreme in that way. Then again, I know of a branch that when they came together they had a tongue, a revelation, a prophecy, and while one would be speaking or praying, another would be singing in tongues and prophesying. That was the other extreme, and the extremes are what hurt us.

We are to grow in grace. What is grace? Love, someone says. Love for what? Love for God, for our fellow men, for our brethren, for the church and for Christ and His work. You let a little story start about one of these sisters or brethren. We are admonished to grow in love and in grace and in a knowledge of the truth. How soon will it be before it is all over the neighborhood, magnified? And to the extremes we go. I think the adversary is on the alert. He understands the signs of the times and he knows that this is a day of extremes, and men and women will follow them. So it may possibly be along the lines of churches.

It is said in the book of Doctrine and Covenants that God raised up wise men to found the constitution of the United States, and if they were raised up by our Heavenly Father, they had the light of the Christ and were therefore inspired to do that which they did; and when we hear those men talking along political lines, and we see the old star spangled banner, "Old Glory," we hear men saying on political lines that our fathers builded better than they knew. Surely they were inspired; hence I think there is inspiration outside of this Latter Day Saint church. I cannot help but think God inspired many a man, a Lincoln, a Washington, and other men, to do just what they did; and He is inspiring all the way along the lines; and when we declare that God inspires only within the pales of this church, we are at the extreme.

We come now to another proposition and that is this: Jesus declares that if any man would follow Him, that he should not walk in darkness but that he should have the light of life. That is a different light altogether, to the light that He mentioned when He said that He was the light of the world, and that He lightened every man that came into the world. When we follow the Savior we have an additional light, and that is the light of life. Quite a different light indeed. The light that is given to man in consequence of his birth into this world, is an incentive to reach and feel after the better light, and like the little climbing vine that puts out its tendrils against the mighty oak to hold it against the blasts of life, so this little incentive that Christ has given every man that cometh into the world, is the little tendrils that reach out after higher and better ground; and if there was not this nucleus in every man, there would be nothing to attach the better wire to. But now Jesus says, "He that will follow me shall not walk in darkness," which opens up the gospel plan of salvation to us.

This is quite a different light, to my mind, to the light that was to lighten every man, but I think that we ought to give to those different denominations their proper place, and say that God does inspire them as individuals, whenever they sacrifice along the lines. I think it is best. I think we can get closer to them; that we can convert them to this latter day gospel quicker than we can to abuse them, and say that God has never inspired them or revealed to them, because they have not belonged to this church. This is growing in grace and in a knowledge of the truth along these lines of light and life.

I had a little discussion with a man in California sometime since; he was a Scientist. A number of our brethren gathered in, and quite a number of the Scientists; we had one night's discussion and he presented this idea: that thought was an adjunct of the brain, and that when the brain died the thought died, and that was the end of it; that the brain was a manufacturing machine, that it manufactured along the lines on which it thought, and that when it was dead or dormant, that was all there was of the thought and its originator. In answering it I accepted it; I says, "I believe it. I believe that the brain is a manufacturing machine, and that thought is an adjunct of the brain; but there is something beneath it, sir, that that you haven't touched, and that is, when the brain is in its normal condition, and kept so by the body being supplied with food and raiment, it is then ready to be acted upon, and there is something that makes it act; I took the Bible and asked them to find me something better if they could, than where it is said, there is a spirit in man and the inspiration of the Almighty giveth it understanding. And I accepted the idea that thought was an adjunct of the brain and that the brain manufactured like the millers grinding out the flour; but it made all the difference in the world as to what was tumbling down the millstone.

You take a man and let him think along the diabolical lines of murder, of rape, of crime of every kind, and his brain will begin to manufacture along that line. Let your brains think along the lines of the mechanics as Edison, Morse, as those men have thought and manufactured along that line, and thus thought and invention grows, as an adjunct of the brain. It is just like the steam; that is an adjunct of the boiler too; just like the light, that is the adjunct of the current that flows along the wire; there is something behind it yet that the Scientist did not get down to, but if he would think along the lines of spirituality, and get into the ways in which Christ has declared, that if he would follow Him he should not walk in darkness, but should have the light of life, I ask the question why the brain would not manufacture on that line just the same; and if he went along the other lines and turned his back to the truth of God, and to the Bible and all that has been revealed, why couldn't he manufacture along that line the same way too? So you see, we had him at a disadvantage and he finally gave it up, and would not discuss that proposition longer.

Now we come back to this thought of the church. To follow Christ then, we are entitled to the light of life. He says, "I come that ye might have life and that ye might have it more abundantly." "I am the light of the world," and He is also the light of the church, and the light of the church is an added light to that of the world; and when we get in possession of both, we are in a better condition than we are if we are only in possession of the one. Now if we walk after Christ and obey the ordinances of the gospel, come into the church in the proper way, and receive of the laying on of hands for the gift of that Spirit, or the attachment of the other wire to this light, I ask you, are we not in a better condition than we otherwise would be? I used to hear these old gray-headed sires tell about the laying on of hands, and it used to be stale to my mind. I have heard them preach baptism and the repentance and the laying on of hands for the gift of the Holy Ghost in every sermon until it became stale; and I used to say to myself, "Well, I have had the laying on of hands; I have obeyed this gospel; yet I have never received any of the miraculous things that I have heard others testify to, that I wish. What is the trouble with me? What is the matter with me? Is it all myself? I have heard our elders stand in the pulpit and declare that as soon as the hands were laid upon them, they received the Spirit as a rushing mighty wind, and the heavenly light came into their souls. Well, I believe it is proper and right, and there are many who receive such manifestations, yet I question whether it is best to tell it to an audience outside the church or not. They said that laying on of hands was for the gift of the Holy Ghost, and that I would receive it; but I had never received any rushing, mighty wind; I did not receive any of those wonderful manifestations that I was promised; I had never spoken in tongues or prophecy, or had the wonderful manifestation promised in the gifts of the gospel. What is the trouble with me? I tried to fix it this way; that I was the one that was to blame, that I had not lived right, and therefore I was not entitled to it. How many of you have thought this way in your own minds? But today I look back to the place from whence I was digged; I remember the day I was baptized into this church thirty years ago the twelfth day of last January; I remember when the hands were placed upon me for the gift of the Holy Spirit, and I am prepared to testify this morning, that at that moment there was a seed planted in my heart that was the gift of the Spirit; but do you know, when it was planted there, that I was responsible for its cultivation; we have to grow in grace and in a knowledge of the truth. Not all at once, and while there may be such manifestations that a child may grow to be a man in a moment, spiritually speaking, while there may be such cases as that—I am not prepared to say there are not, and I can believe the testimony of others on that line—yet I am prepared to say that the rule is, that it is a seed and it must be planted first in the heart, and then it must grow according to the cultivation that we give it.

In looking back today I can say in my heart, at that moment when the hands were laid upon me for the gift of the Holy Ghost, that in my heart was planted that germ, that if I would cultivate it, was calculated to take of the things of the Father and reveal unto me, bring that which was promised; if I should follow the Savior that I should not walk in darkness, but have everlasting life, and the light of life. It was the gift, the abiding Comforter, to stay with me; not the light of the world, not the light that lightened every man that cometh into the world, whereby he would do things and achieve victories that were only calculated to bring about the final culmination of good, and be that which would be a stepping stone and an incentive for man to receive the greater light.

It is a different light, indeed; the light to speak in tongues and the light to prophesy, the light to interpret tongues, the light or the power of the Spirit to lay hands upon the sick and they recover. The light to open the eyes of the blind and unstop the ears of the deaf, that belongs to the light of life and to the church of God, and, if we will obey and walk in the ways of Christ, we are promised we shall have this wonderful light, for it is different to the light promised to the world. Yet God blesses the world, blesses other churches as long as individuals do right, as long as they sacrifice, as long as they do their best to love virtue and to hate vice, and to make men better, to live the Golden Rule and sacrifice. I think God would cease to be God if He did not bless them. Therefore, men can rise in every church in our land, and they can say that "I know that God has blessed me. I know that He has opened the way before me, I know that I have received of His Spirit." It is best to give them that position, and not to say, "You have received nothing because you have never obeyed the gospel."

But this church of Christ, thou art all glorious, bright and fair, and revelations are thine. We have hundreds, perhaps, who can delve down into this science they call botany, and can tell us of these beautiful petals and the unfolding of the rose and all about the medicinal properties that are within it; yet for the lack of revealed religion along the church lines, that Christ has promised, they have never yet located the Rose of Sharon, nor the Lily of the valley. It takes the inspiration of God that comes in consequence of the obedience to the gospel that entitles him to the light of life, before he can tell of Jesus, the Christ, and know that He lives. He may have the light of the world, he may be inspired, he may have sacrificed until he is in favor with God, but not have the light of life, that which has entitled you to testify that Jesus is the Christ, and that this gospel which leads us to God, was restored by the angel of God and is for the final salvation of man.

I believe farther than this; that perhaps we have those that can sweep you starry sky and tell us of the beautiful orbs and the shining lights therein and the distances one from the other; but for the lack of this beautiful expression, for the lack of the inspiration of God through obedience, for the lack of the gift of the Holy Ghost, which is implanted in the heart of every one through the channels of the church through the laying on of hands, he has never yet located the Star of Bethlehem, the Bright and the Morning Star, Jesus Christ, our Lord. It takes the inspiration of the church, and therefore Jesus was right when He declared that He was the light of the world, and if any man would follow Him he should not walk in darkness but should have the light of life.

Now, brethren, let us keep away from the extremes; let us pursue the golden mean, it is better. Do you know, I have seen in this church at our Conference, heard our men, grand men, inspired men—not always inspired—why, we cannot read here in this Bible that men were always inspired. Peter, when he stood up on the day of Pentecost and declared to the brethren, being filled with the Holy Ghost, told them to repent, every one of you, and be baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost, for it is to you and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call, he was inspired then; but when he cursed and swore that he did not know the Savior, though it was for the purpose, perhaps, of saving his own life, he was not inspired then. And when John the Baptist stood upon the banks of the Jordan and lifted up his hands and pointed to the Savior that was coming towards him for baptism at his hands, and he said, "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world," that was an inspiration, it came from God; but when he was thrust into the dungeon, when his faith weakened and he sent the messenger down to ask the Savior if He really was the Christ or if he should look for another, he was man only. So it is with us oftentimes, with those men who are inspired of God, and defending the truth to the best of their ability; I have seen in this church our brethren, standing contending over the prophecies that are here, over the same passage, over the same revelation, and all proving their position, seemingly to the hearer—brainy men, standing and contending over the same revelation and at opposites exactly. What does it prove? It proves to me that extremes are dangerous, and that in the center was a golden mean, rising in that revelation that must be of God. It could not be otherwise but be from God because it was the golden mean between the two. And the revelation, when properly understood, men would come finally from one extreme to the center, and from that extreme to the center, and that was the God that was in the revelation.

Let me tell you now a little incident that passed in my life down in Tennessee. I was seated upon a stockyard's fence watching a man coming along a road close to the railroad with a little herd of swine. They are poor down there, they have no corn like you have in Missouri, but he had an old sack on his shoulder and about a peck of corn in there throwing out a few grains of corn and he was tolling on the hogs—tolling them on, and when they would get to the railroad track instead of going over they would turn back and he would go back and throw out a few more grains, and I noticed when they'd get these kernels of corn, they would stumble over each other in their eagerness to get it, and they would get sand in their mouth and stones and gravel, and then they would eject the gravel out at their leisure and enjoy the morsel of corn. These little morsels were thrown out and he tolled them on and on, until finally he was over the railroad track and down into the pens, and the doors were shut and the bolts were shot and they were prisoners.

I learned a lesson by looking at that. It was this: that the human family relish these little morsels that are thrown out by him who wants to capture us, and he keeps tolling us on; the little morsel is thrown out, we grab for it. What is it?—I want to get even with my brother, I will get even with him. That is a little morsel. It is sweet. The lusts of the flesh, the lusts of our appetites, these are the morsels that are thrown out; we are tolled on and on. Finally we get a little scared; we run back and get away, but here comes the toller again and throws us out a few more; we keep on and on and on and finally, it occurred to me, that through these morsels that were thrown out to us by the adversary we would finally be tolled on and on and the remorse would be the gravel that we would throw out at our leisure; but we would be tolled on and on until finally we would be in the prison pens and the bolts would be shot. I made up my mind then and there that I would not indulge any more; that I would not be an extremist on any hand. I would try and follow the golden mean. I would do my duty as I saw it clearly and I would trust to God for the balance. I said to myself, Do not take the baits longer that are throw out to you; they are the baits of the adversary.

It is said in the 8th chapter of the Proverbs, "He that sins against me wrongs his soul," and that soul is the spirit when it is reunited with the body after the resurrection, then it becomes an immortal soul; and if we could stand at the bar of God and it was possible to see our soul standing there; if it was possible for us to look upon it in its paralyzed and dejected condition and sad countenance and without a star in its diadem, we would say, "It was I who did it. I accepted the tollings; I ate the morsels and tasted the remorse; I have rejected God's counsel; I have not grown in grace nor the knowledge of the truth; I have indulged in the extremes and this is the result. I have sinned against God and I have wronged my soul."

May God add His blessing and help us to live this beautiful gospel and receive the crown of everlasting life at last, is my prayer. Amen.

Reported by Sr. Belle Robinson Jones.

The Relation of the Primary Department to The Sunday School.

SR. M. EUNICE WINN.

Al! what would the world be to us if children were no more. We should dread the desert behind us.

Worse than the dark before.

For what are all our contrivings And the wisdom of our boys, When compared with their carresses And the gladness of their looks.

They are better than all the ballads, That ever were sung or said, For they are living poems, And all the rest are dead.

Imagine, if you can, a Sunday School without primaries, and perhaps your minds will begin to have a faint idea as to the relationship of the Sunday School to this department. Does it not appear to you that half the music, half the joy and happiness, half the love and goodness will be lacking in such a school, in the absence of the little ones, with their flower-like faces raised confidingly to their teachers, drinking in and firmly believing everything that she tells them? In short, do you not believe that the Sunday School without primaries falls short of its aim by half?

The Sunday School was originated for the children. We know that the senior pupils and about fifty per cent of the intermediates can get nearly all that they do get in the Sunday School, from sermons at church, from the Religio, and from reading; but there is no place for the little tots to get their early religious ideas but in the Sunday School, unless we except the home, which, of course, gives the child the greater number of its impressions; and there are not many homes in the church now in which the children are not instructed to some degree in the first principles of right living. But there are homes from which some of our members come, where religion is not mentioned, and these children take a keen delight, while they are young, in attending Sunday School. Children have few places to go when small, for the wisest mothers keep them at home a great deal; every step they take into the world is a revelation to their little minds, and leaves impressions that are hard to efface. As soon as they are three or four years of age they are started to the Sunday School, and there, in the primary department, comes their first lessons in self-sacrifice, in pleasing others, and in feeling that they are of some importance, and help to make up the Sunday School. This place becomes a happy part of their lives and the impressions received there are most lasting.

The Sunday School is often spoken of as a help to the church, and it certainly has been such; not so much in bringing the gospel to people who have never heard of it, but in leading the little lambs safely into the fold, and inculcating desires in their hearts to remain there. If we had statistics I believe that fifty per cent of those who join the church through the work of the Sunday School, are members of the primary department.

I know there are some Saints who shake their heads and refuse to allow their children to join at eight years of age, thinking them too young; but this seems to me to be a great mistake. In the first place, any ordinary child of eight years can comprehend the first principles of the gospel; and our Father knew this, or He would not have given us this law. And in the second place, I will say, that I cannot think of their being in any better position than in the church. When we take the covenant, innocent little ones, having no thought of what the future may hold for us, what trials and sorrows, but only knowing that we believe in God, and that because we are very sorry, he will forgive our sins if we are baptized; then the loving Father is watching over us, and while we are thoughtless children, and often wild and careless youths and maidens, still His mercy is very great to us; and sometime—it may be when our sorrows, or our sins have driven us to the very brink of despair, and we have no comfort, no pleasure in things of the world—then there will come to us a tender touch of that gentle Spirit, leading our minds back to our early impressions of God's love and goodness; and if we give its wooing influence place in our hearts, it brings us, perhaps slowly and painfully, to the realization that God's hand has been over us all through the years, and why? Because, it seems to me, that we are one of His children, and He will be waiting and watching for our return, just as the father of the prodigal son watched for him, and went to meet him as soon as he saw him coming.

More than one of our active young people have borne testimony to just such experience as this; and more than one have said, "Had I not joined the church when I was little, and knew no better, I should not be a member today." Still others have wanted to become members at eight years of age, but, not being allowed to do so, have been caught by the follies of life and wandered farther and farther from good, until their hearts have been no place in their hearts for holy things and they have never known them. Knowing this, is it not clear to you what the relationship of the Sunday School to the primary department is?

One of our elders, speaking to me at one time, of my work in the primary department, said, "I feel that these little ones whom you have taught and influenced, will many of them be as bright jewels in your crown," and the Spirit bore witness to me at the time, of God's approval of the work; and often since, when those little ones have told me of praying, and having their prayers answered, when I have seen them call for the elders when they have been sick, with such faith that the blessing came immediately; when I have heard them defending our mode of baptism and other doctrinal points, I have rejoiced that I have been the means, in God's hands, of sowing seed that had apparently not fallen on ground composed of the stones of doubt, worldly pride, ambitions for fame, and other things that help to make the soil of our older hearts less fertile. The seeds had been sown as unquestionable truths; "Our teacher said so and we know it is true," say the children, and as long as they have this confiding faith in us, let us keep it alive by being all they believe us, and making the Sunday School a place of all places for them to go. I believe that children whom we may have under us, whose parents are not of our faith, may be so thoroughly impressed with our doctrines and beliefs that, even should they wander away after leaving the primary department, those truths will be the foundation of their religious ideas, and when they seek religion, they will be guided by those thoughts in selecting their church.

It seems that we might compare the Sunday School to a parent with three children, all of whom have chosen their aim in life. The parent will naturally help the one who has the most to overcome, the farthest to go and the hardest work to do. I believe the primary department has the success of the school depending on it more than any other department. I believe that its results, be they good or evil, are the most far reaching and lasting; and for this reason I think the relation of the Sunday School to this department should be that of the loving parent, assisting its most burdened child. Every feature of the school should tend to hold the interest and appreciation of the primaries, for, in short, the primary department is the principal cause for the school's existence.

Royal Kinsmen Of Europe.

So many sovereigns and heirs to thrones have never gathered in any European capital before at one time, it is said, as recently assembled for the funeral of Victoria. A large number of these royal personages were related to the late queen by blood or marriage. Edward VII inherits a connection with most of the reigning houses of Europe. Family ties will still make for peace, although they do not bind the occupants of other thrones so closely to the new king as to his mother.

Emperor William, the most notable visitor at the funeral, is a grandson of Victoria, and consequently a nephew of Edward VII. The king's sister is the Dowager Empress of Germany. His son, the British heir apparent, is the Kaiser's cousin. The king of Greece, another attendant at the funeral, is a brother-in-law of Edward VII. The English sovereign is uncle of the Crown Princess of Greece. His grand-nephew is heir to the Grecian throne. Another niece of Edward is the Czarina of Russia, the Czar is his wife's nephew. The Grand Duke Michael, brother of the Czar, who will represent him at the funeral, is heir presumptive to the Russian throne.

King Edward is uncle of the Crown Princess of Roumania, and is grand-uncle of an heir to that throne. He is the son-in-law of King Christian of Denmark. His daughter, Maud, was married to Prince Karl of Denmark, second son of the Danish heir apparent. A sister-in-law of Queen Alexandra is niece of King Oscar of Sweden. The King of the Belgians is a cousin of Victoria and a second cousin of her son.

By blood or marriage Edward VII is uncle of the Emperor of Germany and the Czar of Russia, and of the heirs to the thrones of Denmark and Greece. He is grand-uncle of future sovereigns of Germany, Denmark, Greece and Roumania. The new king is credited with being a man of great tact. He will doubtless make full use of his connection with the royal families of Europe in his endeavors to maintain peace.—Editorial in Kansas City Star, February 1.

"AUTOTOGRAPHY OF ELDER JOSEPH LUFF;" 377 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations. Reduced from $1.00 to..... 75

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider social purity, to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Under your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 457, Independence, Mo.
Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
Mrs. Luena Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 212 North Compton Ave., St. Louis, Missouri.

A WORD to the girls who are working merely "for fun" or a little spending money. My advice is, don't do it. Girls, you will come in contact with so many, many things in offices that are hard to unlearn, and hard to forget when once learned, that you are better off at home, even if you have to wear the same gown, well, a good many seasons. I know it is nice to be independent, but that is not all. While I admire the girl who bravely puts her shoulder to the wheel and financially helps out an overburdened father, brother, and sometimes mother, still I also admire that girl who prefers to stay home, if she can do so without selfishness, and learn the good, old-fashioned art of housekeeping, the equally valuable art of making her own clothes and helping her mother, rather than seeking to shirk it for the sake of a few clothes.

Girls in offices learn to hear things without blushing, to do things to "hold their own" that they would shrink from otherwise, and above all they lose the desire for their homes, and many a girl goes to her own, sadly deficient in those qualities that go to make up good homes, in fact ignorant of them, and not ashamed to say so.

Of course, all girls are not that way, but the tendency is far too great; so girls, while I do not wish you to be unwilling to help if the need exists, do not do it if you are not obliged to.

Thoughts For Thinking Daughters of Zion.

Editor Daughters' Column:—I am grateful to you and to the advisory board for your recognition of my feeble efforts of the past, and for the cordial invitation to write in the interests of Mothers' work; but in undertaking to do so, I must confess it is with fear and trembling, for I know that my way of presenting thoughts is plain and crude, and not up-to-date in smooth and flattering words. I also feel the great responsibility of becoming an educator, especially upon the subject of "Parenthood," for it is so deep and so far-reaching in its effects, both for good or for evil to man, that I truly feel incompetent to do it justice, nevertheless I will try to stir up abler minds by writing a few thoughts for thinking mothers.

Lawful parentage reaches upward and backward to the source of all life, God our Father, and in the lawful reproduction of species parents come into close and direct co-partnership with creative Power, while LUSTFUL and UNLAWFUL reproduction reaches downward and forward through all the intricacies of life and heredity, which, by fixed and immutable laws, carries with it tendencies to evil throughout succeeding generations (I do not mean by this statement that inherited tendencies to the bad or to the diseased may not be overcome by proper education and environment, for this would make fatalism true, and destroy the plan of redemption). Now, if these statements are true (and I believe they are), then we can see how deep and far-reaching the plan of salvation must be; that it must reach, educate, reform and arrest this terrible crime of ignorantly entering into the marriage relations through lust; not realizing that marriage was only designed of God for but one purpose, i. e., the lawful reproduction of species.

Now, let me ask you representatives of the church, and especially ye daughters of Zion, and those who have the direction and education of coming

CHRONIC HEART DISEASE PROMPTLY CURED.

THE EMINENT SPECIALIST, FRANKLIN MILLS, M. D., LIVERMORE, CALIF., CURED AFTER FROM 5 to 30 DOCTORS FAILED. A $2.50 COURSE OF HIS COMPLETE TREATMENT IS OFFERED FREE, AS A TRIAL.

To convince every sufferer that his new Special Treatment possesses rare and uncommon healing qualities in all cases of heart disease—especially when accompanied with short breath, pain in the side, oppression in the chest, palpitation, smothering spells, puffing of the ankles or dropsy—as well as when complicated with stomachic and nervous troubles, Dr. Mills will give them a $2.50 course free.

Other physicians may have failed. Your case may have been declared "incurable," but the doctor has such faith in his treatment that he is willing to leave the proof with you. Only the most scientific remedies are used, the treatment being specially prescribed for each patient.

The Complete Special Treatments are the result of 25 years of close study, careful research and extraordinary success. They are far in advance of the medicines used by the ordinary doctor and few physicians show such faith in their remedies. There is no reason why this opportunity should not be taken by every sufferer before it is too late.

Mrs. August Kronck of Huntington, Ind., cured after 30 physicians failed; Mrs. Flora Graeter of Bristolville, O., after 22; Mrs. R. Parker of Mishawaka, Ind., after 16; Mrs. H. E. Cole, Pittsburg, Pa., after 8; and Mrs. E. Norris of Windsor, O., after 5 gave her up.

A thousand references to and testimonials from Bishops, Clergymen, Bankers, Educators, and their wives, will be sent free on request.

Send at once to Franklin Mills, M. D., L. L. B., 201 to 209 State Street, Chicago, Ill., for copyrighted examination chart and pamphlet. Mention this paper.

mothers and fathers, has the gospel power of redemption reached, educated and reformed you along these lines? If NOT, why not? I presume that about nine-tenths of the older brethren and sisters will have to plead with me and with the Apostle Paul, "I did it ignorantly in unbelief" (1 Tim. 1: 13), not having been taught, neither knowing the power nor the extent of the gospel. Therefore me and mine will have, to a degree, to bear the consequences of this ignorance, but having learned by sad experience I now want to give coming parents the benefit of my long experience and thorough investigations along these lines of thought. In conclusion let me say that the only true educators are those who practice what they teach.

Your brother in gospel bonds,
A. HAWS.
2054 Polk St., San Francisco, Cal.
February 20.

TAKE "America's Most Popular Railway" (Chicago & Alton) to the General Conference, beginning April 6th. Passengers can procure meals or lunch at all hours on our lines. Our motto: "Safety, Speed and Comfort."

Group Picture.

To the High Priests, Greeting—Group picture completed, and will be on sale at Independence, at the General Conference. Photographs loaned me have been returned. If any fail to receive their copy, please let me know at once.

In bonds,
ROBT. M. ELVIN.

To Conference Visitors.

Bro. C. G. Gould will haul trunks to and from points inside city limits for 35 cents round trip. Valises, etc., in proportion. Enquire for him of Reception Committee at train.

FOR SALE.

I will offer for sale at Lamoni, Iowa, one frame live room house, two blocks from business center, and one frame six room house, three blocks from business center. Also one frame two story, eight room house, three blocks from business center. All of the above property has good wells and cisterns and barns, and all in good repair, and all paying good rental. For particulars apply to

B. D. FLEET,
Lamoni, Iowa.

FOR SALE.

House of five rooms, cellar, porches, cistern, never falling well. Lot 200 feet deep, trees, all kinds of fruit, shrubbery and flowers. One block from Electric line; near the Missouri Pacific depot; two blocks from L. D. S. church and school; $1,000. Inquire at Telegraph Office, Missouri Pacific depot.

FOR SALE.

Five room house, lot 50x150. Baro, good well, several fruit and shade trees. Also four and one-third acres of good garden land three miles out on a good rock road. Price each $500.-50; both $1,000. J. Tankard, 810 S. Grand Avenue, Independence, Missouri.

WANTED.

Some brother who is an all-around photographer, and is not working now, to write to me in regard to operating a gallery in Nebraska.

FRANK LIMBUS,
Hershey, Neb.

FOR SALE.

A fine stone front residence one mile east of court house, Independence, Missouri, on Macadam road. Ten rooms, bath room and furnace; fifteen acres of ground, large barn, tenant house, stone spring house, etc. Young orchard and vineyard. Address Box 90, Independence, Mo.

ECZEMA, ITCHING HUMORS, PIMPLES.

Treatment Free.

Does your Skin Itch and Burn? Distressing Eruptions on the Skin so you feel ashamed to be seen in company? Do Scabs and Scales form on the Skin, Hair or Scalp? Have you Eczema? Skin Sore and Cracked? Rash form on the Skin? Prickly Pain in the Skin? Swollen Joints? Falling Hair? All Run Down? Skin Pale? Old Sores? Eating Sores? Ulcers? To cure to stay cured take B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) which makes the blood pure and rich, then the sores will heal and the itching of eczema stop forever, the skin become clear and the breath sweet. Trial treatment sent free and prepaid by writing to BLOOD BALM CO., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Georgia. Describe your trouble and free medical advice given until cured. Blood Balm sold by druggists at $1.00 per large bottle.

THE DAILY ENSIGN during the coming General Conference for 25 cents for the entire session. Send orders as soon as possible and thus aid us in arranging our lists.

BELGIAN HARES.

Have some nice young Belgian Hares for sale at reasonable prices. Call and see them when you come to conference, or address

J. W. LUFF,
Independence, Mo.

Epworth League Meeting.

San Francisco, California, July 12-21, 1901, round trip $15.00. Stop over allowed in each direction. For full particulars call "29."

National Shooting Festival of National Shooting Bund, Shell Mound Park, California, July 14-23, at round trip, $15.00.

J. W. DUGAN, Agr.

FOR SALE.

On North Main Street, Independence, Mo., three-fourths of a mile from the Square. Lot 1/2 acres, fronting three streets; four roomed house, good barn, carriage house, workshop, hay chamber, three-stalled cow house separate. Full of large and small fruits, in fine bearing condition; good asparagus bed; the well with never failing spring; $1,250. Apply to Mrs. E. A. STEVENS, 108 Chrysler Ave., Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE.

Eight room house, lot 80x150 feet, barn, cistern, city water, fruit, flowers and shrubbery, 1110 West Elm. About two blocks from Saints' church. Mrs. L. HUTCHENS, Independence, Mo.

AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR RAILWAY
CHICAGO AND ALTON
PERFECT PASSENGER SERVICE

CHICAGO, ST. LOUIS, KANSAS CITY, PEORIA, DENVER AND POINTS IN ILLINOIS, MISSOURI AND TERRITORY BEYOND.

HAVE YOU PILES OR HEMORRHOIDS?

I cure them without knife, caustic, or loss of a drop of blood. Cases of twenty-eight years standing cured as easily as acute cases. John L. Lobb, a government cattle inspector, at stock yards, Kansas City, was afflicted for twenty-eight years, was cured in from three to five days. Why not, while attending conference, be cured of your piles, and go back home a new man or woman? I refer, by permission, to Col. J. W. Mercer, vice president of First National Bank, or Henry Rummell, deputy sheriff; I could refer to scores of both men and women as I cured one hundred and forty-two within last two years.

DR. S. R. BERG,
Box 572, INDEPENDENCE, MO.

A Bargain $600 will buy a six room house and over 3 acres choice land at Lamoni if taken soon. One-half cash. Address with return stamp, Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Have You Seen "LAMONI PULPITS" in the INDEPENDENT PATRIOT?

A synopsis of one sermon a week from the Saints' pulpit in Lamoni, appears in the Patriot. Subscription one dollar per year. Address, THE PATRIOT, Lamoni, Iowa. A postal card brings a sample copy.

ALL SECRET SOCIETIES THE TRUE CHURCH OF THE DEVIL.

BY GEORGE E. PAGE,
Price 5 Cents. Agents Wanted in Every Town. Address, G. E. Page, Independence, Mo.

BIG INDUCEMENTS

Having removed our Guilford stock to Barnard, Missouri, and having just received a large line of BRAN NEW UP-TO-DATE Clothing, Dry Goods, Shoes and Hats, we are better prepared to supply the demands of our large and increasing trade, than ever before.

We have purchased a lot of Prince Albert and Clerical Cut Garments from the American Tailors which they had left on their hands. We have bought these cheap and CAN SAVE YOU MONEY. 20 per cent off regular price to the ministry.

NATIONAL MERCANTILE CO.
G. J. Whitehead & Co., Proprietors,
BARNARD, MO.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE,
LAMONI, IOWA.

An institution of learning under the auspices of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, located at Lamoni, Iowa. For catalogue, or other information, write to L. W. Allender, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI,

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898. Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Eastern readers, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on year deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of same a credit will be deposited with interest and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered. List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Resseguie, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Blair.

A Singer Sewing Machine

THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, brings more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible. THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch. BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world, where every machine is carefully tested on practical stitching.

Sold only by
THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO.
CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY.
Phone 190-3.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle

The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA.
Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

20 Acres

of as nice, smooth land as you ever saw. A short walk from L. D. S. church and Public School in Lamoni. Worth $2,000; $1,500 will buy it now, on easy terms. If interested write the owner.

D. F. NICHOLSON,
Lamoni, Iowa.

SAINTS AND FRIENDS:—Remember that I am still in the mail order clothing business. For years I have served you and my reputation speaks for itself. Send me your order or write for my price list. I also have two good organs for sale cheap. Address
E. T. ATWELL,
Cumorah, Mo.

UWANTOQUIT

using tobacco. "QUIT-TO-BAC" makes it easy to stop using it. Three boxes, postpaid, only $1.50 with POSITIVE GUARANTEE to cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY,
Peoria, Ill.

SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST. 35TH YEAR.
(INCORPORATED)
East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg. Kansas City, Mo.
Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches, Twenty Rooms, Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue.
FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.
Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to Miss M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Mo. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

CANCER CURED
WITH SOOTHING, BALMY OILS.
Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Womb Diseases.
Dr. E. Sherman, 1111 1/2 St., Chicago, Ill. (Corner of 11th and Broadway).
Write for Illustrated Book and Free Sample.
DR. EYE, 9th and Broadway, KANSAS CITY, MO.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT
The Regular $5.00 Waterproof MACKINTOSH for $2.75.
Send no money. Cut this out and send to us. State your height, weight, state number of inches around neck, waist, over vest, under coat, close up your arms, and we will send you this coat by express, C. O. D., subject to examination. Examination at your nearest express office and if correct as represented, the most wonderful best quality waterproof rain coat, made and equal to any $500 coat on the market, will be sent free. Address manufacturer's price $2.75 and express charges.
THIS MACKINTOSH is the latest and best quality waterproof fabric and guaranteed waterproof. Satisfaction guaranteed. The greatest bargain ever offered. Write for free samples of Men's Mackintoshes, from $1.50 up, and guaranteed bicycle tires, from $3.95 up. We can save you money. Address
H. S. DILLER & CO., 305 Dearborn St., Chicago.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT.

THAINS WEST.		a.m.
No. 95—Wichita and K. C. Mail	12:40
" 9—Kansas & Nebraska	1:10	4:34
" 93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex.	8:16
" 3—St. Louis Express	8:33
" 73—Lexington Branch Pass.	8:36
" 7—Fast Mail	10:00
THAINS EAST.		a.m.
" 91—Joplin and K. C. Mail	2:16
" 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex.	4:17
" 5—St. Louis Mail	5:55
" 71—Lexington Branch Pass.	6:41
THAINS EAST.		a.m.
No. 96—K. C. & Wichita Mail	2:22
" 72—Lexington Branch Pass.	6:45
" 6—St. Louis Mail	7:23
" 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail	8:37
" 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	10:17
" 78—Lex. Branch Passenger	6:10
" 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	1:13
" 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex.	1:40
" 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	7:30
" 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited	11:12

Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop.

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.

THAINS WEST		a.m.
No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass.	8:30
" 71—	8:40
THAINS EAST		a.m.
No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass.	6:56
" 73—	6:15

Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON

EAST BOUND.		a.m.
" 101—Local Way Freight	7:07
" 41—St. Louis & Chicago Mail	8:30
WEST BOUND.		a.m.
" 85—Chicago Limited	5:51
" 51—Chicago Limited	6:40
" 48—St. Louis Flyer	9:40
WEST BOUND.		a.m.
" 84—	9:15
" 102—Local Way Freight	2:40
" 8—Chicago & St. Louis Mail	5:51

All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on J. W. DUGAN, Agent, J. CHASE, or G. F. ST. AG. CHICAGO.

BISHOP'S ANNUAL REPORT

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES OF THE REORGANIZED CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER DAY SAINTS, FROM JANUARY 10, 1900 TO JANUARY 10, 1901.

SUMMARY STATEMENT.

Table with columns for Receipts by Bishop and Expenditures by Bishop. Includes items like 'On hand last report', 'Tithes and offerings from bishop's agent', 'Bills payable', etc.

EXPENDITURES. Table listing various expenses such as 'Paid elders' families', 'Elders expenses', 'Aid poor', etc.

REPORT OF GEORGE H. HILLIARD, COUNSELOR.

Table with columns for Receipts and Expenditures. Includes 'From tithes and offerings', 'Bishop', 'Bishop's agents', etc.

REPORT OF ELDERS.

Table with columns for Receipts and Expenditures. Includes 'Balance on hand last report', 'Donations by Saints and friends', etc.

AVAILABLE ASSETS: TITHE AND OFFERING FUND.

Table listing assets such as 'Cash, Bishop's account', 'Cash in hands of agents', 'Accounts receivable', etc.

LIABILITIES.

Table listing liabilities such as 'Due bishop's agents', 'Accounts payable', 'Bills payable', etc.

SAINTS' HOME AND RESERVE FUND.

Table with columns for Receipts and Expenditures. Includes 'By sales, corrections and donations', 'From bills payable', etc.

HOME FUND.

Table listing assets such as '150 1/2 acres land', 'Buildings and fixtures', 'Real estate, Omaha, Nebraska', etc.

EXPENDITURES BY BISHOP.

Large table listing various expenses under the heading 'EXPENDITURES BY BISHOP', including 'Aid poor', 'Auditing committee expense', 'Bills and accounts payable', etc.

ACCOUNT WITH AGENTS.

Table with columns for Receipts and Liabilities. Includes 'Balance due church last report', 'Received from Bishop', etc.

INDEPENDENCE CHURCH FUND.

Table with columns for Receipts and Expenditures. Includes 'Balance on hand last report', 'Collections', 'Due church', etc.

TEMPLE SPECIAL CONSERATION FUND.

Table with columns for Receipts and Expenditures. Includes 'Balance last report', 'Corrections', 'Donations', etc.

TOTAL ASSETS OF CHURCH AND HOME.

Table listing assets such as 'January 10, 1901', 'Church's home', 'Saints' Home', etc.

TOTAL LIABILITIES AGAINST CHURCH AND HOME.

Table listing liabilities such as 'On-church account', 'Home account less $6,500 due church', etc.

E. L. KELLEY.

LAMONI, Iowa, March 30, 1901.

General Conference Notice.

Members of Reception committee will wear a ribbon on the lapel of their coat, will meet all trains on the Missouri Pacific and Chicago & Alton Railroads, and direct visitors to the church and places of board.

Reduced Rates to General Conference.

NEW ENGLAND ASSOCIATION. Word has just been received from the New England Passenger Association granting reduced rates to the General Conference, etc.

SOUTH WESTERN ASSOCIATION.

This Association, covering portions of Texas and Oklahoma (portions of which territory are covered by rates granted by the Western Association, however), has not yet replied definitely on rates, though early applied to.

RELIGIO PROGRAM.

TUESDAY, April 2, 7:30 p. m. Preliminary meeting, reports of districts and locals, appointment of committees, brief speeches.

GENERAL CONVENTIONS.

WEDNESDAY, April 30, 8:30 a. m. Prayer meeting, fasting for morning meal.

RELIGIO PROGRAM.

TUESDAY, April 2, 7:30 p. m. Preliminary meeting, reports of districts and locals, appointment of committees, brief speeches.

RELIGIO PROGRAM.

WEDNESDAY, April 30, 8:30 a. m. Prayer meeting, fasting for morning meal. 10 a. m. Reports of officers and committees. Business. Election of officers. Unfinished business.

hymn; invocation; address, "1893-1901," Pres. J. A. Gunsolley; reading, Ruth L. Smith; music; in charge of Ralph G. Smith; address or paper, "Home Class," Marie H. Clark; music; talk, "The Place of the Book of Mormon," (a) In the literature of the world, (b) In the literature of the church; anthem; doxology; benediction.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAM.

THURSDAY, April 4th, 10 a. m. Organization, report of credential committee, short addresses. etc. Reports of general officers.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAM.

THURSDAY, April 4th, 10 a. m. Organization, report of credential committee, short addresses. etc. Reports of general officers.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAM.

FRIDAY, April 5th, 9 a. m. Prayer meeting. 10 a. m. Business (continued).

SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAM.

FRIDAY, April 5th, 9 a. m. Prayer meeting. 10 a. m. Business (continued). Election of officers (special order). No new business to be introduced after 4 p. m.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAM.

FRIDAY, April 5th, 9 a. m. Prayer meeting. 10 a. m. Business (continued). Election of officers (special order). No new business to be introduced after 4 p. m.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAM.

FRIDAY, April 5th, 9 a. m. Prayer meeting. 10 a. m. Business (continued). Election of officers (special order). No new business to be introduced after 4 p. m.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAM.

FRIDAY, April 5th, 9 a. m. Prayer meeting. 10 a. m. Business (continued). Election of officers (special order). No new business to be introduced after 4 p. m.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAM.

FRIDAY, April 5th, 9 a. m. Prayer meeting. 10 a. m. Business (continued). Election of officers (special order). No new business to be introduced after 4 p. m.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAM.

FRIDAY, April 5th, 9 a. m. Prayer meeting. 10 a. m. Business (continued). Election of officers (special order). No new business to be introduced after 4 p. m.

five having preceded her. She had twenty-eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild. In tement at Freeman chapel, Buchanan county, Missouri, services conducted by Bro. Wm. Lewis, sermon by T. T. Hinders.

BASS.—At Moncraw Springs, Missouri, March 15, 1901, after an illness of 19 days Bro. W. W. Bass. He passed away in full faith having lived a devoted christian life. He leaves a wife and three children, two of whom are married, to mourn his departure. Funeral services by Elder C. P. Welsh.

GOFF.—At his home near Nevada, Missouri, Sunday, March 17, 1901, Elder Henry E. Goff, aged 60 years, 9 months, 13 days. For five years he presided over the Laguna branch, Los Angeles county, California, and for ten years over the Nevada branch, Missouri. Death came to him very suddenly; he had been pleasantly conversing after supper, when he fell from his chair, expiring instantly. He was esteemed by all who knew him, and leaves a wife, two sons and three daughters to mourn their loss. He was buried at Nevada, Missouri. Funeral sermon by High Priest A. H. Parsons.

ROGERS.—At Desoto, Illinois, March 15, 1901, Bro. David Rogers. He was born in Hampshire county, Virginia, January 17, 1820; married Hester Dundore February 14, 1851. Four sons and one daughter were born to them, who survive to mourn their loss, the mother having gone on a few years before. He was a faithful follower of the Savior, was baptized into the Reorganized church of Latter Day Saints August, 1898. Funeral Sunday afternoon, March 17, 1901.

Father's merry voice is strangely hushed, And closed his laughing eyes, His gentle, loving, tender heart, In solemn slumber lies. The summer sun and summer rain, Sweet flowers to life shall kiss, And thoughts shall bloom that he is free From sorrows such as this.

Father's merry voice is strangely hushed, And closed his laughing eyes, His gentle, loving, tender heart, In solemn slumber lies.

The summer sun and summer rain, Sweet flowers to life shall kiss, And thoughts shall bloom that he is free From sorrows such as this.

BARTLETT.—At Denver, Colorado, December 11, 1900, to Bro. Herbert and Sr. Ella Bartlett, a son; blessed March 10, 1901, by Elders J. B. Roush and E. F. Shupe, and named Milton Francis.

DIED.

(One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.) KRIEDEL.—At Wellston, Ohio, March 6th, 1901, infant daughter of Bro. and Sr. Charles Kriebel. Born June 24, 1900. Funeral sermon by Elder J. L. Goodrich, at Mt. Carmel church.

COOK.—At Gaylord, Kansas, March 12th, of spinal meningitis and typhoid fever, Lee Joseph Ellsworth, oldest son of Bro. and Sr. W. E. Cook. He was born August 17, 1885, at Gaylord, Kansas; baptized May 3, 1899, by Elder W. S. Pender; services in the M. E. church, sermon by Elder L. F. Johnson, assisted by Rev. R. E. Dimond. Our young brother was held in very high esteem by all who knew him.

WIBBERLY.—At Lagrange, Ohio, on Friday, November 2, 1900, Sr. Annie (Gwilliams) Wibberly. She was born October 21, 1852, at Aymstrey, Herefordshire, England, and became a member of the Reorganized church January 23, 1883, at Burton-on-Trent, England, sailing for America on the 28th of March, 1888, coming to Ironton, Ohio, June 6th, same year. Funeral sermon at La Grange, Ohio, December 30, 1900, by Elder J. L. Goodrich. She left a life-count closed without one blot or stain to mar its fair page. She leaves her husband and one married son to mourn her departure.

POWELL.—At Hemple, Missouri, March 2, 1901, Sr. Ann Powell, wife of David J. Powell. She was born August 15, 1832, in Llandovery, South Wales, united with the old organization in 1849, was married to D. J. Powell in 1850 and came to America the same year. She united with the Reorganization in 1866 and lived a consistent life to the last. She was the mother of thirteen children; she leaves a husband and eight children,

POWELL.—At Hemple, Missouri, March 2, 1901, Sr. Ann Powell, wife of David J. Powell. She was born August 15, 1832, in Llandovery, South Wales, united with the old organization in 1849, was married to D. J. Powell in 1850 and came to America the same year. She united with the Reorganization in 1866 and lived a consistent life to the last. She was the mother of thirteen children; she leaves a husband and eight children,

POWELL.—At Hemple, Missouri, March 2, 1901, Sr. Ann Powell, wife of David J. Powell. She was born August 15, 1832, in Llandovery, South Wales, united with the old organization in 1849, was married to D. J. Powell in 1850 and came to America the same year. She united with the Reorganization in 1866 and lived a consistent life to the last. She was the mother of thirteen children; she leaves a husband and eight children, Advertisement for Ayer's Pills. Includes text: 'Look at your tongue. Is it coated? Then you have a bad taste in your mouth every morning. Your appetite is poor, and food distresses you. You have frequent headaches and are often dizzy. Your stomach is weak and your bowels are always constipated. There's an old and reliable cure: Ayer's Pills. Don't take a cathartic dose and then stop. Better take a laxative dose each night, just enough to cause one good free movement the day following. You feel better the very next day. Your appetite returns, your dyspepsia is cured, your headaches pass away, your tongue clears up, your liver acts well, and your bowels no longer give you trouble. Price, 25 cents. All druggists. "I have taken Ayer's Pills for 35 years, and I consider them the best medicine. One pill does me more good than half a box of any other kind I have ever tried." Mrs. M. E. Talbot, March 30, 1892, Arrington, Kans.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, APRIL 4, 1901

NUMBER 14.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to, ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When sending your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,

Independence, Mo.

Box B.

SELF MEASUREMENT.

One of the most difficult duties, apparently, which the followers of the Lord have to perform, is that of measuring themselves, and in such effort to use the true standard of measurement. There is but one standard, and by it will every one be judged when the final test of character shall be given by which every individual shall receive their reward for their stewardship. The apostle, referring to the organization of Christ's church, with apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors and teachers, for the perfecting of the body of Christ, declares such organization is to continue, "Till we all come in the unity, of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ."—Eph. 4:13.

Sometimes individuals are heard giving as an excuse as to why they do not unite with the church, that they have observed the conduct of some of those who are members of the church, and have concluded that they were just as good as those members, and, consequently, were just as well off outside, as in, the fold. Of course this is illogical and founded upon wrong premises; they are using a false measurement, and do not, therefore, reach correct conclusions. Others again, somewhat weak in the faith, have beheld some who made profession of being Christians or Saints, engaging in some of the questionable ways of the world, and have decided that if it was safe for such to follow, it was also permissible in them. They have seen some who were thought to be good church members, frequenting the such worldly amusements as the dance and the theatre, and judged that they were justified in pursuing the same course. The Apostle Paul evidently met with the same kind of deductions in some of his experiences, for he thus condemns it:

For we dare not make ourselves of the number, or compare ourselves with some that commend themselves: but they measuring themselves by themselves, and comparing themselves among themselves, are not wise.—2 Cor. 10:12.

This is not making use of the right basis of measurement and Paul realized, as all true followers of the Master must, that it was improper and unsafe to compare the things of the Spirit by the methods of this world; they will not compare. There never has, never will be but one pattern or measure by which to determine right and wrong. "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased, hear ye him" (Matthew 17: 5), the voice of God, the Almighty One, declared, when our Savior came from the baptismal grave. There can be no evasion of this command without consequent retribution. Jesus Christ was, because of the perfect obedience rendered the commands of the Father, made the exponent and representatives of the "Way of Life," and His statement is:

I am the light of the world; he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.—John 8:12.

In the light of this declaration, it is a sound argument then, that as Jesus is "the light of the world," those who do not follow Him, shall, and do, walk in darkness, and the ultimate of such procedure is to consign the unwise one who follows it, to the "ditch" or the prison house, where he may have ample time to contemplate upon, and repent of, his folly. After the crucifixion and resurrection of our Lord, there seemed to be an additional reason for accepting Him as the only pattern for the child of God to follow, and that is found in His statement in Matthew 28: 18:

ALL power is given unto me in heaven and in earth,

Under this condition His word, His commandment, is absolute; from it there is no appeal, and when He lays down a rule of action, no man, no woman, is justified in adopting or following any other, provided they have any desire for eternal happiness. And hence, any individual, or set of individuals who may seek to excuse themselves in doing some unrighteous act, because some other man had done so, are unwise, and the fruitage will be found unwholesome to their spiritual well being. This conclusion applies equally as strongly to that class of individuals who, when the gospel of Christ is preached to them by His ministers, and they are more than half convinced of its truth, hide themselves behind the excuse that "my father"—or perhaps it is the mother—was a Christian, they were never immersed, and I know they are in heaven;" or "My father and mother were members of the Methodist church and what was good enough for them, is good enough for me." Such are simply "measuring themselves by themselves," and leaving Christ out of it altogether. Paul says they who do so "are not wise."

When, on one occasion, the Jews made claim to being the children of Abraham, the Savior met the assertion with the statement, that "If ye were Abraham's children, ye would do the works of Abraham" (John 8: 39). They had used the wrong measure, and hence, when the correct one was applied by the Savior, they were found lacking. There could be no truer application of the rule than that given by our Lord; it appeals to every principle of reason, and right. "If ye were Abraham's children, ye would do the works of Abraham." Certainly, that is the only way by which their claim to such distinction could be established. And is it not equally as true, is not the application equally as forceful, that if "ye are the followers of the Christ—the children of God—that ye will do the works of Christ?" Who can say Nay, and have a shadow of a claim to being consistent and reasonable?

But the Lord, in the application of the correct principle of judging a tree by its fruits, used a correct standard of measurement, and determined where those Jews, who were so arrogantly laying claim to a status they did not possess, really belonged and plainly told them "Ye do the deeds of your father. Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts [desires] of your father ye will do." (John 8: 41, 44), and their actions proved this to be the fact in the case; the Savior had applied the correct measure. It was not a pleasing thought to the Jews; they had so long "measured themselves by themselves," that they probably really believed themselves to be the only true representatives of God in the earth, though they could not point to any evidence given them, individually or collectively, establishing that fact, any more than could any of the other sects existing in that day; they depended solely upon those manifestations which God had given their nation hundreds of years before. And here is a repetition of history right in our own day; hundreds, yes millions, claiming to be the children of God, but unable to produce anything to substantiate the claim, that these Jews could not bring forth. They must depend solely upon the apostles given to a generation nearly two thousand years ago. They must build on the gifts of the gospel enjoyed by a people, and manifested in the church, hundreds of years since; but not a single one comes to their church, or to any individual member of it. Gospel gifts of wisdom, knowledge, tongues, interpretations, etc., all done away, they say, yet they are Christ's followers, they claim. What is the rule of measurement? "If ye were Abraham's children, ye would do the works of Abraham." That's it, clean, clear, decisive. "If ye were the children of Christ, ye would do the works of Christ." Is the deduction a correct one?

But let none be misled by the idea that these gospel gifts, the outward, visible manifestations, are the all-important, and lose sight of the fact that these are but a portion of the gospel of Christ. His followers are enjoined to "follow that which is good"—to "ADD to your faith" virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness and charity. (2 Peter 1:5-7). Quite a formidable array of acquisitions necessary in demonstrating the claim to be followers of Christ; but they are all found in His life, and must be incorporated into the life of every one who is truly and entirely a "son of God." It will not avail to say, Bro. So-and-so does not possess all these qualifications; that does not excuse any one; that is a very unstable foundation. "Bro. So-and-so" was never intended as a criterion by which you should fashion your character for eternity. Jesus Christ ALONE occupies that exalted position. To Him alone must every one turn. It is to "the measure of the fullness" of His stature, to which we must approximate before we shall attain that perfection of character that shall exalt us in His presence, and fit us for a "habitation of God." If Bro. So-and-so fails in his appreciation of the divine privileges offered him that is his loss. Why should anyone else suffer loss because of his failure? that would be the extreme of folly considering the interests at stake, and that every man and woman is the arbiter of his own salvation.

Let us not, then, "measure ourselves by ourselves." Don't repeat the mistakes by which disaster was visited upon others. Keep steadfastly before us the fact that Jesus Christ is our exemplar. In His life alone, is found the perfect pattern, the perfect measure; and using that line continually, we may approach, day by day, that condition in which we shall be found as being "in his likeness." The admonition of the apostle is very trite:

Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to whom, ye servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness.—Rom. 6:16.

Considering this testimony, let us apply the correct rule and principle of measurement, and with John the beloved apostle we can glorify God, and say:

Beloved, now are we the sons of God; and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be LIKE HIM: for we shall see him as he is.—1 John 3: 2.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

SR. (MRS.) EMMA ALLUM, Anselmy, Nebraska, is one of the army of "scattered abroad" Saints, being the only one in that neighborhood so far as she knows, and there has never been any of the ministry there to preach. The Christians, Methodists and Baptists have congregations. Sr. Allum loans her ENSIGNS in the hope that it may be seed sown upon good ground. Her husband, though a strong believer, is not a member of the church. She has a desire to have her baby, now two years old, blessed, and also administered to, and would welcome the visit of an elder to their home and neighborhood.

SR. (MRS.) C. J. YOUNG, Madison, Maine, now finds a greater interest among her neighbors in the gospel than she has seen since she united with the church. Those who have never had opportunity to hear an elder of the Reorganized church, are asking about the doctrine of the church more frequently. She thinks if some elder who had a good chart could come and labor there as they do in other places, it would draw a crowd; her husband also thinks a good work could be done if an elder would come and stay long enough. Their eldest son, in his eighteenth year, is interested in the gospel, and on his account as well as the interest of others, this sister is anxious for the elders to visit them.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

BRO. WM. G. GAMMAGE, Moline, Michigan:

Your paper is a welcome visitor. I loan it around to preach to my neighbors, and a good many are getting their eyes open.

BRO. A. S. LEEPER, Walker, Missouri:

I am trying to get the work before the people as much as possible. I preach every Sunday evening in our hall. I am also superintendent of our Sunday School. We also have prayer meetings Sunday afternoon at 2:30 and Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

SR. R. A. MITCHELL, Coy, Missouri:

I have been a member of this church nearly six years. I love this glorious work and am trying to live to be worthy of the reward promised the followers of our blessed Redeemer. I was a member of the Tiff City branch, but there is no branch there now and no Saints within six miles of me. There are but three families there and two of them are going away. I have a husband and seven children, but none of them belong to the church, so you know how lonely I am. It is four years this month since I have heard a sermon from our elders and long to hear a good gospel sermon again. I love to read the ENSIGN and have taken it for two years; pray for me, dear Saints.

SR. (MISS) SARAH M. BELLVILLE, Dunnegan Springs, Polk county, Missouri:

I am of the scattered ones in southwest Missouri, and all the preaching I hear is through the ENSIGN. But I trust in God that He will send one of the elders this way to show the people the narrow way. We should also be glad to hear the true gospel once more.

SR. IRIS WILLIAMS, Wheatland, Missouri:

It has been almost four years since I obeyed the gospel and no doubt has ever come to my mind as to the truthfulness of this latter day work. The hardest trial of my life is the loss of my husband by death. I desire an interest in the prayers of the Saints that I may be worthy to obtain the blessings promised the faithful.

MR. WILLIAM S. BOND, Pawnee, Nebraska, remitting for ENSIGN, dally and weekly, states:

I am not a member of the Saints' body, but I have been among them over in Holt county, Missouri, for the last two years, considerably; attended their Sunday School and preaching services when I could, and the more I was with them, the more I learned to love the people, their ways, and most of all, the doctrine taught.

ELDER N. C. ENGE, Grimstad, Norway, in a letter to Bro. G. T. Griffiths, states:

I have just returned from Denmark, preached a few times in Aalborg. I ordained Bro. Mads Andersen an elder and put him to work as circumstances permit. There is a brother laboring in Nord Stevrig, I understand, who I invited to come to Aalborg to labor. He is a weaver like Bro. Andersen, and I thought it would be a good plan to have the two brethren labor together there. Sweden I can say nothing about yet, having no answer from the brother who is supposed to be laboring in Malmo. My boy, Axel, is good company; in fact, I cannot now do without him; his guitar with the viola, holds the people spell-bound. I hope he will continue to grow in grace, and some day become one of the Lord's chosen. We have baptized two, and many are interested, but the enemy is on the alert and is trying to make trouble. So far, I believe, he has been kept at bay.

Zion's Religio-Literary Society Annual Convention.

The General Convention of Zion's Religio-Literary Society met here Tuesday night, with President J. A. Gunsolley, Lamoni, Iowa, in the chair, J. J. Billinsky, St. Louis Missouri, vice chairman, and Sr. John Hitchcock, St. Louis, Missouri, secretary. But little was done at this session beyond appointment of credential committee, hearing its report, short speeches, etc.

Wednesday morning at 8:30 an interesting prayer service was had in the interests of Religio work. At 10 business session was resumed, the morning being occupied principally in hearing reports of executive officers, and in considering the changes in by-laws. Sr. M. H. Clark's report on revision of Home Class leaflets was read, canvassed and referred to committee of three, Sr. Clark, Bro. Walter Smith and Sr. Dora Young being committee named. Adjournment was taken till p. m. It is surely a marvel to see the growth of this grand work since its first inception. There was a marked expression of earnestness and deep interest manifested in the countenances of the large number of delegates and others interested in this society, and the fine intellects enlisted in its interests shows that inspiration is in development. The daily ENSIGN, the first number of which will be issued Saturday, will contain as full an account as space will permit.

At the afternoon session after opening exercises, etc., the election of officers was reached and on informal ballot Bro. J. A. Gunsolley was re-elected president; Ammon White, vice president; Sr. Etta Hitchcock, secretary, and Bro. S. A. Burgess, treasurer. Bro. D. A. Anderson, A. B. Hansen, Nephi May and Bro. Simmons being tellers. The proposed constitutional amendments were read and acted upon by sections.

Report of auditing committee on president's and treasurer's report was read—finding said reports correct—and adopted.

Committee on pronouncing vocabulary on Book of Mormon names reported:

We recommend that this body endorse the work already done by Sr. LaJue Howard as a work of progress, and refer the matter to the General Conference for their definite and final action.

J. A. GUNSOLLEY.

F. M. SNEEZY.

S. A. BURGESS.

The following resolution of condolence and respect on the death of the late General Secretary, Bro. John C. Hitchcock, of St. Louis, was read:

WHEREAS, AS in the providence of Almighty God this society has within the past year been called upon to suffer, what to us has seemed, naturally and to the finite mind, an almost irreparable loss in the removing from our midst, by the hand of death, our beloved secretary, Bro. John C. Hitchcock, therefore be it

Resolved, By this body of delegates in the General Annual Convention assembled, that we, in this memorial, present to the afflicted family of our departed brother, his wife, child and relatives, this public expression of our deep and heartfelt sympathy in this great affliction and loss that has come to them. To express, if possible, by as much as words can convey, our deep and profound regard for his memory; our appreciation of his most absolute, tireless and unselfish endeavors to promote the particular interests of the Zion's Religio-Literary Society; his faithful and effective work as general secretary, and withal in a word, his kindly, never to be forgotten and effectual service as a Sunday School worker, as gospel minister and servant of the Church of Christ. And be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the afflicted widow, our sister, Etta M. Hitchcock, and also that their publication be ordered in Autumn Leaves, ENSIGN and Herald. (signed)

M. H. BOND,

D. A. ANDERSON.

ARTHUR ALLEN.

It was moved that the assembly, by a rising vote, adopt this report, and the audience rising, one verse of hymn 118 Winned Songs was sung, thus testifying the approval of the body. A copy of this resolution was ordered engrossed and presented to Sr. Hitchcock.

The question of "society badge or medal" was brought up and a motion was offered that the matter be referred to a committee of three to consider and report. After discussion a substitute was presented; "that this society does not need a badge," but the following prevailed:

WHEREAS, The wearing of badges and outward ornaments leads to relic worship and ultimate apostasy, therefore, be it

Resolved, That this question lie on the table indefinitely.

Adjourned until 7:30

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

There are so many delegates and visitors here now, we cannot begin to particularize.

Saturday morning General Conference convenes. The indications point to a profitable and successful conference.

Bro. J. B. Smith, who recently went to New Mexico, stood the journey well, though somewhat fatigued by its length.

Sr. J. E. McMullen, who recently returned from Colorado, seemed to be gaining some for a while, but began sinking Tuesday and was quite low Wednesday.

Bro. John C. Grainger, of 2124 East street, Kansas City, Missouri, is putting up a fine quality of barley, brewed and ground ready for use in place of coffee. It is a good article; we have tried it.

Some one handed Bro. Garrett fifty cents at the late district conference here for ENSIGN account whose name he fails to remember. Will the party please send name and address to ENSIGN office.

Bro. Alma B. Chatburn, formerly of this city, lately of Denver, Colorado, is now at Canon City, Colorado, in the employ of the American Lead and Zinc Company, and on March 25th was placed in charge of the cooperative department for the present. He says there is no branch of the church there.

Bro. B. C. Smith has purchased the grocery stock and fixtures of Bro. O. L. James, taking charge April 1st. Bro. James will remain with the store for a couple of weeks, and will then engage with Brn. J. A. and W. N. Robinson, Agricultural Implements, Kansas City, Missouri. Bro. James is a hustler and will succeed, we feel assured, in his new field.

Sunday morning Apostle Herman C. Smith preached to a large audience at the Saints' church, having most excellent attention, as did Apostle W. H. Kelley at the evening hour. The afternoon service, in charge of Apostles I. N. White, J. H. Lake and Joseph Luff, was devoted to prayer, and a good, cheering, comforting spirit made the service very profitable and enjoyable.

The Saints here were saddened to hear of the death of our young brother, Ray Powers, which occurred at Denver, Colorado, his home, last week. He was highly esteemed here as are his mother and sisters. He was a faithful servant of the Lord. The deepest sympathy of the Saints here is felt for the bereaved ones. May the God of all consolation comfort them and keep them to the happy reunion by and by.

Sr. L. M. Shaver has moved her stock of groceries and household goods into the property formerly owned and occupied by Mr. Boltz, just opposite Bro. T. C. Kelley's on West Electric street. The property she was occupying near the Missouri Pacific station was bought by a man named Mygatt, who immediately raised her rent from seven to twenty dollars, and tried to collect the advance for the current month. Sr. Shaver has bought the Boltz property and intends selling her property on Fuller street.

Elder Richard Martin died at the home of Bro. and Sr. Douglass, on the South side, Thursday, of paralysis, aged 82 years, 1 month and 9 days. He was born in Comeslaug, Scotland, five miles from Glasgow, February 19, 1819; was baptized in Fifeshire, Scotland, in 1846, and did considerable ministerial work in that country and in England. He finally went to Utah with his family, but being unable to accept many things he saw and heard there, left in 1877, coming to Richmond, Missouri, where he united with the Reorganized church; later, some twelve or fourteen years ago, removing to this city, and has lived a faithful, consistent life until his death. His wife died in Utah some time about 1875. He had six or eight children, two sons and two daughters of whom survive him and reside in Utah. Funeral was conducted by Bishop R. May assisted by the pastor and Elder J. F. Burton, Brn. May and Burton being the speakers. Interment in the city cemetery.

The regular business meeting of the branch was held Monday evening, Bro. W. H. Garrett presiding. Bro. Frank Rudd was chosen secretary pro tem. in the absence of Bro. J. W. Luff. Notwithstanding the heavy snow storm about forty of the brethren were present, but not a sister ventured out. The usual reports were read, the treasurer's report showing total receipts $47.86, expenses $46.04, about $40 still owing. The ordination of Bro. Roy Newkirk to the office of teacher, deferred from last month owing to Bro. Newkirk's illness, was taken up, and after statement from the president, his ordination was, on motion, ordered provided for. Apostle I. N. White, missionary in charge, presented the name of Bro. J. J. Luff, son of Apostle Joseph Luff, for ordination to the office of priest, giving testimony to the brother's calling as witnessed to him by the Spirit. Several others added their testimony, the brother having also received testimony of his calling. On motion his ordination was also ordered. The auditing committee presented report of building committee having found report correct. Their report and report of committee were adopted. Brn. Newkirk and Luff being present, after a fervent prayer by Apostle Joseph Luff, they were ordained, Apostle Joseph Luff, at request of Apostle White, being spokesman for his son, and Apostle White for Bro. Newkirk, the Spirit being present to a marked degree. Meeting then adjourned.

One of the prettiest and most enjoyable weddings which has occurred among the Saints here was celebrated Tuesday evening at the home of Bro. and Sr. J. A. Robinson, Sr., West Electric street, the principles being Bro. David O. Harder, formerly of Lamoni, Iowa, now of Cove, Arkansas, and Sr. Cora A. Strong, niece of Sr. Robinson. At half past eight p. m. the chat of the assemblage was hushed by the first notes of the Mendelssohn's wedding march sounded on the piano by Bro. A. H. Mills, when the bridal party descended the stairs and, preceded by Bro. J. A. Robinson, marched to the appointed place, first in the procession being Bro. J. Arthur Gillen escorting Miss French, cousin of the bride, Mr. Clark Moore and Sr. Laura Strong, sister of the bride, then followed the contracting parties, where, standing beneath a festoon of smilax and white ribbons, behind the party being a bank of ferns and palms. Bro. Robinson, after offering prayer, said the words which united for life Bro. Harder and Sr. Strong. Congratulations and a tasty lap supper followed, and a joyous evening was passed. The bride looked very charming gowned in white, and the groom, dressed in black, appeared the happiest of men. Elder Metuaore, of Society Islands, with Bro. and Sr. Burton, was among the guests, and entertained the company with an account of the marriage customs of his country, ancient and modern, Bro. Burton interpreting for him. Song and social converse made the moments speed on swift pinions. The young people will reside at Cove, Arkansas, where Bro. Harder has a situation with Bishop Ellis Short. They go to Lamoni today (Thursday), remaining over Sunday, returning here for a few days of Conference, then will journey to their home, some four hundred miles south. The bride and groom were the recipients of some very pretty presents.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Fullman branch, 748 118th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 608 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Bro. C. E. Carpenter and wife of California, are visiting in our city en route to Conference. They attended our afternoon service yesterday and rejoiced with the Saints. He speaks well of the labors of Bro. E. Keeler, who has done labor in his vicinity.

We were able yesterday, by special providence, to speak twice and attend Sabbath School and a prayer meeting, and listen to a good sermon from Bro. Good, on a good theme—"The Christ." Though in fasting we closed the day feeling much better in body and spirit. Is it not good to serve such a God.

In the last two and two-third years, one sister in Chicago who labors by the day, has paid seventy-five dollars tithing. A good showing, is it not? What can you do?

Surprises are always in order in Chicago. On last Tuesday the good Saints, to the number of twenty-five, by mutual agreement, kept the secret from elder and wife, and poured in upon us, each with a smile and hearty God bless you. The evening was spent pleasantly in the use of tongue and jaw. The jawing was all good natured however. Thanks.

The elder's wife, being the treasurer of the Sisters' Willing Workers organization, they thought it a good idea to "watch" her, and as they don't do things by the halves, they presented her with a handsome hunting case ladies' watch and guard. Nothing by way of a gift could have pleased her better. Truly we owe to the Chicago Saints a large debt of deep gratitude.

The latest word from our universally beloved brother, E. E. Johnson, is that he is not quite so well, which we regret.

We held a very pleasant service yesterday morning at the Central branch with good liberty and attention. By vote their Sunday School was changed to the afternoon.

The prayer service at the branch on Thursday night was an excellent one. A spirit of peace and wisdom and devotion was manifest. The same spirit characterized the Religio prayer meeting yesterday.

J. M. TERRY.

305 Ogden Ave., April 1.

ST. JOSEPH, MISSOURI.

Sunday being a beautiful day good attendance was noticed at all the services at the church. Bro. J. S. Roth was the speaker at the morning and evening hour; morning topic, "Continued Revelation;" evening, "Unity in the churches." Both sermons were very edifying. He speaks at the Aspey mission Monday evening on "The Spirit of Man—What Is It?"

The sacrament service was held in the lower room, thirty minutes after the close of the morning service. The Spirit was present, cheering and comforting those participating.

The infant son of Bro. and Sr. Coventry Archibald was blessed at the social service by Elders R. Archibald and Wm. Lewis, and named John Harold.

Monday evening, 25th inst., a number of the Saints (old timers) met at the home of Bro. and Sr. Winning to say good-by, as they are soon to depart for their new home in Niagara Falls, New York. Bro. J. C. Gardner, in a few well chosen remarks, presented Bro. Winning with a handsomely engraved gold locket, containing a picture of the church, as a slight token of esteem and affection. The branch loses in Bro. Winning an active and efficient worker.

The Ladies' Aid Society will give a Coffee at the home of Sr.

H. O. Smith Friday afternoon and evening.

We were saddened by the death of Sr. Shores, who passed to the other side on the 28th inst. Funeral from the church Saturday 30th, sermon by Elder J. S. Roth. The sympathies of the Saints are extended to the bereaved family.

Those who have not secured tickets for the excursion to General Conference on the 14th of April, should do so at once. Tickets $1.25 to Kansas City and return. This excursion is planned and arranged for those desiring to attend General Conference. Arrangements have been made for the accommodation of those attending. Come all and bring your friends.

A. R.

April 1.

FIRST KANSAS CITY BRANCH. 2324 Wabash Ave., Sunday School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; social service 12:15 p. m. D. F. Winn, pastor, 2306 Bellfontaine; telephone 205 Union. Superintendent Sunday School, E. Itzenhouser, 2417 Prospect; telephone 1306. Missionary in charge, J. D. White, 609 Main St.; telephone 1355.

Yesterday was a very joyful day with us; the day was lovely. At the Sabbath School at 9:30 a. m. our number was the largest this year; good blackboard lesson by Bro. D. H. Blair. At eleven, Apostle G. T. Griffith preached, using his chart on the divine establishing of the restored gospel.

The afternoon prayer meeting was good; many very humble prayers were offered, and God's Spirit was richly enjoyed by all. Bro. B. J. Scott spoke in prophecy, at length, to the Saints.

It had been announced that Bro. B. J. Scott would administer the right of baptism, but on account of the water being cut off from the font the matter was postponed until next Sunday. At 7:30 p. m. Bro. Warnky preached to a good congregation; subject, the Ten Virgins. Many outsiders were present and good was accomplished.

Sr. Robert Winning is visiting with her sister, Mrs. D. H. Blair.

R. E. PORTER.

April 1.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH. Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line.

The few who attended the entertainment by the First and Second Kansas City Sunday Schools Saturday night were treated to a feast in the efforts of the young folks. The high talent developed in music and elocution in such little mites is unusual and shows patient, intelligent training. The mandolin and guitar numbers by the Misses Emma and Lilly Fitzgerald and Mr. Tycho Gerdin were particularly appreciated. The first prize in the elocutionary contest, a gold ring, was awarded to Hazel Hidy (age five years), second prize, honorable mention, Gwendolin Lewis; third prize, honorable mention, Myrtle Robertson.

Sunday morning Bro. Fred Koehler spoke with much freedom on the "Marvelous Work and a Wonder." In the evening Elder L. E. Hills, from Eastern Iowa district, addressed the branch upon the "mission of Christ." There were several strangers present.

At the Monday evening business meeting it was decided to discontinue the Sunday afternoon prayer meeting during General Conference.

Bro. and Sr. E. A. Ashbaugh were received on letter of removal, also Bro. John E. Castner on letter of removal from Burlington, Iowa, branch.

JOHN C. GRANGER.

April 2.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening Zion's Religio-Literary Society Sunday evening at 6 p. m.

There is no lack of moisture at present; snow and more snow, and mud and slush.

Sr. Sadeberg, of Salt Lake, Sunday in Denver yesterday on her way to Cleveland, Ohio.

Bro. Joseph Schmutz seems to be improving slowly.

Bro. Fred Black has returned from Iowa, where he was summoned on account of the death of his mother.

Elder J. B. Roush was the speaker at both morning and evening services Sunday.

Bro. Ray Powers passed away at the hospital Saturday at two o'clock a. m. Beloved by all who knew him, he was a young man above the average as to good deeds; to know him was to love him. Surely the pearly gates swung open wide to welcome him to the Paradise of God there to await the resurrection of the blest. The Saints' church was crowded Sunday at 2 p. m. to pay the last respects to the departed brother. Funeral in charge of the writer; sermon by Elder J. B. Roush; interment at Fairmount. Bro. Ray was an enthusiastic worker in both the Religio and Sunday School; also a member of the choir. He will be missed for a long time. "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord." S.

April 2.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at "Druid's Temple," Cor. 14th and Folsom Sts. Sunday School 9:45 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sacrament meeting on first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder residence 3010 16th street.

Friday evening we had quite a pleasant time at the Religio. Bro. Roy Davis' parlors were well filled. The Book of Mormon lesson was quite interesting, and then followed some quite nice literary exercises.

Three of the brothers gave very instructive accounts of missionary work, and how to assist therein.

Motion was made and carried to have the Autumn Leaves placed in the Public Library here. They already have the ENSIGN. Bro. and Sr. Burton were present, also Bro. Metuore, just landed from Tahiti; he is bishop's agent there, and is here en route to General Conference. He cannot speak a word of English, but he can shake hands and smile in good American fashion. He made us a couple of short speeches during the evening, Bro. Burton acting as interpreter. He was quite interested in our evening exercises. Everything he sees is new to him; his eyes are continually open in astonishment. They left Saturday morning for the East.

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock Fred B. Blair was our speaker; there was a good turnout of Saints and friends to listen to him. At 7:30 p. m. Elder Albert Haws was our speaker.

Our weather still remains warm and pleasant. Business generally is quiet on account of the Lenten season.

Tuesday evening the elders were called in to administer to Sr. Ella Lytle, who was still very seriously sick. The health of the members generally is good.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

March 21.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

COVE, ARK., March 10.

Dear Ensign—Herewith I send you an extract of a letter just received from my brother who lives in the vicinity of Rapid City, Michigan, trusting that some of the elders in that vicinity, or in the northern district of the state, may call that way. They will find a stopping place and kind treatment.

"I thank you for the kind letters that you wrote me, and also for the package of papers that I received from you. I do not know when I have had anything that has done me so much good as your letters, and the food for my soul that I got out of the columns of those papers you sent me. Yes, dear brother, it is food to my soul to peruse their columns. The right spirit is there, and the right doctrine; it is the true doctrine of Jesus Christ that He taught when here on earth.

"I have just finished reading the Book of Mormon through for the third time, and I get new light out of it every time I read it. Yes, I believe it is the true word of God, written by the pen of inspiration by holy men of God. I have been a believer in this doctrine for a long time, but could never see the virtue of the doctrine so plain as taught in your letters and in the papers you sent me, and in the Book of Mormon. God bless the little book! It teaches the doctrine of Jesus Christ so plain that a child which can read can understand it. But where do we get such doctrine taught? The sects, with their creeds, have denied the power of the Holy Ghost; they deny the power of God. * * * But as I understand the word of God, there is no excuse, for we have all got the word, the light and the way, and the doctrine—the Bible with its teachings, and holy ordinances, and commands. It is in the world; it is before the people; it is with the people, and they have no excuse, except those who are ignorant.

"I am all alone here; there are none of the Saints here. I wish there was. I hope that God will send some of the holy elders of His (Saints) church in those parts soon. I will do all that I can for the cause. Would, like to have them call on me at my place; they will be kindly treated. I think this part of Michigan would be a good place to start the work. No doubt there would be some kicking as there always is when the devil's plans are interfered with. There is but one sectarian church here, an Episcopal Methodist, and they are but little thought of. That is why I think a good work may be done here.

"Your brother in Christ,

"C. T. BARCOCK."

He is the only living brother by my father's first wife that I have. As he says, he has been believing a long time, but has not until this winter been convinced. In the winter of '89 and '90, I was with him all winter, preached several times in the school-house of the village, Leetsville, where he then lived. I left him the Book of Mormon which he has read through three times, but has not been able to see clearly the truths taught therein until now; and, as he says, not until he got those letters (2) which I wrote him this winter, and that happens this way: While out on mission last summer he wrote me a letter which was received by my wife, and was hid by and forgotten, not being opened, and was not read until this winter when I came across it.

In it some political questions were sprung. I undertook an answer and doing so my mind was directed to write about the gospel and many of the prophecies in connection with the answers sent him in my reply. I wrote him two large letters, and after a short time sent him a bundle of ENSIGNS which seem to have brought him to a sense of his situation.

And now the good part is, he is calling for some of the elders to come and see him, and I hope some one in that mission field will go and see him, for they will surely have some watering to do. He lives about one and one-half miles south of Rapid City, near the northwest corner of Kalkaska county, Michigan.

Yours in the work.

D. D. BARBOCK.

P. S.—I have not done but little mission work this winter on account of severe colds which seemed to settle in my head, rendering me quite deaf. It is now four months since the beginning of the trouble, but I am in hopes, as the spring advances, to be able to pursue my mission work.

D. D. B.

TORONTO, Ont., March 20.

Editor Ensign—I rejoice to know that the ENSIGN has a place with other church papers in our Central Free Library, where it is seen and can be read; it is a good paper, and must be the means of doing a lot of good in this city. I wish our Church History was there, also Book of Mormon.

But there is one thing about the ENSON I do not approve of; I do not blame you, Bro. Editor, but some one is to blame, and that is, when people read through the ENSON, at the free library, they read letters from all parts of this continent, but very rarely any from Toronto. They can also see by reading that a great work is going on elsewhere, but are ignorant of the noble work done in this city by a handful of working men and women and boys and girls, in building their own church, giving freely of their hard earned wages and their labor that they might own a building to worship God their Father in, and free of debt.

It was a sight not often seen when missionaries, bishop's agent, elders, priests, teacher, deacons and members were seen with picks, shovels and wheelbarrow, making mortar, laying bricks, and other work required to be done, that the building might be completed; they even took turns in watching, one coming on duty at 6 p. m. until 12 p. m., when the relief guard arrived and guarded the place until the missionaries arrived about 7 a. m. Then those who could spare a few hours in the day did what they could, and those at work at other places during the daytime, came straight from their work, and off went their coats, up went their sleeves, and worked until the alarm sounded supper, when there was a dear sister with a basket of food just arrived. These sisters were a great help to us, for they saved us time by bringing supper, so we had not to lose time in going for it. They also used pick and shovel and wheelbarrow, and I believe if we boys had failed, the sisters would have finished the building themselves. One of the wonderful things about it all was the men wanted no beer or tobacco, neither did the sisters want a cup of tea, for we all sat down handing the basket of food around, also a large tin can containing cold water, from which we all drank freely as we had a good supply on the premises.

But I am drifting from what I intended saying; that is, there is no report in the ENSON for Toronto people to know whether there are any Saints in this city, or where they meet. I would like a report of our meetings each week, also that our church branch is at Camden St., S. Padua St. My spouse and his wife take an interest in reading the ENSIGNS so I want it sent to them.

Your brother,

F. M. FREEMAN.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

WHO SHALL STAND?

Sermon preached by Elder Joseph Lull, at Independence, Missouri, "Rally" Day, Sunday morning, May 27, 1900.

The first part of the text will be found in Deuteronomy 32: 11, 12, and a portion of the 15th verses:

As an eagle stirreth up her nest, fluttereth over her young, spreadeth abroad her wings, taketh them, beareth them on her wings: so the Lord alone did lead him, and there was no strange god with him. * * * But Jeshurun waxed fat, and kicked.

The second part of the text we find by reference to the 24th Psalm, 3d verse—a portion of it—and the 3d chapter of Malachi, 2d verse.

Who shall stand? The entire verse in Malachi reads:

But who will abide the day of his coming? and who shall stand when he appeareth? For he is like a refiner's fire, and like fullers' sope.

In the 6th chapter of the Book of Revelation 17th verse we have the same question propounded, with different association.

Who shall be able to stand?

The object first, last and continuously, of gospel preaching and church work, is the building of character; and wherein there is failure in this regard, the effects of these ministrations have been wasted and lost. We read, in the 24th chapter of the prophecy of Isaiah, of a time to come when the lines that now exist by means of which the inhabitants of the world are classified, and discriminations are made, shall be obliterated, and when men and women shall stand, or appear, rather, before God for what they are really worth. A portion of the language in verse 2 to which I refer is:

"As with the people, so with the priest; as with the servant, so with his master; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with the taker of usury, so with the giver of usury to him."

Character alone will determine the worth of individuals in that day; and the kind of character that will be passed upon most favorably, or will secure divine approval most readily and amply, will be that which bears the most striking resemblance to the character of Jesus Christ. "We shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is," the apostle says, and if that be true, the information obtained from the Word with reference to the means, or the discipline, requisite unto the forming of a character resembling His own, can come from Him alone. That which we receive from him, either by the direct communication of the Spirit, or through the testimony of the word as printed and found in our houses always, is the most reliable with which the world can be furnished.

Another thing should be taken notice of as we go along in life, and that is, that outside of the direct consideration of our ability to "stand," in the sense and at the time referred to in the scriptures, one thing will stand, if the scriptures be true, and that one thing is, the word of God. "The word of God shall stand forever," the Psalmist says. The Apostle Peter also says, "The word of the Lord endureth forever, and this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you." If it be true that the word of God shall stand in that day that is ahead of us, that it will remain inflexible, that it will be subjected to no alteration or process by which it shall be softened or hardened, by which its arbitrary or other characteristics shall be affected in any sense whatever, as individuals it is the part of wisdom with us, and in us, to become acquainted with the Word at the earliest possible moment in our lives, and to so order our course that we can gather approval from that Word as we use it conscientiously to scrutinize our deportment day by day; so that when it shall be made use of as a measuring line at last, we shall be able to "stand" as fully approved under it as Jesus; and it will be well for us in that day, if we shall be able to offer as an excuse, truthfully, for any defect in our course, or any failure in us of resemblance to the character of Christ Jesus that the word of God by the rule of which these characters were formed and our deportment was ordered, was incapable of producing the result designed. If we can make an excuse like that stand or answer in that day, then our failures may not be recorded as against us to such an extent as I now think they will be.

In order that we may be able to appreciate the processes and apply the means ordained of God with this end in view, of forming a character that shall be absolutely spiritual—for, the apostle says that is life, divine life—it is necessary that we shall be able to discern God therein, that we may be able to walk intelligently. Understand me, now. It is quite possible for individuals to blunderingly or accidentally stumble upon a truth, and perform what may pass under human muster as a good act, and that may have its results in what is pronounced good in this life; but if a man labors with a view to laying up treasure in heaven, or obtaining present and final credit with God, he, as an intelligent being, must not expect those results without having aimed at them specifically. God will not give a man credit for doing that which he did not intend to do in the way of goodness, for what he did not labor to do, for there is no credit belonging to an individual who accidentally stumbles upon a thing and performs it without having labored or intended to do it; and I will go to the other side and make a statement, whether I represent another soul in this house or not. I venture it as an expression of my own thought, that God will not blame a man for a wrong he did not intend to do. If he labored to do right, but by accident or mistake, or the intervention of influences or agencies that he was not capable, in advance, of calculating against, he fell, God will not forget the intention of the man, nor the labor performed by him under it. One of the attributes of which the Word speaks with reference to God, is justice, and when we think of that, we are satisfied that the issues of our life are safe in His hand, and we have hope, notwithstanding the weaknesses that daily confront us as evidences that we are human, and our environments are not what we would ask that they might be sometimes.

Now, in order to this appreciation and this application of the Word to which I refer, I repeat, it is necessary that we should be able to discern God in it; and in order that we may discern God in it, it is requisite that some degree of help will be furnished so that we shall have the ability to see. In Proverbs 29: 18, there is the statement recorded, "Where there is no vision the people perish," and I have heard Latter Day Saints all over the United States, or the portion of them in which I have traveled, make use of that verse, conveying the thought in their argument that where there was no direct revelation from God in the shape of open or supernatural vision the people perish; but it seems to me there is nothing in the passage that warrants that conclusion. I believe the word "vision" there is to be used in its primary sense, natural sight, or power to see. Where there is no power or ability to see, to comprehend, to discern, the people perish, and in that sense I understand the announcement made by the Savior as recorded in John 3: 4. "Except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God."

If I were to ask you this morning, What is the kingdom of God? many of you would answer, "The church of God, the government of God." I ask you, "Of what does it consist? and by reference to the word you would answer me, "Of apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors and teachers, and the execution of the divine purpose through its administrative and executive officers." Well, if this be true, is it requisite that a man shall be absolutely born again in a spiritual sense before he can see an apostle, a prophet, or he can see a man while that man is speaking in tongues, before he can see an evangelist, or before he can see individuals bearing other names, bishops, and elders and deacons and the like, such as are named in the good Word—the component parts of this kingdom of God. You say, "No, he can see those men without that." If that be true, and these men compose the church or the kingdom or the government of God, and the ability is within people naturally to see those men without direct revelation from God, I will ask you the question, "What is the meaning of the statement, then, 'he cannot see the kingdom of God?'" You all come to my assistance with the statement that, apart from the individualities of men called apostles and prophets, there are qualifications or powers by which they are constituted apostles, by which they are constituted prophets, by which they are made evangelists; there is a hidden something belonging to them that they did not possess before ordination. When Jesus Christ laid his hands upon certain individuals whom he had chosen from among the number of his disciples, and ordained them, you tell me that there was imparted by that ordination a something not possessed by those individuals before. Was it a something that by natural vision you could comprehend? You tell me no. A piece of steel that has been subjected to certain processes by which it has imbibed a power that it possessed not before, will, when you bring it into proximity to particles of steel, or other kinds of metal, attract those particles unto itself. You take another piece of steel of the same size, shape, color or weight, that has not been subjected to that process, and attempt to use it for the same purpose, and it is an utter failure. You put the two pieces upon the scales, or you take the measuring line and apply it, you examine them carefully under the microscope, and you cannot discover any difference between them by means of which you can determine why it is that the one operates so marvelously, and the other does not; yet after you have employed all of these processes to determine what difference there is between them, and failed to detect any, still you refuse to admit that there is no difference. You know there is. You discern a difference, you absolutely know there is a difference. One does what the other cannot do; it does it, because it has been subjected, as I have said, to a certain process by which it has imbibed an unseen quality that it did not possess before, and that gives it a power of attraction to everything that has an affinity in the metallic line: and until the other is subjected to that process it never can be made partaker of that quality or power.

The individualities in the church or kingdom of God, before being subjected to those processes appointed within the kingdom and government of God, were men, and afterwards they were men. Before-time they acted in the spheres in which they were found, and possessed no right for action in the sphere in which they were afterwards found. After subjecting themselves to the process divinely appointed, they became conscious of having imbibed qualities not possessed before; somehow, they realized within themselves that they had been placed in touch with things divine; they had been permitted to lay hold upon that which was infinite, and somehow, they had gathered, by this means, unto themselves, a power by which, let them be found where they might in the world, or let them be subjected to ordeals or trials such as are common only to those whose special consecration is in the service of God, and amid all of these conditions they were able, and are able, to exercise that unseen power—unseen to corporeal eyes—which makes their operations command the ratification of heaven, and by which they themselves become spiritually strong, spiritual minded. They are made, under certain conditions in life, conscious of the divine presence. Their ears are made to readily catch the sound of voices divine, and they realize within themselves that they are the property of God in a specific sense.

They have gone abroad in the world, whether they were stripplings or whether they were men with white locks, and as in the days of which we read in this sacred Word, were made not only equal, but superior, to all the agencies that were arrayed against them; so that men and women, straining their eyes to see the wherefore of the mysteries that confront them, have failed to be able to tell by what means these unlettered, untutored individuals have arisen to that position of prominence, or power, or why they could exert such a marvelous influence. The world sometimes stands in awe before the evident fact. The mystery remains unexplained to them until they come in touch with the regenerating forces, when suddenly they "see the kingdom of God." They discern what can only be "spiritually discerned." Some time ago, when the elders led a young man, about sixteen or seventeen years of age, up from the font after baptizing him, a doctor, pulling the lapel of the coat of a friend standing by him, said, to use his own language, "I will bet you that before the water of baptism is dry on that young man, he will be ready for a debate." There was nothing in the lad that would justify that conclusion, but the doctor had been watching church developments and learned that there was something peculiarly associated with, and characteristic of, this church work and the gospel ordinances, that made those subjecting themselves thereto imbibe what fired the dormant intellect, what stirred the hidden depths; that imparted, either gradually or rapidly, a qualification to officiate in almost any sphere, and to feel fearless under any condition, let them be confronted with what they might. This was manifested also in earlier years, God having chosen the weak things of the earth, and the things that were naught, to bring to naught the things that are. The purpose was not that these individuals, thus chosen, should remain ignorant, but that in them there might be manifested what would publish the kingdom of God to the world, and by which an argument might go forth in favor of the truth being proclaimed by these ministers of God, sufficiently convincing in itself to, at least, make men and women everywhere willing to submit to a test, the processes of which would impart the power to "see" that kingdom.

Our purpose in preaching the gospel of the Son of God today, as was the purpose eighteen hundred years ago of these messengers of light, is to keep in men's minds the thought that there is a day when character alone will speak; when the wicked shall be silent in darkness; when those who have partaken of that which qualifies them to "stand," will be full of voice and full of speech, though their lips remain sealed. The very features which stand out in their character will be all the argument that Divine scrutiny will demand in order to pass favorable judgment upon the individual and assign them place with God and with Christ. He who aims at this, needs to get in harmony with the Word which, as we have shown, will "stand forever." To do this, he must recognize the duly authorized ministry of the word, and this means to "see the kingdom of God.

It does not mean to stand erect in a physical sense when it asks, "Who shall be able to stand?" I have known individuals who have been submitted to certain tests in this life, and they failed to stand. I remember an account here in the book of Esther, of a certain king, who, after an edict had gone forth that the people should take their swords first against the Jews in all that realm, could not revoke the decree; but he passed an order that the Jews might stand in that day for themselves; it did not mean that they were to stand idly or physically erect; it meant that they should exercise themselves for the maintenance of their rights, for their defense. I find the word "stand" mentioned in the Scriptures in a great many cases, setting forth the idea of ability to endure, fitness to abide. Some can stand the rain without hurt; some can stand the sunlight without hurt; some can stand and endure a good deal of trial in this life without being spiritually hurt; some people can bear scandal and feel calm over misrepresentations affecting their own individual reputation, and without being moved from the integrity of their hearts, or swept away in an agony of passion along the lines of resentment, or answering in kind. Those individuals are standing. In them is being developed and made manifest the quality to represent Christ in the sense of being righteous or God-like. They are the class of people in whom righteousness is being revealed, and the argument I gather from what I witness in such individuals in this life is that, if the trials under which they are now standing have either been directly ordained of God, or been permitted by Him in the line of His providence as discipline, they will also be able to stand when the consequence of that testing are revealed in the final day; and if the individual has stood erect under the means that in divine appointment have been necessary as a discipline to a certain end, when that end is reached, the voice of the fitness of the discipline will be heard in the character developed.

"What has this to do with the first part of your text?" one asks. Perhaps nothing, but we will see. Moses, when he stood before the people just prior to his death, after having received evidence from God that he must depart this life and go to his rest, and that unto another was to be committed the work of leading the children of Israel across the river and into the promised land, taught them a song; delivered unto them a gracious testimony; reasoned with them by the powers of inspired processes, sought to stimulate them unto diligence and to make their consecration as prominent as possible. And he, in the course of this conversation with them, called to mind numbers of the experiences that had been theirs, the difficulties they had encountered, how God had made them more than equal to all those things that beset them or confronted them so long as they trusted in Him. He argued with them from this basis, that God would also be equal to every coming necessity, and gradually or rapidly, as they would permit him, would develop His purpose within them, until he would have elevated them above and beyond and superior to all these mundane conditions, and would have made them capable of standing in His immediate presence; and he showed them by beautiful simile and metaphor, and such like, the Divine purposes; and among them he mentions that which I first read in your hearing: "As the eagle stirreth up her nest, fluttereth over her young, spreadeth abroad her wings, taketh them, beareth them on her wings; so the Lord alone did lead him, and there was no strange god with him." And further on he says, "But Jeshurun,"—and that word, "Jeshurun," is simply one expressive of endearment, of love, as a mother speaks of her child as her darling; God, through His servant, speaks of Israel in the same sense—"But Jeshurun waxed fat and kicked." The memory of divine good, communicated often, seemed to be lost, or temporarily destroyed, by the trials that confronted them here and there along the line. The fact that God had manifested His power in miraculous ways seemed to have been forgotten by the children of Israel as they listened to Aaron, and at his instigation, or he at theirs, prepared the golden calf for them to worship. Manifestation after manifestation of divine power became characteristic of their observation and experience, until, if we read the Bible, we are led to believe that nearly every week or every month of their entire forty years of experience, they received help miraculously. And yet we find that under some of the conditions that came to them by way of trial, they fretted and mourned and were ready to turn away from God, and away from the obligations that He had placed them under, with their consent.

Moses, before parting from them, wished them to understand that discipline had been necessary, and he uses this simile. In regard to the eagle we are told, or we have read at least, that after the young have been brought forth and the time comes when the parent bird thinks that they should move forth to exercise themselves and develop strength thereby, she will stir up the nest so as to make it unpleasant for the little birds to rest and nestle there; will separate the parts that belong thereto until they cannot remain as contentedly as they formerly have done, and perforce of these conditions they are compelled to move out. Then the parent bird, having performed this work of stirring up the nest and compelling them to start forth, will hover around and watch the effort. The little fledgeling moves out, spreading its wings, and yet fluttering with fear, as it quickly tires and is about to fall, then the mother will instantly dart down beneath it and spread her wings, catching the little bird and bearing it to the nest or up in her outspread pinions, till it finds rest for a season; and so, by repeating these seasons of trial, causes a development, until confidence is obtained by the little ones, and by and by they move forward for themselves in safety.

Moses brings this simile in order that the people might learn that a good many things that had occurred in their lives, had been of a character to make them understand that there was a wise ruler or director in all their affairs, and that they had not been left to the caprice of some strange god or power. They could not have otherwise obtained the development that God, under these conditions, had made possible for them.

It is necessary that many of the conditions that are reached here in this life shall be so affected by divine interference as to coerce or compel the individual to move forth; yet that watchful eye, that infinite wisdom and divine strength follows, to guard and bless the discipline into better development. He hovers about to guard from evil, and so long as there is a reposing of confidence in Him, so long as there is integrity of spirit, though it be associated with the consciousness of weakness and a fearfulness of failure, with fear of doing that which is wrong or failing in the promotion of right, God will move under them, and place His everlasting arms around about them and beneath them, and furnish all the power or the skill that is necessary in order to accomplish within them what He intended should be brought about, and leave them without excuse should they finally fail—all with a view to their standing in that day when they shall be called upon to answer before the Almighty. Yet Moses in this instance says that after God's care and kindness, the exhibition of His power, the display of His skill, His majesty, after all had been wrought, of His wonderful work and power, "Jeshurun waxed fat, and kicked." That is to say, while they were under extreme conditions, they were perfectly willing that God should interfere for them and miraculously deliver them; and that He should reveal His power in supplying them with such things as their appetites craved, and accomplish for them things that were impossible under ordinary circumstances. They were perfectly willing to fold their arms and rest in the sunlight and sing songs of praise to Him, and honor to His name, move along pleasantly and gladly. But when the hour of extremity came again, they were found with mourning on their lips, and even when they were revelling in the midst of the good that had come to them, and were abounding in the excellent experiences He had thus provided for them—right in the fatness of their joy and their experience—they forgot the source of their strength, and their vision was turned away from Him, and they "kicked" against His restrictive interference, and much that was enjoined by way of correction in order to their final development.

But yet it is a fact that the children of Israel, much as we may feel inclined to condemn them for some things, were just as the house of Israel is today. There is in the kingdom and government of God today, that which strikingly resembles that which we read of as having existed in the earlier times, and were I permitted to examine into Saints' lives today, learn the details of their experience and write a faithful account of all I learned, what a history of vasculature it would be. How strangely would the complaints of the home contrast with the joy and comfort and peace of which they bore testimony in public meetings. How the evidence of miraculous help that we hear of in our prayer meeting testimonies would be dimmed "by actions of the next morning when some little trial comes up;" "kicking" against the providences of God and indulging a disposition to question seriously the love and wisdom of the Father, because He has permitted our calculations to fail.

The thought I wish to emphasize in bringing these two points together is this: If there is a purpose in the Divine mind, if there is an answering ahead, then discipline is necessary that man may stand in that day, in the sense in which the word "stand" is here used in my text. God alone knows the character and extent of the tests to be submitted then, and He is capable of appointing the means and executing them, which will develop the fitness or qualifications required; and he who is as willing to accept the unpleasant in life's experience, as he is the pleasant, under the consciousness that God has ordained it or permitted it as a necessary discipline for him, will all the quicker take on His likeness, and, with that likeness, the ability to "stand" in that day. It is the complaining, the kicking, the skepticism that stands in the way of a rapid development of the Divine purpose under these influences. Trial would be shorter, discipline would be none less necessary along certain lines for each of us, if we allowed it to have the "right of way" within us, and the complaints were less. The effort to "stand" here, is sometimes a severe one. I see the struggle in you; you probably discern it in me; I hear sometimes individuals pass their judgment upon others and wonder why these others can do, and have done, and are doing, as they see them acting, and I know that it is just as impossible for those people that are thus criticizing to understand the attitude and the struggle of that other individual, as it is for them to understand me; and I know that it is absolutely impossible, without divine grace, for me to understand you, and to put myself in that position where I can appreciate the struggle that you are making against the odds arrayed against you.

There have been times in your life possibly—I know there have been in mine—many of them, when my heart has leaned one way and my head another. My heart has said, "These are your friends, they will be hurt or offended if you do or fail to do this or that. You will lose in the estimation of this one, or of the majority, and you will suffer in consequence; and your reputation is at stake and you will fail in many regards that are to be considered if a man lives for the pleasure of life alone;" but the head has arisen to the exigency and the intelligence has said, "What is right in the matter, do that, let the result be what it may with friends or foes," and my hand has been raised to cast a vote, while my heart has bled more than once. My head has voiced itself in my action in judgment upon right at times, when the immediate and painful results of that action upon myself have been right before me, and I have felt as sure of them as though they were already pouring themselves in upon my life and into my heart. But the great question of all questions, that should come before the mind and should ever be before the mind, is, in what sense will the present action have its bearing upon my ability to "stand" in the day referred to, where it says, "Who shall be able to stand?"

The man that cannot stand alone, or more nearly so today at least, than he could fifteen years ago, in this church, with all the boasted help he has had, and who has to have as much external propping around him to support and bolster him up, gives very poor argument in proof that gospel forces are preparing him to stand in the great ordeal that shall confront him by and by. There will be no fellow human to lean upon then. The man who moves today only because the majority moves, or the individuals who today must have some one of prestige or influence to operate with them before they consent to activity at critical times, have little with which to face coming issues, or abide the final test. The individual whom fear keeps inactive at such times, is losing that which is absolutely necessary to qualify him or her for the ordeal of the coming time when the merit of the mind and heart and spirit will all be weighed and published, and will confront us as a vision. When we see others, no more richly endowed than we were, but who took the brunt of the battle, stood in the face of enemies—stood alone—and let the world or the church condemn them—stood for what they believed in their souls to be the right; we will see that these people have ability to stand. We will then see that by faithfulness, and the adoption of such processes, we might have been able to stand also. Those who wait for pleasing environments, or who move as the crowd pushes them along in life, fail to develop the moral strength that is demanded of us. Watching for someone to lean upon, and looking to see how this one or that one will move, before we dare to assert ourselves, will not make us courageous. In that day to come the nakedness of character will be exposed and be subject to the inspection and judgment of God; to each man and each woman will be given according to what their character is worth. Men and women may make a reputation for me, but there is only one soul on this earth who can make my character, and that is myself. They may publish my name as they please, and blast my chances for accomplishing what I have set in my heart to do in the world, or what you have set to do, but so far as the development of that quality or ability or character that will enable me to stand in that day, is concerned, there is no individual outside of myself can prevent it without my consent.

"Rally" day may not be particularly suggestive of preaching like this, but let me say: Everything we do, whether it be to hold a conference, to attend a reunion, to offer a family prayer, engage in a season of fasting, or bear our testimony, should have in our minds association with the thought whether or not I shall be able to "stand"—it all has its relation to that idea—and if the influence of the preaching service this morning, or what I hear or say in the testimony meeting this afternoon, is not such in character as to make me better able to stand tomorrow, than I could have stood without them in the face of adverse conditions, what argument is there that this Sunday's experience has contributed anything toward my being able to stand in the Judgment hour? All has its relation thereto, and this morning the business of the preacher, whether he exercises his influence quietly or loudly, is to bring before the people's notice, the correct character ideal—one that will "stand" every righteous test. It is to keep the Christ image before the mind and insist that all shall measure themselves in the light of that divine representation; and insofar as they find a discrepancy, shall search out the means by which that discrepancy shall be reduced, and by which they shall take to themselves features and elements that shall make them shine out more divinely brilliant in the integrity of a God development.

Only last Sunday afternoon you heard something purporting to be the voice of the Spirit, addressed to parents, and saying to these parents, that more care should be exercised by them, and diligence, with reference to their children, for it was grievous unto the Spirit of God that the children of the Saints should indulge in profanity. What of that? It simply means this: If that was the voice of the Spirit, and I do not question it for a moment, it means that God, understanding the necessity, again gives a little light at the present moment, by which you may walk more uprightly and safely, and better qualify yourselves and your children to "stand." If ever unto me has been committed a care, and I am reckless with reference to it, that recklessness is recorded, and associated with it, there will be a loss of development of moral or spiritual strength, and just that much of a lack, finally, of the ability to "stand."

If the discipline of God is wise, we should take advantage of it, and if, sometimes, the conditions in which we seek to nestle ourselves down so pleasantly, are made uncomfortable by some unexplained interference, and we indulge restlessness of spirit with reference to it, let us think of the eagle that stirreth up the nest for her young, with a view to development, and associate with it the evidence that care and protection will be ministered. It does not mean abandonment on God's part. It is not necessarily the work of a "strange god." I heard of individuals at the last Conference who had been in certain positions for a long time, and they got settled down to the conclusion that ministerial work and so on, was a pleasure, a delight, and their voices had been heard everywhere in exhorting the people to be faithful. But one or two or more of them were confronted with the suggestion that quite a material change might be made, and it was a little interesting to note how the thought of the stirring of the nest in which they had settled down, seemed to excite and unnerve them. What a trouble it seemed to the mind, what perplexity and forebodings, lest some other God—some "strange god"—was at work. They were realizing all manner of advance discomfiture and disappointment because that which they had figured on had not developed—their nest had been disturbed. The word of the Spirit came afterwards to some, and informed them that God was in the movement, and He would bless and prosper what He had investigated.

You may take it into whatever line of life you are found serving and the truth will be as clearly manifest to those who are watching. If I today go home wondering will I be able to stand in that day, and the next moment I hear my companion calling upon me for the performance of some simple service in the household that would relieve the burden of toil and care upon her, and instead of smilingly responding, there is a look of severity, of bitterness, upon my face and I fail to comply with her request, I am failing to utilize one simple means by which an ability to stand can be developed. If I am sour, morose, cruel, impatient, infidel to trust, dishonest in word or deed, I am cultivating an inability to stand. A parent who is reckless to the interests of his child; the individual who talks more carelessly of another individual than he would like that individual to talk of himself; the individual who is careless with reference to the use of what comes to his ears in regard to people everywhere, the ill-natured, the scoffer, the scandal-monger, the oppressor, the lazy man, are all either abusing a trust, or violating rules which were divinely ordained to develop in them a fitness to stand.

I have hoped with you in common, that the good that is coming, and in store for the church as a body, may find but very few, if any of us, unprepared for its receipt and utility. There is no question, if the voicing of the Spirit is to be relied upon, but that the tides of greater good will yet be turned in upon us and those tides will bear us Zionward with great rapidity. The currents will enter the arteries and veins that have been cleansed, and where their course will not be impeded, and the manifestation of the God-life will be seen everywhere, and integrity will then shine out, for what is it worth to the church; and the ministry of God will appear as a band of glorious representatives of divine thought, and the church will exhibit the attributes of the kingdom of God before the world. But those who watch and wait and hope for the ability to stand, by and by, and yet fail to employ the means within their reach, neglecting the simple obligations pertaining to themselves, shall lose in proportion and fail of the ability to stand in the higher light, at least. The church will outstrip them, and they will be left to find contentment with the lesser light, as ordained in the wisdom of God.

May God impress us with the seriousness of the thought that His discipline, whether unpleasant or pleasant to our natural seeming, is just as wise as its purpose and ultimate are inspiring and desirable. The bitterness and the sadness of experience are just as essential, under our conditions, to the accomplishment of His purpose, as are the promises that are offered by way of inducement to inspire men.

May He help us to be unflinching, that the world may feel the mighty impress of the church's life, and may we be found worthy to "stand" in the day to which the Scriptures refer.

Reported by Sr. Nellie Robinson Jones.

Take "America's Most Popular Railway" (Chicago & Alton) to the General Conference, beginning April 6th. Passengers can procure meals or lunch at all hours on our lines. Our motto: "Safety, Speed and Comfort."

THE GOLDEN RULE IN BUSINESS.

Anent the great hubbub that is being made now over the application of the Golden Rule in all the walks of life it is gratifying to know that some people are devoting their time, not to a discussion as to its feasibility, but rather giving practical evidences along the line. This is the best possible way to settle the question. A moment of demonstration is worth a week of dissertation. There is too much of a disposition among all classes of men to offer excuses for deviations from the divine maxim, "As ye would that men should do to you do ye even so to them."

One business man has adopted a novel plan and it is our purpose to give a history of his efforts to the readers of the ENSIGN. The party in question is A. F. Norton, a grocery keeper of Marion, Indiana. He was questioned recently, "Do you not meet with a great many losses by conducting your business as you do? To which he gave answer, "I believe that the average man is to be trusted, that he will not betray a confidence placed in him, and that is why I allow my customers to wait upon themselves. I have tried it for years, and find that everybody that I have trusted has proved worthy of the trust with but a few exceptions."

Some of his mottoes are:

"I will not sell to others an article that my own family would not eat."

"I will not sell drugs nor whiskey nor tobacco."

"I buy all my goods for spot cash and I do all my business on the cash basis; I pay my clerks every night; the money is theirs, they have earned it, I have no right to keep it until Saturday night."

"It is said that there is a curse on the rich; I don't want to be one of the accursed."

Mr. Norton is trying to do business as Jesus would do. Those of your readers who have read "In His Steps," by Chas. W. Sheldon, remember that he laid down this formula for Milton Wright, one of the characters in the book. In speaking of what Jesus would do, he said:

"1. He would engage in business for the purpose of glorifying God and not for the primary purpose of making money."

"2. All money that might be made he would never regard as his own, but as trust funds to be used for the good of humanity."

"3. His relations with all the persons in his employ would be the most loving and helpful. He could not help thinking of them in the light of souls to be saved. This thought would always be greater than the thought of making money in business."

"4. He would never do a single dishonest or questionable thing or try in any remotest way to get the advantage of any one else in the same business."

"5. The principle of unselfishness in all the details of the business would direct its detail."

CHRONIC HEART DISEASE PROMPTLY CURED.

THE EMINENT SPECIALIST, FRANKLIN MITES, M. D., LL. B., HAS SUCCEEDED AFTER FIFTY TO 60 DOCTORS FAILED. A $2.50 COURSE OF HIS COMPLETE TREATMENT IS OFFERED FREE, AS A TRIAL.

To convince every sufferer that his new Special Treatment possesses rare and uncommon healing qualities in all cases of heart disease—especially when accompanied with short breath, pain in the side, oppression in the chest, palpitation, smothering spells, puffing of the ankles or dropsy—as well as when complicated with stomach, liver and nervous troubles, Dr. Mites will give them a $2.50 course free.

Other physicians may have failed. Your case may have been declared "incurable," but the doctor has such faith in his treatment that he is willing to leave the patient with you. One of the most scientific remedies are used, the treatment being specially prescribed for each patient.

The Complete Special Treatments are the result of 25 years of close study, careful research and extraordinary success. The advanced use of the medicines used by the ordinary doctor and few physicians show such faith in their remedies. There is no reason why this opportunity should not be taken by every sufferer before it is too late.

Mrs. August Kronck of Huntington, Ind., cured after 30 physicians failed; Mrs. Flora Graeter of Bristolville, O., after 22; Mrs. R. Parker of Mishawaka, Ind., after 16; Mrs. H. E. Cole, Pittsburg, Pa., after 6; and Mrs. E. Morris of Windsor, O., after 5 gave her up.

A thousand references to and testimonials from Bishops, Clergymen, Bankers, Farmers, and their wives, will be sent free on request.

Send at once to Franklin Mites, M. D., LL. B., 201 to 209 State Street, Chicago, Ill., for copyrighted examination chart and pamphlet. Mention this paper.

"6. Upon this principle he would shape the entire plan of the relation of his employees, to the public who were his customers, and to the general business world with whom he was connected."

What a transformation there would be in church circles if every Latter Day Saint would endeavor to carry out this principle? We are nearing the time when we must exemplify the practical teachings of Jesus Christ in the common material affairs of life. We cannot afford to go on as does the world. The hastening time is here. When we are willing to practice what we preach all along the line, the redemption of Zion will have begun.

Two of the greatest needs of the hour are honesty and veracity. We should be strictly honest with God, likewise ourself. We should ever aim to act towards all men that e'en though an angel would tomorrow publish the same from the housetop we would have no regret, no shame. We should be so tenacious for the truth that our word would be as good as our bond. Oh, that we could throw off this conventional veracity which makes fact secondary to necessity.

King Henry the IV said, "While you live tell truth and shame the devil."

Chaucer said, "Truth is the highest thing that man can keep."

"There is nothing so powerful as truth," said Webster.

Butler said, "Truth is precious and divine."

While the busy, teeming, rushing world is sacrificing all on the altar of success, prosperity, notoriety and satiation, is it not wise for the true followers of the Master to consider well their opportunity and thus manifest their peculiarity in emulating the supreme Master? There is nothing that can be offered in extenuation of a failure to apply the whole of Christ's ethical teachings if God's people would but make the test. Environments, impediments, all must give way to a concentrated, consecrated effort along this line. The gospel is nothing, if not practical. To claim to believe and fail to practice, stultifies our manhood and crucifies the Master afresh. To conform ones whole life to the Christ plane of existence should be the aim of every Latter Day Saint.

T. W. WILLIAMS.
1322 Myrtle Ave.,
LOS ANGELES, Cal.

EVANGELIA LOST, a duet by Bro. J. Cole Moxon. Fine souvenir engraving of the little gospel boat. Everyone should possess a copy. Not a very great many of them left, better send in your orders for one or more before there is nothing left you but regrets that you do not possess a copy. Only 25 cents each. Let us hear from you promptly.

Group Picture.

To the High Priests, Greeting:—Group picture completed, and will be on sale at Independence, at the General Conference. Photographs loaned me have been returned. If any fail to receive their copy, please let me know at once.

In bonds,
ROBT. M. ELVIN.
To the Saints.

If those who attend General Conference and wish to get a general description of Jackson county, Independence and Kansas City, will call at my office, they can get one of my pamphlets free. It will be found to be of worth to any person who contemplates making Jackson county their future home.

W. S. LOAR.
Music Hall, Independence, Mo.
Visitors to the Pan-American Exposition.

If you contemplate going to Buffalo during the Pan-American Exposition, drop a line to the undersigned, who will mail to you a beautiful illustrated pamphlet issued by the Bureau of Publication and Accommodation of the Pan-American Exposition. It is free.

GEN. J. CHARLTON.
Gen. Pass. Agt., Chicago & Alton Ry. Chicago, Ill.

FOR SALE.
I will offer for sale at Lamoni, Iowa, one frame live room house, two blocks from business center, and one frame six room house, three blocks from business center. Also one frame two story, eight room house, three blocks from business center. All of the above property has good wells and cisterns and barns, and all in good repair, and all paying good rental. For particulars apply to
B. D. FLEET.
Lamoni, Iowa.

FOR SALE.
House of five rooms, cellar, porches, cistern, never falling well. Lot 200 feet deep, trees, all kinds of fruit, shrubbery and flowers. One block from Electric line; near the Missouri Pacific depot; two blocks from L. D. S. church and school; $1,000. Inquire at Telegraph Office, Missouri Pacific depot.

FOR SALE.
Five room house, lot 50x150. Barn, good well, several fruit and shade trees. Also four and one-third acres of good garden land three miles out on a good rock road. Price each $300-50; both $1,000. J. Tankard, 819 S. Grand Avenue, Independence, Missouri.

THIS WILL INTEREST MANY

To quickly introduce B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), the famous blood purifier, into new homes, we will actually send free 1,000 treatments to readers of ZION'S ENSIGN who have not already tried B. B. B. B. B. B. quickly cures old ulcers, scrofula, painful swellings, aches and pains in bones or joints, rheumatism, catarrh, pimples, festering eruptions, boils, eczema, itching skin or blood humors, eating, bleeding, festering sores and even deadly cancer. B. B. B. sold at drug stores for $1.00, including directions for home cure. For free treatment address Blood Balm Co., 86 Mitchell street, Atlanta, Georgia. Describe trouble and free medical advice given until cured. Medicine sent at once, prepaid. B. B. B. cures the worst and most deep-seated cases, after all else fails. B. B. B. heals every sore and stops all aches and pains and makes blood pure and rich.

BELGIAN HARES.
Have some nice young Belgian Hares for sale at reasonable prices. Call and see them when you come to conference, or address
J. W. LUFF,
Independence, Mo.
Epworth League Meeting.

San Francisco, California, July 19-21, 1901, round trip $45.00. Stop over allowed in each direction. For full particulars call 1929.

National Shooting Festival of National Shooting Bund, Shell Mound Park, California, July 14-23, at round trip, $45.00.
J. W. DUGAN, Agt.
FOR SALE.

A fine store front residence one mile east of court house, Independence, Missouri, on Macadam road. Ten rooms, bath room and furnace; fifteen acres of ground, large barn, tenant house, stone spring house, etc. Young orchard and vineyard. Address Box 90, Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE.
On North Main Street, Independence, Mo., three fourths of a mile from the square. Lot 12 acres, fronting three streets; four roomed house, good barn, carriage house, workshop, hay chamber, three-stalled cow house separate. Full of large and small fruits, in line bearing condition; good apparatus bed; line well with never failing spring; $1,250. Apply to
Mrs. E. A. STEVENS.
108 Chrysler Ave., Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE.
Eight room house. lot 80x150 feet, barn, cistern, city water, fruit, flowers and shrubbery, 1110 West Elm. About two blocks from Saints' church.
Mrs. L. HUTCHENS.
Independence, Mo.

AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR RAILWAY
CHICAGO AND ALTON
PERFECT PASSENGER SERVICE
TO CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
KANSAS CITY
PEORIA DENVER AND POINTS IN ILLINOIS
MISSOURI
AND POINTS THEREOF

CHICAGO AND ALTON
PERFECT PASSENGER SERVICE
TO CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
KANSAS CITY
PEORIA DENVER
AND POINTS IN ILLINOIS
MISSOURI
AND POINTS THEREOF

HAVE YOU PILES OR HEMORRHOIDS?

I cure them without knife, caustic, or loss of a drop of blood. Cases of twenty-eight years standing cured as easily as acute cases. John L. Lobb, a government cattle inspector, at stock yards, Kansas City, was afflicted for twenty-eight years, was cured in from three to five days. Why not, while attending conference, be cured of your piles, and go back home a new man or woman? I refer, by permission, to Col. J. W. Mercer, vice president of First National Bank or Henry Rummell, deputy sheriff; I could refer to scores of both men and women as I cured one hundred and forty-two within last two years.
DR. S. R. BERG.
Box 572, INDEPENDENCE, MO.

A Bargain $900 will buy a six room house and over 3 acres choice land at Lamoni if taken soon. One-half cash. Address with return stamp, Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

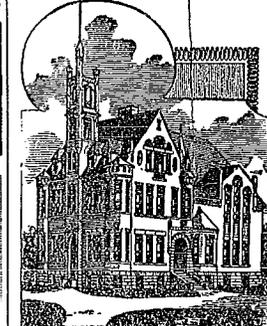

Have You Seen "LAMONI PULPITS" in the INDEPENDENT PATRIOT?
A synopsis of one sermon a week from the Saints' pulpit in Lamoni, appears in the Patriot. Subscription one dollar per year. Address, THE PATRIOT, Lamoni, Iowa.
A postal card brings a sample copy.

ALL SECRET SOCIETIES THE TRUE CHURCH OF THE DEVIL.
BY G. E. PAGE,
Price 5 Cents. Agents Wanted in Every Town. Address, G. E. Page, Independence, Mo.

BIG INDUCEMENTS
Having removed our Guilford stock to Barnard, Missouri, and having just received a large line of BRAN NEW UP-TO-DATE Clothing, Dry Goods, Shoes and Hats, we are better prepared to supply the demands of our large and increasing trade, than ever before.
We have purchased a lot of Prince Albert and Clerical Cut Garments from the American Tailors which they had left on their hands. We have bought these cheap and CAN SAVE YOU MONEY. 20 per cent off regular price to the ministry.
NATIONAL MERCANTILE CO.
G. J. Whitehead & Co., Proprietors,
BARNARD, MO.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE,
LAMONI, IOWA.
An institution of learning under the auspices of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, located at Lamoni, Iowa.
For catalogue, or other information, write to I. W. Abender, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE,
LAMONI, IOWA.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST.
35TH YEAR
SPALDING'S
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.
(INCORPORATED)
East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.
Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches. Twenty Rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses, Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue.
FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.
Tel. 1174. J. E. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898.
Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Savers, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on year deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered.
List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Mrs. Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ed. D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Resseguin, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Blair.

A Singer Sewing Machine

THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, earning more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible.
THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch.
BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world every machine is carefully tested on practical stitching.
Sold only by
THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO.
CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY.
Phone 190-3.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle
The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA.
Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

20 Acres of as nice, smooth land as you ever saw. A short walk from L. D. S. church and Public School in Lamoni. Worth $2,000; $1,500 will buy it now, on easy terms. If interested write the owner.
D. F. NICHOLSON,
Lamoni, Iowa.

SAINTS AND FRIENDS:—Remember that I am still in the mail order clothing business. For years I have served you and my reputation speaks for itself. Send me your order or write for my price list. I also have two good organs for sale cheap.
E. T. ATWELL,
Cumorah, Mo.

UWANTOQUIT

using tobacco. "QUIT-TO-BAC" makes it easy to stop using it. Three boxes, postpaid, only $1.50 with POSITIVE GUARANTEE to cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken.
Address,
(Bro.) E. F. ORDWAY,
Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST.
35TH YEAR
SPALDING'S
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.
(INCORPORATED)
East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches. Twenty Rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses, Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue.
FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.
Tel. 1174. J. E. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

WANTED TO BE CURED
WITH SOOTHING BALM OILS.
Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Womb Diseases. Dr. Sherman, Utility, Mo., Cancer Jace cured.
Mrs. W. A. Sullivan, Liverpool, Colo., Cancer breast cured.
Write for Illustrated Book, Sent Free. Address
DR. EYE,
Cor. 9th and Broadway,
KANSAS CITY, MO.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT
The Regular $5.00 Waterproof MACKINTOSH for $2.75.
Send no money. Cut this ad out. State your height, weight, size, number of inches around body taken over feet, under coat, double under arm, and we will send you this coat by express C. O. D., subject to examination. Examine for your nearest dealer, or write and if correct as represented, the most wonderful bargain you ever saw. Each coat guaranteed waterproof, sewed and lined with heavy rubber, and guaranteed the greatest bargain ever offered. Write for free samples of New's Mackintosh, from $1.00 up, and get some choice tires, from $3.50 up. We can save you money. Address
H. S. DILLER & CO., 305 Dearborn St., Chicago.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT.

TRAINS WEST.		a. m.
No. 95—Wichita and K. C. Mail		12:49
9—Kansas & Nebraska Lin.		4:34
93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex.		8:15
3—St. Louis Express		6:33
73—Lexington Branch Pass.		3:35
7—Fast Mail		10:00
TRAINS EAST.		a. m.
91—Joplin and K. C. Mail		3:16
1—St. Louis Mail and Ex.		5:17
5—St. Louis Mail		5:55
71—Lexington Branch Pass.		6:41
TRAINS EAST.		a. m.
No. 98—K. C. & Wichita Mail		2:22
72—Lexington Branch Pass.		6:52
6—St. Louis Mail		7:22
92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail		8:37
2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.		10:17
		p. m.
78—Lex. Branch Passenger & Pass.		6:10
4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.		1:27
94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex.		7:40
8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.		9:30
10—Kan. & Neb. Limited		11:12
Nos. 7, v and 10 do not stop.

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.
TRAINS WEST.
No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass. 8:30 a. m.
71— " " 6:40 p. m.
TRAINS EAST.
No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass. 6:58 a. m.
78— " " 8:15 p. m.
Tel. 17. F. A. MULLARD, Agt.

CHICAGO & ALTON
EAST BOUND. a. m.
101—Local Way Freight. 7:07
47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail 8:00 p. m.
85— " " 9:51
No. 51—Chicago Limited. 6:40
49—St. Louis Flyer. 9:40
WEST BOUND. a. m.
84— " " 9:15 p. m.
102—Local Way Freight. 2:50
8—Chicago & St. Louis Mail 5:51
All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on
Tel. 20. J. W. DUGAN, Agent
J. CHARLTON, G. P. & T. Agt., Chicago

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. GURTI, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE. Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.

Mrs. Calfe B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

Editor's address, 212 North Compton Ave., St. Louis, Missouri.

Home Training of Children.

In this article I feel like saying home training, or lack of it, rather, for 'tis the lack that comes to my notice more than the training.

You wonder how I know about such things, when I am only "mother's girl" and have no babes of my own.

Let me tell you of a few of my experiences, amusing though they be, and see if we cannot get some good from the experiences of another.

For example—and it is a fair one too—a dear, bright little tot comes to school the "first" morning and answers all my many questions with a blunt "yes" or "no," or even worse, with a nod or shake of the head.

All hail the day when fathers take as much interest in their children as mothers and when mothers feel the interest for their children which they should.

The child not being taught so simple a thing plainly shows that other and more essentials are, too, left out. That "no" and "yep" is a key to the home situation, and brands you fathers and mothers as being weak in your own kingdom.

Perhaps a few minutes later this same little one walks all over my feet without as much as "by your leave" or a "please pardon me."

After many months of effort I have succeeded in getting the little ones in my charge to use the most common of politeness. They really enjoy using these little expressions in the school room, but, sad to relate, the training goes sometimes no farther than the school-house door.

Remember that the little ones are entrusted to your care and God has been kind to you in permitting you to reach the standard of womanly perfection—that of becoming a mother.

Training means not severity, for the best training is through kindness. Help the little ones to their tasks with a loving smile and they will learn the little things of life which are an index to the home training and which are so essential to a well bred child.

I have a little boy in school who is always defending his head by throwing up his arms, seemingly afraid of being "slapped."

you because of love for you. Let the little one see that disobedience grieves you and he will be slower to disobey again.

You poor, discouraged mothers! I know you sometimes long for death as a release from your toil.

I think when I read that sweet story of old, When Jesus was here among men, How He called little children as lambs to His fold.

That His dear hands had been placed on my head, His arms had been thrown around me, And I might have seen His kind looks when He said,

Lovingly submitted to the kind readers of your columns, "MOTHER'S GIRL."

The National Anti-Treating Society, to Intoxicating Liquors.

This society, whose motto is "For God and Humanity," has been organized about five years, its object being to protect our fellow beings from the evils resulting from the social custom of treating to intoxicating liquors.

To discourage and create sentiment against the social use of intoxicating liquors, at all times, in all places, and under all circumstances.

PLEDGE.—God helping me I do solemnly pledge myself not to give or treat any one to intoxicating liquor, nor accept the same from others, cases of actual need in sickness excepted, and I will use my influence with others to uphold these principles.

It imposes no dues or financial obligations upon membership, depending upon voluntary contributions for support.

Any person, male or female, may become a member of the society by signing the pledge.

Active members are such as take an active part in the work and contribute to its support.

Associate members are such as do not. Junior members are such as sign pledge between five and fifteen years old.

It is not the strong drinks such as gin, whisky, brandy nor the saloon, where young men commence a life of dissipation.

Dr. Price's Baking Powder supplies a pure, wholesome leavening agent, which makes the biscuit and cake of highest healthfulness at medium cost and protects the food from alum, which is the greatest dietary danger of the day.

The foremost baking powder in all the world.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. CHICAGO.

NOTE.—Alum baking powders are low priced, as alum costs but two cents a pound; but alum is a corrosive poison and it renders the baking powder dangerous to use in food.

cial conditions exist, so long will the public saloon, which is only natural, and the logical outcome of the same, flourish and supply the demand thus created, in the most alluring and fascinating manner.

The saloon, which is the outgrowth of this, is the cursed creature of society's own creation.

Here is the place to strike if we wish to exterminate the saloon.

All communications will be gladly answered with particulars and instructions to organize chapters.

Address any of its officers: H. G. Haring, president, Southeast Corner Seventh and Diamond Sts. A. M. Hendershot, treasurer, 1107 Diamond St. Charles H. Nagel, Cor. Secretary, 1826 N. Fourth street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The society would be pleased to have the "Press," both Religious and secular, copy this article for the good it may accomplish.

Do Not Drink While Eating.

Liquids at meals, if taken too often or too carelessly, are liable to dilute the gastric juices. Take no liquid of any kind when food is in the mouth.

DIED.

(One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice. No insurance publication.)

SARGENT.—At Vincesnes, Iowa, March 22, 1901, of paralysis, Bro. Horace C. Sargent. He was born at Millsfield, New Hampshire, September 14, 1834, was married to Miss Adaline D. Washburn in 1855, who died in 1883. On May 9, 1888, he was married to Sr. E. I. Griffith at Vincennes. He was baptized at Montrose, Iowa, reunion, August 27, 1896, by Elder J. S. Snively, and confirmed same date by Elders J. R. Lambert and J. S. Snively. The elders were always gladly welcomed to his home by himself and wife, Sr. Nellie. Funeral services at the residence March 24th, 11 a. m., Elder James McKeirnan in charge. Interment at the Meek's cemetery.

LANGUID Many a school-girl is said to be lazy and shiftless when she doesn't deserve the least bit of it. She can't study, easily falls asleep, is nervous and tired all the time. And what can you expect? Her brain is being fed with impure blood and her whole system is suffering from poisoning.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Hundreds of thousands of schoolgirls have taken it during the past 50 years. Many of these girls now have homes of their own. They remember what cured them, and now they give the same medicine to their own children. You can afford to trust a Sarsaparilla that has been tested for half a century.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, APRIL 11, 1901.

NUMBER 15.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our files.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are no entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to
ENSIIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

B. B.

ZION'S RELIGIO-LITERARY SOCIETY.

Wednesday, April 4th, at 7:30 p. m.—After opening exercises, Sr. Cordie White sang a solo. At its conclusion President J. A. Gunsolley read his address, the subject being "1893-1901," a review of the Religio-Literary Society during the years of its existence. The Religio exists because there was a demand for it. This demand became apparent because in different branches of the church there existed societies among the youth for the cultivation of the social, moral and religious nature. As in all features of gospel work and the pursuit of truth, there is unity of purpose which calls for and demands unity of action. This demand resulted in a call for a meeting in 1892. Presenting the program, the speaker said we were at that time larger in the head than we are now. We tried to carry four lines of work and later eight lines were carried for a short time. There was a tendency to pander to a worldly taste in the program for a period of two years, which had a very discouraging effect. At the convention in 1897 fasting and prayer was resorted to by some, and light was given with encouraging promises. Since that time increase of interest has been manifest and general success has followed. The correspondence department has brought forth and developed some excellent talent who are now holding positions of responsibility in the society. Good talent is now lying dormant that might be used to good advantage were the young people inclined to push forward and develop themselves, and not wait for the Lord or the church to call them. The missionaries are taking more active interest in organizing societies than ever before, one brother waiting for commission to organize five at one time.

Duet by Mrs. Brackenbury and McNichols.

Paper by Miss Marie H. Clark on "Home Class" work. It was excellent.

An instrumental duet by Ralph G. Smith and George H. Hulmes, Jr.

Katie Chatburn gave a recitation entitled "Guilty or Not Guilty."

Additional remarks by Bro. J. A. Gunsolley. He referred to the course of study by the Religio in the past three years, the Book of Mormon. More people are now studying this book than ever before.

Sr. Louise Palfrey was introduced and read a paper discussing the Book of Mormon in a very entertaining and instructive way.

Brn. Will McLaren and J. A. Koehler, of Kansas City, sang a duet which concluded the service of the evening and adjournment was taken until Thursday morning.

Thursday morning a session was held to complete the work of the convention, Bro. Gunsolley presiding. The first business was consideration of blanks for reports to Zion's Religio-Literary Society.

Report of committee regarding blanks recommitted.

Report of committee on revision of Home Class leaflets taken up.

Moved that report of committee be adopted and leaflets be published.

Moved as amendment that executive committee be authorized to make such changes in leaflets as will make it agree with any subsequent action of association.

Amendment and original motion both carried.

Report of committee on Book of Mormon pronouncing vocabulary taken up.

Report adopted.

Report of committee on petition from Des Moines district taken up.

After a lengthy discussion it was moved to defer further action on the matter until next convention; prevailed.

Further report of committee on Report Blanks was presented; taken up.

Moved to adopt blanks reported by committee, and executive committee authorized to insert necessary changes to provide for credential blanks overlooked by committee.

Moved to amend by inserting in blank 4 provision for reporting distribution of literature.

Amendment and original motion both prevailed.

Report of committee on letter of removal taken up. Report adopted.

Chairman of committee on junior lessons made verbal statement that committee had not had sufficient time to report. Moved to refer to executive committee. Carried.

Moved that the president and secretary be empowered to appoint a credential committee for next convention. Carried.

Moved that executive committee be authorized to provide charters and commissions for future use if they think it advisable. Carried.

Moved to adjourn, subject to arrangements of executive committee. Carried.

No objections being offered the minutes were then read for last two sessions.

Minutes amended and adopted.

GENERAL SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

The General Sunday School Convention was called to order promptly at 10 a. m., Thursday morning, April 5, 1901, General Superintendent T. A. Hougas in the chair, J. A. Gunsolley, vice president; W. N. Robinson, secretary; J. F. Mjuntun and B. R. James, assistant. Bro. A. M. Chase chosen choirster. Committee on credentials, Bro. U. W. Green, Maine, Sr. Maggie Pankey, California, and Sr. Alice Schwartz, Nebraska, not being ready to report, Superintendent Hougas, on motion, addressed the convention and talked about five minutes on the best procedure in the business of the convention, concluding with, "Be brief, be practical, be prayerful." The credential committee being ready to report, it was recommended that where there is no report this year that delegates be allowed representation on the basis of the last report of membership. Report and recommendation adopted.

The general superintendent, T. A. Hougas, then presented his report. Followed by the report of the first assistant superintendent, Bro. J. A. Gunsolley, of Lamoni, Iowa, and the second assistant superintendent, Bro. F. M. Pitt, Chicago, Illinois. General secretary, W. N. Robinson, reported that out of 52 districts, 13 have not reported. This is a disappointment as being misleading, not representing actual conditions. The net gain in association during past year shows 836, but this, owing to the absence of the report of 13 districts, does not show the actual advance made. Net gain 24 schools so far as reported; 14810, membership last year. We have at least over 16000 members. The treasurer, A. B. Hansen, reported:

To the president and members of the General Sunday School Association; Greeting:
The outlook from the treasurer's point of view is good. The receipts exceed the expenditures.

For the twelve months ending December 31, 1900, the cost of issuing the Gospel Quarterly has been $1855.92; this includes printing of Christmas programs; during a corresponding period in 1899, the cost for issuing Quarterlies was $1438.15; an increase of $417.77. This difference can be accounted for by expense of issuing teachers edition of quarterly, and the printing of Christmas programs and Constitutions.

Cash on hand at last report, $1139.06; total cash receipt during year, $925.08; total, $2064.14, paid out for salary, editing Gospel Quarterly, $338.50; traveling expenses for superintendent and assistant, $113.08; exchange for forwarding money, 42c; total expenditures, $451.00. Amount on hand April 1, 1901, $1613.14.

During my absence on my mission, in the state of Colorado, the work of the treasurer was done by our worthy assistant superintendent, Bro. J. A. Gunsolley. Would recommend that my successor should be chosen from among the Sunday School workers located where the principal business of the association is done. I cannot serve another year.

Working and praying for the good of the great latter day work, I am,
Yours in bonds,

A. B. HANSEN,
Gen. Treas. S. S. A.
LAMONI, Ia., April 2, 1902.

This report was referred to auditing committee, appointed by the chair, consisting of C. P. Faul, Missouri; R. Wight, Iowa; and C. C. Joehnk, California.

Financial report of general superintendent was read, totaling $224.06; received, $219.54; balance due general superintendent, $4.52.

Financial report first assistant, J. A. Gunsolley; total receipts, $54.16; expended, $38.68; balance, $15.48. These reports were also referred to the above committee for auditing. Adjourned to 2 p. m.

At 2 p. m., after the usual exercises, rules relative to nominations were read and adopted as follows:

1. The "Previous Question" shall not obtain except by two-thirds majority.
2. All nominations of candidates for office or place on committees shall not be entertained till seconded.
3. No person nominated shall be permitted to decline, if any one object, except by permission of the body, unless done before the nomination is announced by the choir.

Report of the editor of Gospel Quarterly, Sr. R. S. Salyards, was read:

To the General Sunday School Association; Greeting:—At the close of the last General Convention I was notified of my reappointment as editor of the Gospel Quarterly. My salary was fixed as before at twenty-five (25) dollars. I was instructed to prepare a teachers' quarterly in addition to the three grades in current use. The idea of the officers, as stated to me, was that the Teachers' Quarterly should contain all that was in the senior, intermediate, and primary grades, with such additional information as I might be able to furnish.

I prepared my copy as I had been instructed; the revising committee examined it, but when it was taken to the Herald office to be set up in type it was learned that the plan adopted by the officers was not feasible. The notes prepared for insertion were then issued in a supplement to the Senior Quarterly. After this I received no further instruction regarding the Teachers' Quarterly.

I am pleased to report that the lessons are prepared up to October. The last quarter written is on the Acts of the Apostles. The Acts, if continued as our text, will supply us material for good lessons for about one year.

Respectfully submitted,
ANNA SALYARDS.

Communication from Bro. H. A. Stebbins, Lamoni, Iowa, one of the revising committee, was read, commendatory of the work of the Sunday School Convention, and asked, that as he has served for three years on the revising committee, that he be not again placed thereon, not desiring to serve further. It was ordered recorded. The first report of the improvement committee, as published in the ENSIIGN for January 10th last, was read and made subject to call for action.

President Hougas announced that the special order for the afternoon was on the constitutional amendments; pending its consideration the courtesies of the floor were extended to the ministry present.

Notice of amendments to be acted upon, as published in Herald for December 6, 1900, was read:

Section 1, article 1, page 14, (1897) read, and on motion made to amend by adding the word "first" before the word superintendent where it first occurs. A substitute offered by simply adding to the present reading the words, "and such assistants as may be necessary for the proper conduct of the school." This was unanimously agreed to.

Section 2, article 2, was read and its adoption moved as amended. Carried.

Paragraph 1, article 7, making word assistant in second line read, "with the first assistant and the assistant in charge of each department shall select teachers of the primary and intermediate classes." This amendment was, on motion, tabled.

Paragraph 5, amending article 7, making the word assistant "assistants," was adopted.

No. 5. Amending article, section 3, "The assistant secretary shall assist the secretary as occasion demands and in the secretary's absence shall perform all the duties of the secretary," was adopted.

No. 6. Amending article 2, section 5, page 15, adding, "The assistant librarian shall assist the librarian as occasion demands, and in the librarian's absence shall perform all the duties of the librarian." Adopted.

No. 7. Substitute for article 5, page 16. "All officers shall be elected by the school except the assistant superintendent, other than the first assistant superintendent, last secretaries and assistant librarians, and shall take their places the Sunday following." Its adoption was moved and after discussion it was laid on the table, as were numbers 8, 9 and 10, of the proposed amendments.

Proposed amendments of section 2, article 2, of Srs. Vida E. Smith, LaJune Howard, L. L. Resseguie et. al., was tabled. A motion to reconsider the action taken in regard to numbers passed affirmatively be reconsidered, was negatived.

Report of three of committee on song book was read, and also report from Bro. J. L. Morgan, chairman of committee, was read. On motion the report of the majority was adopted and recommendation of committee endorsed. Following is report:

We, as the only members of the committee on Sunday School song book present at this convention, having received no word from the chairman of our committee, deem it but proper to submit a report regarding the work entrusted to us.

So far as we are aware there has not been any new pieces or contributions received during the past year.

We seriously doubt the advisability of continuing this effort of publishing a song book for Sunday School at the present time, for the reason that, of the material so far received, very little of it is of a proper standard. We know of but very few of the contributions of those now in the hands of the committee that are equal to the average of those contained in "Winnowed Songs."

We have secured in the publication in the current issues of the Quarterlies, of three pieces selected from the best of those now on hand, in order that a fair estimate may be made of the quality of the material received by us.

We recommend that the convention appoint custodians of the music now on hand, who shall be empowered to solicit and receive new contributions.

Respectfully submitted,

F. G. PITT.

Mrs. W. N. ROBINSON.

A. H. MILLS.

Members of Committee.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., April 4.

On motion chairman was authorized to appoint committee of three to have charge of music now submitted and in hands of committee.

Adjourned till 7:30 p. m.

At 7:30 p. m., after the opening exercises the report of the committee on improvements was ordered up, and on motion it was considered seriatim.

Section 1 read:

We approve of the appointment of a lesson committee to decide on the lesson course. Further, that this committee also act as the revising committee. We recommend that the Executive Committee, associated with this committee, appoint the editor (the editor having authority to choose sub-editors), and to fix compensation.

Substitute offered that so far as practicable the lesson texts of the international lesson committee be adopted. A spirited and lengthy discussion followed. Adjourned at 9:30 p. m. until 9 a. m. Friday morning for prayer service.

Friday morning the prayer service at 9 o'clock was profitable and interesting, the inclement weather prevailing this morning hindered some from attending.

After the opening exercises, at 10 o'clock, the discussion of the question under consideration at the close of last night's session, the "Use of International Texts," was resumed. Many earnest speeches were made for and against, occupying nearly the entire morning session. At 11:40 a. m., the previous question was called; the vote was taken by yeas and nays, resulting 308 6-15 for, 973 9-15 against, defeating the proposition. It was the most interesting question that, up to this time, had been reached, and its consideration was marked by intelligence and good feeling. The vote being announced, adjournment until 2:30 was had.

At 2:30 p. m., after the opening services, the consideration of the rules was resumed as follows:

We approve of the appointing of a committee to decide upon the lesson course. We recommend that this committee be the revising committee.

To amend article 1 on page 15 (1900 edition) to read: the officers of each Sunday School shall consist of a superintendent, assistant superintendent, secretary, treasurer, librarian, and when necessary, other assistant superintendents, assistant secretaries, assistant librarians, chorister, organist, and janitor.

To amend paragraph 2, article 2, page 15, by inserting the word first before the word assistant wherever it occurs, and by adding at the close of the paragraph the following: Other assistant superintendents shall have charge of such departments of the school, as its size and condition may require, acting in harmony with the counsel and advice of the superintendent and first assistant superintendent.

To amend paragraph 1, article 7, on page 17, by making the word assistant in the second line read with the first assistant and assistant in charge of each respective department.

To amend paragraph 5, article 7, page 18, by making the word assistant read assistants.

To amend article 2, section 3, page 15, by adding, "The assistant secretary shall assist the secretary as occasion demands, and, in the secretary's absence, shall perform all the duties of secretary."

To amend article 2, section 5, page 16, by adding, "The assistant librarian shall assist the librarian as occasion demands, and, in the librarian's absence, shall perform all the duties of librarian."

Substitute for article 5, page 17, All officers shall be elected by the school except the assistant superintendent other than the first assistant superintendent, assistant secretaries, and assistant librarians, and shall take their places the Sunday following.

To amend article 5, by adding section 2, All the assistant superintendents except the first shall be elected by the teachers of their respective departments and the superintendent and first assistant.

To amend article 5, by adding section 3. The secretary shall have choice of his assistants by conferring with the superintendent and his assistants.

To amend article 5, by adding section 4. The librarian shall have choice of his assistants by conferring with the superintendent and his assistants.

To amend article 2, section 1, page 15 (1900 edition), by striking out, "See that teachers follow methods advised by the superintendent of the association," and insert, in lieu thereof, "and advise the adoption of such methods of teaching as be by investigation shall decide to be practicable."

This resolution was adopted by a vote of 54 to 43.

Secretary read several resolutions to be acted upon, the general superintendent having stated that after 4 o'clock p. m., no new business would be received.

The special order of the afternoon was the election of officials. The general superintendent was presented and Brn. Thomas A. Hougas, F. E. Cochran (declined on account of inability to attend to duties), J. A. Gunsolley (declined on account of presiding functions he already held, except he was released from the necessity of secular work and be placed where he can), Brn. W. N. Robinson (declined), David Anderson, D. J. Krahl and Gomer R. Wells were nominated. It was decided to take the vote by rising. Vote being called, Bro. T. A. Hougas received 83 votes, J. A. Gunsolley, 34 votes; Bro. D. A. Anderson, 9 votes; D. J. Krahl, 3; G. R. Wells, 43. Highest 83, all others 89; no choice. On motion Brn. D. A. Anderson and D. J. Krahl were dropped. On second vote Bro. Hougas received 94 votes, Bro. J. A. Gunsolley, 38 votes, and G. R. Well, 46. On motion the vote was made unanimous. Bro. Hougas, in acknowledging his appreciation of the confidence of the Saints, stated his willingness to do the best he can and asked the prayers of the Saints.

For first vice president Brn. J. A. Gunsolley, G. R. Wells, D. A. Anderson, F. M. Pitt and Sr. L. L. Resseguie (declined) were nominated. Vote being taken, Bro. Gunsolley received 117 votes, Bro. G. R. Wells, 15 votes; D. A. Anderson, 3 votes; Bro. F. M. Pitt, 14 votes. The election of Bro. Gunsolley was made unanimous.

For second vice president Brn. D. A. Anderson (declined), Sr. Louise Palfrey (declined), Bro. J. F. Minton (declined), D. J. Krahl, Sr. E. F. Miller (declined), Eva Bailey (declined), Geo. Gates, and W. S. Macrae (declined) were placed in nomination. Vote being taken Bro. F. M. Pitt received 87 votes; D. J. Krahl, 15 votes; Geo. H. Gates, 72; Bro. Pitt, 87; all others 87; no choice.

On motion the two highest were selected for second vote. Bro. Pitt received 86 votes, Bro. Gates, 93, the vote being given to Bro. Gates as being an eastern man (Providence, Rhode Island). The motion to make his choice unanimous prevailed.

For general secretary, Bro. W. N. Robinson (declined), Sr. D. J. Krahl, Sr. LaJune Howard, Sr. Belle James (declined), Bro. J. F. Minton (declined), Bro. Robinson again nominated, again declined, Sr. Marie H. Clark (declined), Bro. A. H. Mills (declined), Sr. Dora Young (declined), Bro. F. M. Pitt, J. J. Billinsky (declined), and W. S. Macrae (declined), were nominated. Vote being called, Bro. D. J. Krahl received 112 votes, Sr. LaJune Howard, 53; F. M. Pitt, 15; Bro. J. J. Billinsky, 4 votes. Bro. D. J. Krahl was declared elected; the motion to make this selection unanimous prevailed.

For treasurer Brn. John Smith and Oscar Anderson were nominated. Vote being called Bro. Smith received 75 votes and Bro. Anderson 69 votes.

For librarian Sr. Mamie Allen, present incumbent (withdrawn), Sr. LaJune Howard, Lamoni, Iowa, Bro. S. A. Burgess, St. Louis, Bro. F. M. Pitt, Chicago, were named. Vote being taken, Sr. Howard received 47 votes, Bro. Burgess 114, Bro. Pitt 9. Bro. Burgess elected. A motion to make the election unanimous prevailed, as did that of Bro. Smith as treasurer.

A vote of thanks was tendered Brn. W. N. Robinson, past general secretary, F. M. Pitt, second assistant superintendent, Bro. A. B. Hansen, treasurer, Sr. Mamie Allen, librarian. Also to Bro. T. A. Hougas, general superintendent, and J. A. Gunsolley, first assistant superintendent, for good work done.

A motion to reconsider action naming Bro. Smith as treasurer, owing to his being also treasurer of Board of Publication, was laid on table.

Resolution providing for appointment of a lesson committee to decide on the lesson course, this committee to also act as a revising committee, prevailed. Brn. J. W. Wight (declined), H. C. Smith (declined), F. M. Smith (declined), F. M. Sheehy (declined), J. R. Lambert (declined) Columbus Scott, R. S. Salyards, R. M. Elvin, F. G. Pitt, J. A. Gunsolley (declined), Duncan Campbell were named. Brn. Duncan Campbell and F. G. Pitt were granted privilege to withdraw. This was also granted Bro. Columbus Scott at his request.

Reconsideration of action providing for a lesson committee was moved and prevailed, and the resolution being placed before the house was declared lost.

Motion that we now proceed to elect a revising committee, carried. Substitute was offered that we request the presidency to appoint the revising committee. This request was declined on behalf of Presidency by President Joseph Smith.

Brn. J. W. Wight, R. S. Salyards, Duncan Campbell, R. M. Elvin, Heman C. Smith, Wm. Clow, Columbus Scott, Frank Cochran were named. Motion that nomination close and that the committee consist of three, prevailed. A motion that the three receiving the highest number of votes be this committee, prevailed.

Vote being taken Bro. J. W. Wight received 130 votes, R. S. Salyards 102, Duncan Campbell 76, R. M. Elvin, 51, Heman C. Smith 108, Wm. Clow 16, Columbus Scott 26, Frank Cochran 11. Brn. J. W. Wight 130 votes, Heman C. Smith 108 votes, and R. S. Salyards 102 votes, were declared elected, and a motion to make the choice unanimous prevailed. Adjournment was taken to 7:30 p. m.

7:30 p. m. Opening exercises being concluded, a motion that all speeches throughout this session be limited to three minutes owing to the amount of business to be done and the short time to do it, prevailed.

A motion that the appointment of editor for the Quarterlies and the fixing of the compensation therefore be left with the executive committee of the association; prevailed.

It was moved that $150.00 be appropriated for the use of the executive officers for expenses during the present year. An amendment was presented to increase the amount $50.00, carried and the motion as amended, making the appropriation $200.00 was then carried.

Report of the improvement committee presented their first report, as follows:

Independence, Mo., 4-5, 1901.

To the General Convention of the Sunday School Association:—We, the improvement committee on Sunday School work, make this our final report. Disadvantages have met us in the work we have done because of being so widely separated and having no privilege of a meeting this year; thus having accomplished our work wholly by correspondence. We have experienced a source of satisfaction in the spirit of earnestness, and of almost universal harmony with which all matters examined by us have been considered. We submit our work for your consideration with a feeling of satisfaction that we have done under the circumstances what we could to fulfill the trust imposed in us.

Respectfully submitted,

J. F. MINTUN,

LOUISE PALFREY,

Mrs. B. C. SMITH.

A motion was made to adopt the report and continue the committee. Amendment was offered to strike out that part of the resolution continuing the committee; prevailed, and the motion as amended was declared received.

Elder J. W. Wight of the revising committee made report:

To the Convention:—As one of the revising committee I presume you will expect a report from me. The duties incident to the position are certainly important ones and I am sorry to have to state that both lack of time as well as lack of qualification have militated against my doing justice to the work in hand. Should such committee be continued the greatest of care in its selection should be exercised.

My understanding of the duties so imposed has been that we were required to go carefully over the entire manuscript of each quarterly and to eliminate therefrom any and everything contrary to the doctrine of the church and not in harmony with history. It will at once be seen that such work is no child's play, and while I feel grateful for the confidence reposed in me by those asking me to occupy I am yet sorry that the above mentioned facts have stood between me and a better discharge of my duties pertaining.

I am in bonds,

J. W. WIGHT.

Recommendations regarding Sunday School song book were read, one signed by Bro. Columbus Scott. The other as follows:

Resolved. That a committee of two be appointed whose duty it shall be to revise such music as may be deemed suitable for the Sunday School, and that from two to four pieces be published in each issue of the Quarterlies, said pieces to be electrotyped and preserved till such times as it may be deemed wise to publish them in book form.

F. G. PITT,

VIDA E. SMITH,

Sr. D. A. ANDERSON.

Moved that the first part of this resolution be stricken out to "whose duty it shall be," and that instead thereof we insert this, "That the committee on music already provided for be authorized to revise," etc.

A motion accepting this resolution after changing the word "electrotype" to "stereotype" prevailed.

Pending the consideration of this subject a motion was offered tabling the whole matter and it prevailed.

The following was then offered but was denied:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed, of which the General Superintendent shall be chairman, to revise the constitution and by-laws of the association, and report through Herald three months before next convention.

MRS. DAVID H. BLAIR,
MINA P. KEARNEY,
MRS. ELLA MILLETT,
D. J. KRAHL,
E. A. BLAKESLEE.

The following was then offered, and after efforts to amend, was finally passed:

Resolved, That this body do now appoint a committee consisting of Sr. J. T. Erwin, Jennie Newton, Dora Young, Anna Murphy, Carrie Sitsky, Alice Booth, Lucy Ressegule, Eva Bailey, Ethel Banta, Vida Smith, Eunice Winn, Audentia Anderson, Mina P. Kearney and Bro. Warren E. Peak, the first primary teachers present, to consult and agree upon some plan for providing lessons especially adapted to the use of the infant classes of our Sunday Schools.

D. J. KRAHL,
DORA YOUNG,
VIDA E. SMITH,

A report from Sr. Burton, showing the work done by the sisters in organizing Sunday Schools in the Society Islands, was read. No action taken on the report; it was, according to the rules, received for record.

The minutes of the evening session were read.

A reconsideration of the action on appointment of committee on primary lessons was moved, and prevailed. The motion being read substitute was offered that this committee be empowered to act and put into practical shape their work, and also be authorized to draw on the treasurer for that purpose. This was declared out of order by the chair for the reason that the convention had previously provided that the executive committee appoint the editor and fix the compensation. Decision of chair appealed from, but he was sustained by the body.

Adjournment taken until 8 a. m. Saturday morning.

The Convention met Saturday morning to finish the business. Report of committee of primary teachers:

WHEREAS, From the long expressed dissatisfaction on the part of teachers of infant classes in our Sunday School, it is clearly evident that there is a pressing need of different food form. Therefore be it

Resolved, That a teachers' help be issued to meet this demand.

That the lessons in these leaflets be drawn from the life of Christ. [A point was raised on this conflicting with the "uniformity of text" idea. It was discussed.]

That these Helps be prepared upon the following lines: (1) (a) The lesson texts (Simplicity, References); (b) Illustrations (Pictures, Kindergarten methods); (c) Lesson applications (story form). (2) Hints to teachers. (a) Literature—by the names of suggestive books, extracts from Helps, literature.

That our editorship consist of three consisting of Lucy Ressegule, Dora Young, Audentia Anderson.

That Association appropriate the sum of fifty dollars for purchasing such Helps for the coming year.

Amended by adding "and if the fifty dollars be not sufficient, the editors consult with the executive for further money. Amendment carried.

Amended by inserting "incidental" before expenses.

FORTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Conference opened at 10 a. m., April 6th, choosing Presidents Joseph Smith, Alexander H. Smith, and E. L. Kelley as presidents of the conference. Hymn 7:20, "Redeemer of Israel" was sung. A very fervent, feeling prayer was offered by President A. H. Smith.

On motion Elder R. S. Salyards was appointed secretary and authorized to choose his assistants. Bro. D. W. Wight and G. R. Wells were so chosen.

Committee on credentials was appointed by the chair. Bro. G. H. Godby, T. J. Sheldon and U. W. Greene were so appointed.

Press committee, consisting of R. M. Elvin, Frank Cochran and D. F. Lambert, was chosen.

Bro. O. L. James was chosen as chorister, he to arrange for assistants and organists.

Ushers chosen: B. C. Smith in charge, Wesley Ballinger, J. J. Luff, George Nesbitt, Sidney J. Preston, G. H. Hulmes, Jr., and Frank Oriley, Jr.

While the credential committee were preparing their report, on motion, short speeches were called for, President Joseph Smith being the first to respond. In part he said:

I greet you this morning with confidence. I have no personal mental reservation. Whatever may be the fate of the body or any individual member, I must answer before the bar of God. There is for me no halting place. My chief effort should be to be able to answer with a conscience void of offense. I am liable to err under trying conditions. From 1860 till now I have never made any claim to infallibility, which only belongs to God and Christ. There must be a continued responsibility that we must lay down only at death. As a servant of the body I expect to serve the body under the light of the inspiration I may possess. The opening prospect before us this morning is good, judging from appearances. The gospel is true. Men may fall; the sun, moon and stars may fade, but he who remains faithful to the end will never lose his reward. The gate is straight and the way narrow, and few find it. Promises made to us by the Spirit have been good. The injunctions have been to come up higher, to achieve personal purity, and keep the influences of immorality from injuring the body. I look upon the motives of my brethren to be good. Men see things in different light. If men run counter to the unwritten law, and we make them sinners because of that, this is a constructive sin. A man may be made a constructive apostate, while his motive may be pure—this is constructive sin. We ought to be careful how we pronounce a man an apostate. Having born the anathema for over forty years I am constrained to be lenient. The situation this morning is good, and propitious of good to the body.

Bro. A. H. Smith spoke as follows: It is with a good deal of satisfaction and pleasure I meet with you on this occasion. Looking over the assembly this morning I am reminded that it is the greatest work ever delivered to man. In looking back over the history of thirty-five years I can see the growth of the cause. My brother struck a chord when he said he had no mental reservation, and there is no resting place. Once entering I became, in a sense, a wanderer upon the face of the earth, not because I had no home, but because of the demand of the work upon me. My work has demonstrated this thought correct. I was once permitted to see a vision. An open door was presented. I looked through the door and saw beauties and grandeur and triumph of the gospel that was within, and I was anxious to enter in through that door and enjoy what I saw, and I have been trying to prepare myself to that end. The longer I live the more I learn the grandeur that is in the work to me. With me there can be no mental reservation, nor can there be with you. I see before me that labor that indicates that there is no cessation from labor; there is no resting place for a servant of God, no place where he may stop. The only place for an elder to rest is in activity, in the field. I feel encouraged; have felt happy since coming here in this conference, and feel that God is leading, that He will lift the clouds if any, and let light in upon us, and manifest that He is indeed leading, and we shall know that He does lead us.

President E. L. Kelley expressed his pleasure in meeting with the conference at this time, and said, As was stated by the presiding officer, I also entered this work without any mental reservation that, as the promises of the Father are without any mental reservation in His blessings upon His children, so I have felt that all that I had is placed at the service of the Lord; and if this body will move forward in the spirit of consecration to God, it will bring nearer the fruition of promises than we have before realized. If I did not have full faith and confidence in this work, as the work of God, I would not be with you this morning. But, believing as I do, I am assured that God will direct for the good of His work. The basis of our work must be the law of God, and any individual who walks not in this is wrong and will cause whisperings and backbitings, etc. We may come short, and while everyone realizes he may fail, we should not endeavor to fight our own battles, but should look to the Lord with a little more faith, that He will take care of His own work. We are not here in this church for the mere purpose of saving ourselves. The man who has the selfish purpose in this church of merely saving himself is likely to drop out before many years pass. That is not the purpose of the great missionary, Jesus Christ, who came that all may be saved. So with my brethren who have spoken, I am glad to be here this morning.

Let us be united in love, and not permit malice and unkindness to govern, so that we may realize that our work shall be better done than in the past year. While in my work the past year I have realized I was subject to the criticism of my brethren; I felt that I had been right in my official work, and I expect the Lord to acquit me whether or not my brethren do. From my report it will be seen that the brethren had maintained and sustained the cause better than ever. I have confidence in my brethren and have striven to do nothing that would cause any to lose his faith. May God's blessing be upon the conference, that before its close every cloud shall be swept out of the way.

Bro. W. H. Kelley, president of the Twelve, said, Our presence here indicate we are in the faith; that truth lies here. I have no reservation in this work, I started with intention of continuing to the end. In reaching the end we must pass through trial; there is no impediment put in our way we cannot overcome. I have felt well in my work; nothing has occurred to cause me to lose confidence in this work. We may lose confidence in one another; the way to feel right is to feel that all is right deep down; then we can have confidence. Christ is the great head of the church. The Israelites felt bad in the wilderness; they felt God was not with them. Are we going to let little trials and foibles keep us away from the work? Paul passed through severe trials yet he was a servant of God, and he said, "There is a crown of life for me." Satan knows how to attack us; we are here to adjust ourselves that we may meet him successfully. When we go out I hope we may go out strengthened and prepared for the battle.

Bro. D. Campbell, a president of the seventy, spoke as follows:—I have felt well in coming to this Conference, and expect to feel well while I remain. I have a deeper sense and higher appreciation of this gospel, than ever before. We should seek after that harmony spoken of; to do this we each one should bring himself into harmony with the great Head. I received a testimony of this work before entering, though it lead me through humiliation in a human sense. All I hope for future bliss lies in this gospel. May the spirit of peace rest with us.

Bro. C. Derry, president high priests' quorum, spoke as follows:—I am pleased to be here. My brethren have uttered the sentiments of my heart. I came here to help in promoting peace, unity and love. From the moment of accepting this work, save one dark hour, I have never been afraid of the divinity of this work. I have striven to spend my life in this work and desire to spend the remainder of my days, be they few or many, in it. I cannot stand alone, I am too weak for that; my trust is in Jesus Christ, and upon that arm will I continue to lean. I pray God His work may prosper. I have labored for the spread of this work. I will not say more but may the Spirit of God rest with you.

Bro. J. Caffall, of the Twelve: The year 1844, as it dawned toward Christmas time, I undertook a journey of twenty miles on "pony shanks" to find an individual having authority to administer baptism and laying on of hands. The written word of God had made an impression on me, leading me to this action. In view of the fact that he that was sent forth of God, had come, I was impressed with the thought, I was led to make with God an everlasting covenant, and by it I must practically demonstrate myself loyal to God, the rest of my days. I do not live in the past or future, the now is the battle field I must occupy until Christ shall come.

Elder Columbus Scott, president of Seventy:—I have never had a feeling of discouragement come to me in my experience in this latter day work; not that I have not had trials, but somehow I have not been permitted to look into those things too closely; I have striven to keep faith in God. In dealing with my brethren and sisters I have always tried to give them credit for being honest, and never permitted other thought except upon demonstration, and then I felt sorry for them. Daniel had an entire kingdom against him; they sought to make him bow to an idol, but he refused, and for his loyalty to God he was given great honor and authority in that same kingdom. Another thing I have endeavored to be governed by, and that is the spirit of conservatism, not that I would do nothing for fear of doing wrong, but to move slowly. Doubts may arise, clouds may come, but I have no doubt about the ultimate consequences of the work of the Lord. One of the encouraging things is the fact that those whom we expect to lead us are loyal to God and His work. The things we have to do is to keep the clouds and the mists from between us and the Lord, and like Paul we will be able to say at the conclusion, that I have kept the faith, I have finished the work, I have fought the fight and henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of life, and not for me only, but for all them who love the Lord Jesus Christ, the grand ultimate of the hope of man.

On motion presidents were authorized to arrange the character of the service and appoint the speakers. President announced 2 p. m. as the hour for the afternoon meeting. Adjournment was then taken until 2 p. m. Sung doxology; benediction by President Joseph Smith.

At 2:00 p. m. conference convened, President Smith in the chair. Prayer by Bro. Joseph Luff. The credential committee made an additional report.

Bro. Burton and wife, Devore and wife, H. Case and wife were added to the delegation of the Society Islands. Bro. John McKenzie's name was added to delegation from London district. Report as corrected was adopted.

Delegates from Ohio district

CONTINUED ON PAGE 6.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

Annual Report of J. A. Gunsolley, President of Z. R.-L. S.

Dear brethren, sisters, and friends of the Religio-Literary Society, I warmly greet you.

It is with feelings of gratitude towards God that I undertake to address you with this annual report, yet it is with a consciousness of my inability to do the subject justice. The time was when it might not have been so great a task, when we were in our infancy as an organization, but in this day of unprecedented prosperity, to properly set before this convention the condition of the work with its needs, is a matter of no small undertaking, and only the assurance of its being a duty, and of the further assurance that our Father is with those who strive to do their duty, strengthens me for its discharge.

When I said unprecedented prosperity, I would not be understood as meaning that we have anywhere near reached perfection, or that there are not many things which need to be improved upon; but I would be understood as meaning that, all things considered, we were never in better condition than at the present time. For this we owe a debt of gratitude to our God who has so kindly directed us in our efforts to further on His glorious cause. We might have done something of ourselves, we might have made some progress; but the influences of heaven have been with us so that our progress, we think, has been in the right direction. In times of doubt, light has come sometimes in a marked manner and degree. When clouds have obstructed our horizon, they have been dissipated before the rays of the sunlight of truth. When emergencies have confronted us, wisdom was meted out. When sorrow almost overwhelmed us, the cup of consolation was placed to our lips and we were able to say, "Thy will, O God, be done."

It is but fitting that at this, our first annual gathering since he was taken, that we should pay a tribute of respect to our beloved brother and associate laborer in the work, secretary, Bro. John C. Hitchcock. Language cannot express the deep flood of sorrow that swept over the entire society at the news of his departure from earth life. Ah! the struggles that were made in the hearts of the members with the question of the consistency of his being taken, and its being the will of God, when his labors were so much needed. No one, methinks, really doubted the wisdom of God, but that we might be permitted to have but a glimpse of this wisdom so that our hearts might be comforted, and we be reconciled to our loss, was the thought. Well does your presiding officer call to mind making this struggle; and right well does he remember having received, like a sweet benediction, the comforting assurance that though taken from us, he had only been called to a higher and nobler work in the great mission field beyond. That while hands and hearts were wrung with sorrow and anguish here at his departure, that over there hearts were beating with joy at his coming and that hands clasped his with a warmer welcome than it is possible to experience in this life. I thought of the many, many honest souls who had died without the gospel who would gladly receive it on the other side, and who, perhaps, were waiting his coming to bring it to them. And I thought, too, that in years to come, in the near future, perhaps, when baptism for the righteous dead should be again instituted, and the Holy Spirit should designate those who are to be heirs of salvation in the spirit land, that then we might have the exceeding blessed privilege of witnessing his child, and perhaps our children, going down into the liquid grave as proxy for those who, through his influence and ministrations over there, had learned of Jesus and His power to save. This thought brought comfort, and to a very great degree, indeed, took away the sting of death, and with it came, with added inspiration, a determination to carry on the work which his departure left more fully with us who remain. He was prepared to go and take up the work there because he had been faithful here. He left an example which should be an inspiration to every young person who may know or learn of his life—a life worthy the emulation of us all.

Perhaps the most significant indication of progress the past year lies in the increased interest reported from all parts of the field. Those who have been enlisted in the work are more zealous and active, and many who have not hitherto taken an active interest have entered the work with a zest that must add impetus and vigor. Some who have stood just outside the tent, scarcely within hearing, but with quiet and inquiring glances to us-ward, have become satisfied that ours is a good cause, because it is the cause of Christ and humanity, have removed their hats, come in and are now numbered with us. Missionaries everywhere are becoming not only believers but organizers in the work. General commissions have been issued to several of these brethren, one of whom said that he had five places in view where he expected to organize in his mission. In the Arena we have read the testimonies of some of these brethren as the good received through following the course of study as found there. Societies everywhere, as a rule, report an increasing membership, and that this membership is interested as a general thing and contented with the work being done, but anxious to fit themselves for usefulness in life.

From this new interest a goodly number of new societies and districts have been organized, just how many the general secretary will probably be able to tell. We have read in the Ensign the good news that Bro. J. W.

Peterson has organized two or three societies in the island mission, which we think very excellent for one not believing in the auxiliaries. What might some of us do who believe in them with all our hearts, if we could do as much in proportion?

In the way of reunion work we accomplished much, perhaps, judging from results, more than in any previous year. The work seemed to be well received everywhere it was presented; prejudice was removed, and light imparted to the workers, preparing them to do better work than formerly. The Holy Spirit has born witness to the work to the certain knowledge of many. Our work was presented at the following reunions: Clinton, Far West, St. Louis and Independence districts in Missouri, Woodbine, Iowa, Oklahoma, Massachusetts, and others which I cannot now recall. Your president had the work in charge at four of these meetings, and felt that his work was appreciated and reciprocated to a very gratifying degree, in most, if not all places.

Besides the work in reunions we have made commendable advancement in our district convention work. Where districts have been organized the conventions have been held as a rule in connection with the district Sunday School associations, either before or after or interspersed, with very satisfactory results. And in many places where we have no district organizations, through the zeal of the Religio workers and the kindness of the Sunday School workers, our work has been presented at the Sunday School conventions with good results. It has been my privilege to attend and participate in two district conventions, namely, the Decatur and Des Moines.

If there are any special reasons why we should be encouraged in the work of the past year more than another, it is in the development of the Home Department and the Gospel Literature Bureau. These have certainly surpassed the most flattering expectations of the most sanguine. Every month, as we have read of the spread of the work in these two departments, our heart has swelled with gratitude to our Father in heaven for the influences of His Spirit which has enabled those having the work in charge to do so much in this direction. There is no question but that many will, in days to come, rise up and call us blessed for instituting such work and for carrying it forward with such earnestness as those have done who have had it in charge. Even now we can begin to see the good it may do in better educating the people of God in the gospel. We are not able to say how many Home classes have been organized, but we are assured that the work is firmly planted, and that if we are wise in following the beginning that has been made, that we shall in the future see a bountiful harvest of good gathered from this department.

So far as our finances are concerned, we are also prosperous in this. Our indebtedness is paid with a balance on hand. It seems to me that this is the first time in our history that we have been able to report to the convention a balance on hand with all debts paid; I may be mistaken in this, however. At any rate our assessment this year has met with less opposition than at some times in the past, at least, and while not all have responded, we feel gratified to know that our necessities in this direction are more fully supplied. This improved condition in our finances is due in part, and in quite large part, to the change made in our arrangements with the Board of Publication, the compensation of our editor being provided this year by the Board instead of from our treasury.

We have not only paid off our old debts, but have made an additional expenditure of $60.00 for a typewriter for the editor's office. This the executive committee felt justified in doing for the reason that the demands upon the time of the editor in the matter of correspondence became so heavy, that to do it with a pen was practically an impossibility, at least it could not have been done without a great loss to the society in point of time, and loss of energy to the editor. Under the circumstances we felt justified in making the expenditure, and trust that it may be entirely satisfactory to the body.

The thing, evidently, of first importance for us to do is to occupy well in the fields already entered. We cannot consistently ask for more territory until we have shown our ability to reach out, after wisely improving and cultivating that already possessed. When we are ready for more it will be given to us by the same divine influence which has bequeathed unto us in the past. Let us not be over anxious about the matter of other worlds to conquer, but let us rather "Get thy needle and thy distaff ready, and God will send thee flax."

We have greater opportunities in reunion work than we have been able to fully occupy. Our work is beginning to be in demand as a feature of the reunion programs. The church people come to these meetings as a place of education in the church work, and they have the right to expect, and are demanding more and more that committees on reunion work will provide for having the auxiliaries represented, that they may at these annual gatherings get not only some inspiration to better living as they may gain it from the preaching and prayer meetings, but that their ability to teach others how to live better likewise may be added to. And why should not this be the case? Surely there is no more consistent thing to do than to provide at these opportune times, that the brethren and sisters who feel the burden of instructing the children and youth of the church in the things pertaining to membership in the church may have the privilege of securing such advantages.

It must seem apparent to all who have given the subject thought that the Home Department offers, at the present time, more opportunity for development than any other. The spirit with which it has been received has been a surprise. In the growth of this phase of the work it has been found that our Home Class leaflet is quite inadequate to the needs of the work. Copy for revision was placed in my hands as long ago as September, but owing to several reasons it has not gone further. Among these reasons the following might be mentioned: First, we were in debt, with an empty treasury. Second, we were gaining by our daily experience a better understanding of the needs of this department so that when we should issue a revision we might more fully meet the demands. Third, we had on hands a supply of leaflets which fairly well met our demands while in embryo. Fourth, there was just a slight current of feeling that the Home Department is not authorized by the constitution, and it would be as well to wait until all such doubts or misgivings were completely removed. This convention ought to appoint a committee to revise the Home Class Leaflet and authorize its publication.

Another matter of deep concern to many, and of more or less importance to the society and to the church, it would seem, is that of having some standard of pronunciation for Book of Mormon names. It is a matter of no little embarrassment to see the great diversity of pronunciation upon the part of our ministry, to say nothing of the membership, and all the more embarrassing when we know that there is no way of remedying it. There will be presented to this convention a pronouncing vocabulary of the Book of Mormon for our consideration and endorsement, and we ought to appoint a committee to examine and recommend to us for our action in this matter.

The attention of the executive committee has been called to the matter of a cheaper edition of the Book of Mormon. It is urged that the time ought to come when it might be had on the same terms as the Bible; that is, if you haven't got ten cents to pay for one, one would be given you with the compliments of the giver. Just how much we might do in this matter, the future will disclose. The Board of Publication certainly would not be averse to receiving any help along this line. It is urged that we should not only have a cheaper edition, but that it would be a good thing to have a small edition divided into verses to correspond with the large edition which we now have. The thought has occurred, while writing this report, that perhaps if the Religio could, by special fund made up of subscriptions for this specific purpose, guarantee to the Board of Publication the cost of new plates, we might secure a cheap edition, perhaps not for ten cents, but very much cheaper than at present. This cheapening of the price of the book would do very much towards a more general reading, both upon the part of those out of the church as well as those within. Could not this convention appoint a committee to take this matter in hand and report to this body before adjournment, or we might clothe such committee with power to act under certain instructions and restrictions and let the work go forward.

There has been for some time in the past a feeling that there is need for a set of junior lessons on the Book of Mormon for the younger classes of our members. Just how great this demand may be is not known. But the president has in his possession thirteen lessons for junior classes. These lessons are illustrated and prepared with the idea of meeting this want, and have been handed to us for our consideration. How much merit there may be in them might best be told after a careful examination by a committee. It seems only just to the writer of the lessons as well as wisdom on the part of the body that a committee be appointed to whom they may be referred.

We ought to do something in the way of a systematic method of reports. One district has done much in this direction, and has asked if the general association would do anything in the matter. It would seem that a mention of the matter ought to be sufficient to convince the most casual of the necessity of the association providing some system of reports. This should include reports of Home Classes and members to the local society or district, of locals to districts, and of districts to the General Association.

J. A. GUNSOLLEY.

Report of Secretary of Zion's Religio-Literary Society.

Last October your present Secretary received from the Executive Committee of the Religio "authority to act in the stead of him who was called to labor in fields of immortality;" and since then I have endeavored to live up to the requirements and demands of the office.

Two or three years ago some thought that societies had been formed in almost every available place (locality), but not so; since last October from 15 to 20 new societies have been organized, and we believe there are many more yet to follow. True indeed is it that in some places the Religio seed falls in spots where the life is short, but many, many other organizations are formed, and formed, let us hope, to endure until their final work shall be accomplished in aiding in the redemption of the sons and daughters of men.

As our president has covered the field of Religio work and what has been done the past year quite thoroughly, I shall not here enter into minute details. At the present date we have over 140 societies with a membership of more than 4,000; of course we cannot vouch that this is exactly correct, but according to our records it is very nearly so. Last year we counted 3,095, but this year the membership foots up over the 4,000 mark; numerical strength alone would not make us feel so particularly pleased, were it not that our reports show a corresponding increase of interest in and devotion to the work, and were it not for the greatly improved methods of study now offered by our present programs and that it meant so many earnest young people anxious to take up the careful study of the books who are thus preparing themselves for a life of greater possibilities and usefulness both for themselves and others. Then it is we cannot but feel a measure of gladness that the Religio has arisen to do such excellent work and is building so surely and so well.

The number of district organizations has also increased till now we have 10, and hope the near future may witness a still further increase. The benefits accruing therefrom are manifold; to the locals such an organization means more united effort, and through the district conventions an opportunity to counsel together and so greatly improve their work. The good already accomplished by these conventions and institutes is almost past belief. Personally I should favor a circulation of the programs of this convention work, and free correspondence between district officers, for, while the conditions elsewhere may differ, much may be gained by this interchange of ideas and methods of working. Further than this, the district organization takes part of the oversight off of the general officers, at a time when the number of the societies might prove somewhat unwieldy, and makes it easier for them to visit and otherwise counsel and assist in the work. This is one of the best things within our present reach, and we can but hope that it will be sustained as it deserves. Surely it will.

The Home Class department is another of the good things at hand. There is much we could say in praise of this excellent phase of the work, as we personally know with what gladness it has been received by many who are and have been isolated from church privileges, and that many hands are raised heavenward, prompted by grateful hearts, because the Religio is reaching out after them with its work, its thought, its desire to help. There are many features of the Home Class work upon which we could dwell with pleasure, but we expect this work to be taken care of by our sister, Marie H. Clark, and so desist. The distribution of good literature by our bureau, we believe, will also be taken in charge by Sr. Clark.

One need we have felt this year has been the demand for Removal Blank for the accommodation of those Religians who are obliged to move from place to place, and who desire to join again wherever they may locate. Another need of lesser urgency has been for a district report blank. Probably both of these will be considered at this convention

In conclusion must I especially pay tribute to the Prayer Meeting program, and its framer? From experience I can say, and in all truth fully believe, that to this one evening's service we are indebted for thousands of earnest young people within the fold of the church, who are now being prepared for a larger life than ever before.

A jeweler once took up a stone to cut; in a few minutes he laid it aside completed. Then he took up another; the close of the day, the close of the week still found him working at that one.

"Why is it that you can finish one so quickly, while this other takes you more than a week?"

"Oh, the first was only a common stone, but this one is of the finest water and must be cut just right, for it is for the diadem of the king."

If then we meet with discouragement in our Religio work, and more than our share of difficulties seem to have come our way, even though the way seems impossible at times, should we give up? Never! In the common affairs of life, too great difficulties might justify our laying aside one employment for one more congenial, but here we are dealing with the precious stone of the Great King—obstacles do not wholly excuse, it is only a question of how far can we succeed, even though it takes the whole week, or seven ages of life.

Does it seem that more than our portion of this world's pain and suffering falls to our lot, is not this then a time of probation and trial? And may we not remember that while a common stone requires but little cutting, the precious one, which is to rest in His diadem, can only be through great labor perfected? It has endured this time of preparation and trying that it may at last shine forth in glory in His kingdom, every face, every angle reflecting alone His perfect image. This is indeed a glorious work in which we are engaged; to win souls to Christ and help them through the grind and worry of life, by means of the study of His Word, to become like Him—perfect—and worthy at last to dwell with Him in His celestial kingdom. Then let us with courage move onward, trusting ever to the Master's hand.

ETTA M. HITCHCOCK.

Report of the Treasurer of Z. R. L. S.

St. LOUIS, Mo., Mar. 31, '01.

Considering the fact that the request this year was made as much as possible a request and as little as possible an assessment or tax, the returns have been very encouraging. A desire has been frequently expressed and as frequently carried out, "of doing as much as possible for the Religio," many expressing a desire to do more and many actually doing so. A casual survey of the returns from the call of last October, shows no less than nineteen societies which have in some amount exceeded the exact amount requested, as about what would be necessary on the average. Only four fell short, and that for only 92 cents in the aggregate. Last October about 110 letters were sent out to as many different locals; some responded promptly, some had been disorganized and many more were waiting till they could do more than the then condition of their treasury permitted, and most of them were substantially heard from since. Still March 1st saw thirty-eight societies from which we could reasonably expect an answer, so another letter was sent, which has somewhat reduced the number. Still over twenty have not been heard from at all, but in consideration of the reports we have received from elsewhere, it is only fair to believe that many of them are delaying only in hopes of being able to make a better report.

One other source of great help was the kindness of our editor in printing a short reminder letter in the February Autumn Leaves, which served a good purpose at the time, and materially assisted us.

Another source of pleasure has been the encouraging and sometimes very encouraging reports we have received from the locals in regard to the interest taken in the work, study, and prayer meetings, and the evident desire to help the work whenever possible. This latter desire has been shown again by several societies, at present sleeping, sending through their former officers a substantial gift, as have also some few individuals. One local, in addition to the nineteen mentioned above, who exceeded the amount requested, actually went back and sent just enough to pay both this year's and last year's call, which meant more than four times that of this year. How is that for devotion, when you also remember they had been in recent difficulties apparently, as was shown by a falling off in membership.

Briefly, we have been much encouraged in the Religio work this past year, and feel sure that there is some higher power to help in our labors. As a member of the executive committee we have tried to do our full duty, but as the president has already so thoroughly covered that portion, it but remains for us to thank you for your support this past year and hope it may not be less earnest for those placed in charge for the coming year, and years.

In bonds,

S. A. BURGESS.

2933 Harper St.

Report of Second Assistant Superintendent of the Sunday School Association.

CHICAGO, Ill., Mar. 31, 1901.

To the officers and members of the General Sunday School Association in regular convention assembled at Independence, Missouri, Greeting:

Dear Brothers and Sisters:—Owing to the fact that this is the first time I have made report to you, I trust that you will accept the following brief statements of what I have done.

I have assisted the superintendent as best I could and I believe that I have complied with and responded to all of the requests that have been made of me. I attended the reunion that was held at Washington Park last August, and assisted in institute work as best I could. As per advertisement that appeared in the Saints' Herald and ZION'S ENSIGN, I have prepared some blackboard and object lessons.

At the present time I am acting as district superintendent of the Northeastern Illinois association, and am also in charge of one of the local schools here; so between general, district and local duties I have managed to keep busy.

What few suggestions that I have to make, I have referred them to the Committee on Improvements and I trust that divine light and wisdom will be with you while you are considering and deciding the important matters that will come before you.

I very much regret that I am unable to be with you at this time, so that I could get better acquainted with the workers and also share my part of the responsibility.

May the Lord's Spirit be with you and bless you at this time in the earnest prayer and desire of your brother and co-laborer.

In gospel bonds,

F. M. PITT.

THIS is a peculiar conference because of the various nationalities represented; one from the Society Islands, Elder Metuaore; one from the Island of Ceylon, India, Mr. Tatu Sena Nayaka, a very intelligent young man of twenty-four years; four of the Indian race, the chief of whom is Elder Noah Karahoo; also two of the African race, Bro. Geo. H. Graves and W. H. Fuller. Truly in this land of Joseph we have a cosmopolitan race, and from here the gospel is to go to all the nations of the earth when the end may come.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

ROSCOE, Mo., March 11.

Editor Ensign:—I have moved from the east part of this (St. Clair) county to Roscoe, having bought property in Roscoe. I could not feel satisfied to leave my family where they could have no conveniences, they having to go three miles for mail and everything they bought, walking through mud, cold, and no one to do this but my wife or little girls.

I want to attend Conference, but I may not go. I am fixing up at home so as to have nothing to bother or hinder me in the great work the Lord has assigned for me to do. I am determined, by the Lord's help, to do what I can to build up His kingdom here on earth.

There is one family of Saints here beside my family, Bro. and Sr. Killebrew; they are noble Saints; and many more who are near the kingdom; may the Lord move them to accept. A noble lady, the other day, told me she wanted soon to be baptized, and I think others will follow. May the Lord help us to live so as to lead many to accept the gospel.

There have been some seven or eight cases of smallpox in this place, but are of such a light form as to hurt no one, but can do no good preaching on account of the scare in town or country. May the Lord give the spirit of love to all who may be able to attend the coming conference, to guide and direct them in their work, is my desire for the cause of this great latter day work.

Sincerely yours in bonds,
JOSEPH N. STEPHENSON.

Forty-eighth Annual Conference.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3.

permitted to furnish the committee such evidence as they have of being duly appointed, and the committee to report to the body.

Assistant choristers, F. G. Pitt, B. M. Anderson, A. M. Chase.

President Smith read a statement concerning his action in withholding minutes concerning the Bro. Briggs' case. After reading, President Smith vacated the chair and asked the conference to elect a chairman. Bro. F. G. Pitt was chosen. It was moved to make this the special business for Tuesday afternoon. On motion the matter was made the special order for Monday afternoon. One thousand copies of the president's communication were ordered printed and placed in the hands of the delegates.

A memorial from the Colorado district was read concerning the Home and College, asking the conference to appoint a committee to visit Mr. Andrew Carnegie and ask him for a donation of fifty thousand dollars for each of these institutions, and it was moved that this body appoint a committee of three to answer the request of the memorial. A motion was made to make the committee five, and to be appointed by the chair to draft a suitable memorial. A motion to indefinitely postpone was lost. The discussion was upon the propriety of presenting such a petition to Mr. Carnegie.

The motion on a committee of five was taken and lost. The vote on the appointment of committee of three was taken and lost. On motion the memorial was laid upon the table by a decided vote.

Bro. S. W. L. Scott was appointed to preach at night, Bro. St. John to assist.

Announcements were made for Sabbath School at 9:30 Sunday morning. Prayer meeting of all the priesthood Sunday morning at eight o'clock. Prayer service Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

On motion Thursday night was given the Independence choir to render their cantata of "David the Shepherd Boy."

Hymn 257 was sung and conference was adjourned. Benediction by President Smith.

At 7:30 Bro. S. W. L. Scott, of the Seventy, was the speaker. The church was crowded and fine attention was given the subject presented. It was a logical discussion of the Scriptures relating to the covenant with Abraham, and was instructive and entertaining.

SUNDAY, APRIL 7TH.

The morning came bright, bracing and inviting, and at an early hour the worshippers began thronging toward the capacious stone church on West Electric street. At eight o'clock the priesthood assembled in the lower auditorium to the number of 700 or 800, the room being almost filled. Apostle W. H. Kelley, President Joseph Smith and High Priest Chas. Derry were in charge. From the first a spirit of humility, unity, and earnestness characterized the meeting as supplication for divine guidance and blessing was made. Over twenty-five prayers and a few testimonies were offered. President Smith, at the close, spoke in exhortation and instruction that the servants of the Lord should be humble and patient, and that the burden of the work now resting upon the ministry was to preach the gospel and teach the world the ways of life until the armies of the Lord become very great. The spirit of mental reservation and building up of self would lead to disappointment and final ruin of those encouraging it. If the servants were united and devoted, the clouds would be driven asunder, and final union and peace would obtain. That which had burdened some could not be accomplished at this time, but patience must be exercised until the Lord's time. The meeting was productive of good.

In the upper auditorium at 9:30, a very interesting session of the Sunday School was held, in charge of Bro. W. N. Robinson, the superintendent. Bro. T. A. Hougas, General Superintendent of the Sunday School association, was present and assisted. The church was well filled and the exercises were much enjoyed by all, many visitors taking part.

At the morning hour an audience that taxed the capacity of the auditorium and galleries—between 1700 and 1800 in number by count—gave evidence of enjoyment in the opening exercises, in charge of Apostle I. N. White, consisting of hymn 180, prayer by President A. H. Smith, anthem by the Independence choir, and solo by Sr. W. N. Robinson. President Joseph Smith was the speaker, delivering a strong, forceful sermon principally upon the necessity of adding the graces enumerated in 2 Peter 1: 5-7, with fine liberty. He was feeling well and the effort received the closest attention throughout. During the morning hour seven were baptized by Elder O. B. Thomas, and one by Elder T. W. Chatburn.

The sacrament of the Lord's supper, and the prayer and testimony following, which was opened at 2:30 p. m., was held in the upper auditorium, and filled the main floor and galleries. It was an excellent and spiritual service in charge of Bro. Jonas Chatburn, his son, T. W. Chatburn, and his grandson, Frank Chatburn. There were present about fourteen hundred people. The best of order and good-will prevailed, the good Master deigning to speak to us in tongues, interpretation and revelation—promising a removal of the clouds, and the inletting of divine light, if the Saints were humble—Bro. Metuaore spoke very feelingly and intelligently, his tongue being translated by Bro. Joseph F. Burton. Twelve priests were employed to pass the emblems to the vast audience. Bro. Bradley, of Iowa, who is ninety-seven years of age, was present and spoke to the encouragement of all. The meeting was the largest we ever attended and all seemed cheered and better prepared to enter the business of the conference.

In the north room of the basement there assembled about forty-five or fifty at 2:30 p. m., for administration, blessing of children, and confirmation of those baptized in the morning. Bro. J. H. Lake, of the Twelve, was in charge, being assisted by Bishop E. L. Kelley, O. B. Thomas, B. J. Scott, S. D. Condit, and James Houston. About twenty received administration, two children blessed, one of them, the son of Bro. and Sr. R. E. Givens, of Kansas City, Missouri, being the first child born in that city this century; he was given the name of Joseph Century. The eight persons baptized in the morning were confirmed under the hands of Bro. J. H. Lake, E. L. Kelley, O. B. Thomas and B. J. Scott. The sacrament was administered to the new members and others who were present, by Priest D. J. Krahl. Some good, instructive remarks were made by Bro. Lake, and the assembly then repaired to the "upper" room to enjoy the experiences there.

At 7:30 p. m., the church was again filled to overflowing, many extra seats were placed and many stood in aisles, vestibules, and galleries, but not withstanding the capacity of the church and the efforts of the deacons and ushers to accommodate the attendance, it is said that hundreds were turned away, unable to gain admission. A young man of the city, not a member of the church, said it seemed as if the whole town was out. Had this been known in time, provisions could have been made for overflow meetings. Bro. R. C. Evans was the speaker of the hour, assisted by Elder J. W. Wight, of Lamoni, and gave a very clear and forceful discourse upon the necessity of obedience to the gospel, and to a scriptural definition of the classes termed in the scriptures, "the sheep," "the goats," and "the brethren." He was in splendid form and spirit, and the vast audience listened very closely throughout.

MONDAY, APRIL 8.

The morning prayer service was in charge of Br. T. W. Williams and Fred. A. Smith. The meeting was very spiritual and encouraging, the time being fully occupied in prayer and testimony, one very noticeable feature being the wisdom displayed economizing time, every one keeping themselves within bounds, in regarding the rights and desires of others. It was a grand meeting.

At 11 o'clock Elder U. W. Greene, of Brooklyn, New York, addressed an audience of about one thousand, upon the organization and identity of the church of Jesus Christ. It was a very able effort, and received close consideration.

Conference opened at 2 p. m., with President Joseph Smith in the chair. Song, hymn 104 hymnal, prayer by Apostle J. W. Wight. The minutes on April 6th and 7th were read; list of ex officios was read.

Request of Council Bluffs, Iowa, branch for a Conference appointee to labor in that city was, on motion, referred to quorum of Twelve.

Petition from Rocky Mountain mission for return of Brn. Gomer Reese and G. R. Wells, and for J. H. Wells to labor in that mission was also referred to the Twelve. Request from Blendville, Missouri, branch and cities within ten miles, showing population of 60,000, linked together with numerous railroads and electric line, asking for appointment of a Conference appointee; this, with all matters in which high priests are to be appointed, was, on motion, referred to Presidency and Twelve.

Petition from Chicago and West Pullman, Illinois, branches requesting the return of Bro. J. M. Terry to labor in that field, if his health permit, was, on motion, referred to Presidency and Twelve.

Petition from Lamoni, Iowa, for appointment of missionary to labor in that branch, referred to Presidency and Twelve.

Appeal in case of Stewartsville, Missouri, branch, vs. W. C. Duncan, Bro. Duncan appealing to General Conference from decision of Far West district, reciting that the Stewartsville branch had refused to issue him a letter of removal, on the objections raised by some, giving him no opportunity to reply to allegations made, which he stood ready to do. On motion the appeal was entertained, and on another motion the matter was referred to a committee of three, appointed by the chair.

Appeal from Grand Rapids, Michigan, branch, complaining that G. A. Smith, president of district, had usurped the authority of the president of the branch in demanding the right to preside at a meeting at which the branch president was in charge, without giving him opportunity of a hearing as to the reasons therefor. A motion to entertain prevailed, and on motion it was referred to a committee. A substitute was offered referring to quorum of Twelve, to which the president of the Twelve objected, on account of one member of that body being partially implicated. It was moved that the motion to refer to quorum of Twelve be amended, striking out quorum of Twelve, and inserting words "Five High Priests." It was proposed on another amendment to strike out words "High Priests," and leave the motion to refer to a "Committee of Five." Vote being taken on the striking out of words "High Priests" was declared a tie. President Joseph Smith, chairman, cast the deciding vote to so strike out, which affirmed the amendment, and vote being taken on referring to a committee of five to be appointed by the chair, was affirmed 167 to 97. The vote on referring to the Twelve received 145 votes. At suggestion of President E. L. Kelley vote was taken upon referring the matter to committee of five or to the Quorum of Twelve. Vote stood 141 for committee of five, and 174 for referring to the Twelve, and it was referred to the latter. President announced committee on appeal of W. C. Duncan in the Stewartsville case to be F. C. Keck, T. C. Kelley and B. St. John, they to fix time and place of hearing, giving those interested due notice.

The President then vacated the chair for the discussion of the special order of the session. Bro. F. G. Pitt was chosen to preside. A motion to limit all speeches to five minutes was offered; it was succeeded by a motion to indefinitely postpone the five minutes speech matter, and prevailed. A motion to refer to general assembly of priesthood was ruled out of order, the matter now being considered having been by conference action made the special order of the day.

The following is the communication of President Joseph Smith to be considered at this session:

TO THE BRETHREN IN CONFERENCE ASSEMBLED:—On April 27, 1900, after the Conference adjourned, Bro. E. C. Briggs filed in my office the following document, requesting me to not publish in the minutes of the session the report of the Twelve upon the matter of charges against him before the Quorum:

To the President of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints:—

Dear Sir and Brother:—I feel anxious with reference to the decision made by the Quorum of Twelve in the matter in which charges were preferred against me in nine several counts, as I understood that it is the intention to publish the decision of the Quorum and send it out to all Saints and the world.

Whatever others may think, I know the charges against me are false, and a publication of the findings will certainly injure me and my reputation.

I was ordained a minister in the Reorganized Church as early as 1852. I have represented the work of the Church as a minister in some capacity ever since, and have preached in the greater part of the United States from Maine to California and in the Canadas.

My friends and fellow-workmen in Christ are scattered over all this vast territory, and a publication by the Church of the charges and findings made against me will extend over all this vast territory and forever injure and slander me before the people, and I have no power of redress to stop this injury, except that you do not publish this matter. I therefore take this opportunity to appeal to you as the highest officer in the Church, that no such publication be made against me, as it will be a great injury to me and my family, as well as the work that I have labored so long to build.

I expect to give like notice to the Quorum of Twelve, also the Bishop of the Church, and the Business Manager of the Herald Office, or Publishing House.

Very truly, with all respects in the gospel of Christ, E. C. BRIGGS.
LAMONI, IOWA, April 27, 1900.

I thereupon took the matter into consideration, consulting with Counsellors A. H. Smith and E. L. Kelley, and those members of the Quorum of Twelve who were yet at Lamoni. After such consultation I gave the matter further consideration, and without involving any of the brethren named in my action, and for the following reasons I decided to not publish the report referred to:—

1. The question of right of appeal on the part of Bro. E. C. Briggs; whether such right exists.

2. The trial before the Quorum was ex parte: Bro. Briggs plead to the jurisdiction of the Quorum and requested that he be sent to the High Council; the health of Bro. Briggs was poor, and he was quite unfit, in my judgment, to engage in and endure the stress of a trial at the time.

3. The age of Bro. Briggs and his long period of service, it seemed to me, would warrant the exercise of great leniency; and as the decision of the Quorum was intended to affect his standing in the Quorum only, as stated by themselves, until such time as he might make suitable reconciliation to the Quorum, I deemed it unnecessary to spread the matter before the public, before Bro. Briggs had had sufficient time to make such reconciliation, if it should be possible for him to do so.

I was of the opinion that the interest and well being of the Church as an entirety would be better conserved by not publishing the report than it could possibly be by its publication; and believing that under the conditions I had the right to so withhold publication as the President and General Officer of the Church, I did it, and avowed my responsibility for the act and my willingness to answer to the Conference for such action.

The protest of the Secretary of the Church, Bro. R. S. Salarys, was sufficient to avoid the lapse of any and all Conference rights, and for that reason I refused to publish protests sent me by several members of the Quorum of Twelve, the Northern Illinois district conference, and the Plano, Illinois, branch.

I have declined to be drawn into a discussion of my action with individuals or to permit a discussion of it through the Herald, believing that I was and am amenable to Conference, and Conference only, for my action in the premises, and further believing that a personal discussion of the affair by myself or others would result in misunderstanding, possible recrimination, and thus mischief to individuals and the work.

I have evidence that others have not taken this view of the affair which I will submit to Conference if so desired. I am now ready to answer to the Conference, or any competent Court of the Church, and to submit to the decision that may be reached in the premises, wishing it to be distinctly understood by all that no one but myself is responsible for my act; hence no one else is to be disciplined or punished if discipline and punishment are necessary.

In connection with the foregoing I further state that I received a copy of the minutes of the Northern Illinois district conference, containing a preamble and resolution, a purported statement of the case of Bro. Briggs before the Quorum and the findings of the Quorum thereon, which minutes I withhold from the Herald for reasons similar to those I have herein given.

In the confident belief that I acted within my right and for the best good of the church, I submit myself to the consideration and decision of the Conference.

JOSEPH SMITH.

Preambles and resolutions signed by Elders Columbus Scott and D. W. Wight, of the Seventy, was read as follows:

WHEREAS, The statement is made by President Joseph Smith, in reasons given for refusing to publish the report of the quorum of the Twelve, in the case of Bro. E. C. Briggs, that "The trial before the Quorum was ex parte," thereby implying that error attaches to the action of the Quorum, and

WHEREAS, This statement of the President, together with the action of Bro. E. C. Briggs in the matter before the President of the church, is in the nature of an appeal, and,

WHEREAS, The President of the church states that he is amenable "to the Conference, and Conference only," for his "action in the premises," and,

WHEREAS, The law provides that decisions of the Quorum of the Twelve may only be called in question by an assembly of the quorums of the church, constituting the spiritual authorities of the church (D. & C. 99: 13 and 104: 11), thus placing it beyond the jurisdiction of the conference to determine the matter, therefore be it,

Resolved, That the statement of the President of the church, that "The trial was ex parte," and the trial the statement relates to with the decision based thereon, be referred to an assembly of the quorums for examination and final settlement.

WHEREAS, President Joseph Smith states in reasons given for the act of withholding publication of the report of the Quorum of the Twelve, in the case of Bro. E. C. Briggs, from the General Conference minutes of 1900, "I am now ready to answer to the Conference, or any competent court of the church, and to submit to the decision that may be reached in the premises, wishing it to be distinctly understood by all that no one but myself is responsible for the act," and,

WHEREAS, There are no provisions in the law whereby the Conference can be required to justify or disapprove the act in refusing to publish said report, said act having for its basis the decision of the Twelve, and,

WHEREAS, It is not therefore within the jurisdiction of the Conference to determine the legality of the act, and the decision on which the act was based, by reason of the alleged error in the action of the Quorum of the Twelve, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the act of the President in refusing to publish, with the decision upon which it was based, be referred to an assembly of the Quorums for examination and approval or disapproval of said act.

[Signed] C. SCOTT, D. W. WIGHT.

This was spoken upon by W. H. Kelley (against), Columbus Scott (favor), G. H. Hilliard (against). Substitute offered by G. H. Hilliard as follows:

Resolved, That the reasons given by the President of the church be accepted as sufficient for his action, and that he be exonerated from blame, and we sustain his action.

This was spoken to by E. D. Bailey, R. C. Evans (for), J. R. Lambert (against), E. L. Kelley (for). While Bro. Kelley was speaking, motion was made to adjourn until 2 p. m. Tuesday. Notices were read and adjournment was taken accordingly.

[CONTINUED NEXT WEEK.]

BYANELIA LOST, a duet by Bro. J. Cole Moxon. Fine souvenir engraving of the little gospel boat. Everyone should possess a copy. Not a very great many of them left, better send in your orders for one or more before there is nothing left you but regrets that you do not possess a copy. Only 25 cents each. Let us hear from you promptly.

Group Picture.

To the High Priests, Greeting:—Group picture completed, and will be on sale at Independence, at the General Conference. Photographs loaned me have been returned. If any fail to receive their copy, please let me know at once.

In bonds, ROBT. M. ELVIN.

To the Saints.

If those who attend General Conference and wish to get a general description of Jackson county, Independence and Kansas City, will call at my office, they can get one of my pamphlets free. It will be found to be of worth to any person who contemplates making Jackson county their future home.

W. S. LOAR, Music Hall, Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE.

I will offer for sale at Lamoni, Iowa, one frame five room house, two blocks from business center, and one frame six room house, three blocks from business center. Also one frame two story, eight room house, three blocks from business center. All of the above property has good wells and cisterns and barns, and all in good repair, and all paying good rental. For particulars apply to

E. D. FLEET, Lamoni, Iowa.

Epworth League Meeting.

San Francisco, California, July 18-21, 1901, round trip $45.00. Stop over allowed in each direction. For full particulars call "29."

National Shooting Festival of National Shooting Bund, Shell Mound Park, California, July 14-22, at round trip, $15.00. J. W. DUGAN, ART.

CURES RHEUMATISM OR CATARRH IN A DAY.

TREATMENT FREE.

B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures the worst and most stubborn cases by draining the poison out of the blood and bones, and building up the broken down constitution. Aches and pains in the bones or joints, swollen glands, droppings in the throat, hawking, spitting or bad breath, etc., all disappear promptly and permanently. B. B. B. cures where all else fails. B. B. B. makes the blood pure and rich. Druggists $1. Treatment of B. B. B. sent absolutely free by writing to Blood Balm Company, 86 Mitchell street, Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and free medical advice given until cured. Medicine sent prepaid. B. B. B. puts new color in your skin, and makes the blood redder and more nourishing. Try this grand cure and get rid of those pains and aches.

FOR SALE.

House of five rooms, cellar, porch, cistern, never failing well. Lot 200 feet deep, trees, all kinds of fruit, shrubbery and flowers. One block from Electric line; near the Missouri Pacific depot; two blocks from L. D. S. church and school; $1,000. Inquire at Telegraph Office, Missouri Pacific depot.

FOR SALE.

On North Main Street, Independence, Mo., three-fourths of a mile from the Square. Lot 14 acres, fronting three streets; four roomed house, good barn, carriage house, workshop, hay chamber, three-stalled cow house separate. Full of large and small fruits, in fine bearing condition; good asparagus bed; fine well with never failing spring; $1,200. Apply to Mrs. R. A. SWEENEY, 108 Chrysler Ave., Independence, Mo.

A Bargain $600 will buy a six room house and over 3 acres choice land at Lamoni if taken soon. One-half cash. Address with return stamp, Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Have You Seen "LAMONI PULPITS" in the INDEPENDENT PATRIOT?

A synopsis of one sermon a week from the Saints' pulpit in Lamoni, appears in the Patriot. Subscription one dollar per year. Address, THE PATRIOT, Lamoni, Iowa. A postal card brings a sample copy.

ALL SECRET SOCIETIES THE TRUE CHURCH OF THE DEVIL.

By GEORGE E. PAGE, Price 5 Cents. Agents Wanted in Every Town. Address, G. E. PAGE, Independence, Mo.

BIG INDUCEMENTS

Having removed our Guilford stock to Barnard, Missouri, and having just received a large line of BRIAN NEW UP-TO-DATE Clothing, Dry Goods, Shoes and Hats, we are better prepared to supply the demands of our large and increasing trade, than ever before.

We have purchased a lot of Prince Albert and Clerical Out Garments from the American Tailors which they had left on their hands. We have bought these cheap and CAN SAVE YOU MONEY. 20 per cent off regular price to the misery.

NATIONAL MERCANTILE CO. G. J. Whitehead & Co., Proprietors, BARNARD, Mo.

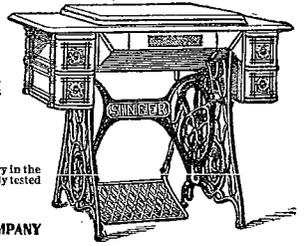

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI,

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898.

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all. Excess renders, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on your deposits. Save money by bank draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or by check on your private check, on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, a director of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Your receipt of money a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities, and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries of business will be promptly answered.

List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Hancock, Miss Alice Danes, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Ressegue, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar A. Dancer, Frank Griley and Geo. W. Blair.

A Singer Sewing Machine

THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, earning more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible.

THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch.

BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world, where every machine is carefully tested on practical stitching.

Sold only by THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO.

CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 190-3.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle

The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA.

Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

20 Acres

of as nice, smooth land as you ever saw. A short walk from L. D. S. church and Public School in Lamoni. Worth $2,000; $1,500 will buy it now, on easy terms. If interested write the owner.

D. F. NICHOLSON, Lamoni, Iowa.

SAINTS AND FRIENDS:—Remember that I am still in the mail order clothing business. For years I have served you and my reputation speaks for itself. Send me your order or write for my price list. I also have two good organs for sale cheap. Address E. T. ATWELL, Cumorah, Mo.

UWANTOQUIT

using tobacco. "QUIT-TO-BAC" makes it easy to stop using it.

Three boxes, postpaid, only $1.50 with POSITIVE GUARANTEE to cure or money cheerfully refunded.

U. S. postage stamps taken.

Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

INCORPORATED East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches, Twenty rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue.

FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to Miss M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Mo. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

CANCER SCUPID WITH SOOTHING, SALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Rheuma and all Skin and Wound Diseases. Dr. BYE, KANSAS CITY, MO.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT This Regular $5.00 Waterproof MACKINTOSH for $2.75. Send no money. Cut this ad out and send to us. State your height, weight, size, number of pieces and tooth taken over vest, under coat, close up under arms, and we will send you this coat by express C. O. D., subject to examination. Examine it at your nearest express office and if exactly as represented, the most wonderful bargain you ever saw or heard of, send us the price paid on the market, pay the agent our special manufacturers' price $2.75 and we will refund the balance. THIS MACKINTOSH is the latest and best fitting made from heavy waterproof cotton, genuine heavy canvas, lined with the most wonderful material, Sager velvet collar, fancy buttons, and treated with the best and most wonderful preservative and cemented seams, and made in the most perfect manner. Able for both rain or overcoat. For details and guaranteed satisfaction for each year offered by us or our agents, write for samples of our Mackintoshes, from $1.50 up, and guaranteed bicycle tires, from $3.50 up. We can save you money. Address H. S. DILLER & Co., 305 Dearborn St., Chicago.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPT.

TRAINS WEST. No. 95—Wichita and K. C. Mail 12:45 a.m. 0—Kansas & Nebraska Lim. 4:34 a.m. 93—Texas, Joplin & R. C. Ex. 8:16 a.m. 3—St. Louis Express. 6:33 a.m. 73—Lexington Branch Pass. 8:36 a.m. 7—Fast Mail. 10:00 p.m.

91—Joplin and K. C. Mail. 8:16 a.m. 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex. 6:17 a.m. 5—St. Louis Mail. 5:55 a.m. 71—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:34 a.m.

CHAINS EAST. No. 96—K. C. & Wichita Mail. 2:22 a.m. 72—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:55 a.m. 6—St. Louis Mail. 7:25 a.m. 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail 8:37 a.m. 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 10:17 a.m.

78—Lex. Branch Passenger. 6:10 a.m. 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 1:37 a.m. 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex. 7:46 a.m. 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 9:30 a.m. 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited. 11:12 a.m. Nos. 1, 2 and 10 do not stop.

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.

TRAINS WEST. No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass. 8:30 a.m. 71— " " " 6:34 p.m.

TRAINS EAST. No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass. 6:56 a.m. 78— " " " 6:15 p.m. Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON

EAST BOUND. 101—Lucas & Wright Freight. 7:07 a.m. 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail 8:30 p.m. 85— " " " 5:31 p.m. No. 51—Chicago Limited. 6:46 a.m. 49—St. Louis Flyer. 7:40 a.m.

WEST BOUND. 81— " " " 9:15 p.m. 102—Local Way Freight. 2:40 p.m. 8—Chicago & St. Louis Mail 5:51 p.m.

All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on J. W. DUGAN, Agent, J. CHARLTON, G. F. & T. ARL, CHICAGO.

HOME CLASS WORK.

Paper read by Marie H. Clark at the General Sunday School Convention, April 4th, 1901.

Nothing succeeds like success. It goes without saying, then, that the home class work, being but little known and thought of even less, has not so far been as successful as its fond originators could have desired; but it is encouraging to remember all future lies before it, and we have at least gained something by our experience. The idea of the home class work was originated by a New York woman who lived in a large flat building and noticed all around her so many children who, for various reasons, were unable to attend Sunday School.

On warm Sunday afternoons she gathered all these little ones in on her veranda and taught them herself the lesson of the day. Gradually the Sunday schools throughout the land took up the idea until now the home class membership is almost as great as the general membership of schools; but the General Sunday School Association, of which of course our church is not a part, have a very cumbersome system of obtaining new members, sending in reports and the like. It involves a very serious outlay of money and time, both of which may be termed scarce commodities with our religions. But our past experience and their own as well emphatically declare the necessity of the course they take—that of personally visiting every member of a church who is in any way prevented from attending regular services, no matter what may be the cause, nor how near or far from the place of meeting they may live. They do not restrict their efforts to members of their church alone, but in localities where it can be done, certain individuals go out in different directions and gather together little children into classes and go and teach them say once a week, and in time build up new schools in such localities. In this, objectionable though it is to us, we must say we can take many lessons from the energy the world displays in their religious efforts as well as in many other things. Through their money and zeal they have placed their home class department in such a high position, it draws success to itself and is rapidly winning its way, since it first gained a foothold. Now, our society has taken advantage of the hint and endeavored to establish this department side by side with its local work. Our first experience was gained when, by means of hundreds of letters in different districts, we tried to excite some interest in the breasts of our brothers and sisters, and, in the main, failed dismally. Their minds were very pure but they refused to be "stirred up." We recklessly put our hands down a little deeper in our pockets, sat up a little later at night, and sent out another delegation of letters, with much the same result. But we learned a few things which we did not anticipate. One was, correspondence was not the way to reach the scattered members; it is so easy to neglect a letter, or must have been, for there were so many neglected; therefore, if this feature of Religio work is to be made a success it must be done through personal visiting. Another thing we discovered was that there were a large number of old and sick people in our church, very often too far away to attend any meetings, too infirm to take much interest in the movement. There is nothing I know of in the church providing for such a contingency; consequently since the Religio found it out the Religio should try to cope with it, and one district adopted the following plan: When such an individual was found, isolated from all others, their name was given to some one in the district, and a monthly letter was sent them regularly, containing as much interesting local and general news as the writer was able to outline. These names were carried on a special list, they never became members, but they afforded an opportunity for the Religio to show how much of an auxiliary to the church it was, by encouraging and keeping in touch with the scattered members of the church, and without any returns to themselves other than the consciousness of doing a kind act. Another thing we learned was the number of those too poor to join anything that cost money; some with large families and small incomes; others who might have done it if they had been willing to make the effort. What is to be done with these? I think it is the St. Louis district which turns its old Autumn Leaves to account by handing them to home class students, immediately after the local has finished with them; so although the student may be a little behind in following the lessons, he is not enough so to make a serious difference. This might be a suggestion for other districts or locals. Nearly all of the larger societies and many smaller ones, as a society take one or more copies of the Leaves and these could be used in this manner, as well as copies belonging to individuals, where no other use is made of them. However, the main question is still before us—how are the studies to be placed in the hands of those unable to pay for them? I cannot pretend to answer this, suggesting merely that if any action is taken an investigation might be necessary to disclose whether the individual was really worthy or not. We had a case of this kind during our past term, where a man wrote pleadingly for a B. of M. and a Bible so that he could study; he was too old, too sick and too poor to purchase either and did not own the copies. Through advertising we were supplied with the necessary funds to get the books for him. We received an acknowledgement of our great kindness, but in the same breath he asked us for a Doc & Cov. and a Hymnal. As the man is old and sick, and there is not another member anywhere near, we are at a loss to know what he absolutely needs a Hymnal for and are inclined to think he could have been more modest in his demands. Such cases as this must be provided against, but there are many in every way worthy and helpless who should be cared for.

Another question—is the General Association to be held alone accountable for the results in home class work, or are not the scattered members themselves in a position to help each other, by correspondence, exchanging plans, methods, ideas, etc., as well as becoming small nuclei around which new home classes can gather? Could not our present membership undertake as their work, the writing of monthly letters, for instance, to those unable to even join the home class, and as they receive help from the General Association become, in turn dispensers to those who can not follow them?

We have been preparing quarterly reviews and asking for examination questions each quarter upon these questions; which papers were corrected by the one in charge and returned to the student. It is humiliating, but none the less true, to be obliged to confess to the reviews thus far presented we have had but three responses, and two of these were from the same person. I merely cite this to evidence to you how careless our people are inclined to be, and at the same time they are in a constant amazement that they do not grow or advance more rapidly than they do. We know positively most of our members are following the questions, but they do not take up as heartily as they might with all the suggestions outlined; hence the effort appears weak when it is not so. One district uses the quarterly review blanks, and this district has been singularly successful in securing reports from their members. We refer to Gallands Grove.

We are inclined to think each district or local should take the home class work under special advisement and take an active interest in pushing the work in that locality over which they have jurisdiction, appealing to the General officer, placed in charge, for direction, but as far as possible relieving the General Association from the expense attached, and great amount of work necessary to conduct such an enterprise from one source principally. If this is not done and the home class work is continued (as of course we expect it will be) it would necessitate the expense of engaging someone to attend to all the correspondence, which, together with the cost of the correspondence itself would make a heavy drain upon the Religio treasury, whereas if each district assumes its own burden it will be lighter on all as well as more successful in every way, as local conditions require local application.

In three or four districts some one person is deputized to travel about and establish home classes or locals, outline duties, correspond, and in a word, have charge of Religio interests; these are the districts which have come to the front. The conclusion is obvious.

How The Reporters View it.

The following from The Kansas City (Mo.) Journal, Monday, April 23, will be read with interest as showing the commendable spirit of fairness existing, and the impression made upon those not members of the church in the exercises Sunday:

Nearly two thousand persons were in attendance yesterday at the meeting of the Latter Day Saints conference. It was a day of religious observation and manifestation of the spirit marked the assemblies. Seldom have there been meetings at which there was more religious feeling excited than yesterday among the Saints.

The service was intensely interesting throughout, and the large church was packed to its utmost. The scene was one of inspiration, and when the Saints gave testimony in unknown tongues many shed tears.

Joseph Smith, the prophet, gave an oration which was a masterpiece of the bright time coming for the church, admonished them to be steadfast in the faith, and that the Lord was pleased with His people. The revelation handed to the church was short but was listened to by the great multitude as that a dropping of a pin could have been heard in any portion of the large building.

The revelation uttered by Joseph Smith was the fore-runner of one of the most intensely interesting times that the Saints expect to enjoy at this conference. It opened the way for a pouring out of the religious spirit, of which these people seem to be full, and they talked in many tongues.

Yesterday afternoon, when communion was observed, and testimony given, the meeting was presided over by three generations of men, Jonas Chaburn, T. W. Chaburn and Frank Chaburn. The large church was packed, and as the bread and wine was passed among the communicants spiritual songs were sung. Interesting testimonies were given. Bro. Chaburn cautioned the Saints to make them short, and therein lay the success of the meeting.

The first to give a revelation to the people was Bro. Weston, of Omaha, who rose to the front and read a revelation. He arose gradually, and reaching his hand out over the congregation he uttered a prophecy as to the Latter Day work, how it would prosper among the people, provided the Saints live up to the religion which God had bestowed upon them in these latter days. No sooner had this revelation been given when some gray haired sister in the rear of the church arose to her feet and commenced talking in an unknown tongue. She shook violently as if laboring under great mental strain. The unknown language flowed from her lips in a torrent of words. As soon as she sat down Bro. Roberts, who sat near her, interpreted the saying of the sister, which in brief was an exhortation to live up to the word of God and reward would come.

Melunamora, a delegate from the Society Islands, arose and talked to the Saints assembled through the aid of an interpreter. He told of the Islands of the sea, how the gospel of the Saints had reached that far off land, and he asked that the blessings of the Saints might rest upon the people of his island home. The words of the interpreter had no more than died away before an aged sister in the rear of the church arose to her feet in an unknown tongue, which was listened to with great interest. When the interpretation followed it was full of consolation and prophecy for the Saints.

One delegate arose and said that he had been raised Roman Catholic. He was the only Saint in the family, and he wanted the prayers of the Saints to sustain him in the faith. Sr. Burton, who sat near the front, started off in an exhortation in English. As the spirit moved her she commenced to talk in another tongue. The prophecy, for such it was, came in quick, short utterances from the sister, and called for close attention from those within the walls.

She spoke at length, extending her hand over her head as if pronouncing a benediction upon the people. When she sat down Bro. Roberts, in the rear of the church, who interpreted the other sister's prophecy, interpreted Sr. Burton's. The prophecy told of the north, south, east and west, and exhorted the Saints to be steadfast in the ways of the Lord.

A brother near the front of the church told of his conversion, and why he knew that the fading of the stars was true, and that an angel that came to him while he was yet a scoffer and outside of the church. Like Paul, he saw the light. Numerous testimonies were given, and all of intensely of feeling and great faith in the work of the Latter Day Saints.

A feature of the service was the address made by an Indian. He knew, he said, and he spoke English well, that it was the true gospel and he hoped that the Spirit would work on more of his people. He would go back to them and urge them to embrace the faith.

During this service petitions from Saints all over the land were handed in for prayers. Some were sick, others needed to be sustained in the faith in their isolation. They came from in their states, from Maine to California.

During these testimonies spiritual songs would be sung, led by the large choir back of the altar. The music was a feature of the occasion yesterday.

Yesterday morning Joseph Smith conducted the service at 11 o'clock. It was full of religious consolation to the Latter Day Saints, the sermon the latter part of the day, the speaker counseling them to live upright lives and to keep the faith. This service was one of the largest of the day, and the church would not hold all of the people. Last evening there was preaching service, and again a large audience filled the church.

Today will probably be one of the most important in the history of the church. The Briggs matter will be taken up and disposed of. Some say that the leniency of the president, Joseph Smith, toward Elder Briggs, will call for re-arrangement of the obituary notice that President Smith made so wisely and for the best interests of the church in expunging from the records that which he deemed not necessary. Yesterday the question of this form of church government was the uppermost in the minds of the delegates. As the day grew on and the Briggs matter was more fully discussed, there was seemingly little doubt that the presidency of the church would be sustained in the matter until the conference.

Some claim that if a precedent is established at this conference it will empower the president to expunge from the record, or not allow to be published that which he deems wise.

Others of the delegates upheld the venerable leader in his action, and will go on the floor of the house in his behalf. President Smith has a strong hold on his people and there seems to be little fear that he will be humiliated by his own people. Some of the members of the church, however, believe that he will be reprimanded.

The principal feature of the case is one of church government, and not so much of men. The Latter Day Saints are very strict in the conduct of missionaries. The plea of leniency uttered by the aged elder to the church did not fall on deaf ears when President Smith tempered mercy with justice, but at any rate all admit that his action has raised a breeze in the church as to its government. It will be settled at today's session.

INDIGESTION

If you have it, you know it. You know all about the heavy feeling in the stomach, the formation of gas, the nausea, sick headache, and general weakness of the whole body.

You can't have it a week without your blood being impure and your nerves all exhausted. There's just one remedy for you—

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

There's nothing new about it. Your grandparents took it. 'Twas an old Sarsaparilla before other sarsaparillas were known. It made the word "Sarsaparilla" famous over the whole world.

There's no other sarsaparilla like it. In age and power to cure it's "The leader of them all."

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

Ayer's Pills cure constipation.

"After suffering terribly I was induced to try your Sarsaparilla. I feel like a new man. I would advise all my fellow creatures to try this medicine. It has done the best of me and its curative power cannot be exceeded."—I. D. BROWN, Lowell, Va. Jan. 20, 1899.

Write the Doctor.

If you have any complaint whatever that does not seem to get well, or you cannot possibly receive, write the doctor freely. You will receive a prompt reply. Write to Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1901.

NUMBER 16.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. It is possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send gold or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo

Box B.

FORTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK.

Monday evening, April 8th, the opening hymn was No. 84, prayer by Elder O. B. Thomas, hymn 99 was sung and Elder J. W. Wight, of the apostles, was introduced as the speaker. He took for the lesson of the evening Isa. 10:20-23:

"And it shall come to pass in that day that the remnant of Israel, and such as are escaped of the house of Jacob, shall no more again stay upon him that smote them; but shall stay upon the LORD, the Holy one of Israel, in truth. The remnant shall return, even the remnant of Jacob, unto the mighty God. For though thy people Israel be as the sand of the sea, yet a remnant of them shall return: the consumption decreed shall overflow with righteousness. For the Lord God of hosts shall make a consumption, even determined, in the midst of all the land."

TUESDAY, APRIL 9TH.

The morning prayer service was in charge of F. M. Cushman and L. Gamet.

At eleven o'clock the Saints assembled to a goodly number to listen to the teachings of the Patriarch who was assisted in the stand by Bro. S. D. Condit.

Promptly at two o'clock a hush fell upon the assembly as the gavel, in the hands of President Joseph Smith, announced that the hour for business had arrived. Hymn 188, "There'll Be Rest By and By," was sung, prayer being offered by Bro. J. C. Clapp, of the seventy. Minutes of Monday's session were read. As President Smith was about to vacate the chair previous to the resumption of the question pending at the hour of adjournment, Apostle J. W. Wight offered a motion that on the pending question no motion for the previous question shall prevail except on a two thirds majority. This motion was carried. Apostle G. T. Griffiths, at this juncture, asked for a privilege of making a statement, withdrawing his assent to the protest of the Twelve, regarding President Smith's action with regard to the conference minutes in the report of the quorum of Twelve, 1900. He read a statement explaining his position. President E. L. Kelley then resumed his argument on the case which was interrupted when the hour of adjournment had arrived at the business session April 8th. At the conclusion of President Kelley, Apostle Heman C. Smith took the floor against the motion of exoneration before the assembly. Pending Elder Smith's argument the hour of adjournment arrived and, on motion, it was so ordered until 2 p. m. Wednesday. The entire session was thus taken in the consideration of this question and but one speech and part of another made, at adjournment, Apostle Smith having floor rights at that time. The spirit of the debate is most excellent. Deep earnestness marked the speaker and hearer. It is an educational experience which will be of much value to those who listen carefully. The question cannot help but exert a good, healthy, moral effect, as establishing the fact that no one man could dominate the policy of this church, or commit any act which has the appearance of an infringement upon the rights of the body, though done with the best of intentions, should such effort ever be made in the future, without being called to account by the body. It also evidences that the interests of a member who may be accused before the body of exceeding his rights therein, will be protected and safeguarded, as well as the rights of the body. The absence of a display of bitterness or recrimination thus far in this discussion is gratifying, and testifies that commendable advancement is being made. Bro. F. G. Pitt, who is presiding, is showing himself a good executive officer, impartial in his rulings, but firm in the exercise of his rightful prerogatives. Hymn was sung, benediction by President Joseph Smith. The railroad certificates were given out by the joint agent, a Mr. Singleton, at the close of the service, after adjournment, and less than half a dozen defective ones found among the number.

At the evening service the auditorium and galleries were well filled. After the opening hymn was sung, prayer was offered by Elder C. H. Porter, who was in charge of the services of the evening. A duet by Mrs. Carrie and Allie Barbee, of Independence, was sweetly rendered. Hymn 73 was sung and Elder G. T. Griffiths, of the Twelve, was presented as the speaker for the evening, who chose for his text, John 3:39.

"Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me."

With this he associated 2 Timothy 3:16, 17, "All scripture given by inspiration of God, is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 10TH.

The morning prayer service at nine o'clock was in charge of High Priests John Chisnall, Kewanee, Illinois, and James Moler, Holden, Missouri.

The morning sermon was by Elder Hyrum O. Smith, assisted by Bro. I. P. Baggerly. Hymn 136 was sung, and after prayer number 56 was sung. Bro. Smith took his text from 2 Corinthians 13:5-9, after reading as a lesson the sixth chapter of Ephesians. The especial thought being that contained in the first sentence—"examine your own selves whether ye be in the faith."

The business session opened promptly with President Joseph Smith in the chair. After the opening exercises prayer was offered by Elder James Moler. Credential committee made additional report.

On motion the Daughters of Zion were granted time to exemplify their work Thursday and Friday mornings.

President Smith then vacated the chair and Bro. F. G. Pitt resumed charge, Bro. Heman C. Smith having rights of floor.

The following was read as a question of privilege:

We, the undersigned, who sat as members of the High Council on the case of J. A. Grant and F. M. Cooper vs. E. C. Briggs, desire to state to this Conference, that the above entitled case came before us by petition only and not on appeal. The case was not heard by us but was withdrawn by mutual agreement from before the High Council, by prosecution and defendant, whereupon the decision of the president of the council was that this case should be dismissed. The council was polled and all vote "yea." High Council minutes book, page 79. It was well understood by the council that there was no bar to any future action except by the parties named in the agreement.

Signed by Charles Derry, M. H. Forseuth, F. G. Pitt, J. C. Crabb, J. W. Waldsmith, Wm. Anderson, J. S. Snelvelly, J. M. Baker, F. M. Weld, Robert M. Elvin.

The following motion was offered by W. H. Pease and Ellis Short:

Resolved, That when Heman C. Smith completes his argument, that speeches from that time shall be not to exceed 15 minutes, and that at 4:15 p. m. President Joseph Smith be permitted to make his statement, and that the vote on the previous question be taken promptly after his statement.

A motion to lay this on the table was denied by a vote of 219 to 103. The motion was then put and affirmed.

At 2:30 p. m. Elder Heman C. Smith resumed his argument interrupted at the close of Tuesday's session by the motion of adjournment. At the conclusion of Elder Smith's argument the following was offered by Bro. J. R. Lambert and J. W. Wight of the apostles:

Moved to amend by striking out all after the word "resolved," and inserting the following: "That it is the sense of this body that the president of the church does not have the right to suppress General Conference minutes from publication, in part as a whole temporarily or permanently; but considering existing conditions and circumstances surrounding the case complained of, and believing the motive of President Smith to have been good, we hereby declare him to be fully released from any disability which may have attached to him by reason of the act of suppression, and exonerated from blame. And be it further

Resolved, That we cheerfully express our willingness and determination to support President Smith in all the high and important duties which belong to his office and calling.

This was discussed under the fifteen minute rule by J. R. Lambert (for), E. L. Kelley (against), J. W. Wight (for), G. H. Hilliard (against), W. H. Kelley (for). The time, 4:15 p. m., having arrived, which, by motion, was assigned to the hearing of President Joseph Smith's statement, after singing stanzas of "Redeemer of Israel" to rest the audience, he took the floor. He read a portion of his statement as published in the ENSIGN. He also read a communication from someone in the Ohio district, unsigned. Also a petition from Plano, Illinois, also unsigned, but which he afterwards ascertained was the action of the Plano branch. Also a petition from the Illinois district conference. Letter from Pocatonia, Illinois, typewritten and unsigned, protesting against suppressing the minutes; various others were also read, including protest of members of the Twelve. He stated he had never refused to be amenable to the law nor to his brethren. He has never been called before a jury of his compeers, and this is the first time in his experience that he has been before the body in this way, and he has always held himself subject to the laws and amenable to the body or any member of it if he is wronged.

After his remarks were concluded, the previous motion was moved, and prevailed by a large majority. The original motion offered by Bro. C. Scott, and the substitute of Bro. G. H. Hilliard, and the amendment of Bro. J. R. Lambert were read. Vote being taken on the amendment received 175 votes in favor and 219 votes against. Yea and nay votes being called for by six or seven, the delegates gathered and formulated their votes; roll being called vote stood by districts, 896 in favor of the substitute and 431 against. Ex-officio vote, 151 for and 86 against; total vote, 1047 yeas and 517 nays.

Adjournment was then taken until Thursday afternoon. Benediction by Pres. Joseph Smith.

At 7:30 p. m. the service was in charge of Elder Geo. Gates, of Providence, Rhode Island; hymn 13 was sung, prayer by the one in charge, number 24 was then sung, when Bro. Jas. Caffall, of the apostles, occupied the stand, taking as a text Galatians 5:24, "And they that are Christ's have crucified the flesh with the affections and lusts thereof." In connection he selected 1 Corinthians 9, "I keep my body and bring it into subjection, lest that by any means, when I have preached to others I myself should be a cast away."

THURSDAY, APRIL 11TH.

Morning prayer service in charge of Bro. J. A. Robinson and John Chisnall. Bro. Robinson opened by a word of wise admonition to the Saints. "Sweet hour of prayer" was sung with spirit and feeling, led by Bro. Chase, when special prayers were asked for many of the afflicted in various parts of the land. Fervent prayer was then offered by a number. "O for a faith that will not shrink," was sung.

The morning sermon was by Elder T. W. Williams, of Los Angeles, California, assisted by Bro. F. M. Slover. Hymn 27 was sung, and after prayer the congregation sang fervently, "Rejoice, rejoice, when Jesus reigns."

The preacher took as a text Corinthians 3:6: "For the letter killeth but the spirit giveth life."

As the hour hand touched the figures indicating the hour of 2, President Joseph Smith's gavel called the assembly to the duties of the hour. Hymn No. 1 was sung, prayer offered by Bishop E. A. Blakeslee. Minutes of Wednesday's session read and approved. Secretary announced the following business on the table: Reports from historian, recorder, secretary, 2d quorum of teachers, statement of thanks from Birmingham, England, district on appointment of high priest for England; Report from J. W. Wight, missionary in charge of Iowa, regarding membership of D. H. Bays, matter referred to him by last conference. Report from 2d quorum of deacons.

Amendments relating to the Rules of Order, made by resolution of the conference of 1900, the special order for the fourth day of the session of 1901, was read and a motion was offered that the requests of the quorums for place and privilege on the floor of General Conference—priests teachers and deacons—be granted. Spoken to by E. L. Kelley, F. E. Cochran, Bro. Self, C. J. Spurlock, J. C. Crabb, C. J. Clark, T. J. Sheldon. A motion that on account of the matter now under consideration is covered by question to be presented later according to notice given in Herald, that the consideration of this question be deferred until such question is presented, prevailed.

Report of Elder H. A. Stebbins, church recorder, was read. Baptisms during the year, 2316; all have been placed in branches except 150 who have been placed in a book among the scattered members. Expulsions, 189; deaths, 374; net gain total, 1557. Present actual membership now on the books, 45,381. Missouri leads with gain of 926; Michigan, 206; Canada, 154; 20 new branches organized during the year.

Report of church secretary was read, had also acted as secretary to President Joseph Smith. No cases of discrimination against any of the ministry of this church entitled to such privilege, by the railroads have been reported. Work on boundary lines of districts were reported, as well as work on quorum organization. Brethren of England requested that a quorum of elders be organized in that country. Secretary again called attention to the large number outside of organizations desiring to become members and asked if other quorums could not be organized and live men in charge to look after these elders. Various other items were mentioned as of work done, and read a list of matters to be considered at this conference.

Bishop E. E. Kelley, on behalf of committee on compilation of resolutions of General Conferences, as being completed, including resolutions of 1900 and is now on sale.

A motion to accept report and discharge committee was discussed as to the advisability of discharging committee. It finally prevailed.

The report of the church historian was then read, giving account of changes in quorums by ordination, expulsions and death. A suggestion was made by the historian that district historians be appointed so that no important happening may pass unrecorded. Has written 6000 word article for encyclopedias and did other work for publications. The fourth volume is now in course of preparation and also a reply to D. H. Bay's book, "Coctrine and Dogmas of Mormonism." Communication from Elder F. M. Smith, assistant historian, offering his resignation, and also as one of a committee on histories and encyclopedias.

A motion to accept was offered and prevailed, so far as assistant Church Historian.

A motion giving the Church Historian the privilege of choosing his assistants, to be presented to this body for ratification, also prevailed.

Report of committee on Encyclopedias and Histories was read. It was moved and seconded that the committee on Encyclopedias and Histories be discharged, and that the work now being done by them be done by the historical department. This prevailed.

Report of Second Quorum of Teachers, headquarters at Lamoni, Iowa, was read. Present membership 23, all actively engaged in the duties of their office as circumstances permit, G. W. Blair president.

A motion was offered tendering vote of thanks to retiring assistant Church Historian, F. M. Smith, and to the members of the retiring committee on encyclopedias was given with hearty emphasis.

Report of Second Quorum of Deacons was read, Charles F. Church, president, and C. P. Bergerson, clerk. It was ordered received and spread upon the minutes.

Committee on membership of D. H. Bays reported. It is as follows:

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., April 6, '01.
To the Conference Assembled, Greeting:—In the matter of the standing of D. H. Bays, as referred to me by you, one year ago, I beg leave to report. I appointed as a court, Elders Joseph Seddon, W. D. Bullard and O. E. Holcomb, requesting R. Wight to act as prosecuting witness. I hereby hand you report of said court, their findings being marked "B" together with all the papers pertaining to the case.

Respectfully submitted,
J. W. WIGHT.

To the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints we, the undersigned, appointed by J. Wight as a court of elders to investigate the charges of apostasy by leaving the church, preferred against D. H. Bays by said complainant, the church [report], that after carefully investigating the evidence presented to us, and in default of any defense by said D. H. Bays, we find the charges sustained and respectfully recommend that the said D. H. Bays be disfellowshipped and expelled from the said Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. D. BULLARD,
O. E. HOLCOMB.
COURT, July 23, 1900.

It was moved to insert the word "Reorganized," and that the matter be referred to Gal-land's Grove branch for final action. The vote being called the motion was denied.

A motion was then offered that in harmony with the recommendation the report of the committee as above be adopted. This was unanimously agreed to.

A motion that Elder Davis H. Bays be expelled from the church according to the recommendation of the committee, prevailed, the vote being by uplifted hand, and was unanimous.

Conference then stood adjourned until nine o'clock Friday morning, the evening hour being given to Independence branch to present the cantata of "David the Shepherd Boy."

FRIDAY, APRIL 12TH.

Prayer service was in charge of Bishops Wm. Anderson and C. J. Hunt. "Let us shake off the coats from our garments" was sung with earnestness. Though the rain was falling fast yet the Saints stemmed the storm and mud, peculiar at this time to the streets of Zion.

The morning sermon was by Elder W. R. Smith, of Corn, Oklahoma, assisted in the stand by his brother in the flesh and in the conflict, I. M. Smith.

At 2 p. m., the business session opened with President Joseph Smith in the chair. "Glorious things are sung of Zion," was sung with an earnestness and fervency of spirit expressive of the feelings of the assembly. Prayer was offered by Elder J. H. Lake, of the apostles, after which minutes of previous session were read. Report of a committee appointed to confer with a committee of the Church of Christ. It is as follows:

To the General Conference:—The committee appointed to meet in joint council with a committee of the Church of Christ, presents the following report:

The committee, including Bro. R. C. Evans, appointed in the stead of Bro. Joseph Luff resigned, met from May 1-4, 1900, and held several sessions, the former officers of the council being continued. Questions of general interest to the two bodies represented were considered. The following resolution was adopted by unanimous vote:

Resolved, That we adjourn to meet at the call of the chairman, Bro. A. H. Smith and Bro. Richard Hill, and that they be authorized to call the council, when they are in possession of information that will justify them in concluding that god can be accomplished.

Respectfully submitted,
ALEX. H. SMITH, Chr.
R. S. SALYARDS, Sec.
INDEPENDENCE, Mo., April 12, 1901.

It was moved to adopt report and continue the committee. This motion prevailed. The following report from the 1st quorum of seventy:

To the General Conference:—At a meeting of the First Quorum of Seventy, held April 12, 1901, the following resolution was adopted and ordered referred to the conference for consideration:
Resolved, That when a letter or letters of removal are not granted to parties removing from the vicinity of one branch to that of another, charges should be preferred against the party or parties who are refused such letter or letters, and the party or parties exonerated from or proven guilty of objections held against them.

Respectfully submitted,
DUNCAN CAMPBELL, Pres.
R. S. SALYARDS, Sec.
INDEPENDENCE, Mo., April 12, 1901.

This was discussed until a motion to lay on the table was made, which on vote being taken by rising, prevailed 193 to 64.

President E. L. Kelley took the chair and report of trustees of Graceland College was read as follows:

REPORT OF BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF GRACELAND COLLEGE.

April 11, 1901.
To the General Conference Session:—The Board of Trustees of Graceland College respectfully submit the following report covering the time from April 24, 1900, to March 31, 1901:

On April 24, 1900, the Board organized with seven members, as follows: Wm. Anderson, chairman, I. W. Allender, secretary, Daniel Anderson, treasurer, J. H. Hanson, R. M. Elyin, D. A. G. Gannon, and Wm. Leeka. The term of office of the following will terminate at this conference, and the vacancies thus caused will need to be filled: Wm. Anderson, Wm. Leeka and J. H. Hanson. The term is three years. The faculty for the past year consists of R. A. Harkness, president; Miss Emma L. M. Rippert, Fred M. Smith and Eleanor Hatch, in the Collegiate department. Fred M. Smith resigned May 9, 1900, and Miss Hatch resigned before the opening of school in September. Miss Rippert assumed her duties September 11th. A. J. Gunsolley is in charge of commercial department. Miss Aleda Logan was in charge of shorthand and typewriting department until close of winter term, at which time she resigned, and Miss Esther Reimer was engaged to succeed her. Mrs. Audentia Anderson in charge of Instrumental music, and Mrs. Ruth Lyman Smith in charge of elocution and physical culture. With the consent of the proper church authorities the board arranged with R. M. Elyin to work in the interest of the college, and though he has given the matter but a part of his time and attention, his work in this connection has been very creditable. The board thought it wise to insure the college for five years instead of from year to year, thus saving a considerable amount to the church, which accounts for the apparent large sum for insurance as reported by our treasurer. For a financial report we refer you to the treasurer's report; for enrollment of pupils, etc., to the report of the president of the faculty, and concerning the library and museum, and their conditions at present time, to the report of A. J. Gunsolley, librarian. The contemplated amendments to the articles of incorporation have been prepared and are referred to the Conference for its action thereupon. If the treasurer is made solely responsible for the money donations, etc., received, we take this opportunity to request that all persons donating or paying same, will do so direct to the treasurer.

Respectfully submitted,
WM. ANDERSON, Pres.
I. W. ALLENDER, Sec.

Report of treasurer of Graceland College was then read as follows:

SUMMARIZED REPORT TREASURER GRACELAND COLLEGE.

RECEIPTS.
Donations,	$ 613 88
Scholarships,	646 00
Tuition,	323 50
Incidentals,	118 74
Borrowed Money:
From Bishop Kelley,	$100 00
From Bishop Kelley,	264 85
From State Savings Bank	300 00
From Bishop Kelley,	111 00
From State Savings Bank,	258 94
From State Savings Bank,	400 00
From Bishop Kelley,	300 00
Total,	$3,473 90

EXPENDITURES.
Salaries,	$2,490 24
Insurance (5 years),	215 50
Fuel,	171 50
Incidentals,	501 67
Int. on Overdraft,	89
Cash on hand,	$3,889 51
Total,	$3,473 90

[Signed] DANIEL ANDERSON, Treas.
Per J. A. G.

The college librarian's report was then presented.

Received during year from all sources, about 70 volumes. Total number of volumes in library about 1127; received about 350 specimens in the museum department. In the Herbarium there are about 1000 specimens.

Report of Professor Harkness, president of Graceland College:

There have been enrolled during the present year in all departments, exclusive of music, 140; in the department of music, 46 students. The average attendance for the year, not including students in the department of elocution—which was not connected with the college last year—has been over fifty per cent above that of last year. The work for the year, in all departments, has been very satisfactory, and the outlook for the future seems encouraging.

[Signed] R. A. HARKNESS

Statement of the bishopric regarding indebtedness of Graceland College was read, there being a reduction of $1,500 on the debt:

Graceland College Account of Receipts and Expenditures, from April 1st 1900, to April 9th, 1901.

RECEIPTS.
Offerings,	$2,262 41
Sale of lot,	44 50
Interest on bonds,	40 50
Bills payable,	1,04 69
Sale of typewriter,	50 00
Refund freight,	55
Total,	$4,453 51

EXPENDITURES.
Due Church April 1, 1900,	$ 78 75
Orders (personally given),	230 37
D. A. Gannon, Treasurer,	24 00
Interest,	1,07 45
Herender Mfg. Co.,	107 24
440 notes,	140 00
Freight on Typewriters,	2 56
Due bill, Wm. Anderson,	33 47
Resigning deed,	25 00
Return loan,	42 40
Postage and circulars,	3 50
Bible,	2 00
Revenue stamps,	2 00
Bills payable,	114 56
W. A. Hopkins, on account,	200 00
Taxes and refund,	2 39
Total expenses,	$3,887 10
Balance due College,	225 41
Total,	$4,112 51

GRACELAND COLLEGE ASSETS AND LIABILITIES.
ASSETS.
Bills receivable,	$ 481 05
Accounts receivable,	70 24
Cash (due from Church),	226 41
Real estate (lots for sale),	13,000 00
Personal property,	2,470
Building and Campus,	29,000 00
Total,	$38,517 70
LIABILITIES.
Bills Receivable,	$24,000 00
Real estate contract,	1,000 00
Total,	$25,000 00
Net assets over liabilities,	13,417 70
Total,	$38,517 70

April 9, 1901.

On motion the treasurer's report was ordered referred to a committee of three.

Secretary read from Herald of February 6, 1901, notice of amendments to articles of incorporation of Graceland College.

Chair announced the names of auditing committee for treasurer's report, as John Chisnall, Illinois, H. N. Hanson, Iowa, and Earl D. Bailey, Arkansas.

Motion prevailed to take up the Graceland College amendments and consider them as a whole. Proposed amendments were again read, explanations were asked and given, and by show of hands they were adopted. A motion to proceed to an election of three members of Board of Trustees, to replace members whose time expires, prevailed, those retiring being Wm. Anderson, Wm. Leeka and J. H. Hansen. Brn. Wm. Anderson, Fred M. Smith, Asa S. Cochran, Wm. Leeka (declined), R. S. Salyards (declined), W. R. Pickering (declined), Heman C. Smith (declined), Duncan Campbell (declined), F. M. Weld (declined), E. A. Blakeslee (declined), John Smith, Daniel F. Lambert (declined), were voted in nomination. Those voted for were Wm. Anderson who received 276 votes, F. M. Smith, 220 votes; Asa S. Cochran, 155 votes, and John Smith, 168 votes. Wm. Anderson, Fred M. Smith and John Smith were declared elected as trustees for three years.

On motion choice was made unanimous.

Report from fourth quorum of deacons was read.

Report from first quorum of elders, 2647 sermons, 104 baptisms, 16 marriages. Reports received from 81 out of enrollment of 86 reported.

Report of committee on archaeology was presented and extracts read, as a synopsis of the work done. The entire report was so lengthy that it would require about two hours to read, owing to which fact it was not read.

A motion to adopt the report of the committee and spread upon the minutes was affirmed. It was also decided to print this report in separate form from the minutes.

A motion to reconsider spreading archaeological committee report on minutes prevailed, and it was then decided by vote not to have it so recorded on account of the special publication.

Report from General Convention of Zion's Religio-Literary Society was read, showing very encouraging progress, and bright prospects. It was received and ordered recorded.

Former auditing committee of Herald office accounts presented a bill for expert book keeper's work on bishop's books as follows.

To the Conference, Greeting:—We, J. A. Gunsolley, Duncan Dampbell and P. M. Weld, of former auditing committee, respectfully present the following bill of expenses, and ask you to allow the same. This bill should have been presented at last spring's session, but in the rush and hurry of business we overlooked it.

To expense for expert bookkeeper's work on Bishop's books, in April, 1900, as follows:

E. T. Dobson,	$ 5 00
J. C. Duncan,	26 97
Telegrams,	4 02
Total,	35 99

J. A. GUNSOLLEY,
DUNCAN CAMPBELL,
P. M. WELD.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Independence choir for complimentary tickets to their rendering of the cantata of "David the Shepherd Boy," Thursday evening. It was unanimous.

A resolution depreciating further agitation of the right of the president to suppress conference minutes, was, on motion, laid on the table.

Report of auditors on ENSIGN Publishing House was read, showing total assets, $7341.69; total liabilities, $5111.95; present worth, $2229.74; net gain $614.64.

The following preamble and resolution was offered:

WHEREAS, The church historian recommended the appointment of district historians to assist him; therefore be it,

Resolved, That he be empowered to so appoint according to his discretion.

A motion was offered at this point to sustain the present church historian, Bro. Heman C. Smith, which was unanimously agreed to by show of hands.

An amendment striking out the word "so" between the words "to" and "appoint" and add to the end of the resolution, "such persons and in such places as he may deem proper," prevailed and the motion as amended was affirmed.

On motion, privilege was given to Elder Richard Hill, of the Church of Christ (Hedrickite) to occupy one preaching service to explain their position.

Notices were read and adjournment for business was taken until 2 o'clock Saturday. Hymn 216, "This God is the God we adore," was sung.

The evening service was in charge of Elder E. H. Durand, of Michigan, who offered prayer after the opening hymn, No. 184, was sung. A beautiful anthem by the choir followed, after which hymn 99 was sung, and Elder J. R. Lambert, of Lamoni, Iowa, of the apostles, was introduced as the speaker.

SATURDAY APRIL 13TH.

Prayer service in charge of Bro. J. C. Crabb and P. Cadwell. "Lord we come before thee now," was sung, a number of requests were announced when prayer was offered. "Sweet hour of prayer" was then sung.

Bro. Crabb in his opening address said, "I have discovered when a servant loses the spirit of humility and prayer, he is at sea in this work."

The morning sermon was by Bro. Warren E. Peak, of Gallen, Michigan, assisted in the stand by President Joseph Smith. Hymn 12 was sung and prayer offered by Bro. Smith. Hymn 73 was then sung. Bro. Peak took as text, John 15:1-8, "I am the true vine and my Father is the husbandman."

Business session convened 2 p. m., President Joseph Smith in the chair: sang hymn 142, prayer was offered by Elder John Hawley. Minutes of Friday's session read and approved.

Report of auditing committee on Herald office accounts signed by two members of the committee, M. F. Gowell and F. M. Weld, was read, Elder R. M. Elvin of the committee, submitting a minority report. They were received and made subject to action.

Auditing committee on Grace-land College treasurer's report made their report, finding the statement correct. Total collections, $4073.90; total disbursements, $3989.51; balance on hand March 30th, $84.39.

Report of second quorum of elders was read, 1650 sermons, 1556 other meetings, 174 baptized. This quorum passed resolution disapproving of the printing of any pamphlet or other published statement derogatory to the character of any member of this church.

Report of 4th quorum of deacons read.

Communication from Gustavus Lund, of Michigan, offering manuscripts for tracts in Swedish language, was read.

Presiding bishop's report was read, a summary of which appeared in the ENSIGN for March 28th. A lengthy statement was also read explanatory of conditions in the bishop's office with regard to his accounts. Some $70,933.59 were given as the assets over all liabilities.

Communication from Geo. A. Smith, president, regarding boundary lines of Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana and Southern Indiana districts as follows:

To the Conference:—This is to certify that Bro. M. R. Scott, president of Southern Indiana district, and the undersigned, president of Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana district, were, by our respective district conferences, authorized to confer together and agree upon a boundary line between said districts. We have done so, and agree that said boundary line shall be the fortieth parallel of latitude, and that the undersigned should present our decision to this conference.

We therefore respectfully petition your honorable body to establish said fortieth parallel as the boundary between said districts.

Respectfully signed,
GEORGE A. SMITH.

This was by motion adopted.

The following was read:

To the Conference:—

WHEREAS: We as a people recognize the great need of Divine guidance, in our present state and conditions, relative to the perfecting of our organization, rules of representation, the affairs of Zion and many other things that we deem of vast interest and importance to the church in general therefore be it,

Resolved, That we, in connection with the president and prophet of the church, petition the Father above to reveal unto us His will in regard to the matters herein named, and to impart such other information as He in His infinite wisdom may see fit. And be it further

Resolved, That we set apart Sunday morning, April 14, 1901, as a time for fasting and prayer in quorum capacity to intreat the Lord in accordance with the above preamble and resolutions.

GOVERNER T. GRIFFITHS,
E. L. KELLEY.

This was amended to read that the priesthood meet in a body in the lower auditorium at 8 o'clock, and the motion as amended was agreed to.

On motion a prayer meeting was authorized by conference for all not included in the meeting of the priesthood, to be held in the upper auditorium at the same hour.

On motion a committee of three was appointed by the chair to draft resolutions of condolence regarding the death of Bro. M. P. Hansen, who died at his post of duty in Sweden. Swen Swenson, John Wahlstrom and Peter Anderson were named as committee.

Report from third quorum of priests: 892 sermons, assisted 780; baptisms, 26; presided, 307.

Report from General Convention Zion's Religio-Literary Society recommending to conference for approval and action the work of Sr. LaJune Howard, of Lamoni, Iowa, in compiling a pronouncing vocabulary of Book of Mormon names was read, and a motion to refer to a committee of three to consider and report to this body, was offered. This was amended to refer to Board of Publication. Amendment was denied and motion for a committee of three was offered. J. A. Gunsolley, F. M. Sheehy, and A. J. Keck were named the committee.

The following was offered: Resolved, That when this conference adjourns it does so to meet April 6, 1902, at Lamoni, Iowa.

Other resolutions were made to meet at Kirland, Ohio; Independence, Missouri, and Boston, Massachusetts. The vote being taken, was as follows: Lamoni, 173; Kirland, 128; Independence, 7; Boston, 4.

Lamoni was declared the unanimous choice. Announcements were read. A motion prevailed appointing the afternoon for preaching service. Arrangements were made for baptisms and for overflow meetings, and conference stood adjourned for business until 2 p. m. Monday. Doxology was sung, benediction by President Joseph Smith.

The evening sermon was by Apostle J. H. Lake; hymn 192 was sung, and prayer by Will H. Kelley, of Indiana; an anthem was beautifully rendered by the choir, 119 was sung, when Elder Lake selected Matthew 5: 48; Colossians 3: 13, "Be ye perfect as your father in heaven is perfect." Above all these put on

SUNDAY, APRIL 14TH,

The morning dawned bright and beautiful. At an early hour the Saints were astir, preparing for the services of the day. At eight o'clock the priesthood met fasting in a prayer meeting which was indeed a glorious experience. Some of the prayers offered were marvels of inspiration, and the Holy Spirit was poured out in much power. The lower auditorium was nearly full, about five hundred or more being present. In the upper auditorium a large audience assembled, and engaged in fervent prayer and supplication mingled with testimony. President Joseph Smith was in charge. At 9:30 at Shultz pond a little assembly gathered to witness the baptism of one of a nation, probably its only representative in the church, Ratuwa Sena Nayaka, of Ceylon. It was an impressive ceremony, as was the confirmation which took place in the afternoon. Sr. Elizabeth Hall, of Wichita, Kansas, who was baptized Saturday morning by Elder J. Frank Curtis, her brother-in-law, was also confirmed at the same time. Sr. Hall, it is said, is the first fruits of the Colorado tent service. At eleven o'clock President Joseph Smith, assisted by his son, Frederick Madison Smith, occupied to an audience that filled the main auditorium to overflowing. President Smith preached with vigor and clearness, and his effort was much appreciated. At the same hour Bro. Geo. W. Robley preached to an overflow in the lower auditorium. He was assisted by Bro. Joseph Ward.

At the 2:30 hour the house was well filled. A delegation of about 150 was present from St. Joseph and surrounding points, which, together with visiting and local Saints, made a very fine looking audience. Before the sermon two were confirmed by President Joseph Smith and J. M. Terry. One confirmed was Bro. Ratuwa Sena Nayaka, a native of Ceylon and Asia, who has been in this country four years. After the confirmation, Bro. John Smith was introduced by Bro. F. A. Smith as the speaker. Bro. Smith took as a text, "Arise and be baptized and wash away thy sins" (Acts 22: 16), from which he presented to the vast audience a plain, spiritual gospel sermon, containing words of comfort, exhortation, reproof, in a spirit of brotherly love. The service was closed in due time by singing hymn 110.

The evening sermon was by Elder Heman C. Smith, church historian, assisted by Bro. Walter Smith, who was in charge. The choir rendered a beautiful anthem. The house was filled to repletion and the sea of faces, beaming with the love of God, certainly bore witness that the angel's message was not in vain.

MONDAY, APRIL 15TH.

The morning prayer service was in charge of Bro. M. H. Bond and J. C. Crabb.

Preaching at 11 o'clock by Bro. I. M. Smith, assisted by Bro. W. R. Smith.

Business session convened at 2 p. m., President Joseph Smith in the chair. Hymn 95 was sung and fervent prayer was offered by Elder Charles Derry of the high priests. Minutes of Saturday's session were read and approved. President Joseph Smith then vacated the chair, President E. L. Kelley taking charge, and President Joseph Smith then presented to the conference a revelation covering points on which light had been asked. It was delivered in a very impressive manner, President Smith stating that as he retired Sunday night, feeling weary in body, he, as he had been doing, engaged in earnest prayer, when suddenly he found himself very wide awake, and instruction came to him upon the questions presented in the light of a quickened mind, and all through the night he was blessed in Spirit though weary in body, and concluded his presentation with the words, "They are with you." At its conclusion President Smith asked to be excused, pending its consideration, and left the room. The following resolution was then offered:

Resolved, That as soon as practicable the matter presented be given to the quorums of the church after which it shall be presented to the conference.

The following substitute was offered:

Resolved, That the matter presented by the President of the church be received and adopted by this body, and become the rule of its action in harmony with the directions on the subjects presented.

After some discussion the substitute was denied, and the original was then adopted.

A motion to have a number of copies printed for each ex-officio was discussed and finally tabled.

The majority report of auditing committee on Bishop's books reported as follows:

INDEPENDENCE, MO., APR. 15, '01.

To the General Conference, Greeting:—We, the auditors appointed to examine the Bishop's books and accounts for the year 1891 to 1900, and report to a general committee, unable to report to that committee, having the books and accounts to do the work required. Neither can we satisfactorily report to this conference for the year 1900, having had access to the books but eleven days just prior to the conference, and because of numerous correction entries in the books which involve transactions and accounts of former years, therefore requiring more time than otherwise, and making it impossible to consider this year's work independently of former years.

Respectfully submitted,
M. F. GOWELL,
F. M. WELD.

A minority report of same committee was next read as follows:

MINORITY REPORT.

To the General Conference, Greeting:—Concerning that it is due to the church at large, and in particular, I beg leave to file this minority report of the auditing committee of work done in the examination of the books and accounts in the presiding bishop's office. On account of the late hour of the present bookkeeper of the bishop's office, an annual report, and the seriousness of the bishop, it was not until March the 21st that we were permitted to commence the work of auditing for the business of the year ending January 19, 1901. We checked every item of the receipts and expenditures of the bishop as entered in the day book, journal and cash book; we also checked up the bishop's agents' reports with the bishop's report and balance sheet of the same. We also checked up the auditors' reports with the bishop's balance sheet of their reports. We likewise checked up the statement of bills receivable and bills payable; these received the closest scrutiny by an examination with the books and the ledger account of the same. January 11th the committee counted the cash, but failed to invoice the bills receivable.

April 1st we closed our labor without certifying upon the books and reports of the bishops as to their correctness. However, the conference will please be advised, that, as a member of the auditing committee, I stand ready and willing to sign the usual certificate and wish to state that the church is to be congratulated upon the improvement, found in the financial affairs of the church and the efficiency of administering the same over the system in use in by-gone years.

As this branch of church work is a work of development, and there is no particular system of book keeping fully adapted to meet all the necessities that are constantly arising. Your committee, if they had assiduously attended to this work and ample time to have given you a full and accurate report of the condition of the bishop's books and accounts.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBT. M. ELVIN.

Of the Auditing Committee.

INDEPENDENCE, MO., APR. 4, 1901.

Report from church historian was read:

To the Conference:—In the matter of nominating an assistant historian, I have to report that after some consultation with others I am not prepared to make the nomination for the reason that I wish to secure the services of one who is at liberty to devote his time, or such portion of it as may be necessary to the work, and I know of no suitable person who is available. I therefore ask permission to place some one in the office, during the year, if suitable arrangements

CONTINUED ON SEVENTH PAGE.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence Mo., as Second Class Matter.

American Archaeology Sustains the Book of Mormon.
Committee on Archaeology, F. M. Sheehy, Wm. Woodhead, W. H. Kelley.

Our last report, which was at the Conference of 1897, was chiefly in relation to preparation of a map of the ancient people of this continent upon the theory of the Book of Mormon, the purported history of them written by themselves. The archaeological phase of the subject was only incidentally used. The map question being approximately settled, we devote ourselves now more to the archaeological aspect, which necessarily advances us towards the scientific side. That we may not be thought presumptuous by some who are, or may be, thoughtless touching it, we quote the words of Herbert Spencer, "What is Science? To see the absurdity of the prejudice against it we need only remark that science is simply a higher development of common knowledge."

An enlarged view, then, of the subject under consideration is purely scientific. The truth is necessarily cumulative, while error is the opposite. Under the most rigid scrutiny and intellectual investigation a truth grows stronger and stronger, and rubbing brings out its lustre. A diamond is only polished by friction.

For about twenty years the Book of Mormon has been on trial. Seemingly all the adverse winds possible during that period have blown against it, but in vain. It stands to-day more firmly entrenched than ever. Its merit as a teacher of purest and highest moral truth, begotting and perpetuating in the soul of its student a reverence for God as He is revealed, in and through Jesus, the Christ, is lovingly appreciated. Its harmony with and supplementary companionship of the Bible is faith producing. It finds its great enemy in the Prince of Darkness, whose aim is, ever has been, to keep within the pale of darkness, consequently ignorance. Many who condemn it are generally those who know the least about its contents, while the faithful student of its teaching is the most ardent advocate and admirer. In the realm of archaeology, the argument does not diminish as time advances. As a working hypothesis for the exceedingly entrancing subject that has engaged the mind of men since the crew of Columbus startled their commander with the cry of "Land!" and brought to the astonished vision a new world, with its myriads of inhabitants, and astounding evidence of a higher order of civilization, it is not impeded, but is still "walking on all fours." True to our church culture, to honor a fact, and face the front, we continue to concede that one fact disposes of all theories or hypothesis, no matter how fondly cherished.

The Book of Mormon, then, is subject to the test of honorable criticism, and should one fact be found to stand against it, honesty and consistency would compel its abandonment. With this introductory statement, we humbly and cheerfully enter the arena with the consciousness inspired by a desire for truth, even at its true cost. Briefly, then, allow us to state the case.

The Book of Mormon purports to be an abridged history of three distinct nations or people who came to this continent from the old, one of which was a colony from the Tower of Babel, as mentioned in Genesis 11: 8: "So the Lord scattered them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth."

This colony, in the Book of Mormon known as Jaredites and located in Central America, after an occupancy of about 1,500 years, they by civil war disappear. This people were succeeded by the Nephites who found their remains and rebuilt upon them.

The Jaredites mentioned their civilization (page 520 Book of Mormon): "And the whole face of the land northward was covered with inhabitants; and they were exceedingly industrious, and they did buy and sell, and traffic one with another, * * * and they did work all manner of ore, and they did make gold and silver, and iron, and brass, and all manner of metals; * * * and they did have silks and fine twined linen, and they did work all manner of cloth; * * * and they did make all manner of tools to till the earth, both to plough and to sow, and to reap and to hoe, and to thrash, and they did make all manner of tools with which they did work their beasts, and they did make all manner of weapons of war, and they did make all manner of work of exceeding curious workmanship, and never could a people be more blessed than were they and more prospered by the hand of the Lord."

These are those whom we identify as cotemporaneous with the so-called extinct animals they mention, "the elephant, curulems, cumoms," (page 533 B. of M., small edition), as also "all manner of cattle, oxen, cows, sheep, swine, goats, and many other kinds of animals which were useful for the food of man" (page 533 Ibid), and they also had "horses and asses." The large animals are mentioned as being "useful unto man," more especially the "elephants, curulems and cumoms."

"They were to walk humbly before the Lord and they were also taught from on high" (page 533 Ibid).

EVIDENCES CONCERNING THE EX-TINCT ANIMALS MENTIONED IN THE B. OF M.

"And in nearly every State west of New England portions of this creature have been disinterred, and every year there are several found more or less in a state of complete preservation. The circumstances of several skeletons having about them evidences of man's work is extremely interesting. * * * We are able to say that man and the mastodon are contemporaneous. (Mound Builders, p. 40, Dr. J. B. Holden).

Dr. J. S. Phene, of London, explored the mounds and sees in them animals peculiar to Asia and Europe." (Ibid, p. 190)

History of the New World Called America, by E. J. Payne, (p. 59, V. 2): "In both worlds man was contemporary with great mamalla long extinct, * * * though man unquestionably entered the new world as an emigrant from the old world."

"Assuming that these post-glacial gravels about Trenton supply one of the earliest authentic starting points in the history of culture on this continent, the later developments of industry will furnish a number of other data. This first date was long before the extinction of the native American horse, the elephant, the mammoth, and other animals important to early man. (Essays of an Americanist, p. 32).

"The mounds are in shape of animals, some of which are extinct (Pett).

From elephant pipes and inscribed tablets in the Museum of Academy of Natural Sciences, Davenport, Iowa, by C. E. Rutnam, 1886, (p. 24), we find in the transaction of the St. Louis Academy of Science, in 1857, a detailed statement of Dr. A. C. Koch, of the remains of a mastodon found in Gasconade county, Missouri, and with it among ashes, bones and rocks, several arrow heads and stone axes, which relics are preserved in the British Museum. Dr. Dickson, of Natchez, many years ago found the pelvic bone of a man with the remains of a mastodon and Megalonyx, which specimens are preserved in the Museum of the Philadelphia Academy of Sciences. Count Pourtales in 1848 found in Florida some human bones in a calcareous conglomerate, estimated by Agassiz to be ten thousand years old. Pourtales will be remembered as the friend and favorite pupil of the great naturalist. In an excavation in New Orleans some charcoal and a human skeleton were discovered, to which Dr. Dowler attributes an antiquity of no less than fifty thousand years. This estimate was based upon the deposits and forests found above the remains, and as connected with this question was the age of the delta of the Mississippi. It may be stated that this has been estimated by Sir Charles Lyell as probably reaching one hundred thousand years.

In 1857 Dr. C. F. Winslow sent the Boston Natural Historical Society the fragment of a human cranium found in connection with the bones of the mastodon and elephant 180 feet below the surface of Table mountain. Prof. Whitney deposited in the Museum of the State Geological Society of California a cranium found deep in the gold drift and covered with five successive overflows of lava. T. T. Clev contributed to the Smithsonian Institute a specimen of ancient basket work or mat made of interlaced reeds, found on Petite Anse Island some fifteen or twenty feet below the surface and on a bed of rock salt, and about two feet above it were the remains of the tusks and bones of a fossil elephant. This mat is now in the National Museum at Washington. In 1867 E. W. Hilgard and Dr. E. Fontaine, Secretary of the New Academy of Science, explored the location last above referred to, and discovered twelve feet below the surface and immediately adjoining the rock-salt incredible quantities of pottery mingled with the fragments of the bones of the elephant. Dr. Holmes made a communication to the Philadelphia Academy of Science several years since in which he describes the occurrence of fragments of pottery in connection with the bones of the mastodon and megalonyx. See for proof, Foster's Prehistoric Races in the United States, p. 52-78; Lubbock's Prehistoric Times, pp. 286-288; Prehistoric America, by Nadallac, pp. 33-45; Baldwin's Ancient America, pp. 47-56; Mastodon, Mammoth & Man, by McLean, pp. 13-20; McLean's Mound Builders, p. 136; Nott & Glidden, Types of Mankind, p. 352; Antiquity of Man, Sir Chas. Lyell, pp. 43-208; Dana's Manual of Geology pp. 577, 578; Transaction of St. Louis Academy, Vol I, p. 62, 1857; Smithsonian Contributions to Knowledge, No. 248; On the Geology of Lower Louisiana and the Salt Deposit on Petite Anse Island, by E. W. Hilgard, p. 14; Southall's Recent Origin of Man, pp. 550-560; Short's North Americans of Antiquity, p. 112-130; Winchell's Preadamite, pp. 435, 436; Mesozic and Canozic Geology & Paleontology, by S. A. Miller; Journal of the Cincinnati Society of Natural History, Vol. 4, p. 215; Contributions to the Geology of Ohio, by Col. Whittlesey, pp. 10-13; Evidences of the Antiquity of Man in the United States, paper read before the Association for the Advancement of Science, at Chicago, 1867, by Whittlesey; Antiquity of the North American Indian, by C. C. Jones, Jr.; also North American Review for 1874, which has the following: "While we cannot at present ascertain, and perhaps never will be able to determine the antiquity of the North American Indian, we think it now may be affirmed with considerable confidence, 1st. That the primitive people of the Mississippi Valley, and of the southeast portion of the North American continent were domiciled here when the mammoth, the mastodon, and other extinct animals roamed the primeval forests. 2nd. That many of the grave mounds and earth works of the Red race are fully a thousand years old, while others may well claim an antiquity far greater than this. 3rd, and lastly, that the Indian occupancy in various portions of this continent was very ancient, probably dating as far back as the earliest traces of man in Western Europe."

Prehistoric America, pp. 15, 23, 32 and 42; Atlantis, p. 350, says: "Of the Ancient Americans, among their carvings have been found representations of the elephant and the lions, both animals not known in America."

Second. A colony of Jews who left Jerusalem about 600 B. C. Third. A colony of Israelites among whom were descendants of Zedekiah, king of Judah. The second, called Nephites, are those who are responsible principally for the account given in the Book of Mormon; the others, incidentally. The intellectual status of this colony is indicated by the following biographical statement of their young leader: "I, Nephi, having been born of goodly parents, therefore I was taught somewhat in all the learning of my father; * * * yea, I made a record in the language of my father, which consists of the learning of the Jews and the language of the Egyptians." (Nephi 1:1). This colony later on divided, developing into two nations, called by themselves Nephites and Lamanites. This starts us with a class of people whose cultus is high, also intellectually advanced, having the accomplishment of a written language. This first settlement was in South America on the western coast near latitude 30, south. In "Prehistoric America," by Nadallac, p. 400, speaking of the early settlers of that region, the writer makes the point that they were other than nomadic in their methods and habits, viz: "One thing we think certain, such monuments cannot be the remains of a civilization of local growth, nor could a race unaided have developed from its own genius such architectural knowledge. We share the conclusion of Agard, that the civilization of which the remaining ruins bear the impress, could not have taken its rise on these frozen table-lands. Man must have arrived upon them sufficiently armed for the struggle by previous experience of social life."

Squier, Gibbs, and numerous other ethnologists believe in emigration from the West to South America. (Pre-historic America, p. 523).

The Peruvians attribute their progress to Manso Capac and to the beautiful Mama Oello, his sister and his wife, who had crossed the sea to their country. (Ibid, p. 527).

The Nephite colony consisted of Lehi, four sons, the two sons of Ishmael and Zoram, with the servant of Laban. Ishmael, having died before they embarked from the old world, is not counted among the emigrants that peopled the "choice lands" of America. We have, therefore, eight men as leaders. This was sub-divided into the four brothers, sons of Lehi. Eventually, Nephi, youngest of the four, became principal leader.

Reverer and Tscheder say: "Peru was populated about five hundred years after the deluge. Its first inhabitants flowed in abundance toward the Valley of Cuzco, conducted by four brothers, Ayar, Manco, Ayarache-Topa, Ayar-Auca-Topa, and Ayar-Uchu-Topa, who were accompanied by their sister and wives, named Mama Cora, Hip-Hancum, Mama-Huacum, and Pilca-Huacum. The youngest of the brothers, according to tradition, was at the same time most skillful and handy. (Peruvian Antiquities, p. 52).

This last tradition states that these were the first inhabitants of Peru. Manco is here called Ayar-Manco-Topo.

Fernando Montesino gives these men's names as Ayar-Manco-Topo, Ayar-Chaki, Ayar-Auca, and Ayar-Uyssu. (See Atlantis, p. 391.)

And Baldwin quotes him as saying that "the youngest of these four brothers assumed supreme authority and became the first of a long line of Peruvian sovereigns. (Ancient America, p. 264.)

"Ayar," says Senor Lopez, "is the Sanscrit Ajar, or Aje, and means primitive chief; and Manco, Chaki, Auca and Uyssu, mean believers, wanderers, soldiers, husbandmen. We have here a tradition," says he, "of castes like that in the four tribal names of Athens." (Atlantis, p. 391.)

"Capac," Prescott says, "meant great and powerful." (See Conquest of Peru, Vol. 1, Book 1, Chap. 1, Note, 9, p. 31.)

Prof. Brinton says the meaning of the name "Manco" is unknown; the other three names signify, he says, in the order given: Messenger, enemy or traitor, and the little one. (Myths of the New World, p. 212, Note 2). The Professor, though, gives their names as Manco, Cacha, Auca, Uchu, these were not these men's original names, but second names, descriptive of their life work; one of them had developed into an enemy or traitor; one was great and powerful; the same one, the youngest, was skillful and handy. So that these men's names were not revealed in these traditions. "Mama," we are told, means Mother. (See Prescott's Conquest of Peru, Vol. 1, Book 1, Chap. 1, p. 31, Note 8).

"Manco-Capac," teaching the men the arts of agriculture, and "Mama Oello," initiating her own sex in the mysteries of weaving and spinning. (Ibid., Vol. 1, Book 1, Chap. 1, p. 32.)

These four men were married, and had children, and were accompanied by their sisters, and Manco Mama Oello are said in one tradition quoted to have "crossed thesea." Squier, Gibbs, and numerous others believe that such a colony came "from the west" and made a landing on the "west coast of South America." And we will see later on, that this colony are pointed by the finger of tradition, by many other branches of the red race, which are scattered over both North and South America, and these traditions come to us as their registry of their own pedigree.

"The Tupis" (a tribe of Indians), of Brazil, claim a descent from four brothers, three of whose names are given by Hans Staden, a prisoner among them about 1550, as Krimen, Hermitan and Coem. Myths of the New World, p. 101. This tribe "dwelt on the Atlantic coast from the mouth of the Amazon to the Plata river, and along the shores of the former (the Amazon) almost to the great Cordillera of the west." Ibid. 46.

By turning to the map of South America, we can see at a glance that the Tupis were scattered along the Atlantic coast, according to Prof. Brinton, for two thousand miles, and that this tribe occupied the coast country of Uruguay, which is at the mouth of the Plata river. These Indians were scattered along the banks of the Amazon "and tributaries almost to the great Cordillera of the west." The great Cordillera of the west extend through Peru. We see by this explanation that the Brazilian Tupis were neighbors to the Peruvians; they came in touch with each other at the head waters of the Amazon, both peoples claim descent from four brothers.

Prof. Brinton, quoting from Guevara's "History of Paraguay," says, "Their" (that is the Tupis) "southern relatives, the Guaranis of Paraguay, also speak of four brothers, and gave two of their names as Tupi and Guaranis, respectively, parents of the tribes called after them." Myths of the New World, p. 101, note 1. That is the Paraguayan Indians speak of four brothers, and they claim descent from two of the brothers. Here we see the Israelite method of naming a tribe after the head of the family.

"The four-fold division of the Muyscas of Bogota was traced back to four chieftains created by their hero God, Nemquteba."

Here Mr. Brinton quotes from E. Restrepo's Aborigines of Columbia, chap. 3, Ibid. p. 101, note 1.

Bogota is the capital of Columbia. These Muyscas were neighbors to the ancient Peruvians on the north, and were located on the east side of the Magdalena river.

Quoting Humboldt, Mr. Brinton says, "The Nahuas of Mexico much more frequently spoke of themselves as descendants of four or of eight original families than of seven."—Myths of the New World, p. 101, note 1.

The Nahuas were the ancestral stem from which the Aztecs, Toltecs, Chichimecs, and their various branches sprang. In this group the Mayas are not included; their traditions stand apart in some respects from the Nahuas. At the discovery, their (the Mayas) contiguous bands occupied all the soil of Yucatan, and most of that of Guatemala, Chiapas, Tabasco and Western Honduras." (Ibid. p. 43.)

The Mayas of the Yucatan peninsula were divided up into eighteen tribes. American Archaeology, p. 267. They are said to have been related to the Ancient Toltecs. See American Archaeology, p. 240.

This Nahuatl stock were scattered over a great part of North America. The Uto-Aztecan language is traced from Nicaragua to the Columbia, and Aztec is a child of Nahuatl. These Nahuas of Mexico traced their descent to four or eight and sometimes seven families. "The Ottoes, Pawnees and other Indians had a tradition that from eight ancestors all nations" (natives of course) "and races were descended. The division into clans or totems which prevails in most northern tribes, rests theoretically on descent from ancestors. The Shawnees and Natchez were divided into four such clans; the Choctaws, Navajos and Iroquois, eight, thus proving that in those tribes also the myth I have been discussing was recognized." (Myths of the New World, p. 101, Note 1).

"The Creeks were at first divided into four clans, and alleged a descent from four female ancestors." (Ibid. p. 95). So also the Algonkins and Dakotas traced their lives back to four ancestors.

The Haytiens when first discovered by the Spaniards had a similar genealogical story. They traced their way back through the Maze to four brothers. "These brothers in time became the fathers of a nation, and to them they traced their lineage." This inquiry into the Haytiens' ancestors was made by order of Columbus, and this story appears to have been a part of the original narrative written by Romain Pane, and published later by the Abbe-Brasseur, Paris, 1864." (See Myths of the New World, pp. 95, 96, and Note 1, p. 96.)

In all the Aztec and Toltec histories there are four characters who constantly reappear, either as priests or envoys of the gods, or of hidden and disguised majesty, or as guides and chieftains of tribes during these migrations, or as kings and rulers of monarchies after their foundation, and even to the time of the conquest, there are always four princes who compose the supreme government, whether in Guatemala or in Mexico." (Ibid., pp. 96, 97). "Hardly a nation on the continent," says Mr. Brinton, "but seems to have had some vague tradition of an origin from four brothers; to have at some time been led by four leaders or princes, or in some manner to have connected the appearance and action of four important personages with its earliest traditional history." (Ibid. p. 94).

Eight original Aztec families are represented in the Aztec picture chart. (See John Delafield's work, and Bancroft's Native Races, Vol. 2, p. 548, 549).

Mr. Delafield seems to approve of Boturini's and Bullock's reading, a part of which is that the leader of this colony had four sons. (See Delafield's Work, pp. 98, 99).

This chart may explain why the Aztecs and Toltecs sometimes trace their pedigree to four leaders or chiefs, and again at other times to eight; from this chart there appears to have been eight original Aztec chiefs. May we ask, were these eight chiefs Aztecs? This colony is represented as traveling southward, and that is one reason why scientists look for their original starting place northward from Mexico.

Brasseur de Bourbourg places it in California, Humboldt, about 42 north latitude; Foster, in New Mexico; Fontain, in the Mississippi Valley; Bandelier, in Florida; Boturini speaks of the Gulf of California (Pre-historic America, pp. 284, 285, and Note 3); Cyrus Thomas points to the Hudson Bay, or west mountains, and Professor Brinton, to the west mountains in high northern latitudes. In the map of their migrations presented by Gemelli, the place of the origin of the Aztecs is designated by the sign of water (alt. standing for Aztlan) a pyramidal temple with grades, and near these a palm tree. (Ancient America, p. 218).

The Aztecs and other northern races may have migrated southward to their respective locations as found at the time of the discovery, but this original starting point referred to in their charts is not likely to be found in high northern latitudes. This palm tree seems to suggest a warm climate.

Again, this Aztec colony seems to be pointed at by nearly all the Indian tribes, except the Mayas. It is eight chiefs or eight leaders, or four leaders or four brothers, eight ancestors or four ancestors; these were their leaders in their migrations and the founders of their nation. This proves a common origin. They point to the same ancestors, so that the four brothers, or eight chiefs, were the original ancestral stem; the native tribes the branches.

"A distinct and well authenticated myth of the deluge was found among the Athapascas, Algonkins, Iroquois, Cherokees, Chickasaws, Caddos, Caraxas, Guaymis, Pumarys, Pawnees, Natchez, Dakotas, Apaches, Navajos, Mandans, Pueblo Indians, Aztecs, Zapotecs, Tascalano, Mechoacans, Toltecs, Nahuas, Mayas, Quiches, Haytiens, Natives of Darien, Popoyan, Muyscas, Quichuas, Tapinambas, Achaguas, Araucanians, and many others. (Myths of the New World, p. 245, Note 1).

This distant and well authenticated myth of the deluge came rolling down the ages. The natives did not make it—they may have changed it. So the eight or four original ancestor myth was an inheritance, left by their ancestors.

In Peru it is four brothers, in Hayti it is four brothers, in Brazil it is four brothers, in Paragua it is four brothers, in Columbia it is four chiefs, Mexico it is four or eight chiefs, and sometimes seven; with the Pawnees it is eight ancestors, with the Ottoes and other tribes eight ancestors; with the Shawnees it is four clans, with the Natchez it is four clans, with the Virginians it is four clans, with the Choctaws it is eight clans, with the Navajos it is eight clans, with the Iroquois it is eight clans. And remember this division into clans rests on descent from different ancestors. So that the native races present to us a registered title as old as the tribe, to the same genealogical ancestors. Each tribe has a deed for the same piece of property.

Their original ancestral home was Tulan. Professor Brinton says, "The Aztec priests never chanted more regretful dirges than when they sang of Tulan the cradle of their race." (Myths of the New World, p. 105).

Here is one description of this distant, Orient. The Calchiquel MS. says: "Four persons came from Tulan, from the direction of the rising sun—that is one Tulan. There is another Tulan in Xibalbar, and another where the sun sets, and it is there that we came, and in the direction of the setting sun there is another where is the god, so that there are four Tulans; and it is where the sun sets that we came to Tulan from the other side of the sea where their Tulan is, and it is there that we were conceived and begotten by our mothers and fathers." (Atlantis, p. 166).

That is to say the birth-place of the race was across the sea, at a place called Tulan, and their first settlement in America they called Tulan also; and besides these there were two more, making four Tulans.

Tulan is sometimes Tula or Tullan, Tulla, Tolan, and Tollan. It is the same place. (See American Archaeology, p. 255). This land (Tulan) was also called "Tlalocan" from Tloloc, the God of rain, who there had his dwelling place, and Tlapallan, the land of colors, or the red land, for the hues of the sky at sunrise floated over it. (Myths of the New World, pp. 105, 106). That is, Tlalocan and Tlapallan are identified as the same place as Tulan.

Sahagun was asked by the natives if he came from Tlapallan. He had crossed the sea to their country, and the inquisitive native wanted to know if he came from the same place their ancestors did. (Ibid. p. 106).

"Cabrera," says Huehue-Tlapallan, "was the ancient country of the Toltecs. Its simple name was Tlapallan, but they called it Huehue old, to distinguish it from their other Tlapallans which they founded in the districts of their new kingdoms." (Ancient America, p. 202).

The traditions of the Mexicans and Central Americans regarding the sudden appearance in their midst, and as sudden departure of great reformers and civilizers, who were afterwards regarded as cultus heroes, have been and still continue to puzzle, in regard to which students have as yet, been unable to offer any generally accepted solution. It is Quetzalcoatl among the Mexicans, Votan among the tribes of the Usamacinta, Cukulcan and Itzamna among the Mayas of Yucatan, and Gucumatz with the tribes of Guatemala." (American Archaeology, p. 363).

It is true that the Algonkin hero God, like all the American heroes, Isokoka, Quetzalcoatl, Zamna, Bochiac, Viracocha, and the rest, disappeared in some mysterious way, promising again to visit his people, and has long delayed his coming, and now call him the "Cheat," because he stays away so long. All the tribes have a name for him, expressive of the same characteristic. Roger Williams mentions him as found among the New England Indian, viz: "A man had wrought great miracles among them with some kind of broken resemblance to the sonne of God."

E. G. Squier in 1846 showed that the legend was of an aboriginal source rather from contact with Europeans. Art. in American Review, 1848.

This person came "from the distant East, from the fabulous Huehue Tlapalman. This mysterious person came to Tula, and became the patron God and high priest of the ancestors of the Toltecs." (North Americans of Antiquity, p. 269).

That is, this "person came from old Tlapalan." (Hue means old.) He came to the ancestors of the Toltecs. The true national name for the Toltecs is unknown, that given to them is derived from their capital. "Tolan or Tula," see Prehistoric America, page 12, note 1. We have no national name for the Mound Builders, their mounds suggested the name, "Mound Builders." Ancient America, pages 14, 15.

We have no approximate chronology to fix the date of Quetzalcoatl's appearance among the ancestors of the Toltecs, but the distance must be great. The Aztecs were the predecessors of the present Spanish era in Mexico, and the Chichimecs were the predecessors of the Aztecs, and the Toltecs were the predecessors of the Chichimecs, so that there is the Spanish era, the Aztec era, and the Chichimec era, between us and the Toltec era. The Toltec era is referred to as the "golden age" in Mexico. See Prehistoric America, page 275.

Quetzalcoatl, this mysterious person whose sudden appearance to the Toltecs, and sudden departure from them is said to have been "born of a virgin in the land of Tula or Tlapalan, in the distant Orient, and was a high priest of that happy realm." He was "of white complexion clothed in long, white robes, and, as many of the Aztec gods, with a full and flowing beard. When his earthly work was done he too returned to the east, assigning as a reason that the sun, the ruler of Tlapalan, demanded his presence." Myths of the New World, pages 214, 215.

This is the fabled Tlapalan. "Its supposed location was in the east." Myths of the New World, page 106.

In note 2, p. 106, Myths of the New World, Tula is again identified as Tulan. This distinct Orient across the sea is found under different names. It is Tula, Tulan, Tlapalan, Tlaocan. See Myths of the New World, pp. 100, 105, 106, 108.

Nadaille says: "This country called Hue Hue Tlapalan in the Popal-vul, Tulanauia, by other historians, must be the same as the country of Amaquemecan, the birth place of the Chichimecs." Prehistoric America, 272.

"The Popal-vul is the sacred book of the Quiches and they are a branch of the Maya race. So that this distant Orient, the birthplace of those people, are Tlapalan with the Quiches, Amaquemecan with the Chichimecs, and Tulan with the Aztec." This mysterious person came from Tula or Tlapalan—Tlapalan is the birthplace of the Quiches, and Tula is identified with Tulan, the birthplace of the Aztecs, and Amaquemecan, the birthplace of the Chichimec, "must be the same place as Hue Hue Tlapalan," so that the Quetzalcoatl came from the same place they did. The Aztecs came from the other side of the sea. Atlantis, p. 166. We can see that the roots of their beliefs reach back to a time far more ancient than the beginnings of their tribal origin.

Quetzalcoatl "was worshipped by the people as the incarnation of Tonacateatl, the serpent sun, the creator of all things, the supreme god of Nahuatl mythology." Prehistoric America, p. 274.

It is to this person that the myths and traditions of the Nahuas chiefly refer. Ibid 274.

The sign of his office was a mace like the cross of a bishop. Myths of the New World, p. 114. He is represented in the Trocadero Museum, Paris, in a sitting posture cross legged like the Hindoo Buddha.

We see this position occupied by Buddha was also the one occupied by the Jewish judges. Writers have forced the conclusion that this Mexican image was identical with Buddha, but it applies just as well to the ancient custom among the Hebrew, and harmonizes with the traditional race we are now following to Jerusalem, as evidence the following:

"The ceremonies which were observed in conducting a judicial trial were as follows: First, the accuser and accused made their appearance before the judge or judges who sat with legs crossed upon the floor which was furnished for their accommodation with carpet and cushion." Page 713 Encyclopedia Religious Knowledge. (See Prehistoric America, p. 278). On page 75 he is represented as standing; on p. 166, Vol. 6, Kingsborough's Mexican Antiquities, he is represented as a person crucified. He is said to have been of fair complexion, white, indeed, but the historian Ixtlechochitl, says the old legends assert that all the Toltecs, natives of Tollan or Tula, as their name signifies, were so likewise." (pp. 214, 215, Note 2). "He returned to the east." (North Americans of Antiquity, p. 271). "When his work here was at an end he returned to the east, assuming as a reason that the sun, the ruler of Tlapalan, demanded his presence" (Myths of the New World, p. 215) "with a promise to return at some future time." (Ibid, p. 109, and Prehistoric America, 291). And such was the impression left on the native mind by this mysterious person, that notwithstanding the centuries had rolled away since his appearance, the Aztecs thought he had re-appeared "when the Spaniards landed on their coast; they rushed into the water to embrace the prows of their vessels, and dispatched messengers throughout the land to proclaim the return of Quetzalcoatl." (Myths of the New World, p. 221).

The first Spanish writers choose to see in Quetzalcoatl, Sir Thomas, who they thought had "passed from India to America" (Prehistoric America, p. 274).

Even among the low Indians of Paraguay the early missionaries were startled to find this tradition of the maiden mother of the god, so similar to that of which they had come to tell. (Myths of the New World, p. 172).

When the Spanish conquerors reached Cuzco and witnessed the religious ritual at the feast of Raymi, which consisted of a feast of animals, llama (sheep), grain, flowers, and sweet-scented gums; later came the distribution of bread and wine by the high priest, the orthodox Spaniards were taken by surprise at "the striking resemblance to the Christian communion as in the practice of confession and penance, which in a most irregular form indeed, seems to have been used by the Peruvians, they discerned a coincidence with another of the sacraments of the church. The good fathers were fond of tracing such coincidence, which they considered as the contrivance of Satan, who thus endeavored to delude his victims by counterfeiting the blessed rites of Christianity. Others in a different vein, imagined that they saw in such analogies the evidence that some of the primitive teachers of the gospel, perhaps an apostle himself, had paid a visit to these distant regions and scattered over them the seeds of religious truth." (p. 97, History of Peru, Prescott, Vol. 1).

Acosto writes, "that which is most admirable in the hatred and presumption of Satan, is that he not only counterfeited in idolatry and sacrifices, but also in certain ceremonies, our sacraments, which Jesus Christ our Lord instituted, and the holy church uses, having especially pretended to imitate, in some sort, the sacrament of the communion, which is the most high and divine of all others" (Ibid, p. 97, Note 33).

Herrera writes: "The father of lies would likewise counterfeit the sacrament of confession, and his idolatries sought to be honored with the ceremonies very like to the manners of Christians." (Ibid, p. 97, Note 34). Cieza de Leon could see in these ceremonies, "The real apparition of Satan." (Ibid, p. 97, Note 35).

Piedrahita, the historian of the Muyscas, is satisfied that "St. Bartholomew visited that country." (Ibid, Note 36).

"The Mexican Antiquaries consider St. Thomas as having had charge of the mission to the people of Anahuac," (Mexico). These two Apostles, then, would seem to have divided the New World, at least the civilized portions of it, between them. How they came, whether by Behring Strait, or directly across the Atlantic, we are not informed." (Prescott's Conquest of Peru, Vol. 1, Chap. 3, pp. 96, 97, Notes 33, 34, 35, 36).

What the Indians saw in his ceremonies as the stamp of divinity, some of the "orthodox Christians" saw the father of lies, "destroying their souls;" other of the invaders could see the footsteps of two of the apostles scattering the "seeds" of "religious truths" over the "New World."

In Mexico the Spanish invaders came to just the same conclusions; the evidences were about the same. "Their religion possessed so many features similar to those of the old world, that the Spanish priests declared the devil had given them a bogus imitation of Christianity to destroy their souls—the devil," they said, "stole all he could. They had confession, absolution of sin, and baptism. When their children were named, they sprinkled their lips and bosoms with water, and the Lord was implored to permit the holy drop to wash away the sin that was given it before the foundation of the world." (Atlantis, p. 351).

In summing up his facts Mr. Brinton says that these reformers were "credited with an ethical elevation in their teachings which need not blush before the loftiest precepts of the old world's moralists."

According to the earliest and most trustworthy accounts, the doctrines of Tonapa were filled with the loving kindness and the deep sense of duty which characterized the purest Christianity. "Nothing was wanting in them," says a historian, "save the name of God and that of his son, Jesus Christ." (Myths of the New World, p. 337).

The "Fathers," seeing the evidence of a Christian life among the people, and the sacraments of the church observed, though "irregular," were taken by surprise, "startled," they admitted that the red man was in possession of the story that they had come to tell, the only question raised was the title to it: one party contended that they had a good title, obtained from two of our Lord's disciples. The other party claimed they had obtained possession through fraud, from a party who had no legal right to transfer it, and hence their deed was null and void.

The blood on the door-posts and lintels in Egypt was a sign to the angel that "Israelites live here." The paschal supper was a sign to the foreigner that those eating were Israelites in faith; the Lord's supper has gone wherever Christianity has been taught, and is a sign that we remember him—Christians.

We cannot tell who the red man is by the color of face, or the shape of his head, because local conditions may change his complexion, and artificial means will change the shape of his skull, but he may tell us who he is in an unconscious way, by a sign on the door-post, a feast, a remembrance—his traits or traditions.

The Mexican Quetzalcoatl, the Usumacinto Votan, the Maya Cuculkan, nor the Guatemala Gucumatz, could not have been St. Thomas, nor St. Bartholomew, nor any other one of our Lord's disciples. This person was born of a "virgin," the "incarnation" of the "Supreme God."

To the Christian there is but one such person born on this sin-cursed globe. (John 1:14). But how came the red man to know that there was such a person? How did the Christian learn that there was such a person?—the Bible tells us so. Did

CHRONIC HEART DISEASE PROMPTLY CURED.

THE EMINENT SPECIALIST, FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., HAS SUCCEEDED AFTER FROM 5 TO 30 DOCTORS FAILED. A $2.50 COURSE OF HIS COMPOUND TREATMENT IS OFFERED FREE, AS A TRIAL.

To convince every sufferer that his new Special Treatment possesses rare and uncommon healing qualities in all cases of heart disease—especially when accompanied with short breath, pain in the side, oppression in the chest, palpitation, smothering spells, puffing of the ankles or dropsy—as well as when complicated with stomach, liver and nervous troubles, Dr. Miles will give them a $2.50 course free.

Other physicians may have failed. Your case may have been declared "incurable," but the doctor has such faith in his treatment that he is willing to leave the proof with you. Only the most scientific remedies are used, the treatment being specially prescribed for each patient.

The Complete Special Treatments are the result of 25 years of close study, careful research and extraordinary success. They are far in advance of the medicines used by the ordinary doctor and few physicians show such faith in their remedies. There is no reason why this opportunity should not be taken by every sufferer before it is too late.

Mrs. August Kronck of Huntington, Ind., cured after 30 physicians failed; Mrs. Flora Graeter of Bristolville, O., after 22; Mrs. R. Parker of Nishawauka, Ind. after 15; Mrs. L. E. Cole, Pittsburg, Pa., after 6; and Mrs. E. Norris of Windsor, O., after 5 gave her up.

A thousand references to and testimonials from Bishops, Clergymen, Farmers, and their wives, will be sent free on request.

Send at once to Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., 201 to 209 State Street, Chicago, Ill., for copyrighted examination chart and pamphlet. Mention this paper.

the red man have a bible to tell him?

The Book of Mormon is certainly clear on this point, viz.: Jesus the Christ visited the "other sheep" here on the Occident.

Is the Mexican Quetzalcoatl, and the Maya Cuculkan, the Bible Jesus—the only begotten of the "Father?" This person "taught the loving kindness and the deep sense of duty which characterized the purest Christianity." "Nothing was wanting," says the historian, "save the name of God and that of his Son, Jesus Christ." They had a genuine article so far as their ethical teaching was concerned.

If this person was Jesus, then the native races are Israelites, because they came from the same place. This view of the red man will account for the temple and palm tree which stand at the starting place from which his ancestors came. Compare the Gamelli and the Boturini Charts. The Aztecs say that their forefathers came from Tulan, from the other side of the sea.

The Mayas say that they came from Hue (old) Tlapalan, and came in ships across the sea. The Peruvians say that Manco-capac came over the sea. But what part of the old country did they come from? Donelley and a number of others would say, Atlantis, Squier and Gibbs, and a number of other ethnologists say a landing was made on the west coast of South America. Quite a number say from Asia via Behring Strait; some say from Greenland via Labrador. Josiah Priest says that "The Peruvians were doubtless from China originally and the Mexicans from a more northern region—Mongol, Tartary and the Japan Islands" (American Antiquities, p. 342, Ed. 33.)

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Forty-eighth Annual Conference.

Continued from third page. can be made, subject to the approval of the next General Conference.

On motion the request of the church historian, as above, was granted.

A motion to adopt the minority report of the auditing committee on bishop's books was offered and discussed; pending its discussion, a motion prevailed to hear the statement of grievance of the minority of auditing committee of bishop's books read.

A statement from the secretary on the same matter was read. Bro. M. F. Gowell also made a statement of his side of the matter at issue, as did also Elder F. M. Weld, on his own behalf.

Notices were read. Adjournment.

At 7:30 p. m. hymn 110 was sung, prayer offered by Bishop G. H. Hilliard, hymn 144 was sung and Elder Richard Hill, president of Church of Christ (Hedrickites), was introduced as the speaker of the evening, according to previous arrangement, to present some points at which they are at variance with the Reorganized church, and why he cannot work hand in hand with us.

The morning prayer meeting was in charge of Bro. R. White and D. A. Hutchins. At 10:45 Bro. Henry Kemp called the house to order and introduced the service by announcing, "Redeemer of Israel," which was sung with zest, as was also "Hail to the brightness of Zion's glad morning," after prayer, and Bro. J. D. Erwin was introduced as speaker.

To Buy Palestine. Milwaukee, Wis., April 14.—Fifteen hundred Hebrews held a meeting today in the interest of the Zionist movement and demonstrated approval of the plan, which, it is hoped, will restore the ancient prestige of the Jews as a nation.

the organization is located at Milwaukee. Dr. Caro, of this city, one of the chief promoters of the movement, says the cause is to be prosecuted with fervor. The Kansas City (Mo.) Journal, April 15, 1901.

EVANIELA LOST, a duet by Bro. J. Cole Moxon. Fine souvenir engraving of the little gospel boat. Everyone should possess a copy. Not a very great many of them left, better send in your orders for one or more before there is nothing left you but regrets that you do not possess a copy. Only 25 cents each. Let us hear from you promptly.

To the Saints. If those who attend General Conference and wish to get a general description of Jackson county, Independence and Kansas City, will call at my office, they can get one of my pamphlets free. It will be found to be of worth to any person who contemplates making Jackson county their future home.

W. S. LOAR. Music Hall, Independence, Mo. Saints, Take Notice. Send me 50 cents or $1.00 and see how many useful articles I will send you, and also a sample of my low prices.

FOR SALE. A brick hotel building of 26 rooms on North Main street, Independence, Missouri. Lot 52x165 feet. $5,000. Address Mrs. Elizabeth Carmody, 615 North Delaware street, Independence, Missouri.

FOR SALE. House of five rooms, cellar, porch, cistern, never failing well. Lot 200 feet deep, trees, all kinds of fruit, shrubbery and flowers. One block from Electric line; near the Missouri Pacific depot; two blocks from L. D. S. church and school; $1,000. Inquire at Telegraph Office, Missouri Pacific depot.

FOR SALE. I will offer for sale at Lamoni, Iowa, one frame five room house, two blocks from business center, and one frame six room house, three blocks from business center. Also one frame two story, eight room house, three blocks from business center. All of the above property has good wells and cisterns and barns, and all in good repair, and all paying good rental. For particulars apply to B. D. FLEET, Lamoni, Iowa.

Epworth League Meeting. San Francisco, California, July 18-21, 1901, round trip $45.00. Stop over allowed in each direction. For full particulars call "29."

National Shooting Festival of National Shooting Bund, Shell Mound Park, California, July 14-23, at round trip, $45.00. J. W. DUGAN, Agt.

Visitors to the Pan-American Exposition. If you contemplate going to Buffalo during the Pan-American Exposition, drop a line to the undersigned, who will mail to you a beautiful illustrated pamphlet issued by the Bureau of Publicity and Accommodation of the Pan-American Exposition. It is free. GEO. J. CHARLTON, Geo. J. Charlton, Chicago & Alton Ry. Chicago, Ill.

CANCER A CURABLE DISEASE.

Many people have an idea that cancer is incurable, but we have over 150 original and recent testimonials of cures of actual cancer, the sufferers having taken 8 to 24 bottles of the famous B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) which is meant to cure old obstinate blood and skin troubles. B. B. B. kills the cancer poison in the blood and the sores quickly heal. No cutting required. Among others cured was Mrs. M. L. Adams, of Fredonia, Alabama. Had an eating cancer, the bones of her nose and upper part of her mouth entirely eaten out. Could only eat strained soup, yet the cancer healed perfectly by taking 14 bottles of B. B. B. Allan Grant, Sparta, Georgia, had painful sore on lip called epithelial cancer, also much pains in bones and weakness in back; 10 bottles of B. B. B. healed the sore and gave him strength, and made his blood pure and rich. B. B. B. heals ulcers, scrofula, eczema, cancer in any form, old sores, etc. Druggists or by express prepaid, $1.00. A trial treatment of B. B. B. free by writing Blood Balm Co., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Georgia. Describe trouble and free medical advice given. Medicine sent at once prepaid.

FOR SALE. On North Main Street, Independence, Mo., three-fourths of a mile from the Square. Lot 14 acres, fronting three streets: four roomed house, good barn, carriage house, workshop, hay chamber, three-stalled cow house separate. Full of large and small fruits, in fine bearing condition; good asparagus bed; fine well with never failing spring; $1,250. Apply to Mrs. E. A. STEVENS, 108 Chrysler Ave., Independence, Mo.

A Bargain $600 will buy a six room house and over 3 acres choice land at Lamoni if taken soon. One-half cash. Address with return stamp, Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Have You Seen "LAMONI PULPITS" in the INDEPENDENT PATRIOT? A synopsis of one sermon a week from the Sain's' pulpit in Lamoni, appears in the Patriot. Subscription one dollar per year. Address, THE PATRIOT, Lamoni, Iowa. A postal card brings a sample copy.

ALL SECRET SOCIETIES THE TRUE CHURCH OF THE DEVIL. BY GEORGE K. PAGE, Price 5 Cents. Agents Wanted in Every Town. Address, G. E. Page, Independence, Mo.

BIG INDUCEMENTS Having removed our Guilford stock to Barnard, Missouri, and having just received a large line of BRAN NEW UP-TO-DATE Clothing, Dry Goods, Shoes and Hats, we are better prepared to supply the demands of our large and increasing trade, than ever before.

We have purchased a lot of Prince Albert and Clerical Cut Garments from the American Tailors which they had left on their hands. We have bought these cheap and CAN SAVE YOU MONEY. 20 per cent off regular price to the ministry. NATIONAL MERCANTILE CO. G. J. Whitehead & Co., Proprietors, BARNARD, Mo.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI, Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898.

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of... Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your check, payable on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, a member of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of name a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for making a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered.

A Singer Sewing Machine THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, earning more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible. THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch. BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world, where every machine is carefully tested on practical stitching. Sold only by THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 190-3.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

20 Acres of as nice, smooth land as you ever saw. A short walk from L. D. S. church and Public School in Lamoni. Worth $2,000; $1,500 will buy it now, on easy terms. If interested write the owner, D. F. NICHOLSON, Lamoni, Iowa.

SAINTS AND FRIENDS:—Remember that I am still in the mail order clothing business. For years I have served you and my reputation speaks for itself. Send me your order or write for my price list. I also have two good organs for sale cheap. Address E. T. ATWELL, Cumorah, Mo.

UWANTOQUIT Using tobacco. "QUIT-TO-BAC" makes it easy to stop using it. Three boxes, postpaid, only $1.50 with POSITIVE GUARANTEE to cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST. 35TH YEAR. SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE. (INCORPORATED) East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches. Twenty Rooms, Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue. FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

CANCER CURED WITH SOOTHING BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Womb Diseases. Dr. Bye, Cor. 9th and Broadway, KANSAS CITY, MO.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT This Regular $5.00 Waterproof... Send no money. Cut this out and state your height, weight, state number of inches around body taken over vest, undercoat, sleeve, shoulder arms and we will send you this coat by express C. O. D. subject to an examination. Examine it at your nearest clothing store. If it does not represent the most wonderful bargain ever offered, we will refund and equal to any $5.00 coat on the market, plus the exact original special manufacturer's price $2.75 and express charges. THIS MACKINTOSH is the latest style, easy fitting, made from heavy waterproof fabric, genuine heavy canvas clothing; full length, double breasted, buttoned front, lined, plaid lining, waterproof, sewed in rubber, guaranteed waterproof. Built to last, and guaranteed the greatest bargain ever offered. Write for free samples of Men's Mackintoshes from $1.50 up, and guaranteed bicycle tires from $2.50 up. We can save you money. Address H. S. DILLER & CO., 305 Dearborn St., Chicago.

H. R. TIME TABLES.

Table with columns for Missouri Pacific—Main Line Depot, TRAINS WEST, TRAINS EAST, and various train numbers and destinations.

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT. TRAINS WEST. TRAINS EAST.

CHICAGO & ALTON EAST BOUND. WEST BOUND. All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on J. W. DUGAN, Agent J. Charlton, G. P. & T. Agt., Chicago.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Andrew Hilliard, youngest son of Bishop G. H. Hilliard, returned from the Philippine Islands, Saturday last.

Rebecca Jane Snider, of Kansas City, Missouri, was baptized at Independence last Sunday by Bro. B. J. Scott, and was confirmed by Bru. A. Allen and B. J. Scott.

Thursday evening the cantata of "David the Shepherd Boy," was rendered by the members of the Independence choir and chorus. Complimentary tickets were issued to all General Conference appointees. The total receipts were $85.00, which is applied to the purchase of a pipe organ for the church.

We unintentionally overlooked the mention in last week's issue of the very excellent entertainment given by the young sisters of the "Gleaners" Society, of the branch, in the auditorium of the church, Thursday evening, the 28th ult. The young people had been working very hard, and naturally were a little anxious as the eventful evening arrived, but the parts rendered showed the careful and painstaking study they had made of the work, and the audience was simply delighted with their presentation. Of course, some of the young sisters were nervous as they made their first appearance, but they managed, as they usually do, to conceal it pretty well, and rendered their program with grace and self-possession. There were piano solos, duets and a trio, vocal solos, duets and a quartet, a humorous and instructive representation of a Woman's Rights exponent, entitled "The Champion of Her Sex," who was more enthusiastic in attending club meetings than in the cares of her home. Mrs. Emma Hendrickson, Della Criley, Lottie Gould, Carrie Barbee, Anna Farrow, Hattie Luff, Andentia Hansen, and Fannie Mills doing their parts finely. Three tableaux were given which could not be surpassed in beauty, the "Rock of Ages," "Maurine" and "Gleaners." We have not space for further details. The reading of the "Gleaner's Prophecy" was entertaining. Sr. Hanson sang a solo, as did also Sr. Alice Barbee, her selection especially showing the compass of her beautiful voice. We regret that the church was not filled to enjoy this event. As it was they cleared about $35.00 which goes to the purchase of a piano for the Sunday School and Religion. The girls covered themselves with glory, and were congratulated heartily upon their success after the close of services. No applause was permitted, at their request.

Care of Plants in Spring.

"In the spring time when plants are making strong and rapid growth, particular attention should be given to training them," writes Eben E. Rexford, in the March Ladies' Home Journal. "If neglected in this respect they soon get beyond control, and the only way to bring them into subjection then is by sacrificing a good deal of the growth they have made. This there is no need of doing if the training is begun in the right way and at the right time. If a branch is inclined to out-grow others pinch off the end of it, and keep all such branches from growing by pinching until other branches have had a chance to catch up. If a plant is not bushy and compact make it so by pinching off the end of all its branches. Keep up this treatment until as many branches have started as you think the plant ought to have. If you desire a plant to grow in tree form, train it to one stalk until it reaches the height you desire, and then nip off its top and force it to branch. Save the branches at the top to form the head of the tree. If you want a shrubby plant begin the pinching process when it is small, thus forcing it to branch close to the pot. The old saying of, 'as the twig is bent the tree inclines' applies pertinently to the training of plants when in their early stages of development."

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

Conference of Spring River district convened at Webb City on the 1st of March, District President E. A. Davis in chair; T. S. Hayton, secretary; W. S. Macrae, assistant secretary.

Branches reporting: Weir City, Lamanite, Fairland, gain by baptism 3; Blendville, gain by baptism 20; Pleasant View, gain by baptism 5; Webb City, gain by baptism 9; Columbus, gain by baptism 3; Maysville and Traverse reports referred back for correction.

Ministers reporting: seventies, F. C. Keck (baptized 4), E. A. Davis, Elders, A. H. Herke, J. W. Thorpe, J. L. Lancaster, S. D. Love (baptized 2), W. S. Taylor (baptized 1), J. C. Severine, J. A. Graves, Noah Karahoo, J. T. Riley, W. E. Haden, (baptized 1), A. M. Baker (baptized 3), W. S. Macrae (baptized 1), T. S. Hayton, B. N. Sims, E. Dupue, Z. Decker, W. H. Smart, J. M. Richards, Priests, H. J. Thurman, W. B. Hillen, J. I. Young, Richard Bird. Teachers, George M. Rhonemose, L. H. McCall, V. A. Herron, George Jones, I. N. Fuller, A. P. Free, M. S. Frick, Deacons, R. J. Parker, R. O. Drake.

The district treasurer's report showed balance on hand $38.21. Audited and found correct.

The bishop's agent's report showed receipts, $674.55; paid out, $538.76; balance, $135.79. Audited and found correct.

The petition of the Saints at Galena, Kansas, for branch organization was granted, and referred to F. C. Keck, missionary, and the president of district to effect the organization.

The district secretary was authorized to have blanks printed for branch president's reports to district presidents.

The welfare of the Weir City branch was placed in the hands of the missionary in charge and the district president.

Bro. J. M. Richards was elected district president and T. S. Hayton district secretary and treasurer.

A vote of thanks was tendered ex-president of district for faithful services rendered the district.

The reunion boarding house committee was authorized to draw on the district treasurer for amount of $15.

Delegates were appointed to the General Conference.

Frank G. Christee was ordained an elder.

As a token of good will, a motion prevailed to pay out of the district treasury, the expenses of our district secretary to the General Conference. Conference adjourned to convene with the Pleasant View branch, on 7th June, 1901.

T. S. HAYTON, Sec. 1102 Bellevue St., GALENA, Kas.

Massachusetts district conference convened February 23, 1901, 2:30, at Providence, Rhode Island, chairman, F. A. Coombs, F. M. Sheehy, and G. H. Gates; clerks, M. C. Fisher and W. A. Sinclair.

All branches in district reported: Boston, 187; Brockton, 22; Cranston, 37; Dennisport, 62; Little Compton, 14; North Plymouth, 37; New Bedford, 20; Providence, 220; Plainville, 103; Fall River, 122.

Ministerial reports as follows: W. H. Kelley, F. A. Coombs, G. H. Gates, M. H. Bond, Richard Bullard, N. R. Nickerson, Geo. Burnham, Wm. Bradbury, D. F. Shaw, John Marchington.

District Treasurer R. Bullard reported: balance, $71.97; collections, $10.12; total, $82.09; expenses, $15.00; balance on hand, $67.09.

Signed by auditing committee January 14, 1901.

Bishop Bullard reported, balance due December 31, 1899, $539.75; receipts for 1900, $1356.37; total, $2896.12; expenses for 1900, $2734.34; balance on hand December 31, 1900, $161.78. Signed by auditing committee January 14, 1901.

Communication from W. H. Kelley regarding appeal of C. L. Potts from decision of Fall River branch court, and district conference, in which their decision was sustained; report adopted by the conference.

Election of officers resulted, district president, F. A. Coombs; vice president, G. H. Gates; clerks, M. C. Fisher and W. A. Sinclair; treasurer, M. C. Fisher.

Next place of meeting left to the call of the district presidency, to be published one month in advance.

Delegates to General Conference appointed.

Motion prevailed that hereafter our auditing committee audit accounts of bishop and district treasurer in advance, and have their report read at same conference at which said accounts are presented.

District clerk authorized to purchase new record books and have old ones copied into new forms, drawing on district treasurer for funds.

Motion carried that only missionaries, district officers and president of branches be required to report in writing to district conference regarding priesthood work.

R. Bullard, F. P. Busel and M. C. Fisher were instructed to purchase district tent.

New auditing committee, F. P. Busel, E. H. Fisher, and H. D. Simpson, for one year.

General and local authorities sustained.

Providence Saints given vote of thanks for entertainment of Saints during conference.

Adjourned to call of district presidency.

M. C. FISHER, Dist. Clerk.

Kirtland district conference held at Cleveland, Ohio, February 23d and 24th, 1901. In absence of district president Bro. G. T. Griffiths was chosen to preside, with F. J. Ebeling and O. B. Thomas as his assistants. In absence of district secretary Sr. Dora McFarland was elected to act pro tem.

Eben Miller and O. B. Thomas were appointed as a committee to look after the press.

The following reported: Elders, F. J. Ebeling, Richard Baldwin, John Fuller, Wm. Kimball, Charles Cramer, George E. Harrington, F. Steffe, and D. M. Strachan. Priests, W. J. Baldwin, Eben Miller, J. Hollibaugh, J. McConaughy, and Bro. Manchester. The following branches reported: Cleveland, Kirtland, Blakes Mills, Washingtonville, Youngstown, Toledo and Akron, Ohio; Coneauctville and Sharon, Pennsylvania.

Bishop's agent's report left over from last conference held at Blakes Mills, in October, 1900, to be audited; a committee of two was appointed by the chair to audit this one, and the present one. O. B. Thomas and John B. Gillespie were appointed.

Reports of Richard Baldwin and F. J. Ebeling concerning Toledo branch,

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder

Good Health depends upon the food you eat.

Adds to the healthfulness of all risen flour-foods, while it makes the food lighter, sweeter, finer-flavored, more delicious.

Exercise care in purchasing baking powder to see that you get Dr. Price's, which makes the food more wholesome and at the same time more palatable.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. CHICAGO.

NOTE.—There are many mixtures, made in imitation of baking powder, which the prudent will avoid. They are lower in price than cream of tartar powder, but they are made from alum and are dangerous to use in food.

Reunion Notice.

The undersigned committee of the Northern Missouri reunion met at the house of Bro. A. W. Head on the 22d of March, in Stewartsville, Missouri; They decided to hold the coming reunion in Stewartsville, Missouri; commencing August 16th and ending August 25th, 1901.

Watch the Herald and Ensign for further announcement of speakers and other arrangements.

- T. F. HENNING, Pres. CHAS. P. FAUL, Sec. A. W. HEAD, Com. BENJ. J. DICE, D. E. POWELL.

OVERWORK You know all about it. The rush, the worry, the exhaustion. You go about with a great weight resting upon you. You can't throw off this feeling. You are a slave to your work. Sleep fails, and you are on the verge of nervous exhaustion. What is to be done? Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla For fifty years it has been lifting up the discouraged, giving rest to the overworked, and bringing refreshing sleep to the depressed. No other Sarsaparilla approaches it. In age and in cures, "Ayer's" is "the leader of them all." It was old before other sarsaparillas were born. Ayer's Pills aid the action of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. They cure biliousness. 25 cts. a box. I have used Ayer's medicines for more than 40 years and have had from the very start that you made the best medicine in the world. I figure your Sarsaparilla saved my life when I first took it 40 years ago. I am now past 70 and am never without your medicines." FRANK THOMAS, F. M. Jan. 24, 1892. Enon, Kansas. Write the Doctor. If you have any complaint whatever and desire the best medical advice you can possibly receive, write the doctor first. You will receive a prompt reply, without cost. Address, DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

and on motion the matter was left in the hands of Bro. G. T. Griffiths to go there and look after it.

Resolved, That this conference recommend the continuation of the Youngstown and Washingtonville branches.

Bishop's agent's report then read: balance on hand at last report, $39.55; present report total, $482.31; total expenditures, $408.74; total on hand February 23, 1901, $73.37.

Bro. F. J. Ebeling, chairman of tent committee, advised that the tent be dispensed with.

Resolved, That all the money except that paid in by the Sunday Schools, be placed in the hands of the bishop's agent, and that Sunday School money be returned to schools giving the same.

Resolved, That delegates going to General Conference be instructed to work to have the next General Conference at Kirtland, and that we petition the Kirtland and surrounding districts to work in conjunction with the Kirtland branch in providing for General Conference.

The following committee was appointed by the chair to look after this matter, G. T. Griffiths, O. B. Thomas, F. J. Ebeling, and Richard Baldwin.

Resolved, That this district requests General Conference, when it adjourns, that it appoints the next General Conference at Kirtland, Ohio.

Delegates to General Conference: G. T. Griffiths, O. B. Thomas, F. J. Ebeling, Richard Baldwin, W. H. Kelley, Sr. Hattie R. Griffiths and Sr. Hanna.

Resolved, We the Saints of the Kirtland district, in conference assembled, beg leave to ask the first presidency, if it is in harmony with the Holy Spirit, to return to us as missionary in charge, our beloved and worthy brother, Gomer T. Griffiths. We are willing, however, if the Spirit direct otherwise, to forego our wish in compliance with the law of God.

The following officers were elected for next seven months: Richard Baldwin, president of district; W. J. Baldwin, sustained district secretary; Eben Miller, sustained bishop's agent.

Saturday evening 7:30, preaching by Richard Baldwin, assisted by F. J. Ebeling. Sunday morning, 9 a. m., prayer meeting; meeting in charge of George E. Harrington and F. Steffe. Sunday morning, 11 a. m., preaching by G. T. Griffiths. Sunday 2 p. m., sacrament meeting, G. T. Griffiths, O. B. Thomas and F. J. Ebeling in charge. Sunday evening, 7:30 p. m., preaching by O. B. Thomas.

Adjourned to meet with Kirtland branch the first Saturday and Sunday in October, 1901.

W. J. BALDWIN, Dist. Sec. 100 Oakland avenue, SHARON, Pa., March 5.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1901.

NUMBER 17.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box 3, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time.
If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost.
Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.
Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.
Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo

B. 12 B.

STATEMENT AND REVELATION.

Before entering further upon the business I have something to present. I spent a sleepless night. After retiring to my rest, weary, as you must know, I engaged in a season of prayer, quietly, as I had been doing all day; and I suddenly found myself very wide awake; and from that on I was, as we say, in the Spirit, the spirit of inspiration burning in my breast; and by it I was bidden to come to the house of assembly and tell what was given to me of light and instruction. I trust that it shall be so to you.

I arose in the morning early and took down the heads as they were presented to me, remembering quite well the substance of the instruction that I received; and with your permission, Brother Chairman, I will present it.

THE VACANCY IN THE PRESIDENCY.
The successor of my servant W. Blair is with the body, but the conditions are not ripe for this addition to the Presidency; but it shall be made in due time. In the meantime let the Presidency continue as at present constituted.

VACANCY IN THE TWELVE.
2. To fill this vacancy I was instructed to present the name of "my servant Peter Anderson."

EVANGELICAL MINISTERS.
3. The patriarch is an evangelical minister. The duties of this office are to be an evangelical minister; to preach, teach, expound, exhort; to be a revivalist, and to visit branches and districts as wisdom may direct, invitation, request, or the Spirit of God determine and require; to comfort the Saints; to be a father to the church; to give counsel and advice to individuals who may seek for such; to lay on hands for the conferment of spiritual blessing, and if so led, to point out the lineage of the one who is blessed.

4. He is to be free from responsibility—ministerial—as a traveling minister, and from the care of the local branch or church and district affairs. When traveling and preaching, holding revival meetings, he is to labor in connection with the branch and district officers, not subject to the ministerial control of the missionary in charge, except he should transcend his bounds and teach false doctrine or be found in transgression. He is not to meddle with branch affairs or district affairs. He is not to listen to complaints made by individuals to him, but if persons insist upon presenting their troubles, he is to request them and require them to make them in writing, signing the name, giving time, place, and character of the trouble, with the witnesses, which it will be his duty to present to the branch or district officers, as the case may require. He is not to be put in charge of either branch or district. These are the privileges which attach to the office of patriarch and evangelical minister.

5. The presiding patriarch is to be considered the first, and when patriarchs meet in council, is to preside. Besides these duties, the patriarch may meet with quorums in their quorum meetings, where he may be asked for counsel, but will not have either voice or vote, except by courtesy, having no direct control of quorums.

6. Other evangelical ministers beside the presiding patriarch have similar duties in the districts where they are appointed. Revelations have been given, as my people know, that these men should receive ordination, but hitherto those upon whom this burden has lain have neglected, for the reason that they did not understand the duties and prerogatives that attach to the office. Let my servants take heed and hesitate no longer.

RULES OF REPRESENTATION.

7. My servant was directed to present to the church rules of representation, and he so stated to the body at different times that he was so led; but the conference of my people saw proper to change those articles and rules of representation, and propositions are pending that they be still further changed. The direction of the Spirit is that they be left as they now are until such time as the increased numbers of the members of the church shall require either an enlargement of the number entitled to delegate, or that there may be a closer line drawn as to the number of delegates which the church shall require to meet.

8. The word "elders" in the law signifies those holding the Melchisedec priesthood only; all classes and orders of this priesthood are characterized by the word "elder."

9. The only qualification for delegates chosen by the branches or districts should be membership and good standing, it being given by the Spirit that those other than the eldership should be represented in this way.

STAKES.

10. My people are directed to establish two stakes; one at Independence, one at Lamoni, Iowa, organizing them after the pattern which is found in the law; a presiding high priest with counselors, a high council, and a bishop and his counselors. These stakes shall be made to comprise the boundaries of the districts as they now stand, the center at the towns and places named; and the majority of the councils that should be chosen should be residents of the places named, in order that there may ever be a sufficient body to transact the business required.

TRACTS.

11. It is the duty of the church to provide tracts in the Scandinavian, German, Chinese, Japanese, and Portuguese languages, and others as the missions may require; these tracts to be written by those in the ministry and those of the brothers who are not of the ministry who have a talent for writing, and to be submitted to the presidency before being published. They should be short, clearly stated, and a sufficient number should be printed to furnish the traveling ministry with the quantities desirable for them to distribute.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

12. The missions abroad other than those in the land of Joseph which were opened officially during the lifetime of the martyrs shall be considered as having been opened unto us, whether they were at once undertaken and prosecuted during the lifetime of the martyrs, or whether subsequent to their death they were prosecuted in righteousness—wherever they were sent. Other missions not thus opened, it will be requisite that the Twelve shall either go, or in the exercise of their missionary authority send, as provided in the law, of the seventy.

APOSTLE PETER ANDERSON.

13. For prosecuting the work in two of these missions, this is offered and directed: Send the Bishop to England with my servant Gomer T. Griffiths, to aid in arranging the affairs of the church there, organizing the ministry locally, and determining what help in the missionary field may be required from America. Authorize the selection and the ordination of a high priest to officiate in the office of bishop in England, that it may be accomplished as soon as practicable and without fail, in answer to the request made by my servants in that land. Authorize the patriarch, as one of the presidency, to visit Australia and the islands of the sea, the Society Islands, authorizing him to assist the authorities there in arranging their missionary labor by his advice, and also selecting and ordaining a high priest to act in the office of bishop, carrying with him the authority of the conference.

14. Branches and districts are to be conducted according to the rules given in the law as directed in a former revelation: They shall take the things which have been given unto them as my law to the church to be my law to govern my church. And these affairs are not to be conducted by manifestations of the Spirit unless these directions and manifestations come through the regularly authorized officers of branch or district. If my people will respect the officers whom I have called and set in the church, I will respect these officers; and if they do not, they cannot expect the riches of gifts and the blessings of direction.

15. Prophecy over them that are sick in administering to them, has been a fruitful source of trouble among my people. They must observe that this they are not required to do except there be a direct manifestation of the Spirit which may direct it. Pray over the sick, anoint them with oil, as commanded in the law, and leave them in my hands, that the Spirit may deal with them according to my wisdom. Many spiritual manifestations have been had. Some of these have been false, and under the operation of the law which I gave many, many years ago, those who make these false presentations are not to be feared among my people. They are not justified in permitting their human sympathies to overcome that which has been written in my scriptures. The spirit of the prophets is subject to the prophets.

16. The college debt should be paid, and ministers going out from the conferences held by the elders of my church, are not expected or authorized to throw obstacles in the way of the accomplishment of that which has been intrusted to the bishopric to pay this great debt. Their right to free speech, their right to liberty of conscience, does not permit them as individuals to frustrate the commands of the body in conference assembly. They are sent out as ministers to preach the gospel, and their voices, if opposed to what may be presented to the conference, should be heard in the conferences, and not in the mission fields, to prevent the accomplishment of the object with which the officers of the church have been intrusted.

These things, brethren, were given unto me in the light of a quickened mind; and all through the night I was blessed in the Spirit, though weary in body. They are with you.

The above was presented by President Joseph Smith, Monday afternoon, after the opening of the business session.

FORTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

[CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK.]

TUESDAY, APRIL 16TH.

At 2 p. m. the business was opened by prayer by Bro. H. O. Smith, President Joseph Smith in the chair. Because of a funeral being held in the lower auditorium, singing was dispensed with.

Minutes of Monday's session were read and approved.

Motion prevailed that no new business be received after two o'clock Wednesday.

The Third Quorum of elders reported sermons preached 2,015, baptisms 88, confirmations 90, administrations 1,350, children blessed 65, marriages 32. Twelve new members have been received. The quorum is now full.

The following was offered by Bro. Ellis Short:

WHEREAS, In the past the auditing of the accounts of the Bishop, Herald office, ENSIGN, and other church accounts has given rise to confusion and dissatisfaction, also that the Bishopric may be protected, and the body made secure, we move you, That the presiding bishop, in connection with the other bishops in the church, be authorized by this conference to employ a thoroughly competent auditor, whose duties it shall be: First, To audit the books and accounts of all bishops, Herald office, ENSIGN, college, and all other general church accounts that do now, or may hereafter, exist. Second, To report regularly to the general conference of work done by him, and condition of all church accounts, making such suggestions as to improvements of the different accounts kept as may be seen necessary. This will not absolve the Bishop and others from making a financial report which must be certified to by the auditor, before it is presented to the general conference.

It was moved to lay on the table, 94 favor, 101 against. Motion denied. The original motion was spoken to by Bro. E. D. Bailey (favor), J. R. Lambert (against), E. Short (for), C. Scott (against).

G. H. Hilliard offered an amendment as follows:

Insert after the word auditor, the words, "who shall be approved by the general conference."

The amendment was spoken to by Bro. J. W. Wight and C. J. Spurlock.

A substitute was offered, placing the right of appointing an auditor in the hands of the Twelve. The chair ruled the substitute out of order until the amendment was disposed of.

The amendment was then spoken to by Bro. A. M. Chase, J. A. Robinson, E. L. Kelly, Joseph Luff, G. H. Hilliard, R. S. Salyards and W. E. Peak. Previous question being called and affirmed the amendment was put upon its passage; prevailed 177 to 37. The motion as thus amended was then presented and failed 79 for, 139 against.

The following resolution was then offered and discussed:

WHEREAS, We have two reports from the auditing committee on the Herald office accounts; and

WHEREAS, The majority report is, we believe, correct, and contains all that is necessary, therefore be it

Resolved, That we adopt this report as the sense of this body.

The majority report was called for and read, including the detailed statement, submitted with their report. The minority report was also called for and read. Some discussion ensued, and previous question was moved and carried. The resolution was then put upon its passage and prevailed 100 for and 63 against. A motion to discharge the committee was affirmed.

Report of committee to which was referred the matter of Grand Rapids, Michigan, was read, and was, on motion, adopted.

To the Conference:—In the matter of the Grand Rapids branch, vs. G. A. Smith and W. E. Peak referred to the quorum of the Twelve. The quorum, after careful examination, adopted the following, which is hereby submitted for consideration.

WHEREAS, The complainants in the case of Grand Rapids branch, vs. G. A. Smith, of the high priests' quorum, and W. E. Peak, of the first quorum of seventy, are not present to prosecute the case, and

WHEREAS, The defendants deny the correctness of some of the allegations as set forth in the appeal, we therefore recommend that the complaint be dismissed, and the question of branch organization be referred to the missionary in charge of Michigan, and that if any have complaint against the ministerial conduct of Elders G. A. Smith and W. E. Peak, they be instructed to present their complaints to the quorums of which these brethren are members.

H. C. SMITH, Sec. Quorum.

The summarized report of Board of Publication was read.

A motion that a two-thirds majority is required to secure previous question, was tabled.

Report from second quorum of seventy was read: 49 members in quorum, 6530 sermons, 325 baptisms, 207 confirmations, 2616 administrations to sick, 275 children blessed, 61 ordinations.

Report of high priests' quorum read: 52 members present, 5295 sermons, 289 baptisms, 430 confirmations, 296 children blessed, 103 ordinations, 3926 administrations, 68 marriages, 9 bishops, 3 acting as bishops' counselors, 27 have acted as district presidents, and 38 as branch president.

Report of committee on vocabulary of Book of Mormon names was read. Question as to ownership of the manuscript, and finally agreed that the Board of Publication could decide upon that point, and a motion referring it to such board was affirmed. Doxology sung and benediction by President Smith.

At 7:30 p. m. services opened by singing hymn 171, "Beyond the glittering, starry sky," prayer was offered by Elder I. N. Roberts. Hymn 165, "Where wilt thou put thy trust," was sung, and Elder D. W. Wight was presented as the speaker of the evening. He chose no particular passage as a starting point, but expressed himself as having a special desire that what may be said should be truth. He was more and more convinced in his experience that truth is to be sought for, and no matter what might be our positions in the matter, the truth cannot be shaken. He was pleased with the statement of the brother who occupied on the previous evening on some lines, that his mind was open to receive light. He believed that the individual who desired light and humbly sought for it, would be placed where he might receive it. He also agreed with the brother that mere numbers would not affect the truth. In the outset of his remarks he wished to lay down one proposition as a basis upon which to build his argument, and that is, that truth always harmonizes with itself. He continued:

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17TH.

The prayer service, at 9 a. m., was in charge of Elder Chas. Albertson and A. J. Layland, both of the Rocky Mountain mission. The time was well occupied; a number of prayers were offered especially in behalf of those who had sent in petitions for prayer. The testimonies were expressive of faith in God and His work; how He had heard and answered earnest prayers, in time of need.

At 10:45, Elder J. M. Terry opened the service. Hymn 92 was sung and after prayer the congregation joined in singing number 12, and Bro. J. M. Baker was introduced as the speaker. Business session opened promptly at 2 p. m., with President Joseph Smith in the chair, sang hymn 53; prayer offered by Elder J. R. Lambert, of the apostles. Minutes of Tuesday's session read and approved.

The secretary announced that the reports of the quorums were in his hands, regarding the communication received from the Presidency, and these reports were presented in the following order:

Presidency.—A. H. Smith reported as follows:

The articles presented were considered by the quorum of the first Presidency and adopted as the instructions of the Spirit of God for us in our labors and the government of the church.

The Twelve reported as follows:

INDEPENDENCE, Mo.,
April 17, 1901.

Resolved, That the communication presented to the body by President Joseph Smith and referred to us for quorum action thereon, be endorsed by us as containing inspirational instruction suited to the present necessities of the church, and that as such we honor it, and endeavor to make it efficient for good by faithful observance of its requirements.

Respectfully submitted,

HEMAN C. SMITH,
Secretary of quorum.

The High Priests.—President Chas. Derry, on behalf of the quorum, reported that the quorum have accepted the revelation from God.

The first Seventy reported as follows:

At a meeting of the first quorum of Seventy, held this day, the communication read by President Smith on yesterday, was read, taken up paragraph by paragraph, each paragraph adopted unanimously, after which the following passed the quorum by unanimous vote:

Resolved, That we as a quorum accept this communication as a whole, as the voice of the Spirit to the church, and that we hereby adopt it as a rule of action, and comply with its recommendations. Also the president and secretary are hereby authorized to report our action to General Conference.

DUNCAN CAMPBELL, Pres.

GOMER R. WELLS, Sec. pro tem.

The second Seventy reported as follows: The document entitled, "Statement and Revelation," was presented to the second quorum of Seventy for their consideration in quorum capacity, at 10 o'clock this date. It was taken up by motion and considered paragraph by paragraph, and thus adopted; after which, it was adopted as a whole for what it purports to be, a "statement" by the president of the church, and a "revelation" from God. The adoption as a whole was unanimous.

Elders' quorum reported as follows:

The several elders' quorums met in joint session this (April 17) a. m., and examined the "Statement and Revelation" given by the president of the church. Action was had as follows:

Moved that paragraphs 1-16 of this document be accepted as a revelation from God, and a law to govern the church. Carried unanimously.

ALFRED WHITE, Chas.
J. D. WHITE, Sec.

Bishopric.—Reported by G. H. Hilliard.

The Bishopric accepted it as a revelation and instruction from God to assist us in our present condition, and to guide us in future, and we are pleased and thankful to receive it.

Priests, teachers and deacons reported as follows:

The priests, teachers, and deacons met in joint session and considered the "Statement and Revelation" as presented to the assembly by President Joseph Smith, and by unanimous vote accepted and acknowledged same as revelation and direction.

D. J. KRAHL, Act'g. Pres.
A. B. HANSON, Act'g. Sec.

The following resolution was presented:

Resolved, That the communication from the Lord, as presented to the assembly, Monday, April 15th, by President Joseph Smith, be accepted as a revelation and instruction, and is hereby adopted as a law to govern the church, and the Board of Publication is hereby instructed to publish the same in the book of Doctrine and Covenants.

An amendment was offered to strike out the words "from the Lord." This was denied. This was followed by the following substitute:

Resolved, That the communication presented to us by President Joseph Smith, April 15, 1901, be endorsed by us as containing divine instruction, suited to the present necessities of the church, and that we endeavor to faithfully observe its requirements.

This being put upon its passage was also denied. The original motion was then put and carried.

The following also prevailed:

Resolved, That the communication received by the president of the church, as a revelation from God and endorsed by the church, be published in book of Doctrine and Covenants form, and sent to subscribers of the Saints' Herald.

This was amended by adding "and the ENSIGN," making the resolution read, "and sent to subscribers of the Saints' Herald and ENSIGN."

Committee on resolutions of condolence, on death of M. Peter Hansen, in Norway, reported as follows:

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT AND CONDOLENCE.

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Master, in His infinite wisdom, to remove from our ranks, by death, Bro. M. P. Hansen, who was appointed by the last General Conference, to labor in the Scandinavian Mission; and

WHEREAS, He died at his post and endeavoring to establish the work he loved, therefore,

Resolved, We hereby express our appreciation of his effort, his love, and readiness to sacrifice for the truth, and extend our heartfelt sympathy to bereaved ones, praying our heavenly Father to bless and comfort them in their affliction, and that we, with them, may so live as to be worthy of a grand and happy reunion in the day of the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

SWEN SWENSON,
JOHN WAHLSTROM,
PETER ANDERSON.

A motion that the president provide for the ordination of Bro. Peter Anderson as a member of the quorum of Twelve, that he may act for his quorum, prevailed unanimously. The ordination of Jacob Hansen, as counselor to the president of the fourth quorum of deacons, was referred to missionary in charge.

The ordination of Brn. Peter Anderson and John B. Roush were then performed, President Joseph Smith being spokesman for Bro. Anderson of the Twelve, and Apostle W. H. Kelley, president of the quorum of Twelve, was spokesman for Bro. Roush as high priest. It was a solemn and impressive occasion.

A petition from Bro. E. C. Briggs, asking that he be restored to his rights in his quorum, the High Council session of 1900 having established his release from disabilities. His correspondence with his quorum was also read. A motion to refer to the quorum of Twelve was offered and discussed, as was also a resolution to refer back to the petitioner for completion, the latter resolution to refer to Bro. Briggs, prevailed by a vote of 231 for, and three against.

On motion Bishop E. L. Kelley was permitted to add a statement, made at a previous session, regarding auditing of his books.

Elder Briggs having completed and returned his petition to the secretary, a motion was offered that the matter be referred to a committee of six, composed of two high priests, two seventy, and two bishops, appointed by the chair.

A substitute was offered to refer the matter to the High Council.

The reading of the completed petition was called for and it was so read.

A motion to indefinitely postpone was denied.

The following was offered as a substitute:

Resolved, That as it appears from the statements of the petition of Elder E. C. Briggs, that reconciliation and adjustment between himself and the quorum of the Twelve cannot be effected, and inasmuch as the General Conference is not empowered to reinstate him in his quorum, contrary to its will, without reconciliation, it is the sense of this body that the petition and the decision on which it is based, be referred for settlement to an assembly of the quorums as provided in the law.

A motion, that the matter be referred to a general assembly, lie on the table, prevailed. Previous question being called and affirmed, the resolution to refer the matter to the High Council was put upon its passage and was affirmed by a vote of 173 to 44. A motion that this Conference provide for the organization of the stakes referred to in the late revelation, and that it be made the special order for tomorrow. A substitute was offered that the matter of organization of the stakes referred to in the "Statement and Revelation," be referred to the Presidency, the Twelve, the High Council, and the Bishopric, to organize as may be found practicable.

On motion privilege was granted the elders of the Church of Christ (Hedrickites), to continue the representation of their views before the Conference.

Adjournment was then taken, hymn 216 was sung, benediction by President Joseph Smith.

At 7:30 p. m. services were in charge of Elder J. N. Ames, who offered the opening prayer, after which Elder T. J. Sheldon was presented as the speaker. His subject was two prophets which should do a work in the latter days based upon the text found in Isaiah 1: 27, 28.

THURSDAY, APRIL 18TH.

The morning prayer service was in charge of Brn. D. J. Metcalf and E. H. Durand. The morning sermon was by Elder H. E. Moler. Hymn 128 was sung, and prayer offered by Bro. Taylor. Bro. Moler selected as his text, Matt. 6: 19-21.

The business session began its proceedings at 2 p. m., with President Joseph Smith in the chair. Hymn 98 was sung. Prayer by Elder H. J. Hudson. Minutes of Wednesday's session were read and approved.

Secretary then read a report from the presidents of Seventy:

The presidents of Seventy have held eleven meetings. All the members of the council present, viz., D. Campbell, C. Scott, James McKiernan, J. C. Foss, H. O. Smith, J. F. Minton and W. E. Peak.

Various matters were presented and considered by us. The following items of business transacted by us are of interest to the church:

A committee has been appointed to prepare a history of the council for the benefit of the Historical Department of church.

In pursuance of our duties as pointed out in the law we have considered names of elders and selected for ordination to the office of Seventy a number which will be presented to the conference for approval by the quorum to which they have been assigned. During the eleven sessions held by us the Spirit of peace and unity prevailed.

DUNCAN CAMPBELL, Pres.,
C. SCOTT, Sec.,
J. F. MINTON, Ass't. Sec.

A report of the First Quorum of Seventy was read as follows:

INDEPENDENCE, Mo.,
April 18, 1901.

To General Conference Assembled, Greeting:—Since the convening of this conference the First Quorum of Seventy has held seven sessions, beside one joint session with the second Seventy, with thirty-seven members present. Fifty-nine of the quorum have reported and the total items of labor are as follows:

Whole number of services attended 11,265; sermons preached, 6,420; assisted, 1,933; other services held, 1,805; baptisms, 319; confirmations, 311; assisted to confirm, 175; ordained 1 Seventy, 13 elders, 13 priests, 10 teachers, 13 deacons; 1 district organized, 9 branches, 7 Sunday Schools, 2 Religios; solemnized 56 marriages; blessed 275 children; administered to sick 2,448 times. At the beginning of our sessions the quorum numbered 63; we have lost one member since by call to the apostles' quorum, viz., Bro. Peter Anderson, making the present number 62. On April 18th the following eight names of elders were presented to the quorum by the presidents of Seventy for ordination to the office of Seventy, to become members of the first Seventy: 1, Oscar Case; 2, W. S. Macrae; 3, A. M. Baker; 4, Richard Baldwin; 5, W. J. Haworth; 6, Romanan Wight; 7, L. E. Hills; 8, S. O. Foss. These names were duly considered, and the recommendations of the presidents concurred in. By order of the quorum they are now presented to the body for consideration, and provision for their ordination is asked for.

Respectfully submitted,
DUNCAN CAMPBELL, Pres.,
G. R. WELLS, Sec.

The following resolution was offered and prevailed:

Resolved, That the recommendation of the Seventy be approved, and the ordinations provided for.

The following from the Second Quorum of Seventy was presented:

INDEPENDENCE, Mo.,
April 18, 1901.

Presidency and Brethren, Greeting:—The Second Quorum of Seventy have recommended the following named elders for ordination to the office of Seventy in the second quorum, and we were authorized to present them to your honorable body for consideration, and if accepted by the brethren named, we request that their ordination be provided for by the conference. Their names are: 1, E. A. Erwin, Texas; 2, Eli Hayer, Iowa; 3, J. W. Rushton, Scotland;

4, J. M. Stubbart, Iowa; 5, Wm. Aylor, Missouri; 6, G. W. Thorburn, Iowa; 7, J. R. Sutton, Iowa.

C. SCOTT, Pres.,
H. E. MOLIER, Sec.

The following prevailed:

Resolved, That the recommendations of the Second Seventy be approved, and the ordinations provided for.

A motion prevailed as follows:

Resolved, That those recommended by the Second Seventy not present be referred to the missionary in charge in their respective fields.

Report from the First Quorum of Priests was read, and on motion the selection of Bro. J. J. Luff as second counsellor to the president of the quorum was approved, and his ordination ordered provided for.

Report of committee on appeal of Bro. W. C. Duncan, vs. Stewartville, Missouri, branch, and Far West, Missouri, district reported adversely to Bro. Duncan, recommending that the decision of the Stewartville branch be sustained, and that the settlement of the matter be referred to the Stewartville branch under the direction of the missionary in charge.

A motion to adopt the report and recommendations of the committee was submitted and discussed.

A motion to refer back to the committee for further consideration was made and also discussed.

A substitute that this matter be referred to the missionary in charge was offered and affirmed.

A motion to take up the subject matter referred to in Herald of December 12, 1900, regarding amendment of rules for elders' courts prevailed.

The adoption of amendments as read and to take action upon each paragraph separately was moved.

The following motion was offered, that the matter under consideration be deferred and made the special order for the 3d day of the next General Conference. Discussion was had on the motion to defer, and being voted upon was affirmed.

At this point of the proceedings hymn 77 was sung and the ordinations of those selected for the seventy was called up: Bishop Ellis short having chosen Bro. Earl D. Bailey and Albert L. Newton as his counsellors, a motion that they be now ordained prevailed.

The exercises were in charge of Apostle W. H. Kelley, he choosing as his assistants, J. H. Lake, Duncan Campbell, J. R. Lambert, C. Scott, I. N. White, J. C. Foss, R. C. Evans and W. E. Peak. The candidates were called to the platform and were ordained in the following order, the first named party officiating respectively being spokesman:

Washington S. Macrae, seventy, by J. R. Lambert and C. Scott.

Arthur M. Baker, seventy, by R. C. Evans and W. E. Peak.

Wm. M. Aylor, seventy, by I. N. White and J. C. Foss.

Elam A. Erwin, seventy, by Duncan Campbell and J. H. Lake.

Richard Baldwin, seventy, by Columbus Scott and J. R. Lambert.

L. E. Hills, seventy, by W. E. Peak and R. C. Evans.

Romanian Wight, seventy, by J. H. Lake and Duncan Campbell.

Samuel O. Foss, seventy, by J. C. Foss and I. N. White.

James M. Stubbart, seventy, by Duncan Campbell and J. H. Lake.

Earl D. Bailey, first counsellor to Bishop Ellis Short, by R. C. Evans and J. R. Lambert.

Albert L. Newton, second counsellor to Bishop Short, by Duncan Campbell and W. E. Peak.

John Joseph Luff, second counsellor to president of first quorum of priests, by I. N. White and J. C. Foss.

George Thorburn, seventy, by J. R. Lambert and Warren E. Peak.

The High Council was called to meet in case assigned them by this conference; and Bro. A. J. Moore, M. H. Bond and F. M. Sheehy, high priests, were selected to complete the council for this case and on motion approved by the conference, the regular members of the council to that number being absent.

Report from joint council of Presidency and Twelve was read, and its adoption moved, and affirmed. It is as follows:

INDEPENDENCE, MO.,
April 18, 1901.

To the Conference:—The following resolutions were this day adopted in a joint council of the Presidency and Twelve, and are presented to the body subject to its action.

1. Resolved, That it is the sense of this council that an elders' quorum should be organized in British Isles.

2. Resolved, That it is the sense of this council that all the elders in the British Isles, who may so choose, are eligible for enrollment in a quorum there, and that notice of such enrollment made to quorum authorities in America, will authorize their names being dropped from such record.

3. Resolved, That it is the sense of this council that the missionary in charge and the bishop, if deemed wise, and desired on the part of the European Conference, be authorized to organize the lesser priesthood of that country into quorums.

Respectfully submitted,
HEMAN C. SMITH, Sec.

Amendments were made and adjournment was taken to regular order. Doxology was sung and benediction given by President Smith.

The evening service was in charge of Elder J. C. Clapp, hymn No. 60 was sung, prayer by Elder Clapp. Elder John R. Haldeman, of the Church of Christ, was presented as the speaker of the evening. He prefaced his discourse by expressing his pleasure at having the privilege of addressing those before him, which would be increased if all were able to see alike and work together in the great cause of salvation. Without taking a text he began his reply to the effort of Elder D. W. Wight, Tuesday evening.

FRIDAY, APRIL 19TH.

The morning prayer service was in charge of Bro. W. M. Self and Wm. Mannering.

At 10:45 Bro. V. M. Goodrich introduced the service by announcing hymn 16, and after prayer No. 72 was sung with spirit and feeling, when Bro. J. F. Mintun was introduced, who read 1 John 4: 15-17; with which he associated John 14: 20.

The business session was opened promptly at two o'clock, with President Joseph Smith in the chair. Hymn 62, "God is wisdom, God is love," was sung. The invocation was offered by Elder F. E. Cohrt. Minutes of yesterday's session were read.

Bro. Joseph Luff submitted to the conference the name of A. B. Hanson for ordination to the office of elder. His ordination was moved by Bishop E. L. Kelley and Apostle J. R. Lambert. The vote was unanimous.

Bishop Kelley stated that Bishop R. Bullard, of the Massachusetts district, had chosen Bro. M. H. Bond and G. H. Gates, as his counsellors, and moved that their ordination be provided for. This prevailed unanimously.

The Second Quorum of Seventy made a report recommending Elder Peter Muceus for ordination to the office of Seventy. The report was on motion adopted, and the ordination of Bro. Muceus ordered provided for.

The High Priests quorum presented additional report. It is as follows:

We are authorized by the quorum to present the following additional report:

On April 11, 1901, Bro. Charles Derry presented the following paper: "To my Brethren of the High Priests Quorum, Greeting:—My beloved brethren in Christ, believing that the time is now come when, because of increased disabilities, on account of increasing years, and because of the demands which are and must be made upon the quorum of high priests as one of the very important quorums of the church, and in order that the quorum may be brought up to that state of efficiency demanded by the great Master and His church, in order that the several members may be fitted for the high and responsible duties devolving upon them, I feel it my duty to resign my position as president of the quorum, in order that a more competent man may be selected for that office. I take this opportunity of handing to you this, my resignation, in the hope that you will accept it, and release me from a position which I feel that every year renders me less capable of filling. My desire for the welfare of the work of God should exceed all desire for personal honor, and I hope it always will do, as I believe it does at the present time. You have patiently borne with my incompetency for years. Nor, do I know of any instance in which you have expressed disapprobation because of the same. And now, thinking you with all my heart for your forbearance and patience with me, a 1d asking you to forgive my impatience, I pray God to guide in the choice and appointment of a presiding officer in my stead, and remain with brotherly love,

"Your fellow laborer,
"CHAS. DERRY."

This paper was duly considered by the quorum and finally accepted. The matter of a successor was made the subject of fervent prayer, and we are herewith authorized to present the name of Bro. F. G. Pitt for ordination as president of the High Priests' quorum, and F. A. Smith as first counsellor and T. W. Williams as second counsellor. We respectfully request that provisions be made for their ordination.

By order of the High Priests' Quorum,
C. E. BUTTERWORTH, Pres. pro tem.
F. B. BLAIR, Asst. Sec. pro tem.

The report was on motion adopted, and the ordinations asked for, ordered provided for. Report of Fifth Quorum of elders read. Received reports from 81 members, attended 6,280 services, preached 2,768 sermons, assisted 1,484 times, held 1,209 other services, baptized 229, confirmed 206, assisted to confirm 143, have organized 1 branch, 12 Sunday Schools, 1 Religio district, and one local Religio, 41 marriages, 81 children blessed, administered to sick 3,132 times.

Fourth quorum of priests reported sermons 196, baptized 6, administered sacrament 59 times, prayer meetings presided over 253, preaching 245, families 304, marriages solemnized 3.

Fourth quorum of elders. Fifty brethren have reported a total of 2,224 sermons; 1,483 other services, 79 baptisms, confirmed 80, assisted 68 times, ordained 11, assisted to ordain 20, blessed 182 children, administered to 1,750 sick, married 33 couples. Fifteen of our members were in the general missionary field the past year, and still desire to be the coming year. This report was on motion referred back to the quorum for further consideration of the case of aged Bro. Joseph Westwood, of Independence, who had been dropped for failure to report.

An additional report from Second quorum of elders was read. Two of number ordained to Seventy, Bro. O. Case and Romanian Wight. 11 received into the quorum.

Daughters of Zion reported that they had held two meetings during the sessions of conference. The first one was informal in its nature, the sisters expressing continued interest and confidence in the usefulness and mission of the organization. The second meeting was the annual one for business. Reports read were encouraging, and the prospects for advancement of the movement are very gratifying. The Advisory Board as at present constituted was re-elected for the coming year. The recording secretary and the treasurer of the organization were also continued. Signed by Mrs. M. E. Hulmes, president, Audencia Anderson, secretary pro tem.

The following report of the General Sunday School Association was read as follows:

Reporting for the General Sunday School Association as per resolutions adopted by a previous General Conference we beg to state,

That we met in General Convention on the morning of April 4th and continued until the morning of the 6th of April, holding in all seven sessions of interest and profit to Sunday School workers. Various matters of importance were decided for the good of the work, including the question of the adoption of lesson texts for the coming year for the quarterlies. Earnest, brotherly discussions, but no contention, marked the different sessions.

The statistical report of membership show 53 districts organized into the district associations, having a total of 350 schools and a membership of nearly 10000.

The report of our treasurer shows the association to be out of debt and a comfortable working balance on hand. The convention elected officers for the coming year as follows: general superintendent, T. A. Hougas, Henderson, Iowa; assistant superintendent, J. A. Gunsolley, Lamoni, Iowa; second assistant superintendent, Geo. Gates, Providence, Rhode Island; general secretary, D. J. Kralh, Lamoni, Iowa; treasurer, John Smith, Lamoni, Iowa; librarian, Samuel Burgess, St. Louis, Missouri.

The second quorum of priests reported 41 members in quorum, five having been ordained elders during the year; 32 members of the quorum have reported, but many reports are indefinite and incomplete so that the items given do not represent all the work done by members of the quorum. Services, 1635; 419 sermons; 421 assisted; other services, 342; baptized, 25; visited, 496.

A letter of appreciation in the appointment of a bishop for Great Britain, signed by C. H. Caton and W. Ecclestone, was received and ordered spread upon the minutes.

The following from the quorum of Twelve was read and its adoption affirmed.

I am authorized to report that at a joint council of the First Presidency and quorum of Twelve, held this 11th day of April, 1901, the following resolution was adopted.

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this council that Sashdrin's Banner be published."
[Signed] HEMAN C. SMITH, Sec.

The proposed amendment of section 99, "Rules of Order" relating to the calling of the previous question by a two-thirds vote, was, on motion, deferred until the General Conference of 1902.

The matter of the organizing of the stakes appointed by the late revelation was called up and the resolution to refer the matter to the Presidency, Twelve, High Council and Bishopric to be completed when practicable, was sought to be amended by striking out the words, "Twelve, High council and Bishopric," leaving the matter in the hands of the Presidency to complete.

A substitute was offered that the matter of organization of stakes be referred to the Presidency and Twelve, and they be authorized to proceed. This unanimously prevailed.

President E. L. Kelley took the chair. The resolution relative to the appointment of an auditor for bishop's accounts, and of a committee of three auditors, were presented and the following moved:

Resolved, That the Presidency in council with the Twelve and the Bishop of the church appoint a board of auditors, composed of three well qualified for the work, whose duty shall be to examine and audit the finances of the bishop's office from January 10, 1900, and report the same to the General Conference of 1902.

Amendment was offered striking out the words "well qualified for the work." This, on vote, carried. The motion as amended was then voted upon and affirmed.

It was moved that the same committee audit the accounts of the Herald office, Graeland College and ENSIGN accounts. This was amended by striking out the words, "Herald office and ENSIGN office," and substitute the words "the board of publication." The amendment carried as did the resolution thus amended.

The following report on boundary lines was presented and, on vote, adopted.

By action of our district conferences held in our respective districts, we were requested to present their action in regard to boundary line, and respectfully request you to ratify the same.

At their last conference they voted to change the boundary line as follows:

WHEREAS, the Platte river has heretofore been the boundary line, it be now changed to the south line of Sarry, Saunders, Butler and Polk counties, as the dividing line between the Northern Nebraska district, and the Southern Nebraska district.

FRED A. SMITH, Pres. Northern Neb. Dist. J. W. WALDSMITH, Pres. Southern Neb. Dist.

A resolution for the appointment of a committee to select two hundred additional hymns, and form hymnal No. 2, or to add to the present book and call it hymnal No. 1 and 2, was briefly discussed. The resolution is as follows:

WHEREAS, The needs of the work demands an enlargement of the Hymnal, therefore be it.

Resolved, That there be a committee appointed who shall be authorized to make suitable selections from the Harmony, or other sources, to the number of 200 or 250 hymns, words and music combined, and these numbers be printed and issued as hymnal No. 2, or be combined with the present publication and issued as Nos. 1 and 2 combined, and the publishing committee be authorized to issue as soon as practicable.

Upon being put to vote it was denied by a vote of 36 for and 136 against.

The matter of authorizing the Bishop to accompany Elder G. T. Griffiths to England, and A. H. Smith to Australia and Society Islands, for the work to be done there, as instructed in the late revelation, was taken up and a motion that the parties named be authorized to so act, prevailed.

The following was moved:

That when a member applies for a letter of removal, in order to unite with any other branch, said letter shall be granted, or if objection be made, that steps be taken to deal with the member as the law directs as soon as practicable.

A motion that the committee appointed to audit Bishop's accounts, also audit accounts of Herald, Autumn Leaves, Graceland College and ENSIGN accounts, was amended by striking out Herald, Autumn Leaves and ENSIGN accounts, and inserting Board of Publication accounts.

The following was moved and discussed:

That all advertisements by specialists and of patent medicine, be kept out of our paper, Zion's ENSIGN.

A motion to refer this matter to Board of Publication prevailed by a vote of 109 favor, 71 negative.

The following from Elder T. A. Hougas, general superintendent Sunday School Association, was read as an item of interest to the traveling ministry:

To the brethren laboring under Conference appointment, we wish to call your attention once more to the offer we made last year to furnish the Gospel Quarterly free to all missionaries laboring under General Conference appointment, if wanted for their individual use.

But to get the benefit of this, it will be necessary to make your desires known to the general superintendent, as the business manager of the Herald office has no instructions to furnish free Quarterlies to any one. We make this offer because we want you to have the Quarterly, and have it on time; and not all of our missionaries are situated at all times as to be able to send for them. Again, we believe the General Association is well able to do this. If you wish the senior Quarterly for the next Conference year, write your name and field address on a card and send the general superintendent, T. A. Hougas, Henderson, Iowa, stating what it is for, and your name will be placed on the free list. We say field address because this class of mail matter cannot be forwarded, and it is to you that we are sending it for use in your field. Should you lose my address you will find it in every issue of the Herald at the head of the Sunday School department. You may have either grade you wish, but unless otherwise instructed, we will send the senior.

Many have had their names on this list for the past year, but it will be necessary for them to renew their request, as we do not carry the list beyond the Conference year. The list is set to terminate with the second quarter of each year, no matter when you start in. We trust that no one who needs the Quarterly will hesitate to write us about it.

T. A. HOU GAS.

Items of business for Saturday's session were read, and President Joseph Smith, resuming charge, addressed the assembly about twenty-five minutes. Hymn 51 was sung, benediction by President Smith.

The evening service was in charge of President A. H. Smith. Hymn No. 109 was sung, prayer by President Smith. Hymn 161 was sung, and Elder David Wight was presented as the speaker of the evening.

SATURDAY, APRIL 20TH.

The morning prayer service was in charge of Bro. J. A. Tanner and W. H. Perse. It was spiritual and edifying. The Patriarch spoke in words of inspiration to the edification of all.

The morning sermon was by Bro. F. B. Blair, assisted in the stand by Bro. T. W. Williams. Hymns 28 and 211 were sung, and prayer offered by Bro. Williams. Bro. Blair read as a lesson and text Alma 3: 8 Book of Mormon, and with this selected John 6: 44. He spoke feelingly on the theme of the baptism of the Spirit, and warned against extreme ideas on this subject. We regret our lack of space forbids an insertion of even an excerpt of this sermon as it was very edifying.

Closed by singing 228, and benediction by Bro. T. W. Williams.

Business session was opened promptly at 2 p. m. by President Joseph Smith, hymn 123 was sung, prayer by Elder I. N. White. Minutes of last session read and approved. The report of the standing High Council in the petition of E. C. Briggs, referred to it, was read. The report is as follows:

To the General Conference Assembled. Greeting:—Herewith I return the petition of Elder E. C. Briggs referred to us with our report thereon. The council was polled and all voted yes.

R. M. ELVIN. INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Apr. 20, '01. INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Apr. 20, '01.

To the General Conference Assembled, Greeting:—The High Council to which the "appeal" of Elder E. C. Briggs, of the Twelve, to be reinstated in the Quorum of Twelve for quorum privileges, was referred by action of conference, herewith report: That after hearing the statements of Elder H. C. Smith on the part of the Twelve, and of Elder E. C. Briggs on his own behalf, and Elder T. W. Chaburn as counsel on behalf of Elder Briggs, and an examination of the papers submitted to the council by conference, took the matter submitted into consideration, as follows:

First, Was the action of the High Council in the case of J. A. Grant and P. M. Cooper vs. E. C. Briggs, brought before it at the April session of conference of 1900, a discharge from the charges against Elder Briggs.

Second, Are the statement and apology of Elder E. C. Briggs as made to the quorum of Twelve and submitted to the conference in the petition of Elder E. C. Briggs, a sufficient confession and apology.

Third, Has the council the authority to order that Elder E. C. Briggs be restored to quorum privileges upon this submission of the petition to it by the conference.

The opinion of the council upon the questions is:

First, That the question of the guilt or innocence of Elder Briggs upon the charges preferred, was not determined by the council which sat last April, as the case was removed from before the council by the plaintiff's declining to prosecute and a mutual agreement that the case should be dismissed, and Elder E. C. Briggs relieved from further liability to answer to the charges in the case, the guilt or innocence of Elder Briggs not having been inquired into. The action of the council must not be taken as a verdict of guilt, nor a declaration of innocence.

Second, The statement and apology of Elder Briggs to the quorum as they are submitted to the council are sufficient for the reason that they contain statements of self-justification, and reflect unfavorably upon the quorum and others connected with the affair, and are lacking in that frankness which should characterize an appeal for unrestrained fraternity between brethren so closely allied in labor as the Twelve must necessarily be.

Third, That the council has not the authority upon this submission of the petition for restoration to quorum privileges, to make such an order. We, therefore, recommend that should Elder E. C. Briggs desire to be restored to the privileges for which he petitions, he should, without reserve or self-justification, withdraw the recriminating statements he may have made against the motives of those who have taken part in this affair, or apologize for them. And as Elder Briggs has not in this petition called the verdict of the Twelve in question, he should submit to such verdict as reached by them upon the evidence presented to them. And should present to the quorum an apology to the quorum, the church, and all persons who may have been injured in any wise by him during the continuance of the affair, with a declaration that if restored to such privileges as he petitions for, he will engage in the duties of his calling with a more careful supervision of speech and conduct. All of which is hereby submitted for your action as privileged in your resolution of submission, of petition of Elder E. C. Briggs.

Done at Independence, Missouri, April 20th, 1901.

JOSEPH SMITH, Pres. of Coun. Attest, R. M. ELVIN, Sec. High Council.

The adoption of the report was moved, an amendment was offered that the president of the church be the judge as to whether the reparation is sufficient. This was discussed, previous question was called and affirmed and the amendment denied. The motion to adopt the report of the High Council was carried. An additional report from the Fifth Quorum of Elders was read.

Report of Presidency and appointments of Twelve was read as follows:

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., April 20. To the Conference now assembled:—The first presidency report the following appointments for the members of the quorum of apostles: 1 W H Kelley, Eastern Mission, i. e., Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Eastern and Middle States, District of Columbia, Ohio, the Virginias and Maryland.

2 James Caffall, Nebraska and Dakotas.

3 John H Lake, Michigan and Indiana.

4 Heman C Smith, Northern Illinois and Wisconsin, except Nauvoo district.

5 Joseph Luff, Colorado, east Wyoming, New Mexico and the Pacific Slope mission.

6 Joseph R Lambert to travel and labor under the direction of the first Presidency, as his health shall permit.

7 G T Griffiths, European mission.

8 I N White, Missouri, Kansas, Southern and Central Illinois, and that portion of Indian Territory and Arkansas that is embraced in the Spring River district.

9 R C Evans, the Canadas.

10 J W Wight, Iowa, Minnesota and Nauvoo district.

11 Peter Anderson, Rocky Mountain mission.

By order of the Presidency, ALEX. H. SMITH, Sec.

The following report of appointments of Seventy and High Priests in charge, and of High Priests to labor in field, made by joint council of First Presidency and quorum of Twelve was read:

To the Conference:—Herewith is submitted the report of appointments made by joint council composed of the First Presidency and quorum of the Twelve.

MISSIONARIES IN CHARGE. SEVENTIES.

1 Butterworth, C A, Australasia. 2 Smith, H O, Southwestern mission.

HIGH PRIESTS. 1 Burton, J F, Society Islands.

2 Roberts, I N, Southeastern mission.

ELDERS. Waller, G J, Hawaiian mission.

The following appointments were made:

HIGH PRIESTS. 1 Baker, J M, Little Sioux district.

2 Blair, F B, Northern California district.

3 Bond, M H, Massachusetts district.

4 Bullard, Richard, Massachusetts district.

5 Butterworth, C E, Omaha, Nebraska.

6 Carmichael, A, Southern California district.

7 Carmichael, J B, Central California district.

8 Closson, A V, Wisconsin.

9 Crabb, J C, Des Moines district.

10 Davies, J T, Southern Illinois.

11 Derry, Chas., Iowa.

12 Elvin, R M, Decatur district.

13 Evans, J B, Decatur district.

14 Forscutt, M H, Southern Nebraska district, Nebraska City objective point.

15 Godbey, G H, West Virginia and Northeast Kentucky.

16 Goodrich, V M, Ohio.

17 Green, George, Canada.

18 Hulmes, G II, Independence district.

19 Hunt, C J, Galland's Grove district.

20 Jeffries, S J, Ohio district.

21 Kemp, Henry, Fremont Iowa district.

22 Leverton, Arthur, Canada.

23 Longhurst, R C, Canada.

24 May, Roderick, Independence, district.

25 McDowell, W A, Wisconsin.

26 Moler, James, Clinton Missouri district.

27 Montague, George, Oklahoma.

28 Moore, A J, Southwestern mission.

29 Smith, G A, Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana.

30 Snively, J S, Nodaway Missouri district.

31 Tanner, J A, Northeast Missouri district.

32 Terry, J M, Far West district.

33 Turpen, M M, Nauvoo district.

34 Waldsmith, J W, Southern Nebraska district.

35 Weld, F M, Decatur district.

36 Williams, T W, Southern California district, Los Angeles objective point.

The following action was had regarding matters referred to us by the body.

Resolved, That we find it inexpedient to grant the petition for a special missionary to Lamoni, Iowa.

The petition from Southwestern Missouri for special missionary was referred to missionary in charge to supply the demand, with a recommendation of F. C. Keck for the place.

The following were appointments made in the Society Islands:

- 1 Hawkins, John. 2 Jansen, Herman. 3 Kehauri. 4 Luis Bellais. 5 Maevatua Harurau. 6 Mahuru. 7 Metuaore. 8 Pou Haroatea. 9 Taaerou 10 Tutetuturiria, a Pamanu. 11 Tutetiria a Tolepea. 12 Tapu. 13 Varoa, a Moa.

The following Seventies were appointed to foreign fields:

- 1 Kaler, John, Australasian mission. 2 Mucus, Peter, Scandinavian mission. 3 Peterson, J W, Society Islands. 4 Wells, Gomer R, Australasian mission.

The following elders were appointed to foreign missions.

- 1 Enge, N C, Scandinavia. 2 Gilbert, J W, Society Islands. 3 Haworth, W J, Australasian mission. 4 Rushton, J W, Scotland. 5 Williamson, James, Scotland.

Respectfully submitted, HEMAN C. SMITH, Sec.

The following appointments by the Twelve were presented:

To the Conference:—The following appointments are presented for your consideration.

FIRST QUORUM OF SEVENTY.

- 1 Adams, J W, Far West district, Missouri. 2 Allen, Arthur, St. Louis district. 3 Baker, A M, South Missouri district. 4 Baldwin, Richard, Kirtland district, Ohio. 5 Beatty, T J, Southern Ohio. 6 Campbell, Duncan, Decatur district. 7 Case, Oscar, Nebraska. 8 Chambers, D R, Pottawattamie district, Iowa. 9 Carpenter, J A, Michigan. 10 Case, Hubert, Oklahoma. 11 Clapp, J C, Decatur district. 12 Cooper, F M, Pottawattamie district, Iowa, Council Bluffs objective point. 13 Cornish, J J, Michigan. 14 Daley, Thomas, Northern California district. 15 Davies, E A, Eastern mission. 16 Davis, J Alfred, released at his request. 17 Davis, J Arthur, Kewanee district, Illinois. 18 Davis, R W, Central Illinois district. 19 Devore, L R, Ohio and West Virginia. 20 Duncan, C R, Colorado mission. 21 Etzenhouser, Rudolph, Northern and Central California districts. 22 Foss, J C, Northeast Kansas district. 23 Foss, S O, Maine. 24 Greene, U W, Eastern mission, New York district, objective point. 25 Hansen, H N, Little Sioux district, Iowa. 26 Harris, D L, Rocky Mountain Mission. 27 Inenson, E L, Texas. 28 Hills, L E, Eastern Iowa district.

- 29 Holt, H L, released in harmony with his request.
- 30 Jenkins, George, Southern Indiana.
- 31 Kaler, John, Australasian mission.
- 32 Kephart, W H, Galland's Grove district, Iowa.
- 33 Macrae, W S, Arkansas.
- 34 McDowell, J F, Ohio and Pennsylvania.
- 35 McKiernan, James, Nauvoo district.
- 36 Maloney, R M, Oklahoma.
- 37 Mintun, J F, Fremont district, Iowa.
- 38 Morgan, J W, Eastern Colorado.
- 39 Payne, S D, Eastern Nebraska.
- 40 Peak, W E, Galien, Michigan, and vicinity.
- 41 Pender, V S, Rocky Mountain mission.
- 42 Reese, Gomer, Eastern Montana.
- 43 Renfro, B F, Texas.
- 44 Robinson, H H, Eastern Mission.
- 45 Robley, G W, Eastern Mission.
- 46 Roth, J S, Eastern Iowa district.
- 47 Rumel, W M, Nebraska.
- 48 Sheppard, T J, Texas.
- 49 Short, M T, Northwest Kansas district.
- 50 Smith, David, Northern and Eastern Michigan.
- 51 Smith, F C, Eastern Michigan.
- 52 Smith, I M, Eastern Mission.
- 53 Spurlock, C J, Southeast Missouri and western part of St. Louis district.
- 54 Thomas, O B, South Missouri district.
- 55 Wells, G R, Australasian mission.
- 56 Whiteaker, A L, Wisconsin.
- 57 Wight, Romanan, Pottawattamie district, Iowa.
- 58 Wildermuth, E M, Northern Illinois and Wisconsin.

SECOND QUORUM OF SEVENTY.

- 1 Ayler, W M, Oklahoma and Indian Territory.
- 2 Baggerly, I P, Oklahoma.
- 3 Barmore, A C, Canada mission.
- 4 Beckley, J R, Northern Michigan.
- 5 Blanchard, W W, Western Maine and New Hampshire.
- 6 Burr, C H, Wisconsin.
- 7 Chase, A M, Oregon.
- 8 Chaburn, F J, Northeast Missouri district.
- 9 Chaburn, T W, Wisconsin.
- 10 Condit, S D, Rocky Mountain mission.
- 11 Davis, John, Washington.
- 12 Ebeling, F J, Kirtland district, Ohio.
- 13 Ellis, W D, Michigan.
- 14 Erwin, E A, Texas.
- 15 Erwin, J D, Spring River district.
- 16 Goodrich, J L, West Virginia and Northeast Kentucky.
- 17 Gowell, M F, Wisconsin.
- 18 Gregory, Frederick, Canada mission.
- 19 Howlett, R B, Canada mission.
- 20 Jackson, J W, Arkansas.
- 21 Kelley, T C, Minnesota.
- 22 Keck, F C, Spring River district.
- 23 MacGregor, Daniel, Canada mission.
- 24 Marshall, W C, Southern Indiana.
- 25 Noler, H E, Southern Ohio.
- 26 Parker, R J, Colorado mission.
- 27 Porter, C H, Nebraska.
- 28 Rudd, D M, Northern Illinois.
- 29 Russell, F A, Kewanee district, Illinois.
- 30 St John, Benjamin, Canada mission.
- 31 Scott, Columbus, Des Moines district, Iowa.
- 32 Scott, J M, Southeastern mission.
- 33 Scott, M R, Jr., Southern Indiana.
- 34 Scott, S W L, Eastern mission.
- 35 Shields, John, Canada mission.
- 36 Shinn, D L, West Virginia.
- 37 Simmons, S W, Northern Texas.
- 38 Slover, F M, Southern Illinois district.
- 39 Smith, W A, Little Sioux district, Iowa.
- 40 Snow, C L, Kentucky and Tennessee.
- 41 Sparring, Henry, South Missouri district.
- 42 Stead, J D, Decatur district.
- 43 Stedman, E A, Davenport, Iowa.

- and Rock Island and Moline, Illinois.
- 44 Stubbart, J M, Colorado mission.
- 45 Swenson, Sven, Far West district, Missouri.
- 46 Thurburn, G W, Dakotas.
- 47 Tucker, D E, Oklahoma.
- 48 Walters, R T, Central Illinois district.
- 49 Ward, Joseph, Arkansas.
- 50 White, D C, Nodaway district, Missouri.
- 51 Wight, D W, Rocky Mountain mission.

ELDERS.

- 1 Albertson, Charles, Rocky Mountain mission.
- 2 Allen, S D, Southeastern mission.
- 3 Ames, J N, Maine.
- 4 Anderson, D A, Eastern mission.
- 5 Bailey, J W, Eastern Michigan.
- 6 Bailey, O H, Kewanee district, Illinois.
- 7 Baker, J H, Oklahoma.
- 8 Barr, Andrew, Eastern Michigan.
- 9 Bekham, C F, Eastern Texas.
- 10 Bell, T J, Southern Indiana.
- 11 Berve, Amos, Northern Michigan.
- 12 Blackmore, Joseph, Canada mission.
- 13 Booker, W J, Southeastern mission.
- 14 Booker, W L, Southeastern mission.
- 15 Bryan, J W, Texas.
- 16 Chute, G T, Kentucky and Tennessee.
- 17 Cochr, F E, Little Sioux district, Iowa.
- 18 Craig, James, Southern Ohio.
- 19 Crawley, D S, Oklahoma.
- 20 Crumley, G E, Oregon.
- 21 Crippen, A R, Galland's Grove district, Iowa.
- 22 Cunningham, S G, Maine.
- 23 Cushman, S F, Eastern mission.
- 24 Curtis, J F, Colorado mission.
- 25 Dana, R R, Southern California.
- 26 Davis, William, Eastern Michigan.
- 27 Davidson, J J, Nova Scotia.
- 28 Dopev, E W, Northern Pennsylvania.
- 29 DeVries, H J, Michigan.
- 30 Dice, B J, Far West district, Missouri.
- 31 Durand, E H, Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana.
- 32 Fannon, E S, Modaway district, Missouri.
- 33 Flina, P A, Southern Indiana.
- 34 Fry, Charles, Fremont district, Iowa.
- 35 Gamet, Levi, Nebraska.
- 36 Gibson, William, San Bernardino, California, and vicinity.
- 37 Goodenough, E J, Eastern and Southern Michigan.
- 38 Goodwin, E A, Northern Michigan.
- 39 Grant, J A, Northern Michigan.
- 40 Graves, G H, Chicago, Illinois.
- 41 Grimes, J F, Arkansas.
- 42 Hackett, J T, Northern Illinois.
- 43 Haden, W E, Far West district, Missouri.
- 44 Hand, C E, Eastern Iowa district.
- 45 Hanson, A B, Colorado mission.
- 46 Harder, H R, West Virginia and Northeast Kentucky.
- 47 Hawley, John, Texas.
- 48 Hay, S R, Texas.
- 49 Hayer, Eli, Minnesota.
- 50 Hayton, T S, Spring River district.
- 51 Henley, G H, Canada mission.
- 52 Hudgens, J W, released for cause.
- 53 Houghton, Leonard, Dakotas.
- 54 Hugbill, R W, Northern Michigan.
- 55 Hutchings, D A, Nodaway district, Mo.
- 56 Jeth, T J, Southwest Texas.
- 57 Johnson, L F, released on account of ill health.
- 58 Karahou, Noah, Indian Territory.
- 59 Keck, A J, Northern Illinois.
- 60 Kemp, James, Colorado mission.
- 61 Keeler, E, Central California district.
- 62 Kelley, Uriah, Maine.
- 63 Layland, A J, Rocky Mountain mission.
- 64 Love, S D, Spring River district.
- 65 McCoy, H A, Des Moines district.
- 66 Mamerling, W H, Clinton district, Missouri.
- 67 Metcalf, J W, Kentucky.
- 68 Miller, B F, Eastern Iowa district.
- 69 Mortimer, J L, Canada mission.
- 70 Odell, W R, West Virginia and Northeast Kentucky.
- 71 Omms, F D, Minnesota.
- 72 Phillips, A B, Northern California district.
- 73 Phillips, T A, Canada mission.
- 74 Pickering, W R, Oklahoma.
- 75 Porter, J D, Indiana.
- 76 Prentzman, C W, Nebraska.
- 77 Randle, E, Colorado mission.
- 78 Rites, J T, Indian Territory.
- 79 Roberts, J W, Northeast Kansas district.
- 80 Robinson, W P, Wisconsin.
- 81 Russell, R C, Canada mission.
- 82 Sawley, F L, Nodaway district, Missouri.
- 83 Schreur, John, Michigan.
- 84 Self, Robert, Nebraska.
- 85 Self, W M, Nebraska.
- 86 Sheldon, N V, Galland's Grove district.
- 87 Sheldon, T J, Eastern mission.
- 88 Shinnel, George, referred to missionary in charge and Bishopric.
- 89 Smart, W N, Northern Texas.
- 90 Smith, E A, Southern California district.
- 91 Smith, Henry C, Kirtland district, Ohio.

- 92 Smith, W R, Southeastern mission.
- 93 Smith, W W, Northeast Missouri district.
- 94 Sorenson, S J, Des Moines district.
- 95 Sory, M L, Memphis, Tennessee.
- 96 Southwick, Henry, Northern Illinois.
- 97 Spurling, William, Dakotas, to labor seven months in the year.
- 98 Stroh, Samuel, Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana.
- 99 Summerfield, William, Far West district, Missouri.
- 100 Sutton, J R, Eastern Iowa district.
- 101 Tomlinson, G C, Canada mission.
- 102 Tomlinson, Samuel, Canada mission.
- 103 Ulton, L D, West Pennsylvania and Virginia.
- 104 Vaughn, Joseph, Northwest Kansas district.
- 105 Welch, C P, Clinton district, Missouri.
- 106 Wells, J H, Montana.
- 107 White, Alfred, Clinton district, Missouri.
- 108 White, J D, Independence district, Kansas City and suburbs objective point.
- 109 White, T R, Clinton district, Missouri.
- 110 Wight, L L, Texas.
- 111 Wildermuth, J B, Colorado.

PRESTS.

- 1 Allen, D L, Ohio.
- 2 Baggerly, I P, Oklahoma.
- 3 Beebe, G W, Northeast Kansas district.
- 4 Bennett, Walter, Canada mission.
- 5 Boswell, J J, Indiana.
- 6 Burr, A E, Northern Michigan.
- 7 Corthall, Earl, Northeast Missouri district.
- 8 Davis, J T, South Missouri district.
- 9 Davis, J W, Eastern Michigan.
- 10 Fuller, W H, Detroit, Michigan.
- 11 Gurwell, L G, Northwest Kansas district.
- 12 Hanson, John, Northern Michigan.
- 13 Hansen, Paul, Little Sioux district, Iowa.
- 14 Harp, John, Southwestern Texas.
- 15 Irvin, E A, Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana.
- 16 Kinsley, Alvin, Canada mission.
- 17 Long, F E, Ohio.
- 18 Luff, J F, referred to missionary in charge of Colorado and Bishopric.
- 19 McMullin, Alex., Canada mission.
- 20 Nunn, G J, Minnesota.
- 21 Pierce, F J, Northeast Kansas.
- 22 Powell, D E, Washington.
- 23 Rich, C H, Eastern New York.
- 24 Schmidt, E P, Central California.
- 25 Silvers, A C, Clinton district, Missouri.
- 26 Smith, S S, Oklahoma.
- 27 Sweet, J L, Eastern Michigan.
- 28 Stephenson, J N, Clinton district, Missouri.
- 29 Thomas, Harry, Southeast Missouri, and western part of St. Louis district.
- 30 Thurman, Henry, Indian Territory.
- 31 Upton, Alma, Oregon.
- 32 Washburn, G D, Northern Michigan.
- 33 Williams, D D, Clinton district, Missouri.
- 34 Joehnk, C C, Northern California.

Respectfully submitted,

HEMAN C. SMITH, Sec.

A motion carried, that the secretary be authorized to make transfer of names which appear under wrong heads in list of appointments, when notified of same.

Additional report of Fifth Quorum of Elders was read, as was also one from the Fourth Quorum of Elders, restoring Bro. Joseph Westwood to quorum.

The following from the reporters of the press was read:

The reporters of The Kansas City Journal and Times desire to express their appreciation and thanks to the Press Committee and the kind consideration of the Conference extended. C. A. CARROLL, Journal. R. H. WOMACK, Times. April 20, 1901.

A vote of thanks was extended to the representatives of The Kansas City Journal and Times, also Sentinel, Examiner and Daily News, of Independence, and all other papers represented.

Additional report from Quorum of Twelve was read:

INDEPENDENCE, MO., April 20. To the Conference:—The Quorum of Twelve submit this additional report:

ELDERS.

- 1 Robert Perle, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.
  - 2 W E LaRue, Eastern Missouri.
- Respectfully submitted,
HEMAN C. SMITH, Sec.

A motion prevailed that the First Presidency be sustained, also on separate motions, the quorum of the Twelve, the Bishopric, the High Council, the Patriarch of the church, the quorums of seventy, the high priests quorum, the quorums of elders, the quorums of the Aaronic priesthood, the recorder of the church with his assistant, C. I. Carpenter, the secretary of the church, the librarian, Grace-land College, the Daughters of Zion, the committee on revision, the Sunday School, the Religion and the Prayer Union.

The following preambles and resolution were offered:

WHEREAS, one year ago the bishop's books were reported to be in an unsatisfactory condition, and

WHEREAS, the General Conference instructed the bishop to secure bookkeepers to assist him to make a complete examination of all his books, papers and accounts of former years, and make a complete report from the time he became presiding bishop; and

WHEREAS, The General Conference also directed the said report to be presented to an auditing committee, the auditing committee to report to a general committee, and this general committee to make a published report; and

WHEREAS, the above named committees have failed to report: therefore be it,

Resolved, That the above committee be discharged, and another committee be appointed to consist of the president of the church, one member of the Twelve, and one member of the quorum of high priests, whose duty it shall be to receive the above mentioned report from the bishop, also to employ the services of a professional auditor to do the work of auditing that was required of the former committee, and that this committee be required to report to the next General Conference.

A substitute was offered as follows:

Resolved, That the committees appointed last year to examine and report on bishop's books from 1890 to date be discharged. Be it further,

Resolved, That the work assigned them be assigned to the committee provided for to make such examination and report from January 10, 1900, to 1902.

Original resolution was then affirmed.

Bro. R. M. Elvin, of the auditing committee, discharged, stated he had made a minority report and asked for disposition. It was on motion ordered given the president of the committee of seven.

Bishop E. L. Kelley stated experience had shown the necessity of placing one member of the Board of Publication, who resided at Independence, on the board, and submitted the names of Bro. Ellis Short, R. May and W. N. Robinson, in place of J. A. Gunsolley. Bishop Short declined. Bro. H. R. Mills was nominated in his place. Putting it to vote the result was as follows: R. May, 20; W. N. Robinson, 47; H. R. Mills, 58. No choice. On second vote the result was, W. N. Robinson, 56; H. R. Mills, 78. Bro. H. R. Mills was declared to be the choice.

A motion to sustain the Board of Publication was offered. The president named the following as present members of the board: Bishop E. L. Kelley, John Smith, F. B. Blair, J. W. Wight and H. R. Mills. On motion Bishop E. L. Kelley was sustained as member and president of the board, and on separate motions Bro. John Smith, F. B. Blair, J. W. Wight, and H. R. Mills were also sustained.

The Board of Trustees of Grace-land College was sustained.

A motion that the presidents of the quorums from whom the members are to be selected for the committee to employ an auditor, name the members of their quorum, prevailed.

A motion to sustain the archaeological and encyclopedia committee was carried.

Hymn 120 was sung, and invocation was offered by President Joseph Smith, when the following brethren were ordained to the offices for which they had previously been selected:

High Priest Frederick G. Pitt, President of the High Priests' quorum, by President Joseph Smith and Apostle Gomer T. Griffiths.

Priest Alma B. Hanson, an elder, by High Priest John A. Robinson and Apostle Joseph Luff.

High Priest Frederick A. Smith, 1st counsellor to the president of the High Priests' quorum, by Apostle Gomer T. Griffiths and President Joseph Smith.

Elder Peter Muceus, a seventy, by Apostle Joseph Luff and High Priest John A. Robinson.

High Priest T. W. Williams, second counsellor to the president of the High Priests' quorum, by President Joseph Smith and Apostle Gomer T. Griffiths.

High Priest M. H. Bond, first counsellor to Bishop R. Bullard, of Massachusetts district, by High Priest John A. Robinson and Apostle Joseph Luff.

Elder Geo. H. Gates, second counsellor to Bishop R. Bullard, by Apostle G. T. Griffiths and President Joseph Smith.

Minutes of afternoon session were read.

The following was offered and prevailed:

Resolved, That the action of this body upon the matter of auditing the Bishop's accounts for the first nine years of his incumbency, shall not be construed as a reflection upon the committee discharged, or the Bishopric, or as our opinion in any matter of controversy that has arisen out of the attempt to audit those accounts.

A motion to adjourn to meet at Lamoni, Iowa, April 6, 1902, prevailed. Hymn 217 was sung, benediction by President Joseph Smith, and the 48th annual conference became history.

THE DAILY ENSIGN.

We have on hand a number of each issue of the DAILY ENSIGN, and can furnish complete files to any address on receipt of 15 cents; or if you want them bound in a manilla paper cover, we will send them in this form for 25 cents. Order at once if you want them as our supply is limited. Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

"THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDICATED," by Elder J. M. Smith. 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each, ..... 30 Cloth Bound, 2 for 1.00; each. 60

American Archaeology Sustains the Book of Mormon.

Committee on Archaeology, F. M. Sheehy, Wm. Woodhead, W. H. Kelley.

[CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK.]

Julia Menair Wright says that "South America had" (at the discovery) "five cities with names identical with cities in Asia Minor and North Africa." "This," says she, "could hardly be accidental." (Bricks from Babel, p. 164).

Were the names of these cities a remembrance of old country towns in the region from which the South Americans came?

If they had been Japanese names, or Chinese names, we might have inferred that the South American colony came originally from one of those countries, but African and Asia Minor names indicate that region as the cradle of the red race.

Recently Crete (or Candia) has worked its way to the front with students of Antiquities. When the Admirals of the allied Powers were in their harbor trying to prevent the recent revolutionists from driving the Turkish official into the sea, naval officers began to go ashore, and soon reports were circulating that they had seen interesting bits of antiquities of various kinds. The idea was that Crete had a record, Paul quoting one of their own prophets as saying that "Cretans are always liars, evil beasts, idle gluttons." (Titus 1:2). Then he clinches the remark, "This testimony is true." But who were the old Cretans? The present Candia was the New Testament Crete. The New Testament Crete was the Old Testament Caphtor; its people now are Candians; they were Cretans. Cretans were Cherebites—Cherebites were Philistines—Philistines were Caphtorim. (See Researches in Archaeology in Sunday School Journal and Bible Students' Magazine for Feb., 1901).

Crete has a pedigree to be sure; she has had a veil over her face all these years. Thanks to archaeology. Here is a lesson—names are like the leaves of a tree, they drop out of sight, new ones are coined to suit changed conditions.

Ezra changed the ancient names of several Bible places which had become obsolete, and substituted for them new names by which they were at that time called. (See Ency. of Religious Knowledge, p. 522. See our former Report).

In turning to look for the starting point from which the native races came, we may not find the name "land of Tulan" or the "land of Tapallan," because the native races have a long history behind them, in which they have developed into nations, tribes and bands, and in the meantime spread over the continent. It is likely that, as tribes broke away from the original stem, dialects grew up and became as numerous as the tribes; new names coined, old ones died of old age, but still a general resemblance remaining by which they are identified as related stocks. It would be different with the palm tree and temple; they are not so likely to change.

In the light of what has been said, we return to Judea again, because the temple on that chart suggests that the original colony was a highly religious people, and believed in temple worship. But we need not repeat here the glory of the Jewish temple. The palm tree was likely a symbol of their country, or "flag," and being a patriotic people, took their flag with them. Thus the temple represented the spiritual side of the colony, and the palm tree the national or provincial side. What is more reasonable? They were a religious people and wanted to keep the old temple in remembrance, and they wanted to remember their country too.

"The palm tree was in ancient times" of great value and esteem among the Israelites, and so very much cultivated in Judea that in after time it became the emblem of that country, as may be seen in a medal of the emperor Vespasian upon the conquest of Judea. It represents a captive woman sitting under a palm tree with this inscription: "Judea Capta" (Judea captive) and upon a Greek coin; likewise of his son Titus, struck upon the like occasion, we see a shield suspended upon a palm tree, with a victory writing upon it. Pliny, a Roman official, calls Judea renowned for psalms; Jerico in particular was called the city of psalms. (Deut. 34:3; 2 Chron. 28:15. See also article palm tree, Ency. of Religious Knowledge, p. 902). Palm Sunday—so called from palm branches being strewed on the road by the multitude, when our Savior made his triumphal entry into Jerusalem.

The palm tree became the emblem of Judea, and the Aztecs appear to have placed it on their historical chart as the emblem of Tulan, the distant Orient from which they came, thus leaving their country Tulan (Judea) they traveled southward to the sea, crossed the ocean, and became the first civilizers of Peru. The tradition of four brothers seems to have passed into renown in every nation on the continent, in some form or other.

This view of the red man is confirmed by the fact that it is said "that there is scarcely a prominent fact in the opening chapters of the book of Genesis that cannot be duplicated from the legends of the American nations, and scarcely a custom known to the Jews that does not find its counterpart among the people of the New World."—Atlantis, p. 198.

"The Quiches' account of the creation is a counterpart of the Bible story.—"The garden—the tree, the serpent—the woman—the mother of us all."—Mexican Antiquities, Vol. 8, p. 19.

"We have seen that the Central Americans possessed striking parallels to the account of the deluge in Genesis. There is also a clearly established legend which singularly resembles the Bible account of the Tower of Babel." (Atlantis, p. 200).

Donnelly says. "This parallel-ism runs through a hundred particulars." (Ibid, p. 204).

These facts seem to justify the conclusion that the native races are Hebrews—Jews, and their forefathers came from that Bible-land where the palm tree grows—the land where the immaculate Son of God made his earthly home.

It has been suggested by anti-Book of Mormon writers that the Mayas were building cities of stone in Central America, while Abraham was dwelling in tents on the plains of Mamre.

If so, how did they get the Bible account of creation, the garden, the tree, the serpent, the woman, the mother of us all? Did Moses read the sacred book (Popul Vul) of the Quiche? Or did the Quiches read Moses?—which? How are national customs and religious customs transferred from place to place? Look at the Paschal feast; look at the Lord's Supper; look at the Fourth of July and Washington's birthday. These are the blood-spots on door-lintels of national life.

It is also said by the above class of anti-Book of Mormon writers that there is nothing Jewish in the monuments of Central America.

EVIDENCES OF MORE THAN ONE CIVILIZATION.

"To sum up these investigations, we find that according to tradition the territory of Cholula was up to the year 1519 successfully occupied by at least three different stocks. The modes of burial so far as ascertained reveal an equal number of distinct customs. The architecture, so far as it is possible to investigate it, shows at least two separate types. One of the Nahuatl periods at the time of Cortez, the other at the time of their predecessors, the "Mound villages" of which the great pyramid of Cholula and the artificial hills of San Jose, del Rancho, Viejos, San Juan, Tepey, Ahualco and Coronaco, seem to be representative specimens. Finally we may ask if the facts that the adobe bricks of the great mound contains pottery and obsidian and that skulls have been found beneath its projecting Western apron do not hint at a still older population, with perhaps a different style of architecture." Bandler, Archaeological Tour in Mexico, p. 261.

"We may say that the evidences are numerous, that the people who built the mounds in the Mississippi valley belong to different races and occupied the country at different periods, and may have come from different sources. The traditions of the Indians prove that the lands have been inhabited by different races and at different periods. Nowhere, however, is it claimed that the Indians were the first people who occupied the country or that their ancestors were the first race who built the mounds." Page 21, Mound Builders' Works and Relics, by Pett.

The mounds show that the people inhabiting that section had commercial habits, as various arts found in the mounds come from remote places. Pett. "It is now generally held that this earliest population was intruded upon by other races, coming either from Asia or from the Pacific islands, from whom were descended the various tribes which have occupied the soil down to the present time." Prof. H. W. Hayes, p. 321, Narrative—Critical and Historical, Vol. 1, by Justin Winsor.

Quite recently in Rio Naya valley in the province of Durango a cave of considerable extent has been discovered in which thousands of mummies not resembling the Indians of the present day slept their last sleep." Pages 300, 301.

"Ancient Man in America," by Frederick Larkin, M. D., p. 64: "It is admitted by all the intelligent Iroquois with whom I have conversed that the people who constructed the mounds were an unknown people, and that tradition interposes no beams of light to extricate them from the confusion that has been wrought by time."

Bandler: "My survey of the grounds occupied by the aboriginal ruins in the valley of Pecos indicated, as I have already stated, three epochs successive, probably in time in which they have been occupied by man, that is, I have noticed these, and beyond these I have not been able to go as yet. Subsequent explorers may be more fortunate. The distinction of classification is very imperfect in the two earlier stages; between the second and the last there is a marked break, not in time, but in ethnological development. I shall term the three epochs as follows. First, pre-traditional indicated by the presence of the corrugated and indented pottery as its most conspicuous 'landmarks.' Second, Traditional and documentary (documentary) in the sense of written records. Third, Documentary period, p. 104.

"My reason for admitting a pre-traditional period then is, that I have found human remains at Pecos older than those of the present ruins, and different in kind, p. 105. The documentary period commenced in 1596 to the present time (Spanish). The term traditional is applied to this period because the people occupying the site of the old Pecos have left some traditions behind them, and not because we know when it commenced, p. 107. The present occupants have not even traditions of a period, which the remains certify to have been."—(Archaeological Institute of America, series 1.)

All authors agree in stating that at some time Cholula was a Toltec settlement; nothing positive can be ascertained from older sources in regard to Toltec language. Toltec names are in the Nahuatl idiom. p. 191. Studies about Cholula—Bandler.

"The ruins of the Gila Valley including those along Salt River are less known than those farther northward, but we know that there is a marked difference between the types exemplified, the well known Casa Grande near Florence, Arizona, and that of which the best specimens (notably the Chaco ruins) are found in the San Juan basin. This difference may be due only to a difference in environment, necessitating a change in material employed, and consequent on this change in methods, although it seems to the writer that the difference is perhaps too great to be accounted for in that way. Be the cause what it may, there is no doubt that there is a difference. Nowhere within this region are there any traces of others than purely aboriginal work." (p. 187 Aboriginal Remains in the Verde Valley, by C. Mindeloff, in the Thirteenth Annual Report of Bureau of Ethnology.)

"I notice that the walls of these chambers were once more or less covered with mural paintings—a narrow band six inches in width extending around the upper portion of the vertical wall, just under the jutting portion that marks the commencement of the arch. Upon this band was painted a series of hieroglyphics in black pigment, outlined in a clear, bold manner by the hand of a master. Noting that a piece of the first layer of stucco was about to fall, I detached it and found beneath it as fresh as if drawn and painted yesterday a bit of painting arabesque in design, with yellow, red, brown, black and green colors. Doubtless if the blurred and disfigured outer layer of stucco were removed, the uncovered layer would present some wonderfully fresh and perfect specimens of mural painting." (p. 192, The Ancient Structures of Yucatan, by E. H. Thompson).

"So far I have found no evidence leading to a belief that these early builders were not the ancestors of the present native race of Yucatan. At the same time I am bound to state that the dress of the ancient women as depicted upon the walls at Chichen Itza does not seem to have been the same icipil the hitherto supposed female apparel of Yucatan." (Ibid, p. 267).

Thompson also speaks of macademized roads, level surfaces, with hard cement.

Gorden found caverns about four miles from the ruins of Copan. (Peabody Museum, vol. 1, No. 4).

"The pottery found in these caves is of a character entirely different from that found at Copan. Not a single piece can be said to bear any resemblance to Copan pottery, nor does it resemble the pottery of any other locality with which I am familiar." The evident strength and security of the position suggest their having been selected for defence, and in keeping with this are the natural conditions determining the mode of life, for races have not only taken their abode in caves where the inhospitable climate drove them to seek shelter there from the storm and cold. In this region all the natural conditions are such as to induce an open air mode of life." (Ibid, p. 9).

"As to the age of these relics and the period to which they belong there is little to give us any information to determine the relative place in the history of the people they represent, whether they preceded those who built Copan, or came after, or were contemporaneous with them, we have no date whatever for determining. The condition of the bones and wooden objects, though not indicating of necessity any very great antiquity, prove that they are of no very recent date, while the accumulation of deposits from the decomposition of the rocks, without the aid of moisture or vegetation, the formation of a stalagmite upon a bed of ashes, and the subsequent deposition of a layer of dirt argue a considerable antiquity." (p. 10).

Caves of Lulton, by E. H. Thomson, p. 20: "An object of special interest is a fragment of a whistling vessel like those of Peru and Costa Rica * * * the only other specimen in any way similar that I have seen in Yucatan, is now in the museum at Merida. * * * The ware is not of the kind made either in the past or present of Yucatan, so far as our present knowledge extends, and it would appear that these vessels were ancient importations from a distant nation."

"Copan, Mr. Baldwin thinks, was repaired by the Toltecs, but many features of the architecture and ornamentations show the workmanship of their predecessors."—Ibid 159.

"Among the edifices forgotten by time in the forests of Mexico and Central America, we find architectural characteristics so different from each other, that it is impossible to attribute them all to the same people as to believe they were all built at the same epoch."—Ibid 156.

The monumental inscriptions of Central America seem to have the Job idea, of committing to the rock their knowledge forever.

The ruins in Peru "differ from those in Mexico and Central America. No inscriptions are found in Peru; there is no longer a "marvelous abundance of decorations," nothing is seen like the Monoliths of Copan or the Bas-reliefs of Palenque. The method of building is different; the Peruvian temples had not high truncated pyramidal foundations."—Ancient American, p. 222.

"Hence if the people of Mexico and Central America are one stock, as the evidence seem to indicate: and came originally from South America, the peculiar style of building must have been developed by them after they came into the regions where they are found. The stone cutting in the palaces of Peru are a 'wonderful imitation' of Jewish stone cutting in Palestine." (American Antiquities, Ed. 1833, p. 243.)

The native races of Mexico and Central America who we have referred to in this paper were preceded in those regions by another people. The Toltecs were "preceded by the Colhuas." (Ancient America, p. 198.)

"The Mayas succeeded to the Colhuas." (Atlantis p. 217.) So that both the Toltecs and Mayas succeeded to the Colhuas, the former in Mexico, the latter farther south in Central America."

"The Colhuas are connected with vague references to a long and important period in the history previous to the Toltec ages." (Ancient America p. 199.) "By whom this old civilization was originated and developed." Ibid p. 198. "They seem to have been in some respects more advanced in civilization than the Toltecs." Ibid, p. 199.

This kingdom appears to have included Guatemala, Yucatan, Tabasco, Tehuantepec, Chiapas, Honduras and other districts in Central America. Ibid, p. 199.

If then the Toltecs and Mayas moved into a country where another people had built cities for "long ages" and there developed a civilization which the Toltecs found to be "in some respects more advanced" than their own, what would be more natural than for them to do, than to repair and use the buildings vacated by their predecessors.

ETHNOLOGICAL.

Among the native Americans are to be found numerous shades of complexion, from the ruddy white of the inhabitants of the Cordillera of the Andes, of the Amazon valley, or of the island of Santa Catharina to the much darker tint of some of the tribes of California and Florida, of the natives of the Island of St. Vincent, of the Charrnas dwelling on the southern banks of the Rio de la Plata. The Eskimo of the north were short; the Patagonians of the south are remarkably tall. Some Indian tribes had slender limbs with small hands and feet; others were robust and stoutly built; some had round heads, while others had long heads; others had flat heads; some had an abundant crop of hair; others had scarcely any; some shaved their heads, others let their hair grow long. At the time of the discovery of the continent, oxen, camels, goats, horses, swine and asses were unknown to them. Corn was the only cereal cultivated in the New World, though the so called "wild rice" was harvested in North America; wheat, barley, oats, millet, and "tame" rice were unknown to the Indians. On the other hand, they had a leguminous plant—the manioc—different from any European vegetable, the roots of which yield a starch known under the name of tapioca, tobacco, tomatoes, potatoes and peppers, all valuable acquisitions to modern civilization. It is believed, however, that some plants supposed to be indigenous to America have been cultivated in China. (See Atlantis, p. 60). Prof. Brinton says that "maize, tobacco, cotton, quinoa and mandioca plants, and of that species of the palm called by the botanists the Guil-elma Speciosa, all have been cultivated from immemorial time by the aborigines of America, and, except cotton, by no other race." (Myths of the New World, p. 51.)

The oldest vestiges of man's presence in America are by some thought to be the shell beads, such as that at the mouth of the

Continued on Eighth Page.)

ECZEMA, ITCHING HUMORS, PIMPLES.

Treatment Free.

Does your Skin Itch and Burn? Distressing Eruptions on the Skin so you feel ashamed to be seen in company? Do Scabs and Scales form on the Skin, Hair or Scalp? Have you Eczema? Skin Sore and Cracked? Rash form on the Skin? Prickly Pain in the Skin? Swollen Joints? Falling Hair? All Run Down? Skin Pale? Old Sores? Itching Sores? Ulcers? To cure to stay cured take B. E. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) which makes the blood pure and rich, then the sores will heal and the itching of eczema stop forever, the skin become clear and the breath sweet. Trial treatment sent free and prepaid by writing to BLOOD BALM CO., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Georgia. Describe your trouble and free medical advice given until cured. Blood Balm sold by druggists at $1.00 per large bottle.

FOR SALE.

House of five rooms, cellar, porches, cistern, never falling well. Lot 200 feet deep, trees, all kinds of fruit, shrubbery and flowers. One block from Electric line; near the Missouri Pacific depot; two blocks from L. D. S. church and school; $1,000. Inquire at Telegraph Office, Missouri Pacific depot.

FOR SALE.

I will offer for sale at Lamoni, Iowa, one frame five room house, two blocks from business center, and one frame six room house, three blocks from business center. Also one frame two story, eight room house, three blocks from business center. All of the above property has good wells and cisterns and barns, and all in good repair, and all paying good rental. For particulars apply to

B. D. FLEET, Lamoni, Iowa.

FOR SALE.

A brick hotel building of 25 rooms on North Main street, Independence, Missouri. Lot 52x165 feet. $5,000. Address Mrs. Elizabeth Carmody, 615 North Delaware street, Independence, Missouri.

FOR SALE.

On North Main Street, Independence, Mo., three-fourths of a mile from the Square. Lot 14 acres, fronting three streets, four roomed house, good barn, carriage house, workshop, hay chamber, three-stalled cow house separate. Full of large and small fruits, in fine bearing condition; good asparagus bed; fine well with never failing spring; $1,250. Apply to Mrs. E. A. STEVENS, 108 Crysler Ave., Independence, Mo.

A Bargain $600 will buy a six room house and over 3 acres choice land at Lamoni if taken soon. One-half cash. Address with return stamp, Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

BIG INDUCEMENTS

Having removed our Gullford stock to Barnard, Missouri, and having just received a large line of BRAN NEW UP-TO-DATE Clothing, Dry Goods, Shoes and Hats, we are better prepared to supply the demands of our large and increasing trade, than ever before.

We have purchased a lot of Prince Albert and Clerical Cut Garments from the American Tailors which they had left on their hands. We have bought these cheap and CAN SAVE YOU MONEY. 20 per cent off regular price to the ministry.

NATIONAL MERCANTILE CO. G. J. Whitehead & Co., Proprietors, BARNARD, MO.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI,

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898.

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all business men, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on your deposits. Cash money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of same a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered.

List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Bancez, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Resseguie, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Blair.

A Singer Sewing Machine

THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, earning more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible.

THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch.

BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world, where every machine is carefully tested on practical stitching.

Sold only by

THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 100-3.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE Lamoni Chronicle

The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA.

Official Paper of Decatur County $1.00 Per Year.

P. A. Silsbee & John Scott, Publishers.

20 Acres of as nice, smooth land as you ever saw.

A short walk from L. D. S. church and Public School in Lamoni. Worth $2,000; $1,500 will buy it now, on easy terms. If interested write the owner.

D. F. NICHOLSON, Lamoni, Iowa.

SAINTS AND FRIENDS:—Remember that I am still in the mail order clothing business. For years I have served you and my reputation speaks for itself. Send me your order or write for my price list. I also have two good organs for sale cheap. Address E. T. ATWELL, Cumorah, Mo.

UWANTOQUIT

using tobacco. "QUIT-TO-BAC" makes it easy to stop using it. Three boxes, postpaid, only $1.50 with POSITIVE GUARANTEE to cure or money cheerfully refunded.

U. S. postage stamps taken.

Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY,

Peoria, Ill.

SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

(INCORPORATED) East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches, Twenty Rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue.

FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to Miss M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Mo. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

CANCER CURED

WITH SOOTHING, BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Bone Diseases. Dr. W. A. Hopkins, 301 S. Spring St., Independence, Mo. Write for Illustrated Book, Sent Free. Address Dr. BYE, KANSAS CITY, MO.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT

This Regular $6.00 Waterproof Mackintosh for $2.75. Send no money. Cut this ad. out and send to us. State your height, weight, state number of inches around your body over vest, under coat, close under armpits. We will send you a coat by express F. O. D., subject to examination. Examined and guaranteed express office and if it exactly answers the most wonderful bargain you ever saw or heard of, and equal to any $5.00 coat on the market, we will send you a special manufacturer's price $2.75 and express.

THIS MACKINTOSH is the latest style, made of the best quality waterproof, tan color, genuine Davis fabric, with all the latest improvements, Sager velvet collar, fancy plaid lining, all leather buttons and cambric waist, and suitable for both rain or overcoat use. Guaranteed the greatest bargain ever offered. Write for free samples of the Mackintoshes, from $1.50 up, and guaranteed by the maker. We can save you money. Address H. S. DILLER & CO., 305 Dearborn St., Chicago.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT.

TRAINS WEST. a.m. No. 95—Wichita and K. C. Mail 12:48 " 9—Kansas & Nebraska Lim. 4:34 " 93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex. 8:15 " 3—St. Louis Express..... 6:33 " 73—Lexington Branch Pass. 8:35 " 7—Fast Mail..... 10:00 p.m.

TRAINS EAST. a.m. 91—Joplin and K. C. Mail..... 8:16 " 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex..... 6:17 " 5—St. Louis Mail..... 5:55 " 17—Lexington Branch Pass. 8:45 p.m.

TRAINS EAST. a.m. 96—K. C. & Wichita Mail..... 9:22 " 72—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:33 " 6—St. Louis Mail..... 7:33 " 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail 8:37 " 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass..... 10:17 p.m.

78—Lex. Branch Passenger..... 9:10 " 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass..... 1:37 " 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex. 7:40 " 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass..... 9:36 " 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited..... 11:12

Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop.

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.

TRAINS WEST. No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass. 8:30 a.m. " 71—..... 8:40 p.m.

TRAINS EAST. No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass. 6:56 a.m. " 73—..... 8:15 p.m. Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON.

EAST BOUND. a.m. " 101—Local Way Freight..... 7:07 " 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail 8:30 p.m. " 85..... 5:51 " 51—Chicago Limited..... 6:40 " 49—St. Louis Flyer..... 9:49 WEST BOUND. a.m. " 84..... 9:15 " 102—Local Way Freight..... 8:40 " 8—Chicago & St. Louis Mail 5:51 All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all parts in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on J. W. DUGAN, Agent. J. CHARLES & F. T. AUST, CHICAGO.

Altamaha river, or that at Point St. George near San Francisco. (See Lyell's Second Visit to the United States, p. 252; and Wyman's Report to the Peabody Museum, 1865, p. 16).

Nadailac says, "So far no discovery has been made in those shell heaps of North America of any iron, copper or bronze implements, or of gold or silver objects." (Prehistoric America, p. 65).

For this reason their formation is placed by some scientists before the art of making metals was known. But why should we do so? We know that when the Elizabethan age shed its glory over England the Indians in America were using flint tools. While civilization gloried in Bessemer steel, Australia had aborigines hacking away with stone tools; iron was holding glorious empire while the Hawaiians were in what some savants would call a pre-Adamite age. So that we had in the nineteenth century a pre-Adamite age. The shell heaps may have been in formation when men were carving stones that may be seen at Copau or Palenque.

Men are sometimes deprived of civilization, expelled from the older seats of society, and banished as social outlaws, others volunteer adventure, and go out into the unknown; such will in the weary struggle for life in their new homes accept what nature has placed nearest to them, and live by the chase, the fish, the clam or shell, and so retrograde to such a degree as is revealed in the Kitchen Middens, remaining there for centuries, until they are reached by the commerce of older civilizations. This seems to be a common sense view of prehistoric times. So that the bone and stone relics found in the shell heaps may be accounted for, not on the hypothesis that the metals were at the time of their formation unknown, but because these wandering remnants of humanity were outside of such civilizing influences, who in turn are swept away by a later rush of migration."

Dr. Cyrus Thomas in his work, Introduction to the Study of American Archeology, says: "The arrangement into four classes, or ages—the Paleolithic, Neolithic, Bronze and Iron is conceded to be inapplicable to America." (See p. 16, MS.)

The Mound Builders of the Mississippi valley were not an ethnic myth. If the stone grave people of Tennessee were as Dr. Thomas claims, Shawnees, it appears that in certain arts they were going backward. Ibid, p. 310. Question, Were the North American Indians at the period of their discovery still advancing to a higher and better condition of life?—Frederick Starr.

Prof. H. C. Mercer, p. 311, Ibid, "Concerning the region north of Maryland and east of the Alleghenies, I see no reason anywhere to suppose that the natives had passed the zenith of their culture, or were in a decadent state when encountered by the first white explorers. Nothing found at any of the villages, nothing in the shell heaps of Maine, New Jersey or Maryland contradicts this estimate which is further established by culture layers examined by me in the Delaware valley where the best stone works lie on top. On the other hand the culture layers representing the southern Appalachian region appears to me to dwindle away towards the top. Such seemed to be the meaning of the floor refuse in Lookout Cave at Chattanooga, a deposit which for reasons to be described later, I regard as an important chronicle for man's antiquity in the valley of Tennessee, and the southern mountain region. This interesting floor refuse, the whole of which I removed for a distance of fifty feet from the entrance, appeared to grow richer and more varied in its contents slightly below the top level of Indian occupancy. In like manner as far as the Ohio valley is concerned the general notion of decadence at or about the time of the discovery, the prevalent belief of a dispersion of mound builder tribes by more barbarous enemies was not anywhere controverted but rather suggested by the cave layers studied by me in West Virginia, Illinois, and Kentucky, which bore upon the subject. Allowing for the absence of caves along the main streams, Thompson Shelter higher up the valley and in the line of mounds seemed like the Lookout Cave to show a thinning out near the top, and just before the White Man appeared. Similar evidence was presented by the rock shelter at Alton, Indiana, where the owner prevented the completion of our work. In Yucatan where the research had been more complete the testimony seemed clearer. The prevalent impression sometimes doubtless exaggerated of a falling away of cultural status of the Mayas through interecine feuds at the time of the discovery was sustained in the caves examined by us. The floor layers were richest just below the top. Signs of steady advance along the northeast seaboard region of the United States, of decadence in the Ohio Valley to the southward and in Central America constitute the only original testimony which I am able to offer in answer to your question. * * * without giving up a belief in a wider evolution of barbarism into more civilized humanity we may well admit that among many isolated communities like those in the New World many had lost step and had fallen backward in the march. On the other hand, I would expect to see no sign of decline in many parts of the New World like Mexico.

UNITY OF THE RACE.

There are several fundamental religious ideas common to all the American tribes, from Alaska to Patagonia. 1st, The creation of the world from chaos. 2d, The deluge. 3d, A good mind and an evil mind ruling over the universe. 4th, Adoration of the heavenly bodies as types of the Creator." (Bricks from Babel, p. 152). 5th, A "Savior and friend of man to appear." This belief of a coming Savior among the red race in North America is called, by the whites, "the Messiah craze," but His expected appearance is celebrated in what is called the "ghost dance." (See Myths of the New World, p. 225; Prehistoric America, pp. 291, 527). 6th, The immortality of the soul. (Bricks from Babel, p. 132).

Most nations have a Moses. In the United States it is Washington or Lincoln. In China it is Confucius. In Persia it is Zoroaster. In Assyria it is Minus or Asyur. In Greece it was Solan. So in this way nations have a law giver, or some great leader. These men stand separate and apart in their life work, but beyond them, as we go back in history tradition, we find that they all hold some ideas of men and events in common. These ideas which are held in common prove the unity of the races of those so holding them, and that these ideas were an inheritance to them before they separated from the parent stock. Kersey Graves says that in the religions of the Old World there are three cardinal principles which are the same in each, viz., 1st, The primeval innocence of man. 2d, His temptation and downfall. 3d, His restoration to divine favor by the death of a God. (See his Bible of Bibles, p. 335). These ideas had at some time a common origin; such things do not happen by accident. "We cannot overlook the unity of the physical type throughout the continent," says Prof. Brinton.

"The American race is physically more homogeneous than any other on the globe. There is no mistaking a group of American Indians, whether they come from Chili or from Canada, from the shores of the Hudson Bay, or the banks of the Amazon. And this superficial resemblance is a correct indication of what a close anatomical study confirms." (Myths of the New World, p. 52.) Again he says, "Without accepting, unreservedly, all the conclusion, I shall show how correct they are in the main when applied to the myths of the New World, and thereby illustrate how the red race is one of blood, and one of faith with our own remote ancestors in heathen Europe and Central Asia." (Ibid p. 135). Again he says, "Striking analogies in grammatical construction have been recognized, not only in the more perfect languages, such as this of the Incas (of Peru). The Amara, the Guarani, and the Mexicans, but also in languages which are extremely rude." (Ibid, p. 6). "It is probable," says Nadailac, "though we cannot positively assert it, that both the Amara and the Guarani peoples of Peru sprang from Nahua races." (Prehistoric America, p. 406). "The Toltecs, Chichimecs or Aztecs are branches of the Nahua stock." (Ibid, p. 15). Members of the Uto-Aztecan stock are found," says Prof. Brinton, "scattered from the Columbia River to Panama." (American Archeology, p. 313, and Myths of the New World, p. 42). Cyrus Thomas says, "The Toltecs of Mexico, by famine, pestilence and war, disappeared from the land as silently and mysteriously as they had entered it." (American Archeology, p. 236). Again he says, "The Toltec and Maya ancestors were the same." (Ibid, p. 240). "Widely separated families of the same stock indicate extreme movements in the past," says Mr. Thomas. (American Archeology, p. 313).

Dr. Newell states that "Great tribes have been gradually breaking up into bands, jealousies arise and separations follow." Ibid, p. 337.

"In case of a disagreement in a band the dissatisfied party move off to a little distance and take the name of the ground they occupy, or any one desirous of establishing a band on his own account induces a party of his immediate followers to accompany him and start, as it were, a new colony. It is in this separation and to the petty hostilities which often grow out of it, that we must mainly attribute the diversity of dialects prevailing." American Archeology, p. 374.

"Families and whole villages suddenly drop words and manufacture others in their place out of mere caprice or superstition, and a few years separation suffice to produce a marked dialectic difference, though it is everywhere true that the basic radicals of each stock and the main outlines of its grammatical forms reveal a surprising tenacity in the midst of these surface changes." Myths of the New World, pp. 20, 21.

Prof. Huston says, "Travelers among the Brazilian Indians tell us that when a branch of a tribe has long lived apart from the main stock, it develops different customs, and a totally different language. This is probably universally the case with savages, and it is no doubt the reason why the great diversity of languages among the black, the red and the yellow races is nowhere supplied with a clew which shall enable us to trace them to any common origin." Beginnings of Civilization, p. 107.

"The spoken and the written language of a nation reveals to us its prevailing, and to a certain degree, its unavoidable mode of thought; here the red race offers a notable phenomenon. Scarcely any other trait, physical or mental, binds together its scattered clans so unmistakably as this of language. From the frozen ocean to the land of fire, with few exceptions the native dialects, though varying endlessly in words, are alike in certain peculiarities of construction, certain morphological features rarely found elsewhere on the globe, and nowhere else with such persistence." Myths of the New World, p. 18.

[CONCLUDED NEXT WEEK.]

STAKE ORGANIZED.

Pursuant to the instructions in the late revelation, the Presidency of the church, the quorum of Twelve, and the Bishopric assembled with the Saints of the Independence district yesterday, Wednesday, and organized the Independence Stake. Bro. G. H. Hulmes was chosen president, W. H. Garrett and J. D. White counsellors, and Bishop

R. May and his counsellors, W. H. Pease and W. N. Robinson were chosen as the Bishopric. A High Council of twelve high priests was also organized, and the stake organization, as completed, was then turned over to the stake officials by President Joseph Smith in behalf of the Presidency and the council. We have not time nor space this week for a full account, but will give the account in detail in next week's issue.

NOTICE.

To the Ministry and Saints of Decatur District, Greeting:—You are hereby informed and requested to attend a meeting at Lamoni, April 30, 1901, at 2 p. m. The object of this meeting will be for the purpose of organizing the "stake" as required by the revelation of the 15th inst.

In bonds,

ROBT. M. ELVIN,
Dist. Pres.

DIED.

(One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Advertisements should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.)

POWERS.—At Denver, Colorado, March 30, 1901, Bro. Clifford Ray Powers, aged 18 years, 6 months, and 3 days. He was baptized at Independence, Missouri, April 17, 1898, by Apostle R. C. Evans, confirmed same date by Apostles E. G. Briggs and A. H. Smith. Burial from the Saints' church Sunday, March 31, at 2 p. m., in charge of Elder E. F. Shupe. Sermon by Elder J. B. Roush.

SHORES.—At St. Joseph, Missouri, March 27, 1901, Sr. Emma Della Shores. She was born April 4, 1861, in Ohio, and was baptized in 1890. Passed through many dark clouds of trials. Lived faithful to the end, passed over with the assurance of a trait in the first resurrection. Funeral sermon was preached by Elder J. S. Roth in the Saints' church St. Joseph, March 25, 1901, assisted by Elder H. O. Smith.

BLUES

Ever have them?
Then we can't tell you anything about them. You know how dark everything looks and how you are about ready to give up. Somehow, you can't throw off the terrible depression.

Are things really so blue? Isn't your nerves, after all? That's where the trouble is. Your nerves are being poisoned from the impurities in your blood.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

purifies the blood and gives power and stability to the nerves. It makes health and strength, activity and cheerfulness.

This is what "Ayer's" will do for you. It's the oldest Sarsaparilla in the land, the kind that was old before other Sarsaparillas were known.

This also accounts for the saying, "One bottle of Ayer's is worth three bottles of the ordinary kind."

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

Write the Doctor.
If you have any complaint whatever and desire the best medical advice you can get, send us your name and address free. You will receive a prompt reply, without cost, at our office,
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 12.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1901

NUMBER 18.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can afford it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the bank.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo

Box B.

LIGHT AND COMFORT.

The hearts of many of the Saints, if not of the entire membership of the church, were made to thrill with gladness when in the issue of the Herald for March 20th last they read the announcement that Sunday, March 31st, had been set apart by the Presidency of the church as a day of fasting and prayer for the blessings of light, direction and comfort upon the soon assembling General Conference. Many felt that this would be an acceptable offering to our heavenly Father evidencing our sense of dependency upon His guidance and of our willingness to accept whatever His wisdom should reveal to us, whether of reproof, admonition or commendation. Many, very many prayers had been addressed to the divine One for such blessing, but this request of the Presidency met with a ready and joyous response uniting the whole as one at a set time that the Lord would indeed favor Zion.

Nor did the intercessions cease with the general offering of March 31st; Sunday, April 7th, the ministry assembled in the lower auditorium of the church at Independence, Missouri, in fasting, and sought the Most High in earnest, humble supplication; and how richly were they repaid. The Holy Spirit rested upon the assembly, inspiring heart, mind and tongue, and the experiences of that morning will remain with some as long as memory lasts. Among the spiritual and comprehensive prayers uttered, one offered by Elder Metuare and translated by Elder Burton was remarkable in the light of subsequent events, showing how nearly his heart and mind were influenced to that which was to be revealed. At the close of this service Pres. Joseph Smith spoke in comfort and assurance to the ministry; it is unfortunate there was no one present to record it. Many regrets were expressed that it was not taken down.

Still the burden rested upon some, and again, on Sunday, April 14th, the ministry met in the same room in fasting and prayer, while in the upper auditorium the laity were similarly engaged under the leadership of President Joseph Smith, and again did the Lord pour out His Holy Spirit abundantly and there was comfort and assurance in the assembly. When, therefore, on the following day, April 15th, at the regular business session, immediately following the preliminary opening exercises and reading of minutes, President Smith vacated the chair, calling President E. L. Kelley to preside, and proceeded to address the Conference in presenting the "Statement and Revelation" which had been received by him Sunday night, a wave of thanksgiving passed over the assembly and in a stillness that testified to the intensity of feeling of that vast audience they listened, hanging to every word as it fell in solemn and impressive tones from the lips of God's servant, bringing in the fullest sense "light, direction and comfort," for which earnest and repeated supplication had been made. Every heart was filled with joy and gladness, that in that which was revealed there was witnessed that the time to favor Zion had truly come, and new life, energy and consecration was manifest in the happy faces of those assembled on that memorable occasion.

In the searching examination given the "Statement and Revelation" in the quorums, there was never a doubt manifest. It spoke in plain, decisive and unmistakable terms, and the unanimous acceptance accorded it, leaves but the fulfillment of its instructions to not only realize the blessings it is designed to bring in its immediate train, but also prepares those who faithfully observe it and the former commandments given for their guidance to receive additional favor in instruction when the requirements of the work shall manifest its necessity.

At the close of a somewhat lengthy Conference the ministry, delegates and visitors departed for their homes and fields feeling that their waiting upon the Lord had indeed been profitable and good, and the brethren of the ministry went out with courage greatly renewed and spirits mightily strengthened for a successful warfare in the conflict before them the coming year; and truly they could take courage in the glorious extension and forwarding of the great latter day work. New fields, never before entered, are being prepared. China, Japan, Portugal and other places must be visited with the everlasting gospel. Australia, Great Britain and the islands of the sea must be more fully organized, and that which evidences the favor of God for Zion—the organizing of a Stake at the latter place, and at Lamoni, Iowa, the seat of the Presidency—all unite in witnessing that the "hastening time" is hastening on, necessitating that the Saints must prepare themselves for higher conditions or be classed among those who are "not wise." "Light, direction and comfort" were answered upon us. What shall be the record of our appreciation of its bestowal? Praise ye the Lord all ye His Saints, Ye messengers of His that do His will.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, STAKE.

One of the most important events in the history of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ, occurred at Independence, Missouri, Wednesday, April 24, 1901, when the first Stake in its history was organized. There was a good sized assembly present, including a number from other branches in the district. A spirit of deep interest and expectancy pervaded the congregation, all seeming to be impressed with the momentous import of the movement about to be inaugurated.

Promptly at two o'clock p. m., the hour appointed for the opening of session, Elder W. H. Garrett, president of the Independence branch, called the attention of the assembly to the work before it, by announcing his readiness to receive nominations for presiding officers for the assembly, and on motion of Bishop R. May and Elder Josiah Curtis, Sr., President Joseph Smith and his counselors were so chosen. On successive motions Elder R. S. Salyards, Lamoni, Iowa, church secretary, was chosen secretary of the assembly, Sr. Belle James, Independence, Missouri, stenographer, and Sr. M. Eunice Winn, Kansas City, Missouri, assistant stenographer.

President Joseph Smith made a few remarks as to the officials to be selected and installed, and stated that it was his understanding that the organization of the Stake superseded the district organization; that the presidency of the Stake would replace the district presidency, and so far as the Independence branch presidency was concerned, the presidency of the Stake should be the presidency of the Independence branch.

On motion of Bishop G. H. Hilliard and Elder W. H. Garrett, the action of General Conference in authorizing the joint council of the Presidency and Twelve to provide for the organization of the Independence, Missouri, Stake, was approved, and they were authorized to proceed with the organization. The president answered a number of questions regarding the organization, and read a communication from Elder W. H. Garrett, resigning the presidency of the Independence, Missouri, branch. On motion the resignation was accepted, and a vote of thanks tendered for past services. Bishop R. May also presented his resignation as president of the Independence, Missouri, district, which was on motion accepted, and a vote of appreciation of his faithful services of the past was given him.

President Joseph Smith then stated that he had been authorized by the joint council to present names of high priests for president of the stake; if the first named was not accepted, he would then present another until choice was made. He then announced the name of George H. Hulmes, and on motion of Bishop R. May and High Priest J. A. Robinson, the nomination was endorsed by the assembly, Bro. Hulmes stating his willingness to accept the office and do the best he could.

The following brethren were recommended by the joint council for seven high priests who were to choose five others, making twelve to form the High Council of the Stake: H. R. Mills, W. H. Garrett, W. R. Pickering, James Moler, Alexander McCallum, John D. White and A. H. Parsons. The president announced that if from these brethren the president of the Stake chose his counselors, he would present two other names to fill the vacancies.

On separate motions the brethren named were accepted by the body, they each submitting themselves as willing to abide the decision of the assembly.

The president stated he was further authorized to present the name of Bishop R. May and his counselors, High Priest W. H. Pease and Elder W. N. Robinson, to be the bishopric of the Stake, and on motion the nomination was unanimously ratified by the body.

Bro. Hulmes announced as his counselors Brn. W. H. Garrett and John D. White respectively. On motion the choice was ratified by the body. The names of Elders B. J. Scott to take the place of W. H. Garrett in the High Council and George Hawley to take the place of John D. White, were then presented by President Smith, and were approved by the body.

The resignation of Bro. D. Robert Winn, of Kansas City,

Missouri, as secretary and treasurer of the Independence district, was read and, on motion, accepted. A motion also prevailed that Bro. Winn account to the bishop of the Stake for all funds of the district in his possession.

The brethren chosen were then called to the rostrum, and in impressive solemnity they were ordained in the following order:

1. George H. Hulmes, president of the Stake, by Brn. W. H. Kelley and F. G. Pitt.

2. Wm. H. Garrett, first counselor to president of Stake, by Brn. E. L. Kelley and Heman C. Smith.

3. John D. White, high priest and second counselor to president of Stake, by Brn. H. C. Smith and E. L. Kelley.

4. Henry R. Mills, high priest and High Council, by Brn. F. G. Pitt and E. L. Kelley.

5. W. R. Pickering, High Council, by Brn. W. H. Kelley and Heman C. Smith.

6. Alex. McCallum, high priest and High Council, by Brn. E. L. Kelley and F. G. Pitt.

7. James Moler, High Council, by Brn. H. C. Smith and W. H. Kelley.

8. George Hawley, high priest and High Council, by Brn. F. G. Pitt and E. L. Kelley.

9. Alonzo H. Parsons, High Council, by Brn. W. H. Kelley and H. C. Smith.

10. B. J. Scott, high priest and High Council, by Brn. E. L. Kelley and F. G. Pitt.

At the conclusion of these ordinations an intermission was taken to permit those ordained to retire and make choice of the five remaining members of the High Council.

These brethren immediately assembled in the primary department room of the Sunday School, and after engaging in solemn and earnest prayer, and the election of Bro. J. D. White as secretary, proceeded to make selection as instructed, with the following result, each name being presented and nominated and by separate vote acted upon:

1. Elder Frank Criley.
2. Elder Alfred White.
3. Elder Clayton G. Gould.
4. Priest Wm. H. Williamson.
5. Elder Frederick Searcliff.

The council was dismissed by benediction and returned to the assembly room with their recommendations.

The brethren named were each interrogated, and stating their willingness to serve, were called to the rostrum and thus ordained:

11. Frank Criley, high priest and High Council, by Brn. W. H. Kelley and F. G. Pitt.

12. Wm. H. Williamson, high priest and High Council, by Brn. H. C. Smith and E. L. Kelley.

13. Alfred White, high priest and High Council, by Brn. F. G. Pitt and W. H. Kelley.

14. Clayton G. Gould, high priest and High Council, by Brn. W. H. Kelley and H. C. Smith.

15. Frederick Scardiff, high priest and High Council, by Brn. E. L. Kelley and H. C. Smith.

President Joseph Smith, on behalf of the joint council, which stood adjourned to meet at Lamoni, Iowa, Tuesday, April 30, 1901, turned over the work done in the organization to the authorities as constituted.

President Hulmes made some earnest and feeling remarks relative to the responsibilities and necessities before the members and officers of the Stake, asking that the officers should be sustained in their work in forwarding the interests of the kingdom of God.

At 7:30 p. m. the assembly again met, and after the usual opening exercises, Bro. D. Robert Winn was, on motion, elected secretary of the Stake. The remaining time of the session, until nine o'clock, was occupied in asking questions of President Smith, relative to the proper procedure on certain lines, and the relative duties attaching to each branch of the officials of the organization. At the conclusion a hymn was sung and benediction was pronounced by president Joseph Smith, completing the proceedings of the first public meeting in the Stake.

The spirit of peace and unity so markedly manifest in the organization proceedings of the afternoon was a strong testimony to the acceptance by our heavenly Father of the work done in obedience to His instructions given at the late Conference, and every faithful Saint present rejoiced at the signal evidence of the favor of God in the long expected advanced position they were now permitted to occupy. The future seems bright and auspicious for the progress of the Lord's work, and all seemed to be imbued with an earnest desire to perform their individual part, by which they should be commended to the Father for further light, direction and guidance.

There were present of the Council, Presidents Joseph Smith, A. H. Smith and E. L. Kelley; of the quorum of Twelve, W. H. Kelley, Heman C. Smith, Joseph Luff, J. R. Lambert, I. N. White, R. C. Evans, J. W. Wight, James Caffall, J. H. Lake, G. T. Griffiths, Peter Anderson, and E. C. Briggs; E. L. Kelley and G. H. Hilliard of the Bishopric, and F. G. Pitt, R. M. Elvin and J. A. Robinson of the General High Council, other members of the Council having returned to their homes at the adjournment of Conference.

Thus ended an experience that will linger long in the memory of those who were privileged to participate in its blessings.

LAMONI, IOWA, STAKE.

The Lamoni Stake was organized this (Tuesday) afternoon, April 30th. The presidency and quorum of Twelve met this morning in joint session, as per direction of General Conference, and took the matter of organization under advisement.

At 2 o'clock p. m. the Saints' of the district met at the church and Bro. R. M. Elvin, the district president, called the meeting to order, and moved that President Joseph Smith be chosen chairman; this prevailed, and President Smith then took the chair; Bro. R. S. Salyards was chosen secretary. Hymn No. 110 was sung, followed by prayer by President Smith.

The chairman then stated the purpose of the meeting, and that certain conclusions had been reached by the council appointed by the Conference.

A motion that organization of the Stake be acquiesced in, carried. It was voted, in harmony with the recommendation of the committee, that the name of the Stake be the LAMONI STAKE.

The district and branch president each presented their resignations which were accepted, and a vote of thanks tendered for past services.

The committee then presented the name of Bro. John Smith as president of Stake, who nominated Bro. J. A. Gunsolley as first counselor, and Bro. David W. Wight as second counselor. They also presented the following as seven members of the High Council of the Stake, these seven, together with the Stake president and his counselors, to nominate the remaining five: F. A. Smith, J. R. Evans, F. B. Blair, R. J. Lambert, H. A. Stebbins, F. E. Cochran and J. S. Snively. Bro. Cochran declined and Bro. M. M. Turpen was nominated in his stead. All of these nominations were approved by the body. Bro. William Anderson, with Bro. F. M. Weld as first counselor and Bro. F. M. Smith as second counselor, were nominated and approved by the assembly as the Bishopric of the Stake.

The presidency of the Stake and members of the High Council were then ordained. Apostles Joseph Luff and R. C. Evans and High Priests R. M. Elvin and I. N. Roberts were appointed to attend to the ordinations. John Smith was ordained by Evans and Roberts; J. A. Gunsolley by Luff and Elvin; D. W. Wight by Roberts and Evans; F. A. Smith by Elvin and Luff; R. J. Lambert by Evans and Roberts; J. R. Evans by Luff and Elvin; F. B. Blair by Roberts and Evans; M. M. Turpen by Elvin and Luff; Joseph Snively by Evans and Roberts, and H. A. Stebbins by Luff and Elvin.

Those ordained then retired to choose the five remaining members. President Smith made a few remarks in explanation of the new conditions now surrounding the people of Lamoni Stake.

Hymn No. 696 was sung, and an intermission was had. At 4:25 o'clock the Council returned and presented the following names which were approved: I. N. Roberts, C. H. Lake, R. S. Salyards, Duncan Campbell, D. J. Krahl. I. N. Roberts was ordained by Griffiths and Evans; D. J. Krahl by Elvin and Luff; Duncan Campbell by Evans and Griffith; C. H. Lake by Luff and Elvin; R. S. Salyards by Griffiths and Evans.

It was ordered that the district treasurer turn over all funds and papers on hand to the bishop of the Stake.

Bro. B. M. Anderson was chosen secretary of the Stake.

The question was asked whether the remaining officers of the Lamoni branch and other branches would remain as they now exist. To this the chairman replied that it was the decision of the Presidency and the Twelve that they would remain the same.

Hymn No. 149 was sung and the meeting was dismissed by President Smith.

G. L. K.

LAMONI, IA., April 30.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

SR. H. B. CURTIS, editor of Daughters of Zion department, requests that those having correspondence for the Daughters of Zion department will send communications to Mrs. H. B. Curtis, Independence, Missouri, Care Mrs. C. J. Clark, until further notice, and same will be forwarded. On account of visiting various points for a few weeks and having no permanent address, the above notice is given.

The annual conference of the church in the Society Islands was held at Papeete, Tahiti, April 1st to 15th. Quite an extensive program was prepared, printed in French, Tahitian and English, and distributed, the ENSIGN being favored with a copy, by the kindness of Sr. J. W. Peterson, we presume.

The Religio convened at eight o'clock a. m. April 3d, the general officers elected being as follows: President, Neri, of Arutua; vice president, Bori, of Kaurua; second vice president, J. W. Peterson; secretary, Alfred Sanford, Papeete; assistant secretary, Hiti, of Tikahau. It was decided to admit members without regard to age. It was also decided that non-members of the church may become members of the Religio, with understanding that they will be expelled if they do not report. Temai, of Niau, was made treasurer. The next convention will assemble three days before conference.

The Sunday School convened at 9 a. m., April 4th. Seven schools represented. General officers were elected and routine business transacted.

April 5th, a program of song and religious dialogues was rendered. The mayor and his private secretary attended, and were pleased with the exercises. Sr. J. W. Peterson was elected foreign correspondent. The mails for steamer closed as this was completed, and we have no further account of the conference proceedings as yet.

THE DAILY ENSIGN.

We have on hand a number of each issue of the DAILY ENSIGN, and can furnish complete files to any address on receipt of 15 cents; or if you want them bound in a manilla paper cover, we will send them in this form for 25 cents. Order at once if you want them as our supply is limited. Address,

Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Sr. M. A. Richner has returned to her home at Kirtland, Ohio, after a pleasant visit with her son, Bro. W. O. Hands, of Kansas City, since last August.

Rev. Thomas Poppewell, of the Christian church, and his family left here Wednesday for Ponca, Indian Territory, where, it is said, they will make their home.

Bro. and Sr. Royal Brocaw have a dear little daughter to care for since Saturday morning of last week. Sr. Brocaw is a daughter of Bro. and Sr. T. W. Chatburn.

Elder J. C. Foss preached at Rich Hill, Missouri, last Sunday, baptized two and blessed one child. He reports there are a number of cases of smallpox in that place, one death resulting Sunday. He will go to Atchison, Kansas, his field of labor, Saturday.

Irena Belle Burch, who was born at Independence, Missouri, March 19, 1891, was baptized at this place April 24th, by Elder W. H. Kelley, and confirmed same date by Elders J. W. Wight and R. M. Elvin. She will be a member of the First Kansas City branch.

Some brother left a copy of "Hill's Manual," with a number of notes and addresses, on the pulpit of the Independence church during conference. It will be forwarded to him on receipt of his address, there being no name in it by which its owner can be identified.

Sr. M. C. Bowker, who has been ailing for some months past, departed this life last Sunday morning, April 28th, about seven o'clock, aged about seventy-two years. The funeral took place from the church Tuesday morning at ten o'clock, in charge of Bishop May, Bishop G. H. Hilliard preaching the sermon. Her daughter from Indiana was present at the funeral.

The Prayer Union held its weekly meeting last Thursday, nine being present, including Sr. Emma Burton, who gave an interesting account of those in the island of Tahiti, showing their interest in the prayer meetings, and how they had progressed in their manner of bearing testimony. Although few in number the blessing of the Spirit brought joy and peace.

Last Sunday morning Bro. R. C. Evans, of the Canada mission, presented a very plain and forcible discourse on the foundation of infant baptism as stated by those who are adherents of the doctrine. His text was, "Every plant that my heavenly Father hath not planted shall be rooted up." At 7:30 p. m. Bro. R. M. Elvin, of Lamoni, Iowa, was the speaker, his theme being "The Love of God." The afternoon service was very spiritual and cheering.

Bro. J. W. Layton, who has been visiting his family for a few days during conference, left with his household goods for his new home, Fairmont, Colorado, Wednesday afternoon; Sr. Layton and daughter Irena, leave tomorrow, Friday. They will be accompanied by Bro. and Sr. J. F. Burton and Bro. Metuaore on their way to California, the latter contemplating taking the June boat for his island home. Bro. Burton and Metuaore visited Lamoni, Iowa, over last Sunday.

During the session of Conference, on Sunday, April 14th, Ratna Sena Nayaka, of Colombo, Ceylon, was baptized in Shultz's pond by Elder J. M. Terry. He was confirmed by President Joseph Smith and Elder J. M. Terry the same day. He is a very bright young man twenty-six years old, a college graduate, and now studying medicine in Chicago. He will doubtless make a useful man when he returns to his native land. He has two years yet to complete his studies. He gave two very interesting lectures in the church while at Independence, and one at the Armstrong, Kansas, branch, which were much enjoyed and appreciated. He left for Chicago early this week.

Bro. James Bert Smith who went to East Las Vegas, New Mexico, in the hopes of benefiting his health, succumbed to the disease which had seized upon him, consumption, April 13th. His remains were brought here Sunday evening, the 14th, and the funeral took place from the church, Tuesday the 16th, Bro. S. W. L. Scott preaching the sermon. Bro. and Sr. H. R. Mills kindly cared for the family and relatives, the remains of Bro. Smith being kept by Bro. and Sr. C. A. Roell, next door, until the funeral, Bro. and Sr. Mills being crowded with conference visitors in addition to the bereaved ones. Bro. Smith was a faithful, upright man and Saint, and his early demise was a source of universal regret. The family departed for Kansas after the funeral.

Grandma Davison, mother of Mrs. J. F. Burton and J. W. Layton, who has resided among us for a number of years, accompanies Sr. Layton to Colorado tomorrow. She regrets, as do Bro. and Sr. Layton, the circumstances which makes the change necessary, as they delight in the associations here, but are in hopes of returning in due time. Grandma desires in this way to thank all her many friends for their kindness and consideration towards her. She will always treasure these associations which have been so pleasant to her, and hopes to be still remembered in her absence. May our heavenly Father abundantly care for her and hers. She has been and is a faithful Saint, loved and esteemed by all who know her, for her cheerful disposition and loving spirit. May peace abide with her.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Yesterday was a most beautiful spring day. All nature in verdure clad seemed to revive our spirits.

Services were exceptionally good and very well attended. Four hundred and fourteen were present at Sunday School, and the main floor of the auditorium was filled at preaching service. Bro. Metuaore was invited to address the Sunday School which he did through Bro. J. F. Burton, interpreter. He spoke of being pleased to meet with the Sunday School here, and related the good work done by Sr. Emma Burton in the Sunday School in his own country. Bro. Metuacore preached at eleven o'clock, taking for his text, "Ye are the light of the world." Bro. Burton acted as interpreter. Apostle James Caffall addressed the Saints in the evening.

Bro. George T. Kelley, of Plainview, Nebraska, is visiting his brothers, Bishop E. L. and Apostle W. H. Kelley.

Sr. Anna Salyards was called last Friday to Depue, Illinois, by telegram, announcing the death of her brother-in-law, Mr. Warren Sweeney.

Sr. Pearl Stubbart, daughter of Elder J. M. Stubbart, is critically ill with fever. We trust through the ordinance of administration she may yet receive relief from suffering.

Last Saturday afternoon the funeral service of Bro. Moses McHarness was held at the church. Bro. McHarness was born in Lincolnshire, England, July 31, 1824; was baptized in 1846, and ordained to the eldership immediately, removing to America in 1856. In 1868 he heard the elders of the Reorganization, and recognizing the doctrine they presented as the gospel, he united with them. For the last twenty years he has lived here, the last fourteen months had been afflicted. His wife, one son, and four daughters mourn his departure. Patriarch A. H. Smith preached the funeral sermon, assisted by President Joseph Smith.

G. L. K.

April 29.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.
Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street. Services: Wednesday evening, prayer service. Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave., services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social service 2:30 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Bro. G. W. Robley visited with us a few days of the past week on his way eastward; he left Thursday morning; was present and assisted in presiding at the prayer service Wednesday evening.

Bro. B. St. John, of Canada, was in the city Monday evening, but left on an early train for the north and home.

Thursday afternoon from the church, Sr. Marcy Molyneaux, aged but nineteen, was carried to her last quiet resting place in beautiful Bellefontaine cemetery. The funeral service was in charge of Bro. M. H. Bond and Russell Archibald. All that human hands could do to beautify and embellish the sacred edifice in her honor, was done, and as we gazed enraptured upon the beauty of lovely flowers and graceful palms, this thought came to us very forcefully: Immortal life is something to be earned, by slow, self-conquest, comradeship with pain.

Sr. Bessie Trowbridge, and little son Myron, Bro. M. H. Bond and Sr. Fred Johnson are among the late arrivals from Conference.

Bro. Bond occupied the rostrum twice yesterday, enjoying splendid liberty, and speaking to large, attentive audiences. Afternoon social service in charge of Bro. John Parrish and John Beard. The service was a refreshing, quiet, well occupied time of devotion. At its close a number were administered to; we have a number who are not well.

Bro. J. G. Smith visited Oak Hill mission yesterday occupying hour of service. Bro. Ches. Remington preached at Belleville.

Yesterday morning at Sunday School the review was in charge of Sr. Florence Burgess; we lack words to express our appreciation of the beautiful thought brought out, and the deep import of her well chosen words.

ETTA.

April 29.

DENVER, COLORADO.
Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening Zion's Religio-Literary Society Sunday evening at 6 p. m.

The weather has changed from winter to summer and left the spring out.

Bro. C. R. Duncan and J. B. Roush have returned from Conference.

Elder J. B. Wildermuth, of the missionary force, arrived Friday and preached at the church Sunday morning. He will leave in a few days for Cheyenne and other parts of Wyoming.

Elder J. B. Roush was the speaker at the Sunday evening service.

Elder T. W. Williams is announced to speak Tuesday evening.

There are three candidates for baptism for next Sunday.

Bro. Otto A. Westland met with a fall in the shop where he was working, Friday afternoon, and broke his right arm above the elbow.

April 29.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.
Services at "Druid's Temple," Cor. 14th and Folsom Sts. Sunday School 9:45 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sacrament meeting on first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

Sunday, April 7th, preaching at 11 a. m. by Bishop C. A. Parkin, and at 7:45 p. m. by Albert Haws. J. A. Saxe preached at Oakland in the morning and J. A. Anthony at Berkeley. The writer at Irvington and administered the sacrament. We had a very pleasant Easter service, about a dozen Saints having gathered at the home of Bro. and Sr. Chase—formerly Sr. Lizzie Driver. Bro. Chase is the presiding elder there. They hold Sunday School every Sunday and thus keep the work rolling. Bro. Cook from San Benito county, having recently moved there with his family, will be quite an assistance.

Last Sunday J. A. Saxe was the speaker at both the morning and evening service. Bishop Parkin held forth at Oakland at the morning hour; Priest Balshan at Berkeley at 11 a. m.

From the above you can see that we are not very idle here Sundays. Though laboring for a livelihood all the week, we can still find time to gather a few gospel ideas to present to the people on Sunday. We also hold prayer meeting every Wednesday evening, which are well attended and the Holy Spirit generally present.

The Sisters' Prayer Union meets every Thursday afternoon and the Religio has its sessions every Friday evening; it is always well attended. A full house is the regular report. It is doing good work in Book of Mormon study. All well here.

Geo. S. LINCOLN.

April 19.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

ARTHUR, Ont., March 23.

Dear Ensign:—We gladly report the steady and onward growth of our branch. On the 20th the writer had the pleasure of baptizing another young man, and also on the following evening had the pleasure of uniting him in wedlock to one of our young sisters. The night of the baptism I believe I can say was a test of one's earnestness for obeying the gospel, for the night was very stormy and cold, and the water below the ice was up to my breast when I went in. We feel happy to see the steady growth and many being added to our branch, in fact, my heart rejoices to look over the past six years, when first the sweet story was told here, and only a very few here, and now, as a result of such a few years' labor, somewhere about eighty or more are enrolled. We have one of the prettiest churches in Canada, erected, paid for, and of late, have painted and decorated the inside complete; we have two banners painted, one on the right and one on the left, with the angel's message to earth (Rev. 14:6) printed on one banner, and the Master's declaration as recorded in Matthew 24:14, "That this gospel [that is, the restored gospel] of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations and then shall the end come," on the other.

We are preparing to give the district a hearty welcome here in June for conference, and we hope to see a large turnout. We will be prepared to welcome all, and hope, as we are centrally located, that Saints will not miss this chance. We should all try and spend our holidays by attending the conferences; we get spiritual food there that we may not get at home, and instead of spending our money for shows and sporting games, and a lot of nonsense, we should seek to spend our money for the work of the Lord.

We all need days of recreation from our year's toil, both missionaries and branch officers, yes, all, and Saints should attend the district conferences if possible. To me it seems a duty, and while some may make excuses on account of financial conditions, I have heard people make excuses like that in the church, and when a circus was around they could take the whole family, or indulge unwisely in other recreations, and yet no time nor money for conference; no tithing, what a pity Saints are so foolish; to me that a mistake, surely it seems to me as if they do not seem to estimate the value of their time and opportunity, and the value of this great work. May we all do labor with an eye single to the building up of God's kingdom.

We think we can speak for Arthur branch, that we extend a hearty welcome to the district to attend conference here. I have not heard one voice in the branch against it. Some think that unless the Lord speaks to us by tongues or prophecy that the conference is a failure; but to me to learn is as profitable as to hear a revelation, for we are all entitled to revelation each day in our prayers, if God sees we need it, and if we, as a body, do not receive a word from the Lord, why He does not speak unless there is some call for it. There are nine spiritual gifts, and Solomon's choice is the best, a little good common sense, or wisdom. It is our privilege to have all the graces of the gospel, and God's pleasure to give the gifts of the gospel; I believe if we put on the virtues and graces of the gospel, which is wholly our work, the gifts will follow, and God will divide to every man severally as He will.

Earnestly your brother,
Geo. BUSCHLEN.

SALT LAKE CITY, U., April 2.

Editor Ensign:—There are signs of improvement in the branch here. Recently Bro. T. Thoreson was ordained an elder and elected president. We hope soon to find a priest and teacher who can engage actively in the work. Bro. G. H. Hilliard, E. A. Blakeslee and Fred Blair stopped off en route to the General Conference and preached, attracting more than usual attendance and interest. We hope the brethren going to western fields will stop over Sunday in the city and preach for us, notifying us so we can properly advertise their efforts.

I made application today through Apostle Cowley, for the use of ward meeting houses, under certain restrictions. Will write more fully when I learn results.

I can be reached promptly at the subjoined address by mail; telephone No. 012 Y.

W. S. PENDER.

Box 168.

NEYADA, Mo., March 26.

Editor Ensign:—Our branch has been called to pass through one of its severe trials in the death of our brother and former president, H. E. Goff, of which I suppose a full account has been given ere this. While we know our loss is his gain, we cannot help but mourn his dear companionship as a dear brother. His funeral sermon was delivered by our brother, A. H. Parsons, in which our brother's faith was portrayed in a grand and noble manner.

I had the pleasure of listening to one of F. C. Keck's able sermons last night at our little chapel, No. 112 East Hunter street, on "What is man that thou art mindful of him." As I had been reading and pondering over what Bro. Lambert had written in a little book that was presented by dear Bro. Goff's widow and daughters to my son, it did me great good, and helped me to understand better the things of God.

Our branch is in good condition, unity and love abound. Although I am deprived of many of the services on account of being a cripple, yet I love this work dearly, and am sorry that on account of misfortune I cannot do more for it. I know I have much to be thankful for. How I remember the dear Saints whom I was permitted to meet with last fall at the reunion which was held at Eldorado Springs. Won't it be grand when we shake hands with each other and sing praises forever more, never to be parted again?

Why should we mourn for dying friends,

Or shake at death's alarm?
'Tis but the voice that Jesus sends
To call them to his arms.

Love to all the Saints,

Your sister,

N. A. JORDAN.

WEBB CITY, Mo., April 25.

Editor Ensign:—I have been very busy since coming from General Conference. I occupied the stand here both at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. last Sunday, and have continued since with moderate attendance; but there are some attending who are favorable and may unite before long. I go from here to Way City, Kansas, for a week's stay, then on to Oklahoma.

There seems to be no end to opportunity here for preaching, and I am glad the Conference has appointed some active workers to this field—men like Jeff Davis Erwin, who never lay around and do nothing.

We are well pleased with our field workers for Oklahoma for the Conference year, and are hopeful of good results. I would be glad to see the Saints take advantage of that "new country" that is coming in. The southern part I believe to be the better part, and there is good opportunity for the Saints to locate near together, if they keep up with the movements of the opening.

I only mention this to encourage attention toward that country, and I also state that now is the time to begin to prepare, by informing yourselves on how the opening will be made and when, and how to secure the land. I believe it is a mistake for the Saints to sell out and go there before they know what the result will be. For many, very many, who go will surely return disappointed; therefore I think it better not to sell until the opening is made and your claim made secure. So many people get excited, in fact "wild," when the land fever strikes them. In going to a new country in search of a claim it should be like our journey to Zion, "Let all due preparation be made."

I am feeling well and happy in the gospel work. We enjoyed a very spiritual meeting last Sunday, and the writer was blessed with encouraging liberty in presenting the word.

Yours in faith,

R. M. MALONEY.

ONO, Wis., March 3.

Editor Ensign:—I take great pleasure in reading the ENSIGN, finding many helpful and enlightening thoughts, some very good sermons, and many letters of encouragement. From these I am made acquainted with the joys and sorrows, the trials and temptations of many; and also of their faith, hope and confidence in Him who shall change our vile body that it may be fashioned like unto His glorious body.

Since I was baptized in July, '97, I have been made acquainted, to some extent, with God's everlasting work, His plan of salvation, and I find that my natural ways are not His ways, and if I try to serve Him my way I will surely fail. There is pleasure in serving God, for if we walk as He has commanded we can claim the blessings, and will also receive His Holy Spirit, that will bring to our souls joy and comfort, and without His Spirit no true Saint of God can be happy.

Dear Saints, we should awake: I find that some of us are almost asleep, and seem contented with the pleasures that the world offers to us, which we ought not to accept, but should seek to gain those pleasures that the world cannot receive. Pardon me if you think me harsh. In attending meetings what do we go for? I will admit that some go for one thing and some for another. But most all attend for the pleasure they might gain at the meeting; some are satisfied with one kind of pleasure, and some with another. Some take pleasure in slumbering during services, others find enjoyment in watching those who are asleep as they nod their affirmatives to the preaching, or to the testimonies as they are borne, as the case may be. Some have a pleasant little visit, while others are enjoying the pleasures of anticipation that may never be realized.

But it does not seem to me as though we could afford to be in any way careless in regard to the work in which we are engaged. Can our Father in heaven reward us if we do not work? and are we coming up higher as He has commanded that we should? Do we always feel glad that (God sees our every action, and knows our thoughts and the intents of our hearts?) Our life's work will one day be rendered up; do you feel satisfied that it will be acceptable?

Dear Saints, let us pause and consider and remember that we are contending against the powers of darkness, and we will surely be overthrown if we have not the Spirit of God dwelling with us, but we cannot expect to receive that Spirit unless we live worthy of it, for man must live by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

So let us work and labor together for the redemption of Zion, that we might there be gathered, and in the final end receive the reward of our labors, is my prayer.

Your brother in Christ,
M. A. STEED.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

American Archaeology Sustains the Book of Mormon.

Committee on Archaeology, F. M. Sheehy, Wm. Woodhead, W. H. Kelley.

[CONCLUDED.]

In spite of total dissimilarity of climate and other physical surroundings the tribes of the tropics differ no more from those near the Arctic circle than they do among themselves. This is a striking lesson how independent of environment are the essential characteristics of a race, and it is a sweeping refutation of those theories that such characteristics depend upon external agencies. A still more remarkable fact has been demonstrated by Professor J. Kollmann, of Bale; to wit, that the essential physical identity of the American race is as extended in time as it is in space. This accurate student has analyzed the Cranioscopic formulas of the most ancient American skulls, those from the alleged tertiary deposits of the pampas, those from the caverns of Lagoa Santa, in Brazil, that obtained from Rock Bluff, Illinois; the celebrated Calaveras skull from California, and one from Poncelelo in Buena Vista of geological antiquity. His results are most interesting. These very ancient remains prove that in all important craniological indicia the earliest American, those who were contemporaneous of the fossil horse and other long since extinct quadrupeds possessed the same racial character as the natives of the present day, with similar skulls and like physiognomy. We therefore reach the momentous conclusion, that the American race, throughout the whole continent, and from its earliest appearance in time, is and has been ONE, as distinct in type as any race, and from its isolation, probably the purest of all in its racial traits. * * * In the valley of Mexico human remains have been disinterred from a volcanic deposit of supposed tertiary age, and you have all heard of those human footprints which Dr. E. Flint has unearthed in Nicaragua. These are found under layers of compact volcanic tufas, separated. (Essays of an Americanist, pp. 40, 42).

Late writers, Mr. Murdock and Dr. Boas, speak of the Esquimaux migrating from south to north and intermediate points. (pp. 45, 46, Thomas).

The Esquimaux have flint arrow heads and lance heads, not distinguishable from the Indians. (Ibid, p. 49).

Prof. Seyfarth, page 72, Report of the Davenport Academy, volume 3, says, "If we compare the characters on the Davenport slabs with those preserved on Mexican and South American monuments, we notice instantly that many of them agree with each other, as the adjoined plate abundantly evidences. * * * The harmony of the Iowa, Mexican and South American characters puts beyond question that all the primitive inhabitants must have descended from the same aborigines."

The professor concludes, "First, the primitive inhabitants of North America were no pre-Adamites nor offsprings of the monkey, but Noachites. Our Indians, as well as those in Mexico and South America, knew the history of the deluge, especially that Noah's family then consisted of eight persons."

"The cranial forms of the American aborigines have, by some, been supposed to present anomalies distinguishing their race from all others, and even its chief families from one another. This, too, falls to the ground before a rigid analysis. The last word of Craniology, which at one time promised to revolutionize ethnology, and even history, is that no one form of the skull is peculiar to the natives of the New World; that in the same linguistic families one glides into the other by imperceptible degrees, and that there is as much diversity, and the same diversity, among them in this respect, as among the races of the Old Continent."—Myths of the New World, p. 49.

"Anatomy shows nothing unique in the Indian, nothing demanding for its development an antiquity beyond that of other races, still less an original diversity of species." Myths of the New World, p. 50.

"On the other side it has been argued by some ethnologists that the American races are not one stock, the color line is the extreme, and among the earliest ethnologists color and formation afforded the chief data for dividing the human race into families, and assigning each tribe its place. Later, philology claimed to furnish the only proper ground for settling descent and affinities. At present the most able ethnologists admit more largely into their considerations questions of habits, tastes, traditions, peculiar customs, and general likeness." Bricks from Babel, p. 134.

"Aside from the black spots among the natives already mentioned, and the negroes of the United States, there are Negro-loid faces depicted in Central American carvings. Compare the illustrations in Prehistoric America, p. 321, with 269 Atlantis, and 274, 275 Ibid. This is cited by some ethnologists that Central America must have had a colony of Negro-loid people at some time in the distant past.

Pritchard says, "As for color, while it is the most evident, it is the least accurate guide in dividing races. We shall find, for instance, in the Japhetic family shades varying from alabaster fairness to almost blackness. In the Semitic line color will vary from the white, supposed to be the hue of Japheth, to a darker shade than that of some Hamites, while among the race of Ham, we shall find red, brown, yellow, and jet-black." (Pritchard's Natural History of Man).

Herodotus tells us of "eastern and western Ethiopians" (Hamites), "the former in Asia, the latter in Africa," and in his day these two branches were physically distinguished. The historian notes that the Asiatic Cushites had straight hair, the Africans close curled hair. (See Art Cush, Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge, p. 433).

Major James W. Lynd in MS. "Hist. of Dakotas" Library, Historical Society, Minnesota, p. 47, says, "The Dakota child is lighter than the middle aged man, and the middle aged man is lighter than the superannuated homo, who by smoke, paint, dirt, and a drying up of the vital juices, appears to be the true copper-colored Dakota. The color of the Dakota varies with the nation, and also with the age and condition of the individual. It may be set down, however, as a shade lighter than olive, yet it becomes still lighter by change of condition or mode of life, and nearly vanishes, even in the child, under constant ablutions and avoiding of exposure. Those children in the Mission at Hazelwood, who are taken very young, and not allowed to expose themselves, lose almost entirely the olive shade, and become quite as white as the American child. The Mandans are as light as the peasants of Spain, while their brothers, the Crows, are as dark as the Arabs."

We see that the short, curly hair developed in one branch of the Cushite family; changed conditions likely was the cause.

With the Dakotas the child is of lighter complexion than the middle aged, the middle lighter than the old man. Exposure to the sun, smoke, paint, and dirt is likely the cause of the copper color. The Dakota child is about as white with proper care as the American child.

"An examination of the American monuments show that the people represented were in the habit of flattening the skull by artificial means. The Greek and Roman writers had mentioned this practice, but it was totally forgotten by the civilized world, until it was discovered as an unheard of wonder, to be the usage with Carib Islanders and several Indian tribes in North America. It was afterwards found that the ancient Peruvians and Mexicans practiced this art. Several flattened Peruvian skulls are depicted in Morton's Crania-Americana. It is still in use among the Flathead Indians of the northwest part of the United States." Atlantis, p. 268.

Strabo speaks of the same practice among the ancient Scythians. In 1854 Dr. Fitzinger shows that the practice of flattening the head had existed from an early date throughout the east, and described an ancient skull greatly distorted by artificial means, which had lately been found in lower Austria. Skulls similarly flattened have been found in Switzerland and Savoy. The Huns under Attila had the same practice of flattening the heads.

Prof. Anders Retzius proved that the same practice still exists in the south of France, and in parts of Turkey. Not long since a French physician surprised the world by the fact that nurses in Normandy were still giving the children's heads a sugar-loaf shape by bandages and a tight cap. Atlantis, pp. 268, 269.

"On the one hand, the laws of evolution of the higher vertebrates offer no support to the idea that the species Man was developed on the American continent. Its living and fossil fauna are alike devoid of high apes, of tailless monkeys, or those with thirty-two teeth; in the absence of which links we must accept man as an immigrant, not a native of the New World." Myths of the New World, p. 48.

So that the ape shaped head or the long sugar-loafed head is not an evidence of ape ancestors or of a mongrel race prowling around on all fours, but rather evidence of aristocratic caste.

Hippocrates tells us that the practice among the Scythians was for the purpose of giving a certain aristocratic distinction.

Amedee Thierry in his History of Attila says the Huns used it for the same reason, and the same purpose influences the Indians of Oregon. Atlantis, p. 272.

At the discovery the Red race showed signs of decadence and "vestiges of a vanished race, and a culture now lost." Prehistoric America, p. 465.

"The contents of the mounds show that the emigration was from south to the north, as shells from the gulf, obsidian from Mexico, mica from the Alleghanies, copper from Lake Superior, are all found together." Smithsonian Institute, Art. by Squier & Davis. Expeditions in 1846.

"We may venture to suggest that the facts thus far collected point to a connection more or less intimate between the race of the Mound Builders and Semitized, which formerly had their seats among the Sierras of Mexico, upon the plains of Central America and Peru. * * * Also very dense population, a state of society essentially different from that of the modern race of Indians north of the Tropics." Ibid, p. 301.

Prof. H. C. Mercer's book, The Hill Caves of Yucatan: "We had done enough, and seen enough, to establish our conclusions; first, that no earlier inhabitants had preceded the builders of the ruined cities of Yucatan. Second, That the people revealed in the caves had reached the country in geologically recent times. Third, That these people, substantially the ancestors of the present Maya Indians, had not developed their culture in Yucatan, but had brought it with them from elsewhere." p. 177.

Prof. Holmes says: "That the gorget was distinctly the product of the Mound Builder, found in a Tennessee mound. The finding of such an object in the heart of Mexico from the functional character of this Michoacan specimen are plainly the same as those of the pieces from Tennessee, Georgia and Missouri. It can no longer be said that the type is essentially northern or that it belongs exclusively to the Mound Builders of the United States. We must modify

Mr. Holmes' statement, and may say of the Missouri gorget (c) "It is a member of a great family 'not' peculiarly northern." We may emphasize this other statement: "the design upon it affiliates with art of Mexico, and so close and striking are the resemblances that accident cannot account for them, and we are forced to the conclusion that it must be the offspring of the same beliefs and customs, and of the same culture as the art of Mexico."

The cross as a religious symbol seen at Cozumel by Grijalva. Gomara says there were many in other parts of Yucatan. Palacio saw the cross in Copan, also did Clavigero. The cross at Palenque has a bird above it, symbol of the Holy Ghost, called also "Tree of Our Life." Undoubtedly, in many parts of America the natives regarded it with reverence anterior to the arrival of the Europeans. Essays of an Americanist, p. 152, by Brinton.

Charnay found evidence of the cross as a symbol at Lorrillard, p. 449.

The cross was found among the Mound Builders. p. 146 Prehistoric America.

The cross was found in Peru at the time of the conquest. (Priest 273).

One was found in a mound in Chillicothe, Ohio, as mentioned by Priest. "On the breast of this person was found a piece of copper in the form of a cross. Mr. Priest again reaches the conclusion as with the Peruvian cross, that the pre-historic inhabitants of Chillicothe had heard about Christ and the Christian religion." Page 181 American Antiquities.

Atlantis, page 321-22: "In Egypt, Assyria, and Britain, it was emblematic of creative power and eternity; in India, China, and Scandinavia, of heaven and immortality; in the two Americas, of rejuvenescence and freedom from physical suffering; while in both hemispheres it was the common symbol of the resurrection, or the sign of the life to come, and finally in all health-en communities, without exception, it was the emphatic type, the sole enduring evidence of the divine unity."

Prof. W. H. Holmes says: "It is impossible to give a satisfactory explanation of the religious significance of the cross as a religious symbol in America." Art. in Shell of the Ancient Americans—Second annual report of the Bureau of Ethnology, p. 270.

ARCHITECTURE.

"The buildings show the functional part to be largely religious, to wit: again many of the buildings are of such peculiar or specialized plan that we are warranted in assigning them definite to religious uses; such are the so called temples and shrines occurring in almost every group of ruins. They are unfitted for the ordinary purpose of dwelling, assembly or defence, they are restricted in space, are built on pyramids or terraces, reached by steep stairways, and have a solidity of construction, and an overloading of mythological embellishments not demanded by, and hardly consistent with, ordinary secular uses." (p. 22). * * * "Some of the buildings are composite, and show successive accretions or periods of growth, * * * but there are others that stand as perfect units of design, and must have been complete in every detail when the construction began—a master mind controlling the cutting and placing of every stone." (p. 23). Copper chisels are occasionally found as far east as Cozumel. Wood must have been used as it was plentiful. (p. 25, Ancient Cities of Mexico, part I, Field Columbian Museum, Vol. 1, by Holmes).

"Words fail to give a clear notion of the work, for what definite conception is conveyed when it is stated that in a single continuous facade, upwards of twenty thousand stones were used, not only hewn of various special shapes, but each sculpture to represent some individual part of a face, a figure or geometrical design, and all fitted together with such skill as to give the effect of one unbroken whole." (p. 25). None of the stone tools found seem capable of doing the work. The stone tools found are not unlike those now used among the tribes, and are not such as the people who built such structures."

"We are thus led, again and again, to wonder whether it is not possible that metal tools were used, and that traces of their existence, save in the sculptures produced, are wholly obliterated by time." (Archaeological Studies Among the Ancient Cities of Mexico, Part 1, by Prof. W. H. Holmes).

"At Oaxaca," Prof. Holmes says, "as the explorer climbs the slopes and picks his way from summit to summit he is fairly dazzled by the vast array of pyramids and terraces, which not only crown the heights but overspread the steep slopes, destroying traces of natural contour, and making the mountains actual works of art." Page 212, Ibid. Mitla is better and finer masonry than the others. (Holmes).

"The structures of Palenque are grand, the palace complicated and artistic. * * * The new world has no more magnificent work of art than the gigantic mosaic gem, the House of the Governor, amid the ruins of Uxmal." Page 194, Proceedings of the American Antiquarian Society, Art. by E. H. Thompson.

Brinton mentions concerning Mitla, "The facade is 120 feet long, and some of the stone blocks are 20 feet long, of hard granite."

Prehistoric America, p. 411, mention concerning Squier, "After a careful examination declares that no cement was used. He adds, that all modern masonry whether executed in Europe or America is inferior when compared with that of the ancient capital of the Incas."

EVIDENCE REGARDING VARIOUS KINDS OF MATERIAL USED BY THE ANCIENTS IN WRITING.

In remote time historical events were sometimes engraved on stone metallic plates and clay tablets; some of these have reached our times; again they wrote on perishable material, which they would sometimes hide away for safe keeping.

Berosus, the Babylonian historian, says that the records of the antediluvian world was in this way buried before the flood came, and later recovered. See Rawlinson's Historical Evidences p. 275, note 65.

The Cylinder seal of Darius is said to be of hard stone. The engraving represents the king hunting lions. See Oxford Teachers' Bible, p. 25, in plate series, date about 740 B. C. The black obelisk stone discovered at Nimrud records thirty-one military expeditions of Salmanser II. Ibid p. 20, date about 850 B. C. The Babylonian boundary stone records the purchase of a plot of ground. Ibid p. 27, date about 1100 B. C. The black basalt-slab records the great deeds of Nebuchadnezzar. Ibid. p. 30, date 605-561 B. C.

The Siloam inscriptions of the Pool of Siloam states that the workmen commenced to excavate at each end of the tunnel, and, "when the two bodies of miners were still separated by a wall of rock three cubics thick, they heard each others' voices; then pickaxe hewed against pickaxe, and the water flowed from the spring to the pool, a distance of 1200 cubics." Ibid p. 5. B. C. 700.

The Moabite stone records the Moabite victory over the Israelites in the days of Ahab. Ibid, B. C. 850.

One of the most important documents of ancient times was the treaty between the Egyptians and the Hittites. The text was written in the Hittite on a great shield or plate of silver. The Hittite king is called "the great king of the Hittites, the powerful." Ramesses the Second is called "the ruler of Egypt, the powerful." The genealogy of each was recorded back to his grandfather, both parties engaged reciprocally for their sons and their son's sons; they agreed not to invade each others' country; each agreed in case the others' country was invaded to go or send assistance; each pledged himself to the extradition of criminals fleeing from justice, etc; each stipulated for an amnesty of offences in case of all persons thus surrendered. The treaty was placed under the protection of the gods of the two countries who were invoked respectively to protect observers and punish infringers of it. See Ancient Egypt, by Rawlinson, vol. 2, p. 168.

Mr. Rawlinson does not say here that this treaty was inscribed on a plate of silver, but Julia Monair Wright does. See Bricks from Babel, p. 176.

Stone and wood were the first materials employed to engrave such things upon, as men were desirous of having transmitted to posterity. Porphyry makes mention of some pillars preserved in Crete, on which the ceremonies observed by the Corybantes in their sacrifices were recorded. The works of Hesiod were originally written on tables of lead, and deposited in the temple of the Muses in Boeotia. The laws of Solon were cut on wooden planks. Tables of wood and ivory were common among the ancients, those of wood were very frequently covered with wax that persons might write on them with more ease, or blot out what they had written. And the instrument used to write with was a piece of iron called a style, and hence the word "style" came to be taken for the composition of the writing. The leaves of the palm tree were afterwards used instead of wooden planks, and the finest and thinnest part of the bark of such trees as the linn, ash, maple and elm, and especially the tilis or philyrea, and Egyptian papyrus. Hence came the word liber (a book) which signifies the inner bark of the trees, and as these barks were rolled up in order to be removed with greater ease, each roll was called volumen, a name afterwards given to the like rolls of paper or parchment. From the Egyptian papyrus, the oldest material employed for writing on, the word paper is derived. After this, leather was introduced, especially the skins of goats and sheep. For the king of Pergamos (a city of Troas), in collecting his library was led to the invention of parchment made of those skins. The ancients likewise wrote upon linen.

Pliny says, the Parthians (a part of Media), even in his time, wrote upon their cloths. And Livy speaks of certain books made of linen, linic libri, upon which the names of magistrates appear; the materials generally used by the ancients; for their books were liable to be easily destroyed by the damp when hidden in the earth, and in times of war and rapacity it was necessary to bury in the earth whatever they wished preserved from the attacks of fraud and violence. With this view, Jeremiah ordered the writings which he delivered to Baruch to be put in an earthen vessel. (Jeremiah 32). In the same manner, the ancient Egyptians made use of earthen urns, or pots of a proper shape, for containing whatever they wanted to enter in the earth, and which, without such care, would have been soon destroyed. We need not wonder, then, that the prophet Jeremiah should think it necessary to enclose those writings in an earthen pot, which were to be buried in Judea, in some places where they might be found without much difficulty on the return of the Jews from captivity.

The ancient books were large; they were formed of a number of skins, of a number of pieces of linen and cotton cloth, or of papyrus, or parchment, connected together. The leaves were rarely written over on both sides. Those books which were inscribed on tablets of wood, lead, brass, or ivory, were connected together by rings at the back, through which a rod was passed to carry them by. Article Book, Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge, pp. 255, 256, 257.

And the Lord said to Moses, "Thou shalt make a plate of pure gold, and engrave upon it, like the engravings of a signet, HOLINESS TO THE LORD."—Exodus 28: 36. "And they made the plate of the holy crown of pure gold, and wrote upon it a writing, like to the engravings of a signet, HOLINESS TO THE LORD."—Exodus 39: 30.

"And they wrought onyx stones inclosed in ouches of gold, graven as signets are graven, with the names of the children of Israel."—Ex. 39: 6.

The Israelites driven out of Egypt carried with them knowledge of the technical and artistic skill of their contemporaries. Bezaleel of the tribe of Judah, and Aholiab of the tribe of Dan, are said to have been filled with wisdom of heart to work all manner of work of the engraver, of the cunning workman, and of the embroiderers in blue, and in purple, in scarlet and in pure linen, and of the weaver, even of them that do any work, and of those that devise cunning work. Ex. 35: 30-35.

"The breastplate was a piece of embroidery about ten inches square, of very rich work, which the high priest wore on his breast. The front of it was set with twelve precious stones, on each of which was engraved the name of one of the tribes. See Ex. 28: 15. Ency. of Religious Knowledge, p. 269.

We have found our work as a committee somewhat hindered because of time and means, we therefore feel justified in saying that the growing importance of the subject requires more active attention, and that the church ought to establish a department of archaeology with adequate financial appropriation for the committee to use in obtaining such literature necessary for the work. There is more interest manifest on the subject of archaeology both Oriental and Occidental than ever before. The various museums of the country are intensely active just now toward American antiquities. At present there are explorers working; for instance, Bandler is in South America; Prof. Fred. Star in Mexico; Saville of the New York Museum is at Mitla; Gordon of Peabody is in Honduras; Nivins in Guercero; Maudslay in Mexico on his ninth expedition; while Goodman of California and Thomas of the Smithsonian Institute are at work deciphering the hieroglyphics. Dr. Uhle in South America and Yucatan; Dr. Philip M. Jones in New Mexico; Prof. T. J. Divens is studying the Santa Clara cliff dwellers; Dr. A. S. Bennett is engaged in the study of skulls for the Colorado Historical Society.

It is evident therefore that we ought to be in pace with the movement. As advancement on archaeological lines continues to confirm the truth of the sacred record contained in the Bible, so our assurance is confirmed by the same for what we consider as the sacred record of the ancient Americans as found in the Book of Mormon. The true searcher for truth has nothing to fear from investigation as in the language of Holy Writ, "Let there be light."

"With the truth all things that exist are in harmony, but with the false the truth at once disagrees."—Aristotle.

"Lies won't fit together."—Ingorsoll.

It may be observed that the Book of Mormon theory of ancient America has from the time of its publication in 1830 been at variance with certain current notions at the time. Its claim for elephants, horses and other extinct animals as being used by man here has now been verified beyond all question. Its demand for a high order of civilization has been also confirmed. Its ethnical position for the race is constantly being sustained, and also its position touching religion, namely, that christianity was established here by the Savior Jesus Christ, evidences of which are found in this as well as our previous reports.

INCIDENTS AND EXPERIENCES.

Editor Ensign.—Two weeks ago we bade good-by to friends and loved ones in Providence, who had come to the steamer's wharf to see us safely off and away upon our journey westward. Thursday evening we met with Brooklyn Saints in social service, and enjoyed a pleasant and profitable service. We were kindly entertained and cared for at our Brooklyn home—the home of Bro. and Sr. Squires. Called upon Bro. and Sr. Burgess, our old St. Louis friends, at St. Dennis hotel, the morning of our arrival, Bro. Burgess being in New York upon his annual visit as purchasing agent for the house with which he is connected in St. Louis. Friday evening we met with them also in a pleasant reunion with families of Brn. Joseph Squires, Sen., and Jr., Bro. and Sr. Green and friends, when with music, song and pleasant reminiscence, the time flew by all too swiftly toward the parting. Bro. Green seems to have done a good work in his field, especially in Connecticut, where he has awakened a large interest in our gospel work.

In an effort to procure ministerial favors from the railroad companies, we learned and were told, that all Latter Day Saints were stricken from the list by the general association, giving in answer to our demand for a reason for this, to us unjust discrimination, that they had been obliged to do so through the actions of emissaries, or I think I might properly say, representative men of the church in Utah, who, receiving annual permits, had purchased tickets at one-half fare, or clergyman's rate, and sold them to scampers; a new method of "sucking the milk of the gentiles," indeed, and as contemptible as novel, surely; and I said to myself, How long, O Lord, have we to "suffer the shame of no reputation" so unjustly because of the action of apostates from the pure principles of gospel, fair dealing and honesty with all men?

During the discussion with Elder Jensen, of the Utah church, in the city of Boston, when driven completely out and away from the books and the law of God in his attempt at defense of their church claim, in his final pitiable resort of theirs to apologize, condone or defend their unsavory record by making of Joseph Smith a partnership in transgressions of God's laws and commandment with them, he stated to the audience that President Joseph Smith, of the Reorganized church, had, while visiting the house of one of their number in Salt Lake City, who had lived in the days of and at Nauvoo, and of his father, when confronted with proof in the shape of a family Bible record of his father's polygamous relations, requested and asked that the fact that he had seen that record be kept forever a secret between them, etc., etc.

The natural effect of such a statement upon an audience of strangers at the close of a discussion of course may be guessed at, at least. In my answer to this I was, of course, forced to say that I had no means of refuting the possibility of the truth of his statement, having never heard of it before, but freely expressed my utter disbelief in its truth or our obligation to credit anything of the kind without any additional evidence than the assertions of Mr. Jensen, but I did promise as many as might be present at our church service in Somerville one week later, that President Joseph Smith, of the Reorganized church, should be heard from in his own defense, with an invitation, an opportunity, for Mr. Jensen or any of their kind, to reply. I have not seen Mr. Jensen since but once, and then at a much later date in Providence, but I did receive and have now a letter in my possession from President Joseph Smith, answering statements of Jensen, referred to, in which he states that he was never in the house referred to while in Salt Lake City, Utah; never had conversation about a family Bible record or any other subject whatever with this woman; that the whole thing is an entire fiction, so far as relates to himself, and as stated to the Boston public by Elder Jensen.

I certainly wish that we, as a church, were forever relieved of the painful and disagreeable task of attempt at disassociation and disconnection with the work of these religious misrepresentatives. There may be, and no doubt are, many yet among these people who are honestly deceived. May God hasten the day of their and our deliverance; but if they care for future reputation they should send no man out as representative with either a lie in his mouth, or a willingness or disposition to manufacture lies when the truth refuses to serve them. I simply mention these things as being a sample of my experiences with their church representatives whenever I have met, overtaken, or have been obliged to follow up their trail or undertake to offset the baneful and pernicious work of misrepresentation they seem hopelessly committed to. I see also by late press dispatches that their "honesty" and true religiousness is being exposed in late state legislative act. Guess Uncle Sam and others will get their eyes open after a while to the true genius and history of Utah Mormonism.

On account of inaugurative ceremonies, however, we procured a return excursion ticket to St. Louis via Washington, D. C., at very low rate, and with privilege of stop over until 8th, which gave us opportunity to visit friends in Washington and assist in the reinauguration of President McKinley. But if his political prophet friends are no more successful in their prognostications of favorable augury than those concerning "the finest weather that ever a president had," predicted by his friends among the weather prophets and national guessers in the business, he may look for storms or the unexpected, instead of fair skies and balmy days. The demonstration was advertised to be an eclipse in matter of pageantry and national pomp of all preceding presidential inaugural occasions, but failed in a measure I think in even this regard. Whatever it was, it was for the most part a military procession, with more drunkenness, rowdiness, unsoldierly and ungentlemanly conduct than we ever before witnessed in a public demonstration. The preparations, however, were ample for President McKinley's comfort and protection during the ceremonies, his inaugural address being made under prepared cover, Mrs. McKinley, looking beautiful enough, preceding him, and whom he saluted first and most courteously upon his arrival. His address was clear and delivered with interesting force and emphasis, and we were glad to be fortunate enough to secure a good place in a New York photographer's stand, raised above the crowd and close to the president, where we could hear clearly his voice, save when some drunken prowler exercised his American freedom in making a nuisance of himself. The rain soon drove the foreign ministers, Chinese, Turk, Lord Poncefort and all, with their bright colored representative costumes, away from their seats near the covered inaugural stand, and not one third of the vast number of seats prepared in front of the capitol for senators, government officials and thousands of privileged or invited guests were occupied; but the crowd surged and crowded two or three hours before noon in front of the stand to see the president and hear his speech. "Teddy" Roosevelt, who had just been made vice president in the Senate house a few moments before, sat nearest him during the speech and led in the applause.

The procession was curtailed in length and enthusiasm by the rain, and the elaborate fire work display for the evening was abandoned, and we went to our lodging place at the home of Sr. Peck, filled with reflections concerning the certainty of a second place in our mind and affections as regards the "kingdoms of this world and the glory of them" as compared with our limited comprehensions of the kingdom of God and the glory which is finally to be revealed in His Saints, when their subjection as citizens to Christ's perfect law shall have been an accomplished fact.

We cannot speak of places of interest in detail, visited in Washington: Arlington Heights, the home of Robert Lee, his estate now converted into a national cemetery for Union soldiers, victims of battle ship Maine explosion and of Spanish American war; Ft. Myer where Bro. Roscoe Oatley is stationed in United States signal service employ, and with whom we visited; the bureau of engraving, where Uncle Sam makes all of the United States paper money, bonds, postage, revenue stamps, etc., was interesting surely. Mt. Vernon, the home and tomb of the "father of his country," and at Alexandria where we visited the old church and sat in the pews occupied by George Washington and by Robert E. Lee, and saw many things of interest relating to colonial and revolutionary history and times.

Thursday we left Washington, and Friday noon were met at the union depot in St. Louis by Richard and Bessie, and am now trying to finish this letter with the help of the "boss" of the house, baby Myron, on my lap, who is anxious to give it some finishing touches. Sunday morning, in the "new home" and fine place of worship which St. Louis Saints are now enjoying, were glad to clasp the old hands again, see the old and some new faces, and receive their good welcome, but—

O, for the touch of a vanished hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still.

And the vacant place which can never seem filled again, confronts us almost everywhere; but it is surely a great life triumph to be so missed in their departure as was and is our friend and brother, Bro. John C. Hitchcock.

